Reagan wants end to Japan-U.S. disputes

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan said Monday it's time to stop "hemming and hawing" about trade problems between the United States and Japan...

sweeping trade legislation scheduled to be debated in the House of Representatives today "unless substantial changes are made..."

Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone. "The final answer to the trade problems between America and Japan is not more hemming and hawing, not more trade sanctions, not more voluntary restraint agreements..."

computers, auto parts, telecommunications, construction projects and agricultural products. Momentum for passage of a trade bill has been fueled by America's huge trade deficit...

The letter from the Cabinet members aimed specific criticism at the Gephardt measure, calling it "defeatist." On Capitol Hill, House Speaker Wright, supporting the Gephardt amendment, accused Reagan of "engaging in flights of rhetorical exaggeration" on the trade issue.

Dallas hearing delayed

The Associated Press

BOISE — A preliminary hearing for convicted game warden killer Claude Dallas Jr. on a felony charge of escape from the Idaho State Penitentiary was postponed Monday...

Dallas appeared along with Boise attorney William Mauk before Ada County Magistrate Patricia Borah on Monday at the prison south of Boise.

Mauk said he would not be able to continue representing Dallas unless a way is found to pay for his services. He said he should know within the next few weeks whether a public defender will have to be appointed.

Dallas' attorneys are trying to raise money for a private counsel and are looking for other attorneys willing to help with his defense.

Mauk said, but he added that Dallas' close-custody detention since Monday's hearing. The judge said that decision should be left to prison officials.

"If the administrative officials don't give us some access to the outside, it frustrates the process after 10 years," said Mauk, who represented Dallas at his original trial.

Dallas, 37, has been in maximum security at the prison since he was returned to Idaho March 12 following his capture in southern California three days earlier. The subject of a song, two books and a television movie, Dallas had been on the run for nearly a year before he was finally recaptured.

The self-styled mountain man faces a maximum of five additional years in prison for the escape on Easter Sunday night in 1986, when he cut his way through two prison fences and fled into the high desert.

He was serving a 30-year sentence for the 1981 slayings of Fish and Game officers Bill Fogue and Conley Elms as they tried to arrest him for poaching at his remote Owyhee County trapping camp.

Peace demonstrators at CIA cause mess during rush hour

The Associated Press

McLEAN, Va. — Peace demonstrators protesting Reagan administration policies blocked roadways at CIA headquarters Monday, causing rush-hour chaos in this serene suburban community and inconveniencing hundreds of commuters.

There were more than 550 arrests. There were no incidents of violence in the protest, which culminated three days of demonstrations against American policies in Central America and southern Africa.

It was a day that evoked memories of the anti-war protests of the 1960s, replete with slogan shouting, singing, pamphlet passing, picket waving and speechmaking by a cross-section of people representing all regions, ages and races.

CIA-spokeswoman Kathy Pherson said that, so far as she knew, it was the first large-scale protest at the agency since the headquarters, located about six miles from Washington, D.C., opened 25 years ago.

The U.S. Park Service said Fairfax County police, responsible for the test, with many angrily shouting anti-CIA slogans only to revert moments later to light-hearted banter with their companions and the police.

Immigration deadline fosters anxiety

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — The waiting lists already are long and will almost surely get longer because the private agency is not ready to play their crucial role in helping illegal aliens apply for amnesty, officials say.

More than 3 million aliens are expected to apply for legalization beginning May 5 to more than 107 special U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service centers across the country.

But because many aliens are wary of the INS, the agency is calling on Catholic and Protestant churches to help manage the flood of illegal aliens seeking help with documents to prove they're eligible for amnesty.

called Qualified Designated Entities, say the INS has been slow in sending them application forms.

"We're not ready," said Joe Murray, chairman of the North Texas Immigration Coalition. "We have no idea what the needs of the market were going to serve will be, and the INS has set up no coordination..."

INS officials conceded to the Dallas Times Herald that the agency has failed to train the agencies and has picked only half the roughly 400 church and community organizations needed for helping people with applications.

Of the groups selected in Texas, the INS has designated six churches that did not apply for the job and may not offer the service, the newspaper reported.

the amnesty agencies and the INS legalization centers, said Bob Mankser, Frost's press secretary.

E.B. Duarte Jr., the INS official responsible for establishing the network, acknowledged many of the groups may not be ready for business May 5.

"We'd like to see them all up and running as close to May 5 as possible, and we're trying for that," he told the newspaper. "But we'd prefer it that they have everything in place, that they're trained and ready to go before they open up. If that takes a week to 30 days beyond (May 5), that will be acceptable."

California, Texas and Florida, in that order, are expected to receive the most applications for legalization, said INS spokesman Duke Austin in Washington.

Missile cuts proposed Soviets offer arms treaty

The Associated Press

GENEVA — The Soviet Union on Monday put forth a draft treaty on eliminating medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe and said it was a U.S.-Soviet agreement.

Alexei Obukhov, the Soviet deputy chief arms control negotiator, presented the documents at a meeting of the U.S. and Soviet negotiators on intermediate-range nuclear forces, the official Soviet agency Tass reported from Geneva.

The discussions, conducted at the U.S. diplomatic mission, lasted 2 1/2 hours. Reporters were not allowed inside the mission, and U.S. spokesman Terry Schroeder said no U.S. briefing or statement was scheduled.

The "medium-range" missile negotiations, which both sides say are the nearest to agreement of the three sets of talks in Geneva, resumed Thursday after a one-month break. The other two sets of talks, on long-range weapons and space and defense weapons, are scheduled to resume May 5.

Tass reported that the Soviet draft documents presented Monday take "into account corresponding elements of" a U.S. draft treaty proposed March 4.

It said they "furnish a constructive basis for working out in a short time provisions for inclusion in a joint draft INF (intermediate-range nuclear forces) treaty."

Tass said the draft treaty proposed eliminating the superpowers' medium-range missiles from Europe and also addressed ways to limit the missiles on U.S. and Soviet territory. The agency gave no details.

The Soviets are scheduled to conduct a news conference today to explain their proposals. Obukhov did not speak to reporters Monday.

The U.S. draft contains detailed verification provisions, and the U.S. delegation plans during this round to propose additional protocols.

In a separate development, the U.S.-Soviet Standing Consultative Commission, which monitors superpower arms control agreements, recessed its annual spring session Monday, the U.S. delegation announced.

A communication said only that the two sides had agreed to meet again for their annual autumn session. The commission was set up in 1972 to promote implementation of the Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty and the 1971 Agreement on Measures to Reduce the Risk of Outbreak of Nuclear War.

The Soviet draft treaty was expected to reflect proposals outlined last week by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Gorbachev and the United States have both suggested eliminating the medium-range missiles from Europe, with each side retaining 100 warheads on its own soil. The Soviet triple-warhead SS-20s would be based on Asian soil.

The medium-range missiles, which also include U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles deployed in Western Europe, have a range of 600 to 3,000 miles.

Gorbachev also proposed elimination of shorter-range missiles — with a 500-mile range — from Europe. The Soviets have about 50 and the United States says it has none of the missiles.

That proposal has caused concern in some NATO countries, which fear it would leave them vulnerable to Soviet superiority in conventional weapons. Some European officials have urged the United States to insist on treaty language allowing them to build up to the Soviet level of shorter-range missiles.

The Tass report did not say whether the Soviet draft treaty included measures to prevent cheating. Gorbachev has said he wants strict verification provisions, but he has not been specific.

U.S., Canada swap ultimatums on trade

The Associated Press

TORONTO — The United States will not accept any bilateral free-trade agreement that fails to loosen Canadian restrictions on investments, U.S. Undersecretary of Commerce Bruce Smart told a Toronto business gathering Monday.

Smart made the comment as negotiators for both countries, operating under an October deadline, resumed talks in Ottawa on a comprehensive free-trade pact.

At the start of those talks, Canadian negotiator Simon Reisman had outlined four conditions.

Referring to Smart's forecast last week of good prospects for a partial deal covering tariffs but only a 50-50 chance of a larger agreement, Reisman told reporters: "If one can't get a big agreement, there'll be no agreement."

Canada's main concern is exemption from U.S. anti-dumping and other trade remedy legislation, he said. Last year, Canada's lumber industry was severely penalized as a result of unfair trading accusations.

Smart told a Canadian Club luncheon that the Reagan administration will vigorously oppose any protectionist measures surfacing in Congress, but stressed that trade cannot be free if investment is restrained.

At a later press conference, Smart told reporters that Amoco's proposed $3.8 billion takeover of Canada's debt-ridden Dome Petroleum Ltd. is the kind of investment he had in mind.

Opposition parties have called on Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's Conservative government to block the takeover. But the government has indicated it is likely to approve the deal under a policy that permits foreign takeovers of financially ailing industries but prohibits the purchase of solvent ones.

Smart noted that Canada's steady soaks up more than 25 percent of U.S. foreign investments, accounting for $46 billion U.S., while Canadians have $17 billion U.S. invested south of the border.

Israel keeps hand on report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel allowed congressional investigators on Monday to review a report on its role in the Iran arms deal but refused to allow the documents to be taken from the Israeli embassy without assurances of confidentiality and immunity, officials said.

An Israeli official confirmed that Israel was seeking a promise of confidentiality from the investigators.

The officials said they had identified, said similar negotiations were being conducted with the office of independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, who is investigating the Iran-Cuba affair.

The Washington Post, in its Tuesday edition, reported that Israel also is seeking limited immunity for Israelis involved in the arms sales.

Investigators had sent Israel a letter asking for material including a chronology of events in the clandestine arms shipments, said a congressional committee official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

In other developments in the Iran-Cuba affair, the Senate Intelligence Committee said it is recalling FBI Director William Webster to testify at its confirmation hearing to become head of the CIA. The committee wants to question Webster about FBI contacts with former White House aide Lt. Col. Oliver North, a central figure in the Iran arms sales.

Pentagon sources said North is under a "around-the-clock" protection because of recent death threats he has received. Several sources, who asked not to be identified, confirmed that North and his Great Falls, Va. house are being guarded by agents of the Naval Investigative Service.

Webster said there were "no conflicts of interest at all" in aircraft registrations handled by his Oklahoma City law firm for Southern Air Transport Corp., which reportedly supplied planes for arms shipments.

Dallas

Having managed to elude authorities for 16 months after the killings, he was finally captured. Dallas avoided a first-degree murder conviction and possible death sentence from a jury in Canyon County. He was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the two killings, having maintained through trial that he had acted in self-defense.

Within weeks after his escape, Dallas was put on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted Fugitives list. Authorities initially concentrated their search in the remote desert of northern Nevada, many thinking he would try to disappear in the wilderness and revert to the self-sufficient lifestyle he had demonstrated before the 1961 shootout.

But he was arrested as he came out of a convenience store in Riverside, Calif., carrying a bag of groceries. Authorities said he was staying in a cheap motel just a few blocks away.

