WASHINGTON — Oliver North told the FBI two years ago that he was helping raise private funds for the Contras from the White House at a time when U.S. aid to them was illegal, but the bureau did nothing about it, declassified FBI documents show.

The documents also show that North contended he had advised President Reagan and National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane in June 1985 of the fund-raising.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that on four occasions beginning in 1985 North asked FBI officials for special treatment of individuals he believed were useful in efforts to aid the Contras, to assist the U.S. military in Central America or to free U.S. hostages in Lebanon.

The FBI's early knowledge of North's role in Contra funding came as a result of a case in which a bogus Saudi Arabian prince, Mousalreza Ebrahim Zadeh, defrauded a Philadelphia bank of $210,000. At the same time, the "prince" persuaded North and one of his consultants, Richard Miller, that he was a member of the Saudi royal family and was about to contribute millions of dollars to the Contras.

On July 18, 1985, an agent from the Washington field office interviewed North about Miller because of Miller's role in the bank fraud case. The agent reported in a teletype hearing: message that North said Miller's "North says quite clearly that a contract work "concerns the funnel-

Trade talks yield hopes But no assurances between U.S., Japan

By HENRY GOTTLIEB

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan said Friday he was optimistic the United States will begin narrowing its crushing trade deficit with Japan, and he told Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone he hopes a deal is struck against $300 million worth of Japanese products "as soon as possible."

Reagan and Nakasone ended two days of talks with a White House declaration calling for cooperation, not protectionism, to solve economic disputes that have spurred tough congressional measures against Japan.

The president also called for annual U.S.-Japanese summit meetings to solve disputes. "Both Japan and the United States recognize that the current trade imbalance is mutually unsustainable and requires urgent attention," Reagan said in a Rose Garden farewell to the Japanese leader.

After listening for two days to Nakasone's proposals to open his country's markets to imports, Reagan said: "I am supportive of those positive actions and optimistic that we will soon see the situation begin to improve."

Nakasone acknowledged that "huge current account (trade) imbalances could bring about serious consequences for the health of the world economy. It is necessary to rectify this situation."

As the two leaders met, the Japanese Finance Ministry announced that its global trade surplus soared to a record $101.4 billion in the first three months of March 87. The surplus had been $61.1 billion in the previous year, according to Japanese statistics. U.S. figures put the Japanese-American gap at $58.6 billion in Japan's favor in the past year.

Reagan hailed the move by Nakasone that Japan would take steps designed to expand foreign sales in his country and show more willingness to help solve the world's economic problems, notably by raising $20 billion in new funds for loans to impoverished nations.

Within hours of the summit, however, the House and Senate panels began their joint hearings with testimony from retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord.

In general, Sen. William Cohen of Maine said in a brief interview, Secord's testimony "is going to paint a picture that will be helpful in terms of the overall policies being pursued" by the Reagan administration.

"People will be surprised by some of the things that will come out, especially with regard to the Contras," he said.

Cohen said it would be particularly useful to compare legal restrictions Congress had placed on U.S. aid to the rebels with the timetable of

Snakes impede progress in hunt for fugitive snipers

WOLF CREEK, Mont. — Weary searchers launched another sweep through rugged, rattlesnake-infested mountains Friday, looking for three fugitives who have eluded them for three straight days after a shootout with deputies.

About 70 county, state and federal officers at a time were deployed in the mountains east of the Missouri River, hoping to regain the tracks or scent of the three after losing the trail Thursday and hoping to flush them out of hiding.

"What we're hoping is that one of these times we're going to catch them crossing an open area," Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Chuck O'Reilly told reporters Friday. Searchers have encountered numerous caves, which must be cleared of rattlesnakes and other animals before they can be searched.

"A lot of snakes — a lot of rattlesnakes that they're running into," the sheriff said. "We've run into bears, we've run into elk, we've run into deer, but unfortunately, we haven't run into the suspects yet."

Using helicopters and ground teams reinforced with fresh officers, searchers were trying to cover wider areas in the foothills of the Big Belt Mountains east of Hotter Lake, a reservoir on the Missouri River about halfway between Helena and Great Falls.

"We're changing our tactics a little bit," O'Reilly said. "Instead of generalizing on an area, we're splitting some of the teams up, so that widens our coverage area."

Two helicopters were disabled Friday when the rotor blades of one clipped the other while they were parked, a Montana National Guard official said. Each helicopter had two federal agents aboard and a crew of three, but nobody was injured.

The manhunt was launched early Tuesday after a four-hour gun battle between officers and the heavily armed snipers Monday evening on a ridge overlooking a Hotter Lake campground. Two campers suffered minor wounds, but officers escaped injury, despite having

White House unsure why ex-aide kept pass

By RITA BEAMISH

WASHINGTON — White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Friday he didn't know why a former personal aide to President Reagan was allowed to keep his White House pass after leaving the staff, using his pass to arrange meetings between the president and Contra aid contributors.

David Fischer had been a Reagan campaign worker and then a top assistant at the White House until April 1985. He kept his White House pass, giving him access to the building, however, until Nov. 21, 1986, Fitzwater said.

"People will be surprised by some of the things that will come out, especially with regard to the Contras," he said.

Rehired cop dodges fire to rescue family

By DAVID S. MARTIN

The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — A police officer dismissed 2½ years ago after he was arrested in a barroom brawl, only to be rehired after he was acquitted, was a hero Friday after rescuing a family of seven from their burning home.

"I've seen the lowest of lows and highest of highs in this job," said Officer Philip Riehl Jr.

Riehl broke into the burning home Thursday and awakened a couple on the first floor. He then roused their five children on the second floor, carrying the youngest two down the stairs under his arms and through a flaming doorway.

"I feel great about it," Riehl, 25, said Friday. "Everybody says hero, hero, hero. I just did what any officer would have done."

"God sent this man to save my five children from being burned to death and to save me and my wife," said Derrick Edwards, the father. "I've called his captain."

"I've called the mayor's office, and I've determined to make sure he gets a heroism award if it's the last thing I do on earth."

An adult living in the other half of the duplex house was slightly injured in the fire, which broke out about 2:30 a.m. after someone apparently threw a firebomb into the building, authorities said.

Brother of man killed by Contras rips policy

By ANDREW SELSKY

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — The brother of American volunteer Benjamin Linder, who was killed in an attack by Contra rebels, told a cheering crowd of thousands Friday that he blames the U.S. government for the death.

Linder, 27, of Portland, Ore., was a segment. He was buried as a Sandinista hero Thursday in Managua, 80 miles north of here, at a funeral attended by President Daniel Ortega, friends and relatives.

"They were killed by the government of the United States," John Linder told a crowd estimated at 25,000 gathered in the Plaza of the Revolution for the annual May Day celebration.

"The grenade that killed my brother and two Nicaraguans while they were surveying to bring electricity to northern Nicaragua was paid for, delivered and the attack planned by the government of the United States."

He spoke in English and his comments were translated into Spanish by a friend. The crowd cheered and applauded after each "translated Later Friday, the American group to which Linder belonged called for a congressional investigation into his death.

Tom Voorhees, spokesman for the Nicaraguan Appropriate Technology Project, also called for an investigation into the Reagan administration's policy regarding development workers in Nicaragua. "Are they considered enemies of the United States?" said Voorhees, speaking in Seattle.

Linder's sister, Miriam, said their parents — David and Elisabeth —

On Thursday, for example, Webster was closely questioned after committee disclosure that North had sought to interpose with investigations into people North was using to raise money for the Nicaraguan Contras.

As for Fischer, two Contra-aid contributors, Texas sisters Mary Jo Pentecost and Evelyn McKinley, said Friday they believe that when they had a private meeting with Reagan last November, Fischer was the person who ushered them into the meeting.

from headquarters for retransmission was ignored. The agent sent the message on a priority basis to headquarters because North had requested a delay in any FBI interview of Zadeh while he and Miller worked up the information.

Nevertheless, on July 30, North called the Washington field office to say Miller was in Europe "reportedly" arranging transfer of funds from the prince to Nicaraguan freedom fighters.

Webster replied: "The document was lost at headquarters where it would have had significance in terms of the matter that you raised."

A Senate source, who declined to be named, said the interviewing FBI agent did not follow up the information or the delay request because he was a bank-fraud agent doing the interview for another FBI office.

An FBI summary which Webster sent to the committee said, "This Boland Amendment," which prohibited U.S. aid to the Contras from October 1984 to October 1986, said the Senate source.

On the other hand, Baker conceded, "It was pretty short on specific proposals." And he said, "I think that the Congress will wish, as I expect the administration would wish, for more out of this meeting with Prime Minister Nakasone."

On the most immediate troublemaker issue between the two countries, Reagan said that in mid-May he would review Japanese compliance with an agreement on trade in computer chips to see if he could lift the $20 million in punitive 100 percent tariffs Japan had imposed for allegedly violating the pact.

Nakasone, who had called the sessions "bare thorns" Thursday, repeated a plea that they "should be without severity."

Before his final talks with Reagan, Nakasone met for 45 minutes with House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and other House leaders. Wright said, however, that the meeting did nothing to diminish lawmakers' support for tough trade retaliation legislation.

The House voted Thursday to impose sanctions against Japan and other countries that maintain trade practices with the United States — a measure Nakasone has denounced and Reagan has vowed to veto if it reaches his desk.

more than 300 rounds fired at them from a variety of weapons, including a machine gun.

The suspects have been identified as two suspected killers from California, Steven Miller, 34, and John White Jr., 36, and an unidentified woman.

Miller and Whitus escaped from prison at Vacaville, Calif., in February, 1986, and were believed to be in the area of the mountains in Colorado, where they are wanted for questioning in a double murder last week.

Since slipping away from officers, they have been tracked through rugged terrain northeast of Hotter Lake and about 10 miles north of the Gates of the Mountains Wilderness.

Elevation in the area ranges from about 3,500 feet at the lake to nearly 8,000 feet, with grassland, dense stands of timber and rock outcroppings.

