Judge says North must testify

The Associated Press WASHINGTON — A federal judge Monday ordered Lt. Col. Oliver North to testify...

mine if Robietto was paid for the work from a secret Swiss bank account controlled by retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord.

Reagan cites Soviet danger as escort for gulf oil tankers

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, trying to persuade a wary Congress that American warships must protect oil tankers in the Persian Gulf, warned Monday night that "if we don't do the job, the Soviets will."

Ayatollah one day and comfort Iraq the next," Simon said.

Reagan also said allied support has cleared the way for a major arms-reduction agreement with the Soviets on short- and medium-range missiles in Europe.

President Reagan outlines accomplishments at Venice

Reagan reported to the nation on last week's seven-nation economic summit in Venice, a meeting that produced reaffirmations of economic agreements but no new initiatives.

Members of Congress, including some of the president's fellow Republicans, have complained that the administration is embarking on a risky course in agreeing to protect tankers owned by the tiny gulf nation of Kuwait by placing them under American flags and captains and providing escorts by U.S. Navy warships.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a member of the foreign relations committee, said that along with the United States, the British, Dutch and the French were all providing naval protection for ships flying their flags in the gulf.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said after the speech the plan was "an unfocused and dangerous step away from neutrality."

Highlights of Reagan's Address. Balanced budget: We can stand by getting Congress to vote... Persian Gulf: Our own role in the gulf is vital. It is to protect our interests... Arms control: The United States will... propose to the Soviet Union the global elimination of all U.S. and Soviet land-based, shorter-range I.N.F. missiles...

'Deficit-speak' makes red ink vanish

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan gave a new answer Monday to the nation's record budget deficits: he started referring to the red ink in a manner that makes it look like it's disappearing.

Analysis

Many Americans feel the same unease, a fact reflected in polls that show budget deficits near the top of public concerns.

first six years of the Reagan presidency, Democrats could sit back and watch GOP Senate leaders proclaim administration budgets "dead on arrival" at Capitol Hill.

Reagan referred to the calls from the new Democratic leadership of the Senate for a budget summit to try to resolve differences over priorities, but the left little hope it could accomplish anything.

Slaying victim's body identified

By BONNIE BAIHD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A body found along Interstate 84 near LaGrande, Ore., has been identified as that of a Twin Falls woman reported missing last week.

LaGrande police said Monday that Lia Elizabeth Szubert, 22, was murdered last week and her body apparently thrown from a vehicle along the highway between North Powder and LaGrande in Union County, Ore.

Officers in Idaho and Oregon said they believe the woman was picked up at Mountain Home and killed somewhere in western Idaho or eastern Oregon.

Union County officers said they are working with officers in Twin Falls, Boise and Mountain Home in the investigation.

future interviews with possible suspects," West said.

West said there is no indication that the murder was by a local (LaGrande) area resident or that the murderer is still at large in that area.

Twin Falls police said the young woman left Tuesday from Twin Falls for Boise, where she was to stay with friends and meet her boyfriend, who was flying to Boise from San Diego, Calif.

Ignore family impact, high court says of death sentence

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In a major setback for the victims' rights movement, the Supreme Court ruled Monday that the impact of a murder on the victim's family may not be considered when a convicted killer faces a possible death sentence.

The court said the justices overturned the death sentence for a Maryland man convicted of brutally killing an elderly couple.

movement because in essence the ruling says the rights of convicted murderers take precedence over the rights of innocent victims."

Victims' rights organizations argued unsuccessfully that society has a vital stake in meting out the harshest penalties in retaliation for the harm done to families of those killed.

In two cases involving free speech, the court:

- Unanimously declared unconstitutional a sweeping Los Angeles International Airport ban on free-speech activities aimed at preventing distribution of leaflets and solicitation of contributions inside the terminal.
- Ruled that cities may not make it a crime to "interrupt" police officers in their work. The 8-1 decision struck down a 1956 Houston ordinance.

In another action, the court:

- Agreed to hear a Reagan administration appeal aimed at making it easier for people to file job-bias charges against employers.
- The court said it will consider reviving a Colorado sex-discrimination case dismissed because deadlines for filing the complaint were missed.
- Let stand a ruling that police may require motorists suspected of drunken driving to submit to breath tests without first telling the motorists consult a lawyer.
- The court, which came together in the peak of a New Jersey man who was not allowed to talk to a lawyer before taking a "brainalyzer" test to measure alcohol in his bloodstream.
- In the victims' rights case, the court did not say whether its ruling applies retroactively to other death row inmates who were sentenced under laws that permit consideration of the impact of a killing on the victim's family.

Most states permit judges and juries to weigh the emotional, financial and psychological impact of a crime on the victim and family members. But it is not clear how many states apply that rule to cases in which the defendant faces the death penalty.

Monday's ruling applies only to capital punishment cases.

mements raise irrelevant questions about the victim's standing in the community and his or her relationship to family members.

Justice Lewis F. Powell, writing for the court, said allowing the jury to hear about the impact on the family of a murder victim can only inflame jurors and result in "an arbitrary or capricious" sentence.

Also, he said, such victim impact statements raise irrelevant questions about the victim's standing in the community and his or her relationship to family members.

The dissenters were Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Byron R. White and Antonin Scalia.

Reagan never mentioned the budget deficit figure — $220 billion.

Instead, he chose to describe the deficit as a percentage of the gross national product, the measure of the entire U.S. economy.

All of us who take pride in our country's achievements know the efforts we've made on deficit spending," he said.

In 1983," he added, "deficit spending was a full 63 percent of gross national product; today, that figure stands at 3.9 percent — nearly a 40 percent decline in just four years."

"This year, too, our deficit is programmed to be cut by nearly $48 billion, a more than 20 percent reduction."

Reagan was perfectly legitimate to describe the deficit in terms of gross national product. But the fact is, it rarely is referred to that way.

One reason is that the GNP — about two-thirds of which is concomplished at the summit and the United States in particular came home empty-handed," he said. However, he said, the truth is we came home from this summit with everything we had hoped to accomplish.

Administration officials had acknowledged in Venice that the United States did not press the allies for any military help in the Persian Gulf; it was clear that such a plea would go unanswered.

Influential members of Congress — including Sens. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I. — have registered strong opposition to the administration's Gulf policy and have urged Reagan to either reverse course or delay implementing his plan.

In his speech, Reagan said summit partners agreed to continue working against trade barriers and made "significant progress on the issue of agricultural subsidies" which was "a real step forward" merely to get the issue on the summit agenda.

The president has called for the elimination of farm subsidies by the year 2000, but the allies did not endorse that deadline. "I will continue to press for this commitment," he said.

Reagan also said that he detected among the other leaders in Venice "a sense of unease about America's commitment to a consistent, enforceable plan to reduce our (budget) deficits" which hit a record $227.7 billion last year.

He renewed his appeal for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget and for action that would permit the president to veto individual items in appropriation bills.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole said Reagan's emphasis on the federal budget "was right on target."

Report details combat rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan told Congress last Monday that the circumstances under which U.S. Navy ships in the Persian Gulf can fire their weapons when the ships begin escorting Kuwaiti oil tankers, sources said.

The report was requested by Congress because of congressional fears about deepening U.S. involvement in the Persian Gulf and Iran-Iraq war.

The 30-page report sent to Congress was classified. The White House plans to make a shorter, unclassified version of the report public today, the sources said.

The report, answering specific concerns raised by legislators, discusses only limited military questions and does not talk about the change in U.S. policy, said the sources.

One part of the report details the "rules of engagement," the military guidelines that would allow U.S. ships to use their weapons, the sources said.

Questions about the rules were raised in the wake of last month's Iraqi attack on the Navy frigate Stark, which killed 37 U.S. seamen. None of the weapons aboard the Stark was fired to defend against the two missiles fired by the plane.

The report also discusses Navy plans to escort the Kuwaiti tankers beginning early next month, the sources said.

Among the U.S. moves will be an unspecified increase in the number of U.S. AWACS early warning planes that will monitor traffic in the Gulf, the sources said. At the time the Stark was hit, a U.S.-staffed AWACS plane flying out of Saudi Arabia was monitoring the Iraqi jet.

Reagan has promised to protect the Kuwait tankers by putting U.S. flags and captains aboard them and by having the Navy convey the tankers as they travel through the Gulf, home much of the oil used by western nations.

Kuwaiti officials, meanwhile, have reported that western diplomats said the United States was aware last summer that Iran was readying Chinese-made Silkworm missiles near the Strait of Hormuz.

While the threat of the Silkworms to shipping in the Persian Gulf has been cited as a reason for Reagan's plan to protect Kuwait tankers, the president's decision also is believed to partly designed to offset the effects of the U.S. arms sales to Iran and to placate moderate Arab countries concerned about the aid to the new regime.

The report to Congress was sent as legislators prepare to act on legislation which would ban the reflagging. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will meet Thursday to act on its version of a bill that would halt the Kuwaiti tanker protection plan unless Congress first approves it.

Legislators of both parties have argued that Reagan's plan was publicly proposed without sufficient consultation with Congress.

Today's weather

Partly cloudy, windy, cooler today

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding:

Today, partly cloudy with scattered showers and thunderstorms. Winds west to 25 mph. Cooler with highs mid 70s. Tonight, becoming mostly fair. Cooler with lows mid 60s to low 50s. Increasing clouds and chance of showers. Highs mid 70s.

Camas Prairie, Halley and Lower Wood River:

Today, cooler with west winds 10 to 20 mph. Partly cloudy and a chance of showers or thunderstorms. Highs 65 to 75.

Northern Utah and Nevada:

Utah: Partly cloudy today with a few afternoon thunderstorms mainly over the mountains. Mostly fair tonight and Wednesday. Lows tonight in the upper 40s to 50s. Cool days and Wednesday upper 70s to mid 80s.

Partly cloudy today with isolated afternoon thunderstorms in the east. Highs in the 70s to near 80. Fair tonight. Lows mid 50s to mid 40s. Partly cloudy Wednesday with scattered afternoon thunderstorms. Highs mid 70s to mid 80s.

Summary:

National Weather Service says moist, unstable air remained over the state Monday, resulting in a strong thunderstorm activity.

Radar, satellite pictures and lightning detection equipment all indicated rather extensive areas of active storms in the western border of the state. This continued to move eastward across Idaho, producing heavy rain as well as fast and gusty winds to near 50 mph.

Gusty winds were the rule in the Magic Valley and Snake River Valley with velocities near 40 mph. Elsewhere, gusty winds were generally associated with the thunderstorm activity.

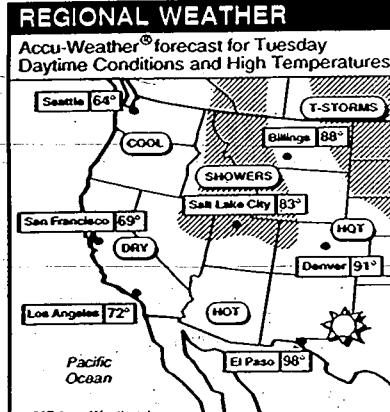

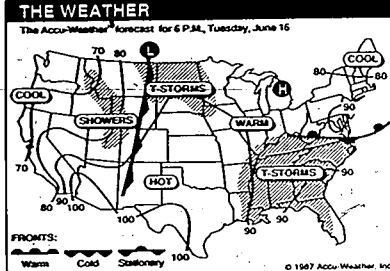

The warmest temperature in the state Monday was 95 degrees recorded at both Twin Falls and Hagerman, while the low was 33 degrees at Deadwood.

The pollen count in Twin Falls Monday was 132 particles per cubic meter of air.

The agricultural outlook for Southern Idaho shows conditions for field work and haying will be fair to good today and Wednesday with scattered thunderstorms. Good conditions will prevail Thursday through Saturday with only widely scattered afternoon thunderstorms and gusty wind temperatures. Rainfall will be between 10 and 20 inch. Irrigation demands will be decreasing today and Wednesday with much cooler temperatures.

Winds will be west to northwest 10 to 20 mph today and Wednesday.

The extended forecast for Southern Idaho: Mostly sunny with widely scattered thunderstorms and a slow warming trend. Highs near 80 on Thursday warming into the upper 80s by Saturday. Lows mid 60s to mid 50s.

The victim's mother contacted police Thursday morning when it appeared something had happened to her daughter. She had failed to arrive at the home of the Boise friends, and she did not meet the boyfriend at the airport, police said.

Information released Monday by Commander Garry Corder of the Twin Falls Police Department showed the young woman's car had broken down on I-84 near Mountain Home.

The local report showed she was last heard from at 3:50 p.m. Tuesday when she called the home of Boise friend detailing when a Navy ship stopped at Mountain Home to say she had car trouble.

However, Twin Falls officers said, the friends were not home. She called a family member at the residence who suggested she call back in an hour.

Shortly after that, a state officer observed Sabert's car just off the highway on an on-ramp, westbound toward Boise with emergency lights blinking. About an hour later, he observed that the car was still there and nobody was with the car.

Lt. Dave Pursell of the Mountain Home Police Department said the young woman's car was not removed from the interstate on-ramp near the Gear Jammer until Thursday.

"We first saw it Tuesday about 5 p.m. but people often abandon their cars because of car trouble and it takes a few days before they come back for them," he explained.

"There was no indication of any struggle in the vehicle and nothing had been disturbed," he said.

The car, a 1975 Volkswagen bug, was locked, Pursell said, and still contained the luggage and other personal items the woman had taken with her.

Pursell said his department has circulated fliers and appeals in all truck stops and other areas through Idaho and Oregon seeking information from anyone who may have seen Sabert sometime after 4 p.m. last Tuesday.

He said there are no suspects at this time and as of Monday afternoon there had been no information received at Mountain Home of any help in the investigation. He also said an investigator indicated the woman had not been given a ride into Mountain Home for mechanical assistance.

Twin Falls police entered the missing person report in the National Crime Information Center Thursday as soon as they were notified by the victim's mother.

Oregon officers contacted Twin Falls authorities Sunday afternoon to report the possibility of a connection between the Twin Falls report and the nude body that had just been found along the highway.

Mary Pat Sabert, mother of the victim, said her daughter had been living in Boise but still "headquartering" in Twin Falls, traveling frequently between the two communities. She said her daughter was planning to meet her boyfriend, who flew up from San Diego to drive back to California with her "so she wouldn't have to drive alone."

They were going to San Diego together, the mother said, and Sabert planned to get a job there and continue school.

She said her daughter graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1983 and was active in debate, student government and sports. She was a cross-country runner, avid skier and "never missed a river-running excursion when she was home," Mrs. Sabert said. She also was a Girl Scout delegate from Twin Falls.

