Casey used Contra funds, North testifies

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Lt. Col. Oliver North testified Friday that the late CIA director, William J. Casey, embraced the fund created by arms sales to Iran because he could use it for secret operations other than supplying the Nicaraguan Contras with weapons.

However, in his fourth day of testimony before the congressional Iran-Contra committee, North denied that using the fund meant "a CIA outside of the CIA" was being created, as a committee lawyer suggested.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, a member of the panel, said the testimony about the fund was "perhaps one of the most serious revelations" of the hearings because it showed a plan to circumvent Congress for secret operations. Senate committee chairman Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, saw the plan as "the creation and maintenance of a secret government within our government."

Despite that, said Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., North "has been accepted into people's homes as almost a folk hero." He said part of the reason is that North "was made a scapegoat by those he worked for."

"The irony of North's newfound hero status," said Rudman, "is that the very things he is espousing—such as aid to the Contras—are opposed by nearly three-fourths of the American people."

North said that once, by using the Iran-arms-sale money, he was able to obtain a ship overnight after Casey had said, "We can't find one anywhere else" but a ship.

After that success, he said, he received a note from John Poindexter, his boss at the National Security Council, objecting that North's operational role was becoming too public and ordering him not to talk to anyone else, including Casey, about it.

At one point, North said, Poindexter said to him in regard to the diversion of Iranian-arms-sales profits to the Contra rebels, "This had better come out."

"I took steps to ensure that it didn't and they failed," North said. The committees had planned to complete North's questioning this week, but announced he would return for more on Monday after

Area residents admire North but criticize administration

TWIN FALLS — Lt. Col. Oliver North has captured the admiration of area residents who see him as a good soldier, a "gutsy" individual, but the Reagan administration, for which he served, is not basking in his reflected glory.

And Sen. Jim McClure, Idaho's GOP senator serving on the special Congressional commission investigating the Iran-Contra affair, said Friday there were few surprises in this week of testimony with a key witness.

McClure was a serious and "accurate indicator."

"I think we need to look at why there was a need to withhold information when he was asked," McClure said.

McClure called North "a strong witness, a believable witness," and an articulate spokesman for the Reagan administration's Nicaraguan Contra policy.

"I have always supported that policy," McClure said.

McClure said he did not support turning the National Security Council into a field operations office carrying out covert operations.

numerous calls this week, and most were supporting North.

"What we're getting is an emotional outpouring to an attractive young man, a charismatic man," he said.

But Stallings said the emotional outpouring for North was not carrying over to the Reagan administration.

"His testimony this week has done a couple of things," Stallings said Friday. "It's gotten North off the hook and it placed the burden on the administration."

Local residents seem to confirm these impressions. Joe Gulick, chairman of the Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee, called North a "dedicated man to the cause, and said he thought North was being honest."

Bell Rapids irrigators gain $250,000 to meet emergency

By MARK PRATTER Times-News writer

STANLEY — The Bell Rapids Mutual Irrigation Co. got approval of a $250,000 state loan Friday to help pay for emergency irrigation facilities.

Rapids the money from its revolving loan development account provided it is paid back in a year with 6 percent interest.

The decision to approve the loan was without debate.

Gene Gray, IWRB chairman, and J.D. Williams, IWRB member, questioned the collateral arrangements for the loan.

Williams said a letter sent by IWRB to Bell Rapids officials mentioned that water rights should be included as collateral.

But state Department of Water Resources staff said it was their understanding that IWRB was not insuring water rights but the collateral so long as there was adequate security.

The collateral for the loan is eight irrigation pumps valued at $45,075 each. But Bell Rapids has 91 irrigation pumps and not all of them were included as collateral, according to information presented at the meeting.

Soviet 'slowdown' draws U.S. salvo been tackling the remaining obstacles to a treaty banning medium-range nuclear missiles and a year with 6 percent interest.

But, Redman said, "no date has been set" for Shevardnadze to see Shultz. The U.S. spokesmen then launched into an attack on Soviet behavior in the Geneva talks.

"We've seen a drawing back in Geneva where we've seen over the period of the last several weeks a lack of willingness to engage seriously and constructively in the negotiating process," Redman said.

Two U.S. officials, who declined to be named, said some Soviet negotiators had not put forward a proposed draft treaty to reduce long-range nuclear weapons, missiles and submarines that had been expected.

"In fact, one official said, 'for the last couple of weeks their negotiators have been unwilling to talk. They just don't have instructions.'"

Only a month ago, prospects for a treaty to eliminate medium-range nuclear weapons brightened when Col. Gen. Nikolai Chervov, a senior adviser to the Soviet general staff, offered to meet some U.S. negotiator

Price report hints at taming of inflation

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Wholesale "price" increases eased in June to a modest 0.2 percent, the government said Friday in a report economists saw as fresh evidence that inflation is likely to stay tame through most of the year.

The slight rise in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index — equivalent to an annual rate of 2.9 percent inflation — was due mostly to higher energy prices.

Still, for the first half of 1987, wholesale prices climbed an annual rate of 4.5 percent — moderate by the double-digit standards of the late 1970s and early 1980s but still the briskest six-month clip in five years.

level, had fallen 2.5 percent in 1986. The June increase followed rises of 0.3 percent in May and 0.7 percent in April and was the best performance since a 0.1 percent increase in February.

"It shows that a lot of the earlier concern over the rate of inflation was overblown," said Christopher Caton, director of forecasting at Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass.

However, Caton said the modest June increase "is too good to last, just as April's 0.7 percent increase was too good to last. I think we're now looking at (an annual rate of) 4 to 4.5 percent for the rest of the year."

At the White House, spokesman Martin Fitzgibbon called the figures "good news, indicating that the economy's underlying inflation rate is not accelerating. "It's a very good omen to see a pattern of continued low inflation with solid economic growth," Fitzgibbon said.

Food prices moderated, up 0.5 percent after increases of 1.4 percent and 1.5 percent, respectively, in May and April. Although vegetable prices jumped a seasonally adjusted 17.9 percent, poultry prices fell 6.2 percent and cost increases slowed for beef, pork, veal and fish.

But gasoline prices rebounded in June by 3 percent, reversing the 1.1 percent decline a month before. Heating oil was up 4.6 percent; natural gas declined 1.8 percent.

After falling during most of 1986, energy prices rose in an annual rate of 57.6 percent in the first three months of 1987.

Attack Asian trade bars, Senate says

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate called for stepped-up action against Japanese trade barriers Friday and approved new retaliation measures against countries with a "consistent pattern" of unfair practices.

"Make no mistake about it, the Japanese and the Taiwanese and the Koreans are cheating us, day after day, in this trade relationship," Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., declared in urging support for the measure.

The Senate approved the measure, 87-7, in a preliminary vote on a technical amendment and then on a voice vote attached it to the sweeping trade bill that has been under debate for three weeks.

Administration aides expressed opposition, saying the plan would take away leeway the president needs to forge retaliation. But they did not press their supporters to wage a rear-guard fight against the measure, which was unveiled Friday morning with backing from leaders of both parties.

One of the few dissenters, Sen. Dan Evans, R-Wash., took aim at provisions of the measure that would enable the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance Committees to initiate cases that could lead to trade retaliation.

"If this amendment is ever adopted and put in law, 82 of us will be left outside looking in, while the 18 newly tapped cardinals of the Finance Committee will have to opportunity to issue countless petitions," he said.

A parade of Senate leaders rose to draw contrasts between the newly minted compromise and the House provision sponsored by Rep. Richard A. Gephardt, D-Mo., which calls for dollar-for-dollar retaliation against Japanese and other "excess and unwarranted" foreign trade barriers. "This is not Sen of Gephardt." Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., told the Senate. "Anyone who thinks it is should read the two proposals."

"I would be standing here to oppose it with everything within me," said Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., the top Republican on the Senate Commerce Committee.

Gephardt later issued a statement saying that the Senate had "taken an encouraging step." Like most broad trade bills under consideration in Congress over the last three years, the measure would overhaul section 301 of the Trade Act, which authorizes retaliation against unfair foreign trade practices. It was the basis for President Reagan's action against Japanese electronics earlier this year to counter alleged "dumping" of semiconductors.

Bell Rapids irrigators gain $250,000 to meet emergency

By MARK PRATTER Times-News writer STANLEY — The Bell Rapids Mutual Irrigation Co. got approval of a $250,000 state loan Friday to help pay for emergency irrigation facilities. A landslide April 16 destroyed one of the company's three high-hill pump stations along the Snake River. Bell Rapids and several miles downstream from the Owsley Bridge to Hagerman. At a meeting Friday, The Idaho Water Resources Board decided to advance Bell

Rapids the money from its revolving loan development account provided it is paid back in a year with 6 percent interest. The decision to approve the loan was not without delay. Gene Gray, IWRB chairman, and J.D. Williams, a board member, questioned the collateral arrangements for the loan. But Gray was the only board member to after the meeting. Williams said a letter sent by IWRB to Bell Rapids officials mentioned that water rights should be included as collateral. But state Department of Water Resources staff said it was their understanding that IWRB was not insisting water rights be part of the collateral so long as there was adequate security. The collateral for the loan is eight irrigation pumps valued at $15,675 each. But Bell Rapids has 21 irrigation pumps and not all of them were included as collateral, according to information presented at the meeting. Other items of collateral are a tractor, road grader and backhoe whose value has not been appraised, said Wayne Haas, administrator, resource analysis, state Department of Water Resources. In addition, the approximately 80 Bell Rapids shareholders will have to pay an assessment to cover the loan payment, he said. "In our opinion there is adequate security," said Haas. Another security provision stipulated by the board requires the proceeds from any insurance settlement Bell Rapids receives from the loss of collateral equipment or other slide damage go to the IWRB.

Gray and DWR staff said they did not know the amount of Bell Rapids insurance claims. The damage tally from the slide is $1.5 million for pipe, pumps and other equipment and a projected $632,000 in crop losses due to the interruption of irrigation in the southern portion of the tract, says Greg Brown, vice chairman of the Bell Rapids. Brown has said the company is under-insured for its losses. The cost of laying new pipe to circumvent the damaged part of the system is $600,000, Brown says. Soviet 'slowdown' draws U.S. salvo

The Associated Press WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration accused the Soviet Union on Friday of slowing down negotiations to curb nuclear weapons and refusing to set a date for a problem-solving session here between Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze and Secretary of State George P. Shultz. "We regret that, we are prepared to go on as rapidly, as constructively as possible," Charles E. Redman, State Department spokesman, said after leveling unusually harsh criticism at Moscow. "The welcome mat is still out." The public blast followed a report to Shultz by Soviet Ambassador Yuri V. Dubinin, who returned late Wednesday from Moscow after lengthy consultations at the Kremlin. They met for nearly an hour in Shultz's seventh-floor office, surveying arms control regional disputes — and Redman said, "where the relationship stands." Before Dubinin went home, the State Department had suggested several dates in July, for a two-day meeting between Shultz and Shevardnadze. The primary item on their agenda would have been tackling the remaining obstacles to a treaty banning medium-range nuclear missiles and discussing a visit here later in the year by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. But Redman said, "no date has been set" for Shevardnadze to see Shultz. The U.S. spokesman then said the rights as part of the collateral to the Geneva talks. Holm leaves home quietly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peter Holm, who had threatened to shoot anyone who tried to oust him from the house he had shared with actress Joan Collins, walked out of the hillside home Friday evening June 10 before police arrived to evict him.
 "I am a peaceful man," said Holm, who earlier had told reporters that all the doors to the house were barred and that anyone who tried to enter would face a "battle."
 "The onetime Swedish rock star who is engaged in a bitter divorce action with his estranged wife says he has nowhere to go."
 After leaving the house, Holm appeared on Fox Broadcasting Co.'s local evening news program. Fox put him up for the night at a Beverly Hills hotel, he said.

Reagan bruises his eyelid
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan bruised his left eyelid Friday when he removed a contact lens, creating a small bruise, the president's physician announced Friday.
 Photographers noticed the tiny red bump when Reagan appeared at a meeting with administration supporters at the Old Executive Office Building.
 Queried about the matter, the White House released a written statement from Reagan's physician, Army Col. John Hutton, saying the injury occurred Thursday.

Soviets shove German youths
HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Soviet soldiers in East Germany shot two teenage brothers-to-death last month when the youngsters climbed a wall surrounding Red Army barracks, a newspaper reported Friday.
 Billy Bushnell, a U.S. Army sergeant, said the soldiers were guarding barracks of a Soviet tank division near Fuerstenberg and shot the young men June 11.
 It said the guards were unaware that the boys had been in the area and had black market dealings with Soviet soldiers at the barracks.

Underground crash hurts 23
MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — A locomotive rear-ended an underground train carrying workers to their posts inside a tunnel at the Nevada Test Site on Friday, injuring 23 people, federal officials said.
 Three people were examined at Las Vegas hospitals, but none of the injured required hospitalization, said Chris West, a spokesman for the Department of Energy.
 "It was nothing life threatening," West said. "It was mostly back injuries, sprains and pulled muscles."
 The accident occurred about 8 a.m. as the train was taking workers to their stations in the "P Tunnel" at Rainer Mesa, about 90 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

Islands want frigate to go
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — The Faeroe Islands asked Denmark on Friday to order a U.S. frigate out of the island waters after its officers refused to say whether it carried nuclear weapons, Denmark's state-run radio reported.
 It noted the Lagtinget, the parliament of the semi-independent Danish territory, declared unilaterally in 1983 that the North Atlantic archipelago was a nuclear weapons-free area.
 In a message to Danish authorities, the islands' government first asked for assurances that the USS McCloy, which arrived Thursday in the Faeroese capital Thorshavn for a three-day visit, did not have nuclear arms on board, according to the broadcast.

Sikhs suspected in slayings
BOMBAY, India (AP) — Gunmen believed to be Sikhs shot eight people to death Friday in Punjab, Bombay, the nation's commercial capital, was paralyzed by a general strike protesting earlier killings by Sikh radicals.
 Police said 29 people were injured in stone-throwing incidents in Bombay, a city of eight million on India's west coast.
 Sikh militants killed Satnam Singh Bajwa.

 finishing another long day of testimony on Friday.
 He will be followed on Tuesday by the president's top aide, Paul Alexander, whose testimony called "the single most important witness" of the hearings.
 Committee members finally got to the first question on July 10 Friday afternoon after three and one-half days of lawyers' questions.
 North told Rep. Richard Cheney, R-Iowa, that the Hostage Act dating back to the 1800s says in effect "there is the authority to do whatever is necessary to recover the hostages" and Congress may be notified after the fact.

"We ought to think very carefully about proscribing — reserving authority to do those kind of things — to bind him in such a way that he cannot act," said North.
 The United States has not seen the last of hostage-taking, no matter what happens to the men still held in Lebanon. However, said North, strong actions, like the Achille Lauro hijacking, will lead terrorists "to come to the conclusion that it's not wise to mess with Americans."
 North, who has apparently been winning wide national favor with his impassioned comments, wound up his week by declaring "the cause of the Nicaraguan resistance is, our own."
 "Hang whatever you want around

Most think North truthful

NEW YORK (A) — A majority of Americans believe Lt. Col. Oliver North has been telling the truth to the congressional Iran-Contra investigation, a CBS News survey says.
 The CBS News survey, which was conducted by a general strike protesting earlier killings by Sikh radicals, found that 62 percent of 688 adults nationwide would believe North has generally told the truth in the hearings, 15 percent think he has been lying and 23 percent had no opinion.

 When asked whether they thought North acted with the knowledge and approval of the president in his handling of arms sales to Iran and assistance to the Contra rebels, 62 percent said yes, 57 percent said no, 22 percent had no opinion.

 Guilty-acted people who come into his barber shop have watched this week's hearings and are leary about the administration's role in the affair.

"Their biggest question is if he didn't know, why? Guilek said.
 Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Elton Baxter said she's reserving judgment on who is guilty until all the evidence is in. But as an elected official, Baxter said she is troubled by testimony by the government.
 "It bothers me that there was a conscious destruction of incriminating evidence," said Baxter, referring to North's testimony that he shredded documents, even as Justice Department officials were sitting in the room with him.
 "I didn't know" it worked that way," she said. "It never crossed my mind that you could do it with-parent impunity. It defies belief."

 Baxter also said the admission that government officials lie to the public "impacts me."
 "I depend on public trust, and as an elected official I have an obligation to uphold that trust," she said. "It bothers me that other people who have the same obligation might not do it. It makes all public officials look bad. Any public official should say what they're doing, and stick by it."
 Twin Falls County Republican Chairman Mark Stubbs said most people see North as an "extremely loyal, committed officer."
 "I think that justified what he did," he said.
 "I think people forgive Oliver North," he said. "The real question is does the president have the authority to do those things, and I think that will eventually be a Su-

 Stanley Rang and Station.
 Bell Rapids got through the period of peak water demand last week with 13 pump units, Brown told the IWR.

