Safe oil route Reagan's aim

Cruiser, other vessels to bolster American Persian Gulf patrol

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, promising to "seek peace rather than provocation," vowed Friday to keep the Persian Gulf open for oil shipments...

particularly shipping under American protection, we must maintain an adequate presence to deter and, if necessary, to defend ourselves against any accidental attack or against any intentional attack.

Recalling the oil shortages of the 1970s, Reagan said, "this will not happen again, not while this president serves."

His plan to escort the Kuwaiti ships, following an Iraqi missile attack on the U.S. frigate Stark that killed 37 sailors, has sparked an uproar in Congress...

ing out some clear and concise mission plans and rules of engagement, and it will take time for us to respond.

The source said the Pentagon was expediting orders not only to move an aircraft carrier close to the mouth of the gulf but also to send one or more of the Navy's new Aegis-class cruisers into the gulf for escort duty.

The Navy's MidEast Task Force, which currently patrols in the gulf, consists of only a half-dozen small frigates and destroyers. The president reportedly approved a plan to add at least three surface ships to the force...

Following Reagan to the podium at the White House, Carlucci said, "There is absolutely no intention in this to involve the United States in the war. We are not in any way being provocative."

MOSCOW — A West German teen-ager was kidnapped as his plane through the Soviet air defense system from Finland night to the Kremlin entered Soviet air space through Estonia, Tass said Friday.

"Important bodies" were investigating, but did not say if Rust was arrested or would face criminal charges.

A Soviet witness said he had a witness companion who also was taken into custody, but Gregory Brown, a 29-year-old tourist from Des Moines, Iowa, disagreed.

"He came so close to me that I could clearly see into the plane, and there was just one person there," he said.

"It was no more than 10 feet above the ground, tops. People were ducking."

EPA scoffs at hats, sunglasses as ozone depletion safeguards

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency on Friday dismissed the idea of requiring the use of hats and sunglasses as a means of protecting against ozone depletion.

Some scientists and the cabinet of science reportedly suggesting it be required that he was misunderstood.

John the Wall Street Journal said Interior Secretary Donald P. Hodel argued inside the Reagan administration that increased personal protection could be an alternative to an international agreement to cut production of the chemicals that destroy the ozone layer.

Hodel, however, said in an interview he was trying to make more widespread Reagan wasn't confronted with July a single option, and a hats-sunglasses policy was a possible fallback if no agreement on production cuts is reached.

White House spokesman Albert R. Brashear said, "I'm not going to comment about anybody's position because it's still under discussion."

DONALD P. HODEL Just offering an option saying "The most effective way to solve the problem is through an international agreement to limit production of the chemicals that destroy the ozone layer."

Asked about a sunglasses policy, EPA spokesman Chris Rice said, "I don't think that's a very realistic idea."

An administration official who spoke on condition of anonymity said the plan to address personal sun protection would be adopted.

"What really characterizes my position is to say that I have a definite position, and I don't budge," Hodel said Friday. "I don't believe we ought to box in the president. We ought to provide an array of options."

The president has to know what would constitute an acceptable agreement, which nations and what chemicals would have to be included and how it would be policed, and what omissions or provisions would make an agreement unacceptable, but U.S. negotiators are still in the process of discussing it. BAGHDAD, Iraq — A U.S. investigative team has pieced together a series of events surrounding the Iraqi attack on the USS Stark and reached preliminary agreement with Iraq on preventing further attacks.

However, he would not divulge details of the team's findings nor of the agreement worked out with Iraqi officials over three days and nights.

"We have established what happened, and more importantly, we've reached preliminary agreement with Iraq on preventing further attacks. We've reached preliminary agreement with Iraq on preventing further attacks. We've reached preliminary agreement with Iraq on preventing further attacks."

Rogers met with reporters outside the U.S. Embassy to announce the end of the mission to investigate the May 17 attack in the Persian Gulf, which killed 37 American sailors and wounded 21.

Western diplomats, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the Americans and Iraqis worked out a system of coordination in the Persian Gulf that will prevent Iraqi warships from mistakenly hitting American warships patrolling the strategic waterway.

At least one Iraqi Mirage F-1 fighter-bomber fired a missile into the American fleet as it patrolled the central sector of the gulf, Iraq said its pilot thought the vessel was Iranian.

"Any time that there are forces that are operational in proximity, I can't tell you it will never happen again," Rogers warned.

"But I can tell you we've reached preliminary agreements... which will dramatically reduce the possibility it will happen again," he said.

On Friday, two American senators, John Glenn, D-Ohio, and John Warner, R-Va., inspected the crippled missile frigate anchored off Bahrain.

They met with Rear Adm. Harold Bensen, commander of the U.S. Middle East Task Force, then boarded the Stark, said U.S. sources in the region who spoke on condition they not to be identified further.

Rogers said his eight-man team of air force, navy and army specialists is certain "we have the information in place to figure out what happened" in the attack on the Stark.

Former station chief for CIA provides testimony in secret

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Former CIA station chief Joe Fernandez testified for six hours in secret Friday as congressional investigators sought to fill in details of CIA and State Department involvement in Nicaragua.

Contras aid operations run from neighboring Costa Rica. Fernandez, referred to in previous testimony at the Iran-Contras hearings under his alias of Tomas Castillo, was the CIA station chief in Costa Rica and worked with Contras rebel leaders during a two-year congressional ban on U.S. military aid to the rebels.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee and a member of the Senate Iran-Contras panel, said Fernandez was being asked "what his actions were, what his instructions were, who he reported to."

As part of their probe, according to intelligence sources who commented only on condition they not be identified, investigators are checking statements made by Clair George, head of the entire CIA clandestine service, and Alan Fiers, chief of the agency's Central American Task Force.

In other developments Friday: Congressional sources said Donald P. Gregg, national security adviser to Vice President Bush, will be questioned for a second time by the Iran-Contras committee, most likely as a public witness, in light of recent testimony by former CIA operative Felix Rodriguez.

Rodriguez told the committee that Gregg wrote: "A swap of weapons for $ was arranged to get aid for the Contras." Rodriguez was questioned as to whether the note was a reference to the diversion of money from the secret arms sales to Iran to the Contras.

Gregg gave a deposition to the committee earlier this month, the congressional sources said. The intelligence sources said CIA has suspended a covert operations officer who used agency helicopters to carry explosives and other supplies to the Contras in early 1986.

The clandestine agent, one source said, was the "chief of base" supervising CIA operations in support of the Contras in Honduras, and was seen in a photograph with the Contras in Honduras, and was seen in a photograph with the Contras in Honduras, and was seen in a photograph with the Contras in Honduras.

Nearly all illegal aliens pay a smuggler to guide them across the border and to their work in Idaho, California, Wyoming or other states, he says. The price can range from $400 to $900 per person.

"It's often more expensive, but seldom less," Colson says.

A majority of illegal aliens come from Mexico, but more and more are arriving from Central and South America, he says.

'Coyote' charges high price to bring illegal aliens to Idaho

TWIN FALLS — It costs about $100 for a bus ticket from Arizona to Twin Falls. A "coyote" or smuggler of illegal aliens will charge up to $900 or more for the same trip.

For the price, an alien might travel in the back of a moving van with 50 other people, sharing only an empty bleach bottle for a bathroom, says John Colson with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Boise.

The new Immigration bill, with its beehive of sanctions against employers and smugglers, should make life tougher for those who trade in human beings, he adds.

Two weeks ago INS agents seized a plane owned by Blaine County Commissioner Robert Gardner at the Pocatello airport because it was allegedly used to transport three illegal aliens to the area. Gardner picked up the aliens near Winemucca, Nev. where, they were stranded after a smuggler's car broke down, alleged an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court.

No charges have been filed in the case, on which Colson refused to comment.

Generally speaking, Colson says, investigating smuggling is the business of the INS's anti-smuggling unit.

He didn't know how many aliens were smuggled into Idaho each year or the number of smugglers arrested each year in the state. Such figures were not available Friday from the district INS office.

Nearly all illegal aliens pay a smuggler to guide them across the border and to their work in Idaho, California, Wyoming or other states, he says. The price can range from $400 to $900 per person.

"They also know the location of Border Patrol check points or sensors," he says.

Once across, the smugglers will leave the aliens in "rubber houses" near the border. Instead of talking one or a few aliens at a time to their destinations in various states, the smugglers will wait for several people to transport.

"It's more profitable for the coyote to take larger groups," he says. In one Idaho

Lab to develop AIDS drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hoffman-La Roche Inc., a New Jersey pharmaceutical company, has been licensed to develop a drug — zalcitabine — that may eventually be used to treat AIDS, federal officials announced Friday.

The agreement gives Roche exclusive rights to develop the drug, known as ddC, and to market it if it proves to be safe and effective.

The drug is a chemical variation of deoxythymine, a component of RNA, and is thought to work by inhibiting the normal function of an enzyme necessary for the AIDS virus to spread from cell to cell.

It was the first time Roche had commented publicly on the story since it hit the newsstands last week.

Rice also accused her friend, Lynn Aramant, of selling the plot and story to the National Enquirer, which published them in its 1987 edition.

Drug receives thumbs down
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Food and Drug Administration advisory committee on Friday recommended that the agency not approve a drug that proponents say can save the lives of heart attack victims by dissolving clots in their blood.

FDA spokeswoman Faye Petersen said the advisory committee's recommendation against approving the genetically engineered drug, known as TPA, which stands for tissue-type plasminogen activator.

came at the end of a day-long meeting. Earlier, the panel recommended allowing expanded use on heart patients of another blood clot dissolving agent — streptokinase — which was approved in 1977 for attacking clots in the legs and lungs, and in 1986 for limited application to heart attack victims.

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — William Boyd Tucker, convicted of killing a pregnant newswoman 10 years ago, was put to death Friday evening in Georgia's electric chair.

Tucker was pronounced dead at 5:23 p.m. M.S.T. said Fred Steple, a spokesman for the Georgia Department of Corrections. He was the 75th person to be executed in the United States since the death penalty was restored in 1976.

Earlier Friday, the U.S. Supreme Court voted 6-3 to reject a formal appeal aimed at overturning Tucker's conviction and his death sentence.

Britain would consider aid

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Friday Britain has received no formal request from the United States for assistance in defending Persian Gulf shipping, but would consider cooperating if asked.

"We have not ended our neutrality" in the war between Iran and Iraq, Carlucci said.

However, other administration officials told the Senate on Friday that the tanker protection plan is aimed largely at keeping Iraq from losing the war to Iran.

"While we want no victor, we can't stand to see Iraq defeated. The specter would lead to a destabilized Iraq from Marakech (in Morocco) to Bangladesh," east of India, Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Armitage said.

The national security adviser said the administration was willing to consult with and give notice to Congress but added, "We do have some problems with the conditionality," which he defined as meaning that "you can't do something until you file these reports."

On the issue of Soviet presence, Carlucci said: "It is very undesirable to have a Soviet presence in the gulf. We do not think they are a constructive force in the Middle East."

He declined to give details of what the U.S. response would be to an Iranian attack.

Under pressure from Congress, the administration agreed to provide the House and Senate with a detailed report on U.S. actions in the gulf within seven days of enactment of a measure calling for such a document.

"Practically speaking, the administration's report would be given in advance of the crucial moves that we all want to know more about and are concerned about," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va.

The reports are intended, in part, to stem congressional demands for formal "consultation" under the War Powers Act, which would trigger a process requiring U.S. forces to be withdrawn unless Congress declares war.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, the Pentagon's Armistice and Assistant Secretary of State Richard W. Murphy said the administration was considering asking U.S. allies in the gulf to allow American warplanes assigned to the escort duty to use their ground bases.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the Secretary of State said the United States also was exploring military cooperation with Western European allies and might ask the Europeans and Japan to make a financial contribution toward defending the oil lanes.

Rep. Steven Strokes, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, said that "while there appears to be some evidence of involvement" by the CIA, there also appears to be evidence tending to exclude certain agency officials — including Casey — from involvement.

Texas millionaire Nelson Bunker Hunt lent in private to the FBI an explicit outline of the guidelines. Were they followed, the CIA would not comment directly on whether Fernandez had acted on higher authority. But he added, "It looks to me like a lot of individual responsibility has been focused on him that maybe he shouldn't have to bear."

Fair skies prevailed over Idaho at mid-afternoon Friday. Temperatures were mostly in the 40s and 50s and winds were mostly light.

Thunderstorms and rain showers developed in the southeast part of the state. The highest temperature in Idaho Friday was 82 degrees at Elgin, while Stanley reported the lowest reading of 29 degrees.

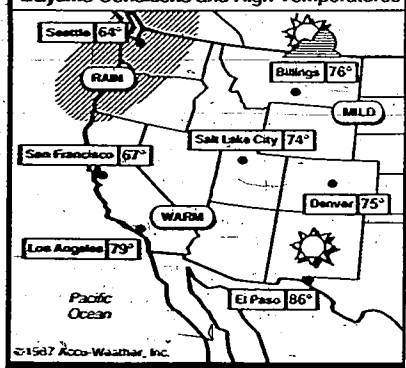

The pollen count in Twin Falls Friday was 70 particles per cubic meter of air.

The agricultural outlook for Southern Idaho shows conditions for corn, wheat and hay will be good early today, then deteriorate through Monday as showers and thunderstorms overcast the area. There will be an average 20 to 40 inch, most falling late tonight and Sunday. Rapid drying and warming will take place Tuesday and Wednesday. Irrigation demands will be below normal through Monday then increase.

Mean June-march soil temperatures will show about a 2-degree drop through Tuesday, then rise 3 to 5 degrees Wednesday. Winds for spraying will be southeasterly, gusty, and average 10 mph this morning, 10 to 15 mph in the afternoon.

case, a blind man was found in the back of a stolen car.

Vans, campers, semi-trucks or roomy automobiles are used by smugglers, who go to great lengths to make them as inconspicuous as possible, Colson says.

Smugglers will also use aircraft or boats to transport aliens up the coast.

Before Border Patrol agents can seize a vehicle, they must have "probable cause" obtained through investigations or other information, Colson says.

The trip for the alien is not luxurious, Colson says.

Along the way, coyotes may rob or assault them or worse — murder them, he says.

In the past few years, smugglers have started sneaking in people and drugs, Colson says. While some smugglers are independents, some are part of large smuggling rings.

The new Immigration act authorizes more than $40 million over the next two years for INS enforcement and implementation of the act. INS officials say the appropriation will double the manning of the Border Patrol in some areas.

The act also imposes tougher penalties on smugglers. Violators will face up to five years imprisonment per smuggled alien.

The penalties plus the sanctions on the people who hire and recruit illegal aliens should turn up the heat at the border.

"We certainly hope to make it very hard for them," he says. "We're going to try to make it harder and harder."

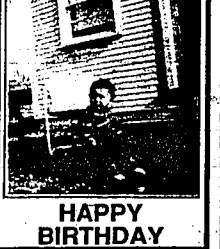

The new act will most certainly escalate the price for the smugglers' services.

"The more dangerous, the more it will cost," Colson says.

Despite the strengthened enforcement and stiff employer sanctions, there will always be a handful of people attempting to cross the borders to find work.

Colson says, "If you are down in Mexico and watching your children starve-to-death because there is no work, you're going to go to the U.S."

When the young, black-haired pilot climbed out of the plane in a red flight suit, Zhukov said, he told onlookers jet interceptors approached at the Soviet frontier but peered off and allowed him to continue.

Tass said Rust came in from the Baltic near the Estonian coastal city of Kohkila-Jarve about 90 miles southeast of Helsinki, Finland.

West German officials said Friday they were not able to learn what happened to Rust, who lives in Hamburg.

He apparently flew the single-engine plane about 250 miles from Helsinki, avoiding an air rescue search in Finland and Soviet defenses. It had been reported missing in Finland.

It amounts to an incredible feat of airmanship, a Western military attaché said. He said Rust would have had to fly at least 100 feet all the way to avoid detection.

Soviet pilots were vigilantly guarded by sophisticated detection systems.

Jet fighters shot down a South Korean jetliner that intruded over Sakhalin Island in the Soviet Far East in September 1983, killing all 269 people aboard. The area around the Kremlin in central Moscow is known to be heavily defended.

