White House to delay aid call if Sandinistas seek reforms

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has tentatively agreed to delay its request for new aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua if the leftist Sandinista government agrees to a cease-fire and democratic reform measures, an administration official said Tuesday.

The administration had been expected to make a formal request early next month, but the new approach gives the Sandinistas until Sept. 30 to take the steps the United States is proposing. The current $100 million U.S. aid allocation to the Contras expires on that day.

The officials, insisting on anonymity, said the administration would not agree to any delay in its aid request without the concurrence of the Contra leaders, six of whom are in Washington for discussions with government and congressional leaders.

Officials described the plan as in flux and still the subject of delicate discussion. However, congressional and administration sources provided some fundamental outlines.

Congressional sources said the plan calls for an immediate cease-fire in Nicaragua and a halt to military aid from both sides from the Soviet Union and from the United States.

Another requirement is the immediate restoration of democratic freedoms in Nicaragua and the commencement of multilateral talks involving the Sandinistas, neighboring Central American democratic governments, and the United States, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The sources said it is the understanding of members of both parties that the administration would agree to any request for additional Contra military aid for 60 days. During that time there would be no lobbying for Contra aid and there would be an effort to restrain rhetoric on the subject by outside groups to give peace talks a chance to succeed, the sources said.

Other administration officials insisted that any plan would ensure that the request for aid to the Contras would go forward.

"The administration is working on a cease-fire and democratic reform measures that would ensure a vote on Contra aid," one official said.

He said the administration, as it viewed the proposal, was looking for a congressional endorsement of a vote on the aid as the White House's incentive for accepting the proposal.

The official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said President Reagan planned to discuss the plan with House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, at a meeting today.

He insisted that the administration wanted a firm commitment from Wright for a date to vote on renewing Contra aid if the proposed peace plan was not implemented by Sept. 30.

"If implemented by Sept. 30, there wouldn't be any need for a funding request. If it is not implemented by Sept. 30, we'd go ahead with the request and a vote would be held within 15 to 20 days," the administration official said.

The proposed compromise, drafted during several days of discussions with congressional leaders, including Wright, was disclosed as Central American press.

EPA says gas found in fifth of homes surveyed

Radon may be problem in every state

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — More than one house in five surveyed for the Environmental Protection Agency has too much radioactive radon in the air, the agency said Tuesday in warning that the deadly gas could be a problem for homeowners in every state.

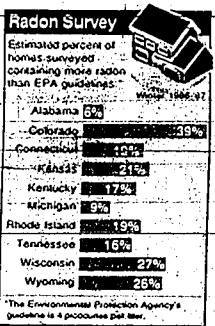

Results of the largest survey of homes yet done in cooperation with 10 states, cannot be extrapolated to the country as a whole because it was not planned as a statistically sound sample. But EPA Deputy Administrator A. James Barnes said he considered the findings "roughly in the ballpark" with earlier projections that as many as 12 percent of the nation's 75 million homes have a radon problem.

"The two-day 'screening' measurements done in the heating season last winter, when ventilation is slowed, on 9,690 homes would yield slightly lower measurements when followed up with a recommended, and more accurate, confirmatory measurement that can take months or even a year, Barnes said.

EPA estimates that as many as 20,000 people a year die from lung cancer caused by radon, an element formed in the radioactive decay of uranium and thorium present in tiny quantities in all rocks and soils.

The new results show that radon "may be a problem in virtually every state," Barnes said.

An EPA statement noted that "in almost every case geology proved to Source: EPA. All figures compared to a low radon area.

"In Nashville we'll be recommending today that people who live in Middle and East Tennessee have their homes checked," said Word.

This recommendation covers about 3 million people living in an unknown number of homes east of the western reach of the Tennessee River.

Colorado had the highest percentage of homes above the radon concentration, EPA last year designated an "action level," 4 picocuries per liter of air — 39 percent. Alabama had the lowest, 6 percent.

The other states and their percentages: Connecticut, 15; Kansas, 21; Kentucky, 17; Michigan, 9; Rhode Island, 19; Tennessee, 16; Wisconsin, 27; and Wyoming, 26. Overall, the percentage was 21.

The two states with the lowest percentages over the action level yielded the two highest readings of all: 180 picocuries per liter in a home in northern Alabama and 162 picocuries per liter in a home in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, where the geology is an extension of Wisconsin's.

"There are hot spots" almost everywhere, said Barnes.

A picocurie is a little more than two billion decaying every minute.

Most radon — inert, odorless and colorless — that is breathed in is breathed out again without change. It is the also-radioactive successor atoms from radon decay, formed in the lungs or carried there on dust and smoke problems and remaining there, that pose most of the cancer risk.

Four picocuries represents as much risk as smoking about eight cigarettes per day, the agency estimates. Of every 1,000 people exposed to that much radon for a lifetime, 13 to 50 will get lung cancer who otherwise wouldn't.

Lung cancer, almost always fatal, accounts for about 136,000 of the nation's 2.2 million annual deaths.

"As you go up the scale, you'll want to take action on a more expedited basis," said Guimond.

Action to reduce radon from four picocuries should be taken "within a year or two of discovery," he said; at more than 200 picocuries action should begin "immediately."

The 10 states were picked only because they were ready when EPA was ready and their plans could be dovetailed with the agency's. All used common personnel training and sampling methods and sent samples to the same EPA lab for analysis.

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Missouri, Indiana, North Dakota and Arizona will make surveys in cooperation with EPA this coming winter and the the Indian Health Service plans to check some reservations in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Alaska, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina and Virginia are conducting surveys on their own.

Moslems 'stone the devil' to climax pilgrimage

The Associated Press

MECCA, Saudi Arabia — More than 2 million Moslems "stoned the devil" Tuesday in the climax of their pilgrimage to this holy city, and Iran said the Satan they struck was the United States.

Saudie officials claimed Iran had plotted to take over the Grand Mosque, lock hundreds of thousands of pilgrims inside and force them to swear fealty to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary patriarch, as leader of the world's 850 million Moslems.

Soldiers and army helicopters shadowed 157,000 Iranians who joined pilgrims, called hajjls, from 122 other countries in stoning the three Devil's Pillars on the Plain of Arafat 16 miles from Mecca. Each pilgrim threw seven stones at each pillar.

A Saudi newspaper, Okaz, quoted official sources it did not identify as saying only one-fourth of the Iranians who came for the hajj were real pilgrims.

At the rest were Revolutionary Guards, "suicidal volunteers" or "revolutionary generation" fanatics.

An Iranian plane landed in the port city of Jidda to retrieve bodies of some of at least 275 Iranians killed last Friday in battles with Saudi riot police around Mecca's Grand Mosque that grew out of an anti-American protest. The Saudis said 402 people died in the clashes.

Iran claimed a Saudi armed guard surrounded the aircraft. Arab diplomats said it might be held in Jidda until Iran allows four Saudi diplomats to leave Tehran. The diplomats were captured by a mob that sacked the Saudi Embassy last Saturday, and the Saudi government says one still is being held captive.

A Tehran radio broadcast said: "The Saudi killers and their instigator America, the great Satan, will not escape Islamic punishment."

Contracts won't delay postal rate hike

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The new labor contracts signed last month by the U.S. Postal Service won't affect the plan to raise first-class stamp prices to a quarter next year, Postmaster General Preston R. Tisch said Tuesday.

The Postal Service proposed new rates in May and is awaiting approval from the independent Postal Rate Commission, expected sometime early next year.

The cost of the new labor contracts "is roughly in line with what we have projected in our financial plan. And, barring any unforeseen catastrophic developments in inflation; they will create less upward pressure on our future rate structures than any agreements we have negotiated in the past," Tisch said.

He commented at the regular meeting of the Postal Service's Board of Governors, being held in Denver. Copies of his statement "were made available in Washington.

Tisch estimated the cost of the new 40-month agreement with the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers at $4.9 billion. This will provide wages and benefits about 1 percent above the anticipated rate of inflation," he said.

The board received a financial report showing the Postal Service operated at a $171 million loss in the three-month accounting period which ended June 5.

Assistant Postmaster General Comer S. Coppie said the loss was due to lower than anticipated operating revenue and unexpected health and retirement costs.

Overall, the agency is likely to complete its annual accounting period slightly in the red, Coppie said. The new rate proposal is aimed at returning the service to financial balance.

"Since the Postal Service no longer receives a government subsidy, it is required to raise rates to cover costs.

The new rate proposal calls for increases averaging about 16 percent for all classes of mail, including a hike in first-class rates from the current 22 cents to 25 cents.

Meanwhile, the postal board voted to award a $110-million automation contract to ElectroCom Automation of Arlington, Texas.

That contract calls for modification of equipment to allow electronic scanners to read several lines of type. The modification is expected to improve efficiency and save the postal service $250 million annually.

This contract award had been delayed by a fraud investigation into postal contracting. That probe eventually led to former board Vice Chairman Peter Voss and two businessmen being convicted in connection with payments to Voss aimed at steering contracts to another company competing for automation business.

AIDS death costs expected to soar

The Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) — The cost of AIDS-related deaths to American life insurance companies from existing policies could reach $50 billion by the turn of the century, experts said Tuesday as they released the first major study of the disease's effect on the industry.

The study said AIDS-related deaths could account for more than 20 percent of the claims against some firms.

—Individually insured—AIDS-related life insurance policies on people already with policies could amount to more than $30 billion between now and the year 2000, according to the study commissioned by the 10,000-member Chicago-based Society of Actuaries.

In addition, the industry can expect to pay about $20 billion for AIDS-related group claims against existing policies, the study researchers said, based on preliminary estimates.

The industry paid out about $200 million in AIDS claims last year, or about 1 percent of the total $19.6 billion it paid in 1986 claims.

Harold Ingraham Jr., president of the Society of Actuaries, said the figures show that researchers studying the impact of acquired immune deficiency syndrome have underestimated the damage the disease will do.

"They have been underestimating. I think the proportion of people that carry the virus and ... the speed at which (those people) are going to get AIDS," Ingraham said in a telephone interview Tuesday from his Hartford, Conn., office.

The study based its findings on statistics from the Centers for Disease Control which suggest that 15 percent of those infected with the HIV virus develop AIDS after five years and up to 36 percent after seven years.

The study was written by J. Howell and Walter H. Hoekins, actuaries for Worcester-based State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America.

Cowell said the study presents

Appeal coming in Guard suit

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A federal judge, ruling in a suit filed by Minnesota and backed by 10 other states, said Tuesday that governors have no constitutional authority to withhold consent for National Guard training missions in Central America or elsewhere.

Congress may exercise authority over the training of the National Guard while the Guard is on active federal duty, and must share that authority with the states only when the Guard is not employed in the service of the United States, U.S. District Judge Donald Alsup said in a strongly worded 14-page opinion.

Gov. Rudy Perpich immediately asked Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III to appeal, and Humphrey said an expedited hearing before the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals will be requested.

Minnesota attorneys unsuccessfully argued that an amendment sponsored by U.S. Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Minn., to a bill signed into law by President Reagan on Nov. 14 unconstitutionally infringed on the right of states to control their militias. The amendment provides that governors may withhold consent for foreign National Guard assignments only when the units are needed for local emergencies.

Some governors had withheld consent for Guard missions to Central America before Congress acted last January, asked the state attorney general's office to file the lawsuit.

Cool air Moslems better edge off heat

The Associated Press
An advancing cold wave took the edge off the 18-day-old heat wave Tuesday across the Plains and Midwest, but air conditions continued whining and some construction workers were on the job in the cool of the night.

The heat has been blamed for at least 95 deaths in 14 states from the Plains to the East Coast.

After more than two weeks of highs in the upper 90s and above 100 degrees, temperatures Tuesday morning dropped into the 60s and 70s from the upper Mississippi Valley to the central Plains. And the leading edge of that cooler, drier air airtight southward across Illinois, Indiana and Ohio during the night.

The cooling trend could be felt Wednesday in the Northeast and in parts of Arkansas, the National Weather Service said. Peoria, Ill., hit a high of only 82, at 1 p.m., as the front rolled over that state, the weather service reported.

Pittsburgh hit 93 Tuesday, the 16th day the city has reached 90 degrees or better this summer, the most since 1973.

"It's still going to be uncomfortable, but it's not going to be the stifling temperatures that we have been having," said Jack May, chief meteorologist with the weather service in Topka, Kan.

"It does not look like a drastic change, but it will break this hot spell," said meteorologist Bob Dietlein in Albama, where highs were in the high 80s again Tuesday before the front arrived. Humidity has been more than 95 percent for several days.

Today, the hajj stone the devil... the real devil to be stoned and burned in America and its lackey."
In Geneva, the International Committee of the Red Cross refused an Iranian request that it send a commission of inquiry to Mecca, declaring that it was a humanitarian agency.
Nearly all Iranian Moslems are Shiites, a minority sect that has been at odds for 1,300 years with the Sunni sect that includes the Saudi royal family and 85 percent of the world's Moslems. Khomenei has said the Saudi rulers are unfit to be custodians of Islam's holy sites.
Moslems believe the site of the Devil's Pillars is where Satan tempted Abraham to refuse the sacrifice of his son Ishmael as God commanded. God provided a huge ram that Abraham sacrificed instead, according to the Koran, Islam's holy book.

Police cars, security men in trucks and army helicopters kept watch over the huge gathering as the people later began the trek back to Mecca, where the annual pilgrimage known as the hajj comes to an end.

Hajjis pray in the vast yard of the Grand Mosque, home of the Kaaba, a cube-shaped structure that contains a black stone said to have been given to Abraham by the angel Gabriel.

Iranian television quoted Khomenei as asking Iranian pilgrims to be patient in the face of mysterious, an apparent call for restraint. The official Islamic News Agency said an Iranian aircraft landed in Jidda, 45 miles from Mecca, to take home the dead and injured from Friday's violence.

Unfortunately, the first plane that landed there had been grounded for five hours and is surrounded by armed Saudi police," it quoted Iranian Prime Minister Hussein Musavi as saying.

Arab diplomats said privately the Saudis were holding out for the release of the diplomat still held at the embassy raid and permission for all of them to leave Iran.

They said Syria, Pakistan and other Moslem nations were trying to mediate between Iran and Saudi Arabia.

The Saudi Embassy in Tehran was one of four attacked by mobs after the Mecca violence, in which official Saudi reports say 42 Iranian pilgrims and 85 security officers also were killed.

Idahoans soliciting aid for North

BOISE (AP) — An Idaho group calling itself the "Help Ollie North Committee" is trying to drum up money and petition signatures for Lt. Col. Oliver North, who may be prosecuted for his role in the Iran-Contra affair.

The group mailed an undated letter to Joanne in the state, saying "Don't let the liberals send an American hero to jail."

The letter was signed by state Rep. Ron Crane, R-Caldwell, who could not be reached for comment on Tuesday. The committee has a Meridian post box, but the flyer did not identify any officers.

"Here we have an extremely bright, dedicated and effective U.S. military officer who is skillfully able to divert some of the money from an arms transaction with a 14th century Iranian terrorist thru to the benefit of freedom fighters battling Communist dictatorship. In my opinion Col. North's only mistake was he wasn't able to divert more," Crane wrote.

An enclosed card has space for petition signatures and suggested contributions ranging from $15 to $100. It also contains an order form for T-shirts and bumper stickers marked "Ollie for President" and "I have Ollie-Mania and I'm Glad."

North has not been charged with a criminal offense, but independent federal counsel is examining the Iran-Contra affair for possible prosecution.

The letter said the petitions will be sent to Sen. James McClure — who has already indicated his deep respect and support for Oliver North.

Nevada — Fairly cloudy with widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms today. Fair tonight. Mostly sunny Thursday. Continued hot with high winds from the lower 90s to around 100. Overnight lows in the lower 50s to lower 60s.

Summary:
The National Weather Service in Boise says high pressure was building in the Pacific-Northwest Tuesday and will continue the next couple of days.

Sunny weather will result with only a few clouds in the north, but a weak weather disturbance moving through that area. Windy conditions are expected Wednesday statewide.

By mid afternoon, skies over the Gem State were sunny. However a layer of clouds was present in the Boise and Mountain Home area and several observers reported seeing a few clouds at 2 p.m.

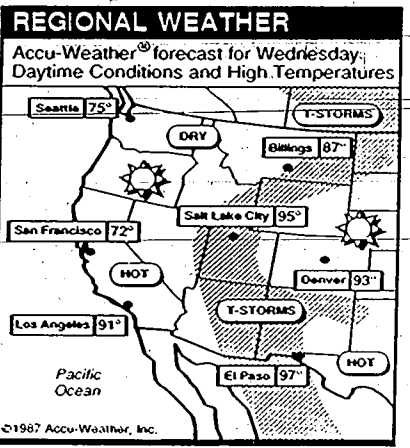

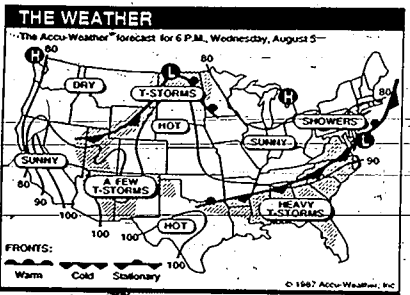

Temperatures warmed to near 90 in southeastern Idaho, the mid 80s in the north and mid 90s in southwestern locations. Mountain Home was the hot spot at 2 p.m. with 100 degrees.

The warmest temperature in the state Tuesday was 106 degrees at Mountain Home, while Stanley reported the low of 27.

The pollen count in Twin Falls Tuesday was 50 particles per cubic meter of air.

The agricultural outlook for southern Idaho shows a weak upper level low in places in this air flow will affect northern Idaho through Sunday but moisture is limited. Temperatures will be near or a little below normal. Conditions for hay and the combining of grains will be excellent through Sunday. No precipitation is expected in the agricultural areas. Irrigation demands will be near or a little below normal today through Sunday. Winds for spraying will be west to northwest, 10 to 20 mph today decreasing to 5 to 15 mph Thursday.

The extended outlook for southern Idaho. Friday through Sunday, shows fair and warm with isolated mountain thundershowers during afternoons and evenings. Highs from mid 80s to low 90s. Lows in the 50s. Elsewhere in the nation Tuesday, the highest temperature was 122 degrees at Death Valley, Calif., and the lowest was 33 degrees at West Yellowstone, Mont.

AIDS

Two areas of concern to the life insurance industry: dealing with claims already on the books and trying to anticipate new claims.

The CDC reported there were 8,000 AIDS deaths last year, and has projected that the number will rise to 54,000 by 1991 — an estimate that seems "plausible" based on his own research, Cowell said.

He said assuming the CDC number were valid, AIDS claims are expected to go up by a factor of 10 by the 1990s.

The $30 billion in projected AIDS claims on existing individual policies by the year 2000 would cause a projected $25 billion in total deaths by the end of the century, said State Mutual spokesman Mark Plotzky.

Some insurance companies, particularly the mutual companies which have targeted the affluent male market where the risk of AIDS is higher, have had AIDS claims ranging from 5 percent to 6 percent of their total.

"By 1991, some companies may be up to 20 percent and that's going to be a serious strain for them," Cowell said.

But the unknown risk on new policies is presenting the greatest worry to the industry, he said.

"We know that people that are in high-risk groups, who know they are infected or think they may become infected are buying large amounts of insurance," he said.

He cited the fact that 90 percent of the $100 million in individual claims paid out for AIDS-related deaths last year were on policies written within the past 10 years.

These are "relatively recent issues on which we've had no time to collect reserves, haven't collected more than a few dollars in premiums and the claim becomes a claim in the early years," he said.

Even with screening for the AIDS virus among new policyholders, $30 billion in new AIDS claims could be generated by year-end 2000, the study said.

Without screening, the study said, that figure could double.

The CDC says that nearly 40,000 AIDS cases, including 23,000 deaths, have been reported in the United States, while an estimated 1.5 million Americans are infected with the AIDS virus.

Contra

Officials prepared to meet in Guatemala City to discuss ways to bring peace to the region.

On the table for the summit set for Thursday and Friday is a proposal for an immediate end to U.S. aid to the Contras. The plan also calls on the Sandinista government to hedge steps democratic reform.

The administration plan reverses that sequence, requiring steps toward democracy in Nicaragua before any U.S. aid cutoff. Among the measures the United States would insist on, the officials said, are the restoration of a free press and the right of free assembly.

"According to the officials," no aid made after Sept. 30 if the Sandinistas are determined to be acting in good faith. Alternatively, however, the administration would reserve the right to seek additional aid.

Congressional sources said the plan calls on the Sandinista government to negotiate national reconciliation with the Contras.

They said no participation by Contra leaders would be required.

This appeared to be a concession to the Sandinistas, who have repeatedly ruled out negotiations with the Contras.

Presidential spokesman Martin Fitzwater said President Reagan met Tuesday with Republican leaders to discuss the proposed U.S. initiative.

Meanwhile, six members of the Contra leadership met separately with Secretary of State George P. Shultz and with congressional leaders for a general discussion of the situation in Nicaragua and related issues.

Contra leaders were annoyed when they learned Tuesday afternoon that a new administration proposal was being worked on but that Shultz had not informed them about it during the meeting.

Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, a member of the Contra directorate, said Tuesday night no successful ceasefire could be achieved without difficult negotiations between the two sides.

In a guerrilla war, such negotiations are not easy because the opposing armies are dispersed over much of Nicaragua, he said.

A cease-fire cannot be achieved by outsiders, Chamorro said. "The Sandinistas and the resistance are the only ones who can decide it," he said.

In Guatemala City, a Nicaraguan official said the United States should first cease its support of the Contras before the other steps are taken.

"The administration cannot have its cake and eat it too," Alejandro Bendana, of the Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry, said in an interview with NBC Nightly News. "We must stop the killing of people, that's the first step, and then let's have negotiations, not the other way around."

Clipping incident involves 2 planes

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP) — A commuter project and a small private plane clipped each other in flight over the Mojave Desert on Tuesday, but both planes landed safely and none of the 11 people on board was hurt, authorities said.

A deadly, full-force collision was narrowly avoided when the pilot of the Trans World Express plane accelerated into a dive after spotting the private craft just before impact, said Federal Aviation Administration spokeswoman Elly Brekke.

The twin-engine DeHavilland DHC-6 commuter plane with eight people on board was on final approach to Lancaster's Fox Field when it was struck by a single-engine Cessna 172 carrying three people at 12:20 p.m., Ms. Brekke said.

"The pilot took some evasive action to avoid a more disastrous accident," she said. "The Cessna struck the tail end of the DeHavilland Twin Otter with the Cessna's left wing."

Gary Mucho of the National Transportation Safety Board, which will investigate the incident, confirmed Ms. Brekke's description of the near-collision.

The Trans World Express commuter plane landed at Fox Field, 50 miles north of downtown Los Angeles, and the Cessna landed at Palmdale Airport's Plant 42, 12 miles away, Ms. Brekke said.

The commuter plane, carrying six passengers and a crew of two from Los Angeles International Airport, was struck five miles southwest of the airport over an uninhabited desert area, said Fox Field spokeswoman Jean Granucci.

Both pilots had been flying without radar guidance under visual flight rules, said Bob Harik, air traffic manager for the FAA at Edwards Air Force Base.

"It's so and be seen," he said. "Right after impact, the Cessna pilot declared an emergency and the Cessna pilot was directed to Palmdale. He said 'mayday'... It was after the hit," said Harik.

Trans World Express, based at John Wayne Airport in Orange County, is a small company that coordinates its schedules with Trans World Airlines, explained Dan Gibbs, a spokesman for TWA in New York.

Most major carriers have similar agreements with other local commuter lines, he said.

Trans World Express operates five of the 18-passenger DeHavilland Twin Otter planes. It flies from Orange County to Lancaster, Inyo-Kern, Santa Barbara, Oxnard and Bakersfield.

Since the Aug. 31, 1986, crash of an Aeromexico jetliner and a Cessna over Carrizos, which killed 82 people, there has been increased scrutiny over safety in Southern California's crowded skies. There have been numerous reports of near-misses in the area, and much attention has been given to strained working conditions of local air traffic controllers.