On Wednesday, officials hoped they had the fugitives contained in a 10-square-mile area, but after losing the tracks Thursday, O'Reilly said he feared they may have doubled back.

It's not surprising to me that we haven't located them," he said. "They've got all the advantages. They, by having the high point and (being) under cover, can spot our locations, where we can't see them."

O'Reilly said his office has been swamped with reports from all over the country of possible sightings, different leads and offers of help from private backpackers, hikers and survival experts.

The fugitives also were believed to have stolen a large cache of guns and ammunition in Colorado, he said.

Law enforcement director sees gains in war on drugs

BOISE (AP) — A new infusion of federal money should help Idaho's cities, counties and the state gain on the war on drugs, says Law Enforcement Director Mack Richardson.

Richardson, who had a 22-year career with the U.S. Secret Service before joining the new administration of Gov. Cecil Andrus, appeared before the Idaho Press Club here Thursday.

Richardson said all anti-drug efforts in the state should benefit from $1.2 million the state's getting under a new federal drug program.

He said cities and counties get 60 percent of the money, and most of the rest goes into state narcotics programs. The grants are expected to continue for at least the next six years.

"We won't solve the problem in six years," he said. "But this gives us the resources to do the investigation needed to curtail it." The state will have two new narcotics investigation officers in the budget starting July 1, Richardson said, although he declined to say where they would be used.

Idaho had to put up 25 percent in "new money" to qualify for the federal grant, Richardson said. His agency already had a request for $300,000 in new equipment, which was approved by the Legislature and qualified as the necessary matching money. "The state will use most of its money for "voice privacy" radios, which are used so communications between drug agents and police officers aren't intercepted by outsiders.

Richardson said he did not think the news media would be given access to the "confidential" communications, for much the same reasons that reporters aren't invited along on drug busts, safely. "These are dangerous people," he said. "It's a dirty business."

Within 30 days, local agencies can begin submitting applications for grants for "buy money," personnel and equipment, Richardson said.

But he said he doesn't feel locking up drug offenders is the entire answer, because sooner or later, the jails will be full.

"We will emphasize education, especially among young people," he said. "We want to show them how dangerous it is to use drugs. Once we dry up the user problem, I think you will see a decline in this particular problem," Richardson said.

"Drugs lead to almost everything in crime," he said. Richardson said he didn't think white supremacists pose a major problem in Idaho, although people in other states have a lot of unfounded concerns on the subject. He said he was contacted by a minority individual who was so worried about white supremacists in Idaho—that when he was transferred from the East to Portland, he bypassed Idaho to get to his new assignment.

"That's absurd," he said. "But there are a lot of concerned citizens in other states." Richardson said he hopes to prepare plans for a new law enforcement administration building by the end of this year, perhaps a facility also housing the Police Officers Standards and Training Council (POST) Academy. But he has no idea yet what sort of facility might be needed, what it would cost, and where the money would come from.

The director said he was surprised when he met with local law enforcement officials to learn of their—communication problems. Richardson estimated that up to one-third of the state's police departments and sheriffs didn't communicate with each other, resulting in duplicate response to alarms and other problems.

He's worked at coordinating efforts and improving communication and hopes to have most of the problems worked out by the end of the year, he said.

Andrus names Mahoney to ed board

MOSCOW (AP) — Mike Mitchell, a member of the Idaho Board of Education since 1983, has resigned to work as a full-time aide to Gov. Cecil Andrus. His resignation is effective today.

Andrus appointed another Lewiston resident, Colleen Mahoney, to replace Mitchell in a term that runs until next March.

Mitchell, former state senator and unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor, was appointed to the board when Neil Solberg died. Since January, he has been working as the governor's legislative liaison.

Mitchell said he continued his tenure on the board through the legislative session—to oversee distribution of a $12.7 million budget for higher education. He said he also wanted to wait until the board's new executive director was named. Richard Sperring was named executive director this week, replacing Charles McQuillen.

"Mike Mitchell has served Idaho with great skill and dedication in a number of positions for many years," Andrus said in a statement released Friday.

Andrus said he appointed Mrs. Mahoney in part because of her experience as a public school teacher. She received her teaching certificate from Lewis Clark State College and all four of her children have attended the Lewiston School. She is married to Dr. Dean Mahoney.

Court rules on sentence motion limit

BOISE (AP) — Motions for reductions of criminal sentences must be filed within 120 days of the time sentences are imposed, not later after a court relinquishes jurisdiction over the case, the Idaho Court of Appeals says.

The court ruled Friday in two separate but related cases. In both cases the court said any Rule 35 motion, which is a motion to reduce a sentence, must be filed within 120 days of the actual pronouncement of sentence.

The cases involved Richard Omev, sentenced to up to 10 years for aggravated assault upon a police officer in a Kootenai County case, and Edgar Salsgiver, sentenced to up to 15 years for lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor child in a Payette County case.

In both cases, the men were sentenced, but the court retained jurisdiction for 120 days under an Idaho program allowing prison officials time to evaluate whether a sentence would be a good candidate for probation.

In Salsgiver's case, the judge reduced his sentence to up to nine years after evaluation showed the man should be sent to prison. The state won reversal of the sentence reduction on Friday, with the Court of Appeals holding that district court had no authority to reduce the sentence after 120 days.

GOP polls for presidential candidates

BOISE (AP) — The 1988 presidential primaries are a full year away, but Idaho Republicans are being asked who they would like to see ushered into the White House in 1989.

The Idaho Republican Party has started using telephone contacts and written ballots to survey up to 65,000 self-identified Idaho Republicans on their preference among possible presidential candidates.

"We'd like to provide the opportunity to allow the presidential candidates to see what support or lack of support they enjoy in Idaho," state Republican Executive Director Dave Pearson said Thursday. State Republican Chairman Blake Hall said the survey could increase Idaho's influence in the presidential selection process. "The time is right for us to play a greater role in nominating our next president," he said.

He said the Idaho survey is being conducted early to run in advance of many other straw polls elsewhere.

Pearson said he hopes results will be complete within about six weeks. "We're asking for about a week turnaround on the ballots when they go out," he said, but acknowledged some may not be returned that quickly. The names of the approximately 65,000 Idahoans who identified themselves as Republicans were drawn from lists compiled during campaign organizing last year.

The ballot includes 12 Republicans, some formally in the running for president.

The list includes Vice President George Bush, Farmer Nevada Sen. Paul Laxalt, former senator and current White House Chief of Staff Howard Baker Jr., Senate Minority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, and Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

Winemaker Broich sued for $1 million

BOISE (AP) — Winemaker Bill Broich is being sued for $1 million by Petro Eliopoulos, who bought Broich's interest in the Winery at Spring Creek three months ago.

Eliopoulos contends in a suit filed in the District Court that Broich violated an agreement not to compete with the Spring Creek winery and made false and damaging statements about him.

In a separate case, Broich and his wife, Carmen, filed for protection from creditors under Chapter-12 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, the new section added to protect farmers. The Broichs listed more than $1.5 million in debts.

He also alleged that Broich broke an agreement by telling his creditors that Eliopoulos or his company, Northwest Land Management Co. were liable for debts Broich had incurred that were not covered by the January sale agreement.

The lawsuit also says that Broich falsely accused Eliopoulos of fraud and embezzlement; falsely told people Eliopoulos was the subject of a grand jury investigation; and charged that Eliopoulos was "ravaging his corporations by selling off assets for personal gain."

Eliopoulos is asking for a permanent injunction restraining Broich from the acts mentioned in the lawsuit—compensatory damages of $1.3 million; punitive damages of $337,500; and legal fees of $5,000.

Pope beatifies German nun as leftists tell him, 'Get lost'

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Pope John Paul II beatified a Jewish-born nun who was gassed in the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz, and he urged Christians and Jews to unite against "all new forms of anti-Semitism."

As the spiritual leader of the world's 800 million Roman Catholics spoke at a press stadium Friday, about 1,200 leftists and Greens chanted "Pope, get lost!" marched to Cologne's Gothic cathedral to protest Vatican opposition to abortion, birth control and divorce.

The crowd, including naked women and a naked man, dispersed peacefully after an hour-long rally.

A Roman Catholic Church burned down early Friday in the town of Herber, just a mile from the stadium, and a police official there said it was caused "in great probability" by arson.

The official, speaking to The Associated Press, said the condition of anonymity, said the blaze may be connected to the pope's visit, although police received no claim of responsibility.

John Paul's second day in West Germany ended with a tumultuous, festive greeting by 120,000 people in Muenster, 90 miles north of Cologne.

In his speech there, he equated the Nazi policy of killing the mentally ill and handicapped with euthanasia and abortion today.

An estimated 75,000 people gathered in Cologne's Muenstersdorfer soccer stadium for the beatification of Carmelite nun Sister Teresa, born Edith Stein, which has caused controversy among Catholics and Jews. Scores of Carmelite nuns and friars were in the crowd.

The stadium was nearly full, but several upper sections were unoccupied.

Trumpeters dressed in medieval costumes sounded a somber fanfare as the pope, dressed in a resplendent gold-colored robe, mounted the raised altar in the center of the stadium.

In a 40-minute homily in German, the 66-year-old pontiff repeatedly stressed the ties between Christians and Jews.

"For Edith Stein, baptism as a Christian was by no means a break with her Jewish heritage," he said.

"Quite the contrary, she said, 'I had given up my practice of the Jewish religion as a girl of 14. My return to God made me feel Jewish again.'"

He called her "an outstanding daughter of Israel."

Some Jews have criticized the beatification, a major step toward possible sainthood. They say the Nazis killed the nun because of her Jewish origins, not because she later embraced Catholicism.

Catholic leaders say she was sent to Auschwitz in retaliation for the outspoken stand — Dutch — Catholic bishops took against the Nazis. Sister Teresa had taken refuge in a Dutch cloister.

John Paul emphasized both aspects — of her background, acknowledging that the "deadly threat to the Jewish people gathered like a dark cloud" over Edith Stein.