The company built a new pump station at Fossil Gulch to move water south to the area formerly served by the destroyed Bell Rapids. The pump station, he said.
 Some three miles of 26-inch and 34-inch pipe were laid as part of the rebuilding job.
 "We got through the crunch line," he said.

The repairs will allow Bell Rapids to serve the existing 29,000 acres in the tract and if some farmers join the 10-year federal farm set-aside program, with less acreage to water. Bell Rapids will be in even better shape, Brown said.
 Farmers who elect to join the set-aside will still have to pay a $25 per acre fee to the district for operation and maintenance, Brown said.
 The district is studying lowering the payment for them.
 Prior to the latest Bell Rapids slide, farmers were paying $35 per share compared to $14 per share in the competing and much larger Twin Falls tract.

farm-sizes-in-Bell-Rapids-offer economies of scale in the purchases of seed and fertilizer.
 If the Twin Falls tract could be redeveloped, it would be worth more along the Bell Rapids model, he said.
 The approval of the loan Friday was good news for Bell Rapids and the district, he said.
 Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service on April 29 denied a $150,000 loan to help deal with the rebuilding job.
 "ASCS said a review of the evidence did not show a natural disaster to be the cause of the slide," he said.
 James McClure said the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, which is responsible for protection of land surrounding the site, was unable to pinpoint the cause of the slide. The disaster damaged the world-famous Hagerman fossil beds.
 But McClure said seepage from the irrigation system and unusually wet springs in 1985 and 1986 could be factors. Gary Carson, BLM Boise district manager, said shortly after the slide that irrigation water loading up the ground was a factor in the slide.
 Brown said he is appealing the ASCS denial and also working on using federal money for canal lining in the Bell Rapids portion of the tract to cover damages from the slide.

 But Black said at the same time, he thought Congress forced the administration into doing it by prohibiting funds to the Contras.

 "I don't think people are looking at the broader policy questions," he said. "I think it's been blown totally out of proportion, as was Nixon's Watergate. I think the Democrats needed to pull themselves up with something."

Senate committee counsel Arthur Liman.
 They were complaints of unfairness from House Republicans, including Florida Rep. Bill McCollum, who said Liman was "a fact-finder" instead of a fact-finder.
 Senators of both parties disagreed, and Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., retorted, "I thought Liman was fact-finding was 'clearly within proper bounds,'" citing McCollum's previous words as supporting the need for closer oversight.
 During his testimony, repeated his earlier statement that he lied to Congress about his activities with the Contras to save lives, but Liman asked him if the real reason was because Congress did not want the Contras supported.
 "If Congress decided nobody in the United States should render support whatsoever to the Nicaraguan Democratic Resistance then it should have passed a law saying that," replied North. "I thought Liman was Congress forbade military support and covert aid by intelligence agencies."

Despite the seriousness of some of North's tone during much of Friday's proceeding seemed less tense than on previous days.
 As the hearings continued on Capitol Hill.
 In a legal setback for North at the nearby U.S. Courthouse, Chief U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson upheld the Justice Department's March 5 backup appointment of independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, whose authority to investigate the Iran-Contra affair has been challenged by North on several fronts.
 At the White House, presidential spokesman Arthur Fletcher said North's testimony has provided President Reagan with a wealth of new information about events that occurred in his White House. "We depend on the facts of what happened. We don't know about conversations," he said.

Schools adopt trimesters

FIRTH (AP) — Five more eastern Idaho high schools will use a trimester attendance system during the coming school year in place of the traditional semester system, officials said.

The state Board of Education has approved trimester programs on a trial basis for Firth, Blackfoot, Snake River, Aberdeen and Marsh Valley high schools.

Firth Superintendent Bert Nixon said the Idaho State University's College of Education has been commissioned by the state board to conduct a study of the trimester system that will include the four Blingham County schools.

However, the bulk of the study will focus on Rigby and Madison high schools, which have been on the system for the past year, Nixon said.

Sidewalk sales receive OK

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — At the urging of almost two dozen retailers, the Idaho Falls City Council has approved an ordinance allowing downtown merchants to display their wares on the sidewalk, at least for the rest of the summer.

The ordinance, which takes effect on Wednesday, extends through Sept. 30—it allows downtown merchants to put tables, racks, stands, carts and other structures on sidewalks and to sell merchandise and food outdoors.

Restrictions in the city still apply. Displays must be four feet from the curb, away from public streets, alleys or driveways and at least 15 feet from fire hydrants. No display may be within three feet of any crosswalk, street light pole, utility pole, traffic sign pole, fire or police call box, emergency facility, bus stop or loading zone.

Bonner County jail capped

SANDPOINT (AP) — Hoping to avoid high costs and litigation, Bonner County Sheriff Don Nelson has instituted a cap on the number of prisoners that can be housed in the county jail.

"We're cutting the number back, which is consistent with what we're rated at," Nelson said Thursday.

Commissioner Wayne Benner said the commission accepts Nelson's recommendation that the jail house no more than 18 prisoners. County Clerk Clifford Chapin said the jail population has been as high as 24 on weekends and busy court days.

Nelson said he hopes to urge the county to move the assessor and treasurer to another building and allow the courts and jail to expand in the courthouse.

Other Idaho counties, including nearby Kootenai County, have been sued for overcrowding and violating rules governing the mix of felons and misdemeanors. Nelson said the policy he is circulating will protect the county in the short run.

Robinson to challenge Craig

SANDPOINT (AP) — Former Boundary County Prosecutor Bruce Robinson says he plans to run for Congress as a Democrat in the upcoming election.

Robinson, a 59-year-old lawyer who recently moved to Bonners Ferry from the Nampa-Caldwell area, said he has voted Republican in presidential elections since 1952, but has often voted for Democrats in local and statewide races and was a supporter of the late Sen. Frank Church, a Democrat.

The high cost of liability insurance and Veterans Administration mismanagement are concerns, but Robinson declined to be more specific about his platform or his differences with Craig, a Republican on whose campaigns he said he has worked in the past.

He said he would be a moderate Democrat.

Kidnapping charge dismissed

MURPHY (AP) — A kidnapping charge against a Canyon County man who was to go on trial later this month has been dropped, and family members of the slain victim say they are seeking help from the Attorney General.

Juan Rodriguez, 31, Wilder, had been charged with kidnapping in the disappearance of Juanita Renteria, 40, Homedale.

Authorities said she was taken forcibly from her home June 15, 1986, and was found dead six days later in the desert eight miles south of Vale, Ore., by horseback riders. She had been shot in the head.

Charges directly related to her death were not filed against Rodriguez.

Owyhee County Prosecutor Larry Wasden said he was forced to drop the charge against Rodriguez because he didn't have enough evidence to build a strong case. Homedale Police Chief Mike Meyers said he was disappointed with the decision.

Meanwhile, members of Renteria's family said they are asking the state Attorney General's office to look into the matter.

Johnson solicits support

BOISE (AP) — Ada County Commission Chairman Mike Johnson has tapped $5 million from the largest banks, corporate agencies and other organizations to go to Harvard.

Johnson will go to the prestigious university for an intensive three-week course in local government next week at the university's John F. Kennedy School of Government. He was one of 85 government officials nationwide selected for the Senior Executive Program for State and Local Government Executives.

Johnson, who has an associate's degree in criminal justice from Boise State University but not a four-year college degree, said, "I felt very fortunate to get the invitation to even apply for the thing."

The county will pay for Johnson's $360-round-trip air fare—and private corporations are picking up the tab for his $5,300 tuition.

He said the donors include Morrison Knudsen Corp., Albertson's Inc., J.R. Simplot Co., First Security Bank of Idaho, First Interstate Bank of Idaho, and Merchants State Bank, the Industrial Revenue Bond Board of Ada County, Idaho First National Bank, Elam Burke and Boyd law firm, Idaho Power Co. and Idaho Bank and Trust Co.

State tightens up background checks

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare has been ordered to beef up immediately its background checks on people who provide services or have access to juvenile wards of the state.

Gov. Cecil Andrus' announcement Friday came just days after revelations that a man who served a prison sentence for murder in California and now is charged with first-degree murder in the slaying and dismemberment of a Boise man had been a foster parent.

"We thought we had a procedure for background checks that was adequate," Andrus said. "It wasn't adequate and we are moving immediately to correct it."

The governor said he has instructed Health and Welfare to begin "fingerprint" checks of everyone who contracts to care for youths in state custody, and to work with the Department of Law Enforcement to ensure that the new procedure is implemented smoothly.

"Our first and overriding responsibility is to the children who, for one reason or another, find themselves in a foster home or in a state facility," Andrus said. "We simply must see that every prudent action is taken to provide for their health and safety."

Daniel Rodgers, 37, accused of killing Preston Murr of Boise and chopping his body into 13 parts, was a foster parent to three-teenage boys from the fall of 1985 until early this year. Rodgers previously had spent five years in San Quentin Prison on a California murder conviction.

State officials earlier this week blamed the FBI for not detecting Rodgers' prison record through its National Crime Information Center when he applied for a foster-care license in October 1985.

People applying for foster-care licenses have been required to supply three personal references, a health history, employment background, Social Security number and birth date. An inspection of the home proposed to house youths also was required.

A Health and Welfare form also has asked applicants whether they have ever been convicted of a crime involving children, and whether they have been involved in marriage counseling or treatment for child abuse, alcoholism or other problems.

The applications have been forwarded to the state attorney general and then to the Department of Law Enforcement to determine whether the applicants have any criminal record with the state. The NCIC is responsible for alerting the state to any criminal record outside the state.

The addition of a state fingerprint check was discussed Friday by Andrus, Health and Welfare director Iloh Donovan and other state employee representatives.

Donovan has begun emergency rulemaking procedures that will allow the new policy to be implemented, and the Department of Law Enforcement has been in contact with the FBI.

"I cannot say enough about the quality of our state employees and the dedication of our foster care providers," Andrus said. "In no way do I want to cast them in a negative light. By the same token, I am confident they will appreciate the necessity of what we are doing."

The governor said he believes the 1988 Legislature will take another look at the question of fingerprinting as part of the background check for day-care providers. The day-care licensing law adopted by the 1987 Legislature did not include such a provision.

Economist fears more to leave land

BOISE (AP) — A wrung-out livestock sector counted with a commodity export picture finally turning bright has brought optimism to American agriculture, but national economist Ray Daniels fears still more producers will be pushed off the land before the rural economic recovery is complete.

"We've been depressed in agriculture since 1980," the chief farm economist for Philadelphia's Wharton Econometrics said Friday. "We're now beginning to see some significant turn-arounds."

"But in talking about this optimism, when we talk about the debt there — 60 percent debt-to-asset ratios — this recovery we're talking about will not bail them out," Daniels said. "Unless the government helps them, that group will continue to go under. That could be as much as 2 to 3 percent a year."

The most recent survey of the financial condition of Idaho farmers showed one in five had debt-to-asset ratios in excess of 60 percent, a level considered "financially tenuous" at best by farm lenders.

Daniels predicted that farmers in economist Ray Daniels' survey would lose their farms or sell out for another two years before the situation stabilized.

For the rest of the producers, however, Daniels cited the significantly improved cattle sector that has seen average market prices in the state hit their highest levels in over seven years. He predicted livestock prices would remain at profitable levels for the next several years.

Although the wheat market remains hazy around $2.50 a bushel, depressed with high stocks of grain hanging over it, Daniels said he believed the surplus would begin dividing as exports continue picking up.

But he also said federal income support payments will still account for more than half the annual receipts Idaho producers get for the next few years before the government's contribution to income begins declining in the early 1990s.

The state Agriculture Department's emphasis on expanding export markets will help foster the farm recovery, Daniels said, but he cautioned that getting the boost from increased exports is "the longer, hard way to go. The results are going to be slow and over time."

Tank unit upsets, burns

IDAHO CITY (AP) — The driver of a double tanker-trailer truck suffered minor injuries Friday when the rig overturned on Idaho 21 south of Idaho City and one of the fuel tankers caught fire, authorities said.

Both lanes of the highway were closed until local and federal fire crews reined in the blaze that had spread to roadside trees. The northbound lane was reopened before noon, but it was several more hours before traffic in the area 12 miles south of Idaho City returned to normal.

Officials were trying to determine the cause of the accident.

The trailer that caught fire was destroyed, authorities said, and the other trailer was overturned and reportedly leaking fuel. Agents of the Environmental Protection Agency and the state Fish and Game Department were called in to assess possible environmental damage to the area including Mores Creek.

Label case goes to top

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho's Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council has approved several Idaho State University building projects, including the first phase of a $2-million renovation of the school's aging pharmacy building.

The first phase of renovation, concentrating on the building's main floor, will cost $782,000. Doyle Allen, bureau chief for the Division of Public Works Bureau of Planning and Design, said final plans indicate the project is within budget.

final approval during Thursday council meeting included remodeling of the Liberal Arts and Vocational Arts and Industrial Crafts buildings. The council also approved preliminary designs for a business incubator building at ISU's research park. The 17,000-square-foot project would house fledgling businesses and the Southeast Idaho Council of Governments.

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho's Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council has approved several Idaho State University building projects, including the first phase of a $2-million renovation of the school's aging pharmacy building.

The first phase of renovation, concentrating on the building's main floor, will cost $782,000. Doyle Allen, bureau chief for the Division of Public Works Bureau of Planning and Design, said final plans indicate the project is within budget.

Other ISU projects that received final approval during Thursday council meeting included remodeling of the Liberal Arts and Vocational Arts and Industrial Crafts buildings. The council also approved preliminary designs for a business incubator building at ISU's research park. The 17,000-square-foot project would house fledgling businesses and the Southeast Idaho Council of Governments.

The project faces several tight deadlines, due in part to constraints on $544,000 federal Economic Development Administration grant. Allen said.

On another matter, the council discussed shifting $26,000 to bolster security during renovation work at the state prison.

The $2 million renovation project is designed to bring the penitentiary south of Boise up to life and safety standards, said Public Works administrator Anne Barker.

Renovation of the prison is expected to begin within four to six weeks. But Corrections Director Al Murphy wants increased security in the prison and at entrances while the work is taking place, Ms. Barker said.

No formal action was taken to release the $26,000.

Hospital to allow phone-in orders

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A letter from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center's insurer recommended June 3 that orders for resuscitating dying patients "must be in writing."

The letter from Jim Wright, director of risk management at Farmers Insurance Co., said that using a telephone to terminate a person's life "would appear to be callous and without due consideration" and could be liable for a lawsuit.

Despite the warning, the hospital board voted Monday to adopt a do-not-resuscitate policy allowing doctors to phone in DNR orders.

Board Chairman Robert Valentine said the letter was included in packet circulated to board members June 25, contrary to hospital officials' previous statements.

"It's an awful lot of information," Valentine said of a packet of 50 wide-ranging papers distributed to board members concerning DNR policies.

Two trustees who voted against the policy, Jim LaGrone and Frank Arana, each said they weren't aware of the letter. But they each said they sensed the insurer's company was against verbal DNR orders.

Assistant Administrator for Finance, Michel Bousman, who received Wright's letter, and hospital counsel Kent Taylor each had said they thought the letter was not distributed to board members.

The mix-up notwithstanding, Wright characterized the policy as evolving and said the board may wish to send DNR orders. He said the DNR approval was a "joint step," but said he expected the board "to tighten it (policy) up a little further."

He said Farmers Group insures 500 hospitals across the country and that each one considering DNR policies received the same recommendation.

"This is a very serious matter that should reflect the considerations appropriate for such an order, and documentation in the file before writing such an order," Wright wrote June 3. "We believe that the DNR order established nationwide and prevents litigation accusing physicians of manslaughter, murder, and other crimes."

Wright added Thursday that insurance rates would not be immediately affected by adopting the policy. He said that some doctors would understand the seriousness of the insurer's position.

"Some of the language has to be strong to impress physicians," Wright said. "It is very important — our whole thrust is preventive."

He said that he recommended the board — minus LaGrone and Arana — approved verbal DNR orders on a motion from Trustee Dr. J. Emergy.

Emergy contended doctors familiar with patients' wishes should be allowed to order a DNR over the phone if the doctor recommended the decision at the hospital.

The board didn't vote Monday on another proposal from the hospital's Board of Medical Ethics Committee, which has studied DNR policies for nearly a year. BEC's fourth draft of the policy would allow a doctor to recommend DNR orders, but also required a notarized statement from the patient in his file asking that no resuscitation efforts be attempted.

Purdy set to leave his post

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN

KETCHUM — Nick Purdy, member of the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission for two years, has announced his resignation.

In a letter to County Board of Commissioners, Purdy said he feels he has become "less effective as time goes by and more at odds with the decisions made by the commission."

