Japanese electronic products penalty target

By TOM RAUM The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, contending Japan has reneged on a major trade agreement on computer chips, announced plans Friday to impose stiff penalty duties on a wide array of Japanese products including television sets and pocket calculators.

as much as $300 million in Japanese exports to the United States. U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter told reporters, "This action should come as no surprise to the government of Japan."

Japanese companies would risk such big increases in the face of competition from elsewhere. Products selected for targeting are only those which are also widely available from non-Japanese manufacturers.

computer chips sold at bargain-basement prices. "These sanctions should provide reasonable incentives for the Japanese government and industry to comply with the agreement," said Andrew A. Procastini, president of the Semiconductor Industry Association.

Therefore, Japan finds it deeply regrettable that the United States has now announced unilateral measures against Japan," said Yoshiji Nogami, economic counselor at the Japanese Embassy in Washington. In Tokyo, the Japanese government said it would challenge any U.S. retaliatory measures as violating the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs. Based in Geneva, the GATT sets rules regulating world commerce and provides a forum for settling trade disputes.

Tax bills net draw in House

By QUANE KENYON The Associated Press

BOISE — The Idaho House of Representatives battled to a draw on tax increase bills on Friday, and then adjourned until next week with no decision how to balance the next state budget.

After nine hours of floor sessions, and many meetings of the Revenue and Taxation Committee, Majority Leader Rep. Jack Kennebeck, R-

Boise, announced official abandonment of efforts to adjourn this weekend.

Instead, he said, the House will have to reconvene on Monday and work on tax bills in an effort to generate about $16 million in additional revenue needed to balance the budget.

The House came close at one point to agreeing on a tax increase bill, voting 44-40 against legislation combining individual and corporate tax increases. It was 43-41 until Rep. Ruby Stone, R-Boise, switched her vote from yes to no.

After that, Revenue and Taxation Committee met again and voted 10-8 for a bill combining repeal of the investment tax credit with increased state income taxes.

It was the first time this session that Revenue and Taxation Committee had favored any bill repealing the investment credit.

But after a late-afternoon meeting of Senate Republicans, Sen. James Risch, R-Boise, president pro tem, said he still felt he had enough votes to block any tax bill containing repeal of the investment tax credit.

In floor debate, Rep. Tom Giovannelli, D-Coeur d'Alene, complained that "one person (Risch) is stacked down the entire state" on repeal of the investment credit — a key proposal from Gov. Cecil Andrus but one rejected by the Legislature so far this session.

Rather than force an early evening vote on the bill containing the investment tax repeal, Kennebeck put the issue off until Monday.

"The members are tired," he said. Republicans planned a caucus before voting on that bill, and Kennebeck said that also could have taken some time Friday evening.

The only tax bill to come before the House raised corporate taxes slightly, added a new top-level income tax bracket, and accelerated the collection of corporate taxes.

Together, the changes would have generated $17.2 million, about what the Legislature needs to balance the budget.

Bakker, Hahn exchange accusations

The Associated Press

Jim Bakker and Jessica Hahn pointed at each other Friday as the seducer in their one-night stand which eventually toppled the evangelist from his PTL television ministry, and her adviser claimed she succumbed to drugged wine.

"Jessica says she had sex with Bakker after her wine was drugged and (she) was incapable of firmly resisting," Paul Roper told The Associated Press Friday.

Meanwhile, Bakker's successor, the Rev. Richard Dortch, faced accusations of conflict of interest because he is involved in investigating a financial settlement which he reportedly helped arrange for the woman, Louisiana evangelist

Analysis — B3

Jimmy Swaggart, a severe critic of Bakker, called for Dortch to step down. His Pentecostal denomination, the Assemblies of God, said Friday that Dortch had offered his resignation last week, without explanation.

Roper said he couldn't remember who gave Ms. Hahn the wine when she met Bakker in a Florida motel room, and he offered no proof to back up her assertion that the drink was drugged.

Ms. Hahn was introduced to Bakker by John Wesley Fletcher, a former Assemblies of God minister now based in Oklahoma City. As a teenager, Mr. Hahn worked for Fletcher as a babysitter, Roper said in Los Angeles.

Fletcher, who is building a church in Phenix City, Ala., said he introduced Ms. Hahn to Bakker on Dec. 5, 1980, The Columbus (Ga.) Ledger and The Columbus Enquirer reported Friday.

"There is nothing wrong with that," Fletcher said in a prepared statement. "Nowhere in the Bible is it written, 'Thou shalt not introduce one another.'"

Fletcher was dismissed from Assemblies of God several years ago for "some kind of ministerial misconduct," church spokesman

Reagan's veto sets up fight over highway bill

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan vetoed an $8 billion highway bill Friday, denouncing it as a disgrace, and aides said the administration was optimistic about winning enough Senate votes to make his action stick.

In addition to paying for numerous transportation-construction projects, the bill also would allow states to raise speed limits to 65 miles per hour on rural stretches of Interstate highways.

Democratic leaders in the Senate said they anticipate a hard fight in their efforts to override the veto.

Reagan, in an unusual bill-vetoing ceremony in the Oval Office, said, "This bill is a textbook example of special interest, pork-barrel politics at work, and I have no choice but to veto it."

Although presidents often hold such ceremonies to sign bills, vetoes are normally announced by merely releasing the message the president sends to Congress.

The ceremony, one day after Reagan's plane trip to talk about education in Columbia, Mo. was part of a series of events in recent days that have put the president in the public eye as he seeks to regain political strength lost because of the Iran-Contra affair.

Reagan said he would send Congress "a responsible bill to continue highway and transit programs... that addresses our most serious objections."

Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole said the Reagan version would contain $1.1 billion in money for rapid transit and $6 billion for highway construction, over a five-year period.

Aides said the Reagan bill will retain the provision allowing states to raise speed limits on much of the nation's Interstate highway system.

Reagan favors that part of the congressionally approved bill, but he said, "I'm not going to sacrifice this country's economic well-being in order to achieve it."

Senate leader's law firm paid fees for aiding Idaho Power

By MARK PRATTER and JANE ROBINSON Times-News writers

BOISE — Gov. Cecil Andrus isn't the only top state political leader who has at one time received more than $10,000 in professional or consulting fees from a major utility.

While Andrus received $15,000 from Mountain Bell in 1985, Senate President Pro Tem Jim Risch's Boise law firm of Risch, Goss, Instinger and Salladay received $204,574 from Idaho Power Co. for legal work between 1978 and 1985, according to reports filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Risch, a seven-term Republican senator from Boise, said the money was for legal work in connection with contract and personal injury claims against IPC.

In contrast to Mountain Bell, IPC readily disclosed the nature of its business relationship with Risch. But this is a matter of public record.

In Andrus' case, because the work was for less than $25,000, it does not have to be reported to the Federal Communications Commission, said Gary Richardson, spokesman for the state Public Utilities Commission.

The information on Andrus' consulting for Mountain Bell was reported this week by The Idaho Statesman.

On Monday Andrus vetoed a telephone deregulation bill which Mountain Bell had lobbied hard for.

Mountain Bell Vice President Gene Hill and Andrus refuse to disclose the nature of the consultation when Andrus was a private citizen.

"Our chief legal counsel retained the Risch firm for a number of years for some personal injury cases. It's normal litigation utilities get drawn into. It's nothing like rate issues," said Jim Toney, IPC spokesman.

Asked if it were in the public interest for top state political leaders to disclose their outside business interests, Risch said, "I haven't given it that much thought, but I do comply with the sunshine laws."

FERC no longer requires utilities to file reports of who they pay for consultation or professional services, but the PUC does require reporting, said Richardson.

The reports that Mountain Bell file with the FCC require reporting only of consultations of more than $25,000, said Richardson. And the nature of the consultation does not have to be reported, he said. Utility work is big business for law firms, even if they do not have a member who is an officer holder.

For instance, the Twin Falls law firm of Nelson, Rosholt, Robertson, Tolman & Tucker received $866,039 from IPC between 1980 and 1985, according to FERC reports. This was the period of the Swan Falls water-rights controversy.

Partner Tom Nelson told The Times-News Friday that he would not know, without looking, what the legal fees were for. "What everyone else was working on, I don't know. I was only working on Swan Falls," he said.

Bakker

 Terry Terrell said, according to the Ledger and Enquirer.
 Mr. Hahn, in a brief interview with the AP Friday at her West Babylon, N.Y., home, refused to comment on any particulars of the PTL conference.
 Bakker, described himself to a Pentecostal columnist as confused and frightened after his encounter with Ms. Hahn, who appeared to him to know "all the tricks of the trade."
 Roper, however, earlier portrayed her as feeling discarded "like a piece of hamburger somebody threw out in the street!" after the incident.
 In Los Angeles, Swaggart said he personally approached Dorich before the scandal broke and that Dorich assured him "there was nothing to it."
 "Richard Dorich was involved in a cover-up," Swaggart said at a news conference. "I think he should stop down."

 Dorich, as a member of the new board chaired by the Rev. Jerry Falwell, will be involved in the board's probe of Bakker's sexual encounter with Ms. Hahn and of payments Ms. Hahn received. Dorich reportedly played a key role in a $265,000 financial settlement.
 Bakker resigned from PTL ministries on March 19, confessing his infidelity but claiming he was set up by "treacherous former friends" and that he was now being blackmailed. He asked Falwell to step in to direct PTL, whose Heritage USA complex in Fort Mill, S.C., includes a Christian amusement park.
 Roper said Dorich, who'd been Bakker's top assistant and is the new PTL president, suggested the $265,000 settlement in 1985 after Roper contacted PTL on Ms. Hahn's behalf. Roper accepted the sum, reached because Bakker was selling a house at that time for $265,000, he said.

 Roper, a 43-year-old businessman, consultant and law student at Western State University in Fullerton, said after he heard Ms. Hahn's story, he initially wanted a religious tribunal for a trial.
 Ms. Hahn receives interest monthly from $150,000 that is in a trust fund, Roper said, and is to receive the $150,000 at the end of 20 years. Roper also said Ms. Hahn received $20,300 of the remaining $115,000. He said the rest went toward expenses, including Roper's fee, which he would not disclose.
 Repeated telephone calls to Dorich's office and the office of Neil Eskelin, PTL's vice president for public relations, were not returned Friday. A secretary in Eskelin's office said he is not available until Monday.

East Idaho slaying suspect also figures in Rexburg rape

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A man suspected in three eastern Idaho shooting deaths also is suspected of kidnaping and raping a Ricks College coed on March 3, authorities said.
 Rexburg Police Chief Paul Siepert said Paul Ezra Rhoades, 30, was abducted from the Red Mill Barn and found shot to death the following morning north of Blackfoot.
 Idaho Falls convenience store clerk Nolan Haddon was shot to death March 11 at his workplace and Susan Michelbacher, a teacher at Eagle Rock Junior High School in Idaho Falls, was found dead last Saturday after she had been missing for two days.
 Rhoades also was charged with raping Mrs. Michelbacher, and is facing charges of first-degree murder, kidnaping, robbery, assault to commit rape and four counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony in the Baldwin case.
 Idaho Falls Police Capt. Marvin Campbell said charges of first-degree murder and robbery also are expected in the shooting death of Haddon.
 Bonneville County Prosecutor Kimball Mason must ask Gov. Cecil Andrus to petition Nevada Gov. Richard Bryan to begin extradition proceedings against Rhoades. Mason was out of town and unavailable for comment Friday.
 Siepert said there are many similarities between the Rexburg incident and the Bonneville County deaths.

The coed was abducted three days after authorities discovered the body of Stacey Baldwin, a convenience store clerk in Blackfoot who was the first of three eastern Idaho slayings in recent weeks. She was abducted from the Red Mill Barn and found shot to death the following morning north of Blackfoot.
 Idaho Falls convenience store clerk Nolan Haddon was shot to death March 11 at his workplace and Susan Michelbacher, a teacher at Eagle Rock Junior High School in Idaho Falls, was found dead last Saturday after she had been missing for two days.

 Idaho Falls Police Capt. Marvin Campbell said charges of first-degree murder and robbery also are expected in the shooting death of Haddon.

Balistics tests showed that a .38-caliber handgun found near the car that Rhoades was driving in Wells, Nev., was used in all three killings. Rhoades was arrested Wednesday night while playing blackjack at a Wells casino.
 "We're of course relieved to have someone in custody and that things were discovered as quickly as they were," said Joel LaPray, principal founder of the school where Mrs. Michelbacher taught. "We're still in a state of shock from the death."
 Authorities got their first solid information in the case when a car was found abandoned Tuesday night in the median of Interstate 80 west of Wells.
 Idaho Falls police flew to Wells Wednesday with a photo of the suspect, and circulated fliers. A tip led to his arrest Wednesday night.

Arctic air clamps chill over Plains

By The Associated Press
 A wintry blast of arctic air brought gusty winds and wind-chill readings below zero in the northern Plains on Friday, while scattered showers and sleet storms were found in parts of the Southeast.
 The cold air pushed southward across the northern Plains, bringing winds of 20 to 40 mph to the western Dakotas, the Nebraska panhandle and eastern parts of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado.
 Wind-chill readings were zero to 25 below zero in those areas, and advisories were issued for snow and blowing snow over much of the area, with 1 to 3 inches accumulation forecast for most places.

 The cold weather was expected to move into the central Plains later Friday and into northeastern Texas by Saturday.
 In western Kansas, where a blizzard earlier in the week dumped up to 16 inches of snow, three Army National Guard helicopters airlifted hay bales to cattle stranded by the snow.
 Several western Kansas ranchers said the livestock death toll was unusually high for a spring snowstorm, but there were no immediate estimates to the number of cattle killed.

 In Nebraska, agriculture officials said an estimated 1,000 cattle died in the Custer County, the hardest hit in the state by the storm earlier in the week. Losses in others counties appeared to be minimal.
 Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported from southeastern Louisiana through the eastern Gulf Coast region into northern and central Florida, along the North Carolina coast and over southern parts of the Appalachians.

Today's weather

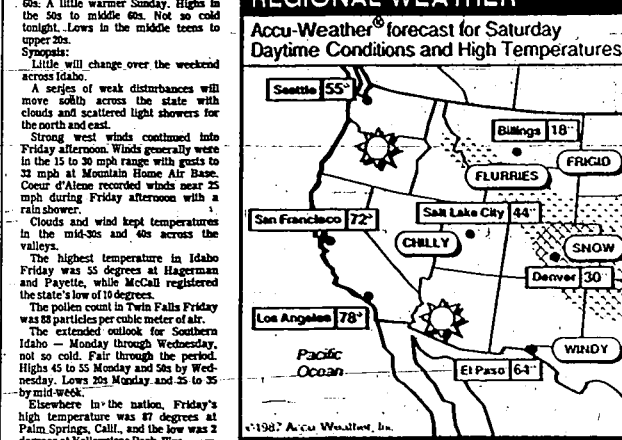

March still displays leonine manners

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Coeur d'Alene
 Partly cloudy and breezy with isolated showers mainly east and over the mountains today. Westerly winds 15 to 25 mph. High in the low to mid 40s. Tonight and Sunday, fair. Lows in the low 20s. Highs in the mid to upper 40s.
 Camas Prairie, Bailey and Lower Wood River Valley
 Partly cloudy with isolated snow showers over the mountains today. West to north winds 10 to 20 mph with higher gusts on the Camas Prairie. Highs in the low to mid 40s. Tonight and Sunday, fair. Lows from 5 to 15 above zero. Highs in the low 40s.
 Northern Nevada and Utah
 Variable clouds and cold through tonight with widely scattered snow showers mainly over the mountains. Breezy north winds today. Partly cloudy Sunday. Highs in the low to mid 40s. Lows from 5 to 15 above zero. Highs in the low to mid 40s.

