Debate focuses on treaty

WASHINGTON — Republican presidential contenders clashed over arms control Tuesday in a spirited prime-time debate... The Democratic and Republican candidates — six of each — quarreled over the budget deficit, Social Security and possible pardons for Oliver North in the highest-profile campaign event of the year.

Tragedy brings up questions

Situation in Stover family still a puzzle following 3 slayings

TWIN FALLS — Friends tried to fit pieces of the Stover family puzzle together Tuesday, but there were still more questions than answers in the tragedy that left three family members dead and the fourth in a Salt Lake City hospital.

Cubans free hostage at Atlanta

ATLANTA — Cuban detainees at the U.S. Penitentiary on Tuesday night freed one hostage, leaving 89 captives still in the hands of inmates who seized the prison Nov. 23.

Lyng says farm outlook better

WASHINGTON — Farmers can be fairly optimistic about 1988, although cash income is expected to decline a bit from this year's record level, Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng said Tuesday.

Senators shelve special tax cuts

WASHINGTON — As part of their contribution to cutting the federal deficit, Senate Finance Committee members agreed Tuesday to temporarily give up their right to add special tax-cut amendments to any major tax bill.

President warns against secret Soviet military buildups

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — President Reagan pledged on Tuesday to "keep right on marching" toward further arms agreements after next week's expected treaty signing, but he said the United States must not be lulled into a new period of détente allowing a secret Soviet military buildup.

Contract signing slated

OHONGING (AP)—A contract that could trigger the start of a much-awaited $31 million prison expansion program at Boise and Orofino could be signed late next week, state officials said. Martin L. Peterson, director of the State Executive Budget Office, said a contract with Morrison-Knudsen Co. of Boise is expected to be signed Dec. 12, meaning expansion of the state prison at Orofino could start before Christmas. Peterson said about 89 million, about twice the amount originally earmarked, is expected to be spent at Orofino to build a new 96-inmate prison "pod" and revamp existing buildings and space on the grounds of State Hospital North. The remaining $23 million will go toward construction of a new 250-inmate unit at Boise, Peterson said. The target date for completing both projects is the spring of 1989.

Gen fund declares dividend

BOISE (AP)—The State Insurance Fund, Idaho's largest workers' compensation insurance company, has declared a $10.8 million dividend for policyholders insured for at least six months between July 1985 and June 1986. The dividend represents a return of about 45 percent of the annual premium for participation in the fund. It will be distributed in more than 5,000 checks that will be mailed or hand-delivered on Jan. 5, fund manager Merle Parsley said.

Hospital may meet deadline

DOWNNEY (AP)—The interim administrator at Marsh Valley Hospital said he is confident the Downey facility can correct deficiencies found by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare before a Jan. 1 deadline. But Doyle Ray conceded problems still exist at the hospital. Ray said the hospital's board of trustees was committed to doing whatever is necessary to remain open. But he said the community could show its support by paying bills and using the local medical facility whenever possible. Among the major deficiencies cited by Health and Welfare inspectors was that a $20,000 portable X-ray machine was not working and that nursing care was not properly documented.

Boise buses to keep rolling

BOISE (AP)—Long-awaited federal approval of a labor contract for Boise's bus system has finally been granted by the U.S. Department of Labor. The approval, contained in a letter of certification, means the end of three major dilemmas for the city bus system. The city's $500,000-plus federal grant now can be released to operate the system in fiscal 1987. The city borrowed money to keep the bus system running through the year, costing it more than $11,000 in interest charges. The city can hire a new contractor to take over the system. Boise Urban Stages has agreed to a series of contract extensions to keep the buses running.

Recall petition circulates

PORT HALL (AP)—A recall petition has been circulated in response to two Shoshone-Bannock tribal leaders' votes to dismiss former tribal attorneys Jack Ross and Howard Funke. Port Hall Tribal Business Council members Yelda Auck and Delbert Farmer scheduled a meeting for today to explain their votes after receiving a recall petition signed by 160 members of the Shoshone-Bannock tribes. Citing a lack of money, council members voted last July not to renew their contract with Funke and Ross and gave the attorneys three months to complete work in progress and vacate their offices, Business Council Chairman Marvin Osborne said.

Manpower lack delays work

POCATELLO (AP)—A lack of manpower has delayed the state Division of Environment's processing of notices for five alleged air pollution violations in the Pocatello area, an official says. Dave Pisarski, senior air quality specialist for the state Air Quality Bureau, said the alleged violations identified since last February include problems with blowing dust and periodic dense smoke from local phosphate plants. But three vacancies in his office have held up state action. Besides Pocatello and Soda Springs, Boise and Lewiston do not meet EPA standards for total suspended particulates.

Council reorganizes job training setup

BOISE (AP)—The state Job Training Coordinating Council voted unanimously Monday to reorganize an $11.3 million job training program for the poor. The council followed the recommendation of Gov. Cecil Andrus and the Department of Employment to divide the state into two, rather than six, service delivery areas. Council Chairman Mel Morgan said the changes address some of the problems cited by the federal government in a review of Idaho's participation in the federally funded Job Training Partnership Act. Under the reorganization, 10 southwestern counties will constitute one service area. The other 34 counties in the state will be the second. "The southwest region is along among the six regions with the minimum population of 200,000 required by the federal government for an autonomous service area. The Southwest Idaho Private Industry Council will retain its current authority over job training contracts in the 10 counties. "I think it's an excellent move because it maintains control of programs designed for regional problems at the local level," said Bob Taisey, chairman of the Southwest Idaho PIC. For the rest of the state, the five regional private industry councils will remain intact to develop job training plans, solicit proposals, select contractors and oversee training, according to a memorandum from Julie Kilgore, director of the Department of Employment. But an executive committee, made up of representatives from the five regional PICs and appointed by the governor, will have the two formal functions of choosing grant recipients and selecting an administrator. The reorganization follows a September 1986 review of Idaho's job training by the U.S. Department of Labor, which alleged the state mishandled funds.

Idahoan not impressed by Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, says he wasn't impressed by the performance of Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev in a televised interview Monday night. "I'm in favor of a genuine, sincere dialogue between Soviets and Americans, but there's a difference between fact and fiction," McClure said in a news release on Tuesday. "At points during the interview, Gorbachev was a better storyteller than historian or political scientist," he said. McClure said he didn't know whether to laugh or cry when Gorbachev said the Soviet Union always has been good friends with its neighbors in Afghanistan. "That's the way we try to build up relations with all our neighbors, the Idahoans quoted Gorbachev as saying. "Gorbachev's idea of a good-neighbor policy might be the Red Army storming into Hungary or Czechoslovakia, but I wonder if the beneficiaries of that Soviet 'good will' would agree?" McClure said. "Ask some of the Afghan freedom fighters who have come to Idaho for medical treatment," he said.

PUC grants new deadline

BOISE (AP)—The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has given Mountain Bell another 28 days to comply with its order to offer time-of-day service through directory assistance operators. It's the second extension of the original Nov. 13 deadline for compliance with the order so Mountain Bell can pursue a waiver from the Justice Department to allow the service. The PUC extended the deadline until Monday on Nov. 10 and said no further delays would be allowed. But Deputy Attorney General Marsha Smith, who represents the commission, said the additional extension was approved because it was clear Mountain Bell had no control over processing of its application for a waiver at the federal level. The new deadline is Dec. 28.

Contractors chosen for billion-dollar space station project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four companies with "clearly superior" proposals are winners in competition for billions of dollars in contracts to build a space station, the nation's next major step into space, NASA announced Tuesday.

The contracts include construction of four different portions of the orbiting platform, and officials said the work eventually may be valued at $6.5 billion and create 12,000 jobs across the country.