Mrs. Miller said after Monday's hearing that she and other Dallas supporters have raised more than $2,500 for his defense, but they have

"It's more effective, and we won't risk sending our economic relationship with a friendly country crashing into the sea because Congress' our policy on antidumping," the president added.

Reagan said that in his talks with Nakasone, he will talk about trade problems within the context of "a common dedication to freedom and democracy, broad economic relations and a sharing of defense burdens."

The key issue on the agenda will be the $800 million in tariffs Reagan imposed against Japanese products in retaliation for Tokyo's alleged violation of an agreement to sell semiconductor chips at unfairly low prices.

Nakasone said in Japan he would ask Reagan to lift the sanctions, and the president, in his speech, said, "I hope that, before long, we can lift these and that this episode will be recorded as a small incident in the building of our relationship."

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said there were no signals that Nakasone is bringing information with him that will lead to the lifting of the tariffs.

"We're not aware of any new, specific initiatives that might dramatically change the situation," he said. "That doesn't say they won't happen, but we're not aware of them in advance."

Fitzwater also said there is no timetable or deadline for lifting the sanctions.

State revokes farmer's dinoseb permit

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Department of Agriculture has revoked a Nez Perce County leinil grower's certification to apply the controversial herbicide dinoseb after department inspectors discovered that the farmer failed to follow use restrictions.

Agriculture — Director Richard Rush said Monday that the grower, who was not identified, did not wear protective clothing and did not use a closed-cab tractor when spraying dinoseb on his crops.

Both precautions are required by the state under an emergency exemption recently granted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency allowing dinoseb to be used this year on lentils, dry peas and chick peas in Idaho and Washington.

Robbie Russell, EPA's Northwest regional administrator in Seattle, praised Rush for lifting the grower's certification.

"Strong action by the state is needed to convince other growers that both Idaho and EPA officials are insisting that the precautions be faithfully observed," Russell said.

"The restrictions are in place to protect the health of growers, their families and others who might be exposed to the herbicide's drift."

Dinoseb use was banned by the EPA last fall after tests showed it causes birth defects in laboratory animals. The agency said research indicated exposure to the chemical during or shortly after field application poses a risk of birth defects to unborn children and of sterility to men.

Besides having his certification lifted, Rush said the Nez Perce County grower will receive letters from Idaho and EPA officials warning him that future violations of either state or federal pesticide regulations may subject him to civil prosecution or fines.

"While health concerns are paramount, there's another important incentive for growers to play by the rules in that EPA could rescind the dinoseb exemption for dry peas and lentils if there were evidence of widespread violations by growers," Russell said, adding that any request for a similar exemption next year also likely would be denied under such circumstances.

Both Rush and Russell encouraged growers to rely on existing local stocks of dinoseb rather than bringing in more of the herbicide from other parts of the country.

Last Friday, leaks were found in several five-gallon cans of dinoseb aboard two trucks en route to eastern Washington, said George Spinner, water quality specialist with the Idaho Division of Environment in Pocatello.

The leaking cargoes, discovered in Lyman, Wyo., and Montpelier, were impounded in Pocatello until the trailers can be cleaned up, Spinner said. State and federal officials were continuing to investigate the leaks on Monday.

Russell said that since dinoseb "is so corrosive that it will eat through metal containers in 1 1/2 to 2 years, its disposal as a waste material could pose threats to the environment of the Northwest."

Idaho man sentenced for tax evasion

BOISE (AP) — A Garden City man was sentenced to one year in prison, community service and pay all outstanding taxes, penalties and interest.

Hart, a horse trainer and owner of the Hi-Ho Club, originally was indicted by a federal grand jury in three years probation Monday and April 1986.

Activities continue at Hayden Lake compound

HAYDEN LAKE (AP) — The indictment and jailing of their leader on federal sedition charges had no effect on Sunday services, said members of the white supremacist Church of Jesus Christ Christian (Aryan Nations).

Pending a detention hearing Wednesday, Richard Butler, 69, Aryan Nations leader and pastor, sits in the Kootenai County Jail, indicted for his alleged role in conspiring to overthrow the U.S. government with other white supremacists from July 1983 to March 1985.

During his absence, operations at Butler's Hayden Lake compound continue.

"There is a larger body than is apparent to those on the outside," said Charles Tate, a church member and close friend of Butler's. "There will be others who will fill in and carry on."

Tate, of Athol, is the father of David Tate, a member of The Order, a militant offshoot group of the Aryan Nations. The younger Tate is serving a life prison sentence in Missouri after being convicted of murdering a state trooper there.

Sunday services were conducted by a Montana man who has filled in for Butler in the past, Tate said.

"Everyone who is usually at the church was there," Tate said.

A brief prayer service was held for Butler and 14 other white supremacists arrested Friday after being named in an indictment alleging sedition.

The plot to overthrow the U.S. government, federal prosecutors allege, was to include assassination of federal officials, politicians and Jews, bombings, pollution of municipal water supply systems, and training for urban and guerrilla warfare.

Robberies and counterfeiting were intended to foot the bills.

The plan also included trips throughout the country so that stolen and counterfeited money could be distributed to believers of the cause, the indictment said. A computer network would link their intelligence networks nationwide.

Prosecutors allege groundwork for the plan was laid at Butler's compound.

Tate said Aryan Nations members are confident Butler will return to the compound after being found innocent of charges, but if he doesn't, "whatever Dick is, he will continue to provide leadership through letters and the words of encouragement."

New immigration law will sacrifice families

Beginning May 5, aliens who have been in the United States illegally since 1982 will, under terms of the new immigration law, be able to apply to become lawful residents.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service has announced that the legalization program, which is part of a one-two punch that Congress is using to clean up the problem of illegal immigration, reflects the "national humanitarian concerns of this nation." Not exactly.

First there are problems with meeting the technical requirements. Aliens must document the very presence that they have been trying for five years to hide. This is difficult because many live and work under assumed names.

And they must come up with hefty fees for both the application and the mandatory medical examination. Finally, applicants for legalization must show that they do not fall within any of the INS' 33 categories of inadmissibility, such as being a polygamist or an anarchist.

But for countless undocumented aliens, the problem is more fundamental. They must balance the long-hoped-for opportunity of legalization against the disruption of their families.

The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 doesn't discuss families much. Instead, it adds new terms for unauthorized aliens and special agricultural workers to the vocabulary of illegal immigration. But many unauthorized aliens are too young to be workers; they are students. And many of the adults are not only workers but spouses and parents as well. Some aliens work here illegally to support families that they've stayed behind.

Others, after securing a job and a place to live, send for spouses and children to join them in the United States. This second pattern of migration creates whole families of undocumented aliens.

The new law is bad for undocumented families in two essential ways. First, by failing to provide "derivative status" to the spouse and children of aliens who qualify for legalization it breaks up existing families. Second, by excluding legalized aliens from public assistance programs it establishes two standards of care for children legally present in the United States.

"Derivative status" is a common principle in immigration law. It means that when an alien is given permission to enter and remain in the United States, the alien's spouse and minor children can come as well. The concept recognizes the importance of family integrity, especially for newcomers to our national community. Current immigration law provides derivative status to the families of immigrants, refugees, asylum seekers, students, tourists and temporary workers.

After reading the letters to the editor and receiving numerous other calls with questions and comments about K49AZ-TV, I feel I should be the one to comment first.

First of all, I want to thank Mr. Mansfield for taking the time to write the first letter, indicating his displeasure with our station. Believe me, this wasn't the first technical problem we have had and to my regret, probably won't be the last.

Technical difficulties are a part of the broadcasting game and we all are made to live with them. I appreciate Mr. Mansfield's suggestion that we advise the viewer of the problem and we are considering doing that. And now to address some of the other comments and questions: K49AZ-TV is a low power television station, or a community broadcasting station, as we prefer to be

But there is no derivative status for the families of aliens who qualify for amnesty. Each alien must individually meet the five-year requirement. Thus wives who joined their husbands after 1982 are ineligible. Children reunited with parents or born in the United States after 1982 cannot qualify.

For example, a father and his 10-year-old son came to the United States in 1981. In 1983 the mother and 3-year-old daughter joined them. What are their choices?

If the mother leaves voluntarily, she must wait 18 months to reenter. If she stays illegally, she risks deportation. Moreover, her continued illegal presence perpetuates the existence of a shadow class ripe for renewed exploitation.

What about the non-qualifying child? Should she be sent back to Mexico? Or—in order to maintain her educational, familial and community ties—should she remain illegally, perhaps at the cost of separation from the non-qualifying parent?

Why did Congress deny derivative status to undocumented families? Perhaps fear of sham marriages. But Congress just enacted the Immigration Marriage Fraud Amendments of 1986, which lighten both scrutiny and penalties for marriages of immigration convenience. Moreover, the Immigration Reform and Control Act only has limited derivative status to couples married before its enactment.

The denial of derivative status may serve another purpose. From the perspective of both employers and government, unmarried aliens are perceived as cheaper dates. There are no dependent family members requiring benefits or services.

But denying derivative status for fiscal reasons was unnecessary. The law already excludes even newly legalized aliens from most federal benefit programs for five years, including Aid to Families With Dependent Children. And the act authorizes states to do the same. American generosity to immigrant families has rarely been so disingenuous. This new law forces undocumented aliens to choose between remaining in the United States and disrupting their families.

Amnesty should not replace the burdens of legal status with the penalty of family separation. Legalization should not welcome children into poverty.

Symms gift to Jewish groups draws angry Aryan response

This may be a letter of interest that strikes me as a particularly apt example of the mind of Butler and his followers toward those who want to do the right things and represent common standards of decency to which most in our society subscribe.

SEN. STEVE SYMMS
Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator Symms: Your actions reported in the Spokesman Review, April 12, substantiate the truth revealed by former congressman, Paul Findley, and Professor H.A. Wilcox. These truths are: No white U.S. government official acts in the interest of his race and nation.

You are a part of the most deadly anti-white and anti-Christian alliance that has ever existed, which has as its goal the extermination of our Aryan white race, heritage and culture.

As Professor H.A. Wilcox stated concerning our leadership in America: "The white plutocrat renegades who have allied themselves with world Jewry to commit global piracy mostly against their own people. White pretenders who willingly front for Jewry on any and all occasions, and who duly receive B'nai B'rith awards for 'Outstanding Citizenship'—many of them with thirty pieces of silver for double-crossing their own people."

Never forget that the day is soon coming that white citizens of Idaho will understand your hatred of the white race. You take white people's money and give it to their most deadly enemies. This further the goal of the destruction of our people. Don't you even care or understand that the Jew will turn on you and that your reward for serving them will be more devastating than for we who fight for life?

RICHARD G. BUTLER
Hayden Lake

Editor's note: Butler's letter to Symms followed a decision by Symms to give a campaign contribution he had received from a neo-Nazi group to two Jewish organizations.

Jesus was not a fraud

Some politicians, like dictators, have the idea that it makes them better than others when they say they are against communism.

Well, Hitler was against communism, but that never made him any better. He also was claiming the Jews and hated them with a passion, claiming they were the greatest liars on earth.

