Ruling protects Niagara Springs water flow

But he said Idaho Code clearly states that Parks' water appropriation is of "greater priority than any other use except that of domestic consumption."

Wilderness bill acreages found smaller

By MARK PRATTER Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho wilderness bill expected to be introduced in Congress soon has much smaller wilderness recommendations for many southern Idaho areas than what was offered by the U.S. Forest Service or a coalition of environmental groups.

The Boulder Mountains are not slated for wilderness in the proposal by Sen. James McClure and Gov. Cecil Andrus.

The proposal calls for 100,200 acres for the White Clouds-Ketchum, a little more than half of what the forest service is recommending for the Boulder-White Clouds. The forest service wants 190,350 acres in the Boulder-White Clouds.

The forest service draws up 10-year plans for its forest and these plans include wilderness recommendations to be considered by Congress. But a comparison of the McClure-Andrus proposal and the forest service recommendations shows that the acreages in the Idaho wilderness bill will not follow forest service proposals.

"We maintain we're not getting anything more in the McClure-Andrus proposal than in the forest service plan," said Craig Gehrke of the Wilderness Society.

When McClure and Andrus released their wilderness proposal last month, they named the areas included but did not attach acreages.

Both environmental and off-road vehicle groups, generally at the opposite ends of the spectrum when it comes to wilderness, have complained that the piecemeal manner in which information was released has made it difficult for them to respond to the McClure-Andrus proposal.

However, the environmental coalition was able to make rough approximations of the acreage figures by looking at the areas proposed, said Gehrke.

So the bill was not a surprise Friday when McClure's office released the acreage figures, he said.

"We're holding our breath for the language of the bill," Gehrke said.

The proposal by the Idaho Wildland Defense Coalition calls for 452,000 acres in the Boulder-White Clouds.

The coalition of environmental groups said the area represents the largest potential addition to the wilderness system contained in the national forests of the lower 48 states.

One surprise is in the Pioneer Mountains near Ketchum. The McClure-Andrus proposal actually calls for more wilderness acreage than the U.S. Forest Service is recommending.

Asian lands lose trade edge contrary, it reflects the great economic successes they have had. All four are good friends and valued trading partners.

Singapore, $1.4 billion; Taiwan, $1.4 billion; Hong Kong, $675 million; and South Korea, $1.4 billion. The trade preferences had already been removed for many of the four countries' products, such as automobiles. The president's move takes away remaining preferences.

Trade preferences for the four Asian nations will be removed on Jan. 2, 1989, affecting nearly $10 billion in imports sent to the United States annually.

The United States ran a $28.8 billion trade deficit with the four nations in the first 11 months of 1987, rivaling the $30.4 billion deficit for the same period with western Europe, according to the Commerce Department.

The step was criticized in advance by the Computer and Business Equipment Manufacturers Association. "We are losing a value tool in negotiations on intellectual property rights," said association official Charlotte LeGates.

White House backs Meese

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The White House on Friday continued to publicly support Attorney General Edwin Meese III, despite the disclosure that he was sent a memo by the Justice Dept. to pay off a top Israeli official in connection with a proposed $1 billion federal pipeline project in Israel.

The Los Angeles Times today disclosed the existence of the memo to Friday editions, said some sources identified Salmon Peres, Israel's prime minister in 1986 and now the foreign minister, as the official targeted for the bribe plan.

Hearings off due to delay

By States News Service and the Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Introduction of Sen. James McClure's Idaho wilderness bill has been delayed and three Idaho public hearings cancelled while the senator and Gov. Cecil Andrus work out details of the legislation, their spokesmen said Friday.

"Father Time wasn't going to let this thing happen now," Palmer said, explaining that even if the legislation were introduced Monday, there would not be enough time for it to be considered before the time the hearings were to be held.

Some environmental groups have complained that the early hearings did not give them enough time to go over the legislation.

The bill, which would designate over 1.4 million acres of roadless forest land as wilderness — perpetually closed to commercial logging — was to have been introduced this week. But McClure and Andrus are still working on sections of the bill concerning so-called special management areas.

Limited development would be permitted in these areas. For example, logging would be allowed to continue in the headland-Larkins area in the Panhandle along the Montana border, but no new roads could be built and strict guidelines would be set to protect fish and wildlife habitat.

Ruling protects Niagara Springs water flow

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

BOISE — Water Resource Department Director Keith Higginson Friday upheld a decision protecting the scenic and recreational uses at Niagara Springs Creek from future water diversions.

Higginson ruled in favor of a minimum stream flow request by Idaho Parks and Recreation Department at the clear springs site, located along the Snake River in Gooding County.

"I'm as happy as a clam at high side," said Todd Graeff, resource specialist for Parks Department. "This is a great day."

Parks Department and several Hagerman Valley residents have been locked in a battle against Rim View Trout Co., a commercial hatchery which filed for 295 cubic feet per second in additional water to expand.

Former DWR Director Ken Dunn last year granted the "Parks" request, and extended the reach of the flow from the headwaters to the confluence of the Snake River.

"Rim View's owner, Earl Hardy, and Idaho Power Co., which operates an adjacent steelhead hatchery, protested Dunn's decision, saying Dunn overstepped his authority.

Higginson's decision Friday agreed in part with Rim View's argument.

Unlike Dunn, Higginson stopped short of invoking the public trust doctrine to protect the stream all the way to the confluence of the Snake River.

Instead, Higginson granted the minimum stream flow from the headwaters to-and including the Snake River, about half a mile. Higginson's decision in effect kills most of Rim View Trout Company's expansion plans for its commercial flat hatchery at Niagara Springs.

State Sen. Bill Ringert, R-Boise, the lawyer representing Boise businessman and Rim View Trout Co. owner Earl Hardy, said Friday he did not know if Hardy will appeal Higginson's decision in court.

"There are still a lot of issues left open," Ringert said.

