Highway district vote set on Dec. 7

TWIN FALLS — One new Twin Falls Highway District commissioner has been appointed and an election is scheduled for Dec. 7 to fill an expiring term.

Bob Nail of Hansen has moved from the sub-district he represents, and S. hood has replaced him with Art Bailey, also of Hansen. Bailey will serve out the remaining two years of Nail's term.

Highway Board Chairman Elmer Ihler of Hollister, is completing his current term in Sub-district 3. Ihler has served on the three-member board the past 12 years and has filed his nominating petition for re-election.

Others interested in seeking election for the sub-district seat may obtain nominating petitions at the highway district office, 1234 Highland Ave.

Candidates must be qualified voters who reside in the sub-district, which is generally south of Twin Falls and need not be rural residents. The sub-district includes Berger, Hollister, Rogerson and surrounding areas as well as Roseworth, Blue Gulch, Bell Rapids and Magic Water farm areas.

Prerequisites must have at least five signatures of qualified electors of the sub-district and may have as many as 10. The deadline for filing petition is at highway district office in Friday, Nov. 27 at 5 p.m.

Election polls open Dec. 7 at noon and close at 8 p.m. in this location. These include the Twin Falls County Courthouse lobby, the Twin Falls Highway District office, Kimberly City Hall, Hansen City Hall, Salmon River Canal Co. at Hoffister and the Rogerson Service at Rogerson.

Senior U.S. arms control adviser Paul H. Nitze headed the American team and Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev the Soviet delegation. They met briefly with Shultz and Shevardnadze before the dramatic announcement.

Costless on a brisk late autumn afternoon, Shultz began by telling reporters outside the mission: "Mr. Shevardnadze and I are shaking hands."

He then went on to say: "The reason we have now completed agreement on all of the outstanding INF (Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces) issues. All that remains is the treaty language that others will be able to do. So we are very pleased that we have this agreement."

The job of drafting the final text is expected to take about one week. Gorbachev is due to arrive in Washington on Dec. 7.

Shevardnadze, speaking next, said, "We have completed some very important work. I think that what we have done is in the interest of all nations on this planet, and we have no doubt that the summit meeting in Washington will be successful."

He said the next step should be the abolition of all nuclear weapons.

Car strikes pedestrian crossing road

TWIN FALLS — Cora Bodenstab, 68, of Twin Falls, was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday night after she was struck by a car while crossing Poleline Road northwest of Twin Falls.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers said a car driven east on Poleline Road by Stephen A. Ward, 45, of Twin Falls, struck the pedestrian as she ran south across the roadway.

Officers said Ward reported he could not see the woman until she was in the path of his vehicle. Investigating officers said it was dark and Bodenstab was wearing dark clothing. Ward placed the woman in his car and took her to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. Nursing officials there said she suffered abrasions and was admitted but was satisfactory on Tuesday.

The accident report indicated Mrs. Bodenstab reported seeing the car but that she misjudged the distance and thought she had time to cross ahead of it.

The accident occurred about 6:40 p.m. Monday.

Quake

The fatal accident blamed on the quake occurred 50 miles east of Mexicali, said Ignacio Aguirre, spokesman for the government of the Mexican state of Baja California. He identified the dead as Carmen Garcia, 30, of Mexicali and her son, Esteban Jr., 4. They died when the Monday quake jolted a highway, causing two cars to collide.

The quake interrupted power to 65,000 households and businesses served by the Imperial Valley Water District, but 95 percent of the outage was corrected within 20 minutes, said district spokesman Ron Hull.

Buildozers worked to shore up crumbled banks of the district's All-American Canal, which carries irrigation water from the Colorado River to the Imperial Valley, Hull said.

The two quakes triggered a low-level emergency declaration at the San Onofre nuclear power plant on the coast, about 100 miles west of the epicenter, said Southern California Edison Co. spokesman David Barron. The tremor caused no damage or problems, he said.

Inmates at the Immigration and Naturalization Service detention center in El Centro were awakened by toppling bookshelves and were moved into a courtyard for their safety, said INS spokesman Ron Rogers. They were returned later, after officials were satisfied the building was safe.

The main road between El Centro and Westmorland was closed because of damage and state Highway 98 was closed in Ocotillo because pavement buckled on a bridge crossing Interstate 8.

Treaty

U.S. inspectors will monitor the Soviets' dismantling and then remain to guard against violations for 10 years. The Soviets would have a corresponding inspection right in Western Europe and the United States.

Newly installed Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci praised the accord as "a good deal."

"It demonstrates very conclusively what the collection of the NATO alliance can do," Carlucci said in Washington, citing decisions dating to 1979 to deploy intermediate-range missiles until the Soviets negotiated a treaty.

In Belgium, NATO Secretary-General Lord Carrington said the breakthrough in Geneva "is excellent news — the result which the alliance position and U.S. negotiating efforts were designed to achieve."

The Soviet news agency Tass called the treaty "an extremely important document."

Shultz will report to West European foreign ministers today in Brussels and return home on the eve of Thanksgiving.

The final sticking points concerned procedures for verifying that the agreement is kept by both sides.

Shultz and Shevardnadze continued talks on other issues for more than two hours and toasted their agreement with champagne. U.S. officials said.

The two diplomats also discussed the summit agenda while their spouses' experts held five separate meetings over two days.

Senior U.S. arms control adviser Paul H. Nitze headed the American team and Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev the Soviet delegation. They met briefly with Shultz and Shevardnadze before the dramatic announcement.

Blasting to close Lilly Grade to travel

TWIN FALLS — Lilly Grade will be closed during weekdays during the next few weeks for blasting, the Twin Falls Highway District announced Tuesday.

The grade, which crosses the Salmon River between Castleford and Roseworth, will be closed between 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. on weekdays, except holidays, for several weeks.

Lilly Grade will be closed for blasting to widen parts of the road and repair some of the lowest portions, which were washed out last July.

Health officials report severe strep infection in Southeastern Idaho

POCATELLO (AP) — One person has died and several other Southeastern Idaho residents have become seriously ill from what the state's top health official calls an unusual streptococcal infection.

Dr. Fritz Dixon, chief of the Department of Health and Welfare's Bureau of Preventive Medicine, said the strep (bacteria-based) infection appears to be especially resistant to conventional and even exotic antibiotics.

Throat cultures from two patients treated at a hospital here have been sent to the Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, Ga., he said, but lab results may not be available for several weeks.

Dixon said a CDC official told him the center had received inquiries about a similar resilient strep strain which apparently has occurred in three other states.

Although there may have been several other cases of the severe strep infection earlier this year, Dixon said cultures from those patients were not saved and there is no way to document the cases.

Dixon said the onset of the illness is sudden, ranging from flu-like symptoms to dry or sore throats.

One patient became ill after a lesion appeared on his elbow, the official added.

"The cases to date have involved a muscle — destruction — and some septicemia, or blood-borne bacteria, and toxic shock, Dixon stated.

"We may be seeing a repeat appearance of a strain of streptococcus, the type which led to serious complications including rheumatic fever and thickening of the heart valves," Dixon said. "It may be a form of strep infection of a greater extent and type that has occurred in the past, perhaps as long as 20 years ago. We don't know yet how extensive it may be nationwide."

The physician said although streptococcus infections are not unusual in themselves and are not a reportable disease, the Bureau of Preventive Medicine does become involved in documenting "unusual diseases of unusual occurrence."

In line with documenting what appears to be either a new or old disease adversary, Dixon is asking doctors throughout the state who may encounter similar cases to contact the Bureau of Preventive Medicine so throat cultures can be analyzed.

"We're attempting to raise the doctors' level of suspicion by letting them know official agencies are expressing an interest in collecting information and more details," Dixon said.

Although there is concern about the unusual cases reported to the state bureau, health officials caution that the majority of strep throat cases are usually mild and are treatable with either penicillin or standard antibiotics.

The key, said Dr. Jack Summers, clinical director for the Southeastern District Health Department in Pocatello, is in seeking medical treatment early when the symptoms first appear.

"There's usually a variation in the severity of the illness, but they are all generally treatable," Summers said. "Strep is very common and one of the most treatable of all illnesses."

Although strep is a common germ, Summers said strep cases are appearing somewhat earlier than usual. The season for "winter infections" such as strep usually doesn't begin until after the Christmas holidays, continuing into late spring.

Freak hunting accident injures two men with single bullet

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — A Missoula, Mont., man was in stable condition Tuesday after being wounded in a hunting accident that also injured another man in northern Idaho's Bonner County.

Leo Shea, 21, and Paul Emerson, 21, of Spokane, apparently were struck by the same bullet at about 4:51 p.m. Shea was taken by helicopter to Kootenai Medical Center in Coeur d'Alene, where he underwent surgery Monday night for injuries to his right leg. He was listed in stable condition Tuesday.

Bonner County Sheriff's Detective Harvey Thompson said Emerson apparently slipped and fell while climbing a hill and his .30-30 caliber hunting rifle discharged, grazing Emerson's right shoulder and striking Shea above the knee.

Legislative list headed by gas tax

POCATELLO (AP) — Raising Idaho's gasoline tax to provide adequate funding for the state's far-flung highway system is the top 1988 legislative priority of the Association of Idaho Cities, Executive Director Jim Weatherly says.

Giving local governments the fiscal tools to attract new business and help existing businesses expand also is high on the AIC's legislative wish list, Weatherly told a meeting of southeastern Idaho municipal officials and state lawmakers.