IRS sets up safeguards for savings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embarrassed by several well-publicized cases in which children's life savings were seized to pay their parents' overdue taxes, the Internal Revenue Service on Tuesday announced new procedures designed to make sure it doesn't happen again.

The IRS said: "It will not ask banks to levy on or seize — any account with a balance under $100.

"In a levy case, banks will be asked first to temporarily freeze — rather than seize — any account that bears a name in addition to that of the delinquent taxpayer. The IRS will then take up to 21 days to try to determine the true owner, unless a bank receives additional instructions within that period, the account will be freed.

In the cases in which children's accounts have been seized because of a tax debt by their parents, the accounts have carried the Social Security name of a parent, the IRS said. This prevented banks from determining the true owner.

Under the old procedures, the IRS simply told a bank it was attaching the rights to an account bearing the name or Social Security number of a delinquent taxpayer.

That's what happened last month in the case of 12-year-old Garry D. Keffler of Chesapeake, Va. His parents had fallen behind in their taxes but had mailed a check for the final installment when the IRS directed a bank to seize their accounts. The boy's $10.35 savings were swept up into the same net because his account bore his mother's Social Security number.

The seventh-grader got the attention of the IRS by writing to President Reagan and sending a copy of the letter to his hometown newspaper. "I am now feeling distrustful of the United States government — due to my financial devastation," he wrote.

The IRS has since promised to return the boy's money.

The agency acknowledged there might be some slip-ups even with the new procedures and said it's still looking for other ways of making sure that only the accounts of delinquent taxpayers are seized.

In the meantime, the IRS recommended that any savings account belonging to a child carry that youngster's Social Security number. The new tax law requires that by next April 15, any child over 4 years old who can be claimed as a dependent on another person's tax return must have a Social Security number.

In a related announcement, the IRS reminded children — who have summer jobs or other part-time jobs that in most cases, their wages are no longer exempt from withholding.

Under the new law, the agency noted, "An employee will not be able to claim exemption from withholding if he or she can be claimed as a dependent, has any unearned income — such as interest or dividends, and has wages and unearned income totaling more than $600. This would include children who work and who save some of their earnings, for example."

FCC votes to toss out broadcast fairness doctrine after 38 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fairness doctrine requiring broadcasters to present all sides of controversial issues became history Tuesday when the Federal Communications Commission voted to abolish the 38-year-old policy.

In a move that shifts the battle over the issue to Congress, the FCC voted 4-0 to scrap the doctrine on the grounds it is unconstitutional and unnecessary and hinders broadcast coverage of important issues.

"Because we believe it will serve the public interest, we seek to extend to the electronic press the same First Amendment guarantees that the print media have enjoyed since our country's inception," said FCC Chairman Dennis R. Patrick.

Reaction from consumer groups was swift and congressional supporters of the doctrine promised quick action in the House and Senate to overturn the commission's dismantling of the policy and enact the doctrine into law.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Senate Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee, branded the FCC's action "wrongheaded, misguided and illogical."

"The fairness doctrine protects and preserves freedom of speech of the American public at large, by providing the only means for many in the public to be heard," Hollings said in a statement.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the action marked "both the FCC's darkest hour and the beginning of its greatest repudiation."

Broadcasters have long opposed the policy as an infringement of their constitutional right to free speech. They also say stations' fear of running afoul of the doctrine has inhibited coverage of controversial issues.

Supporters of the doctrine, including members of public interest groups who held up "Save the Fairness Doctrine" signs during the FCC's meeting, say the policy assures that minority viewpoints are aired by television and radio stations.

Earlier this year, Congress passed a measure to make the fairness doctrine a law, but President Reagan vetoed the bill in June.

Frigate due in Florida port today

MAYPORT NAVAL STATION, Fla. (AP) — The USS Stark returns to its homeport today for the first time since it was struck by Iraqi missiles, with a hero's welcome planned for the 170 men who survived and mourning for the 37 killed.

The usual Navy homecoming ceremony is planned with the St. Johns River City Band, thousands of balloons, hand-lettered welcome-home signs and the hugs, tears and kisses of relatives as the frigate returns to the dock it left six months ago.

Pat Weber is one of the Stark wives who began planning for the ship's return even before it was hit by two Iraqi-fired Exocet missiles in the Persian Gulf.

On May 17, Stark wives played softball and sponsored a car wash to raise money for what they hoped would be one of the biggest homecomings Mayport had ever seen.

Idahoans have right to express opinion

Idaho's congressional delegation may feel if is on the right track in meeting with Department of Energy officials to lobby for construction in Idaho of a new nuclear weapons reactor, but we think the delegation should do a better job of soliciting public opinion first.

The issue is extremely important for Idaho in economic and philosophical terms. It starkly pits the issue of jobs against questions of the mission of the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, which has, heretofore, been primarily a non-military facility.

The delegation's courting of the New Production Reactor, which would replace an aging facility at Hanford, Wash., should not be based, in our view, solely on the pressure from Idaho Falls chamber of commerce officials, who would like to ensure jobs in that community, nor on pressure from Idaho Power Company, which is anxious to find long-term markets for its power.

The NPR, as it is known, would bring the country into a new generation of nuclear weapons production. A decision on this has enormous implications.

It is not, as Rep. Richard Stallings claims, simply a case of Idaho accepting the project if it is going to be built somewhere.

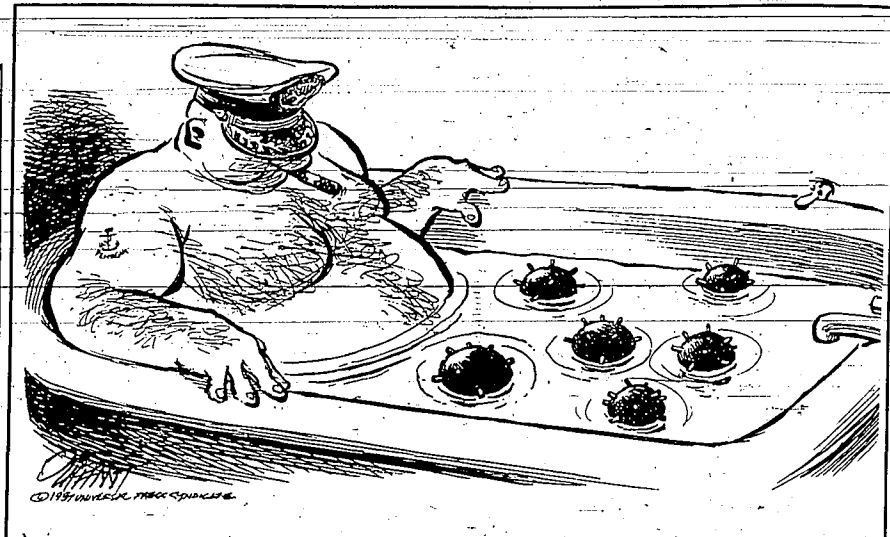

The NPR is different, in our view, from the proposed Special Isotope Separator, which would only reprocess existing fuels for less than a decade.

If INEL's mission is to become, in effect, the Hanford or Savannah River of the next century, we think the people of Idaho should have a broad and ongoing input to the process by which that decision is reached.

We do not agree with the Snake River Alliance on most issues, but the group has correctly raised this point.

Idaho's congressional delegation has a responsibility, in our view, to broaden the debate on this issue.

INEL is not a preserve of Eastern Idaho, and if its mission is to change from commercial nuclear generation research to making nuclear warhead material, all Idahoans have a right to be included.

Keep water for park at springs

I want to thank "The Times-News" for the coverage on the water situation for Idaho. It is very nice to be informed as to what is going on and keeping us up to date.

I most sincerely want the water to be kept with the Niagara (Pugmire) Park. It should be of told someone then that the park was built for the springs. It was part of the park. Who goofed?

I am not for the Wiley Dam either. In the first place, we afford to let Tacoma in our water rights? Who will suffer when the water table drops?

Will the power plants, fish hatcheries, close down turbans and let fish ponds empty as we farmers, ranchers and cities have let our fields and lawns burn up — as we are told we have to ration our water as there has to be so many cfs coming out of the springs in the canyon? I've seen this happen twice in my life. Domestic wells went dry. It's not funny, when you look over the rim rock and see the fish ponds full of water.

In the second place, the Wiley Dam will destroy the white waters — not to mention the sturgeons, another pride of Idaho.

The EPA talks about the "seum" in the river. We do not let our water have a chance to work. Water partly cleans itself if given a chance to work. Water will clean itself if given a chance to work. All we are doing is going down stream and putting in one dam after another.

Crystal Springs is another situation that has gotten out of hand. It's terrible. We have been destroying all of our beauty. If people want to put in a hatchery, let them pump their water out of ponds or whatever, like we do for our farms. Why destroy the beauty along with it?

Take Highway 30, the scenic route. What's left? Thousand Springs was advertised for years on the rainbow trout box. People came for miles to see it.

Now there is no Thousand Springs — canyon wall is full of pipes. Now tell me, do you think that is fair or right? We are destroying the image of Idaho. You can have industry along with our nature's beauty if you try hard enough.

The most important of all is our younger generation and the generation to come a person can't even grab a willow and go down the road a ways and fish anymore. All the fishing holes are either fish hatcheries or it's private land.

What are we doing to the generations to come? We wonder why our children run the street, going down side roads, dark alleys and most of all mother nature takes over and a girl becomes pregnant. Or else they run into someone with dope.

Ask yourselves — are we pushing these kids there? No swimming holes left. No place for Scouting! I'm talking about places close to home — not in far away places. The same for towns and cities — are our laws and rules so strict that no one can afford to open up a disco place, an old fashion ice cream parlor or whatever? A place for kids to go, a place they can call their haven. A place to get off the streets? How many towns and cities have such a place?

I have a lot of faith in our government and all our departments. I hope and pray the public trust will take over a lot of the situation, and can be solved without many problems.

Filer pool behavior disgraceful

Here we are Filer, Idaho, just a small town and unlike Twin Falls, we have our own swimming pool. But what goes on at this small town pool is a disgrace. Many of the kids are behaving just terrible.

Mothers and fathers, you would be surprised and shocked at what goes on every day. The language is filthy even from the younger children, not just the teen-agers, though in most cases the teen-agers are prompting the younger children to use such language, or do their dirty work for them. Young girls and boys are behaving in a most disgusting way.

There's two girls in particular that cause a lot of trouble at the pool, at the park, in school and this has been going on for some time with no one remedying them. Why? Those two girls have caused so much trouble and have caused so much of the smaller kids to get banned from the pool for doing their dirty work for them.

Some children have been banned from the pool for the rest of the summer or some permanently, just for splashing water or walking on the cement around the pool with their shoes on.

Mr. Parrot has teenagers supervising the pool, and it does not work to have kids trying to supervise kids. Mr. Parrot is hardly ever there, and if he is it does no good at all to talk to him. Several mothers and fathers talked to him last year and this year and it does no good at all.

Let's clean up our pool and park before it is completely ruined. We want to be proud of it.

Maybe Mr. Parrot is not the person to supervise our children at our pool.

Letters/ Neither U.S., Soviet Union can afford billions spent on arms

Talking is much less painful

Both the USSR and the USA are spending more billions than either can afford on instruments for killing each other. Would it not be more sensible to try as hard to find ways to coexist peacefully?

All of our billions spent on defense are aimed, presumably, at deterring an enemy attack. But there are many non-military means of deterrence; talk, aimed at mutual understanding, is cheaper than war and much less painful.

Certain notable efforts in the direction of better international understanding have been made, and one occurred last April. A group of senior retired military officers from the United States and the Soviet Union met in Washington, D.C. Their purpose was to discuss their nation's military forces and examine ways to reduce risk of war. This group included many retired military leaders from both countries. Chairman was (Ret) Rear Admiral Gene R. La Rocque USN. I quote from his opening remarks, in which he noted that Soviet and Americans have different political, social, and economic systems, but he said, "These differences are not so different that we should have to kill each other."

He went on, "We military men have years of experience and can provide valuable advice to our leaders and our fellow citizens in both countries."

This meeting was reported in a special report to the Center of Defense Information. I quote from this report:

"Soviet and American panel members agreed that their nuclear forces are essentially equal." General Makarevsky (USSR) readily accepted the contention of Admiral Carroll (USA) that "nothing would change if the two sides traded their nuclear arsenals."

Both American and Soviet participants were critical of President Reagan's Star Wars program, and consider it a threat to the balance of parity between the USSR and the USA.

If we, as citizens, also oppose this threat, we can write our senators urging them to vote out back funding for SDI.

Council making our decisions

Here we go again! The city council making our decisions for us. It is a shame the taxpayers have enough brains to make the money and pay the taxes but do not have enough brains to spend it.

What is it going to take (a 2 x 4) to make them understand the taxpayers do not want a pool at high school or at CSI.

It is supposed to be a community pool, not a school pool.

I think it is high time we ousted these fools.

LAVERNA RUDOLPH

Something else to remember

I, too, am shocked and appalled at the actions of the Twin Falls City Council in regards to the so-called "city pool." As far as I can see we should have saved our money holding initiative elections for the past four years if the council had already decided that the Twin Falls High School needed a boys swim team.

I hope that all Twin Falls city voters remember this latest infringement during the next election. I will.

Concern is for teenagers

We are writing in regards to the treatment by police officers received by our daughter, Barbara Holesinsky, when she was rushing a severely injured house guest to the emergency center at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

She lives approximately 21-22 miles from the hospital and was within 8 miles from it when she was stopped by a road block, harassed by the police and delayed in getting the boy to the hospital by an additional 30 minutes.

She did not intend to violate the law, but attempted to obey the law by asking for and thinking she had a police escort. Instead she was treated like a criminal.

She has lived in the Buhl area all her life, except the first two years. She and her husband are established and operate their own business.

What a humiliating experience to stand in the middle of the highway, handcuffed, five police cars around and people stopped on the highway while she was harassed. Our concern is also with the two teenagers in the car — one injured, the other very upset, observing this type of treatment of her mother? We are sure it does not give them the idea that police are supposed to help and aid us when we need it.

Maybe the officers need to go back to school to learn how to deal with people. Also, we need to know what we can do in such emergencies. Anyone who lives out in the country may be in the same situation sometimes.

Others have similar tales

After reading Jodeen Ridgway's letter, Sunday, Aug. 2, on her experience with a local salesperson, I would like to say "thank you" to her for taking the time to voice my feelings too, plus many other women, I'm sure, on this subject.

Many times I have received the same treatment by local merchants of cars, furniture, real estate, and financial matters. Most of these "salesmen" do not realize as my husband and I walk away, they have lost our business, due to their very obvious "chauvinistic attitude" toward my questions or interest in their merchandise.

Little do they know that my knowledge of the product surpasses that of my husband, due to my having more time to read, discuss or observe different products.

Little do they know that I will pay for most of the products we are interested in, because my husband's income goes to pay living expenses.

Little do they know that it will be my decision on the value, price or purchase of the product; my signature will be on the final line, that which pays for their product or service or someone else's.

There have been times that I, too, have felt that the "salesman" was not even aware that I existed, standing at my husband's side. At one time we went to another town to purchase the same vehicle, new, only because a salesperson was willing to deal with "us" not just my husband.

A big loss in local dollars, which merchants need to be made aware of, I like many other women, will not be swept under the carpet, so beware "chauvinistic salesperson!" The initials on our checks are not just my husband's.

Thanks, Jodeen, for standing up for the purchasing power of women in Magic Valley.

Treated unfairly on course

I believe the Gooding Golf Course treated us unfairly this last Sunday, Aug. 2. How we are supposed to teach our children the game if we are going to be asked to leave just because we are holding back other players who are riding around in golf carts. (We did allow players through.)

I thought the idea was to have fun and get a little exercise. The embarrassment you placed on these fathers in their kids' eyes is recalled far. I don't have any children, if I did I would be ashamed to teach them the game.

Maybe it's time you slowed down and took a long look at the way you play the game. The next time friends of mine come from out of town and state, I will direct them to the Twin Falls Golf Course or the Jackpot Golf Course where they show patience and respect for their players.

Not only do you owe an apology, but also a refund for not allowing us to finish the last nine.

Now, mind the refund. Use it to buy a dictionary then look up these words — fair play, respect, sportsmanship, exercise and courtesy.

Some questions on scandal

What is really behind the Iran-Contragate? Is the aid being used to help Communists who are supported by internationalists in our country as a means to consolidate the world into a new international order (a one world government) with the internationalists as the ruling elite.

The role of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is significant as they are one of the main organizations seeking a one world government. Their support of Communism is nothing short of treason yet many members hold key positions in our State Department today and have had a dominate role in U.S. foreign policy since the 1940s.

George Schultz, Donald Regan, James Baker, Casper Weinberger, Robert McFarlane, and William Casey are all CFR members.

William Casey and Robert McFarlane were the driving force behind the Iran-Contragate policies. Could it be that this whole affair was arranged so when it was exposed that it would accomplish the following:

1. Stop funding to anti-Communist freedom fighters only in Nicaragua but also Angola, Afghanistan, Cambodia, Costa Rica, Honduras and elsewhere;
2. Do extensive damage to the office of the president and the anti-Communist cause and;
3. Erode public respect for our form of government to bring about radical changes in our Constitution.

Could it be that Lt. Colonel Oliver north was thrown to the wolves because he is patriotic, anti-Communist and a Marine as well? Likely he was obedient to orders and would not think of doubting the veracity of the commander-in-chief.

He and Admiral Poindexter have done nothing to violate the Boland Amendment or the Constitution yet President Reagan is acting as though something illegal had been done.

The CFR game plan for Central America is to pretend that the U.S. is anti-Communist by giving a small amount of aid to freedom fighters while arranging for a Communist takeover.

Remember Cyrus Vance (CFR) of the Carter administration arranged for marxists to gain control in Nicaragua and President Carter obtained $75 million from Congress for the Sandinistas.

It is absurd to believe that the CFR under Reagan would undo what they did under Carter. Despite the impassioned rhetoric the Contras are no more than a gnat annoying the Sandinistas flank due to our lack of support.

In conclusion, the Council on Foreign Relations solution to "peace" in Central America is to turn it over to the Communists.

This evil CFR plan must be exposed and stopped if the U.S. is to remain independent and freedom is to survive in Central America or anywhere in the world.

Speaker says 7 laws broken; Reagan must have known

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Jim Wright contended Tuesday that the Reagan administration broke the law in seven instances in the Iran-Contra affair, and said it is "absolutely beyond belief" that President Reagan could be unaware of that.

Congress, when it passes laws, assumes "that the president will carry out his constitutional obligation to take care that the laws be faithfully executed," Wright said in a statement. "Unless that assumption can be made with confidence, the constitutional system begins to break down."

Reagan said last Friday that "I haven't heard a single word that indicated in any of the (congressional hearing) testimony that laws were broken."

His spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, amended that comment

Monday to say it applied only to the limited snips of hearings—the president had watched on television.

Wright, D-Texas, said Reagan's original statement was "very disturbing," because "several laws clearly were flouted by persons in the Reagan administration. It is absolutely beyond belief that the president would be unaware of this fact at this late date."

Contra leaders, including Adolfo Calero, met with Secretary of State George Shultz and with GOP members of Congress to talk about the rebels' current status and need for aid.

The rebel leaders "understand they have got to have a very effective diplomatic effort" to win the favor of Congress, said Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich., the senior Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

After completing public hearings on the affair a day earlier, the congressional Iran-Contra investigating panels spent Tuesday behind closed doors taking testimony from Duane Clarridge, the Central Intelligence Agency's chief of counterterrorism, and Alan Fiers, chief of the agency's Central American Task Force.

Clarridge was in frequent contact with Lt. Col. Oliver L. North during the time North was running the Contra resupply network from his National Security Council office.

He was being asked about the CIA's involvement in the aid network — particularly during the period when most aid was banned by Congress — and about contradictions between his earlier statements and those of other witnesses.

Clarridge has sworn to Congress that he did not know that a November 1985 shipment from Israel to Iran contained Hawk anti-aircraft missiles, saying he believed it was oil-drilling equipment. But later testimony, including that of former White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan, showed that the oil equipment story was merely a cover used to hide the shipment's true nature.

"This is just to wrap up some loose details," said Broomfield, a member of the House investigating panel, who added that he didn't expect major new revelations in the sessions with CIA witnesses, which could extend until Thursday.

In his statement, Wright listed the statutes he said had been violated in the affair that sent waves to Iran and aid to Nicaragua's Contra rebels:

—The National Security Act, which requires that the administration keep congressional oversight committees "fully and currently informed" of intelligence activities; that in extreme circumstances, such notice may be limited to eight designated senior congressional leaders; and that if prior notice of a covert action is not given, that notice be made "in a timely fashion."

Wright said the administration failed on all three counts.

—The Arms Export Control Act, which requires a presidential report to Congress if major defense equipment is transferred.

—Another section of the same law that prohibits export of arms to countries deemed to be supporting international terrorism, unless the president specifically submits a waiver to Congress. "That law was violated," said Wright.

Adolfo Calero, Nicaraguan rebel leader, arrives at State Department for a conference Tuesday

Resolution calls for return of budget cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House on Tuesday passed a non-binding resolution favoring the return of automatic spending cuts to the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

The GOP-sponsored language was passed 267-166. The House headed into negotiations with the Senate on the Gramm-Rudman legislation and an underlying bill to increase the national debt ceiling.

The House-Senate conference committee quickly agreed to a new debt ceiling of $2.8 trillion, nearly $500 billion in new borrowing to carry the government until mid-1989.

The panel also stripped from the Senate bill language designed to force Congress to vote directly before members can get pay increases. Lawmakers were given a raise earlier this year automatically, when Congress failed to reject the findings of a federal commission.

The full House vote on Gramm-Rudman was a general endorsement of a Senate-passed scheme to enforce the law's annual deficit targets with across-the-board spending cuts. Gramm-Rudman originally included such cuts but the Supreme Court ruled that the cutback mechanism was constitutionally flawed.

In revising the law to meet the court's objections, the Senate changed the annual deficit targets, to make them easier to meet especially in the next two years.

House Democrats, who stuck their necks out on a tax increase to help approach the earlier deficit targets, cried foul.

"We're engaging in quite a dangerous cop-out," said House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas.

The resolution approved Tuesday, written by House GOP Leader Bob Michel, R-Ind., did not specify any targets. The size of the deficit cut required before Reagan leaves office will be a key factor in the House-Senate talks, but lawmakers said they thought it could be resolved.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, endorsed Michel's amendment. Rostenkowski's committee is charged with passing the $19.3 billion in new taxes envisioned in the fiscal 1987 budget, and the threat of automatic cuts would increase pressure for a tax increase.

Meese did not disclose link to Wedtech Corp.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III failed to disclose his financial assets in a partnership controlled by a businessman linked to the Wedtech Corp. scandal, a General Accounting Office report said Tuesday.

GAO also said the Justice Department and the Office of Government Ethics did not thoroughly scrutinize Meese's 1986 financial disclosure report to obtain the necessary information.

Neither agency "obtained the required information about the partnership during their reviews of Mr. Meese's disclosure report," said GAO, a watchdog agency for Congress.

A Justice Department spokesman, Patrick Korten, said "no word was ever received from the Office of Government Ethics indicating they had any problem with the (financial disclosure) report until these political attacks began to appear in the media."

Rep. Gerry Sikorski, D-Minn., who released the GAO report, said he would hold a hearing Wednesday to look into the matter. Sikorski is chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee on human resources.

Some of the information in the report came to light at a July 9 Senate Governmental Affairs oversight of government management subcommittee hearing where Meese refused to accept blame for not meeting the financial disclosure requirements of the federal ethics laws.

Ex-sailor, writer recall last U.S. ship sunk in war

Surrogate mother, husband separate

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — The sinking of the submarine USS Bullhead with all hands was overshadowed by the atomic bombing of Hiroshima the same day, but Chester Fitzgerald and Martin Sheridan are keeping its memory alive.