Twenty-five of Edith Stein's nieces and nephews and their families attended the beatification service. John Paul said their presence "fills us with great joy and gratitude."

Seaman admits nap as ferry began trip

LONDON (AP) — The man responsible for closing the bow doors on the Herald-of-Free-Enterprise admitted Friday that he was asleep in his cabin when the ferry capsized off the Belgian coast with a loss of almost 200 lives.

He also testified that rum he drank three hours before the accident had not made him drowsy.

"I always closed the doors when I was on G deck," said assistant boatswain Marc Stanley. "No one would have known if I had not closed the doors. No one would have checked up."

Testifying on the fifth day of an inquiry into the March 6 disaster, Stanley said he fell asleep in his cabin after finishing maintenance duties while the ferry was in the port of Zeebrugge and didn't hear the call to "harbor stations" — the signal for him to close the bow doors on G deck.

Attorney David Steel, representing Transport Secretary John Moore, said Monday the inquiry would probably conclude that open bow doors caused the Dover-bound ferry to capsize.

Stanley, 28, accepted that the bow doors were the responsibility of the assistant boatswain — and that he had not been relieved of that responsibility on March 6.

"Whoever else might do it when I'm not there, I've always known the doors are my job," he said.

Steel described the admissions as "characteristically courageous" of Stanley, a man of 13 years' experience at sea.

Stanley said he thought he was dreaming when the ship started to turn over on March 6 and he leaped off his bunk.

Asked by his attorney, Stephen Miller, why he fell asleep, Stanley replied: "Because I sort of sat down."

He said he didn't notice that he was tired and had intended to go back down to the car deck to close the doors. "It was probably inactively, just sort of waiting," Stanley said.

Ex-president seeks asylum

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Former President Salvador Jorge Blanco asked Venezuela for political asylum Friday, claiming he was being persecuted and could not get a fair trial on corruption charges.

Jorge Blanco took refuge Thursday with his wife and two children in the residence of Venezuelan Ambassador Abel Clavijo Ostos.

The former chief executive, whose four-year term ended last August, said he was convinced he would never get an impartial trial because he is the object of "a plan articulated at the highest levels of power."

Unity deal struck

TORONTO (AP) — A tentative deal reached by Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and the 10 provincial premiers was hailed Friday as a breakthrough that will unite Quebec with the other provinces and give them all a greater voice in national affairs.

The leaders agreed in principle Thursday to five demands made by Quebec before it signs the 1982 Constitution Act, which added to the constitution a charter recognizing the nation's multicultural heritage.

Denver police chief admits affair with co-worker, resigns

TOM COOGAN
Owns up to poor judgment

DENVER (AP) — Police Chief Tom Coogan has resigned as head of Denver's 1,400-member police force, saying he had shown poor judgment by having an affair with a policewoman, Mayor Federico Pena said Friday.

Chief Tom Coogan quit because his conduct had failed his own high standards, said Pena, who accepted the resignation Thursday.

Coogan, 51, admitted to Pena that "after proceedings to end his marriage had ended he had formed a personal relationship with a female officer in the department," the mayor said.

The divorce was filed a month ago, said police spokesman John Wycoff. Coogan and his wife, Eva Jo, have been married since 1959 and have three children.

Coogan, who repeatedly had said his department and its officers should be beyond reproach, was not pressured to resign the post he had held since 1983, Pena said. No internal investigation was conducted.

"He realized his conduct was not in the best interest of the city and the police department," Pena said Friday at a news conference, "and I laud him for the courage it took him to admit that."

Coogan could not be reached by telephone for comment. He had cleaned out his office, a department spokesman said, and his home number is unlisted.

Pena said Coogan had had an affair with Sgt. Heather Rodriguez-Hooper, a former concert pianist who has been on the force for years. She has worked in internal investigations and on the Stapleton International Airport police patrol, a favorable assignment among officers because of the opportunity for overtime.

However, Rodriguez-Hooper was assigned to the airport patrol in October. "Long before Chief Coogan had a relationship with her," Pena said.

She was reassigned to the juvenile division Thursday.

Pena said that he did not know specifically when the affair began or if it had ended. He said he learned of Coogan's relationship Thursday and discussed the matter at length with the chief, who then tendered his resignation.

The mayor, who is running for a second term May 19, refused to answer questions Friday about the possible effect of the resignation on his campaign.

He denied there were other reasons behind the resignation, saying it was triggered by "the fundamental issue of having a relationship with someone who works for you." Pena named Rudy Phantzen, a 27-year veteran, as interim chief. He said he did not know when a permanent chief would be appointed.

Coogan, a 27-year member of the police force, was appointed chief Aug. 26, 1983, just after Pena took office.

Coogan was a popular chief initially, bringing calm to a department that was thrown into turmoil in 1983 when Chief Arthur Dill retired under pressure.

Dill had been linked to irregularities in department bingo games that benefited the Denver Police Band. That controversy erupted shortly before the 1983 mayoral election, when Pena upset former Mayor William H. McNichols Jr.

Community relations appeared to improve under Coogan, as did morale, but controversy eventually surfaced.

In March 1985, officers accused him of providing inadequate backup manpower after a police officer was critically wounded while guarding two prisoners.

In January, Hispanic leaders criticized Coogan for not naming a Hispanic captain as a division chief.

Senate panel approves Webster to head CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Intelligence Committee on Friday unanimously recommended that FBI Director William Webster become head of the CIA, ending three days of close questioning about the bureau's involvement with fired National Security Council aide Oliver North.

The panel voted 15-0 to recommend Senate approval for Webster after a one-hour closed-door session with the FBI director to discuss a classified document pertaining to North.

While the committee members gave their full support to Webster for the job of CIA director, one of them, Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., said the confirmation hearings raised serious questions about the FBI's relationship with the former NSC aide. North was fired last November when the apparent diversion of funds to the Contras from the proceeds of U.S. arms sales to Iran was disclosed.

"It may be that Lt. Col. North's key position in the National Security Council, in conjunction with the president's strong personal support of the Contras, created a climate where the FBI winked at possible violations of law involving the Contras," said Specter.

Committee Chairman David Boren, D-Okla., and Vice Chairman William Cohen, R-Maine, refused to discuss the document involved in Friday's closed session, except to say that it was supplied by the special Senate panel investigating the Iran-Contra affair. The memo dealt with an issue concerning the Contras, said an administration source, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Boren and Cohen said it was a National Security Council document proposing that North contact the FBI. The contact was never made. Boren called it "the least substantive of all the matters we discussed during the confirmation hearings."

Meanwhile, a non-government source, commenting only on condition he not be identified, said the job of FBI director has been offered to former Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, asked about that report, said Thornburgh "has been a leading candidate and I know the job has been discussed with him." But Fitzwater said he couldn't confirm an offer had been made. He replied one way or another, "to my knowledge."

Webster's hearings have shown that FBI agents in the Washington field office had evidence nearly two years ago that North was operating a private assistance network to the Contras. The information never got to FBI headquarters on the other side of town because of problems with the bureau's communication system, Webster testified.

Webster said he forgot about the internal document until it surfaced in preparation for his confirmation hearings.

Farm loans temporarily suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Subsidy payments and price support loans farmers have been suspended until Congress approves more money for the remainder of the year, the Agriculture Department announced Friday.

Vern Neppi, acting vice president of the department's Commodity Credit Corp., said the agency has nearly depleted its $25 billion borrowing authority for the fiscal year that ends next 30.

The action temporarily halts distribution of funds for commodity loans, warehouse and producer storage payments, deficiency and acreage diversion payments, dairy programs and federal cost-sharing under long-term conservation reserve contracts.

Neppi said CCC obligations "will be paid as soon as possible after approval" of legislation providing supplemental appropriations for the 1987 fiscal year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the $9 billion spending bill on Friday, clearing it for Senate floor action.

It has not been uncommon for the CCC to stop payments because of hangups in Capitol Hill spending bills.

Meanwhile, the CCC also announced that when loan operations do resume, farmers will be charged higher interest on loans taken out in May. Neppi said the rate will be 6 1/2 percent, up from 6 percent for loans made in April, reflecting the CCC's higher cost of borrowing money from the U.S. Treasury.

Billy Graham plans 'preaching tour' of China during fall

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham plans to travel to China in the fall to conduct a low-key "preaching tour" with his wife, who spent her childhood in that country as the daughter of Presbyterian missionaries.

Graham, who is conducting a week-long crusade in Columbia, said Thursday he will meet some of the top Chinese leaders.

"I'll visit a couple of universities, a seminary, one or two churches and the Academy of Sciences," he said. Graham spokesman Larry Ross described the trip as a "preaching tour." He said the Friendship Society of China, which represents "the highest government level," had invited Graham.

Graham had said last year that he would visit the communist country within a couple of years. He has also toured the Soviet Union three times and preached in Western Europe.

There is no specific agenda for Graham's meeting with Chinese leaders, but Graham always is a "goodwill ambassador for our country," Ross said. The trip may take place in September or October, he said.

Stallone stays silent about search for site

EILAT, Israel (AP) — Sylvester Stallone visited the southern Israeli town, reportedly in search of a new backdrop for Rambo.

Stallone kept photographers and reporters away and refused to be interviewed after he arrived Thursday, but an Israeli newspaper quoted a Tourism Ministry official as saying Stallone was in Eilat to look for a location for the third movie in the "Rambo" series.

Eilat, a Red Sea coastal town 230 miles south of Tel Aviv, offers spectacular underwater life, as well as a story desert complete with a Hollywood-style cowboy town built for a movie set several years ago. In "First Blood" and "Rambo," Stallone created the character of Rambo, a Vietnam War veteran who

Changes in families alter TV programming

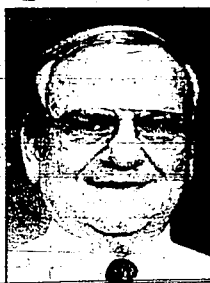

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The man known to generations of children as "Captain Kangaroo" says the changing family structure has made programming more complex.