Contractors selected are Boeing Aerospace of Huntsville, Ala.; McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Co. of Huntington Beach, Calif.; and Houston; General Electric Co.,

Astro-Space Division, Valley Forge, Pa., and East Windsor, N.J.; and Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International, Canoga Park, Calif.

"The best minds in the nation went to work on this project and all of the proposals we received were outstanding," said James Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Competing proposals were submitted for two of the contracts but the winners, Fletcher said, were clearly superior.

The announcement brought cheers from Houston, where the economy has suffered from a depressed oil industry, and from Alabama, home of the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville.

About 680 jobs will be created in Houston, McDonnell Douglas officials said, and Houston mayor Kathy Whitmire and other city officials celebrated.

"Space will play a very important part in the future of this city and this nation," said Mrs. Whitmire.

Rep. Ronnie Plippo, D-Ala., said the Boeing contract will "have an economic impact throughout all of north Alabama."

Boeing officials said they expect to hire about 1,500 workers, and that subcontractors may hire another 2,000.

Supreme Court rejects moment-of-silence law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Tuesday refused to let New Jersey provide moments of silence for public school students but gave no hint whether similar laws in other states impermissibly promote school prayer.

The court ruled unanimously that the New Jersey legislature who sought to press the controversy in court no longer have the proper legal standing.

The ruling therefore said nothing about the constitutionality of a 1982 New Jersey law that said students may use the daily silent moments for quiet and private contemplation or introspection.

About half the states have similar laws.

A federal appeals court struck down the New Jersey law, ruling that it violated the constitutionally required separation of church and state.

The issue has been, and most likely will continue to be, politically charged. And it is likely that a case testing the validity of another state's moment-of-silence law will reach the high court.

"The constitutional issue is still a live question," said Steven F. McDowell of the Milwaukee-based Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights, which had urged the court to uphold the New Jersey law.

"I expect that some other state's law will be reviewed by the high court. With a new justice joining the court, I believe we will see that law being upheld," McDowell said. "I was concerned the current court might be evenly divided on the issue, which would have upheld the lower court's ruling."

In the moment-of-silence case, the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down the New Jersey law after ruling that legislators intended to promote organized prayer sessions.

The space station plans call for a permanently manned base in Earth orbit by the mid-1990s. The station would include four habitable modules, two to be provided by the United States and one each by Japan and the European Space Agency. Canada is to design and

Senate passes disadvantaged bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Tuesday passed a broad education bill that renews and expands programs affecting most of the nation's school children, including the major federal program for disadvantaged students.

The bill is "a document of which we can all be proud," said Senate education subcommittee chairman Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., after the measure had been approved 97-1.

The only dissenter was Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who said later he voted against the bill even though he realized his vote was "scarcely more than symbolic."

"I am convinced that the problems of education in America can be traced to the time that the federal government began to intrude in what previously had been purely a function of local government," Helms said.

"I am further convinced that the more our schools rely on so-called federal aid, the worse the problems will become."

The House passed a similar sweeping education measure last spring. Both chambers also have passed education spending bills containing enough money to pay for the programs authorized in the education improvement acts.

The Senate adopted the bill after accepting 98-0 a Helms amendment to outlaw dial-a-porn messages over interstate telephone lines.

Kennedy responds to questionnaire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Anthony M. Kennedy complained to the Senate Judiciary Committee on Tuesday about judges who become active policymakers and open the way to rulings reflecting personal biases.

But Kennedy, in written responses to a committee questionnaire, also said that while judges should exhibit "compassion, warmth, sensitivity" in their rulings.

The appellate judge from Sacramento, Calif., also said "real harm" can result from private clubs that discriminate.

Kennedy said he resigned in October from the Del Paso Country Club of Sacramento and the Olympic Club of San Francisco because they lacked significant numbers of women and blacks and he didn't want his membership to be an issue in Senate consideration of his nomination.

He said he has employed 35 law clerks while on the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, including five women but no blacks.

Kennedy, 51, is President Reagan's third nominee to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Lewis F. Powell last June. The first, Robert H. Bork, was defeated after a majority of senators said his views on constitutional protection were too ideologically narrow.

The second nominee, Douglas H. Ginsburg, withdrew from consideration after admitting he smoked marijuana in the 1960s and 1970s.

The committee's questionnaire gave Kennedy a chance to paint a self-portrait prior to the beginning of his confirmation hearings Dec. 14.

He told how, as a private attorney, he represented the poor at times but concentrated on representing corporate clients as their lawyer and lobbyist.

Soviets hold needed info

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Tuesday the Soviet Union had not handed over promised information about its missiles and "we must have that data."

In an interview, Shultz said he could not explain the holdup. "We don't quite see what is so difficult," he said. "We don't know why."

The details on the number and location of missiles to be outlawed in a new U.S.-Soviet treaty were promised to Shultz last week in Geneva during talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

The issue was one of the last Shultz resolved with Shevardnadze, clearing the way for the treaty to be signed next week at the White House.

Army blamed for Haitian terror

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) —

U.S. observers on Tuesday blamed the army for the terror campaign that thwarted elections, and some leading presidential candidates vowed to boycott any balloting supervised by the military-led junta.

Calls increased for multinational intervention to oversee national elections the government claims it will intend to hold before a Feb. 7 deadline.

Most Haitians distrust the government, which dissolved the autonomous Provisional Electoral Council Sunday after voter-targeted violence forced it to call off the nation's first free elections in 30 years.

Meanwhile, the streets of this impoverished capital of 1 million began to show signs of life Tuesday, although schools and some businesses stayed closed.

Leading presidential candidates and members of the dissolved electoral council remained in hiding.

As the bells opened Sunday, at least 34 people were killed and 75 wounded when gunmen and soldiers set fire to polling stations, confiscated ballots and attacked voters with guns and machetes.

Independent election observers said safe, fair elections cannot take place if they are administered by the military-dominated junta led by Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy and Haitians would never trust the results.

Election observer Robert E. White, a former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, told reporters Tuesday that the military was responsible for the election turmoil and said he favored multinational intervention.

"During the night, the military abandoned the streets to terrorists. During the day the military collaborated with the terrorists," he said. "There is no sense having elections if the same crowd — Namphy — is in charge. That would just make a mockery of democratic elections."

But I fear the Reagan administration would support that."

Mystery couple linked to plane crash takes suicide pills before questioning

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A mysterious Asian couple took suicide pills Tuesday just before being questioned about a South Korean jetliner that disappeared over Burma and may have been bombed.

Officials said the couple boarded Korean Air flight 888 at Baghdad, Iraq, where it was scheduled Sunday, and got off at Abu Dhabi before the Boeing 707 headed across Asia toward Seoul with 116 people aboard.

It vanished near the Burma-Thailand border, before a scheduled refueling stop in Bangkok. Officials in Seoul said there were strong suspicions a bomb destroyed the aircraft.

The man, who appeared to be middle aged, died four hours after biting into a suicide pill concealed in a cigarette, said Takao Natsume, Japan's acting ambassador in Bahrain. He said the woman, who was younger, was unconscious in critical condition at a military hospital but "she will survive."

They had been waiting to be questioned by immigration officials who stopped them from boarding a Rome-bound flight. The two were believed to be either Japanese or Korean and were traveling on forged Japanese passports, apparently as father and daughter.

"Just after swallowing the pills they both fell on the floor and their bodies went very stiff," Ambassador Natsume said.

Both collapsed "in seconds," but the woman apparently survived because she swallowed less of the poison hidden in the cigarette filters, he said. The type of poison was not known.

Other Japanese sources quoted an embassy official who was present as saying the two were less than fluent in Japanese.

In the passports they carried, the dead man was identified as Shinichi Hachiya, 69, and the woman as Mayumi Hachiya, 27, both from Okayama, Japan.

Natsume said the man's passport was believed at first to be authentic, but then Japanese authorities found the real Shinichi

Hachiya in Tokyo.