Government officials, interested citizens inspect Portneuf River near Lava Hot Springs

Coalition looking for ways to clean silted Portneuf River

LAVA HOT SPRINGS (AP) — The Portneuf River for generations a prime trout fishing stream, has fallen upon hard times.

A group of conservationists, landowners and concerned citizens is trying to do something about it.

About 30 people toured upper stretches of the Portneuf Wednesday looking for ways to clean up the silt-laden stream. A slide and video presentation on riparian management preceded the 25-mile excursion that began north of here along old Highway 20 and concluded on the banks of Chesterfield Reservoir.

Representatives of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game, the Soil Conservation Service and members of a task force studying the river led the tour, pointing out conservation farming methods, a fencing project and erosion problems along the Portneuf Canal.

"At the first stop, overlooking 50 acres of farmland owned by Harry Dean Ozburn, Bob Clark, district SOCS conservationist in Soda Springs, said the strip farming method used by Ozburn the past 15 years has greatly reduced sedimentation that obstructs the river channel.

"We've worked hard to beautifully improve this area and we're going to do everything possible to keep it that way," said Ozburn, who is chairman of the Caribou Soil Conservation District.

By 1990, farmers with highly erodible land must have a conservation plan to be eligible for most federal support programs. Those plans must be fully implemented by 1995.

The second stop was to view a stream-side fencing project. John Heimer, regional fisheries manager for the Department of Fish and Game, said the split-rail fence built on Donna Rae Maybe's property has stabilized the river bank and curbed siltation.

Convincing landowners of the importance of conservation practices is key to reviving the river. Heimer said most ranchers agree to the project if they are given an alternative means of watering cattle and told how fencing encourages water storage, vegetation restoration and wildlife habitat.

"This is part of a bigger package to rehabilitate this river," he said.

Started three years ago, the fencing project is dependent on materials from Fish and Game and volunteer labor. Jimmy Gabetas, whose group Friends of the Portneuf has constructed two miles of fence, spearheaded the project in hopes of restoring trout populations. Once one of the West's fine trout streams, the river's game fish have declined because of habitat abuse and infestation of trash fish.

Bob Bergendorf, a Lava Hot Springs resident, said the decline of fishing in recent years has hurt the town's tourist trade. "If you don't have fishing, you don't have much," he said.

The group also toured the Portneuf Canal, a seven-mile stretch of river that was first dredged and straightened in 1912 to speed water flow to irrigators. Authorities believe the eroding canal walls are the main source of river sediment.

Kent Hornton, coordinator of the Bear River Resource Conservation and Development district, estimated it will cost between $200,000 and $500,000 to repair and stabilize the canal.

Boise, police settle suit, five media report

BOISE (AP) — Boise Police Chief Jim Montgomery and city officials have settled a lawsuit filed against Statesman attorney Craig Storti.

The Idaho Statesman and Boise television station KTVB over a request for records related to a traffic stop police made last September.

As part of the settlement, police returned over a report Thursday that said officers acted appropriately when they stopped a Nevada family visiting on Interstate 84 in a case of traffic stop police made while mistaken identity. The report was responding to a bulletin on a suspect in a killing at a Mountain Home tavern.

After negotiations, they agreed to turn over this report to dismiss the lawsuit, and their child near Boise.

The Lewises, who were on vacation, said they were terrorized by Boise Police later refused to make public the results of an investigation into the incident. Montgomery said any written reports were intended for internal review and would not be made public.

But the Statesman and KTVB argued that the records were public and open to inspection under Idaho law. The city responded that the documents were not open and were subject to attorney-client privileges, in anticipation of litigation by the Lewises.

BOISE (AP) — A home-builders real estate brokers had asked to cancel the competition show the homes in open houses, started from a U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development auction houses were set up rapidly after the weekend would wreck its annual home show — cancellation.

Holland said he did not learn of the HUD's decision until May 19 because he was federal agency to cancel the auction. out of town. By the next day, construction of HUD homes had been notified and the HUD had been scheduled.

"The timing of the HUD auction gresmen had been notified and the HUD had been scheduled. This is something we H.D. Palmer, press secretary to work on all year."

The auction had been scheduled for Saturday. All the members of Idaho's Southwestern Idaho, which sponsors to postpone the auction.

"This is something we H.D. Palmer, press secretary to work on all year."

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said the HUD office contacted Idaho's construction industry and laid out the situation and said HUD homes were scheduled before a postponement.

Tom Lowery, press secretary for Parade of Homes, scheduled Saturday through June 14.

Holland said the home builders between local and national offices of the annual HUD auction would be scheduled for that weekend. He said his office also sought a housing market and cut into home sales.

Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, to avoid that, association repre said he "called a fellow-over at HUD state HUD officials, who in a news release blamed the cancellation on "unforeseen logistical problems . . . done in conflict with local business Whether it will be rescheduled is unclear. But even if it is not, the homes acquired by HUD through repossession, default and roll-in. Boise market sooner or later. Agents expect them to sell quickly once they do.

Robert Scaria, director of operations for Region 10 of HUD in Seattle, said Thursday that many is.

Private mansion funding suggested

BOISE (AP) — A former state member and budget director for senator, has suggested the Idaho Centennial Commission support his idea of private funding for a new governor's mansion.

Vern Brassey, R-Boise, tossed out the idea Thursday at a meeting of the Idaho Centennial Commission's Lasting Legacy Committee, said Annette Weigle, administrative manager.

She said Brassey wasn't seeking commission funding.

Martin Peterson, commission member and budget director for the Idaho Centennial Commission support his idea of private funding for a new governor's mansion.

The Idaho Legislature last session approved a measure allowing the governor to live somewhere other than the governor's mansion in Lasting Legacy Committee, said Annette Weigle, administrative manager.

The state has not decided what to do with the existing governor's mansion.

Idaho Falls bidder low on project

BOISE (AP) — An Idaho Falls company is the apparent low bidder for construction of an expanded animal research facility at Boise's Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Grand Builders bid just over $1.9 million to build the 10,400-square-foot expansion, Alan Perry, associate director of the medical center, said Thursday.

The bid will be reviewed and a contract will be awarded in 30 to 45 days. Construction should begin a month or two later and is expected to take 15 to 18 months, Perry said.

The Boise VA hospital has been conducting animal experiments in a 5,000-square-foot facility since 1960, using sheep, rabbits, rats and mice. With the expansion, the center hopes to add miniature pigs and guinea pigs as research animals.

Officials to drop lawsuit over bills

CALDWELL (AP) — Croydon County officials have agreed to drop a lawsuit filed over bills run up by Sheriff Bill Anderson, and to pay more than $10,000 in outstanding bills.

The County Commission authorized the filing of a 3rd District Court lawsuit Nov. 10 after Anderson overspent his budgets by $33,182 during the 1986 fiscal year which ended Sept. 30.

The officials announced Thursday they have signed an agreement with Anderson that $10,545 in unpaid bills will be paid from the current jail and general operating budgets.

Jury finds 'Twilight Zone' director, 4 associates not guilty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury found "Twilight Zone" director John Landis and four associates innocent of involuntary manslaughter Friday for the movie set deaths of actor Vic Morrow and two children nearly five years ago.

The Superior Court jury deliberated for nine days after the 10-month trial of Landis, associate producer George Folsey Jr., production manager Dan Allingham, special effects coordinator Paul Stewart and Doreey Wingo, pilot of the helicopter that crashed in a firestorm, decapitating Morrow and one of the children and crushing the other. It was Hollywood's first criminal trial resulting from deaths on a movie set and the case was watched anxiously awaited in the film community, where it was viewed as an indictment of safety standards. As the clerk read the verdicts, the defendants sat motionless. Landis' wife Deborah wept softly. Some of the lawyers and defendants patted each other on the back. Later, the defendants and some of their wives rushed tearfully to the jury box, where the panelists had returned to greet them. Then they began hugging and kissing each other. "This was all an unforeseeable accident and you don't prosecute people for unforeseeable accidents," said jury forewoman Lois Rogers. Landis said he was "very grateful to the jury and very appreciative of their patience in my trial. "A truly terrible, tragic accident happened on set of the "Twilight Zone," he added. "This has changed my life and the lives of others.

This (the verdict) doesn't change because the Hollywood film industry witnesses were reluctant to testify for fear of being blackballed. She praised director and former child actor Jackie Cooper for having the courage to do so. "But if we have succeeded in saving one life and deterring one clerk director... then the prosecution was successful," she said. In closing arguments, Mrs. D'Agostino said all five jurors were guilty of criminal negligence, but she reserved her case was hampered most

Asbestos insurers held liable

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Asbestos manufacturers won a major victory Friday when a judge ruled that insurance companies are liable for virtually all costs of valid asbestos claims.

Superior Court Judge Ira Brown issued the ruling in a trial that began more than 20 years ago and involves more than $1 billion in insurance coverage.

The decision is certain to be appealed by some of the more than 20 insurance companies remaining in the case, which began when 75 insurers were sued by five asbestos manufacturers.

Seth Hufstetler, a lawyer for Travelers Insurance Co., argued that coverage should apply only for insurance policies in effect when a worker is exposed to asbestos, which may be decades before a lung disease is diagnosed.

The ruling goes "farther than any other case" in imposing liability on insurers over many years, said Gary Schlessinger, who represented Reliance Insurance Co.

But by spreading liability over every company that insured a manufacturer during the period, the ruling means that "there's going to be more coverage available, and all of the available policy dollars will be there," said David S. Geller, a lawyer for GAF Corp. and Nicolet Inc., two asbestos manufacturers.

That would protect workers against the possibility that manufacturers would declare bankruptcy as a shield against asbestos claims. That was the action taken by Manville Corp., which has dropped out of the case, delayed action on its injury claims and settled with its insurers for more than $650 million.

The trial, already one of the longest in California history, is continuing on unresolved issues of insurance coverage.

When the trial began in February 1985, it was picketed by about 60 former asbestos workers, who protested that none of the large sums of money involved, including $20 million in lawyers' fees, would go to injury victims.

Many of these picketers are dead, and others are dying.

They were exposed to asbestos in shipyards and other workplaces as early as the 1930s, before the deadly effects of the durable insulation fiber were learned. It is blamed for the lung disease, asbestosis, as well as lung cancer.

Oklahoma floods keep 1,000 from homes, damage crops

By The Associated Press

Rainfall eased Friday in flood-weary Oklahoma, but renewed thunderstorms pummeled Texas with heavy rain and tornadoes that destroyed at least 11 homes but apparently caused no serious injuries.

Near Lubbock, Texas, twin tornadoes raked across a military housing community near Reese Air Force Base early Friday evening, destroying six mobile homes and at least two permanent residences, police said. The base itself was not hit.

Police were searching through the rubble to make sure no one was hurt, but they believe people were able to escape in time, said Lubbock County Sheriff's Capt. Anthony Vaughn.

A few miles west in the town of Smyer, another tornado destroyed three mobile homes, but no injuries were reported, police said.

In Oklahoma, where 10 days of rain caused flooding that kept up to 4,000 people out of their homes, the rainfall eased Friday.

"If no more rain falls, if flood gates don't have to be opened — two big ifs — we won't have to open any more shelters," said Diana Paul, state coordinator of Oklahoma's Red Cross emergency operation.

Officials in Iowa, Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska tallied millions of dollars in damage from flooding that eroded roads, ruptured dikes and washed topsoil and young plants from fields.

Two drownings were blamed on the week of stormy weather in Oklahoma, six people were injured in Texas when heavy rain collapsed a roof and 10 people were injured in Wisconsin when they were struck by lightning.

Father, small son are rescued from pickup stalled in high water near San Antonio, Texas

Elsewhere, a heat wave that has rippled across the nation hit the Northeast on Friday, pushing New York City to a humid 95 degrees and bringing the season's first heat ban on using horses to pull carriages. Officials in Michigan, where Detroit hit 92 Thursday and again Friday, urged farmers to take extra steps to keep livestock cool. In Newark, N.J., a 97-degree temperature Friday broke an 18-year-old record.

A state of emergency remained in effect in Oklahoma, where 6 to 9 inches of rain fell in the central part of the state Thursday.

In south-central Oklahoma, rainfall earlier in the week continued to cause problems Friday. The Washita River was above flood stage in the Pauls Valley area, where 500 families evacuated Thursday, the National Weather Service said.

City officials in Pauls Valley went door-to-door late Friday afternoon, asking residents who had returned after the previous evacuation to prepare to leave again.

"It takes about two days for the water (from the Washita River) to reach Pauls Valley," said Fire Captain Dale Gates. "There's a beautiful blue sky and a few clouds, but the water's rising."

In Texas, more than 6 inches of rain fell Friday morning as Austin, flooding numerous intersections in the state's capital. Power outages affecting about 6,000 people were reported in the northwestern part of the state — overnight, but Texas Power and Light officials said most service was restored by sunrise.

By noon in San Antonio, firefighters and paramedics responded to 31 rescues of people stranded in high water, said department spokeswoman Cecilia Stobley.

A four-member road crew pulling up barricades at a crossing had to be rescued when water rushed up on them. "It gets real bad out there. The water went up so quick that they didn't have a chance," said Bexar deputy Sgt. Ed Olivares.

More than 8 inches of rain in the Texas Hill Country flooded rural roads and forced postponement of the last day of school at Bandera until Saturday. "The administration has gathered at one person's house. They couldn't get into our school," said secretary Betty Peters. "The kids were supposed to practice for graduation services this morning, but they couldn't get in."

Funnel clouds were reported over southeastern Texas during the morning Friday, and funnels touched down near Houston, Bay City and Liberty but caused no damage, the National Weather Service said.

In the western part of the state, the tornadoes reported Friday evening near Lubbock, Texas, came exactly a week after a twister flattened the town of Saragosa, more than 200 miles southwest of Lubbock. That storm killed 29 people and injured 162.

Streams began receding Friday in central and southwestern Oklahoma, allowing some residents to return to muddied homes, but hundreds of others planned to spend a second night in shelters, and many roads were blocked by high water.

Rain in the hardest hit areas diminished Friday, but the threat of more rain remained through the weekend, the weather service said.

Damage to Oklahoma, wheat, peanut and cotton crops probably will reach the millions of dollars, said Anna Belle Wildemann, director of marketing for the state agriculture department.

"It's just a drizzle loss," she said. "It will come into several million dollars and will be the worst wheat crop we've had in a long, long time."

In southwestern Iowa, damage to topsoil and newly planted crops was estimated at $3.6 million. Dennis Olson of the state Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service said reports from the four hardest hit counties in the southwest tip of the state show that 20 percent to 30 percent of the area's corn and soybean crops were harmed.

Agricultural officials in eastern Nebraska asked for federal aid to pay for damage to crops and buildings estimated at $1.75 million.

Over-all damage in Oklahoma could rise as high as $20 million, said state Civil Defense Director Norris Price.

Ms. Fuller of Oklahoma's Red Cross said evacuation shelters remained open Friday in four counties. She said many people left to check on damage at their homes and then returned to the shelters.

Ms. Fuller said the Red Cross and other charity organizations began offering food to people who had returned home to start cleaning up. "Experience tells us that these people won't stop what they're doing to go some place to eat," she said.

Wider Medicare role wins OK

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee Friday approved a major expansion of Medicare benefits, making it virtually certain that significant new catastrophic health care coverage will be offered to the nation's 30 million recipients this year.

The committee action, coming on a 20-4 vote, set a $1,700 limit on patients' annual out-of-pocket expenses for hospital and doctor bills and offered unlimited days of government-paid hospital care. Currently, there is no overall limit on how much Medicare recipients could have to pay for medical care each year.

"I am delighted; I am very pleased with the way it's gone," said Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, after winning bipartisan support for his plan.

The measure would give Americans "greater confidence that they can count on Medicare when an unexpected illness strikes," Bentsen said.

The House Ways and Means Committee has already passed a measure providing for a $1,500 ceiling on patient outlays. Both the Democrats, who control the House and Senate, and President Reagan agree on the merit of the new benefit. Thus the only debate now will be on what the patients' payment limit should be and the method of paying for the biggest change in Medicare since the program's creation in 1965.

The Reagan administration wants to set the personal spending limit at $2,000. All of the catastrophic care proposals, while differing in specifics, would involve higher premiums for recipients, who include those over 65, those with disabilities, those on hospital and doctor bills. For about 900,000 of these people, the savings would be $1,000 a year or more.