Even though many of the Jews in the Bible did lie, does not mean that all Jews are liars. Spreading hatred against other races and giving guns and money to those that kill the innocent is very much like some of the barbaric things Moses had his people do, and all in the name of their god.

Helping these murderers is bad enough, but to turn around and say you are a reborn, born-again Christian only makes a mockery out of the teachings of Jesus.

Rev. Falwell has stated that either Jesus was real or else he was the greatest fraud that has ever walked the earth. I am not sure.

Many people know that Jesus was not the fraud. The fraud was the scriptures that he and so many other martyrs have tried to fulfill. And even now, some men in their ignorance, would use our war and hope to fulfill primitive man's imagination.

Baby M case raises dilemma

The recent baby 'M' controversy over surrogate mothers and the opinion of most of you that such contracts for rental wombs are somehow worthwhile is... God help us... appallingly sad.

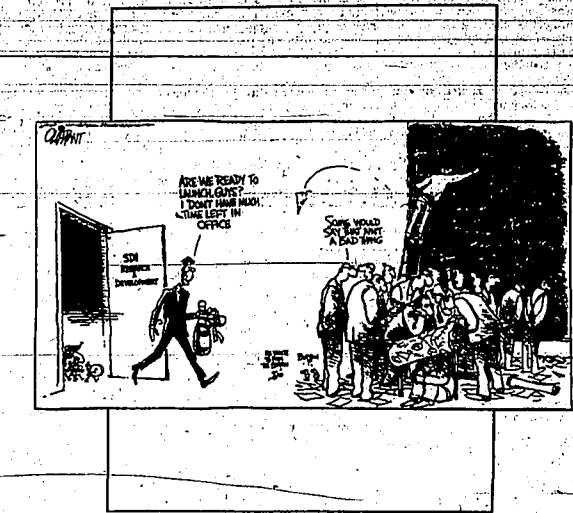

When the authors of doublespeak call slavery, freedom and you all buy it, we're in trouble. You can't trust your own words, and this you say. Only in their most blatant, but not their most insidious forms.

They have much in common you know. I use you when you buy for my own selfish purposes. You can't trust our religion, but fear and brokenness. Such is the nature of 'so sacred a contract.'

The rise of wanting a family, a child to love is false. If we really thought into the global village/earth even if it, sex and skin color wouldn't even be on the adoption papers, but we cloak our bigotry and selfishness, in polite euphemisms. Between the lines there's a very different story. A child, a gift from God, grace incarnate? Or a puppy dog in human form? An object to exploit. It wicks it talks. I can control it. It has my seed in it. I can pet it or kick it and I'm tired of it, I'll throw it in the trash.

Somewhat the natural God-given role model of mother as lover and nurturer lost out to the twin gods of money and power. So many of you clutter the workplace like circus monkeys, working for peanuts. You look for legitimacy as male-mimicking professionals and in self-fulfillment. You seek security in the wrong places and find only more insecurity.

The men in power have a bottomless source of cheap labor. You have 30 pieces of silver in your pocket. But whom did you sell out? Score one for slavery and prostitution, zero for femininity. How different: 10,000 pieces of silver for one womb—for a while. Score two for slavery and prostitution, zero for femininity. How different: as goes the line from a poignant pun, we've already established the fact of prostitution, now we're just hanging over price.

Still has it ever been thus. Yet the so called sexual revolution has produced some good. Many fathers are more active in their families, as were they in ages past. There's probably less overt physical abuse of mothers.

I wonder though if the cure isn't worse than the illness? When children are traded on futures contracts much like purchased cattle and women contract eagerly for such curious and service, stacked high on so many pages of a mall-order catalogue, we've come a long way baby.

Death penalty all wrong

I am writing about the death penalty, I believe that it is very inhuman, every year many people are put to death by the electric chair.

And I think that that is a cruel way of putting them to death. I believe that if they are being put to death, such things as a shot or a type of drug should be used.

I think that by using the electric chair our government is disobeying the eighth amendment, which says that there will be no cruel and unusual punishment used on the people of the U.S.

Therefore I think the death penalty for our country is all wrong.

Likes what Stivers says

I certainly enjoyed the Views program on Channel 11 Saturday, April 18. It was refreshing to have Tom Stivers tell it like it is; no pussy-footing around.

It seems, if we try to get any answers from most public officials, the result is a lot of humming and hawing and little or no facts. This is not so with Mr. Stivers.

Idaho too great to litter

I read in the paper that the trash pickup along Idaho highways cost the state about $300,000 a year. If this is so, where do they pick up the trash?

I have never seen anyone working for the State Highway Department picking up trash. As far as I know, none of this money has been spent on Highway 26 in Blaine County.

The trash on our highways reminds me of the highways in Mexico which are full of trash. We ought to be ashamed of this.

I also read that the transportation department thinks they can solve the litter problem with a BUD blitz aimed at the habituated litterers. Also, our governor is going to put his name back on our anti-litter signs.

It will take a lot more than this to get our roads cleaned up and kept cleaned. We have a certain element in our society who will litter no matter what we say or do.

The trouble is that no one is responsible for cleaning up the highway litter. One way we could do this is add enough money to the gas tax to pay for litter cleanup. Give part of this money to the transportation department to clean up the interstate highways, and the rest to county government to clean up the rest of the roads.

Let's do something, Idaho is too great to litter.

Likes Doonesbury's humor

I'm referring to the letter that appeared in your April 24th issue written by Jan Winberley of Buhl.

She says she's tired of Doonesbury. She says she's been "very patient with the cartoon strip; have tried to be sympathetic to a writer while trying to figure out what he hoped to accomplish."

What's there to be "patient and sympathetic" about? Gary Trudeau is a very intelligent man. Obviously, Jan Winberley doesn't understand his messages and the god he's trying to accomplish through his commentaries.

What's her problem that she feels compelled to continue reading the strip? Curiosity? Or is she afraid she'll miss something?

Why does she persist in punishing herself by reading it? Why doesn't she just skip "Doonesbury" and leave it to those of us who do understand and appreciate Mr. Trudeau's commentaries, insight, and superb sense of humor?

called. There are approximately 250 stations like ours throughout the country. We have a coverage area of 85 miles surrounding Twin Falls, enabling us to concentrate our local programming on Magic Valley.

The purpose of community broadcasting facilities is to provide alternative entertainment and expanded localized coverage. As an example, our programming consists of two or three movies a day, plus all night movies, children's programming, and syndicated shows, most of which are not being shown on other stations.

This new law includes: TV bingo, several live and taped talk shows and "On the Road with K49AZ." We have covered over 100 local events involving local people in nine short months.

Not only do we not receive revenue from any network, we pay for most of our bandwidth. PTL's program is not ours. As we are not considered "must carry" cable is not required to carry channel 49. As a result we pay to be carried on KingVideo Cable.

Although K49AZ has been on the air since July of last year, there are still people who do not receive us, as well as a problem. For those without cable, we are on channel 49 UHF. We're available on channel 18 on Buhl Cable. Channel 25 is our current home on KingVideo Cable; but only to viewers with a cable-ready set, or VCR, and some converter boxes.

On other converter boxes, you may find us on channel 67, 68 or who knows where. Discussions are underway now with KingVideo Cable to lower channel 49 to one of the lower, more accessible channels 2-13. Approximately 60 percent of the cable households are unable to receive K49AZ-TV.

We're confident that we meet the standards of King and that they will make their decision in the best interest of our community. For those who would like to get our station, please call our office at 734-0968 during regular business hours and we will do our best to help you.

K49AZ-TV is not affiliated with any station in Boise, nor are we owned by any company. We are a small chain of one. We're not a public broadcasting station. K49 is a commercial station, and our only revenue is derived from paid commercial announcements. Our 35 mile radius does not include Buhl/Rupert, however, we hope to have a station there in the very near future. After only four months on the air, we were one of only four stations in the entire country to make the ratings. Because of these ratings, we are able to secure even more programming of even higher quality.

Our door is always open for comments and suggestions, as we do not only exist as a business, but we're also here to serve the needs and interests of the public.

K49AZ-TV is proud to be a part of the growth of Magic Valley and we hope to someday add to the prosperity of the area as well.

Kris Harvey is vice president and general manager of station K49AZ-TV, Twin Falls.

TV system has third of funds

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's public television system has raised $1.3 million of its goal of $3 million to modernize equipment at stations in Pocatello, Moscow and Boise.

Mountain Bell announced a recent donation of $210,000 in cash and equipment, including two studio cameras. Boise Cascade Corp. and Idaho First National Bank have donated $100,000 each.

FBS General Manager Gerold Garber said Idaho public television has embarked upon a campaign to combat its "invisible crisis." Much of the equipment at the three stations is more than 15 years old, subject to frequent breakdowns, said Marketing Director Bon Pisanenich.

Victims rights need refinement

BOISE (AP) — Attorney General Jim Jones says Idaho has come a long way in its treatment of crime victims, but still must improve.

National Victims Rights Week runs this week, Jones said in a statement on Monday.

"Criminal conduct and victimization is at an unacceptable level in our country," Jones said. "Very few families are untouched by crime."

Jones said Idaho's victims' rights law has been in effect for two years, and could stand some refinements.

"There are a number of areas where we can improve our treatment of crime victims and provide them greater security," he said.

Boisean dies when auto flips

MELBA (AP) — A 24-year-old Boise man was killed early Monday when his car ran off Idaho Highway 45 near Melba, authorities said.

Canyon County Deputy Coroner Tim Lewis said Dewayne A. Elliott was pronounced dead at the scene of the one-car crash shortly after midnight Monday.

Investigators said Elliott apparently was southbound when his car left the east side of the highway and rolled. Elliott was thrown from the car.

Andrus heads delegation to Seattle trade fair

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Cecil Andrus, along with more than 20 state business and commodity groups. The exposition will be held at the Seattle Center Coliseum.

"The trade fair marks this administration's first major agricultural trade promotion effort," said Andrus. "I am delighted we will have so many Idaho companies represented."

He said the exposition not only gives Idaho producers and manufacturers an opportunity to sell products, but also it gives the entire state a chance to promote on a national and international scale.

Andrus said the departments of Agriculture and Commerce have been working together to coordinate promotion of Idaho products on world markets, ranging from potatoes and meat products to salad dressing.

The exposition is sponsored by the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is held every two years in a different region of the country.

The governor and Otter will be joined in the opening ceremonies by Commerce Director Jim Hawkins;

Agriculture Director Richard Rush; Miss Idaho, Jennifer Hovey and Miss Rodeo Idaho, Lisa Lemrick.

Economy focus of summit

BOISE (AP) — Gov. John H. Sununu of New Hampshire is to be a featured speaker at the Idaho Economic Summit planned here May 27.

The session, aimed at promoting ways to boost Idaho's ailing economy, will be sponsored by the four members of the state's congressional delegation and Gov. Cecil Andrus.

The sponsors said New Hampshire has achieved one of the highest rates of economic growth and one of the lowest unemployment rates in recent years. Sununu, who was elected to his third term in 1986, is chairman of the Republican Governors Association, the Coalition of Northeastern Governors and is vice chairman of the National Governors' Association.