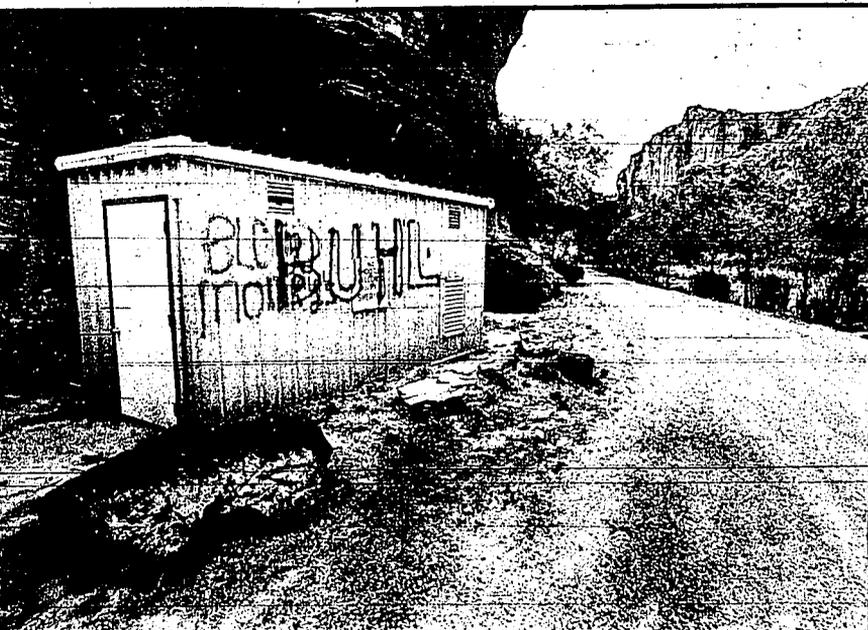

Purdy said Friday he has some "real concerns" about the commission, one of which is the need to update its comprehensive plan. "I am not doing anymore zoning, not planning," he said.

Because the original P&Z members who drafted the plan approved the plan for Commission last year, Purdy said he wanted to be a part of that, he added.

An upcoming conditional-use permit application by Idaho Power Co. for Commission last year was another reason for Purdy's resignation. He said he feels he cannot both represent his own interests and be a member of the commission during that time.

An earlier P&Z decision on the matter was overturned by the Idaho

Balanced Rock Park

Graffiti appears on rocks and restrooms at Balanced Rock Park. Restrooms and signs have been perforated by gunfire

Ravages place park on priority clean-up list

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Balanced Rock Park shows the ravages of nature and the unnatural.

The area is still recuperating from a devastating 1984 flood of Salmon Falls Creek. The flood was followed by a year-long invasion of people and equipment to repair the nearby road and culvert damaged by the water.

The county park also has scars from invaders in four-wheel drive vehicles and terrorists armed with spray-paint cans or guns who target unsuspecting restrooms, stop signs or the rocky boulders.

Some trash, broken in the water, but the restrooms were clean and new trash liners were in the cans.

Tacoma, Wash. residents, Pat and Elizabeth Kollar, didn't think the park was in bad shape when they visited on Wednesday.

"It could be taken care of better," Mrs. Kollar added.

Heider said putting up with vandalism is part of the job. Only a small percentage of people are responsible, but as the old adage says, only takes one bad apple to add.

More immediately, graffiti will be painted over, he said. About $800 will be spent seal coating the new ramp into the park that was built as part of the road repair. Heipleman said there is discussion about more signs directing people to the park, which is frequently used by the public.

A new caretaker was also hired through the Castledorf Men's Club to visit the site twice a week, Heipleman said. County crews visit once a week.

The repairs at Balanced Rock Park will be completed within the parks budget, Heider said.

Presently, about $54,000 is appropriated to pay for two staff people and maintenance of the county parks at Balanced Rock, Rock Creek and Murtaugh Lake and a dock in Hagerman. The county also provides funds to help pay a gatekeeper at a park at Salmon Falls Reservoir.

Heipleman said there is no plan to increase the parks budget for the 1987-88 fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1.

Some of the parks are short of federal funds to develop parks and other recreation areas.

Congress has not yet appropriated funds for Land, Water and Conservation grants for this year. On July 2, Parks Board Chairman George Holmes, the county commissioner and Heider wrote U.S. Senator James McClure and asked his support to preserve the funds, which in the past have gone into the development of several recreation areas.

"We feel very fortunate to have what we have," Heider said. But in the letter to McClure, he stated, "For the benefit of future generations, the cities and towns of Twin Falls County or any town, city or county in the U.S.A. could preserve and develop beautiful areas, if Land, Water and Conservation funding was available."

In the meantime, the county will do what it can to keep its parks maintained, Heider said.

But after the park opened again, the oldest of the destroyers — vandals — returned.

The park is easy prey to vandals because it is miles away from Castledorf, Heipleman said.

Broken concrete picnic tables dot the park. Heider suspects the tables were probably felled by four-wheel drive vehicles.

Elsewhere, graffiti on the rocks and restroom proclaims, "Let There Be Rock," or colorfully-immortalize names, school years or obscenities.

A sign on the restrooms prohibiting shooting is all shot up, as is the stop sign near the park. A beige brasserie was also hanging from the stop sign this week.

Some trash, broken in the water, but the restrooms were clean and new trash liners were in the cans.

Gem board questions plans for electricity

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

STANLEY — The Idaho Water Resources Board wants to question Western Power Inc. about its proposed several hundred million dollar hydroelectric ship electric to the Southwest.

The plan is to invite Boise-based Western to the next IWRB work session, according to information presented at an IWRB meeting here Friday.

Western wants to rely on hydroelectric power to generate half the 100 megawatts it plans to transmit initially, says Thurmon Blake, Western vice president. Other sources would be co-generated geothermal energy, biomass combustion and energy from factories.

Bill Lanting, IWRB member and a former Speaker of the House, says he is concerned about using Idaho resources for out-of-state interests. "But he says he doesn't know enough about Western's plans yet to determine whether they are a good idea or not."

He says a power exchange between the county parks at Balanced Rock might put the whole thing in a more favorable light. Western wants to ship power to the Southwest in the summer and reverse the flow in the winter when heating demands here are high, says Blake.

Western does not mention an Idaho hydroelectric project which the Northwest Electric and Power will work with Gem Irrigation District which is trying to build a hydroelectric project on the North Fork of the Payette River. Wayne Hays, administrator, DWR — resource analysis division.

Gem has filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for a hydroelectric license, he says.

The North Fork project would be rather extensive and the developers would have to come to DWR for a water right, says Hays.

So far there is no application before the department, he says.

The project would have a Round Valley and Banks facility.

The Round Valley would involve a dam across Valley Creek 80 feet high and 400 feet long, according to a project description.

The plant would generate 30 megawatts.

The Banks facility would consist of a 30-foot high diversion dam with a bridge on State Highway 55. A gravity tunnel 23 feet in diameter and 65,000 feet long is part of the project together with four buried penstocks 6300 feet long.

The power plant would have a capacity of 320 megawatts.

The two units would be located on the lower end of the valley, 6.5 miles below Cascade and about one-half mile above banks.

In other business Hays advised the board that Cecil Andrews would request money for state oversight of groundwater monitoring at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

The groundwater is contaminated with low-level radioactive waste and waste pulp is expected to migrate off the INEL reservation which sits atop the Snake River Plain Aquifer.

Commission reviews zoning laws, slates public hearing

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission took the first step toward putting an old version of a zoning ordinance out to pasture.

Commission members reviewed on Thursday, but had few comments on proposed changes recommended by Zoning Administrator Lee Taylor. The public will have its turn to comment next month. A public hearing will be held by the zoning commission, which will then vote on whether to recommend the changes to the Board of County Commissioners for final determination.

Among the proposed amendments is a definition of pasture as an enclosed area where grass or fodder are grown for domestic livestock.

The present code prohibits property owners from locating barns, corrals, pens, coops or huts in which animals are kept closer than 100 feet to a structure where humans are housed, such as a home, school or church.

The ordinance would be changed to allow pastured animals to graze right up to a fence line of an adjoining property, Taylor said. But if the animal owner brings into the pasture supplements of hay, grain or food or waters the animals in the pasture, the area will be considered the same as a barn, corral or pen and subject to the 100-foot restriction.

Other changes further restrict placement of mobile homes on property in the county.

Farms are now allowed any number of mobile homes if they are used by farm laborers. To that ordinance would be added a definition of a farm as that containing 20 acres or more. In another clause added before the meeting by zoning staff, farms under 20 acres would be allowed the same privilege if the land owners show that 100 percent of their income is derived through agricultural production.

The clause was added because dairies, fisheries and hot houses are often located on smaller parcels, said Taylor.

What has not changed are restrictions on what kind of mobile homes are allowed, such as requirements on size and footing materials. The only alteration proposed is changing the minimum size from 14 to 12-foot wide and from 700-square-foot to 700-square-foot. Taylor said he proposed the new size requirements to reflect mobile-home availability.

He added that the restrictions are needed to protect people with 100,000 homes from "junk" mobile homes.

Another proposed amendment would make a new-use zoning procedure an official part of the ordinance.

Under the amendment, a conditional-use permit would be issued to a person, firm or corporation and not the land. As a result, the permit couldn't be sold, transferred or leased with the land.

A permit holder would have one year to commence the operation for which he had sought the permit. Otherwise, the permit will become null and void, according to another proposed amendment. Extensions would be available.

A conditional-use permit applies when a proposed use of land generally fits a respective zone, but may require review by the zoning commission. A review committee of the commission would determine if the land use could be made more compatible through restrictions or whether the use would result in unacceptable detrimental to people or neighboring property.

Commission member Steve Kohntopp, asked if the permit was an infringement on property rights. Taylor replied that the permit gives the zoning commission a handle on how land is used and if it is compatible with the surrounding property use, which may change over the years.

Another proposal would specify that a variance remains a part of the land and should be recorded on the deed.

Nearly 100 light candles on behalf of Lia Szubert

The Associated Press

BOISE — Nearly 100 people lighted candles on the Idaho Statehouse steps for a Twin Falls woman whose death contributed to the FBI placing one of its latest additions to its 10 Most Wanted list of criminals.

The Treasure Valley chapter of the National Organization for Women sponsored the candlelight memorial Thursday on behalf of Lia Szubert, who disappeared June 9 in Mountain Home. Her body was found several days later in Oregon.

"Lia Szubert should not have had to worry about her safety in traveling across our state," said Lou Hamill, director of the YWCA Women's-Crisis Center. "It should be of great concern to everyone that this young woman was abducted and killed."

Jessica Jenkins, one of the organizers and mistress of ceremonies, said women must see this violence as part of a national trend.

Beverly Shepard said Idahoans are among the worst offenders in the United States as far as domestic violence per capita.

She also said national figures, which she said probably were low, showed that one in every 10 women in the U.S. is raped during her lifetime; 30 percent of all women are assaulted at least once in their lifetime; and 50 percent of all marriages have some form of abuse.

Szubert, 22, was last seen after having car trouble near the Gear Jarner parking stop in Mountain Home. A motorist found her body at the bottom of an embankment near La Grande, Ore., several days later, and the FBI later said she had been strangled.

She was on route from Twin Falls, where she grew up, to the Boise airport to pick up Duncie Abbott, with whom she planned to move to San Diego the next day. Szubert had been a waitress at the Heart-Break Cafe in Boise until several weeks before she died.

Darren Dee O'Neal, 27, added to the FBI's list of 10 Most Wanted fugitives June 24, is being sought for questioning in her death.

The FBI said O'Neal also is wanted in connection with the death of a 21-year-old Pierce County, Wash. woman who disappeared on March 26. Authorities said the remains of Pamela Smith were found May 25 about 10 miles south of Greenwater, Wash.

He has not been formally charged in Szubert's death, but is sought on a federal warrant alleging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder in the Washington case.

O'Neal, 5 feet 11 inches and 170 pounds, has blond hair, a tattoo of a five-pointed star under his left eye and the tattoo of the letters J-U-N-E on the knuckles of his left hand.

Firefighters battle Colorado flames

BATTLEMENT MESA, Colo. (AP) — More than 250 firefighters labored in a smoky, flaming landscape Friday, trying to control a 3,600-acre range fire fanned out of control by gusty, gusting winds.

Temperatures in the high 90s and winds gusting to 25 miles an hour made weather conditions "just about the worst we could have," said Dennis Neill, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman.

Neill said fire officials were hoping for a light cloud cover to thicken and increase humidity.

Curt Bates, who is incident commander at the fire scene, estimated late Friday the blaze is 25 percent contained. Lines established along the northeast quadrant of the fire. This cuts the fire off from an estimated 140 homes on Morrisiana

Hailey man in jail on drug charge

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — A Hailey man accused of being part of a large-scale marijuana distribution ring based in California remained in Blackfoot County Jail on Thursday in lieu of $500,000 bond.

Christopher O'Keefe, 38, agreed during an initial appearance Wednesday before U.S. Magistrate Craig Jorgensen to return to California to face charges including conspiracy to import marijuana with intent to distribute.

O'Keefe, who also has a residence in Laguna, Calif., was one of nine people named in a federal grand jury indictment issued in Southern California, court Clerk Diane Hutchinson said.

Jorgensen initially set bond at $1 million with a 20 percent surety bond. Later he amended the bond to $500,000 with a 10 percent requirement.

Chosen for the Idaho Humanities Council are Susan C. Gerhart, Boise; Patsy Ganit, Pocatello; and Mary Waddell Templin of Post Falls.

Richard K. Markuson, Orofino, has been appointed to the State Board of Pharmacy.

Idaho Court reaffirms 1986 property ruling

BOISE Idaho (AP) — A divided Idaho Supreme Court has reaffirmed its October 1986 ruling that the state "regulated" but did not "take" a regulated man in such cases may be restricted access to his lot near Interstate 84.

Despite other cases, Merritt charged that the state's action amounted to taking his property, and that he should be compensated.

The high court voted 3 to 2 on Friday to uphold its earlier 3-to-2 decision reversing former 3rd District Judge Roger Williams' denial of a state motion for summary judgment against a lawsuit filed by Ellis Merritt.

Non-Dickinson acquisition has been named to the State Board of Dentistry and Tim Bird, Boise, is a new member.

Sanctuary workers estimate convictions had little effect

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A year after eight members of the sanctuary movement were placed on probation for helping to smuggle Central American aliens, they still see the movement as the most important issue. Their conduct was a crime.

Sanctuary activists have helped aliens whom they regard as political refugees entitled to asylum to enter the United States and in many cases to stay here, often under the protection of churches. Many of those given sanctuary say they are fleeing the ravages of conflicts between leftist guerrillas and U.S.-backed forces in El Salvador and Guatemala.

"As long as the United States continues to fund the war... in Central America, as long as international aid and Salvadorans continue to be bombed and continue to flee, that's what causes the sanctuary movement to continue," Ms. Hutchison said.

Sanctuary workers themselves disagree on how the trial may have affected U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service policy.

The federal government, as far as we can tell, has been willing to live with sanctuary since the trial, Corbett said. His lawyer, Stephen Cooper of St. Paul, Minn., said more asylum petitions are being granted and fewer people being deported.

But File said new national figures show that over the last seven months, asylum has been granted to only 33 percent of Salvadorans, and 45 percent of Nicaraguans applying for it.

"I guess if there's one bottom line, it is that the trial changed nothing in terms of our ministry or our assistance," Mr. Tugger said. File said, "It certainly did not alter INS' policies."

File, who received a human rights award in December presented by former President Carter, said he spends about half his time in sanctuary-related work but also has resumed his pastoral duties with the Southside Presbyterian Church in Tucson.

As for whether his current sanctuary-related work breaks the law, File said, "I don't know. The judge doesn't know and my probation officer doesn't know."

Ms. Hutchison has continued to work with the United Methodist Church in a ministry along the Mexican border. She, too, has accepted awards and made numerous speeches.

Ms. Niegorski, who is working at the Dominican Sisters' Women's Center in Plainville, Mass., was named one of Ms. magazine's women of the year.

Pointing to symposiums held by various schools as well as one sponsored in May by the Harvard Divinity School, she said that sanctuary efforts have "moved mainline, in a sense, very quickly."

Corbett, who works in Tucson helping Salvadorans get legal counsel to determine their legal status, said if anything, the INS in Arizona may be "more humane" now in its grants of asylum than in other districts.

He said Quinones, a priest in Nogales, Sonora, is working with hundreds of people in the Mexican community and trying to raise $12,000 to build a two-story extension to his church to house at least 30 people.

Clark, after a stint in Rome, has returned to his parish in Davenport, Iowa. Mrs. Aguilar, a widow, still lives in Nogales, Sonora, helping Quinones. Ms. LeWinn took training in emergency medical services.

Phoenix to Seattle, said those convicted "can posture" and make speeches about the movement's growth but "the government is prevailed on the most important issue: Their conduct was a crime."