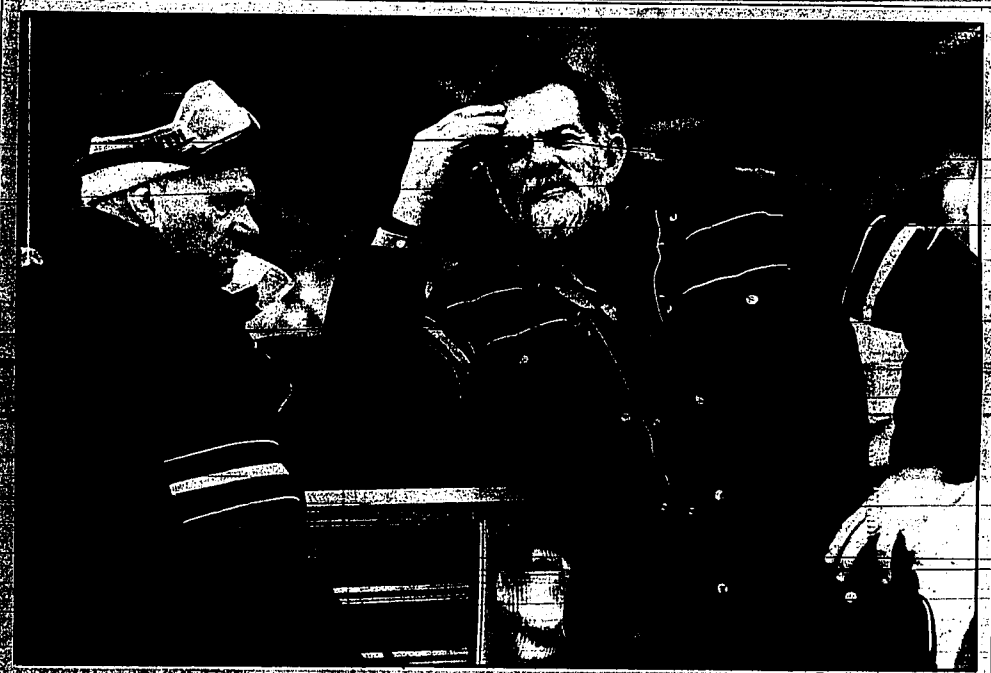

In his decision, Higginson recognized the importance of the trout industry to Idaho's economy.

But he said Idaho Code clearly states that Parks' water appropriation is of "greater priority than any other use except that of domestic consumption."

Parks Department applied for a minimum stream flow request at the site in Gooding County in 1971. But the application did not come up for a public hearing until May 1987.

In the intervening years, Hardy filed three separate water applications: one for 115 cfs of fresh water; one to reuse 90.3 cfs of his

WASHINGTON — President Reagan softened his stance on trade Friday by revoking duty-free privileges enjoyed by South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore, and the administration drafted plans to slap $105 million in sanctions on Brazilian products.

Trade preferences for the four Asian nations will be removed on Jan. 2, 1989, affecting nearly $10 billion in imports sent to the United States annually.

"This move should not be interpreted as penalizing" any of the nations, said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater. "On the contrary, it reflects the great economic successes they have had. All four are good friends and valued trading partners."

However, he said the system of trade preferences is designed to help emerging economies, and when they no longer need assistance, they should be removed.

The United States ran a $28.8 billion trade deficit with the four nations in the first 11 months of 1987, rivaling the $30.4 billion deficit for the same period with western Europe, according to the Commerce Department.

By country, the deficits were: Taiwan, $14.7 billion; Korea, $6.7 billion; Hong Kong, $6.0, and Singapore, $1.4 billion!

Trade preferences had already been removed for many of the four countries' products, such as automobiles. The president's move takes away remaining preferences.

The step was criticized in advance by the Computer and Business Equipment Manufacturers Association. "We are losing a value tool in negotiations on intellectual property rights," said association official Charlotte LeGater.

The industry group wants guarantees of greater protection of U.S. copyrights for computer programs and other high technology in the Asian nations, particularly South Korea where piracy has been a problem in the past.

White House backs Meese

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The White House on Friday continued to publicly support Attorney General Edwin Meese III, despite the disclosure that he was sent a memo chiding a plan to pay off a $1 billion Iraq oil pipeline project.

Independent counsel James C. McKay, who is investigating Meese, is focusing on the memo, which sources familiar with McKay's investigation say was written in 1985 by longtime Meese friend E. Robert Wallace.

In response to reporters' questions, McKay said he has been investigating the matter for some period of time. "We are continuing to investigate it and we hope to complete it in a reasonable period of time."

The Los Angeles Times, which disclosed the existence of the memo in Friday editions, said sources identified Shimon Peres, Israel's prime minister in 1985 and now the foreign minister, as the official targeted for the bribe plan.

Yosef Gal, a spokesman for the Israeli Embassy in Washington, called the memo "a wild fantasy that is not even worthy of comment."

Meese's attorneys issued a statement Friday that appeared to reject the idea that Peres was the target of a payoff plan.

Wallach, an attorney who has known Meese since the two attended law school at the University of California, Berkeley, is under indictment in the Wedtech scandal. McKay has been looking into Meese's ties to scandal-plagued Wedtech Corp., a Bronx, N.Y., defense contractor, for nearly nine months.

SALT LAKE CITY — Prosecutors met Friday to prepare evidence for a grand jury on a lengthy standoff with a polygamist clan, and authorities said they know who killed a state officer during the bloody end of the confrontation.

The Legislature on Friday unanimously passed a resolution honoring the slain officer "for his courage, his dedication and his great sacrifice," and observed a moment of silence.

Even the children in the clan, whose leader believed his father-in-law would be resurrected during the 13-day siege, remained defiant in surrender, said FBI agent Cal Clegg.

"The kids were using very unreligious epithets. It surprised us, too. They're not the family they've been portrayed to be," Clegg said.

He said authorities who examined every inch of the rural log house after the confrontation ended Thursday could not believe the adults had been living.

U.S. Attorney Brent Ward met Friday with federal, state and local authorities to prepare evidence to present to a federal grand jury next week and for possible state charges in the death of the officer.

Swapp, 27, shot in the forearm and chest, was in serious but stable condition Friday at the University of Utah Health Sciences Center.

"He's a nice person to be around. They (nurses) feel comfortable around him. He's not surly, mean, or antagonistic like some criminals who come to the hospital area," said hospital spokesman John Dwan.

He said the prognosis for recovery was good.

The children were released to the care of Swapp's parents, Ramon and Harriet Swapp, after a closed juvenile court hearing Thursday.

Family sues over jet crash

BOISE (AP) - Members of the family of a Boise attorney killed in the Nov. 16 Continental Airlines crash at Denver have filed a $18 million lawsuit over the death. It's the 7th U.S. District Court lawsuit filed over the crash of Continental Flight 1713 as it attempted to take off from the Denver airport on flight to Boise. The crash killed 23 people. Among the victims was Nicholas Ramon Yauras, a Boise attorney and executive for the Boise-based Perma-Green Co. His wife, Ruth; children Michael, 9 and Teresa, 6, were named as plaintiffs in a lawsuit filed Friday, along with Yauras's parents, Margarita Aala and Ramon Yauras. It was filed by Yauras's brothers, Renato Yauras of Boise, deputy secretary of state, and Bernard Yauras of Illinois. Named as defendants were Continental and McDonnell-Douglas Corp., manufacturer of the DC-9 which crashed.

Meteorite to go on display

BOISE (AP) - Boise State University said Friday a meteorite has been confirmed in Idaho - only the fifth ever confirmed in the state and the first in more than 30 years. Information Director Jerry Burke said the school has received confirmation that an object found in a field near Wilder is a meteorite, the first found in the state since one spotted near Jerome in 1954. The school will put the meteorite on display Monday in a room of the Science-Math Building. Burke said the meteorite is considered of particular importance because it is composed of rock rather than iron. Only 500 rock meteorites have been found in the world and this is the second found in Idaho, he said.