The Idaho conference is expected to bring together several hundred leaders from government, business, labor and education.

SALMON SNIFFERS

Scientists have proved it's the smell of the water that guides salmon back to its birthplace to spawn. So a salmon with a head cold won't make it home, I gather. Remarkable how sensitive that fish is. It detects home stream water even diluted by one part to several million.

Will Rogers, who said, so much, also said, "Thank God we don't get all the government we pay for."

WIDOWS, WIDOWERS

You know how you raise your eyebrows to show a questioning attitude? Monkeys do, too.

In Virginia, a club of widows and widowers wanted to throw a dance to build membership, but only for other widows and widowers. They didn't want unqualified folks, no matter how lonely, showing up. So they required each arrival to show the death certificate of the dead spouse at the door.

NAME THAT GULCH

In Oregon's Malheur County is Leslie Gulch, named after Hiram Leslie. On a clear day, so goes the story, he stood up in his slippers and declared, "If I ever rustled a cow, may the Good Lord strike me dead!" Right then, a bolt of lightning hit him and he died a couple days later. You buy it? Who cares? The county got a name for that gulch.

Naturalists who trap birds for the sake of science say the most difficult to catch is the cardinal.

Isn't egg protein pricier perfect? Must be. Scientists use it as a standard to measure the merits of other food proteins.

Q. How long does a whale's song last, typically?
A: About 10 minutes. Some soloists have been heard to sing all day, though.

PTL board must deal with Bakker return at meeting today

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Two members of the new board of the PTL ministry temple said Monday that the founder, the Rev. Jim Bakker, should not be allowed to return to the ministry because of the threat of a "boycott" to regain it.

And the Rev. Bailey E. Smith said the board's chairman, the Rev. Jerry Falwell, is considering resigning at Tuesday's board meeting in Fort Mill and that if he does the rest of the board also might step down.

The Baptist evangelist from Oklahoma said his ministry and Falwell's have been hurt financially because of their connection with the scandal-ridden PTL.

Smith said from "First Baptist Church in Del City, Okla., that he can't say exactly how much donations have decreased because of the PTL scandal and his connection to it, but Falwell has said he has lost $2 million.

Falwell, in an interview Monday on "The 700 Club" on the Christian Broadcasting Network, said Bakker wrote him last week asking to return to the ministry, which he resigned and turned over to Falwell after admitting to a sexual encounter with a church secretary seven years ago.

"I received a wire, a Telex, from him this past week. In it, he implied that I made some kind of deal with him, which I did not, to give it back to him and asking me to pass it on to another board, I'm sure he means of his selection, I don't know, and implying that I don't do it, there'll be a holy war. Those are his words," Falwell said.

A woman who answered the phone Monday at Bakker's house in Palm Springs, Calif., said "he's not available."

Falwell and Smith said Bakker should not be allowed to return and both predicted PTL will fold unless its credibility is strengthened.

The new board meets today at PTL's headquarters in the evangelical empire that showed a $125 million profit last year with its cable television network, amusement park, shopping center and hotels.

Falwell did not comment on whether he plans to step down and Smith said all he knows is that Falwell is considering resigning.

Falwell said in an interview broadcast Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation" that ministers around the country are pressuring him to cut his ties to PTL, which stands for Praise The Lord or People That Love.

The board plans to discuss new allegations that Bakker hired prostitutes and engaged in homosexual acts, allegations Bakker has denied.

The Rev. John Ankerberg, a Southern Baptist minister who has a weekly TV show based in Chattanooga, Tenn., said in an interview Monday on ABC's "Good Morning America" that he presented "many pieces of evidence" to some members of the PTL board to support allegations that Bakker had hired prostitutes and engaged in homosexual acts.

Smith said the board may discuss Bakker's request to return to PTL. He said it also will decide whether to continue payments to Jessica Hahn, the West Babylon, N.Y., woman who had the tryst with Bakker.

Which of PTL's executives will stay and "who ought to go." Their salaries and bonuses in the past year ranged from $160,000 for an executive assistant to $1.6 million for the Bakkers.

Which building projects at Heritage USA to continue funding.

The Charlotte (N.C.) Observer reported Saturday that PTL records show that nearly twice the money needed to build the $26 million Towers hotel at Heritage USA has been paid on the unfinished high-rise.

Previously undisclosed portions of PTL's 1986 financial statements show PTL has tens of thousands more hotel "lifetime partnerships," people who are promised three nights a year in the Heritage Grand or Towers hotels for a one-time donation typically $1,000, than it once told viewers it would have, the Observer reported.

As of May 31, 1986, the end of its 1986 budget year, PTL collected $65.8 million in partnerships for the Heritage Grand, which opened in late 1984. The total raised for the Towers had climbed to $48.3 million by November.

Smith said he has no interest in taking control of PTL and said he has received personal assurances from fellow television evangelist Jimmy Swaggart that he does not want to take over.

Bolt strikes tree, kills 2 park workers

CANYONLANDS NATIONAL PARK, Utah (AP) — Two student conservationists were electrocuted in Canyonlands National Park when they took refuge from a storm under a tree, and the tree was struck by lightning, officials said.

Park Superintendent Harvey Wickware identified the victims as Beth Christensen, 24, of Acton, Mass., and Paul Watson, 22, Troy, Mich.

Wickware said the two were riding bicycles near Granddies Point Road on Sunday evening when a brief but highly electrical storm passed through the area.

"It appeared from the initial National Park Service investigation that the two had laid their bicycles down and taken refuge from the storm near a roadside tree," Wickware said. "Apparently lightning struck the tree there."

Fasting visitors reported the accident about 7:30 p.m. and attempted to revive the pair, Wickware said.

The two were taken to a hospital in Moab where they were pronounced dead about 9:30 p.m.

Wickware said the victims had been working in the park's Island in the Sky District under a program supervised by the Student Conservation Association.

William Alder, chief meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Salt Lake City, said the deaths were the second lightning-caused fatalities and the first double fatalities since 1969.

Alder said lightning has replaced flash flooding as Utah's top weather-related killer, claiming 26 people in the past 37 years.

Educators getting ready to test the teachers

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — State education officials, administrators and teacher representatives are ushering in competency testing for new Idaho teachers.

The state Board of Education unanimously passed the relatively painless proposal to test new teaching graduates or experienced teachers coming into Idaho. While no great leap for mankind, officials agree it is a step in the right direction for Idaho.

"We think it's a good idea," said Darrell Looale, executive director of the Professional Standards Commission, which recommended the testing. "We think it will enhance the maintenance of professional standards."

Testing teachers beginning September 1988 won't cost the state anything beyond the $35,000 start-up cost. The Legislature this year approved by the Legislature this year. Experienced teachers aren't affected. Looale said Idaho will catch up with 46 other states that already have some sort of competency testing.

Looale and Twin Falls Superintendent Carl Snow agreed that testing probably wouldn't conspire with salaries to drive prospective teachers' accountability remains uncertain. Snow said that while testing experienced teachers is not at issue, he didn't think they would mind — so long as the tests fairly measured what the teacher should know.

Gilbert said the National Education Association has opposed testing veteran teachers for fear a written test would unfairly gauge the spectrum of practical teaching skills.

He said NEA is instead developing teachers' peer evaluations to complement administrative evaluations and help teachers assist each other.

The proposed tests for new teachers, awaiting validation, are the Educational Testing Service's National Teacher Examination core battery. The three tests — on communications skills, professional knowledge and teaching skills — take about six hours to complete and will cost the applying teacher $48.

The tests will be offered three times a year at colleges and universities around the state, Looale said. Each portion will be graded separately so that failing one section won't jeopardize other passing scores, he said.

Applicants will be allowed to take the test

Long a beacon for the Lynwood Shopping Center, the owners of this 1950s-style neon sign are willing to give it a fresh paint job but not to remove it

Owners plan to poll public on whether sign should be retained

Hungry can keep aurora over drive-in aglow

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The glow of the Northern Lights has guided hungry travelers to hamburger heaven for almost a quarter century.

Now, it seems only they can keep the Aurora Borealis from tumbling out of the sky over the Arctic Circle in Twin Falls.

The drive-in restaurant at the Lynwood Shopping Center has lit its brilliant sign daily for 24 years.

Spikes of bright neon dance above a snow-capped mountain, lighting the "Arctic Circle." A true landmark, says Allan Howa, part owner with his father Ed.

But now the sign has become a throwback to the '50s caught in a remodeling for the '80s.

Shopping center owner Craig Neilson is spending $250,000 to modernize the plaza with a new rooftop. According to its lease, the drive-in must remove the sign and erect a new one fitting the landlord's specifications.

"We're trying to bring the center up from the late 1950s to the 1980s, and that's a 1950s sign," says Ken Edmunds, general manager for Neilson & Co., which operates the Lynwood.

Tim Howas are ready to spruce the sign up with its first coat of fresh paint. But remove it. "We feel it's kind of the exclamation point at the end of the shopping center," says Allan Howa.

The Arctic Circle enjoys backing from Lynwood businesses. Edmunds admits: "The tenants have asked us to leave it because, even though it sticks out like a sore thumb, they use it as a beacon to direct them (customers) to their stores."

Now, to make his landlord see the light, Howa has gone to the burger-chomping public for a vote of confidence. He plans to poll customers on whether the sign should stay. Howa says he will give the results a pro or con to Neilson & Co. The landlord is going to take some convincing. "They've got to show a lot more interest than just a few people," Edmunds says. Yet an overwhelming ballot might save the Northern Lights.

"Let's find out," he says. "We're willing to listen."

It's the second Arctic Circle sign to face a dim future. One along the Lakes Boulevard North was replaced with a modern version three years ago when the restaurant renewed its lease.

By mid-week, carpenters will take down the Arctic Circle sign to build the new rooftop. The decision comes in about three weeks after the building's facelift.

Will it glow or will it go?

Enlarged Gooding city impact zone up for review

By JaENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — The Gooding City Planning and Zoning Commission will conduct final hearings on an enlarged Gooding city impact zone Wednesday, April 29, 8 p.m. in the county courthouse.

A major question to be addressed is jurisdiction in the impact area. City and county officials have held differing views on which entity has responsibility for administering everything from zoning laws and nuisance control to routine police patrols in the area. Both governmental groups agreed in March to be prepared with answers by April 29.

Another area of concern is the actual size of the impact area. Gooding City's proposal is the same as the county planning and zoning recommendation with one major difference west of State Highway 46, south of the city.

The impact zone will extend to the first section road north of the city to include a proposed industrial area.

The east and west boundaries will be approximately one mile from city center. On the southern boundary, the county is proposing extending the zone for a mile south of state highway 26 to include city owned land at the golf course. But the mile extension does not apply to land west of the Gooding-Wendell highway (state highway 46). The city wants to pick up 600 feet west of that highway and south of highway 26 to include land that is already being used for commercial enterprise and has potential for development.

