Tremor hits hard in desert

The Associated Press

WESTMORLAND, Calif. — An earthquake more powerful than the one that caused heavy damage near Los Angeles Oct. 1 jolted Southern California on Monday, cracking windows and knocking items off shelves.

There were no immediate reports of injuries or serious damage. The earthquake struck at 6:54 p.m. MST and registered a preliminary 6.0 on the Richter scale, said U.S. Geological Survey spokesman Don Finley in Washington. It was centered near Westmorland, about 90 miles east of San Diego, he said.

The Oct. 1 quake that caused heavy damage in the Los Angeles suburb of Whittier registered 5.9.

Early reports said the earthquake was felt over a wide area, including Los Angeles, San Diego and Palm Springs, Calif.; Yuma and Parker in Arizona, and Las Vegas, 330 miles to the north, said Finley.

"It was shaking like crazy up here," said Mike Baker, the manager of the Sunset Room on the 27th floor of the Landmark Hotel in Las Vegas. "The quake knocked out traffic lights, cracked windows and rattled items off shelves in stores and homes in the desert community of Westmorland, with a population of about 1,500."

George Thomas was working in a convenience store in Westmorland when the quake hit. "A couple things fell off shelves and broke," he said. "A window cracked a little bit. Other than that it (was) not too bad."

Police Chief Robert Taylor, who commands four officers, said: "The only damage that has been reported is some merchandise falling off shelves — canned goods, bottles — and one resident whose light fixtures fell off the ceiling." The quake was preceded by a shock measuring 4.3 on the Richter scale, said Robert Finn, a spokesman for the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Cuban inmates torch Atlanta prison

The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Cuban inmates fighting deportation torched buildings and reportedly took 75 hostages in a riot at Atlanta's federal prison Monday that left at least one inmate dead.

The body of a dead inmate was shown by prison authorities to inmate negotiators during talks inside the prison, said a TV reporter who witnessed the talks.

Earlier, Rep. Pat Swindall, R-Ga., said the Justice Department told him one Atlanta inmate had died of gunshot wounds, but FBI agent David Kelsey said the bureau had no comment.

At a negotiating session Monday evening, four inmates asked for assurances there would be no retaliation for the uprising.

WSB-TV reporter Marc Pickard, who said he was invited to assure that the terms of any agreement would be public, said he was told that the inmates were holding 75 hostages, including two suffering from unspecified medical problems.

Pickard said the body of an inmate was shown by authorities to him and inmate negotiators. He said the inmates had asked that the body be shown, apparently to bolster their contention the inmate was slain by guards and not other prisoners.

Pickard said Warden Joseph F. Petrovsky told inmates he would sign a statement promising no retaliation for the uprising if they would free the two hostages.

Prison officials were seeking the release of those two hostages as a good faith gesture, said Pickard, who added that the prisoners were "having trouble believing" Attorney General Edwin Meese's moratorium offer.

At least 12 people were injured in Atlanta, including five inmates who were shot, hospital officials said.

Fire trucks lined up about 5:30 p.m. MST to enter the prison compound but still were not fighting the fire more than three hours later, because prison officials could not assure the safety of the firefighters. The fire spread from the prison industry building to other structures.

The state Department of Transportation brought in floodlights to aid work through the night.

Gary Leshaw, an attorney who has represented several of the Cubans, said negotiations were being conducted in person and by walkie-talkie.

In Biloxi, Miss., Cuban inmates dumped trash cans and "raised hell" with other prisoners Monday, Harrison County Sheriff Larkin told The (Biloxi) Sun Herald. "I have confidence that we're prepared for any situation that might arise," he said.

The United States and Cuba had announced the agreement to return the prisoners on Friday. Thick black smoke poured from the stone prison in

Louisiana siege enters its 4th day

The Associated Press

OAKDALE, La. — Cuban inmates controlling a burned-out federal detention center Monday threatened to kill 28 hostages and demanded freedom in the United States, and a U.S. senator who met with the inmates said he expected no quick end to the siege.

As Sen. John Breaux, D-La., met with the prisoners, townspeople displayed their concern by tying 25 yellow ribbons — one for each hostage — around a tree outside a Catholic church.

Breaux said he carried a copy of Attorney General Edwin Meese's offer to declare a moratorium on the return of Cubans who came here illegally during the 1980 boatlift. "I related that," he said, "to Ed Meese and that his offer is a serious one. They say they do not want to go back to Cuba under any circumstances." Breaux said.

Breaux said a meeting was planned later Monday night between federal negotiators and a single mediator chosen by the prisoners, who was identified only as "Angel."

Breaux reported that 28 hostages were held, three more than officials reported earlier. He said he hoped to meet the representative today.

Earlier Monday, the Cubans held in Oakdale apparently increased their demands and threatened death for more than 20 hostages, holding at bay a tent city of police in riot gear around their burned-out detention center.

"They always remind us that any time we attempt to rush into this facility, in any manner, armed or unarmed, they are going to kill the hostages. They've made that very clear," Warden J.R. Johnson said.

U.S. offers moratorium on Cubans return if rioting ends, hostages freed

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States offered Monday to impose a moratorium on the return of Cubans who came here illegally during the 1980 boatlift if Cuban inmates and their rioting at two federal prisons and free all hostages.

Attorney General Edwin Meese III said the offer was being made in expectation that all hostages seized by the inmates "will be safely released without delay."

Meese said that the moratorium would be in effect until each deportation case could be reviewed in a "full, fair and equitable" manner and included "all such Cubans detained in the United States."

There was no immediate word on the inmates' reaction to the offer.

The Cubans' cases would have been reviewed individually, regardless of the moratorium.

But Meese said that "there has been a great deal of apprehension, concern and tension about fair treatment ... The clear statement we've made today ... is to alleviate those concerns and let all of them know they will receive fair treatment."

Associate Attorney General Stephen Trott declined to say whether the government would loosen requirements to allow some of the Cubans to remain in this country. But Trott did say that "not everybody" in the two institutions "is going back to Cuba."

By continuing the uprisings, "they're only hurting their opportunities of getting what they want," he said.

"The exact criteria ... will have to be looked at," said Alan Nelson, director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Meese said the offer had been sent to the Oakdale, La., and Atlanta, institutions where inmates had seized dozens of hostages.

Sen. John B. Breaux, D-La., spoke with Meese after the attorney general's announcement and agreed to meet with Cubans at the Louisiana prison to try to persuade them to accept the terms, said Bob Mann, an aide to the senator.

The rioting was sparked by a State Department announcement Friday that Cuba had agreed to accept the return of 2,500 refugees from the 1980 Mariel boatlift, most of them criminals or mentally ill, officials said.

"We anticipated that there might be some problems and for that reason we put additional staff in the institutions where we had marielitos" • See OFFER on Page A2

Flowers, hugs from students greet AIDS-stricken teacher on return

The Associated Press

IRVINE, Calif. — A teacher who has AIDS was welcomed back to school Monday with hugs and flowers from his hearing-impaired students after winning a court battle to return to the classroom.

Vincent Chalk, 43, of Long Beach, exchanged sign-language greetings with his students at University High School in this Orange County community after they interrupted his news conference he was holding in the school library to greet him.

They said later through a sign-language interpreter that they weren't afraid of catching AIDS from Chalk because they know the deadly disease isn't transmitted through casual contact. They handed Chalk flowers and embraced him.

Chalk said he was gratified by the welcome, although it didn't surprise him.

"In the last few years, I have become very close to them, and they to me," he said. "I have become their confidant. They ask all sorts of questions. Their naivete and openness to learning makes them more accepting of taking me back." Student Elizabeth Espinosa, 18, said through an interpreter that she has known Chalk for five years and he has helped her very much. But Chalk conceded some will continue to fear his condition. • See TEACHER on Page A2

Shultz, Shevardnadze make gains

The Washington Post

GENEVA — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze made progress in "constructive" talks on arms control and other issues Monday.

However, they did not finish work on the intermediate-range nuclear forces (INF) treaty in the first of two days of scheduled talks.

The sketchy report on a long day of discussions, which centered on unfinished aspects of the treaty to be signed at the Dec. 8-10 Washington summit meeting, came from State Department spokesman Charles Redman. He said he was authorized by the Soviet as well as the U.S. side to describe the discussions as constructive.

A U.S. official said one of several points still not finally agreed involves the details of an on-site inspection arrangement: U.S. monitors are to be stationed in the Soviet Union for up to 13 years around a missile assembly site, while Soviet personnel are to be stationed around a missile plant in the United States.

Shultz and Shevardnadze met for 6½ hours in several sessions, and then were dining together at Shultz's invitation at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Joseph P. M. In addition to the INF treaty, the two ministers concentrated on detailed plans for Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's stay in Washington, Redman said.

A working group of arms-control officials headed by U.S. arms adviser Paul Nitze and Marshal Sergei Zhornitskiy, chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces, met informally through the day to exchange ideas on remaining disagreements, Redman said.

Neither the two top diplomats nor their arms advisers were reported to get past the remaining INF issues to a substantive discussion of strategic arms, which is the next arms accord on the U.S.-Soviet agenda and is expected to be the focus of negotiations in Washington between President Reagan and Gorbachev.

UN official says U.S. will pay up

The Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — The United Nations said Monday that Washington will soon pay $90 million in overdue assessments, enabling the world organization to pay staff salaries for December.

Francis Giuliani, spokesman for the secretary-general, announced over in-house speakers that the United States has said informally the total amount to be paid will not be known until Congress votes an appropriation in mid-December.

"In the meantime, the United States will pay $100 million," he said, including $10 million already remitted.

The U.S. Mission said it was unable to confirm Giuliani's statements and there was no official announcement.

Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar told employees Friday the United Nations was nearly broke, without reserves and unable to pay December salaries of $45-$50 million for about 11,000 people.

He said the United States, the largest contributor and debtor, owed $342.8 million in assessments.

The United States normally pays one-quarter of the annual U.N. budget of about $800 million but has withheld most contributions for more than a year, citing overspending and anti-Western bias and demanding reforms.

Reagan administration officials have expressed satisfaction with the pace of U.N. reform and urged Congress to restore the annual contribution.

Atlanta, which was surrounded by city police and firefighters, Georgia State Patrol troopers and emergency medical personnel.

Early Monday evening, smoke began rising from a different section of the prison.

Armed prison officials had control of some parts of the main building, a 22-acre compound, but authorities refused to discuss what areas were under inmate control.

FBI negotiators were trying to get the inmates, who had no list of demands, to release the hostages, said Mike Caltabiano, executive assistant to the U.S. Penitentiary warden. He would not say how many hostages were involved or where they were being held. A special team from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service was called in Miami to help.

The Atlanta inmates had no guns, he said.

Caltabiano said guards fired several "warning shots," but he declined to explain how the inmates happened to be shot.

The inmates, among 1,500 Cubans held at the facility, started a fire in the broom factory of the prison industries complex, a building immediately behind the prison, he said.

Many of the Cuban inmates voluntarily returned to their cells after the disturbance, which began at the start of the midday lunch break, he said.

The 85-year-old prison, the oldest in the federal system, houses more Cubans than any other institution in the nation.

The Cuban inmates were among the 125,000 people who came to the United States in the 1980 Mariel boatlift. The State Department said Friday that Cuba had agreed to take back 2,500 refugees from the boatlift, most of them criminals and mentally ill.

Cubans awaiting deportation are held in 25 U.S. prisons, but none except the institutions in Atlanta and Okaldale has more than 40, according to Kathryn Morse of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons in Washington.

Five Cuban inmates with gunshot wounds were admitted to Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta, said spokeswoman Beverly Thomas. Four other inmates with other injuries were taken to the hospital, officials said. Mr. Thomas said one guard was treated for a puncture wound in the shoulder and another for an injured arm.

At Georgia Baptist Hospital, doctors treated a prison official for chest pains, hospital spokeswoman Kim Hays said.

Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., who has called for an investigation of conditions at the prison, went to the facility Monday.

"This prison has been a time bomb set to go off. You can't hold men indefinitely without expecting something like this to happen," he said.

Lewis said he had sought permission to enter the prison but was refused.

Several tearful women whose husbands are inmates gathered in front of a supermarket outside the prison compound.

In 1984, Cubans smashed windows and set fires at the Atlanta prison, causing $1 million in property damage but no injuries.

Several hundred of the Cubans in Atlanta have been held since their arrival because they were deemed undesirable.

Teacher Offer

"I'm aware of one or two students whose parents are concerned," he said. "Hopefully, they'll come to learn I pose no threat and if they don't want contact with me, they'll have that choice."

The special education instructor for the hearing impaired said he fought for his job because he loves teaching.

He won his return with a 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling Wednesday. The court granted an injunction against the Orange County Department of Education, ruling it had no grounds to keep Chalk at the desk job he was reassigned to in September.

Chalk informed the department of his condition after learning he had the fatal disease in February during a hospitalization for pneumonia. He filed a lawsuit seeking reinstatement after he was barred from the classroom.

Chalk said Monday he felt fine. But to avoid overexertion, he initially will be working three days a week, mainly counseling and evaluating his students, who attend school on the grounds of this suburban campus 35 miles southeast of downtown Los Angeles.

Chalk's doctor will evaluate his health regularly and the information will be made available to school officials, said Marjorie Rushforth, one of his American Civil Liberties Union attorneys.

Some students from the general student body complained or made faces when asked Monday about Chalk's return, but no formal protests were conducted.

"Some have expressed fear," Chalk said. "But I hope they get over it. We have many well-educated students on campus to help them allay their fears."

Earlier, Orange County Superintendent of Schools Robert Peterson said the department had barred Chalk from the classroom to protect against any possible parental lawsuit, and would not appeal the court decision.