Sanctuary activists have helped aliens whom they regard as political refugees entitled to asylum to enter the United States and in many cases to stay here, often under the protection of churches. Many of those given sanctuary say they are fleeing the ravages of conflicts between leftist guerrillas and U.S.-backed forces in El Salvador and Guatemala.

"As long as the United States continues to fund the war... in Central America, as long as international aid and Salvadorans continue to be bombed and continue to flee, that's what causes the sanctuary movement to continue," Ms. Hutchison said.

Sanctuary workers themselves disagree on how the trial may have affected U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service policy.

The federal government, as far as we can tell, has been willing to live with sanctuary since the trial, Corbett said. His lawyer, Stephen Cooper of St. Paul, Minn., said more asylum petitions are being granted and fewer people being deported.

But File said new national figures show that over the last seven months, asylum has been granted to only 33 percent of Salvadorans, and 45 percent of Nicaraguans applying for it.

"I guess if there's one bottom line, it is that the trial changed nothing in terms of our ministry or our assistance," Mr. Tugger said. File said, "It certainly did not alter INS' policies."

File, who received a human rights award in December presented by former President Carter, said he spends about half his time in sanctuary-related work but also has resumed his pastoral duties with the Southside Presbyterian Church in Tucson.

Chicago cardinal supports plan to anoint AIDS patients at services

CHICAGO (AP) — Cardinal Joseph Bernardin on Wednesday offered strong support of plan by five Roman Catholic parishes to comfort AIDS victims through anointing rites.

Bernardin, leader of the nation's second-largest diocese, had taken up the issue of AIDS in a pastoral statement last October when he called on parishes to "open their doors and their hearts to those touched in any way" by the deadly disease.

"Thus, the archdiocese fully supports the efforts of those parishes that have made a special attempt to minister to those affected by AIDS," he said a statement Wednesday.

The introduction to the sacrament, which involves prayers and the pouring of oil on the victim's forehead, means that the seriously ill get the "special help of God's grace

...lest he or she be broken in spirit and subject to temptations and the weakening of faith."

Formerly called extreme uncton or last rites, anointing once was administered to Catholics only individually and in emergencies.

...We don't know if there will be 20 people present or 200," Spalla said.

Jim Bussen, national president of Dignity, an organization for homosexual Catholics, said he doubts the anointing service will affect the church position that homosexuality is a sin.

But Bussen said his group was pleased that the parishes were taking the anointing service to AIDS victims.

AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, destroys the body's immune system and leaves it vulnerable to a variety of other deadly ailments.

Senate panel OKs extending debt limit to $2.565 trillion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Friday to raise the national debt limit to $2,565 billion and sent the bill to the full Senate where it will become the battleground for this year's major fight over budget reform.

Meanwhile, the White House ordered federal agencies to come up with $10 billion to $15 billion in new spending cut plans, to show "President Reagan intends to meet his deficit-cutting promises under the Gramm-Rudman law without the tax increases Congress proposes."

The debt legislation, approved by voice vote for Senate action next week, is needed quickly because the government's statutory borrowing limit of $2.32 trillion expires July 17.

Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said the total in the bill would probably reduce to a two-month short-term debt extension to speed passage.

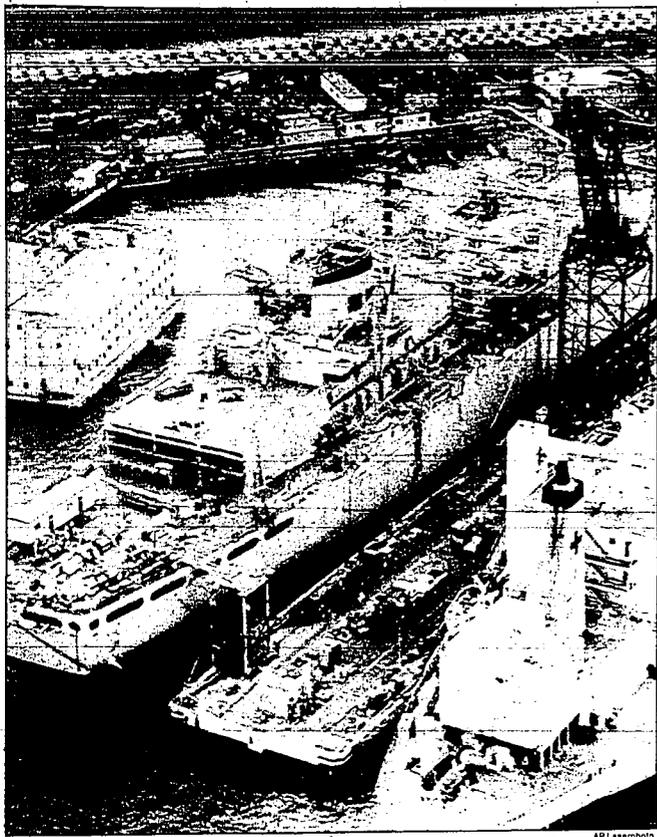

Without new borrowing authority, no new government notes could be sold and, by month's end, the Treasury would be out of cash and forced to default on its obligations.

"I cannot overemphasize the damage that would be done to the world if the government were to default," said Treasury Secretary James A. Baker, in a letter to the finance committee.

Knowing that the debt bill is "most pass" legislation, some senators are focusing on efforts to attach an amendment that would restore automatic spending cuts to the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

Gramm-Rudman was designed to force a balanced budget by fiscal 1991, but the Supreme Court threw out the automatic spending cuts that were to enforce the deficit-reduction program.

Democrats and some Republicans hope reviving the threat of the cuts, which would hurt Pentagon and domestic programs alike, might force Reagan to compromise on the budget and on tax increases. Reagan has promised to veto any tax-hiking bill.

6 civilian workers die in fall from basket above Navy ship

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Fatigue on the part of a crane operator may have played a role in the death of six shipyard workers who were among a dozen National Steel & Shipbuilding Co. employees who fell 30 feet onto the deck of a U.S. Navy ship Friday.

A basket carrying the 12 civilians above the USS Sacramento broke away from the manually operated crane, spilling the workers onto two decks of the ship below.

"The brake caught and all of a sudden, the next thing I know we're on the ground and there were bodies and blood all over the place," said Ford Pulley, one of seven injured workers who spilled from the basket. No one on the ship's deck was injured.

Some workers, including the crane operator, apparently had put in up to 18 straight hours moving the Sacramento out of drydock and next to the company pier.

"Everybody who had been there when the accident happened had been there all day," said Dave Pierce, a company rigger. "I know that for a fact. That's the usual procedure when you have a ship movement."

Fred Hallett, a company vice president, said he couldn't verify how long the workers had been on the job without reviewing timecards, but he said overtime for at least some of the 50 to 60 workers involved in the job was likely.

"Many times (a ship move) is not accomplished within an eight-hour shift," Hallett said.

The five dead workers were identified by San Diego County Deputy Coroner Max Murphy as: Maurice Francis McClure Jr., 37, San Diego; Carlos Mendez Ortiz, 40, Chula Vista; William Arthur Starke, 51, San Diego; August Lawrence Unser, 39, San Diego; and Rafael Barajas Magana, 47, National City, who died after being transported to UC San Diego Medical Center.

A sixth worker, Robert Estrella, 49, died of his injuries at 4:25 p.m. at the UC San Diego Medical Center, hospital spokeswoman Pat Jacoby said.

Five other workers were hospitalized, two in critical condition and three in good condition.

Hallett said he understood the men had taken a live-hour break Thursday afternoon, returning to finish the move at 8 p.m. The operation was nearly completed at 12:05 a.m. Friday when tragedy struck.

"We were just about three quarters of a way beyond the Sacramento when I felt a tug. What it was was that brake had let loose on the crane," Pulley said.

The crane is about 75 feet tall and has a capacity of 50 tons. The steel-and-wood basket, approximately 12 feet long, easily holds 12 people, Hallett said.

The crane operator, who had worked at NASDDO for 13 years, was identified as Hugh C. Humphrey, 65, of Chula Vista.

"He went to work about 5 a.m. yesterday, and put in about 10 hours before the accident occurred," Humphrey's wife, Elvira, said. "You just don't know how bad this hurts. Some of those people were very close friends of ours."

Hallett said investigators from the company's safety team and the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration were looking for the cause of the accident. Human error is possible, he said.

Garbage barge cargo to be reduced to ash, dumped in Islip

NEW YORK (AP) — The unwanted cargo aboard the infamous garbage barge will be reduced to ash and dumped in the community of Islip, from whence it came, officials said Friday.

The question of what to do with the garbage, which became a national joke as it was shunted from one state to another, apparently was resolved at a meeting involving state and city environmental officials and representatives from Islip.

The barge will be towed from its berth at a federal anchorage in Brooklyn to a city incinerator in the borough's Bensonhurst section.

There, the garbage will be unloaded and burned.

Officials said the 3,120 tons of garbage would be reduced to about 40 tons of ash and deposited in the Islip town dump, a process expected to begin next week, and take three to four weeks.

Woman, sons kill 3 officers

INKSTER, Mich. (AP) — Policemen sent to a motel to serve arrest warrants on bad check charges encountered a woman and her three sons armed with several guns and apparently had no chance to shoot or negotiate before three officers were killed, authorities said Friday.

The four suspects, who had claimed to be holding the officers hostage, kept police at bay for 10 hours at the Bungalow Motel in this Detroit suburb before surrendering at 3:15 a.m. Friday.

Police Chief James Buckley said an automatic handgun, a high-powered rifle, a shotgun, handguns and a flare gun were found in the motel room. Mayor Betty Miller said police also found flak jackets and gas masks.

As many as 1,000 shots had been fired during the first three hours, Buckley said.

One of the suspects was identified as Alberta Easter, 69, the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office said. The other three suspects were her sons, said Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficamo.

The names of the sons were withheld pending issuance of warrants and arraignment, tentatively scheduled for noon Saturday in Westland, said a secretary who refused to identify herself.

One of the sons was thought to be a kidney patient who requires dialysis treatment and he was taken to Westland Medical Center after his arrest, The Detroit News reported.

The slain policemen were identified as Sgt. Ira Parker, 41, a 15-year veteran and officer; Clay Hoover, 24, and Dan Dubiel, 36. Dubiel had been with the department 13 years, and Hoover joined the department in March, officials said.

Each was shot five to nine times, said police dispatcher Philip Rogers.

Officials said Friday that no motive had been determined.

"There's absolutely no red flag saying these people would be violent," Ficamo said. "It was something that went haywire with no explanation. It's a very strange circumstance."

Three charged with smuggling aliens

DALLAS (AP) — Federal authorities filed charges Friday against three Mexicans said to belong to a smuggling ring linked to the deaths of 18 illegal aliens in a locked boxcar.

"As an agency and as human beings, we are outraged by this type of thing happening to innocent people coming from Mexico," said Ronald Chandra, chief director for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

One of the suspects being held without bond Friday in the El Paso County Jail, but authorities believe the other two have fled to Mexico.

Arturo Hernandez Garcia was arrested Wednesday in Dallas on charges of transporting and encouraging aliens to enter the United States illegally, Chandra said.

Hernandez Garcia is the brother of Enrique Hernandez Garcia, 33, known as "El Chapulin" or the "Grasshopper," who authorities say locked the boxcar door before the train left an El Paso freight yard July 1.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your judgment will be less than razor sharp, so make a point of checking all of the facts and figures before making decisions. Also, listen to advice to avoid a bad situation.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Make sure you obey every rule and regulation that applies to you, especially in business. Stay home tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): You may believe that a little trip will be beneficial, but conditions are not good right now. Don't change your way of thinking.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Your mate will not back your plans until you've studied them more carefully. Show a friend that you've kept a promise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Don't misunderstand the motives of an associate who is only keeping out of your personal affairs.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Forget about that talk with a fellow worker which could lead to a big argument. Stay calm and sober when dealing with others.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 21): Having a good time today would be important for support in a risky enterprise, give it up and begin something new.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): All may seem quite harmonious right now, but one wrong word could create a big battle. Don't entertain at home.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): When handling your "correspondence," be "careful" in your reply to a letter which seems odd. Be very cautious in any motion.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Caution in others about a matter which should be kept confidential could bring you a whole lot of trouble.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Safeguard your pocketbook and your reputation today. Be selective in asking a friend for help with a big project.

YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be sturdy and practical, but may have a tendency to run off on wild tangents from time to time. Teach your progeny to handle obligations and use his or her natural organizational abilities in a way which could produce great success. A good diet is essential.

ZZZZ Best founder resigns amid allegations of mob ties

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barry Minkow lived a Horatio Alger dream, amassing more than $100 million by age 21, telling his story to Oprah Winfrey, crusading against drugs.

Today, his world is a shambles amid allegations that he consorted with mobsters, allowed his carpet-cleaning business to be used as a front to launder drug money and plundered the company's treasury.

Last week, with mounting disclosures of problems at ZZZZ Best Co. — the operation he founded in his parents' garage at age 15 — Minkow resigned from the company, citing health reasons.

Within days, ZZZZ Best filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection and sued Minkow and four associates for $23 million over alleged misappropriation of company funds.

On Wednesday, police raided Minkow's office and home and 14 other sites looking for evidence that Minkow's companies were used to launder proceeds from organized-crime drug deals.

In addition to three companies founded by Minkow, Police Chief Don Bensen said other firms involved in the network were connected to mobsters and ex-convicts.

A Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of ZZZZ Best and Minkow is zeroing in on many of

Barry Minkow faces suit from the business he founded the same allegations.

Minkow's attorney, Arthur Barends, termed the allegations "preposterous."

"Barry is not a coke dealer and knows nothing about organized crime," Barends said.

Minkow was 18 when he earned his first million in 1984. In 1986 he took the company public, and it became a darling of Wall Street. A public stock offering in December quickly sold out at $4 per share, and based on strong earnings reports and optimistic projections the price soared to over $18 per share in April and May.

Then the decline began. First, the slide was slow amid reports that the company had run up $72,000 in false bills on customer credit cards in 1984 and 1985. Minkow said the phony bills were charged by unscrupulous subcontractors who were fired and that the money had been repaid.

Later, the disclosures increased in frequency and severity, and the slide became a plunge. Early this week, ZZZZ Best stock dropped to as low as 75 cents a share, then recovered slightly.

The virtually wiped-out Minkow's fortune, most of which was based on his 53 percent of ZZZZ Best's 11 million shares.

A lot of us wish we hadn't sold a lot of shares, said Robert Grossman, a securities analyst with Lunderberg, Thalman & Co., who had been quoted recently in print as defending Minkow as "a great manager."

For different pictures of Minkow emerge from acquaintances, co-workers and investigators. Minkow, who described himself as "obsessed," is generally characterized as a hard-driving, fast-talking boss with no tolerance for disagreement.

"My way or the highway," Minkow frequently said at the office, where he insisted on being called Mr. Minkow, associates say.

He said he wanted to build ZZZZ Best into "The General Motors of carpet cleaning" and expected he might some day become president of the United States. He developed bleeding ulcers by age 18.

Minkow was praised by Mayor Tom Bradley, the Association of Collegiate Entrepreneurs and the Young Entrepreneurs Organization. Magazines and newspapers chronicled his rise.

Minkow wrote a book called "Making It in America" and appeared on the "Oprah Winfrey Show" to tell his story.

He routinely warned against drug use in speeches and even in ZZZZ Best ads and, gave generously to charities.

ZZZZ Best's operations appear to have changed significantly after mid-1985 when Minkow horrowed $400,000 from reputed organized crime leader Jack Catin at rates of between 2 percent and 5 percent a week.

Catin, who was convicted of counterfeiting and has been investigated by federal authorities for possible extortion, trading in stolen goods and laundering organized crime money, helped Minkow organize ZZZZ Best, said Catin's former attorney, James Twitty.

Thereafter ZZZZ Best reported explosive growth. For the year ended April 30 earnings were $50 million on revenue of $500 million, compared with profits of $90,000 on revenue of $4.8 million a year earlier.

ZZZZ Best attributed the change to its new involvement in "restoration work" at fire- and water-damaged buildings.

According to documents the company filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, such work accounted for 89 percent of its revenues.

Police contend that restoration work was actually a sham operation used to launder drug money.

Catin died in February before he could be sentenced on the counterfeiting conviction.

For Portland it was an issue of pleasure

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The City Council has agreed to allow an outdoor rock concert by David Bowie, despite a noise officer's warning that the performance could cause temporary hearing loss.

While the concert date is still tentative, Pacificcoast Inc. of Los Angeles confirmed it is negotiating to bring Bowie to Portland's Civic Stadium on Aug. 1.

Noise control officer Paul Herman told the council on Thursday that the concert "will cause harm. It will also bring pleasure, but it will cause harm."

He said the show would be as loud, not louder, than a concert last year featuring Bob Dylan and Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, which he also opposed.

In addition to temporarily damaging hearing, Herman said noise from the concert would increase area residents' blood pressure.