The young woman had been living in New York after high school graduation, attending college in Riverdale, N.Y. She also had worked for an insurance brokerage there.

She was currently working as a waitress in Boise to save money to return to school, her mother said.

"If there is anything good that can possibly come from something like this, it is to let other young women know that these things can happen and that they must be careful," she said.

Lightning ignites dozens of fires in dry range, forest lands

Wind buffets Magic Valley

TWIN FALLS — High winds and a thunderstorm that moved into Magic Valley Monday created havoc with range fires, swept dust across some highways and roads and broke tree branches.

Most damage was reported as minor but winds reached 47 mph in Twin Falls and in excess of 50 mph in the Burley area during the afternoon. The Twin Falls County sheriff's department received a National Weather Service warning for late afternoon and evening winds, but the storm appeared to have passed over with no serious results.

Dale Chatterton, fire control officer for the Bureau of Land Management district in Shoshone, said a fire near Bliss covered about 1,100 acres of brush and burned in an important wildlife resource area

Monday. He said the fire was man caused since it started at the edge of Interstate 84.

"Because it is a priority wildlife area, we have tried to save as much brush as possible," Chatterton said.

"We have had two heavy engines, five medium engines and about 24 people on the fire since yesterday."

He said the Shoshone district was fortunate in that little of the lightning storm reached the district range land. Only two small fires in the Shoshone district were lightning caused, he said.

The Mindoka County sheriff's department reported some trees were blown down and power lines downed in the city of Rupert. No injuries were reported.

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of firefighters held the upper hand Monday after dozens of blazes broke out in western and central Idaho, sparked by a series of thunderstorms that sent hundreds of lightning bolts onto dry range and forest lands.

The storms late Sunday and early Monday spawned 15 fires on southwestern desert land, blackening an estimated 60,000 acres. Two dozen fires broke out in the rugged terrain of the west and central parts of the Nezperce National Forest north of the Salmon River, and another 25 fires were ignited in the Boise National Forest.

"Nobody's too panicky at this point," Forest Service spokesman Greg Spangenberg said, although lightning knocked out communication lines for hours in the Boise National Forest.

Two-man crews dogged the small spot fires in the Boise National Forest, where the hardest hit area was along a line east of Boise to the remote mountain town of Atlanta.

Spangenberg said only four of the Boise National Forest fires were larger than two acres, but winds gusting up to 40 mph Monday afternoon whipped life into sparks left by earlier lightning strikes in some areas of thick brush and alpine fir. The largest of the blazes was along Cherry Creek, where three separate fires had joined after consuming some 115 acres.

"We've had so many lightning strikes that they (fires) don't show up all at once," Spangenberg said.

But as many as 200 firefighters were scattered throughout the Nezperce to maintain control of those fires, all less than a quarter acre except for a 15-acre fire about 18 miles east of Grangeville. More than a hundred other firefighters remained on lines around the most persistent of the larger range fires being fought by the Bureau of Land Management to the south.

Most of those range and forest fires were in the mop-up stage, but manpower called in from surrounding BLM districts was being maintained against possible flare-ups as temperatures rose to their peaks late in the day. Another series of thunderstorms was also moving across the state.

"Most of the fires are down now," BLM spokesman Fred Corey said, but "There was lots of lightning and the potential for hothovers."

Half the BLM's crews were committed the largest of the blazes, a 40,000-acre fire southeast of Mountain Home in the Brown's Creek area. Neighboring ranchers used discs and dozers to help complete the line around that blaze.

No structures had been threatened by any of the fires, and no injuries were reported, officials said.

Crews were also working three other large fires in the same general area, the biggest totaling some 8,000 acres near the Mountain Home Air Force Base.

The storms also caused power problems in many communities of southwestern Idaho.

Search continues for climber on Mount Borah

CHALLIS (AP) — A search was suspended because of poor weather conditions Monday for a Boise man who disappeared during a weekend trip on Idaho's tallest peak, Mount Borah.

The Custer County Sheriff's Office identified the man as David Probst, 38.

High winds and poor snow conditions forced volunteers to suspend the search about noon Monday, the sheriff's office said, and there was no indication when the search would resume.

Probst disappeared after he lost his footing on a snow chute at the 10,000-foot level about 8 p.m. Saturday and slid from the view of the rest of the party as it was descending the 12,662-foot mountain, Sheriff Doug Leaton said.

Companions Jennifer Smith and Linda Clayborne, Boise, and Ben Childow, Ketchum, hunted for him until nightfall, the sheriff's office said.

A party of 13 searchers led by Gale Lords of Mackay camped on Borah Peak Sunday night and resumed the search on Monday morning, aided by a helicopter from Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Larry Novak of the Idaho Search and Rescue Unit of Boise said snow slicks are the result of melting snow that creates extremely slick areas of water and ice. Novak said the man was an experienced climber.

Low profile expected for Aryan event

HAYDEN LAKE (AP) — White-supremacist leaders and a sheriff's official expect next month's Aryan Nations Congress to be low key in the wake of federal sedition indictments handed down against two key racist leaders.

The event is set for July 11-12 at a military style compound in Idaho's Panhandle that is home to the Church of Jesus Christ Christian (Aryan Nations).

Aryan Nations leader Rev. Richard Butler, 69, and colleague Robert Miles, 62, pastor of the Mountain Church of Cohoetah, Mich., were among more than a dozen white supremacists indicted and arrested in April on federal charges of plotting to overthrow the government.

The two are free on bond pending a trial at Fort Smith, Ark., where the indictments were returned.

Butler said last week that his health will limit his activities at the gathering, which again will feature a cross burning. "I'll be participating mainly as a host. I'll deliver an address, but that's about all," he said.

Butler underwent quadruple bypass surgery May 1 and then had surgery on a carotid artery in his neck a week later.

Butler's annual gatherings bring together Ku Klux Klan, Posse Comitatus, Christian Identity, neo-Nazi, National Socialists, military survivalist and other right-wing, anti-government activists.

Teenager given life term for slaying

LEWISTON (AP) — A Lewiston teenager has been given an indeterminate life sentence in connection with the slaying of an elderly woman at her home 17 months ago.

Gary Joe Hawkins was ordered to serve the life term by 2nd District Judge John Bengston on Monday after nearly three days of testimony. Bengston also sentenced Hawkins, 18, to concurrent indeterminate terms of 15 years for first-degree burglary and 14 years for grand theft.

Hawkins and Wayne Boyer, 16, also of Lewiston were charged in the Jan. 11, 1986, murder of Anna Christensen, 72, whose body was found in her Lewiston home two days later by her nephew. An autopsy showed she had been suffocated.

Hawkins, who was arrested three weeks after the slaying in Greenville, N.C., pleaded guilty to the first-degree murder and other charges after Boyer agreed to testify against Hawkins in exchange for conviction on the reduced charge of voluntary manslaughter.

Practices which impede trade are not all of foreign origin

A great debate on trade legislation is going on. What worries the European is that the stakes for the United States and the world are much bigger than some of the arguments used in debate.

Roy Denman

Take unfair trade practices. It is understandable that with a trade deficit last year of $170 billion, there should be growing impatience with practices that impede U.S. exports. But the trade deficit here is not essentially the result of unfair trade practices elsewhere. The trade deficit results from a combination of macro-economic factors (in this case the budget deficit), the exchange rate (now rapidly being changed) and the competitiveness of domestic industry. If all the "unfair" trade practices elsewhere were abolished, there might be a marginal change in the deficit — it has been estimated — of between $10 billion and $20 billion.

The second point is that trade practices seen as unfair are not limited to the trading partners of the United States. We updated a few weeks ago a list of some 30 U.S. trade barriers that impede European Community exports. These vary widely.

Machining tools used by the Department of Defense cannot be bought from outside the United States or Canada. EC suppliers of switching and transmission equipment face difficulties in selling into the U.S. market because of lengthy and costly approval procedures. The Federal Aviation Administration has announced onerous new inspection requirements for imported spare parts for aircraft — likely to discourage U.S. buyers from purchasing aircraft manufactured in the European Economic Community. Customs user fees have been imposed on imports — tantamount to enacting an additional tariff. There are just some examples from a list of 30.

We did not circulate this list with any hostile or aggressive intent. We did so to set the record straight. Practices that impede trade are not limited to foreigners.

It is dangerous to establish a rule that trading partners running a surplus with the United States should be beaten over the head if trade barriers objected to by the United States are not removed within a certain time scale. In 1981, the United States ran a trade surplus with the EEC of $18 billion.

With the falling dollar, it could easily do so again. Would it have helped the United States if we had threatened or would threaten to cut U.S. exports if the trading practices mentioned above were not abolished?

Several other possible provisions of the new legislation have the same thrust. Unilateral restrictions on imports of textiles; unilateral toughening of the internationally agreed provisions on subsidies and dumping. A requirement for reciprocity in one particular sector (telecommunications) where foreigners could easily point to sectors where they give more favorable treatment to imports than the United States and demand reciprocity.

In all these cases where there are disputes, the way to deal with them is to negotiate a solution either bilaterally (we and the United States have managed to settle successfully a range of disputes between us on these lines) or multilaterally — and here the new Trade Round provides an excellent forum. The choice before us is a fundamental one. Do we continue with the one-world trading system, built up since the war with a great deal of American help. American action and a sledgehammer to the Swiss watch-like mechanism of international trade, like the path of unilateral action, let the new trade round of negotiations go bust and go back to the 1930s?

The one-world trading system — set up under the aegis of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — is not a perfect one. No human institution is. But it has made possible over the last 40 years the biggest increase in prosperity in the recorded history of the West. World trade is up in volume terms by a factor of seven, U.S. exports by a factor of five. The United States is now three times richer than it was at the end of the 1940s. A major contribution to this has been made by its rapidly increased involvement in world trade.

One-fifth of American industrial production is now exported. Forty percent of American farmland now grows for export. Five million American jobs now depend on exports. They are at risk. If we turn to the path of unilateral action, retaliation and counter-retaliation, the one-world trading system will very quickly unravel. Do we want to throw these gains away on either side of the Atlantic and travel back to the dark days that followed Hawley-Smoot, the days of "Buddy, can you spare a dime?" and once upon a time businessmen selling apples on the streets?

Hegel once said that the only thing men learn from history is that they learn nothing from history. Let us hope this time we can prove him wrong.

Letters/ Parents protest firing of special education teacher at Wendell

Review set for Wednesday

We, as concerned parents are writing to press the need for review of a dedicated young woman, special education teacher, Angie Eames. We demand justification. How can you justify the destruction of a young woman's career?

What was her name did she do? Did she have the audacity to stand up for herself? Did she not kiss the right rears? Is she not socialist enough for our administration? Or did she refuse to eat all of her lunch one day? Did any of the children get in hot water for that little deed? Does the same rate apply to teachers too? Have you removed Home Ec. elementary music number high P.E. from the school? Have you threatened V-A-G? And if this is so, what next?

We feel that elementary music is essential to our children. Because of the music program, the students will be losing out on a very important enrichment program that has been part of their curriculum for years.

Junior High P.E. is another program that is being healthy, and essential to our children. How many ninth and tenth grade boys can throw a ball for you three miles? The ones that are in sports. Test the other ones to see how their motor skills are.

How many high school girls can cook and sew? Ask them. Ask their mothers and fathers. Granted, they weren't falling over each other to get signed up for Home Ec.

but at least they had the option.

Parents, there will be an informal review on the firing of Angie Eames on Wednesday, June 17, at 7 p.m. in the multipurpose room at the Elementary School. Please come and show your support of a young woman who is being crucified. Can we afford to sit back and let our school become a socialist system?

I strongly believe that all businesses along Blue Lakes Blvd. and the entire city of Twin Falls will benefit from the widening of Blue Lakes Blvd., making our street much safer and beautify the entrance to our city.

defense of the natural. That makes us a "nation under God."

If that were truly so, we would feel more outrage about the thousands of prisoners whose "psychiatric" crime was attending a Bible study than about the human rights of political dissidents. We force our Constitution on them, but fail to introduce them to the "one" our nation is under.

One only has to read the book of Jeremiah to realize whyard nations can be used in victories, yet not be spared ultimate defeat themselves. We need to examine our individual lives for signs of misplaced loyalty, be it family, state, nation — or even church. America may be used as a power to accomplish a purpose; but we, no more than other countries, can ride on the reputation of our founding fathers. We have drifted away from that foundation and now worship possessions.

Just because we don't physically bow down to them, that doesn't mean they aren't idols. Idols are what capture the bulk of your attention, thought, time and money. It may be TV, household furnishings, travel, books, a hobby or recreation. It may even be fitness, food or finances.

Oh, we do have occasional newspaper columns which admonish us about morality. But morality in itself is not assurance of divine approval. In this case, it is the thought that counts — what consumes our thought patterns. Worthy-sounding phrases such as civil rights, freedom of speech, right to bear arms and the pursuit of happiness are not passports to eternal life — nor are they promises of military victory.

We, as a nation, have no claim to divine favoritism unless our gross national product reflects divine principles. Currently, gross is a sadly fitting description of what we're producing.

Springs should be preserved

Niagara Springs should be preserved because we have a responsibility to pass on something to future generations. So far it's an economy in ruin, pollution in air and water, a shrinking wilderness, chemical and nuclear poisons that are dangerous for years. We owe them something. We owe God something.

Unfortunately, Niagara Springs is just one of the many fine and valued resources that the money machine would devour to satisfy its greed. There are free flowing rivers that would be dammed, forests that would be mowed down. The benefits would go to a few, the ruins to many.

We are losing our common heritage and turning our backs on stewardship in the name of economic greed. We are worshipping the false god - money. It buys neither happiness, love, health nor heaven.

Letters/ Magic Valley has it all, but what would pioneers say?

Let's not tell anyone

Our Magic Valley is the best place in all of the whole world. We have mountains, lakes, streams, and our big valley. We have all the seasons of the year. We have hunting, fishing, and backpacking; and we have skiing, boating, swimming and golfing. We have ozone fresh air, bright sunshine, and the wide open spaces. Let's protect it.

We are affluent. Our restaurants are filled with satisfied customers. The kids drive their own motor vehicles to school, and drag the streets at sundown. We play and have fun while outsiders come in and do the heavy field work.

What would the hardy pioneers say if they could see our wealth today? My land has all the amenities of civilization and an elbow room too. Let's not tell anyone.

Another victim claimed

Today is truly a sad day in Twin Falls. A negligent driver in October of 1981 caused an accident in which Mr. James Smallwood was seriously injured. The person who is required by our judicial system to pay the major portion of the damages caused by this accident is not the negligent driver or any of the three primary physicians who examined Mr. Smallwood, but is a separate third party.