Kyodo News Service quoted Hachiya, an employee of a computer company, as saying the dead man might be a Korean resident of Japan named Miyamoto he met 15 years ago on a telephone construction project.

He said he did not see Miyamoto for several years until 1983, when the man called him to discuss working together abroad.

Hachiya said he gave Miyamoto personal documents necessary to obtain a passport, received it Sept. 2, 1983, and still had it. Kyodo said Miyamoto or someone else might have used Hachiya's papers to get a second passport.

In August 1984, the two men went to Bangkok to look for work with Miyamoto paying expenses. Hachiya told Kyodo. They returned to Tokyo Oct. 5, 1984, and Hachiya said he had not seen Miyamoto since.

Many Korean residents of Japan use Japanese names as well as their own.

Japanese and Bahrain officials said the couple flew from Baghdad to Abu Dhabi on Flight 888 and caught a Gulf Air plane to Bahrain, a Persian Gulf island state, while the South Korean plane left for Seoul.

South Korea's government broadcasting service said investigators were checking possible links between the mystery woman and Chosen Soren, an organization of Koreans living in Japan that supports communist North Korea.

call was received from the aircraft. He spoke on condition of anonymity.

Bahrain officials said there was no hint of trouble during the last routine radio contact with the crew.

That police searching for wreckage reported a large swath of leveled areas in mountains along the border. Airline chairman Cho Choong-hoon, accompanying seven Korean investigators, reported seeing a "gray spot" in the same area but would not speculate on what it was.

Security sources in Bahrain said investigators also were checking on possible ties between the couple and the Japanese Red Army terrorist group, but Natsume said he had no evidence of such a connection.

The Japanese Red Army has had links to various Middle East terrorist groups and to North Korea.

Some of its members sought refuge in North Korea several years ago. Foreign Ministry officials in Seoul said the man and woman were "known to have arrived in Iraq from Yugoslavia," but did not indicate when.

Black author, Baldwin dies of stomach cancer

ST. PAUL DE VENICE, France (AP) — Black author James Baldwin, who became an articulate and sometimes angry voice denouncing racism in the United States through his novels, plays and poetry, died in the hilltop town on the Mediterranean where he took refuge "from the madness of America."

Baldwin, 63, died of stomach cancer on Monday night, his publisher said.

His best known work included "Go Tell It on the Mountain," his first novel, published in 1953; "Notes of a Native Son," "Evidence of Things Not Seen," and most recently, "Harlem Quartet."

France was Baldwin's adopted country and he lived here for 40 years, the last 16 in St. Paul de Venice. For the man who once urged blacks to go out and kill whites, France was "a refuge away from the madness of America."

His life here, he once said, "was an ongoing love affair."

In Chicago, the Rev. Jesse Jackson called Baldwin "a great source of inspiration for that generation ... a prolific and sensitive writer ... a great advocate of personal and racial freedom."

Maya Angelou, author of "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings," said in a telephone interview, "I spoke to him the day after Thanksgiving ... We laughed together, reminded each other how much we loved each other."

"I think he will be remembered as one of the great writers of the 20th century ... I think that he will be remembered for his courage, an incredible courage, at once to see and then the courage to say what he saw."

Inspectors to be watched on base tours

LONDON (AP) — Soviet inspectors will be scrutinized right down to the cameras they carry when they arrive in Western Europe to conduct spot checks of U.S. nuclear missile bases under the proposed new superpower treaty.

No overpowering breaks or side trips to other bases will be allowed, and the Soviets will have a constant American escort, backed up by officials of whichever European country they happen to be visiting.

When Soviet inspectors arrive to visit one facility, said a British official commenting only on condition not to be named, "there'll be no question of, say, them wandering off to have a look at another one."

The treaty, to be signed at the summit in Washington Dec. 8-10, will eliminate intermediate-range nuclear missiles over three years.

Missiles and warheads will be taken back to the Soviet Union or the United States where they will be broken into pieces — the size is stipulated in the treaty — or launched in such a way as to burn up in the air.

The fine print spells out what cameras and other equipment inspectors may bring.

Hearing set for cocaine ring

POCATELLO (AP) — Preliminary hearings have been scheduled early next week for a Pocatello couple and a Salt Lake City man charged in what authorities called the break-up of a major drug distribution source in eastern Idaho. Charged in connection with the seizure of 2 1/2 pounds of cocaine worth $100,000 and an ounce of marijuana were Blaine Nalder, 38, and his wife Tina, 30, and Jim Rogers, 39, of Salt Lake. The state Bureau of Narcotics made the arrests after an anonymous tip led agents to a home on Pocatello's northwest side on Sunday. "I feel we've dried up a pretty good source," Lt. Ed Gygi of the Narcotics Bureau said. A Dec. 7 hearing was set for the Nalders, and Rogers' hearing will be a day later. Bond was set at $10,000 for Rogers, $7,500 for Blaine Nalder and $2,500 for his wife.

County sues former agent

NEZPERCE (AP) — Lewis County has sued a former county extension agent for allegedly submitting duplicate expense claims and receiving double reimbursement. The recent 2nd District Court suit alleges that, from August 1984 to September 1986, Floyd Gephart judged various county fairs and was being paid by those counties, while also being reimbursed for expense vouchers submitted to Lewis County. Gephart reimbursed Lewis County $829,48, which includes interest, the suit says. But the county is now asking for punitive damages and legal costs amounting to $3,630,32. Lewis County Prosecutor Michael P. Wasko filed the civil suit after an investigation by the sheriff's department. He said Monday that no criminal charges will be sought. Gephart resigned from Lewis County in August and now is the extension agent for Benewah County. Reached by telephone late Monday, Gephart said he "knows nothing about the civil complaint and declined further comment. He has 20 days to reply to the court action."

Malpractice suit dropped

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — An Idaho Falls woman's malpractice lawsuit against a local physician over her husband's 1984 death has been dismissed because of her failure to pursue the case. Carol D. Cranney filed suit in 7th District Court in March, seeking $500,000 from Dr. Boyd L. Hammond. According to court documents, Mrs. Cranney's attorney withdrew from the case and the widow signed papers indicating she understood she must retain another attorney or pursue the case on her own. When Mrs. Cranney failed to appear at a subsequent hearing, Judge Larry Boyle granted a request to dismiss the complaint. The suit said Kirk Cranney died in June 1984 of complications to injuries suffered in a traffic accident in November 1983. Mrs. Cranney alleged that her husband suffered a fatal abdominal infection resulting from a tear in the diaphragm caused when Hammond incorrectly inserted a chest drainage tube.

Grandson enters guilty plea

CALDWELL (AP) — A teenager, who said he was a victim of abuse as a child, pleaded guilty today to second-degree murder in the April slayings of his grandparents at their home near Caldwell. Carl Stiffler, 19, entered the guilty plea before 3rd District Judge Edward Lodge as part of a plea bargain that ended weeks of court maneuvering. Lodge set Jan. 4 for sentencing. Stiffler faces a maximum sentence of life in prison on each count of murder for the deaths of Bill Bruggreaves, 65, and his wife Jean, 57. Stiffler, who had been living with the couple for about three weeks before the slayings, had originally been charged with first-degree murder, a crime that carries the possibility of the death penalty. He was arrested at a Nampa bar just hours after authorities found the Bruggreaves in their blood-splattered home.