The last U.S. ship lost in World War II was sent to the bottom of the Java Sea with its 84-man crew on Aug. 6, 1945, when a Japanese plane surprised it on the surface and dropped a 500-pound bomb. It was only the sub's third patrol.

Fitzgerald, 69, of Norwich, figures providence is the only reason he transferred off the Bullhead before that last voyage.

"I made the first two runs and it was lost on the third," he says. "I think about that often. It's almost like somebody was looking after me."

The Bullhead was built at Electric Boat shipyard in Groton, launched July 16, 1944, and commissioned Dec. 4, 1944, before sailing through the Panama Canal and out to Guam for its first assignment of the war.

On March 21, 1945, it was boarded by Sheridan, then an eager young war correspondent for the Boston Globe, who badgered the Navy into letting him become the first civilian reporter to go along on a submarine patrol.

"We called him 'Scoops' Sheridan. He was very well liked by the crew. He fit in well," Fitzgerald recalls. Sheridan, also in his 60s, lives in nearby Gilman and the two men have kept in touch since the war.

Sheridan traveled on the Bullhead for 38 days in the South China Sea during the sub's first patrol.

"I went out there as a fatalist. If you were going to get hit, you were going to get hit," Sheridan says.

Fitzgerald, who volunteered for submarine duty in 1938 because he could get an extra $10 a month, was chief of boat, in charge of all the enlisted men aboard.

The Bullhead's chief excitement during its first patrol was plucking downed bomber pilots out of the China Sea.

In mid-April the sub returned to Subic Bay in the Philippines as many of its crew could be transferred to other duty. Sheridan left the ship and returned to the United States. Fitzgerald remained aboard the Bullhead for its second patrol, cruising the Gulf of Siam and Java Sea until returning to Fremantle, Australia, on July 2.

There, Fitzgerald left the Bullhead. He said he requested leave from the Bullhead because he had already served nine war patrols and wanted to open a spot for another sailor to become chief torpedoman.

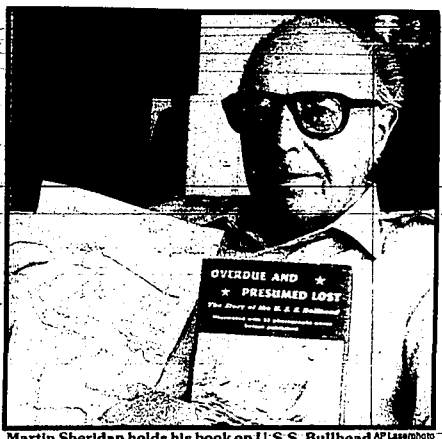

Most of the rest of the crew, under Lt. Cmdr. E.R. Holt, set sail again on July 31.

It was the 52nd submarine lost in the war. It wasn't until long after that the Bullhead's fate was learned from Japanese records.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead, citing the stress from her losing custody battle for the child she bore under contract, has separated from her husband Richard, her attorney said Tuesday.

The lawyer, Harold Cassidy, said in a prepared statement that the couple has no immediate intention of reuniting.

Cassidy and other attorneys were not immediately available to comment on whether the separation would affect appeals pending in the custody case.

LDS leader marks his 88th birthday

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Ezra Taft Benson, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, celebrated his 88th birthday Tuesday in Salt Lake City.

Church spokesman Don LeFevre said Benson was spending the day at his office in the Church Administration Building downtown.

Friends and associates planned a private reception, and family members were to honor him at another private gathering Tuesday night.

Benson was called to be an apostle of the Mormon Church in 1943. He became the 13th president of the 166-year-old church on Nov. 10, 1965, succeeding the late Spencer W. Kimball.

Benson was born in 1899 in Whitney, Idaho.

PG-13 Rating Introduced

A new rating category is in place as of July 1. This new category is located between the current PG and R ratings. It is designated "PG-13." Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance to children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.

The revised frequency system of the voluntary film industry rating program is now as follows:

- G General Audiences, All Ages Admitted.
- PG Parental Guidance Suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children.
- PG-13 Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance to children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.
- R Restricted, Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.
- R-13 Some material may not be suitable for children under 13.
- R-16 No one under 16 admitted. All films under this rating will be given ratings under the new five category system.

Ex-sailor, writer recall last U.S. ship sunk in war

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — The sinking of the submarine USS Bullhead with all hands was overshadowed by the atomic bombing of Hiroshima the same day, but Chester Fitzjarrald and Martin Sheridan are keeping its memory alive.

The last U.S. ship lost in World War II was sent to the bottom of the Java Sea with its 84-man crew on Aug. 6, 1945, when a Japanese plane surprised it on the surface and dropped a 500-pound bomb. It was only the sub's third patrol.

Fitzjarrald, 69, of Norwich, figures providence is the only reason he transferred off the Bullhead before that last voyage.

"I made the first two runs and it was lost on the third," he says. "I think about that often. It's almost like somebody was looking after me."

The Bullhead was built at Electric Boat shipyard in Groton, launched July 16, 1944, and commissioned Dec. 4, 1944, before sailing through the Panama Canal and out to Guam for its first assignment of the war.

On March 21, 1945, it was boarded by Sheridan, then an eager young war correspondent for the Boston Globe who bargued the Navy into letting him become the first civilian reporter to go along on a submarine patrol.

"We called him 'Scoops' Sheridan. He was very well liked by the crew. He fit in well," Fitzjarrald recalls. Sheridan, also in his 60s, lives in nearby Gilman and the two men have kept in touch since the war.

Sheridan traveled on the Bullhead for 38 days in the South China Sea during the sub's first patrol.

"I went out there as a fatalist. If you were going to get hit, you were going to get hit," Sheridan says.

Fitzjarrald, who volunteered for submarine duty in 1938 because he could get an extra $10 a month, was chief of boat, in charge of all the enlisted men aboard.

The Bullhead's chief excitement during its first patrol was plucking downed bomber pilots out of the China Sea.

In mid-April the sub returned to Subic Bay in the Philippines so some of its crew could be transferred to other duty. Sheridan left the ship and returned to the United States.

Fitzjarrald remained aboard the Bullhead for its second patrol, cruising the Gulf of Siam and Java Sea until returning to Fremantle, Australia, on July 2.

There, Fitzjarrald left the Bullhead. He said he requested leave from the Bullhead because he had already served nine war patrols and wanted to open a spot for another sailor to become chief torpedoman.

Most of the rest of the crew under Lt. Cmdr. E.R. Holt, set sail again on July 31.

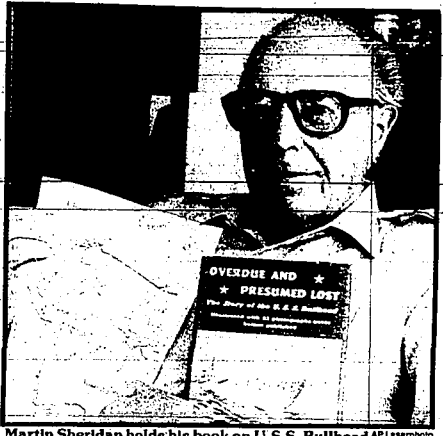

It was the 52nd submarine lost in the war. It wasn't until long after that the Bullhead's fate was learned from Japanese records.

War games train Iran suicide squads

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iran said Tuesday its war games in the narrow Persian Gulf gateway were training suicide squads to attack U.S. warships with speedboats converted into bombs.

Most commercial ships steered clear.

One shipping official said "almost no ships" were making the east-west journey through the Strait of Hormuz from the gulf, where Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980.

Traffic in the other direction, into the southern end of the gulf, was reported down by one-third to half.

Another shipping agent said a "panicky" reaction caused sharp reductions in sailings after reports, apparently exaggerated, that Iran had blocked shipping channels in the strait. Hormuz is 44 miles wide, with Iranian territory on the north shore and Oman on the south.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency quoted Cmdr. Mohammad Malekzadegan as saying: "Iran's naval forces are fully prepared to take revenge on the United States and its criminal accomplices for shedding the blood of innocent pilgrims."

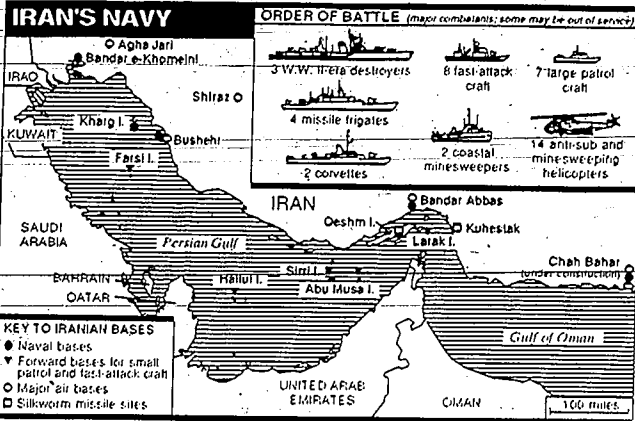

His reference was to the deaths of hundreds of Iranian pilgrims in battles with Saudi Arabian riot police Friday in the Moslem holy city of Mecca. Iran says police shot them down. The Saudis say the pilgrims were trampled to death or killed in riots.

At the United Nations in New York, Iran circulated a letter accusing U.S. warplanes patrolling the gulf of violating Iranian air space July 11. It said "any unlawful provocative act by the United States" would have "very dangerous consequences."

Iran began three days of naval maneuvers in the strait, the Persian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman at midnight Monday, telling all foreign vessels and aircraft to stay out of the waters.

It flagged Kuwaiti tanker Gas Prince and its U.S. Navy escort passed through the strait out of the gulf a few hours before the starting time.

On Tuesday, the Pentagon officially professed concern about the Iranian maneuvers, but several ranking officials said privately the next Navy convoy probably would not sail until next week.

Sources: IJSS, Jane's Fighting Ships 1986-1987; The Economist

There had been reports that one would start north on Thursday.

Iranian television showed dozens of speedboats docked at a port and others cruising in the Persian Gulf, with crews manning heavy machine guns and rocket-propelled grenade launchers.

Volunteers on shore waved a huge banner that said in Farsi, the Iranian language: "Persian Gulf of Iran, Graveyard of Reagan."

Jeps and bulldozers moved behind earthen barriers built along the coastline.

Flares and tracer bullets were fired at night. The crackle of automatic and anti-aircraft fire could be heard.

A commentary on Tehran radio said "martyrdom-seeking" volunteers "have become quite capable of approaching U.S. warships in their fast boats and dealing deadly blows."

Among Iran's weapons are "speedboats loaded with explosives" that would ram their targets in suicide attacks, the radio said.

It said the volunteers were practicing on dummy "enemy ships."

Malekzadegan, the naval officer, was quoted as saying Iranian missile systems were prepared to counter any American action. Iran has Chinese-made Silksworm missiles on its bank of Hormuz that are designed for attacking ships.

A commentary on Tehran radio said Revolutionary Guards naval units had approached three American ships escorting the Gas Prince and the Kuwaiti supertanker Bridgeton, but did not say where or when.

Three Navy vessels guarded the two ships, which now fly the American flag, on the 500-mile trip up the gulf to Kuwait last month.

"These fast boats easily approached the warships and, having carried out certain reconnaissance operations, returned to base," the radio said. "These operations demonstrated that U.S. warships have considerable weaknesses."

The speedboats made their move at a point near the Iranian coast, it said, but not more specific. The Bridgeton hit a mine on the north-bound voyage off Farsi, an island 120 miles south of Kuwait that Revolutionary Guards use as a base for speedboat attacks on shipping.

U.S. military officials have said an Iranian frigate shadowed the Gas Prince and its escort of two Navy ships on the southward voyage earlier this week but stayed several miles behind.

No close approaches were reported by the Pentagon on either trip, except for an encounter last month with an Arab show that apparently ignored instructions to keep away.

Philippine rebels kill 6 in Cebu City

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Gunmen believed to be Communist rebels killed six people Tuesday in Cebu City, including two policemen shot dead in front of dozens of frightened schoolchildren.

Most of the victims were police.

In the Manila area, police questioned two men about the assassination Sunday of a staunchly anti-Communist Cabinet member, Local Government Secretary Jaime Ferrer.

President Corason Aquino told reporters on Tuesday that police had several theories about who killed

Ferrer "but no significant leads." She refused to elaborate or answer other questions.

Police Col. Antonio Sable said two men shot two policemen at close range with automatic weapons as the officers were directing traffic in Cebu City, 350 miles south of Manila. Cebu City, with a population of 1.5 million, is the country's biggest metropolis after Manila.

Sable said the assailants fled with two accomplices who stood guard.

None of the terrified children were hurt.

Pilot describes plane trouble

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The American pilot of a cargo plane that crashed last week on a busy highway here told authorities he had problems with the plane's landing gear, officials said Tuesday.

The fatality toll from the fiery crash of the 35-year-old Boeing 377 climbed to 43, with the deaths of a man and a woman, according to the Red Cross.

Pilot Frederick Morr, 49, of Hialeah, Fla., on Monday made statements to government investigators at the American-British-Cowdroy Hospital where he was recovering from injuries suffered in last Thursday's crash.

An official of the Mexico City International Airport, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Morr complained about having landing gear problems after taking off from the airport.

But the official, who was present during the meeting, said, "This is not the only cause of the accident." He declined to provide additional details.

Local newspapers reported over the weekend that the two other crew members — co-pilot Robert Banta, 61, of North Bay Village, Fla., and flight engineer Forrest Wootton, 55, of Dade County, Fla. — said in preliminary declarations they had trouble retracting the landing gear after takeoff. They also said they were unable to get the plane to pick up altitude.

Court upholds Castro foe's acquittal

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — An appeals court on Tuesday upheld the acquittal of anti-Castro leader Orlando Bosch, who had been charged with planning the 1976 bombing of a Cuban airliner that killed 73 people.

Bosch has been jailed for 10 years as the case made its way through the Venezuelan court system. He could be freed in a few days once the ruling is formally presented in court.

The attorney general's office is expected to appeal the decision to the Supreme Court, but the courts are obliged to release Bosch on bail anyway.

The special three-judge panel of the 8th Superior Penal Court upheld the homicide convictions of two of his co-defendants, Venezuelans Hernan Ricardo and Freddy Lugo. They were sentenced to 20 years each by the lower court.

The court upheld their acquittal on charges of treason.

Water rights make for a prickly area of law

Compromise on federal rights is called for Federal official calls for regulation by states

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — There should be no further wilderness designations until a compromise is worked out on whether the areas have federal reserved water rights, a Colorado water official told a water meeting here on Tuesday.

The call follows a ruling by a federal judge in Colorado stating federal reserved water rights exist in wilderness areas. Colorado has about 1 million acres of wilderness areas and is in the midst of drawing up its wilderness requests for introduction in Congress.

Harold Miskel, director of development resource and planning, City of Colorado Springs, told the National Water Resources Association the case will end up in the U.S. Supreme Court unless a legislative compromise is worked out in Congress. Miskel is a board member and past president of the Colorado Water Congress. The association ended a two-day meeting at the Sun Valley Inn on Tuesday.

If states want more wilderness, there should be a denial that any federal water rights are created with the wilderness designation, he said.

Miskel says the City of Colorado Springs has had considerable problems with the court decision, which was upheld on appeal several months ago.

The cities of Colorado Springs and Aurora have a water project located within the Holycross Wilderness Area. Miskel says if a federal reserved water right in the wilderness is allowed to stand, it will result in a "complete disruption of the western system of diverting streams for beneficial use."

Miskel told the several hundred members of the pro-development group that "you may have a project in place but you might not have the right downstream you thought you had."

Miskel says he is not saying wilderness areas do not need any water. But he says it is a serious development when environmentalists argue that wilderness areas are entitled to the water flow that existed when the wilderness area was created. The court decision in Colorado was prompted by a lawsuit filed by the Sierra Club.

Miskel says problem with federal reserved water rights could be cleared up by Congress.

Groundwater quality is a "hot political issue" in Washington even though the data may not be there to justify the attention, Ziglar said.

The administration has an independent task force on groundwater quality. "We are not going to leave it to EPA (U.S. Environmental Protection Agency) to drive administrative policy. EPA is a regulatory body and we are not sure regulation is the answer," says Ziglar, who oversees the Bureau of Reclamation and the U.S. Geological Survey.

He says the Reagan administration will encourage rational, affordable solutions to groundwater quality problems. Since much of nation relies on groundwater for drinking and irrigation, pollution from agricultural chemicals, petroleum pipeline leaks and chemical spills has become a concern.

Ziglar says there are some steps the administration favors, including increased technical assistance to the states on groundwater issues and possibly state or regional groundwater research centers.

Greater federal support for states is needed for more scientific information and where states cannot accomplish some tasks on their own, Ziglar said.

Earlier, Phillip Cohen, chief hydrologist of USGS, painted a picture of many gaps in national knowledge about groundwater quality and quantity. For example, USGS prepared a report for Congress on nitrate pollution of the groundwater throughout the nation based on 96,000 analyses. Cohen says when one considers that there are 10,000 wells

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council estimates it is feasible, even beneficial, to provide fire protection to rural residents.

Now all the city needs is for someone to form a fire district.

The city, however, will not sit on its estimates waiting for residents to form a district. Instead, it will act as a catalyst, said Vince Alberdi, the city's special project coordinator.

At the direction of the council, city staff will contact rural residents who have previously expressed an interest in a fire district to get the ball rolling. The city will also provide technical assistance and the information its city staff has already gathered.

After inquiries from rural residents last fall, city staff began researching whether it would be feasible for the city to extend fire protection to residents.

At that time, rural residents failed to do the necessary paperwork to get the fire district formed.

This time, the city will take the initiative for the formation of a district encompassing the one-mile Area of Impact around the city. If it does not take the lead, Councilman Jim Vickers said previously, "I do not think it will ever happen."

An informational meeting on a fire district will be sponsored by the city sometime in mid-August, Alberdi said.

Yet, Alberdi added, the rural residents will ultimately determine whether a fire district "will fly or not."

At a council work session last week, City Fire Division Commander Phil Clough estimated it would cost the city about $242,000 annually to pay for the eight additional firefighters and equipment necessary to provide adequate fire protection to district residents.

About $33,000 of the annual expense would go towards a purchase of equipment through a lease-purchase agreement. The equipment would be paid for over a 10-year period, Clough said.

But, Alberdi reported to the council that an assessment on all taxable property within the proposed district will not generate enough funds to cover all the estimated operating expenses. As a result, the city would have to subsidize fire-district operations by about $30,000 a year.

Yet, council members believed the expense would be justified by the additional firefighters added to the city ranks.

Vickers said the additional firefighters would be a benefit to the city residents, as well as to the county residents in the fire district.

Councilman Gale Kleinkopf added, "I'm all for it (the district). I would like to see it go."

Although the council members were enthusiastic, they wondered whether adequate protection could be provided to the rural residents with fewer firefighters.

"If six (firefighters) will do it for us, it is better than not having a district," Mayor Doug Volmer said.

Volmer asked Clough to do further research on the minimum number of firefighters.

Rural residents now must depend on volunteer units for protection.

By supporting a fire district through a public vote, rural residents will be supporting a tax assessment on their property to pay for the fire protection.

Residents with property assessed at $40,000, for example, would be paying about $96 a year for the district at the maximum mill levy provided for by law.

For this reason, rural residents will not only receive fire protection, but probably a decrease in fire insurance costs because of the fire protection, Vickers said.

The decreased insurance costs will probably offset the tax increase, he said.

If a district is formed, its governing board would determine how fire protection would be provided to the people within the district. Contracting with the city is only one option the district officials may select, City Manager Tom Courtney said.

The district board could elect to contract with other fire departments, such as the ones in Kimberly or Jerome, or fund its own, which would be expensive, he said.

The city seems to be optimistic, however, that a district will be formed and will send a contract its way. A line item for a fire district has been added to the proposed 1987-88 city budget.

City officials invite anyone interested in helping to form a fire district to contact either Clough or Alberdi at City Hall.

Church school: Running steady

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — St. Edward's Catholic School steps into its third term this year surrounded by widening circles of students and offerings under lay administration.

The Catholic school closed in 1971 because of a shortage of nuns to staff the school. But a growing openness in the church allowed the school to reopen in 1986 with lay teachers instead of the nuns who had run the school.

"It is simply a change of time," said Principal George Shannon, a church member who has taught in public schools for 15 years.

"The thrust of that is lay involvement."

Even with lay administration, Shannon credits God-based, value-oriented education and greater family involvement as advantages to attending the church school.

This fall, enrollment stands at 116 students through fifth grade and continues to rise over previous years. Still, Shannon said Catholic enrollment could stand another push during recovery from that 14-year hiatus.

"Our enrollment is down within the Catholic community," Shannon said. "There are a lot more Catholic kids that could be going here."

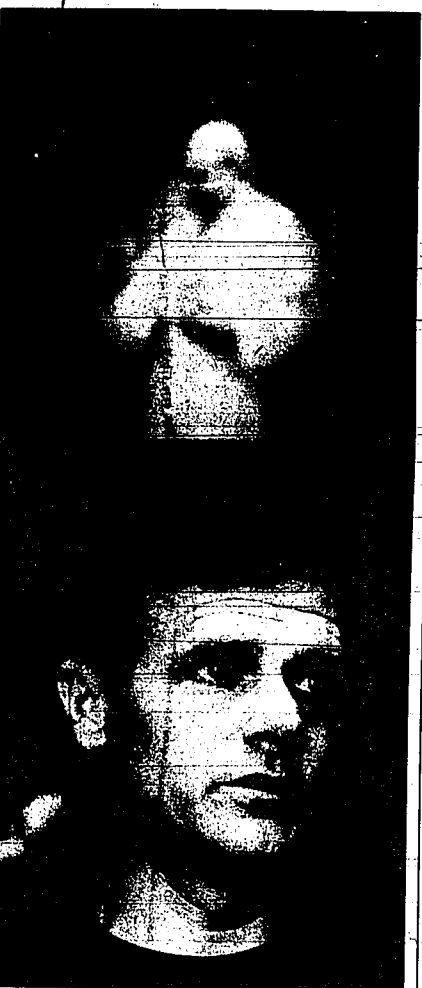

Declining numbers of women, entering the sisterhood nationwide in the early 1970s forced the closure of Catholic schools like the one in Twin Falls.

Father Perry Dodds, formerly of St. Edward's Catholic Church who now serves in Buhl, said parishioners were "absolutely spooked by the decision" when the Pennsylvania-based sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary pulled out of western convents in Idaho and Oregon in 1971.

"It is almost the case when the army is in retreat and it has to pull back from the front lines," Perry said.

At that time, replacing sisters with lay teachers was considered too costly, Dodds said. And there were concerns that lay people might not carry the same dedication as sisters—declaring their lives to the church.

However, Dodds and Shannon said there is a move toward greater lay involvement in the church since policies were modified during the second Vatican Council in the mid-1960s. Neither is disappointed with the quality of lay teachers.

St. Edward's School Principal George Shannon

St. Edward's is one of 13 Catholic schools in Idaho, Shannon said.

The educational campaign, consisting of literature explaining the law and signs that can be hung in restaurants, should start this week, Jaquet said.

One of the two residents to testify, Rainey Curtis, said in an interview Tuesday she was trying to get area residents to voice their support for the state law to encourage restaurant owners to start adhering to the law. In addition, she said if the law was more widely publicized, people would understand that it does require non-smoking sections in some restaurants.

"The act does require non-smoking sections," Curtis said, but added that Ketchum and Sun Valley restaurant owners are too independent to voluntarily comply with the state law.

2 killed in highway accidents

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two young women died in separate traffic accidents on Magic Valley highways Tuesday.

A young Salem, Ore., woman, identified as Misti Rene Neuhart, 22, was killed shortly before 9 a.m. on I-84 about five miles south of Sublett in Cassia County.

The second victim was Linda Hall, 19, of Shoshone, who died when her car, carrying three other young Lincoln County residents, overturned on U.S. Highway 93 in Jerome County after colliding with a road grader.

State Police said Neuhart was driving north on the interstate when she fell asleep and her small vehicle went off the right side of the highway.