At a recent City Council meeting,

Mayor Gene Heller encouraged members of the city council and interested residents to attend the Wednesday hearing. "We will address the jurisdiction issue where the county says we should do everything and we say they still have some responsibility, hopefully we can resolve it amicably," he said.

He told the group public input is welcome and helpful in resolving important land use issues.

A second zoning issue will also be considered at the hearing. Gooding City is proposing to rezone the area northeast of the city limits from agriculture to industrial to facilitate industrial development.

The area already supports some grandfathered industrial operations and is the site of a new potato processing plant operating under a special use permit.

At issue is the size of the industrial zone, the impact on city jurisdiction once the area is incorporated into the city impact zone, and the extent of a buffer zone between the industrial designation and an existing subdivision.

Park service embarks on Craters study

By The Associated Press

ARCO — The National Park Service will begin a comprehensive three-year study of the ecology of Idaho's Craters of the Moon National Monument this year, the monument's superintendent has announced.

"In the past we have been involved with research in many different areas, but most of it dealt with only isolated components of the ecosystem represented at the monument," Superintendent Robert Scott said in a recent press release.

"This new study will be designed to look at the resources of the monument as a whole and then describe the relationships of each major element identified within the environment," Scott said.

The pilot project will include identifying all species of mammals and

Ketchum City Council may snuff smoking in public places

By The Associated Press

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council is moving toward a sweeping ban on smoking in public places in the Sun Valley resort community of Ketchum.

"I see no problem with a person being allowed to go into a public place and not be harassed by smoke," said Councilman Tom Held.

Held has proposed a total ban on smoking in all public places, including bars, unless there is adequate ventilation to prevent smoke from bothering others.

Action on the proposal has been delayed until early May, but the council has tentatively endorsed the idea and directed its city officials to formally draft the ordinance and find out what bar and restaurant owners think about it.

Ketchum resident Randy VanDyke has presented the council with a petition bearing 800 signatures backing a total ban on smoking — one even tougher than the ordinance in effect in Aspen, Colo.

VanDyke said he has discussed the proposition with bar and restaurant owners in the city and claims most appeared to support it. Councilwoman Sue Orb has raised the note of dissent, arguing that while she is personally offended by smoke, individual proprietors already have the option of banning smoking if they want.

Held claimed the current law requiring nonsmoking sections in restaurants has been ineffective because those sections are generally not properly separated.

He compared the council authority to enact a ban on smoking to similar legislation specifically setting aside parking spaces for handicapped people.

The consideration of the formal ordinance restricting smoking in Ketchum came as a judge in New York voided an administrative regulation that would have severely limited smoking in public places and work areas.

The judge held that the regulation, considered one of the most stringent in the nation, was unconstitutional. He said such a ban was the prerogative of the Legislature and not an administrative body.

Bell Rapids growers estimate crop losses at $632,500

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Bell Rapids farmers, who have been unable to get their full water allocation because of a landslide which destroyed a pump station, estimate crop losses at $632,500, according to damage estimates provided to Twin Falls County Commissioners.

And the figure could go higher if repair work is not completed in 20 days, commissioners were advised.

Bell Rapids Mutual Irrigation Co. put the losses of the sugar beet, wheat and barley alfalfa hay crops at 20 percent. Fifteen percent of the potato crop and 10 percent of the bean crop have also been lost.

Construction started Monday to replace the functions of the Bell Rapids' lift station which irrigated 7,500 acres. The April 16 slide occurred several miles downstream from the Salmon Falls Dam. The disaster did $1.5 million damage to the pump station. The district hasn't decided the future of the damaged station, said Greg Brown, vice chairman of the Bell Rapids board.

The crop loss figures are part of the information requested by Twin Falls County which will consider a disaster declaration for the district. However, all the information the county needs to make the decision isn't in yet, said Judy Felton, Twin Falls County Commission Chairman.

The cost of pumps and related equipment plus more than three miles of replacement pipe is estimated at $719,000. Instead of repairing the damaged station, Bell Rapids is installing additional pumps at the more northerly Fossil Lift Station and running a main line from the pumps to the plateau above the damaged lift station. That would force water into the southern end of the system.

How the company's 80 shareholders will finance the construction has not been determined. "We're still looking into it," said Brown of the Bell Rapids board on Monday.

The slide area is on Bureau of Land Management land and within the Hagerman Fossil beds, a registered national natural landmark.

The slide area is known as a site where a rare form of beaver fossil 2.5 million years old is located, said Erik Akertsen, curator of vertebrate paleontology at the State Museum of Natural History in Pocatello.

The BLM has classified the beds as in 100-percent poor ecological condition and before the slide proposed an $800,000 program to stave off further damage from irrigation runoff and other problems.

The irrigation water percolates through the soil and builds up underground, said Gary Carlson, BLM's Boise district manager.

"That area keeps loading up with water, it gets heavier and heavier. The water sits on a thick layer of clay and when it reaches a certain weight, it slides out," he said.

The full extent of the damage to the fossil beds has not been determined because paleontologists have been unable to inspect the site due to the continuing possibility of further slides.

Hansen treatment scored

BOISE (AP) — Rep. Richard Stallings says the U.S. Justice Department has mistreated George Hansen, the former seven-term Republican congressman who Stallings unveiled in 1984.

Stallings will not make excuses for George Hansen, but I think the Justice Department has gone a little to the extreme in handling him," Stallings, an Idaho Democrat, said Monday.

Stallings said he is concerned about the treatment accorded Hansen.

"I did have a couple of congressmen contact me and say they were going to intervene," Stallings said.

Hansen was arrested April 15 in Omaha, Neb., by federal officials who said he violated parole conditions by traveling outside of Virginia. Hansen said he never agreed to such restrictions.

"Mr. Hansen made an agreement with the parole board and he has failed to live up with that agreement...and therefore he should be punished," Stallings said. "A person in Boise that breaks his parole is slapped very hard. Obviously, a former congressman should not be treated differently."

Stallings said he is concerned about the treatment accorded Hansen.

"I did have a couple of congressmen contact me and say they were going to intervene," Stallings said.

Directions to fire needed

WENDELL — Reports of rural fires must be given with directions — and mileage — not with the new numbering system, says Wendell Fire Chief Keith Hosack.

"The fire department, he says, does not use the numbers recently assigned to rural areas by the postal service.

"They don't mean a thing to us at the fire department," Hosack said. "They have to give us directions in miles."

In a rural fire alarm Thursday, the dispatcher was given only numbers from the new system, resulting in a delay to determine the location of the fire, Hosack said.

Similar delays, he said, have occurred in recent months for the same reason.

"We had no idea where we should go," he said. "It took quite a while to figure it out and respond. It is quite a serious problem."

PUC plans Ketchum hearing

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission plans a May 6 hearing at Ketchum to determine if the Guyer Springs Water Co. should be regulated as a public utility.

The company supplies water for space heating to about 70 customers along Warm Springs Road, Ketchum.

In response to a customer complaint about rising prices, the commission must determine if the private company should be regulated as a utility.

The PUC staff is recommending against it. The staff said the hot-water system needs such extensive repair that it probably cannot be cost competitive against electrical or natural gas space heating.

Researchers, many from the University of Idaho, also will study predators and their use patterns and classify and catalogue plants such as mosses and lichens which are indicative of the health of the local ecosystem.

Scott said information from the study and data from previous research on such things as the monument's vegetation, types, geologic features and mule deer populations will be used to produce a computer model relating the various components of the Craters of the Moon area's ecosystems to one another.

"With this, we can make more intelligent decisions about the management of our resources," Scott said.

Seeing old flame could spark trouble

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago when I was in high school, "Steve" and I went steady for three months. It was an intense and wonderful relationship. (We never slept together) — then one night he called me saying that he no longer wanted to go steady. No explanation. He didn't start to date anyone else, but from then on we hardly even spoke. In time I got over the hurt, but I never forgot Steve.

Eight years ago, I married a man who is the best, and we have a beautiful family. I have no regrets about my choice; however, it still bothers me that Steve broke up with me so suddenly without an explanation. I don't want to rekindle anything between us, nor do I want an affair; I only want a 30-minute face-to-face conversation with Steve to find out why he broke up with me. He still lives in this city, and I heard that he is married and has a family now, but I haven't seen him in 10 years. Am I crazy to want this question answered so I can die in peace? Please advise me.

— LEFT WONDERING. DEAR WONDERING: Crazy? No. Your curiosity is understandable, but were you to contact Steve and suggest a rendezvous, he couldn't be blamed for assuming you'd like to rekindle the old romance. The word from this corner is "don't."

DEAR ABBY: Bet you never heard this one before: My husband and I and our five kids live in a modest-sized mobile home where it's not easy to find peace and quiet. My husband is a wonderful man, works very hard, and is an early-to-bed person. The children and I enjoy sitting up later on evenings and weekends to watch TV. Sometimes we do get a little noisy. The problem? When

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

Daddy wants peace and quiet, before going to bed, he goes to the electric meter and disconnects all the power in the house. And it stays off until the next morning. How about that? — MOONLIGHTING IN RAMPA. DEAR MOONLIGHTING: All the power? It appears that Daddy is on a "power" trip! Next time he heads for the switch, hand him some earplugs, and turn down the volume.

DEAR ABBY: I had to chuckle when I read the letter from "Hurt," whose partner made an untimely comment concerning a utility bill while they were making love. Allow me to relate a similar incident that happened to me. It was class reunion time, and my husband and I were working on our class floats. The night before the parade always finds classes working right through the night. Jim and I had scooped home to steal a few hours of sleep before getting back for the parade.

Needless to say, the mood changed instantly — but not to one of silence as "Hurt" related in her letter. We both broke into a wholehearted laugh! Am I to assume that Jim loves me any less because his mind was elsewhere? Not on your life! This incident is among our funniest memories. By the way, we've been married for 19 years. Ours was a marriage that everyone said would never last because we were so young—I was 17 1/2 and he was 19, but it's been truly wonderful, and I look forward to growing old together.

BLM seeks new policy for horses

BOISE (AP) — In the 14 years since it adopted a program to manage wild horses and burros, the Bureau of Land Management says it has removed 90,000 animals from public lands.

More than 70,000 wild horses and burros have been placed with private owners through the Adopt-A-Horse program. But the agency has built a surplus of 10,000 wild horses in holding facilities, which cost taxpayers $25,500 per day or $9.3 million per year. BLM Director Robert Burford placed a moratorium on destruction of surplus healthy horses five years ago, which has caused the big surplus.

The BLM is considering a new management policy which eventually will allow destruction of surplus animals, 90 days after they are put up for adoption, if the animal remains unadopted, Burford said.

The public has until May 22 to comment on the new policy, which has been issued in draft form here.

The Wild Horse and Burro Advisory Board has recommended a five-step policy to get rid of the surplus.

The first step is continuing the Adopt-A-Horse program as it exists today, with adoption fees of $125 per horse and $75 per burro. People who "adopt" the animals obtain clear title to them after providing acceptable care for one year.