State's conflict of interest laws fuzzy

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's laws on conflict of interest by public officials are "a hodge podge" full of loopholes and lacking teeth, Attorney General Jim Jones says. Jones said Tuesday he plans to ask the next Legislature to update the laws, which are not very effective, and adopt some sort of rule or regulation covering the Legislature itself. He said in recent years, his staff has looked into many instances where public officials contracted with the governmental entity on which they have served. It can be a serious felony for a state employee to profit from transactions with the state. In other instances, such as cemetery districts and other special-purpose government units, it might not even be a crime, he said. "There needs to be some order and uniformity so that people at all levels of government know what is permitted and what is prohibited," Jones said. He said his staff is preparing legislation making it a criminal offense for any governmental officer to personally benefit by virtue of his or her position. "The measure will apply to people in state and local governments so that there is only one standard that people have to know and comply with," he said. "Presently, there are any number of standards in effect, with different ones applying to different levels of government and different types of governmental entities." The attorney general said he also will recommend that the rules apply to the Legislature. The Legislature should adopt rules banning members from voting "as matters where they have a direct personal or pecuniary (financial) interest," Jones said. "The intent is to show that all governmental officials are covered by the conflict provisions," he said. "The legislation would allow a public official to enter into a contract with a public agency he serves; if strict guidelines are followed, that would allow agencies in small towns to benefit from dealing with an official, which is barred under current law," Jones said.

Workers nervous over Potlatch opening delay

LEWISTON (AP) — With reopening delayed at the revamped Potlatch Corp. sawmill in Lewiston, laid-off workers are facing a bleak holiday season. "They expected to be back at work (by now)," said Connie Youngman, director of the Valley Food Bank in Lewiston. "They are real worried and a lot are pretty upset. ... They don't know when or if they are going back to work and the scariest thing is that their benefits are exhausted." About 350 full-time employees were laid off when modernization of the Potlatch sawmill began in April. Some workers have been hired periodically for construction and other jobs at the plant and others have found temporary work with area farmers or local businesses, said Donna Callahan, assistant manager of the Job Service office in Lewiston. But Edward Johnson, director of International Woodworkers of America Local 3-364, said the number of Potlatch employees who have exhausted their unemployment benefits grows each week. Ms. Callahan said about 50 have used up their benefits so far. Potlatch has been supplementing state benefits and has paid employees for attending training classes that began last summer. But mill workers still have no word on when they can expect to return to work. Potlatch has not released a definite reopening date for the automated sawmill.

Failed beam linked to plant roof collapse

CALDWELL (AP) — An 80-foot-long wooden beam gave way and others followed like dominoes during last week's roof cave-in at the J. R. Simplot Co. potato-processing plant in Caldwell, a Simplot spokesman says. Fred Zerza said Simplot engineers reviewing the wreckage at the Food Division plant know the beams failed, but do not know why. "Apparently the second (beam) from the east end of the building failed," Zerza said Monday. "Either the beam itself broke or it became dislodged from its connection point to the wall." No one was injured in Wednesday's cave-in. The plant was closed for Thanksgiving and the 12 employees on duty at the time were at lunch. But 200 workers in the hash brown production line will be out of work until at least Jan. 18, when the building is expected to be reconstructed, Zerza said. Most of the 1,100 hourly employees who work on a french fry production line in an adjacent building also will be on unpaid leave about 1 1/2 weeks earlier than expected.

Court rejects insanity plea defense

BLAINE (AP) — Accused multiple murderer Paul Ezra Rhoades has lost his insanity defense against the first-degree murder charges he faces. Seventh District Judge James Herndon said "Public Defender David Parmenter had not offered a defense of insanity for Rhoades so there was nothing for the court to act on." Herndon's denial of the request to reinstate the insanity defense for the Feb. 29 trial in the death of Blackfoot convenience store clerk Stacy Baldwin came a week after the Idaho Supreme Court refused to consider the issue in connection with the two murder trials. The insanity defense is unconstitutional, said they needed to know if it was an option. The state Legislature banned insanity as a defense in 1981 just after the attempted assassination of President Reagan. "But after a day-long hearing on Monday, Herndon took evidence and advised other defense requests for a change of venue in the Baldwin case, additional legal help and suppression of statements made by Rhoades shortly after his arrest last March in Nevada. "In addition to the Baldwin slaying in Blaine County last February, Rhoades, 30, is charged in Bonneville County with the March murders of school teacher Susan Michelbacher and convenience store clerk Nolan Haddon. Judge Larry Boyle has already denied a change of venue for the Michelbacher trial, agreeing only to select the jury from Ada County on the other side of the state and then transport jurors to Idaho Falls for the trial. Herndon said his decision on moving the Baldwin trial will be based on an examination of newspaper and TV reports on the cases. Parmenter wanted the Baldwin case should be heard because publicity about the murders has been so pervasive that Rhoades cannot be guaranteed a fair trial in Blaine County. "His name has become almost a household word," Parmenter said. Prosecutor Thomas Moss said he would not seriously challenge the attempt to move the Baldwin trial out of eastern Idaho since it will follow the two Bonneville County trials and the extensive publicity they will generate. "But he proposed that Herndon follow the Boyle's lead and order jury selection from the southeastern corner of the state and then bring the jurors to Blackfoot for the trial." "If Mr. Rhoades were not indigent he would very well be satisfied with one lawyer that he had hired," Moss said. "I don't think it's fair to the taxpayers that he get special treatment just because he's indigent."

CSI Eagles rank 4th in NJCAA poll

By LARRY HOVEY Times-Herald writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team has emerged in fourth place in the first national poll released by the National Junior College Athletic Association Tuesday.

Midland returns three players from last year's team as does CSI. CSI currently holds a 5-1 record, having lost to lightly-regarded Fresno City College of Fresno, Calif., in the Ventura, Calif., Kiwanis Invitational last week.

It's about where we expected to be and probably about where we should be, said Coach Fred Trenkle when informed of the No. 4 position. I know those other three teams have excellent people returning and had good recruiting years.

two very big road wins for us. I think our guys started getting the idea of what they have to be every time they got out on the floor because everyone is taking a bead on us, Trenkle said.

On that matter of team chemistry, we don't have that yet but there's been improvement. Ken Jarvis improved his worth a lot in California, Dave Henderson showed us a lot. Tank Collins did, too, once he got past the first minutes of that second game, he said.

Part of that understanding becomes critical this weekend when the Eagles kickoff their Region 18 title chase against perennial contenders Snow and Dixie colleges from Utah.

Some results from the Valley of the Sun junior college invitational in Phoenix, Ariz., last weekend have shed a little light on the young season.

One thing that tournament did was perhaps make Phoenix the team very likely to show up in the bi-regional game, slated for Arizona next March on the final step before nationals. Phoenix defeated Snow 90-77 and Eastern Utah 81-77 before claiming the title with an 86-84 decision over Dixie.

The women will join to make doubleheaders of both evenings with the women's games slated to start at 6:15 p.m.

Suspense is over for NFL playoffs

By DAVE GOLDBERG The Associated Press

There are four weeks left in the NFL season, but the suspense about who will be in the playoffs is just about over. That is assuming, of course, that someone actually wins the AFC East.

Or, as Chicago coach Mike Ditka said Sunday after his Bears beat Green Bay 23-10: We're jockeying for position. We're not where we want to be, but we're getting close.

The Bears, 9-2 and two games ahead of the Minnesota Vikings in the NFC Central, will be one of the playoff teams.

The other NFC representatives will almost certainly be the Washington Redskins, San Francisco 49ers, the Vikings and the New Orleans Saints. A 20-16 victory at Pittsburgh on Sunday guaranteed the Saints the first winning season in their 31-year history.