"Our goal for 1988 is to develop a spirit of cooperation and coordination between local governments and the state in achieving economic growth and development," he said.

"The AIC's program is designed to benefit all of the state, not just cities."

The AIC's call for a gasoline tax increase came on the heels of similar pleas from Kermit Kiebert, new director of the Idaho Department of Transportation.

Kiebert last week cited a "crisis in funding" that threatens the state's road network, and said it was imperative that state highway revenues be increased.

Weatherly said a good highway system is vital if the state is to maintain and attract business and industry.

"What we have not identified a specific amount the gas tax should be increased, a nickel a gallon would not be out of line," he said. A five-cent increase would raise more than $15 million in additional state revenue each year, if the increase follows the current state allocation formula.

The AIC is also calling upon the 1989 Legislature to continue the work it started on liability insurance and tort reform. If the state's current tort liability provisions are not altered and some of the cities' immunization from lawsuits restored, liability protection costs would increase by 50 percent, Weatherly said.

"The cost to Idaho property taxpayers is already substantial, nearly $12 per person," he said. "Without the changes, it will go higher."

The AIC also is urging creation of an intergovernmental relations commission to help local governments and state lawmakers understand the problems facing each. The commission would not be another level of government bureaucracy, but an organization for mediation, Weatherly said.

"We were witness to major progress in 1987 because of the cooperation between cities and the state and we hope that progress continues in 1988," he said.

Andrus names 4 to boards

Rioters don't deserve the gift of citizenship

At the risk of sounding jingoistic, the official American response to the destruction of two federal prisons by would-be Cuban immigrants is much too soft and conciliatory.

Instead of offering them, in effect, both permanent residence in the United States and immunity for the destruction, we should now put them on a boat and send them back to Cuba.

Like many others, this incident has an unfortunate history.

When Cubans began fleeing their country in the early 1980s, Fidel Castro took advantage of the situation. He sent us not only the political prisoners — an estimated 125,000 — but several thousand common criminals as well.

It is this latter group which has been rioting since this past weekend, demanding that they be allowed to stay in the United States. Their action follows an announcement last week of an agreement that would send most of them back to Cuba.

But apparently, the prisoners would rather stay here. To make their point, they rioted over the weekend at two prisons in Louisiana and Georgia, destroying property, taking hostages and making demands.

They are proving, in short, that they should not be allowed to stay. You can take the criminal out of the country, but you can't take the criminal out of the criminal.

The official response to the demands has been far too cautious. No one has a right to "demand" admittance to the United States as a citizen.

No reasonable interpretation of American immigration policy should have us welcome people whose contempt for the nation's laws is as low as it appears here.

We don't owe these lawbreakers the privilege of citizenship.

Concerned about water table

Thank you again, news media, for your coverage on the water situation for Idaho, especially in our area and nearby.

First, I would like to ask Mr. Hardy's lawyer — isn't it quite confusing to support Mr. Hardy and the public? Doesn't the "public interest" mean anything to you? To me the thoughts and the opinions of the public should come first — or am I wrong?

Yes Mr. Hardy, I know you own the land. It's only a half-mile from me. I also know there is no way I can get to Box Canyon without walking on your land.

But does not the BLM have any rights to a roadway or some access or means of getting to Box Canyon or Blind Canyon — besides sprouting signs and flying, as that is the only way I can see to get there? If the BLM has a right away, don't you think the public should too? Or did someone goof again when this land was sold?

The picture in your Times-News paper on Nov. 19 is beautiful. I believe I have a picture of my mother by the water. It would be real nice and enjoyable to be able to fish there again.

My most concern is what happens when the water table drops. What happens to the farmers and cities. I know what happened before. We were told there has to be so many CFS coming out of those canyon walls. So therefore we burned; I did not see the canyon burn up.

If the department keeps giving water rights in the canyon, how are we going to tell on water shortage years if there is enough for us up on top? We have to survive also.

Water rights have been given out like mad in canyon the last few years. They also have destroyed Mother Nature's beauty along with it. Why go up the canyon walls? Make use of your water at the bottom. Don't take all of Mother Nature and destroy her. Why destroy all the streams and lakes.

Tourists bring in some economy and much mouth to mouth advertising. Idaho has lots of beauty. Let's give the tourists a chance to see our beautiful state and not hide it in nooks and crooks; that does not have any public access to get there. Wake up, Idaho, before it's too late. I'm like Mr. Burke — I'm not a spring chicken anymore but I do have children and grandchildren, as many others do. My concern is for the generations to come. What will the water situation be like for them. Are we as oldsters, not going to be farsighted enough to foresee the future. Let's not leave them with our mess. Think — think, Idaho. Don't wreck us.

Don't forget mouth to mouth advertising brings in industries, plants, stores and etc. We need this also. All take water. A beautiful state will bring jobs also. People love recreation along with work. Our recreation is a few miles from work. Don't destroy it.

Let's make Idaho survive and not let our state "go back to the Indians" so to speak. We need water for our land also. We don't need a dust bowl.

Owning of canyon certain

One thing became very clear to me while attending the recent public information meeting at CSI concerning developments on Box Canyon Creek. Mr. Earl Hardy now owns Box Canyon Creek.

Our state water bureaucracy has allowed Mr. Hardy to get, and most importantly, to keep (for a lot of years now) enough permits and license for water in Box Canyon Creek to support him and his heirs for a long time to come.

In return for allowing this, the public is allowed to visit the upper canyon. So long as no more than 20 people obtain permission before you on the day you want to go ...

I have been fortunate in that I got to spend quite a few days exploring in Box Canyon before much development had taken place. On one of those days I happened to meet Mr. Hardy at the trailhead on the canyon rim.

Myself and my "long-haired" friends didn't impress Mr. Hardy and his guests in the U.S. Government vehicle at all. Apparently some slob campers had stayed recently at the head of the canyon and had failed to pack out their trash. (jerks!) Mr. Hardy was very suspicious of us.

"Who gave you permission to be down here?" Mr. Hardy asked.

"The dairyman I work for owns the farmland out here and he gave us permission." I replied.

"He doesn't own this land, I do," Mr. Hardy informed us. It was news to me.

"Are you the guys who left the trash in the canyon?" He accused us.

"No," I said. "And it really ticks me off that someone would."

He eyed us for a long minute and finally said, "Look, I don't care if you go down in the canyon, just don't mess things up."

I assured him that I considered Box Canyon one of the most spectacular places I had ever seen, and would never consider trashing it. Mr. Hardy has probably forgotten the encounter with the farm boys on the rim that day, but it was burned into my memory.

Speaking of trash, remember the idiots who left all the inner tubes and beer cans in the canyon, Mr. Hardy? During visits to the falls, after that dastardly deed, several of us carried packloads of beer cans and tubes up the steep trail to the rim. A truly rewarding experience because Box Canyon is a very special place for me.

In the very recent past, Box Canyon was an amazing last example of primitive Idaho in this area. To the native inhabitants of this region, the Snake River Canyon and its springs was truly paradise on earth for thousands of years. Fresh water gushing from myriad places along the forbidding canyon walls, in the midst of an endless desert plain. Salmon and Steelhead in huge numbers in the river and all the side streams. Deer, elk and antelope on the nearby plains. I would have loved to have seen it. I really think we've lost something that can never be replaced.

Letters/ Hagerman center situation compared to growth of a boil

Time to make a fresh start

Peace?
Much has been said and written about the "controversy" at the Hagerman Valley Senior Citizen Center. Much has not been said or written.

This has been a situation much like the growth of a boil. Minor irritations over the years have been allowed to fester to the breaking point on both sides. The vagaries of the human race. A chewing out — a response, a rebuff — a snob, a request — a refusal, an accusation — a denial, a remark — a retort, the firing of the site manager — the explosion! Everyone lost their "cool" on issues and on principles.

Through concerted efforts of lawyers Felton and Nungesser — a negotiated, rational, peaceful solution. Will it endure? It can.

Perhaps here at Thanksgiving we can be thankful there were only accusation and innuendo — no blows!
Perhaps the approach of Christmas — the love, joy and good cheer of the season will rub off and be expressed to one another each day in the coming years and this peace can be nourished and nurtured.

Tell order? Maybe. Each person has a heart that yearns for "Christmas every day of the year." Why not start now and make the effort to attain it? After all, seniors assisting seniors is what the Center is all about ... along with good fellowship.

It's time to settle differences amicably when they occur — not allow them to fester!
It's time to put all former hurts and slights aside, start fresh and become the caring, loving, kind, friendly and peaceful seniors we all are deep inside.

It's time to develop the Christ within, behold the Christ in our friends, neighbors, the community as a whole, and get on with the business at hand — living our lives in the best possible way — through Christ.
Peace.

Thankful for free America

Now that Thanksgiving is upon us, I think a letter on the subject would be appropriate. This time of year we look back and are thankful to God for all He has given us. What I am thankful for the most is how God made America the free Sovereign Nation she was and should be.

Look back and examine America of the early years and compare her to today. By looking at history I see that the people who first came here to America were the outcasts of Britain who came here to live the Christian faith. By today's standard they would be called "right wing radicals." Very much unlike the hordes who come here now for a handout or free meal.

Our forefathers were very much Christian and wanted to live their beliefs out from under the persecution of British rule. It would have taken "radicals" to see that something was wrong with the system of religion and government they were in. In order for a tyrant or wicked elite oligarchy to rule and plunder the people a special equation must exist: The cost of living under an oppressive government must always be less than the cost of changing or overthrowing it.