Wednesday's unanimous ruling by the three-judge panel in San Francisco reversed a decision by U. S. District Judge William Gray of Los Angeles, who said it was too risky to allow Chalk to return to the classroom while his suit was tried, because of insufficient scientific information on how the disease is transmitted.

Chalk said his suit seeking reinstatement and unspecified damages is pending, although he said his lawyer remained hopeful for an out-of-court settlement.

sure fair treatment," Meese said. "By fair treatment, I include how the detainees will be handled, if the uprisings end immediately. All will be treated properly and there will be no unlawful reprisals."

On Friday, the United States announced that Cuba was reviving an agreement to allow the repatriation of more than 2,500 Cubans who had come to this country illegally in 1980. The agreement was signed in December 1984, but Cuba suspended it after five months. The suspension was based on the establishment of Radio Marti, a Voice of America broadcast operation beamed to Cuba.

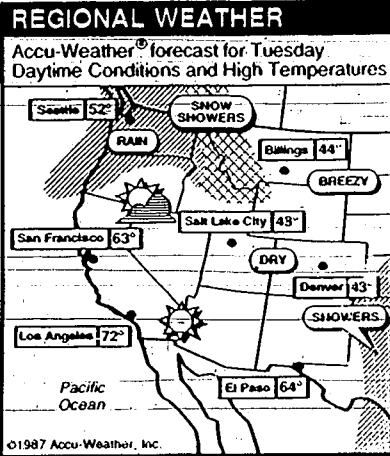

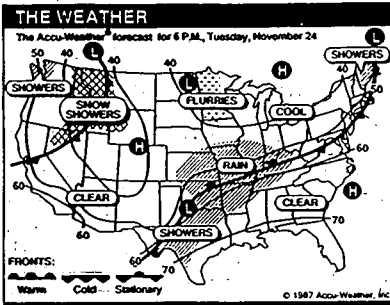

During the 1980 boatlift, more than 125,000 Cubans came to the United States. Of that total, 2,746 were deemed "excludable" under U.S. law because of mental illness or nonpolitical crimes. During the five months that the repatriation agreement was in effect, 201 Cubans returned to their homeland.

Hundreds mourn at service for Melba school students

MELBA (AP) — Family, friends and neighbors were joined by hundreds of mourners from the surrounding countryside on Monday to remember the three young women from Melba Future Farmers of America delegation who died in the crash of Continental Flight 1713.

The community, the FFA, the nation and the world may have lost leaders, but their leadership remains, and we are grateful for that," Jeffrey Isom, the president of the state FFA, told nearly 1,000 people who attended the memorial service.

Twenty-eight people were killed in the crash, but Melba, a town of just 800 on the Snake River Plain southwest of Boise, was hard hit by the tragedy.

FFA members Sherry Nelson, 18, and Janine Ledgerwood, 17, and Tami Daniel, 26, the wife of their faculty adviser, were killed when the jetliner crashed on takeoff from Denver's Stapleton International Airport 10 days ago. Seven others, including adviser Dave Daniel, were injured as the delegation was returning from a national convention.

They were buried late last week along with most of the other victims. Two other victims, James and Karen Marria, were buried in Boise Monday morning, and the funeral for the last Idaho victim, Dennis Kemper, was scheduled for Tuesday.

Some of the other Melba FFA members injured in the crash and the victims' families, including Dave Daniel, sat at the front of the high school gymnasium where speakers eulogized the three dead women from a podium draped with flowers. Patrick Lovelady, 18, struggled with his leg in a cast, and Michelle Davis, 20, was in a wheelchair, clutching a teddy bear.

Behind them was a sea of more than 100 blue-jacketed FFA members from other farming towns in southwestern Idaho along with officers from the state FFA organizations in Idaho, Oregon and Washington and the national headquarters in Virginia.

After "life sketches" of the three crash victims, classmates and teachers passed a microphone among themselves, recalling special memories of their associations with the three.

Michelle Davis, in wheelchair, survived crash

On the podium was a yellow wreath and beneath it a sign that read "Our Friends: Tami, Sherry, Janine. We Love You."

Psychologists have been working with students and others in Melba, trying to help them cope with the loss. But the experts say it will be a long time before the community has reconciled itself with its grief.

High school guidance counselor Corky Hill recalled how much Tami Daniel enjoyed her involvement with school activities and her husband's work with the FFA. "Her infectious smile and positive attitude will always be with us," he said.

"One of the really neat things about America, and Melba in particular, is that we honor the people who come before us with dignity and respect, then we get on with living. Tami would tell us to do that."

National FFA Secretary Kevin Ochsner of Fort Collins, Colo., said the organization's leadership shared the town's grief. Victims of the crash would have wanted their neighbors to continue living each day to its fullest and making a positive contribution to society, he said.

"I like to think that it just took them a shorter period of time to make that positive contribution than it does all of us," Ochsner said. "You lost a loved one; we lost one of us."

Marsh Valley hospital fails standards

DOWNY (AP) — Another Idaho hospital has failed a government inspection, placing its eligibility for critical Medicaid and Medicare payments in jeopardy.

The 17-bed Marsh Valley Hospital in Downey has been given 45 days to correct deficiencies uncovered in an inspection last week by the state Department of Health and Welfare.

"Physical environment, governing body, nursing services and quality assurance: those four conditions we found to be out of compliance with state standards," Loyl Perry, state licensing and certification supervisor, said.

"If they can't bring it into compliance, ... we will recommend to the Health Care Financing Administration in Seattle that Marsh Valley be terminated from the (Medicare) program," Perry said.

In recent months, nursing homes in Pocatello and Burley have also failed to pass state or federal inspections.

"After the state licensing inspection last year, I asked Wiley how it had gone. He told me it was no problem, that the inspector was a guy he knew, and that he had 'b.s.'ed him all day so the inspector didn't have time to look at the records," Hiestand charged.

Jones asks Symms to kill tax bill

BOISE (AP) — Attorney General Jim Jones has urged Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, to oppose legislation that would require unclaimed federal tax refunds to remain in the U.S. Treasury rather than reverting to the states.

"The escheat of unclaimed and abandoned property is traditionally a sovereign power of the state," Jones said in a letter to Symms dated Friday. "The intrusion of the federal government into this traditional state law power is a modification of our federal system of government which has little precedent."

The attorney general said the federal government has no system for identifying or locating state residents to return unclaimed tax refunds, but the states do.

What's more, he said, the provision of the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 amending the Internal Revenue Code would not significantly reduce the federal budget deficit.

The tax writing staff estimated in its "Description of Revenue Options" pamphlet that the revenue gain from this provision would be under $60 million cumulatively for FY 1988-90," Jones wrote. "The federal government can well forego this amount long enough to give adequate considerations to such a sub-

Appellants still must pay costs

BOISE (AP) — No legal costs can be recovered on a successful appeal of a criminal conviction, the Idaho Court of Appeals has ruled.

The three-member court on Monday unanimously upheld 1st District Judge Dan Cogswell's decision denying Patricia M. Peterson's request for recovery of transcript and briefing costs incurred in her successful appeal of a drunken-driving conviction in magistrate court.

The Court of Appeals agreed with Cogswell's finding that there is "no explicit statutory authorization" for assessing costs against the state in a criminal action.

Meanwhile, the Idaho Supreme Court upheld 3rd District Judge Jim Doolittle's denial of two Canyon County men's request to have their sentences reduced in the kidnapping, rape and beating of their 12-year-old cousin.

Levi Wilfred Martinez and Frank "Poncho" Martinez were convicted of statutory rape, lewd and lascivious conduct, aggravated battery and second-degree kidnapping for the assault. Each was sentenced to a fixed prison term of 75 years for the first three charges, plus an indeterminate 15-year term for kidnapping.

The Idaho Court of Appeals decided on appeal that although the sentences were legally permissible, they were excessive and should be modified. The Supreme Court ruled on review that Doolittle had not abused his sentencing discretion, but it invited him to re-examine the sentences if the Martinez asked to have them reduced.

When they did, Doolittle denied the request, saying the original sentences were necessary to protect society and that rehabilitation seemed improbable.

The Supreme Court agreed Monday.

Letters/ Congress disregarding welfare of people, nation

Housecleaning time here

It is my opinion that never in my long life did I ever think that I would see the blatant example of moral irresponsibility within the ranks of those chosen by the people to legislate and administer government as the Congress of the United States is guilty of. Their attitude is one of total disregard for the welfare of the people and the nation.

It should be shockingly clear to even the most partisan American citizen that the people are no longer the electorate (those) but have become the slave. Are we so blind, stupid, or so caught up in the illusionary "good life" that we really don't care about our neighbor or our country?

All of those who have earned the right to draw Social Security benefits: who for 50 years have had the money supposedly set aside as a trust fund, not as a tax, to provide food, shelter, and sustenance of life for retirement, stand up shoulder to shoulder against a political system and a Congress irresponsible.

For over half a century we were touted and sold by the politician on the idea we were contributing to a trust to provide for comfort and welfare in our old age, not taxed. Instead we have been in the process of being fleeced. The misuse of the Social Security trust by the Congress is public record.

Young people, don't smirk. You are in the same boat. You are being taxed for your later years right now and being sold the same bill of goods by the great society. Years is the greatest fault because you have a living example before your eyes and are not benefitting by the experience of your parents and elders.

Congress has voted itself another raise while they ask Social Security pensioners to take a cut, just for one year. Are we gullible enough to believe that it will be just for a year? What Congress proposes to do for the elderly sets the stage for what they propose to do for the young of today. It is time for us to rise up and say we have had enough of self-serving corrupt politicians whom you elected or by your silence caused to be elected.

Every now and then the media will do a survey and come up with some "flag waving" Social Security recipient who has been more successful financially than some of his neighbors and wants people to think what a generous patriotic American he is and so makes a statement that goes like this: "Oh the COLA cut only takes about $21 per month and I'll gladly contribute that to help the deficit. Twenty-one dollars, what a paltry amount! That person would spend that for cocktails on the golf course. Some elders less fortunate would use it to help pay the light bill or rent. Judas sold out for 30 pieces of silver; they are willing to do it for $21. If they want to be truly contributing Americans, all of the more affluent who have incomes in excess of $50,000 per year should be taken off of the Social Security pension roll by Congress. Hmm... how about the stock market? A lot of you are not involved in the market and may have some very small and biased view points about those who profit or lose. Small thinking, better back up and get involved enough to know that your Congress is involved in a big way and in addition to the rest of their sins much of the world stock market problem can be laid directly at their door. It doesn't matter whether you are an investor or not, if it goes, you go.

Social Security recipients, senior citizens, now is the time to stand up as one and say enough is enough. Let all the people, young and old, Democrat and Republican let it be known that the time for a congressional house cleaning has come. An election year is just around the corner.

J.A. MARTIN

of quote, and that all Social Security recipients should take a smaller increase in their cost of living increase. Where was he when the Senate received eight to 12 thousand increase.

I think every Social Security recipient in the state of Idaho should exercise their vote in the next election.

MAX SHEEN
Paul

Congress can help out, too

I just read that Sen. Steve Symms says "everybody should help pull the wagon" when it comes to belt-tightening to help balance the federal budget, even Social Security recipients. Well, if he honestly thinks that way, then why doesn't he and all his companions who notoriously did and did not vote on a generous pay increase for themselves return their raises and cost-of-living perks back to the government to help balance the federal budget.

All of the congressmen and budget planners can see ways to let someone else feel the pain and sacrifice but let's not rock their little furry nests that they have worked their way into.

He is wrong about the fact that the bulk of the people on Social Security have their homes paid for and are not near the poverty line. There are many good people out there that started back out of the old depression days and did not have the opportunity to amass a fortune like all the bright and intelligent congressional policy makers. They only had the possibility of using the Social Security benefits to help them live after they were too old to produce enough to care for themselves and their mates.

They were too busy raising a family and trying to educate their children (a advantage they did not have) than finding the money to save for a complete retirement. There were no IRAs or fat pension plans. In fact, the living most citizens my age were able to make barely covered the cost of living and raising a family.

Mr. Symms, you are from Idaho, and you know that all the farmers worked for themselves and did sacrifice to pay a full Social Security tax on themselves so that they could have something to fall back on when they were too old to work. Have you read or attempted to find out the conditions economic here in Idaho, and know how many farmers and business people have had to take out bankruptcy and only have Social Security benefits to rely on? Come on, you'd better educate yourself with the plight of your constituents before opening your big mouth and putting both feet in. You're disgusting.

Earl Hardy a winner no matter who rolls

"People should remember I own the ground. I'm offering something truly in the public interest." — Earl Hardy

Hardy's comments deal with his proposals not to destroy all of Box Canyon in exchange for destroying most of it and building a dam across public land to carry water to another addition of his empire, a fish hatchery in Blind Canyon. His comments came after a public information meeting on a proposed minimum steam flow for Box Canyon Creek. The public was informed — you get nothing or you get very little. There is no public interest. No matter how you roll the dice, Earl Hardy wins.

Hardy's grand gesture is tantamount to a rapist offering his victim money in an effort to change her role from innocent victim to willing participant. The proposition does not alter the fact that rape has occurred. There isn't much left out there folks. Box Canyon is a rare and precious jewel — though she has been violated already.

The public's acceptance of Hardy's deals not only sells out our responsibility as caretakers of this good earth and participants in the transgression, out renders us helpless victims of blackmail as well.

Earl Hardy and those like him, who flaunt their money and their power and hide their malevolent acts behind our rights as citizens, throw our total system into imbalance by callously disregarding their responsibilities. They suffer from a disease more deadly to society than AIDS — GIS (greed, irresponsibility and self-centeredness) and an addiction far worse than chemical dependency — materialism.