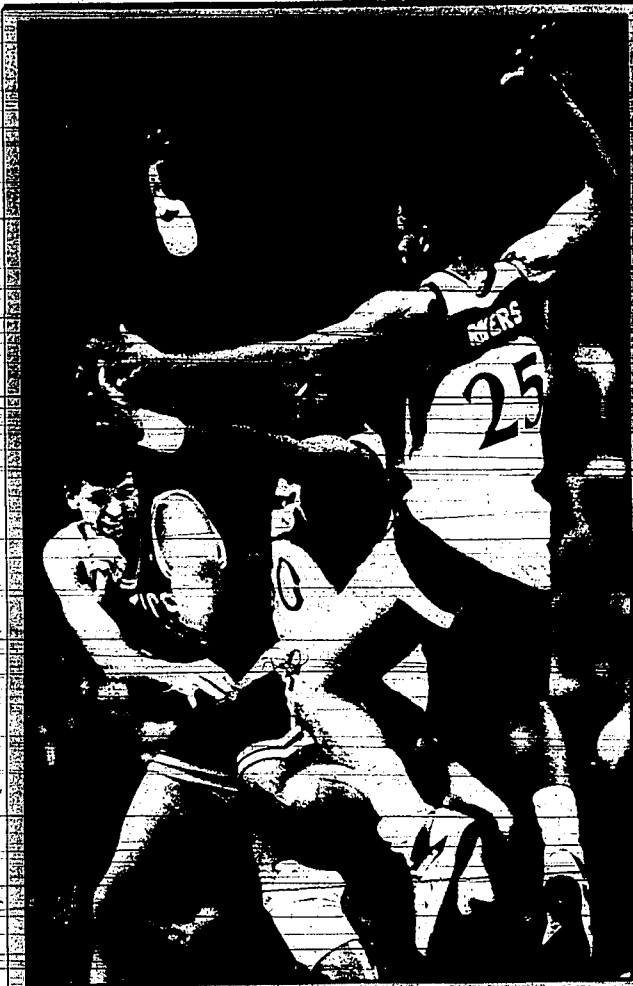

ated but three of the playoff teams — the Seattle Seahawks, San Diego Chargers and Denver Broncos — are likely to come from the West.

Seattle lost its chance to move into a first-place tie with San Diego at 8-3 by losing 31-14 to the Los Angeles Raiders, Denver 7-3-1, is a half-game behind following its 31-17 victory over the Chargers on Sunday. Denver has three of its remaining four games at home, with its only road game a Dec. 13 showdown at Seattle that could decide the division title.

We have a long way to go, but I like our chances, Coach Dan Reeves said after the Broncos' third straight victory got them out of what could have been a deep hole in the division.

Cleveland, 4-4, should win the AFC Central despite its 38-24 loss at San Francisco Sunday night, since Houston and Pittsburgh, both a game behind, have the manpower.

Friesz joins the Big Sky elite

The Associated Press

BOISE — University of Idaho quarterback John Friesz, Boise State running back Chris Jackson, and BSU wide receiver Eric Andrade were chosen to the all Big Sky Conference offensive team, released Tuesday by the league office.

University of Nevada-Reno runningback Charvez Foger and senior placekicker Marty Zendejas joined elite company Tuesday as they were named to the All-Big Sky Conference first team for the third time in their collegiate careers.

Only 16 other players have won spots on three all-conference first-teams in the 25-year history of the league, and Foger, who is just a junior, could become the first player to ever make the all-conference first team four times.

The all-conference selections were made by the league's football coaches who could not vote for their own players.

In addition to Foger and Zendejas, Boise State senior guard Tom Dewitz and Montana senior tackle Larry Clarkson claimed spots on the first team for the second straight year.

Dewitz, a major reason why Boise State led the Big Sky in total offense with over 450 yards a game, was a unanimous first-team selection as were junior tight end Shawn Collins of Northern Arizona and senior running back Jackson, another element of the potent Boise

Bruins take on Burley and Minico

Coach's look at the team shakedown a bit hazy

By LARRY HOVEY Times-Herald writer

about 50-50 in lettersman and newcomers. On both instances, the festivities will begin with sophomore battles at 8:15 p.m. with the varsity games — Region III in late November.

I'm not sure about anything, but I'm sure that Wade is a good player and (Coach) Ed Jones is a good coach, said Atorvulis of the opportunity.

We know from last year that Owen should be about 8-5, said Atorvulis of the 6-foot-11-inch center on the team. I know that Owen should be a 16-18 and probably the latter.

Burley was not a big team last year and it stuck pretty close to a five-man passing game and liked to mix up and down the court. The last season's three-point shooter last year and that it really will be one are expecting they will try some perimeter offense this year, too. If they are quick, we expect they will press. If they are smaller than last year, you would expect they would fall back into some type of zone.

But when the Bruins came into the conversation, Atorvulis said he was not sure about the team's name and information he was back to back to back seasons. That's because guys like Wade Bagley have been starting for the last three years and Robert

Playoff not on books for '88

The Washington Post

The agenda for the 1988 NCAA convention has been announced and there is no proposal to authorize a Division I-A national championship football game. In fact, a resolution sponsored by the NCAA Council asks members to affirm that they do not desire to initiate, at this time or in the near future, such a plan.

The resolution cites three reasons: interference with academic interests of the players, increase in pressure on players and coaches and lack of convincing evidence that such a championship would contribute significantly to the college and welfare of football in Division I-A or of intercollegiate athletics in general.

The council and the NCAA Presidents Commission opposed a one-game playoff as proposed by a postseason-football subcommittee headed by Texas Athletic Director DeLoes Dodds. The proposal was seen as a major item symbolic of the clash in college sports between those who want reforms and those who wish little change.

In other developments Tuesday, the NCAA has proposed to limit its drug tests slightly for Stanford's football and basketball teams, but attorneys for the university and students fighting the tests said the new plan fails to meet court guidelines.

The NCAA, which was barred from testing Stanford athletes in 28 sports and ordered to present a plan for limited testing in football and basketball, offered to stop testing only for "related compounds" for more than 3,000 banned drugs.

In New Orleans lawyers for the NCAA and the Southwest Conference argued that records of investigations of recruiting violations should remain secret, because the organizations receive no legislative appropriations, and neither is an arm of Texas state government.

The lawyers asked the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to overturn a federal district court ruling in Texas that both the SWC and the NCAA are subject to the state's disclosure laws.

The case originated as a suit filed by The Dallas Morning News, Belo Broadcasting and the Dallas Times Herald in 1986. The news organizations asked a federal court to make the NCAA and the Southwest Conference abide by the Texas Open Records Act and surrender documents concerning five years of its investigations of Southern Methodist University.

Both sides were questioned stiffly by the three-judge appeals court panel. Bob Middleton of Dallas, representing the Southwest Conference, said that another issue in the case is whether the Texas public records act can be made to apply outside of the state.

The issue in the case is whether the sovereign state of Texas intends to make the sovereign state of Arkansas subject to its power, Middleton said.

Are you sort of saying that if it weren't for Arkansas being in the Southwest Conference, you'd have no case? asked Judge Jerry S. Williams.

No, your honor, Middleton responded.

I think the issue here is whether the Southwest Conference is supported by public funds, commented Judge Homer Thornberry.

Middleton argued that the involvement of public funds is, indeed, a major issue. He defined public funds narrowly, however, saying there is no legislative appropriation for funding the conference or the NCAA.

Judge Henry A. Politz reminded him that money derived from public

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Center Jim Useitch scored 26 points and Brigham Young fouls back a Utah State rally to win 95-92 in college basketball here Tuesday night.

The victory gave BYU Coach LaDell Anderson his third straight win against the Aggies and lifted the Cougars to 2-0. Anderson is a former USU player and coach.

USU's Jeff Anderson scored a jump at the final buzzer. Useitch helped BYU open the second shot of a two-shot foul. But BYU ran out the clock and boosted the lead on free throws by Nathan Call and Andy Toolson.

Freshman leads Hoosiers over Irish Kickoff

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - Freshman Eddie J. Eppertator on the bench for the game's first 30 minutes, made the most of his opportunity when Indiana Coach Bob Knight sent him into action.