"Bob Keeshan, who has been broadcasting to children for 30 years, said when he began the typical 'nuclear' family structure of mother, father and children prevailed.

"Life is more complex than it was then for the American family," Keeshan said. "Consequently, programming for the Captain Kangaroo show has become more complex."

Keeshan, 59, also is host of "CBS Storybreak," a Saturday morning series presenting literature for young people.

Keeshan said the prime difference in families then and now is that parents are busier and less accessible to children. Keeshan was here

'L.A. Law' comes out winner in court date

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Alan Rachins is not a lawyer, but he plays one on TV. And the star of the popular "L.A. Law" came away a winner when he stood before a real-life judge.

Rachins, who plays law firm managing partner Douglas Brackman Jr. in the NBC series, got three parking tickets dismissed when he went into Municipal Court and pleaded his case Thursday.

He had received the tickets for parking in front of a driveway by his home in West Hollywood, a driveway he said was abandoned.

"We've been parking there for about five years without a ticket," Rachins said Thursday. "Suddenly, I get three tickets starting about a month ago. I figured I ought to test the system and see if it works."

Rachins showed pictures of the driveway to the judge and argued it was a legal parking space. The judge agreed.

"I was hoping the judge wouldn't recognize me, because I was afraid he'd want to put the television lawyer in his place," Rachins said, adding that the judge did indeed seem to be someone who he was.

"I wonder why the judge didn't recognize me," Rachins said.

Iacoccas out in public trying to save marriage

NEW YORK (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca and his wife, Peggy, appeared together publicly for the first time this year in an apparent effort to reconcile their marriage.

They were among 200 guests Thursday night at a private reception party for the 21 Club in Manhattan.

"They were sitting shoulder-to-shoulder," said another guest, Gay Talese, who attended the party.

The couple has been estranged since Dec. 30, when Iacocca, 62, filed a divorce suit against his wife of eight months in Oakland County Circuit Court, citing irreconcilable differences.

The Iacoccas are actively involved in reconciling their marriage, said George Veggeburg, Max Iacocca's attorney.

"This is a marriage that both parties want," Veggeburg said. "They had a disagreement, but everyone has high hopes that the court action will be dismissed shortly."

Japanese crown prince, princess to visit U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Crown Prince Akihito and Crown Princess Michiko will visit the United States in October at the invitation of President Reagan, an official said Friday.

Reagan extended the invitation through Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, who has been in Washington for talks with U.S. officials, according to an official at the Japanese Foreign Ministry who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The royal couple postponed an earlier scheduled visit to the United States last year because of Mikhail's poor health. Akihito is next in line for Japan's chrysanthemum-throne, now occupied by his 86-year-old father, Emperor Hirohito.

Details of the visit had not been worked out.

Faking report cards leads to suspensions

ARAB, Ala. (AP) — Three seniors at Arab High School have been suspended for falsifying report cards using a personal computer they learned to run in class, officials said.

School Superintendent Larry Davis said Thursday the students apparently duplicated the computer program used by the school to make report cards. As many as 45 report cards may have been falsified, he said.

"We don't think a great deal of money changed hands," Davis said. "In my opinion, they went after it because it was a challenge."

Rumors about a report card tampering scheme reached school officials before the last round of grades came out, Davis said.

Parents were getting new report cards beginning Friday to make sure they did not get one of the falsified cards after the last six-week grading period.

The three students have been suspended, Davis said. The board of education will decide whether they are to be expelled.

"They are basically good kids, smart kids, but they made what we consider to be a very serious mistake," Davis said.

All three took a computer course. "We have a food computer program," Davis said.

The report cards, once falsified, were then either given away or sold to other students, Davis said.

California sheriff confronts predicament over prisoners

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — When Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates kept inmates in jail, he was cited for civil contempt. When he kept them out, he was cited with criminal contempt.

The sheriff has until June 1 to get himself out of his latest predicament.

On Thursday, Central Municipal Court Judge Gary P. Ryan held Gates in contempt for releasing minor criminal offenders arrested on bench warrants.

Ryan sentenced until June to give Gates time to modify his release policy.

Ryan said citing the offenders instead of jailing them was unacceptable. Gates said he had no alternative if he was to comply with a federal court order requiring him to alleviate crowded conditions.

The sheriff could be sentenced to up to 30 days in jail and a $6,000 fine for the contempt citation.

Gates, who has asked county supervisors repeatedly to build additional jail space, said Thursday "I can't provide the funds or make the decision to build it or decide where to put it. We are not much different than most other counties except that we seem to be picked on more."

Murtaugh OKs school override

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

MURTAUGH — Murtaugh School District patrons voted to keep their high school open and passed a $125,000 supplemental override levy Friday by a 56 percent margin.

The vote turned around the margins of a vote on a nearly identical levy held six weeks ago. On March 20, 56 percent of the voters opposed a levy of the same amount. Friday the vote was 226-160, with 588 people attending the school board meeting.

School Board members said after the March defeat that they would close the high school if voters did not reconsider their decision in a second election.

That's the explanation Superintendent Frederick DiazGranados gave for the strong support of the school board.

"I think the reason is because the people want a high school here," he said. "The administration and board are very pleased with the support our patrons have shown us."

The issue has been a hot topic in Murtaugh since the School Board announced March 31 it would run a referendum that meets state accreditation standards for high schools or none at all.

Some patrons organized an action group, dubbed "Citizens for a Better Murtaugh." The group came out against the override levy, saying the high school's students would be better served by closing the school and enrolling across the Snake River at Valley High School.

Although a spokeswoman for the group, Bobbie Wolverton, said she was surprised at the margin of victory for the override, she said she supported the community's position.

The group supports the community and the decision," Wolverton said. Friday's voting was marked by students picketing outside the polls.

DiazGranados said the 15 or 20 students, who all had permission to leave school, carried signs outside the polls through the afternoon.

School officials have said when planned to use $15,000 of the override to reduce the school's projected $80,000 end-of-school-year debt. The debt accumulated over five years of deficit spending.

DiazGranados said the $15,000 of override money will be supplemented with increased state support of the school. The passage of the override, coupled with increased state support, should enable the district to turn around its finances in less time than originally planned, he said.

But DiazGranados also said, "I don't think there will be a time when we can operate without an override. I think we can significantly reduce them."

Board member Allen Cummins also attributed the victory to home pride. "I think people want to support our high school."

Friday's vote was the second time Murtaugh voters voted in two years that Murtaugh voters would keep their own high school.

In a controversial 1986 vote, patrons turned down 236-103 a plan to consolidate with Hansen High School.

Although a spokeswoman for the group, Bobbie Wolverton, said she was surprised at the margin of victory for the override, she said she supported the community's position.

Two Hansen teachers resign rather than accept probation

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

HANSEN — Following a year marked by labor disputes, two Hansen teachers have decided to resign rather than be placed on probation.

The parents of a Hansen fourth-grade girl plan to come to the defense of one of those teachers at a Monday School Board meeting and protest the way the resignation of their daughter's teacher was handled.

The teacher, Ernest Wallen, submitted his resignation to Superintendent Richard Smith April 23. Smith told Wallen April 22 in Wallen's class who are upset that he is leaving.

Wallen's teaching methods drew fire from parents at an October evaluation. Copies of the evaluation of Wallen in November contained comments because he felt he was not given a hearing or a written description of the terms of his probation. Both Wallen and Smith agree that Wallen was given only 24 hours to decide whether to accept the probation or resign.

Although Wallen is submitting a letter to the board, he said he hasn't encouraged the parents who are protesting his situation.

The parents, Carol and Mike Davison, say Wallen is a former teacher who came to Hansen to teach Wallen on probation and the way Wallen has made real improvements in classroom management. He has shown a positive attitude and desire to improve.

Smith wouldn't say why Wallen was offered probation, but Wallen said he doesn't have a clear understanding of the reasons why he was put on probation and never saw a written description of the terms of the probation.

Kris Murray, a sixth-grade teacher, was on his evaluation process, there are no written standards to base decisions on for firing a teacher or placing an instructor on probation, Smith said.

The resignations follow a year of conflict between teachers and administrators of the district.

Last fall, the board refused to grant two teachers raises based on graduate credits the teachers had earned since the district's teacher contract was negotiated in 1981. The contract stated that graduate credits would be counted toward raises, but the board decided prior approval was necessary.

In late November, the teacher's association announced a vote of "no confidence" for Smith.

At a Dec. 16 board meeting, Hansen Education Association representative Galen Stimpson presented the district with a list of grievances and suggested solutions.

2 phone companies seek hefty rate hikes

By MARK PRATER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Rockland Telephone Co. and Cambridge Telephone Co. will ask the state Public Utilities Commission for big rate increases following the collapse of a telephone toll pool, which helped cover expenses for rural telephone systems, company managers said.

Rockland will request an increase for the residential 1-party line rate from $4.50 to $24 per month. Without the increase, Rockland will lose $11,000 per month, said Leonard May, Rockland manager.

In Cambridge the monthly rate for the same service would jump from $4.25 to $16.25 should that company's request be granted, said Rick Wiggins, Cambridge manager. He said Cambridge is facing a shortfall of $10,000 per month.

Rockland, which is south of Pocatello, has 315 subscribers and Cambridge, northeast of Weiser, services 800 customers.

May said he was reluctant to ask for a rate increase but he has no choice. "It's part of the breakup (of the Bell System)," he said.

Last week Albion Telephone Co.'s Odean Redman said his company would ask for a 35 percent rate increase which would raise the monthly 1-party residential bill from $6.29 to $21 per month. Project Mutual in Rupert and Filer Phone Co. are holding off on rate increases at this time, company spokesmen said.

The pool was administered by Mountain Bell and involved collection of all telephone toll revenues for long-distance calls within Idaho for 16 companies including Rockland, Albion and Cambridge.

Rates for toll calls were set on the basis of how much revenue the companies needed. Some companies would withdraw money from the pool to cover expenses while others would not take any money out.