But a 6th District Court jury convicted him Thursday on the lesser felony charge, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison. Shines also was convicted of committing the act with the use of a deadly weapon which carries a maximum prison term of 15 years.

Senate passes night pay bill

BOISE (AP) - Although some legislators warned it might be setting a bad precedent, the Idaho House on Friday approved a bill allowing the Department of Law Enforcement to grant extra pay for employees working between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. The vote was 62-15, as the legislation went to the Senate. NAMPA (AP) - The Idaho State School and Hospital has received a 90-day reprieve from a federal funding-cut following a reinspection that found improved conditions earlier this month. The Nampa facility is receiving federal money pending appeal of the Nov. 30 expiration of its agreement with Medicaid, which provides $11 million of a $16.7 million annual budget. ISASH asked for the reprieve in hopes of permanently restoring funding. The federal government had threatened to pull funding because it found the facility had failed to meet state and federal standards.

Gem justices ask for $6,120 pay raise

BOISE (AP) - The justices of the Idaho Supreme Court, who in 1985-86 received raises totaling $12,450 per year, are asking for a new two-year increase of $6,120. Carl Bianchi, director of the administrative office of the courts, told the House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee on Friday that the increased cost would be covered by a $1 increase in the fee for filing civil lawsuits, and a similar increase in court costs tacked on to criminal and traffic violations. The committee, with no discussion, voted to print and introduce the optimistic and of forecasts earlier lawmakers early this month by a number of economists. They predicted Idaho's economy would continue experiencing only gradual, modest growth in the coming 12 to 18 months. But it is $7.7 million above the projection offered by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus, and members of the committee from both parties questioned the validity of such a large disparity in view of the economic uncertainties hanging over the last part of 1987.

The House Business Committee rejected a proposal to raise the state minimum wage from $2.95 per hour to $3 per hour. Committee members objected to a provision in the legislation, sponsored by Rep. Gino White, D-Cataldo, to the federal minimum wage. An increase in the federal minimum wage of $3.85 per hour would trigger a corresponding increase in the state minimum wage.

"I hate to be tied to anything the feds do," said Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert. The state minimum wage applies to companies doing business solely within the state and with gross income under $382,500. After the committee refused to introduce the proposal, White said he would have the automatic increase provision deleted and try again. One bill approved by Judiciary, Rules and Administration increases judicial salaries by 5 percent in each of the next two years. The second raises court costs to pay for the increase. The third bill would give the judiciary pay raises in the future, tied to pay increases approved by the Legislature for state employees. Bianchi said the process of asking the Legislature for very uncertain, and judge pay never can keep up. For a two-year trial basis, starting in 1990, the legislation calls for the same percentage as state employees. After two years, Bianchi said, the process will end unless the Legislature reauthorizes it. Under the salary increase proposal, Supreme Court justices, now at $69,700 per year, would go to $62,738 next July and to $65,874 on July 1, 1989. Even with the increases, Bianchi said, Idaho's salaries are below the national average.

Proposed revenue endorsed

BOISE (AP) - The proposed tax revenue estimate of $673.5 million for the 1989 spending year has won the endorsement of a divided Senate committee. The vote by the Local Government and Taxation Committee on Friday cleared the way for final adoption of the projection, which is critical to the Republican legislative majority's drive to avert a major election-year tax increase. The projection, adopted by the House earlier this week, generally followed the optimistic and of forecasts earlier lawmakers early this month by a number of economists. They predicted Idaho's economy would continue experiencing only gradual, modest growth in the coming 12 to 18 months. But it is $7.7 million above the projection offered by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus, and members of the committee from both parties questioned the validity of such a large disparity in view of the economic uncertainties hanging over the last part of 1987.

83 state employees paid more than governor, report shows

BOISE (AP) - The state of Idaho has 83 employees paid more than its chief executive, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, including many of the people he appointed to administrative positions. Idaho's governor is paid $55,000 per year. Some of the state's top health professionals, colleges and university administrators and much of the judiciary are paid more than the governor - some of them, nearly 50 percent more. The state auditor's office, state personnel director, legislative budget office and the administrator for the Division of Financial Management put together a joint report on Friday on state employees. It showed that as of Jan. 1, there were 18,089 state employees on the payroll, including 4,126 listed as temporary, part-time, nonclassified employees and 484 part-time employees covered by the state merit system. The totals do not include employees of school districts, private contractors and those affiliated with state agencies or organizations whose salaries are paid entirely by local or non-state money. Heading the list is the Department of Health and Welfare with 3,841 full and part-time employees. The University of Idaho, with 2,321 employees, is the second-largest employer in the state, followed by Department of Transportation, 1,843; Boise State University, 1,843; Idaho State University, 1,244 and Lewis-Clark State College, 886.

The highest-paid state employee is listed as Gilbert L. Corey of the University of Idaho academic faculty, who is paid $81,952 per year. John Keiser, president of Boise State University, is paid $51,244 and University of Idaho President Richard Gibb is paid $79,227. University of Idaho Dean Sheldon Vincenti receives $75,878, followed by the $74,027 salary of Idaho State President Richard Bowen and William Hepp's pay of $73,444 as investment manager for the Endowment Fund Investment Board. Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Resources, is the highest-paid state agency administrator, $66,622. Kermit Kiebert, director of the Department of Transportation, receives $65,000, the same as two of the people under him, Monte Flata, highway operations chief and George Greeno, state highway administrator. Idaho's two delegates to the Northwest Power Planning Council - Bob Sarvik and Jim Goller, receive $62,504. Darrell Manning, Idaho adjunct general, is paid $81,900. Allan Shepard, chief justice of the Idaho Supreme Court, is the highest-paid judicial official in the state at $61,250, followed by Carl Bianchi, director of the administrative office of the courts, $60,837. The other members of the Supreme Court are paid $69,750 per year; Court of Appeals judges $68,760; administrative district judges get $67,500 per year and 29 district judges receive $66,000 per year.

Hofmann to spend life in prison

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN Welfare with 3,841 full and part-time employees. The University of Idaho, with 2,321 employees, is the second-largest employer in the state, followed by Department of Transportation, 1,843; Boise State University, 1,843; Idaho State University, 1,244 and Lewis-Clark State College, 886.

Utah (AP) - The Utah Board of Pardons and Parole decided Friday that Mark Hofmann, who killed two people with bombs to cover his forgeries of historical documents, must spend the rest of his life in prison. The unusual decision came after Hofmann said he felt remorse for the families of his victims in the 1985 twin bombings which shook the predominantly Mormon state. The chief had been one of Hofmann's most avid customers. "We are impressed that there was a large number of victims and that there was callous disregard for life; and that the crimes were an attempt to cover up other crimes," Palacio said in announcing the 2-1 defense attorney Brad Rich said the board historically has looked at serious homicides and set another parole hearing date in 10 years. But the panel liberalized its stance less than 30 minutes before announcing its decision. Hofmann pleaded guilty a year ago to two counts of second-degree murder and two counts of forgery in the Oct. 15, 1985, bombing deaths of Steve Christensen and Kathleen Sheets. Hofmann said the two were killed to fraud up his labyrinthine dealings in counterfeit Mormon and other historical documents. Hofmann initially was charged with first-degree murder, but a plea bargain agreement allowed him to plead to the lesser charge, which carries a penalty of five years to life in prison. Utah law leaves it up to the three-member board to determine how long a convict serves if the sentence is not fixed.