Nevada — Fair skies through Sunday except partly cloudy in the east today. Highs today in the mid 40s to lower 60s. A little warmer Sunday. Highs in the 50s to middle 60s. Not so cold tonight. Lows in the middle teens to upper 20s.
 Spring
 Little will change over the weekend across Idaho.
 A series of weak disturbances will move south across the area with clouds and scattered light showers for the north and east.
 Strong west winds continued into Friday afternoon. Winds generally were in the 15 to 30 mph range with gusts to 33 mph at Mountain Home Air Base. Coeur d'Alene recorded winds near 25 mph during Friday afternoon with a rain shower.
 Clouds and wind kept temperatures in the mid-30s and 40s across the valleys.
 The highest temperature in Idaho Friday was 55 degrees at Hagerman and Payette, while McCall registered the state's low of 10 degrees.
 The hollow center of Twin Falls Friday was 89 percent per cubic meter of air.
 The extended outlook for Southern Idaho — Monday through Wednesday, not so cold. Fair through the period. Highs 45 to 55 Monday and 50s by Wednesday. Lows 20s Monday and 25 to 35 by mid-week.
 Elsewhere in the nation, Friday's high temperature was 68 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif., and the low was 2 degrees at Yellowstone Park, Wyo.

Sister says Rhoades is not a killer

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Paul Ezra Rhoades is a quiet, considerate man who has his problems but is not capable of murder, his sister says.
 "He's our brother and we love him," Rhoades said Friday. "I believe he could have done this. It's not in his nature."
 Rhoades, 30, was arrested in Wells, Nev. Wednesday and is being held in connection with the slaying last week of Idaho Falls teacher Susan Michelbacher. Idaho Falls police and the Bingham County Sheriff's Office say they also plan to charge him with the murders of convenience store clerk Stacey Baldwin and Nolan Haddon, both of Blackfoot.

 Ms. Rhoades said her brother lived with the family, but no one knew where he was headed when he left home this week and traveled south in his mother's car. Rhoades was apprehended after an accident involving a car registered to his mother, Pauline Rhoades.
 Ms. Rhoades said anyone acquainted with her brother knows that he was not capable of the killings. She declined to comment on allegations that he had a drug problem.

 "He had his problems, but everyone does," she said. "Just because you have problems doesn't mean you go out and kill someone."
 Rhoades' arrest has been difficult for members of his family, who live in Idaho Falls.
 "It has destroyed us," Ms. Rhoades said. "His mother, the only way she could sleep was to be sedated. She's an emotional wreck."

Trade

 Hajime Tamura, minister of international trade and industry, told reporters that the United States had taken "hard" action.
 The move was widely praised in Capitol Hill, by Democrats and Republicans alike.
 Disk drives for computers, air-conditioning machines, radiocassette personal computers and radio-tape players were on a preliminary list of dozens of Japanese products targeted by the White House.
 The president's plan of imposing a falling to live up to an 8-month-old agreement to stop dumping semiconductors in markets outside the United States at prices far below their true value.
 The president also said the Japanese have not lived up to another part of the agreement: opening their markets more fully to U.S. semiconductor sales.
 Officials said there would be a two-week waiting period before the actual tariffs take effect.
 At that point, the list of targeted products will be narrowed, so that the penalty duties cover no more than about $300 million in products, officials said.

Semiconductors are the tiny electrical chips that run computers and most other modern-day electronics devices.
 Japan had agreed last July to stop dumping computer chips in the United States and other markets at prices far below their true value.
 And, while Japan apparently has stopped the practice in this country, administration officials said there is solid evidence that Japanese computer-chips are still being sold in other countries at artificially low prices undercutting the U.S. semiconductor industry.
 The two-week waiting period will both give Japan a chance to respond to the action and give the United States the opportunity to remove certain items from the target list, officials said.
 U.S. semiconductor manufacturers have contended they've lost at least $60 million to $170 million in sales because of continued Japanese third-market dumping.
 Products in which the Japanese have a corner on the U.S. market, like video cassette recorders, are not on the list of proposed targets, Baldrige said.
 Baldrige said he hoped some of the current trade frictions between the United States and Japan might be eased by an upcoming meeting in Washington between President Reagan and Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone.

 On Friday, the White House announced Reagan would meet Nakasone on April 30. It said they will meet at the White House.
 Reagan invited Nakasone to make the official visit and the prime minister accepted the invitation, the White House said.

Prices

Most budget pieces in place but tax package stays elusive

BOISE (AP) — Idaho lawmakers finally settling the bulk of the 1988 budget package in place on Friday as they waited for what was appearing to be an extremely elusive tax package to balance total revenues with spending commitments.

Only the two major budgets — the $343 million public school and the $107 million higher education appropriation — remained stalled while tax-increase negotiations continued.

Only 13 of the 58 spending measures for next year remained in the pipeline Friday, and revenues, budget writers took a needed step to ensure the 1987 budget remains in Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus. Another part of the revenue scheme also went to the governor leaving only the still-to-be-agreed-to tax package and a nine-cent cigarette tax increase awaiting final action.

But while attention was mainly focused on the Legislature last January.

The plan, earlier rejected by the joint budget panel as unnecessary, came after Andrus advised Republican leaders twice in one week that something had to be done to erase any red-ink. The most recent letter he sent to Senate President Pro Tem James Risch of Boise and House Speaker Tom Boyd of Genesee on Thursday.

Budget bills for the new year that begins July 1 also continued moving through the system, including an enhanced appropriation for Republican Lt. Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter, and the Senate gave final legislative approval to repeal of an agricultural lender-tax break that critics said was passed last year to do nothing more than enhance the unsuccessful 1986 gubernatorial hopes of Republican David Leroy.

Democrats led the battle to add another $12,000 to the meager budget for the lieutenant governor's office, a proposal their budget writers rejected a month ago.

The money, pushing the total budget for the office to just over $81,000, will be used to pay a liaison person with all the state commodity commissions.

Sen. Ron Betelbacher, D-Grangeville, cited Otter's experience in national and World Trade as president of the International Marketing arm for the Simplot Co., said the state will be doing itself a favor to give Otter the tools so he can put his knowledge to work for Idaho's economic revitalization.

The agricultural lenders tax break was repealed on a 37-5 vote with many of the same Republican lawmakers backing repeal after supporting the tax cut a year ago at the behest of Leroy, then lieutenant governor and president of the Senate.

The bill, allowing the deduction of interest The income from loans to farmers, passed the Senate in 1986 only days before the final gavel by a 22-18 vote after clearing the House by a three-to-one margin.

"I carried this bill last year, hoping it would open up new sources of revenue for farmers to borrow from," Sen. Lynn Tomingna, R-Rupert, said. "I did not see that new source of revenue open up nor did I see interest rates for farmers come down."

Repeat of the tax break will reduce the drain on the state's general treasury by $2.3 million a year, money critically needed to hold down the impact of the tax package needed to balance the 1988 budget.

Senate OKs revised lottery constitutional amendment

BOISE (AP) — Reflecting the will of the voters from their districts, the Idaho Senate has voted 31-11 to finally approve a proposed constitutional amendment repealing the ban on state-run lotteries.

The vote on Friday, three over the two-thirds majority needed for passage, cleared the way for the lottery issue to be properly submitted to voters in November 1988.

The vote came one day after 4th District Judge Gerald Schroeder in Boise voted the November 1988 lottery initiative that was approved by 69 percent of the voters, passing in 32 of the state's 44 counties.

"The question is not really the merits of the lottery," Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise, said. "The question is are we going to implement what the people have said by a very large majority they want implemented."

It was the second time the Senate had approved a lottery constitutional amendment. The first approved on a 32-10 vote exactly four weeks ago was rejected by a House committee for drafting reasons. But earlier this week, the full House for the first time gave a more streamlined version of the amendment the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

Supporters of the lottery, having abandoned early claims that it could be a major revenue raiser for the state, argued that the state is losing hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to the lotteries in neighboring Washington and Oregon with the amount to increase when Montana starts its game up later this year.

They have contended that the game would generate a few million dollars that could be used for special purposes.

But critics, most of them from heavily Mormon eastern Idaho where the initiative incurred most of its negative votes, have countered that the lottery will undermine family values, siphon money from legitimate sectors of a still-fragile economy and create an unfounded belief that it will provide the money needed to maintain and upgrade the state's school system.

They warned that the amendment was not drawn tightly enough to prohibit other types of gambling, including casino-type games.

Sen. Phil Balt, R-Wilder, warned his colleagues that failure to approve the constitutional amendment would generate significant backlash for lawmakers from many voters who already feel their opinions are being ignored by the legislature.

The initiative drive for a lottery that culminated with the overwhelmingly victory last fall was a reaction to repeated legislative failure to submit the issue to voters through the normal procedure.

But the initiative was challenged by the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho and an anti-lottery group called Help Idaho Thrive, who claimed the initiative violated the current constitutional prohibition against lotteries.

Schroeder, in a 16-page decision, agreed, citing the fact that while the Supreme Court agreed to allow the initiative to go on the ballot three of the five members indicated they would be forced to declare the proposition invalid if a challenge reached the high court.

Gov. Cecil Andrus, who personally opposed the initiative, said the state would appeal the ruling, as Schroeder had predicted, although chances of winning were dim.

"I have an obligation to those people to carry the question to the ultimate court of the state," he said.

The Andrus administration has made some tentative steps in preparation for a lottery with former Law Enforcement Department Director John Rooney attending a number of meetings with officials from other states on lotteries and prospects for Idaho being part of a multistate lottery.

As for Rooney heading any Idaho lottery operation, Andrus said, "He is a very competent administrator. He will help me in a number of projects until we rewrite his job description."

Senate passes cut-back 2-cent gas tax hike

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Senate on Friday easily approved a scaled-back two-cent increase in the state fuel tax, setting up a confrontation with the House where pressure has built to stand firm for a three-cent boost.

"We have a lot of projects out there, and we have a lot of miles of highway in the state of Idaho," said Sen. Bruce Sweeney, D-Lewiston. "Two cents won't do it. Three cents won't do it. ... But while it won't do very far, it's still needed."

Approval of the modified bill boosting the tax to 15.5 cents a gallon came on a 27-15 vote only hours after the House Transportation Committee, which initiated the original bill, voted 7-4 to reject the Senate version and stick with its plan for a 17.5-cent fuel tax.

Because of the increased fuel efficiency and motorist conservation, state fuel tax receipts have actually been declining in past years and Transportation Department officials have only stabilized at a diminished level this year.

The result has been a growing resurfacing program from the 1983 backlog of needed highway work now budgeted without any assurance of approaching $1 billion, and state new revenue.

Insurance tax surcharge approved

BOISE (AP) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee voted Friday to impose a surcharge on all 1,400 insurance companies operating in Idaho to offset some of the cost of a tax credit claimed so far by 31 of the companies.

After negotiations that have stretched out for weeks, the committee voted to accept a proposal from a subcommittee headed by Rep. Chris Hooper, R-Boise. But support was far from unanimous. All committee Democrats voted against the plan, as it was sent to the House floor for a vote.

The Idaho Legislature in 1985 approved a law change which sponsors said was designed to encourage insurance companies to make more investment in the state.

For some companies, if they invested an amount equal to 75 percent of the premiums collected in Idaho, the state insurance premium tax was to fall from 3 percent to 1 percent.

But the Division of Financial Management has determined that of the 31 companies claiming the lower tax, almost all of them qualified for the tax break without making any new investments in the state.

The state tax agency has $2.1 million in claims pending, and state officials said they were concerned that once more insurance companies learn of the tax break, more would claim it.

Idaho collects about $21 million per year in insurance premium taxes, and Mike Ferguson of the Division of Financial Management said the impact of the tax break could reach $14 million in the next couple of years.

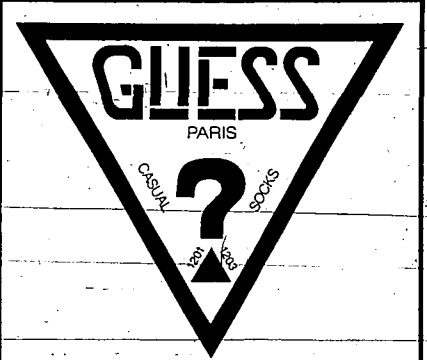

Debate before the committee on Friday centered on whether it would be better to repeal the tax break from the time it was granted, the start of 1985, or Jan. 1, 1987.

Ferguson argued that wiping out the break dating back to 1985 would eliminate the possibility the state would get claims for refunds for the last two years.

Insurance company spokesman argued it was fair to make a retroactive tax law change, and probably wouldn't stand up in court. Ferguson said other lawyers say it might.

Barley promotion commission dies as compromise evaporates

BOISE (AP) — With leaders trying to wind up the 1987 session, House-Senate negotiators have failed to work out a compromise that will salvage attempts to set up a producer-financed barley promotion program in Idaho.

After meeting early Friday, the six-member negotiating committee remained at a stalemate in attempts to iron out differences between House and Senate versions of the bill expanding the Idaho Wheat Commission to include barley and taxing barley producers two-cents a hundredweight to underwrite barley research, marketing and promotion programs.

"It was made clear that this kills the bill for this year," Senate Agricultural Affairs Committee Chairman Herb Carlson, R-Eagle, said.

The central issue in the dispute was whether the two-cent assessment should be mandatory or refundable. The Idaho Wheat Growers Association had been backing the mandatory assessment, claiming that only with a guaranteed income, estimated at $445,000 a year, could the barley program have a chance of success.

But critics of the mandatory tax, led by vocal producers from Caribou County in the southeastern corner of the state, countered that times are still too tenuous for many producers to sustain another tax that would add $200 to $500 a year to their operating costs. They claimed the assessment should be voluntary for at least several years until they can see whether the program is worth their continued support.

The House had backed the mandatory assessment but the Senate refused, opting for a refundable check-off for five years with a vote of producers to determine whether it should be made mandatory after that.

A proposed compromise making one cent of the tax mandatory and one-cent refundable with a referendum of producers after three years was rejected on a tie vote as was a motion for a fully refundable fee with a referendum at any time growers wanted.

Proponents of the refund plan claim that similar plans in use in other states for various commodities have shown returns totalling only about 4 percent of total tax collections.

Symms lambasts sale push

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said Friday that private property owners along the Snake River should not be railroaded into selling their land.