She overcorrected and the car came back on the roadway, crossed the median and rolled over one and one-half times, coming to rest on its top in the south-bound lane of traffic.

Investigating officers said the woman was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown out as the vehicle rolled. The accident was reported to state officers at 9:14 a.m., but Cassia County officers, who reached the scene earlier, pronounced the woman dead at the scene about 9 a.m. She died of multiple injuries.

Her four-year-old daughter, Nichole, was riding in the car and was protected. She was treated for minor injuries at Cassia Memorial hospital.

The second accident occurred at 12:45 p.m. about two miles north of the junction of U.S. 93 and State Highway 25.

State police said Hall was driving north in a 1984 small sedan at an estimated 70 mph. The road grader, owned by Jerome County and operated by Edward Leroy Lewis, 29, of Jerome, was traveling north.

Lewis, who was not injured, began turning left onto the Red Bridge Road as Hall started to pass the grader on the left. Police said when she realized the grader was turning, she attempted to make a quick correction to go around the machine on the right.

However, the left front of her car collided with the right rear tire of the grader. This caused the car to flip over on its top in the roadway.

Hall and her three passengers were pinned in the overturned vehicle and officers and ambulance personnel used extrication equipment to free them.

Jerome County Coroner Gerald Oster said Hall died of head injuries.

Two of the passengers in the Hall vehicle were hospitalized with serious injuries. Listed in stable condition in St. Benedict's Family Medical Center late Tuesday were Maria Reeder, 16, who was still in surgery, and Shelby Rowlan, 16. The third passenger, Janice Eberhard, 19, was in still in the emergency room late in the day but was expected to be released.

Friends of the young Shoshone woman said they had been on an outing at Dierkes Lake in Twin Falls County and were returning to Shoshone when the accident occurred.

Hall was the only occupant of the car who was wearing a seat belt, but officers said it was the driver's portion of the car that was crushed by the impact.

Ketchum City Council favors education to smoking ban

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council has backed off a proposal to ban smoking in public areas in the city, instead deciding unanimously to mount an educational campaign to convince restaurant owners to comply with the Idaho Clean Indoor Air Act.

But one council member, Tom Held, said he may push a ban on all smoking if the educational campaign does not work satisfactorily, even though he voted for the ban.

The Idaho Clean Indoor Air Act requires restaurants with seating for more than 30 people to segregate smokers and non-smokers.

Only two people spoke at the public hearing Monday night, which was held so City Council members could determine public support for a smoking ban, said City Administrator Jim Jaquet.

The educational campaign, consisting of literature explaining the law and signs that can be hung in restaurants, should start this week, Jaquet said.

One of the two residents to testify, Rainey Curtis, said in an interview Tuesday she was trying to get area residents to voice their support for the state law to encourage restaurant owners to start adhering to the law. In addition, she said if the law was more widely publicized, people would understand that it does require non-smoking sections in some restaurants.

"The act does require non-smoking sections," Curtis said, but added that Ketchum and Sun Valley restaurant owners are too independent to voluntarily comply with the state law.

"If people want non-smoking sections, they have to insist on it," Curtis said.

Held said Tuesday he still wants a ban on smoking in public places.

"I would like to see a ban on smoking, period," Held said Tuesday. "The council did not go far enough. At least they made a step, so I went along with them."

However, Held is not giving up the fight.

"If the council does not make a decision that is a little more thorough than the state statute, the people might start an initiative," Held said. "If the initiative would pass, he said he would support an initiative."

The Ketchum City Council has been blowing smoke over banning smoking for nearly four months.

In April, Held proposed a total ban on smoking in public places, including bars, unless there was adequate ventilation to prevent the smoke from bothering non-smokers.

In May, the council again considered a smoking ban, but delayed a decision until Jaquet and City Attorney Jim Phillips could develop alternatives to the non-smoking ordinance. Resident Randy VanDyke testified in favor of the ban at that meeting, but several bar and restaurant owners said the ban would hurt business.

At its July 21 meeting, the council delayed action on the smoking ban after releasing the results from a survey of bar and restaurant owners in Ketchum. Every owner of the bar at that meeting, but several bar and restaurant owners said the ban would hurt business.

Eight restaurant owners said they thought Ketchum should adopt a non-smoking ordinance and 10 opposed the concept.

After hearing the results of the survey, the council decided to get more public input at its meeting Monday.

Motorists report 4 more shootings on Southern California freeways

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four motorists reported that shots were fired at them Tuesday on Southern California freeways, while authorities struggled to counter the violence with rewards, studies and proposed laws.

Two windows of a car driven by Anthony Barone were shattered about 9 a.m. as he was driving on the Foothill Freeway in the Tujunga area, 20 miles north of downtown Los Angeles Highway 405, Officer Kanna Rosenberg said.

Investigators believe the bullet came from a sniper in the hills along the highway, Rosenberg said. No projectile was found and Barone was not injured.

A half-hour later in Oxnard, 50 miles northwest of downtown, a car carrying three people on the Ventura Freeway was fired on from a Chevrolet Camaro. The windshield was cracked but no one was hurt, CHP Officer Jim Utter said.

Another car was hit with a bullet at 2:30 p.m. on the Golden State Freeway in the Griffith Park area, five miles north of downtown, said CHP Officer Monty Keifer. The motorist told police the shot was fired from a red car.

In Oceanside, 25 miles north of San Diego, Gary Krajewski escaped injury early Tuesday in another airport roadway shooting, said Oceanside police Officer Phil Dumais.

Krajewski, a 36-year-old U.S. customs agent, said he heard a loud noise and the passenger-side window of his car shattered.

A man arrested Tuesday was the 12th person booked in the wave of violence. Four people have been killed and 12 injured in more than three dozen shootings, rock-throwings and car-rammings in California since June 18.

"You know something is terribly wrong if people are calling up from other states wondering if it's safe to travel to Disneyland," said Highway Patrol Chief Edward Gomez. "People are simply freaking out."

Calls were coming in every 10 minutes on Monday and Tuesday to a special Highway Patrol freeway violence hotline set up last week, but many of those reports could not be confirmed, said Officer Cleo Green.

"You just name it, they've been shooting out there, so people claim," he said. "Every little thing people hear hit their car, they think it's gunfire."

"We're doing all we can to track down the shooters, but I seriously wonder if we're not losing all perspective with the incidents," Gomez said.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors offered a $25,000 reward Tuesday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone involved in a freeway shooting. The supervisors also ordered the county Sheriff's Department to start collecting statistics on the attacks.

Assistant Sheriff Jerry Harper said his department has statistics on murders, robberies and other crimes but not for freeway shootings.

"We believe the number of shootings is unusual, but don't have the figures to back it up," he said.

Assemblyman Paul Zellner called a news conference Wednesday at which he will announce legislation to increase penalties for people convicted of freeway shootings. He released no details Tuesday.

Most of those arrested so far have been booked for attempted murder. A first-degree attempted murder conviction carries a prison sentence of 25 years to life.

Meanwhile, the Highway Patrol raised a profile of the shooters, culled from data since the wave of highway violence began six weeks ago.

It showed 43 percent of the shootings have occurred on weekends and half have been committed by males, half of whom were in their cars alone. Five of the shooting suspects drove pickup trucks and two were in vans; no pattern has emerged among victims or their vehicles.

Official says condoms overrated

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Local health officials, taking issue with sentiment that condoms insure users against AIDS, say they will foot-pump to avoid the killer disease is sexual abstinence and monogamy.

Dr. Harry Gibbons, director of the Salt Lake City County Health Department, said he's convinced condom is the most overrated prophylactic device of this century.

Citing a recent report by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Gibbons said industry standards require that no more than four out of 1,000 condoms leak.

However, increased condom testing by the Food and Drug Administration led authorities to detain 19 shipments of condoms from Korea and Malaysia and recall condoms by three U.S. manufacturers.

Instead of creating safe sex, condoms provide only "less dangerous sex," Gibbons said.

"Parents need to teach their kids," he said. "They need to be aware that if they don't alter their behavior, they may affect their lives and someone else's life."

In Utah, public awareness of AIDS has boosted attendance at the city-county AIDS screening clinic, he said. Screenings have more than tripled at the facility since the beginning of the year, reaching around 280 in June.

In April, the clinic launched an anonymous testing program against the advice of the state health department. However, the public response has been tremendous, Gibbons said.

"If people want to be tested anonymously, they can walk in the door, plunk down $15 — preferably in cash, if they want to remain anonymous — and get two numbers—one a telephone number and one an ID number to claim the results," he said.

The anonymous testing is a boon to Utahns who fear they may have been exposed to the disease but are leery of including their names on any official records, Gibbons said.

Despite the increased awareness, the number of positive AIDS tests has remained relatively constant, he said.

The public must understand that AIDS is no longer a disease that attacks only homosexuals or drug abusers, Gibbons said. When the disease was first isolated, only 2 percent of the cases were transmitted through heterosexual contact. That has doubled to 4 percent, and U.S. Surgeon General Everett Koop expects it to rise to 10 percent by 1991.

Those increased figures mean everyone must be wary to stop the spread of AIDS, Gibbons said.

"In some parts of Africa, you've got a die-off occurring there," he said. "And the majority of the deaths are transmitted through prostitutes, through heterosexual promiscuity. That will happen here if it's not restrained."

Hospitals treat two drivers who fell asleep

TWIN FALLS — Idaho State Police reported two drivers who fell asleep behind the wheel were being treated in area hospitals Tuesday.

Mathew Bates, 18, of Hagerman, was injured when his small pickup truck left State Highway 46, just north of Wendell at 8:02 a.m. Tuesday. Officers said Bates was driving south when he fell asleep. The vehicle went off the left side of the highway and into a canal. Officers said he was thrown from the vehicle but was either able to get out of the water or was assisted by passing motorists.

He was taken to St. Benedict's Family Medical Center, where he was listed in fair condition.

At about 6 p.m. Monday, Judy Spencer, 43, of Rupert was injured when she fell asleep while driving east on I-84 near the Greenwood Store in Jerome County.

State police said she was alone in her vehicle and was taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital after her vehicle drifted across the highway and crashed head-on into a guard rail on the North Side Canal crossing. She remained in serious condition Tuesday.

High court reverses voiding of street fees

POCATELLO (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court has stayed orders of the 6th District Court order voiding Pocatello's controversial street repair fee and directing limited refunds of tens of thousands of dollars already collected by the city.

The high court order will remain in effect until the validity of Judge William Woodland's decision is determined by the five justices.

"Although this is only temporary, we view the Supreme Court's action as a positive sign in a major victory of sorts," City Attorney Ivan Legler said.

In his ruling last month, Woodland declared the monthly fee assessed on residents city utility bills as unconstitutional because it directed the city to cease further collections and refund money already collected from those who challenged the fee in court and others who paid it under protest since it was imposed late last summer.

In addition, Woodland ordered the city to pay about $9,000 in attorney fees incurred by those who took the city to court.

Last month, the city voted unanimously to halt collection of the fee pending a ruling from the Supreme Court, but the stay could allow the city to begin collecting the money from its 15,000 utility customers. Legler gave no indication whether the city would resume collections.

The stay does halt the prospect that the city pay both the court-ordered attorney's fees and the refunds of as much as $70,000 to some 800 customers eligible under Woodland's criteria.

The unique fee, generating about $560,000 a year, was imposed to finance major repairs to the city's deteriorating street system after voters rejected a multimillion-dollar bond issue to underwrite the work.

The city has already launched a $1-million street repaving program for the current year, and leaders have said they will go through with it although no decision has been made on replacing money that was expected from the fee.

Officials have said a number of residents have continued paying the fee voluntarily since Woodland's decision.

Shuttle test hailed success

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (AP) — The first major test of a fully redesigned space shuttle booster joint was hailed as a success Tuesday by officials from NASA and Morton Thiokol Inc.

The new joint configuration prevented super-hot gases from escaping the scaled-down rocket motor during a 60-second firing at Morton Thiokol's proving ground 20 miles west of here, said Allan McDonald, director of the company's Redesign Solid Rocket Motor Task Force.

The trial was a preliminary step toward the first full-scale test-firing of booster rocket using the redesigned joint scheduled for late August. A specific date has not been set.

"From our first look, it's a tremendous success," said McDonald. "It gives us our first hot-test proof the joint performs as it was designed to."

John Thomas, manager of NASA's redesign team, said he was especially heartened because one of the two joints in the 43-foot vertical test assembly was "deliberately flawed to see how well the new joint design and insulation materials would work."

It proved that the joint, even with defects in it, will seal, Thomas said.

Leaking gases from a faulty joint have been blamed for the Jan. 28, 1986, explosion of the shuttle Challenger. A presidential commission found that cold pre-launch temperatures prevented O-ring seals from blocking the escape of the gases, which ignited and exploded the tank's external fuel tank, killing Challenger's seven-member crew. In the redesigned joint, sections of insulation are bonded together with an adhesive and a metal lip, called the "capture feature," has been installed on the interior of the joint to secure it during launch.

In addition, a third O-ring, made of rubber-like Viton, has been added to protect the joints' primary O-ring from hot gases. In the old design, there were only two O-rings and no capture feature. Also, there was a gap between sections of insulation that was filled with putty.

NASA plans to use the new joint design when the shuttle flights resume next year. The first flight since the Challenger disaster tentatively is scheduled for June 2, 1988.

McDonald said it would take up to 30 days to fully evaluate Tuesday's test. He said his preliminary conclusions were based on a visual inspection of the two joints, which were coated with grease before the test to help determine whether there were leaks.

McDonald was one of two Thiokol engineers who were unsuccessfully against the ill-fated launch of the Challenger.

He said the deliberate flaws, all in the test assembly's lower joint, in Nebraska alone, the sample is not.

"The data on a national basis is not there," he says. USGS did not test groundwater for trace organics and heavy metals, pollutants of national concern.

What the USGS survey showed was nitrate pollution in the central valley of California, the high plains aquifer in the Midwest, all of Long Island, N.Y., and Maine, where agricultural fertilizers are used heavily in potato farming.

Given 100 years of effort, this is all we can say about the chemical quality of the nation's groundwater on a national scale," Cohen said.

Thomas Humphrey, a Washington attorney who gave a legislative briefing, raised the question of whether federal agencies know enough about groundwater to intelligently put into effect a program to protect the resource.

The consensus in Congress is that the knowledge has to be improved, and the federal government should pay for this effort, he said.

Last year the administration opposed groundwater bills on budgetary grounds but now EPA Administrator Leo Thomas says some groundwater legislation would be appropriate, Humphrey said.

But Ziglar attacked a bill introduced by Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., which would prevent groundwater from being degraded anywhere. He said that is not only scientifically impossible but it is the kind of thinking that gave rise to the Sage Brush Rebellion.

The Sage Brush Rebellion was a political movement calling for the federal government to turn its lands over to the states.

Other bills proposed include two that would make USGS the lead agency for groundwater research and another House bill that would give EPA this responsibility. Senate Bill 1106 combines the approach with EPA taking the lead on groundwater pollution and USGS on taking an inventory of existing resources.

Senate Bill 20 requires the development of criteria for 100 groundwater pollutants. The states would be required to develop standards for how much pollution would be tolerated. The bill calls for 17 to 18 new federal programs similar to what was proposed for underground storage tanks.

Among the targets of the bill are pesticides and controlling runoff from animal feedlots.

Senate Bill 1419 would require companies to tell how much their pesticides leach. If leaching occurred, the state or EPA would be required to take action. The ultimate sanction is EPA would refuse to register a pesticide in a state that did not comply with the rules.

grade was 71 students in 1985 and jumped to 91 students in 1986 with the addition of fourth grade.

Nevertheless, Shannon said enrollment could grow further once trust is built in the community. Changes in the overall church also test the faith of families considering Catholic schools, he said.

The school features six lay teachers this year and Shannon as principal. The school and all its teachers are state certified, said Shannon, who taught in a Twin Falls School District off and on between 1972 and 1985.

He said he faces the same teacher shortage public schools encounter, compounded by the preference to hire Catholic teachers.

"We weave God throughout each subject," said Shannon, adding it would not be fair to teachers or students if instructors were uncomfortable including that in the curriculum.

The school's coffers are filled with tuition, a small parent subsidy, fundraising and donations, Shannon said.

Tuition is less for Catholics because their families also contribute to parish, Shannon said. Tuition for Catholics is about $85 a month for students in grade school, while non-Catholics are charged $115 a month, he said.

Registration continues through the start of school Aug. 27, but Shannon said a total of 116 students registered for pre-kindergarten, or 4-year-olds, through fifth grade.

Rights

The Colorado Water Congress is working on the issue with the American Farm Bureau, the Northwest Resource Association and the eki industry, he says.

Miskal says if there are federal reserved water rights in wilderness areas the question is what is the quantity and the priority and how would the rights be administered.

By the state, the federal government, the Sierra Club? he asked.

The issue has split the Colorado Congressional delegation and it has held up the designation of any additional wilderness.

"Most of the western states stood by Colorado in this matter," he says.

Committee plans to call for general contractor license law

BOISE (AP) — A legislative study committee voted Tuesday to work on a recommendation to the next Legislature for a general contractor licensing law.

The state requires licensing only of contractors on public works projects such as state, city, county or school district construction.

Ron Hodge of the Legislative Council staff will prepare legislation to be reviewed by the next meeting of the study committee.

Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, said people who are not experts in construction need protection and quality assurance from contractors.

"In the kind this bill is intended for," she said. She urged a bill with teeth in it. "Unless there is some protection for the public, there is no need to have a license," she said.

Ma. McDermott, a lawyer, said she has been looking for a new home and has been appalled at the "shoddy, sloppy" construction she has encountered, obvious even to a nonprofessional such as herself.

Especially in tight economic conditions, she said, unqualified people are tempted to call themselves contractors.

"It appears that if you have a pickup and some spare time, you should qualify as a contractor," she said.

She said there are many good contractors who try to follow the rules and do good work.

She suggested they would not object to a state licensing requirement, based on objective standards and designed to guarantee a minimum quality level from contractors.

Burlier, witnesses before the committee endorsed the idea of a statewide licensing law.

"I'd like to see contractors licensed. The quality of work could increase over what we have now," said David Leatham, general manager of Idaho Concrete Co.

Caldwell and a member of the board of the Idaho Concrete and Aggregate Association.

Several witnesses suggested a state licensing law would be a good idea, but proposed that the present boards for groups such as electricians and plumbers should be retained.

Merle Starke, J.M. Starke Building Farms, said there should be some sort of state agency to police violations by contractors.

"Contractors shouldn't have to police their own, and I definitely won't," he said.

Starke said he would oppose any effort to require local licensing, making general contractors get a new license whenever they did a project outside their home town.

"I wouldn't like to see anything that hurts small businessmen, but we do need some laws," he said.

Starke said in his area, half the contractors don't pay workmen's compensation or unemployment taxes. "Sometimes you wonder if it is worth being legal," he said.

In response to questions from committee members, Starke said he would recommend one general contractor license, covering everything from small residential remodeling projects to major office buildings.

Jack King, Kellogg, chairman of the state Electrical Board, urged a cautious approach. He suggested some sort of regulation that helps insure that construction is safe, but does not eliminate competition.

He said Idaho should not take the approach used in the state of Washington, which he termed a "police state." He said the Washington electrical contractor licensing test is made very difficult to pass and only 2 percent of those who take it succeed.

"It's basically a test to eliminate competition," he said.

Leatham said it appears a general contractor licensing law in the state of Nevada is working well. Under it, he said, the state agency goes after contractors who won't make good on home warranty repairs.

Without such a law, he said, it would be up to the homeowner to attempt to collect.

Officials reviewing jail options

POCATELLO (AP) — Bannock County officials have begun reviewing options to comply with a court order mandating improvements at aging county jail, and taxpayers could be asked to finance construction of a new facility.

"It's a serious problem, and we're going to attempt to do what the judge has directed us to do," Sheriff S.R. Gamson said.

Construction of a new jail was only one option under review as architects developed working drawings and cost figures of other ways to comply with last week's order by Magistrate Boyd White.

Under the threat that he might order the jail closed, White gave the county until mid-August to submit a plan for making the improvements, which included the addition of an exercise yard, two fire escapes, a fire door in the kitchen, an inmate law library and repair of all plumbing problems within five days.

White also directed that jail menus be approved by a registered dietitian every six months, eating utensils be sterilized daily, tes. inmates be provided disposable razors instead of a community razor, and prescription drugs no longer be routinely crushed prior to being given to inmates.

Boise jury will be called for Rhoades

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A 7th District Court judge has ordered the jury for the murder trial of Paul Ezra Rhoades to be made up of residents from the Boise area, but Judge Larry Boyle says the trial itself will still be held in the Bonneville County Courthouse in October as scheduled.

Boyle rejected the defense attorneys' plea to completely move Rhoades trial out of Bonneville County because of massive publicity over the slayings because he felt that would not be in the interests of Rhoades, the victims' families or the residents of the entire eastern Idaho region.

But, in issuing his ruling, he conceded that because of the extensive publicity the case has garnered, "The danger and concern is that a potential juror or potential jury panel from Bonneville County may not be able to separate the inadmissible information carried in news media coverage before trial from evidence presented and admitted at trial."

Boyle will hear arguments today on a defense motion to void the state restrictions on the use of, in essence, a defense for the client.

Governor: Quality pays off in education

BOISE (AP) — After years of trying, an old attitude has been changed in Idaho, Gov. Cecil Andrus said Tuesday night.

"We now have...a consensus concerning education. The old argument over whether we can afford good schools has been replaced by agreement on the fact we can't afford not to have good schools," the governor said, in a speech prepared for the 10th annual summer leadership conference of the Idaho Education Association.

"Concern over the amount of money we spend on education has been replaced by the belief that we must make an investment in our future," Andrus said. "And I believe I can say with some certainty that never again in Idaho are we going to debate how important education is to our economic development efforts."

The governor also said there is agreement "that we all want a quality education system that provides the best possible advantage for Idaho's young people."

After attending a national gathering of governors last week, Andrus said Idaho cannot afford to provide quality education to its children.

Cold grain salads Make hot summer meal ideas

During this "potluck" season, salads can be cool, delicious and easy to prepare. But, if you're tired of the standard lettuce and tomato fare, here are a few guaranteed to make you the hit of any party.

Island-Barley-Salad combines bay scallops and shrimp with pearl barley. Color and fiber are added with corn and broccoli. Pearl barley is partially hulled barley with some but not all — of the bran removed.

Spicy Bulgur And Tofu Salad features the mildly nutty taste of bulgur with zucchini and green onions. Tofu complements the textures and flavors adding low-calorie, low-fat protein. Bulgur (also known as cracked wheat) is available in fine, medium or coarse grades.

Oriental Black Bean and Orzo Salad is a well-seasoned dish that combines orzo pasta, black beans with hot pepper sauce, and grated fresh ginger. Snow peas and red and yellow pepper strips provide appealing and nutritious color. Orzo is often called "Italian barley" because of its small, pearl-like appearance.

ISLAND BARLEY SALAD
 1 can (14½ ounces) clear ready-to-serve chicken broth
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 small clove garlic, minced
 4 ounces medium shrimp, shelled and deveined
 1 ounce bay scallops
 1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
 ½ cup pearly barley
 1 cup thinly sliced broccoli stems
 ½ cup corn
 ¼ cup sliced celery
 1 tablespoon chopped onion
 1-tablespoon-chopped fresh chives

In a 3-quart casserole dish, combine ¼ cup of the broth, lemon juice and garlic. Add the seafood (arrange so the scallops are in the center and the shrimp are around the outside of the dish). Cover and microwave on High 1½ minutes or until shrimp are pink and scallops are opaque. Transfer to a small bowl; stir in the mustard, cover and set aside.

In the casserole, combine remaining broth and barley. Cover and microwave on High 5 minutes.

Hearty soup gives quick pick-up on busy August days

I'm probably the fastest jogger in the whole of Magic Valley. During an early morning jaunt with dog, we were watching the birds, the cows, the water... when suddenly right beside us appeared a farcious bundle of fur. The dog is a nice pooch, but sometimes not too swift. I outpaced him by leaps and bounds while he discovered this black and white creature was NOT a cat and had a secret weapon.