The three primary physicians not only failed to diagnose a serious injury, but they also failed to order the appropriate x-rays — that would have confirmed this serious injury. Our tort system now requires that Dr. Carole Dick, a third party, pay the major portion of the awarded damages for these injuries. Her only association with Mr. Smallwood's case was to incorrectly read all of the x-rays taken on admission to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. Her guidelines rest in the fact that she failed to correctly read the x-ray films, but that she was not clairvoyant and superhuman enough to appreciate the fact that the three highly trained primary physicians who examined Mr. Smallwood missed a fracture of the spine and failed to order the appropriate x-rays to confirm that fracture.

Because Dr. Dick did not perform these superhuman powers, she will be required to pay $658,800. To perform your functions as a radiologist correctly, and through no fault of your own to be punished (and fined) for the negligence of others must be personally devastating. It must make one question if one should continue to practice in the medical field.

The questions unanswered are: 1) Why did Mr. Smallwood see out a court with a truly negligent parties for such a small inadequate amount? 2) Who advised Mr. Smallwood to settle with these individuals for such an inadequate amount?

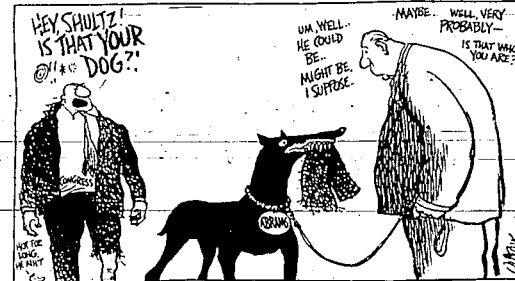

This accident now claims another victim, Dr. Carole Dick. She is truly a casualty of this accident, and now she has been figuratively forced under the wheels of that cart by the tort system and by Judge Daniel Hurlbut. Judge Hurlbut apparently does not understand that the people of Idaho demanded last year that this type of abuse by the tort system has to end. The sad part is that neither of these victims will ever recover from the injuries that they have suffered because of the negligence of others, and neither has been well served by our judicial system. This case cries out for better and more thorough tort reform. These two victims and the people of Idaho deserve better.

Disgusting advertisement

Your edition of The Times-News Friday, June 5, had the most, no doubt, disgusting advertisement I have ever seen in a newspaper.

My reference is to the ad by "The Mode LTD," advertising their "Savon Amine-sant LeBody Massager." How about an arm, shoulder, leg or thigh, certainly not someone's buttocks. I find this done in very poor taste and very offensive.

I cannot understand any editor of a reputable newspaper allowing this trash to be printed. Isn't there any decency anymore? The issues on pornography have been discussed and fought by concerned parents and teachers. Well, this kind of ad is just one step beyond that level.

U.S./Soviet officials to meet, discuss problems in Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior U.S. and Soviet officials will meet next month in a neutral European country to discuss problems in the Persian Gulf, prospects for Mideast peace talks and the protracted war in Afghanistan.

Richard W. Murphy, the assistant secretary of state for the Near East, will ask senior Soviet diplomat Vladimir Polyakov for help in steering a resolution through the U.N. Security Council calling for a cease-fire in the 9½-year-old Iran-Iraq war.

In a measure aimed at Iran, Murphy will also ask Polyakov for Soviet backing of a follow-up resolution that would impose a worldwide arms embargo on whichever side does not stop fighting, sources said.

State Department spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley on Monday again damned Tehran as "the intransigent party," while insisting the Reagan administration was neutral on the outcome of the war.

Iraq has indicated it is willing to have a cease-fire, Iran, which is on the offensive, is determined to push ahead until it topples President

Saddam Hussein.

It is not clear the Soviets will cooperate.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini denounces the two superpowers, with equal fervor, Soviet allies in Eastern Europe and North Korea provide Iran with about one-third of its weapons.

The resolutions must be unanimous to get through the Security Council. The Soviets have the power to veto both a cease-fire and an arms embargo.

"On the diplomatic side, we need their help," said a U.S. official, who demanded anonymity.

But Murphy will not invite Polyakov to have the Soviets play a role in protecting oil tankers in the gulf, the official said.

The Soviets export oil and do not depend on Persian Gulf supplies, as many countries in the West do. Besides, U.S. policy is designed to keep the Soviets from asserting their influence in the vital region.

Murphy's agenda also includes the Middle East and Afghanistan.

Jordan wants the Soviets present before negotiating peace terms with Israel. While the Reagan administration is skeptical, it is pursuing the idea "so that 10 years down the road we won't say we missed an opportunity," the official said.

On Afghanistan, Murphy is hoping the Soviets are tiring of their 7½-year-old war with Moslem rebels and will accept negotiations aimed at the withdrawal of the Red Army and the return of millions of Afghan refugees.

The official declined to provide the precise date and site for the Murphy-Polyakov meeting.

Jerry Falwell turns to supporters of 'PTL Club' for more donations

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — The Rev. Jerry Falwell urged "PTL Club" viewers Monday to mail the ministry an extra $50 each on top of their monthly pledge for June.

He also said that protection in bankruptcy court could help keep the television ministry stay on the air.

It was Falwell's first "PTL Club" appearance since the ministry filed for reorganization Friday under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. Reorganization would protect the ministry from legal action by creditors, including stations carrying "The Inspirational Network," the backbone of PTL's fund-raising and a symbol of the ministry's credibility.

another reason it was filed, Falwell said.

"The first thing we had to consider were lawsuits already filed against us with (potential) judgments we were unable to pay." The major lawsuit was filed by builder Roe Messner, who claims PTL owes him $14 million.

"Many, many lawsuits were imminent which could have caused the assets here to be savaged, sold off, taken away from the ministry," Falwell added. "I don't believe anyone wanted that to happen."

Telecommunications Inc., a cable television company based in Denver, canceled PTL's programs June 5, "under the premise that the ministry had lost its credibility," he said.

Another cable TV company, United Cable, is threatening to cancel PTL's programs, he said.

PTL will be paying stations that continue to carry its programs and will attempt to bring the accounts up to date, he said.

In May alone, television appeals brought $8.5 million to the ministry. If the 200,000 people who responded to a "May Emergency" fund-raising campaign heed Falwell's latest plea, it would raise $10 million for the ministry.

The reorganization petition prevents PTL from being sued, which is

Pentagon OK's arms for Canada

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Monday it had approved new sales of Navy torpedoes and air-to-air fighter missiles to Canada.

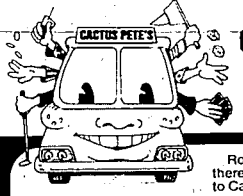

Assuming there are no congressional objections, the Pentagon said Canada would be offered 21 MK-48 torpedoes for $31 million and 96 Sparrow missiles for $23 million.

In both cases, the Navy will be responsible for overseeing the transaction.

The prime contractor for the torpedoes will be Gould Inc., while Raytheon Co. and General Dynamics Corp. will provide the Sparrow missiles.

Both weapons are already in the Canadian inventory, the Pentagon said.

What's what

DON'T KILL THE CATS!

In 525 B.C., the Persians whipped the Egyptian Army. A cunning Persian officer lined up a row of cats in front of his troops. The Egyptian soldiers thought the cats were sacred. They wouldn't fire off any arrows. But the Persians would. They killed just about everything in front of them except the cats.

Sister says 'Cosby' star thought she was 'ugly duckling'

NEW YORK (AP) — "Cosby" star Phylicia Rashad thought she was an "ugly duckling" when she was growing up, her sister, actress Debbie Allen, revealed in an interview published Monday.

"Growing up, she always thought she was an ugly duckling," said Allen, 31. "But I always thought she was beautiful."

The sisters were interviewed for the July issue of McCall's magazine.

Allen, best known for her role in the "Fame," said her sister's television family on the Cosby show is like the one they grew up in.

"Our father (who died three years ago) was crazy, fabulous, with a fantastic personality and a real concern for the family — just like Cliff Huxtable," Allen said.

"The kids are just as crazy," agreed Rashad, 31. "The father's just as crazy, the mother's just as much. That energy is the same and that love is the same."

Brosnan says abilities much better than image

NEW YORK (AP) — Pierce Brosnan, title character of the "Remington Steele" television series, says his abilities exceed his image further than his show-business image of being a "young Cary Grant" type.

"It's crazy. It's not me," Brosnan says in an interview in the current McCall's magazine. "I want to be as big a star as Cary Grant. But I'm a trained actor, and I have much more potential than playing light comedy or something like that for the rest of my life," he said.

The 35-year-old Irish-born actor starred in the Drama Center in London and worked for a time in repertory theater.

"I knew I didn't want to strut the boards doing 'Henry V' or 'Othello' the rest of my life. I wanted to be a movie star," he said.

Sinatra's secretary gets back papers

BARI, Italy (AP) — Thieves stole the purse of Frank Sinatra's personal secretary, but she got back her pocketbook and documents, though not her cash, police said Monday.

Elizabeth Pretty was walking through the medieval quarter of this Adriatic port city Sunday when two young men on a motorboat pulled up beside her. One snatched the purse from her shoulder, then both fled on the scooter into the surrounding alleys, police said.

Pretty is accompanying the singer on his six-city concert tour of Italy. On Tuesday, he is scheduled to perform in Bari's Petruzzelli Theater. Police found the purse Monday on a street near the hotel where Sinatra and his group are staying. All the cash was taken, but the documents were left in the purse. The amount of money was not specified.

Lotteries pick ticket holders for papal visit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some churches are conducting open ticket lotteries in parking lots and at church headquarters for Pope John Paul II's Masses, but at least one priest has chosen to hold drawings in secret.

The Rev. Gerald Witherson of Our Lady of Grace in Encino says he doesn't want parishioners to know whether they are getting their tickets by lottery or by pastoral choice.

"Each pastor has discretionary authority for up to 50 percent of the tickets," Witherson said Monday. "We'll do the lottery first; we'll do about 60 percent first and see how that comes out."

He said he wants to make sure "that there would be a good representation of all age groups and

Singer Nelson member of board of seminary

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The United Theological Seminary has a new board member — singer Willie Nelson.

Nelson was among five new members of the seminary's board of trustees installed Sunday. After the ceremony in the school's chapel, Nelson posed for pictures and greeted students, faculty and guests.

The Rev. Leonard Sweet, president of the United Methodist Church seminary, said he invited Nelson to join the board because "Willie's a believer; he loves the Lord. He may not have a conventional piety, but I don't know anyone who does have a 'conventional piety'."

Nelson said he taught Sunday school in a Methodist church as a young man in Texas until church officials forced him to stop. He said the officials frowned on his other weekend activities — playing bankey-tonk music in nightclubs.

Career comes in first for new Miss Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The newly crowned Miss Alabama gave up her title Monday so she could "get on with my career and my life."

In a letter to pageant officials, Julie Hitt, 25, who won the title Saturday, said although it had been her dream to be Miss Alabama, "I have thought about what is required of me, and I do not feel that I will be able to devote a year of my life to serve as the titleholder."

Miss Hitt, a student at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, did not attend a news conference to announce her resignation. Her letter was read by Nora Chapman, executive director of the pageant.

Miss Alabama is required to make numerous public appearances, model clothes and attend charity functions.

"I need to get on with my career and my life and feel that the title would cause a year's delay in these plans," Miss Hitt's letter said.

Ms. Chapman said she knew of no other motive for Miss Hitt's decision to give up the title, the first time in the 66-year history of the pageant that a Miss Alabama winner has stepped down other than to assume the Miss America crown.

The title passed to runner-up Kym Williams, 21, of Siletta, La., a student at Birmingham-Southern College, who will represent Alabama at the Miss America pageant in September.

No immediate surgery planned for mayor's son

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The newborn son of Mayor Henry Cisneros and his wife, Mary Alice, will undergo more tests for a congenital heart defect, but no immediate surgery is planned, the baby's doctor said.

"The baby is nice and stable. He's done very well over the past 24 to 48 hours," pediatric cardiologist Dr. James H. Rogers said Sunday.

"There will be other tests and most likely he will require surgery some time in the future. The most important thing is that he is very stable from a cardiac point of view and doing very well," the doctor said.

John Paul Anthony Cisneros, delivered by Caesarean section Wednesday at Methodist Hospital, was born with a congenital heart defect, multiple spleens and misplacement of the stomach and liver.

Fewer than one baby in 10,000 is born with defects similar to John Paul's. Friends of the Cisneros family have established a research fund to benefit other newborns who have similar birth defects.

CSI board approves overall budget increase

By CRAIG LINCOLN
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A "fiscally responsible" College of Southern Idaho budget with an overall increase of 8.5 percent was approved by the college's board Monday.

The budget includes a 9.3 percent increase for instruction and a property tax increase of 6.6 percent.

Despite the increase, which compares to a 1.7 percent budget increase last year and the state froze CSI's funding, CSI President Gerald Meyerhoeffer said the college tried to write as tight a budget as possible.

"I'm trying to point out we've tried to do this in as fiscally responsible a way as we could," said Meyerhoeffer.

The college received a 9.7 percent increase in state funds this year, after several years of small to non-existent increases.

"The board appreciates the support from our legislators," said Board Chairman Leroy Craig to five area legislators attending the meeting.

The state increase in funding will add $24,663 to CSI's $3.2 million budget next year.

Last year's budget was $8.5 million. The instructional increases include a 7 percent increase in teacher salaries.

The increase in the academic instruction budget for salaries and fringe benefits works out to about 7.7 percent and the increase in the vocational instructional budget will be about 10.5 percent.

"The real money spent at an institution is for faculty," Craig said. "You can only cut so many paper clips."

Academic and vocational instruction costs account for the largest single increase in the budget — next year's figures are $415,817 more than this year's.

Administrative salaries will increase about 5 percent next year, which Meyerhoeffer said was within state legislative recommendations.

The property tax increase for CSI's taxing district of Twin Falls and Jerome counties totals $148,000, or 6.61 percent. The increase is based on a 16 percent levy for next year — the limit set by the state. That is an increase from 14.65 percent this year.

Last year, the board raised taxes 12 percent but had to freeze salaries. The Legislature did not increase funding to the college last year.

The new tax rate will cost the owner of a $50,000 home with a 50 percent tax exemption about $3.50 more a year.

Tuition and fees will remain the same under the budget. County residents will pay $392 per semester. In addition, counties other than Twin Falls and Jerome will pay $425 per student.

Continuing education will receive a 56 percent increase. Although that's a large increase, the total budget for continuing education amounts to 1.5 percent of CSI's budget.

The board also approved transfer of right-of-way land to the city of Twin Falls for widening Falls Avenue in front of the college and installing a stoplight at Falls and Washington Avenues "for a long time," Meyerhoeffer said. "As long as they're in favor of it, I think we should do it."