Symms, responding to comments Thursday from Gov. Cecil Andrus, said pressure to get the land into the hands of the federal government "has demonstrated disregard for property rights safeguarded by the Constitution."

"But a real estate agent who represents one of the owners who have expressed an interest in selling the property and a local Bureau of Land Management official said Friday that there has been no pressure on landowners to sell their land."

"The reported efforts by 'federal land managers' to acquire the acreage are against the policies of the BLM and Forest Service," Symms said. "And in any case, the right to private property deserves more respect than that. The power of government intimidation is too great to allow it to run amuck."

Police round up 8

NAMPA (AP) — Eight Nampa residents were arrested Thursday on drug charges, and officials were seeking three other people for whom warrants had been issued, Police Chief Marshall Brislin said.

With the arrests, police seized two ounces of cocaine with a value of $4,000, one gram of heroin worth $250, one-half pound of marijuana worth $500, $720 in cash and two vehicles, Brislin said.

How they voted

BOISE (AP) — Here is the 31-11 rollcall vote by which the Senate on Friday gave final approval to a proposed constitutional amendment repealing the ban on state-run lotteries.

Republicans For (16) — Anderson, Batt, Beck, Carlson, Fairchild, Gilbert, Hyde, McRoberts, Noh, Parry, Ringer, Risch, Smyser, Sverdrup, Thorne and Tominga.

Democrat For (15) — Bellefleur, Bailey, Blackbird, Bray, Brooks, Calabretta, Kiebert, Lacey, Mackin, Marley, McLaughlin, Peavey, Reed, Sweeney and Wetherell.

Republicans Against (10) — Burk (Hanson), Crapo, Crispell, Darrington, D. Hansen, J. Hansen, Ricks, Hyde, Staker and Twigg.

Democrats Against (1) — Iloybjerg (Christiansen).

Woman balks at agreement

LEWISTON (AP) — A woman in the Lewiston area says she will not cooperate with school officials who want her to provide her home-school curriculum, reversing a decision made three weeks ago.

"They jerk you around so bad, they intimidate you and say they're going to throw you in jail or take your kids away," said Neve Tholke, 37, mother of four. "I'm going to court on Monday and move to drop the case."

She is scheduled to appear before Magistrate D.K. Worden Monday to report whether she has cooperated with school officials.

Tholke's latest decision is a reversal of what she said three weeks ago in Magistrate Court, when she said she was leaning toward providing a curriculum to prove that her two school-age children were being educated within standards set by Idaho law. State law allows children to be taught at home if the curriculum is comparable to that taught by the school district.

She also has an 18-year-old daughter, who never attended public school, and a daughter too young to attend school.

Tholke said she has researched Idaho law, and feels no obligation to provide the information.

Noncom led Soviets through embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sgt. Clayton J. Lonetree, the Marine guard arrested for spying last December, escorted Soviet agents through the American embassy in Moscow for hours at a time on numerous occasions last year, the Marine Corps charged Friday.

The corps, in a formal "charge sheet" explaining why it increased the number of charges pending against Lonetree from 19 to 24, further alleged the 25-year-old Marine conspired with another guard, Cpl. Arnold Bracy, to allow Soviet agents into sensitive areas, including the room where classified messages are decoded.

Bracy, 21, worked as an embassy guard in Moscow with Lonetree for roughly eight months in 1985 and 1986. He was arrested on suspicion of espionage last week.

Pentagon sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, have said both men were romantically involved with Soviet women. Lonetree with a woman who worked as a translator and Bracy with a cook at the embassy.

The Marine Corps charged that Bracy served as a lookout on the nights that Lonetree allowed Soviet agents inside the embassy, shutting off security alarms that were set off by the Soviets.

The charges further allege the two Marines then lied to superiors about why the alarms had been set off. Lonetree is also accused of providing Bracy about $1,000 in cash. No reason was given.

A top-ranking Pentagon official, who agreed to discuss the new allegations if not identified, labeled them "mind-boggling."

"These guys actually escorted the Soviets around the building," the source said. "The damage was probably enormous."

Michael V. Stuhlf, the lead defense attorney for Lonetree, said his client "would absolutely deny these allegations."

"Lonetree is absolutely aghast at the idea that he would be accused of this," Stuhlf said. "He is very much surprised and confused over, where such a thing could come from."

The charge sheet does not attempt to spell out what the Soviets did while inside the embassy, beyond alleging that Lonetree escorted the agents "into the Defense Attaché Office, the Communications Processing Unit and other sensitive intelligence spaces . . . allowing them to peruse said areas and the instruments, appliances, documents and writings contained therein."

Elaborating on an earlier charge, the Marine Corps also alleges that Lonetree had provided blueprints of the embassy as well as floor plans and office assignments to the Soviets.

The Marine Corps said he provided not only the names and photographs of American intelligence agents but also their addresses and phone numbers, and that he also delivered "the classified contents of burn bags . . . which relate to the national defense, to citizens of the Soviet Union."

The Marine Corps did not disclose how many times it suspected Lonetree of allowing Soviet agents into the embassy. But it did charge he escorted the agents around the building for periods "of one to four hours at a time" between January and March of last year.

Heather Watson asks question as president listens

Reagan disagrees over query by girl

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan found himself Friday in the uncomfortable position of disagreeing with an 11-year-old girl about a question she asked him.

"I'm worried that I seem to be the only one that interpreted the question correctly," insisted Reagan, who wears a hearing-aid device in each ear.

He said he was convinced she had asked about his one-secret policy of selling arms to Iran, and whether he now thought the whole policy had been worthwhile.

Heather Watson asked her question of Reagan Thursday when the president visited her sixth-grade civics class during a visit to Columbia, Mo. After Reagan left, she told reporters she merely had wanted to know whether Reagan found his job worthwhile, given all the publicity he receives.

"He never did answer my question," she said.

Responding to a reporter's question during a ceremony in the Oval

Office Friday, Reagan said, "I am convinced in my mind that she asked specifically about the trouble, and was the cause worth it, and I answered in that way."

"I was shocked and surprised that the others of you thought that she was just asking generally about the whole subject," Reagan added.

"If I'm wrong, I was wrong, but I believe I answered the question," he added. "As a matter of fact, I heard the word 'Iran.'"

Heather's question was this: "All this publicity and the press and stuff, they like to drive me out of my mind. I just wonder what is it that made it worthwhile to you?"

In response, Reagan offered a lengthy explanation of his policy, adding that, "And I'm afraid it wasn't carried out the way we had thought it would be. It sort of settled down to just trading arms for hostages, and that's a little like paying ransom to a kidnapper. If you did it, then the kidnapper's just encouraged to go kidnap someone else."

Experiments with electricity raise passage temperature

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University physicists said Friday they have found evidence of superconductivity at minus 27 degrees Fahrenheit, a temperature far above that used in earlier successful experiments.

Superconductivity, the passage of electricity with 100 percent efficiency, at that relatively high temperature eventually could have a wide range of applications, from smaller, faster computers to trains that might speed from city to city floating above the rails.

"We established a strong evidence that this is indeed an indication of superconductivity, at a high temperature," said Juei-Teng Chen, one of the physicists who conducted the experiment. "We think this is very important."

The phenomenon of superconductivity was once possible only at temperatures near 450 degrees below zero on the Fahrenheit scale, called "absolute zero" in physics.

The Wayne State University findings are new in applying alternating current in a superconductivity experiment, finding direct current as an output, and detecting superconductivity at such high temperatures in portions of a sample, rather than looking for it across the entire sample, the physicists

A series of recent discoveries has enabled scientists to produce superconductivity at increasingly high temperatures; they are aiming eventually for resistance-free passage of electricity at room temperatures.

"That would make superconductive devices cheap enough for commercial use by eliminating the need for complex cooling apparatus."

Physicists Chen and Lowell E. Wenger, both of Wayne State University, and E. I. G. Logothetis of Ford Motor Co. used yttrium, a rare metallic element, as a component in the material on which they experimented.

As the temperature decreases, more of the sample becomes superconductive, Chen said.

Gore studies '88 race entry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee said Friday he is seriously considering a run for the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination after winning support from 17 major party fund-raisers.

The second-generation politician said he would make a preliminary decision on whether to run within two weeks, after receiving what he said was a great deal of encouragement in recent days from other Southern Democrats as well as other party activists across the country.

"I have agreed to look seriously at a race," Gore said in an interview. "I appreciate the strong support and encouragement that everyone has expressed."

Gore, a Tennessee senator, is little known across the country. Gore would be a long shot for the nomination. But as the only Southerner in the race, he might benefit from the concentration of primaries in that region on March 8, 1988.

Critics question rocket launch during rain

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Engineers on Friday examined wreckage from a $161 million rocket that was destroyed after a possible lightning strike as critics asked: Why was it launched in a rainstorm?

Security patrols found several pieces of the Atlas-Centaur rocket that had washed ashore near a space shuttle launch pad. Handling the debris was tricky because some of it contained explosive charges and other ordnance devices.

boosters to tumble out of control 51 seconds after launch Thursday.

Former officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration questioned the decision to launch at a time when the agency says it is taking a conservative approach to safety as a result of the space shuttle Challenger explosion that killed seven crew members on Jan. 28, 1986.

go as far as the weather was concerned.

Fly chunks of wreckage plummeted into the Atlantic Ocean when the vehicle and the military communications satellite it carried were blown apart by a radio signal to prevent it from careening into populated areas.

Launch officials did not immediately place blame for the failure, and NASA on Friday named a nine-man review board to investigate the accident, which ended a streak of seven space launch successes.

"The chunks were being studied for clues to what caused the unmanned

Oil exploration vessel Staminik-1 takes on fuel at Dardanelles port Friday before sailing.

Turkish oil exploration ship threatens to touch off a war

By The Associated Press

Turkey and Greece threatened war as a Turkish oil exploration ship prepared to move into the Aegean with a naval escort, but Turkey said Friday night the vessel will stay out of disputed waters if the Greek military does the same.

Greece blamed Washington for the crisis and said it was closing a U.S. Navy communications base near Athens.

Premier Turgut Ozal of Turkey said exploration ship Staminik-1 would remain in territorial waters and "wait for them to make the first move. If the Greeks intervene against our ship we will intervene in exactly the same way. This may be cause of a war which we do not at all want."

The Navy base in Greece, which monitors shipping movements in the Aegean Sea, is linked to the U.S. Sixth Fleet and bases in Italy and Spain. Greece apparently wants to shut it for fear of information leaks through its connection with a facility near Izmir on the Aegean coast of Turkey, which like Greece is a NATO member.

Premier Andreas Papandreu threatened earlier Friday to close all four U.S. military bases in Greece if he saw troops out, and said he might not wait that long.

He said the United States and the Western alliance were responsible for the Aegean crisis through their support for Turkey's "military might."

A government spokesman said Greece decided to suspend operations at the Nea Makri base on the eastern coast of the Attica peninsula, 20 miles from Athens, after a meeting between U.S. Ambassador Robert V. Keating and Foreign Undersecretary Yiannis Kapsis.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the United States received the Greek request to suspend operations and it was under consideration. Other administration officials said privately that the base continued functioning normally.

The Greek action would not violate the 1983 defense and economic cooperation agreement that governs activities of the American military bases.

According to Article Seven of the agreement, Greece may suspend their operations if its national security is at stake.

The Staminik-1, which sent Greece and Turkey to the brink a decade ago with a similar voyage, was reported at the Dardanelles Strait ready to sail Saturday with an escort of Turkish warships.

Greece put its forces on alert and ordered naval patrols to cruise off the Greek Islands of Samothrace, Lemnos and Mitilini, military sources said.

The Turks said "relevant" military units were alerted. It would not say how many warships would escort the Staminik-1.

Officials in Ankara said the state oil company has Turkish government permits to explore west of Turkey's Saros Bay, east of Lemnos and west and south of Mitilini.

Trips out, hostages' wives say

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The wives of American Jesse Turner said Friday that as an Arab, she could not heed his plea that she and three other wives go to Israel to discuss a swap of their husbands for Arabs held there.

"I am an Arab and Mrs. Feryal Pohll is an Arab," Badr Turner, 35, a Lebanese, told The Associated Press. "We cannot go to Israel."

The four hostages, kidnaped by Moslem-extremists on Jan. 24 from Beirut University College campus in west Beirut, are educators Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho; Alann Steen, 47, of Boston; Robert Pohll, 53, of New York City; and Mithleshwar Singh, 60, an Indian and a resident alien of the United States.

Turner said in a videotape released Thursday by the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine that Steen was ill and dying.

He called on the hostages' four wives to visit Israel and the United States to try to win their release.

Steen's wife, Virginia Rose Steen, 30, of Jackson, Miss., said on Thursday: "If I have to travel, I'll travel anywhere."

The kidnapers said this week they were ready to free Steen if America succeeded in getting Israel to release 100 Arab prisoners.

Israel refused to negotiate with the hostage-holders, and the United States refused to try to pressure the Jewish state on do so.

"We are helpless," Mrs. Turner said Friday.

She said Mrs. Steen was in a "terrible condition" after learning of her husband's reported sickness.

Mrs. Pohll, 45, pointed out that she is a Lebanese citizen of Palestinian descent and asked:

"How would it be possible for me to go to Israel? I do not even consider going to Israel because it is against my belief in the Arab cause."

"The only thing we are capable of doing is to ask the kidnapers to release our husbands," she said.

Bonn to keep buying freedom for prisoners

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Eighty East German political prisoners arrived in West Germany this week, their freedom purchased as part of a quiet but controversial program that started in the early 1960s.

The policy will be continued for humanitarian reasons, West German officials said Friday, speaking on condition of anonymity. "We do not see an end to it, or unfortunately an end to the need for it."

Many of the 80 ex-prisoners who arrived in West Germany on Wednesday, like thousands of others before them, had been jailed for trying to leave their country — either legally by repeatedly seeking exit visas or illegally by trying to flee across the heavily fortified border to the West.

Critics have complained over the years that the policy encourages Communist East German authorities to imprison more people to extort cash or goods from the Bonn government.

But officials here say the program is mainly a humanitarian policy that helps people who tried to escape to the West or helped others flee, not outspoken political dissidents.

They angrily deny comparisons to the U.S. arms-for-hostage deals with Iran that shook the Reagan administration.

Officials say most of those bought free over the past 25 years were jailed for trying to escape to West Germany and would have been arrested whether the policy existed or not.

It began in 1963, with the purchase of eight prisoners for the equivalent of $170,000, according to an authoritative book published in 1978 by French journalist Michel Meyer.

It is the only book on the subject, published in West Germany, and Bonn government officials have described it as extremely accurate.

Since the program's early years, West Germany has also paid for the prisoners with gifts hard to find in East Germany, Meyer wrote.

No settlement in cards

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Outgoing U.S. Ambassador Stephen Bosworth said Friday that a political settlement between President Corason Aquino and Communist rebels was not in the cards any time soon.

The military, meanwhile, confirmed the rebels inflicted heavy losses in recent combat.

In a parallel Moslem insurrection, chief government negotiator Emmanuel Pelaez rejected demands by the Moro National Liberation Front.