Edwards entered the game with 9:49 to play, excited the capacity crowd of 17,165, by scoring seven consecutive Indiana points, and had 12 of his team's final 16 as the No. 5 Hoosiers defeated Notre Dame 76-59 in college basketball Tuesday night.

When the going gets tough

Remind yourself to take a break

For too many years I ran December as a race. Each day was another lap or leg to victory. And what was the prize for this victory? A perfect Christmas! Bah, Humbug. There isn't such a thing. A perfect Christmas?

What is it? An absolutely sparkling house with magnificent trees and "just right" gifts piled in matching wrap underneath? A table so overflowing with goodies that diets are ruined for months?

No, a perfect Christmas is the magic journey to a special day. A journey to be enjoyed each step of the way. And those steps include a lot of "un-fun" like standing in lines, sore feet, stretching dollars and even pennies, cold, tired, cross children and adults. Those are balanced by making each negative a positive.

Now before you think I'm just a Pollyanna and should go on to the recipes, sit down with your "to-do" notebook and write a few reminders to yourself.

Remind yourself to give yourself a break. A break for a hot cup of tea or chocolate can balance out that endless shopping, but don't wait until you're ready to drop.

A hot bubble bath each day can be your own mini-retreat. Listen, really listen to the carols while you're standing in line. Look for the free or almost-free things to enjoy and do one each day.

Take a child that wouldn't get to go to the Festival of the Trees and look at each tree. Though the eyes of a child you'll see things out tired grown-up eyes miss.

Drive through your hometown and enjoy the lights and decorations (if you walk your neighborhood after dinner, it's even better). Call your schools or churches and find out when the programs are scheduled. Maybe it's been years since you went to a junior high band concert or a fourth grade play, but go and listen with the ears of love. Besides they always need more spectators.

Ah, gifts. Giving to others is fun if we remember to keep the perspective. A gift can be a prepared dinner for someone you know with an especially tasty twist. It can be a few minutes time and chat with someone in a nursing home (with maybe a few cookies); it can be a backpack for a stressed-out teenager with more tests and papers than they think they can handle. It can be taking someone shopping one evening that has a hard time getting around. Write out your favorite recipes for your friends. Let others do their parts of the holidays. A child may not decorate the tree or table the way you would like it, but tell me where in the great scheme of things does it really matter? If you have helpers, have them bake the cookies you decorate, otherwise do the part-style ones.

Remember a loaf of nutty, crunchy, whole-grain bread is as great a gift as sweets. A bag of frozen homemade pasta goes good. And your pantry of all those things you canned last summer. Lots of people don't can and would love to have some of your goodies. Here are some gift ideas that don't take a lot of time or money but somehow really hit the spot.

SPICY HOME SCENT
 Whole allspice
 Whole cloves
 Cinnamon sticks
 Pieces of dried orange peel

Combine these in about equal proportions. Put them in a decorative tin for a gift with the instructions to place the ingredients in a small pan of water on your stove and simmer. More water can be added and the mixture reused several times.

CIDER MULLING SPICES
 12 whole cloves
 12 whole allspice
 6 inches of cinnamon sticks

Tie all in cheese cloth bag and package in plastic or cellophane bag. Now tie these with a holiday ribbon or piece of burlap or mistletoe to a half gallon of apple cider.

HOT CHOCOLATE MIX
 1 cup dry non-dairy creamer
 1 cup hot cocoa mix
 1/2 cup sugar

Mix all ingredients and package with a spoon in an air-tight container. This is great for students as all they have to do is add hot water. To make this a Spicy Mocha Mix add: 1/2 cup instant coffee powder, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg.

Another recipe I like to use is:
 3 cups powdered milk (non-fat)
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup cocoa
 dash of salt

Sift the milk, sugar, cocoa and salt together. Use 4 tablespoons per each cup of boiling water. (This has less fat than the above recipe).

Remember this old favorite that was a fad for a couple of seasons? It's still great.

HOT SPICED TEA (RUSSIAN TEA) INSTANT
 2 cups Tang
 2 1/2 cups sugar (or try a non-caloric sweetener)

1/2 cup instant tea
 1 package dry-lemonade mix
 2 teaspoons cinnamon
 1 teaspoon ground cloves

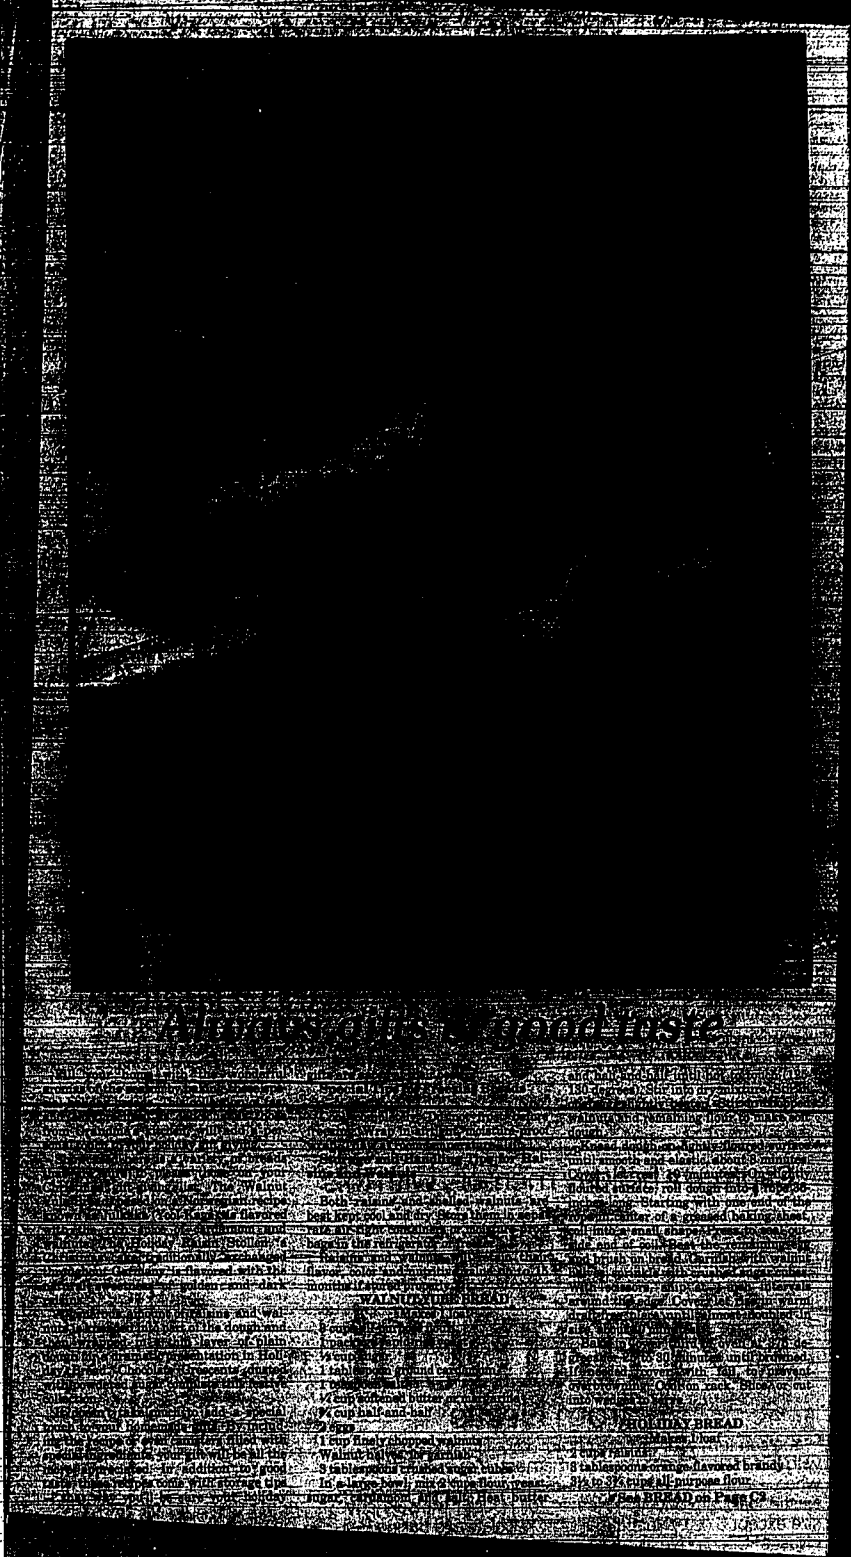

Mix all ingredients and package in jars or tins. Use 2 teaspoons per cup of boiling water.