Current law requires Medicare recipients to pay $20 for the first day of hospital care. The next 59 days are paid by the government. After that, the patient pays $130 a day.

The Senate Finance Committee bill, by contrast, would require the patient to pay only the first day's charge — $20. Medicare would pay the full cost of all additional days in the hospital, regardless of how long the patient stayed.

Congress checking on CIA role reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators are looking into whether they were misled by senior CIA officials about their knowledge of agency support for the Nicaraguan Contras during a ban on U.S. military aid, intelligence sources said Friday.

As part of their probe, investigators are checking statements made by Clair George, head of the entire CIA clandestine service, and Alan Fiers, chief of the agency's Central American Task Force, sources added.

A CIA base chief has been summoned from Honduras and told to be prepared to testify behind closed doors within the next few days, the sources said.

In addition, the sources disclosed that the base chief was placed on administrative leave by CIA officials within the last two weeks because he used U.S. helicopters to carry explosives and other military supplies to the Contras inside Nicaragua in early 1986.

The disclosures came as the former CIA station chief in Costa Rica, was questioned behind closed doors Friday by the House-Senate investigating committees.

Details of his testimony were not immediately available, but Fernandez has told colleagues in recent weeks that George and Fiers were aware of and fully in support of his work on behalf of the Contras.

House committee chairman Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., confirmed that the committees expect to receive some information from CIA officers, either in private testimony or by deposition, to resolve the contradictory testimony about the role of top CIA officials.

The sources, who declined to be identified by name, reported that both George and Fiers had told congressional investigators that they were unaware of agency support for the Contras and that CIA field officers who supplied such aid acted on their own.

At the CIA, spokesman George Lauer repeated a statement the agency issued two months ago that CIA had warned its employees twice to avoid agency involvement with the Contras' private benefactors.

There is no basis for stating that agency officials authorized any CIA activities contrary to that policy.

Asked whether some CIA field agents were now telling a different story, Lauer said the agency's internal investigation did not produce such testimony. Speaking of those field agents, Lauer added, "I can understand how they got involved emotionally, but professionally that's the wrong way to go. They were told to stay away and they should have done it."

Some members of the House and Senate investigating committees are said to believe that Congress was misled in earlier secret statements by CIA officials.

One source said it was unlikely that the base chief in Honduras could have used helicopters to deliver lethal equipment to the Contras without the knowledge of his immediate superior, the CIA station chief at the U.S. Embassy in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. CIA accounting procedures would include helicopter airlift and fuel use in reports seen by station chiefs, the source said.

Cuban general called prize, man on way out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department on Friday portrayed the Cuban general who detained the United States as a potential source of "significant political and military information," but Cuban officials suggested his career had been in decline because of emotional problems.

Brig. Gen. Rafael del Pino Diaz Jold (American authorities) after arriving Thursday at Key West Naval Air Station in Florida that he had recently been appointed deputy chief of staff of the Cuban Armed Forces Ministry.

But a statement issued by Cuba's Revolutionary Armed Forces Ministry said that del Pino has been assigned for health reasons to "historical tasks," including the organization of an Air Force museum.

U.S. officials, insisting on anonymity, said the conflicting claims appeared to be irreconcilable.

Amid tight security precautions, del Pino, 48, was flown shortly before 3 p.m. Friday by an unmarked jet from the Key West naval facility, where he had landed his white Cessna 402 aircraft on Thursday accompanied by his wife and three children.

Regardless of his status at the time of his defection, State Department spokesman Charles Redman indicated that the administration looks on del Pino as a defector of considerable importance.

"As a senior military official with experience reaching back over many years in several areas of Cuban activity, he is obviously in command of significant military and political information," Redman said.

In addition to his military duties,

Redman said, del Pino also was once head of Cuba's civilian airline Cuban de Aviacion, was a delegate to two Communist Party congresses and is the author of two books. He reportedly was a pilot in the Cuban Air Force at the time of the Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 and one of his books was devoted to that subject.

The statement by the Cuban military, a copy of which was made available by the Cuban Interests Section here, said that del Pino had been suspended by a military medical commission as a combat pilot on Jan. 27 due to "successive states of psychic stress" and eye problems.

Cuba gave no account of del Pino's responsibilities prior to his purported assignment in carrying out historical tasks but it acknowledged that he had been honored with promotions to positions of responsibility.

U.S. officials, asking not to be identified, said that only a Cuban military officer of high importance could have successfully undertaken the escape that del Pino launched on Thursday.

In Key West, Navy Lt. Steve Burnett, responding to the Havana reports about del Pino's emotional stability, said he regards del Pino as "a very intelligent, professional officer. He's a well-groomed, intellectual individual. He speaks English."

A number of Cuban officials have defected over the years but none is believed to have been as important as del Pino. U.S. officials said del Pino will be asked about such issues as Cuban policy in Central America and Africa, two areas where the United States and Cuba have been at odds for years.

FISH FROM ELSEWHERE

Even with coasts all around it, the United States imports about 65 percent of the fish we eat. If you want to stir up some lengthy editorializing, mention this down around the waterfront.

Q. What's "P.O.P." advertising?
A. Point of purchase. Those little signs you see tacked up over the merchandise are such. Did you know 81 out of 100 buyers, until they get to the store, don't know how much or bird did, too. In the last 45 years, it has flown in great numbers to every continent except Antarctica, settling in foreign lands as has no other species except the human. It, now outnumbered every other heron in North America.

How scientists know a man's beard grows most on Wednesdays and least on Sundays I can't say, but that's what they claim.

Q. Do any of our states have more vehicles than people?
A. Only North Dakota.

TRAVELED BIRD

An African heron came to be called the cattle egret because it followed grazing cows — to eat the insects said cows stirred up. But it found out it could get more insects behind tractors and the like. Farm machinery spread worldwide. So the such establishment to be assigned the chore in case of a raid to swallow the dice.

Q. Sunday night is when most people watch TV. Saturday night is when most who own VCRs watch cassettes. Why this difference?

A. Because what's on TV Sunday night is worth watching. Sometimes. Or so say those who have studied this matter. Well, the rising popularity of VCRs, in part, to Saturday night TV programming.

Grand Duke of Luxembourg's son to wed Frenchwoman

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — Jean Nassau is not just another businessman, and his latest trip to Paris is not just another business trip.

The 30-year-old son of the Grand Duke of Luxembourg will marry in the next few days, said the palace Thursday without getting specific about the bride.

He'll wed Helene Vestier, a French commiser, in Paris.

Nassau is one of five children of Grand Duke Jean and Grand Duchess Josephine Charlotte. He was fifth in line to the throne after his elder brother Prince Henri, 32, who has three sons.

He took the name Jean Nassau and last September renounced any claim to the throne of his tiny Grand Duchy wedded among Belgium, France and West Germany to continue his career in business.

Neither he nor his wife will have a royal title.

Ellerbe notches yet another news show flop

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Ellerbee has presided over the demise of many news shows, and now she has another notch in her belt.

Carter and Ray Gambell, whose low-rated magazine news program "Our World" was canceled by ABC, signed off their last show Thursday night.

"Our World," which used commentary and film clips to examine various years in recent history, was scheduled against NBC's blockbuster comedy "The Cosby Show."

Ms. Ellerbee, whose biography "And So It Goes" was a best-seller, co-anchored the off-beat NBC News show "Overnight" until it was canceled in 1981. In her book she joked about the number of failed shows she wretched.

"By the way," she told viewers Thursday, "if you wonder whether this sort of thing gets easier with practice, it doesn't."

The Byrds' founding member touring again

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-songwriter Chris Hillman, who pioneered the 1960s folk-rock sound as a founding member of The Byrds, is getting out of the studio seat and onto the road with his new band.

"It beats selling shoes, as they say," Hillman told The Associated Press during a break Thursday night at Denver from a popular club here. The Desert Rose Band has a country sound with a bluesy edge, and they've hit the road to promote their first album, called, for some reason, "Desert Rose."

Hillman, who enjoys live performance whether he's at Madison Square Garden or in the mountains of northeast Tennessee.

LINDA ELLERBEE Canceled by ABC

"The prof is on the stage," said Hillman, 62, who lives in Ventura, Calif. "Session work isn't any fun. That's like seven people painting the Mona Lisa and you painting the eyelash."

Johnny Cash Freedom Train rally called off

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A rally with patriotic speeches, a veterans parade and a concert starring Johnny Cash has been canceled because fewer than 100 people bought tickets, a promoter said Friday.

"Johnny is not coming, and the dignitaries have been contacted and asked to cancel all their flights," said Randy Mathenia, a spokesman for Show-Time Productions Inc. of Jackson, Tenn.

The rally had been set for Saturday at the Mid-South Amphitheater, which seats 5,000, but fewer than 100 tickets were sold at $12.50 a pop by Thursday afternoon. "We didn't feel that 3,000 or 4,000 or 5,000 people would march up on the day of the concert," Mathenia said.

Promoters had originally planned a 10-city tour of flag-waving rallies and musical shows called the Johnny Cash Freedom Train, and the canceled concert was the main surviving event.

Mathenia said planned shows in Baltimore and Pittsburgh were in jeopardy.

Pistons owner offers college scholarships

DETROIT (AP) — Warren Coville's parents weren't wealthy but they managed to send him to college, and now the part owner of the Detroit Pistons wants to do the same for 78 fifth-graders.

Coville attended Roosevelt Elementary School in the 1920s, but nowadays most of the children end up dropping out of high school.

"We want to convey the message to go on to the class of '94," the year of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers, unsuccessful in her April bid for a city council seat, has been appointed to the city's Board of Public Works.

Myrtle Evers was appointed Thursday by council president Pat Russell, who faces a run-off for a different council seat.

Mrs. Evers, whose appointment must be approved by entire City Council, will draw an annual salary of $6,337. She currently serves as the director of community affairs for an oil company and said she supports Russell's election bid.

Jefferson bust sold

NEW YORK (AP) — A plaster bust of Thomas Jefferson, known to all Americans as the image on the back of a five-cent coin, sold Friday for considerably more — it brought a record $2.6 million, Christie's announced.

The sale to an anonymous buyer broke records for the highest price paid at auction for a portrait bust and for a piece of pre-20th century sculpture, according to a spokesman for the auction house, Robin Riley.

The value of the bust had been estimated at $400,000 to $600,000 before the sale. The gavel fell at $2.6 million, to which the auction house added the customary 10 percent buyer's premium.

Jefferson was U.S. minister to France from 1795 to 1797 when he became acquainted with sculptor Jean-Antoine Houdon and began frequenting his studio. Sometime during that period, he apparently sat for a portrait. The plaster bust that resulted was first exhibited at the Paris Salon of 1788.

Diplomat set free; abduction angers Britain

LONDON (AP) — An Iranian revolutionary group released a British diplomat in Tehran on Friday after Britain protested angrily that he was beaten and abducted at gunpoint in front of his wife and children 24 hours earlier.

In a diplomatic row, Iran protested what it called the "illegal arrest" of an Iranian consular official in Britain.

The Iranian was free on bail charged with shoplifting, reckless driving and resisting officers who arrested him Thursday. An Iranian diplomat claimed police tortured the official.

The Foreign Office rejected any link between the Iranian's arrest and the abduction of British diplomat Edward Chaplin, 36, in Tehran.

"If there were any question of it being tit-for-tat it would be a disgraceful affair," Timothy Renton, a deputy foreign secretary, told reporters before a meeting with the top diplomat in London, Charge d'Affaires Akhondzadeh Basti, who was summoned to hear Britain's demand for an explanation.

Basti said afterward: "I don't think there was a connection between these two incidents. It was a coincidence, you may say."

He also said Chaplin probably would face charges, but gave no indication of what those charges might be.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency (IRNA) said Chaplin was seized by members of the Revolutionary Komiteh, an internal security force. It quoted the Komiteh's public relations office as saying Chaplin was "arrested for being a suspect, was temporarily released and his case would be referred to the responsible officials."

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher expressed relief that Chaplin, the first secretary of the British Interest Section at Sweden's Embassy in Tehran, had been released.

Chaplin did not suffer any broken bones in the beating and was "as well as could be expected," the Foreign Office said.

Asked what the incident meant for relations between Britain and Iran, Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe said it was too early to reply.

"We shall have to find out more of what happened," he said.

Britain closed its embassy in Iran in 1980 following Iranian charges that Iranian students detained after a violent anti-American demonstration in London were ill-treated by prison guards.

The Foreign Office spokesman, who by custom is not identified, called Chaplin's abduction a "horrible incident."

Chaplin was driving with his wife, 3-year-old daughter, infant son, and a colleague and another small child when a car stopped suddenly and caused a collision with his car. Six armed men got out, beat Chaplin, dragged him into their car and drove off, the spokesman said.

One gunman got into Chaplin's car with his family and friends and drove off recklessly, finally stopping and leaving them, the Foreign Office spokesman said.

IRNA said Iran made two protests to Britain about the arrest of Ali Qassemi, a vice consul at Iran's consulate in Manchester, northern England.

Qassemi, 29, was arrested May 9 and accused of shoplifting, British authorities said. The Foreign Office said Iran asserted Qassemi had full diplomatic immunity, but Britain felt he only had immunity while carrying out his official duties.

Police in Manchester said Qassemi failed to appear for a hearing Thursday, and police looking for him arrested him after a high-speed chase. He was released on bail late Thursday.

The sudden strain between Britain and Iran came amid suggestions that the Royal Navy might be asked to help the U.S. Navy provide protection for Kuwaiti oil tankers in the Persian Gulf, where Iran and Iraq are at war.

Howe said the United States had not asked Britain for help in the gulf, where Britain has two frigates keeping an eye on British vessels in the war zone.

Fiji's deposed prime minister sues to be returned to office

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Deposed Prime Minister Timoci Bavadra filed suit Friday to be returned to power, contending the interim government is illegal because it resulted from the army coup that ousted him.

His suit, filed in the Supreme Court, said the dissolution of Parliament was illegal. It called the interim government a military regime.

Governor General Iatu Sir Renuka Ganania, representative of Queen Elizabeth II in this former British colony, has promised new elections.

Ganania says he has executive power in the archipelago, but coup leader Sitiveni Rabuka is head of a 16-member government the governor general appointed and chairman of a committee to rewrite the constitution.

Rabuka was a lieutenant colonel when he led the coup May 14, but has been promoted to full colonel. He also controls the army and police.

He has said he overthrew the month-old government, which was dominated by ethnic Indians, to preserve political power for indigenous Fijians. That is to be the central provision of his new constitution.

Pact ready to cut deal on forces

BRUSSELS (AP) — Warsaw Pact officials said Friday the Soviet-led military alliance is ready to negotiate a deal with NATO limiting the armed strength of each side to the minimum required for secure defenses.

Herbert Krollkowski, secretary general of the Warsaw Pact, also told a news conference it favors negotiations on battlefield nuclear weapons which have a range of less than 300 miles, once missiles of medium and short range are eliminated from Europe.

A communique released in the day said the talks on battlefield weapons should be part of the proposed multilateral negotiations on reducing conventional forces, not handled separately.

But Krollkowski, who is also deputy East German foreign minister, avoided a direct question as to whether the battlefield weapons talks should be part of any conventional forces negotiations, saying only, "We are ready to discuss these things at any time."

Warsaw Pact nations concluded a two-day meeting Friday in East Berlin, the communist sector of the divided city.

The proposal of negotiations on battlefield, or tactical, weapons appeared to address West Germany's concern that it would bear the brunt of a nuclear attack if there is agreement on eliminating missiles of medium and short range.

In general, the meeting broke little new ground. The Soviet bloc alliance appeared to be biding its time until the West responds to Kremlin offers on getting rid of the missiles.

"They are really scraping the bottom of the barrel if they could only come up with a call for discussing military doctrines with NATO," a Western diplomat said privately.

According to Krollkowski, the NATO-Warsaw Pact talks could start this year in Warsaw or Brussels, headquarters of the Eastern and Western alliances respectively.