The Front wanted Mrs. Aquino to decree an autonomous Islamic government in 23 southern provinces before the May 11 congressional elections and install the Front's chief, Nur Misuari, as leader.

In an interview published Friday in the Philippine Daily Inquirer, Misuari warned Mrs. Aquino "not to betray us" or risk a two-front war.

But Pelaez, who also is Philippine ambassador to the United States, told reporters Misuari's demands were tantamount to secession.

Bosworth, who leaves Manila this month after a three-year tour, said he was optimistic a combination of economic revival, social reform and military action would eventually reduce the threat of Communist insurgency.

House resurrects phone bill

Mountain Bell accused of 'ramming' bill; Andrus veto predicted

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

BOISE — Despite strong signals from Gov. Cecil Andrus that any new phone deregulation bill will be put on hold, a House committee voted to send it through again.

"I think we've made a genuine attempt to meet the objectives voiced by the chief executive," said Mountain Bell lobbyist Bill Roden during a House State Affairs Committee meeting on Friday.

But what supporters said was a new and improved version left doubts in the minds of consumer groups, competing phone companies and lawmakers.

And State Affairs Chairwoman Pam Bengson, R-Boise, seemed irritated at what many called Mountain Bell's "ramming" tactics.

Bengson repeatedly pressed both supporters and opponents on whether Andrus was "guaranteed to sign" the new bill. Andrus vetoed an earlier phone deregulation bill on Monday.

"I have not discussed it with the governor, and I would not presume to state what the governor would do, but this should address his concerns," Roden said.

"I believe what the governor said was that slow and deliberate actions were needed," Bengson shot back. "I question whether this is slow and deliberate."

Testing against the measure were the same groups who testified during more than 15 hours of hearings in February.

John O. Stocks, executive director of Idaho Fair Share, a consumer group, said there was no reason to deregulate single-line customers.

"There are good reasons why rates should be reduced," Stocks said, adding deregulation would not provide for it.

Terry Coffin, lobbyist for GTE Sprint, said "plucking parts to satisfy the governor may be fine for political purposes," but there was no mechanism to resolve consumer complaints on long-distance.

Coffin also criticized his competition for not providing a new copy of the bill until late on Thursday.

Coffin said 18 independent phone companies worked 9 months with Mountain Bell and negotiated 12 drafts before a bill was produced that all could accept.

He said no groups were included in working out a new bill, however.

Some lawmakers also criticized the quick turnaround in trying to push through another bill in the last hours of the session, after an override vote failed on Tuesday.

Rep. Jim Stolcheff, D-Sandpoint, said he wanted the Public Utilities Commission staff to look it over before voting on it. He also said he wanted to compare the new bill with the vetoed bill, "line by line."

"To bring this in 35 hours away from going home, I can't believe," Stolcheff said, referring to the upcoming adjournment of the Legislature.

But despite the criticism, Mountain Bell apparently pushed the right buttons for passage out of committee.

A motion by Stolcheff to return the measure back to the sponsor failed.

"I hate bloody exercises in futility," said Rep. Patty McDermott, D-Pocatello.

But McDermott said the bill should be printed and circulated so people could study it. And her motion to send it back for a full House vote was approved.

Andrus' spokesman, Marc Johnson, left no doubt, however, that Andrus will not sign a new measure.

"I think he made it clear how he feels; that something should not be hastily pushed through in the dying days of the Legislature," Johnson said.

Farm mediation gets reluctant OK

dubious of lending to marginal farmers.

BOISE — By a 26-16 vote, the Senate approved a measure Friday to bring farmers and bankers together in 11th-hour negotiations, but lawmakers warned "it will not save the family farm."

"I reluctantly support this, but I don't see it as a save-all," said Sen. Jerry Twigg, R-Blackfoot. "This is not going to save the family farm, and I don't think we should send that message."

The measure, opposed by bankers, now goes to the House, where time is running out on the session.

The measure, patterned after an Iowa law, would force mandatory mediation between bankers and farmers before a bank forecloses.

Senators who opposed the bill said it would cause credit to dry up, because bankers would be

"I hear from bankers that this will have repercussions on other borrowers, and I fear that," said Sen. Ann Rydatch, R-Idaho Falls.

Some senators opposed spending $200,000 in state money to fund mediation for farmers when other groups are in trouble.

Banker Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, said if the program is successful in helping farmers, "there's no reason we can't expand it."

Supporters also argued if the measure saves "just 10 farmers," it will help the economy in small communities.

But Twigg said the real test of this bill will be 4-5 years down the road.

"The real test is how many who went into mediation will still be on the farm a year from now, and 5 years from now," Twigg said.

With a design similar to that of the proposed Twin Falls County jail, the new Elko County facility will be ready for inmates this summer

New Elko jail shares similarities, architects with local plan

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

ELKO, Nev. — The story behind Elko County's new jail strongly resembles the tale of Twin Falls County.

The Elko County story ended happily for county officials because their new jail will be ready this summer. In Twin Falls County the outcome is uncertain, at least until after a May 12 bond election to finance a proposed 90-bed, 27,300-square-foot jail, expected to cost $3.5 million.

The counties are bonded not only by circumstances. Their respective county commissioners hired the same architects, who came up with a similar design for both projects. But Boise architect Joe Conrad said his firm's work on the Elko jail saved Twin Falls County some time and money.

The similarities between Elko and Twin Falls counties extend in time. Their jails were built in the early 1900s. When the jails began to show their age, county officials embarked separately on plans for new jails.

In September 1982 residents of Elko County, which has less than half the population of Twin Falls County, decisively rejected a $3.5 million bond for a jail with combined city and county offices, Elko County Manager George Boucher said.

In March 1985 Twin Falls County proposed a $2.5 million bond to finance a jail law-enforcement building. The bond issue failed miserably.

Following the defeats, the counties were sued individually by inmates who alleged the jails were inadequate. The litigation against Elko County was one factor among many in the decision to try another bond issue, Boucher said.

"I think we could say that, since we've gone ahead with the new facility, it's taken the temper out of the suit," which is now "in limbo," he said.

An October 1985 lawsuit against Twin Falls County resulted in a court agreement by county officials to place a cap on the present jail population, and hold another bond election to finance a new, "bare-bones" jail.

Elko County residents last November approved a $4.5 million bond for a 50-bed, 30,000-square-foot jail designed by Lombard-Conrad Architects, said Mike Murphy of the county's engineering department. Boucher said the firm was selected for its experience and work in other states, including Idaho.

Before the Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners hired Lombard-Conrad Architects months later, they had reviewed its work in Elko County.

The Elko County Jail concept of

A view of a dayroom inside Elko County's new jail

cellblocks radiating from a central observation point was adopted from larger detention facilities, Boucher said. The county jail will now serve as a model for how the concept may be used in smaller jails.

Conrad said his firm used ideas from Elko for the Twin Falls County project.

"Twin Falls County will benefit from our learning experiences," he added.

Because of the Elko County project, it took less time to prepare a preliminary plan for Twin Falls County, Conrad said. Elko County will pay about $327,000 in architectural and professional fees, while Twin Falls County will pay about $283,000 — if the bond is approved by voters — for the design of a building about the same size as Elko's.

Structural, technical and other differences between the two projects also accounted for the price differences, he said.

The architects believed the basic shapes and designs used in Elko County complemented the Twin Falls County Courthouse and Judicial Annex, Conrad said. Plans call for the new jail to be built on a vacant lot adjacent to the two buildings, in downtown Twin Falls.

Twin Falls County Commissioner Judy Felton said she wasn't surprised that the Twin Falls County plans resembled Elko County's. Jails using the same concept will probably be similar, she said.

The Elko and Twin Falls designs were both prepared after input from citizens groups. The two projects share similar cellblock-areas, saltyports, indoor-exercise yards, cathedral-type ceilings, construction materials and expandibility by double bunking, to name a few.

Both projects exclude a juvenile section.

But the differences are many. The Twin Falls County proposal, for example, has little office space.

About 4,000 square feet of the Elko County Jail will house the Sheriff's Department, Murphy said. Because of a lack of space at the Courthouse, the sheriff's offices are located in a house across the street.

In the Elko County Jail the women's cellblock is in the main cellblock area. In the Twin Falls County project the women's unit is separated from the main cell area.

The biggest difference is location. The Elko County Jail is about 1 mile from the Courthouse in downtown Elko. If the county had built the jail near the Courthouse, it would have been too expensive to buy additional land, Murphy said.

The purchase of land in Elko's industrial park was reflected in the bond, Murphy said.

Another big difference is that the Elko County Jail will use geothermal heat, which Murphy said will save money for the county. In fact, the geothermal well was another factor in choosing the site away from the Courthouse, he said.

A new Twin Falls County Jail would rely on traditional heating sources.

Murphy, who is Elko County's project manager, said he likes the jail design because of "the efficiency of personnel." It will take three jailers to run the operation at night.

Elko County was successful in selling the bond issue to the public in a state requiring only a simple majority for approval. Idaho law requires a two-thirds majority, increasing the difficulty in gaining voter approval.

And the bond for Elko County's new jail was heavily promoted to county residents, Boucher said.

"We all agreed no one wants a jail; however, the laws of the land have put it upon us that we meet their standards. People were saying, 'It's a necessary evil, and let's go ahead and do it,'" Boucher said.

Alleged bank robber may face local trial

TWIN FALLS — An Oregon man charged with the robbery of a Twin Falls bank Thursday morning reappeared at a roadblock by state, city and county officers of Twin Falls and Jerome counties Thursday.

County Jail Friday on a local robbery about an hour after the Lynwood charge and may be prosecuted in either of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust local courts.

Elko County will pay about $327,000 in architectural and professional fees, while Twin Falls County will pay about $283,000 — if the bond is approved by voters — for the design of a building about the same size as Elko's.

Structural, technical and other differences between the two projects also accounted for the price differences, he said.

House resurrects phone bill

Mountain Bell accused of 'ramming' bill; Andrus veto predicted

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

BOISE — Despite strong signals from Gov. Cecil Andrus that any new phone deregulation bill will be put on hold, a House committee voted to send it through again.

"I think we've made a genuine attempt to meet the objectives voiced by the chief executive," said Mountain Bell lobbyist Bill Roden during a House State Affairs Committee meeting on Friday.

But what supporters said was a new and improved version left doubts in the minds of consumer groups, competing phone companies and lawmakers.

And State Affairs Chairwoman Pam Bengson, R-Boise, seemed irritated at what many called Mountain Bell's "ramming" tactics. Bengson repeatedly pressed both supporters and opponents on whether Andrus was "guaranteed to sign" the new bill. Andrus vetoed an earlier phone deregulation bill on Monday.

"I have not discussed it with the governor, and I would not presume to state what the governor would do; but this should address his concerns," Roden said.

"I believe what the governor said was that slow and deliberate actions were needed," Bengson shot back. "I question whether this is slow and deliberate."

Testifying against the measure were the same groups who testified during more than 15 hours of hearings in February.

John O. Stocks, executive director of Idaho Fair Share, a consumer group, said there was no reason to deregulate single-line customers.

"There are good reasons why rates should be reduced," Stocks said, adding deregulation would not provide for.

Terry Coffin, lobbyist for GTE Sprint, said "plucking parts to battle the governor may be fine for political purposes," but there was no mechanism to resolve consumer complaints on long-distance.

Coffin also criticized his competition for not providing a new copy of the bill until late on Thursday.

Coffin said 18 independent phone companies worked 9 months with Mountain Bell and negotiated 12 drafts before a bill was produced that all could accept.

He said no groups were included in working out a new bill, however. Some lawmakers also criticized the quick turnaround in trying to push through another bill in the last hours of the session, after an override vote, failed on Tuesday.

Rep. Jim Stolcheff, D-Sandpoint, said he wanted the Public Utilities Commission staff to look it over before voting on it. He also said he wanted to compare the new bill with days of the Legislature, "line by line."

"To bring this in 36 hours away from going home, I can't believe," Stolcheff said, referring to the upcoming adjournment of the Legislature.

But despite the criticism, Mountain Bell apparently pushed the right buttons for passage out of committee.

A motion by Stolcheff to return the measure back to the sponsor failed.

"I hate bloody exercises in futility," said Rep. Patty McDermott, D-Pocatello.

But McDermott said the bill should be printed and circulated so people could study it. And her motion to send it back for a full House vote was approved.

Andrus' spokesman, Marc Johnson, left no doubt, however, that Andrus will not sign a new measure.

"I think he made it clear how he feels; that something should not be hastily pushed through in the dying days of the Legislature," Johnson said.

Farm mediation gets reluctant OK

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

BOISE — By a 26-16 vote, the Senate approved a measure Friday to bring farmers and bankers together in 11th-hour negotiations, but lawmakers warned "it will not save the family farm."

"I reluctantly support this, but I don't see it as a save-all," said Sen. Jerry Twigg, R-Blackfoot. "This is not going to save the family farm, and I don't think we should send that message."

The measure, opposed by bankers, now goes to the House, where time is running out in the session.

The measure, patterned after an Iowa law, would force mandatory mediation between farmers and bankers before a bank forecloses.

Senators who opposed the bill said it would cause credit to dry up, because bankers would be dubious of lending to marginal farmers.

"I hear from bankers that this bill will have repercussions on other borrowers, and I fear that," said Sen. Ann Rydahl, R-Idaho Falls.

Some senators opposed spending $200,000 in state money to fund mediation for farmers when other groups are in trouble.

Backer Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, said if the program is successful in helping farmers, "there's no reason we can't expand it."

Supporters also argued if the measure saves "at least 10 farmers," it will help the economy in small communities.

But Twigg said the real test of this bill will be 4-5 years down the road.

The real test is how many who went into mediation will still be on the farm a year from now, and five years from now," Twigg said.

With a design similar to that of the proposed Twin Falls County Jail, the new Elko County facility will be ready for inmates this summer

New Elko jail shares similarities, architects with local plan

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

ELKO, Nev. — The story behind Elko County's new jail strongly resembles the tale of Twin Falls County.

The Elko County story ended happily for county officials because their new jail will be ready this summer. In Twin Falls County the outcome is uncertain, at least until after a May 12 bond election to finance a proposed 90-bed, 27,303-square-foot jail, expected to cost $3.8 million.

The counties are bonded not only by circumstances. Their respective county commissioners hired the same architects, who came up with a similar design for both projects.

But Boise architect Joe Conrad said his firm's work on the Elko jail elected Twin Falls County some time and money.

The similarities between Elko and Twin Falls counties extend in time. Their jails were built in the early 1900s. When the jails began to show their age, county officials embarked separately on plans for new jails.

In September 1982 residents of Elko County, which has less than half the population of Twin Falls County, decisively rejected a $3.5 million bond for a jail with combined city and county offices, Elko County Manager George Boucher said.

In March 1985 Twin Falls County proposed a $6.2 million bond to finance a jail, law-enforcement building. The bond issue failed miserably.

Following the defeats, the counties were sued individually by inmates who alleged the jails were inadequate. The litigation against Elko County was one factor among many in the decision to try another bond issue, Boucher said.