Reagan honors Rockne birth

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will visit Notre Dame University to mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of famed football coach Knute Rockne on March 9, the White House announced Friday.

"The Gipper goes back," said presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

The occasion will also be marked by the issuance of a new commemorative stamp honoring Rockne.

In the 1940 movie, "Knute Rockne, All American," Reagan portrayed George Gipp, a Notre Dame football player who died in his senior year.

In the movie's climactic scene, Pat O'Brien, portraying Rockne, urges his team to "Win one for the Gipper" during halftime of a game with Army some time after Gipp's death.

NEH makes funds available

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Endowment for the Humanities has awarded $4.5 million in matching federal grants to support museum exhibitions in 15 states and the District of Columbia.

The grants will help finance planning and assembly of 31 permanent, temporary or traveling exhibitions by museums, historical institutions and universities across the country.

They will include displays at the University of California at Berkeley on the voyages of Columbus, at the Minneapolis Institute of Art on early American decorative arts and at the Strong Museum, Rochester, N.Y., on the origins of modern American advertising.

FDA emphasizes AIDS drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is putting a top priority on development of drugs to combat AIDS, even if it means delaying the processing of applications for other types of pharmaceuticals, the FDA commissioner said Friday.

Commissioner Frank Young said the agency was putting "the highest possible priority" on clearing candidate drugs for treating acquired immune deficiency syndrome, but he said "the war on the fatal disease will be a long and difficult one."

"We're leaving no stone unturned and using whatever resources we need" to help pharmaceutical companies develop drugs that can battle AIDS and the diseases that often go with AIDS, Young said at a news conference.

He said the concentration on AIDS has caused a backlog in processing applications for some other types of drugs, but this was unavoidable.

Amtrak hits car, derails

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — An Amtrak train carrying 100 passengers was traveling on the wrong track when it hit a repair car early Friday, and investigators were seeking a control tower operator who left his post after the accident, officials said.

At least 24 minor injuries were reported in the 12:34 a.m. derailment of an engine of the Night Owl, bound from Washington, D.C., to Boston. Three other people were taken to a hospital but declined treatment.

FBI headquarters pressed for probes

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI headquarters continued to push its field offices to investigate groups opposed to U.S. intervention in Central America even though the local offices reported that they could find no evidence the groups were planning to commit terrorist acts, documents show.

In one instance, the Phoenix, Ariz., office reported that it was closing its investigation of the Tucson Committee for Human Rights after finding that it was a non-violent education group.

FBI headquarters wrote back that the Phoenix office should keep the investigation open because the group could be "a front organization" for the agency's primary target, the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador, or CISPES.

The documents are among about 1,300 FBI files released to the Center for Constitutional Rights, a New York-based civil rights and civil liberties organization, under the Freedom of Information Act.

The center released copies of some of the documents at a news conference this week showing that the FBI conducted an investigation into hundreds of individuals and organizations opposed to U.S. policies in Central America.

The White House on Friday denied any knowledge of the FBI surveillance and said President Reagan was concerned about the practice.

Reagan has asked FBI Director William S. Sessions for a report, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater said the president "is concerned because there should be no investigation of Americans for their political beliefs." Asked if Reagan had been aware of the surveillance, he said, "No one in the White House or NSC (National Security Council) had any involvement, connection or knowledge."

Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Thursday that he would review allegations of FBI harassment of individuals and organizations targeted in the investigation.

The FBI has acknowledged that it had conducted an investigation into CISPES, but has contended that it was looking into "alleged criminal activity rather than the motives and beliefs of those being investigated."

The FBI added in a statement that it "is sensitive to the constitutional rights of the American public and the bureau has no interest in interfering with the exercise of these rights."

The FBI documents, and interviews with some of the people whose organizations were named in the documents, show that the investigation was wide-ranging and involved infiltration of groups and physical and photographic surveillance. Several documents mention the tracing of license plate numbers on cars and trucks parked near meetings and demonstrations.

"There is nothing in the papers that shows why, if the FBI could not find criminal conduct, the investigation continued for three or four years," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif.

Robertson, Bush waging hot battle

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Former television evangelist Pat Robertson and Vice President George Bush battled for the first Republican presidential nominating delegates Friday as Michigan Republicans met in a stormy convention.

Bush was counting on a newly formed alliance with Rep. Jack Kemp to beat back the Robertson challenge.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole, former Gov. Pete du Pont of Delaware and former Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. passed up the byzantine Michigan process that began nearly two years ago.

The first order of business at the state convention was to hold congressional district caucuses to choose three national convention delegates from each.

Results from the first nine district caucuses to elect delegates gave 13 to Robertson, 12 to Bush and 2 to Kemp.

As the Republicans convened, there were conflicting claims from the competing camps as well as threats of walkouts that could lead to delegate challenges that would not be resolved until the national convention in New Orleans in August.

Bush supporters walked out of three district meetings.

Iraqi pipeline connection arises in widening Meese investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The criminal investigation of Attorney General Edwin Meese III began, as a probe of his ties to scandal-plagued Wedtech Corp., but has spread into new areas, including a proposed Iraqi pipeline project.

The inquiry launched last May 11 by independent counsel James McKay stemmed from Meese's association with E. Robert Wallach, a Wedtech consultant and friend from Meese's college days. Wallach, an attorney, represented Meese when he was under investigation by another independent counsel, Jacob Stein, in 1984.

Wallach, who was paid more than $1.3 million by Wedtech, wrote a dozen memos to Meese in 1981 and 1982 in support of the Bronx, N.Y., defense contractor. In the spring of 1982, Meese, then White House counselor, interceded on behalf of Wedtech, which was seeking a $32 million federal contract to build small engines for the Army.

Meese said he wanted to ensure that Wedtech got a fair hearing from the Army. Within months of Meese's investigation, Wedtech was awarded the contract.

Sources familiar with the investigation say no evidence has been uncovered to suggest that Meese was paid any money in connection with his intervention.

Another aspect of McKay's probe focused on Meese's relationship with W. Franklin Chinn, an investment adviser whom Wallach introduced to Meese in 1985. Chinn, who Meese knew also was doing work for Wedtech, turned a $40,000 profit for Meese on a $55,000 investment in just 19 months.