Fitness in the future

Workers Maniwevo Ounesoneprashut, right, and Ron Crisp help level out a section of the fitness trail being constructed at the College of Southern Idaho. The two-mile trail, being cut through grassy areas on the college's east and north sides, will include 10 exercise stations. The project will combine two separate trails which are expected to be finished by late August.

Council OKs applications of two grants

By PAT MARCANTONIO
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Applications for two block grants totaling $750,000 for improvements to the senior center and sewer system were given the blessings of Twin Falls City Council Monday.

A proposed development of office and warehouse space on the 1500 block of Elm Street North, also received the council's favor.

The council almost put the brakes on skateboards and rollerskates on the downtown sidewalks. But some members rejected the measure to prohibit the activity for now in order to give the skateboarders an opportunity to speak or forever hold their wheels.

Concerning the block grants, the city was invited to submit final applications to the state Department of Commerce for Idaho Community Business Block Grants. On Monday the council heard public comment about the proposals it had in mind.

No one commented on the largest proposal, which is a $650,000 project to extend and expand storm-sewer mains near Elm Avenue, from Monroe Street to Van Buren Street and along Heyburn Avenue from Polk Street to Van Buren Street. The project includes reconstruction of street intersections.

City officials say the improvements should ease flooding problems in the area.

The city had originally proposed putting up $50,000 of its own money and seeking $600,000 from the grant. But Mayor Doug Vollmer, who sits on the advisory board reviewing the grant applications, suggested the city offer more matching funds for the storm project to make its application more attractive.

"Anything is better than what we have now," Vollmer said.

The council members agreed to give the city's ante to $150,000 and seek $500,000 in the grant request, which is due Friday.

The city is also seeking $100,000 for a 1,800 square-foot expansion of the dining area and parking at the Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center. The city is seeking $80,000 matching funds from its own pockets and the seniors will donate $28,000.

Dorothy Bartak, the center's board chairman, said the facility was becoming a busy place and needed more room. The dining room capacity is 108, but at times almost 150 people have been served.

In other business, the council approved a request for commercial zoning for the proposed Blue Lakes Business Plaza on Elm Street North. The area is now residential.

Medco, Inc., a Boxeman, Mont. development company, sought the building. Medco was responsible for requesting the Super 8 Motel, said investor Dave Harvey and Boxeman Inc. The company wanted to develop more in the city because it likes Twin Falls, Harvey said. He added that he hopes some building may start in the next 30 days, but added that he had no commitments from businesses.

The City Planning and Zoning Commission had rejected the proposal.

Engineer Gerald Martens, representing Medco, said the proposal of residential-zoned property east of Locust Street.

NLRB looks into complaint about UFF

By BOB FREUND
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The National Labor Relations Board is investigating a union-filed complaint alleging that Universal Frozen Foods has interfered with efforts to organize employees and has retaliated against individual workers.

The federal agency expects to decide the merits of the case sometime this week, said Larry McCargair, assistant director for the Seattle Region, which covers Idaho.

The NLRB also will conduct next week the election among 675 UFF employees on designation of Local 289, International Union of Operating Engineers, as their collective bargaining agent.

Local 289's unfair labor practice complaint amounts to an unproven charge. Under federal law, the NLRB investigates and determines whether there is probable cause for the charges before taking them further.

The local, based in Richland, Wash., is alleging UFF management:

- Placed members of the union organizing committee in "less desirable jobs and less desirable job locations" and assigned them to "deplorable and degrading work."
- Confiscated union literature "properly placed for employees."
- Interfered with organizing efforts by "interrogating employees about union sympathies."
- Created the impression of or actually engaged in surveillance of employees friendly to the union.
- Discriminated against female employees in promotions.

- Revised longstanding policies regarding safety infractions "to retaliate against union activists."

The complaint, which was filed May 6, parallels some instances cited by Local 289 organizers during their recent organizing drive at the Twin Falls plant.

UFF Personnel Director Gene Hoskins said Monday the company has denied the allegations, but will not respond to individual charges until the NLRB decides.

"I would prefer to wait until they give us their findings," he said.

At the same time, Hoskins indicated UFF management was not surprised at the allegations coming in the midst of an organizing drive.

"I don't think it's unusual that you get unfair labor charges" in the midst of an organizing drive, he said.

Burley Bobcat Band leaves for Philadelphia

By KATHY VITEK
 Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — The Burley Bobcat Band left for Philadelphia Monday to represent Idaho at the Celebration of the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, after the town raised about $50,000 to pay for the trip.

About 78 students and 12 chaperones were given a send-off in Burley at 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Cassia County School District Superintendent Norman Hurst said that the band will play in Philadelphia on Wednesday, which has been designated as Idaho Day. The Burley band and "Pocahontas" choir will be the musical representatives from Idaho at the celebration sponsored by the national organization "We the People 200."

The band also will play in Washington, D.C., in front of the White House later this week in a performance arranged by Sen. Steve Symms. According to Hurst, students will tour four historical sites in Washington, D.C., before returning home this weekend.

"For a lot of these kids, this may be the only chance they get to see the East Coast," said Steve Floyd, one of the band's directors.

A fund-raising campaign has been under way for several months to raise the $50,000 needed for the trip.

Organizers raised $20,000 by March of this year from private citizen pledges, the Booster Club, service clubs and businesses, including $1,000 from Albertson's and $500 from both Mountain Bell and Amalgamated Sugar.

A Youth Talent show and a dinner and auction raised $7,000, said Hurst. Each student raised $200 from various work projects including farm jobs, baby-sitting and clean-up jobs at businesses, he said. In addition, students and their families pledged $125-150 to complete the $50,000 goal.

The Burley band was contacted about the trip in February by Journey Associates, of Mesa, Ariz., the organization responsible for recruiting bands and choirs from the western states for this summer's celebration.

The Burley band was selected to play at a GOP rally last October in Twin Falls, and Floyd said that performance may have attracted the attention of Journey Associates.

The new rules require $1 million or $2 million coverage for property damage, or environmental restoration for carriers of various types of hazardous materials.

The old rules required property carriers to maintain $500,000 coverage per accident regardless of the type of materials being transported, according to a PUC press release.

Radioactive materials also come under the new requirement, said Gary Richardson, PUC spokesman.

Last Oct. 12 radioactive materials plunged into the Snake River east of Burley when an interstate truck was involved in an accident. There was no contamination of the river, according to state officials. The state set cleanup and repair costs at $11,772.

The interstate truckers say the rate change will make no difference in their operations since they currently carry $1 million liability state effect July 12, 1987, the PUC coverage.

Among these are Yellow Freight of Twin Falls and D&D Transportation Service of Coalinga.

New policies confuse motor freight carriers

By MARK PHATTER
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Motor freight carriers that operate solely within the state are confused by new state requirements which raise the insurance requirements for carrying both hazardous and non-hazardous materials, says a spokesman.

"The intrastate leaves a question. We're trying to figure it out," said Paul Garrard of the Idaho Motor Transport Association.

The state Public Utilities Commission raised the amount of liability coverage required for intrastate carriers in the wake of a series of accidents since April involving the pesticide Dioxob and polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs), electrical transformer coolants.

"The public health, safety, and welfare has unreasonably been placed at risk," the PUC said in announcing the new rules. There will be a public hearing before the commission's effect July 12, 1987, the PUC coverage.

Erosion or mislocated? The case of a lost time capsule

By BARBARA NEIWEIT
 Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — More than 100 years ago, settlers in the Wood River Valley planted a time capsule within the cornerstone of the Blaine County Courthouse.

The original plan must have been to remind future generations of the valley's founding days, a time when gold and silver mining were booming.

But in 1888, the centennial of the courthouse came and went with no one returning to search for the capsule.

And Sunday, the day finally set to open the capsule, proved disappointing for the small crowd that gathered for the ceremony.

It was not until the spring of this year when remodeling crews were working to update the building that someone stumbled upon information in the archives, telling of the time capsule.

In a ceremony Sunday to coincide with Flag Day, county officials opened up the bottom northwest cornerstone to bring out the long-swalled time capsule.

However, nothing but a sack of mortar, hollow space and a few bits of wood and rotted metal were found.

"I certainly feel like Gerald Rivers," said 5th District Court Marshal Mike Nicholson, referring to a much promoted live television broadcast during which reporter Rivers blasted open a vault used by gangster Al Capone and found it empty.

Because a large amount of water gushed out of the cornerstone when the facing was removed, county officials speculated the time capsule had been made of wood and water seepage over the past 104 years had deteriorated the box along with all of its contents.

County archives showed the contents as being a list of the county board of commissioners of the day, a blank courthouse bond, other county documents and a copy of the Wood River Times.

Officials said Sunday they believed they had pinpointed the spot described in county archives. The date was engraved on the bottom cement work, providing another indication of the location.

Once inside the wall of the structure, an empty space approximately 4-by-10-inches was found, with small bits of decaying wood and metal.

The courthouse was constructed in 1883 and was built by inmates from the state penitentiary in Boise. The limestone for the structure was quarried from a Bear quarry and is 15 inches thick.

Officials said they will not give up searching for the time capsule, but do not want to remove enough stonework to threaten the support of the building.

To the best of anyone's knowledge at the Sunday ceremony, the time capsule had not been removed previously. Local residents, or others who may have any information regarding the capsule, are urged to contact County Clerk Mary Green.

Plans are being made to put another time capsule back in the building, but this time an all-light, water-proof box will be used, and the capsule will be opened in 25 years rather than wait another 100 years. This time, the county does not want to lose a piece of history.

Rollover injures Declo driver

RUPERT — A Declo driver, seriously injured Sunday in a one-car rollover on Interstate 84 near the Burley interchange, was transported to Salt Lake City for treatment Sunday night.

Idaho State Police dispatcher, Kent Haskins, said Loren Dahlberg, 31, of Declo, was traveling east on the Interstate, apparently at a high rate of speed. At a point two miles west of the main Burley interchange in Minidoka County, the driver lost control of the vehicle.

Pickup accident injures 2

JEROME — One man was seriously injured and another treated and released as a result of a traffic accident in Jerome County Sunday night.

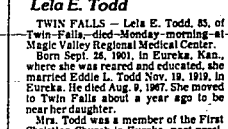

However, his passenger, Brian VanHoozen, 25, also of Twin Falls, was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown from the vehicle. He was injured on Highway 83 in the intensive care unit at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center Monday night.

Hailey man dies as truck hits fence

BELEVUE — A one-vehicle accident early Monday morning south of Bellevue claimed the life of a Hailey man.

Idaho State Police said Dave Lee Matteson, 33, of Hailey, died at the scene, probably instantly.

Investigating officers said the man was traveling alone, northbound on State Highway 75 at 2:17 a.m., when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his 1965 pickup truck. The vehicle ran off the right side of the road and crashed into a wooden fence. The accident scene was about five miles south of Bellevue.

ISF Trooper Dan Tiller was assigned to investigate. Investigation by Blaine County sheriff's officers and ISF Cpl. Fred Rice, who directed the accident reconstruction.

had been changed to alleviate the commission's fears, such as eliminating accesses to Locust Street.

Lee Wagner, representing the Greater Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, urged the council to approve the zoning change. The city had already promised money and time to community development, he said.

Here we have before us, an individual ready to invest," Wagner said. The council approved the request for the commercial zoning. But it zoned the two acres on the east part of the property commercial planning and development to protect residential areas.

The council also asked City Development Director LeMar Orton to start the procedure for changing residential area from Blue Lakes Boulevard north to Locust Street. Spt. Robert Lockett of the Idaho State Police Motor Carrier Safety Assistance Program. But the state now requires truckers hauling Dinosaur to notify authorities before entering Idaho, he says.

At its meeting next month, the council will probably consider an ordinance prohibiting skateboarding, according to the city attorney. The city also is working on building plans.

Waste

D&D, which only carries non-hazardous materials, has $1 million coverage, says Calvin Kuntz, manager. California set its coverage requirements at $750,000 some time ago, he says. Motorwest of Caldwell has $1 million coverage for hazardous materials and $1 million for non-hazardous, says owner Dennis Moss. One question to be resolved is the extent of the PUC's jurisdiction in applying the Interstate coverage limits to intrastate carriers, says Gerard of the transport association.

There were no insurance problems in connection with the Dinoseb accident near Montpelier last April, says Sgt. Robert Lockett of the Idaho State Police Motor Carrier Safety Assistance Program. But the state now requires truckers hauling Dinoseb to notify authorities before entering Idaho, he says. A truck that left a puddle of PCBs at an Interstate 84 weigh station west of Bliss on May 28 has never been found, he says. There was a PCB accident May 16 involving a Rocky Mountain Transport truck near Fairfield. But a spokesman for the company familiar with insurance coverage could not be reached for comment on whether Rocky Mountain was covered and for what amount. The state has been tightening regulations on transportation of hazardous materials and waste in 1987. A new law requires additional state permits for hauling hazardous materials and bans the unauthorized disposal of PCBs. It is state policy to have designated routes, mostly Interstate highways, for the safe transportation of hazardous wastes.

Denver voters hit the polls, decide mayoral runoff race

DENVER (AP) — This city's voters got to the polls today to decide a $2 million mayoral runoff race that has become, in its final days, an acrimonious argument over campaign advertising.

Incumbent Federico Pena, the city's first Hispanic mayor, is in a tight race for a second term against political newcomer Don Bain, who wants to be the city's first non-Democratic mayor since 1964.

Though Pena started the race with the highest name recognition, he finished 5 percentage points behind Bain in the May 19 election. Bain took 42 percent of the votes, while Pena had 37 percent, forcing the two into the runoff. The rest of the vote was split among six candidates.

Less than three weeks ago Pena trailed Bain by more than 20 percentage points, but just before the election he was ahead by 6 percentage points, according to a poll that showed the two in a virtual dead heat.

As Pena moved up in the polls, the candidates' exchanges went from verbal jousting to bitter, personal accusations. Televised debates provided the forum for most of the mudslinging. On Friday, Bain demanded that Pena stop broadcasting a radio ad saying Bain's law partners had "millions of dollars riding on this election."

"If you're questioning my honesty, my professional integrity and my commitment to the city of Denver, I want you to tell me that right now," Bain said.

Pena refused to pull the ad, but responded: "I have never challenged Mr. Bain's integrity or honesty, and I never will."

In another debate, Pena lambasted Bain for airing an ad referring to police rookie Jim Wier, who was shot and killed June 3 while answering a domestic disturbance. Bain's ad juxtaposed newspaper headlines of the shooting with a promise that Bain would "restore the police training that Mayor Pena cut. Because when the time for excuses is over, it's time for a change."

"I think it is outrageous that an ad is being run over the death of Officer Wier and connecting that to the training program in the city," Pena said.