"Earl Hardy will produce five million pounds of fish and employ 45-50 people. That will add a sizeable income to the state.

How much you going to desire from the Shoshone sculpin. When it's all gone and your pockets are full of money will you be happy? Will you be proud to pass it on to future generations? When the grandchildren see pictures of those once beautiful places, will you then pass them a buck and "Remember the ground belonged to Earl Hardy."

WILLIAM K. CHISHOLM

Leave waters as they are to be enjoyed

In regard to "dams" and "hydro-power" plants on our beautiful rivers:

We don't need more power at this time. I don't think we should build any more dams or fish hatcheries. The waters are better left as is. We the people should have something left to enjoy. Some people just want extra money no matter the cost to a great many of us.

Leave California and Washington to ruin their own states. Let us keep our scenery of rivers, mountains and streams for we Idahoans and tourists.

Letters/ Time for people to get out, become involved

Most people not informed

This is more a letter to the common people, of which I am one, and will never claim to be anything more. But I have been learning a lot going to different types of meetings around town. Democrat meetings, farmer's meetings, etc. I attended a meeting tonight on the right of jury trials, that got me to thinking though how really ignorant I am. I'm not stupid, just ignorant! Which I feel is the problem of most of the common people.

What I'm meaning right now by being ignorant is that we all have gotten so wrapped up in just trying to make a living, or get by, that we've become blind to what is happening around us. To neighbors, law, government or what have you. And you know why? Because we tell ourselves that it has nothing to do with us. I'm beginning to see now though how wrong I was.

It's mainly because of people like myself that this world has gotten the shape it's in today.

We think we're having trouble enough just getting by, let someone else worry about the community, laws, government, etc. Only you know what I'm learning? That the ones we've left the worry up to are the rich and powerful and the common people are left without a voice for themselves. Because the majority of these rich and powerful people could care less about us common people. But the saddest part of this story is that we've put our ourselves in this spot. We think we don't have time to listen to things that are happening, or to get out and voice our opinions on things (that's mainly because we're afraid we might appear to be stupid to some), or that nobody will listen if we do have something to say. Only that's not so. If you don't speak up how do you expect to be heard.

So I guess to sum things up, I'm trying to say, "Let's stop being the silent majority." Get out and get involved. Listen to what's going on around you. Ask questions. And above all, voice your opinions. Be heard for a change whether it be by speaking out voting or whatever. It's learning me a lot, and I'm enjoying it and I think most of you would find yourselves learning and enjoying it, too.

I've been hearing so many sad stories and injustices pulled on our fellow workers and they're mostly because we have been to busy in the past to care about what kind of laws are put, or what kind of people are put into government (both locally and nationally).

And it really makes me ashamed of myself to think that it's partly my fault that these people and many, many more have suffered because I was to busy.

I myself intend to change my way of thinking and get involved. I sincerely hope everyone that might read this will do the same.

We may not have put those deaf ears in there. But we can take them out.

WANDA McMURRIAN
Twin Falls

He'll be on the front line

Last Friday evening I attended a Trial By Jury committee meeting at the Twin Falls County Courthouse. This is a committee that is trying to put an initiative on the November '88 ballot. Their proposal would notify the Idaho Rules of Civil Procedure 38 (a) and 38 (b). To make this simple, right now you do not have the right to a trial by jury in an equity matter. In the case of bank closure, as is happening to many of our farmers, only a judge may decide the case, not a jury. Even with guarantees by our United States Constitution and our Idaho state constitution to a trial by jury this denial of justice is legal in Idaho. I totally support this committee's action and will do all I can to help them.

This was the second farm crisis meeting I attended last week. I found it not surprising that not one of our Republican state representatives or state senators from Twin Falls County was there. Their absence from meetings such as these blatantly shows that they do not care about the farmers problems. Just wait until next October and the words of care and concern will flow from their lips like honey. It is too bad that these Republicans can only care and listen for one month every two years.

I will spare you the gut wrenching stories I heard at Friday's meeting. But, for one, am sick and tired of Reaganomics. It is time to get to work and help all of the people not just the rich.

This Jury Trial Initiative will be a political hot potato next year and I will be on the front line with it.

Loss of moral codes major threat to nation

Have we, as a people and educators, forgotten the primary reason for education? Colleges are institutions of higher learning.

Education is the process of training and developing the knowledge, mind and character, of our young people are the future of this country, but they must learn self-discipline in order to live responsibly and earn their right to climb the ladder of success.

Colleges have no right to promote promiscuous sex or prostitution by making condoms available to their students. Would we then, as taxpayers, be supporting brothels? We are told we must be broad-minded and realize human nature must be satisfied. There is also such a thing as right and wrong, and being responsible for one's actions.

When moral codes are waned and lust becomes top priority, our human natures become dehumanized or machine-like. This trend, as history has proved, can destroy us as a nation. We need not fear Russia and her war-machine so much as we need to fear the destruction of our own moral codes.

Environmentalists say EPA violating terms of cleanup law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is violating the tough toxic cleanup and human health requirements of the 1980 Superfund program, environmental groups charged Monday.

The administration has simply decided not to enforce parts of the new law which it actively opposed during the reauthorization debate, three organizations said in a report on the restructured program's first year.

The report said the Environmental Protection Agency "is systematically ignoring" the law's mandates to find permanent solutions to waste dumps and to ensure that its cleanups meet the tough health protection standards.

The agency was also criticized for "foot dragging" because it still has not implemented a provision under which communities can obtain grants to hire technical experts to review EPA plans for cleaning up toxic-in-their areas.

"The policies and decisions ... appear more responsive to the concerns of the polluter ... to hold down costs than they are to concerns related to public health, the environment and fidelity to the law," the report said.

"The agency's initial actions ... are setting the tone and establishing the precedents which will govern the Superfund program for years to come," said the report prepared by the U.S. Public Interest Research Group, the National Campaign Against Toxic Hazards and Clean Water Action.

Priscilla Flattery, an EPA spokeswoman, says the agency hopes to have the grant mechanism in place by February. She said EPA would comment on the other portions of the report after reading it.

The 1986 law was the product of two years of tough battling in Congress, where authors of the original 1980 Superfund law were upset by scandals in the early Reagan EPA and a record of only six completed cleanups in the first five years of the program.

One of the biggest fights came over the question of how clean should EPA render a toxic dump. It was won by hard-line environmentalists, who were critical of EPA trying to contain waste at a dump or moving it to another site.

Signed by a reluctant President Reagan on Oct. 17, 1986, the law requires EPA, "to the maximum extent practicable," to permanently render toxics harmless through processes such as burning or chemical neutralization.

The report quoted an internal EPA document as saying that only one-third of the 74 cleanup plans approved in the year beginning Oct. 1, 1986, involved permanent solutions, up from one-fourth before the new law.

"EPA is violating the permanent treatment provisions in most of its cleanup decisions," said the report, warning that toxics have leaked from sites contained by EPA and that moving toxics to another site can create a new Superfund dump needing an expensive cleanup.

"The agency seems content in proposing Band-Aid solutions that inadequately address the problems at the sites and are certain to fail in the foreseeable future," the report said.

Used to be millions of mummies before the Egyptian railroads brought them by the ton for locomotive fuel.

Writes a client: "The notion that cooking might be why humans came to dominate the earth is nonsense. Dinosaurs dominated the earth for 350 million years, and they were lousy cooks. Use of weapons, that's why humans dominate."

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN
Is it possible for a young woman to be so beautiful that she ties up traffic? Evidently. A 19th century London confectioner known as Mr. Very put his daughter to work in his shop. So stunning was she that people stood around outside the shop's windows to watch her. Not just a few people. Crowds. Historical footnotes say the police eventually got Mr. Very to send the young lady out of the city. She was stalling both horse and foot traffic, they said, just because "she was so strikingly beautiful."

Christopher Columbus on his explorations expected to find people so primitive they'd speak Hebrew, so he took along Jewish interpreters.

Carlucci assumes office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Carlucci was sworn in as secretary of defense Monday, praised by President Reagan as an insider who knows how to get results from Congress and the bureaucracy.

Carlucci, who has been Reagan's national security adviser, succeeds Caspar W. Weinberger, who resigned earlier this month because of his wife's health.

Holding his hand on a Bible held by his wife, Marcia, Carlucci was administered the oath of office by federal appeals Judge Laurence Silberman in the Roosevelt Room of the White House. Weinberger was among the guests present.

Cuts set SDI deployment back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional cuts in President Reagan's "Star Wars" budget have pushed into the mid-1990s the likely point at which a decision could be made on building a missile defense system, Pentagon officials said Monday.

Until recently, officials overseeing the Star Wars program had spoken hopefully of making some initial decisions on the development of hardware for a rudimentary system by 1992.

"But you can't eliminate an impact on the schedule with these latest (budget) cuts," said one ranking Pentagon official who asked not to be named. "The farther we are into the program, the more of an impact these budget cuts have. And these latest cuts are going to be a real problem."

King Olav to rekindle bonds

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The 84-year-old king of Norway will have Thanksgiving Day dinner with a suburban family this week as part of his sixth visit to a state with deep ties to his country.

"The king has a great affinity for his countrymen and really loves this area," said Liv Løyen, spokeswoman for the Sons of Norway, a cultural group in Minneapolis.

"He asked to come," said Ulf Christensen, a Norwegian foreign affairs officer helping to coordinate the event.

Reagan can veto budget bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Monday the recent budget compromise with Capitol Hill does not mean that he has to accept whatever legislation lawmakers send his way.

"I will veto a bad tax bill," Reagan told a group of Wall Street and business leaders, called to the White House to discuss the budget agreement.

The president, seated between John Phelan, chairman of the American Stock Exchange, and Roger Smith, chairman of General Motors, told the group that the pact reached on Friday "must not be the last word on deficit reduction."

"This is a good first step, a basic framework to work with this year and next. We can and should do more," Reagan said.

It took four weeks for the budget negotiators to reach a compromise, spurred on by the stock market crash of Oct. 19.

NBC to interview Gorbachev

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC has landed the first American television interview with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, to be broadcast in prime time next Monday, the network said.

All three networks have had long-standing requests for an interview with the Soviet Communist Party general secretary. Gorbachev is due to arrive in the United States on Dec. 7 for a summit meeting with President Reagan.

"NBC Nightly News" anchor Tom Brokaw will conduct a 1-hour, spontaneous interview with Gorbachev in Moscow on Sunday, NBC News spokesman Bill McAndrew said Monday.

NBC will air the interview at 8 p.m. EST Monday, Nov. 30. NBC consultants and former vice president Gordon Manning has been laying the groundwork for the interview for two years, said NBC News President Lawrence K. Grossman.

Reagan refuses to rule out pardons for Iran-Contra aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Monday refused to rule out the possibility of granting pardons to former White House aides under investigation in the Iran-Contra affair, saying "that's a question no one can answer."

He also belittled the newly released report by congressional investigators of the Iran-Contra episode. "Maybe they labored and brought forth a mouse," he said.

In a firm voice, Reagan turned aside questions about presidential pardons, first at a Rose Garden ceremony and minutes later in the Cabinet Room during a meeting with business and investment leaders.

"This is a subject I have not and will not discuss at this time," Reagan said.

Asked when he would discuss it, Reagan said: "Sometime in the future." In an interview last month, Reagan said he did not think his former aides had broken any laws.

A reporter also noted Reagan had not commented on the report of the congressional Iran-Contra committee, which accused the administration of "disdain for the law" and said the president bore "ultimate responsibility."

"Maybe no comment is called for,"

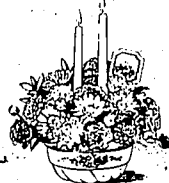

Reagan said.

Reagan also was asked about pardons during the annual presentation of a Thanksgiving turkey in the Rose Garden, a 65-pound bird grown especially for the occasion.

"That's a question no one can answer," Reagan said.

When reporters responded that he "could answer such a question,"

Attorney General talks to Republican women

Jones to tell his ideas on Swan Falls today

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Attorney General Jim Jones will release ideas today for changing the Swan Falls water rights bill in Congress.

Jones has been critical of a committee report that accompanies the bill saying the report gives the federal government too much control over waters in Idaho.

The bill sought by Idaho Power Co. passed the House Nov. 9 by a vote of 320-0.

Jones and U.S. Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, are adding to the report, with Stallings saying the document does not expand federal authority in Idaho.

"Jones has offended (House Energy and Commerce) Committee Chairman John Dingell (D-Mich.) and the committee staff to the extent that they are outraged," Stallings said.

If Jones is successful in killing the legislation, the real losers will be the water users, Stallings says. Should the bill die this year, the chances of it getting passed next year are slim, he says.

"There will be no future development here," he said.

The purpose of the Swan Falls bill is to get federal approval of a 1984 agreement between the state and IPC over the future use of water in the Snake River system. The parties involved think this is necessary because IPC sells power out of state and is licensed by a federal agency.

Because of uncertainty over whether federal approval will come, the state Department of Water Resources stopped issuing new water rights for major uses in 1983.

"The Republican attorney general took his case about Swan Falls to a friendly audience on Monday. He spoke before the Twin Falls County Republican Women's Lunch.

Stallings has made speeches explaining his position in his home turf of southeastern Idaho.

Jones told the Republican women here that he met with U.S. Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, recently on the Swan Falls issue. Jones said prior to the meeting McClure reviewed suggested changes in the Swan Falls bill that were drawn up by Jones' staff.

"After leaving the meeting I felt very comfortable," Jones said.

McClure could not be reached for comment Friday or Monday but Jones and Stallings agree that the controversy now sits in McClure's lap.

The Senate earlier passed a Swan Falls bill but it is vastly different than the one that cleared the House, Stallings says there would be no problem if the Swan Falls bill was sent to President Reagan with a Senate committee report that is different than the House one. Committee reports are used by the courts to determine the intent of a bill.