Students pour into streets; protests rage

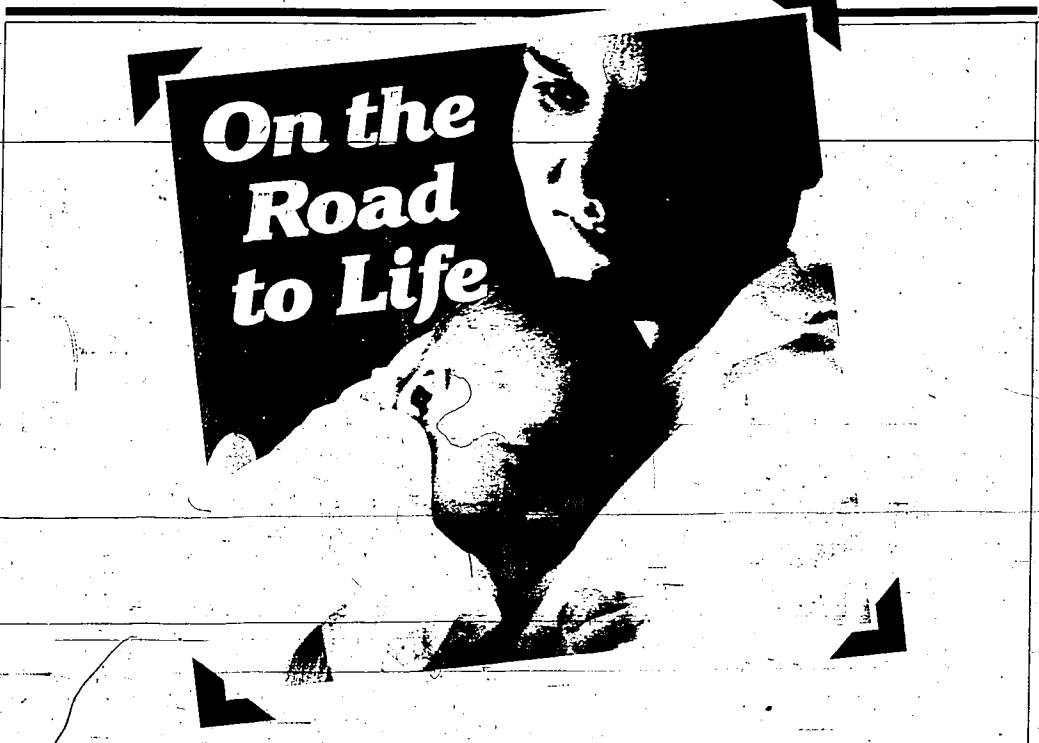

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Thousands of anti-government students poured into the streets Friday in new demonstrations to protest the torture death of a dissident and a police cover-up of the affair.

Demonstrators fought hand-to-hand battles with riot police. Students firebombed a police station in Seoul and engaged in running clashes as the government deployed at least 5,000 riot police to prevent protests in the city center.

The demonstrations followed the arrest Friday of three senior police commanders accused of trying to conceal the circumstances of the death Jan. 14 of Park Chong-chol. Officials admitted Park was repeatedly beaten before he died.

Government Prosecutor Han Young-suk announced that three commanders, including the deputy chief of the national police, were arrested for trying to cover up how many officers were involved in the death of Park. Three junior officers were formally charged in the killing and "brutal" torture of the dissident, he said.

Two other junior officers were charged at the time with the death that has created nationwide anger. President Chun Doo-hwan dismissed the prime minister and other key ministers Tuesday to try to defuse the crisis.

Marie Feller began delivery of her baby eight weeks premature. At her hometown hospital, labor complications struck which endangered both her and her child.

To live, Marie and her baby needed to reach St. Luke's neonatal facilities and the expert attention of a perinatologist — a physician who can determine medical complications of a baby still in the uterus. But to stabilize and transport her quickly, special needs had to be met.

Her situation required an emergency team fully trained to handle a delivery. They would need room to work while on the road... specialized instruments like a fetal heart monitor... pregnancy-safe medications to control her seizures. Perhaps even an incubator should the baby come too soon. Fortunately for Marie, that special help was possible. Both mother and baby are doing well today because of St. Luke's Maternal/Child Transport Van.

Because people like you care enough to support St. Luke's kids, we now have this special transport van. Equipped with essential medical appliances and supplies to fit the special needs of pregnant mothers, babies, and small infants, it's ready to roll in any direction. From Baker to Twin Falls, North to Salmon or south to Nevada. With a transport team including physicians, nurses and respiratory therapists trained in critical care. Often, that's what it takes to bring one life into the world rather than losing two.

St. Luke's goal for the Maternal/Child Transport Van was to create a mobile intensive care unit that provides the level of care a patient can receive at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center. Thanks to you, it arrived this year.

Through the Children's Miracle Network Telethon, we're raising the dollars that make the difference and make St. Luke's one of the most advanced "young life" facilities in the Northwest.

It doesn't take much to help. Combined with the gifts of others who care, your donation of even $25 dollars will help bring life-saving services to hundreds of children this year. And the best part is knowing that 100% of the dollars you give stays right here in Idaho to benefit the YoungLife programs at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center.

So pledge yourself to a Show of Love. Watch the Children's Miracle Network Telethon on KIVI Channel 6, May 30 & 31. Give mothers and babies like Marie and her child a lift. Because the dollars you give will go for the ride of their life.

ASCS denies aid for Bell Rapids landslide

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A federal agency denied the Bell Rapids Mutual Irrigation Co.'s request for $150,000 and Sen. James McClure said Friday he is appealing the decision, according to McClure's office.

The money was to help deal with damage to an irrigation system. Part of the system was destroyed in a landslide April 6. Still pending is a $1.3 million supplemental application before Congress to help Bell Rapids farmers recover from the landslide.

H.D. Palmer, McClure's spokesman, said Greg Brown, vice chairman of the Bell Rapids board, says he has no immediate comment on the denial of the $150,000.

The damage tally from the slide is $1.5 million for pipe, pumps and other equipment and a projected $532,000 in crop losses due to the interruption of irrigation on the southern portion of the tract, says Brown.

"A review of the documentation submitted does not show a natural disaster to be the principal cause of the earth slide," said an Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service official in a April 29 letter to the Twin Falls ASCS office.

Bell Rapids was seeking money under the Emergency Conservation Program. ASCS said the slide was caused by escaping water from the irrigation canals and cannot be attributed to a natural disaster. The law specifically says Emergency Conservation Program money is for natural disaster relief, the letter said.

"As far as I know it's dead in the water," said Jim McCloughlin, ASCS county director.

But McClure said ASCS may have reached its conclusion before gathering all the facts, according to a press release.

Fact-finding by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, which is responsible for protection of the land surrounding the site, has been unable to pinpoint the cause of the slide, McClure said. McClure said seepage from the irrigation system and unusually wet springs in 1985 and 1986 could be factors.

The Bell Rapids tract consists of 26,000 acres on a butte atop the Hagerman fossil beds. Bell Rapids is several miles downstream on the Snake River from the Owsley Bridge to Hagerman.

Shortly after the slide occurred Gary Carson, BLM Boise district manager, said that area keeps loading up. It gets heavier and heavier. The water sits on a slick layer of clay and when it reaches a certain weight it slides out. The water accumulates from irrigation which percolates water onto the clay, he said.

One of three pump stations was destroyed in the slide. The irrigation company laid pipe in the undamaged stations to the help carry water to the southern portion of the tract which used to be served by the pump station destroyed in the slide.

H&W sets rules for assistance of legalized aliens

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The State Department of Health and Welfare has established its own regulations on what assistance it can provide to legalized aliens under the new immigration act.

The department formed the regulations because it didn't have any federal guidelines to follow, said Jerry Quick, supervisor of policy development.

"We can't wait for these guys. If we wait for them, we are in trouble," he said.

Meanwhile in Washington, D.C., various federal agencies are completing federal regulations for assistance programs affected by the Immigration Reform and Control Act.

Norm-Thompson, who heads an immigration act implementation task force for U.S. Health and Human Services, said some regulations should be ready in 30 days.

The proposed set of rules will establish how and how much states are reimbursed for what they spend aiding legalized aliens.

The immigration act bars aliens seeking temporary resident status under its legalization or legal-worker provisions from obtaining public assistance for five years.

The act makes exceptions in cases of emergencies and for pregnant women, children, and the aged, blind and disabled.

The state interpreted the federal act and established its regulations, Quick said.

The emergency procedure was used in the state rule-making because aliens granted temporary residency would not otherwise qualify for medical assistance without immediate implementation of the provisions, said the published set of regulations.

"These individuals' health and welfare will be adversely affected by denial of medical assistance," stated the document.

The state rules echo the federal statutes. They bar legalized aliens from receiving benefits for Aid to Families of Dependent Children, an existing assistance program, for five years.

Children under 18 years old, pregnant women and the aged, blind and disabled will receive medical aid, if they meet AFDC qualifications.

Not every legalized alien child will be eligible, Quick added. Children with one parent in the household or a disabled parent usually qualify for AFDC.

Pregnant women would only receive aid for pregnancy-related conditions, he said.

The state rules also duplicates language in the act that followed language in a prior act which allowed aliens to receive medical aid in emergencies in some cases, Quick said.

The state regulations became effective May 5, the day when the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service began accepting applications for legalization under the new act. Comment will be accepted on the state rules until June 9.

The federal rules, when they arrive, will probably be used as comment on the state rules, Quick said. As a result, the state rules may be changed accordingly.

"We may be off-base on some things. When they (the federal rules) come down, there may be something in there we didn't recognize in our reading of the act," he said.

The impact to date from the act has been small, Quick said. He knew of only two cases where the Health and Welfare Department was contacted by aliens seeking emergency services. One case was denied.

"We don't expect we are going to be very much impacted by this," he said.

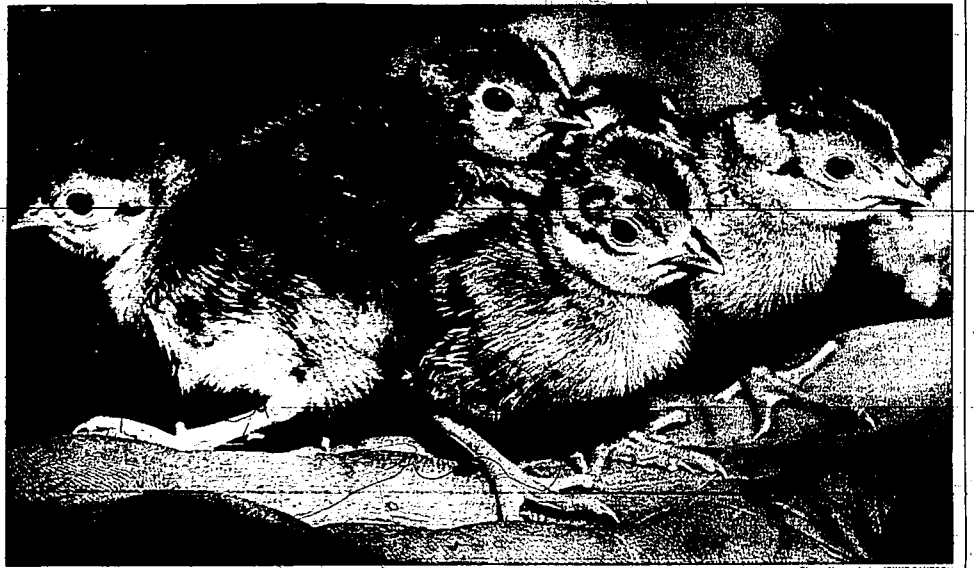

More than 100,000 aliens have been seeking statements from department officials stating they have not received public assistance. People seeking legalization have to show they are independent and not wards of public assistance, he said.

Thompson said that Health and Human Services is preparing federal regulations for the assistance aliens may receive. Within 30 days, the U.S. Department of Justice will be releasing a set of regulations about programs and assistance legalized aliens can't receive.

Checking in at the bird farm

Idaho Game Birds Inc. received 480 ring-necked pheasant chicks Friday as the first installment of a total of 4,000 chicks expected soon

First wave of pheasant chicks arrives

By TERESA Z. TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — The Magic Valley Bird Farm received its first shipment of day-old pheasant chicks Friday, formally kicking off the start of operations for the now privately run pheasant-raising facility.

Idaho Game Birds Inc., which is leasing the facility from the State Fish and Game, received the shipment of 480 chicks. It is the first installment of 4,000 chicks expected at the bird farm in the next few weeks.

The ring-necked pheasant chicks arrived from the Oakwood Game Farm, Princeton, Minn., via U.S. Air Mail. Chicks are banded twice a week at the Minnesota facility, and usually shipped the following day.

Dick Jordan, president of Idaho Game Birds Inc., said the number of chicks per shipment would vary because the bird farm was receiving surplus chicks from Oakwood. Cost to the corporation for the 4,000 birds is $2,800.

"Because it is late in the season, and most other bird farms have already placed their orders, we will obtain our 4,000 chicks from the surplus Oakwood has," Jordan said. The chicks will be paid for out of funds set aside to help get the facility started.

"We plan to have 16,000 adult birds by the time we are fully operational. However, that won't be until next year," Jordan said. "We will start out with 25,000 to 30,000 chicks."

Jordan said the chicks will spend approximately one month in an incubator-type pen that provides extra warmth for them. They are considered adult at 20 weeks.

"This year we will give 800 adult pheasant roosters to the Fish and Game in lieu of rent. Next year, we will give them 900 birds, and the following year, 1,000," Jordan said. After three years, that figure may be renegotiated.

The birds given to the Fish and Game will be released around Ft. Boise, one of several wildlife management areas, Jordan said.

In addition to the lease arrangement with the Fish and Game that will provide pheasants for hunters, Jordan said Idaho Game Birds Inc. has a deal in the works with a number of restaurants to sell the birds at market value.

"That money — any profit we make — goes back into the running of the farm and into community interests connected with the bird farm, and eventually, corporation shareholders will get dividends," he said.

Jordan said the corporation has approximately 110 members and is unusual because it has drawn together many diverse groups in the Magic Valley toward a common goal. Bill Gneim, former operator of the bird farm and an authority on pheasants, will act as advisor to the bird farm managers.

Jerome Mayor Ralph Peters was instrumental in pushing through the deal the corporation made with Fish and Game, Jordan said.

"The city is interested in keeping the facility open and operating," Peters said. "The private organization is running the show, but we will stand by to help."

"The bird farm will run largely through volunteer efforts," Jordan said. Both students and adults will donate their time to accomplish repair work, painting, mowing and other chores. Other organizations have also volunteered time to aid in upgrading the facility, he said.

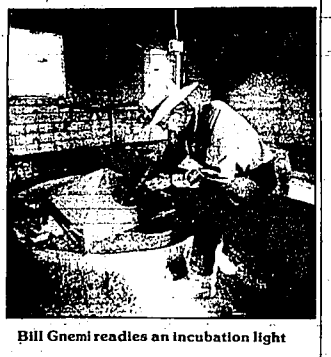

In addition to pheasants, the facility also has approximately 100 exotic birds. Jordan said exotic birds are non-game birds and are there for viewing purposes only.

"We plan to have kids involved in conducting tours of the facility. They will educate themselves and then educate others. We plan to have a nature center and a raptor rehabilitation center," Jordan said.

Local universities and colleges have also expressed an interest in conducting studies at the facility, Jordan said.

"This is a dream come true," said Jordan. "To be a biologist and have 20 acres under fence and a facility like this."

Western Days rodeo cut as a money loser

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Due to a loss of money last year, no rodeo was scheduled for this year's Western Days, said Wes Gates, co-chairman of the Western Days committee.

The professional rodeo sponsored by Western Days last year was poorly attended and lost over $7,000, he said.

Last year's rodeo ran for three days and held four shows. According to paid attendance records, no more than 700 people turned up for each show, Gates said.

"It (the rodeo) was our largest insurance problem, and our largest expense. We promoted it as well as it could be promoted and people still didn't come," he said.

Discussing the rodeo's failure, last year's committee decided that it was the wrong time of the year for a rodeo, Gates said.

"Rodeo-oriented people tend to be working their fields during that time of the year," he said.

Gates compared the traditional Western Days rodeo to a baseball player. "It's not that he got tired, his contract just didn't get renewed for another season," he said.

Wildlife group opposes Bliss dam plan

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Wildlife Federation has joined the State Fish & Game Department in opposing the proposed A.J. Wiley hydroelectric project on the Snake River near Bliss.

"We're opposed. It would inundate a large portion of the free-flowing Snake River. A riparian area (river-vegetation) would be destroyed that can't be mitigated for," says Karl Holte, a board member of the Idaho Wildlife Federation. IWF is a state affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation.