Bain said he yanked the ad "out of sensitivity" after the slain officer's mother told him she was worried the ad might be offensive to Wier's family.

Pena, 40, is a former civil rights lawyer and state legislator who draws his strongest support from predominantly black and Hispanic neighborhoods.

Bain, 52, is one of Denver's top corporate lawyers, charging up to $200 an hour, and the first Republican mayoral candidate since 1975. His support lies in the predominately Anglo neighborhoods. Last year he reported an income of $287,000, five times Pena's salary.

Although the election is nonpartisan, political affiliation favors Pena since 46 percent of Denver's registered voters are Democrats and 26 percent are Republicans.

Police arrest over 100 during nuke protest

MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — More than 100 people, including actor Martin Sheen, were arrested Monday in an anti-nuclear demonstration that included nail spilling at the entrance to the Nevada Test Site.

Energy Department spokesman Jim Boyer said 105 people were arrested and charged with trespassing before being released. He said many of those arrested came back and were arrested again for trespassing.

Boyer said demonstrators apparently tried a new tactic, spilling a keg of nails on U.S. 95 at the entrance to the site. He said two semi-trailers had tires punctured along with a half-dozen other vehicles by the nails.

About 200 demonstrators gathered for an early morning prayer service, then staged a demonstration that ended when many crossed over a cattle guard marking the site's entrance and were arrested for misdemeanor trespass. Boyer said about 25 demonstrators lay down in the middle of the road in an effort to block traffic before being arrested.

The protesters were met with a counter-demonstration by 100 pro-nuclear demonstrators, who sported American flags and signs promoting continued nuclear testing, Boyer said.

In addition to Sheen, who has been arrested at the site on numerous occasions, several city officials from Santa Monica, Calif., were among the anti-nuclear demonstrators.

Most of those arrested were given a citation and released. Authorities have stopped prosecuting trespassers in recent months, citing the cost and difficulty of dealing with large numbers of protesters.

Salt Lake's level drops half an inch

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The level of the Great Salt Lake dropped half-an-inch during the first two weeks of June, to 4,211.55 feet above sea level, the National Weather Service reported Monday.

The new mark brings the lake's decline to four inches since it peaked in early April. But the weather service said the briny lake, which has caused more than $100 million in damage from flooding in recent years, is receding slowly despite a $60 million pumping project.

The weather service said the lake dropped only one inch during May in spite of the pumping project. At least one of three massive pumps has been operating since early May when the project began to pump lakewater into a giant evaporation pond in a desert valley to the west.

Hot weather, nearly 5 degrees above the daily average temperature, also has failed to spur a more rapid decline, apparently because of heavy rainfall during the latter two weeks of May, the weather service said.

Precipitation during the first half of June has been light, with Salt Lake City recording .17 of an inch during the first two weeks of the month, or about 35 percent of normal rainfall.

Forecasters said that if evaporation continues at a normal rate, the lake should drop another 1 1/2 feet to 2 1/2 feet by the end of the summer.

Give from the heart this Father's Day

DEAR READERS: This Sunday is Father's Day. You're broke? Not to worry. Here's a suggestion for a Father's Day gift that won't cost you a dime, but will probably be the best gift your father has ever received for any occasion.

It doesn't matter if you're 8 years old or 60, if you're lucky enough to have a father, sit down and write him a letter. It doesn't have to be a literary masterpiece; just a few sentences telling him how much he means to you, and why, will do.

Of course, if you are in a chatty or sentimental mood, go ahead and express the thoughts you may have found difficult to verbalize. And when you sign it, be sure to add the date. Long after the neckties, shirts, sweaters and wallets are worn and discarded, I'll bet your Father's Day letter will remain tucked away for safekeeping with the rest of Dad's important papers.

How do I know? Mine were.

DEAR ABBY: Please rerun the enclosed letter so your young readers can see it. It may help them to see the light.

—SAVANNAH SENIOR

DEAR ABBY: My father wrote to you at least 12 years ago, and you put his letter in your column. You printed it twice on request. My father had it framed, and when we brought him here to live with us, he carried it in his hands for fear it might be damaged or lost.

"When he heard his letter had been framed and hung in the chapel of a cemetery," he said, "What a pity it will be gone only by those for whom it is too late. It would accomplish more on the bulletin boards of high schools and colleges."

"Abby, he made me promise that after he died I would write to you and ask you to run it again."

"He died one week ago at age 72. I printed it once more for my beloved father.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

—FAITHFUL READER

DEAR READER: The letter that meant so much to your father has been requested more than any other. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am the most heartbroken person on earth. I always found time to go everywhere else but to see my old, gray-haired parents. They sat home alone, loving me just the same.

It is too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give, and safekeeping with the rest of Dad's important papers.

How do I know? Mine were.

DEAR ABBY: Please rerun the enclosed letter so your young readers can see it. It may help them to see the light.

—TOO LATE

DEAR ABBY: I can relate to the wife who's approaching 40 and announced to her husband "Frustrated—in-Downers, Grove!" that she had lost all interest in sex.

"Frustrated" wants to know why. Let's give him a few reasons:

1. Does he bathe regularly?
2. Does he breath turn her off?
3. Does he wear clean clothes?
4. Does he consider her needs when having sexual relations?
5. Does he consider her needs when NOT having sexual relations?
6. Does he stimulate her desire for sex with "I love you," "You are wonderful," "You are all I need," before and after sex?

7. Does he remember special occasions?
8. Does he prevent her life from becoming a bore?
9. Does he share the problems that she has with the kids?

10. Does he consider her a "homemaker," not just a housekeeper? If he will take a look at himself, I'm sure he can find plenty of love and sex at home.

CSI class teaches children

TWIN FALLS — "Summer Time Scrapbook," a beginning computer class for young people in grades four, five and six will begin June 22 through the College of Southern Idaho Continuing Education Department.

Students will be using Bank Street Writer software in this class. Fee for the six sessions is $20 per person.

Students will make a scrapbook as they develop creative writing skills using a word processor. They'll brainstorm a group adventure story, take an imaginary trip, maybe even create a monster fruit and vegetable stand. The scrapbook will be illustrated with designs chosen from a computer graphics library.

The class meets from June 22 through July 8 from 12:30 to 1:50 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. For more information call 733-9554; Ext. 363 or pre-register in the Taylor Building.

Valley happenings

Super Collider will be topic

JEROME — Jan Hagers, Boise, Department of Energy, will address the Jerome Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Wednesday noon at Wood's cafe. He will discuss efforts to obtain the Superconducting Super Collider project in Idaho. Emmett Broilier, First Security Bank and president of Jerome Development Co. Inc., will report on activities of the development group. The public is welcome.

Chamber will learn about SIS

GOODING — The Gooding Chamber of Commerce meets Thursday noon at the Wood River Inn, Gooding. Carl Gertz, Boise, Department of Energy, Special Liaison Separator (SIS) manager, will speak. The Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Arco is the preferred site for the proposed refining plant, which will separate weapons-grade plutonium from fuel-grade plutonium in government-owned stockpiles.

YFCA sets swimming lessons

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley YFCA is taking registration for swimming lessons which run from June 22 to July 3. Classes are available for non-swimmers through intermediate levels at 9 and 9:50 a.m. Pre-school and waterbabies classes for children 6 months old are scheduled for 9 a.m., and these swimmers must be accompanied by a parent. All classes are held for two weeks Monday through Friday. Fee for non-members is $22. For more information contact Wendy Nixon, fitness coordinator.

Youth overnighter is planned

TWIN FALLS — A youth overnighter will be held Friday at the Magic Valley YFCA for children from the first to sixth grades. They may be left at the Y from 7:30 to 8 p.m. Friday and picked up by 9 a.m. There will be swimming, movies, group games, an evening snack and light breakfast. Cost is $6 per child for non-members. Reservations and more information is available by calling the Y, 734-4384.

Wedding

Mulconery-Probasco

Roble and Kelly Probasco

TWIN FALLS — Kelly Lou Mulconery became the bride of Roble Kendall Probasco April 23 at the Bible Baptist Church in Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mulconery, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Probasco, Buhl.

Maid-of-honor, Twin Falls, sister-in-law of the bride, was Sharon George, Salt Lake City, and Best Woman and Dime Perkins, both Twin Falls. Megan Mulconery, niece of the bride, and Whitney Ward were flower girls.

Dan Probasco, Buhl, was best man for his brother. Grandfather of the bride was Randy Probasco, brother of the bridegroom; Michael Mulconery, brother of the bride; and Kevin Newby, cousin of the bridegroom. Dennis Ward and Ernie and Scott Keith, both cousins of the bridegroom, ushered. Jonathan Woolworth was ringbearer.

Robert M. Newby, grandfather of the bride, was a special guest.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church. Val Sharp was guest book attendant.

The newlyweds both are employees of Obenchain-Wheat Insurance firm in Twin Falls. She is a life department administrative assistant, and he is systems coordinator.

After a trip to the Oregon coast, the couple resides in Twin Falls.

'Idaho Jones' and library team up for young readers

TWIN FALLS — This year's reading to Ellen Neff of the statewide summer reading program, children's department, for kindergartners through sixth graders was launched last week at the Twin Falls Public Library with 85 local children participating.

Virginia Ricketts, local historian and Times-News columnist, shared some of the adventures of Idaho's pioneer children. Booklets and reading logs were distributed.

Because of interest shown in the program, called "Idaho Jones and the Great State Adventure," additional materials will be acquired to accommodate 25 more children. ac-

Interested children are invited to attend at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. Other scheduled activities include films, slide presentations, personal accounts and crafts.

Another program called the "Caterpillar Club" designed for preschoolers meets at 10:30 a.m. each Tuesday. This week's activities revolve around the theme of rivers and bridges. All preschoolers/ kindergartners and their parents are invited.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"Why, since we are always claiming our ace, we are...ly employed in rebuilding them?" - Voltair.

The defense should have defeated today's game after South placed his ace and returned a heart, South winning the play. The club king exposed the bad break, but South continued with two more clubs, establishing dummy's fifth club.

Where did East go wrong? East should have refused to win the first club lead with his ace.

What about South's play? Did he give his best? The answer is an emphatic "No."

Spinks: Tyson next?

Ex-champ TKOs Cooney in 5th round

By ED SCHUYLER JR. The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — No longer is there any doubt that Michael Spinks is a real heavyweight. Now the only dispute is whether he is the real heavyweight champion.

The former undisputed light heavyweight champion proved he was a heavyweight Monday night, knocking down giant Gerry Cooney twice and battering him into submission at 2:51 of the fifth round. "He didn't lose to just anybody," Spinks said.

Promoter Butch Lewis billed the 15-round fight as one for the heavyweight championship, but Mike Tyson is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association and World Boxing Council while Tony Tucker holds the International Boxing Federation title once held by Spinks.

Spinks is on a collision course with Tyson, who was at ringside, and they should meet in a major money match sometime next year. "It's important for us to fight him," Spinks said. "I'll just fight him like I fight everybody else... with all my heart and guts."

Tyson's trainer, Kevin Rooney, said: "Mike Tyson is going to eat this guy up." Cooney never got the chance, and the defeat before a sellout crowd of 16,500 at Convention Hall will surely send him into retirement.

Cooney did not attend a post-fight press conference.

CSI hands aim for national title

By The Times-News

BOZEMAN, Mont. — The College of Southern Idaho's formidable stable of roughstock riders should give the Eagles, perhaps their best shot, over all national collegiate championships when the National Intercollegiate Rodeo officially gets under way here today at the Montana State University Rodeo Arena.

"I think realistically we can get five people into (Saturday's) finals," said CSI Rodeo Coach Shawn Davis on Monday. "They year we finished second, we had six. We really have seven different options, so I think you'd like they should we should have a shot at it."

Under the NIR scoring system, participants receive points on the basis of their performances in the preliminary rounds. But the real point potential is in the place where national championships are won or lost — comes in the one-day finals.

At the heart of the Eagles' prospects are the Norcutt brothers from Battle Mountain, Nev., Frank and Wayne. Frank is the defending NIR saddle bronc champion and two-time defending Intermountain Region winner. Wayne has finished second in the region both of those years.

"Both Frank and Wayne have drawn National Finals (Rodeo) horses for later in the week," said Davis, whose team has finished out of the top 10 at the NIR just once in the last decade. "That's encouraging."

The Eagles' Richie Hamilton, a freshman from Wellsville, Utah, who finished second in bareback riding at the Intermountain Region is another prospective finalist, Davis believes.

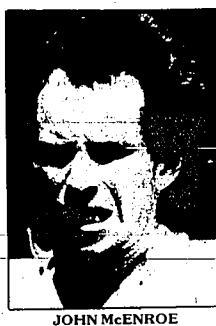

Most Montana State and Blue Mountain Community College of Pendleton, Ore., got off to strong starts Monday in the preliminary competition in the timed events, but Davis said that shouldn't preclude CSI from contending for the title.

Both Montana State and Blue Mountain's strengths are the timed events, so it's not surprising, they would start out strong Monday in the team roping. "Our strong events are coming later in the week,"

Both CSI's Hoble Peterson and Darren Shaw competed in their preliminary steer wrestling rounds Monday, with Shaw also doing some calf roping and the Norcutts competing in team roping. Although Davis had no place results as of press time Monday, he said all four of his athletes had good enough scores to stay in the running for the finals.

McEnroe, citing back troubles, skips Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Boris Becker of West Germany was given the top seed in the men's draw for Wimbledon Monday, despite being No. 2 to Ivan Lendl in the world rankings.

Marina Navratilova, the defending women's champion, was seeded No. 1 in her bid for a sixth consecutive Wimbledon triumph and eighth overall.

Related story — D4

John McEnroe, who would have been seeded eighth, told organizers earlier in the day that he was skipping Wimbledon because of a bad back. McEnroe, a three-time champion at Wimbledon, was eliminated in the first round of the French Open.

Joining McEnroe among the highly-ranked men missing from the seeds were No. 11 Ken Karpisov of Sweden and No. 14 Martin Jaite of Argentina, both clay-court specialists.

before the French Open, while Rinaldi was injured in Paris. The 19-year-old Becker has won Wimbledon the last two years. He has moved into the second spot in the rankings behind Lendl, who solidified the top position he has held since September 1985 by winning the French Open for the second year in a row.

It is customary for No. 1 in the computer rankings to be seeded No. 1 at Grand Slam events. But the grass courts of Wimbledon are tailor-made for Becker's power game, featuring 14th-rank serves and acrobatic volleys. Wimbledon has the right under tennis rules to deviate from the computer list in setting its seeds.

decision to seed Becker first. Navratilova ranked first in the world among women's players, even though she has not won a tournament this year.