"I think we could say that, since we've gone ahead with the new facility, it's taken the temper out of the suit," which is now "in limbo," he said.

An October 1985 lawsuit against Twin Falls County resulted in a court agreement by county officials to place a cap on the present jail population, and hold another bond election to finance a new, "bare-bones" jail.

Elko County residents last November approved a $4.8 million bond for a 50-bed, 30,000-square-foot jail designed by Lombard-Conrad Architects, said Mike Murphy of the county's engineering department. Boucher said the firm was selected for its experience and work in other states, including Idaho.

Before the Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners hired Lombard-Conrad Architects months later, they had reviewed its work in Elko County.

The Elko County Jail concept of

A view of a dayroom inside Elko County's new jail

cellblocks radiating from a central observation point was adopted from larger detention facilities, Boucher said. The county jail will now serve as a model for how the concept may be used in smaller jails.

Conrad said his firm used ideas from Elko for the Twin Falls County project.

"Twin Falls County will benefit from our learning experiences," he added.

Because of the Elko County project, it took less time to prepare a preliminary plan for Twin Falls

Falls County Courthouse and Judicial Annex, Conrad said. Plans call for the new jail to be built on a vacant lot adjacent to the two buildings, in downtown Twin Falls.

Twin Falls County Commissioner Judy Felton said she wasn't surprised that the Twin Falls County plans resembled Elko County's. Jails using the same concept will probably be similar, she said.

The Elko and Twin Falls designs were both prepared after input from citizens groups. The two projects share similar cellblock areas, salyports, indoor-exercise yards, cathedral-type ceilings, construction materials and expandibility by double bunking, to name a few.

Both projects exclude a juvenile section.

But the differences are many. The Twin Falls County proposal, for example, has little office space.

About 4,000 square feet of the Elko County Jail will house the Sheriff's Department, Murphy said. Because of a lack of space at the Courthouse, the sheriff's offices are located in a house across the street.

In the Elko County Jail the women's cellblock is in the main cellblock area. In the Twin Falls County project the women's unit is separated from the main cell area.

The biggest difference is location. The Elko County Jail is about 1 mile from the Courthouse in downtown Elko. In the county had built the jail near the Courthouse, it would have been too expensive to buy additional land, Murphy said.

The purchase of land in Elko's industrial park was reflected in the bond, Murphy said.

Another big difference is that the Elko County Jail will use geothermal heat, which Murphy said will save money for the county. In fact, the geothermal well was another factor in choosing the site away from the Courthouse, he said.

A new Twin Falls County Jail would rely on traditional heating sources.

Murphy, who is Elko County's project manager, said he likes the jail design because of "the efficiency of personnel." It will take three jailers to run the operation at night.

Elko County was successful in selling the bond issue to the public in a state requiring only a simple majority for approval. Idaho law requires a two-thirds majority, increasing the difficulty in gaining voter approval.

And the bond for Elko County's new jail was heavily promoted to county residents, Boucher said.

"We all agreed no one wants a jail; however, the laws of the land have put it upon us that we meet their standards. People were saying, 'It's a necessary evil, and let's go ahead and do it,'" Boucher said.

Idaho's murderer sentenced

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — A Las Vegas, Nev., man who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the death of a Mountain Home tavern owner has been sentenced to 25 years in prison.

Floyd Hunt, 53, was charged in the murder of Paul Malone, 58, owner of the Pastime Club. He died after being shot several times at the tavern last Sept. 10.

Hunt will be eligible for parole in about seven years, his attorney, Michael McLaughlin, said Thursday. Hunt originally was charged with one count of first-degree murder and one count of using a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Andrus, Stallings criticize Reagens highway bill veto

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Cecil Andrus said President Reagan's veto of an $88 billion federal highway bill was a "harsh blow" to every corner of Idaho.

Andrus said following Friday's veto that he was "dismayed and disappointed that this absolutely critical highway funding bill, which has already been debated and delayed for months, will now be delayed even more."

Stallings said the highway bill, which includes a provision allowing states to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on rural stretches of interstate highways, is of critical importance to Idaho.

"I am very disturbed with reports that the president vetoed this bill because he is trying to demonstrate that he is back in charge of the White House," the second-term lawmaker said.

Stallings said he would vote to override Reagan's veto and urged Idaho's two Republican senators to take similar action.

"In this particular case, I'm going to have to part company with the Republican leadership," he said.

The president objected to certain "demonstration" projects in the highway bill, saying they were too costly.

Dixie, SUS may cut enrollment next fall due to budget problems

ST. GEORGE, Utah (AP) — Without an infusion of new money, two of Utah's small colleges — Dixie and Southern Utah — will likely lose about 1,200 students away from their classes next fall, education officials say.

Dixie President Douglas Alder said his school's enrollment is expected to lose 3,000 next fall, but the St. George campus has room only for 2,000 of them on current budgeting.

At Southern Utah State College in Cedar City, 200 current students and any additional ones likely will be turned away next fall due to budgetary limitations, said SUSC President Gerald Sherratt.

The 1987 Legislature did not give institutions of higher learning any state money for enrollment increases, leaving them to use money from a 10-percent tuition hike.

Officials at both colleges are already discussing ways to limit enrollment next September, including admitting those who apply first, raising admission standards of raising tuition to weed out those who can't afford to pay.

They are also considering selective measures, such as increasing admission requirements to certain programs or admitting students to select programs while turning them away from others. The State Board of Regents are expected to grapple with the enrollment problem at the two colleges by early May.

Sherratt said he disagreed with assertions by some higher education officials who say that even if enrollment is limited at Dixie and SUSC, a student who is turned away at those schools can still get into Salt Lake Community College.

"When we tell a student he can't come to SUSC, we may be saying, 'You can't go to college at all. That's the last thing we want to tell them,'" he said.

Humor

romances as "emblematic of our obsession with myths — preoccupations about what the relationships should be."

Riedel recounted the tale of Violet who, searfully pursued by Ivor Sledge, finally confronted by his proposal of marriage.

"The fantasies are undercut," Riedel said. "Sledge is a character, like the Enema Bandit, also poke fun at situations that might be scary if illuminated under a serious light."

Riedel will deliver her paper at the appropriate WHIM conference held at ASU between April Fools' Day and April 5. More than 1,000 people are expected to gather from around the world to ponder and, where possible, define what is funny.

Founder Don Nilssen, an ASU English linguistics professor, said the World Humor and Irony Membership has had the last laugh over critics.

"In the beginning, particularly, scholars thought the humor would dry up," Nilssen said. Instead, each year between 300 and 400, from as far afield as Cork, Ireland, present papers analyzing humor through specialties including psychology and philosophy, he said.

"What we need to develop is the play ethic," Nilssen said. Basically, he said, humor can be a tool to help people cope with serious issues in their lives. Paper topics vary from rural economics — "This Drought Ain't Brake Us, But We're Bent Pretty Bad" — to Jewish humor in "The Last Laugh: Anti-Nazi Humor During the Holocaust."

"Of course, some of the humor relies on personal taste. I do remember one on (author Ernest) Hemingway," said Riedel in apologetically recalling an earlier conference she attended. "I don't think now, after hearing that paper, that I see humor in Hemingway; but maybe I'm missing something."

But are scholars the right people to teach how to tell a joke? "A bunch of non-sequiturs is funny, but a recurring theme is also funny," Nilssen said. "These are things we can tell people."

was alone in the building and there were no customers at the station.

On Thursday another robber, pretending to have a bomb in a small box, fled the building with the money after he held up a teller at the Lyndon branch of the Twin Falls Bank and credit union, a suspect was caught and the money recovered about 45 minutes later in a roadblock at the Perrine Memorial Bridge.

A police officer looking Friday for an older pickup truck with a young man in the driver's seat, possibly one black eye, in connection with the Mr. Gas incident. No arrests had been made Friday night. Eastman described his assailant as about 6 feet tall, wearing a plaid shirt and army fatigue jacket.

Robbery suspects arrested in S. Dakota

TWIN FALLS — A couple arrested in South Dakota on armed robbery charges this week is also a suspect in a March 14 robbery in Twin Falls.

Police in Twin Falls learned Friday that Gary Thuermer, 39, also known as Robert Koshak, and Linda Marie Wanner, 39, were arrested in the commission of an armed robbery in Prairie City, S.D., have also been linked through the investigation to that state with the March 14 robbery of the Studio 2001 in Twin Falls.

Corder said a warrant and complaint will be issued from Twin Falls, but the pair will probably be prosecuted in the South Dakota charges initially.

Michael Howard, manager of Studio 2001, at 1138 Blue Lakes Blvd., told police a man walked into his business about 10:15 a.m. March 14, and asked to rent a certain movie. He said the man then displayed a gun and ordered him to turn over all the money. Howard gave the man a bank bag and he cleaned out the cash register and left after forcing Howard to lie on the floor. Officers believe the woman may have driven the car which the suspect left the Studio 2001 property.

Trial

continue prosecution in Twin Falls. Baxter said it is up to the U.S. Attorney's Office to decide if they wish to take action against Gascon.

Gascon was arraigned Thursday afternoon in 5th District Magistrate Court with bond set at $100,000. Gascon, who gave his address as Frieriville, Ore., was arrested in a roadblock on the Perrine Bridge and charged with bank robbery.

A man matching his description entered the branch bank on Filer Avenue and Blue Lakes Boulevard North, about 10:45 a.m., with a box in the teller's view. The box contained a bomb and demanded the money from her cash drawer. Officers later determined that the bomb threat was a hoax and there were no explosives involved.

Less than an hour later, Gascon was taken into custody after officers saw him reaching under the front seat of his car as if to hide something as he approached the roadblock.

Roadblocks were set up minutes after the bank robbery. Officers after the bank robbery was reported. A state police officer, Lamont Johnston, was working with the roadblock at the Perrine Bridge when he saw a car approaching and noticed the driver leaning forward as if putting something under the front seat. His radio message alerted officers who were stopping all vehicles helped alert them to a possible suspect.

Peace workshop aims at youths

Representatives of groups receiving 1986 'Wage Peace Awards' to attend

TWIN FALLS — Youth from the Magic Valley and other communities throughout Southern Idaho will gather in Twin Falls today to attend a workshop on peace issues.

The workshop theme, "On Defending Creation: The Role of Courage and Sacrifice," reflects the title of a study document on peace issued by United Methodist bishops last year.

The workshop will be held from 1:30 p.m. to the United Methodist Church, 300 Shoshone St. A sacrifice dinner will follow at 5 p.m.

Plans for the workshop were set in motion when youth leaders representing the Bahá'is of Southern Idaho contacted the Magic Valley Peace Committee, a workshop spokesman said in a news release. It was eventually decided to hold the workshop for high school and high school youth representing each of the groups which received the 1986 "Wage Peace Awards."

The awards, presented by the Magic Valley Peace Committee, went to the Bahá'is of Southern Idaho for their two books, "The Promise of World Peace," the Methodist bishops for their peace pastoral "In Defense of Creation: The Nuclear Crisis and a Just Peace," the Boise Peace Quilters, and Camp Fire, Inc. for their two books, "A Gift of Peace" and "In Pursuit of Peace."

Gerry Warner, a member of the Magic Valley Peace Committee, said, "Each of the groups receiving the 'Wage Peace Awards' has much to offer society in its quest for a world beyond war. That these young people have taken the initiative to come together, share ideas and seek ways of promoting peace is an example to all of us."

"That these young people... seek ways of promoting peace is an example to all of us."

— Gerry Warner, peace committee member

The workshop will be divided into three sessions, with presentations being made by representatives from each group. Jeff Floyd of Jerome, a Bahá'í and contact for Beyond War, will lead a session on the video presentation of "The Promise of World Peace." Rev. John Watts of Burley will discuss the Methodist pastoral letter, and Sue Cheney of Twin Falls, a group leader of Camp Fire, Inc. will lead the group in candle-lighting of the "In Pursuit of Peace" program.

A spaghetti dinner will follow the workshops at 5 p.m. and feature a special musical-alike program of the "We Are the World Show" held in College Park, Md. The dinner will be held at the Magic Valley Peace Center, 300 Shoshone St. The dinner will be held at 5 p.m.

Project Parents and friends are welcome to observe during the workshop and to attend the dinner. Any youths who would like to attend the workshop should call the United Methodist Church at 733-5872 by this Thursday. There is no charge, but donations for the dinner will be accepted.

TV evangelism wars

Broadcast organization seeking tighter standards for financial accountability

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Analysis

NEW YORK — Signs of rivalry in TV evangelism, which emerged this week in the Jimmy Swaggart Jim Bakker affair, are seen as symptomatic of an underlying condition in a packed field of such broadcasters.

Some call it a "saturated market," using up the available pool of support, creating increasing competition for it. Others say new, added donors remain to be gained, but nevertheless, the competition goes on.

"It's a part of the free enterprise system among evangelists," says Rev. Ben Armstrong of Morristown, N.J., long-time president of National Religious Broadcasters.

The competition for the religious market is a healthy thing, and not hurtful, he said in a telephone interview. "It's what keeps evangelists on their toes, to come out with better programs."

However, he said that in that field, TV evangelists are going to have to subscribe to high, defined standards of financial accountability, and his organization is taking steps for such certification.

The Swaggart-Bakker feud showed up in disclosures naming TV evangelist Swaggart as the previously unidentified figure whom resigned TV evangelist Bakker accused of plotting to take over his ministry.

However, the middle-man Bakker picked to handle it, TV evangelist Jerry Falwell, said the conflict was resolved after he had a long conversation with Swaggart and was convinced he "no designs whatever" on Bakker's ministry.

"He told me his only goal was to clean up a very embarrassing situation on behalf of the Assemblies of God, and I believe him," Falwell said. Both Swaggart and Bakker belong to that Pentecostal denomination.

Bakker earlier had said his resignation was prompted by blackmail over a 1980 sexual encounter.

That episode and other undisclosed criticism were cited in letters both by Swaggart and a group of religious broadcasters, relayed to Falwell, his spokesman said, leading him at one point to see a potential "civil war" between TV evangelists.

"But it's not going to happen," said Mark Demoss, a Falwell associate. "Enough rumors" stay there until Tuesday.

In recent television appearances, the elder evangelist has not mentioned any danger to his life.

The goal apparently was reached Sunday when a Florida dog race track owner provided a $1.3 million check to the medical missionary group.

Oral Roberts has said God told him in March 1986 that he must raise $8 million to fund that program "in one year or I will call you home."

When Roberts made his first televised appeal on Jan. 4, he said $2.5 million had been raised.

The ministry says the money will allow ORU medical students to graduate debt-free and become missionaries in Third World countries.

But Richard Roberts said God told his father the ministry needs more money to make up for below-par contributions in recent months.

Oral Roberts was later shown from the prayer tower continuing his pleas for money. Roberts has been in the futuristic tower on the Oral Roberts University campus since Sunday and has said he will stay there until Tuesday.

Richard Roberts: Goal of $8 million reached

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The Oral Roberts ministry has raised the $8 million he has said God told him to raise by Tuesday or he would die, the evangelist's son said Friday.