In 1776 King George let that equation get out of balance, resulting in the War of Independence. However, the people that were freedom loving versus the people today want security. Then they rebelled and threw some tea in the ocean because the King wanted to tax them 14 percent while today we pay 63 percent and our people think something wonderful has happened when we get back two or three slices.

But even among the courageous men at that time there were only 56 who had the guts to sign the Declaration of Independence. All of these men lost their fortunes, some their families and some their lives. That day John Hancock's words were so true when he said, "Gentlemen, the price on my head just doubled."

Today it would be hard to find 56 men brave enough to sign the Declaration of Independence. Most have too much to lose and it's hard to wash away a yellow streak running down the back.

As Samuel Adams addressed his friends and neighbors in 1775, we need those same words spoken today, "If ye love wealth better than liberty, the tranquility of servitude better than the animating contest of freedom, go home from us in peace. We ask not your counsels or your arms. Crouch down and lick the hands that freed you, and may posterity forbid that ye were our countrymen."

May God raise up a few brave patriotic men to stand for America.

Expect only $13 a month

Contrary to recent media releases, Social Security recipients are not going to receive an average of $21 a month increase in their checks for 1988. Medicare insurance premiums are being raised by almost 50 percent or a total of between $7.50 and $8.

The catastrophic illness bill is still being considered by Congress. If this bill is passed, it will mean another $4.50 deducted from each check.

If the 1988 COLA is frozen (as has been suggested by various senators and congressional leaders) then the recipient would have a net reduction in his present check of $12. This would be a worst case basis, and I don't think it will happen. On a best case basis the average recipient will receive about a $13 raise in '88.

I'm writing this letter to soften the blow for recipients who were counting on the $21 raise. I don't think the catastrophic illness bill will pass and I don't think that Congress will leave the COLA alone. This being the case, the average recipient will receive a $13 a month raise. That's about as good as can be expected.

FCC approves late night indecent talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission on Tuesday told radio and television broadcasters that they may air indecent programming between midnight and 6 a.m. without fear of FCC action.

The FCC established the time period in response to petitions seeking clarification of the agency's new standards for indecent programming. But the commission did little else to change its April ruling.

The FCC's four sitting commissioners voted unanimously to reaffirm the agency's findings of indecency against three radio stations and indicated that midnight to 6 a.m. was a "safe harbor" — the time during which children are not likely to be listening or viewing.

"All the commission said is that we would expect after midnight that we could rely on parents to supervise any children in the audience," said Diane Killory, FCC general counsel.

Commissioners, however, differed on an appropriate hour. "Although I welcome the fact that we have selected a time certain, what is the best time is a judgment call," said Commissioner Patricia D. Dennis.

Although she voted with the other commissioners, she said she preferred a cutoff of 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and midnight on Friday and Saturday.

Commissioner James H. Quello said, "It's the best we can do. I'd like to go further, but we would need more authority from a court."

Jeff Bauman, general counsel for the National Association of Broadcasters, one of the groups that had sought clarification of the ruling, said the NAB had "some grave concerns" whether they clarified the original decision. But he said the group was withholding final judgment until it reads the commission's formal decision, which will be released later.

The FCC's April decision involved Pacifica Foundation Inc. station KPFK-FM, Los Angeles; Infinity Broadcasting Corp. of Pennsylvania station WYSP-FM, Philadelphia; and The Regents of the University of California station KCSB-FM, Santa Barbara.

Carlucci pledges support for SDI, arms control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank C. Carlucci began his service as the nation's 16th defense secretary Tuesday pledging support for "Star Wars" and arms control initiatives while promising greater cooperation with Congress on budget matters.

Appearing at a press conference one day after being sworn in, the 67-year-old Carlucci offered few details of his future plans for the Pentagon and reportedly echoed the policy pronouncements of his predecessor, Caspar W. Weinberger.

He hailed word of a new arms accord with the Soviet Union eliminating intermediate-range weapons and said another pact reducing long-range nuclear arsenals could be reached if the Russians realized President Reagan would never abandon his Star Wars program.

The Soviets recently have softened their rhetoric attacking the Star Wars research effort, Carlucci added, "but whether that rhetoric reflects an underlying change in their position or not, I can't tell."

Carlucci listed arms control as one of his initial top three priorities, describing the other two as maintaining a strong military force in the face of budget cutbacks — even if it means the actual size of the military has to be reduced — and continuing to reform the Pentagon's weapons-buying procedures.

Navy, Marines stop new civilian hirings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy and Marine Corps have stopped hiring new civilian workers while they await some final decisions on the size of their fiscal 1988 budget.

Navy Secretary James H. Webb, in a directive distributed to all Navy and Marine commands last Friday and released Tuesday, ordered an immediate and "total temporary freeze on hiring of civilian employees."

Webb said he hoped to lift the freeze and replace it with more definitive hiring guidelines for fiscal 1988 "at the earliest possible time."

But with 2 1/2 months of the fiscal year already gone, the absence of any final spending plan for the Navy and Marine Corps requires immediate steps to hold down payroll expenses, Webb said.

All commands must stop hiring new employees immediately and also take steps to reduce overtime and temporary help, Webb said.

What's what

NOTED NOUNS

Q. What are the three most common nouns in American English writing?
A. 1. Time. 2. People. 3. Way.

Wives of stockbrokers are more likely to become alcoholics than wives of men in other occupations. When the British Council on Alcoholism turned up that finding a decade ago, they couldn't explain the why of that. But recent headlines have given them a better understanding.

If a sawmill worker lost a finger in a bandsaw accident, would you say his fingers were "decimated"? You might. It means the destruction of one in 10.

Inhabitants of Las Vegas outnumber slot machines there by only eight to one.

BABIES

Claim is men in some primitive tribes even today do not understand that they have anything to do with the begetting of the tribe's children. In their view, it's just something that happens to women from time to time for unknown reasons. Only in fairly recent human history, might add, did men anywhere understand otherwise.

Q. What's a "bioscope"?
A. What South Africans call the movies.

One of the most poisonous mushrooms known - Amanita phalloides - is tasty grub as far as slugs go. Doesn't hurt them a bit.

SACRIFICES

Argument continues over what killed off the great civilizations of Central and South America. Maybe some killed themselves off, says one historian. The Aztecs believed their gods demanded human sacrifice. It's believed that in just four days of 1488 they sacrificed 20,000 of their own people.

Q. In football, which came first, the huddle or numbered jerseys?
A. Huddle, 1896. Numbered jerseys showed up in 1913. Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg started both at the University of Chicago.

Did I tell you dominoes fall over at a speed of about 39 per second?

Dress laws in Florence, Italy, between 1343 and 1396 stipulated precisely the depth of a woman's décolletage.

Appeal filed on forbidden T-shirt decision

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls High School student forbidden from wearing in school a T-shirt he designed, will appeal the U.S. District Court ruling that upheld the prohibition, the student's lawyer said Tuesday.

William Hoffield said he filed notice of the appeal in the $1-million suit brought against Twin Falls School District by Rod Gano, the father of the high school senior with the same name. Gano's suit contended the student should be allowed to wear a shirt with caricatures of three high school administrators.

Hoffield maintained Tuesday that Gano's constitutional right to free speech protects his ability to wear the shirt.

"Basically, the Supreme Court of the United States has held that this is protected speech," Hoffield said. But U.S. District Judge Marion Callister, sided with the school district Oct. 30 in ruling that high school administrators' authority would be undermined if students were allowed to wear shirts bearing the "clearly offensive" design.

"When the school disciplines the plaintiff for wearing a T-shirt falsely depicting the administrators in an alcoholic stupor, it is engaged in its statutory duty," Callister wrote.

The design depicts Principal Frank Charlton, Vice Principal Norm Thomas and Dean of Men Dick Baur each holding alcoholic beverages while seated in front of a fence marked Bruin Stadium, the high school athletic field.

Callister added in his ruling that since the design depicted drinking on school property, a misdemeanor, their position would be severely compromised in this T-shirt was circulated among students."

Upon learning that Gano intended to sell 300 copies of the T-shirt to classmates, administrators suspended the student ever before he received the printed shirt. Gano sent home, as were about a dozen other students, for wearing the shirts, and Gano considered himself suspended a second time when sent home a third time during two weeks in October to change shirts.

During the October hearing, Fritz Wunderlich, the school district's attorney, noted that Gano's absences due to the suspensions were erased from his record and so did not permanently damage the student.

During the October hearing, Hoffield offered no evidence about administrators drinking. He argued instead that the design, drawn by a school paper's editorial cartoonist, was protected speech the same as if it portrayed administrators taking money from "school funds" pockets and putting it into athletes' hands.

Gano's suit asked for $1 million in damages and an order to force district officials to stop punishing Gano or other students for wearing the shirts. Callister ruled against Gano's request for a restraining order to prohibit administrators from punishing the student.

Gano has said he will not wear the shirt to school again until the suit is resolved.

Next, evidence will be heard on appeal. The notice of appeal filed in U.S. District Court will be forwarded to the federal 9th Circuit Court of Appeals for hearing.

After both sides file briefs arguing points of law in the case, a hearing will be scheduled, which Hoffield said could take more than three months.

Attorney files second motion

County prosecutor challenged again

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A third attorney representing the defendant in an indictment by a Twin Falls County grand jury has challenged the proceedings used in that grand jury.