Holte says he is also concerned about the effect on sturgeon in this portion of the river. Idaho Power Co. is in the preliminary stages of planning the $200 million project with the City of Tacoma, Washington, Department of Public Utilities.

IPC has not made an effort to generate at full capacity at its existing dams, says Holte.

"Before we participate in Wiley, we want to ensure that it is the lowest cost resource. If increasing the capacity at other sites is cheaper, that will come before Wiley comes on (line). We are looking for the lowest cost resource," says Joe Marshall, IPC's vice president of planning and resources.

F&G is opposing the project because of its impact on white sturgeon, a state-recognized species of "special concern," says Al VanVooren, F&G biologist.

The 85 megawatt project would include impoundment of 23,000 acre-feet of water. An acre-foot is an acre of water one foot deep. VanVooren says free-flowing river is essential for white sturgeon to survive.

The dam may also eliminate a stretch of water favored by white water enthusiasts.

The city of Tacoma would like to share the benefits and risks with IPC but the city would pursue the project even if IPC didn't want to, says Gary E. Johnson, chief planning engineer for Tacoma City Light.

He says the project is in its preliminary stages and it is premature to respond to environmental concerns. A whole range of state and federal agency consultations on environmental issues has to take place, he says. This would be done by Morrison-Knudsen Co. Inc. whose San Francisco engineering division has a $1 million contract with the city to examine technical and environmental issues related to the project, Johnson says.

The project is a revival of a solo attempt by IPC to build a dam at the site. This plan was rejected by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission in the early 1980s on the grounds that the company could not demonstrate the need for the power, says Larry Taylor, IPC spokesman.

The latest proposal comes at a time when the Northwest's energy situation is widely regarded to be in a surplus condition. There are numerous small hydro projects proposed on the river who own their life to a Federal requirement that utilities such as IPC buy the power from them. IPC says it doesn't need the power now and it is too expensive but the utility will want additional power in the 1990s.

Meanwhile, the city of Tacoma wants to reduce its dependence on public power, marketed by the Bonneville Power Administration, says Johnson. BPA, facing a decline in its sales in the Northwest and California, is raising rates and cutting back its budget.

Matheson says he won't run against Hatch for Senate

SCOTT MATHESON Family, practice reasons

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Former Gov. Scott Matheson announced on Friday he will not challenge Republican Sen. Orrin Hatch in 1988.

Matheson made known his long-awaited decision by releasing copies of a letter to state Democratic Party Chairman Randy Horuchi detailing his reasons for not running.

"Personal considerations regarding my family and expanding responsibilities as a private attorney figure largely in this decision," said Matheson, who left town just before the letter was made public and was unavailable for comment.

Matheson, 58, was a popular two-term governor who had been considering a Senate bid since deciding not to seek a third term in 1984.

Republicans, who have spent months getting up a difficult campaign against Matheson, were elated by the announcement.

"That's great!" said Greg McDonough, GOP executive director. "It changes the whole complexion of the race. We can now focus on the governor's race. It will certainly help us."

Hatch, in a Washington D.C. news conference, said he had planned his campaign on the assumption Matheson would be his opponent.

"Scott would have been the best opponent the Democratic Party news conference that he did not like him picking up, said Hatch, who is completing a third six-year term as governor, said that while the U.S. Senate offered great opportunities.

"With Scott Matheson, honestly, we were thinking sweep" of congressional races, Horuchi said. "There is a silver lining. It is the ability for us to take Senator Hatch on."

With Matheson out of the picture, possible challengers include Salt Lake County Commissioner Dave Matheson, Tim Dunn, a Salt Lake City attorney and finance director for Rep. Wayne Owens in 1986, and Matheson's own son, Scott Matheson Jr., a University of Utah law professor, Horuchi said.

Horuchi refused to concede disappointment that Matheson will not lead the party's ticket next year, insisting the party still has a chance to upset Hatch. Further, he said, Democrats have a good chance to win a majority in the state and attorney general and to capture a majority in the Utah House.

Hatch campaign manager Bud Struggs said the senator, who already has raised $1 million for his re-election campaign, trailed Matheson by 7 percent in 1986 in in-house polls. But he said the preparation for a campaign against Matheson would still pay off, regardless of the opponent.

"I've spent a considerable amount of money preparing for Scott Matheson. But the main thing about preparing for the worst is that you're prepared for anyone else," he said.

Matheson said in the letter that he planned to campaign on behalf of Democratic candidates next year.

Matheson said that while professional and family considerations were "major factors" in his decision, they were not the only ones.

Spud farmers lamenting dry spell now bemoan cold, wet weather

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — If it's not one thing it's another. Idaho potato growers have turned an anxious eye toward their seed. They're hoping they get a reprieve from the wet weather before the seed begins to rot in the moist ground.

While most farmers agree the rain is a godsend, potato growers have turned an anxious eye toward their seed. They're hoping they get a reprieve from the wet weather before the seed begins to rot in the moist ground.

"We've had our days of no growth. When the rains were at in the soil, they've started until we get some sunshine and the soil warms up."

While most farmers agree the rain is a godsend, potato growers have turned an anxious eye toward their seed. They're hoping they get a reprieve from the wet weather before the seed begins to rot in the moist ground.

John Ojala, University of Idaho potato specialist in Idaho Falls, said that hasn't germinated is always cause for concern. It increases the chances of decaying diseases that will rot the seed piece, he said.

"But because they've been in the ground for this length of time doesn't mean they are rotting," he said. "There's been some indication that the seed piece before the rain looked good, and there's not a lot of decay. To my knowledge, I don't know of an epidemic that will affect arctic potato stands and crop performance."

Gale Harding, Madison County extension agent, agreed. "So far, it's not too big of a problem," he said. "The rain has saved us thousands of dollars in irrigation costs."

During a semiannual meeting Thursday of the Idaho and Eastern Oregon Potato Committee, which regulates the quality of potatoes, leaving the state, growers said the 1987 crop average looks about the same as a year ago. One exception is the Magic Valley, where committee member Steve Trevino of Rupert said acreage in potatoes is up 5.8 percent.

Depessen said last year farmers in Rexburg began planting grain on May 3 and finished with potatoes by May 23. This year, he said farmers started with grain on April 9 and were done planting potatoes by May 4.

Potato specialist Ojala said eastern Idaho generally is behind the western part of the state in planting potatoes, but the warm weather this year has closed the gap.

uncertain about an appeal. Robtson officer Don Hoy, in his presentence report, also had recommended Wentz receive the same sentence as Miller.

Massman attempted to paint Wentz as remorseful and cooperative, and the product of a life that has been "much worse than a nightmare."

His only witness was Kingman Harding, whose daughter Tami was Wentz's girlfriend.

"It's a very involved process," added Thompson.

After the Western States Junior Rodeo failed, a Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association was brought in for Western Days, but also expected little attendance.

"It's another business decision," Gates said. "If you have a product that's not selling, don't stock it."

The cost of sponsoring a rodeo is about $13,000, he said.

The absence of a rodeo hasn't affected the enthusiasm of participants in Western Days, said parade committee chairman Larry Christensen. "People have been enthused all the way. There are so many other things going on," he said.

BOULDER, Mont. (AP) — Sean Wentz, one of two men involved in the murders of the parents of TV actor Patrick Duffy, was sentenced Friday to 19 years in prison.

Wentz was sentenced to 19 years in prison. The sentence was handed down by District Judge Frank Davis, but cloaked at television cameras and made an obscene gesture at Jefferson County Attorney John Connor during the hearing.

The sentence was 10 years more than that given co-defendant, 19-year-old Kenneth Miller, last month. The additional sentence was for the role of a weapon in the commission of a felony, explained Davis, who said all evidence indicates Wentz had been the "trigger man."

Miller and Wentz were accused in the murders of the parents of TV actor Patrick Duffy, was sentenced Friday to 19 years in prison.

Wendell nixes full-time slot

By TERRELL WILLIAMS Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — The city superintendent in Wendell will not have a new full-time employee as he requested.

Instead, the City Council agreed Thursday to hire an extra man for six months and also to hire two students at minimum wage for six weeks.

City Superintendent Charlie Doty said the city has cut back his work crew, even though employees had been kept busy all year.

Doty's crew was reduced this month when irrigator Jess Velazquez quit. Crew member John Trace is now irrigator, with Robert Bice continuing as weekend irrigator.

Mayor Otto Lepp, chairing the city had hoped to get some U.S. Job Training Partnership Act youth workers, but the maximum income level was so low that most students applicants could not qualify.

In related business, the council voted to permanently hire Gale Carpenter as a police officer to replace Dan Kennedy who moved from Wendell.

Albenke read the semi-monthly police report from Chief James E. Dowe and commented that the department has been unusually busy recently.

The report included five burglaries, four destructions of property, four thefts, 11 disturbances, one assault with a deadly weapon, one accident, 13 tickets given for U-turns on Main Street, four speeding tickets, five other stops and five dog problems.

"I think they're doing a good job," Lemke said of the police department.

Motorcycle club members, who traditionally gather at Niagara Springs area on Memorial Day weekend, were not involved in any disturbances, Lemke said, noting that only about "one-fourth as many as usual" came to the park this year. In other business, Harry Holm, representing the Wendell American Legion, asked the city for a donation for a fireworks display next July. The council donated $100 to the legion.

The council appointed Lemke as environmental review officer for the waste-water treatment grant.

Lemke will administer the inspections for Fish and Game officers, the fire marshal and others who make sure the project is complying with state standards and is not harmful to the environment.

Lemke replaces Mary Keylor, who had to resign because she is also the grant administrator.

City Clerk June Helm said bids for the legion project will be opened at a special meeting at 8 p.m. June 18 at City Hall. A decision on which bid to accept will be made at the next regular council meeting June 25.

Fugitive ordered back to Alabama

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A former member of the FBI's 19 Most Wanted list was ordered back to Alabama, where he escaped from prison 15 months ago, during a hearing on Friday that was preempted by a sudden change of mind by the defendant.

Robert Litchfield, 39, had agreed earlier to waive an indefinite hearing before a U.S. magistrate and to be returned to Detroit, where he is wanted in a $74,176 bank robbery.

But just before the hearing began, Public Defender Patricia Flanagan said Litchfield had changed his mind to take everything to the court, go the whole nine yards.

That caught Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Bork by surprise, but during a lengthy recess, he came up with a statement Litchfield made to a deputy U.S. marshal that he was the man they were looking for and that he had escaped from the Alabama prison.

where he was serving 60 years for a series of bank robberies in the Miami area between 1983 and 1985, according to the FBI.

Following his escape, he allegedly took more than $100,000 in three bank robberies in which he took hostages, used handguns and issued bomb threats, the FBI said.

Litchfield was charged with the robberies in federal warrants issued late last year in Orlando, Fla., Atlanta and Detroit and was being held in a jail in Miami. He was charged with a bank branch in Boise, Idaho, six days before he was captured.

Bork said federal prosecutors in both Detroit and Orlando wanted Litchfield returned to their jurisdictions.

Gas station serves gospel music, too

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP) — Customers get more than just a Kiss and a full tank at Chuck Ashby's gasoline station.

At the Just a Kiss station, bemused motorists often learn more than they expected if it's one of those days when Ashby's booming bass voice and upbeat trumpet are echoing from the service bay. The customer might hear his foot tapping and spirits uplifted.

Ashby, who owns and operates the station with wife Carmelita, uses the garage as a rehearsal hall to prepare for weekend performances at churches all over the area. It's not hard to get him to take a break from practicing to talk about his music.

Chuck Ashby likes the acoustics in his 'Just A Kiss' gas station for singing gospel music.

"Why practice in a garage?"

"The acoustics here are great," he said with the exuberance that seems to mark everything he does.

He has accumulated nearly 100 records over his repertoire and has started several years ago with just one song.

After he's done the solo version of a song, he and Carmelita develop a part for many of them. And when they practice, Ashby has his trumpet to fill in.

"I play the stuff a little different and they seem to love it," he says.

Whatever the mood of the song — uplifting, spiritual or stirring — instrumental — Ashby puts all of himself into the performance. The service bay at Just a Kiss, with its rack of motor oil cans and a display of inflatable Messerschmitts, Spiffsters and Santa dolls dangling above, no longer seems to be an unusual setting for religious music when Ashby belts out his lyrics or his trumpet music. The power of his performance over-whelms the background.

"I just boom away, and they seem to really appreciate it," he said.

Ashby and Carmelita left the Salvation Army 17 years ago to settle in Pendleton where they have a Southern Baptist Church in Pilot Rock where they held Chuck Ashby appreciation day.

He's given away copies of almost all his tapes at least once and one, run the gas station — and four grandchildren.

Ashby performed in 47 different churches in 1985. One recent weekend, the Ashbys sang at a Seventh-day Adventist Church service on Saturday and two more church services on Sunday, including the Southern Baptist Church in Pilot Rock where they held Chuck Ashby appreciation day.

He's given away copies of almost all his tapes at least once and one,

"In the Midst of It All," a song about Job, he's given away 13 times.

The Ashbys have performed on the local fair circuit, teaming with Ron Engles of Hermiston last year. They don't plan to do many fairs this year, Ashby said, but he's making an exception for Echo's Fort Henrietta Days in September.

"They're so friendly over there." For those who want the real flavor of a fair, Ashby advises, "Don't miss that one."

Paramore named to LDS quorum's 7-member presidency

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Elder James M. Paramore, a member of the Mormon Church's First Quorum of the Seventy for 10 years, has been appointed to the quorum's seven-member presidency, church officials announced after changes in assignments for members of the First

M. Gröslund, who is being assigned as an area president in the British Isles and Africa, officials of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints announced Friday.

The Church's First Presidency announced other changes in assignments for members of the First Quorum of the Seventy in 17 area presidencies worldwide. All new assignments are effective Aug. 15.

Paramore is president of the Utah North Area and managing director of the Curriculum Department and audio-satellite program development and scheduling. Previously, he

Nation's oldest Polish parish to miss pope

The Washington Post

1854 after a nine-week voyage and a longer walk from Galveston.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — In the simplest of places, a countless number of people are waiting for a country road that rolls through the oak pastures of south-central Texas. This is cowboy country, land of mesquite trees and longhorn ranches, and only 55 miles to the northwest lies San Antonio, thriving capital of Hispanic America.

Yet here, somehow, is Panna Maria, the "oldest Polish Catholic parish" in the United States. Not Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland or Pittsburgh, but Panna Maria, in the middle of nowhere in Texas.

Kowalks live here, and Pawelks and Mikas and Snogas and Dragons and Dziuks. The ancestors arrived as 100 families on Christmas Eve in

The oak tree under which they all prayed that first night still stands 123 years later, shading the Church of the Immaculate Conception and "Soczyngemba's new grave-site."

Once word went out that Pope John Paul II, the first Polish pontiff, was to visit the United States, the American folk in September, Panna Marians have hoped and prayed that their Holy Father would step under that oak tree and celebrate Mass for descendants of the early Polish pioneers.

But as the pope's schedule took shape, Panna Maria had to plan to skip in Texas, and there would be no time for him to visit this place.

Kristina Nelson

Susan McCandless

Filer sets ceremony for tonight

FILER — Kristina Nelson and Jerre Tews are co-vice-presidents of the Filer High School class of 1987. Both have a straight A grade point average of 4.0. Susan McCandless is salutatorian.

Graduation exercises will be held at 7 p.m. today at the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium with Bob McGrew, principal of Filer Middle School, and the class leaders as speakers.

Nelson, daughter of Karl and Beverly Nelson, was a Girls' State delegate and received the outstanding French student of the year award for two years. She was vice president of the Pep Club and was a Fourth District Activities Association outstanding scholar. She also is Magle-Valley Junior Miss and received the University of Utah leadership scholarship and the BYU "V scholar" scholarship.

She plans to attend BYU this fall in a pre-medicine/microbiology major.

Tews, son of Gerald and Nancy Tews, also plans to attend BYU and major in electrical engineering. He is Honor Society president, was student body vice president and class officer. He was active in sports, YMCA Youth government and placed second in Idaho History Day and the best entry dealing with an agricultural issue in National History Day in Washington, D.C. He also is active in 4-H.