"The news media has centered in on the $8 million goal — which has been reached," Roberts' son, Richard, said on his "Richard Roberts Live" television show.

RLDS Church announces $60 million temple project

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints on Monday announced a $60 million building project for a sacred temple on a 13-acre site in Independence.

Church officials said $35 million will go toward building the temple and for landscaping and beautification of the site. About $25 million will go into an endowment fund for future operations, educational programs, seminars, and travel and scholarship assistance for members in other countries to come to the temple to study.

Howard Sheehy, a member of the church's First Presidency, explained the building plan to the City Council Monday night.

Councilman Millie Nesbitt asked Sheehy whether the church had thought about building a hotel or motel to accommodate overnight visitors. City officials often bemoan the lack of a hotel near the Truman Library and home and other historic sites.

Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium. McGuire was the lead singer with the New Christy Minstrels in 1962. He later launched his musical career with songs such as "Green, Green, Green," "The Green, Green, Green, Green, Green," and "Eve of Destruction."

"His life" was completely turned around by what he describes as a personal encounter with the Messiah, Jesus Christ. He now sings and shares of his hope and his music. His music has been a source of the change that has taken place within him.

The concert is presented by Open Door Concerts.

TV

Continued from Page B3 and stories were circulating to give reason to believe that was a possibility. But some misunderstandings that had existed don't exist now.

Nevertheless, the sequence of events brought out the latent ingredients of rivalry among TV evangelists that both Armstrong and others say exists. The Rev. Arthur C. Borden, executive director of the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability, says TV evangelists have "saturated the market. No new donors are out there. That's why they're struggling for them."

To get them, he said, TV evangelists have to take them from each other.

However, Armstrong maintains new audiences and donors still are available, although there is a "sense of saturation in the major markets," and "increasing competition" for them among TV evangelists.

"But the real competition — is against the secular market," he said. "The TV evangelists are not at one another's throat, but are trying to get attention in a secular environment in which they've been largely ignored."

"That's the No. 1 battle. The secondary battle is among evangelists and the quality of their programs." He called that a positive, stimulating competition, the kind of free enterprise that "made America great."

He said additional audiences still are obtainable with new programs and varied approaches — what he called "different strokes for different folks."

"But I don't see the donor pool as exhausted or in trouble," he said. "There's an increasing response to spiritual and traditional values."

He said that while the major markets, with "only so much" TV spectrum, were crowded, most TV evangelism was in cable systems, with ample room for expansion. "That's the growing edge," he said.

Armstrong, who has headed the swiftly expanding religious broadcasters organization for 20 years, now including 1,200 members, said its Ethics and Financial Integrity Commission is drafting a firmer code of ethics.

It previously had a 1944 set of standards, tightened somewhat in 1978, but never effectively applied. He said the new guidelines, requiring independent auditing of finances and public accessibility, would be ready in June.

Religious broadcasters adhering to the rules would be publicly certified as doing so, he said. "They must meet the standards and prove they've met them," he said, adding:

"It's not that they would like to do it, but they're going to have to do it if they want to get money from people. The public is demanding it. That's part of the problem. People are asking these questions and wanting certified records."

Armstrong said that the plan wouldn't duplicate work of the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability, headed by Borden, since it covered a broad range of organizations, and not just religious broadcasting.

"We have the same objective, but we want it run by people who understand broadcasting. The council deals with a broad range of groups, hospitals, schools and others. But we want ours designed particularly for broadcasters."

Area group to perform in concert

TWIN FALLS — "The Sounds of Praise," a five-member music ensemble, will perform in concert Sunday at 7 p.m. at First United Brethren in Christ Church, 3023rd Ave. E. The group, comprised of two families, Howard and Mary Conrad of Murtaugh and Murray, Kathy and Renae Barkman of Twin Falls, will minister in gospel music and personal testimony. The public is invited to attend. A dessert and coffee fellowship will be held after the concert.

Assembly focuses on poverty issues

CALDWELL — Poverty, especially among women and children, and related Idaho issues will be major program emphases at the Ecumenical Assembly sponsored by Church Women United in Southern Idaho, April 3 and 4, at 2915 S. Montana Ave., Caldwell. Sylvia Talbot of Atlanta, Ga., national president of Church Women United, will be keynote speaker at the opening session Friday morning. She will also speak at a Friday evening meeting which will be open to the public without charge. The assembly will conclude after lunch Saturday with an address by Talbot, entitled "A Journey of Hope — With Miles to Go."

SYLVIA TALBOT
Church Women United head

Agnes Burkholder of Boise, president of Church Women United in Southern Idaho, said that the Ecumenical Assembly is open to everyone, including men, who wish to attend. She said that in addition to Talbot, many outstanding Idaho women will contribute to the assembly program.

Ecumenical action issues will be presented by a panel on Friday afternoon, with Marjorie Ruth Moon serving as moderator. A civic and government leader and former Idaho treasurer, Moon has spoken to other groups on the issues of women and poverty.

Registration for the full assembly is $30 for Friday only $20, or for Saturday only $10. Fees include meals (Friday lunch and dinner, Saturday breakfast and lunch) and all program materials and assembly expenses. Child care will be provided as requested in advance. Courtesy host housing requests must be received by March 30. Advance registrations should be sent to Billie Farley, Assembly Registrar, 1905 Willow St., Caldwell, ID 83605. Late registrations will be taken at the door but may not include meals. The assembly will be held at the shared facility of Treasure Valley Christian and Faith Lutheran churches in Caldwell.

Analysts think BP bid low

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street is betting that British Petroleum Co. PLC will have to pay more than the $7 billion it has offered for the 45 percent of Standard Oil Co. it does not already own, according to market analysts.

But in a meeting with reporters in New York Thursday, David Simon, managing director of the London-based oil giant, did his best to discourage that speculation.

"I just want to make it clear that we don't see this as a progressive bidding game," Simon said. BP, the largest industrial corporation in the world, considered the offer a bid.

Meanwhile, a group of Standard Oil shareholders has taken court action to block BP's move.

BP announced Thursday it would pay $70 per share for all of Standard Oil's outstanding common stock. On the New York Stock Exchange, the issue jumped ahead on the news, closing later at $71.27, up $6.50 per share.

"The history of these kinds of deals is that they sweeten them just a bit," said a spokesman for Robert Lazer, who studies oil companies for the investment firm of Prescott, Ball & Turben Inc.

At $70 a share, BP's deal, announced Thursday, would rank with Du Pont's purchase of Conoco Inc. in 1981 as the third largest corporate acquisition in the United States.

The two biggest deals occurred in 1984, and both also involved the oil business. Chrysler's purchase of Gulf Corp. for $13.1 billion and Texaco Inc. acquired Gulf Oil Co. for $10.1 billion.

Meanwhile, in Cleveland, where Standard Oil is based, four Standard Oil shareholders filed a suit claiming BP's offer was "grossly inadequate and unfair as to constitute a fraud upon the shareholders of Standard Oil."

The lawsuit, filed in the name of shareholders they claimed were being victimized by BP's offer, seeks to void it.

The case was assigned to Judge Thomas J. Pokorny in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court. No hearing date was set.

Standard Oil spokesman Chuck Webster said the company had not seen the suit and had no comment.

BP and Standard Oil have had ties since 1970, when what was then called Standard Oil (Ohio) sold a controlling interest in BP in exchange for the British company's major oil and gas reserves in Alaska.

Standard Oil also has interests in coal, metal, mining, chemicals and other industries. It is the last of five major oil companies formed in the breakup of John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil Trust to retain the name Standard Oil.

If successful in its bid, BP said it would merge its BP North America Inc. unit into Standard Oil. Simon said the company would remain headquartered in Cleveland under the Standard Oil name.

"We have no intention to change the management of the company, and don't expect redundancies (job cuts) of the type you normally see," Simon said.

The absorption of Standard Oil would require approval by BP's shareholders.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"Few people think more than two or three times a year. I have made an international reputation for myself by thinking once or twice a week." -George Bernard Shaw.

Many declarers will fail to make today's sensitive game, but not because they've never seen the winning play before. More than likely it will be because they don't think the problem through.

North bid two spades to show both minors and then raised to no-trump game to be best. South wins the first trick cheaply.

With his spade 10 and will lose to dummy's heart king and lead a low club. It takes takes to ease, South wins four clubs, one diamond, two hearts and two spades.

At trick two, South should court dummy's heart king and lead a low club. It takes takes to ease, South wins four clubs, one diamond, two hearts and two spades.

What if it was West who held the club ace? No danger. West could not hurl declarer by leading spades, and South has time to assure himself of nine tricks.

Don't get stuck with a balloon!
Don't be misled by low downs and low payments. You'll probably be paying in the end with one BIG BALLOON final payment. Know the facts, read the fine print in The Times-News. Don't let a lot of hot air on television tie you down to a big balloon ready to burst!

CSI Eagles deliver 400th victory for Walker

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho Coach Jim Walker assumed a new plateau in his career here Friday.

His Eagles, dropping behind 4-0 to Dixie College in the top of the first inning, rallied for a run-rule 14-4 decision to present Walker with his 400th victory at the Golden Eagle team.

The Eagles gave him his 399th just before that, scoring in the fifth inning to win the opener 3-2.

The teams are scheduled to collide in another double-header at noon today at Frontier Field.

"I wasn't like Walker had awarded this day. When first congratulated on his 400th, he said "naw, that came a week ago during the Arizona trip, didn't it?"

It wasn't until someone produced a program that showed him with 391 victories going into this season that he agreed that this had to be 400 since the Eagles now are 9-9.

"I thought I had something like 396 or 397 going into the season and I just thought it was behind us," he explained with a laugh.

Walker said this double-header sweep mirrors the season for our runs, one and two at a time. We don't appear to have the consistency or the power at the plate yet to go up and blow out of sight in one inning as in some years past."

That wasn't immediately discernible Friday, however, as Jeff Moe and Chris Hanks collected back-to-back homers for a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning of the opener.

But it reverted to that when Dixie came back with a single by Jeff Lund. Woody Woodruff's two-bagger and an error to fashion it.

That 2-2 set the stage for a pitching duel between eventual winner Dave Carter of CSI and Dixie's Brent Cude.

Walker even provided a little surprise when he threw in a sacrifice bunt to set up the winning run. Bill Satterfield brought it home after walking and moving around on the bunt by Eric Kopps and Moe's single. Hanks got the RBI with a sacrifice fly.

Dixie bats and six CSI errors had

Carter working out of predicament in all but the first and last innings. He survived a one-hit, two-error fifth inning when one runner was thrown out at third and another at the plate.

Lefty Tony Mortenson went the distance to collect the second victory but the 14-4 score doesn't show that Mortenson was within a eyelash of leaving this game in the first inning.

Dixie jumped on him for three runs before CSI could register an out. Marty Haynie, Mike Larabee and Kyle DeLange all opened with singles to load the bases and Jeff Lund unloaded them with a double down the leftfield line. He scored two outs later on Wendell Zink's bouncer up the middle.

But Mortenson allowed just two base hits and as many base runners to complete the game.

He stayed behind until the fifth inning, although CSI picked up two first-inning runs on a bases-loaded walk and Kirk Slater's bounce out. In the fourth, Robb Ellis doubled in the walking Dave McQuivey to cut the deficit to 4-3.

The game collapsed on Dixie and outpawp Kirk Jensen in the fifth when CSI sent 11 men to the plate and scored six runs — all of them unearned.

Jeff Moe opened and ended it with singles and in-between Errol Shirer and Hanks had hits. Dixie contributed two fatal errors and Jensen walked two, one with the bases loaded.

That was enough to end suspense and the run-rule went into effect in the sixth when the Eagles pushed five more runs across. Walks to Satterfield, Lance Lettner and Ellis were mixed with a double from Bevin and singles by Slater and Hanks — the latter driving in the game-closing run.

Eagles face tough competition in rodeo action

By MICHAEL VANAUDELN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Wayne Norcutt of the College of Southern Idaho men's rodeo team took the saddle bronc riding in the first go-round here Friday night, but as a team the Golden Eagles encountered some stiff competition from both Boise State and Weber State in the CSI Intercollegiate "Aggie" Rodeo.

Norcutt, a native of Battle Mountain, Nev., was running 1-2 with his brother, Frank, in saddle bronc riding going into tonight's rodeo, but Golden Eagle teammate Joe Elmer finished second in front of Frank Norcutt.

The CSI men also took first place in the barrel racing, with Richie Hamilton outpacing Southern Utah State College's Troy Warr 71-57.

The CSI women didn't fare as well, though. It was Weber State who had the best night. Lori Hadley tied for first in the breakaway while Sandy Gregory took second in the goat roping.

"Weber State was really tough," said CSI coach Shawn Davis. "They did pretty much what we had all expected. But we'll just have to come out tomorrow and do our best."

With the CSI women climbing an uphill battle against Weber State, the Golden Eagle men found Boise State climbing right with them.

Rich Pickett won the calf roping with a time of 14.5 seconds and the team roping squad of Kindel Mason and Mike Currin won their event with a score of 71 points.

The Broncos also picked up some points in the women's barrel racing as Joni James beat Brigham Young's Leslie Nelson with a time of 15.63 compared to Nelson's 15.71.

"Boise State was a little bit of a surprise for me," said Davis. "They've come in here and almost stole the show."

The CSI men finished second to the BSU team of Mason and Currin in the team roping when Golden Eagles Mike Benheim and Darren Shaw finished only one point behind the two Broncos.

Utah State also had a good showing in the men's contests — especially in the steer wrestling event where Chad Bedell and Wade Woolshenburner were 1-2. Tom Norris also won the bull riding with a score of 91 for Utah State.

"We'll have to really watch them tomorrow," said Davis. "Hopefully, we can keep them from getting too many points. The guys looked fairly sharp tonight. I thought, and the girls, well, we knew we'd be in for a tough one."

MEN'S EVENTS

Team Roping: 1. Kindel Mason and Mike Currin, BSU, 71; 2. Mike Benheim and Darren Shaw, CSI, 70; 3. Kelly Echart and Kevin Colser, RBSS.

Bull riding: 1. Tom Norris, USU, 91; 2. Guy Alford, Provo Tech, 77.

WOMEN'S EVENTS

Goat tying: 1. Shellie Hill, ISU, 8.1; 1. Sandy Gregory, Weber, 8.1.

Breakaway: 1. Lori Hadley, Weber, 4.5; 1. Betty Whipple, SUCS, 4.3; 2. Janice Ault, BYU, 4.9.

Barrel racing: 1. Richie Hamilton, CSI, 57.0; 2. Leslie Nelson, BYU, 57.1.

Area could become a hotbed for kickboxing

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A large turnout which welcomed the debut of full-contact karate to the Magic Valley last week may have gone a long way toward establishing the sport as a permanent fixture in this area.

Not only did Twin Falls' Carl Sklavos strip previous world flyweight champion Jerry Clarke of that professional title in a 12-round decision, but a throng of 3,000 looked on in the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium while another pair of local residents, Gene Starr, Jr. and Celso Moraes, laid claim to regional and state amateur titles.