Hailey attorney R. Keith Roark has filed a motion requesting 5th District Court to dismiss the indictment of his client, Santiago Neal Leyba II.

Roark says Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Ellen Baxter's office improperly used hearsay evidence in the grand jury proceedings and the conduct of the office before the grand jury constituted prosecutorial misconduct.

Roark also filed a motion to prepare and distribute a transcript of the grand jury proceedings because of his belief that Leyba's indictment was based either solely or through the excessive use of hearsay evidence.

Roark charges Baxter's office with basing Leyba's case, either entirely or excessively on hearsay evidence. Hearsay evidence is evidence not based on the personal knowledge of the witness.

Leyba was indicted on two counts of possession of a controlled substance and one count of manufacturing a controlled substance as the result of a Twin Falls City police search March 23.

Roark argued that the affidavit used to obtain the search warrant for Leyba's case was based "entirely on the hearsay information of an informant," and Roark said he believes that informant's information was unreliable.

In addition, the motion to compel the disclosure of the grand jury's transcript said that Roark believes that any evidence presented by witnesses in that grand jury was not reliable, was not the best evidence available and that the grand jury was "not informed of the nature of the hearsay evidence.

The Idaho Supreme Court has recently ruled on a similar challenge to a Latah County grand jury, in which Eric Roy Edmondson appealed an indictment on racketeering, grand theft, conspiracy to engage in racketeering, conspiracy to engage in grand theft and the falsification of corporate books and records.

The Supreme Court ruled on Edmondson's challenge to the hearsay evidence in that case that, where enough legal evidence was presented to support an indictment, improperly admitted hearsay evidence won't justify an overturning of the indictment.

Roark, the former prosecutor for Blaine County, is one of the few people in Idaho who is familiar with the inner workings of a grand jury.

In 1985, as prosecutor for Blaine County, he called a grand jury to investigate voter fraud in Blaine County.

That action came after former U. S. Rep. George V. Hansen challenged voter registrations in Blaine County after he lost a close race to current U. S. Representative Richard Stallings.

Partnership to bolster economic development

The Associated Press

MOUNTAIN HOME — A partnership to bolster economic development was formed Monday with the opening of the Elmore County Business Resource Center.

The center will serve as a clearinghouse for new and expanding businesses. It is a joint project of Elmore County, the Idaho Business and Economic Development Center at Boise State University and the Idaho-Ore Development Association.

"The state of Idaho is in full partnership in the development of Elmore County," Gov. Cecil Andrus said during opening ceremonies. "What you are doing with this resource center is invaluable in helping the expansion of your existing industries. And don't overlook that.

"We have a tendency to look for the end of the rainbow that is over in somebody else's state. Most of the expansion will come from the local business people, and we, the state, stand ready to help."

The services the new center will offer include business planning, cost analysis, cash flow projections, marketing research, inventory control, loan package assistance, purchase and sale of businesses and finding venture capital.

"The services will be based on information at BSU's Business and Economic Development Center, located in the Simpliot-Micron Technology Center, BSU President John Keiser said.

District releases count

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Downtown businesses voiced apparently increasing interest in their Business Improvement District, tempered with satisfaction, by re-electing two board members in voting counted Tuesday.

Melissa Delamater and Pegan Venzon, who are currently and vice chairman and secretary, respectively, were re-elected to the seven-member BID board. Delamater and Venzon collected the highest numbers of votes from among eight people vying for their seats, said BID Coordinator Sue Jones.

Despite the BID board collecting taxes from member businesses and in turn being elected by those taxing members, Jones refused to release voter tallies collected by the eight candidates. She said BID bylaws did not call for releasing the totals.

Two runners-up in the voting, Neal Garrison and Gary Babbal, became alternates in balloting from 142 downtown businesses. Jones said 100 ballots were returned by the deadline Monday.

The votes were counted Tuesday by a quorum of BID board members and observed by Judi Baxter, a BID member who does not sit on the board, Jones said.

Five board members put up for reelection were Joe Clark, Les Hazen, Larry Larson, Evan Robertson and Emory Petersen. Jones characterized the increased response in voting, from 80 businesses last year to 100 this year, and more candidates, up from six last year to eight in 1987, as marking greater interest in BID.

At the same time, two incumbent board members and Garrison, an incumbent alternate, were retained to show community support.

"I think this is an indication that people are interested in what they go on," Jones said. "However, we are going to be pickier, that shows confidence in the electing members. People must be fairly happy with how things are going."

The BID board will hold its next meeting Dec. 8 to elect board officers, Jones said.

Deregulation sought

Mountain Bell seeks support

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Mountain Bell is reaching out and touching everyone — legislators, senior citizens groups and anyone who opposed its past deregulation efforts — to drum up support for a new phone deregulation bill.

But they're having mixed results. "They've been out to visit me and told me they want to try and compromise with me," said Mildred Howard, president of the Idaho State Council for Senior Citizens. "But until I see the bill and see what's written, there's no way I'll go along."

Mountain Bell last year successfully pushed a phone deregulation bill through the Legislature. But the bill rang bells of alarm among senior citizen and low-income groups and was vetoed by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Mountain Bell officials have been working hard this year to see that the same thing doesn't happen again.

Wayne Gassaway, manager of Filer Mutual Phone Company, said Monday he and representatives from other independent companies have been negotiating a new bill and "things look better."

"It seems to be working more smoothly this year," Gassaway said. "We've had some verbal assurances that the bill they're drafting meets everyone's requirements."

Gassaway was very critical last year of Mountain Bell's deregulation bill. He said it went too far, too fast and provided few protections for independent phone companies and consumers.

Mountain Bell's lobbyists also have been lurching with local lawmakers to answer questions and head off opposition.

On Monday, Mountain Bell held a luncheon for lawmakers to discuss the importance of political action committee, or PAC, money to campaigns. Mountain Bell hired the press from attending and Roger Seiber, public information officer, said the two issues were not connected.

Only three area legislators attended. Rep. Ron Black, R-Twin Falls, Rep. Celia Gould, R-Buhl, and Rep. Doug Jones, R-Filer. Jones and Black last year both voted against the phone deregulation bill.

Black, who is still leaning against a new phone deregulation bill this year, said he did not feel the meeting was an attempt to influence his vote.

But Black, who said he has been lobbied hard recently by Mountain Bell, said the "insinuation was that there was some PAC money available."

Black said under the circumstances, he would be reluctant to accept it.

During Black's successful 1986 campaign to unseat Twin Falls incumbent Rep. Donna Scott, Black blasted her for accepting Mountain Bell PAC money when the phone deregulation issue was pending.

But Mountain Bell did find a way to help out Black this year anyway. Mountain Bell's Foundation, which gives money to nonprofit organizations, gave $200 to one of Black's favorite projects, a skateboard ramp for Twin Falls youth.

Although Seiber said before the meeting he doubted the issue would come up, Black said phone deregulation was discussed briefly. "They said they've made a number of changes to the bill, but they haven't shown us anything," he said. "I told them now would be the perfect time to let us see it so we could study it."

But Bell officials said the bill is still being drafted, Black said.

Former Twin Falls employee files tort claim

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls employee with the state Industrial Commission has filed a $250,000 tort claim against the state, the commission and the boss who fired him.

James Spooner, formerly a regional supervisor serving in Twin Falls, was fired May 7 by Administrator Gary Stivers.

Stivers cited in the dismissal letter his reasons included mental and physical health concerns and Spooner's ability to deal with others.

But Spooner alleges in the tort claim his termination was based on religious discrimination, ran contrary to his employment contract and was without cause.

The state Bureau of Risk Management will investigate the claim and decide either to award the claim, partially or wholly, or deny it. Spooner's next step, if the claim is denied or ignored, would be a lawsuit.

He said the file was not in his office and so was probably already under investigation. "We look at it and if we need information from the agency, we'll go back to them," Fridenstine said.

He added that outside sources, such as the personnel commission, may assist the investigation. Or not.

A spokeswoman for the Personnel Commission said it will not participate because of Spooner's employment status.

Stivers and the three Industrial Commission members who heard Spooner's appeal of the termination in May, contend that as an "employee," Spooner could be fired for no reason. Those commissioners, L.G. Sirhall, Will S. Deffenbacher and Gerald Geddes, were also named in the claim.

Further, commissioners said at the time Spooner wasn't even entitled to the appeal to them because of his employment status.

Spooner's lawyer when he was fired, Greg Goss, admitted his status meant he could be fired for no reason. But Spooner appealed to clear his name.

Jim Meservy is representing Spooner for the tort claim.

Stivers laid out reasons in a May 15 letter including "personal, physical and emotional problems" and an inability to work with others.

Spooner countered with a dozen letters of reference from co-workers, lawyers, health specialists and insurance people he dealt with regularly. He added that there were no health concerns, backed up with a letter from his doctor giving him a clean bill of health.

Also, Spooner's doctor, Pat Desmond, wrote the Industrial Commissioners to say that Stivers, and not the doctor, first raised questions about Spooner's mental stability.

The spectre of religious discrimination was also raised in Spooner's firing.

Rep. Ron Black, R-Twin Falls, an early champion of Spooner's cause, said he'd heard a disproportionate number of members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints were fired from the Industrial Commission.

Black and Spooner are each Mormon. Geddes said after an internal investigation that there was no evidence of wrongdoing.