Judd Nelson to portray BBC leader Joe Hunt

NEW YORK (AP) — Judd Nelson, who once said he'd never do television, has gotten an offer he can't refuse.

Nelson, whose big-screen hits include "The Breakfast Club" and "St. Elmo's Fire," will star in an NBC-TV miniseries, "The Billionaire Boys Club," according to his agent, Lorca Rodkin.

"He starts filming the movie at the end of the month," she said. "I know he is on the record as saying that TV isn't his medium, but this was too good."

He couldn't refuse the offer

Nelson will star as Joe Hunt, the former leader of a group of wealthy young men in Southern California known as the Billionaire Boys Club who had dreams of making millions by pooling their investments.

Hunt was sentenced this week to life without parole for the April murder of Ronald Levin, Hunt thought that he had been tricked into thinking that Levin had parlayed a $5 million investment into $13 million.

The miniseries will be broadcast this fall.

Board decides against extending Newton term

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A state board has decided against extending the prison term of former Black Panther leader Huey Newton, who is serving two years for illegal weapons possession.

Newton, 45, began his sentence in March at the state's Sierra Conservation Center in Jamestown and had predicted his term would be extended.

The three-member Board of Prison Terms found Wednesday that Newton has had no convictions for violent acts in 13 years, and is not a risk to the public.

Newton, convicted of assault with a deadly weapon in 1964, was convicted of being a felon in possession of weapons after a 1974 incident in which he allegedly pistol-whipped his tailor and police found two guns in his apartment.

Newton fled the country and spent three years in Cuba before returning to face charges of assault and possession. He was acquitted on the assault charge.

Newton is scheduled for arraignment July 23 in Oakland on charges that he misappropriated state funds intended for a private school the Black Panther Party operated from 1980 to 1982.

To Rossovich the part was an ironic portrayal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Rossovich plays the handsome guy who needs big-nosed and silver-toned Steve Martin's help to win the girl in the film "Roxanne."

But when the 29-year-old actor arrived in Hollywood 10 years ago, he was told he had the outsize schnoz.

"They told me to change your name and fix your nose," the actor recalled, laughing.

"They're always so quick to judge. But that kind of gave me the idea that 'I'm different. I'm me.' I didn't think I had to change my name, even though they said so."

"Roxanne," based on the classic "Cyrano de Bergerac," was a venture into comedy for Rossovich after appearances in "Top Gun," "The Terminator" and "The Lords of Discipline."

He's also in a continuing role — new father. He and his wife, Eva, have a 7-month-old son, Roy.

MCA chairman Lew Wasserman remains hospitalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Wasserman, one of the last surviving old-time movie moguls, remains hospitalized more than two weeks after undergoing surgery to remove a polyp from his colon, a spokesman said Friday.

But the prolonged stay doesn't indicate Wasserman, 74, has run into complications, said Ron Wise, spokesman for Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

Wasserman is chairman and chief executive of MCA Inc., the parent of Universal Studios. MCA issued a one-paragraph release Friday saying Wasserman was recovering satisfactorily.

He was listed in fair condition and "is doing really well," Wise said, adding that no date has been set for his release.

Bay teachers will contest censorship

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — The teachers union in Bay County, which has seen a long debate over prohibiting books, will make censorship a contract bargaining issue, says the union president.

Leorta Pacheco of the Association of Bay County Educators said she was pleased with many elements of a new policy on approving books, but the issue affects working conditions. The controversy reached its height two months ago when Superintendent Leonard Hall proposed banning classroom use of 64 books, including "Hammlet," "Oedipus Rex," "Red Man and the Sea."

After a public outcry, the school board rejected his proposal and ordered a policy change that will allow the books on Hall's list and others already in use to remain in classrooms if principals approve them by Aug. 1.

The new policy also permits teachers to appeal prior decisions that resulted in the banning of several books purportedly containing vulgarity, obscenity, criticism of the government and illicit sex. Pacheco said Wednesday she objected to the Aug. 1 deadline because it excludes teachers who are off for the summer. She also criticized the policy for permitting teachers to appeal to act on materials that haven't been challenged and increasing the workload of teachers.

"This affects teaching conditions and therefore just to let you know, we plan to begin bargaining the impact of the policy at our next session, July 20," she told the school board.

NATO proposes arms control talks

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The 16 NATO countries on Friday submitted a long-awaited proposal for new talks on European military security and conventional arms reduction.

It was the most significant proposal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization since 1980, said Warren Zimmerman, U.S. ambassador to the 35-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

The Communist bloc had given the conference several proposals on security talks and had criticized the Western alliance for not presenting one earlier.

NATO and the seven-member Warsaw Pact have been holding exploratory talks since Feb. 17 on the possibility of new all-European arms negotiations.

On Friday, the West proposed two sets of talks within the framework of the conference, the third follow-up conference to the 1975 Helsinki conference on military security, economic cooperation and human rights.

The proposal differed from the Warsaw Pact's proposal last month by omitting mention of battlefield nuclear weapons.

One set of talks proposed by the Western alliance would involve all 35 nations in what would amount to a continuation of the Conference on Security Building Measures, which ended last year in Stockholm, Sweden.

In Stockholm, the 35 NATO, Warsaw Pact and neutral nations agreed on some forms of verification, including informing each other about military maneuvers and inviting observers to military exercises.

The new proposal would make the verification agreements binding. Verification has been a stumbling block at the 13-year-old talks on Mutual and Balanced-Force Reduction, also held in Vienna.

The West also would like to see agreements on a broader exchange of much more detailed military information, said Portuguese Ambassador Jose Queiroz de Barros. The West contends the East has more troops in Europe and does not give accurate accounts in official statistics.

The second set of talks would involve only the 23 nations that make up NATO and the Warsaw Pact because they have the most military power in Europe, Zimmerman said. These talks would concentrate on arms reduction.

Haitians stage march against the military

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — About 10,000 Haitians marched through poor areas of the capital Friday in a peaceful demonstration against the three-man governing council's military members.

Many shouted anti-American slogans and chanted "Namphy must go! Regala must go! If Namphy stays, we want communism!"

Others sang and danced in the Haitian style of having a good time at rallies. Vendors sold ices, straw hats and meat pies.

Few soldiers were in the streets and no violence was reported, a contrast to the general strike last week during which soldiers shot more than 20 people dead and at least 130 were reported wounded. Strike organizers called the rally to make their point against the military without resuming open conflict.

Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy has led the council since dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier fled the country Feb. 7, 1986 but the other members have changed several times. They now are Brig. Gen. Williams Regala and lawyer Luc Hector.

Namphy sought to ease tensions last week by revoking decrees that banned a militant labor union and stripped power from an independent election council established by the new constitution.

Critics say Namphy's issuing the decrees shows he cannot be trusted to lead this impoverished Caribbean nation's 6 million people to democracy.

National elections are scheduled for November and local elections are to be held earlier, with the date not announced.

Not all the Friday marchers were poor and unemployed. Serge Bazelaïs, a 40-year-old businessman, said while buying a straw hat to ward off the sun, "I don't want Namphy or Regala. I'm marching with the others to show that."

Another chant at the rally was "God give us Fidel Castro!"

A young man who would not reveal his name said of the communist Cuban leader: "We don't want violence. We ask for Fidel Castro because Namphy won't give us liberation."

After the march, about 2,000 people went to the government palace and jogged back and forth.

Soldiers fire on Panamanian protesters

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Soldiers fired shots and tear-gas grenades to break up a large anti-government demonstration Friday and several people were injured in a long afternoon of street skirmishes throughout the city.

No figures were available on how many people were injured. Reporters at the scene said none appeared seriously hurt, but they saw soldiers hitting some with rubber truncheons. The reporters said they also saw troopers fire shotguns toward crowds.

Thousands of demonstrators tried to gather at the church of El Carmen in the downtown banking district in defiance of a ban on public assembly, to demand the removal of Panama's military chief and strongman, Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

About half an hour before the rally was to begin at 3 p.m., several hundred soldiers swept down the main avenue, Via Espana, in front of the whitewashed church.

Firing tear gas and shotguns, the soldiers moved the crowds off the streets and sidewalks for several blocks in each direction.

Soldiers and riot police also took up positions at other points in the city where groups of protesters were to assemble before going to the church.

Side streets leading to the Via Espana were sealed by squads of soldiers. Crowds moving toward the church, whose twin towers are a capital landmark, never were able to get within two blocks.

Iran intercepts ships

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran said Friday its marines in gunboats intercepted and searched 13 commercial ships in the Strait of Hormuz, but let them go after failing to find any cargo bound for Iraq.

The vessels were intercepted Thursday. The official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, did not give details, including the vessels' names or the countries of ownership or registration.

The Iranian navy has been intercepting commercial vessels sailing through the strait, the Persian Gulf's only outlet, in search of goods bound for Iraq. Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980.

Iran also has been retaliating for Iraqi air strikes on its ships, which began in earnest in 1984, by attacking commercial vessels of Iraq's Arab allies.

In a related development, Iranian Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani renewed an offer to suspend raids on ships if Iraq called a truce in attacks on Iranian oil installations and tankers.

Rafsanjani spoke Thursday night after a meeting in Tehran of the Supreme Defense Council, the body that directs war policy. His comments signaled a softening in Iran's stand toward the U.S. reflagging operation after weeks of threats of retaliation.

Spaeth, Molitor share state lead

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

JEROME — It was rather an historical day for two individuals in the first round of the Idaho State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament Friday.

For Boise's Rick Spaeth, the clock rolled back 20 years as he played his first competitive round on the Jerome Country Club golf course since leaving for Caldwell with his family just after graduating from Jerome High School. That class will be holding its 20th reunion later this summer.

For Poacello's Dave Molitor, the calendar shed 10 to 15 years since "the last time I had a great putting day."

But despite whatever nostalgia one wants to implore into the major factor is this: they both carded five-under par 67s and moved at least two strokes ahead of everyone in the first day of the 1987 tournament.

Things were not even among the field. The lower handicap golfers in the morning flight were greeted by some rain. In the mid-part of the day, it warmed and dried considerably but then clouded over later and a snappy wind affected the late finishers in the championship flight.

Spaeth obviously was enjoying his golf and the return to the scenes of his youth. "I really enjoy being back here. There are so many good people. I've been away too long," he said.

But the case in point was almost too obvious to point out. He shot a four-under par 32 on the front side — that nine which was in existence when he was the Jerome Tiger quarterback — and 35 on the back nine — which was developed during his absence.

But Spaeth wasn't willing to attribute (so much of) that opening 32 to local knowledge.

"Yesterday (in a practice round) was the first time I'd played here since I left 20 years ago. I've never been back," he protested with a laugh.

"I felt I hit the ball really solid with only a couple of exceptions. I missed a couple of six-footers (putts) that could have made a difference! But I'm very happy to have this for the opening round," he added.

"My putting really is what made the round," said Molitor, who has won this tournament three times.

"I only had one lousy putt — that was on 17 after a bad chip that went past by 12 feet and I didn't fill a good putt coming back. I left one just short, right in the jaws (of the cup) on 18 for a birdie which is something you shouldn't do but at least had it on line."

"I attribute it (his putting) to simply practicing more this year. Instead of taking a coffeebreak and sitting around and talking, I'll spend 15 minutes putting. I've really been stressing the three-footers," he said.

"Really! I don't think I've had a putting round like that since the mid-1970s," he said, "but I have to say I've never practice more in my life either. Rick hit the ball better than I did today. But it was a great round for both of us. It was a go get 'em type round."

These two had to look no farther than two aisles back to find four-time champion Scott Masingill of Payette.

There were about six foursomes left when he came off the course noting "I three putted that last green" but showing no apprehension with that part of the game. "I wedged the ball well and putted well. I'm happy to have that (69) score in (the clubhouse) because that wind is getting stronger and it could have a bearing on the final 20 or 30 scores."

Also at two-under was Twin Falls David Driscoll whose game has improved considerably since he's been able to put aside the pressure of business the past year. Driscoll was dubbed a darkhorse by host Pro John Peterson prior to the tournament "because he's always played this course well. He had a 65 in one of our pro-ams not long ago."

"I felt I played well. I yipped a couple of short putts but our old guys are going to do that," Driscoll said with a laugh. "But that kinda evened out, too, because I made a sea-goer on 11."

Defending champion Joe Malay, Weiser, waded in a three-way tie at 71 with Burley's Terry Spackman and Nampa's Bill Wellman.

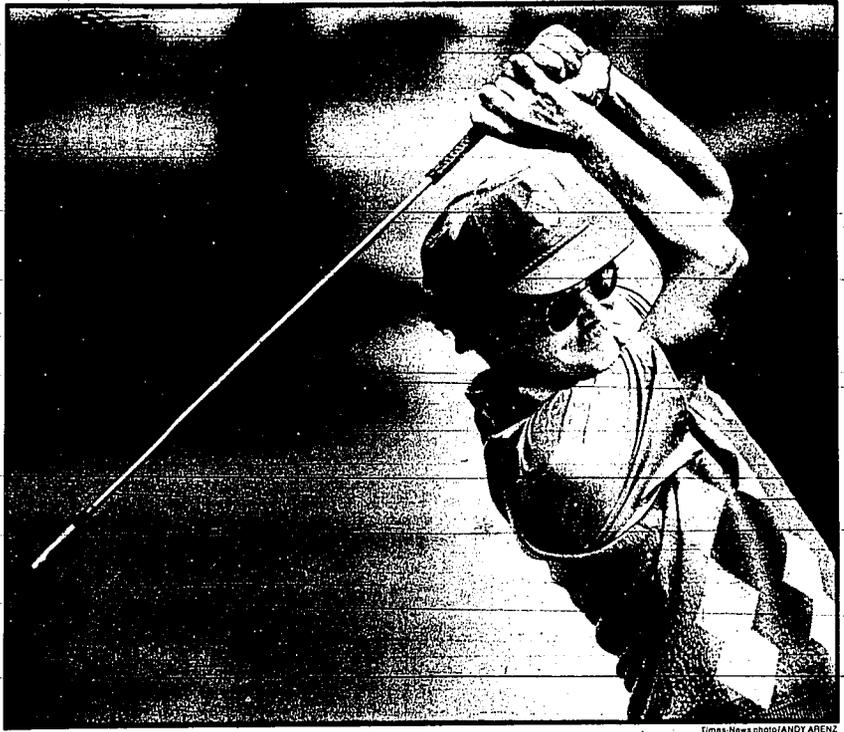

There was no problem identifying Malay's strength.

"I did play the five pars rather well," he laughed — at — the understatement. "Five under (on the four of them)."

"I don't know why but I couldn't play the four-pars as aggressively," he continued.

"Malay's best hole was the 11th which he eagled. But despite that, Twin Falls' Perry Hancey stole the win on the hole in a way that's unusual — four drivers and a putt."

"I hit the first one through the fairway. I couldn't believe it was that far," he said. "I sniped the second one out of bounds and finally got the third one in. By then I figured I was hitting 200 yards (off the fairway), knocked it on and drained the putt for a great double bogey. A great double bogey? He exaggerated the question."

David Driscoll of Twin Falls watches his drive zip toward the fifth green enroute to his two-under par 70

North Carolina uses state for hosting U.S. Sports Festival

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Sports Festival has grown in eight years from oversized sweat suits altered with staple guns to the high-tech computer software that will be used to keep track of the results of 34 athletic events.

It has grown from having more athletes than spectators to an event that commands a $40,000 budget. Just for the flowers that are planted along the roadsides. So much interest has been generated that thousands of eggs, pears, apples and oranges have been donated to meet the demand of healthy appetites.

While the previous festivals have been held in a single city, the events, which begin July 15, are spread across the state of North Carolina. More than half a dozen businesses have contributed $200,000 each to the project and more than 200 other companies have contributed between $100,000 to $1,000 to the effort. The state's General Assembly, with an appropriation of $800,000 is the largest single contributor.

"As the first state to host an Olympic Sports Festival, we reflect our unity and our own commitment to excellence," said Gov. Jim Martin. "This event provides a rare opportunity to showcase North Carolina and we owe a great deal to the festival's overworked, but high-caliber staff."

"I think there were some people on the Olympic Committee who were skeptical that a multicity thing would be beneficial," said Mike Moran, a media coordinator for the U.S. Olympic Committee. "But (North Carolina) won the bid because it worked hard on it for several years. They had a practical plan, and they've accomplished their goals."

North Carolina considered the festival important enough to complete a 7.7-mile of Interstate 40 between Raleigh and Chapel Hill — not just on time, but earlier than scheduled. A state coast-to-state coast tough run was organized and transportation plans were devised to help travelers. About $12,000 was spent on road signs alone. And college campuses have opened their dormitory doors to help house athletes.

Many of the athletes will eat their meals on those campuses, where food service managers say outfitting the training tables won't be very different from feeding boards of students. At the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, a standard breakfast will consist of 150 dozen eggs, 50 pounds of bacon, 10 pounds of grits and 1,500 biscuits. Athletes can wash that down with 50 gallons of orange juice and 1,500 cartons of milk.