"It was an excellent success," said Karyn Turner the fight's promoter from her Denver office with the International Sports Karate Association. "It was a financial success as well, especially considering some of the other events of local interest we were up against. It cost a lot to bring the fight up there and I was not really sure what to expect."

Fed attendees put the six-bout card in the black, but Turner expressed as much concern with the mood of the crowd, most of whom had experienced their first live taste of the sport.

"I just spoke with (Sklavos' coach) Gene Starr," she continued. "He reports nothing but positive feedback. With Idaho proving to be an up-and-coming hotbed of kickboxing, we're already looking at the next of what we hope will be three or four events a year. I think May, June or possibly July would be good months for the next card."

"We're tied into a rematch agreement with Jerry Clarke that has a six-month time limit," she continued. "Right now it's up to Jerry to figure out what he wants to do."

Turner went on to explain that Clarke, who claims to be a "natural bantamweight," was forced to drop 9½ pounds in a 48-hour period preceding last week's unsuccessful

'Hammer' Gilliam's play key to the UNLV-Indiana match-up

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Slop Armon Gilliam, says Iowa Coach Tom Davis, and Indiana will stop Nevada-Las Vegas and be a step closer to its third NCAA basketball title under Coach Bob Knight.

Davis, whose Hawkeyes split both Big Ten games with Indiana this season and were beaten by UNLV in the tourney's West Regional final 84-82 last Sunday, isn't discounting the Runnin' Rebels' 3-point shooters.

But Davis said Friday, "The story will be whether Gilliam can be contained. Freddie Banks will get his points and so will Gerald Paddo. I don't think Steve Alford is the key for Indiana. They have enough good players, enough other weapons."

Top-ranked UNLV, 37-1 and riding a 22-game winning streak, will play No. 3 Indiana, 28-4, Saturday before a sellout crowd of 63,000 at the Superdome in the second semifinal. No. 10 Syracuse, 30-5, meets Providence, 25-0, the tourney's surprise team, in the opening game.

The title game is set for Monday night.

Gilliam, a 6-foot-9, 230-pound senior who is nicknamed "Hammer," is averaging 22.9 points and 9.3 rebounds, leading the Rebels in both departments.

He was named second team All-America, but his game is somewhat overlooked because of UNLV's image as a run and gun team which lives by the 3-point goal.

"He's like the heart that pumps the blood," UNLV playmaker Mark Wade said. "He's the guy we go to when we're down. When we need a big rebound, he's there to get it. When we need two points, he's there to give it to us."

Banks, a 6-2½, senior guard who averages 19 points, and Paddo, a 6-8 junior forward with a 13.3 average, have led the Rebels' 3-point barrage.

UNLV, perennial champions of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, has hit 40 percent of its 3-pointers this season with Banks.

Syracuse, Providence coaches expect another close battle

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Syracuse winner of the semifinal game between top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas and No. 3 Indiana.

"If I was here the other 15 times you could say the law of averages will enter into this game," Pittino said. "This style has been in effect only two years and that's not enough games to average out."

"The games could have gone either way," Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim said of the two most recent meetings. "We defended the 3-point well in both games and they hurt us inside both games."

Defending the 3-pointer is important against the Frars who led the nation with 8.33 per game. Two of Providence's long-range specialists, Billy Donovan and Eric Lewis, each made more 3-pointers than the entire Syracuse team. Donovan and Lewis made 96 and 94, respectively, while the Orangemen made 93.

"We'll try to make them put the ball on the floor. If they go by they have to contend with Rony and Derrick."

Rony is junior center Rony Seikaly, whom Pittino described as "one of the country's premier big men." Derrick is freshman Derrick Coleman, who blocked 63 shots, 10 fewer

Magic Valley hoopsters test their skills in the Netherlands

By MICHAEL VANAUDELN
Times-News writer

When you ask, sometimes you receive. Or, at least, that's what happened to Murtough High School assistant boys' basketball coach Marvin Mumm. He had inquired about taking team overseas to play some hoops.

The International Sports Organization answered, and as a consequence Mumm and a team of Magic Valley high school freshmen and sophomores are in the Netherlands playing basketball this week.

"I was really surprised," said Mumm. "I just applied and out of nowhere I hear from them saying 'come to Holland and play some ferences while in the Netherlands, but one of the most prominent of these is in the game of basketball itself. Playing under international rules "will make things tougher," said Mumm.

The team had only been practicing for a few weeks before leaving for Holland, "so the adjustment has been harder than normal."

But the rule changes are only a part of the game better but they'll be used to playing in a different environment. That has got to help with strength rather than quickness. That difference, though, could be a great help to these players in the long run.

"With the different style of play over there," said Mumm, "it'll be just another kind of basketball the kids can adjust to when they come back. There's some great advantages to playing in Holland. Not only will they be able to adjust to a more physical game better but they'll be used to playing in a different environment. That has got to help small squad.

Widmair, Rovig and Wiggins are point guards and Sandy also played the point at Shoshone, although Mumm feels he "more of an off-guard. He can shoot the ball as well if not better than anyone."

The two Holcombs will be joined inside by the 6-3 Staff and the 6-2 Nebeker with Bates, DeBoer and Tollman manning the wing spots.

"We'll have to play very smart basketball to do well," said Mumm. "But, really, we're not going over there to stun the place with our basketball expertise. We're there to

Bird's 41 points ends Celtics' losing streak

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Bird scored 41 points and Kevin McHale had 21 as the Boston Celtics broke a five-game NBA road losing streak Friday night by defeating Chicago 111-106, their ninth consecutive regular-season victory over the Bulls.

Chicago's Michael Jungs, the NBA scoring leader, was held to 22 points, including three baskets in the second half, while John Paxson and Brad Sellers led the Bulls with 23 apiece.

Sellers single-handedly brought the Bulls back from a 109-102 deficit to 109-105 with 1:18 remaining. After Boston's Robert Parish threw the ball out of bounds, Chicago's Dave Corzine made one of two free throws with 14 seconds remaining to make it 109-106.

In the scramble for the rebound after Corzine missed his second free throw, the Bulls' Charles Oakley fouled Parish, who made two free throws and sealed the Bulls' ninth loss in their last 12 games.

Pacers 100, Knicks 91

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chuck Person scored 22 points and grabbed 13 rebounds, while Fleming hit five straight points late in the fourth quarter to put Indiana ahead for good, lifting the Pacers to a 100-91 NBA victory over the New York Knicks Friday.

The Pacers held an 87-79 lead with 6:30 left in the game on a short jumper by Herb Williams, but New York scored the next 10 points, led by Gerald Henderson's six points, and took a 98-87 lead with 3:15 remaining.

Fleming then hit a 17-foot jumper, followed by a three-point play, to give the Pacers a 92-90 lead with 2:29 left. Henderson then was fouled by Fleming, but made just one of two free throws.

The Pacers scored their final eight points — six on free throws, including four by John Long — as the Knicks missed three three-point field-goal attempts.

Sixers 100, Nets 99

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving, playing his first game since Feb. 15, scored 23 points to lead Philadelphia to a 110-99 victory over the New Jersey Nets on Friday night, clinching an NBA playoff berth for the 76ers.

Erving, sidelined for 18 games with a fractured right middle finger, scored eight points in the first quarter when the 76ers built a 34-21 lead. After falling behind by as many as 14 points, the Nets rallied to within 48-45.

The 76ers led 54-47 at halftime and pulled out to a 64-49 lead early in the third period.

With 5:20 to go, Philadelphia led 90-82, but the Nets went on an 11-point run, cutting the lead to 98-93 with 2:34 to play. Charles Barkley's rebound basket ended the surge, and Philadelphia steadily pulled away.

Cavs 116, Bucks 113

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ron Harper scored 31 points and fellow rookie Brad Daugherty had 27 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists as the Cleveland Cavaliers without several Milwaukee charges to defeat the Bucks 116-113 in NBA action Friday night.

Cleveland led by as many as 13 points in the third quarter and took a 94-85 lead in the final period. The Bucks got within one point on five separate occasions, the last time at 112-111 when John Lucas hit a 3-point shot and Terry Cummings made a basket from inside with 45 seconds remaining.

Cleveland's John Williams made one foul shot with 23 seconds left and Daugherty followed with a pair 11 seconds later for a 115-111 lead. A jump shot by Milwaukee's Randy Breuer made it 115-113 with eight seconds left before Harper's free throw three seconds later ended the scoring.

Ed Neely, averaging 2.8 points a game, led the Spurs with a career-high 23 while David Greenwood added 22 and Jonathan Wilder 18.

The Jazz led 109-86 early in the final quarter before the Spurs narrowed the gap with a flurry of 3-point shots. San Antonio's only lead was 28-27 on a basket by Neely that ended the first quarter.

Suns 130, Clips 117

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Walter Davis scored 22 points and Larry Nance had 13 of his 20 in the first half as the Phoenix Suns beat Los Angeles 130-117 Friday night, the Clippers' 12th straight loss in the first quarter.

Phoenix, which led at the end of the period, with Nance scoring 11 points, the Suns led 66-49 at halftime and 103-89 after the third quarter behind the 10-point performance of Jay Humphries and nine from Davis, whose 3-point goal with 1:27 left made it 98-78.

Alvan Adams layup with 7:30 left in the game gave Phoenix a 119-97 lead before Coach Dick Van Arsdale cleared his bench.

Humphries finished with 19 points while Ed Pinckney and Mike Sanders had 15 apiece and Adams 13. Mike Woodson passed Los Angeles with 27 points. Benoît Jamain had 18 and Larry Drew 15 for the Clippers, whose road record is 3-32.

The loss was the Clippers' 32nd in 41 games at Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Pocatello takes meet at Highland

POCATELLO — The Pocatello Indians ran off with both ends of a five-way track meet at Highland field Friday afternoon.

Minico places third and second in the boys and girls division, respectively, while Burley was fifth in both divisions.

Minico's girls were led to second by the hurdling of Stephanie Stevens, who was second in the 800 and appeared to have the intermediates well in hand when she fell coming over the last barrier. She still will have to recover and place second.

Sprinter Lisa Senecal placed in four events and Kristy Hood scored well in the 1600 and 3200.

Nettles' homers lead Braves

By The Associated Press

Graig Nettles came closer to nailing down a spot on Atlanta's roster by hitting two home runs Friday as the Braves beat the New York Yankees 11-3.

Nettles, 42, hit his first home run to ignite a five-run fifth inning.

Dennis Rasmussen, an 18-game winner last season, Rasmussen yielded six runs on 12 hits in six innings.

Nettles' second homer keyed a four-run eighth against Seattle.

Guante, the Braves' Ted Simmons opened the scoring with a solo homer in the fourth and Darryl Motley added a three-run shot in the eighth. Motley went 3-for-4 with five RBI and three runs scored.

Paul Hirschbeck ejected Reds Manager Pete Rose in the bottom of the eighth after Rose argued a safe call Friday as the Braves beat the New York Yankees 11-3.

Canyon Springs women win team honors

TWIN FALLS — The Canyon Springs women took team honors and Mike Hamblin of Twin Falls and Tracy Frank of Burley led for low in the Blue Lakes Country Club's women golf tournament Friday.

The Canyon Springs team of Pro Del Ericson and amateurs Jackie Schell, Kelly Howa, Karen Poe and Muriene Pruetz carded a 110 to beat the Twin Falls Muny and Pocatello Country Club teams by seven.

Members of those teams were Hamblin, Jackie Gasser, Cheri Webster, Linda Stielle and Mary Ferrell and Roy Ivey, Stella Sandquist, Blanche Rialde, Natalie Browning and Jan Zollinger. Pro Jeff Ross and amateurs Jackie Anderson, Betty Davis, Jean Sutherland and Fath Cooper of the host club shared fourth with teams from Boise and Caldwell.

Frank and Hamblin had 65 to pace all scorers while John Watson, Caldwell, had 68 and Jim Wallace 70. Don Hamblin, Twin Falls, had 73 to top the senior division.

Cooper of the 0-13 amateur handicap division, former state champion Jean Smith, Boise, ran away from the field with a 75, followed by Sally Harris and Karen Darrington, Boise, at 85 and 86, respectively. Barbara Anderson, Betty Davis and Shawna Robinson all had 88.

In net, Belva Wildman, Boise, was tops at 70, followed by Kathy Hancock, Cheri Webster and Alice Rosenheim at 73.

The upper division had Kelly Howa on top in gross at 83 with Stielle at 92, Cio Davis 93 and Trisha Nance 96. Jan Zollinger's 97 led net, followed by Natalie Browne, 6; Lynn Payne, 71, and Mary Inouye and Karen Maria, both 74.

AP names Robins year's top player

Mets, Royals make trade

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The New York Mets obtained pitcher David Cone and minor-league catcher Chris Jelic from the Kansas City Royals Friday for pitcher Rick Anderson, catcher Ed Hearn and minor-league pitcher Mauro Gozto.

Cone, a 24-year-old right-hander who had a 2-0 record with a 2.25 earned run average in 16 innings this spring, will join the Mets Sunday.

Jelic, a former University of Pittsburgh quarterback, was assigned to the Mets' Lynchburg affiliate of the Carolina League. Last year, with Fort Myers of the Florida State League, he hit .256 in 108 games.

"We regard David Cone as the premier pitching prospect in the Kansas City organization," said Joe McIlvaine, the Mets' vice president for baseball operations. "We have been trying to obtain him since the winter meetings."

UNLV involved in ticket theft

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Nevada-Las Vegas campus police say they want to question online basketball prospect Lloyd Daniels and another man about the theft of at least five Final Four tickets from the Thomas and Mack Center ticket office.

Nevada-Las Vegas President Robert Maxson, meanwhile, said he was upset about the way the school's ticket office handled the incident and promised to prosecute anyone involved in the theft.

"We are in the process of investigating it and we will prosecute," Maxson said. "We are going to get to the bottom of it."

The tickets were taken Wednesday in at least one, and possibly two, different incidents. At first, ticket manager Le Riggle said 12 tickets were taken, but later said only five were taken. Three were returned later by Daniels.

Campus police questioned Daniels' legal guardian, Nevada-Las Vegas basketball recruiter Mark Warkentin, late Thursday. Warkentin said the ticket office told him the tickets had been taken by an unidentified man seen with Daniels.

True to SMU rally held

DALLAS (AP) — Their pompos bobbing to the tunes "Be True to Your School" and "Honesty," Southern Methodist students tried to shake off depression from the demoralizing football scandal with a dose of school spirit.

About 150 students gathered for an "SMU, Now More Than Ever" rally to remind themselves and the community that there is a lot left behind to celebrate in the wake of a football fiasco that shamed the school nationally.

"We're seniors graduating, and we want to leave proud of our accomplishments," said Stephanie Richards, a philosophy major. "We don't want that to be erased in the fury."

The NCAA abolished SMU's 1987 football program and limited the Southwest Conference school to seven road games in 1988 after an investigation into pay-for-players schemes.

Nipper fined for tight pitch

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Al Nipper of the Boston Red Sox was informed by the baseball commission Friday he has been fined for hitting Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets with a pitch in an exhibition game.

The Red Sox also were fined for failing to control the actions of one of their players.