The second step would be special adoptions at a reduced fee. The third step calls for training of horses by private inmates, prior to placement of horses on private lands.

The fourth step proposes adoption of burros located on private lands.

Under the fifth step, the advisory board recommends carrying out a provision of the Wild Free-Roaming Horse and Burro Act requiring the destruction of unadopted animals, if an animal remains unadopted after it has been available for 90 days. It will be considered unadoptable, the BLM said.

Temple

"That's my goal for the season," said the Hagerman sprinter. "To beat him. If I do that, the season will be complete." ... "I really began to enjoy it."

But despite his prowess in junior high, Temple never really knew how good he was and ran for the lack of it. ... "I was extremely nervous and just wanted to get it over with," he added.

As many of the spectators at that meet found out, Temple's strength comes near the end; the

Draft

Continued from Page C1 ... Idaho quarterback Scott Linehan has also been looked at by NFL scouts, but according to Vandal Coach Keith Gilbertson, "they haven't been that aggressive."

"Merrill can do a lot of things," said Koetter. "And the teams that have looked at him, see him as a fullback in a one-back system."

Idaho quarterback Scott Linehan has also been looked at by NFL scouts, but according to Vandal Coach Keith Gilbertson, "they haven't been that aggressive."

Gilbertson said running back Freddie Lloyd is another Vandal who might be drafted today. "He'll do well too, if given the chance," added the Idaho coach.

"Of the three BSU linebackers, Sellers, Ellis and Walters, Sellers and Ellis have drawn the most attention."

last 10 meters of the 100. For the most part, Temple is the sort of sprinter who "blows right" with the pack for most of the race. ... "Oh, yes, he's at his best in the last 10 meters," said Simpkins.

With Hagerman having basically a rebuilding year this season, the role of Temple is even more important. Case in point: In the Flier Invitational, Hagerman scored 40 points; Temple was responsible for all of them.

"I guess it's a leadership role they have here," said Temple. "We've got mostly freshmen here and some of them are worried how they'll do. I just tell them to go out and have fun. It doesn't matter how you do."

The talent of Temple will be on stage again this week when the Pilots travel to Jerome for the Magic Valley Conference meet.

Walters, an ex-Marine, "might go in the later rounds," said Criner. "Rex can play in the NFL but his talent is in his heart. It's something the scouts can't measure."

White Sellers has surprised scouts this spring. Compton has been an absolute shocker. "He's the complete corner," said Criner. "He's got all the qualities you look for in a defensive back."

Criner also said Seattle has expressed interest in tight end John Cox, "whose blocking ability is what they like as well as his 4.7 speed." ... "Barry's tough," said Criner. "But surprisingly, he hasn't been looked at that much. If he doesn't go to college, he'll sign at free agent or in Canada (in the Canadian Football League)."

Astros boost Mets' NL-worst ERA with 11-run onslaught

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets Manager Davey Johnson didn't see the end of the game Monday night when he thought he had seen enough already. He was wrong.

"I think that was rock bottom. This is as far as we can go," Johnson said after the Houston Astros routed the Mets 11-1 in the first meeting of the new National League division winners.

The loss was the third straight for the defending World Series champions, leaving them with a 9-9 record, and marked yet another poor pitching performance. The Mets led the majors in earned run average last season, when they started 2-4, but currently rank last in the league in ERA.

David Cone, forced by an injury to Bobby Ojeda to make his first major-league start, was completely rattled by the Astros. Cone gave up 10 runs in five innings on seven hits, six walks and two wild pitches.

Cone also balked on two consecutive pitches in the third inning, and Johnson was ejected by home plate umpire Joe West for arguing the first call.

"It's been a long time (July 4, 1985) since I've been thrown out," Johnson said. "I think I felt the frustration everybody else felt. We just want to get a staff, too good a ballclub to struggle like we have."

The Astros ended a three-game losing streak behind Jim Deshaies, who pitched four-hit ball for seven innings and also doubled his career RBI total by driving in two runs.

Deshaies, 2-0, did not seem bothered by the 44-degree night and was helped by a 7-0 lead after three innings.

"The weather wasn't too bad once you got started," Deshaies said. "I didn't have great command of my pitches, but when I got a big lead, I went to my fastball and threw strikes."

Deshaies allowed only a first-inning home run to Keith Hernandez and went on to strike out seven and walk five. Aurelio Lopez and Julio Salano each worked a scoreless inning to finish the game.

Deshaies doubled his career RBI total by driving in two runs. Craig Reynolds also drove in two runs with a nifty suicide-squeeze bunt and a sacrifice fly.

The Astros scored three times in the second inning without a hit. Cone intentionally walked Reynolds to load the bases with two outs, but then walked Deshaies. Bill Doran followed with a grounder that second baseman Tim Lincecum misplayed for an error, allowing two runs to score.

Reynolds hit a two-run homer, his third, in the third and Houston added two more in the inning when Reynolds successfully squeezed on a head-high pitch and on the first of Cone's balls.

Billy Hatcher led off the fourth with his third home run for an 8-0 lead. Reynolds hit a sacrifice fly and Deshaies had an RBI single in the fifth.

Denny Walling doubled and scored on third baseman Houston Johnson's throwing error in the sixth.

Montreal 6 Philadelphia 4
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Neal Heath allowed five hits in eight innings and Andres Galarraga drove in three runs as the Montreal Expos defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 Monday night, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Tim Burke relieved Heaton, 3-1, who struck out six and walked one, when he was hit on the right leg by a line drive hit by leadoff batter Juan Samuel in the ninth. Matt Thompson followed with a single and Mike Schmidt hit a three-run homer with one out, getting the Phillies within two runs.

After Lance Parrish singled, Randy St. Clair relieved Burke and got the last two outs for his third save.

The Expos scored an unearned run off Kevin Gross, 0-3, in the first after leadoff hitter Casey Candaele reached second when Phillies shortstop Steve Jeltz dropped his pop fly. Mitch Webster followed with an RBI double.

In the third, Heaton singled and stole second, the first stolen base of his career. Webster then singled in Heaton, stole second and scored on a single by Galarraga.

The Expos made it 4-0 in the fourth on John Stefero's RBI double, knocking out Gross.

The Expos scored their final two runs in the sixth on Galarraga's two-run double off reliever Tom Hume.

The Phillies' first run came in the seventh when Rick Schu led off with his first homer.

San Francisco 7 Atlanta 3
ATLANTA (AP) — Pitcher Kelly Downs singled in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and Chili Davis hit a two-run single and a homer as the San Francisco Giants downed the Atlanta Braves 7-3 Monday night.

Downs, in his second season, collected the first game-winning RBI of his career and his first hit in 10 at-bats this season. His liner to center scored Mark Williams from second base and broke a 3-1 tie.

Williams started the two-out rally with a single and Robby Thompson followed with a walk before Downs hit. After Will Clark walked to load the bases, Davis delivered his two-run single, chasing Rick Mahler, 2-2.

Baseball

Downs, 2-0, allowed six hits, walked three and struck out four. He was relieved after facing four batters and allowing two runs in the seventh.

Dale Murphy singled to open the inning and Ken Griffey and Rafael Ramirez followed with run-scoring doubles. After Orzle Virgil walked, Scott Garreltis preserved the lead by giving up a sacrifice and an intentional walk to load the bases and then getting a double play grounder from James.

Garreltis went on to pick up his fourth save and the Giants padded their lead when Chris Brown hit a two-run homer in the eighth and Davis added a solo homer in the ninth.

Thompson gave the Giants a 1-0 lead when he hit his second home run of the season over the left field fence in the fifth inning.

Virgil got the run back for the Braves in the fifth when he also hit his second homer.

Oakland 5 Boston 2

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Curt Young pitched a six-hitter and Jose Canseco had four hits Monday night to lead the Oakland Athletics to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Boston's hits included the 2,000th of Don Baylor's career, a single in the seventh inning, and Jim Rice's third homer of the season, a two-run drive in the fourth.

It was Boston's fourth straight defeat.

Canseco raised his average to .309 with three singles and an RBI double. Mark McGwire drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Young, 3-1, had five strikeouts and walked none in his second complete game. No other pitcher on the Oakland staff has a complete game this season.

The A's took an early 3-0 lead, scoring two runs in the second and one in the third off Bob Stanley, 2-3.

Alfredo Griffin drove in the game's first run with a double into the right field corner. Terry Steinbach, who had walked with two outs, scored from first base and Griffin went to third on the throw to the plate. Griffin came home with an unearned run when shortstop Glenn Hoffman bobbed Luis Polonia's grounder.

McGwire had his first RBI double in the third. Canseco, and McGwire both doubled home runs in the seventh.

Seattle 5 Detroit 2

SEATTLE (AP) — John Christensen drove home Phil Bradley with the winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning as the Seattle Mariners defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-2 Monday night.

With one out in the eighth, Bradley walked, stole his league-leading 10th base of the season, and scored on Christensen's single to center to break a 2-2 tie.

Following an intentional walk to Alvin Davis, Christensen scored on a single by John Moses. Davis came home on a bloop single over the head of Tiger first baseman Darrell Evans.

Eric King, who entered the game for starter Frank Tanana in the bottom of the eighth, suffered his first loss of the year against one victory.

Mark Langston, 3-2, hurried a six-hitter over eight innings. Edwin Muner pitched the ninth for his fourth save.

Detroit tied the game 2-2 in the top of the eighth when Larry Herndon doubled to right and scored on Mike Hester's single to right.

Russell returns to NBA to coach Kings

By DOUG WILLIS
The Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Bill Russell, five times the NBA's most valuable player and a player-coach of the world champion Boston Celtics during the 1960s, was named head coach Monday of the Sacramento Kings.

Kings managing general partner Gregg Lukenbill and president Joe Axelson said Russell signed a seven-year contract to serve as interim head coach after Johnson was fired during the All-Star Game break, would return to his previous post as assistant coach next year under Russell.

Russell, 53, who in 1980 was selected as the greatest player in the history of the NBA by the Professional Basketball Writers' Association of America, has not coached since he left the Seattle SuperSonics in 1977.

He said he was attracted to the post because the Kings offered a long-term contract which would give him the time needed to build a championship team, and because it was a West Coast team, just 90 miles from the San Francisco Bay Area, where he played high school and college ball, and where his father still lives.

"I've been offered some jobs before, but they were always on the East Coast. I'd never live on the East Coast," said Russell, whose current home is Seattle.

Russell, who has been a television commentator for the past decade, said he decided about two years ago that he would like to return to coaching, but only under the right circumstances.

He and Lukenbill said his Kings contract includes not only the promise of moving up to club president eventually, but also includes an option to become a part owner. The Kings did not disclose terms except it would be at a predetermined price when the Sacramento club eventually makes a public offer of its stock.

"I wanted a long-term contract because I know what it takes to build a solid franchise," Russell said. "I told Gregg (Lukenbill) if you wanted a team to make the playoffs, I'm not your guy, but if you want an NBA championship, I'm your guy."