Thanksgiving: It is a blessed reminder

DEAR READERS: An update on my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day, so take a few minutes to think about what you have to be thankful for.

How's your health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands — maybe millions — are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a veterans hospital? Or a hospital for crippled children?)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes (or even one), praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. No Medicare.

In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight.

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, pick up the phone and call somebody. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. Concern for fair play under the law. If you don't like your elected officials, you can go to work and vote them out of office.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

We still have the soapbox and the ballot box. Or would you rather be in Central America, Ethiopia or Afghanistan?

Freedom-rings! You can still worship at the church of your choice, or not worship at all. You can cast a secret ballot, and even criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on your door in the middle of the night.

And if you want to live under a different system, goodbye and good luck! You are free to go. There are no walls or fences to keep you here.

As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer; perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow:

O, heavenly Father: We thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless.

We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service!

That thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours.

Love, ABBY

(or her) over for dinner? Better yet, call and say, "I'm coming to get you, and I'll see that you get home." (Many older people don't drive, and those who do don't like to go out alone after dark.)

P.S.—Special greetings to those of you in the military who wrote from remote corners of the world to tell me that you are using my Thanksgiving prayer.

"There are some 1,000-plus data bases in the Simpli-Micro Center that will answer almost any kind of questions that a developing business might have," Keiser said. "Universities have been involved in economical development since the 1860s, with the beginnings of the land grant operations," Keiser said. "We think urban grant operations are probably going to be the next step. We think universities can be critical to economic development." Elmore County Commissioner

John Hiller, who along with Rep. Leanna Lasuen, D-Mountain Home, helped establish the center, said it would "provide continuing access to federal, state and business research for local businesses wishing to expand and for new businesses coming into our area."

that grand jury.
Roark, who filed his motion last week, was joined by attorneys Monte Carlson and Randy Staker last Friday, who also alleged Baxter's office was guilty of misconduct and discrimination in the use of the grand jury in September. Baxter's September grand jury is the second she has called this year. A grand jury in June returned 21 indictments on drug charges, but those indictments were thrown out because the county's jury-selection system was illegal. Baxter vowed to take the same cases through another grand jury as soon as juror candidates could be properly selected, and many of the indictments returned by September's grand jury were the same as the indictments handed down in June by the first grand jury.

TWIN FALLS - A preliminary hearing for Roy W. Haffner, 47, who is charged with first-degree murder, has been set for Dec. 4 at 9:30 a.m.

Haffner is charged with murder in connection with the Nov. 12 stabbing death of Jesus Hernandez, 60, of Twin Falls.

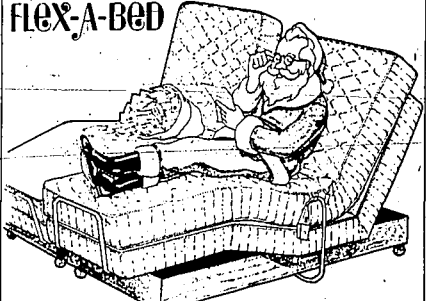

Haffner, who has been in custody without bond since the death of Hernandez, requested a preliminary hearing when arraigned Nov. 13 on the charge.

Hernandez died in the residence of Haffner.

Police reported Haffner telephoned the department and said there was an individual in his home that he wanted removed. When officers arrived at the home, they heard scuffling inside and on entering found Hernandez on the floor with a knife handle protruding from his chest.

An autopsy indicated the blade of the weapon had entered the heart and liver, causing death from internal bleeding. Haffner was arrested at the scene.

Thanksgiving: It is a blessed reminder

DEAR READERS: An update on my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day, so take a few minutes to think about what you have to be thankful for.

How's your health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands — maybe millions are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a — returns hospital? Or a hospital for crippled children?)

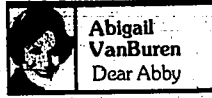

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes (or even one), praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. No Medicare.

In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight.

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, pick up the phone and call somebody. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. Concern for fair play under the law. If you don't like your elected officials, you can go to work and vote them out of office.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

We still have the soapbox and the ballot box. Or would you rather be in Central America, Ethiopia or Afghanistan?

Freedom rings! You can still worship at the church of your choice, or not worship at all. You can cast a secret ballot, and even criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on your door in the middle of the night.

And if you want to live under a different system, goodbye and good luck! You are free to go. There are no walls or fences to keep you here.

As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer; perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow:

O, heavenly Father: We thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless.

We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service

That thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours. Love, ABBY

An afterthought: Want an instant high? The surest cure for the post-holiday blues is to do something nice for someone. Why not call someone who lives alone and invite him

(or her) over for dinner? Better yet, call and say, "I'm coming to get you, and I'll see that you get home." (Many older people don't drive, and those who do don't like to go out alone after dark.)

P.S. Special greetings to those of us in the military who wrote from remote corners of the world to tell me that you are using my Thanksgiving prayer.

Europe's rate cuts spark stock advance

NEW YORK — Stock prices jumped Tuesday on news of European interest rate cuts and healthy U.S. economic growth.

Prices climbed at the opening bell and then held their ground as the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks gained 40.46 points to 1,963.65.

The Dow's climb was its biggest one-day point gain since a 61.01-point rise on Nov. 12.

The value of all U.S. stocks rose $30.29 billion, or 1.28 percent, to $2.39 trillion, according to the Wilshire Associates index of all listed stocks.

Gaining issues outnumbered declining ones about 7 to 3. In the tally of all New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, 1,139 issues advanced, 502 declined and 364 were unchanged.

But analysts said stock investors remained cautious about the health of the bond market and the dollar. The stock market's advance halted after bond prices and the dollar weakened during the day.

"I'm still concerned that we're at the top of a trading range. It remains to be seen whether this has any staying power," said Charles Jensen, a technical analyst for MKI Securities Corp.

Some traders took heart from the stock market's ability to ignore conventional trading session. There had been concerns that stocks would plunge Monday over dissatisfaction with the federal deficit reduction compromise.

West Germany, France and the Netherlands all announced interest rate cuts on Tuesday. That encouraged U.S. investors because it gave the United States' Federal Reserve more room to cut U.S. interest rates, or at least not raise them.

The central bank said it would cut its securities repurchase, or repo, rate by a quarter percentage point to 3.25 percent. However, hopes that West Germany would follow through with a cut in its discount rate, which now stands at 3 percent, were dampened when an official of the West German central bank charged that the United States was not cutting its budget deficit enough to live up to the terms of the Louvre accord on international policy coordination.

Stock investors took some pleasure from the Commerce Department's report that the U.S. economy grew at an annual rate of 4.1 percent in the July-September period, stronger than the earlier estimate of 3.8 percent.

But a companion report of higher inflation hurt bond prices, and that nixed the stock rally.

Among actively traded blue chips, Eastern Electric was up 9 1/2 to 48 1/2; General Electric was up to 45 1/2; International Business Machines rose 1 to 118 1/2; and Exxon rose 9 1/2 to 40 1/2.

United Technologies rose 3 1/2 to 34 1/2. Chairman Robert Daniel told analysts Monday he expected a "very strong fourth quarter" this year and record profit in 1988. E.F. Hutton, which soared 7 1/2 on Monday when it said it would consider purchase offers, rose another 9 1/2 to 28.

Big Board volume totaled 199.62 million shares against 143.16 million in the previous session.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 227.05 million shares.

The NYSE composite index rose 1.80 points to 137.93.

Gulf confrontation to Italian warship

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An Italian warship in the southern Persian Gulf locked its gunsights on an Iranian frigate blocking its path Tuesday and the frigate cleared the way, shipping agents reported.

"They said it was the third confrontation in two days between the Iranian and foreign navies in the gulf, where Iran and Iraq have been at sea since September 1980. Those on Monday involved Soviet and French warships.

Radio operators who monitor gulf shipping said the Italian vessel, which they did not identify, told the Iranians by radio: "You are in our way... Move away."

"The Italians locked their guns on the Iranian frigate and, after a brief pause, the Iranians moved away," a salvage executive in Dubai told The Associated Press by telephone.

"We heard the Italians question the Iranians about their intentions,

"he said, but could offer no other details. All the sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

In Washington, the Pentagon said the 19th U.S.-escorted convoy left Kuwait on Monday night and was "proceeding uneventfully in the central Persian Gulf."

It said four ships were making the trip down the gulf: the guided missile frigate USS Elrod and three Kuwait tankers flying the American flag. Eleven Kuwait tankers have been given U.S. registration so the Navy can protect them from attack by Iran, which accuses the sheikdom of aiding Iraq.

"War communique from Iran claimed its forces killed 1,200 Iraqis, wounded 2,000 and captured more than 100 in the northern sector of the 730-mile border warfront. They said anti-aircraft gunners shot down an Iraqi warplane in the Persian area north of Sulaimaniyah, but Iraq denied it.

The Iranian frigate confronting the Italians was believed to be the Alvand. It patrols waters in and around the Strait of Hormuz, the gulf's narrow entrance, sometimes accompanied by armed speedboats manned by Revolutionary Guards. Seamen call the area "Alvand alley."

Sometimes the frigate intercepts commercial vessels to determine whether their cargoes include war materiel for Iraq.

Italy sent eight warships to the region a month after the Italian container ship Jolly Rubino was attacked near Iran's Farsi Island Sept. 3. Officials in Rome said an Iranian speedboat was the attacker.

On Sunday, Italian ships swept for mines in waters adjoining Hormuz.