Nipper and Haywood Sullivan, co-owner and chief operating officer of the Red Sox, were informed of the fines in a letter from Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

Neither the commissioner's office, Nipper nor Sullivan would disclose the amount of the fines.

However, sources placed Nipper's fine at $300 and the club's at a minimum of $1,000.

"The letter just said I had been fined for the incident," Nipper said. "I can't comment further until I write to some people, including my agent, and find out what's going on."

"We failed to control our children," Sullivan quipped.

William-Mary taps cage coach

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Chuck Swenson, an assistant baseball coach at Duke for seven years, was named Thursday as the new basketball coach at the College of William & Mary.

"I always wanted to represent a school like Duke University and William & Mary closely parallels Duke both in academic standards and the values it represents," Swenson said in a press release.

Swenson, 38, graduated from Indiana in 1976 where he was manager for Coach Bobby Knight's Hoosier team. He has coached at Army and Duke, both under Coach Mike Krzyzewski.

Drayton keeps boxing crown

CANNES, France (AP) — Buster Drayton of the United States retained his International Boxing Federation junior middleweight championship by stopping Fred Skouma of France in the 10th round Friday night.

Drayton sent Skouma to the floor midway through the round, but Skouma was up at the count of three and took an eight count. Drayton resumed his attack and was pummeling Skouma when the Frenchman's corner threw in the towel as referee Joe O'Neal was in the process of stopping the fight.

Skouma was leading on points at the time. One judge had it even, another had Skouma three points ahead. A third had the Frenchman two points ahead.

Drayton upped his record to 32 victories, nine defeats with one no-contest in defending his IBF title for the second time. He won the championship last June in outpointing Carlo Santos of Puerto Rico.

Skouma's record drops to 2-2. Last October he lost to Mike McCallum of Jamaica in a World Boxing Association championship match.

Tyson sets May 30 title defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten heavyweight champion Mike Tyson will defend his titles May 30 in Las Vegas, Nev., against former world champion Pinklon Thomas, Tyson's co-manager on Friday.

"It's signed. It's complete. It's sold," Bill Cayton said of Tyson's scheduled defense of his World-Boxing-Association and World-Boxing-Council titles against Thomas, the former WBC champ.

Cayton said negotiations with the Las Vegas Hilton were completed Friday morning.

The fight will be the first of a four planned for the 20-year-old Tyson for the remainder of this year, Cayton said.

He said Tyson plans to meet the winner of the International Boxing Federation title fight between Tony Tucker and James Douglas, plus British heavyweight Frank Bruno and Olympic gold medalist Tyrrell Biggs.

Cayton said Tyson plans to fight the IBF champion in July, Bruno in England in September and Biggs in November.

Charles leads seniors tourney

STAMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Bob Charles, looking for his second straight victory on the PGA Senior Tour, fired a 65 to win the opening round of the $275,000 GTE Senior Classic.

Aron, the 1973 Masters champion who is competing in his third seniors event, birdied five holes and bogeyed two others en route to a 69.

Australian-born Bruce Crampton, winner of seven senior events last year and the Tour's leading money-winner in 1986, was three shots back at 70.

Arnold Palmer, competing in the Los Angeles area for the first time in four years, birdied his last two holes to put himself in a tie with ABC television commentator Bob Rosburg at 71.

Texas panel reviews charges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A University of Texas committee reviewing NCAA allegations of rules violations in a Longhorn football program from 1980-86 has received a 314-hour analysis of the charges.

Houston lawyer Knox Nunnally, hired by the school in 1985 to launch an investigation in which the NCAA later joined, reviewed the 62 allegations Thursday for the nine-member committee and some school administrators.

Committee chairman Charles Alan Wright, a Texas law professor, said the committee would meet again Tuesday and has set an April 8 deadline to report to university president William Cunningham.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — David Robinson of Navy accepted the Adolph Rupp Trophy as the Associated Press college basketball player of the year Friday, while saying he has made no decision about his complicated future as a professional player.

Robinson, the 7-foot-11 Navy senior, may have to wait before pursuing a career in professional basketball if Naval Secretary-designate James Webb Jr. has his way. The Washington Post reported that Webb believes military service after graduation from the academy should be a full-time commitment.

"He still has to be confirmed," Robinson said at a news conference. "I have an agreement with the Navy. As of right now, that's just speculation on what the says."

Robinson said he still had not "taken a stand" on whether he will pursue an NBA career immediately.

"I have to see what's best for me," he said. "It's still up in the air."

Robinson, fourth in the nation with a 28.2-point average and the country's top shot-blocker with 144 this season, received 206 of 419 votes in a nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters to win the Rupp Trophy handed over Steve Alford of Indiana. Alford received 63 points, followed by Danny Manning of Kansas with 56, Reggie Williams of Georgetown with 37 and Dennis Hopson of Ohio State with 27.

The trophy, named after the late Kentucky coach, is sponsored by the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky and has been presented every year since 1972. Robinson is the first recipient from a military academy. Last year's winner was Walter Berry of St. John's.

"Anyone who knows me knows I'm not big on awards," Robinson said. "On any given night, one player can outplay another. But it's an honor to win, and I'd love to share this award with my teammates. The last four years, they've been the biggest part of my life."

"My teammates have helped me mature as a human being and as a player. They've given me great support. Obviously, we couldn't have been the team we were the last four years with just one player."

During his four years at Navy, Robinson has participated in 106 victories. He led the Midshipmen to a 26-6 record this season, accounting for 35.5 percent of Navy's total scoring. He averaged 11.8 rebounds per game, and his 50 points in Navy's first-round NCAA tour to Michigan was the sixth highest in tournament history and most by a player since 1971.

Not only was Robinson responsible for much of Navy's success on the court, he also admits that by excelling as a player he may have left a legacy for the Midshipmen's basketball future.

"Obviously, we're not going to attract those top 100 or 50 players in the country who want a professional career in basketball," Robinson said.

Under Davis, the Hawkeyes were 30-5, most victories ever for an Iowa team that had won 41 games over the previous two seasons. He received 89 of 419 votes cast in a nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters conducted before the NCAA playoffs started.

Joey Meyer of DePaul finished second with 81 votes, followed by Temple's John Chaney with 64.

Coaches were limited to 10 finalists chosen by the AP's weekly poll board.

"I appreciate this award especially in a year such as this when there was so much talent around the country, partly because of the loss of some people, but I think any time a first-year coach wins an award of this magnitude, there are a awful lot of people to thank. Lute Olson really established a top-flight program, and George Raveling kept it there over the past three years." Olson was Iowa's coach for nine seasons before being replaced by Raveling, who was there for three years before moving to Southern California.

Davis said his selection was a tribute to the program guided by Athletic Director Bump Elliott.

"It's not just in basketball," Davis said. "Look what Iowa's doing. What Hayden Fry is doing for football and Dan Gable in wrestling. It's the Iowa program overall."

"I've got 'em 'cause of Bump, because of Lute, because of George."

Iowa was ranked No. 1 in the nation for one week this season and wound up No. 6 in the final poll. Iowa finished third in the Big Ten with a 14-4 record, one game behind champions Indiana and Purdue.

Davis as a Ph.D. in physical education, his dissertation was on athletics in Colonial America.

The historical perspective helps keep him from going overboard, he said. "It kind of keeps your feet on the ground. You realize you're not everything, realize how insignificant you are," he said. "It's whoever's sitting in that coach's chair that gets the recognition. It's not the person."

Davis, 48, coached previously at Lafayette and Southern College and Stanford. He has a record of 504-155 in 16 seasons of coaching.

Meyer, in his third season at DePaul after replacing his father Ray, guided DePaul to a 23-3 record last year. The loss of three starters — Ray Meyer won the award in 1980.

Chaney's Temple squad, 32-4, won the Atlantic 10 title, regular and postseason.

Jerry Tarkanian of top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas was fourth with 45 points. The remainder of the voting: Pittsburgh's Paul Evans, 41; Clemson's Cliff Ellis and Providence's Rick Pittino, 29 each; Indiana's Bob Knight, 21; Purdue's Gene Ready, 12, and North Carolina's Dean Smith, 8.

The award was established in 1967. UCLA's John Wooden was the first winner, winning it five times in all. Other multiple winners were Knight (1975-76) and Oregon State's Ralph Miller (1981-82).

Tarkanian, Knight and Pittino are with their teams here for the Final Four.

Lack of timers changes track records

LONDON (AP) — Jose-Luis Gonzalez of Spain gained a world record and Eamonn Coghlan of Ireland lost one Friday, all because of the lack of stopwatches at a race more than six years ago.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation, track's governing body, said it had rejected Coghlan's three minute, 35.6-second clocking for 1,500 meters in San Diego on Feb. 20, 1981 as a world indoor record.

It was the first time since the IAAF began ratifying indoor records Jan. 1 that a performance widely accepted as a world best had been rejected for record status.

In Coghlan's place, the Spanish record books goes to Gonzalez and his 3:36.03 time for the 1,500 at Oslevedo, Spain, last year, the IAAF said.

The decision had to do with how Coghlan's race was timed, according to Mick Gee, the IAAF's technical secretary.

Normally, three stopwatches are required to ratify a world record. Gee said, Coghlan's 1,500 time was taken during a mile race, which he completed in 3:50.6, the second-fastest ever.

The mile time was recorded by three watches, but only one watch recorded the time at 1,500 meters. So, the IAAF says the governing body for track and field in the United States, was unable to confirm the record and the IAAF had no choice but to reject it, Gee said.

Hoops may return to Tulane

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Men's college basketball will probably return to Tulane University in time for the 1990-1991 season, according to a report in Friday's editions of The Times-Picayune.

Tulane President Eamon Kelly disbanded the program in the midst of a burgeoning point-shaving and payroll scandal in 1985. At the time, Kelly said the demise of the basketball program was permanent. He later softened his stand.

Star center John "Hot Rod" Williams, now with the Cleveland Cavaliers, was at the center of the allegations. He was later acquitted of sports bribery charges.

"The emphasis is on the word 'probably' because little about Tulane sports is carved in stone," the newspaper quoted a university source as saying.

On April 16, Tulane's Board of Administrators is scheduled to meet to consider a recommendation from its athletic committee that essentially calls for basketball to be resurrected and a timetable established to bring the team back, the newspaper reported.

Kelly had appointed a committee to study the entire sports program and last year that study was released, with 23 sweeping recommenda-

Garvey says it's unlikely NFL players will walk out again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ed Garvey, who led the NFL Players Association through its 57-day strike in 1982, said Friday that because the players walked out then, they probably will not have to do so again.

Garvey said the difference between the hard-line management because can never again say the players won't strike so just say "no," Garvey said of the strike. "This year they know they have to bargain."

Garvey as the NFLPA's executive director, called the closed morning session "constructive."

He said among the matters discussed was setting a date for a strike authorization vote, which many unions consider a necessity to carry into negotiations.

Upshaw did not disclose when the vote would be taken, but said he told the player reps present that the May mini-camps might be an appropriate time.

Garvey also downplayed comments by NFL officials that bargaining will be easier this year because his successor, Gene Upshaw, gets along better with Commissioner Pete Rozelle and with Jack Donlan, the league's chief bargainer.

"It doesn't make any difference whether they like me. It doesn't make any difference whether they like Gene and it doesn't make any difference whether Pete likes Gene," Garvey said. "It's all a question of leverage in bargaining."

Garvey said he has no argument with the union's main demand this year — free agency — though free agency was abandoned in 1982 when the players sought 55 percent of the NFL's gross revenue.

"I think they should have free agency. But I think they should also get a percentage of television revenues," he said.

Fahnhorst, however, suggested that there had been mistakes during Garvey's administration, particularly in the fight for free agency. Players have had free agency in nominal form since 1977 but only one player has moved since then because of the prohibitive compensation the team that signs a free agent for what is currently the average league salary is required to give two No. 1 draft choices to his old team.

"I have nothing personal against Ed," Fahnhorst said. "My problem with Ed has been that some misjudgements were made on the finances of the union and some misjudgements were made on some positions in 1982. I think everyone recognizes some mistakes were made."

"The players were making a lot less money in Albuquerque and he had never had a successful strike before," he said. "When you're not sure you can pull something off you get a little more anxious. Now they know they can. I sense a good deal of confidence here."

Garvey, who resigned in 1983 to enter politics after 11 years as the NFLPA's executive director, addressed the convention in a closed session for what he said was about 20 minutes. He said he talked to them about the strike, briefed them on union history and urged them to stay united in the negotiations for the contract with the owners that expires Aug. 31.

Gene Upshaw, who succeeded

Upshaw also talked about Garvey, the dominant figure of the 1982 strike and often a controversial figure during his tenure with the union.

"I was a little afraid when he was coming in," Upshaw said. "I wasn't sure how the body of the convention would react to Ed. A lot of people like him, a lot of people don't like him. That's the way Ed is."

"I think he was well received,"

Walters, under investigation by the FBI in connection with alleged threats of violence in a battle of sports agents to represent college football players, said Friday that he was involved in the three-way fight.

"It's ludicrous, it's sickening, it's vile, it's nauseating," Walters said of published reports linking him to the threats.

"I do believe the (sports) agents who are my competitors will tell any of these young men to say anything to try to break a contract," Walters said. "Anybody's capable of saying anything."

Sports agent denies making threats to football players

NEW YORK (AP) — Norby Walters, under investigation by the FBI in connection with alleged threats of violence in a battle of sports agents to represent college football players, said Friday that he was involved in the three-way fight.

"It's ludicrous, it's sickening, it's vile, it's nauseating," Walters said of published reports linking him to the threats.

Walters said he has filed suit against five former college football players he said broke their contracts with him and signed with other agents: Rod Woodson of Purdue; Ronnie Harmon, formerly of Iowa and now with the NFL's Buffalo Bills; Brent Fulwood, Auburn; Terence Fligler, Clemson; and Tony Woods of the University of Pittsburgh.

A federal law enforcement source, speaking on condition that he not be identified, said that the FBI's Dallas office has launched an investigation of alleged threats by several sports agents. The investigation was said to be in its early stages.

The New York Times, quoting other sources in its Friday edition, reported that the Dallas FBI office had recorded a telephone conversation between player agent Lloyd Bloom and former Southern Methodist University wide receiver Ronald Morris in which Bloom was alleged to have threatened to have Morris' hands broken if he signed with another agent.

Walters admitted that he signed players while they were still in school and, in some cases, gave them money.

The NCAA allows undergraduate athletes to consult agents, but prohibits them from entering into an agreement or accepting cash or discussing financial arrangements before their eligibility expires.

The newspaper also quoted unnamed sources as saying the FBI was investigating alleged threats made against another former SMU player, Jeff Atkins. Both Atkins and Morris are currently under contract with another management firm, Athletic Associates of Dallas.

A source, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press that the Chicago office of the FBI had been brought into a police investigation in Skokie, Ill., where Kathie Clements, a vice president of the Zucker Sports Entertainment Group, was beaten unconscious and stabbed in the arm by a man wearing a ski mask. The attack occurred in the offices of Zucker Sports on March 16.