If you are mailing food, remember to make the kinds that hold together well. These include fruit breads (like banana) and fruitcakes.

Try bar cookies and drop ones over the more delicate cutouts. Make sure the candies you mail are the heftier ones like fudge. Popcorn makes a good packaging medium for foods. I would line the box with plastic then partially fill with popped corn, place the foil or plastic wrapped cake or whatever and then fill rest of package with more popped corn.

Remember, save a bit of each day for yourself. You can't give to others unless you've kept a bit of yourself sane and calm. Enjoy!

Tips to disguise holiday remnants

By BETSY BALSLEY
 The Los Angeles Times

The day that followed turkey day was an easy one. Few were unwilling to repeat the Thanksgiving meal in its entirety at least once, even if smaller portions are in order. It is after the second ground that the Thanksgiving menu begins to lose its appeal. That is when artful disguises for the faithful bird are in order.

Not to worry... here are some out-of-the-ordinary suggestions that will conceal quite well the fact that Thanksgiving is being recycled for the third or fourth time.

TURKEY NAPOLÉONS
 1 (1-pound) package frozen puff paste sheets
 Waterpress Mayonnaise

8 to 12 slices cooked turkey breast
 8 slices tomato
 8 slices cooked bacon
 1 avocado, peeled, seeded and cut into 8 slices
 Waterpress sprigs
 Unroll puff paste sheets. Cut each sheet into quarters. Bake according to package directions or until puffed and golden. Remove to wire rack to cool.

To prepare Napoléons, lightly spread 4 puff paste quarters with Waterpress Mayonnaise. Top each with 2 of 8 slices turkey, 2 slices tomato, 2 slices bacon, 2 slices avocado and several sprigs watercress. Spread small amount Waterpress Mayonnaise on bottom of 4 remaining puff paste quarters and place them, mayonnaise side down, on top of Napoléons.

Around the world in an alphabet

By JOAN BEAN
 Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS - For almost a year now, five area couples have been experiencing the cuisine and culture of distant lands - but their collective globe hopping has been confined to the dinner table.

Using the alphabet as a means of transportation, they have tried American, Brazilian, Canadian, Danish, English and French cooking.

The folks who make up this international dinner club are: Dan and Barb Hurlbutt, Bob and Joan Thomas, Dr. John Shuss and his wife Linda, Bill and Kara Kral and Tom and Donna Kolouch.

Each takes a turn choosing a country, hosting a dinner and providing the entrée. The rest of the meal is prepared by the other four.

Making an effort to "do as the Romans do" so to speak, they abide by the customs of the country from which a particular dinner originates.

"We try to find out if they serve their salad first, and the order of how they eat. We usually keep the coffee and an after dinner book around. We try to make it educational in other ways besides the food," Barb Hurlbutt says.

For her Danish dinner, Joan Thomas says she put trivia cards on the plates. The cards included little facts about Denmark: the population, what their favorite meat is, their biggest agricultural product, etc.

Linda Shuss had the Canadian dinner at her home. She says she thinks the dinner group gives her a chance to be a little more adventurous than she perhaps might be on her own.

"We do a fair amount of research, actually, to put the meals together, so you do get to learn a little bit about different countries. What we've mostly done is go to the library and research what they have in their cookbooks. And most people will try to have an atlas and some other books about the country," she says.

Shuss says the host and hostess do not give a formal report on the country's dinner represents; but throughout the evening, they talk a little about the various facts picked up while researching the project.

Kara Kral gained firsthand knowledge for her Brazilian dinner a decade ago, during a visit to the country. Using a cookbook she purchased at the time, she prepared a black bean stew, which is a traditional Brazilian meal.

With the English dinner, they began what promises to be a tradition for the club - it was cooked by the men. It was a great success, so now one out of every five times, the husbands will be the chefs.

Recalling the English meal, Hurlbutt says, "It was wonderful. And they waited on us hand and foot. That was a rare treat."

For the letter "G," Donna Kolouch says she and Tom were considering German food for the dinner to be held in their home in "G." But instead of a suggestion, Tom came up with another suggestion: He said, "Why don't we make it 'GUESS' and then hand out recipes to everybody, and then when they come to dinner, have them guess where all the..."

Caring for Christmas trees

Living trees can be purchased for Christmas at some nurseries. However, it is not very practical to plant them outside in our climate during the winter because the soil is frozen. They can be stored in an unheated garage until spring if handled properly. They must be gradually acclimated to the indoors by moving to a garage or porch first. They should not be kept indoors for more than a week or 10 days. Bringing them inside breaks the dormancy and makes them subject to winter kill if placed outside again. The roots must be protected against temperatures much below 20 degrees. Roots must be watered periodically.

Live cut Christmas trees should be as fresh as possible for longest useful life. The freshest trees are those which you cut yourself from a Christmas tree farm or national forest. Check with the nearest national forest office or County Agricultural Agent to see if either is available in your area.

If you purchase a tree from a lot, give it a sharp bounce on the base to see if the needles are firmly attached. You can feel the needles to see if they are dry, brittle and easily dislodged.

Trees can be sprayed with or dipped in a preservative such as "Wet-Fruit" to reduce drying of the needles. Some nurseries offer this as a regular service. You can also buy the material and spray it on yourself.

Allen Wilson
Intermountain gardening

Turn the tree off the bottom of the tree and place the cut end into water immediately. Use a stand which includes a reservoir for water. The reservoir should be checked daily and water added as it is used. Place the tree away from heat sources such as a stove, heat outlet or TV set.

Lights produce a lot of heat and can quickly dry out the needles. Turn lights off during the day and when no one is around. Lights should never be left on while you are away from home. A short could cause a fire. A good general rule would be to limit the use of lights to two or three hours a day. If needles become very dry and start falling off in large quantities, lighting should be discontinued completely.

Try rotating bottled water

By The Los Angeles Times

Q: How long is it safe to keep bottled water?

A: Sandy Oliver of Arrowhead Drinking Water in Los Angeles says that the one-gallon plastic bottles of water should be rotated every six months. This is a safety precaution because the containers are biodegradable and can develop stress cracks if not stored under optimum conditions. The water inside is good indefinitely.

Q: Some time ago I clipped a recipe on making pineapple guava chutney. I love the recipe super and easy, but I can't recall whether I peeled the guavas or not. Can you enlighten me?

A: "Sunset Fresh Produce - A to Z" (Lane Publishing, 1987, $6.95) states: "The thick, waxy skin is too tart to eat fresh, but it can be used in pickles or preserves."

So to answer your question, the pineapple guavas used for the chutney may be used either peeled or unpeeled.

In response to a recent You Asked About column on epazote, M. Trotter writes: "We have fresh epazote merrily growing in our large herb garden outdoors."

Onion-Wurst Pate is ideal for holiday entertaining

Spice the appetizers with onion

Add excitement to holiday entertaining with these taste-tempting snacks and appetizers featuring the zippy flavor of onions.

Onion-Wurst Pate is a convenient snack to have on hand when guests drop by. It's a simple combination of liverwurst, cream cheese and chopped sweet onions. Serve it with crackers or squares of bread.