When the first festival was four-day affair held in June 1978 in Colorado Springs, it was called the National Sports Festival. But the name was changed, thanks to television.

"The first festival was so totally unknown that ABC Sports, which had purchased it as a portion of Wide World of Sports, changed the name to the mini Olympics for television viewing," Moran said.

There were 1,500 spectators for the first festival and 1,900 athletes — some of whom were wearing ill-fitting outfits.

"The USOC had put together the meet so fast and so late that there was not time to order all sizes of clothes," Moran said. "They used staple guns to hem up the pants legs and sleeves which were way too long for short athletes. There were 2,000 athletes in the parking lots and no better sizes."

There is a warehouse in North Carolina where thousands of pieces of clothing in all sizes are ready for the athletes participating in the festival.

For the entire month of May, Department of Transportation workers and volunteers planted 53,000 dozen perennials, annuals and wildflowers along the highways leading into Raleigh, Durham and the Research Triangle. The flower beds have been fumigated and fertilized and now workers are watering the plants so they will still put on red, white and blue show for the two weeks of the festival.

"It doesn't do us any good to have the athletes here in July and have the medicine specialists in August or September," said Bill Johnson, the department's head of the landscape unit.

The festival will not only draw athletes. More than 200,000 sports medicine specialists from around the world will attend the U.S. Olympic Festival Congress on Sports Medicine and Science, to be held July 10-15 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and at Duke University.

Foreman's life begins at 38

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Life began at 38 for Archie Moore when he won the world light heavyweight title in 1952. His prize, former world heavyweight champion George Foreman, hopes life will begin again for him at the same age by winning back the title.

"I'm ready to re-establish myself as the champion of the world," said Foreman 38, after stopping Charlie Hestetter in the third round Thursday night. "I would sign today to fight anybody who's recognized as champion, and in six months I'll be ready to fight."

Moore was in Foreman's corner, watching him dispose of Hestetter with powerful left jabs and painful right uppercuts.

"Look at those jabs," Moore said with admiration. "He's got the best jab in the heavyweight division and, oooh, those uppercuts hurt."

It was Foreman's second fight in a comeback attempt. "I preach, and once again he scored an easy knockout over an opponent who hardly threw a punch."

Foreman sent Hestetter to one knee in the first round with a right uppercut to the heart, and knocked him down with another uppercut to the cheek in the third. The referee stopped the fight at 2:01 of the third.

Although it was hardly more than a workout, Foreman felt so flushed with confidence he issued an immediate challenge to World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association champion Mike Tyson.

"I'd like to challenge the Mike Tyson fellow because I don't like these guys running from me," he said. "I like to mix it up. Hit me, knock me down so I can get warm. I want to get into a knock-down, drag-out fight so I can really feel like I'm back in boxing."

Foreman isn't likely to get a shot at the 21-year-old Tyson, though, because he isn't ranked by any of the world boxing authorities.

— Moore, who has been helping to train him, says Foreman is a legitimate contender again, 14 years after he won the title by knocking out Joe Frazier in Jamaica and 13 years after he lost it to Muhammad Ali in Zaire.

"He's the most powerful man in boxing, strength-wise, and he's moving much better now than he's gotten into good shape," Moore said.

Moore knows all about fighting at an advanced age. After he won the light heavyweight title by beating Joey Maxim, he defended it successfully until 1961 when he gave it up.

"That encouraged me a lot," Foreman said of Moore's record. "But when I made my decision almost a year ago to get back into the ring, I never considered age. I knew there were a lot of barriers that could keep a man from becoming what he wanted to be, but the age factor has nothing to do with it. Age cannot stop you, me or anybody. All you've got to do is work."

Foreman, 47-2 with 44 knockouts, still has a lot of work to do if he is to prove his dream is not a delusion. He shed nearly 20 pounds and lost much of his flat since his first comeback bout in March, a four-round knockout of journeyman Steve Zouki.

When he started training nine months ago, Foreman said he weighed over 310 pounds, but he is still more than 20 pounds overweight at 249.

All-star bonuses aren't all good

By The Associated Press

George Brett earned an extra $50,000 when he was named to the American League All-Star team. He doubts he deserves it.

Brett, who is hitting .329 with 7 homers and 30 runs batted in for the Kansas City Royals, was named as a reserve third baseman.

Because of an injured shoulder, Brett has missed about half of Kansas City's game and since his return, he has played first base. By making the All-Star team, he earned $50,000 because of a clause in his contract.

Andre Dawson of the Chicago Cubs has a similar contract clause, and his election by the fans to the National League starting team also earned him $50,000.

Brett, who had started in 11 consecutive All-Star Games, was surprised.

"I already wrote myself off the team. I thought there was no way I would make it," Brett said after he was added to the team Thursday by AL Manager John McNamara and league president Bobby Boner.

"I haven't played third base since May 15 and I don't think that's right. I made it by playing only 10 games at third base in front of guys who played 80."

91—The 56 players who will participate in next Tuesday's game in Oakland will receive $15,000 in bonuses for being selected. They range from $5,000 for Milwaukee reliever Duane Plesac to $50,000 for Brett and Dawson.

But their bonus is nothing compared to the $300,000 pitcher Roger Clemens of the Boston Red Sox lost by failing to make the team — $150,000 this year and $150,000 in his contract for next season. Clemens, the American League's Cy Young Award winner and Most Valuable player last year, held out for most of spring training and is just 7-6 with a 3.70 earned run average.

"I'm not down because I wasn't picked. I have nothing to answer about that," Clemens said. McNamara, the Red Sox manager, added:

"The decision not to pick Clemens was not really difficult. There are people with much better winning records who are available."

One of those was Rick Rhoden of the New York Yankees, who is 1-1, the third highest victory total in the league.

He lost out on a $25,000 bonus as did first baseman Kent Hrbek of the Minnesota Twins, who has 23 homers and 55 RBI. Vince Coleman of the St. Louis Cardinals, who is hitting .205 and leads the major league in stolen bases, missed out on $15,000.

Rhoden claimed that on incident last month when umpires confiscated a ball believed to be scuffed-up contributed to his omission. But Brown, who was at the game, said the umpires were correct, said that he contributed zero to the decision."

"I think Rhoden deserves to be on the team, but we ran out of space," Browns said.

Cards win ninth in row in extra innings over San Francisco

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jack Clark hit a two-run homer with two outs in the 13th inning, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals over the San Francisco Giants 7-5 Friday night for their ninth straight victory.

Clark's home run with Tommy Herr on base came off Craig Lefferts' 2-3, after St. Louis scrambled back to tie the game 5-5 in the 12th. It was the 31st time the Cardinals have come from behind to win, extending their longest victory streak since winning 12 in a row in 1982.

Lee Tunnell, 43, pitched the 13th for St. Louis to gain the victory and maintain the Cardinals' lead in the National League East at 9 1/2 games.

Clark's homer gave him a major league-leading 85 RBIs. The St. Louis outfielder had a run-scoring single in the first inning.

Chris Spivey hit his eighth homer of the season with one out in the Giants' 12th off Cardinal reliever Pat Perry, but St. Louis rebounded in the bottom of the inning to tie the game.

Tommy Herr walked and made it to third on Clark's single off Mike Cozza, who was San Francisco's fourth pitcher. Willie McGee doubled off Craig Lefferts to score Herr. But Clark was out on the plate on Tony Peña's one-out grounder to second, and Lefferts retired Lance Johnson on a grounder to the mound.

Cubs 12, Dodgers 5

CHICAGO (AP) — Dave Martinez hit a tying RBI double in the ninth inning and the Chicago Cubs' Los Angeles Dodgers game Friday was suspended because of rain and darkness with the score 12-5.

Play will resume before Saturday's regularly scheduled game with the Cubs batting in the ninth inning with two outs and a runner on third base.

Earlier Friday, the Cubs beat the Dodgers 12-3 in the completion of a game suspended Thursday in the sixth inning because of darkness. Rick Stultie became the first 12-game winner in the National League as neither team scored after the resumption.

National League

The Dodgers led 4-3 entering the ninth before Jim Sundberg led off with a Manny Trillo drew a walk from Ken Howell, pinch-hitter Gary Matthews struck out as rain-started, and Martinez followed with a double that scored Sundberg, but Trillo was thrown out at the plate.

At that point, the game was halted by rain for 91 minutes before being suspended by darkness.

Saturday will be the fourth time in five days the Dodgers have played consecutive doubleheaders in St. Louis on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Phils 5, Braves 2

ATLANTA (AP) — Shane Rawley and Steve Brodrick combined on a six-hitter and Mill Thompson and Juan Samuel homered Friday as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Atlanta Braves 5-2.

Rawley, 10-5, gave up two runs on four hits in seven innings. Brodrick finished for his major league-leading 24th save.

Thompson hit a two-run homer and Samuel connected for a solo shot. Mike Schmidt hit a pair of run-scoring singles.

Thompson doubled and scored on Schmidt's single in the first inning. Thompson hit his third homer of the season in the third off Doyle Alexander, 4-5, after Samuel walked.

Samuel walked in the seventh, Thompson singled and Schmidt hit another RBI single.

Gary Roenicke hit a solo home run, his fourth, in the Atlanta fourth. The Braves got within 3-2 in the sixth as second on a out-out walk to Dale Murphy and later scored on Ken Griffey's sacrifice fly.

Alexander, losing his fourth consecutive start, allowed 10 hits, walked three and struck out five in seven innings.

Expos 5, Reds 1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Andres Galarraga hit a single, double and triple and drove in two runs Friday night to support Bryn Smith's six-hit pitching and lead the Montreal Expos 5-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The win ended Montreal's streak of eight consecutive losses to the Reds' Montreal '85 against Cincinnati this season and hadn't defeated the Reds since July 24, 1986.

Smith, 6-3, struck out two and walked one in his second complete game, defusing Reds' scoring threats in three of the first four innings. He lost his shutout when Eric Davis hit a solo homer in the sixth, his 27th of the season, making his career-high of 27 years.

Galarraga doubled home a run in the fourth and singled home a run as part of a three-run sixth off left-hander Tom Browning, 5-7. Galarraga later tripled in the eighth and scored on a single by Vance Law off reliever Frank Williams.

Pirates 6, Padres 5

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Ray doubled home the winning run with two outs in the 11th inning to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 win over the San Diego Padres Friday night.

Pinch-hitter Bobby Bonilla started the inning with a single off Rich Gossage, 1-2. Ray sliced a double down the left field line to score Bonilla and end the Pirates' third consecutive extra-inning game.

Don Robinson, 6-5, earned the victory despite allowing John Kruk's game-tying home run with two-out in the ninth inning.

Pirates' reliever John Smiley retired the first two batters in the ninth inning, but was lifted by Manager Jim Leyland when Bruce Bochy was announced as a pinch-hitter. When Robinson entered the game, Kruk batted for Bochy and hit Robinson's 1-1 pitch over the left field wall for his 10th home run.

Earlier, Andy Van Slyke drove in four runs to help the Pirates take a 5-4 lead into the ninth. Van Slyke singled off Mark Davis in the seventh inning to score Bobby Bonds from second base and break a 4-4 tie. The Pirates trailed 4-3 when Felix Fermin led off with a walk against Jimmy Jones and, one out later, Bonds hit his second double to tie the score.

Mets 7, Astros 2

HOUSTON (AP) — Kevin McReynolds hit two home runs and a single, extending his major league-hitting streak to 14 games, to lead the New York Mets to a 7-2 win over the Houston Astros Friday night.

McReynolds' homers, his 15th and 16th of the season, came off loser Mike Scott, 10-5, who lasted 5 2-3 innings, yielding seven runs on 11 hits.

Dwight Gooden, 6-2, struck out five and walked three in 8 2/3 innings for the victory. He needed last-out relief help from Jesse Orosco, who squelched a bases-loaded situation in the eighth.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the second when Kevin Bass walked, took third on a single by Jose Cruz and scored on a wild pitch by Gooden. The Mets tied the score in that inning when Steve Garvey hit a two-out double and came home on a single by Billy Backman.

McReynolds gave the Mets the lead with a solo shot in the fourth that sailed well over the left field wall.

McReynolds' second homer came in the seventh, highlighted the Mets' five-run sixth. Darryl Strawberry singled and scored ahead of McReynolds. Howard Johnson followed with his 17th home run of the season.

Saxvik tops junior meet

TWIN FALLS — Eric Saxvik's two-over par 70 pretty well dominated things Friday in the Twin Falls Stop of the Magic Valley Junior Golf Series.

Saxvik, a 17-year-old, had a fine time out from playing in the state amateur tournament's first flight in Jerome this week, had a 13-stroke edge on runner-up Chad Wington in the 16-17 boys division. Randy Alexander and Jacques Zahn knotted at 85.

Scores by day division include:

Boys
7-under — 1. Beau Irvine, 52; Aaron Mays, 53; Nick Lewis and Matt Godfrey 52; 49-Nick Holtzcler, 48; Bryce McCreary 52; 3-Adam McCreary 56; 10-11, Pat Sires, 47; Matt Smith 47; 12-Vernon Hester 52; 13-14, Jason Huerter 48; Randy Slinger and Bobby McCreary 52; 14-15-Shane Burton 72; 21-Camp 73; Brian Hargraves 4; 2-Jody Hirst 80.

Girls
8-9 — 1. Whitney Lewis 43; Erin Sires 43; 2. Tina Slinger 51; 12-13-Mandy Patterson 54; 2. Elizabeth Kenyon 61; Karen Conant 74; 14-15-Tara Cantrell 49; 2. Kristin Barnes 55.

Vintage cars on display

TWIN FALLS — Members of Magic Valley Early Iron will put their vintage automobiles on display from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday at city park, part of the group's annual two-day road tour.

Breland out-puts Rondon

SANTA MARGHERITA DI PULA, Sardinia (AP) — World Golf Association welterweight champion Mark Breland outpunched Venezuelan Juan Rondon in a 10-round non-title match early Saturday.

From the start, the unbeaten 24-year-old from Brooklyn pounded Rondon with his powerful left hand, showing no effects from a March operation to fix a sore tendon in his hand. Breland knocked down his outclassed opponent late in the third round with a devastating right to the mid-section, but Rondon, 19-4, quickly recovered and fought defensively for the rest of the bout.

While he ended his fight overseas with a record of 17 wins, 12 by knockouts, said his objective was to "keep a steady pace."

"I feel good... I think my condition is improving," he said.

Cols can't sign Bennett

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chances are slim the Indianapolis Colts will sign rookie linebacker Cornelius Bennett before July 24, starting of NFL training camp, says General Manager Jim Irsay, refusing to link the negotiations with the status of Seattle's Brian Bosworth.

Irsay said he spoke last week with Bennett's agent, Richard Woods, and both sides seemed pleased with the progress.

"Basically, they said, 'Here's what we want.' We said, 'You got it,' Irsay told the Indianapolis News. "Then they called us back and added something extra."

"They wanted us to tie it to whatever Bosworth got (from Seattle). But Bosworth has nothing to do with our negotiations."

Bennett, the Colts' No. 1 draft pick, reportedly had been offered $3 million plus incentives for a five-year contract, the News said.

"Everything is off the table," Irsay told the newspaper Thursday night.

Cavs fight voiding of trade

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers will fight an effort of the Portland Trail Blazers to void a draft-day trade that sent Cleveland forward Keith Lee to Portland for guard Jim Paxson.

In a brief statement released Friday, Wayne Embury, Cavaliers general manager, said the trade was advised by the NBA that Portland is attempting to void the trade.

The deal reportedly was contingent on Lee's passing a physical exam administered by the Portland team doctor. Portland contends a condition in Lee's knees endangers his playing career.

Orioles release Burleson

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles released infielder Rick Burleson Friday as part of a continuing shakeup of their roster.

Burleson, 36, played in 62 games this season for the Orioles, primarily at second base. He hit .209 with 14 RBIs and two home runs, while making six errors.

Burleson, who was signed to a one-year contract plus an option in January, told a television station after his release that he is considering retiring.

He originally signed with the Boston Red Sox, but spent the last six years with the California Angels.

Cards lose another pitcher

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, front-runners in the National League East despite a number of injuries to their pitching staff, received another jolt Friday when they learned that right-hander Danny Cox suffered a bone injury Thursday night when hit by a line drive by Mike Aldrete in the seventh inning of a game against the San Francisco Giants.

"The ball bounced off Cox' foot back to catcher Tony Pena, who threw Aldrete out at first base," Cox said.

"If anything good came out of it, at least we got him out," Cox said.

Cox, the Cardinals' most reliable starter with an 8-3 record, said he was appointed by the roll of events.

"I was throwing the ball real well and the team was playing real well," he said. "When it gets better, I'm going to go out there and hopefully pick up where I left off."