McCandless plans to attend either the University of Idaho or College of Idaho and study chemical engineering. The daughter of John and Andrea McCandless, she was active in sports and named "most valuable" in volleyball, basketball and track. She was president of Key Club and belongs to the Ski Club, Foreign Language Club and Travel Club, which traveled to Europe. She has received a leadership scholarship from the University of Idaho, and several scholarships from the College of Idaho.

Curtis Sandy

Callie Barney

Curtis Sandy, Callie Barney lead Shoshone class of '87

SHOSHONE — Curtis Sandy and Callie Barney served as valedictorian and salutatorian for Shoshone High School's graduation exercises Wednesday.

Sandy, son of Ed and Janet Sandy, has a 3.84 grade point average and plans a career in medicine. He will attend Ricks' College on scholarship to complete his general education courses.

He was a varsity letterman in football, basketball and track and has received state honors for his athletic endeavors. He has participated in band, choir, drama, and speech; is a member of the National Honor Society and the youth and government club; attended business week and was a delegate to Boy's State.

Barney is the daughter of Lary and Carla Barney and has a grade point average of 3.75. A member of the National Honor Society, she has served as managing editor of the Shoshone High School publications program. Barney attended the 1987 state speech meet, as the first Shoshone student ever to participate in the competition.

She was also the first Shoshone student to receive recognition as a student journalist at the Idaho Journalism Advisor's Association "Write-on" competition.

Barney plans to attend the University of Idaho to major in business administration, with an advertising speciality.

Economic indicators pointing to slowdown

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government said Friday its main economic forecasting gauge plummeted 0.6 percent in April.

It was the biggest decline in two years and provided evidence, private economists said, that the U.S. economy is slowing down.

The Commerce Department's Index of Leading Indicators posted its biggest setback since a 0.8 percent fall in April 1985. The setback followed a revised 0.8 percent increase in March.

While analysts said they did not believe the huge drop signaled an impending recession, they said the index has been flashing signals of slower growth since the beginning of the year.

In the past four months, the index has fallen twice, including a 0.5 percent January decline.

"The economy does not look too good," right now," said Michael Penzer, senior economist at Bank of America in San Francisco. "Almost every piece of information we have had the past two weeks suggests the economy was barely moving along in April."

Economic growth, as measured by the gross national product, started to a 4 percent annual rate in the January-March quarter, the fastest pace in almost three years.

However, that growth came almost totally from a huge buildup in business inventories, analysts said, which will take away from growth during the current April-June quarter as firms cut back on production in the face of slumping feared.

The weakness in the leading index in April was heavily influenced by a big drop in hours worked at manufacturing plants. However, analysts questioned a figure noting that the survey was taken during a period which covered two religious holidays, Passover and Good Friday.

"This report is a flag of caution suggesting a period of slower growth to come," said Allen Sinai, chief economist of Shearson Lehman Brothers of New York. "But the index is still signaling 'sustainable' expansion through the end of this year."

The overall economy has grown at a lackluster pace of 2.5 percent since the summer of 1984 and many analysts said they believe this year's growth performance will vary little from that figure. This is at odds with the Reagan administration, which is forecasting a revival of economic growth to 3.2 percent, the strongest showing since 1984.

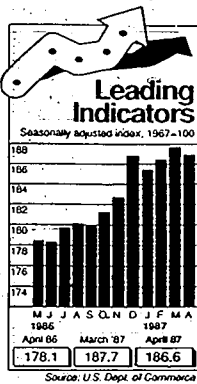

In addition to the drop in manufacturing hours, four other indicators were a negative influence on the index in April. They included a decline in building permits, a drop in manufacturing orders for consumer goods, a drop in stock prices and a drop in contracts and orders for business investment.

Four of the indicators made positive contributions to the index. The largest positive influences were a decline in unemployment claims; a rise in the time it takes businesses to fill orders, indicating increased demand; a rise in the money supply; and a change in raw materials prices.

The various changes left the index at 186.6 percent of its 1967 base of 100.

Meanwhile, Commerce Department Undersecretary Robert Ortner confirmed that the government is reviewing ways to revamp the economic statistics that make up the index so that they will better reflect the growing role that service industry plays in the economy.

But he said that no decisions have been made yet and that the review was still at a preliminary stage.

Japan's emergency spending plan to spark economy, expand imports

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone on Friday announced an expanded $74 billion emergency spending package designed to spark flagging economic growth and satisfy foreign demands to increase imports.

The package met with favor in the United States, which has pushed Japan to help ease world economic imbalances on the eve of a seven-nation summit conference in Venice on June 8-10.

"Prime Minister Nakasone can take that package to Venice with pride," U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter told a group of foreign journalists in Washington. He said Japan now needs to focus on accepting more farm imports.

The measures, approved by Cabinet ministers at a morning meeting, entail public spending worth nearly $35 billion and income tax cuts of almost $7 billion.

"This package is much more substantive and should be more effective than any previous package Japan has ever attempted," said Kenneth Miyamoto, director-general of the Economic Planning Agency's Policy Coordination Bureau. "We have really gone as far as we can."

He said the government estimates the measures boost imports by "somewhere around $5 billion to $6 billion next year," stronger demand from Japan would ease the huge U.S. trade deficit.

"I think we met the expectations imposed on Japan from other nations. I can tell (foreign nations) that we did it in a bold manner," Nakasone said. "We have fully honed our promises to foreign nations."

"With this package, I think we will be able to overcome the recession (in Japan) caused by the yen's appreciation," he said.

The Japanese government is hoping the measures will help the nation attain the goal of 3.5 percent real economic growth it set for the fiscal year that began in April, according to a government statement on the package.

"The package is in keeping with the government's efforts to restructure Japan's export-dependent economy, using stronger domestic demand as a substitute for growth in exports.

The yen's sharp upturn has slowed exports by making Japanese pro-

Farm prices jump in May

WASHINGTON — Prices farmers got for raw products in May, on the average, jumped 2.2 percent from the April index and were above the year-earlier level for the third consecutive month, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The department said higher prices for cattle, hog, corn, soybeans and cotton more than offset lower prices for milk, eggs and tomatoes.

Overall the index was up 4.9 percent from a year ago.

Prices for meat animals were up sharply from last month and cattle and calf prices were at their highest levels since February and March 1986.

The gain in hog prices since last month was $3.50 and followed a $3.40 increase from March to April. The latest increase brought the hog price to the highest level since last September.

Grain, oilseed and hay prices posted significant gains over the month while most vegetable prices were down and fruit prices mixed.

Prices for livestock and livestock products were up 2 percent from last month and up 15 percent since a year ago.

Dairy prices dipped 2.4 percent from April and reached the same level as the figure for May 1986.

According to the preliminary May figures, based mostly on 10-day moving averages, crop prices fell 5.1 percent from a year earlier.

Prices paid to commercial vegetable growers were down 8 percent from April. Most of the drop was accounted for by a decline in prices for tomatoes, onions and sweet corn.

Net farm income was estimated by USDA at around $29 billion last year, down from $30.5 billion in calendar 1985. Economists are forecasting an increase to about $32 billion in 1987.

Consumer food prices are expected to continue rising, perhaps averaging 2 percent to 4 percent higher than last year when they gained 3.2 percent.

May commodity prices averaged 129 percent of a

Some 'charity' collectors work primarily for themselves

Only a few years ago, the 24-year-old United Cancer Council, headquartered in Carmel, Ind., was a relatively small and unknown organization which served largely as a resource for cancer agencies and which received its principal support from the United Way.

Its annual budget was only about $56,000. In 1985, however, the council's revenues suddenly multiplied 100 times to $5,127,853.

"This sudden dramatic influx of funds was the result of a direct-mail campaign in which the council sent letters soliciting funds to over 15 million households across the nation.

"The odds are you received one of these solicitations. A typical one came in an official-looking envelope, requesting that a voluntary contribution of $5 made payable to "UCC" be sent not to the organization's Indiana address, but rather to a "Treasurer's Office" in Washington, D.C. — all of this giving the impression that the contribution was going to some government agency. Other mailings offered recipients the chance to win free mystery gifts.

How much your contribution ever went for UCC's newly stated purpose "to promote courage and confidence in programs of 'applied' cancer research?"

Not much.

In 1985 the last year for which a UCC report is available, the organization spent only $153,000, less than 3 percent of all the money it took in — on program expenses. The tiny sum of $29,045 went for research, even though one solicitation claimed that the council and its affiliates had "funded over $3 million in cancer research."

At an incredible 37 percent, 37 cents of every dollar taken in — went for fund-raising expenses.

based fund-raising firm for this organization, headed in Carmel, Va., is Watson & Hoghey. This firm, as you may recall from my reports of June 1985, was the target of close scrutiny in that year by three states because of its role in operating another cancer charity with high fund-raising costs — the American Institute for Cancer Research. When the Watson & Hoghey connection with the AICR was disclosed, and the fund-raisers were accused of conflict-of-interest, the two stepped down from the AICR board, although they still continue to be paid for their services to the AICR.

For the for-profit fund-raising firm, it's a sweet deal. Its five-year contract with the UCC, which runs through May 1989, specifies that from 30 percent to 50 percent of the net income from the mailings to those who become contributors may be applied to the cost of soliciting new donors.

There are certain guidelines you can apply to distinguish between the worthy and unworthy organizations asking for your money in the cancer-related or other fields.

1) One key indicator of a charity's responsibility and honesty is its willingness to give you complete information about itself. An associate of mine wrote to the United Cancer Council twice for this information in mid-February. It had not yet arrived as of late May.

2) If you are sent this information, study it with care to see whether the charity's fund-raising costs are reasonable. The National Charities Information Bureau (NCIB) believes that fund-raising costs should not exceed 30 percent of a charity's income and that at least 60 percent of a charity's income should go to program expenses. The Council of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB) feels that no more than 14 percent of contributions should go toward fund-raising.

The American Cancer Society, one of the few cancer groups that has the standards of both the NCIB and the CBBB, has fund-raising costs of only 14 percent and spends 67 percent of its income on program services.

3) Be wary of charities making exaggerated or misleading claims or using fundraising gimmicks, such as official-looking stationery, sweepstakes or questionnaires of dubious value.

4) If you're still undecided, check out the charity with the two leading charity rating agencies already mentioned: the National Charities Information Bureau, 1910 Square West, New York, N.Y. 10003 and the Council of Better Business Bureaus, 1515 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22209.

Those agencies will send you updated listing hundreds of charities and detailed reports — all free — on any of the rated individual organizations.

5) Don't be misled by the fact that many charities vary in their effectiveness and ethics — have similar names.

Now, with U.S. government expenditures for medical research leveling off, it is more important than ever that your charity dollars are wisely spent.

Dirk Boyer of Hagerman holds on to fronside during Friday night's saddle broom riding

O'Maley pads her big lead in District 5

By MICHAEL VANAUDELN
Times-News writer

JEROME — Patti O'Maley of Shoshone maintained her lead in the pole bending, breakaway roping and goat tying events after the completion of the first go-round Friday at the District 5 high school finals rodeo.

The second go will be completed tonight at the Jerome County Fairgrounds, where competition is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. After tonight's action, the top four finalists of each event will advance to the state prep rodeo in Filer on June 23-27.

O'Maley's times from Thursday night in the three events she won stood after Friday's competition. In breakaway roping, her time of 2:31 seconds stood with only Tara Conant of Dietrich's 8:26 coming the closest.

With the time, O'Maley has 88 points for the year, far ahead of Gooding's DeAnn Brown's 56.

In the goat tying, O'Maley's 8.18 seconds from Thursday night held off Brown's 10:41. Denise Peterson of Carey took third with a time of 11:77, leaving O'Maley way ahead of Brown and Peterson with 96 points.

O'Maley's other victory came in the pole bending where her time of 21:62 held despite Jerome's Lisa Aslett and her time of 22:029 on Friday.

For the first time during the finals, someone stayed on their horse in the bareback riding. Cressley Barrutia of Shoshone stayed on long enough to gain 53 points. Nonetheless, it wasn't good enough to challenge season leader Troy Peterson also of Shoshone who averages 68.5 a ride.

No one competed in the steer wrestling, leaving Hagerman's Casey Brunson with a victory with a time of 9:31 and the season lead over Gooding's Pete York.

In the calf roping, Clay Gorrell's 19:38 from Thursday night stood, easily outpacing second-place Jay Faulkner of Gooding.

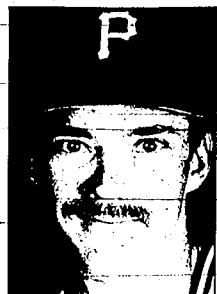

Troy Peterson of Shoshone had the best score of the night in the saddle broom but figures aren't figured out for this event until each rider has ridden three times. So far, each rider has ridden twice.

Prep District 5 Rodeo

Barback (from Friday) — 1. Barrutia, Shoshone, 53.
Breakaway roping — 1. Conant, Dietrich, 8:26; 2. Aslett, Jerome, 20:12.
Steer wrestling (from scoring times) — Saddle broom — 1. Peterson, Shoshone, 61; 2. Brunson, Hagerman, 56; 3. Crandall, Hagerman, 50.
Calf roping — 1. Gumb, GF, 19:22; 2. Faulkner, Gooding, 49:48.

Pirates send Easley to AAA

By The Times-News

PITTSBURGH — Twin Falls' Logan Easley, a rookie right-handed relief pitcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates, was optioned to the Bucs' Class Triple-A minor league affiliate in Vancouver, British Columbia, on Thursday.

Easley, who was traded to the Pirates in the off-season from the New York Yankees' organization, pitched 21 innings so far this season for Pittsburgh, allowing 20 hits, walking 15 and striking out 17. He had a 1-1 record with a 5.57 earned run average.

Efforts to reach the Pirates' director of player personnel Friday for comment on Easley's situation were unsuccessful.

According to the rules under which major league baseball teams can "option" or assign players to their minor-league affiliates, the players must spend 21 days with the minor league team before they can be recalled.

Easley, a 1981 graduate of the College of Southern Idaho, moved to Twin Falls High grad, spent last season with the Yankees' Triple-A farm club in Columbus, Ohio, of the International League.

Easley's spot on the 24-man Pirates' roster was taken was right-handed pitcher Dave Johnson, whose contract was purchased by Pittsburgh from Vancouver, a member of the Pacific Coast League.

Burley upgrades its Regatta

By MICHAEL VANAUDELN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The 11th Annual Burley Regatta boat race will have a different look this year.

The course itself, Riverfront Park at the Burley Marina, will be the same but the boats racing inside it will be different — they will be faster. Due largely to fund-raising efforts by the Burley Chamber of Commerce, the Regatta — to be held on July 11-12 — will become a points race of the Inboard Championship Series of the American Powerboat Association.

The inboard powerboating circuit will bring approximately 90 boats to Burley, more than they've ever had, and these boats are also faster than they've had before. In the past, flat-bottom powerboats have dominated the marina's waterways but the in-board boats, which includes three classes in competition, are faster boats — so fast, in fact, that they're only one class below the unlimited class.

"And the only reason they're (the unlimiteds) not coming," said Paul Matthews of the Burley Chamber of Commerce, "is because our turns are too narrow. They can't make the turns."

The 1½-mile course got the go-ahead to host the race after the operating budget for the Regatta was raised from $35,000 to $80,000 and the budget was met by funds raised from local businesses.

The decision to bring the circuit to Burley "was largely the boaters' decision," said Matthews. "They knew we had run successful races here and that we have the best facilities in the west."

Since its inception 11 years ago, the Burley Regatta has become one of the most popular summer attractions in the Magic Valley. Over 10,000 spectators watched the races last year and this year, with the faster boats coming, "we expect

GEORGE ARGYROS
He'll keep Mariners

Argyros calls off his plan to buy Padres

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Mariners owner George Argyros reneged himself Friday, announcing that he will keep the American League team and is no longer was interested in buying the San Diego Padres.

Argyros told a news conference that he didn't want to spend several years trying to rebuild the Padres as he has with the Mariners.

"Our decision was based solely on the issue of facing the rebuilding process for another five or six years, or however long it takes," said Argyros. "I really felt that having gone through that when purchasing the Mariners in 1981, due to my time restraints, that I really was not prepared for that."

At a simultaneous news conference in San Diego Friday, Padres owner Joan Kroc said she was taking her team off the market for at least the remainder of the season and maybe longer.

"Sometimes things work out for the best," Argyros said. "This decision, no different than any other business transaction. That is, that someone's tendered or made an approach to some other company and for whatever reason the deal doesn't go through. Sometimes those are the very best deals."