McKay's investigators have been trying to determine whether Chinn gave Meese preferential treatment compared with his other customers or whether Chinn may have used borrowed funds to help make money in the stock market for Meese, said the sources, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Another piece of McKay's Wedtech probe has focused on whether Meese may have passed along to Wallach sensitive law enforcement information on a federal criminal investigation of Wedtech and Wallach that began in the fall of 1986. Meese spoke to Wallach several times a week until early last year, when the two men stopped meeting.

In addition, McKay has been reviewing Meese's $10,000 investment in the regional Bell telephone companies at a time when the attorney general was meeting with executives from at least four of the companies.

Meese had promised the Senate in January 1985 before he was confirmed as attorney general that he would sell his phone stock in order to avoid a potential conflict of interest.

Instead of selling his holdings in the regional Bells, Meese signed an agreement transferring them to Chinn.

Haffner bound over to face murder charges

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls resident Roy W. Haffner was bound over Friday to district court for trial on second-degree murder charges two weeks after first-degree charges were dismissed.

Haffner is charged with killing Jesus Hernandez, who was found Nov. 10 with Haffner in a house at 449 5th Ave. W.

Hernandez had a knife with a 9.5-inch blade in his chest when police officers arrived at the scene.

Twin Falls Chief Deputy Prosecutor Rockne Lammers, who saw first-degree murder charges against Haffner dismissed at a preliminary hearing two weeks ago, filed second-degree charges against Haffner Jan. 23.

Fifth District Magistrate Judge

R. Michael Rodman decided after Friday's hearing that Lammers had enough evidence to justify a trial on whether Haffner killed Hernandez.

Jesus Hernandez died as a result of a nine-and-half inch stab wound to the heart, Lammers said. Lammers argued that witnesses testified that Haffner called several people saying he was going to kill a man.

In addition, Lammers said, Haffner said he was riding to jail that he would kill again if put in a jail cell with blacks.

However, Twin Falls Public Defender Michael J. Wood said that since Lammers based his case against Haffner on circumstantial evidence, Lammers must prove the defendant is of sound mind.

The case should be dismissed as second degree murder or reduced to manslaughter, Wood said.

First and second-degree murder both require an intent to take a life. However, first-degree murder requires premeditation, or a certain amount of planning for the charges to stand up in court.

At a preliminary hearing two weeks ago, 5th District Magistrate Judge Charles Brumbach dismissed first-degree murder charges against Haffner.

Brumbach said a psychiatrist called by Lammers testified that Haffner was incapable of forming the state of mind necessary for first-degree murder.

Haffner remained in custody after Brumbach's hearing for further psychiatric examinations.

Lammers said during a break in the hearing he wasn't sure Haffner had undergone further examinations. He didn't call the psychiatrist, Dr. G. Adrian Dean, to the stand.

Instead of Lammers used the testimony of police officers and family members.

Haffner's uncle and aunt both said Haffner called them to say a man was in his house. Haffner, the two said, wanted the man out of his house and would kill if the man didn't leave.

Loretta Mullins, a dispatcher for the Twin Falls Department of Public Safety, also said a man identifying himself as Roy Haffner called her. She said Haffner called the man asked her "do you want me to kill him and throw him out the door and you could pick him up later?"

Haffner's call to Mullins ended at 3:09 p.m.

Police officer G. H. Wells arrived at the residence, knocked and yelled in the door for two to three minutes before calling back to Mullins at 3:13 p.m. to make sure he was at the right address.

Haffner eventually motioned Wells into the residence with another officer, Wells said.

Wells said Haffner was talking on the phone when he entered the house. Haffner started crying and talking incoherently after hanging up, Wells said.

Wells asked Haffner where the unwanted man was before getting an answer.

"He said 'the man is in the bathroom, and I don't know if he is dead or alive.'"

The two officers found Hernandez in the bathroom in a "dying quiver," Wells said.

"Counsel, if you'd shot as many animals as I have, you'd know what a dying quiver looks like," Wells told Wood during cross examination.

Haffner never indicated he killed Hernandez, Wells said.

Twin Falls County Deputy Coroner Jim Mildon said Hernandez was declared dead at 3:45 p.m.

Pathologist John Gray said Hernandez died from a 10-inch knife wound. Gray also said the knife wound showed no signs of struggle.

Mildon said part of the handle of the knife was embedded in Hernandez' chest. The blade of the knife went through Hernandez' left lung, heart and into his liver.

A preliminary hearing is held before a magistrate judge, who determines whether a crime was committed and whether the defendant committed a crime or a "burden of proof than required at trial.

If the magistrate rules in favor of the prosecution, the defendant is bound over to district court for trial.

Baxter dismisses charges on deputy

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Prosecutor Ellen Baxter decided Friday to dismiss three criminal charges against a sheriff's deputy filed by a private citizen circumventing normal court procedures.

Larry Gene Fife, convicted of reckless driving and resisting and obstructing charges from an April 18 arrest, filed his own charges against the deputy who arrested him.

Fife said deputy Daniel Mort was guilty of assault, unnecessary assault and aggravated assault.

"The overwhelming evidence from each and every witness is that Fife was never beaten, never threatened with bodily harm, and never had a police vehicle driven directly toward him in a threatening manner," Baxter said in a letter outlining why she would not prosecute Mort.

"The evidence is that the only force used was that force necessary to remove him from his vehicle, transport him to the courthouse and book him pursuant to a lawful arrest."

Baxter's decision came after the Idaho Bureau of Investigations interviewed several witnesses, searched for videotape Fife claimed existed and tried to arrange a polygraph test with Fife.

"Every one of the witnesses directly contradict Fife's version of the incident," Baxter said. "Mr. Fife was unable to offer any other corroboration for his story."

After reviewing an investigation, Baxter said she would be able to use only Fife's testimony at trial.

"And Fife would be of dubious value as a witness, she said. She outlined several reasons his testimony wouldn't be credible in court.

Prior felony convictions as well as conflicting statements Fife made to police officers could be used to destroy his credibility at trial.

In addition, Fife is currently under a restraining order from 5th District Court because he allegedly harassed and annoyed law enforcement officers working on the case.

Baxter said either Fife or his attorney Michael J. Wood should obtain Mort's college transcripts that were used in a previous trial.

"All this evidence would definitely be presented to a jury to both impeach Fife's credibility and to demonstrate his motive and ability to fabricate," Baxter said.

The evidence in the case demonstrates "there is simply not sufficient evidence to justify continuing the prosecution in this case," Baxter said. "Mr. Fife is not a credible witness. There is no corroboration for his story."

Baxter congratulated the bureau for a thorough investigation, and took the opportunity to rebut Fife's charges that her office had a conflict of interest in the case.