Included in Italy's flotilla are the the mine sweepers Vieste, Sapri and Milazzo; the support ship Anteo; the frigates Grecale, Scirocco and Persico, and the refueling tanker Venezia.

Sunday's operation involved all three mine sweepers, escorted by the support ship and the frigate Grecale.

Dutch, Belgian and British mine sweepers are in the central gulf and the U.S. Navy is hunting mines near Farsi, an Iranian speedboat base in the northern gulf. Nine have been found and detonated near the island.

Challenges involving U.S. and Iranian warships also have been reported.

Contras fail to deliver their counterproposal

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Nicaraguan rebels failed Tuesday in their plan to deliver a cease-fire counterproposal through the Vatican ambassador here, one of their directors said.

Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, one of six directors of the Nicaraguan Resistance rebel umbrella organization, said two appointments with the Vatican ambassador in San Jose had been cancelled.

"They won't even receive us," Chamorro said.

He said still hoped the documents could be delivered to Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo in Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, by Wednesday.

"Just think that we are a little bit unlucky," Chamorro said in a phone interview.

In Managua, President Daniel Ortega reiterated Monday that Contra leaders will not be allowed in the country unless they first agree to lay down their arms, renounce their war against the government and accept a government amnesty.

Right-winger fights charge

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Right-wing leader Roberto d'Aubuisson said Tuesday he will fight President Jose Napoleon Duarte's charge that he ordered the assassination of Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero in 1980.

He also denied recurring allegations of involvement with rightist death squads blamed for thousands of killings in the early years of El Salvador's 8-year-old civil war. D'Aubuisson is a former army major and leads the ultra-right National Republican Alliance.

Alvaro Saravia, a retired army captain Duarte identified as the man overheard, was detained Monday night in Miami.

Presidents to focus on economies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — When eight Latin American presidents gather in Acapulco for the largest regional summit in 20 years, they are expected to concentrate on the troubled — even desperate — state of their economies.

Thursday's summit, the largest of its kind since 1967, will bring together leaders who are likely to issue a fresh plea for help to ease the foreign debt burdens that have drained their developing economies.

"We will have to say something about the debt," Argentine President Raul Alfonsín said in an interview with the Mexico-City newspaper Excelsior.

The eight countries have built up foreign debts totaling $343 billion, with Brazil leading the developing world at $112.7 billion.

The amount of money needed to stay current on the countries' for-sign debts — and some of the countries have fallen behind in their payments — is enormous. Mexico, for example, will pay $8 billion to $9 billion in interest this year on its debt of $105 billion.

The constant flow of money to industrialized nations, they say, has left their economies in sorry shape. Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, Uruguay and Peru are wracked by high inflation.

Mexico has pulled out of last year's serious recession, but Peru may be headed for a downturn next year. Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela will likely record weaker growth this year than last.

"Latin America is the only region in the world with visible setbacks. Other continents continued to progress; we have not advanced," Brazilian President Jose Sarney told the Mexican government news agency Notimex.

Brazil, he said, has disbursed $50 billion in debt payments — "a permanent bleeding that has debilitated our resources."

He was expected to bring up at the summit the subject of a joint negotiating strategy with Mexico and Argentina. Peruvian President Alan Garcia, a hard-liner on the debt, was likely to repeat his call for Latin American nations to forge a united stand on the debt.

Also attending the meeting will be Presidents Miguel de la Madrid of Mexico, Eric Arturo Delvalle of Panama, Virgilio Barco of Colombia, Julio Maria Sanguinetti of Uruguay and Jaime Lusinchi of Venezuela.

The summit, which ends Sunday, grew out of efforts to try to arrange a negotiated settlement of the wars in Central America.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"The word 'now' is like a bomb through the window, and it ticks."
— Arthur Miller.

South had his excuses ready when he threw away today's game. "I thought it was now or never for my kind of spades," he said. "And besides, West surely was the favorite to hold the club king since he was the one who bid."

East put up his spade jack at trick one and South could not reach for it. He took his spade king with no thoughts of the future. A losing club finesse followed and East's spade return closed shop. West took his four spade winners and South was left with another of his hard-luck stories. Where did South go wrong?

While it is true that West might have been the favorite to hold the club king, he was an even bigger favorite to hold five spades. In that case, it could not hurt to duck two rounds of spades.

After South has refused to capture East's spade jack, East continues with the nine and South ducks again. Whether or not West's overtake makes little difference. When the club finesse loses, East has no spade to lead and South is assured of at least nine winners.

Sooners gain No. 1 ranking; Miami second

By JACK ELLIOTT
The Associated Press

Oklahoma will be rooting for Miami to defeat Notre Dame and South Carolina in its final two games of the season.

"We very much hope that Miami remains undefeated," said Oklahoma Athletic Director Donnie Duncan.

Oklahoma will play Miami on New Year's Day in the Orange Bowl, and if Miami manages gets by its last two opponents, the game will be for the national championship.

"The national championship was a goal we set out for in the beginning. We wanted to play for the national championship in a bowl game at the end of the year. It was what our season was structured for, not in just the number of victories but in the way we got those victories," he said.

Oklahoma, 11-0, reclaimed the No. 1 ranking from Nebraska on Tuesday after beating the Cornhuskers 17-7 in Lincoln, Neb., last Saturday. Nebraska held the No. 1 ranking for one week.

Miami surged into second place. Oklahoma received 54 of 59 first-place votes and 1,173 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters this week. Miami, 9-0 following a 24-14 victory over Toledo, drew four first-place votes and 1, 108 points. The Hurricanes had been No. 3 for eight weeks in a row. Nebraska, 9-1 with a regular-season game remaining against Colorado, fell to fifth with 979 points.

The Sooners slipped to No. 2 last week after struggling to defeat Missouri, 17-13.

"I really didn't understand why we moved down, especially when it was a team that was idle (Nebraska) that moved ahead of us," Duncan said. "Well, it was a moot point. We went out on the field to make that decision and we did. I'm delighted that we had that victory over Nebraska."

While Duncan wants to play down a revenge factor for the Orange Bowl, he acknowledged that some players and coaches will be thinking about two regular season losses to Miami — especially one last year that cost the Sooners a national title.

Miami handed the Sooners their only two setbacks in the past 35. See POLL on Page D4.

Juco coaches join many JC players in NCAA Division I

By JIM O'CONNELL
The Associated Press

Junior college players are everywhere in Division I basketball this season, thanks in part to Bob Knight and now juco coaches are following their players into top-level programs.

Since Keith Smart made the tough jumper that gave Indiana and Coach Knight the national championship, junior college players have become "quite a topic among college basketball fans. Smart and teammate Dean Garrett had both made the jump from the juco ranks to a solid, disciplined Division I program and the results were obvious.

Besides the influx of juco players into the Division I ranks this year, four of the 38 new head coaches running top-level college basketball programs had their last job at two-year schools.

"It's amazing that Mr. Knight has so much influence on coaching philosophy since he's had so much success," said Texas-Arlington Coach Jerry Stone, who led Midland JC for the past 10 seasons. "Of course, Keith Smart's shot didn't hurt one bit."

Stone said Proposition 48, the rule requiring incoming freshmen to post certain academic standards, has also helped push juco programs to the forefront.

"More coaches were forced to go that way because of Prop 48," he said, "juco kids are a little more experienced and there are more of them."

Joining Stone in the juco-to-Division I ranks are Ronnie Arrow, who went from San Jacinto JC to South Alabama; Riley Wallace, from Seminole JC to Hawaii; and Ken Trickey, from Oklahoma JC to Oral Roberts.

"Sure what happened with Indiana helped the juco players because Knight is known for his discipline and others have to see that juco kids are not knuckleheads," said Arrow, who compiled a 301-43 record and won three national championships at San Jacinto. "Juco basketball players in some cases need some sense of discipline, but there are some who are simply major college players."

Arrow turned out some of those players in his years at San Jacinto, including a pipeline to St. John's that sent Billy Goodwin, Walter Berry and this year's backcourt Greg "Boo" Harvey and Michael Porter to the Redwood.

"I am going to recruit juco players but you build a program with freshmen and fill in immediate needs with juco kids," Arrow said. "Hopefully we do have an advantage with JUCO coaches because they will want us to do well and we'll get some of their players."

Stone said it's "pretty logical" for him to recruit in the juco ranks. "I'm familiar with the coaches and programs," he said. "I'm rebuilding a program here and it's pretty logical for me to go that way."

"I'm glad I coached juco players and I feel comfortable with them. Five coaches have moved from an assistant's capacity to the head job at the same school.

Gordon Chiesa of Providence has the toughest act to follow as the Friars earned a berth in the Final Four last season but four starters have graduated from that team.

"I'm going to be able to go the more. See JUCO on Page D3.

Thanksgiving opening planned for Sun Valley

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News-Turiter

The ski season is opening Thanksgiving day as promised at Sun Valley, but other areas are still on hold waiting for additional snowfall.

Sun Valley resort officials say skiing on a daily basis will begin Thursday with the Warm Springs runs open with 18-inches of natural and machine-made snow at the base.

There will be snow cover on about 1,000 vertical feet of Sun Valley slopes for the coming holiday skiers.

Another attraction will be the reduced ticket rate of $17. Warm Springs lifts will be operating from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pomerelle Ski Resort south of Albion, said if the predicted storms arrive in the next two days, the resort will open for the Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

"We have had a couple of inches Sunday and another inch or two today, but that isn't quite enough," Anderson said Monday.