Mountain Bell did not want the toll pool to continue, said Steve Guerber, Mountain Bell's manager of external affairs. "We never took anything out of it. Ours was always a pay-in situation," he said last week.

A universal service pool was supposed to be a substitute for the toll pool but it died when Gov. Andrus signed a law in 1982.

So far, year is wetter

TWIN FALLS — Although the Magic Valley's weather has been weller than normal since January, there weren't many April showers to bring May flowers.

The area received 3.89 inches of precipitation Jan. 1 through April 30, which was 0.59 inches above normal. In April, only 0.15 inches of precipitation fell, which is 0.64 inches below normal.

Bill Galkin of the Kimberly National Weather Service office said that for the entire spring since March 21, only 0.21 inches of moisture fell, but for the year the Magic Valley is still above normal in precipitation.

chies above normal. But only a trace fell during the last 11 days of the month.

Precipitation for the region's water year, Oct. 1 through April 30, was 0.52 inches below normal at 5.56 inches.

Galkin said it was interesting to note that the average high and low temperatures in April were 67 degrees and 36.3 degrees, are almost identical to the yearly normals for May 1 of 68 degrees and 36 degrees.

Hansen's friends say jailing wins sympathy, not support

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Friends of former congressman George Hansen say Hansen's renewed imprisonment and continued fight with the Justice Department is generating some local sympathy, but not potential votes.

"I don't feel any groundswell of support," said state Sen. Larry Anderson, R-Twin Falls, a former Hansen supporter. "I think his problems are generating sympathy, but not political support. They're not the same things."

The former seven-term Idaho congressman is in the Alexandria City Jail in Virginia, fasting and waiting to hear whether the U.S. Parole Commission will revoke his parole.

Hansen was arrested in Omaha, Neb., on charges he violated his parole by traveling around the country on speaking engagements without notifying his parole officer. Hansen also was charged with failing to file monthly reports on his personal finances.

Since his release in December, Hansen has been working as a political consultant. He also has left the door open on running for office again, even as a presidential candidate.

One of Hansen's attorneys, former Environmental Protection Agency administrator Anne Burford, said on Thursday that Hansen also was told to change his parole restrictions to "live within the parole restrictions. He has to make a living, and as a political consultant, you travel around a lot," Burford said during a phone interview. "I know, I'm a political consultant."

Burford called the restrictions on Hansen's parole ridiculous. She said for most convicted felons, restrictions on travel and not associating with ex-felons "make sense."

Former Rep. George Hansen awaits a decision on parole violation charges in the Alexandria City Jail.

Hayden Lake, Idaho. "He told them they were 600 miles out of his district, and he had no dealings with them," Campbell said on Thursday.

Earlier, Hansen said he was considering running for office again in Idaho. He also told the Populist Party he would be willing to run for president on their ticket.

State GOP Party Chairman Blake Hall on Friday took a low-key approach to the Hansen affair. Hall said the former congressman around Idaho Falls or the state.

He also said he had no idea what chances Hansen would have in a candidacy.

But Hansen's arrest sparked a renewed letter-writing campaign aimed at the White House.

Stewart said there was no connection between Hansen's arrest and Hansen's speaking engagements before the Populist Party, a group with strong white supremacist and Ku Klux Klan ties.

"We don't care who he talks to," Stewart said. "He's entitled to his rights under the First Amendment. If he could get those screws loose to come to Washington, there'd be no problem."

Hansen's attorney, Frank Campbell, also said there was no connection between Hansen's arrest and the groups he spoke to.

But Campbell did say that Hansen's parole officer questioned Hansen earlier on whether he had any ties to the Aryan Nations' group, with headquarters in Local rape conviction overturned

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Court of Appeals has overturned the rape conviction of Michael Winkler in a Twin Falls County case, saying District Judge Daniel B. Meehl improperly admitted into evidence a newspaper clipping.

Winkler was convicted of raping a 14-year-old girl and was given an indeterminate life sentence. The Court of Appeals said the victim testified that Winkler pulled a newspaper clipping from his wallet, while trying to force the victim into sexual intercourse, showing he had been charged with other crimes of violence.

The Court of Appeals ruled Thursday it was wrong for the clipping to be admitted as evidence. "Presence of a defendant's unrelated criminal activity is generally inadmissible to show criminal propensity or guilt of the crime charged," the court said.

Such evidence, the court said, induces a jury to believe the accused is more likely to have committed the crime in question because he is a person of criminal character. That is not the jury's job, the court said.

The case was sent back to 5th District Court for new proceedings.

In other decisions released Thursday, the Court of Appeals:

— Upheld the 10-year prison sentence ordered for John Treiren in a theft case. Treiren argued that his court-appointed attorney had a conflict of interest because he was appointed as Nampa city attorney before the case was over. The Court of Appeals said at best, Treiren had the possibility of a conflict of interest, but none was proven.

— Affirmed the 10-year prison sentence ordered for Charles Hall in a court case. Treiren argued that his court-appointed attorney had a conflict of interest because he was appointed as Nampa city attorney before the case was over. The Court of Appeals said at best, Treiren had the possibility of a conflict of interest, but none was proven.

Briefly

Camas approves school levy

FAIRFIELD — Camas County School District voters passed a supplemental override for $41,492 Tuesday.

The request was approved by 190 of the 273 voters in the district, a 70 percent margin.

That was down from last year, when voters passed a smaller override with an 83 percent margin. That override was for $51,104.

Camas has voted in overrides for at least the last nine years, said William Simon, chairman of the school board.

He said the supplemental money will be used for the general fund and operations of the school. The amount was increased this year because a drop in attendance reduced the amount of state money available to the district.

Burglaries seem disorganized

TWIN FALLS — Burglars who entered several vehicles and a garage on Richmond Drive just couldn't get organized, Twin Falls reports indicated Thursday.

Police said two vans and a Bronco at the Darrell Heider residence were entered and several items taken. Heider's daughter left the keys in the Bronco, and police said several items were taken, but in their place burglars left a pair of snow skis that did not belong to the Heider family.

The Heider residence is located at 1631 Richmond Dr. Burglars turned on the key in the Bronco, and police said they may have intended to take the vehicle, too, but for some reason left in a hurry without it.

At 1613 Richmond Dr., Stan Sorenson reported his vehicle was burglarized. He said sound equipment had been removed, but there, burglars left behind a pair of gloves and some ammunition.

Further up the street, at 1549 Richmond Dr., Neil Larsen told police someone entered his garage and took a pair of skis. All of the burglaries occurred between April 24 and 25, reports showed.

Phone pitch costly for woman

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman who gave a telephone caller her social security and charge card numbers told police she is now missing about $400 from her bank account.

Zelma Garrison, 72, said she received a call from someone in Arizona. She identified a vacation marketing firm and offered her a vacation packet special. She said she told the man that she would like a vacation, but did not at anytime tell him anyone else they could take money from her bank account.

She said a short time later her bank notified her that $399.90 had been taken from her account. Police urged residents not to give out charge card or social security numbers in connection with telephone solicitations.

Horse expo set this weekend

BOISE — Horse fanciers and ranchers from Idaho will convene on Boise this weekend for Horse Expo '87, a two-day exhibition at the Western Idaho Fairgrounds.

Fifteen horse breeds ranging from Appaloosa to Peruvian Paso will be on display from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday at the fairgrounds, said Pat McCarty of Jerome, chairman of the Idaho Horse Council's Expo Committee.

1 hurt in 3-vehicle accident

TWIN FALLS — A three-vehicle accident at Blue Lakes Boulevard North and Evergreen Drive injured one person slightly and tied up traffic briefly Thursday afternoon.

Twin Falls police said Steven Lewo McDannald, 21, of Twin Falls, was cited for inattentive driving. Reports showed a vehicle driven by Donald Roland Hutchings, 69, of Twin Falls, was stopped to make a left turn onto Evergreen Drive and a second driver, Josephine Christensen, 58, stopped behind Hutchings. The McDannald vehicle approached from the north and struck the Christensen vehicle, forcing it into the Hutchings vehicle.

A passenger with Christensen, Ruby Huttley, 70, was treated for minor injuries.

Camas civic group to meet

FAIRFIELD — The Idaho Department of Fish and Game will present a proposal for a wildlife management area in Camas County at a meeting of the Camas Civic Organization Monday.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the study hall at Camas County High School.

An update on use of a caboose as a visitors center and proposals for the annual Camas Days celebration also will be discussed.

Boy, hit by car, slightly hurt

TWIN FALLS — An 8-year-old Twin Falls boy escaped serious injury on Friday when he ran in front of a car while crossing the street at Filter Avenue and Elm Street North.

Police said Joseph Partridge of 397 Elm St. North was hit on the leg and hip and knocked about 15 feet by a car driven by Ramah Mae Sharp of Twin Falls.

Partridge was treated at Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital and released, police said.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. Witnesses told police that the youth began crossing the street after one car stopped, and he failed to see another car coming.

Noxious weed plans assessed

TWIN FALLS — The Forest Service has completed an Environmental Assessment (EA) addressing the impacts of treating poisonous plants and noxious weeds on lands administered by the Sawtooth National Forest.

Two alternative approaches for treating poisonous plants and noxious weeds were studied. Sawtooth Forest managers have selected integrated Pest Management as their preferred alternative. The program provides for a public education/awareness program essential for prevention of new weed invasions and recognition of the existing situation. It will also provide a means to manage these plants and weeds using a variety of treatment methods, including mechanical, biological and chemical. The Sawtooth plans to treat approximately 1000 acres this year, with their primary emphasis on the noxious weed, leafy spurge.

Copies of the EA are available upon request from Sawtooth Forest Service, 2647 Kimberley Road East, Twin Falls 83301-7976. Attn: Bill Little.

Stallings praises plan to alter migrant policy

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Richard Stallings has praised an Immigration and Naturalization Service proposal which would change current policy to allow migrant workers, who are qualified for the Seasonal Agriculture Work (SAW) provisions of the new Immigration law, to apply for adjustment of temporary status in the United States if they are in the United States on May 1, 1987.