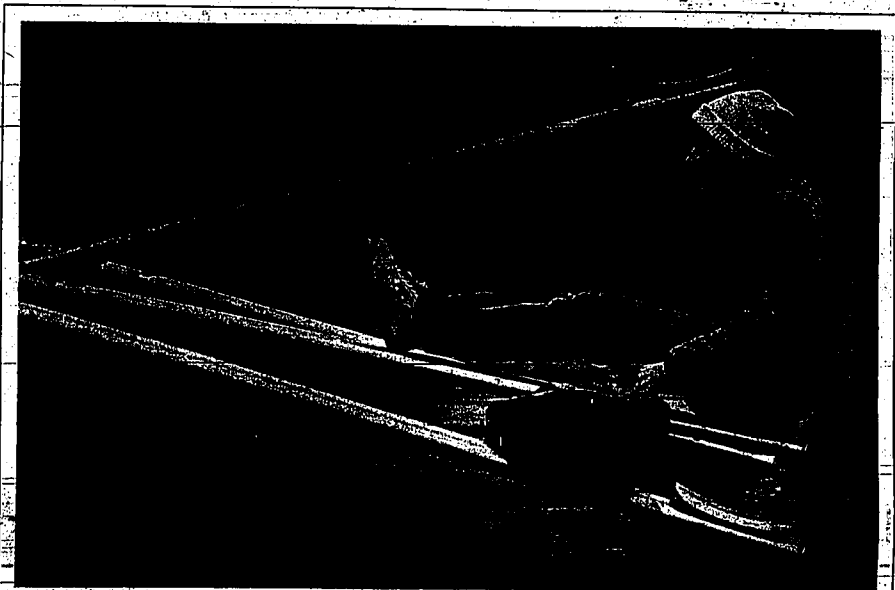

Fife asked 5th District Magistrate Judge Melvin C. Edwards Wednesday to disqualify Baxter from the case. Edwards refused, saying Fife had no right to choose a prosecuting attorney.

"There is no conflict of interest because Mr. Mort is the sheriff's deputy," Baxter said. "During my term as prosecutor this office has, on more than one occasion, successfully prosecuted other sheriff's deputies to conviction and sentence."

Baxter also claimed Baxter shouldn't be on the case because her office had prosecuted him on the charges from the April 18 arrest.

Baxter disagreed.

Erickson gets 2-year contract Castleford rehires superintendent

By DIANE SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

CASTLEFORD — The Castleford School Board rehired Superintendent Ron Erickson at its January meeting.

The new two-year contract states that Erickson will be hired as a superintendent with no teaching duties, salary negotiable.

Erickson has been teaching music at the school this year. The board had advertised for a music teacher last year, but withdrew the offer until results are in from state tax collections this year.

Erickson is currently making $32,000 a year, and did not receive an increase when his contract was last renewed, he said.

Also at the meeting, Erickson updated the board on the state's new asbestos law. The law states that all schools will have to be tested for both friable and non-friable asbestos. All materials in the schools must be tested.

Friable substances are those that can be easily crumbled into powder. The tests must be done by a certified inspector and an asbestos control plan must be in the governor's office by Oct. 12.

If the plans are not filed on time, districts can be fined $5,000 per day.

"My recommendation is to get someone from our own communities certified to do the testing," said Erickson. "It will cost about $1,000 to get someone certified, but then we'll get it done on time and maybe cheaper."

Erickson told the board that the new high school "will be quick and easy to do, but the rest won't be."

"I accept statements from the architects with respect to sampling on our new school," he said. The new high school building was constructed in 1985.

The board voted to hire someone from the community to receive the training and become certified.

Erickson said some grant monies may become available to help offset the costs of the testing.

In his superintendent's report, Erickson told the board the elementary reading program in Castleford has been commended by the state Board of Education.

"And as far as the budget goes, we're O.K. in all of our projected revenues come in. If they do, we'll be in the black," he said.

In his legislative update, Erickson told the board to be aware that consolidation issues will be coming up, as well as Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome legislation that will impact the schools.

"In other business," Erickson said, "the board approved a sking fee between the districts of Castleford and Murtaugh sixth-grade classes in February."

Erickson told the board about a new "positive" program at school that includes the staff, teachers, custodians and hot lunch personnel.

"Each day they have to come up with something positive about our schools," Erickson said. "We're getting into a negative rut and negative comments are self-defeating."

Erickson said the positive comments will be published monthly.

Hospital seeks computerization advice

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Hospital officials plan to ask the experts how to negotiate the path toward computerizing Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

MVRMC's Finance Committee decided Thursday to investigate hiring a consultant — expected to cost $50,000 — to help choose the county hospital's next computer system, which is expected to cost about $1 million.

The committee also unanimously recommended the hospital buy seven pieces of mostly replacement equipment for nearly $300,000 and found liability insurance costs are rising sharply. The full board must still approve the purchases.

Choices on computer consultants range from independents to possibly big-name companies. Committee members Fred Harder and Jim LaGrone, wary of cheaper independents leading toward poor recommendations for the hospital, agreed to work with administrators to narrow the national field of hundreds of consultants.

"We can do that — we certainly have time to do that," said Finance Director Ken Fry.

He earlier told committee members that two big-name consultants responded sluggishly to initial calls and that several independents were more helpful. He also said there was some disappointment with initial consulting by Deloitte, Haskins and Sells, the Los Angeles-based firm that got $12,000 for describing why the hospital should get a new computer.

The hospital plans to install computers throughout, to go beyond simple billing and assist in charting patient treatment.

Despite studies showing 70 percent of all hospitals rely on IBM computers, Fry said hiring a consultant is a must.

"The software is what should be driving the hardware decision," Fry said.

And the best software, the programs for hospital billing or patient information or whatever else, must still be determined — preferably with the help of someone who knows what they're talking about.

"I would have wanted to not spend it ($50,000 consulting fee), but none of us knows, as a system, what we want," LaGrone said.

Fry said national experts advise a two-year time frame for deciding on a new computer system. That still fits with MVRMC's current contract with McDonald-Douglas, which expires in April, 1990.

In other business, the Finance Committee recommended buying seven pieces of equipment for just under $300,000.

The surgical department would get a $31,834 machine to recycle

Kimberly district implements new facilities use contract

By LYNDIA VAN DEUSEN
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly School District is implementing a new facilities use contract, after its January meeting.

Organizations that ask to use school facilities will be required to sign the contract. They will also be required to provide proof of insurance in the form of a certificate of insurance showing minimum liability coverage of $500,000.

The contract further requires users to reimburse the school district for any damages or losses caused by the organization's use of the facilities. The contract will be used for any activity where a potential for injury exists.

The School District has also been approved to join 11 other Magic Valley high schools in a cooperative agreement for a teen-parent education program. The cooperative will be funded by yearly grants or state provided by Kimberly and Hanover industrial arts departments. The grant requests approximately $12,000 from the state of Idaho for a pilot program in the schools.

Phillips' grant includes a proposed curriculum and a request for more equipment. The pilot program will teach students communication systems, energy, power and transportation systems, robotics and manufacturing systems. Phillips submitted a grant proposal last year that was accepted. The money allowed the school to purchase computers, graphic packages, video equipment and laser printers.