Do you know how much tomato juice it takes to wash a 110-pound pooch? Gallons! And this was after purchasing an expensive bottle of stuff from the vet. Actually, I don't think the dog really learned anything either, so we'll try a different route for a while.

August is actually busier than December. That's nothing new to you, right? So this month you may just want some new ideas that are fast and I, doesn't hurt that they are delicious too.

Here are some for you to try that might hit the spot.

Nancy Joy Jones

chill overnight. Garnish and serve in icy bowls. Makes 8 servings.

This next one is a great summer dish because it can be served hot and fresh but it is also great cold. You know how much time that can save the cook. This makes 6 servings.

BASIC FRITATTA
 2 tablespoons butter
 1 large clove garlic
 1 pound potatoes, boiled, cooled, and sliced (can have skins on) mushrooms, 3-ounce can drained, or 1/2 pound fresh, washed and sliced
 1 cup cooked green beans
 1 small jar pimientos or 1/2 cup sliced red pepper (green is okay)
 6 large eggs, broken into a bowl and beaten with a fork ½ teaspoon thyme or oregano, dried or ½ teaspoon fresh salt and pepper

sliced lunch meat, bacon, sausage, spam, can of vienna sausages, drained or any leftover cooked meat (especially spicy stuff)

Note that these directions take longer if you are using fresh vegetables rather than canned.

Melt the butter in a 10-inch skillet. Mince the garlic and add to the butter. Now add the potato slices and fry over medium heat until golden (about 3 minutes). Carefully turn potatoes or shake them in pan so they don't break but are browned on all sides.

Add the mushrooms and beans and half the pepper or pimiento. Shake the pan gently to mix the vegetables and cook until crisp-tender.

Add the thyme or oregano plus the salt and pepper to the eggs, beat again with a fork to mix well. Now

Idahoan serves up favorites in book

By DIANE SCHORZMAN
 Times-News correspondent

Irma Haley and her husband, J. Roy, have farmed in the Castleford area for 45 years. Through the years she has collected 350 cookbooks and numerous files full of clipped recipes. She has won many awards for her cooking at county fairs, and three years ago, decided to create a cookbook of her own.

"I've always been interested in cooking and recipes and collecting recipes," Irma says. "With the increased interest in cooking and cookbooks I thought it would be a good idea to put out my own."

Irma received her BA in home economics at the age of 40, when her children were in school, and her MS at the age of 50. She taught home economics in the Castleford schools for 18 years.

With the encouragement of her family and friends, she began sorting recipes and looking for a cookbook publisher. Last month she received her finished cookbook, entitled, "Unbearably Delicious Recipes of Irma Haley, Her Family and Friends."

"It covers all phases of meal preparation," says Irma. Her book also contains many helpful tables and charts to make cooking and baking easier.

Irma has tasted every one of the 400 recipes featured in the book, either in her own kitchen or the kitchens of her family and friends.

Most of the recipes contain a personal note from the author explaining the story behind each one.

"There are many historic recipes," says Irma, "recipes that have been handed down through the families, such as my Grandmother Lehman's Mincemeat and my aunt's Sauerkraut Supreme."

The dessert section of the book contains more than 30 cake recipes, many of which were passed down through Irma's family. Included is the angel food cake recipe that Irma received from a neighbor in 1930. She says she won a prize at the county fair with a cake she made from this recipe when she was 12 years-old.

Haley's attractive, spiral-bound cookbook is available at Jud's Books and the Made In Idaho shop in Twin Falls; the Beauty Peddler and the Senior Citizen's center in Buhl; and J&D Printing and the Beauty Nook in Castleford. Here are a few tasty samples:

4-Hers learn principles of microwaving More to technique than pushing buttons

By JOAN BEAN
 Times-News correspondent

JEROME — It's county fair time in Jerome, and for Barbara Morales the Jerome County Extension Home Economist, this means spending lots of time in the 4-H building, surrounded by sewing projects, and displays pertaining to food — including some about microwave cooking.

This has been the first year for the 4-H microwave project. Morales, who is a resource person for about 20 leaders, says everyone has had fun with it, adding that "there is a lot of good kid food in it that can be done in the microwave."

Along with the joy of preparing and eating things like peanut butter crispies, and pizza snacks, she says the kids learn some new cooking principles such as what standing time is (The time it takes for the cooking process to finish). The microwave energy is still moving around in the food product for several minutes, depending on how dense the food is, and how microwave energy really works. They were also taught some safety precautions.

For instance, she says attempting to boil eggs in the microwave oven is dangerous. Pressure builds up inside the shell, they can explode, make a mess and even burn the cook.

Although the cooking dish is not being heated while microwaving, the food often gets hot, and transfers heat to the dish. "So people need to be aware you still need pot holders, and you still need to be aware of steam, and steam burns, when you remove the lid," Morales says.

And to prevent microwave radiation leakage, she says the door seal must be kept clean, and care should be taken not to abut napkins or paper towels in the door that might prevent it from being properly latched. If there is any question whether a microwave oven door is latching properly, she says it should not be used until it has been checked and repaired by someone qualified to do so.

The 4-Hers are told to use glass and paper products in the ovens and that metal is not suitable, because when the microwaves are bouncing around in there, they will arc and can burn out the magnetron tube. Metal also repels the microwaves, so the food will not cook.

She says china with platinum bands have enough metal to cause arcing, and some pottery contains a lot of metal. Pottery can be tested by placing a cup of water in it and heating it to boiling in the microwave. If the dish is warm, it probably has some metal in it.

Morales says she cannot think of anything that cannot be cooked in the microwave, as long as you know the right techniques. "She gives first-hand experience in her own kitchen, where for two years, she had no other means of cooking because her house lacked a stove or conventional oven."

"We learned to do a lot of things," she says, "and I think it really teaches you how to get the most out of your microwave, when you do not have any other choice."

She says it is not necessary to use special microwave recipes. "I think people can learn to take those recipes they have developed over the years, and adapt them to microwave cooking."

However, she says that it does take some experimenting, but that there are books available to take the mystery out of microwave cooking. One is called "Recipe Conversions for Microwaves," one volume in the "Microwave Cooking Library" published by Cy De Sosno Inc.

Otherwise, it's just a matter of common sense. For example, Morales says vegetables cooked on top of the stove, might be stirred as they cook. In the microwave, you can also stir them, for more

TWIN FALLS — Not all Magic Valley residents are lucky (or crazy) enough to have a vegetable garden this summer, let alone a mature fruit tree or two. We sadly watch as many industrious neighbors lug overflowing tubs of "free" produce to their kitchens. It is nice to know, then, that there are avenues available to those of us who would like to reap the cost-saving and palate-delighting benefits of a garden without actually having one.

Large-scale public orchards and U-pick vegetable acreages offer a wonderful alternative to consumers who want high quality produce but don't have the time or space to maintain their own gardens. The early work has been done by a professional — all we need to supply is the harvesting muscle.

Kelly's Canyon Orchard, a family owned and operated business located two miles south of Filer and seven miles north down into the canyon itself, is one place where fruit-hungry shoppers can come.

"My husband, Richard's, grandfather homesteaded here," says Susan Kelley, "so these orchards are over 80 years old. We're open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week."

The Kellys are finishing up the apricot season, and heading into the peach season. "These orchards are delicious for slicing and eating fresh and for freezing," she says. "Their texture doesn't hold up as well in water bath canning. The later varieties work better for this purpose."

Unusually hot weather conditions are pushing up the harvesting seasons of all the fruit. "We usually offer our late peaches around the first of September, but this year we may be looking at mid-August," Kelley says. "These are the peaches we open up the public picking. Presently, we are picking the fruit and offering it pre-boxed to our customers. Everyone jokingly complains that everything comes all at once...back-to-school...shopping. Labor Day, celebrating, fair exhibiting, and coming out to pick peaches. This year, with the weather's cooperation, we're going to be able to help by giving them a two week jump on the peaches."

The Kellys sell their fruit primarily by the bushel, but also have been selling many half bushels and even fruit by the pound. And for those in Twin Falls who want to save the driving time, they offer all their fruit at their local store, the Kelley Garden Center.

Two miles south of Buhl on the Castleford Highway, is another family business, "Southwick's Produce. Nine acres of their 40-acre farm are taken up with their U-pick garden.

"Each year we expand, adding nearly an acre every time," says Jack Southwick, owner/operator. "Southwick's offers a wide variety of fresh vegetables, and their large roadside sign lets picking enthusiasts know what is available daily."

"Right now, we're offering red potatoes, beets, snap beans, cucumbers, Walla Walla sweet onions and zucchini, and tomatoes should be coming on strong this week, too," explains Frank Southwick.

"We dig all of our own potatoes, but everything else is U-pick," he says. "We have a lot of information on other vegetables of customers. The best is, however, the cost for that quest is added to the bushel price."

The Southwicks are open from "dawn 'til dusk, daily." Pickers are asked to supply their own containers and to come prepared to have fun.

"Kids really love to help harvest," says Wilma Southwick with a chuckle. "Just this morning I looked out the window and saw eight little backpacks slung over the rising sun and fingers just a pickin'."

"In the fall when our pumpkins come on, it really looks beautiful," says Jack. "The acre patch is upon a hill, and as the vines die, the orange really stands out. Grade school classes come out to pick their own Halloween pumpkins."

"The savings to the consumer are considerable at the U-pick prices. For example, 20 ears of corn can be purchased for a dollar."

U-pick farms are an excellent resource even for seasoned gardeners who sometimes find they didn't have as large a yield of a certain crop as they had hoped, or that other varieties didn't produce at all. They can pick as much or as little of whatever varieties they need for canning, freezing or drying.

So don't despair if you didn't get a garden in this year, or if the one you did plant was a disappointment. By taking advantage of local produce outlets, you can still enjoy the benefits of fresh, homegrown produce and let your family members get their hands dirty together as well.

Here is a delicious recipe for those red potatoes that are coming on so strong now. It's easy to prepare and goes well with barbecued meat.

POTATO AND SPINACH CASSEROLE

1 1/2 cups fresh spinach, cooked and drained (a 10 ounce box of frozen works)

Rojello and Gertudiz Ornelas bag ripe tomatoes off the vine at Southwick's Produce

6 medium to large red potatoes, boiled and drained
1 cup sour cream (use part plain yogurt to cut down calories)
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Dash of dill
6 green onions, finely chopped
1/2 cup cheddar with sour cream and butter. Add spinach, green onions, and seasonings. Stir gently and place in a lightly greased 8 x 11 inch casserole dish. Sprinkle top with 1/2 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Corn is at its delightful best when fresh. Left Sevens four and microwaved, it's both simple and delicious.

MICROWAVED CORN IN THE HUSK

1 to 5 ears of ripe corn in husks
Place ears on a platter side by side and microwave on high 3 to 4 minutes per ear. Halfway through the cooking time, flip them end over and resume heating. With a kitchen glove to protect your hands, remove husks and quickly serve immediately.

We're almost at the end of apricot season, but here is a special pie filling that features this wonderful fruit.

APRICOT PIE FILLING

4 1/2 cups apricots, pitted and quartered (press firmly when measuring)

1/4 cups sugar, white or brown
1/4 cup flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 egg
1/4 teaspoon salt

Pour prepared apricots into a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients and stir gently. Use in your favorite two-crust pie dough recipe. Dot filling with butter before covering with top crust. Sprinkle top crust with cinnamon and sugar and a dash of nutmeg. This filling can be frozen for later use, too. It fills a 1 quart freezer bag to the brim. Make sure to thaw completely before pouring into pie crust. Bake in a 425 degree oven for about an hour.

Microwave

even cooking.
Foods that cannot be stirred, such as meatloaf, need to be rotated. The cook must learn what to stir, and what not to stir — what to rotate, and how to control the temperature. She says most microwaves have power settings on them equal to settings on conventional ovens.

She says she converted an apple cake recipe to microwave, and "most" of the experimenting was in time. The rest of it was microwave techniques we use in other things. She baked it part way at 50 percent power, explaining that keeping the energy level low gives the leavening agent a chance to work, and the cake a chance to rise before it crutes over on the top. In the conventional oven, the time period in the oven is long enough to allow that rising before the brown forms over the top.

APPLE DAPPLE CAKE

1 1/2 cups salad oil
2 cups sugar
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups chopped apples (chopped fine in food processor, results in a lighter cake. If chopped by hand, it is more of a fruit cake.)
1 1/2 cups chopped pecans, walnuts or other nuts

Blend the eggs, oil and sugar. Sift the flour, salt and soda together and add to the egg mixture. Add the vanilla, apples and nuts, and stir well. Pour into a greased and floured 10-15 minute microwave safe pan. Topping will be poured onto cake while it is still in pan. Once it has been poured on, and it is cool, cake may be turned out onto cake plate. The topping soaks into the cake.

The topping:
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup butter or margarine
Combine and cook in the microwave at 100 percent power, until it comes to a boil. Microwave 2 minutes at 70 percent power. Pour on the cake while it is hot.

"The cake has a spicy flavoring," she says, "but not strong, and it is not terribly sweet."
Morales says she likes recipes that don't take many special ingredients — "most of the stuff, you have got around the house, so you do not have to go to the store."

Her next microwave recipe utilizes garden vegetables.

CLASSIC VEGETABLE FRIEZE

Serves four
The entree:
1 1/2 cups thinly sliced carrots
2 cups medium zucchini, cut into 2 1/2 inch strips
2 cups cauliflower, cut in little florettes
1 cup whole mushrooms, quartered
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon salt
8 ounces of linguine or spaghetti

cooked and drained

The Sauce:
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons fresh chopped parsley

Arrange vegetables on a 12-inch round microwave-safe platter. Combine butter and salt. Spoon over the vegetables. Cover the platter with plastic wrap, leaving one edge open to vent. Microwave on high power 7-11 minutes, rotating the platter once. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes before testing for crisp-tender doneness. To make the sauce, place the butter in a one quart microwave-safe glass measuring cup. Microwave on high power 30 seconds or until melted. Stir in the onion. Cook on high power one minute or until onion is tender. Stir in the flour, salt and pepper and mix until smooth. Blend in milk. Microwave on high power 3-5 minutes or until thick, stirring every minute. Stir in the cheese and parsley. Top of the pasta, and then pour the sauce on top.

"It's a real pretty dish," she says, "it has a good fresh vegetable taste. And just that little bit of Parmesan sheen in it gives it that creamy flavor, but it's not a heavy sauce at all."

She says one of her favorite microwave recipes is one for muffin batter which can be stored in the refrigerator for six weeks. So, each morning batter for six muffins may be spooned into a microwave muffin ring, and in 3-4 minutes you have six fresh muffins.

WHEAT AND BRAN MUFFIN MIX

1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup sugar
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups water
4 cups whole bran cold cereal
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/2 cups of fresh or reconstituted dry buttermilk
2 cups bran flakes cereal
1 tablespoon salt
3 cups flour
2 cups whole wheat flour

In a large microwave safe bowl, bring water to a boil. Stir in the whole bran cereal and let it stand 5 minutes. In another bowl, mix the oil and sugar. Add the eggs and set that aside. Stir the baking soda and the buttermilk into the bran cereal. Mix the oil and sugar mixture and then stir in the bran flakes, the salt, flour and whole wheat flour. Pour into a 12 cup container with a tight fitting lid. Label with the contents, date and baking instructions. Store in the refrigerator and use within 6 weeks.
Microwave Cooking Instructions: Line custard cups or microwave muffin pan with waxpaper paper or parchment. Fill the cups half full. Using a rubber cupping device, in a circle in the microwave oven, and then microwave according to the following chart: rotating the muffin pan or custard up every 45 seconds. For one muffin: 20-40 seconds, two muffins: 30-90 seconds, four muffins: 1-2 1/2 minutes, six muffins: 2 1/2-4 1/2 minutes. Remove muffins immediately. The baking time may vary, depending on power supply and microwave.

Morales' 10-year-old daughter, Dieder, has been learning how to microwave in the Pains 4th Club, and has a display at the fair. She says she likes the microwave, because "it doesn't take so long."

For her grandmother's birthday, she surprised her with a chocolate sheet cake that took only about 20 minutes to microwave. She says she also likes to cook rice in the microwave oven.

NICE RICE

Serves four
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups water
1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon or 3 chicken bouillon cubes
1 cup of long grain rice
Put the butter and water in a 3 quart microwave-safe casserole. Microwave uncovered at 100 percent power for 5 minutes, or until boiling. Stir in the bouillon and rice. Cover the casserole with the lid or vented plastic wrap. Microwave on 50 percent power for 3 1/2 minutes. Stir, then microwave, covered, for 12-14 minutes more at 50 percent power, stirring once or twice, until the moisture is absorbed. Allow five minutes standing time at the stove.
Another Pains and Pains club member, 14-year-old Jim Ohienscheln, says he has taken cooking for the past six years that he has been a 4-H member. He likes microwave cooking best, because it cooks quickly, and because "it tastes about the same."

PIZZA CASSEROLE

Serves four
1 pound hamburger
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/8 ounce can tomato paste
1 1/4 ounce can mushroom pieces, drained
3/4 cup or 3 ounces of chopped pepperoni
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves, crushed
1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
1/2 teaspoon ground pepper
2 cups uncooked noodles
1 cup or 4 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Crumble the hamburger into a plastic collander. Add the chopped onions

Rest the plastic collander in a quart glass measure or microwave safe bowl. Microwave on 100 percent power for 3 minutes. Break up the meat with a fork. Microwave for another 1 1/2 to 3 minutes on 100 percent power. Stir again with a fork. If there is still some uncooked meat, microwave for another minute on 100 percent power. Pour the grease into an empty can or other suitable container. Put the drained meat and onions into a 2-4 quart microwave safe casserole dish. Add the green pepper, tomato paste, mushrooms, pepperoni, salt, garlic powder, oregano, basil, pepper, water and uncooked noodles, and stir. Cover the casserole with a lid or vented plastic wrap and microwave on 100 percent power for 5 minutes. Stir well with a wooden spoon and re-cover the casserole. Microwave for another 5 minutes at 100 percent power. Stir again. If the noodles are not tender, re-cover the casserole and microwave on 100 percent power for an additional 2-3 minutes, and then stir again. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese and Parmesan cheese. Microwave uncovered for 1-1 1/2 minutes at 100 percent power or until the cheese is melted.

Oh, what flavors local fairs have to offer

By DANA WATERS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Fair season... that time of year when county residents rustle up the best of their labor and energy. Here and Future Farmers of America tug on livestock ropes while around them, the aromas of delicious food drift through the air.

Three county fairs are slated to begin this week. And, from Camasa County's "Pie Out" to Cassia County's Bean Bake Off, each will have a flavor... literally all its own.

Mindmaker County will kick off the season with its fair and rodeo combo that runs from Aug. 3-9 in Rupert at the county fairgrounds. The exposition buildings will be open Wednesday evening at 6 p.m. through Saturday noon.

"We always have a fantastic produce show," says Sarah Wright of the extension office. "And the candies... I just didn't know so many kinds existed."

The local Democrats will be peddling baked potatoes for their cause, and many churches will have booths, too. The 4-H leaders will host a complementary Buyer's Breakfast to all prospective livestock shoppers on Saturday at 7 a.m. in their food booth. The breakfast will be followed at 9 a.m. by the Fat Stock sale.

"We have a wonderful place to display our quilts this year too," says Wright. "Right now it looks a bit like a hangman's platform, but the quilts will change that. We've never had room to spread them all out before."

Local music talent of Plain Country and Rain Tree will be featured in a public concert this evening at 7:30 p.m. and special Mule Show Finals will be Friday night at 6:30 p.m.

Jerome County's fair and rodeo begins today and runs through Saturday.

"We are trying something new in our Women's Building this year," says Barbara Morales, the county's home economist. "We are offering a food preservation information booth which will be run by trained, certified volunteers of the Master Food Preservers Organization which comes through the University of Idaho. These volunteers had to pass an exam for their certification, so will be well qualified to answer questions."

Local 4-Hers will be giving food demonstrations on Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. and there will also be a series of even demos. The sugar, factory and wheat commission will be on hand to give awards to county food exhibitors.

The Camasa County fair will begin Thursday and run through Sunday.

The local school's astronaut club will be serving barbecued ribs, the American Legion, hamburgers, and Dairy Queen is bringing the hot Camasa prairie bringing up a refrigerated truck this year.

Camasa Grain and The Specialty Shop will be sponsoring a bread baking contest on Thursday. County contestants are asked to bring their cooled-and-unbleached entries in from 10 a.m. and judging in the four categories of white, whole wheat, quick and sweet roll will begin at noon. Prizes will be awarded to adults and to junior bakers aged 16 and under. All bread from the contest will be served at the community potluck that evening at 6 p.m. in the Stan Froenstrom 4-H Memorial Park, and winners will be announced. Entertainment that evening will include a cow chip toss and a beauty pageant for local women to obtain the coveted title of "Miss Prairie Dog." This contest thriller will be M.C.'d by Boise's Paul J. Schneider whose tasteful joke started the idea for the pageant a year ago.

On Sunday at 7 a.m., the American Legion will host a breakfast at Zane's Park. Fair food at its finest will be served at the "Pie Out" from 4 to 7 p.m. back at the 4-H park. Pork that will be pit-barbecued for 24 hours is the featured entrée, complimented by corn on the cob and baked potatoes.

"You'll be given a little over a week to rest and let out your seams until Cassia County resumes the festivities in Burley with its fair running Aug. 17-22.

"This year our local chapter of Idaho Women for Agriculture is sponsoring a Bean Bake-Off. Last year we featured potatoes and it was such a hit that we wanted to try it again but to feature another locally grown commodity," says Jean Parr of the extension office.

The cook-off will begin Thursday, Aug. 20, at 5:30 p.m. and judging will be in three separate classes: main dish, salad, and "unusual" dishes, all to feature dried beans.

"The dishes will be judged 50 percent on flavor, 25 percent on appearance and 25 percent on appeal — would you go back for more?" says Parr. "It's going to be a great contest and we're really looking forward to it."

In the Home Economics Building, the Kerr Awards will be back after an absence of 10 years. Cassia County Wheat Growers will be offering prizes to bakers in seven categories and Amalgamated Sugar will be giving awards in cake decorating.

"We've added a dried food's section for our exhibitors this year," says Parr. "It will feature jerky, smoked fish, cured meat, sausage and salami."

On the morning of Aug. 22, the 4-Hers will host a complementary Buyer's Breakfast to thank their local sponsors.

Blaine County's fair will be held in Carey, Aug. 18-22.

Local 4-Hers will be on hand for food demonstrations Aug. 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. On Aug. 21 from 5:30 to 7 p.m., there will be a community barbecue with beef and lamb. 4-Hers will supply the salads and desserts. Entertainment that evening will include the awards ceremony for the open horse show competitors who will have been competing in various events for several weeks prior to the fair in Hailley, and the Harries Team Obstacle Course Races. That action begins at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by the rodeo at 8 p.m.

"We'll have the usual food exhibits this year," says Lisa Baird of the extension office. "Cakes, breads, candies... and we've added dried foods to our list, too." The fun continues in Gooding County, Aug. 20-22.

The 4-Hers Barbecue will feature pit-barbecued beef, gelslaw, potato salad and watermelon. For more information, contact the local extension office at 934-4401.

The Migrant Council will sponsor a Mexican Food Booth, and the local church, Grange, and Optimist Club will have booths too. Even breakfast foods will be served.

The fair season will culminate with the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo Sept. 8-12. Even at this early date, all spaces for commercial and other food sellers have been filled.

Stir, then microwave on Medium for 20 more minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Stir once during this second cooking step. Add the reserved seafood mixture, broccoli, corn, celery, onion and chives. Toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours before serving. Makes 3 1/2 cups or 6 servings.

Add the remaining ingredients and toss until well mixed. Cover and refrigerate until serving time — at least 4 hours. Makes 4 1/2 cups or 6 servings.

— If fresh coriander is unavailable, double the parsley.

— For a more "authentic" flavor, consider using rice wine vinegar.