Graf, who turned 18 on Sunday, is unbeaten in 39 matches and has won 14 of 15 tournaments she has played this year.

Pate 15th and Kevin Curren 16th. Following Graf in the women's seedings were three-time winner Chris Evert third; Czechoslovakia's Hana Mandlikova fourth and Helena Sukova fifth; Pam Shriver sixth; Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina seventh; Manelita Maleeva of Bulgaria eighth; West German Claudia Kohde-Kilsch ninth and Bettina Bunge 10th; Lori McNeil 11th; Catarina Lindqvist of Sweden 12th; Wendy Turnbull of Australia 13th; Barbara Potter 14th; Katerina Maleeva of Bulgaria 15th; and Raffaella Reggi of Italy 16th.

The French team of Noah murguy Forget was seeded first in men's doubles. Navratilova and Shriver first in women's doubles and Americans Ken Flach and Kathy Jordan first in mixed doubles.

Boise St. study says men coaching girls

MOSCOW (AP) — Men coach the majority of girls' high school sports programs in Idaho and Washington, current statistics show. Ten years ago, it was the other way around.

A similar trend is occurring in Washington. Interscholastic Activities Association statistics show that men held nearly 70 percent of 1,763 coaching positions in girls' prep athletics in 1986.

In 1972, 300,000 girls nationally participated in high school athletics. That figure is now approaching 2 million.

But while enhancing participation, Title IX may also have hurt female coaches, some say. "When Title IX came about, good programs came about," said Bonnie Hultstrand, a physical education teacher at the University of Idaho who has been studying the issue for many years.

Celtics planning to stand pat

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics had too many injuries and too little bench strength but still made it to the sixth game of the NBA finals. Panic and chaos changes for next season are not likely.

Related story — D4

"I don't believe that anybody in the starting lineup of ours will be touched," Celtics President Red Auerbach said. "I'm very adamant. Our starting five is still the best in basketball."

Another concern is the limited contributions of the Celtics' bench. In the finals, Boston's backups had 55 points, 31 rebounds and 23 assists in 284 minutes, while Los Angeles substitutes had 162 points, 69 rebounds and 23 assists in 438 minutes.

Boston's freedom in making trades. "We have a good team," he said. "If the starting five had been healthy, forgot the other injuries, we would have been all right."

With 33 points, matching his career playoff high, and 10 rebounds, guard Dennis Johnson, who directs the offense, was Boston's best player Sunday.

Local, Utah teams win weekend tournaments

Jerome clubs kept the top four spots at home in last weekend's Men's Class C Slopitch Invitational, while at Rupert, a Salt Lake City crew took the top prize out of the Coors of Magic Valley Tournament.

Coors of Magic Valley had a rougher time on the road at Caldwell's United Metals national qualifier, but gets a second shot at a berth in the national event two weeks from now. This one at home.

Due to favorite son Archer, Soda Springs gets football field

SODA SPRINGS (AP) — For years, high school football players at this eastern Idaho farming community of 4,000 didn't have a field to play on.

Soda Springs High School played home games at a nearby city park requiring players to dress at the school and take a bus to the park. Wet-weather was another problem. Since the park field intersected with a softball diamond, rain or 1733 created a muddy during games.

The impetus for getting started was Archer, who graduated from the high school seven years ago.

Last season, Archer started most of the games at quarterback for the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL.

He went on to play college ball at Utah's Snow College and then Iowa State.

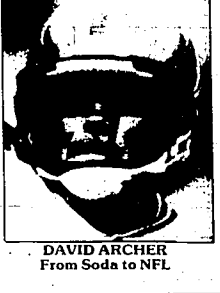

His chance for a gift was a 10-foot, 10-ton concrete block. It was engraved in Pocatello this spring, and sits now covered by plastic while Soda Springs residents formally unveiled it Monday night.

The monument was dedicated, followed by a dinner and alumni football game.

Soda Springs school officials credit a long list of community volunteers and service clubs with organizing both the dinner and field renovation.

About $40,000 to $50,000 worth of work is being accomplished with a lot less cash, plus a lot of volunteers.

"It's been pretty much a community effort," said Gambles. "I think there were some doubters — I probably was one of them."

In spite of its fewer numbers, M-C association flourishing

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The two-year-old Mini-Cassia Men's Softball Association has flourished. That's due, in large part, to the efforts of a committee spearheaded by president Ken Coopersmith of Paul.

"I'm kind of an unofficial president if there is such a thing," points out Coopersmith. "We don't really have a president, but we run the association out of my office. I'm the one who takes all the heat."

"A fella had been running things down here for years and had been doing a really great job," he added. "He left the area and the fellas took it over. There was a little inexperience there and so we finally kind of had to put it back together."

According to league statistician Steve Haun, himself a board member as well as player on the Paul Home Center/Newcomb Farms Division I team, Coopersmith has accomplished more than he gives himself credit for.

"He's the man responsible for putting on five tournaments here every year and the upgrading of our fields this season," says Haun. "Ken takes a lot of heat for what he does, but he's brought our program a long way."

Like others who contribute their time and expertise to a volunteer organization, Coopersmith's involvement was the result of being in the right place at the right time.

"I came in at a meeting one time and wound up being on the board of directors," he said.

"The following year Barry Whiting, Steve Haun and myself, Jim Parson and Wayne Beck, who has been our club board president, got together and asked for unanimous consent to put us all in as a group. That's because we knew Barry, Steve and I all worked really well together, but we needed representation from Burley."

"We played together for one

figure out, but a lot of youth coming in is very encouraging over the long run."

"We have the traditional old-line teams that have been playing here for years and years," Coopersmith said. "Stagg's Mollery's. We lost an old time team this year in Beck's. They ceased playing together this year. Newcomb Farms/Paul Home Center has been in for four years and my team (State Farm Insurance) has been in for four years. We had about three or four teams who came in at that time that are still together. B&B Market is one of those. The old Ore-Ida team is still together and their upper division team has been together for a long time. And Coors, which used to be sponsored by Tri-Circle. Those teams form kind of a nucleus."

"Most all of the teams however, are rated ASA C sanctioned," Coopersmith noted. "We don't have a legitimate A division team down here as far as the American Softball Association is concerned, so all ours are really B or C. Rankings won't be out till next month (but) I think probably only four teams in our A division are pretty legitimate B's teams."

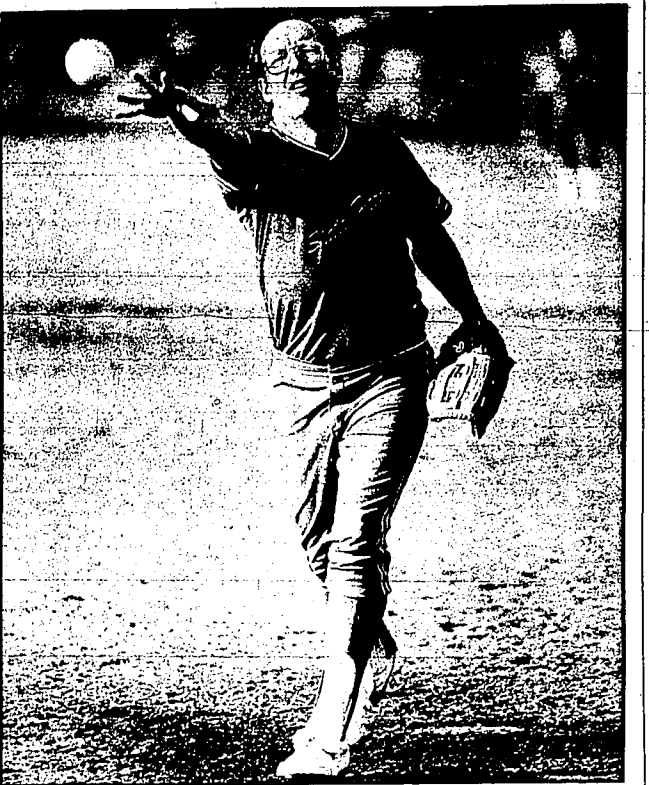

"It is a two-year drop of nearly 25 percent in team participation to large a slippage despite the notable improvement in quality."

"I'd like a solid 50 teams every year," mused Coopersmith. "And what I'd like to see is at least three completely new teams come in each year. I think it would really help regenerate the youth."

Coopersmith went on to stress the importance of keeping young people in the program as a measure of success.

"I'm 40 and, on my mind, the oldest guy by a mile," he said. "We have one other guy who is 37. The rest of them are all under 30. They're just good young ballplayers. And that's what we're trying to do — regenerate youth through the program."

"That may be easier said than done."

Softball president Ken Coopersmith has kept the Mini-Cassia league in the game

Becker whips Connors in Queens Club final

By ANDREW WARSHAW
The Associated Press

LONDON — Boris Becker won his last tournament match before Wimbledon Monday and pronounced himself in good mental and physical shape to launch his bid for a third consecutive All-England title.

"I'm not confident now, I never will be," Becker said after rallying to beat Jimmy Connors 6-7, 6-3, 6-4 and capturing the $30,000 first prize in the Stella Artois tennis court championships at Queens Club.

"This is a good win for me after playing for so long on clay at the French Open," said the 19-year-old

Tennis

West German, who reached the semifinals at Paris.

"I came to Queens without practicing a lot on grass and still beat most guys easily until the semifinal and final. I have not been playing 100 percent, but I still won the title."

Becker needed two hours, 18 minutes to outlast the aging but game Connors, who had several chances to win his first tournament in more than 2½ years.

34-year-old American, a three-time champion at Queens Club but without any title since October 1984, played very well for half the match, but factually outwitting the frustrated Becker.

Returning serves superbly and outlasting his opponent with low, angled passing shots, the canny Connors took the opening set on a forehander and had two break points for a 2-0 lead in the second set, with his serve to make.

But he made two forehand errors and Becker, quick to seize the chance, won the game, broke Connors twice and tied the match.

In the third set, Connors continued to fight hard, jokingly shouting, "Don't do that again," when Becker engaged him in a thrilling rally which Connors won.

He put more pressure on Becker's unusually suspect second serve, but was having just as much trouble holding his service.

As Connors finally appeared to tire in the sun that followed days of rain, Becker won a fifth successive set vice break at love and served out the match.

"He definitely had a chance to beat me," Becker said. "If he had had a 2-0 lead in the second set, it would have been difficult for me to come back. In the end, I played the right shots at the right time."

Becker hit 13 aces, but also doublefaulted 10 times and dropped his serve five times.

He said he'd have to work on those aspects of his game before Wimbledon begins next week.

"I think I'm playing much better overall than last year in my strokes, in my volleys, passing shots and movement," Becker said. "But I must improve my serve."

"For 1½ sets today, I could not get my timing. Jimmy was running around better than I was, even though he could almost be my father. But I knew he had not won a singles title for 2½ years and that kept me going."

Connors has lost four straight times to Becker, all but one of them close matches.

He said getting to his third final in 1987 was not good enough, even for someone of his age.

"I'm not satisfied. I should have won the match, there's no getting around that. But I lost concentration and that bothers me," Connors said.

"I had the opportunities to win it in two and I did not seize them. I was a set and a break up and that should be good enough for anybody, young or old."

L.A. celebrates Lakers' championship

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "MISSION ACCOMPLISHED." Next comes the celebration.

And already, many are wondering if the Los Angeles Lakers can be the first team to repeat as NBA champions since 1983.

The party actually began around 3 p.m. Sunday when the final buzzer sounded at the Forum in nearby Inglewood. The capacity crowd counted off the final seconds in unison, and then it was over.

The Lakers had beaten the Boston Celtics 106-93 to earn their fourth NBA championship during the 1980s.

Shouting, cheering and dancing Tuesday when the city throws a celebration for Magic Johnson, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, and the rest of the champions.

A parade will be held beginning at 9th Street and Broadway at 11 a.m. and ending on the steps of City Hall at noon. Mayor Tom Bradley and other dignitaries will be among the speakers. The festivities will be televised live by KHJ-TV, Channel 9, the Lakers' station.

A rally will be held in the Forum's parking lot at 3 p.m.

As fans flocked onto the Forum floor to celebrate their team's title Sunday, there was bedlam in other places as well.

An international soccer match was being held at the Los Angeles Coliseum, some 10 miles from the Forum. Another five miles away, at Dodger Stadium, the Los Angeles Dodgers were entertaining the Houston Astros.

Cheers rang out at both events, and they had nothing to do with soccer or baseball. The final minutes of the basketball game were shown on a giant screen at Dodger Stadium, and the fans roared their approval.

The Forum parking lot was ablaze in purple and gold, the team's colors worn by jubilant fans, and the Herald-Examiner's blared "LAKERS!" in bold, 4-inch purple letters across its front page Monday.

The headline in the Herald sports section read "MISSION ACCOMPLISHED." In the Los Angeles Times' sports section, bannered across the top of Page 1, was "Lakers' Fifth Title Is a Feat of Magic."

In the Orange County Register, it was "True to Forum, Lakers win title." And in the Los Angeles Daily News, it was "Team of the '80s."

Minor league ballclub dismisses Richardson

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Former New Jersey Nets guard Micheal Ray Richardson negotiated Monday with the Jersey Jammers of the United States Basketball League and team officials said they expected him to sign.

"I really don't see him not signing," team spokesman Jay Laiko said. "It's just a matter of time."

Richardson's agent, New York City lawyer Thomas Rome, discussed a contract with Jammers President Bobby Jackson. Both sides said an announcement on whether Richardson will sign would be made Tuesday or Wednesday.

"My feeling is that if (signing) will proceed," Rome said.

Richardson, 32, was banned from the NBA in February 1986 for a third violation of the league's drug policy. He was released Monday by the Long Island Knights of the USBL. Knights President Stan Goldman said Richardson was "not following our overall game plan."

Knights officials said Richardson's release wasn't the result of failing drug tests, saying he passed each one administered this season.

Rome said Richardson has asked the Jammers for the maximum $10,000-a-year USBL salary and a $3,000 incentive package, the same contract he had with the Knights.

"Micheal's main goal is to play basketball, stay in shape and prove to the NBA powers that he's ready to return to the NBA," Rome said.

He added that Richardson wanted to stay in New Jersey where he and his family live.

Richardson was suspended by the Nets after he disappeared in December 1985. When he returned, he admitted to renewed drug use. He underwent treatment and was reinstated, but was banished by NBA Commissioner David Stern after traces of cocaine were detected in a urinalysis.

Porsches capture LeMans 24 hours

LE MANS, France (AP) — Ninety-six hours is a lot of racing. Consider that A.J. Foyt Jr. hasn't accumulated that many in 30 Indianapolis 500s.

Yet Al Holbert of Warrington, Pa., and Derek Bell of Britain have totaled that many in just four races over the last two years — and they've won them all. Their latest collaboration, in the Le Mans 24 Hours auto race, reinforced their supremacy in endurance racing.