Cubs trade with Seattle

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs on Friday traded left-hander Gary Mathews to the Seattle Mariners in exchange for a minor-league player to be named later.

"He's a great competitor," said Chicago Manager Gene Michael. "He'll do a fine job for them. He didn't get a chance here."

Mathews, one of the standout players of the Cubs' divisional championship team in 1984, had been relegated to a pinch-hitting role this year. Nine of his 13 at-bats were pinch hits.

"I'm happy about the trade and about being given a chance to play," Mathews said after the trade was made. "But, I'll always have warm memories of 1984."

Surgery on both knees has slowed Mathews in the field and he is expected to be used as a designated hitter with Seattle.

McEnroe rejoins Davis Cup team

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, who missed Wimbledon last year because of a bad back, will play with the U.S. Davis Cup team for the first time since 1984 in its critical match with West Germany next Friday.

U.S. Tennis Association announced Friday.

McEnroe was one of five players named by Captain Tom Corbett to the team that will meet West Germany July 24-26 in Hartford, Conn., in a match that will determine if the United States will get to play for the Davis Cup next year.

The United States already has been eliminated from this year's competition because of a 3-2 loss to Paraguay. And if they lost to West Germany, the Americans into a second-round bracket next year and make them ineligible for the Cup they have won 28 times since 1900.

John McEnroe on the squad will be Paul Annacone, Tim Mayotte and the doubles team of Ken Flach and Robert Seguso.

McEnroe, once the world's top-ranked player, last played for the United States when he lost to Sweden in the 1984 final. After missing most of a year off from tennis, he returned last year and currently is ranked No. 10 on the Association of Tennis Professionals' Computer.

Reynolds blazes to 400-meter victory

LONDON (AP) — American Butch Reynolds, making his first overseas appearance, beat a high-quality field in the 400-meter run Friday at the IAAF-World Track and Field Grand Prix.

Reynolds stormed around the Crystal Palace track in 44.35 seconds, the second-fastest time in the world this year and the fastest ever run in Europe.

The 23-year-old from Akron, Ohio, who also won this year's best time of 44.10, adapted effortlessly to European conditions and said the victory boosted his confidence for the world championships in Rome in September.

"It gives me great confidence for Rome," Reynolds said, "just running in Europe is very big for me."

Reynolds, who beat a high-class field that included world champion Bert Cameron of Jamaica, said he would not to break Lee Evans' world record of 43.86 seconds before the end of this year.

Evans' name has stood since the 1960 Mexico City Olympics, but Reynolds said: "The world championship would record are my main aim. I'll probably run about six more races before."

Another American, Johnny Gray, who owns the fastest time in the 800 meters this year, finished last in the event, 20 meters behind the rest of the field.

At first, there was speculation that Gray had been spiked but countryman Stanley Redwine, who came third, said this was not the case.

"Johnny had only just found out that he was running the 800," Redwine said. "You need time to adjust."

Gray later started 1,500 meters, but acted as pacesetter and stepped out of the race after the first lap.

The capacity crowd of 16,500, disappointed by the late withdrawal of British middle-distance star Steve Cram, had hoped to witness a special performance by another Briton, sprinter Roland Christie, the European 100-meter champion.

But Christie got off to a poor start and wound up a badly beaten third.

"I ran rubbish," said Christie, who holds the world's second-best time this year with a clocking of 10.03 and is one of Canadian Ben Johnson's biggest rivals for the gold medal at the world championships.

"I'm very disappointed. I feel I let the crowd down. I'm not injured, just a little tired. But I know I'll come back again," he said.

At Busch Open

Simpson dreams up a new way to putt

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Tom Simpson, crediting a new approach to putting he said came to him in a dream, shot a 6-under-par 65 Friday to take the one-stroke lead after the second round of the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

Simpson started on the back nine, where he posted in four straight birdie putts, and carded three more birdies after marking the turn.

His two-day total was 132, 10 under par on the 6,776-yard Kingsmill Golf Club course.

"It's good to be playing well again," said Simpson, whose only PGA Tour win came at the 1985 Southern Open.

"What I was doing wrong, believe it or not, came to me in a dream. I was in a dream of the U.S. Open," said Simpson. The 31-year-old resident of Dunwoody, Ga., said he did not want to divulge the specific nature of the dream "because somebody might use it this week to beat me."

"I really don't want to say exactly what it is, but it relates to the most aspects of putting," Simpson added.

Closest to Simpson at 133 were first-round leader Tom Weir and Tom Simmon, John Cook and Scott Hoch.

Sieckmann, winless in 10 years on the PGA Tour, followed at 135 with a round 65 with a 68. Cook shot a 67 and Hoch carded a 66.

Mark McCumber, who shared the first-round lead with Sieckmann, had a 69 and joined Dave Eichelberger and Steve Patz at 8-under 134 going into Saturday's third round of the $102,000 tournament, which carries a $110,000 first prize.

Bobby Clampett, Mike Sullivan and Tom Weir followed at 135, with Jay Don Blake, Wayne Hatcher and Jim Gallagher another shot back at 136.

Chi Chi's second 68 extends seniors lead

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez, winner of five tournaments already this year, shot his second straight 68 Friday to take a one-stroke lead at the midway point of the Senior Open.

Former NFL quarterback John Brodie was in front by as many as three strokes after the first two holes, but Rodriguez won the final two holes.

Brodie, who finished with a 70, dropped into a tie for second place with Gary Player who closed his round with birdie putts in 18 holes, where he rolled in four straight birdies to end with a stroke behind at 69.

Arnold Palmer shot his second straight 69 with two strokes back at 128.

The par-71, 6,599-yard Brookline Country Club course yielded 30 sub-par rounds through the first two holes, with a smash the four-round Senior Open record of 21 rounds under par set last year.

"Of course, the U.S. doesn't like those low scores," Rodriguez said. "Tomorrow, they'll probably put those flags in sand traps."

Rodriguez, 51, had six birdies and three bogeys as he took advantage of Brodie's misfortune on the final two holes.

"This is about the only time in your life you're going to see a jockey taking down a horse," said the slightly-built Rodriguez joked.

Brodie, who had a 4-under 67 in the opening round, picked up where he left off as he pursued his first victory.

The former all-pro with the San Francisco 49ers had four birdies and no bogeys until the last two holes, both par-4s. He called his second shot on No. 18, which went into a sand trap, the worst shot of his life.

"I guess that's what happens when you're paying your dues," he said. "I tried to hit a cute little seven iron. I won't do that again."

But Brodie, who is also 51, said he was pleased to be among the leaders heading into the final two rounds.

"That's been my objective, to play with these players. You're not at the back of the pack," he said.

High heat and humidity blanketed the course in haze for the second straight day, leaving most of the over-50 field fatigued and sweaty.

But Player, who does 30 situps a day, marched ahead of his group in the same manner he did 20 years ago.

"I enjoy the heat," the 31-year-old South African native said, "and you get over 50 everyone wants to get those bugs loosened up a little bit."

The first round co-leader, five-time British Open champion Peter Thomson and little-known Gordon Jones, both faltered.

Tommy Aaron, who shot a 2-2, Thompson, who remained three strokes behind Rodriguez in a group, with Doug Sanders, Don Massengale and Bobby Nichols.

He scrambled with an early-morning round that included four bogeys, one birdie and a couple of saves.

"Generally speaking, I was not nearly as good as I was yesterday," he said. "I'm not an early-morning player and having gone away with 75 I'm frustrated."

Jones, who hasn't won in 30 years of professional golf, ballooned to a 75 after his speech went at 125, with Jay Don Blake, Wayne Hatcher and Jim Gallagher another shot back at 136.

With himself, Rodriguez and Player coming on strong, Palmer, the oldest of the leaders at 59, remarked, "It's the same people I've played with my entire career. Gary and Chi Chi a little later on, you couldn't write one any better."

Player, who captured his first victory of 1987 a month ago in the Senior Tourament Players Championship, said preparing for major tournaments is "something you have to do mentally."

"My handicap is, we have only learned to use 10 percent of our capabilities, so it's an adjustment you have to make in your mind."

Rodriguez, who leads the Senior Tour with $274,153 in earnings, got into four straight tournaments he entered during one stretch, noted he would be playing his third round in 1987, a "bosome behind Palmer and Brodie."

"I think it's fantastic, Brodie, Arnold, Player and me," Rodriguez said. "I just hope Arnie doesn't take any more fans with him. I call my folks Arnie's leftovers."

that snipped a 122-race winning streak which stretched back almost 10 years.

"I'm a professional, I won 122 races and one defeat won't stop my incentive," Moses said. "Home is my main aim. I'll probably run about six more races before."

Another American, Johnny Gray, who owns the fastest time in the 800 meters this year, finished last in the event, 20 meters behind the rest of the field.

At first, there was speculation that Gray had been spiked but countryman Stanley Redwine, who came third, said this was not the case.

The capacity crowd of 16,500, disappointed by the late withdrawal of British middle-distance star Steve Cram, had hoped to witness a special performance by another Briton, sprinter Roland Christie, the European 100-meter champion.

But Christie got off to a poor start and wound up a badly beaten third.

"I ran rubbish," said Christie, who holds the world's second-best time this year with a clocking of 10.03 and is one of Canadian Ben Johnson's biggest rivals for the gold medal at the world championships.

"I'm very disappointed. I feel I let the crowd down. I'm not injured, just a little tired. But I know I'll come back again," he said.

Okamoto's late birdies earn two-stroke margin

LAVAL, Quebec (AP) — Ayako Okamoto of Japan birdied three of the last four holes Friday to win the LPGA Tour's first women's two-stroke lead after two rounds of the $400,000, 60 Maurier Classic, the Canadian stop on the LPGA Tour.

Okamoto, who shot a 65 to lead after the first round, matched par over the first 14 holes, but rode a hot putter on the last four holes to finish the first 36 holes at 10-under-par 64.

Jill Briles, who shot her second consecutive 68, was alone in second at 136. Kathy Postelwald also had a 68 and was at 137, while first-round runner-up Shirley Furlong could only match par 72 and dropped into a group of five players tied at 139.

Okamoto was playing consistent but unimpressive golf until she birdied the par-4 14th hole with a 20-foot putt to go 8-under.

She then rolled in a three-foot putt to truncate the par-5, 489-yard 16th hole, and sank another 20-footer for a birdie on 18.

"I was leaving my putts maybe three feet short on almost every hole on the front nine," said Okamoto, the third-leading LPGA money-winner in 1987.

"Finally, on the back nine, I moved my feet a little closer to the ball. I didn't worry about not making my putts on the front nine, I was just hitting the ball good from the tee."

Briles, 24, benefited from playing in the morning, before the temperature soared into the mid-90s. She finished with six birdies and two bogeys.

"I'm hitting everything a little better," especially my driver," said Briles, who had her best LPGA finish ever last weekend when she finished second in the Jamie Farr-Toledo Open.

Furlong blamed a lack of concentration for her second-day falter. "I was satisfied with her position."

"I'm in a position to make a move," she said.

Defending champion Pat Bradley, going after her third du Maurier Classic victory, was eight strokes back after a 72-68 on Friday.

Seventy-four professionals and two amateurs scheduled the cut at one o'clock on Saturday.

"I was leaving my putts maybe three feet short on almost every hole on the front nine," said Okamoto, the third-leading LPGA money-winner in 1987.

Saxvik tops junior meet

TWIN FALLS — Eric Saxvik's two-over par 70 pretty well dominated things Friday in the Twin Falls shot of the Magic Valley Junior Golf Series.

Saxvik, Burlington, taking time out from playing in the state amateur tournament's first flight in Jerome this week, had a 12-stroke edge on competition in the 19-17 boys division. Handy Alexander and Jacque Zahn knotted at 85.

Scores by age division include:

Boys
7-under — 1. Beau Barry, 25; Aaron Saxvik, 26; Nick Lewis and Matt Godfrey 22; 8-9 — Nick Holtzinger 48; Joyce McEwen 48; Adam McEwen 56; 10-11 — Pat Siles 42; Matt Smith 47; Preston Hill 23; 12-13 — Justin Asturias 85; Jason Hunkeler 86; Handy Alexander 85; 14-15 — Shane Burton 72; Tim Cappa 72; Brian Reed 79; 16-17 — Jody Hirsch 27.

Girls
8-9 — 1. Whitney Lewis 45; Erin Siles 44; 2. Nikki Stover 51; 12-13 — Mandy Patterson 54; 2. Elizabeth Kemm 64; 3. Karen Conant 74; 14-15 — Tara Campbell 62; 2. Kristin Barnes 55.

Vintage cars on display

TWIN FALLS — Members of Magic Valley Early Iron will put their vintage automobiles on display from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday at city park, part of the group's annual two-day road run.

Brelaud out-puts Rondon

SANTA MARGHERITA DI PULA, Sardinia (AP) — World Boxing Association welterweight champion Mark Brelaud outpointed Venezuelan Juan Rondon in a 10-round non-title match early Saturday.

Brelaud started the unbeaten 24-year-old from Brooklyn pounded Rondon with his powerful left hand, showing no effects from a March operation to fix a sore tendon in his hand. Brelaud knocked down his outclassed opponent late in the third round with a devastating right to the midsection, but Rondon, 34-4, quickly recovered and fought bravely for the rest of the bout.

Brelaud, who entered his first fight overseas with a record of 17 wins, 12 by knockouts, said his objective was to "keep a steady pace."

"I feel good ... I think my condition is improving," he said.

Colts can't sign Bennett

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chances are slim the Indianapolis Colts will sign rookie linebacker Cornelius Bennett before the July 24 start of NFL training camp, says General Manager Jim Irsay, refusing to link the negotiations with the status of Seattle's Brian Bosworth.

Irsay said he spoke last week with Bennett's agent, Richard Woods, and both sides seemed pleased with the progress.

"Basically, they said, 'Here's what we want,'" he said. "We got it. Irsay told the Indianapolis News. "Then they called us back and added something extra."

"They wanted us to tie it to whatever Bosworth got (from Seattle). But Bosworth has nothing to do with our signing of Bennett," the Colts' general manager reportedly had been offered $3 million plus incentives for a five-year contract, the News said.

"Everything is off the table," Irsay told the newspaper Thursday night.

Cavs fight voiding of trade

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers will fight an effort of the Portland Trail Blazers to void a draft-day trade that sent Cleveland forward Keith Lee to Portland for guard Jim Paxson.

In a brief statement released Friday, Wayne Embrey, Cavaliers general manager, said he was advised by the NBA that Portland is attempting to void the trade.

The deal reportedly was contingent on Lee's passing a physical exam administered by the Portland team doctor. Portland contends a condition in Lee's knees endangers his playing career.

Orioles release Burleson

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles released infielder Rick Burleson Friday as part of a continuing shakeup of their roster.

Burleson, 26, played in 62 games this season for the Orioles, primarily at second base. He hit .209 with 14 RBIs and two home runs while making six errors.

Burleson, who was signed to a one-year contract plus an option in January, told a television station after his release that he is considering retiring.

He recently signed with the Boston Red Sox, but spent the last six years with the California Angels.

Cards lose another pitcher

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, front-runners in the National League East despite a number of injuries to their pitching staff, received another jolt Friday when they learned that right-hander Danny McLeary had a bone injury Thursday night when hit by a line drive by Mike Aldrate in the seventh inning of a game against the San Francisco Giants.

The ball bounced off Cox's foot, back to catcher Tony Peña, who then threw it at McLeary's head.

"If anything good came out of it, at least we got him out," Cox said.

Cox, the Cardinals' most reliable starter with an 8-3 record, said he was disappointed by the turn of events.

"I was throwing the ball real well and the team was playing real well," he said. "When it gets better, I'm going to go out there and hopefully pick up where I left off."

Cubs trade with Seattle

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs on Friday traded left-fielder Gary Matthews to the Seattle Mariners in exchange for a minor-league player.

"He's a great competitor," said Chicago Manager Gene Michael. "He'll do a fine job for them. He didn't get a chance here."

Matthews, one of the standout players of the Cubs' divisional championship team in 1984, had been relegated to a pinch-hitting role this year. Nine of his 13 hits were pinch hits.

"I'm happy about the trade and about being given a chance to play," Matthews said after the trade was made. "But, I'll always have warm memories of 1984."

Surgery on both knees has slowed Matthews in the field and he is expected to be used as a designated hitter with Seattle.

McEnroe rejoins Davis Cup team

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, who missed Wimbledon with a bad back, will play with the U.S. Davis Cup team at the first time since 1984 in its critical match with West Germany next month, the U.S. Tennis Association announced Friday.

McEnroe was one of five players named by Captain Tom Gorman to the team that will meet West Germany July 24-26 in London. Gorman said a match that will determine if the United States will get to play for the Davis Cup next year.

The United States already has been eliminated from this year's competition because it lost to Paraguay. Another loss would drop the Americans into a consolation bracket next year and make them ineligible for the Cup they have won 28 times since 1900.