Traditional industrial arts classes are woodworking, metal shop and drafting will continue. The purpose of the new grant proposal is to provide students with the latest technology available. Phillips expects to be notified in May whether the grant is accepted.

Superintendent Richard Bausercher discussed staffing plans for school year 1988-89. The administration will make a formal proposal at the March board meeting. Anticipated needs include an additional fourth-grade classroom, additional elementary music, more sections of classes at the junior high level and Spanish.

The additional classes will require a new teacher.

The grant is a joint effort between Kimberly and Hanover industrial arts departments. The grant requests approximately $12,000 from the state of Idaho for

Phillips charged in accident

TWIN FALLS — A Jerome woman was ordered Friday to stand trial for two counts of vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated.

Rose Phillips, 34, of Jerome is charged with the two manslaughter counts as a result of a Dec. 26 accident. Two teenagers died in that accident.

Police reports say Phillips' vehicle went around the curve at the Rock Creek crossing on Blue Lakes Boulevard South at a high rate of speed, went out of control, hit a small pile of gravel off the roadway that sent it airborne and crashed into a utility pole.

The 1982 station wagon Phillips was driving was split in two, police say, and the two victims were thrown out of the car.

Fifth District Judge Charles Brumbach ruled after the hearing there was enough evidence to send Phillips to trial in district court.

Donut status

Richer you are, the fewer donuts you eat. Or so say the surveytakers.

Technically, there aren't any national holidays in the United States. Each state has jurisdiction over its own. The federal government just designates legal days off for its own employees. New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columjoint syndrome? A. Dislocated jaw. Not necessarily a big deal, the medics say. Sometimes it's just pop a little when you chew. One person in five is said to experience it.

Soviets decorate trees to celebrate New Year's, not Christmas.

Early American children: For 100 years each of their gradeschool education from one book called the New England Primer, put out in 1690. Alphabetized paragraphs of verse. Illustrated. After "X" came: "Kerxes did die. And so must I." With a woodcut of a man in a coffin. You figure the kids got a whole lot out of X?

It was shortly after his wife left him that Alan Jay Lerner wrote "If Ever I Would Leave You."

WOMEN'S DAY

February 14th used to be celebrated by Dutch settlers in New Amsterdam as Women's Day. "Vrouwen Dagh," they called it. Young women guarded wanted cords to lash young men who ventured close. Fun, eh Cynthia?

Best of the American Indian medicine men were more effective in their treatments of disease at one time than were the best of the white doctors, contends a medical scholar. And he claims you can say the same for the best of the African medicine men.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may have some trouble communicating today, especially in obtaining some facts and figures which you need, so be particularly careful about what you say. Enjoy your family this evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You have been overworking yourself lately, so try to take it easy and relax a bit. Take some time out for a little fun tonight.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Think of the unpleasant factors connected with a recreation you have in mind, and you'll decide against it. Take care of only important duties.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): Keep busy at duties of a public nature, and don't let a family friend disturb you. Enjoy a favorite hobby with a good friend tonight.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): You may have to develop a new way of looking at life which is more in tune with modern times. A new business contact has some great ideas.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): Although it may seem like a great deal of work, now is a very good time to get your property fixed up. Handle your mail carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Go out with some witty and charming friends today and have a fine time. Set up a budget which will help you save more money.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Postpone that change you want to make where your job is concerned. Spend the evening with a good friend who enjoys peace and quiet.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Enjoy an amusement with your mate which won't be very costly. Sit down together tonight, and make some plans for the future.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): It is important that you keep busy at some career or credit matters. Don't expect any special favors from a superior right now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have an exceptionally logical nature and an unusually ability to solve even the most difficult puzzles. Your progeny will tend to be pretty much a loner, but will, also be quite adept at communicating ideas to others. Sports are a must for your child.

Beatings reported at refugee camps

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli police under army command beat more than 60 Palestinians in a West Bank refugee camp overnight, Arab and U.N. relief workers reported Friday.

An army battalion commander said his troops had "doubt at all levels" about using beatings to suppress riots that began more than seven weeks ago in the occupied territories, where 1.5 million Palestinians live.

At Jerusalem's Dome of the Rock mosque, among the most sacred shrines of Islam, chanting worshippers marched after Friday prayers and Israeli police arrested six who trained the outlawed Palestinian flag.

Soldiers confronted stone-throwing Arabs in scattered protests in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war. Thirty-eight Arabs have been killed by Israeli gunfire, according to U.N. figures, and the army adopted a policy of beating rather than shooting.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, in an interview with The Associated Press, acknowledged that some soldiers overstepped the bounds of army policy on using physical force.

"But our policy, the policy of our government, is to put an end to this wave of riots and disturbances by using a reasonable amount of force," he said. "Since the first day it was our determination not to cause human losses."

Israel radio said Secretary of State George P. Shultz telephoned Shamir to protest the alleged beating of three Americans by Israeli soldiers.

An aide to Shamir denied the report and U.S. Embassy officials refused comment. The three U.S. citizens, all residents of the West Bank, have complained to U.S. consulate officials.

A policy permits the use of force against rioters or those resisting arrest but forbids beatings as punishment or of Arabs in custody. Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said the policy took effect Jan. 5.

Shamir supports U.S. approach, opposes Middle East conference

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said Friday the United States has a new approach to peace in the Middle East that gravitates for specific solutions and turns the emphasis away from an international conference.

Jordan wants such a conference but Shamir is opposed, claiming it would be biased against Israel and lead to creation of a Palestinian state.

The 73-year-old Israeli leader said the interim solution Washington envisions for Palestinians in the occupied territories is "more or less" like the autonomy plan in the Camp David accord on which the 1979 peace treaty with Egypt was based.

It proposed five years of limited self-rule after which a final settlement would be pursued, but Arab nations demanded a Palestinian state.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Shamir expressed willingness to discuss changes in the autonomy plan with King Hussein of Jordan.

On other issues, he said: "A $2 billion international fund is needed to resettle hundreds of thousands of Palestinian who live in squalid refugee camps. He said the process could take 10 years."

Israel can weather harsh criticism of its crackdown on Arab rioters without damaging relations with the United States or the American Jewish community.

During the 40-minute interview in his office, Shamir leaned back in an easy chair and said: "I'm not happy about any criticism, and especially when it comes from friends. I hope that after we will restore normal life, this criticism will disappear."

Shamir said a partial cause of the riots, which began Dec. 8, was the impoverished conditions of camps in which about 400,000 Palestinian refugees live. Nearly 1.5 million Palestinians live in the West Bank and Gaza.

"These camps exist until this day because the Arab world opposed all the time a solution for political reasons," he said.

Iraq reports raids; attack kills 4 men

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraq's latest raids on Iranian shipping claimed as many as four more lives, raising the death toll for the month to 12, shipping executives said Friday.

Iraq said Friday it had attacked another Iranian tanker.