They combined with West German Hans-Joachim Stuck in a smooth-running factory Porsche 962 to win Europe's top long-distance event for the second year in a row.

Holbert, 49, and Bell, 45, have also won the top American endurance race, the Daytona 24 Hours, the last two years, joining Chip Robinson in 1986 and Al Unser Jr. earlier this year.

Sunday's Le Mans triumph was the fifth overall. Bell has won three times as co-driver with Jackie Ickx, the race record-holder with six.

"I was very nervous in the final hour," Bell said. "It was very, very sweet. It's the best one of them all."

Signups due for fun run

TWIN FALLS — Registration is open for Saturday's 9th annual Twin Falls Downtown Fun Run.

Those who register before Wednesday can do so for $6. Registration after Wednesday is $7.

The run will begin at 9 a.m. at the fountain downtown and include 5- and 10-kilometer events. T-shirts will be given to all registered entrants, with trophies for the overall male and female winners. Ribbons with names will be given to all runners.

There will be six different age group divisions for men and women.

Further information can be obtained by phoning Gib Anderson at 733-2624. Entry forms are available at Donnelly's Sports in downtown Twin Falls.

Andujar back on DL

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Oakland A's placed pitcher Joaquin Andujar on the 15-day disabled list and recalled Dave Van Octen from Class-AAA Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League.

Andujar, 14 with a 5.09 earned run average, suffered a pulled right hamstring while pitching last Wednesday. The A's put the veteran right-hander on the disabled list retroactive to June 11.

Van Octen, a left-hander, was 2-2 with a 1.83 ERA and six four saves in 29 games for Tacoma. In 39½ innings, he had given up 26 hits and 16 walks, with nine runs and 23 strikeouts.

Bosworth will talk to Seattle

NEW YORK (AP) — All-American linebacker Brian Bosworth said Monday night he would listen to an offer from the Seattle Seahawks, but only once.

The Seahawks selected Bosworth last Friday with the No. 1 pick in the NFL's supplemental draft. Although the former Oklahoma star hadn't tested the Seahawks among the teams he'd play for, Seattle doesn't intend to give up without a fight.

"We have him and we're going to make every effort to sign him," Seahawks coach Chuck Knox said. "There's going to be a lot of negotiating and haggling in the days coming up."

Some of it occurred Monday night on ABC-TV's Monday SportsNight.

Bosworth said he would give the Seahawks "the common courtesy of listening) to what they have to say."

Fish, Hoag top Spirit 11

JEROME — Tom Fish of Jerome won the top men's honors and Susie Hoag of Twin Falls took the women's singles prize in the Spirit 11 Tennis Classic Sunday.

The tournament will hold over a period of two weeks at different sites in the Magic Valley, with the finals played in Jerome Sunday.

Fish defeated David Little of Twin Falls 6-3, 7-5 in the men's "A" singles final, while Hoag beat Therese Hooper of Twin Falls 6-3, 6-4 in the women's "A" singles final. Little and Terry Newlan of Twin Falls beat Doug Towler and Juan Marquez of Twin Falls, 6-2, 7-5 in the men's "A" doubles final, while Susan Whitney and Maryann Robbins of Twin Falls beat Emily Perry and Cindy Hoag of Twin Falls, 6-1, 6-2 in the women's "A" doubles final. The mixed "A" doubles final between Marquez and Hoag and Sylvia Jensen and Jess Olaverria of Twin Falls was rained out Sunday and will be completed sometime this week.

The tournament is sponsored by KMYT-TV and St. Benedict's Medical Center.

Shultz pledges support

CORREGIDOR, Philippines (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, a veteran of Pacific campaigns in World War II, pledged his support Monday for U.S.-Philippine plans to reconstruct this historic island's battle monuments from vandals and jungle rot.

Corregidor, a 3-mile-long scar of vegetation and rock at the mouth of Manila Bay, loomed large in America's consciousness in the winter of 1942 when its garrison — huddling in a concrete complex called the Malinta tunnel — held out against advancing Japanese armies.

Photographs of the era showed Gen. Douglas MacArthur standing at the giant mouth of the tunnel, which housed his beleaguered headquarters and a 1,000-bed hospital.

MacArthur vowed, "I shall return," and American troops recaptured the island in 1945.

Four decades later, the tunnel, the artillery batteries and the barracks are being victimized by scrap-iron scavengers, souvenir hunters and the encroaching jungle. The rot has hit a memorial and museum commemorating the thousands of soldiers on both sides who died on Corregidor.

Shultz, in the first public appearance of a three-day trip to the Philippines, saw evidence of the decay during a tour of the island led by James Black Jr., a Corregidor-born businessman and historian.

Black said a down payment of $250,000 and annual donations of $100,000 are needed to repair and maintain the museum and memorial — a circle of stone pillars surrounded by walkways leading to a stylized sculpture representing an eternal flame. Black also wants the American Battle Monuments Commission to add Corregidor to memorials it maintains.

The Philippine Ministry of Tourism has a more ambitious idea. It has proposed turning the entire island into a theme park and resort that would cater to international tourists. The projected cost: $75 million to $100 million.

"We'll see how we can be helpful in carrying out the project," said Shultz, who was a Marine lieutenant in the Pacific in World War II. His wife Helena was an Army nurse in MacArthur's command, but she did not serve on Corregidor.

In a sense, Corregidor's battle sites and memorials are another victim of the Philippine government's economic woes: a low priority to a country that has tried to dig itself out from a $26 billion debt and finance a

Man flees to W. Germany

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — An East German man scaled a border fence with spikes strapped to his shoes and escaped to West Germany early Monday, border police said.

He was the 37th East German to flee his Communist nation for West Germany this year.

The 24-year-old man welded 2-inch-long iron spikes to metal plates that he strapped to his shoes to climb over the 13-foot, steel-mesh fence, Bavarian state police said.

In a statement issued in Munich, Bavarian authorities said the man apparently approached the guarded fence in the dark, strapped on the spiked plates and clambered up the fence without drawing notice from East German sentries.

The man worked as a skilled tradesman in East Germany, but police did not identify him further in keeping with their practice on fugitives. They gave no other details of the escape.

70 feared drowned

CHANDIGARH, India (AP) — An overcrowded bus swerved off a bridge and plunged into a canal in Punjab state Monday, and at least 70 passengers were feared drowned, according to reports from the area.

The bus was carrying more than 85 passengers — many of them on the roof — when it smashed through the bridge railing and fell into the 25-foot-deep Bhakra canal.

Only 10 passengers swam ashore, officials said.

Student-Police Violence in South Korea

Students fight riot police; cathedral protests continue

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Students pined off campuses to fight riot police with rocks and firebombs Monday and thousands of people marched from a church through the capital, chanting "Rise up! Rise up!"

Students fought police in at least eight other cities in the sustained and violent campaign against President Chun Doo-hwan's authoritarian government that began last Wednesday.

Massed ranks of riot police fired thousands of tear gas grenades. Armed cars moved in to stop the onrushing waves of students.

"Destroy the military dictatorship!" they chanted, shouting as they charged police lines, flinging rocks and gasoline bombs that exploded in showers of flame.

Several police units were overrun. Authorities said more than 200 officers were injured or beaten.

Mobs of students attacked at least five police stations in various cities and burned tear gas rifles, shields and other gear seized from police in street battles. Protesters trapped and beat a unit of 43 officers in Yongin, south of Seoul.

Attacks on and beatings of police have become commonplace since the protests began last week to coincide with a convention of Chun's ruling

Democratic Justice Party that endorsed his choice of fellow ex-general Roh Tae-Woo to succeed him as president next February.

Critics of the government demand democratic reforms including direct presidential elections, which Chun should be chosen under the existing electoral college system, which opponents say favors the incumbent party.

A new coalition of political, religious and human rights leaders, with the announced purpose of rallying the "power of the masses" against the government, called for a current nationwide campaign protest.

Scores of people were injured Monday in Seoul and many others were seen being arrested. Officials would not provide casualty or arrest figures for the capital or other cities.

Huge demonstrations continued around the Roman Catholic Myongdong Cathedral in downtown Seoul, although riot police drove them off repeatedly with tear gas or charges. Thousands of people gathered again and again through the day to denounce the government.

More than 10,000 people, including many families, attended a special

Mass to pray for the nation's salvation, then marched into the streets with lighted candles to confront riot police.

"Rise up! Rise up!" they chanted, pressing against police lines.

Cardinal Stephen Kim Sou-hwan, leader of the Catholic church in South Korea, appealed for democracy and reform.

"All are struggling for democracy. In the name of God, and the people of Korea, I urgently ask the politicians to open a dialogue," he said.

Earlier Monday, priests worked out an agreement with officials to end an occupation by students who had held the cathedral complex since protests began last Wednesday. About 200 students rode out in five buses.

Some of the worst clashes outside Seoul were in Pusan, a southern port where about 10,000 students battled police through clouds of tear gas.

In Chonan, a central city, 1,500 students attacked and gutted an office of the ruling party, officials said. Serious clashes also were reported in Masan, Incheon, Suwon, Chinyu, Taegon and Chonju.

The South Korean news agency Yonhap said 60,000 students took part in rallies at 46 universities. It did not indicate how many were involved in subsequent street fights.

Investigators rule out break-in try in fatal shooting of U.S. soldier

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Investigators have eliminated the possibility that an American soldier was shot to death by someone trying to break into the Palmerola air base, a U.S. military spokesman said Monday.

Capt. Ron Eschmann also said there were no suspects in the killing of Army Staff Sgt. Randall J. Harris, 34, of Wilmington, Ohio. Eschmann is the U.S. press officer at the Honduran air base, where American troops are stationed.

Eschmann said investigators are treating the shooting "as a criminal homicide and not as terrorist act" and the base has not been put on alert.

Harris was shot once in each leg and once in the back Saturday night about 400 yards from the main gate while supervising military police patrols, Eschmann said in a telephone interview.

He said the type of weapon used would be determined by an autopsy expected to be completed Wednesday.

SGT. RANDALL J. HARRIS Slain at Honduras base ducted jointly by the U.S. and Honduran military, he added.

The base, 36 miles northwest of the capital, is operated by U.S. troops and that more than 150 Honduran soldiers are on duty 24 hours a day outside the American section.

Harris was with the 57th Military Police Company from Fort Bliss, Texas, which is serving a four-month temporary tour at Palmerola.

Troops have trained in Honduras since 1983 under a nearly constant program of joint maneuvers. Harris was with the 57th Military Police Company from Fort Bliss, Texas, which is serving a four-month temporary tour at Palmerola.

In June 1986, an American soldier was killed and another seriously wounded by a Honduran soldier who was in their custody. Last December, a female first sergeant was killed during an outbreak of gunfire in a nightclub at the Caribbean coast resort of Tela, 100 miles north of Tegucigalpa.

Jet hostages view suspect

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Crew members of a TWA jet hijacked to Beirut in 1986 viewed a suspect Monday whose extradition is sought by the United States, but officials would not say whether they identified him.

West German security sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Mohammed Ali Hamadi, a Lebanese Shiite Muslim, was shown to Americans who were among the crew of TWA Flight 847 when it was hijacked last June 26.

U.S. Navy diver Robert Stethem was killed by the hijackers and 39 Americans were held hostage in Beirut for 17 days.

The sources would not say how many Americans viewed Hamadi, 22, or whether any identified him as one of the hijackers.

In Bonn, government spokesmen and the U.S. Embassy were silent about the visit. The government has maintained a news blackout on Hamadi, who was arrested at the Frankfurt airport in January after explosives were found in his luggage, and the subsequent kidnappings of two West Germans in Lebanon.

Washington seeks Hamadi's extradition for trial on charges of murder and air piracy. West Germany has moved slowly on the request since five months ago because of the two German businessmen held by Shites in Lebanon as hostages in exchange for Hamadi.

Iran warns U.S.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The head of Iran's Revolutionary Guards said Monday his forces will destroy any U.S. warship that shows signs of attacking Iran, the official Iranian news agency reported.

The Islamic Republic News Agency quoted Mohsen Raffe-Doust, who has about 400,000 men under his command, as saying the United States is preparing for war with Iran. The dispatch was monitored in Nicosia.

W. German ship hit in Baltic Sea

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A West German military supply ship observing Warsaw Pact maneuvers in the Baltic Sea was hit Monday by naval gunfire, probably from a Polish vessel, the Defense Ministry said. Three crew members were slightly injured.

Ministry spokesman Ulrich Hundt told a news conference it was presumed to have been an accident.

The Neckar, a 2,500-ton tender, roughly the size of a frigate, was in international waters when five rounds of artillery hit it in the side and rear gun turret, Hundt said.

"We think it was a technical or human error," he said.

Another ministry spokesman, Peter Monte, said the ship that fired "is assumed to be Polish."

"There were one East German and two Polish ships there (near the Neckar), and one of the Polish ships probably hit the German ship," he told The Associated Press by telephone.

The Neckar took on water and a fire broke out but both the leak and the fire were brought under control by the ship's 38-man crew, Hundt said.

The three injured were taken off the Neckar by helicopter and flown to Kiel, West Germany, where the Neckar is based.

The ship headed back to Kiel and is due to arrive today.

Monday night, no Warsaw Pact country contacted Bonn to take responsibility, Monte said.

The Neckar departed about 9 a.m. off Soviet Lithuania in the eastern Baltic, north of Poland. It was about 24 miles from the Soviet port of Bruster Ort.

The ship that fired was thought to be a corvette, a surface action ship larger than a sloop and smaller than a frigate, Monte said.

He said small shells from "what apparently was a Gatling gun" were fired, but they were 40mm or less, he said, similar to those used by the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact to shoot at missiles during training exercises.

"Maybe someone was aiming wrong," Monte said.

The Neckar had Warsaw Pact permission to watch the maneuvers, and visibility was at least nine miles when the ship was hit from a distance of just over a mile to just under two miles, Monte said.

Asked if it may have been hit because it moved too close, Monte said, "Not really, because when ships are too close you are supposed to stop firing anyway. This is standard procedure."

Deaver to stand trial on perjury charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appellate court ruled Monday that lobbyist Michael K. Deaver must stand trial on perjury charges, refusing to accept his appeal of a pre-trial finding in the case.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that Deaver could not appeal the trial judge's denial of his motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground that independent counsel Whitney North Seymour Jr. had no authority to prosecute the case.

Lawyers for Deaver, a former top aide to President Reagan, said in advance of Monday's decision that they planned to take any adverse ruling to Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist. Consideration of such an appeal by Rehnquist or the full Supreme Court could further delay the start of a trial.