Cover and microwave on High 5 minutes or until boiling. Stir, then microwave on Medium 10 minutes, stirring once during cooking. Let stand 5 minutes. Rinse the orzo in a colander, then return it to the casserole. Add beans, peppers, snow peas, onions and the dressing. Toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours before serving. Makes 3 cups or 6 servings.

fork-tender; rearrange chicken once during cooking. Remove chicken from casserole and set aside to cool.

In the casserole, combine remaining broth and rice. Cover and microwave on High 4 minutes or until boiling. Stir and cook 10 more minutes on Medium. Stir in peas, cover and let stand 5 minutes or until liquid is absorbed.

Meanwhile, cut chicken into bite-size pieces. Add chicken and dressing to rice mixture and toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours. Before serving, stir in the toasted pecan pieces; garnish attractively with pecan halves. Makes 4 cups or 6 servings.

1 to 2 teaspoons finely chopped jalapeno
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup diced zucchini
1 cup crumbled tofu

ORIENTAL BLACK BEAN AND ORZO SALAD

1 can (14 1/2 ounces) clear ready-to-serve chicken broth
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons rice wine vinegar
1/4 teaspoon grated ginger
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1/4 teaspoon sesame oil
3/4 cup orzo (rice-shaped pasta)

pour 1/4 of the eggs over the vegetables. As they cook, lift the edge of this omelet with a spatula and lift past so uncooked egg moves underneath or to edge where it can set.

When there is just a film of uncooked egg on surface, add the meat on top and sprinkle with remaining pepper or pimento. Continue cooking over low heat until top sets. Serve immediately or cool for later. This recipe above is one of those "kitchen sink" types that is great because you can add lots of other flavors. Grated cheese (any type) works well, tomatoes are a good addition (either fresh chopped or even leftover tomato sauce). A salad and bread make this a good summer meal.

Here is a relish that raises hamburgers and hot dogs above the ordinary and uses up some of your garden produce.

RELISH

3/4 cup store bought Russian Dressing
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 to 3 teaspoons dry mustard
1 1/2 cups green pepper, fine chopped
1 cup cucumber, finely chopped
1 cup celery, finely chopped or

sliced very thin
1/2 cup onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 cup chutney

Blend the Russian dressing, corn starch and mustard in a bowl. In a large saucepan mix all the vegetables and the dressing mixture. Bring to a boil then lower temperature and simmer for 5 minutes. Stir often until mixture slightly thickens. Remove from heat and cool. Spoon into serving or storage container. Cover and chill.

Reap benefits of a garden without the chores

U-pick orchards offer healthy alternative

Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Not all Magic Valley residents are lucky (or crazy) enough to have a vegetable garden this summer. In some areas, a mature fruit tree or two. We sadly watch as more industrious neighbors lug overflowing tubs of "free" produce to their kitchens. It is nice to know, then, that there are avenues available to those of us who do not have the cost-saving and palate-delighting benefits of a garden without actually having one.

Large-scale public orchards and U-pick vegetable acreages offer a wonderful alternative to consumers who want high quality produce but don't have the time or the space to maintain their own gardens. The early work has been done by a professional — all we need to supply is the harvesting muscle.

Kelly's Canyon Orchard, a family owned and operated business located two miles west of Filer and then seven miles north down into the canyon itself, is one place where fruit-hungry shoppers can come. "My husband, Richard's, grandfather, homesteaded here," says Susan Kelley, "so these orchards are over 80 years old. We're open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week."

"The Kellys are finishing up the apricot season, and heading into the peach. These early-variety peaches are delicious for slicing and eating fresh and for freezing," she says. "Their texture doesn't hold up as well in water bath canning. The later varieties work better for this process."

Unusually hot weather conditions are pushing up the harvesting seasons of all the fruit. "We usually offer our late peaches around the first of September, but this year we may be looking at mid-August," Kelley says. "These are the peaches we open up the public picking. Presently, we are picking the fruit and offering it pre-boxed to our customers. Everyone jokingly complains that everything comes all at once: back-to-school shopping, Labor Day celebrating, fair exhibiting, and coming out to pick peaches. This year, with the weather in cooperation, we're going to be able to help by giving them a two-week jump on the peaches."

The Kelley's sell their fruit primarily by the bushel, but also have been selling many half bushels and even fruit by the pound. And for those in Twin Falls who want to save the driving time, they offer all their fruit at their local store, the Kelley Garden Center.

Two miles south of Buhl on the Casalford Highway, is another family business, Southwick's Produce. Nine acres of their 40-acre farm are taken up with their U-pick garden.

"Each year we expand, adding nearly an acre every time," says Jack Southwick, owner and manager. Southwick's offers a wide variety of fresh vegetables, and their large roadside sign lets picking enthusiasts know what is available daily.

"Right now, we're offering red potatoes, green beans, cucumbers, Walla Walla sweet onions, and carrots. Corn and tomatoes should be coming on strong this week, too," explains Frank Southwick.

"We dig all of our own potatoes, but everything else is U-pick," he says. "We have done the harvesting on other vegetables customers request it, however, the cost for that service is added to the bushel price."

The Southwicks are open from "dawn 'til dusk," Kelly Pickers are asked to supply their own containers and to come prepared to have fun.

"Kids really love to help harvest," says Wilma Southwick with a chuckle. "Just this morning I looked out the window and saw eight little backside silhouettes in the rising sun and fingers just a pickin'."

"In the fall when our pumpkins come on, it really looks beautiful," says Jack. "The acre patch is upon a hill, and as the vines die, the orange really stands out. Grade school classes come out to pick their own Halloween pumpkins."

The savings to the consumer are considerable at the U-pick prices. For example, 20 ears of corn can be purchased for a dollar.

U-pick farms are an excellent resource even for seasoned gardeners who sometimes find they didn't have as large a yield of a certain crop as they had hoped, or that other varieties didn't produce at all. They can pick as much or as little of whatever varieties they need for canning, freezing or drying.

So don't despair if you didn't get a garden in this year, or if the one you did plant was a disappointment. By taking advantage of local produce outlets, you can still enjoy the benefits of fresh, homegrown produce and let your family members get their hands dirty together as well.

Here is a delicious recipe for those red-potatoes that are coming on so strong now. It's easy to prepare and goes well with barbecued meat.

POTATO AND SPINACH CASSEROLE
1 1/2 cups fresh spinach, cooked and drained (a 10 ounce box of frozen works)

Rojello and Gertudiz Ornelas bag ripe tomatoes off the vine at Southwick's Produce

6 medium to large red potatoes, boiled and drained
1 cup sour cream (use part plain yogurt to cut down calories)
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Dash of dill
6 green onions, finely chopped
Dash potatoes with sour cream and butter. Add spinach, green onions, and seasonings. Stir gently and place in a lightly greased 8 x 11 inch casserole dish. Sprinkle top with 1/2 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Corn is at its delightful best when fresh. Left in its husk and microwaved, it's both simple and delicious.

MICROWAVED CORN IN THE HUSK

Place ears on a platter side by side and microwave on high 3 to 4 minutes per ear. Halfway through the cooking time, flip them end over and resume heating. With a kitchen glove to protect your hands, remove husks and quickly serve immediately.

We're almost at the end of apricot season, but here is a special pie filling that features this wonderful fruit.

APRICOT PIE FILLING
4 1/2 cups apricots, pitted and quartered (press firmly when measuring)

1 1/4 cups sugar, white or brown
1/4 cup flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 egg
1/4 teaspoon salt

Four prepared apricots into a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients and stir gently. Use in your favorite two-crust pie dough recipe. Dot filling with butter before covering with top crust. Sprinkle top crust with cinnamon and sugar and a dash of nutmeg. This filling can be frozen for later use, too. It fills a 1 quart freezer bag to the brim. Make sure to thaw completely before pouring into pie crust. Bake in a 425-degree oven for about an hour.

Foods that cannot be stirred, such as meatloaf, need to be rotated. The cook must learn what to stir, and how to rotate — what to rotate, and how to control the temperature. She says most microwaves have power settings on them equal to settings on conventional ovens.

She says she converted an apple cake recipe to microwave, and "most of the experimenting was in time. The rest of it was microwave techniques we use in other things." She baked it part way at 50 percent power, explaining that keeping the oven level gives the heating agent a chance to work, and the cake a chance to rise before it crusts over on the top. In the conventional oven, the time period in the oven is long enough to allow that rising before the brown finish on top.

APPLE DAPPLE CAKE

3 eggs
1 1/2 cups salad oil
2 cups sugar
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups chopped apples (chopped fine in food processor, results in a lighter cake. If chopped by hand, it is more of a fruit cake.)
1 1/2 cups chopped pecans, walnuts or other nuts

Blend the eggs, oil and sugar. Sift the flour, salt and soda together and add to the egg mixture. Add the vanilla, apples and nuts, and stir well. Pour into a greased and floured (or use chopped nuts instead of flour) tube pan, and microwave 12 minutes at 50 percent power, rotating every three minutes. Microwave 2-3 minutes at 100 percent power. Let stand on the counter 10-15 minutes. Do not remove from pan. Topping will be poured onto cake while it is still in pan. Once it has been poured on, and it is cool, cake may be turned onto cake plate. The topping soaks into the cake.

WHEAT AND BRAN MUFFIN MIX

The topping:
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Combine and cook in the microwave at 100 percent power, until it comes to a boil. Microwave 2 minutes at 70 percent power. Pour on the cake while it is hot.

"The cake has a spicy flavoring," she says, "but not strong, and it is not terribly sweet."
Morales says she likes recipes that don't take many special ingredients — "most of the stuff, you have got around the house, so you do not have to go to the store."
Her next microwave recipe utilizes garden vegetables.

CLASSIC VEGETABLE ENTREE

Serves four
The entree:
1 1/2 cups thinly sliced carrots
2 cups medium zucchini, cut into 2 by 1/2-inch strips
2 cups cauliflower, cut in little florettes
1 cup whole mushrooms, quartered
2 — tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1/4 teaspoon salt
8 ounces of linguine or spaghetti,

cooked and drained
The Sauce:
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons fresh chopped parsley

Arrange vegetables on a 12-inch round microwave-safe platter. Combine butter and salt. Spoon over the vegetables. Cover the platter with plastic wrap, leaving one edge open to vent. Microwave on high power 7-11 minutes, rotating the platter once. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes before testing for crisp-tender texture. To make the sauce, place the butter in a one quart microwave-safe glass measuring cup. Microwave on high power 30 seconds or until melted. Stir in the onion. Cook on high power one minute or until onion is tender. Stir in the flour, salt and pepper and mix until smooth. Blend in milk. Microwave on high power 3-5 minutes or until thick, stirring every minute. Stir in the cheese and parsley. To serve, toss the pasta with additional butter, parsley and cheese. Spoon the vegetables over the top of the pasta, and then pour the sauce on top.

"It's a real pretty dish," she says, "it has a good fresh vegetable taste. And just a little bit of Parmesan cheese in it gives it that cheesy flavor, but it's not a heavy sauce at all."
She says one of her favorite microwave recipes is this one for muffin batter which can be stored in the refrigerator for six weeks. So, each morning batter for six muffins may be spooned into a microwave muffin ring, and in 3-4 minutes you have six fresh muffins.

MUFFIN MIX

1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup sugar
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups water
4 cups whole bran cold cereal
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 quart of fresh or reconstituted dry buttermilk
2 cups bran flakes cereal
1 tablespoon salt
3 cups flour
2 cups whole wheat flour

In a large microwave safe bowl, bring water to a boil. Stir in the whole bran cereal and let it stand 5 minutes. In another bowl, mix the oil and sugar. Add the eggs and set that aside. Stir the baking soda and salt into the water, then mix the mixture. Immediately stir them into sugar mixture and then stir in the bran flakes, the salt, flour and whole wheat flour. Pour into a 12 cup container with a tight fitting lid. Label with the contents, date and baking instructions. Store in the refrigerator and use within 6 weeks.

Microwave Cooking Instructions:

Line custard cups or microwave muffin pan with cupcake paper or butter generously. Fill the muffin pan. If using custard cups, arrange in a circle in the microwave oven, and then microwave according to the following chart, rotating the muffin pan or custard up every 45 seconds. For one muffin — 20-40 seconds, two muffins: 30-90 seconds, three muffins: 45-75 minutes, six muffins: 2 1/2-4 1/2 minutes. Remove muffins immediately. The baking time may vary, depending on power supply and microwave.

Ohlenschelen, says he has taken cooking for the past six years that he has been a 4-H member. He likes microwave cooking best, because it cooks quickly, and because "it tastes about the same."
PIZZA CASSEROLE
Serves four
1 pound hamburger
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup grated tomato paste
1 1/2 ounces can mushroom pieces, drained
1/4 cup or 3 ounces of chopped pepperoni
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon dried oregano leaf, crushed
1/4 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
2 cups uncooked noodles
1 cup or 4 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Crumble the hamburger into a plastic collander. Add the chopped onions.
Heat the plastic collander in a quart glass measure or microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on 100 percent power for 3 minutes. Break up the meat with a fork. Microwave for another 1 1/2 to 3 minutes on 100 percent power. Stir again with a fork. If there is still some uncooked meat, microwave for another minute on 100 percent power. Pour the grease into an empty can or other suitable container. Put the drained meat and onions into a 2-4 quart microwave safe casserole dish. Add the green pepper, tomato paste, mushrooms, pepperoni, salt, garlic

NICE RICE

Serves four
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups water
1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon or 3 chicken bouillon cubes
1 cup of long grain rice
Put the butter and water in a 3 quart microwave-safe casserole. Microwave uncovered at 100 percent power for 5 minutes, or until boiling. Stir in the bouillon and rice. Cover the casserole with the lid or vented plastic wrap. Microwave on 100 percent power for 3 1/2 minutes. Stir, then microwave, covered, for 12-14 minutes more at 50 percent power, stirring once or twice, until the moisture is absorbed. Allow five minutes standing time, and then serve.

Another Pins and Pans club member, 14-year-old Jim powder, oregano, basil, pepper, water and uncooked noodles, and stir. Cover the casserole with a lid or vented plastic wrap, and microwave on 100 percent power for 5 minutes. Stir well with a wooden spoon and re-cover the casserole. Microwave for another 5 minutes at 100 percent power. Stir again. If the noodles are not tender, re-cover the casserole and microwave on 100 percent power for an additional 2-3 minutes, and then stir again. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese and Parmesan cheese. Microwave uncovered for 1-1 1/2 minutes at 100 percent power or until the cheese is melted.

Oh, what flavors local fairs have to offer

By DANA WATERS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Fair season... that time of year when county residents rustle up the best of their labors and eager 4-Hers and Future Farmers of America tug on livestock ropes while around them, the aromas of delicious food drift through the air.

Three county fairs are slated to begin this week. And, from Cassia County's "Pig Out" to Cassia County's Bean Bake Off, each will have a flavor — literally — all its own.

Minidoka County will kick off the season with its fair and rodeo combo that runs from Aug. 3-9 in Rupert at the county fairgrounds. The exposition buildings will be open Wednesday evening at 6 p.m. through Saturday noon.

"We always have a fantastic produce show," says Sarah Wright of the extension office. "And the candies... I just didn't know so many kinds existed."

The local Democrats will be peddling baked potatoes for their cause, and many churches will have booths, too. The 4-H leaders will host a complex...

Buyers' Breakfast to all prospective livestock shoppers on Saturday at 7 a.m. in their food booth. The breakfast will be followed at 9 a.m. by the Fat Stock Sale.

"We have a wonderful place to display our quilts this year too," says Wright. "Right now it looks a bit like a hangman's platform, but the quilts will change that. We've never had room to spread them all out before."

Local music talent of Plain County and Rain Tree will be featured in a public concert this evening at 7:30 p.m. and special Mule Show Finals will be Friday night at 8:30 p.m. Jerome County's fair and rodeo begins today and runs through Saturday.

"We are trying something new in our Women's Building this year," says Barbara Morales, the county's home economist. "We are offering a food preservation information booth which will be run by trained, certified volunteers of the Master Food Preservers Organization, which comes through the University of Idaho. These volunteers had to pass an exam for their certification, so will be well qualified to answer questions."

Local 4-Hers will be giving food demonstrations on Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. and there will also be microwave oven demos. The sugar factory and wheat commission will be on hand to give awards to county food exhibitors.

The Cassia County fair will begin Thursday and run through Sunday.

The local school's astronaut club will be serving barbequed ribs, the American Legion, hamburgers, and Dairy Queen is braving the hot Cassia prairie, bringing up a refrigerated truck this year.

Cassia Grain and The Specialty Shop will be sponsoring a bread baking contest on Thursday. County contestants are asked to bring their cooled and un-sliced entries in from 10 a.m. and judging in the four categories of white, whole wheat, quick, and sweet roll will begin at noon. Prizes will be awarded to adults and to junior bakers aged 16 and under. All bread from the contest will be served at the community potluck that evening at 6 p.m. in the Stein Frossman 4-H Memorial Park, and winners will be announced. Entertainment that evening will include a cow chip toss and a beauty pageant for local women to obtain the coveted title of "Miss Prairie Dog." This contest thriller will be M.C.'d by Boies's Paul J. Schneider whose tasteful joke started the idea for the pageant a year ago.

On Sunday at 7 a.m., the American Legion will host a breakfast at Zane's Park. Fair food at its finest will be served at the "Pig Out" from 4 to 7 p.m. back at the 4-H park. Pork that will be pit-barbequed for 24 hours is the featured entree, complimented by corn on the cob and baked potatoes.

You'll be given a little over a week to rest and let out your seams until Cassia County resumes the festivities in Burley with its fair running Aug. 17-22.

"This year our local chapter of Idaho Women for Agriculture is sponsoring a Bean Bake-Off. Last year we featured potatoes and it was such a hit that we wanted to try it again but to feature another locally grown commodity," says Joan Parr of the extension office.

The cook-off will begin Thursday, Aug. 20, at 6:30 p.m. and judging will be in three separate classes: main dish, salad, and "unusual" dishes, all to feature dried beans.

"The dishes will be judged 50 percent on flavor, 25 percent on appearance and 25 percent on appeal — would you go back for more?" says Parr. "It's going to be a great contest and we're really looking forward to it."

In the Home Economics Building, the Kerr Awards will be back after an absence of 10 years. Cassia County Wheat Growers will be offering prizes to bakers in seven categories and Amalgamated Sugar will be giving awards in cake decorating.

"We've added a dried foods section for our exhibitors this year," says Parr. "It will feature jerkey, smoked fish, cured meat, sausage and salami."

On the morning of Aug. 22, the 4-Hers will host a complimentary Buyers' Breakfast to thank their local sponsors.

Blaine County's fair will be held in Carey, Aug. 18-22.

Local 4-Hers will be on hand for food demonstrations Aug. 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. On Aug. 21 from 5:30 to 7 p.m., there will be a community barbecue with beef and lamb. 4-Hers will supply the salads and desserts. Entertainment that evening will include the awards ceremony for the open horse show competitors who will have been competing in various events for several weeks prior to the fair in Hailley; and the Harness Team Obstacle Course Race. That action begins at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by the rodeo at 8 p.m.

"We'll have the usual food exhibits this year," says Lisa Baird of the extension office. "Cakes, breads, candies... and we've added dried foods to our list, too." The fun continues in Gooding County, Aug. 20-22.

The 4-Hers barbecue will feature pit-barbequed beef, vegetable, potato salad and watermelon. For more information, contact the local extension office at 934-4401.

The Migrant Council will sponsor a Mexican Food Booth, and the local churches, Grange, and Optimist Club will have booths too. Even breakfast foods will be served.

The fair season will culminate with the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo Sept. 8-12. Even at this early date, all space for commercial and other food sellers has been filled.

Salads

Stir, then microwave on Medium for 20 more minutes until liquid is absorbed. Stir once during this second cooking step. Add the reserved seafood mixture, broccoli, corn, celery, onion and chives. Toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours before serving. Makes 3 1/2 cups or 5 servings.

SPICY BULGUR AND TOFU SALAD
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) clear ready-to-serve chicken broth
1 cup bulgur
1/2 cup sliced green onions
1/2 cup chopped fresh coriander*
1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
1 to 2 teaspoons finely chopped jalapeno
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons vinegar**
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup diced zucchini
1/2 cup crumbled tofu

In a 3-quart casserole dish, combine broth and bulgur. Cover and microwave on High 4 minutes. Stir, then microwave at Medium/High, 50 percent power or cooking level 6:10 more minutes or until the liquid is absorbed.

and toss until well mixed. Cover and refrigerate until serving time — at least 4 hours. Makes 4 1/2 cups or 6 servings.

ORIENTAL BLACK BEAN AND ORZO SALAD
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) clear ready-to-serve chicken broth
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons rice wine vinegar
1/4 teaspoon grated ginger
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1/4 teaspoon sesame oil
3/4 cup orzo (rice-shaped pasta)
1 cup cooked black beans
1/2 cup red or yellow peppers, cut in thin 1/2-inch-long strips
1/4 cup snow peas diagonally cut in half
2 tablespoons chopped red onion

Prepare dressing: In small bowl, stir 1/4 cup broth, salad oil, vinegar, ginger, hot pepper sauce and sesame oil. Set aside.

In a 3-quart casserole dish, combine remaining broth and orzo.

Cover and microwave on High 5 minutes or until boiling. Stir, then microwave on Medium/High, 10 minutes, stirring once during cooking. Let stand 5 minutes. Rinse the orzo in a colander, then return it to the casserole. Add beans, peppers, snow peas, onions and the dressing. Toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate until serving time — at least 4 hours. Makes 3 cups or 5 servings.

CHICKEN-CHUTNEY RICE SALAD
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) clear ready-to-serve chicken broth
1/2 cup chutney
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon grated lime peel
1 whole chicken breast (about 1/2 pound), split, skinned and boned
1/4 cup regular rice, uncooked
1/4 cup frozen peas, thawed
1/2 cup toasted pecans pieces
Pecan halves for garnish (6 to 10, your option)

Prepare dressing using a small bowl. Stir in 1/2 cup of the broth, chutney, mayonnaise, curry powder and lime peel. Set aside.

Place chicken in a 3-quart casserole dish; cover and microwave on High 4 minutes or until chicken is fork-tender; rearrange chicken once during cooking. Remove chicken from casserole and set aside to cool.

In the casserole, combine remaining broth and rice. Cover and microwave on High 4 minutes or until boiling. Stir and cook 10 more minutes on Medium. Stir in peas, cover and let stand 5 minutes or until liquid is absorbed.

Meanwhile, cut chicken into bite-size pieces. Add chicken and dressing to rice mixture and toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours. Before serving, stir in the toasted pecan pieces; garnish attractively with pecan halves. Makes 4 cups or 6 servings.

pour 1/2 of the eggs over the "vegetables." As they cook, lift the edge of this omelet with a spatula and lift pan so uncooked egg moves underneath or to edge where it can set.

When there is just a film of uncooked egg on surface, add meat on top and sprinkle with remaining pepper or pimento. Continue cooking over low heat until top sets. Serve immediately or cool for later. This recipe above is one of those "kitchen sink" types that is great because you can add lots of other things. Grated cheese (any type) works well, tomatoes are a good addition (either fresh chopped or even leftover tomato sauce). A salad and bread make this a good summer meal.

Here is a relish that raises hamburgers and hot dogs above the ordinary and uses up some of your garden produce.

RELISH
3/4 cup store bought Russian Dressing
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 to 3 teaspoons dry mustard
1/2 cups green pepper, fine chopped
1 cup cucumber, finely chopped
1 cup celery, finely chopped or

sliced very thin
1/2 cup onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento (optional)

Blend the Russian dressing, corn starch and mustard in a bowl. In a large saucpan mix all the vegetables and the dressing mixture. Bring to a boil then lower temperature and simmer for 5 minutes. Stir often until mixture slightly thickens. Remove from heat and cool. Spoon into serving or storage container. Cover and chill.

Pesticide precautions a must for gardeners

My general philosophy on pest control is to do the minimum amount of spraying necessary.