Jones' problems with the House committee report include a federal role in determining stream flows as they affect fish and wildlife. With the House committee report, the state is not in a good position to fight issues of federal control, he says. If the bill died, the state would be in a better position, he says.

"Jones says it is 'poppycock' to say that thousands of water rights are in jeopardy because of the impasse.

The average farmer in Idaho doesn't have much to gain with or without the legislation, Jones says. "If the legislation passes with the committee report, the interests of irrigators will suffer," Jones says.

State Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, told Republican women that for many years there was no dispute about IPC taking water out of the river for economic development. One form of development was supplying electricity to power high lift pumps that moved Snake River water to Idaho's high desert plateaus.

But the era of abundant water is over, Noh said.

"The Swan Falls agreement is all about who will decide who will get to use what's left," he said.

The agreement divided what is left of the groundwater and Snake River system between IPC and the state.

With Swan Falls IPC is assured of its remaining half to spin its hydroelectric turbines, Noh said. But whether or not the state will get its half is an open question, he said.

"Whenever a critical resource becomes scarce, people begin to fight about what's left," Noh said.

Blaine commission hears alternatives for route location

Transmission line decision tabled

By BARBARA NEIWERT
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — Idaho Power Co.'s 138,000 volt transmission line has hit another glitch and will remain on the drawing board for some time.

Although a decision was expected as early as last Thursday, an application for routing of the proposed transmission line through Blaine County was put on hold after a major procedural error was discovered.

During the course of a public hearing Thursday night with the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission, two property owners within the proposed Over-the-Hills route told the commission they had not received any notification their property would be involved among the route alternatives.

The county's prosecuting attorney Ned Williamson advised the commission since due process was not followed, if members were to make a decision now they should limit their consideration to only Idaho Power Co.'s proposed Valley route and the alternative Toe-of-the-Hills route. This would eliminate the Over-the-Hills route from their decision process, Williamson said.

After six months of extensive study, hearings and workshops, the commission had hoped to make a decision at Thursday's public hearing. The commissioners did take public testimony, but tabled any further discussion and a decision until all landowners involved received legal notification.

Also, in a move which expands the scope of the alternative routes for the transmission line, the commission agreed to send notification to all landowners from Gannett north to the Hailey City Substation who would have property within a half mile diameter of an extension of the Over-the-Hills route.

There are currently three primary routes under consideration, with possible off-shoots stemming from each as discussions progress. IPC has applied for a conditional use permit for its preferred route, known as the Valley route. The high voltage transmission line is being sought because the current power availability is limited and is of precarious reliability, said IPC attorney Pat Harrington.

Originally requested in 1982, the Valley route received criticism, as it does now, because it runs along Highway 20 through Picabo and Silver Creek about where the highway does. From that point the line would follow the Gannett Road to Bellevue.

The Toe-of-the-Hills route runs east from the proposed Silver Substation to the base of the foothills north to connect with the existing lines north of Gannett. The board of commissioners approved this route in 1982. Battles over the proposed route went to the Idaho Supreme Court, which eventually ruled there had been a conflict of interest in earlier decisions on the route.

The third route, known as the Over-the-Hills route, was proposed this summer by several residents in the Picabo area and involves relocation of the planned Silver Substation from a point two miles southeast of Picabo to a location some three miles further to the southeast. From the substation the line would head east, turning north, past Queen's Crown and North Queen's Crown, through the foothills northeast of Picabo. The line would then turn and head northwest, turning once again to connect with the existing power line just north of Gannett.

Even though Idaho Power has filed an application for the Valley route, P&Z Commissioner Leonard Harlig spoke for the commission, saying "We're going to select a route and then it's Idaho Power's responsibility to carry it out."

During the public hearing, the commission expressed concerns over recent information presented regarding the possibility of health dangers associated with people living in the proximity of high voltage lines, such as those being proposed.

Graphic courtesy of Idaho Mountain Express

Harrington said because of the commission's concern, IPC went to Picabo to measure the magnitude of the magnetic field of an existing distribution line. He reported directly to the distribution line gave a reading between three and four milligauss. The 138-kilovolt line would be only 17 percent greater, but IPC offered to move it from the south side of the highway to the less populated north side. "We don't feel this increased risk is significant whatsoever," Harrington said.

Earlier, IPC projected costs for the three routes would be $1,184,000 for the Valley route, $1,961,000 for the Toe-of-the-Hills route, and $2,300,000 for the Over-the-Hills route.

Attorney Keith Rouk spoke on behalf of his client Rick Johnson, saying he had never seen anyone ask for a conditional use permit based on the contention it was the "cheapest" way to go and challenged Harrington's interpretation of the county's comprehensive plan.

Steve Kearns of the Wood River Building Contractors asked IPC if they had plans to implement a moratorium on construction hookups if more power were not available to the valley soon.

Harrington responded by saying that action should not be viewed as a threat, but it would come under consideration. Other valley residents expressed the need to make a decision on the line in a timely manner. General Manager of Elkhorn Resort, Mike

Judge denies lawyer access to witness

The Associated Press

BOISE — U.S. District Judge Marion Callister has denied attorney Jeffrey Heworth's requests for access to a witness and additional information to build his defense for a Buhl woman accused of falsifying immigration documents.

And Callister concluded Monday's hearing in Boise by chiding the Buhl attorney for his combative approach to handling Estela Renfro's case.

"I don't doubt your good faith for your client. But I can't help but think that you've been somewhat more abrasive, or significantly more abusive, than is good for either you or your client," Callister said.

"These accusations back and forth do not add to the dignity of the court."

Heworth had asked the judge to order federal prosecutors to allow him to interview Juvenal Gonzales-Rosales. He is the Mexican national whom Renfro and a Texas woman allegedly falsified an application for temporary resident status under the government's seasonal agricultural worker program.

Renfro and Irma Garza are scheduled to stand trial Dec. 14 in Boise. They face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

The women were indicted by a federal grand jury last month for allegedly falsifying an application filed with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service on Gonzales-Rosales' behalf on Oct. 7.

The application indicated Gonzales-Rosales had lived in the United States long enough to qualify for a new federal non-resident alien work program, according to court documents. It also allegedly included a statement from Garza that Gonzales-Rosales worked for her as a farm laborer in 1985 and 1986.

Heworth contends the INS and U.S. attorney's office have effectively denied him access to Gonzales-Rosales by secreting him at a farm somewhere in southern Idaho. He also alleges Gonzales-Rosales was coerced into testifying against the women by federal agents who threatened to charge him with drug violations.

Besides access to Gonzales-Rosales, Heworth asked Callister for a "bill of particulars" detailing any additional charges federal prosecutors might be considering against Renfro, since the indictment includes the period Sept. 18 through Oct. 9.

"I'm entitled to know what I have to defend against," Heworth said. "I don't know what acts they're alleging other than filing that application."

But Assistant U.S. Attorney Kim Lindquist argued that Heworth was not entitled to see Gonzales-Rosales unless he agreed to be interviewed.

Ketchum discusses Giacobbi Square plans

By PETER MUELLER
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council is considering plans to turn Fifth Street in front of Giacobbi Square into a parking lot.

The plan, as architect Ned Hamlin proposed, would create eight additional parking spaces by replacing the parallel parking on Fifth Street with angled parking on both sides of the street.

The existing parking lot in front of the square would then be turned into a mini-park without a net loss of parking.

The idea, as architect Darryl McMillen pointed out, is to "replace a sea of asphalt with benches, kiosks and trees." The proposal met with council support, although details of the project may need to be altered. Councilmember Tom Held thought the plan was a "great idea" and pointed out that it would "basically eliminate a driving lane."

City Administrator Jim Jaquet was more cautious with his support and raised the question of how the new lot might increase the difficulty of plowing.

The problem, as Jaquet pointed out, is that the proposed planters at the corners of the lot would make it difficult for a plow to make a clean sweep of the space. The planters "would, however, deter through traffic and help define the parameters of the parking lot."

Another potential problem that Jaquet raised was that the parking spaces are set at a 70-degree angle. This would be a problem when drivers try to back up into the limited space provided, he said.

The city has drawn much of the surrounding spaces at a 45-degree angle to avoid this problem. Jaquet said the city has a liability if it approves construction that creates a hazardous situation.

But as the architects pointed out, this change in parking angle would actually amount in a net loss of parking spaces. "Aesthetics are important," Ned Hamlin said, but added that he could not justify the project if it meant a loss of parking.

To create more space to back into, the council brought up the idea of limiting the access to the lot to one-way traffic. This idea would create the only one-way street in town.

This option and others will be considered at a special joint meeting between the Ketchum City Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Council on Dec. 14 at the Ketchum City Hall.

Open pit gold mine sought in Black Pine area

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Noranda Mining Co. of Reno, Nev., wants to do open pit gold mining in the Black Pine section of the Sawtooth National Forest, about 35 miles southeast of Burley.

Noranda should have a proposal ready for the U.S. Forest Service in a couple of weeks, says Joe Scheuering, Noranda project manager. However, a Hansen man has already lodged a protest over the project.

Randy Burbank wrote the Forest Service saying mining in the area will have a major impact on the wildlife and soils. He said he is concerned about the effect of mining roads on the hunting area.

The Forest Service shares some of these concerns, replied Roland Stolöden, head of the Sawtooth National Forest, in a letter dated last Wednesday. The 1872 mining law allows mining in the highly mineralized southwest portion of the state but later laws protect the land, Stolöden said. He said Burbank will have a chance to comment on Noranda's proposal.

Noranda estimates that it can start mining limestone mineralized with gold in the summer of 1988. The gold would then be leached using a cyanide process, says Scheuering.

Noranda plans to mine a half-million tons of limestone per year and later that figure may reach a million tons per year, he says. There is no estimate on the amount of gold Noranda will realize, but the company thinks the mine may have economic potential. During the construction phase the project will employ about 100 people, Scheuering said. The company is starting more detailed feasibility studies on the project, Black Pine section.

Scheuering says.

Mining would occur in three areas in a 100 to 200 acre site, he said. Noranda has started the process of getting permits through the Forest Service, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management and the state Department of Lands.

Once the company's proposal is done, the Forest Service will ask for public comment on it, said Jerry Green, district ranger, Burley Ranger District. The Forest Service will then assess the environmental impact of the project, he said.

The Forest Service can't say no to mining there unless the environmental concerns are overwhelming, he said.

Companies have been looking at the area for several years, Green said. The Tolman Mine is an old mine located in the Black Pine section.

Power

While, said their need for power will be expanding and Sun Valley Co. plans to make mountain improvements next year which will require greater energy needs. For the sake of the economy of the valley, White urged the commission to act with expediency.

Two other people at the public hearing voiced support of the valley route, but the vast majority of those present and those who had written letters were against the valley route, favoring one or the other routes.

Nick Purdy, who has property fronting 20 miles of Silver Creek, said the transmission line would remarkably change the rural character of that land. He said his agricultural land is not making any money, but he feels a moral obligation to provide habitat in the area and would feel betrayed if the commission accepted the valley route.

"I would certainly take a different use of the land if a line were put up through there," Purdy said.

Blaine County Planning Director Ed Nigbor presented 54 letters opposing the valley route, one petition favoring the Over-the-Hills route and one petition favoring the Toe-of-the-Hills route.

Since the decision process was delayed because all landowners were not properly notified, the commission discussed bringing the transmission line from Gannett on a path which follows the hillsides across Muldoon Canyon at the outskirts of Bellevue and Quigly Canyon on the edge of Hailley.

Since this routing had not been discussed at length before, Commissioner John McDonald suggested notifying landowners between Gannett and Hailley of the possibility of rerouting the line from the former path—it takes along the present Union Pacific railroad right-of-way.

Hailley City Council member Rick Davis said an informal poll of council members gave unanimous approval for the line to follow the railroad right-of-way rather than skirt the hillsides. Davis said the council was aware of the possibility of health hazards associated with the line.

The P&Z commissioners have planned a special meeting for Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m. to reconsider the issues involved.

Gunman arraigned for siege

BUHL — Neal Joseph Birkey, 22, of Elko, Nev., was returned to the Twin Falls County jail Monday afternoon following arraignment on two felony charges involving an alleged armed seizure of a home near Buhl early Sunday morning.

He appeared in 5th District Magistrate Court Monday afternoon on charges of first degree burglary and aggravated battery. Bond was set at $25,000 on the first count and $5,000 on the second.

The complaint filed in court against Birkey charges that he entered the Henry Patton residence, west of Buhl, early Sunday morning and demanded guns. He allegedly struck Patton on the head with an unloaded shotgun that he picked up in the residence. When the Patton family ran from the building, the complaint charges, Birkey took another of their shots, which was loaded, and refused to come out of the home.

Twin Falls County Sheriff James Murray said Monday that officers from several agencies cooperated in doing a good job of taking care of a serious situation without having any injuries.

He said that while he arrived on the scene only after the men had been talked into coming out of the house and surrendering himself and the gun, other officers spent about an hour and a half at the scene. He said officers were called at 1:40 a.m. and remained there until 3:10 a.m. One Buhl police officer, two state police, two deputy sheriffs, and two county reserve officers in addition to the sheriff responded to the early morning call.

The court appointed the public defender to represent Birkey and granted a preliminary hearing.

Hurlbutt to issue decision on evidence motion

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fifth District Judge Daniel Hurlbutt said Monday he will issue a decision on a motion to suppress evidence seized for a grand jury indictment case within a week.

Seward Benjamin King, whose indictment charged him with possession of methamphetamine with the intent to deliver, filed a motion late in October to suppress the evidence seized from his 1973 Lincoln Mark IV on Sept. 30.