Axelson said Russell's seven-year contract would start June 1. He did not disclose the financial arrangement, but did in general spell out the terms to succeed him.

Suns promote assistant; eschew Pitino

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Phoenix Suns, trying to rebound from three straight losing seasons as well as recent drug charges against several players, hired assistant coach John Wetzel as their new head coach of their NBA team Monday.

Wetzel, 42, becomes the sixth head coach in the 19-year history of the franchise. He had been a Suns assistant for the past eight seasons and was one of only two candidates interviewed for the vacant head coaching job last week by Phoenix General Manager Jerry Colangelo.

Providence Coach Rick Pitino was interviewed here last Wednesday and Thursday, with Wetzel talking to Colangelo on Thursday and again Monday morning.

Colangelo said Wetzel would soon sign a two-year contract "with an option for two additional years." A new assistant coach should be hired in the next few weeks, Colangelo said, adding that Suns' assistant coach and chief college scout Al Bianchi likely would become the club's director of player personnel.

Colangelo said he made the decision to hire Wetzel on Sunday night. "The conclusion I came to was the best man and the best candidate was right in this office. There was no reason to continue interviewing. The best man for this job was and is John Wetzel," Colangelo said.

Pro basketball

Axelsson said Russell said although he hasn't coached in 10 years, "I haven't been away from the game. I've been on almost all NBA games (as television commentator) as if I'd been coaching."

Although Russell said he expected it would take several years to build the Kings, 29-63 this past season, in following his retirement, he will become president of the 59-year-old

"without too much of a change, we ought to be able to get close to 500."

He said he thought the Kings have five players "that are really good on their roster, but that their greatest weakness was defense."

Russell said in addition to keeping Reynolds as an assistant, he would name another assistant coach soon.

Offshore drilling plan drawn up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to allow offshore drilling in the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean is being developed by the U.S. Department of the Interior, but it faces opposition from environmentalists and some members of Congress.

The plan, which would allow drilling in areas that are currently off-limits, is being developed by the Interior Department's Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement. The plan would allow drilling in areas that are currently off-limits, but it faces opposition from environmentalists and some members of Congress.

Jarvik heart inventor out as board chairman

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The inventor of the Jarvik-7 artificial heart has been ousted as chairman of the board of the company that manufactures the plastic pump, an attorney confirmed Monday.

Dr. Robert K. Jarvik, who developed the artificial heart marketed and manufactured by Symbion Inc. of Salt Lake City, was fired because of "internal personal relations problems dealing with the operation of the company," said Gordon Hansen, attorney for Symbion.

Administrative responsibilities. Jarvik was not immediately available for comment.

The firing follows the takeover of Symbion by New York City-based Warburg, Pincus Capital Co., which purchased controlling interest in Symbion last Wednesday. Prior to the stock purchase, Pincus owned 25.8 percent of Symbion's stock. Hansen said, Pincus purchased an additional 30 percent last Wednesday, giving it control of Symbion.

Jarvik had entered into a severance agreement with Symbion that could pay him up to two years salary, an estimated $20,000, if he were terminated following a change in control with the company, Hansen said.

"We are not sure if all of the conditions for the severance payment exist. We are presently talking to Dr. Jarvik about that contract," he said.

Home improvement good investment

You may never have thought about improvements to your home as anything but an expense (good or bad), but they also may be considered as investments.

Again, good or bad investments — depending on the demand for housing in your location, the size of your lot, the overall age and condition of your home, and similar factors.

Some home improvements can return 100 percent or more of their costs when selling a house. Other improvements may not provide a large return on investment, but they may be necessary to increase the enjoyment and satisfaction a family will gain from living there.

Deck additions are becoming increasingly more popular each year in every part of the country. Decks are practically a must in regions where the climate places an emphasis on year-round outdoor living. Return on investment for deck additions varies, depending upon the deck and its geographical location. The warmer the climate, the higher the return. The percentage of return varies from approximately 65 percent to 82 percent.

Re-siding and including insulation board is a quick method of giving a home a fresh, new appeal while making it more energy-efficient. Jackson notes that vinyl siding will have a "new" appearance for five years and doesn't have to be painted every five years or so. Residing with a maintenance-free material such as vinyl can transform an "ugly duckling" into a prime candidate for resale. Recovery on investment is in the 70 percent to 100 percent range.

Roof replacement may be a necessary improvement if a roof of standard asphalt shingles is 15 years or older. The most technologically advanced shingles are made of fiberglass to provide a high degree of fire resistance, durability with minimum maintenance, many years of useful life and a high degree of rooftop appeal. Jackson says a sound roof is a "must" if you plan to sell, but don't expect to recover more than 75 percent to 80 percent of the cost of roofing.

If you hire contractors for any of these remodeling jobs, it pays to keep a few simple tips in mind:

- Don't agree to sign anything on the spur of the moment; give every estimate or bid careful consideration.
- Get two or three bids, being sure that materials specified in each are comparable.
- Speak with former customers to determine their degree of satisfaction with work the contractors performed.
- Before signing a contract, make sure it specifies cost, payment terms, starting and completion dates.

If you are a do-it-yourselfer, your major home improvement cost can be cut in percent to 50 percent. Typical savings are: reroofing, 34 percent; re-siding with vinyl, 30 percent; basement conversion, 41 percent; new deck, 30 percent; major kitchen remodeling, 54 percent.

'Blue Monday' turns up loser

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices posted some uneven losses in a busy and volatile session Monday as the market tracked wide swings in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell about 40 points at noon and up more than 11 at its afternoon high, closed with a 4.83 decline at 2,350.54.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange reached 227.71 million shares, up from 177.96 million in the previous session.

A "blue Monday" mood was set by the opening by continuing declines in the dollar and news of a sharp drop in the Japanese stock market.

The dollar's dive has prompted increased inflation worries, which have sent both interest rates and precious-metals prices higher.

But all the markets turned around at midday after a White House statement reiterating a Reagan administration view that further declines in the dollar might be "counterproductive."

Precious-metals issues took a pounding. ASA Ltd. dropped 4 1/2 to 63 1/2, Recia Mining 3 3/4 to 21 1/2, Callahan Mining 4 1/2 to 53 1/2, Freeport-McMoRan Gold 1 1/4 to 14 1/2, Homestake Mining 2 1/2 to 35 1/2, and Sunshine Mining 3 1/2 to 68.

Meanwhile, prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, showed losses of more than $10 for every $1,000 in face value early in the session, but wound up with gains of about $10.

Leading the rally in blue chips was International Business Machines, up 2 1/4 at 154 1/4. Chairman John Akers said at the annual meeting that the company had lately seen some encouraging signs for its outlook.

Burlington Industries gained 5 1/2 to 58 1/2. Late Friday the company received a $60-a-share takeover bid from investor Asher Edelman and Canada's Dominion Textile.

Compaq Computer rose 1 1/4 to 34 1/4 as the company reported higher first-quarter earnings.

Southern Co. led the active list, up 3/4 at 104 1/4 on turnover of more than 8.5 million shares. Brokers said much of the activity stemmed from maneuvers to capture the company's impending dividend payment.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 2 to 1 in the overall tally on the NYSE, with 559 up, 1,079 down and 300 unchanged. Earlier, the spread had been as much as 7 to 1.

The exchange's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped 0.10 to 152.27.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 255.26 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks slipped 1.0 to 326.74, but S&P's 500-stock composite index was up 31 at 281.83.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market lost 2.95 to 409.67. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 318.01, down 5.79.

Good used cars there for savvy purchasers

NEW YORK (AP) — Used-car dealers have been plagued by months of slumping sales, but customers are kicking their seats up and there are incentives to be made for savvy shoppers, according to dealers and industry analysts.

The emphasis is on the word "savvy." Even though conditions are improving, it still takes work to find a good car at a good price.

The used-car slump was aggravated last year when new-car dealers offered low finance rates and other incentives that drew customers who normally would have bought used cars.

Sales of used cars continued to decline in January and February, but March saw an increase, and dealers hope they've put the worst behind them.

One reason for optimism is an anticipated increase in the number of late-model used cars available. This year, dealers hope to sell more late-model used cars than in 1986, according to Jouppe, a Detroit automotive analyst.

That's because the lingering effects of the "Detroit depression" have dissipated. New-car sales, which fell from 1981 to 1983, and that meant fewer cars available for the used-car market.

Consumer Reports magazine agrees. "There are good buys out there, but it's not a seller's market," said Jouppe.

All-Burns, senior editor of Car Dealer Insider, echoes Jouppe and says there are very good buys out there for careful shoppers," he said.

All three experts also agreed that customers should go to car lots armed with as much information as they can get from newspapers, ads, mechanics and used-car books. Don't rely on salespeople for adequate information; they, naturally enough, will advocate what they're selling.

Wood recommended checking out used cars on Page D2.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE[®] BOBBY WOLFF

"We are punished by our sins, not for them."
—Elbert Hubbard.

"All I needed was to find one missing king with West," complained South. He didn't mention that the bidding (or lack of it) made that hope a virtual impossibility.

East signaled with his spade queen at trick one and South ruffed. Trumps were drawn in two rounds, ending in dummy, and another spade was ruffed. A heart finesse lost to East's king, and East exited with a heart to dummy's ace. South now ruffed dummy's last spade. A club finesse lost to East's king, and East had an easy club return. South could throw one of dummy's clubs as his high heart but couldn't avoid the loss of a second club trick — down one.

South would have made his game had he wondered about the silence of his opponents during the bidding. Since the play at trick one marked West with the top two spade honors, surely he would have found some bid over one diamond had he also held one of the missing kings.

Once the kings are located, the play is much easier. South draws trumps and plays dummy's heart ace and another heart. East must win now or lose his king, and South can discard two clubs from dummy on his Q-J of hearts. The defenders get one heart and one club, and South brings home his game and rubber.

Trade suit against Japanese dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid heightened American-Japanese trade tensions, the Supreme Court on Monday killed a lawsuit accusing Japanese manufacturers of conspiring to sell televisions and other products in the United States at an artificially low price.

The justices, without comment, refused to revive a suit by two American businesses alleging that the Japanese tried to destroy competition by "dumping" exports in their country.

In other action, the court:

- Cleared the way for a libel suit against the Phoenix Gazette by two grocery store security guards wrongly identified as crooks in a 1977 article in the Arizona newspaper.
- Rejected in a dispute from Rhode Island an attempt to force winners of civil rights cases in certain instances to pay lawyers' fees incurred by the losing side. The case was one in which the civil rights plaintiffs won less relief than offered in a settlement they earlier rejected.
- Ruled that Montana officials may retry on sexual assault charges a man whose conviction on charges of committing incest with his stepdaughter was overturned.
- Left intact a ruling that Edison Township, N.J., must pay more than $75,000 on behalf of three off-duty police officers sued by two men who fought with the officers in a barroom brawl.

The court's refusal to revive the dumping lawsuit comes at a time when the nation's attention is focused on trade tensions with Japan, the United States' second-largest

Court denial sets stage for execution of killer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court on Monday refused to hear an appeal by one of Utah's notorious HI FI killers, Dale Pierre Selby, a decision which may have cleared the way for the state's first execution in a decade.