One way to avoid pest problems is to avoid plants which are prone to have pests. Some pests do a minimal amount of damage because of natural predators usually keep them under control. I can live with a few chewed or discolored leaves if I know the plant will not be killed. There are also a few "organic" or natural pesticides which are safer to use than others. However, there are a few pests which must be sprayed or they will do an intolerable amount of damage.

The question often arises, how much danger is there in applying this pesticide? In the risk more than the benefit? In the early years of pesticides, there was not much information available on the relative toxicity of pesticides. Nowadays extensive testing on laboratory animals is required before pesticides can be registered.

Only those which are in the most toxic group can be used by home gardeners. A pesticide applicator's license is required to purchase the more dangerous ones. Those which can be used on food crops such as fruits and vegetables are even more limited.

Some simple precautions can minimize danger from pesticide use. The most important precaution is to read the label completely. If you are going to spray fruits or vegetables, make sure it can be used safely on them. A waiting period of several days between application and harvest is required for most pesticides.

Pesticides are most dangerous in their concentrated form. It is wise to use rubber gloves when pouring concentrated liquids. A long sleeved shirt, long pants and hat will reduce possible exposure when spraying or dusting. Avoid spraying on a windy day. If there is a breeze, point the sprayer away from the wind so that it does not blow back onto you. After applying pesticides, any areas of the skin which may have been contacted should be washed right away.

Pesticides should always be stored out of reach of small children, just like medicines and other dangerous compounds. They should not be stored near food.

If you have a question about a particular pesticide, the county agricultural agent is a good source of information. Leaflets and reference material on pesticides are usually available at his office. Many nurseries and garden stores also have personnel which are knowledgeable about pesticides.

Garden tour generates myriad of ideas

By Barbara Nelwert
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — A fine way to spend a beautiful Sunday afternoon is to admire other people's outdoor handiwork. It's relaxing, it's effortless and it's motivating.

Wood River Valley residents received such an opportunity this past weekend by strolling through seven mountain gardens presented in the second annual garden tour benefiting the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community School.

Hostesses in sundresses and bonnets complemented the myriad of colorful floral gardens on display as nearly 200 admirers strolled through the grounds taking mental or written notes on which types of flowers or trees would live up their own gardens back home.

The concept behind Liza and Bill Glenn's country garden at 124 River Run Drive in Ketchum, was to appear as though the plants have grown there naturally.

Working under the confines of a relatively small lot, a concrete wall around the perimeter of the property creates an additional dimension of ground to utilize. The outside of the garden wall is planted at its base with thyme, wild Oregon peas, hollyhocks and bachelor buttons. Wire mesh tacked along the outside wall provides a trellis which will one day be fully covered with growth.

Inside the garden walls, flowers can be seen at every turn. Planted in color blocks that are pleasing to the eye, the flower beds are raised to varying levels with river rock walls following a curved garden border.

The blue plantings are comprised of delphiniums, lupines, blue veronicas, campanulas, Canterbury bells and hords with argentea. The pink and lilac beds contain sweet william, cosmos, daisies, carnations and pink veronica. Splashes of white—provided by snow-in-summer add a distinguishing contrast.

Along the southwest corner of the lot, 30 aspen trees have been planted to ensure privacy and to create a natural wooded effect. Underneath are plantings of strawberries, poppies, petunias and garden fox. A nearby herb garden adds a useful touch.

River rock walls provide beds against the house sporting snap dragons, snow fire, dianthus, gladioli, pansies and fox. As if the endless variety of flowers throughout the yard is not enough to satisfy the eye, hanging baskets accent the front porch and clay pots line the steps and stone walls. A handmade willow love seat with floral cushions adds to the charm of the micro-environment.

Glenn uses a drip irrigation system to water the hanging baskets, but utilizes overhead sprinklers for watering the rest of the grounds. "You must be willing to cut your losses," she advises those who wish to have a successful garden. "If something is not doing well, pull it out and plant something else."

She also tells people to look around your area and see what has actually worked in other peoples gardens.

Building up the soil with sand and peat moss, followed by fertilization each year, are important steps which should not be left out. The Glenn's garden, which is only three years-old and still evolving, required 11 truck loads of top soil be brought in for the raised beds. She is currently working on developing a vegetable garden and cutting a garden for the backyard.

Just a glance at the splendid grounds and the variety of flowers — not to mention the presence of a single weed on the premises — suggests that it must take hours to achieve such perfection.

Glenn does all the garden work herself, calling it her "labor of love." Sun Valley Co. general manager Wally Huffman and his wife Debbie's home and garden at 105 River Rock Road south of Ketchum, is a sharp contrast to the Glenn's more formal gardens.

Native stands of aspen trees, fireweed and wild roses greet the visitor at the entrance to the Huffman gardens. The natural trees, grasses and wild flowers bordering the property offer a lively contrast to the meandering flower beds which follow the contours of the lawn.

During spring the beds are filled with a variety of bulbs. Later, petunias are planted, along with dianthus and snow-in-summer.

A hedge of arctic willows is planted to the east side of a raised strawberry bed to cut down on the freezing-effects-of-the-high-mountain altitudes. A wire mesh has been placed over the beds to curtail the birds from eating too much of the bounty.

Flower beds bordering the deck are filled with lupine, delphinium, shasta daisies, peonies and petunias, with wine barrels overflowing for additional color.

Cut-leaf weeping birch, maple and spruce trees are interspersed with aspen and cottonwood trees, providing filtered shade. The spectacular mountain backdrop along with the natural trees and grasses, make the greatest use of spring give a feeling of seclusion and privacy.

Only two of the seven homes featured on the tour have professional gardeners tending the gardens. The others, like Wally Huffman, find a fulfilling and relaxing effect with flowers bordering the quality to working with the soil and patio. Many of the plantings are the result of cuttings from friends, or Lila Corroek's garden at 210 Huff. From the Corroek's travels, creating man-Drive in Ketchum, is planted to a "Memory Garden."

Weedless lawn can be easy

A self weeding lawn has just got to be the ultimate for any gardener's dream world. And, the best part is — it's not all that difficult to obtain. There are only three steps necessary, but each is important in making your lawn self weeding.

First — Seed your new lawn or renovate your old one with new, improved named varieties. There are bluegrasses, fine fescues, perennial ryegrasses, bentgrasses and turf type tall fescue to select from. Blends and mixtures are readily available. These are suitable for the establishment and maintenance of disease and insect resistant lawns that are vigorous enough to crowd out seedling weeds before they get a start.

Second — Have a soil test taken so that you know how much lime and fertilizer are needed. Do not guess. These new grasses are well worth the extra care to see that good healthy roots develop deep into the soil. You should maintain a soil pH at about 6.5 by use of ground limestone and the lawngresses must be fertilized with enough but not too much of the right fertilizer for your soil. When these conditions are made right, lawngresses are healthy and weeds simply cannot compete.

Third — There are other cultural practices that must be made right. These include clipping height and frequency. Clipping and too much water both keep roots near the soil surface.

Letters of thanks

Physician appreciates Hagerman QRU effort
 On Sunday, July 12, at approximately 11:30 a.m., I was involved in a motor vehicle accident south of Hagerman, Idaho. The Hagerman quick response unit responded very quickly to the situation. The individual in charge, Mr. Sparky House. Luckily there were no injuries, but I felt that you should know that not only did the quick response unit arrive much more rapidly than I would have anticipated, but that the entire quick response unit did indeed function as a unit and behaved in a most professional and helpful manner. They remained at the scene helping to direct traffic and probably prevented other accidents at the scene. Mr. Robert Aja of the Gooding County Sheriff's Department also responded much more rapidly than I had anticipated and his activity and behavior were also most professional and efficient. I want you to know that I appreciated the help of these people very much and I commend you for having created such an excellent service. DAVID GILES, M.D.

Rupert credits volunteer coaches for good year
 The Rupert Parks and Recreation Department would like to thank all the volunteer coaches who coached in the 1987 baseball/football program. Also, thanks to those many sponsors who have supported this summer's program. Without the volunteer coaches and the sponsors the program could not function. The youth baseball/football program increased this year by 14 percent. This is the largest increase in the baseball/football program in eight years. The participant increase is an indication of the success of the program. Again I would like to take this opportunity to thank the coaches and sponsors. LESTER HUTCHINSON

Couple needs buyer for peach orchard

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is failure. Now, in our late 60s, my husband and I have lost all of our savings in an effort to do more for our children, especially our 40-year-old son who talked us into mortgaging our farm and going into debt to purchase a nearby peach orchard in Georgia.

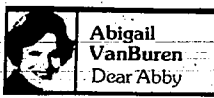

We desperately need to sell our peach orchard. There are so many people with so much money now, surely the prospect of expenses deductible from income tax would appeal to them. And the expense of operating a peach orchard is considerable, and it's deductible.

ABBY: can you help us find a buyer?

NEEDS A BUYER

P.S. Our son is tall, blond, handsome and unmarried. Many girls have tried to land him. My only other hope is that some wealthy girl who loves horses as we all do will show up.

DEAR NEEDS: I urge you to advertise in your newspaper and contact an agent whose business it is to sell such properties.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

If that doesn't bear fruit, forget the orchard and advertise your son. (Only kidding.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a real couch potato. Now, don't get me wrong, I like TV as much as the next person, but here's my problem: He stays up until all hours watching old-movie-and-re-runs-and-then comes to bed late.

It's not that he ignores me or is trying to avoid sex — it's just the opposite. He wakes me up at 2 or 3 a.m. wanting to be romantic.

I have asked him to come to bed first, then watch TV afterward, but he says it takes away all the spontaneity. But, Abby, once I go to sleep I would like to stay asleep. What do you think?

MRS. COUCH POTATO, GLENDALE HEIGHTS, ILL.

DEAR MRS. POTATO: Forget spontaneity and plan ahead. Talk this out together while you're both wide awake.

DEAR ABBY: This October, my husband and I will have been married for five years, and I have never sent thank-you notes to relatives and friends who gave us wedding gifts. Needless to say, I feel terribly guilty about this.

Is there a way I can now, at this late date, send the thank-you along with an apology? I guess what I'm hoping for is a "magic phrase" that I can incorporate into the "thank-you" note which will enable them to forgive me, and, I hope, to understand that I not only want to thank them, but also want to correct this seemingly rude omission.

Thank you in advance, Abby!

C.H.M. IN BRAINTREE, MASS.

DEAR C.H.M.: The "magic phrase" is: "We are profoundly embarrassed to be writing at this very late date to thank you for the beautiful ice bucket you gave us when we were married."

"Please forgive us for what must seem an inexcusably tardy acknowledgment. Believe us to be terribly ashamed. However, the pleasure we have received from that wonderful ice bucket would warm your heart" etc.

I hope you have kept a list of what each giver gave because if you can make an identifying comment about the gift, you may be more readily forgiven. Good luck.

Quality day-care vital to child's development

The Hartford Courant
When choosing day care for your child, be prepared to sit down for a few hours and listen, listen, listen.

A good day-care environment is critical to a child's social development — perhaps more than even family background, suggests research in the July issue of Developmental Psychology, a publication of the American Psychological Association.

One aspect of child care that consistently predicted sound development was the quality and amount of verbal interaction between children and care-givers.

"Parents need to know that when choosing child care, they are picking an environment in which their child is going to grow and develop. It is not just a convenience," says Deborah Phillips, an assistant professor of psychology at the University of Virginia, one of the researchers. "It is critical that they spend some time at the center they are thinking of choosing," observing how the care-givers interact with children. The responsiveness of care-givers to their charges and constructive conversation with them "seems to be one of the most critical variables" of the factors covered by the study. Others included staff-child ratios and the amount of experience the directors had.

"You cannot go in (to a center) for five minutes and discern differences necessarily," Phillips says. "At extremes you can. There was a very wide range of what happened (in the study). But it takes a little while to see when a child asks for help, if the day-care provider reacts quickly, or in a book-reading session, if the reader tries to engage a lot of different children."

Phillips and psychologists Kathleen McCarty and a wandra Searcy studied 166 children aged 3 to 5 and their families. The children attended nine day-care centers in Bermuda. Bermuda was picked as the study site because an estimated 85 percent of children there spend the majority of their day in a substitute care by the time they are 2 years old. The centers are comparable to those in the United States, she says, except that they probably are more structured than many here, many having programs for more than 10 years.

The study also found that a great deal of talking among children had a "negative effect on development. Certainly children do need to play, Phillips says. But researchers speculate that because of a lack of adult-child interaction, some children have to rely too much on their own devices. Parents should avoid centers that schedule too much "free play," rather than mixing it with activities led by the staff, she says.

Phillips says the study was significant in that, for the first time, children's development in day care was put in the context of their home environment; their history of experience in child care and the quality of the child-care arrangement.

The study also addresses the controversy about the advisability of infant care. Phillips says. The study's findings indicate "it is not the age at which a child enters child care that is significant — it is the quality of the environment that is significant."

Predictions of negative outcomes for children entering day care in infancy have been "extremely overstated," she says, as the research leading to such conclusions has attempted to measure mother-child attachment without considering what type of care the child received. "What our data shows is that with one type — centers — there is a vast range of quality." To equate a particular type of care with quality of care "is misleading at best."

Helpful tips for housebuyers

NEW YORK — Take precautions to prevent your dream house from turning into a nightmare.

Attorney Armond Budish writes in Family Circle magazine that "you are always better off knowing any problems that exist before you buy a house."

Budish offers these tips to help avoid unwelcome surprises:

— State in your purchase offer that you may hire a professional inspector to look over the property after the seller accepts, and might terminate the offer if flaws are found.

— Add a clause requiring the seller to list all repairs over $100 made to the property in the past five years. This should alert you to potential problems and to warranties for previous repair work, which should be signed over to you. — Consult a lawyer for help in preparing your purchase offer.

Campanis will join Edwards

By Michael Silver
Los Angeles Times

BERKELEY, Calif. — Al Campanis, whose televised remarks about the abilities of blacks in baseball management led to his firing by the Los Angeles Dodgers, will work with Harry Edwards, University of California, Berkeley, sociology professor and black activist, on increasing minority representation in baseball's managerial positions, Edwards said here Tuesday.

"I'm bringing him back into baseball," Edwards said. "I think he will be very effective."

Campanis, whose statements on ABC's "Nightline" that blacks might lack "the necessities" to hold managerial and front office positions led to his dismissal last spring, after 43 years with the club, could not be reached for comment.

Edwards, who was hired by Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth amid the furor.

"He's not going to be working for baseball," Edwards said. "He will be working for me."

Edwards said that he had talked with Ueberroth about Campanis' proposed role.

Edwards had said last week that Campanis would deliver a guest lecture at Edwards' sociology 117 class — sociology of sport — at an undetermined date.

Asked Tuesday what Campanis' job title would be, Edwards replied, "We are not into job titles. We are into performance. We are into getting things done."

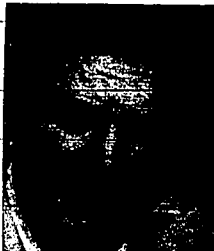

Edwards also declined to give a specific description of Campanis' job, but he did offer two reasons for hiring him.

He has accumulated more knowledge about the front office in all his years than I will ever learn," Edwards said. "He will be able to help me in that respect."

"Secondly, he represents millions of Americans in terms of the views he articulated on 'Nightline'. We cannot just consign him to the trashcan without consigning millions of our fellow citizens to the trashcan as well."

The American League office announced Tuesday that Minnesota left-hander Frank Viola and New York Yankees first baseman Don Mattingly were named Tuesday as American League pitcher and player of the month of July.

Nothing is so rare, or bizarre, as Brits who are partial to American football

By Chris Dufrene
Los Angeles Times

LONDON — Lars Ishojer, 15, nearly came apart at the seams Tuesday after sneaking onto the practice field at the Crystal Palace Sports Center and getting the autograph of Los Angeles Ram quarterback Jim Everett.

You would have thought he'd just come face to face with the Queen Mum. Lars was seeing stars, and the credit once again goes to the wondrous powers of television, or "the telly," as Lars says.

Lars, from nearby Kenley was living an average English life of 4 o'clock teas and soccer before switching one day last November to Channel 4, which was showing taped highlights of Jim Everett's professional debut against the New England Patriots.

You didn't have to refresh his memory of Everett nearly rallying the Rams to a dramatic win in that game, won by the Patriots, 30-28.

"He passed for 193 yards," Ishojer said matter-of-factly.

That Everett moment was the telly flip that changed a young boy's life and fancy, a transcendent dial into the world of Pete Rozelle. A real Rammy whammy.

Tuesday, Lars wore Ram attire — an authentic game jersey and a cap — and carried a program.

He was flanked by his friend Steve Kenward, 15, who had the same idea to wear the silver and black of the Los Angeles Raiders.

Appalling, really, except to Kenward, who asked, "Is Marc Wilson popular in the States or need I ask? We don't care for him much here."

And so has begun a new way of life for some English boys and men who have learned to appreciate the National Football League on Channel 4, an independent station that carries the NFL highlights in England since 1982.

There is a propaganda factor, to be sure, because British fans get to enjoy only the juiciest film clips and have never had to endure the finger-snapping, neck-throat-thrill of an instant replay appeal.

Although talk of football someday replacing soccer as the national pastime here is pure rubbish, the American game is catching on. In fact, it has caused the formation of new class structures among the youth.

"All the rugby players at school think we're wimps," said Lars, explaining that rugby players consider a sport unmanly if it warrants a helmet. "They say they can smash us into the ground."

Rugby players can digest this: — Last year, 6.1 million English viewers watched Super Bowl XXI between the Denver Broncos and New York Giants.

— There are more than 100 American football clubs in England, led by the rough, tough Budweiser League, which sports the country's best teams, although best here should be considered in relative terms.

Some observers, however, wonder how deep the love for football lies.

"It's in the fad," Michael Wale, of BBC television, said. "With the cloning of technology and everything, there's sort of a cosmetic feel about it. It's been kind of like selling a look. And it does look spectacular with all those cheerleaders. We like that sort of thing."

But Wale remembered that in last year's American Bowl I between the Dallas Cowboys and Chicago Bears, the headlines focused less on strategy and more on legendary culinary tastes and the overall game's defensive end William "Refrigerator" Perry.

And when it comes right down to it, American football can get quite sticky when it comes to rules.

But hard-core fans and players insist the sport is here to stay.

Paul Burgess, 22, plays wide receiver for the Crawley Raiders, a Budweiser League team. He, too, was at Tuesday's practice and watched in awe as contemporaries Ron Brown and Henry Ellard ran patterns.

"I'm hooked just a bit," said Burgess, who took up the sport two years ago. "I used to play soccer and rugby, but I don't even watch it on the telly anymore."

Burgess, whose favorite NFL players include wide receiver-sprinters Royce Lears and Vance Johnson, does his best to keep up with NFL statistics and scores.

For Watson, PGA a special challenge

By BOB GREEN
The Associated Press

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. — The PGA Championship offers a tempting array of possibilities to pro golf's leading players, but Tom Watson has the most tempting target of all.

He needs a victory this weekend at the PGA National Golf Club to become only the fifth player to make a career sweep of the game's Grand Slam titles, which also include the Masters and U.S. and British Opens.

The PGA, the last of the year's Big Four events offers a first prize of $10,000, available to any in the international field of 150.

For a much smaller number of players, there's the chance to gain a spot on America's Ryder Cup team.

For an even smaller group, there's the possibility of major gains in the Player of the Year standings.

But, for Watson, a PGA title is particularly alluring.

"It's my No. 1 goal," Watson said. "Of course, winning anything would be very important to me right now. But, obviously, there's a very special attraction to the PGA."

"It's my prime goal. It will be my prime goal until I win it," he said.

Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen are the only players who have won each of the Grand Slam events. Nicklaus was the last to complete that sweep when he won his first British Open 21 years ago.

To join that exclusive company Watson must: (1) cure some putting problems that afflicted him in the U.S. and British Opens, (2) break a long streak, and (3) reverse a trend in the game's major tournaments.

The streak to be broken is his own three-year victory drought, extending back to the 1984 Australian Open.

Both he and Evernden were able to hold serve throughout the first set, forcing the tbreaker that Cash eventually lost by double-faulting on set point.

Cash took the second set easily and broke Evernden's serve twice in the third set to top it. Evernden fought within 5-4, but Cash scored four straight points, including a well-placed corner shot, to take the match.

"I just tried to keep the ball in my court," Cash said. "The balls were zingling around everywhere. I just tried to be consistent."

McEnroe broke service once in the first set and twice in the second to handily defeat Canter.

The only other seeded player to lose was No. 10 Wally Masur, beaten by Mark Kratzmann 1-6, 7-5 (12-10), 7-5.

In other matches involving seeded players, No. 8 Brad Gilbert won nine straight games over one stretch in a 6-4, 6-0 trouncing of Larry Scott; No. 8 Scott Davis beat Dan Goldberg 4-6, 6-2, 6-4; No. 13 Paul Anacone defeated Gary Donnelly 6-2, 7-5; and No. 14 Peter Doohan beat Bill Scanlon 7-5, 6-0.

Watson went into a daze. He hasn't been a major factor since Tway hasn't either. A four-time winner last season, Tway hasn't come close to the form that made him the 1983 PGA Player of the Year.

Mize, however, has produced respectable performances in both the U.S. and British Opens, and U.S. Open champion Scott Simpson is a multiple winner. A victory by either one would go a long way toward Player of the Year honors.

Probably the outstanding figure on the American tour this season, however, has been lanky Paul Azinger. He scored the first victory of his career early this year, added two more titles, leads the American money-winning list and had the British Open in his grasp until he bogeyed the last two holes at Muirfield, Scotland.

Ben Crenshaw is a decided threat. Probably the most consistent challenger of the year, Crenshaw has tied for fourth three times in the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open.

Connors upset by Holmes in 2 sets at Volvo International

By JILL ARABAS
The Associated Press

STRATTON MOUNTAIN, Vt. — Unseeded Greg Holmes pulled off the first major upset of the $315,000 Volvo International tennis tournament on Tuesday by beating second-seeded Jimmy Connors 7-5, 7-5 in a first-round match.

"Basically, I didn't do anything out there to anyone a bit of good including myself," said Connors, who saved three match points before netting a volley that gave Holmes the victory.

Top-seeded Ivan Lendl, Wimbledon champion Pat Cash and No. 4-seed John McEnroe each advanced on Tuesday. Lendl beat Vermont native Marc Flur 6-4, 6-3; Cash, seeded third, rallied past Kelly Evernden 6-7 (7-2), 6-2, 6-4; and McEnroe beat Jonathan Canter 6-3, 6-2.

Connors, who will be 35 next month, and the 24-year-old Holmes held serve through 11 games of the second set. Then Holmes scored three points off Connors' serve to get to match point in the 12th game.

Connors survived the first match point with a passing shot and Holmes hit his next two returns into the net to bring the game to a deuce.

Holmes took the advantage when Connors hit into the net and won it when Connors slam was low.

"I just didn't feel I was in the mood," he said.

He needs the small piece of sandpaper, the 42-year-old Nickro explained, in case the emery board gets soggy.

meat of the match at all," Connors said. "What I did have was a problem (making an adjustment)."

Connors said he plans to take a couple of days off before beginning his preparations for next month's U.S. Open.

"I have another week of tennis next week," he said. "I'm in no panic situation. Basically I've played well the last three, four months. Today I went out and was a little flat."

The weather atop Stratton Mountain was hot and windy, causing some problems for the top seeds.

"It was a bit hot," Lendl, the defending tournament champion, said. "I didn't control the ball very well. It kept flying."

and broke Evernden's serve twice in the third set to top it. Evernden fought within 5-4, but Cash scored four straight points, including a well-placed corner shot, to take the match.

"I just tried to keep the ball in my court," Cash said. "The balls were zingling around everywhere. I just tried to be consistent."

McEnroe broke service once in the first set and twice in the second to handily defeat Canter.

The only other seeded player to lose was No. 10 Wally Masur, beaten by Mark Kratzmann 1-6, 7-5 (12-10), 7-5.