Although Pomerelle is normally in full operation by Thanksgiving or a week or two before the holiday, this year Anderson said there has not been enough early snow. He said there is plenty snow cover on the upper mountain runs, but not on lower portions of the mountain.

The weather predictions for Wednesday prove to be correct, the resort is ready to open on a day's notice, he said.

Sonics drub Lakers, 103-85, L.A.'s second straight setback

SEATTLE (AP) — Xavier McDaniel scored 24 points to lead Seattle in a 103-85 victory Tuesday night over the Los Angeles Lakers, who lost their second game in a row after opening the NBA season with eight straight wins.

Both benches cleared in the third period when McDaniel crashed into Wee Matthews and rebounded a loose ball. McDaniel came up from the pile with his hands around Matthews' neck, drew a personal foul and a technical.

The SuperSonics, who won their fourth straight game, built a 7-46 lead in the third quarter. The Lakers drew to within 78-71 early in the final period on a 3-point goal by Matthews.

But Los Angeles got no closer as outside shooting by Dale Ellis, who finished with 18 points, and McDaniel's driving scores led Seattle.

The Lakers, who were led by Magic Johnson's 23 points, got none from James Worthy who entered the game as the team's leading scorer with a 21.3 average. Byron Scott added 15 for Los Angeles while Michael Cooper had 12 and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was held to 10.

The Lakers lost the lead with 40 seconds left in the first quarter when rookie Derrick McKey sank a 16-foot jumper from the left side for a 21-20 Seattle lead. McKey finished with 14 points.

Seattle held a 56-40 halftime lead thanks to 15 first-half turnovers by the Lakers.

Portland 98 Sacramento 93

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Clyde Drexler scored 32 points and the Portland Trail Blazers held off a fourth-quarter comeback by Sacramento to defeat the Kings 98-93 Tuesday night.

Led by Ed Pinckney, who scored all 13 of his points in the second half, Sacramento led for most of the 104 to pull within 94-93 on Javarrt Othman's two free throws with 1:25 remaining.

But Jerome Kersey hit two foul shots for Portland and Drexler then stole the ball and dribbled the length of the floor to score with 11 seconds left to give the Trail Blazers an 89-93 lead.

It was the Blazers' third consecutive victory and the Kings' fifth straight loss.

Otis Thorpe led the Kings with 21, while Kersey added 15 points and 11 rebounds for the Trail Blazers.

Denver 132 New Jersey 104

DENVER (AP) — Lafayette Lever scored 21 points, grabbed 13 rebounds and handed out 14 assists Tuesday night as the Denver Nuggets routed the New Jersey Nets 132-104.

Lever just missed becoming the fourth player in NBA history to have double figures in points, rebounds, assists and steals in one game since the league began keeping the statistic. Only Charles Barkley, Alvin Robertson and Clyde Drexler have recorded the feat.

Pro basketball

Lever had eight steals and set the team's fourth quarter.

The victory was the third straight for the Nuggets.

The Nuggets' defense set a team record in 13 blocked shots, eight by both Wayne Cooper and Blair Rasmussen, and had 18 steals. Ten Nuggets scored in double figures, with Alex English hitting 17.

Mike Ginski and Buck Williams led New Jersey with 15 points each. Williams also had a game-high 16 rebounds.

Utah 100 Washington 83

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Karl Malone scored 22 points and Thurl Bailey added 18 as Utah held Washington to 13 fourth-quarter points and beat the Bullets 100-83 Tuesday night.

Utah led 74-70 going into the final period but went on a 15-3 streak in a seven-minute stretch to pull the game out of reach. John Stockton and Darrell Griffith had four points each during the run.

The Bullets had their own streak early in the third period, outscoring the Jazz 17-5 to take their only lead of the game, 62-59, on Moses Malone's driving layup and free throw.

Utah came back, grabbing the lead for good, 66-64, on a basket by Scurry.

Washington was led by Moses Malone with 17 points. Jeff Malone and John Williams added 14 apiece.

Mark Eaton and Bailey each had 14 rebounds for Utah, while Moses Malone had 10 for Washington. Eaton also had four blocked shots, as did Charles Jones for Washington.

Detroit 97 Houston 83

HOUSTON (AP) — Vinnie Johnson scored 26 points, including 13 in the fourth period, to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 97-83 victory over the Houston Rockets Tuesday night.

The victory was Detroit's third straight and its fourth consecutive on the road. Houston had a six-game home winning streak snapped.

Detroit led 56-52 at the half, but Allen Leavell's 15 third-quarter points for Houston cut the margin to 73-66 going into the final period. The Rockets pulled within 79-76 on a three-point play by Akem Oluajunwa and a basket by Rodney McCrey.

But the Pistons scored eight straight points, including six by Johnson, to stretch their lead to 87-76. Houston was never closer than nine points the rest of the way.

Oluajunwa led the Rockets with 21 points and 16 rebounds.

Joe Dumars added 16 points, Dennis Rodman 14 and Rick Mahorn 13 for the Pistons.

Philadelphia 108 Cleveland 104

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles Barkley scored 14 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter as the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 108-104 Tuesday night.

Barkley, who sat out most of the third quarter, returned to the game with eight minutes remaining and the 76ers leading 85-82.

During the next 72 seconds, he blocked two shots, hit a layup and handed off to two assists as the 76ers scored eight straight points, six by Roy Hinson.

Cleveland retaliated with six consecutive points to trail by 103-100 with 1:18 to play. After Barkley and the Cavaliers' John Williams each hit two free throws, Barkley scored four consecutive points to ensure the victory.

Maurice Cheeks also scored 22 points and Hinson added 21 for Philadelphia, while Brad Daugherty had 23 and Williams 18 for Cleveland.

Albert King, signed earlier in the day by Philadelphia, played only one minute, 56 seconds in the second quarter and missed his only shot from the field.

L.A. Clippers 123 Golden State 120 (OT)

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Mike Woodson's 31 points and clutch shooting led the Los Angeles Clippers to a 123-120 double-overtime victory over the Golden State Warriors Tuesday night.

Woodson's off-balance jumper with one second remaining in regulation tied the score at 99 as the Clippers rallied from a 98-91 deficit with 44 seconds left.

Woodson then converted a pair of free throws with four seconds left in the first overtime period to force a 111-111 tie. The veteran guard capped the night by sinking a long jumper with 21 seconds left in the second overtime period to give the Clippers an insurmountable 121-118 lead.

Golden State fell to 1-10, the worst mark in the NBA, despite outstanding performances by Rod Higgins and Eric Floyd.

Higgins made 15 of 17 shots from the field, including 13 straight, to finish with a career-high 33 points. Floyd, who was held scoreless in the first half, finished with 22.

Chris Mullin added 24 and Joe Barry Carroll 21 for the Warriors.

Glenns Ferry center Pam Pomber, who had scored 9 points to that point, ended up with 20.

IU reprimands Knight over game incident

The Washington Post

Indiana University basketball coach Bobby Knight has been "strongly reprimanded" by the school's president and athletic director for pulling his team off the court Saturday night during an exhibition game against the touring Soviet Union national team, the university said Tuesday in a statement.

College basketball

Knight pulled the Hoosiers off the floor with 16:05 remaining in the game in Indianapolis after he was ejected following his third technical foul. The Soviet team was declared the winner 86-63.

"Coach Knight said that he had made a serious mistake of judgment, and that he recognized it caused great embarrassment not only to himself and the basketball program, but also, and most importantly, to the entire university and its supporters," the university statement said.

The president (Thomas Ehrlich) and (athletic director) Ralph Floyd strongly reprimanded Coach Knight, who gave his assurance that such an incident would not occur again.

"The university has apologized to Basketball Association of America, and through the sponsor — to the Soviet team and coach," the statement read.

The university declined Tuesday to specify what "strongly reprimanded" specifically means.

Reprint from Albuquerque Tribune
Device may increase gas mileage by 22% BOSTON - National Fuelsaver Corp. of Boston has developed a simple automotive accessory that increases gas mileage by 22%. The Gusher, which takes only 10 minutes to install, releases microscopic quantities of platinum into the air-fuel mixture entering the engine. Platinum has the unique ability of making unburnt fuel burn. With platinum in the flame zone, you increase the percentage of fuel burning in the engine from 68% to 83%. Normally, that 22% of the fuel would only burn if it came in contact with the platinum coated surfaces of a catalytic converter. Unfortunately, this converter process takes place outside of the engine, where the energy produced is lost. With the Gusher dispensing platinum into the combustion chambers, 22% more of each gallon burns inside the engine so that 22% fewer gallons are required to drive the same distance. The process works on both leaded and unleaded gasoline, and meets the emission standards of all states. Federal Judge Walter J. Skinner concluded the five-year administrative procedure studying the Gusher by stating: "Independent testing shows greater fuel savings with the Gusher than the 22% claimed by its developer National Fuelsaver Corp." The government had already confirmed in 1984 that the Gusher raises the octane of gasoline, eliminating the need for premium fuel. Joel Robinson, the developer, commented: "We've already sold over 50,000 Gushers. Ironically, we find more people buying the Gusher for its third benefit of cleaning out carbon to extend engine life than buy it for its fuel savings or octane boosting." 'Replacement' games loom large in playoffs

By BOB OATES
Los Angeles Times

For three games earlier this season, the National Football League's club owners employed 23 teams of strikebreakers. The owners called them replacements but their purpose was to encourage the league's 1,500 union players to return and thus break the strike.