King's attorney, Golden Bennett, said the Idaho Bureau of Narcotics illegally stopped King's car and held it for two days without a valid search warrant.

Bennett argued his case in a pre-trial hearing Monday. Bennett and Twin Falls County Deputy Prosecutor Joel Horton stipulated to several facts before the hearing, enabling them to enter into closing arguments immediately.

Bennett argued that the search warrant eventually used by the Idaho Bureau of Narcotics to search King's vehicle was based solely on the use of a trained dog, which sniffed the vehicle and sat down at the left rear corner of the car.

The dog had been trained to sit when it smelled cocaine. Based on the dog's actions, 5th District Magistrate Judge Charles Brumback signed a search warrant, but the narcotics officers found methamphetamine instead of cocaine.

The search warrant used in the case came after the narcotics officers stopped King at the port of entry near Hollister based on a confidential informant tip and some surveillance activities by the Elko County sheriff's office.

Those narcotics officers then drove the car to Twin Falls and failed to get a search warrant from 5th District Magistrate R. Michael Redman based on a confidential tip to a Twin Falls County sheriff's office that was relayed to Corporal Dale Lotapich of the Elko County sheriff's office and surveillance activities by the Elko County sheriff's office.

After the original arguments by Horton and Bennett, Hurlbutt asked if the case should focus on whether the seizure of King's car was valid, and Lotapich and Merrill Kelley of the Idaho narcotics bureau stopped King at the port of entry near Hollister based on a confidential informant tip and some surveillance activities by the Elko County sheriff's office.

Fire destroys building

LA GRANDE, Ore. (AP) — A fire that destroyed a 68-year-old building and five businesses on Sunday caused at least $600,000 damage, officials said Monday.

This is a nightmare, said Dan Nelson, owner of the W.D. Granger Building.

Flames shot more than 100 feet into the air when the fire engulfed the building's tar-covered roof, leaving behind little more than charred brick walls.

"Once it got into that attic, there was no way to stop it," said Capt. Dick McClellan of the La Grande Fire Department.

The fire was reported at 6:15 p.m. Sunday and was not under control until 9 p.m. Investigators believe the blaze was started by an electrical short.

The businesses destroyed were the Two G.I.'s Supply Center, which dealt in chain saws, lawnmowers and garden tractors; the Mountain Works, a bicycle and outdoor equipment store; the Bookshelf bookstore; Popcorn Plus candy store; and the Upton Salon beauty parlor.

Dad objects to expensive wedding garb

DEAR ABBY: The other day, my wife and daughter and I were talking about our daughter's upcoming wedding.

Since our daughter has a closetful of expensive dresses she's worn only once, I made what I thought was a very good suggestion: "Why not let all the girls you want in your wedding party just pick out the prettiest dress they have hanging in their closets and wear it? For those who don't have one or can't afford to buy one, let them borrow one of yours, or another friend's."

Guys went uptoes for weddings; why should girls have to buy an expensive dress to wear only once? A lot of girls are left out of weddings because they can't afford to buy a dress.

Well, Abby, my suggestion went over like a lead balloon. What do you and your readers say?

— PRACTICAL ALABAMA DADDY

DEAR DADDY: You are indeed practical, but if each bridesmaid were to wear the prettiest dress she found hanging in her closet, the bridal procession would look more like a garage-sale fashion show than a wedding.

Nice try, Dad, but I'm afraid your idea would never play in Birmingham, Montgomery or Tusculoosa.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who used to be a good friend, but now he won't talk to me.

This is why: My husband was diagnosed as having Alzheimer's disease about six months ago. His memory is very faulty and he has to be watched all the time, but there are times when he is quite all right, so I am keeping him home as long as I can.

Well, I do not drive, and my husband is not able to drive anymore,

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

so I sold his car. This neighbor asked me several times to sell it to him, but I refused.

Instead, I sold it to a man who does not live in our neighborhood because I was afraid that if my husband saw that car in our neighborhood he might insist it was his car and want it back.

I know I did the right thing or do you think I did the right thing or not?

DEAR HURT: I think you did exactly the right thing by selling the car to someone who did not live in your neighborhood.

If you explained this to your neighbor and he still refuses to talk to you, shame on him.

DEAR ABBY: "Mrs. Whipple's" problem with her mother stealing toilet paper from motels brings to mind an incident that happened to my wife during a trip last year.

We stopped at a motel for the night and on leaving in the morning, my wife asked the manager for the address of the manufacturer of the excellent little coffee maker that was attached to the wall of our room.

"I can give you the address," he said, "but this would be much easier and cheaper." Then he reached under his desk and brought out a screwdriver and handed it to my wife.

"Pray it off the wall and take it home," he said. "The one in your room is the only one that hasn't been stolen!"

Maybe he was just kidding, but he certainly didn't act like it.

What do you think?
— VIRGIL IN BANDON, ORE.

DEAR VIRGIL: I think he was just kidding. Since you didn't take him up on it, we'll never know.

DEAR ABBY: Having just read the letter from "Patti" regarding the "nasty" thank-you note for a $10 wedding present, I thought you might get a kick out of the following:

A young couple (friends of mine) were recently married and were surprised at not receiving any wedding gift from the groom's best friend (and best man). Although the groom (and best man) ignored the fact, the miffed bride sent the following thank-you note: "Thank you for the lovely wedding gift; every time we look at it, it reminds us of you!"

Drinking is linked to hypertension in women

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Women who consume two mixed drinks a day may be 40 percent more likely than others to develop high blood pressure and those who drink milk may cut their risk, researchers said.

The researchers also found that higher intake of magnesium — found in green leafy vegetables, soybeans and some nuts — could cut the risk of high blood pressure.

The study, reported at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association, was based on questionnaires distributed every two years to 58,218 nurses around the country aged 35 to 69.

Over four years, 3,275 women in the group reported that they had high blood pressure.

Analysis of the questionnaires showed that women consuming two or three mixed drinks a day, or three or four glasses of wine or beer, had a 40 percent higher risk of high blood pressure than the others.

Those who drank more had a 90 percent higher risk.

Calcium was found to protect against the development of high blood pressure.

Three glasses of milk per day provide enough calcium to cut the risk by 22 percent, compared to women who consume less than half that.

Increased consumption of magnesium cut the risk by about 23 percent.

Potassium, fiber, and saturated and unsaturated fats did not affect the risk, the researchers reported.

"Before making any public health recommendations, this must be confirmed," said Jacqueline Witteman, the principal author of the study.

Such confirmation could come in the form of experiments in which smaller groups of women were fed controlled diets and then observed for the development of high blood pressure, Witteman said. She conducted the study at Harvard University under the direction of Dr. Charles Hennekens and is now at the University of Rotterdam in The Netherlands.

Witteman said it had been known that heavy drinking increased the risk of high blood pressure, but the risks associated with moderate drinking were unclear.

The researchers did not independently examine the women to confirm the presence of high blood pressure in those women who reported it, but a spot check of some of the women's medical records indicated that their reported conditions were accurate, the researchers said.

The study was limited by the researchers' inability to check the women's cholesterol levels, for example, and because the heavy drinkers might have been more likely than the others to seek medical help, meaning that high blood pressure would be diagnosed in them more frequently, Hennekens said.

While statistical studies such as this one can show associations between diet and blood pressure, they cannot prove such a link until further studies confirm them.

It is not known how alcohol causes blood pressure, Hennekens said.

Previous studies have produced similar findings for men.

"The main message is that heavy drinkers should cut down," he said.

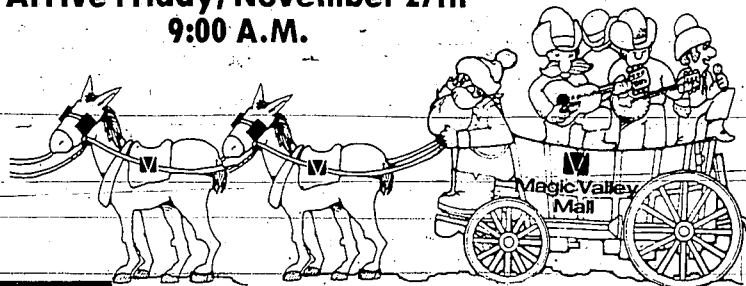

"All studies, including this one, show that they are at higher risk for cardiovascular disease than moderate or non-drinkers."

Hennekens said studies such as this one suggest that in some people high blood pressure can be controlled or corrected with diet rather than drugs, which have some undesirable side effects.

The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute is supporting a new study aimed at determining whether weight reduction, exercise and dietary changes might keep blood pressure from creeping up as people age, Hennekens said.

Boise EPA officials not worried about pollution crackdown

BOISE (AP) — Boise has nothing to fear from an Environmental Protection Agency crackdown on carbon monoxide pollution, although the city still violates federal guidelines, local EPA officials say.

The EPA has threatened cities with construction bans, loss of federal highway money and a cap on industrial construction if clean air standards aren't met.

EPA officials estimate 30 to 40 areas are likely to be hit with construction bans about three years from now, but say probable targets won't be known until 1985-87 pollution figures are compiled next year.

"We're definitely not anticipating any negative action against Boise," said Mark Masarik, head of EPA's air pollution and hazardous waste division in Boise.

"We're feeling real good about the improvements that Boise has made" since 1983, when it ranked 18th out of 80 cities that had carbon monoxide pollution problems, Masarik said.

In 1984, the Ada County Air Quality Board began its air-emissions tests to reduce carbon monoxide, which affects humans by reducing blood's oxygen-carrying capacity.

Mike Twitchell, administrator of the Air Quality Board, said, emissions tests prevent 50-55 tons of carbon monoxide from contaminating the air every day.

Los Angeles and Denver have the worst carbon monoxide levels in the country. Boise ranks 67th out of 68 U.S. cities that exceeded federal carbon monoxide standards more than once over a three-year period, according to figures released this week by the EPA.

The 1977 Clean Air Act set a maximum carbon monoxide level of 9 parts per million over an eight-hour period.

Boise's fourth-highest carbon monoxide level over a three-year period between 1985 and 1987 was 9.9 ppm, according to EPA figures. The city violated the federal standard three times in 1986.

Because weather can affect carbon monoxide concentrations, the EPA looks back three years when it judges compliance and compares the fourth-highest reading during that time with the standard.

Masarik said the decision by the cities of Boise and Meridian and by Ada County to continue funding the Air Quality Board's air-emissions testing program was a key reason why the EPA does not anticipate any sanctions.

"Nobody's panicking at all," he said. "The city should be in compliance within a couple years."

Helen Riggs, air quality analyst for the state Air Quality Bureau, said Boise's carbon monoxide pollution — mostly from incomplete combustion in vehicles — "has decreased dramatically."

The Air Quality Board's annual report showed the average daily amount of carbon monoxide in the air fell by more than 50 tons in 1986, following a 43-ton decrease in 1985.

Riggs attributed the drop to an increase in the number of clean-burning cars as a result of the Air Quality Board's testing program, and a decrease in the number of old cars made before 1970 that lack anti-pollution controls.

High court rejects insanity plea

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court has rejected requests by attorneys for accused multiple murderer Paul Ezra Rhoades that they be allowed an immediate appeal on a pretrial lower court order barring the use of insanity as a defense in Rhoades' murder trials.

A three-judge panel of the court released Monday, the high court summarily denied the appeal request, adding that, "This case be, and hereby is, closed."

Rhoades, 30, of Idaho Falls faces trials early next year on first-degree murder and other charges in the deaths of school teacher Susan Michelbacher and convenience store clerk Nolan Haddon in Bonneville County last March and convenience store clerk Stacy Baldwin in neighboring Bingham County in late February.

Among the myriad of pretrial motions filed on Rhoades' behalf was one asking that 7th District Judge Larry Boyle, presiding over the first Bonneville County murder trial, overturn the legislative ban on insanity as a criminal defense that was passed after the attempted assassination of President Reagan in 1981.

Boyle rejected that request, prompting the immediate appeal to the high court.

A similar motion has been made by Rhoades' attorneys in the Bingham County murder case.

Rhoades' defense team has declined to say that it would use the insanity defense if allowed by the court. But the lawyers contended they needed to know if that is an option.

Although the high court has refused to hear the case now, defense attorneys have said they can still raise the issue again after the trial, if Rhoades is convicted.

In Bingham County, Judge James Herndon has scheduled a hearing for Nov. 30 on a number of pretrial motions in the Baldwin murder case including the request of Public Defender David Pomeroy to allow the insanity defense in that trial.

Democrat house leader says little budget support exists

POCATELLO (AP) — A member of the House Democratic leadership has predicted that the recently-negotiated budget compromise won't garner a single Republican vote in the House.

Arkansas Congressman Beryl Anthony, the chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, was in Pocatello to campaign for Idaho, Congressman Richard Stallings.

Anthony said the budget measure, worked out through negotiations between House and Senate leaders and House negotiators, faced an uncertain future.

He said House Republicans have boycotted budget talks all year, and he predicted "we won't get any Republican votes on this package."

They're taking a walk... they've taken a walk all year, and I don't see any change..."

Anthony said if House Republicans refuse to sanction the two-year, $75 billion reduction package which includes $9 billion in new taxes, a number of Democrats may defect as well. He predicted President Reagan will have to personally lobby GOP House members to get enough converts to save the package.

Anthony, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, defended the reduction package.

By putting the deficit "on a downward trend," Congress will still be able to send a strong message to Wall Street and the foreign markets that "yes, this country is able to govern itself," Anthony said.