In other matches involving seeded players, No. 8 Brad Gilbert won nine straight games over one stretch in a 6-4, 6-0 trouncing of Larry Scott; No. 8 Scott Davis beat Dan Goldberg 4-6, 6-2, 6-4; No. 13 Paul Anacone defeated Gary Donnelly 6-2, 7-5; and No. 14 Peter Doohan beat Bill Scanlon 7-5, 6-0.

Niekro faces 10 days' suspension after being ejected for scratching ball

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Those pesky fingernails can be a real problem for knuckleball pitcher, Joe Niekro says.

This he always has taken his personal manure set to the mound.

"I'll be honest with you, I always carry two things out there with me, an emery board and a small piece of sandpaper," the Minnesota Twins pitcher, said after the umpires searched him on the mound at Anaheim Stadium Monday night and discovered the grooming aids. He was thrown out of the game for defacing the ball.

"I've done that ever since I started throwing the knuckleball," Niekro said. "Being a knuckleball pitcher, I sometimes have to file my nails between innings, so I carry an emery board with me to the mound."

Some pitchers in the past have been accused of doctoring the baseball to give it erratic movement and make it harder to hit. In 1980, Rick Honeycutt was suspended for 10 days when a thumbtack was discovered taped to a finger.

Niekro was searched and ejected in the fourth inning of the Twins-11-3 victory over the California Angels, and now faces the prospect of a 10-day suspension and a fine.

The umpires contacted the baseball that was in play at the time, plus five others that had been used earlier in the game, and are shipping them to American League officials.

Bob Fishel, the league's executive vice-president, said Tuesday that it would be a couple of days until the balls are examined and any action taken.

Mauch said, "Those balls weren't roughed up," Mauch said. "Those balls were borderline mutilated. He did a job on a couple of 'em. I mean, those balls were hurting."

Mauch said nobody from the Angels had said anything to the umpires.

California Manager Gene Mauch predictably suggested that Niekro

Former star Hicks cut loose by Colts

By The Associated Press

Safety Dwight Hicks, a member of San Francisco's two Super Bowl teams, is a free agent again.

The Colts cut the four-time Pro Bowl player Tuesday as they removed nine players from their roster.

Hicks, 31, went to Michigan and played one year in the Canadian Football League before the 49ers signed him in 1977.

Hicks, who began training camp as a free agent, has 32 career pass interceptions, including two last season.

In another move, the Colts announced the signing of defensive end and backup tight end Byron Darby, a fifth-year pro who was waived by the Philadelphia Eagles.

Retirement
Green Bay offensive lineman Karl Swank, who played all five line positions for the Packers, announced his retirement.

The 29-year-old former Boston College standout has had five operations on his left knee.

"I don't want to be a cripple 20 years down the road," Swank said.

Deals Made
Green Bay's No. 1 draft selection, running back Brent Fullwood, agreed to terms, leaving quarterback Randy Wright as the Packers' only unsigned player.

Rockie wide receiver and kick returner Scott Schwedes is joining the Miami Dolphins after agreeing to a contract.

Schwedes of Syracuse University, follows his father, who was a running back for the Boston Patriots the very early days of the old American Football League.

New England defensive end Kenneth Sims, plagued by injuries throughout much of his six-year career, signed a one-year contract laden with incentives.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed, although Patriots General Manager Patrick Sullivan said it's "primarily an incentive-based deal."

Sims was the NFL's first overall pick in the 1982 draft.

Heavy Subject
Chicago Bears defensive tackle William Perry reported to camp this past weekend at 311 pounds, nearly 40 pounds under his weight last winter and seven pounds below his reporting weight.

Pro football

"It's no big deal to me," Perry said about his much-discussed size.

Instead, the man fondly known as "The Refrigerator" wants to improve his pass rushing.

The Denver Broncos and Los Angeles Rams are curtailing their usual rigorous training camp regimen while in London this week for the second annual American Bowl at Wembley Stadium.

The Broncos have dropped the early training camp two-day practices in favor of one workout per day, while the Rams will not have a curfew for at least the first several nights.

The less intense approach will leave players and staffs more time to play tourist.

Last summer, the Chicago Bears and Dallas Cowboys met in London. Another capacity crowd of 80,000 is expected for the Rams and Broncos.

Not all the players are happy playing an exhibition game abroad.

"I like to stay in the United States," Rams running back Eric Dickerson said, adding, "I believe there's no place like home."

Game Plan
Doug Cosbie's productive pass-catching spiral as a Dallas Cowboys tight end ended with just 28 receptions this year.

After joining the Cowboys in 1979, Cosbie became more and more involved in the offense to the point where he grabbed a career-high 64 passes in 1985.

Then came last season's big dropout. This summer, Cowboys coach Tom Landry has promised added catches for the former Santa Clara star.

"We'll use Cosbie a lot more this year than we did last year," said Landry.

Penalty Flags in Practice
Several NFL teams have called on regular-season game officials to monitor practices and help them with their preseason preparations, among them the New York Jets and New Orleans Saints.

The Jets are hoping to reduce last season's league-leading and club-record 131 penalties. New Orleans head coach Jim Mora said the Saints committed more holding violations than anyone in 1986.

Bruin physicals Monday

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School athletics get under way in the early Monday evening and will crank toward full speed by next Wednesday, reports incoming head football Coach Jon Lund.

Lund said all athletes, boys and girls, ranging from the freshman class on up and planning to participate in any sport this year, may avail themselves of a special physical examination session at 7 p.m. Monday at the high school.

Several doctors and nurses are volunteering to assist the program meet state testing requirements.

Varsity football candidates will be issued equipment at 8 p.m. Monday in the equipment room off the gymnasium and sophomores can pick up their equipment at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Lund said the grid practice for both varsity and sophomores is set for 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Muni scotchball tonight

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Men's Golf Association will conduct a nine-hole scotchball tournament prior to its business meeting tonight.

Players may select their own partners — no more than six strokes in handicap differential — or call the clubhouse to be paired.

Signup should be completed by 5:30 p.m. with a shotgun start set for 6 p.m.

N. Korea restates demands

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea, saying South Korea still is trying to dominate the 1988 Summer Olympics, wants to continue discussions with the International Olympic Committee on hosting the Games.

The North Koreans said Tuesday the IOC's latest proposal for the Games falls far short of meeting their demands. A statement said the problem is South Korea's intention "to monopolize the Seoul Olympics" as planned originally and singlehandedly stage the Games for its political purposes.

The North Koreans want a meeting among the two Koreas and the IOC before Sept. 17, the date on which South Korea has said it will send invitations to Games participants.

Texas player ineligible

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — University of Texas defensive back James Lott will be declared ineligible after accepting an $1,800 loan from a sports agent, the Austin American-Statesman reported Tuesday.

Texas Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds told the newspaper that Lott admitted to him he signed a promissory note with agent Lloyd Bloom for $1,800, but he said Lott never signed an actual contract with the Los Angeles-based agent.

Dodds and Texas sports information director Bill Little were in a meeting Tuesday and could not be immediately reached for comment by The Associated Press.

Bloom and partner Norby Walters are being investigated by a Chicago grand jury for their dealings with more than 60 college athletes.

Note Dame dies ex-banker

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Richard Rosenthal, a retired banker with no experience as an athletics administrator, was named Notre Dame athletic director Tuesday.

Rosenthal, 54, of South Bend, played basketball at Notre Dame and captained the team in his senior year. He succeeds Gene Corrigan, who resigned last month to become commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"I can assure you I think the most important thing I can do in this job is to ensure the integrity of a great, great athletic program," said Rosenthal. "If we do that, we need never apologize for losing."

An appointment was announced by the Rev. E. William Beauchamp, executive vice president of the university and chairman of Notre Dame's faculty board for athletics.

NL: Reds top Dodgers, pick up 1 game on Giants in West

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Pete Rose says there's no cause for amazement at his catcher's latest bobbles.

Bo Diaz drove in four runs with a pair of homers Tuesday night to pace the Reds to a 10-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Diaz hit a solo homer in the second off Tim Lary and a three-run homer in the fifth off Rick Honeycutt to give him 13 homers for the season and three in his last four at-bats. He has driven in 70 runs — trailing only Eric Davis and Dave Parker in that category — and he's hitting .308 overall.

"He's been swinging hot all year, hasn't he? He's having a great year. He catches every day and he hits the ball," Rose said.

The win gave the Reds a 3-1 game cushion atop the National League West over San Francisco.

Diaz's power show helped left-hander Guy Hoffman, 8-6, gain his first victory since July 3. Hoffman has lost his four previous decisions and was 1-5 in his eight starts.

Hoffman allowed three runs and nine hits in 5 1/2 innings, including a pair of solo homers by John Shelby, who extended his hitting streak to eight games and now has 15 homers.

"It wasn't very pretty. It was a very mediocre game on my part," Hoffman said.

The Reds had five hits and four runs in the first three innings off Lary, 2-7, who has lost his last five starting decisions.

Diaz hit his 12th homer in the second inning to extend his hitting streak to eight games. He also had homered in his last at-bat Monday night.

Davis' double put the Reds ahead to stay in the third, and Paul O'Neill followed with a two-run homer, his fourth, for a 4-1 lead.

Cincinnati sent 10 batters to the plate for six runs in the fifth off Honeycutt. Diaz's three-run homer with one out gave him three homers in his last four at-bats. Hoffman also had an RBI double and scored a run in the inning.

Baseball

Biancalana as the Houston Astros defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-4 Tuesday night.

With Biancalana at third and Alan Ashby at first and the score tied 4-4, Davis hit a grounder that was fired off behind second base by Robble Thompson. Thompson's throw to shortstop Randy Kutcher was too late to force Ashby and Biancalana scored.

Bill Doran started the rally off Jeff Robinson with a one-out single. He moved to second on Ashby's single and was replaced by Biancalana. Craig Lefter, 2-4, came on and threw a wild pitch that advanced Biancalana to third.

Jeff Heathcock, 1-1, was the winner, with one inning of scoreless relief, and Dave Smith recorded his 19th save.

The Giants tied the score at 4-4 in the seventh, after a two-out double by Willie Clark, and a walk to Robbie Thompson brought on Rocky Chidress in relief of starter Bob Knepper. Pinch-hitter Harry Spillman singled in Clark and pinch-hitter Joel Youngblood scored Thompson with a single.

The Astros took a 4-2 lead in the sixth after Knepper helped his own cause with a leadoff double. Knepper bunted to third on Gerald Young's bunt single and scored on Billy Hatfield's grounder. After a walk to Doran, pitcher Kelly Downs attempted to pick off Young at second, but the throw sailed into center, as both runners moved up. Ashby then lifted a two-run single to left.

The Astros took a 2-0 lead in the first on Kevin Mitchell's 13th homer and Clark's RBI single.

Houston made it 2-1 in the bottom of the inning, when Hatcher singled and moved to second on Downs' batted ball. After a walk to Doran drove in Hatcher with a single.

Montreal 10 St. Louis 5

MONTREAL (AP) — Tim Linares singled to lead off a four-run fifth inning and hit a two-run homer in the sixth as the Montreal Expos rallied from a five-run deficit to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 10-5 Tuesday night.

Montreal Manager Buck Rodgers and pitchers Bryn Smith and Floyd Youmans were ejected in the sixth inning by home plate umpire Tom Hallion for arguing ball-strike calls.

The loss reduced the Cardinals' lead to 5 1/2 games over second-place New York in the National League East. The Expos are third, six games back.

The Expos, who snapped a three-game losing streak, were trailing 5-2 when Raines, batting lead off for the first time this year, opened the fifth with a single. Mitch Webster and Hubie Brooks walked to lead the bases before Tim Wallach drove in Raines with an infield out.

Andres Galarraga singled in Webster and Vance Law drove home Brooks with a base hit off starter Lee Funchess, 4-3. Galarraga also scored on the play as third baseman Terry Pendleton made a wild throw trying to get Law going into second.

The Expos added three runs in the sixth, two on Raines' 11th home run and one on Law's sacrifice fly.

Wallach hit his 17th home run in the eighth inning for Montreal's final run as the Expos stopped the Cardinals' four-game winning streak.

Bob McClure, 5-1, pitched three innings of one-hit relief to get the win. Jeff Parrett went the final four innings for his fourth save.

New York 5 Philadelphia 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight Gooden pitched six-hit ball for eight innings, struck out a season-high 11, and had a run-scoring single as the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 Tuesday night.

It was the Mets' seventh victory in their last eight games and the Phillies' fourth straight loss.

Houston shortstop Craig Reynolds bobbles ball as Giants' Jeff Leonard steals second Gooden, 9-3, walked three and the 11 strikeouts marked the 33rd time he has been in double figures in his career, but only the second time in 13 starts this year. The right-hander had 10 strikeouts against Chicago on June 10.

Philadelphia starter Bruce Ruffin, 9-8, allowed three runs and five hits in seven innings.

Chicago 3 Pittsburgh 2

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Andre Dawson hit his 32nd home run of the season in the 11th inning to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night.

Dawson's homer equaled his career high set in 1983 with Montreal. Leading off the 11th, he hit an 0-1 pitch from reliever Bret Gideon, 1-2, deep into the lower right-field seats.

Mike Mason, called up earlier in the day from Class AAA Iowa, pitched two scoreless innings for the victory to improve to 3-1.

The Cubs tied the score 2-2 in the eighth after starter Mike Dunne retired the first two batters he faced. Following singles by Dave Martinez and Ryne Sandberg, Leon Durham lined a single to center to score Martinez. Jim Gott replaced Dunne and got Dawson to fly out.

Atlanta 12 San Diego 7

ATLANTA (AP) — Ken Oberkell drove in four runs and Dale Murphy added a three-run homer, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 12-7 victory over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night despite seven runs batted in by John Kruk.

Kruk had three-run homers in the first and ninth innings and a run-scoring single in the 11th.

Oberkell's second home run of the season and Ozzie Virgil's triple to right center keyed a five-run Atlanta second inning off Padres' starter Eric Show, 5-12.

Glenn Hubbard followed Virgil's hit with a sacrifice fly to give the Braves a 6-3 lead.

Kansas City 8 Detroit 4

DETROIT (AP) — Kansas City used home runs by Lonnie Smith and Steve Balboni, plus a five-run fifth inning, and Danny Jackson broke a personal three-game losing streak with a seven-hit Tuesday night as the Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 8-4.

Jackson, 5-13, pitched his sixth complete game of the season in sending the Tigers to their fifth setback in their last six games.

Dan Petry, 6-5, whose record dropped to 0-7 against the Royals in Tiger Stadium, gave up nine hits and seven runs — five of them earned — in 4 1/2 innings.

The Tigers took a 2-0 lead in the first inning but Petry hit the first two Kansas City batters, Bo Jackson and Frank White, in the second. They moved up on a passed ball by Mike Heath and Jackson scored on Ross Jones' sacrifice fly.

The Royals made it 8-2 in the fifth. With one out, singles by Smith, George Brett, Danny Taraball and Bo Jackson extended his hitting streak to 18 games with three hits and three RBIs. Kiefer's grand slam off Scott McGregor highlighted a five-run third inning as the Brewers rallied from a 5-1 deficit. Molitor homered in the first inning.

AL: Toronto trims New York's lead atop East to 1/2 game

CHICAGO (AP) — Toronto rookie Fred McGriff isn't surprised at his awesome power and he figures his job is to hit home runs.

"I'm not going to steal 30 or 40 bases so I've got to hit home runs to contribute," McGriff said after hitting a pair of tape-measure homers Tuesday night to lead John Cerutti and the Toronto Blue Jays to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

It was the third straight victory for the surging Blue Jays, who moved within one-half game of the first-place New York Yankees in the American League East.

McGriff led off the fourth inning with an upper-deck shot to right field and then hit his 15th homer high off the back wall of the center-field bullpen in the sixth, a drive estimated at 450 feet. Both homers were hit into an 18-mile-an-hour lead.

"When I make good contact the ball really jumps," McGriff said. "I really hit the one to center-field well, I made good contact and got on it." "I've had a hard time to hit home runs, and when you do it it's quite a feeling."

"He's strong, very strong," Toronto Manager Jimmy Williams said. "This is a great way to start a road trip."

The Blue Jays have won the first two of a 10-game trip while the Yankees and third-place Detroit Tigers lost both nights.

"We've been playing good, but we have a long way to go," Williams said.

Chicago Manager Jim Fregosi also was impressed with McGriff's power.

"I saw Alex Johnson when he was with the (California) Angels hit one in and center field, I thought he was hot, but I don't know if I've seen one hit much harder or go out quicker."

Winning pitcher John Cerutti, 7-2, held Chicago to six hits and an unearned run in 7 1/2 innings before Tom Henke came on for his 24th save.

"He (Cerutti) pitched great and he threw strikes," Williams said. "I don't think he tired, but I always try to give a reliever a little room if I can."

Both of McGriff's homers came off Nell Allen, 0-6, who hasn't won a game since July 20, 1986.

The Blue Jays took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Tony Fernandez, Ernie White and George Bell. It was Bell's American League-leading 9th run batted in.

Toronto scored its final run in the seventh on a double by Garth Iorg and a single by Whit.

Cleveland 15 New York 3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pat Tabler drove in four runs and Ken Schrom pitched a six-hit and seven-inning performance for his first victory since May 24 as the Cleveland Indians beat the New York Yankees 15-3 Tuesday.

Schrom, 5-7, who had been in the bullpen for two weeks because of a sore chest muscle, returned to the starting rotation and struck out six while giving up three runs.

Cleveland backed him with 13 hits as every batter in the starting lineup scored at least once. The last-place Indians scored five runs in the first and fourth innings in piling up their highest total of the season.

The loss was the Yankees' third in their last four games as their lead over second-place Toronto in the American League East was trimmed to one-half game.

Leslie Tomoy John, 10-4, gave up seven runs, five of them earned, on six hits and three walks in 2 1/2 innings.

The Indians scored twice in the second on an error by Yankee left fielder Dan Pasqua. With runners on first and second and two out, Jay Bell's fly ball to deep left-center caromed off Pasqua's glove, scoring both runners.

Leslie Tomoy John, 10-4, gave up seven runs, five of them earned, on six hits and three walks in 2 1/2 innings.

Carlton, acquired by the Twins from Cleveland last Friday, was bombed for 11 hits and nine runs in 2 1/3 innings.

Bill Buckner had RBI singles in the first and third innings and Don DeCinces led off the third with a 12th homer, his first since July 7.

Yankees' Pettis capped the Angels' three-run third with a run-scoring double, his first RBI since the All-Star break of one-hit relief.

The Angels chased Carlton during a five-run fifth inning after loading the bases with one out on Gus Polidor's single and walks to Bob Boone and Pettis. Mark McLemore singled for one out, another scored on Brian Downing's grounder and Darrell Miller singled to make it 7-3 and chase Carlton.

Roy Smith, just recalled by the Twins from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, surrendered a two-run single to DeCinces.

The Angels made it 10-3 in the sixth on Pettis' RBI single and continued their assault in the seventh on Wally Joyner's two-run homer, his 22nd off Frazier. Joyner hit 22 home runs all last season.

Oakland 9 Seattle 3

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jose Canseco and Terry Steinbach each hit two-run singles in a five-run fifth inning rally aided by Seattle's sloppy fielding Tuesday as the Oakland Athletics crushed the Mariners 9-3.

Steve Ontiveros, 6-5, gave up only two earned runs in seven innings while allowing eight hits, striking out three and walking two to snap his four-game losing streak. One of Ontiveros' was Gary Matthews' 2,000th career hit, a single in the third.

Lee Guetterman, 9-3, retired the first 10 Oakland batters but fell behind 2-0 in the fourth after Carney Lansford broke up the no-hitter with a bunt single that extended his hitting streak to 13 games.

Canseco singled, sending Lansford to third, and Mark McGwire followed with a sacrifice fly just in front of the 400-foot mark in center Canseco tagged up and took second on McGwire's drive, then stole third.

Seattle made it 2-1 with an unearned run in the fifth. After Donnell Nixon's liner popped out of the glove of Oakland's six-time Gold Glove center fielder Dwayne Murphy for an error, Nixon stole second and scored on Phil Bradley's single.

Oakland made it 7-1 with five unearned runs in the fifth with the help of two errors, three walks and a wild pitch.

Murphy led off with a walk and reached second on second baseman Harold Reynolds' error on Alfredo Griffin's grounder. Both runners moved up on a groundout and scored on Canseco's single.

Canseco went to third on McGwire's double, which knocked Guetterman out of the game. Canseco scored on reliever Steve Shields' wild pitch to pinch-hitter Mike Davis, who then walked. Steinbach's single scored McGwire and Davis.

Boston 8 Texas 6

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Dwight Evans' second home run of the game, a two-run shot in the ninth inning, rallied the Boston Red Sox to an 8-6 victory over the Texas Rangers on Tuesday night.

With Texas leading 6-5 after Geno Petralli's two-run single in the eighth, pinch hitter Don Baylor opened the Boston ninth with a single off Dale Mohorcic, 6-3, and Evans, who hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning, hit his 25th of the season.

Milwaukee 9 Baltimore 8

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Pinch hitter B.J. Surhoff singled with the bases loaded and one out in the 12th inning Tuesday night to break a tie and give the Milwaukee Brewers a 9-8 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Glenn Braggs and Rob Deer singled off Mark Williamson, 5-8, to begin the 12th. Greg Brock sacrificed and Williamson intentionally walked pinch hitter Ernest Riles to load the bases. Surhoff then slipped a 1-2 pitch on the ground to right field to end the game.

The Orioles tied the game in the top of the ninth when Ray Knight hit a three-run homer off Brewers relief ace Dan Plesac.

Mark Knudson, 2-2, pitched the top of the 12th to pick up the victory.

Earlier, Steve Kiefer hit a grand slam and Paul Molitor extended his hitting streak to 18 games with three hits and three RBIs. Kiefer's grand slam off Scott McGregor highlighted a five-run third inning as the Brewers rallied from a 5-1 deficit.

Molitor homered in the first in-

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

BOBBY WOLFF

Dear Mr. Wolff: Please settle an ongoing dispute for our lunch-time foursome. Who can claim honors and when can a player claim honors...

ANSWER: I would consider the four-club opening a pre-emptive bid, showing very long and strong clubs and little else...

Dear Mr. Wolff: I open one spade, LHO overcalls two clubs and partner cue-bids three clubs. What does a cue-bid of four clubs by me tell you?

ANSWER: It is usually a general showing of no bid signifying a very good opening bid...

Dear Mr. Wolff: If partner opens four clubs, is this bid a request for ace or is it preemptive? We use the Gerber asking convention.

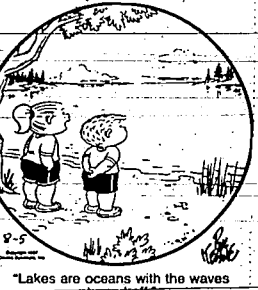

ANSWER: I would consider the four-club opening a pre-emptive bid, showing very long and strong clubs and little else...

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"Every great mistake has a half-way moment, a split second when it can be recalled and perhaps remedied."

Pearl S. Buck.

Today's South made his big mistake early. Unable to resist the temptation of a free finese, he was forced to fall back on an inferior plan.

The opening lead was ducked in dummy to clinch three heart tricks. East's queen falling to South's king. Too late now to think about establishing and running the clubs, South led a low spade to dummy's 10 and East's jack. Back came a heart to South's jack and South took a losing diamond finesse. The defense was now in charge, and with nothing working for South, he managed to win only seven tricks, down two to a hand that should have produced nine.

While South's plan did have some chance, it was inferior to a plan for establishing and running clubs. For that plan to succeed, South needed three entries to his hand after he unblocked dummy's club ace. Since West's lead at the heart nine gave a clue about the position of the heart queen, South should have won the first trick with dummy's heart ace. Dummy's club ace is cashed next, and South returns to his hand via the spade king to knock out one of the club honors. South's next entry is by way of the heart finesse, and West's club king is attacked to ensure the game. South's clubs are established while he still has the heart-king-for-the-vital-entry.