Argyros had signed preliminary agreements to buy the Padres and had promised to try to sell the Mariners to a local buyer.

He said he and Mrs. Kroc made the decision to call off the talks two days ago.

"It was prudent to act now and not linger any further for both franchises," Argyros said.

Argyros said he now is committed to making baseball successful in the Northwest, although he left the team's lease with the King County on the kingdom needed revision. It said he was willing to sit down and talk to County Executive Tim Hill about renegotiating the lease.

He said an attendance clause that prohibits the team to move to Seattle at the end of this season was "unhealthy" and said the lease was "not user-friendly."

At a news conference a few hours after Argyros made his announcement, Hill said he had written a letter to Argyros calling on him to unilaterally drop the escape clause from the lease.

"We've had a tumultuous two

'86 starter Jarrett quits; Broncos down to 2 QBs

BOISE (AP) — The three-way struggle for Boise State University's starting quarterback job has become a two-way race.

Keith Jarrett, admitting he was upset over being the No. 2 quarterback at the start of spring practice, said Thursday that he was transferring to a school somewhere in Southern California.

Jarrett was the No. 1 quarterback for most of the season last fall as a red-shirt freshman. But when Lyle Selencich resigned as coach, and Skip Hall was hired, every job on the team was thrown open for competition.

BILL MADLOCK
Asked to be traded

Jarrett found himself competing with senior Vince Alkabe and red-shirt freshman Danny Halliday for the job.

"The coaches said I went out there with a bad attitude, and wasn't excited about the new offense, which is true," Jarrett said from his home in Huntington Beach, Calif. "Half the time I was on the field, I was mad at the system, and the coaches. I start all last year and I come in as second-team quarterback — I was upset from day one."

At the end of spring practice, Jarrett was the No. 3 quarterback, and apparently in no mood to spend the summer wondering whether he could reclaim his starting position.

Hall said Jarrett's decision to transfer did not shock him.

"Basically, I think I talked him into staying for the spring, to give it a chance and see how he came out," Hall said. "At the end, I guess he felt like it wasn't for him."

Hall also said he felt Jarrett might not have been thinking consciously about the team during spring drills.

"It's hard to say, but Keith was not in line with the team as much as he was his own thing," Hall said. "Either we do things our way, or people do things their way. We're going to go with a system, have a plan that works and we're going to stay with that plan."

Jarrett said he did not know where he would play next year.

"I have a lot of options," he said. "Because I've registered his freshman year, Jarrett will lose trade demand last Sunday in New York after spending three straight games on the bench.

In a brief meeting with reporters before Friday night's game, the four-time National League batting champion said that he expected to be released and that his only disappointment in leaving the Dodgers was that it hadn't happened sooner.

"I wish they would have gotten rid of me at the winter meetings," he said.

Unable to trade Madlock, the Dodgers placed him on waivers. If no National League team claims him, almost a certainty considering his salary of $50,000 and his reputation as a less-than-adequate defensive player, he will be free to sign with any team, in either league next Thursday.

The team that signs him would have to pay him only the prorated portion of his $2,500 contract, with the Dodgers obligated to pay the balance of his salary.

Fred Claire, the Dodger vice president, said that there was some interest, but that he couldn't work out a trade for Madlock, who underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right shoulder April 10 and hit only .180 in 24 games this season.

"Why trade for somebody when you can get him for 62.5?," Madlock said. "That would be stupid."

Madlock's agent, Steve Greenberg, said that he had spoken with three American-league teams, and that two had expressed interest in his client.

"Regardless of what you do," Madlock said, "you might not fit the Dodger mold."

Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — The cloud that hung over the Los Angeles Dodgers and Bill Madlock for the better part of a week was lifted Friday when the Dodgers gave the disgruntled third baseman his unconditional release.

The move was made not only to facilitate Madlock, who had asked to be traded, but also to open a roster spot for right fielder Mike Marshall.

Madlock, unhappy with his diminished playing time, made his trade demand last Sunday in New York after spending three straight games on the bench.

AL: Brew's Higuera 4-0 in April, 0-5 in May

CLEVELAND (AP) — Either the stumbling Cleveland Indians or the collapsing Milwaukee Brewers had to not lose Friday night, and it was the Indians who seized the opportunity.

The Brewers are losing now. That's a little opportunity for us. To pick up a couple of games in the standings," Cleveland shortstop Jose L. Cruz said.

The Brewers certainly are losing — six in a row and 18 of their 20 since opening the season with a rout of 20-3 record. Cleveland's victory snapped its own four-game losing streak and gave the Indians their seventh victory in the last 25 games.

Franco drove in two runs as he went 2-for-3, hitting his American League leading average to .341. Pat Tabier went 5-for-5 and drove in three runs, including an RBI single in the seventh inning that broke a 6-6 tie.

Tabler moved his batting mark to .323 and also rapped two doubles, gaining him an league-leading 17.

Milwaukee ace Ted Higuera yielded eight runs on 11 hits in six innings, making him winless in five May decisions.

Higuera, 45, yielded eight runs on 11 hits as the Brewers lost to the 18th time in 20 games. Higuera is 0-5 with a 6.59 earned run average. In May after a 4-0 start in April.

Milwaukee manager Tom Trebilhorn said "when your stopper doesn't stop and you're not playing too well in other facets of the game, there's a chance for a pretty good losing streak and that's what we've got."

Tabler's go-ahead single knocked out the high-charmen Casillo followed with a run-scoring single off reliever Chris Bosio.

Scott Balfanz, 2-0, pitched three shutout innings of three-hit relief and ended Cleveland's four-game losing streak. The Indians have won only seven of their last 25 games.

Bret Butler had four hits of Cleveland's 14 hits and scored three runs.

The Brewers took a 6-4 lead in the sixth on Cecil Cooper's solo homer and a two-run single by Glenn Braggs. Solo homers by Castillo and Cory Snyder led it in the Indians' sixth.

Franco hit a sacrifice fly in the eighth for a 9-6 lead.

Texas 16

Kansas City 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Larry Parrish drove home five runs and Peter O'Brien scored five times Friday night in powering the Texas Rangers to a 16-5 rout of the Kansas City Royals.

Farrish hit a three-run homer and two singles and set a Texas team record with 33 RBI in May, surpassing the previous mark of 29 he shared with Jeff Buttroughs. Parrish's seven May homers ties a club record.

O'Brien had a three-run homer, two singles and a pair of walks in setting a Rangers single-game record for runs scored. He also had a home run.

But Jackson hit two solo homers and a double for Kansas City.

Charlie Hough, raising his career mark against Kansas City to 12-6, struck the Royals on seven hits in seven innings. The veteran knuckballer, 5-1, struck out three and walked one. Mark Gubicza dropped to 3-5 and was chased in the five-run third inning.

But Jackson had had three of the Rangers' 15 hits off five Kansas City pitchers as they snapped a four-game losing streak.

Seattle 7

Baltimore 3

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Kingery hit a three-run pinch-homer and Rey Quinones added a solo shot as the Seattle Mariners defeated Baltimore 7-3 Friday night and snapped the Orioles' six-game winning streak.

Dave Valle drove in two runs for the Mariners, who have won only 18 of 56 games in Baltimore. Left-hander Mark Langston, 6-4, gave up seven hits and struck out 10 in his fourth complete game.

The Orioles hit their 49th homer in 20 games, a solo shot by Gal Ripken Jr. that extended their major-league single-month record to 57 with two games remaining in May.

Kingery connected for his third homer in the seventh off rookie Mark Williamson, the third Baltimore pitcher of the inning, after the Orioles had pulled within 4-3.

Toronto 3

California 1

TORONTO (AP) — Dave Stieb scattered seven hits in seven innings and Tony Fernandez went 2-for-4 and scored twice Friday night as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the California Angels 3-1.

Stieb, 3-3, gave up a home run to Ruppert Jones on his first pitch of the game, but went on to win for the third time in four decision this month. He struck out four, walked one and set down 11 straight in one stretch.

Jeff Musselman relieved to start the eighth and got his second save.

Don Sutton, 2-5, took the loss, giving up 11 hits in eight innings. It was his first complete game since last July 4, when he beat Stieb and the Blue Jays in Toronto.

Minnesota 7

Detroit 1

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Brookens hit a grand slam. Matt Nokes hit a three-run and Pat Sheridan and Alan Trammell also homered Friday night, powering the Detroit Tigers over the Minnesota Twins 7-1 for their fifth straight victory.

Walt Terrell, 4-5, gave up three runs on four hits in eight innings as Detroit won for the 13th time in its last 15 games.

Oakland 13

New York 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Jose Canseco triggered a four-run first inning with a two-run homer and Alfredo Griffin drove in four runs Friday night to help the Oakland Athletics to a 13-5 victory over the New York Yankees.

Canseco's sixth homer of the season came off Dennis Rasmussen, 3-4, a second-time pitcher, who opened the first inning with a solo. Oakland scored two more runs when Roy Cuddeback, Carney Lansford was intentionally walked and both scored on Mike Davis' triple.

Chicago 8

Boston 6

CHICAGO (AP) — Pinch-hitter Jerry Hairston's three-run homer broke a seventh-inning tie Friday night and carried the Chicago White Sox to an 8-6 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

With the score 4-4, Ron Haseby doubled off Bob Stanley, 2-7, to open the seventh and pinch-runner Ken Rice took third as Jerry Royster grounded out. Orzelle Guillen, who had homered earlier, was given an intentional walk before Hairston homered. One out later, Darryl Strawberry drove in the Chicago White Sox to an 8-6 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Hairston's homer was his first of the season and the first pinch-homer by the White Sox this year. Jan Winn, 2-1, working in relief of starter Floyd Baker, was the winner.

Ed Burks hit a two-run homer in the Boston eighth off Ray Seaver. Bob James went the final 1 1/2 innings for his seventh save. Boston had won four straight games.

NL: Cards halt Astros' streak, take two-game lead on Cubs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tony Pena hit a bases-loaded triple and Willie McGee hit a two-run single to help the Cardinals end the Houston Astros' five-run seventh and four St. Louis pitchers combined on a 3-1 victory Friday night, leading the Cardinals to an 8-2 victory over Houston and snapping the Astros three-game winning streak.

The victory, combined with Chicago's 6-5 win over the Cardinals, gave the Cardinals a full two-game lead over the Cubs in the National League East.

Trailing 2-1 entering the sixth, Jack Clark and Tony Pena hit consecutive doubles and Curt Ford followed with a run-scoring single off Aurelio Lopez, 2-1, to give St. Louis a 3-2 lead.

McGee allowed three hits over four innings, including Kevin Bass' second-inning solo homer, before Lee Tunnell, 2-0, held Houston scoreless over the fifth and sixth innings.

Ken Dayley gave up one hit in the seventh and was followed by Rick Horton, who pitched the final two innings.

Houston starter Mike Scott had allowed only four hits in five innings, striking out three and walking three before leaving with recurrence of previous back spasms.

Atlanta 6

Chicago 5

ATLANTA (AP) — Pinch-hitter Gary Roeneick hit a run-scoring single after Albert Hays tripped to lead off the 12th inning Friday night, giving the Atlanta Braves a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

After Hal Triplett off Ed Lynch 1-4, Rafael Ramirez popped out to Braves' Mike Mason came on to pitch to Ken Oberkfell but Braves' Cameron Chuck Tanner pinch hit Roeneick, who single off the left field wall.

Gene Garber, 6-3, pitched the final three innings for the victory.

Chicago took a 5-4 lead in the 11th when Gene Garber allowed a two-out, bases-loaded walk to Manny Trillo.

But Ozzie Virgil hit his 16th homer of the year with two-out in the bottom of the 11th to tie the game.

The Braves saved two Chicago errors to tie the game at 4-4 in the eighth inning. Shawn Brown's fielding error on Gerald Perry's grounder started the inning. After a single by Dale Murphy, Ken Griffey hit a grander to first, where Trillo threw to second to force Murphy.

Cincinnati 13

Pittsburgh 6

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eric Davis drove in four runs a homer, double and a single and Tracy Jones hit a two-run homer Friday night, leading the Cincinnati Reds over Pittsburgh 13-6, the Pirates' fourth straight loss.

Davis' solo homer in the first off losing pitcher Bob Kipper, 3-5, was his 18th of the season, tying a National League record for most homers in April and May. The record was previously held by three others, including Tony Perez of the Reds.

Cincinnati got 18 hits off three pitchers, while Guy Hoffman, 2-1, worked 2-3 innings in relief of Pat Patcher for the victory.

Trailing 4-3 entering the second, Cincinnati scored three times when Nick Esasky walked, Dave Concepcion hit an RBI double and Jones hit his fifth homer of the season to tie the lead. It was the 11th homer Kipper has allowed in 47 innings this season.

Los Angeles 6

Philadelphia 0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Welch pitched a three-hitter and Mickey Hatcher hit a two-run double to highlight a four-run third inning Friday night, leading the Los Angeles

Dodgers over Philadelphia 6-0 and ending the Phillies' three-game winning streak.

Welch, 6-2, struck out seven and walked one as he pitched his third complete game. The shutout was the right-hander's second of the year and the 21st of his 10-year career. The only hits he allowed were singles by Glenn Wilson, Rick Schu and Von Hayes.

New York 5

San Diego 4

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Keith Hernandez pitched a three-hitter, Darryl Strawberry and Rafael Santana each hit a solo homer Friday, leading the New York Mets to their fourth consecutive victory, 5-4 over the San Diego Padres.

The loss extended San Diego's losing streak to six games.

Hernandez's homer broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh and came off the third pitch from reliever Craig Lefferts, 0-2, who had just entered the game. The homer was one of seven extra-base hits in the game for the Mets, who had nine hits off four Padres' pitchers.

Terry Lench, 3-0, the third of five Mets pitchers, pitched the sixth inning for the victory. Roger McDowell went the last 2 1/2 innings for his fourth save.

The loss extended Ron Darling's allowed all four runs in 4 1/2 innings.

Montreal 10

San Francisco 4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tim Lincecum drove in three runs, homer and a double and scored four runs Friday night, leading a 10-4 victory over the Montreal Expos. The Giants' run put them back on seventh consecutive at home.

Neal Heaton, 6-2, allowed four runs on seven hits over six innings for his third straight victory.

Sun Valley Grand Prix today

BELLEVUE — The Sun Valley Grand Prix, a nationally sanctioned dirt motorcycle race which has been criticized by environmentalists in recent weeks, is scheduled for today and Sunday.

Competition will start at 11 a.m. today with a five-lap race, with a seven-lap race scheduled for the same time Sunday. The course, which has been the subject of criticism because of alleged damage to the hills east of Bellevue, will take riders from the Bellevue City Park east over the Muldoon-Carey Road and back again.

Other activities today will include a one-lap mountain bike race on the same course at 2 p.m., followed by a dirt bike parade down Main Street at 5:15 p.m. and a dance in the park at 8:30 p.m. The race on Sunday will be followed by an awards presentation for the riders at the Silver Dollar Bar at 3:30 p.m.

Some $200 of the proceeds will go to the city of Bellevue for improvements to the city park.

Aouita sets new 2-mile record

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Said Aouita of Morocco has set his third world record, breaking Briton Steve Ovett's long-standing mark in the two-mile.

Aouita, 26, was timed in eight minutes, 13.45 seconds Thursday night at Municipal Stadium during a track and field meet between Italy and the Soviet Union.

Despite being unchallenged over the five last laps, and some confusion by race officials in signaling the final lap, Aouita improved by six hundredths of a second the mark of 8:15.51 set by Ovett in 1977.

21 added to college shrine

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Eleven surviving college football players, seven deceased college players and two deceased coaches were enshrined in ceremonies Friday night at the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame in Washington University.

The Hall conducted no enshrinement program last year, so Friday night's program was intended to cover the last two incoming classes of former college stars.

The surviving players enshrined were Chicago Bears coach Mike Ditka, Pittsburgh end and punter, 1958-60, Jack Farley, Texas Tech's 1954-58 center, 1954-58, and University of Houston coach; Doug Atkins, Tennessee tackle, 1950-52; Vince Banonis, Detroit center, 1939-41; Ron Beagle, Navy end, 1933-35; George Brown, Navy guard, 1942-43; Bill Glass, Baylor guard, 1954-56; Archie Griffith, Ohio State halfback, 1927-29; Tony Nisanti, Navy and Penn halfback, 1944-47; Riley Smith, Alabama quarterback, 1933-35; and Brock Strout, Air Force tackle, 1955-59.