A platter of tiny Confetti Onion Tarts will disappear quickly at an open house or cocktail party. Combine remaining cream cheese with milk. Spread over pate. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Garnish with onion ring, dipped in paprika. Serve with a choice of crackers or melba toast. Makes about 2 1/2 cups pate.

1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon milk
Chopped parsley
Onion rings, for garnish
paprika

Combine onion, half of the cream cheese, liverwurst, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Blend well. Place in plastic-lined bowl, and chill until firm. To serve, unmond on serving plate. Combine remaining cream cheese with milk. Spread over pate. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Garnish with onion ring, dipped in paprika. Serve with a choice of crackers or melba toast. Makes about 2 1/2 cups pate.

Combine onions with remaining ingredients. Spread in buttered 9x13-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes, or until golden. Let stand 5 minutes before cutting into sticks... Makes about 4 dozen appetizers.

CONFETTI ONION TARTS
3 slices bacon, diced
1 cup chopped sweet onion
1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon minced parsley
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt

ONION SAUSAGE STICKS
1 1/2 cups finely chopped sweet onions
1/2 cup buttermilk baking mix
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 pound bulk pork sausage, fried and drained
1/2 cup sausage drippings or vegetable oil
4 eggs, beaten
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Savory Onion Sausage Sticks can be baked at a moment's notice. Sauté the pork sausage and chopped onions early in the day, then just before serving, mix and bake.

ONION-WURST PATE
1 cup finely chopped sweet onion
1 package (8-ounces) cream cheese, softened
1/2 pound liverwurst
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Chain-smokers choke his holiday fun

Valley life

DEAR ABBY: I expect the Christmas holidays will be a lonely time in my own choice. Although I would thoroughly enjoy the companionship and festivities, I shall decline invitations for one reason: Chain-smokers make the air lethal.

Last year I spent the day after Christmas taking costly tests to determine that my chest pain, irregular heartbeat and inability to breathe were not a heart attack, but severe acute bronchitis, induced by several hours in a smoke-filled room. I never told my hostess this; she's a chain-smoker.

Abby, I will be a hermit forever rather than risk that again. The pain is unbelievable.

To ask people to refrain from smoking in their own homes is unthinkable. They would defend their right to smoke, and my right to stay home!

If I ask people not to smoke in my home, they won't accept my invitations.

Since families consist of both smokers and non-smokers, this is a socially divisive issue. Tell me, Abby, how do you and your readers handle it?

— STILL BREATHING

DEAR STILL: Here's how I handle it: There are no ashtrays, cigarettes, matches or lighters visible in our home.

When smokers ask if we "mind" if they smoke, we escort them out on the patio where they will find the customary patio furniture, and as many as six birdbaths.

And, when I am guest in the home of people who permit smoking, I keep my mouth shut.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

and avoid smokers as much as possible.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been laid off for nearly a year, and we are having a really rough time of it.

Is there a tactful way to stop exchanging Christmas gifts? We can't afford to send any gifts this year, and we don't want anyone to send us anything. So how can we get the word out?

— SHORT IN FORT WORTH

DEAR SHORT: I've made this suggestion in previous years: Come early December, write a note to those on your Christmas gift list saying: "We are thankful for folks with whom we can be honest. We're not in a position to send Christmas gifts this year (nor do we expect any), but please accept our love, and sincere good wishes for a happy, healthy, blessed holiday."

DEAR ABBY: I have a 13-year-old son who is in the eighth grade. Yesterday he talked in study hall, so as a punishment, he had to stand at the chalkboard with a small piece of chalk between his nose and the chalkboard for a half-hour for three days in a row.

The person who imposed this punishment on him was not a regular teacher, she just watches the kids during study hall period.

What I want to know is this: Would that be considered some kind of child abuse? If so, how can I stop this from happening again? I am very upset about this and need to know.

— VIOLET

DEAR VIOLET: It doesn't matter what you call it; humiliating a student in the manner you described is inappropriate punishment for any kind of misconduct. Report her to the school principal.

"Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, 'How to Write Letters for All Occasions.' Send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (30 cents); self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054."

Buhl High School band presents Christmas concert

BUHL — Buhl High School's annual band show will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Popplewell School.

The "Concierto Fiesta" with a Spanish and Christmas flavor, is the third annual product of Buhl's "Band of Indiana" and their "Trio Ensemble," says Wyzny Skrean, director. Four of the band's small ensembles also will perform.

Larry Christensen's Bavarian German band, a 10-piece adult group who has played in five neighboring states, will play briefly during the concert. They also will play "happy time" numbers during a free refreshment time following the concert.

Tickets are $2 or $5 per family and are available from all band students, at Sav. Mor. Drug in Buhl or at the door.

Your life and work experience could count as ISU credits

TWIN FALLS — Idaho State University will present an Experimental Learning Assessment seminar for Twin Falls area residents Thursday, announced Rosemary Myers, director of ISU's Office of Individualized Education Programs. ISU's Experimental Learning Assessment (ELA) program is designed to provide possible credit toward an ISU degree based upon learning gained in life and work experiences.

The purpose of the seminar is to explain to Twin Falls area residents how this program might allow them to gain credit for an ISU degree through learning they gained in their life and work experiences," said Myers.

The free seminar will be held at 6 p.m. in the ISU Resident Center, 140 2nd Street East in Twin Falls. Myers will conduct the seminar and explain the details of ISU's ELA program.

Interested persons who want to attend can make a reservation by calling Marge Slotten, ISU's Resident Center Coordinator in Twin Falls, at 734-4478.

Smithsonian accepts Sun-Maid bonnet

KINGSBURG, Calif. (AP) — Its bright red cloth faded from the passing years, the original bonnet used to advertise Sun-Maid raisins will be donated to the Smithsonian Institution.

The bonnet will be presented to the Smithsonian in January for permanent display, Pete Penner, Sun-Maid board chairman, announced Tuesday. The raisin cooperative, based in Kingsburg, is donating the bonnet as part of its 75th anniversary commemoration.

It first was worn in 1915 by Gollit Petersin holding a tray of grapes with an illustration of the sun shining brightly in the background. That picture still is Sun-Maid's main symbol.

Economic weather vane stays strong

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Tuesday its main economic forecasting gauge edged down 0.2 percent in October, the first setback in nine months.

clines in the leading index has often, but not always, signaled an impending recession.

Allan Sinai, chief economist for Shearson-Lehman Brothers of New York, said that expected growth, as measured by the gross national product, would dip to a sluggish 2 percent annual rate next year.

The leading index and the logic of the stock market crash do point to a significant slowdown next year, but I think we will be able to avoid a recession, if nothing worse happens, he said.

average, which had fallen more than 70 points on Monday in a self-inflicted reminder of the October crash, partly recovered on Tuesday.

Besides the stock plunge, the other negative factors were a drop in orders for consumer goods and a decline in building permits.

The biggest positive influence came from an increase in the length of the average manufacturing workweek. This represented a rebound from September when the workweek was artificially depressed.

Other positive factors were changes in business delivery times, an increase in plant and equipment orders and changes in the prices of raw materials such as iron, lumber and paper.

Stock market fails to sustain rallies

NEW YORK (AP) — The battered stock market regained some composure Tuesday after opening the week with big losses, but it lacked the strength to sustain at least two attempts to rally.

Analysts predicted further weakness in construction as they weakened as residential construction is depressed by high mortgage rates and high apartment vacancy rates.

compared to 268.91 million on Monday.

Broader market measures showed signs of stability. About 10 stocks rose in a session that fell on the NYSE, with 813 up, 748 down and 397 unchanged.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks rose 1.31 to 265.05, and the NYSE composite index was up 1.70 to 323.00.