Pro football

Five weeks later — with five weeks remaining of the regular season — the policy is beginning to bear fruit.

Some of the NFL's best teams are running behind in the Super Bowl race because of what their replacements failed to do.

And it seems quite likely that some players will lose places in the playoffs only because of the ineptness of the strikebreakers who wore their uniforms. The real losers are, as usual, their fans.

By vote of the clubs' owners, all games played this season count in the standings. And here are some of the consequences.

The New Orleans Saints, who beat the 49ers in San Francisco recently, are second to San Francisco in the AFC West this week only because of the union and non-union differential.

Adding in their non-union record, 3-0, the 49ers are now 8-2. The Saints, 2-1 during the strike, are 7-3.

loped the San Diego Chargers, 34-3, Sunday, are second to San Diego in the AFC West for the same reason.

Incorporating their 3-0 strike record, the Chargers are a heady 8-2. The Seahawks, 2-1 during the replacement season, are 7-3.

The effects of the NFL's strike policy are even more striking in the NFC East, where the Washington Redskins and Indianapolis Colts have identical 4-3 records with their regulars.

But because their strike teams went 3-0 and 0-3, respectively, the Redskins are in front at 7-3, and the Colts are all but out of it at 4-6.

All told, results of the 48 non-union games are influencing five of the six NFL races. The lone exception is in the AFC Central.

The obvious conclusion is that the integrity of the NFL, fragile at best, has been undermined by deliberate decisions made by the league's own owners.

To the average fan, the most confusing legacy of the strike may well be that the NFL's publicity office continues to lump together union and non-union statistics.

As of a few days ago, for instance, Steve DeBerg of Tampa Bay had thrown more touchdown passes against real NFL defenses than any other quarterback.

But Joe Montana of San Francisco was the listed leader because he had played with the 49ers' strikebreakers. He threw some easy touchdown passes against non-union defenses.

At wide receiver, Montana also has Jerry Rice, who helped him beat DeBerg's team eventually. But that's another story.

The statistics story is that, using the NFL's official numbers, it is impossible for the average fan to compare close teams this season.

"Football statistics are a reflection of the games," Joe Brown, the NFL's director of communications, said this week, stating league policy. "If the games count, the stats should count."

That is undeniable. Next February, when the season and the Super Bowl are in the books, the NFL should issue a complete set of 1987 statistics.

But in the meantime, each week, the league's many fans are entitled to an official NFL statistical picture of how the league's regular players and teams compare right now.

Only the NFL can perform that service. Independent football statisticians make some mistakes. The NFL's publicity office has been remarkably accurate throughout the Pete Rozelle era.

The league's has also made a major change in its instant replay officiating machinery. Browne said. The change was announced Sunday morning, too late to explain to the nation's fans.

Henceforth, the NFL's top communicator said, many fumbles won't be reviewed by the instant replay officials upstairs.

In the new system, there are presumed to be two kinds of fumbles, those that are seen clearly by one or more of the seven field officials and those that aren't.

Here is what the league plans to do now in each instance when the ball gets away from any ballcarrier:

— If an official sees that the player is down before fumbling, he must instantly make the down signal — and also blow a whistle. The down signal? Pointing emphatically at the ground.

The intent of this procedure is to convey plainly that the play was over before there was a fumble. Such a play is no longer subject to instant-replay review upstairs, Browne said.

— Still subject to review are plays when the ball is loose, when no official points to the ground, when there's no whistle. In these instances, the officials are indicating either that they didn't see the play clearly or that in their judgment the ball was fumbled.

In the Super Bowl sweepstakes, an outline of the NFL's playoff season next month seemed to come into view with the games of last weekend.

The various results suggested that San Francisco and New Orleans will represent the West, Washington the East, and Chicago and Minnesota the Central Division.

Only two other NFC teams, Philadelphia and Dallas, appear to have a wild-card chance.

Howard sues NCAA over being left out of I-AA playoffs

By NEIL H. GREENBERGER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Howard University, which believed its football team was unjustly left out of the 16-team NCAA Division I-AA football tournament, was to file suit Wednesday in federal court to prevent this week-end's scheduled first-round games from being played until the court decides whether the Bison should be included in the playoffs.

College football

At a pep rally honoring the team and coaches Tuesday at the university's Blackburn Center, President James Cheek said he has initiated the lawsuit because the school has become the latest victim in "a historic pattern of racial discrimination" by the NCAA.

Cheek said Howard hopes to obtain a temporary restraining order to prevent eight first-round games from being played around the country this weekend unless Howard is included in the field. He also said the lawsuit seeks to change the NCAA's future selection process to include more predominantly black schools in all of its tournaments in various sports.

"What we embarked upon today was not a skirmish," said Cheek, who has headed the university for more than 18 years. "I am declaring war on the NCAA."

This is "the inauguration of a struggle. One of the hallmarks of this institution is that it has fought and destroyed racism in every manner it has ever manifested itself. It would not be appropriate by our history or character, or would it be prudent in the circumstances we confront, if we were to willingly and gracefully accept the decision of the NCAA committee."

Howard finished the regular season at 9-1, a record second only to top-ranked Holy Cross, which declined to participate in the tournament for academic reasons. Teams ranked second through 17th gained berths to the tournament, including six conference champions and the two highest-ranked independents who are given automatic bids. Howard was ranked 18th.

Demaris Poppe, head of the NCAA's men's competition committee, said he would not comment on the suit until he had read it. He did say he knew of no other similar suit in the NCAA's history.

Indiana State Athletic Director Beanie Cooper, head of the tournament committee that has the final decision on weekly I-AA football rankings and determines the tournament participants, said he believes Howard has no case.

"In my three years in this position, I never encountered anything that anyone was voting on the issue of race," said Cooper. "The issue doesn't come up because we are all familiar with the makeup of these schools and don't need to discuss it."

ing from the Trail Blazers to the University of Portland.

Ohio State Coach Gary Williams has to be proud of how his staff has moved up in the coaching ranks.

Two of his assistants last season — Rick Barnes and Jim Clemons — have taken head jobs in Division I. Barnes will take over the program at George Mason from Joe Harrington, who moved on to Long Beach State, while Clemons moves across the state to Youngstown State, where he replaces Bill Dailey, who passed away after a battle with cancer last summer. Dailey had been named head coach just months earlier, succeeding Mike Rice who was fired.

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Jeff Gray scored 19 of his game-high 29 points in the second half as Iowa State defeated No. 2 Purdue 104-96 in the second round of the Big Apple NIT basketball tournament Tuesday night.

Purdue led 93-90 with 5:52 remaining before the Cyclones outscored Purdue 14-3, including 10 straight points that made it 100-93 with 40 seconds left.

Mike Born closed the gap to 93-92 on a jump shot with 3:49 to go and Leifester Rhodes, who finished with 18, had two free throws to give the Cyclones a 94-93 lead with 3:09 left. Iowa State never trailed again.

Purdue, 1-1, missed five of its final six shots in the final four minutes. Everett Stephens, who finished with 17 points, scored the Boilermakers' final points on a 3-pointer with 30 seconds to go.

Gary Thompkins scored 15 points for Iowa State, 2-0, which will play Florida in the semifinals Friday night. Seton Hall faces New Mexico in the other semifinal at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Purdue was led by Troy Lewis with 28 points, 18 in the first half. Todd Mitchell scored 22 points for the Boilermakers and Melvin McCants had 16.

Purdue led 51-50 at the half, despite the fact that Iowa State shot 82 percent from the field compared to Purdue's 50 percent.

Seton Hall 93, M. Tennessee 61

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Daryll Walker and Mark Bryant scored seven points apiece in a decisive first-half spurt that carried Seton Hall to a 93-61 victory over Middle Tennessee State in the second round of the Big Apple NIT on Tuesday night.

The victory moved the Pirates of the Big East Conference into Friday night's semifinals against New Mexico. Florida will play Iowa State in the other semifinal at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

There was little doubt Seton Hall, 2-0, would be making the 20-mile trip from its South Orange campus to the Big Apple after the opening half. The Pirates shot 62 percent from the field, committed just three turnovers and built a 55-34 lead.

The blowaway point for the Pirates came with a little more than 13 minutes left in the half and the Seton Hall leading 17-10.

Walker started a 16-5 run by scoring seven straight points. Bryant, who missed the Pirates season opener because of a one-game NCAA suspension, then took over and scored the next seven.

When Ramon Ramos ended the run with a 15-foot jumper with 8:02 left in the first half, Seton Hall had a 33-15 lead and Middle Tennessee State, 1-1, never got closer than 12 points the rest of the half.

Seton Hall, which last year won its first winning season since 1979-80, was led by Walker with 19 points. Ramos and James Major each had 13 and Bryant and Martin Salley finished with 12 apiece.

Middle Tennessee, the regular season champions of the Ohio Valley Conference a year ago and a participant in the NCAA tournament, was paced by freshman Leslie Gregory with 20.

Two coaches moved back to the Division I ranks from professional basketball.

games. Except for regular-season losses to Miami in 1985 and 1986, Oklahoma might be shooting for an unprecedented third straight national championship and third consecutive undefeated season.

Miami beat Oklahoma 27-14 in the fourth game of the 1985 season but it wasn't enough to prevent the Sooners, 11-1, from capturing their third national championship since Barry Switzer became head coach in 1973.