Meridian assistant gets B-K job

BOISE (AP) — Bishop Kelly High School has named Ray C. Wilmot, an assistant coach at Meridian High School, as its new head football coach.

Wilmot, 32, spent seven over seasons as an aide to Warrior coach Bob O'Mera. He replaces Will Overgaard, who recently was named head coach at Borah High School.

"Bishop Kelly is the type of school that demands good teachers first and then good coaches," the Rev. Dennis Day, president of the Catholic school Thursday. "He (Wilmot) comes to us with wonderful recommendations in both areas. I think he will make a great addition to our staff."

Wilmot is a graduate of Meridian, attended Treasure Valley Community College in Ontario, Ore., for two years and played football under Coach Gary Farnworth. Wilmot secured his bachelor's degree from Washington University in 1979.

He taught junior high in Meridian for two years before moving to the high school as a teacher and assistant football and track coach.

Pasadena wants World Cup

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — With a goal of holding preliminary matches and the 1994 World Cup final at the 100,000-seat Rose Bowl, Pasadena officials are confident about the U.S. Soccer Federation's bid to be the host nation for the Cup tournament.

Officials of the USSF, the U.S. and the Rose Bowl met this week to discuss planning for the U.S. bid.

Tyson takes on 29-year-old Thomas tonight

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Mike Tyson and three of his boxing elders will fight for all three pieces of the world heavyweight championship Saturday night.

Boxing

The 20-year-old Tyson, the youngest, became a heavyweight champion, will put the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association titles on the line against 29-year-old Pinklon Thomas. "Twenty-nine, that's not old," said Thomas, a former WBC champion. "Larry Holmes was 28 when he won the title."

Twenty-eight is the age of Tony Tucker, who will try to win the vacant International Boxing Federation title in a match with 27-year-old James "Buster" Douglas.

Both fights at a 14,000-seat outdoor stadium at the Las Vegas Hilton will be televised by HBO.

The Tucker-Douglas bout, scheduled for 15 rounds, will start at about 8:10 p.m. MDT. The scheduled 12-round bout between Tyson and Thomas will begin between 8:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

The winners of the two fights are scheduled to meet for the undisputed heavyweight championship ed for 15 rounds; will start at about 8:10 p.m. MDT. The scheduled 12-round bout between Tyson and Thomas will begin between 8:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

The winners of the two fights are scheduled to meet for the undisputed heavyweight championship at the Las Vegas Hilton Aug. 1.

Promoter Butch Lewis is billing the 15-round Michael Spinks-Cory Conroy fight June 15 at Atlantic City, N.J., as being for the world heavyweight championship.

Lewis contends that since Spinks won the IBF title from Holmes, who for seven years was the world's premier heavyweight, the public will recognize the winner of that fight as the true champion.

Spinks was stripped of the IBF title for refusing to agree to a mandatory defense against the top-ranked Tucker.

"Eventually the winner of that fight (Spinks vs. Conroy) will be a contender for my titles," Tyson said. "When they fight me, they'll have to fight the champion."

Tyson was a 6-1 favorite to retain his title.

Tyson, who has a 29-0 record, with 26 knockouts, weighed in Friday at 218 1/2 pounds. Thomas, 29-1-1, with 21 knockouts, weighed 217 1/2 pounds.

Tucker, who is 34-0, with 29 knockouts, weighed 223 1/2 pounds to 227 1/2 for Douglas, the IBF's No. 2 contender, who has a mark of 23-3-1, with 15 knockouts.

Tucker was a 3 1/2-1 favorite.

The Tyson-Thomas bout shapes up as an action fight, which probably won't go the distance.

Thomas has won three straight fights since losing the WBC title to Trevor Berbick on a 12-round decision here March 72. But he did not look impressive in scoring seventh-round knockouts over William Hosea here last Nov. 22 and over Danny Sullivan here March 7.

A punishing left jab has been Thomas' main weapon, setting up a hard right hand. Both punches seem to have lost steam.

A computer analysis shows that Thomas landed 29 of 46 left jabs (63 percent) when he won a 12-round decision over Tim Witherspoon for the WBC title. But against the mediocre Sullivan, he threw only 21 jabs and landed 10 (42 percent).

The 6-3 Thomas has a 70 1/2-inch reach to a 71-inch reach for Tyson, who is listed at 5-11 1/2, but appears shorter. However, Tyson always gives away advantages in height and reach, but not in power and quickness.

So the question is can Thomas offset Tyson's power and aggressiveness with movement and his jab? His last two fights indicate he can't.

Thomas, who won the WBC title on a second-round knockout of Beribek here last Nov. 22, is still irritated about his dull 15-round decision over James "Bonecrusher" Smith, which progressiveness with movement and his jab? His last two fights indicate he can't.

Thomas, who won the WBC title on a second-round knockout of Beribek here last Nov. 22, is still irritated about his dull 15-round decision over James "Bonecrusher" Smith, which gained him the WBA title here March 7. That fight was marred by Smith's holding tactics.

"He didn't try to win," Tyson complained. "This guy will try to win. He knows what he lost and he'll try to win it back."

Thomas vowed: "I'll go in there and fight Mike."

Tyson, of Catskill, N.Y., is getting $2.5 million, while Thomas, of Los Angeles, is getting $650,000.

Tucker, of Houston, is getting $360,000 to $175,000 for Douglas, of Columbus Ohio.

Former WBA champion Greg Page and Tony Tubbs will fight in scheduled 10-round bouts.

Page will meet James Broad, and Tubbs will oppose Wilmyr Halstead.

The officials for the Tyson-Thomas fight will be referee Carlos Padilla of Las Vegas, Gordon Volkmann of Illinois and Harry Gibbs of England.

Working: The Tucker-Douglas match will be referee Mills Lane of Reno, Nev., and judges Chuck Clampa of Las Vegas, Glen Homada of Washington state and Ed Levine of Florida.

Investigators clear Hagler-Leonard bout judges of illegality

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A month-long criminal probe turned up no evidence to support allegations that a professional gambler influenced the outcome of the Sugar Ray Leonard-Marvelous Marvin Hagler fight, a state official said Friday.

Deputy Attorney General John Redlein said no evidence was found that gambler Billy Baxter conspired to get judge Dave Moretti to score the fight in favor of Leonard.

Redlein issued a press release with the findings of his investigators and told a meeting of the Nevada State Athletic Commission that no other statement would be made on the probe.

"This office is not going to make any other public comment," said Redlein.

Commission Chairman Duane Ford, however, said he was angered by the fact that there had to be an investigation at all. He said the probe was based on unsubstantiated rumors.

"It is unfortunate and it angers me that one of our officials has been maligned in this way," said Ford, who called the allegations "malicious rumors."

Redlein told the commission he could not reveal the details of the allegations, although the press release said the probe was prompted by a report made to Ford by Bob Arum, who promoted the Hagler-Leonard fight.

Leonard won the April 6 fight on a split decision. Moretti favored Leonard 115-113 in the fight while judge Jo Jo Guerra had Leonard winning by a 118-110 margin. The third judge, Lou Filippico, had Hagler lead, 115-113.

The probe centered on allegations that Moretti had discussed going in to business with Billy Baxter, a high-stakes gambler, poker player and fight manager. It was also alleged that Baxter made a bet of $300,000 on Leonard in the fight.

The release said there was "no evidence" to support either allegation, although it acknowledged that Moretti, based on a single conversation with Baxter, did tell some friends that he eventually hoped to promote fights with Baxter.

Baxter said earlier that he wagered only $30,000 on the fight and that the only conversation he had with Moretti came in an airport lounge while both were waiting for a plane following a fight on the East Coast. He said his bet was placed more than two months before the fight, and prior to his conversation with Moretti.

Baxter charged Arum with being behind the rumors, contending the promoter was trying to taint the fight and rematch would be ordered.

Hoch stretches lead to 4 shots with record Memorial round

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Scott Hoch took over the record-setting role Friday, matching one tournament record and smashing another as he established a 4-stroke lead in the Memorial Tournament.

Hoch, who left his driver in his bag all day long, shot a second-round 64 that, for the second day in a row, tied the 18-hole scoring record for the tournament.

His course Jack Nicklaus designed and built.

The third 64 of the tournament was completed late in the day by defending champion Hal Sutton, who was seven shots back at 138.

Hoch's 36-hole total of 131 was 12 strokes under par on one of the more selected courses on the PGA Tour. It was three strokes better than the record 134 set by Roger Maltbie in 1982.

The round marked the fourth consecutive week that golf's touring pro, blessed with unusually good weather, have tied or broken tournament scoring records.

Hoch won the Vardon Trophy for the low scoring average on the tour last year, but hasn't collected an American tournament title since 1982. He has been slowed by a series of ailments this season, including an injured thumb and shoulder, but did take the title to a Rolls-Royce valued at $118,000, for a hole in one at the Las Vegas Invitational four weeks ago.

The automobile hasn't been driven, Hoch said, and is sitting on the dealer's lot in Las Vegas while he attempts to sell it back to the dealer.

And why does he not want a Rolls? "It doesn't fit the drive-through window at Wendy's," responded Hoch.

Hoch, who called himself "a streak player," reeled off one string of four consecutive birdies, did not make a bogey and did not have a 5 on his card.

Curt Byrum, who set the first round par with another 64, could do no better than a 71 in the tour, which was second at the tournament halfway point at 135.

Tom Watson, Fred Watson and Scott Simpson were tied for third at 136, 8 under par. Simpson and Wadsworth each had a 68.

Watson, a five-time British Open champion attempting to fight his way out of three near non-winning stints, again used a birdie-eagle burst as the centerpiece for a round of 69.

Watson hit a sand wedge to eight feet for a birdie on the 14th and scored eagle-3 on the 15th for the second consecutive day, putting a 3-wood second shot on the green and holing a 25-foot putt.

Watson, 37, said his level of intensity and desire has diminished in "the last two or three years."

Bradley, Young deadlocked atop Corning LGPA Classic

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Pat Bradley, enjoying her best tournament start of the year, tied Kathryn Young for the lead after two rounds of the $275,000 LGPA Corning Classic Friday.

Bradley, who started the day two strokes behind Young, sank six birdies in carding a 4-under-par 68 for a 36-hole total of 9-under 135.

"This is my best halfway point by far this year," said Bradley.

Young, seeking her first victory after nine years on the LGPA Tour, followed her 65 Thursday with a 2-under-par 70 to share the halfway lead with Bradley.

Dawn Coe and Robin Walton shared third place at 136, after spoiling their second consecutive.

Behind them were Rosie Jones, who started the day at 73 but tied the tournament record for low score round with a 64, defending champion Laurie Rinker, and this year's leading money-winner, Jane Geddes. All are at 7-under-par 137.

After hearing that Jones jumped into contention with 10 birdies during her round, Bradley said none of the top contenders can afford to slack during the final two rounds.

"Birdies are a must out there," she said. "People are making them like crazy and in order to win this tournament I've got to keep up the pace of that."

The 36-year-old Bradley, last year's leading money-winner on the tour, was confident going into Saturday's third round.

"There's still a lot of work to be done, but a few more 67s and 68s and I wouldn't think I'd have a problem," she said.

Young, again playing well, but did not have the putting touch she displayed during the opening round.

"The difference between rounds was that I had 21 putts today and 26 yesterday," said the Portland, Ore., native, who has never finished higher than fourth in an LGPA event.

Like Bradley, Coe characterized her performance so far as "my best two-day start of the season."

She one-putted eight holes, including the par-5 second hole, which she eagled.

"The difference in my game this year is an increase in confidence on the greens," Coe said. "I've been hitting the ball close and making the birdie putts when I should. I haven't missed a birdie putt under 10 feet since I started playing."

Walton sliced four strokes off par with a 32 on her front nine, including an eagle with a 129-yard second shot on the 56-yard 17th hole.

Rinker also had an eagle, on the fifth hole.

N. Korea hardens its position on Olympics; danger of Pyongyang-led boycott increases

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — North Korea has hardened its attitude in its dispute over South Korea's hosting of the 1988 Seoul Olympics. International Olympic Committee sources reported Friday.

In the continuing negotiations between the two Koreas, Pyongyang has reverted to its former insistence that at least eight of the 24 events scheduled for 1988 should be held in the North, according to the sources, who insisted on anonymity.

A high-level IOC delegation sent to Pyongyang to discuss the issue with North Korean authorities was denied authorization to travel to Pyongyang across the international demarcation line at Panmunjom, the sources said. The IOC had previously approved the Panmunjom crossing as a symbol of reconciliation.

But the North Koreans advised the IOC May 17 that "the crossing at Panmunjom could only be discussed once the question of co-hosting has been solved."

IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch had warned at an IOC meeting in Istanbul last month that he would regard the delegation's access via Panmunjom as a "test" of Pyongyang's willingness to compromise in the dispute.

Two years ago, North Korea threatened to organize a boycott of the 1988 Games unless it was allowed an equal share in organizing them. The Soviet Union and its East European allies have shown no enthusiasm for such a boycott.

Although the IOC awarded the 1988 Games exclusively to South Korea nearly six years ago, Seoul offered to let the North organize two sports — archery and table tennis — plus a cycling race and a preliminary soccer match, in return for Pyongyang's acquiescence.

Samaranch reportedly has declared that the IOC would accept no additional concessions to North Korea's demands.

Three successive meetings of the North and South Korean Olympic Committees convened at the IOC's Lausanne headquarters since last year failed to produce any significant progress in the dispute over the communist demand to "co-host" the 1988 Games. Another meeting, is scheduled in Lausanne July 14.

In a communique this week, Samaranch described the view of Pyongyang of the IOC delegation headed by the Committee vice president, Romania's Alexandru Siperco, as "a new gesture of goodwill which proves the IOC's deep and true desire to allow the whole of Korean youth to participate in the 1988 Olympic Games."

But Samaranch said he told the North Koreans he was "extremely disappointed" by their refusal to grant the Siperco delegation access through Panmunjom.

The communique said Siperco would nonetheless pay Pyongyang with a list of specific questions concerning the Games designed to explore the North Koreans' attitude.

LCWC wins its third NAIJA title in four years

LEWISTON (AP) — The Lewis-Clark State College Warriors are the NAIJA World Series champions for Lewis-Clark in four seasons, and they got there with a record-setting offense on their home field.

By the seventh inning Thursday night, the Warriors had collected 14 hits and trailed Emporia State (Kan.) 4-3.

But the Warriors quickly returned to form. Brett Holley hit a two-run double in the seven-run seventh to break a 4-1 tie and lead his team to an 8-4 victory.

The Warriors, unbeaten in six tournament games, set tournament records for batting average at .418, hits with 101 and runs with 105.

Lewis-Clark, in its 11th season, won its record fifth straight title game. The Warriors won the title in 1984 and 1985, then fell 6-5 to Grand Canyon College of Phoenix in last year's final

College baseball

Emporia State finished 55-13. Tournament MVP Pat Mackey started the Warrior outburst in the seventh with an RBI single to tie the game at 4-4. Holley then put the Warriors ahead for good by driving in Mackey and Lonnie Phillips, who had singled.

The Warriors loaded the bases on infield singles by Ray Atkinson and Duane Church, then Rusty Harris punched a three-run triple. Alan Mabe capped the inning with an RBI double.

Emporia State's Mike Carlson hit a solo home run in the second and John Hernandez had a two-run homer in the top of the seventh.

Steve Michael drove in the Hornets' other run with an infield single in the fourth.

Steve Reed, 7-2, scattered 12 hits in going the distance and picking up his second victory of the tournament for Lewis-Clark. He gave up three walks and struck out six.

Lost Jaime Cuesta relieved Emporia starter Saul Soltero and took the brunt of the Warriors' seventh inning. He fell to 5-1, giving up six runs on six hits in two-thirds of an inning.

The Hornets' second-place finish was their highest in three tourney entries since winning the 1978 title.

Lewis-Clark's senior shortstop Rusty Harris, who has played on the last four Warrior teams, was named to the all-tourney team and won the Golden Glove and Husle awards.

Mackey and Holley were both named all-tourney as outfielders.