Mob attacks white supremacists

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — A mob enraged by the appearance of a nationally known racist chased and beat a group of teenage white supremacist "skinheads," authorities said. Officers took five people into custody and booked two of them after the disturbance Sunday, police Sgt. Dean Durand said. About 300 people protested a speech at the Holiday Inn by J. B. Stoner, a 63-year-old white supremacist who told fewer than two dozen followers that God is using the deadly disease AIDS to destroy blacks. Authorities, having faced a similar confrontation in June that ended in a scuffle between white supremacists and protesters, were prepared for the emotionally charged scene 10 miles northeast of downtown Los Angeles. About 75 helmeted Glendale police officers and Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies sealed off the streets surrounding the hotel. Police dogs snarled, a helicopter buzzed overhead and a water truck stood ready to hose down the crowd, although it wasn't used. Violence erupted at 2:30 p.m. when about 45 angry protesters shouting "Nazi scum" chased and beat the skinheads, identifiable by their cropped hair, olive bomber jackets, chains and combat boots. Two of the youths suffered minor facial cuts. The others fled. One of the so-called skinheads, Alan Maza, 18, was booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon, Sgt. Durand said. Maza was seen using a cane to fight off protesters, Durand said. John Lee, 41, of Sherman Oaks was booked for investigation of creating a public disturbance, he said. Lee was arrested after accusing police of "protecting the Nazi killers."

Priest tells of murderer's conversion

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Hi Fi Killer Pierre Dale Selby studied the life of St. Augustine and found God before his death by lethal injection at the Utah State Prison, a former chaplain says. The Rev. Thomas J. Meersman said Selby had found a copy of "The Confessions of St. Augustine" in the prison library and read it intently. "Selby found God," said Meersman, director of special affairs for the Catholic Diocese of Salt Lake City. Selby was executed Jan. 28 at

Trus Joist chairman, wife to-make Ethiopian flights

BOISE (AP) — For years Harold E. Thomas, chairman of Trus Joist Corp., watched pilots train at his Idaho wilderness ranch so they could make humanitarian flights to the world's forgotten corners.

Now, Thomas and his wife, Phyllis, both 61, will leave on a 2 1/2-month tour they hope will help ease the famine in Ethiopia.

Thomas, a pilot with 25 years of experience in landing on Idaho's back-country airstrips, will fly as a volunteer for Air Serve International, a division of Missions Aviation Fellowship.

His wife will work in an international relief office in Ethiopia's capital, Addis Ababa. She also plans to do cooking duty at a countryside camp, Thomas said.

"The famine is getting worse; it is a worse situation than 1984-85," Thomas said.

When rains ceased a drought caused famine in the northeast

African country in 1986, the world's attention was drawn elsewhere. But Ethiopia's continuing civil war left its people ill-prepared for another round of dry weather.

"This year there has been no rain, and they are predicting a worse famine in the next two years than there was before," Thomas said.

A training program operated by Missions Aviation Fellowship of Redlands, Calif., sends students, instructors and a mechanic three times a year to the Thomas ranch for one or two weeks of back-country experience.

International relief workers

"want to keep the people on the farms because if they starve out and go into the cities that justly exacerbates the problem," Thomas said.

"Then, there's no one to be on the farms when the rains come back."

Surplus forces resetting of power goals

BOISE (AP) — A surplus of energy in the Northwest has spurred a shift in the goals of the Northwest Power Planning Council, which was created when the region appeared on the brink of a power shortage.

"There's a new concept coming into Northwest power," said Idaho council member Jim Goller, who was appointed to the panel in February by Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Excess supply and sagging demand in the Northwest, coupled with soaring demand in the Southwest, have changed the Northwest power picture into a Western states power picture.

There are going to be sales to the south and there is going to be exchange back from the south when they're in surplus there and we're short here," he said. "The real key is how that power is going to get down and back."

Goller was chief of staff to Idaho Sen. Jim McClure, former chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee. In that capacity, he was a key player in drafting the 1980 bill that created the council.

The other Idaho member, Robert Saxvik, has been on the council since its creation in 1981.

The Northwest Power Planning

Act of 1980 established the four-state council to set policy on the development, use and conservation of electrical energy in the region.

At the time, the Northwest appeared to be on the brink of a power shortage. Additional production and greater conservation were thought to be critical needs.

Since then, the shortages have turned into surpluses, and the council's mission has changed radically. That has prompted debate about the council's success in reacting to that changed mission.

In August, Perry Swisher, president of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, accused the Power Planning Council of failing to keep up with the times.

Swisher said the council had not stabilized power rates in the region as promised. He noted rates charged by the Bonneville Power Administration, required by law to respond to council directives, had risen sharply since 1981.

He also accused the council of failing to pay enough attention to consumption of oil, gas and other energy sources.

He said, "You can't tell what's going to happen with electricity unless you look at natural gas. There are more thermas of natural gas burned in the Northwest than there are BTUs of electricity used, and yet they left that out of the planning profile."

"Those are two big mistakes they made," Swisher said.

"The Idaho council members don't see it that way."

They said their aim is long-term planning, not short-term decision-making.

Civilian to take over as Navy base manager

BAYVIEW (AP) — A man who has studied submarine noise, vibration and acoustics for more than 20 years has been named the new base manager at the U.S. Navy's David Taylor Research Center in Bayview.

George A. Guedel took command of the base at a ceremony last week, relieving Navy Chief Warrant Officer Howard Hooper, who commanded the facility for about 18 months.

Guedel is the first civilian to be in charge of the base, said Chuck Riley, chief engineer of the facility's Large Scale Vehicle research project.

The graduate of the University of Washington and Catholic University of America began his career in 1966 at the David Taylor Research Center's main facility in Annapolis, Md., studying noise and vibration.

Guedel has extensive background in noise and vibration both in underwater acoustics and machinery vibration. He also managed early development of the Trident submarine acoustics program.

Capt. Brian Sack, officer in charge of the Taylor Center in Maryland, said the primary reason for shifting from military to civilian management of the northern Idaho base was to reverse the trend of base leaders who stay only a short time before being transferred.

Sack also said Congress has mandated that the Navy pare the number of its officers.

"We could not guarantee we would, under all circumstances, have a well-qualified officer," Sack said.

Three area men arrested on weapons, drug charges

BOISE (AP) — Three Treasure Valley men were arrested Sunday on weapon and drug charges, Boise police Sgt. Dan Scott said.

Boise police arrested Dale Robertson, 29, Boise; Frank Jackson, 41, Star; and Dale Davis, 30, Middleton. All were charged with possession of concealed weapons. Jackson and Robertson also were charged with possession of a controlled substance, Scott said.

The three were arrested in an empty parking lot at the Mountain View Shopping Center.

Police blockaded a portion of Ustick Road and arrested three men in the parking lot across the street from a house where the men had earlier stopped and threatened a resident, Scott said.

Police found three handguns, drug paraphernalia and a white powder in their possession.

Bailey attacks legal system

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The American public must push for reform of the country's legal system because Congress, comprised mainly of attorneys, has no interest in doing so, attorney F. Lee Bailey contends.

"You must keep in mind that most Congressmen are lawyers, and they will probably go back to law after leaving office," Bailey told a limousine and chauffeur convention Sunday. "And if they put their name on something that might reform the legal system, they might find it difficult, and will probably be ostracized by the legal community. You must realize their reluctance to slit the throat of the goose that lays the golden eggs. Reform coming from legislators is just not in the cards."

Two players honored

BOISE (AP) - University of Idaho quarterback John Friesz and Boise State defensive end Pete Kwiatkowski have been named the final 1987 Big Sky Conference Football Players of the Week.

Friesz, a 6-4, 200-pound sophomore, passed for 423 yards in Idaho's 40-34 win against Boise State which clinched the Big Sky title for the Vandals. He completed 30 of 60 passes and tossed four scoring strikes.

In the second half Friesz gained 277 yards as he rallied Idaho from a 28-24 deficit with 16 straight fourth quarter points. His yardage yards also helped Friesz set a single season Big Sky record with 3,677 yards passing.

Kwiatkowski, a 6-3, 269-pound senior, made seven total tackles, all unassisted in the Broncos road loss at Idaho. He was credited with three quarterback sacks and also forced two fumbles in the game.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - Bob Valesente was fired Monday as football coach at Kansas after the Jayhawks failed to win a Big Eight game in two seasons.

"It was not an easy decision," said Bob Frederick, the Kansas athletic director. "It was one I agonized over for weeks."

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - The Chicago Bulls have a new look this season and it could be bad news for opposing NBA clubs.

Chicago is longer a one-dimensional team. "I'm a coach," Coach K.C. Jones said Monday night after his Celtics were beaten by the Bulls, 107-102.

"They have (Scott) Pippen, (John) Paxson and (Charles) Oakley to go with Michael Jordan," said Jones. "That isn't a bad combination."

The Bulls, sparked by Jordan's game-high 31 points, 20 from Pippen and 19 from Paxson, overtook Boston with a strong fourth quarter - outscoring the Celtics 32-15.

Though Larry Bird, sidelined with tendinitis, and Kevin McHale, rehabilitating from foot surgery, did not play, Jordan was enthusiastic with the Chicago's eighth victory in 14 games.

"A win is a win," Jordan said. "Not having Bird or McHale doesn't put a damper in this win at all. It's a good way to start the trip and for me and the team, it's been a long

BOISE (AP) - The Boise State Broncos rolled up the most potent offense in the Big Sky Conference this year, and the Northern Arizona Lumberjacks were the league's best defense.

But the Idaho Vandals, whose statistics fall toward the middle of the conference pack, claimed the biggest prizes of the 1987 season - berths in the NCAA 1-AA championship playoffs.

The Vandals ranked fifth nationally, grabbed the Big Sky title for the second time in three seasons with a 40-34 victory over Boise State for the ninth win in 11 games, and the 10th-ranked Wildcats finished second at 9-2, their only conference loss to Idaho.

The two square off next weekend in Moscow in the first round of the championship playoffs. The winner advances to meet the survivor of the game between eighth-ranked James Madison and 14th-ranked Marshall.

While Idaho quarterback John Friesz led the Big Sky in total of time since we've beaten Boston period - something like 16 in a row.

The victory was Chicago's fourth in 24 games against Boston dating back to the 1983-84 season.

As for Pippen's late scoring surge - seven in the closing minutes to rally Chicago - Jordan said, "Scott is still learning and feeling his way out there. It's early but he's relaxed."

Dennis Johnson scored 23, Danny Ainge 20 and Robert Parish and Fred Roberts each added 14 for the Celtics, 8-3, who were playing for the third straight game without Larry Bird, sidelined because of tendinitis.

In the fourth quarter, the Bulls closed to within 91-88 on a 13-4 run with 6:44 to go as Paxson scored seven and Jordan added four. The Bulls eventually took the lead for the first time since the first quarter, 96-95, on a layup by Pippen with 3:

58 remaining. Down the stretch, the Bulls outscored Boston 11-6 to remain unbeaten in four road games.

In the third quarter, Ainge and Johnson sank 3-pointers in the closing 3:14 as Boston maintained its lead at 87-76. Johnson made a 65-foot shot as the buzzer sounded to offset a late three-point goal by Paxson.

San Antonio 117 New York 112

NEW YORK (AP) - Johnny Dawkins scored eight of his 26 points in the final three minutes as the San Antonio Spurs survived a 15-point third quarter to beat the New York Knicks 117-112 in the NBA Monday night.

San Antonio led 105-99 with 4:55 remaining, but New York closed the gap to 106-105 on Kenny Walker's basket with 3:41 left. Dawkins responded with two consecutive baskets and added another basket and two free throws in the final minute.

The Knicks had a chance to tie it after stealing an inbound pass with seven seconds remaining, but Trent Tucker missed a 3-point attempt and Frank Brickowski hit two free throws with two seconds to go for the final margin.

Walter Berry had 20 points and Greg Anderson scored 15 for the Spurs. Patrick Ewing had 21 points and rookie Mark Jackson 20 points and 15 assists, both season highs, for the Knicks.

San Antonio led 74-64, equaling its biggest advantage of the game, before Ewing ignited a 19-0 apart with three baskets, giving New York an 83-74 lead with 3:44 left in the third quarter.

The Spurs, who led 70-60 at halftime, managed only 15 points in the third period, but scored the last seven of the quarter to cut the deficit to 87-85.

fense with over 317 yards a game, the second best in Division 1-AA, the Vandals finished only fourth in the conference in total offense.

Boise State, behind Big Sky rushing champion Chris Jackson and reception leader Eric Andrade, ran up over 450 yards a game to lead the league in total offense and rate fourth in the nation.

Jackson, a senior and only the fourth Bronco to compile over 1,000 yards in a single season, claimed the rushing title with nearly 116 yards a game. It was the fifth-best in the nation and nearly 13 yards a game ahead of last year's rushing champion Charvez Foger of Nevada-Reno.

Andrade averaged 6.3 catches a game for 592 yards this season.

Weber State finished second in the conference in total offense and fifth in the nation at just over 447 yards a game.

No. 14 Florida rolls up 80-69 victory over Tech

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Livingston Chatman came off the bench to ignite a 16-2 first-half burst and finished with 25 points Monday night to lead 14th-ranked Florida to an 80-69 victory over No. 18 Georgia Tech in the second round of the Big Apple NIT.

The triumph sends the Gators, who played without suspended senior Vernier Maxwell, to New York for the semifinals of the third annual season-opening college basketball tournament.

Georgia Tech, which got a 28-point performance from freshman Dennis Scott, fell to a 1-1 Florida is 2-0.

Chatman, a 6-foot-8 freshman who missed Florida's first-round game against Jacksonville with a knee injury, scored nine points in the first half when the slow-started Gators overcame a 12-point deficit by outscoring Georgia Tech 16-2 during a 7-43 stretch.

College basketball

Chatman and Dwayne Schintzun, Florida's 7-2 sophomore center, were dominating inside in the second half. The tandem combined for 22 points after intermission and the Gators pulled away with the help of a trapping zone press that forced most of Georgia Tech's 20 turnovers.