Joining McEnroe on the squad will be Paul Anacona, Tim Mayotte and the doubles team of Ken Flach and Robert Seguso.

McEnroe, once the world's top-ranked player, last played for the United States when it lost to Sweden in the 1984 final. After taking most of a year off from tennis, he returned last year and currently is ranked No. 10 on the Association of Tennis Professionals Computer.

Reynolds blazes to 400-meter victory

LONDON (AP) — American Butch Reynolds, making his first overseas appearance, beat a high-quality field of 400-meter runners Friday at the IAAF-Mobil Track and Field Grand Prix meet.

Reynolds stormed around the Crystal Palace track in 44.15 seconds, the second-fastest time in the world this year and the fastest ever run in Europe.

The 23-year-old from Akron, Ohio, who also owns this year's best time of 44.10, adapted effortlessly to European conditions and said the victory boosted his confidence for the world championships in Rome in September.

"It gives me great confidence for Rome," Reynolds said. "Just running in Europe is very big for me."

Reynolds, who beat a high-class field that included world champion

Bert Cameron of Jamaica, said he was out to break Lee Evans' world record of 43.25 seconds before the end of this year.

Evans' mark has stood since the 1968 Mexico City Olympics, but Reynolds and fellow American Edwin Moses and the world record are my two goals. The record could go soon. I'm positive it will come while I'm in Europe.

No world records were set on the warm, humid night, but Reynolds and fellow American Edwin Moses turned in impressive performances.

Moses, the world's greatest 400-meter hurdler, won his event in 47.54 seconds, the third-fastest time in the world this year and just below his 1987 best of 47.69.

The 31-year-old American said he no longer thought about his defeat by Danny Harris in May, a loss that snipped a 122-race winning streak which stretched back almost 10 years.

"I'm a professional. I won 122 races and one defeat won't stop my incentive," Moses said. "Rome is my main aim. I'll probably run about six more races before."

Another American, Johnny Gray, who owns the fastest time in the 600 meters, was again the last in the event, 20 meters behind the rest of the field.

At first, there was speculation that Gray had been spiked but counter of Stanley Tedone, who came third, said this was not the case.

"Johnny had only just found out that he was running the 600," Tedone said. "You need time to adjust."

Gray later started 1:50.00 meters, but acted as pacemaker and stepped out of the race after the first lap.

The capacity crowd of 16,500, disappointed by the late withdrawal of British middle-distance star Steve Crompton, had hoped to witness a special performance by another Briton, sprinter Linford Christie, the European 100-meter champion.

But Christie set out at a poor start and wound up a badly beaten third.

"I ran rubbish," said Christie, who holds the world's second-best time this year with a clocking of 10.03 and is one of Canadian Ben Johnson's biggest rivals for the gold medal at the world championships.

"I'm very disappointed. I feel I let the crowd down. I'm not injured. I'm a little tired. But I know I'll come back again," he said.

At Busch Open—

Simpson dreams up a new way to putt

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Tim Simpson, crediting a new approach to putting he said came to him in a dream, shot a 6-under par 65 Friday to take a one-stroke lead after the second round of the Anheuser-Busch Golf Series.

Simpson started on the back nine, where he rolled in four straight birdie putts—and earned three more—before making the turn.

His 65 was 232, 10 under par on the 6,776-yard Kingsmill Golf Club course.

"It's good to be playing well again," said Simpson, whose only victory in 11 years on the PGA Tour came at the 1985 Southern Open.

"What I was doing wrong, believe it or not, came to me in a dream after the first round of the U.S. Open," said Simpson. The 31-year-old resident of Dunwoody, Ga., said he did not want to divulge the specific nature of the dream "because somebody might use it this week to beat me."

"I really don't want to say exactly what it is but ... It relates to the mental aspects of putting," Simpson added.

Second to Simpson at 133 were first-round co-leader Tom Seickmann, John Cook and Scott Hoch.

Seickmann, winless in 10 years on the PGA Tour, followed his opening round 65 with a 68. Cook shot a 67 and Hoch carded a 66.

Mark McCumber, who shared the first-round lead with Seickmann, had a 69 and joined Dave Eichelberger and Steve Pate at Sunday 124 going into Saturday's third round, which carries a $110,000 first prize.

Clarey Clappett, 135, with Jay Don Blake, Vance Heafner and Jim Gallagher another shot back at 136.

Seventy-five of the 156 golfers survived the cut, which was set at 147. Among those who missed was defending champion Fuzzy Zoeller, who shot a 143.

Simpson parred his first hole, No. 1, and bogged the 11th before bouncing back with birdie putts on 15, 2, 7 and 8 feet on the next four holes. He didn't get into trouble until No. 5, 6 and 7.

Simpson nearly carded the par-3 fifth hole when his 6-iron rolled to within six inches of the hole.

"I have been the most negative person out here for the last 10 years about my putting," Simpson said, finally deciding to stop beating on myself.

The temperature, which had reached 90 degrees on Thursday, was lower throughout the day Friday and a steady breeze also helped make playing conditions more comfortable.

"It was actually quite a bit cooler out today," Seickmann said.

Calvin Peete, the Anheuser-Busch's only two-time winner, puzzled tournament officials Thursday when he failed to show up for his starting time or notify them of his withdrawal.

Peete's wife, Christine, was reached by telephone Friday at the couple's home in Fort Myers, Fla., and told The Associated Press her husband had not realized he was committed to play there. "I just found out he was committed. I'm drafting a letter now to send his apology."

Three weeks ago, Peete failed to appear scheduled at the Monte Carlo Open. On that occasion, he cited problems with obtaining a visa and connecting flights.

Chi Chi's second 68 extends seniors lead

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez, winner of five tournaments already this year, shot his second straight 68 Friday to take a one-stroke lead at the midway point of the U.S. Senior Open.

Former NFL quarterback John Brodie was in front by as many as six strokes at the start of the bogey-double-bogey on his final two holes.

Brodie, who finished with a 70, dropped into a tie for second place with Gary Player who closed his round with birdie putts in 18 and 19 behind a 68. They were a stroke behind a 69.

Arnold Palmer shot his second straight 69 with two strokes back at 118.

The par-71, 6,599-yard Brookline Country Club course yielded 35 sub-par rounds through the first two rounds to smash the four-round Senior Open record of 31 rounds under par set last year.

"You know the PGA doesn't like those low scores," Rodriguez said. "Tomorrow, they'll probably put those flags in sand traps."

Rodriguez, 51, hit six birdies and three bogeys as he took advantage of Brodie's misfortune on the final two holes.

"This is about the only time in your life you're going to see a jockey take a down the back," Rodriguez, the slightly-built Rodriguez joked.

Brodie, who had a 4-under 67 in the opening round, picked up where he left off as he pursued his first pro victory.

The former all-pro with the San Francisco 49ers had four birdies and no bogeys until the last two holes, both par-5s. He called his second shot on No. 18, which went into a sand trap, the worst shot of his life.

"I guess that's what happens when you're paying your dues," he said. "I tried to hit a cute little seven iron ... I won't do that again."

But Brodie, who is also 51, said he was pleased to be among the leaders heading into the final two rounds.

"That's been my objective, to play with these players. You know when you're with them, you're not at the back of the pack," he said.

High heat and humidity blanketed the course in haze for the second straight day, leaving most of the over-50 field fatigued and sweaty.

But, Player, who does 300 slumps a day, marched ahead of the 200-year-old in a manner he did 20 years ago.

"I enjoy the heat," the 51-year-old South African native said. "I certainly don't care if you want to get those bugs loosened up a little bit."

Clarey Clappett, five-time British Open champion, Peter Thomson and little-known Gordon Jones, both faltered.

Clarey Clappett, 51, shot a 67, but was 73 but remained three strokes behind Rodriguez in a group with Doug Sanders, Don Mussangale and Tom Seickmann.

He scrambled with an early-morning round that included four bogeys, one birdie and a couple of saves.

"Generally speaking, I was not nearly as good as 'I was yesterday,'" he said. "I'm not an early-morning golfer. I've just gotten away with it. I'm quite pleased."

Jones, who hasn't won in 30 years of professional golf, ballooned to a 75 after his opening round of 66.

With himself, Rodriguez and Player coming on strong, Palmer, the oldest of the leaders at 65, remained in the same people I've played with my entire career. Gary and Chi Chi a little later on."

"If you wanted a script, you continued to use it to percent of his first victory of 1987 a month ago in the World Championship Players Championship, said preparing for major tournaments is "something you have to do mentally."

"As Einstein said, we have only learned to use 10 percent of our capabilities, so it's an adjustment you have to make in your mind."

Rodriguez, who leads the Senior Tour with $274,133 in earnings and leads in four straight tournaments he entered during one stretch, noted he would be playing his third round in the twosome behind Palmer and Brodie.

"I'm in it fantastic, Brodie, Arnold, Player and me," Rodriguez said. "I just hope Arnie doesn't take all my fans with him. I call my gallery Arnie's leftovers."

Okamoto's late birdies earn two-stroke margin

LAVAL, Quebec (AP) — Ayako Okamoto of Japan birdied three even-par 142, among those who missed was defending champion Fuzzy Zoeller, who shot a 143.

Simpson parred his first hole, No. 1, and bogged the 11th before bouncing back with birdie putts on 15, 2, 7 and 8 feet on the next four holes. He didn't get into trouble until No. 5, 6 and 7.

Simpson nearly carded the par-3 fifth hole when his 6-iron rolled to within six inches of the hole.

Three weeks ago, Peete failed to appear scheduled at the Monte Carlo Open. On that occasion, he cited problems with obtaining a visa and connecting flights.

Okamoto, who shot a 65-to lead after the first round, matched her par over the first 14 holes, but rode a hot putter on the last four holes to finish the first 36 holes in 104, a 134.

She finished with six birdies, better, especially my driver," said Briles, who had her best LPGA finish ever last weekend when she tied for second in the Jamie Farr-Toledo Open.

Furlong blamed a lack of concentration for her second-day loss. "I was not satisfied with her position."

"I'm in a position to make a move," she said.

Pat Bradley, going after her third du Maurier—Classic victory was with a 29-foot putt to go 8-under.

She then rolled in a three-foot putt to birdie the par-5, 488-yard 16th hole, and sank another 20-footer to finish at 104.

"I was leaving my putts maybe three feet short on almost every hole on the front nine," said Okamoto, the third-leading LPGA money-winner in 1987.

"Finally, after the back nine, I moved my feet a little closer to the ball. I didn't worry about making my putts on the front nine because I was hitting the ball good from the tee."

Briles, 24, benefited from playing in the morning when the temperature soared into the mid-90s. She finished with six birdies and two bogeys.

"I'm hitting everything a little better, especially my driver," said Briles, who had her best LPGA finish ever last weekend when she tied for second in the Jamie Farr-Toledo Open.

Inflation report helps stocks post gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market piced through a small gain Friday, overcoming periodic bouts of better-than-expected inflation news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 4.78 to 2,435.99, closing out the week with a net gain of 19.25 points.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowed to 172.13 million shares from 195.40 million in the previous session.

Before the opening, the Labor Department reported that the producer price index of finished goods rose 0.9 percent in June, coming in below most advance estimates on Wall Street.

The news was warmly received in the credit markets. Hikes of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, as much as 15 for each 1/16 in face value.

Traders viewed the data as further evidence that last spring's inflation scare in the financial world was probably unwarranted.

Nevertheless, analysts said many market participants remained wary, fearing that Thursday's decline in the bond clubs might have marked the start of at least a short-term retreat.

While the general market was making little progress, a good many individual issues experienced wide swings in response to takeover news or rumors and other special situations.

Phillips-Van Heusen jumped 5 1/2 to 24 1/2. The company said it received an unsolicited offer to buy the company from Rosewood Financial Inc.

Southland Corp. gained 1 to 73. Traders have bid the stock up in the last couple of days on speculation that the company, which has agreed to be bought out by its founding family, for $7 a share, might attract a higher offer.

MCA rose 1/4 to 52 1/2 on conjecture that the company might become a takeover target should its health for the departure of its chairman, Lew Wasserman, who is in a Los Angeles hospital following recent surgery.

Fairchild Industries picked up 1 1/2 to 17 1/2. The company said it has begun a restructuring program intended to improve earnings growth and increase shareholder value.

Japanese stocks were higher following a rally in the Tokyo stock market. Matsushita Electrical gained 3 1/2 to 18 1/2. Hitachi rose 1/2 to 10 1/2 and Honda Motor 1/2 to 10 1/2.

Center Energy led the active list, off 1/2 to 17 1/2 on turnover of more than 8 million shares. Brokers said a good part of the activity stemmed from maneuvers aimed at curtailing the company's dividend.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 3 to 4 on the NYSE, with 649 up, 653 down and 467 unchanged. The exchange's composite index added .42 to 174.57.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in some stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 201.62 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials rose .91 to 259.92, and S&P's stock composite index was up .25 to 338.37.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market gained 1/2 to 77.57. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index hit a new high for the fourth straight session, up .21 to 347.00.

Inflation report helps stocks post gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market piced together a small gain Friday, overcoming periodic bouts of profit-taking with the help of some better-than-expected inflation news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial rose 4.76 to 2,455.99, closing out the week with a net gain of 19.29 points.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowed to 172.13 million shares from 195.40 million in the previous session.

Before the opening, the Labor Department reported that the producer price index of finished goods rose 0.2 percent in June, coming in below analyst advance estimates on Wall Street.

The news was warmly received in the credit markets. Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from the previous session, rose as much as $5 for each $1,000 in face value.

Traders viewed the data as further evidence that last spring's inflation scare in the financial world was probably unwarranted.

Nevertheless, analysts said many market participants remained wary, suggesting that Thursday's decline in blue chips might have marked the start of at least a short-term retreat.

While the general market was making little progress, a good many individual issues, experienced wide swings in response to takeover news or rumors and other special situations.

Phillips-Van Heusen jumped 5 1/2 to 24 1/2. The company said it received an unsolicited $2.5-billion takeover proposal from Rosewood Financial.

Southland Corp. gained 1 to 79. Traders have bid the stock up in the last couple of days on speculation that the company, which had agreed to be bought out by its founding family for $77 a share, might attract a higher offer.

MCA rose 4 1/2 to 52 1/2 on conjecture that the company might become a takeover target should ill health force the departure of its chairman, Lew Wasserman, who is in a Los Angeles hospital following recent surgery.

Fairchild Industries picked up 1 1/2 to 13 1/2. The company said it has begun a restructuring program in order to improve earnings growth and increase shareholder value.

Japanese stocks were higher following a rally in the Tokyo stock market. Matsushita Electrical gained 2 1/2 to 1,925.20, to 75%, and Honda Motor to 103.31.

Center Energy led the active list, off 1/2 at 17 1/2 on turnover of more than 8 million shares. Brokers said a good part of the activity stemmed from maneuvers aimed at capturing the company's dividend.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 5 to 4 on the NYSE, with 849 up, 651 down and 467 unchanged. The exchange's composite index added $2 to 173.57.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 201.62 million shares.

Standard & Poor's Index of 400 industrial rose 3 1/2 to 359.82, and the S&P 500-stock composite index was up .85 at 208.37.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market gained $2 to 173.57. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index hit a new high for the fourth straight session, up 21 at 347.00.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

BOBBY WOLFF

"He who is in love with himself has at least this advantage — he won't encounter many rivals."
— Georg Christoph Lichtenberg.

Do you know a bridge player who acts as if he knows it all? Give him today's East hand and ask him to defend against five diamonds. Don't bet against him, however. The fact that the hand is a problem may tip him to the best defense.

East wins the first two spades and must choose between continuing with a third spade and switching to hearts. West's lead of the deuce and later play of the seven promise at least three spades, so there is no possibility of promoting a spade ruff by West. In fact, if West has four spades, a third round of spades will yield a ruff and discard for South.

So the heart switch is automatic? South wins, cashes the trump ace, plays the top clubs and ruffs a third club high. Now he draws trumps ending in dummy, and dummy's clubs provide more than enough tricks.

What should East have led at trick three? East should know that South has the heart ace, making the heart shift a losing move. And since it is extremely unlikely that a possible ruff and discard will help South, East should lead a third round of spades.

This play depends on a dummy's trumps early, and although South can still establish the clubs, he cannot get to dummy to use them.

Vulnerable: Both
Dealer: East
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	5 ♠	Pass	All pass

Opening lead: Spade deuce

BID WITH THE ACES

South leads: 7-11-D

♠ A K J 9 6	♥ K Q 9 8	♦ 5	♣ 6 3
-------------	-----------	-----	-------

South North
1 ♠ 2 ♠

ANSWER: Two hearts. Do not bypass a possible 4-4 fit in the heart suit. If practicable, you can show club support later.

Send bridge questions to The Aces, P.O. Box 12343, Dallas, Texas 75215, with self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.