Stallings said the INS had originally proposed regulations which would have prohibited workers from applying for temporary residency under the SAW provisions until June 1 if they were not in the United States on November 6, 1986 when the new Immigration law was enacted. According to the congressman, this proposal effectively precluded most Idaho workers from legally returning to work until after June 1, 1987.

"This original proposal was not acceptable to me," Stallings said. "I have worked with the INS since February, expressing my concern about the impact this ruling would have on Idaho farmers. With drought conditions around the state, our farmers simply cannot wait until after June 1 to get their workers in place. I am pleased that the INS appears to recognize this and has offered a new proposal."

"I think this new proposal will address most of the concerns Idahoans have about the SAW program. I believe Idaho employers and workers will make every effort to comply with the law under the new proposal," Stallings said.

Bakker won't fight to regain PTL control

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Disgraced televangelist Jim Bakker said Friday that he and his wife won't fight to regain leadership of the $129 million-PTL empire and that "without a miracle of God, we will never minister again."

Bakker, in his first news conference since the disclosure of the sex scandal that led to his downfall, also said he has never been to a prostitute or engaged in wife-swapping and denied accusations he is a homosexual.

Tammy and Jim Bakker hold their first news conference since the disclosure of the sex scandal that ousted him.

"We hope all of the people we love so much will forgive us and help us to go on," Bakker said. He said he and his wife, Tammy Faye, would forgive their accusers and were not going "to spend the rest of our life hating people."

"Tammy and I are alive. We may not be too well," Bakker said.

"Barely," Mrs. Bakker tearfully interjected. "For the brief moment with reporters outside their home here."

The Rev. Jerry Falwell took control of PTL in March at Bakker's request after Bakker admitted he had had a "sexual frisk" with church secretary Jessica Hahn in 1980. On Tuesday, the new PTL board severed ties with Bakker following revelations that Bakker and his wife were paid $1.6 million in 1986.

"What you see is what you get," Bakker said Friday. "Jim and Tammy don't live secretly—we live open. You see our homes, our cars.

Church news

TWIN FALLS — National Day of Prayer will be observed with a prayer breakfast Thursday at 7 a.m. at the Golden Griddle Restaurant.

President Reagan proclaimed May 7, 1987, as National Day of Prayer. Participants are encouraged to show knowledge dependence upon God, give thanks for the many blessings the United States has received from him through the years, and seek God's guidance for the nation's government and community leaders.

Cost of the breakfast will be $4.55 per person. For information and reservations call Jack Muldoon, 733-8931; Rev. Fred Brodwin, 733-6255; Rev. Joel Stith, 733-2886; Rev. Rit-

This is what we are," Bakker said and his wife would be able to survive financially "probably six months at the most, but God is always taking care of us."

In other developments Friday: — Former Interior Secretary James Watt, in Jackson, Wyo., said he was resigning from the new PTL board after reflecting on the decision to sever ties with Bakker and how it was made. He did not elaborate, and Falwell spokesman Mark DeKosters said the resignation had been accepted with regret.

— At the 2,300-acre PTL headquarters in Fort Mill, S.C., where Heritage USA, the Bakker-founded religious theme park, is located, officials said the number of April visitors was up 29 percent over April 1986, based on a count of cars. Visits for the year had been estimated at 1.5 million, officials said, without giving specific figures.

— In Baton Rouge, La., The Morning Advocate reported that Jimmy Swaggart Ministries had estimated revenues of $142 million in 1986, a 10.9 increase over 1985. An audit provided by the ministries put net worth at $111.9 million in 1985, with non-taxable profits of $38.4 million that year. Swaggart, one of Bakker's most vocal critics, has said he is paid less than $100,000 a year.

In his brief chat with reporters Friday, Bakker said he and his wife are owed "$8 million, $9 million in royalties." He said he did not know if he could collect the royalties and did not say what they stemmed from.

When asked if he thought he had been railroaded, Bakker declined comment, but he also said he had not tried to return to PTL.

"Right now," Bakker said, "without a miracle of God, we will never minister again, but we don't know if that's what we really want. That's in God's hands."

When asked if they wanted to return to their ministry, Mrs. Bakker replied, "Of course."

"It's like giving a birth to a baby. It's a matter of prayer and a vision," Bakker said.

Of his PTL club programs, which are reeling under a debt estimated at $50 million, he said, "Our main desire is that it will not be destroyed."

Prime hitches to year's high

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks raised their prime rate to 8 percent on Friday, pushing it a quarter-point higher for the second time in a month in response to surging open market rates—and the Federal Reserve's tightening of credit.

The increases raised the benchmark to a level not seen since last summer, and economists say further increases could be in the offing, even if market rates stabilize just slightly higher than present levels.

There could even be another quarter point (prime rate) increase before too long based on the (banks') cost of funds," said Gordon Pyle, chief economist for Irving Trust Co., a New York bank.

The prime rate is used as a base for setting interest on a variety of credit, generally for corporate and government business. But it has taken on greater significance for consumers in recent years as banks and savings institutions have used it to set variable interest rates on loans ranging from credit cards to second mortgages.

Citibank, the nation's largest, was the first to announce Friday's rate increase, and other major banks quickly followed.

As with the March 31 increase in the prime, which raised the rate to 7.75 percent from 7.5 percent, the banks were reacting to increases in open market interest rates that had squeezed their profit margins by raising their costs of borrowing money.

"The rise was really a foregone conclusion," said Norman Robertson, chief economist for Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh.

Market interest rates, and many consumer borrowing rates such as mortgages, already were at their highest levels in more than a year.

The bellwether 30-year Treasury bond—considered the most sensitive to interest rate speculation—yielded in the range of 8.6 percent late Friday, compared with 7.8 percent on March 30.

A 15-year fixed-rate mortgage averaged 10.42 percent last week, compared with 9.27 percent on April 1, according to a national survey by Bank Rate Monitor.

But the increases have been soaring in response to the recent weakness of the dollar, which has raised fears about a rekindling of inflation and weakening in foreign demand for U.S. debt.

In addition, Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker disclosed Thursday that the central bank had been nudging market rates higher to help support the dollar and curb what it considered inflationary tendencies.

Even before that, short-term interest rates had been creeping up in the credit markets, increasing the interest the banks had to pay to attract deposits and borrow money, squeezing their profit "spread."

Friday's increase in the prime rate was the second time since mid-1984 that banks have raised the rate, pushing it to a level last seen on Aug. 26, 1986, when the banks cut the prime from 8 percent to 7.5 percent.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"Old burglars never die; they just steal away." - Glen Gilbreath.

Perhaps West should not have doubted the pushy bid of three no-trump. South could not have stolen that game unless the defense was completely asleep. Four spades was another matter. That burglary depended upon only a lazy play by West.

South ruffed the heart lead in dummy and led a trump to his nice, daring West to win the trick. With no thoughts of the future, West won his king and shifted to clubs. The defenders took the ace and king of clubs, but the rest was history. South now had more than enough winners to claim the remaining tricks.

The only way to beat the game is for West to refuse the first trump trick. South then takes his best shot by ruffing a second heart in dummy and returning to his hand via the diamond jack to cash his ace of spades. A diamond is led to dummy's ace and the diamond king is cashed. South throwing a club while West ruffs. The defenders then cash two hearts and a club for down one.

Note that if West had held three diamonds instead of two, South would have made his game. West would have followed helplessly to three rounds of diamonds while South got rid of yet another loser.

CSI's Johnson opts to play at Arizona St.

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho sophomore forward Joey Johnson ended five days of agonizing between Arizona State and University of Oregon Friday.

At 8 a.m. Friday, the 6-foot, 4-inch leaper, who helped CSI win the national junior college basketball championship and holds the national junior college and junior high jump marks, signed with the Sun Devils.

"I felt it would be the right place for me," Johnson said Friday. "The people down there were real nice to me."

Johnson, the younger brother of Boston Celtics star guard Dennis Johnson, averaged 19.5 points and rebounds per game this season along with three blocked shots. Southern Idaho had a combined 72-4 record in Johnson's two seasons.

"He narrowed it down to Oregon and Arizona State and then spent five days trying to figure out which he liked. He went through heck coming to this very tough decision," said CSI Coach Trenkle.

Johnson is competing in the Region 18 track and field finals in Reno this weekend.

"They came to me Wednesday morning and said 'coach, I don't know what to do — I like them both so much,'" Trenkle continued.

Bruin girls should be in hunt for blue-ribbon Twin Classic

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For years it has been considered the most competitive track meet in the state.

This year, the Twin Falls Classic, slated to begin at 11 a.m. with field events and running preliminaries today at Bruin Stadium, will be even better for one simple reason: every Class A-1 track team in the state but the northern ones will participate.

For a lot of reasons, it means this meet brings together the most closely fought first-to-sixth place competition simply because very little preliminary eliminations have taken place such as at district before state.

The major benefit of the track meet — and the major reason it is now the biggest in the state — is that it offers all-southern Idaho A-1 coaches a chance to get a real feel for what probably will show up in the state finals in two weeks.

The field will include all the Gem State Conference, the four Boise metro teams (Mountain Home, Caldwell and Nampa).

"It is a 19-team A-1 track meet. It couldn't get any better now," enthused Twin Falls Coach Duane Stands.

And because of that, there are precious few locked-in individual champions although it appears that the Meridian boys have too much firepower in their division. Among the girls, Twin Falls, Capital and Highland probably will duke it out but no one is coming anyone out.

From the sprints to the distances, it should be tight, Stands believes.

The 100-meter dash boasts Twin Falls' Matt Chidichimo against Borah's Corey Williams and Mountain Home's Maury Toy, to name three. They've all had 10.6-second to 10.7-second timings. In the 200, Williams has a 22.0, Chidichimo a 22.3 and a host of others under 23.