The NCAA will randomly test athletes at selected championship events, Jim Marchiony, an NCAA spokesman, said Monday. The tests are not conducted at every event.

No drug tests were conducted on athletes participating in the cross-country championships at Charlottesville, Va., as was previously reported.

The NCAA does not make public the events where it will conduct tests. Teams to be tested are notified one day before the tests are taken.

"We haven't tested since last spring because there has been no championship events," Marchiony said. "Basketball, and football, is resuming, we are resuming testing."

Superior Court Judge Conrad Rushing ruled Nov. 18 in San Jose, Calif., that involuntary testing by the NCAA is unconstitutional.

He ordered the NCAA to stop testing Stanford athletes in all sports except basketball, and football, where he said there was some evidence of anabolic steroid and cocaine use by athletes.

"Rushing was careful in applying his decision only to Stanford University," said John J. Kitchin, the NCAA attorney.

Kitchin said the NCAA would decide this week whether to appeal the ruling.

Despite adverse court ruling, NCAA to continue drug tests

MISSION, Kan. (AP) - The NCAA will perform drug tests on some athletes at some championship events, a judge's ruling that such tests cannot be performed on athletes from Stanford.

Stocks edge up on quiet day

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Stock prices chipped up a slight gain in quiet trading Monday as traders cautiously evaluated plans to narrow the federal budget deficit.

Trading set its slowest pace in six weeks. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 18.24 points on Friday, rose another 9.45 to 1,923.08.

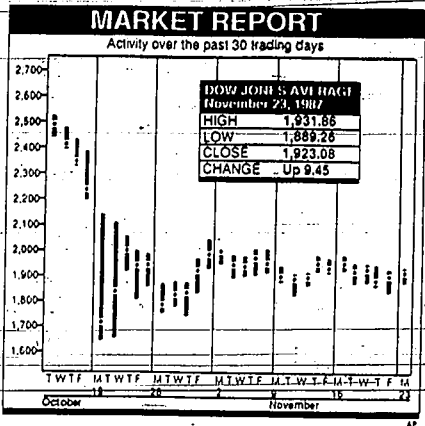

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 9 to 7 on the New York Stock Exchange, with 888 up, 687 down and 395 unchanged.

Big Board volume came to 143.16 million shares, down from 189.17 million Friday and the lightest total since a 141.87 million-share day Oct. 12, when many market participants were taking Columbus Day off.

Analysts said the budget proposals announced Friday by negotiators from the House and Congress will show any dramatic action to revive confidence in the financial markets.

But they also said most investors had been well aware that progress had been slow in the talks, and thus weren't looking for any big surprise.

As they now stand, the measures still must be approved by the full House and Senate.

In the meantime, brokers said market participants might shift their focus once again to the outlook for interest rates and the prospective impact of last month's stock market crash on the producing and consuming economy.

Gainers among the blue chips included Philip Morris, up 1 at 91; McDonald's, up 1/4 at 45 3/4; American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 at 28 1/4; and DuPont, up 1/4 at 83 1/4.

During the summer quarter Japanese industrial production was going up at an annual rate of 14.4 percent. The closest figure that came from the United States — 8.1 percent. West Germany's production was going down at an annual rate of 1 percent, with the figure rising in France at 5.3 percent and in Britain at 2.6 percent.

Cable rates rise with deregulation

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The price of cable television service increased 6.7 percent during the first six months of rate deregulation, according to a survey released Monday by an industry group.

The study by the National Cable Television Association found the price of basic service — which includes local broadcast stations and a few cable networks like CNN, ESPN and C-SPAN — rose 10.6 percent.

The survey also showed that operators have added slightly to the number of basic channels.

Overall, the average subscriber's bill went up from $21.69 to $23.04, or about 6.7 percent, during the period between December 1986 and June 1987, the report said.

Additionally, cable subscription has remained unchanged since the changes last December, which "suggests that deregulation has not diminished consumers' interest in cable television," the association's report said.

The cable association hired the national accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co. to conduct the survey on the impact of deregulation. Survey forms were mailed to 2,677 randomly selected cable operators and 598, or 23 percent, were returned with answers.

The operators that responded to the survey constituted about 8 percent of the nation's more than 7,000 cable systems and serve about 7.2 million cable subscribers, about 16 percent of the nation's total.

The average size of the system responding to the survey was larger than the national average — 12,180 subscribers — in the survey, compared with 5,628 subscribers nationally.

The results of the survey had been expected by industry observers and cable operators. A status report by the cable group last April reported the same trends that were detailed in the more extensive survey.

"What you had in the cable industry for a very long time was a pricing structure that placed a lot of stress on the premium and expanded basic tiers, while the price of basic service was held artificially low," said Cynthia Brumfield, the association's vice president for research and policy analysis.

Japan's inflation, unemployment rates lowest

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Among the big five countries of the non-communist industrial world, Japan has the lowest inflation and unemployment and the best rate for growth of industrial production, according to figures made available Monday by the International Monetary Fund.

It also has the biggest international trade surplus. In the July-September quarter, prices paid by Japanese consumers were rising at an annual rate of only one-half of 1 percent, compared with 1 percent in West Germany, 2 6 percent in France and 3.9 percent in the United States and Britain.

But the annual rate of increase in Japan's money supply for the period was high — 12.6 percent, surpassed only by Britain's 21.7 percent. The United States had the lowest figure, 3 percent. France had 8.9 percent and West Germany 4.6.

Large increases in money supply can bring higher inflation, but the danger is less if production remains high.

Only 2.8 percent of the Japanese work force was out of a job in September. Figures for three of the other four countries were available for October. They ranged from 6 percent in the United States to 9.8 percent in Britain and 8 percent in West Germany. France had 10.5 percent jobless in September.

Compared with the previous year, the rate was rising in the United States and Britain, but stable in France and West Germany as well as Japan.

During the summer quarter Japanese industrial production was going up at an annual rate of 14.4 percent. The closest figure that came from the United States — 8.1 percent. West Germany's production was going down at an annual rate of 1 percent, with the figure rising in France at 5.3 percent and in Britain at 2.6 percent.

Japan's surplus in foreign trade amounted to $8.4 billion for the month of October. Reports from the other countries were for September. Except for West Germany's $5.8 billion surplus, the others were all in deficit, the biggest in the United States: $14.1 billion. That figure has since been corrected to $12.6 billion.

Britain's September deficit was $1.1 billion, while in France the figure was $400 million.

Auction brings $5,000 for foundation

BOISE — The Idaho Foundation and 18 environmental groups raised about $5,000 at a silent auction in Boise on Sunday.

About 250 people attended the auction at the YWCA.

Half the money raised from the sale of goods, trips and services will help pay the salary of a full-time person to study Idaho's natural resources.

The other half will go to the groups sponsoring the event.

Items auctioned included a trip with a biologist to band bats for scientific project and a trip to count bald eagles, Idaho Foundation member Ed Robertson said.

Dow figures offer a good forecast for '88 election outcome

A year from now we will have elected our next U.S. president, and I dare predict without any particular inside knowledge: If the Dow Jones industrial average is higher on the Monday before election day than it was at the start of 1988, a Republican president will most likely be in the White House in January, 1989.

Sylvia Porter

It is, however, the Dow Jones average is lower than it was on New Year's Day 1988, the Democratic party will most likely take over the presidency.

Since 1900, almost every time the stock market as represented by the 30 Dow Jones industrial stocks gained ground between January of an election year and election day, it meant a presidential victory for the party in power. There have been six exceptions.

These exceptions would seem to disqualify any indicator, but they have been primarily in years when there was an incumbent candidate. There will be no incumbent candidate in 1988, upgrading the reliability of the Dow Jones average as a forecast. "Election years are traditionally up years" in the stock market, reports Yale Hirsch, president of the Hirsch Organization, located in Old Tappan, N.J., on whose research into stocks and elections the above comments are based. The reason: "Incumbent administrations shamesleazy try to massage the economy so that voters will press the right levers in November and keep them in power."

One of the best political polls can be found on Wall Street. Hirsch maintains on the basis of an enormous number of statistics, charts and tables he has collected for his newsletter on the subject.

Stock prices tend to rise in election years and then fall in the years immediately following the election. Most big, bad bear markets have begun in the post-presidential election year," Hirsch declares, citing as examples the years of 1929, 1937, 1957, 1969, 1973, 1977 and 1981.

In the upcoming election year, you should expect stimulative measures that would "provide a sense of well-being to the voting public. Such measures would include increases in federal budget deficits, government spending, social security benefits, interest rate reductions on government loans, speed-ups of project funding," he says.

The following record hardly adds up to "coincidence."

- Federal spending. On average, 29 percent higher in election than in non-election years between 1962-71.
Social Security. Nine increases during the 1952-74 period, with half of the six election-year increases effective in the month of September, timed to be in voters' minds when they cast ballots.

Real disposable income. Accelerated in eight of the nine election years between 1947 and 1973.

Unemployment. Tends to follow a four-year cycle, dropping to a low point at the time of the presidential election.

Conservative scores down. Hirsch instead suggests that "there lies the explanation of our political four-year stock market cycle."

Nor do I find it a coincidence that, going back to 1832 and tracing 39 administrations, the stock market has plunged a total net market gain of 516 percent during the two years before a presidential election. This dwarfs the 64-percent gain shown in the first two years of the administrations.

In a reversal of form, election year 1984 was flat, while post-election 1985 and midterm 1986 were sharply higher. The strong bull market pushed the statistical averages up by mid-1987.

In 1988 President Reagan will be serving the final year of his second term in office. Only six other presidents in the past 165 years — Andrew Jackson, Ulysses Grant, Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt and Dwight Eisenhower — have had the distinction of finishing two terms. Ironically, the market suffered a loss in all of their "final" years.

What Hirsch calls "overpowering events" may alter this syndrome and perhaps the plunge in stocks that began in late October heralds such "overpowering" events. This is still to be seen. What you have in this report is a record of the past. Clip it and check on it next November.

Kerr-McGee selling off its uranium operations

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — From the death of Karen Silkwood to a fatal chemical accident and protests over waste disposal, Kerr-McGee Corp. uranium operations have been dogged by controversy for more than a decade.

The company hopes to shake off that legacy by selling its Sequoyah Fuels Corp. subsidiary to a San Diego-based defense contractor, GA Technologies Inc., for an undisclosed price.

The sale, announced a week ago, must be approved by the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission, and other details remain to be worked out, said Rick Perle, a spokesman for the Oklahoma City-based Kerr-McGee.

Perle said Kerr-McGee is selling the uranium operations because they no longer fit into the corporation's long-term plans, which call for concentrating on core businesses like oil and gas exploration and production, refining and marketing—it will still have some uranium mining—and milling properties, but those also are for sale.

Uranium is "a more time-consuming business. It's not as simple as oil and gas," Perle said, acknowledging that it also was "a more controversial business than some of our other businesses."

The first big controversy centered on the 1974 death of Ms. Silkwood, a Kerr-McGee plutonium worker. She died in a car crash while on her way to tell a New York Times reporter how she and other workers at Kerr-McGee's Cimarron plutonium plant near Crescent, Okla., were being contaminated with radioactive materials.

The prospect of a new owner for Sequoyah Fuels delights Oklahoma City lawyer Jim Ikard, who represented Ms. Silkwood's family.

"I've repeatedly said over the last 10 years, they've just never been able to run their nuclear facilities with the same expertise and skill that they've run their non-nuclear facilities. They've had nothing but problems ... and I think it's a wise business move for them to finally get out," he said.

Kerr-McGee closed the Cimarron plant in 1975, but Ms. Silkwood's story continued and helped elevate her to the status of a folk hero in the anti-nuclear movement.

In August 1986, the company settled civil lawsuits filed by Ms. Silkwood's family for $1.38 million, without admitting any wrongdoing. "That's a closed chapter," Perle said.

Seven months before that settlement, a tank of uranium hexafluoride ruptured at Sequoyah Fuels' plant at Gore, Okla., which refines uranium to be made in reactor fuel rods. The rupture spewed a toxic cloud that drifted for miles. One worker was killed and 35 others were injured.

The Gore plant was closed for 11 months after the accident, which an NRC report blamed in part on management problems. Kerr-McGee posted a $25.4 million loss on its uranium operations for 1986.

Ikard said the NRC report on the accident pointed to the same problems—that—were—present—at Cimarron. "It's as if they never learned anything from the Silkwood case ... The very things that were wrong at the Gore facility," he said.

Kerr-McGee still faces five lawsuits seeking more than $200 million over the Gore accident.

A third controversy will be passed along to Sequoyah's purchaser. Some residents around the Gore plant are fighting the company's use of treated raffinate, a waste product from uranium processing, as a fertilizer. Company officials say it is not dangerously radioactive, but opponents say no safe level of radioactivity has been established.

This year alone, Sequoyah Fuels has sprayed 10,000 gallons of the compound on 10,000 acres of Kerr-McGee-owned pasture in eastern Oklahoma. The NRC approved the experimental use of the product in the mid 1970s, and the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture licensed the fertilizer last year.

But some area residents have organized to fight the fertilizer use, which they believe is causing deformities in newborn livestock.

"We fear contamination to our area forever more if they're left unchecked," said Jessie Deer, In Water, head of Native Americans For A Clean Environment, a leader of the fight with Kerr-McGee.

A spokesman for GA Technologies, Doug Fouquet, said the company is aware of the controversy over raffinate, but he declined to comment further.

Albertson profits climb

BOISE (AP) — Albertson's Inc., the Boise-based grocery store chain, has announced another quarter of increasing profits, clearing the way for its 18th consecutive year of rising sales and earnings.