Deaver had sought to have the appellate court rule on his challenge to the constitutionality of the Ethics in Government Act, which provides for judicial appointment of independent counsel.

But the court refused to accept Deaver's appeal of U.S. District Judge Thomas Pentfield Jackson's decision, saying the lower court's ruling "is not a final order, and therefore is unappealable."

"We find no reason to make an exception in this case," the court said in the order for Judges Harry Edwards, James Buckley and Stephen Williams.

Deaver, who resigned as deputy White House chief of staff in 1985, is charged with five counts of lying to a House subcommittee and a federal grand jury that investigated his lobbying business for possible ethics violations.

The trial had originally been scheduled to begin June 8, but Deaver's appeal forced a postponement while the issue was being considered in the appeals court.

Normally, pre-trial rulings by judges are not appealable. But Deaver, arguing the serious nature of his constitutional challenge, contended that the court should make an exception to this procedural rule.

The appeals court also rejected Deaver's request that it issue a so-called mandamus order to Jackson, directing him to reconsider his pre-trial ruling.

"Mandamus is an extraordinary remedy to be invoked only in drastic circumstances," the court said.

Marine lies overcome by heat at military ceremony

General's last shot defused by heat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. P.X. Kelley was ready to take his parting shot Monday as Marine Corps commandant by putting heat on Congress for being cheap with defense and on the news media for having a "lynch mob mentality."

But instead, Kelley took pity on the troops wobbling in the muggy heat at retirement ceremonies for him and Gen. John A. Wickham, the Army chief of staff, and made a simple farewell.

"My first concern is with a growing attitude in the Congress which places more credence in the views of staff members on matters dealing with national security than in the views of the service chiefs," Kelley said in the text of a speech he did not read. "This attitude is driving a wedge between the members of Congress and the nation's principal military advisers."

Kelley and Wickham, both of whom step down at the end of this month after 37 years in uniform, received full military honors that included a 19-gun salute, music from Army and Marine Corps bands and honor guards from all branches of the military.

As the temperature climbed toward 90, the soldiers lined-up in dress uniforms on the parade grounds at Fort Myer, an Army post adjacent to Arlington National Cemetery, began to be affected by the heat.

Several were taken out of line before they passed out, and one nearly collapsed directly in front of the reviewing stand where Vice President George Bush, Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and the military brass were seated.

"I had a long speech, but the troops have been out in the sun for about an hour," Kelley said as he discarded his 200-word text.

Addressing the troops, Kelley said, "There is no prouder commander than the commandant of the Marine Corps, and salute you, Carry on."

Kelley had been ready to express his concern "with a feeling among some members of our Congress that you can buy the defense of our country 'on the cheap' . . . The requirements for the defense of the republic are dictated by external threats and the satisfaction of these requirements should not be emasculated by some arbitrary and capricious budgetary 'meat' . . ."

Wickham, a former Marine commandant in 1983, a few months before a Marine barracks in Beirut was demolished in a truck bombing that killed 241 American servicemen.

In his undelivered speech, Kelley complained about the news media, attacking the "unbalanced treatment of our armed forces by many, not all, but many members of our 'fourth estate.'"

"For one who has spent the past 37 years in building an institution, it is particularly difficult for me to understand a 'lynch mob' mentality — one which appears devoted to destroying the public image of our most precious institutions," Kelley's text said. "Irresponsible sensationalism has no place among men of honor and integrity."

In his retirement speech, Wickham praised the joint chiefs and the Army.

"Our army is possibly the best army in the world," Wickham said. Wickham has been Army chief of staff since 1983 and was a negotiator in peace talks with the North Vietnamese.

Agency removes cap on AIDS booklets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health and Human Services Secretary Otis H. Bowen, responding to congressional demands, removed a cap on the number of AIDS education booklets members of Congress can obtain and send to constituents, officials said Monday.

More than 5 million copies of the 36-page report by Surgeon General C. Everett Koop "have been requested by members of Congress in the past month, HHS officials said. An aide to Rep. Gerry E. Studds, D-Mass., said 25 members made those requests.

The Public Health Service had limited the booklet to 1,000 copies per congressional office, but that policy came under fire last month when Studds requested and received copies for all 268,000 households in his district.

Studds, an acknowledged homosexual and leading advocate of AIDS education on Capitol Hill, had urged his House colleagues to make similar requests, but Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., and several others who'd were turned down.

Public Health officials had said filling the congressional orders would have been impossible because the department had not budgeted for such widespread distribution.

But in a policy reversal, Bowen wrote to all members of Congress late last week and promised that "more copies of the report can be made available for your use and we will provide them as expeditiously as possible."

Public Health Service spokesman James Brown said members now can receive copies for every household in their districts if they want.

"We had those (congressional) requests pending, and the secretary felt this was another way to get information and education to the public," Brown said in explaining Bowen's decision.

The department had sent more than 700,000 copies of the booklet out to individuals and organizations requesting them, Brown said.

Our New Rate Cap Offer Is For Those Who Aren't Sure Where Interest Rates Are Headed.

Some say they'll go back up. Some say they're going down. Either way, you'll benefit from First Security's Home Equity Line rate cap offer.

Your variable rate loan will follow the prime rate if it falls. It stays at 3% over prime, quite a competitive rate. Currently, that works out to an 11.25% Annual Percentage Rate (as of June 4, 1987).

And should interest rates snap back up, you're protected: Our rate cap is 13.25% Annual Percentage Rate. That's the absolute highest our variable interest rate could go, and it's good through January 1, 1991.

All you have to do is apply before September 11, 1987.

TAX DEDUCTIBLE THIS YEAR. AND NEXT, ETC.

You might elect to use your credit line to pay medical bills. Or to finance a college education. Or purchase a new camper. Or make home improvements. Or even to pay off another home equity loan that doesn't have a rate cap. In any case, chances are excellent that you'll still be able to deduct all the interest. (For specific details, see your tax advisor.)

NO ANNUAL FEE. NO IMMEDIATE CLOSING COSTS.

During our Home Equity Line sale, we've eliminated loan origination fees. And we've deferred closing fees, such as appraisal and filing fees, until you actually take out a loan on your credit line.

CALL NOW! FOR AN APPLICATION.

For your Home Equity Line application, call 1-800-538-1133. Or stop by your nearest First Security Bank office. And stop worrying about the ups, and downs, of interest rates.

*Exclusive of deferred closing costs. After January 1, 1991, the rate will again vary.

Idaho's Only Home Equity Rate Cap Offer. Ends Sept. 11, 1987.

Female technicians allowed on sea trials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary James H. Webb ordered service officials on Monday to allow female technicians aboard submarine or sea trials to test new equipment.

The action came in the case of Pamela M. Davis Celli, a civilian engineering technician at the Portsmouth, N.H., Naval Shipyard who had accused the Navy of sex discrimination.

The Navy made clear Webb's ruling would apply to any similarly situated woman.

Webb decided "that female civilian employees shall have full opportunity to embark on naval vessels on non-operational, short-term sea trials on the same basis as male civilian employees," the Navy said.

This policy "will reinforce the Department of the Navy's equal employment opportunity objectives of full integration of women into the civilian work force," it added.

The announcement was unexpected, because the Navy was preparing to fight such an order in federal court and because Webb has been criticized for his views on admission of women to military academies.

Ms. Celli, with the backing of the American Civil Liberties Union, filed suit in U.S. District Court in Portland, Maine, on March 20 to enforce a ruling by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that affirmed her right to go on test runs for the submarines she helped overhaul.

Ms. Celli spent one week aboard the submarine USS Benjamin Franklin during sea trials in 1982, but was barred from another trial later that year. The Navy contended it changed its mind about such deployments by women on submarines because Ms. Celli's presence had deprived the ship's crew of privacy and impaired its readiness.

Navy submarines, as designated combat vessels, never deploy on operational missions without women aboard and do not have separate facilities for men and women.

Webb's decision will not change the alternate rule for operational employment. It does make clear, however, a civilian engineer cannot be barred from sea trials solely on the basis of sex.

New bomber stuck in Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new B-1B bomber, shown off by the Air Force during last week's Paris Air Show, got stuck in the French capital on Monday when an auxiliary power unit on board the aircraft failed to operate properly.

The Air Force said the plane's crew experienced minor electrical problems with the power unit on Monday when they were preparing for the flight home.

The power unit is used to start the bomber's engines.

Capt. Suzann Chapman, an Air Force spokeswoman, said the service was moving a compatible ground-based power unit to Paris to compensate for the auxiliary power problem — probably from West Germany. She said the B-1B was now scheduled to leave Paris this morning.

The problem with the auxiliary unit on the plane could have been dealt with quickly at an Air Force base, added Maj. James Hubby, another Air Force spokesman, but the B-1 did not fly to Paris with the needed parts or technicians.

Idaho Falls chamber faces financial troubles, red ink

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The Greater Idaho Falls Chamber of Commerce faces a $34,000 budget deficit this year, and at least two of its directors say a former executive director failed to provide them with information to deal with the problem.

Joe Call, chamber board president, said the board had an inkling of its financial troubles last year. But it was only after the resignation of Del Brewster that the board examined the accounts and discovered the extent and the source of the problem.

Call said Brewster failed to provide the board with accurate membership figures and information to identify a decline in revenues for the $195,000 annual budget.

"We've just discovered how deep it was," he said. "A year ago we gave to him, and he said we couldn't get the information from the executive director."

Board Treasurer George Felker

said the shortfall resulted from too much optimism backed by too few facts.

"We were not running the chamber the way a good businessman runs his business," Felker said. "If I incur an expense this month, I pay for it this month. We had a situation of errors made in prior years where obligations were not paid on time."

After four years with the chamber, Brewster left the organization in April to head the Van Nuys, Calif., Chamber of Commerce.

In a telephone interview from southern California, Brewster said he was surprised to hear about a membership decline in Idaho Falls. He said membership was just below 700 businesses before his departure.

But Call said chamber membership has fallen from 750 to about 500 during the past two years.

"Between my departure and now, I have no idea why there would be such a drop off unless the programs and committee activities have not kept up," Brewster said. "That I wouldn't know because the chamber board and executive director would have taken care of those things."

Brewster's job in Idaho Falls has not been filled, but Call said the board's selection committee has narrowed a field of 100 applicants to about five.

Felker said he believes the chamber lost membership when it changed its accounting system to coincide with the federal fiscal year of Oct. 1 through Sept. 30.

"We didn't properly get the information to our membership," he said.

It's the third consecutive year the chamber has faced a budget deficit. Call said revenues were short about $25,000 last year and about $10,000 in 1985.

"The chamber is a great organization," he said. "We will recover. We're still functioning. We're not on the ropes."

Gathering should boost image

BOISE (AP) — Last week's summer meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General in Coeur d'Alene was "a resounding success," and should boost Idaho's image as a convention and tourism destination, Idaho Attorney General Jim Jones says.

Pointing in particular to the popularity of last Wednesday's "Country Fair" at the Hayden Lake Country Club near the headquarters of the racist Aryan Nations Church, Jones said local residents helped dispel any negative impressions such groups might have given the state.

"Many of the attorneys general mentioned that Idahoans were some of the nicest, warmest people they had ever met," he said Monday at a Boise press conference. "We left no stone unturned to convey the message that Idahoans are not hate-mongers, and I think we were successful."

The five-day meeting drew attorneys general from 37 states and was the largest conference of its kind ever held. Business highlights included visits from the Soviet Union's minister of justice and U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese.

Jones applauded the efforts of 116 corporate and private sponsors who raised $30,000 to support the conference, as well as some 250 to 300 Coeur d'Alene-area residents who contributed to the event.

He said entertainment at the Country Fair — including performances by Idaho's Olmoki Basque Dancers, the Himong Dancers from Spokane, Wash., and members of the Coeur d'Alene Indian Tribe — left conference participants no doubt that "we are a culturally diverse bunch of people here in Idaho," Jones said. "I think they got that message."

Authorities recover Pocatello boy's body from reservoir

AMERICAN FALLS (AP) — The body of 9-year-old Brad Raymond of Pocatello was recovered from American Falls Reservoir Sunday morning. He had been missing and presumed drowned for almost four days.

The Power County Sheriff's Department said it was establishing McDaniel of Pocatello was last seen about 4 p.m. Wednesday when he slipped from an inner tube into the water.

He had been missing and presumed drowned for almost four days.

The Power County Sheriff's Department said it was establishing a fund to help the boy's family.

"The father has been unemployed for a while and they really need help right now," said Detective Capt. Chris DeWald. "They need any kind of donation and the father would like any kind of employment someone has to offer."

Ricks sets renovation of campus

REXBURG (AP) — Ricks College officials are taking advantage of a summer lull to make several improvements on campus.

Included in the list of projects are paving the north parking lot, completing the remodeling of the Romney Building and renovation projects in the Mawaring Center and Spori, Clark and Smith Buildings.

"Summertime is traditionally our department's busiest time," said Charles L. "Chuck" Frost, Ricks physical plant director. The lower number of students in the summer makes room for such work, he said.

With the new portion of the Romney Building already in use, work is progressing on the remodeling of the old section. The work is expected to be completed by the end of July.

Classes start Aug. 31.

The north parking lot will be paved in time for the first home football game, Sept. 5, Frost said. Renovations to the graphic arts classrooms in the Spori Building will simulate a design studio.

"Most of the changes we are making this summer will be evident to campus visitors," Frost said, "especially to those very familiar with our facilities."

Dental school gets renewed accreditation

POCATELLO (AP) — The American Dental Association Commission on Dental Accreditation has continued full accreditation for the Dental Hygiene Department at Idaho State University.

Based on a visit to the campus this past winter, the commission said it found no basic weaknesses or deficiencies in the program that it certified as exceeding all basic accreditation standards.

Specifically cited in the accreditation report was the quality of the faculty and the integration of basic and dental sciences, showing the high level of communication between the department staff and faculty in related departments of the university.

The commission urged Idaho State to continue making the department a high priority, particularly emphasizing the maintenance of staff salaries.

The department was first accredited in 1963. The commission reassesses department operations each decade, updating its accreditation file with a written assessment after five years.

Woman killed in 2-vehicle accident

MONTPELIER (AP) — A Montpelier woman was killed over the weekend in a two-vehicle accident on U.S. 30 just east of Montpelier, Idaho State Police said.

Darla Kay Alfred, 30, died Saturday night after her car collided with a pickup truck driven by John Mattson, 47, of Logan, Utah, an ISP dispatcher said.

Mrs. Alfred was turning left off U.S. 30 and Mattson apparently was trying to pass her car on the left when the crash occurred, police reported. Both vehicles were destroyed, but there was no indication of injuries to Mattson.

The dispatcher said the accident was alcohol-related and that an investigation was continuing.