Capital and Nampa will send sub-50-second quartermilers. The half-mile will probably get to the 1:56 area with Meridian's Doug Wilson in the lead. Andy Swanson has a 4:28 1,600 meter run. But the challenge there will come from Idaho Falls' Brian Guss, who was easily the cream of the Gem State crop and ran virtually untested.

By and large, the Boise area individuals have the better times and performances. As the Gem State Conference champion, it is expected that only Highland from the eastern side of the state could be a team title contender.

The Rams put a lot of their faith in distances and the shotput. The exciting races could well be the relays where four and five teams could come in nearly blanketed finishes. All teams will be allowed to enter a team and the resulting two heats will be seeded according to previous time and placed according to Saturday's time.

In the hurdles, Jeff Farley of Capital, a transfer from Orofino this year, outlegged Twin Falls' Alex LaBeau, who finished just ahead of a Mountain Home hurdler. This time around, Minico's Doug Hansen will be here, too.

Farley has a blistering 38.5 in the intermediates and a 45 feet, 7 inches in the triple jump — and those should make him the favorite there.

It's just as tight in the girls' division. One good duel will resume between Twin Falls' Dana Cowan and Mountain Home's Jenny Jaquet in distance jumping. They nipped each other by inches in the triple and long jump last week.

Capital's Jodi Hendricks apparently reigns as the hurdles queen, her 15.4 and 45.4 being untested anywhere else. The sprints bring back Highland freshman Julie Briggs, whose 12.2 is the best in the 100. In the longer sprints, Bruin Eva Talamantes confirms her comeback

What's so funny?

Caddy Freddie Burns breaks into laughter as Hal Sutton ponders while waiting to tee off on the ninth hole at the Desert Inn Golf Course in Las Vegas, Nev., during Friday's round of the Las Vegas Invitational golf tournament.

Sutton birdied the hole and finished with a 66, two strokes behind leader Larry Rinker. See story on Page D4.

Prodigal Day: 4 big-ticket free agents return to ballclubs

By The Associated Press

Tim Raines, the 1986 National League batting champion, became the first of baseball's premier free agents to return to a former club Friday, and before the day was over Rich Gedman, Bob Boone and Ron Guidry followed.

Raines rejoined the Montreal Expos, Gedman came to terms with the Boston Red Sox, Boone went back to the California Angels and Guidry returned to the New York Yankees.

The top-ranked free agents have been out of work this season after failing to find jobs with other teams. Baseball's collective bargaining regulations barred any free agent from even negotiating with the clubs they left between Jan. 8 and May 1.

Raines and the Montreal Expos wasted little time once May began. Three hours after midnight, they reached agreement on a three-year contract reportedly worth about $5 million, including a $300,000 signing bonus.

No terms were announced on Gedman's deal with the Red Sox before negotiations began. Red Sox

BOB BOONE

General Manager Lou Gorman said the club's old deal still was on the table — three years for a reported $2.65 million plus incentives.

Guidry and the Yankees were only $50,000 apart on a two-year contract when their talks ended in early January and the 36-year-old left-hander became a free agent. Guidry wants a $50,000 a year and the Yankees offered $325,000.

Guidry's deal will reportedly pay him $1,538,242 for two years.

Although Guidry slipped to a 9-12 record and 3.98 ERA in 1986, the 11-year veteran's career mark is 163-80.

Last year, Guidry was paid $375,000.

"When he builds up his innings, he will move up to Columbus (of the Class AAA International League) and get an outing there" before joining the Yankees, Yankee general manager Woody Woodward said.

The terms of Boone's contract were not revealed, but it was believed to be for the remainder of the 1987 season at a figure less than the $83,000 the Angels offered the catcher last winter. Boone's deal was for a reported $747,154.

Boone, 35, will begin a conditioning assignment Friday night at Palm Springs, Calif., with the Angels' minor league affiliate in the Class A California League.

Raines, who hit .334 last year, reportedly had been keeping himself in shape and could begin play this weekend.

"When Tim Raines gets to New York, we'll stick him in the lineup right away," Montreal Manager Buck Rodgers said.

Club spokesman Rich Griffin said details of Raines' contract were worked out about 3 a.m. Friday at Sarasota, Fla.

Wide-open field will run for roses in 113th renewal

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker's bid for a record-equalling fifth victory in his 25th Kentucky Derby is one of the main threads that will tie together today's 113th renewal.

The 55-year-old Shoemaker, who won last year with Ferdinand, will ride Gulch in the storybook race at Churchill Downs.

The Derby might have become a tale of tragedy Friday.

Demons Begone, the early 5-2 favorite almost collided head-on with a horse running the hot inside rail in the wrong direction.

"He (Demons Begone) was coming to the quarter pole going really strong," trainer Phil Hausman said. "I don't know who the other horse was.

But it was too damn close for comfort, I'll tell you that."

Exercise rider Gary Smith, who was on Demons Begone, said Hausman was standing near the starting gate, and "all he could do was shake his head."

"If they took my pulse rate right then, it was way up there," the 29-year-old Hausman said.

Fat Day will ride Demons Begone, the Arkansas Derby winner who is unbeaten in three starts this year, in the 1 1/4-mile Kentucky Derby.

A field of 17 3-year-olds, each carrying scale weight of 126 pounds, is scheduled to go to the post at 3:33 p.m. MDT at Churchill Downs.

Rice, Sellers by no means first local NFL picks

TWIN FALLS — Everytime something happens, everyone starts talking about "first" again.

It arose when Mike Rice and Lance Sellers were drafted by the NFL. People actually said they were "the first" from Twin Falls to be picked.

Now they could be the first since the late 1970s.

Although having hung around longer than anyone probably should, it is impossible for us to say who was "first."

The first one we can recall is Jack Cross, a 1950 graduate of Twin Falls who was a three-year starting fullback at University of Utah. Cross never played pro ball, however, as he had enrolled in Navy ROTC at Utah and in those days the Navy secretary didn't give you dispensation to play on weekends. It also seems that in those days there wasn't a draft as we know it today but there was the "regional rule" in which a pro team was considered to have first dibs on college stars within their logical fan-drawing area.

Perhaps of note here is a remark we remember Jack's brother Gene (Bud) Cross making to us concerning the pros.

Bud said it was tough to go into the navy for Jack because "minimum wage in the NFL is $5,000" per year. And that figure was said with reverence in those days.

If you will understand that we are not capable of remembering everyone probably who has been drafted, here's a rundown of the individuals we do and this will throw in some hometown, too.

Grant Martinson of Burley played Canadian football for a couple years before an injury sidelined him. It sticks in the memory here that Martinson was a draft pick in the NFL coming out of Utah State.

Martinson was in probably the greatest senior football graduating class that this state ever produced. That same year, Tim Lavena, who was born and raised in Jerome and switched to Twin Falls for his junior and senior years, was drafted coming out of University of Idaho.

Lavena currently is a doctor in Edmonton, Canada, and his two sons are football players of some note. Idaho tried to recruit the older son last spring.

Jerome has had another draftee we can remember in Jim Meeks, who played at Boise State College and trained with the Buffalo Bills. Meeks was a defensive back.

Bill Manning, the Rupert attorney, got a nod as we recall when he came out of the Air Force Academy and played in a couple of national all-star games. But Bill's knees were pretty well gone by then and he moved into jurisprudence.

Twin Falls' most recent draftee before Rice and Sellers was Brent Watson, who also double-represents Magic Valley communities.

Watson was a strapping three-sport star who began making waves in Magic Valley and Idaho at Buhl. He transferred to Twin Falls his senior year and then went on to University of Tennessee. He was an academic all-American honorable mention and all-conference tackle for the Volunteers. He was taken in the seventh or eighth round.

As we said, some may have been overlooked and assigned others.

Brewers start May like April — with a come-from-behind win

SEATTLE (AP) — Jim Gantner drove in five runs on four hits, including his second home run of the season, as Juan Castillo scored four times to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 10-8 victory over the Seattle Mariners on Friday night.

The Brewers, who had an 18-3 record in April and lead the American League East by five games, scored three times off Bill Wilkinson, 0-1, in the sixth inning for a 6-5 lead.

Bob Deer doubled, took third on Cecil Cooper's fly ball and remained there. But Castillo singled off the score, stole second and scored on a single by Gantner, who came easily on singles by Robin Yount and Dale Svein.

After Seattle's Rey Quinones homered off Chuck Crim in the sixth, the Brewers increased their lead to 7 off Jerry Reitz in the eighth when Schiffo singled and Gantner homered.

St. Louis 5
Los Angeles 4

— ST. LOUIS (AP) — Steve Lake singled home Jack Clark with two out in the 10th inning Friday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Lake's hit came off Los Angeles reliever Matt Young, 0-4, and gave St. Louis its third straight victory.

Boston 12
California 3

— ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Wade Boggs drove in five runs with a pair of homers — both on 0-2 counts — and Roger Clemens pitched eight strong innings as the Boston Red Sox defeated the California Angels 3-2 on Friday night.

Cleveland 2
Kansas City 0

— KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Phil Niekro and Rich Viet combined on a six-hitter Friday night and Mel Hall hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning, leading the Cleveland Indians over the Kansas City Royals 2-0.

It was his 31st career triumph for the 48-year-old Niekro, who is 2-0 this season, 8-3 lifetime against the Royals and one behind Gaylord Perry for 11th place on the all-time victory list. The Royals were shut out for the seventh time in 20 games this season.

Minnesota 7
NY Yankees 4

— MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Gary Gaetti hit a tie-breaking home run to ignite a five-run fourth inning and Steve Lombardozzi had the first two home runs of his career as the Minnesota Twins defeated the New York Yankees 7-1.

Winner Bert Blyleven, 2-1, allowed eight hits in eight innings plus an out in the ninth, but left after Dan Pasqua's two-run homer in the ninth, leaving Jeff Reardon to take over for his fifth save.

Toronto 3
Texas 2

— TORONTO (AP) — Jesse Barfield's second home run — off the game leading off the bottom of the 10th inning gave the Toronto Blue Jays a 3-2 victory over Texas on Friday night, snapping the Rangers' 10-game winning streak.