The company announced Monday that profits for the 13-week period that ended Oct. 29 hit $27.1 million, up nearly 27 percent from the same quarter a year earlier.

"The company is poised well for the future with good momentum on a strong balance sheet," Board Chairman Warren McCain said in a statement.

The earnings improvement came on an 8.3 percent hike in sales to $1.47 billion as earnings per share rose 25 percent to 40 cents.

The company split its stock, two-for-one on Oct. 5, less than two weeks before the stock market began its dramatic plunge, and aided by that dive Albertson's repurchased nearly 1 percent of its outstanding stock during the third quarter.

The higher third-quarter revenues pushed earnings for the first nine months of the year over 22 percent ahead of the same period a year ago. Total earnings for 1987 were $85.5 million compared to $69.4 million last year.

Rebel leaders can visit with amnesty

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega said Monday that two Nicaraguan rebel leaders could not travel to Managua on Tuesday unless they first requested amnesty.

"If these people want to enter Nicaragua, they have to ask for amnesty," Ortega said at a news conference.

The Nicaraguan Resistance, the umbrella organization of the U.S.-supported Contras, said two rebel leaders would travel to the Nicaraguan capital on Tuesday to meet with Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo about a proposed cease-fire in the 6-year-old war.

The two representatives are Maria Azucena Ferrey and Alfonso Robelo, two of the organization's six directors, according to a statement issued by the Contras in the capitals of Honduras and Nicaragua.

The leftist Sandinista government has refused repeatedly to allow any Contra leaders to enter Nicaragua legally without asking for amnesty.

Ortega said the Contra leadership was linked to these criminal groups that are assassinating the Nicaraguan people." He did not say what would happen to the representatives if they flew to Managua.

The Nicaraguan Resistance statement said the two rebel representatives would present "all the documentation about the cease-fire of our forces" to the cardinal at his office in Managua. It did not elaborate.

The statement said only that the decision to visit Managua was reached at a meeting Sunday in San Pedro Sula, Honduras.

It said that Robelo, Ms. Azucena Ferrey and the other four rebel leaders, Aristides Sanchez, Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, Alfredo Cesar and Adolfo Calero, all attended but left Honduras on Monday.

Ortega delivered a cease-fire proposal to Obando y Bravo during a visit to Washington earlier this month.

On Jan. 5, the Contras would be asked to lay down their arms and seek an amnesty that would permit them to resume civilian life.

War crimes archives open; U.S. first to enter

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations on Monday opened its archives on Nazi and Japanese war crimes, exposing facts and allegations about more than 36,000 people, including Kurt Waldheim, the body's former secretary-general.

Six researchers from the Nazi-hunting unit of the U.S. Justice Department were first to enter the office building. They viewed microfilm of the yellowed and brittle files of the U.N. War Crimes Commission, which functioned from 1943 to 1949.

The Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations has used material from the files to investigate five Americans suspected of having Nazi pasts.

There was no long line Monday, no flood of applications to see what some call a vital cache of information and others contend is a stale library of old charges, most of which are known.

"There's no stampede, only about 10 applications so far and we don't know if there would be any new 'big fish' in the files," said archivist Marilla Gaptill.

Archivists would not say whether the files contain the name of Josef Schwammberger, a 76-year-old Austrian arrested Nov. 13 on a ranch in Argentina.

The 8,500 files containing 36,000-40,000 names also deal with war crimes committed by the Japanese in China and other parts of Asia.

Monday was the first day for new rules of broad, general access to the files. Jewish groups and Nazi hunters said they would form research teams to search the files and extradite and prosecute such war criminals as Alois Brunner, who is said to live in Damascus, Syria.

Relatively few governments made extensive use of the files, which spent four decades largely forgotten in their cardboard boxes.

Opposition chiefs' visit creates new tension

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The visit from exile of two popular opposition leaders created new tensions Monday between the government and rebels. Both sides said they feared the other would harm the men.

Guillermo Ungo, president of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, was due in from Mexico City in the late afternoon with about 20 supporters.

Leftist sources said the large delegation was to ensure Ungo's safety. Ruben Zamora, vice president of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, has been similarly surrounded by supporters since he arrived Saturday from Mexico City.

Both men fled El Salvador in 1980 — Ungo to Panama and Zamora to Nicaragua — under threats from right-wing groups. They said they were visiting El Salvador to explore the possibility of returning permanently to continue fighting for change in the U.S.-backed government.

"It's my biggest headache," President Jose Napoleon Duarte said Sunday of the visit. "I have an immense fear that the guerrillas themselves sent them here to sacrifice them." Duarte in the past has blamed the deaths of leftist activists on the armed rebels, who have been fighting the government for eight years.

Zamora said Saturday he was fearful about returning to his country because of recent slayings, including the Oct. 26 killing of Herbert Ernesto Anaya, president of the independent Human Rights Commission.

The guerrillas of Farabundo Marti National Liberation Movement called on Salvadorans to accompany Ungo and Zamora constantly "in the current escalation of terror."

The guerrillas also called a unilateral cease-fire, to last until Tuesday night nationwide and in the capital until next Monday night, so that supporters could travel safely to and from San Salvador to see Ungo and Zamora.

Zamora was welcomed by hundreds of worshippers Sunday at the Metropolitan Cathedral, where he placed flowers on the tomb of Monsignor Oscar Arnulfo Romero, the Roman Catholic archbishop — who was assassinated March 24, 1980.

Gunmen burn market

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Arsonists screaming "Long live the army!" destroyed a huge open-air market Monday and mobs stacked headquarters of a major presidential candidate and of Haiti's Independent Electoral Council.

Stores and businesses in this capital city of 1 million shut down after cars were smashed, storefronts broken and piles of tires were burned on major streets and intersections. One old man was reported beaten to death.

The violence appeared to be aimed at confounding national elections set for next Sunday, the first free elections in this poor Caribbean nation in 30 years.

Pierre-Paul Marete, the election council's director of civic education, deplored the violence but said the nine-member council had no intention of postponing the election.

A mob fired guns in the air outside the council's new offices and flung a gasoline bomb against the building, damaging an electrical transformer. No one was reported injured.

On Nov. 3, the electoral council's old offices and the business of a council member were set on fire hours after the council disqualified 12 presidential candidates for their ties to the ousted Duvalier dictatorship.

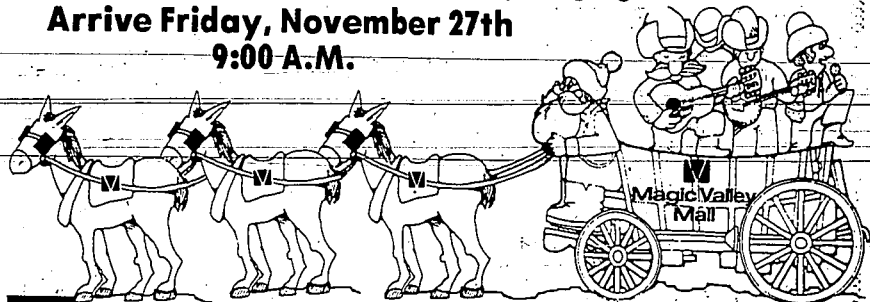

"At the Electoral Council, we're working as if nothing happened," Marete said in an interview. "To delay the election would only prolong the violence."

Duvalier's ouster ended the harsh, 29-year dynasty of Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier and his son Jean-Claude.

Iranian frigate sets 2 freighters afire in Strait of Hormuz

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An Iranian frigate shelled two freighters bound for Kuwait and Saudi Arabia in attacks Monday that set both ablaze, wounded three crewmen and nearly blew the superstructure off one ship, salvage agents said.

The ships were attacked in the Strait of Hormuz, the Persian Gulf's narrow entrance, after the Iranians asked by radio about their identity, cargoes and destinations, the shipping executives said. Iranian vessels often stop or question vessels passing through Hormuz.

Iran has attacked four commercial ships in three days, apparently in retaliation for Iraqi air raids on ships in Iranian waters. Iraq has claimed 20 raids in two weeks, of which independent shipping sources have confirmed 10.

About 400 vessels have been attacked in the Persian Gulf since the Iran-Iraq war began in September 1980.

Ships owned by or serving Kuwait and Saudi Arabia have come under increasing Iranian attack because Iran accuses both countries of aiding Iraq. Three Iranian missiles were fired into Kuwait's oil terminal-anchorage complex in October, hitting two tankers and a major loading dock.

Eleven Kuwaiti tankers have been given U.S. registration and American flags so Navy warships can protect them.

Salvage agents said the superstructure of the 8,850-ton Romanian freighter Fundulea, owned by the Navrom Co. of Constantza, was nearly destroyed by artillery fire in Monday's attack.

Shells exploded in the crew's quarters of the 18,859-ton Uni-Master, operated by the Taiwan-based Unigrory-M Company and flying the Panamanian flag, but it was not damaged as severely as the Fundulea, they said.

The frigates' gunners hit the freighters a few minutes apart, said the executives, all of whom spoke on condition of anonymity. They said the fire on the Romanian ship lasted about five hours and the blaze on the Uni-Master about two.

Crew members abandoned the Fundulea, whose captain and his second officer were critically wounded, but the Uni-Master steamed to Dubai for repairs, the reports said.

A third Romanian, the shipcook, suffered minor injuries. He told reporters at a hospital in Ras al-Khaimah his vessel carried 7,000 tons of Italian marble for Kuwaiti merchants.

Shipping agents said the Uni-Master was laden with containers of general cargo from the Far East and bound for the Saudi port of Dammam with stops at Dubai and Bahrain.

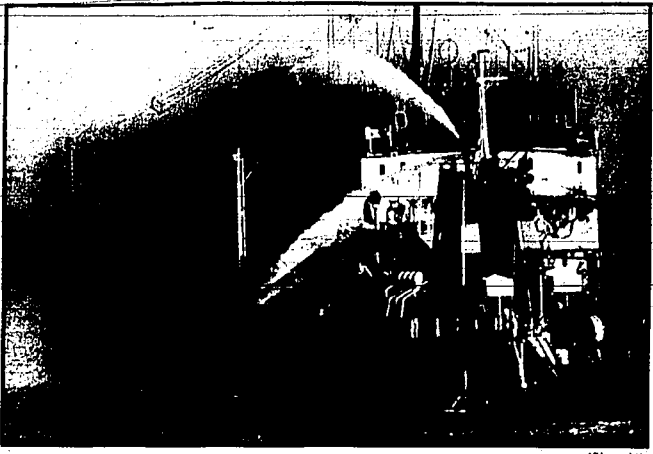

Greg English, an Associated Press photographer who flew over the Fundulea in a helicopter about five hours after the attack, said the fire had been put out but black smoke was rising from the ship.

He said a tugboat was spraying it with water, and "the whole back of the ship is devastated. The rear is burned out, finished. It had a hole as big as the back of the boat."

His helicopter was not able to get close to the Uni-Master, which was heading for Dubai at the time, but English could see holes punched by rocket-propelled grenades in the rear left-hand side of the bridge.

Grenades can be fired either from a warship or from the speedboats the Iranians use most often in attacks on neutral shipping.

Iranian warships handle most interceptions in the strait: One named the Alvand has been seen at Hormuz so often that seamen call the area "Alvand alley."

Citizens protest for food, heat

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Travelers arriving here Monday said about 10,000 protesters shouting anti-government slogans and demanding more food and heat staged an angry demonstration in Romania's second-largest city.

The protest Nov. 15 in Brasov, a leading industrial center with a population of 340,000, was believed to be the largest anti-government demonstration since the communist takeover of Romania in 1947.

It came four days after President Nicolae Ceausescu issued the toughest energy-saving measures ever in Romania, mandating a 30 percent reduction in natural gas and electricity quotas for private homes.

The tourists and a Western diplomat who visited Brasov over the weekend, said they could not confirm earlier reports there had been casualties or that buildings were damaged.

The rally occurred on the same day as elections for local and county officers.

"They marched from the old part through the downtown area, past the city's main hotels and stores to City Hall shouting, 'We want more food!' and 'We want more heating!' and 'Down with Ceausescu!'" said one woman. She said a man on the train, a Brasov resident who was traveling to Budapest, told her of the protest.

The woman, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said about 500 children led the protest, which grew by hundreds as voters going to and from the polls spontaneously joined in.

Soviet Jews kept inside

MOSCOW (AP) — Four Soviet Jews who traveled from Leningrad to Moscow to take part in a demonstration were stopped from leaving their apartment Monday by Soviet security agents, a member of the group said.

Igor Chernoschwartz told The Associated Press that plainclothes officers came to the door of the Moscow apartment where they were staying Sunday and demanded the four accompany them to the train station and return to Leningrad.

Chernoschwartz said the owner of the apartment refused to admit the agents, who posted themselves outside the door for the rest of the day.

The four were unable to attend the planned demonstration to protest what they called "anti-Semitic propaganda" in the Soviet media. Others who sought to demonstrate said they were detained by police 100 yards from the site.

Two caricatures of Soviet agents were posted outside the apartment building where the four were staying Monday and the would-be demonstrators were afraid to leave the building for fear of being arrested, Chernoschwartz said.

Minaret collapse kills four

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A mosque minaret collapsed while under construction, killing three workers and a child, it was reported Monday.

The Arabic-language daily Okaz and its English sister newspaper Saudi Gazette quoted Col. Abdullah bin Mohammed al-Seif of Jidda's civil defense department as saying the collapse Saturday was "mainly due to negligence."

The construction workers who died were working inside the minaret when it collapsed, the newspapers said. The child was killed in a neighboring house that was hit by part of the minaret.

Municipal authorities had criticized the mosque's apparent lack of sound engineering and advised the project's financial backer to halt construction, the newspapers said.