The court's 7-2 refusal spelled doom for Selby's eighth appeal in the nearly 13 years since he and William Andrews were convicted of the torture slayings of three people at the HI FI Shop in Ogden in 1974.

"Slow justice has been done," said Deputy Utah Attorney General Earl Dorius. "I'm gratified by the ruling, obviously, and all along I've felt that (Selby's) issues did not have merit."

For Selby, the ruling "completes the eight traditional levels of review," Dorius said. "My experience in other jurisdictions says there probably will be last-ditch, midnight-hour attempts to save his life, but in terms of the additional review it's over."

Selby, 33, a native of Trinidad who moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., as a youth, and William Andrews, 32, is from Jonesboro, La. Both were airmen at Hill Air Force Base when they were arrested and convicted for the April 22, 1974, shooting deaths of Stanley Walker, 20, assistant manager of the HI-FI Shop; Michelle Analey, 19, a store cashier; and Carol Nalsbitt, 32, a relative of the store owner.

Orren Walker, Stanley's father, and Courtney Nalsbitt, 16, Carol's son, also were forced to drink liquid drain cleaner and were shot, but survived. According to trial testimony, Selby fired the fatal shots, raped Ms. Analey and kicked a pen into Orren Walker's ear.

Andrews, also on his eighth appeal, has asked the U.S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals for rehearing of its decision last year to deny his appeal of his death sentence.

trading partner.

The case acted on Monday by the high court resolves almost all of a 17-year-old lawsuit which the justices also reviewed 13 months ago. The suit was filed by Zenith and National Union Electric Corp.,

formerly Emerson Radio Co.

"We are delighted with the news," said John Altieri, a lawyer for the Japanese company Toshiba Corp. But Altieri said the Japanese companies still intend to pursue a lawsuit against the American businesses, accusing them of "sham litigation."

Also left unresolved is who will foot the bill, estimated to be in the millions, for various legal costs.

Fees for the more than 500 lawyers who worked on the case for both sides over the years are believed to total more than $100 million. Each side pays for its own attorneys.

In its 1986 ruling, the court split 5-4 in finding that the Japanese manufacturers do not have to defend themselves against business conspiracy charges.

The court said the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals mistakenly ordered a trial in which the American businesses sought billions of dollars from their Japanese competitors.

But the high court left it to the 3rd Circuit court to decide whether there was new evidence to warrant a trial. The appeals court responded last December by throwing out the suit against the Japanese companies.

Zenith and National Union again appealed to the Supreme Court, arguing there is new evidence to indicate a Japanese conspiracy.

Television imports from the Far East account for nearly three-fourths of the color sets sold in the United States. Only Zenith and RCA are making TVs domestically, the American businesses said.

The suit said that the Japanese companies sold goods at artificially low prices in the United States to drive American competitors out of business.

Group sets POW reward

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A group of Republican congressmen pledged Monday to give $1 million in cash to anyone in Southeast Asia who brings an American prisoner of war out of captivity.

They and former Rep. Bill Henderson of North Carolina made the offer at a news conference with $1 million of their own cash on a table in front of them.

Attending the news conference were Reps. Robert K. Dornan, the United States' after nearly 15 years of captivity.

They said they hoped the reward would offer an incentive to bring prisoners of war back to the United States.

KURT WALDHEIM
Result of war record

Waldheim is barred from U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Austrian President Kurt Waldheim is barred from entering the United States because he aided in the deportation and execution of thousands of Jews and others as a German Army officer in World War II, the Justice Department announced Monday.

Waldheim, who was United Nations secretary general from 1972 to 1982, thus becomes the first head of state ever placed on an immigration blacklist of 40,000 people, many of whom, like him, are excluded from the United States as undesirable aliens.

Attorney General Edwin Meese III made the decision that, found that "a case of excludability exists with respect to Kurt Waldheim as an individual," the Justice Department said in a statement.

At a news briefing, a department official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said "the available evidence demonstrates that Lt. Waldheim assisted or otherwise participated in... the transfer of civilian prisoners to the SS for exploitation as slave labor; the mass deportation of civilians to concentration and death camps (and) the deportation of Jews from Greek islands and the town of Banja Luka; Yugoslavia, to concentration and death camps."

The official added that Waldheim also assisted in "the utilization of anti-Semitic propaganda, the turnover of Allied prisoners to the SD (the security arm of the Nazi SS) and reprisal executions of hostages and other civilians."

In Vienna, Austrian Foreign Minister Alois Mock said the decision produced "great dismay" and the government recalled Ambassador Thomas Klestil from Washington for consultations. Mock said it was unclear whether Chancellor Franz Vranitzky would proceed with a visit to the United States planned for later this month.

Austrian Embassy spokesman Walter Greinert said President Reagan told Klestil in a meeting Monday morning that the decision "has no way of reflecting adverse feelings to the Austrian people."

In Vienna, a spokesman for Waldheim, Gerold Christian, refused immediate comment on Meese's action.

Ortega ready to negotiate

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega said Monday that Nicaragua is ready to negotiate with the United States "to reach firm and verifiable agreements on legitimate security interests of both nations and normalize relations."

However, Ortega also said the United States should "end its illegal policy and respect the judgment of the International Court of Justice."

He spoke at the opening session of the 77th Conference of the Interparliamentary Union.

Delegates from 87 countries attending — the Parliamentary Union's five-day meeting will discuss proposals for peace in the Middle East, including the Iran-Iraq war, and international efforts to achieve fair international trade and to stop the arms race.

Linnaeus on appeal sentence

MOSCOW (AP) — The Tass news agency said Monday that Soviet authorities will allow accused Nazi war criminal Karl Linnaeus to appeal his death sentence or request a pardon, but another news agency continued its attack against Linnaeus.

The Tass report, the first official statement on Linnaeus' legal options, did not say whether he had appealed the death sentence or made a pardon request.

Linnaeus was deported April 21 from the United States and flown to Tallinn, the capital of the Soviet republic of Estonia, where he had been sentenced to death in absentia in 1962. Linnaeus, 67, was convicted on charges that he ran a network of concentration camps around the Estonian city of Tartu during World War II.

Grenades tossed at U.S. post

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Grenades tossed from a passing vehicle exploded inside the headquarters compound of U.S. military advisers in suburban Manila on Monday, a Filipino security officer said. No injuries were reported.

The military said that dissident troops had abandoned plans to seize two garrisons in suburban Manila and that troops remain on alert in case of another coup attempt against President Corason Aquino's government before the May 11 congressional elections.

Lucero Manaya, an air force security officer, said two or three men in a red jeep threw three grenades as they passed the Joint U.S. Military Assistance Group compound in suburban Quezon City.

Raids kill 400 'terrorists'

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — The government claimed Monday that 400 "terrorist" were killed in a series of retaliatory air attacks against Tamil separatists following a car bombing in Colombo that killed 111 people.

The air force carried out the raids Monday against suspected Tamil rebel hideouts in the north and east of this island nation for a sixth straight day.

There was no independent verification of the government figures or no immediate comment from the different guerrilla groups.

Inquiry told door operator was dozing

LONDON (AP) — The man responsible for closing a British ferry's forward doors was dozing when tons of water poured through the opening and the vessel capsized off Belgium, killing nearly 200 people, an investigator said Monday.

Government commissioner David Steel also said at the start of an inquiry into the March 6 disaster that operating procedures of the ferry company, Townsend Thoresen, were "slipshod" and "inherently dangerous."

He cautioned against placing all blame on seaman Marc Stanley, 27, who was supposed to close the bow doors of the Herald of Free Enterprise. Steel said there was no system for allocating the work and Stanley often found someone else had done his job.

Stanley, who was present at the inquiry Monday, had been doing maintenance work the evening of March 6 and, when finished, interpreted the words "that will be from a senior officer to mean he was off duty," Steel said.

"He went to his cabin and he eventually dozed off," the commissioner said in testimony before High Court Judge Sir Barry Sheen on the first day of an inquiry expected to last six weeks.

The 7,951-ton ferry had at least 543 people aboard when it heeled over on its left, or port, side just outside the harbor after setting out in good weather on a regular run from Zeebrugge, Belgium, to Dover.

Salvage crews refloated the vessel Monday and towed it to a mooring at Zeebrugge. Divers found four more bodies inside, raising the confirmed death toll to 183.

Steel said the "only tenable explanation" for the sinking was that the ferry sailed with the bow doors wide open, water flooded in, the bow dipped and the ferry spun around, ending up on its side, partially submerged.

These procedures were manifestly and inherently dangerous. They were procedures which the master had no business to operate."

Six months before the accident, Steel said, Lewry had written a report saying the Herald of Free Enterprise developed "an unpleasurable port list" when traveling at a customary speed of about 18 knots which it had reached outside Zeebrugge.

Police battle with students

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police fired birdshot and tear gas and used whips Monday in running battles with hundreds of student protesters, both blacks and whites, at the University of Cape Town.

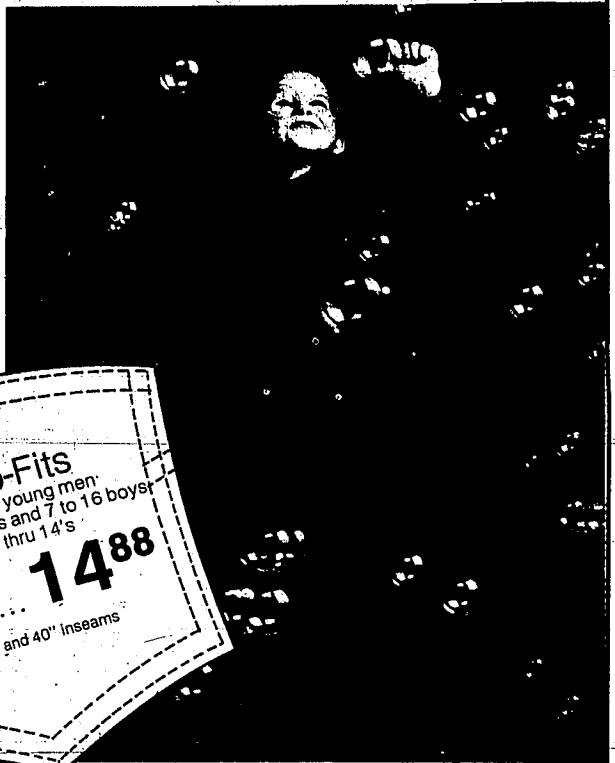

It was believed to be the first clash in which police fired guns to control rioting at a predominantly white school, and it was one of the most violent campus disturbances since a national state of emergency was declared in June 1986.

The violence followed a midday rally by anti-apartheid student groups protesting a South African army commando raid Saturday on alleged guerrilla targets in Zambia. After the rally, students singing freedom songs marched through the campus at the foot of Cape Town's Table Mountain. Journalists at the scene had reported at least five students hit by birdshot.