Barfield hit a 3-2 pitch from Mitch Williams, 2-2, over the right-field fence to give Toronto its fifth straight win.

Toronto rookie Jeff Musselman, 2-0, who pitched a perfect top-of-the-10th, was the winner as the Blue Jays won for the fourth time in as many extra-inning games.

Chicx 7
San Diego 5

— CHICAGO (AP) — Andre Dawson tied the score with a home run and Shawn Dunson — singled to put Chicago ahead as the Cubs rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to beat the San Diego Padres 7-5 Friday.

Dawson hit his seventh homer of the season — tie the score 5-5 against reliever Lance McCullers, 2-3, and one out later Jody Davis singled.

Jerome romps in A-2; Gourley beats Schwartz

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome A-2 Classic was only six teams wide and the home-staying Tigers ran off easily with both boys and girls divisions.

But Jerome Coach Tim Dunne still found reason for apprehension.

"Salmon concerns me looking for westward state (in two weeks in Boise)," Dunne said. "They have some quality points in the pole vault, discus, distances and other events that probably will hold up well at state. I think we're going to have trouble outscoring them in Boise."

But the Tigers had no trouble Friday, picking up 20 points against 17 for the girls.

"We got 10 points for winning the high jump at 5-10 today," Dunne quickly pointed out. "We won't get 10 points for that height in Boise."

That meant that Jerome Girls Coach Skip Andrew was the most calm of the day, which always isn't the case, as his girls scored 159 points against 94% for runnerup Wood River.

The happy-turvy world of the short sprint took another spin when Jerome sophomore John Gourley, came up with victory in the 100- and 200-meter dashes. He nipped Alan Schwartz of Wood River in the 100 by inches but was well up on teammate Paul Hancock in posting a 22.7 seconds in the Burlington. That left Wood River's Aaron Farker back in third.

Prep track

It was the second half of the sprint surprises that struck. Coach Bob Shay found two new faces for the 400-meter relay and they responded with a 4:42 time, which left Jerome wondering how to get that relay into state.

Concerning Gourley's victory over Schwartz, Shay smiled and said "Gourley had a very fine day. But remember, they take two to state in the sprint."

Schwartz, who anchored that strong relay effort, came up with victories in the two distances jumps.

Carl May of Salmon handed the Tiger's (Dunn, LeVill and Stan Ness rare defeats in the 800 and 1600-meter runs. Salmon's Brad Abbott won the pole vault in a sub-13-6 and actually in a jumpoff with Jerome's Kevin Thompson.

The Jerome girls did some experimenting with their relay lineups, which bolstered them but left some individual firsts in unusual hands. Andrea Cecil took both hurdles and the triple jump and anchored the winning 1600-meter relay in 4:09.4. The Tigers, putting Laura Jensen in the 1600, too, got a first at $200 from Jensen but saw Salmon's Jane Franz slip her by an inch in a stringing duel in the 800.

Nancy Stevens of Buhl grabbed the long jump at 15-11 and the 200-meter dash in 27.1 and ran on two Buhl relay teams.

NBA playoffs: Atlanta goes to Round 2

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Because he was playing "so bad," Dominique Wilkins ended up playing good.

A frustrated Dominique Wilkins made a key offensive rebound and a steal in the closing minutes Friday night, scoring after both plays and leading Atlanta to a 101-97 victory over Indiana in the deciding game of their first-round NBA playoff series.

"I figured I was playing so bad, I had to do something," said Wilkins, who had 14 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter. "Once I got my rhythm going, I was able to get in the lane, get some easy baskets, get to the line, get a couple offensive rebounds."

"That was the difference. I just tried to do a little more, because I knew I took a little more to win this game," he said.

"It was a great series."

The victory gave the Hawks the series three games to one and sent them home to Atlanta to meet Detroit in Sunday's opening game of the Eastern Conference semifinals.

Wilkins put the Hawks ahead for good at 95-93 with 1:32 to go after the key rebound of a missed free throw by teammate Doc Rivers.

"Dominique was a huge force down the stretch," Indiana Coach Jack Ramsay said. "A key play was Dominique's rebound of the missed free throw. That's a little thing that becomes magnified in a close game."

"Dominique should never have had a smell of the ball. That gave them another possession and another chance to score."

The loss ended Indiana's season in what was only its second playoff appearance in 11 years in the NBA. Ramsay, who coached Portland to the NBA title 10 years ago, was in his first season with the Pacers.

"Our guys played hard. The experience will profit us in the future," Ramsay said. "We lost to a very at the half.

But the Bucks scored eight straight points to take their last lead at 78-77, before Maurice Cheeks made a jump shot with 1:11 left in the period, sending Philadelphia ahead to stay. The 76ers led 84-80 after three quarters.

Golden State 98 Utah 94

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Golden State Warriors, who got 32 points from Purvis Short, rallied from a 15-point deficit late in the third quarter for a 98-94 playoff victory Friday night over the Utah Jazz.

The victory evened the best-of-five series at 2-2. The teams return to Utah for Sunday's decisive game.

Eagles, Chukars rained out; they'll try once more Sunday

By The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho's pivotal Region 18 doubleheader against Treasure Valley Community College was rained out here Friday and will be played at Frontier Field Sunday, weather permitting.

The Eagles are scheduled to meet North Idaho College in a twobill at Frontier Field today at 1 p.m.

Despite being idle, CSI gained a little ground on the rest of the Northern Division, field Friday when North Idaho and Ricks split a doubleheader in Rexburg. That left the Cardinals at 4-4 in Northern Division play and Ricks at 2-5, with CSI on top of the pack at 4-2 and TVCC at 3-4. That means that a CSI split with North Idaho today and a sweep of the Chukars on Sunday

The Warriors were trailing 73-57 with 3:28 left in the third quarter when Short sparked an 11-2 run to pull within 74-68 entering the final quarter.

Short's free throw with 7:33 remaining in the game gave the Warriors an 82-81 lead, which they never relinquished. Golden State outscored Utah 29-9 during the pivotal span of eight minutes.

Karl Malone and Bobby Hansen scored 20 points each to lead the Jazz. Utah played without point guard Ricky Green, who is sidelined with a pulled-right hamstring muscle. John Stockton started in Green's place and scored 15 points.

Eric "Sleepy" Floyd added 22 points and Chris Mullin 18 for Golden State.

NHL playoffs: Detroit squares series at 3-3

TORONTO (AP) — Bob Probert's goal at 10:23 of the third period snatched a tie and lifted the Detroit Red Wings to a 4-2 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Friday night, evening the Norris Division finals at three wins apiece.

The Red Wings, trying to become only the third franchise in NHL history to overcome a 3-1 deficit in Stanley Cup play, host the seventh and deciding game Sunday night.

Probert, camped 10 feet in front of Toronto goaltender Ken Wregget, collected a centering pass from Gerard Gallant and, in one motion, whipped the puck in deficit in Stanley Cup play, host to the far corner, past Wregget's lunge.

Philadelphians 124 Milwaukee 118

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles Barkley scored 25 points and Julius Erving added 22 as the Philadelphia 76ers overcame a 17-point first-half deficit to beat the Milwaukee Bucks 124-118 Friday night and send their NBA first-round playoff series to a fifth and deciding game.

The 76ers and Bucks meet Sunday in Milwaukee, with the winner earning a second-round berth against the Boston Celtics.

Philadelphia trailed by 17-three times in the second period, the last with 7:27 remaining. But the 76ers, led by rookie David Wingate's 12 points, whittled the margin to 57-52

Rinker leads Vegas

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Larry Rinker tamed gusty winds with a bogey-free 66 Friday to take a two-stroke lead after the second round of the $1.3 million Las Vegas Invitational.

Rinker, a non-winner in seven seasons on the PGA Tour, reached the halfway point of this storm-shortened tournament at 131, 13 strokes under par.

"I'm happy with the last two rounds," Rinker said after playing the Las Vegas Country Club course in desert winds that gustied to 20 miles per hour.

"I feel my game is starting to jell again," said Rinker, who held the 36-hole lead at the Doral Open before he was forced to withdraw with severe stomach problems earlier this season.

Rinker next plays Desert Inn under a format that calls for the 156 pros to play one round on each of three courses, each day with a different, 4-man amateur team, before the field is cut for the final round Sunday at the Las Vegas Country Club.

Jukido classes slated

JEROME — The Jerome Recreation District will sponsor a four-week series of classes in Jukido, starting Monday.

The classes will be held Mondays from 3 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. in the Jefferson School cafeteria under the instruction of Shepherd Reale. Students in the first through eighth grades can register at the Jerome Recreation District office or by calling 324-3389.

There is a $4 registration fee.

Pitino to stay put

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Providence College Coach Rick Pitino ended all speculation about his future Friday by announcing that he will be back with the Friars next season.

Pitino, 34, said at a news conference he might sign a new five-year contract or continue with the remaining two years of his current four-year contract.

"I will be staying with Providence College," Pitino said. "I fell all along I would be back because this is such a great job."

honors beyond the memory. But you get the idea.

And for those of you whose next question is whether a Twin Falls Bruin has ever been drafted by the NBA, the answer is yes. Gary Simmons, TFS 1954 and University of Idaho 1958, was picked in the ninth round by the Lakers after informing them he was not interested in playing pro ball and would pursue a career in dentistry.

You will recall a while back that the future of the pole vault in Idaho's track circles would be put to a severe test.

That test is here.

Currently, the state activities association is canvassing its members and "should we or should we not" continue pole vault competition is one of the questions.

From the reports we've heard around the track circles the past while, the indication is the majority probably have voted against the pole vault. It appears nearly a solid no vote among the A-3 schools. There are a couple of exceptions.

The underlying reason for the suggestion is the old "liability insurance" bugaboo. To become what is considered to be a "liability-free" vaulting arena, a school is required to buy pits that run in the area of $1,800.