Lloyd's Shipping Intelligence Unit, based in London, said a British captain and Filipino engineer aboard a salvage tug were among the four victims, but the tug's owners in Singapore reportedly denied the deaths.

The two were said by gulf-based shipping executives to have been killed Wednesday when an Iraqi aircraft attacked the tugboat Salvatore as it tended the tanker Coral Cape, struck in another attack nine hours earlier.

Two men were killed aboard the Coral Cape, Lloyd's quoted Kappa Maritime, the London-based firm that manages the tugboat. A Cyprus-flag tanker, the Cypriot-flare was also South Korean.

The official Iraqi news agency, monitored in Cyprus, said Iraqi warplanes struck another "large naval target," meaning a tanker, just before dawn Friday. As usual, it claimed the planes scored an "accurate and effective hit" on the vessel.

There was no independent confirmation of the latest attack. Iraq has now claimed about 15 attacks since the beginning of the year. So far, six have been verified by gulf-based shipping salvage executives or other sources.

In Rome, Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati described as "positive" the United Nations' effort to find a peace settlement in the Iraq-Iran conflict.

Velayati said Iran would refuse "any direct or indirect negotiations" with the Iraqi government.

"Our people are not tired of the war. Our people want to reach a decisive victory against Iraq," he said.

But the Iranian diplomat indicated that his country has agreed to receive an envoy from the Gulf Cooperation Council, a grouping of six Arab Gulf states which has tried to set up talks with Iran, as a move toward a dialogue between the two belligerents.

The ship suffered minor damage but as many as six crew members were injured in the attack, Kappa Maritime said at the time.

Shamir said the policy of our government, is to put an end to this wave of riots and disturbances by using a reasonable amount of force, he said. Since the first day it was our determination not to cause human losses.

Israel radio said Secretary of State George P. Shultz telephoned Shamir to protest the alleged beating of three Americans by Israeli soldiers.

An aide to Shamir denied the report and U.S. Embassy officials refused comment. The three U.S. citizens, all residents of the West Bank, have complained to U.S. consulate officials.

Shiite cleric says Waite, hostages doing well

BEIRUT (AP) — The nation's ranking Shiite Moslem cleric said Friday he was certain that most foreign hostages missing in Lebanon, including Anglican envoy Terry Waite, were "alive and well."

Sheik Mohammed Mehdi Shamseddin, head of the Supreme Shiite Council that governs the sect's religious affairs in Lebanon, discounted a claim made in a West German court that Waite had been killed by his captors.

"He is the most alive among them," Shamseddin said in an interview with The Associated Press at his heavily guarded house in Shiite-inhabited south Beirut.

Shamseddin did not say how he knows but the 53-year-old cleric is believed to command the respect of both Iran and Syria, the most influential Middle Eastern powers in Lebanon. And his spiritual position and personal prestige lend weight to his information.

"We have information that the hostages are all alive, except one. Frenchman whose captors had said they had killed him. I am not sure about his fate," Shamseddin said.

He was referring to research analyst Michel Seurat, who was kidnapped in west Beirut May 22, 1985, Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, a group made up of Shiite extremists tied to Iran have claimed responsibility for his abduction.

The group said on March 5, 1986 that it had "executed" Seurat in retaliation for France's deportation of two Iraqi activists opposed to President Saddam Hussein's Baghdad government, Iran's foe in the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war. No corpse has been found.

"I am sure all the others are alive and well ... and they will return to their families, God willing," Shamseddin said.

"Efforts persist behind the scenes to resolve this problem. We look forward to the day when this tragedy is over once and for all," Shamseddin said, without elaboration.

In all, 22 foreigners, including eight Americans, are missing after being kidnapped in Lebanon. Held longest is Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was kidnapped March 16, 1985.

The most recently abducted foreigner is West German engineer Ralph Rudolf Schray, 30, who was kidnapped Wednesday in west Beirut.

Shamseddin declined to comment on Schray's abduction.

West Germany has appealed to Syria for help in winning Schray's release. The Syrians maintain a law-enforcing contingent of 7,500 troops in the Moslem sector of the Lebanese capital.

No group has claimed responsibility for the abduction but speculation in Beirut and Bonn points toward a renewed attempt to win freedom for suspected TWA hijacker Mohammed Ali Hamadi and his older brother Abbas, who are jailed in West Germany.

Abbas Hamadi is on trial in Düsseldorf for alleged arranging the kidnappings of two West Germans in Lebanon last year to win the release of his brother, Mohammed.

Good offense, dubious defense: Shoot-out?

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The number keeps coming up with a "3" in it. Like 30, 31, 34, 35, 37, 39.

The predictions for Sunday's Super Bowl between the Denver Broncos and Washington Redskins are for a shootout, something like the 31-30 Denver victory at the end of last season, the last time the two teams met.

The two coaches agreed Friday — with qualifications — that the predictions are pretty accurate.

"The only bias I have is the last game we played," said Washington's Joe Gibbs as both coaches faced the media for the final time before the game.

"I'd say that if you go off that, you've got to say it could be the same. But it could depend on individual plays. We missed a couple against Minnesota that we should have made and it was the difference between scoring 17 and scoring 31. I'd say if you had to choose between a defensive game and a shootout, I'd choose a shootout," said Denver's Dan Reeves, whose team is favored by 3½ points — another "3."

The reasons for the predictions are more apparent than just the game last season. The most apparent are the Denver offense and defense.

The offense averaged 28 points a game as the Broncos won eight of their last nine games, and put up 72 points in two playoff games. In five of those nine they have scored more than 30.

The defense, quick but small, on the other hand, has shown a tendency to wilt, particularly in the face of larger teams — and Washington's offensive and defensive fronts outweigh the Broncos by nearly 20 pounds per man.

While it shined on San Diego — in the snow — it surrendered 30 points in the second half against the New York Giants in last year's Super Bowl and allowed Cleveland to score touchdowns on the first four second-half possessions in the AFC title game two weeks ago.

"I don't know if you can go by that," Gibbs said. "I think it depends on how it goes up front. If one team's defensive line or linebackers dominate, then there will be less scoring. If it's even, then you'll probably get a lot of points."

But Reeves cited the New York and Cleveland games as precedents.

"We couldn't stop the Giants and we had the same problems in the Cleveland game," he said. "That concerns me a little."

The other concerns by both coaches were injury-related.

Reeves, who described Thursday's practice as "terrible," said team doctors still haven't determined the extent of the injury to starting right guard Stefan

Humphries. Humphries brused a thigh at the end of Thursday's practice.

The deadline for roster changes is 4 p.m. local time Saturday.

Reeves said that if Humphries can't play, he will be replaced by Larry Lee, who was injured in a preseason trade with Miami. Lee started two games at center this year after Billy Bryan was injured, then was replaced by Mike Freeman, a strike replacement player.

He also said he might activate Jim Juriga, a young lineman who has missed his first two seasons with injuries, to give Denver eight offensive linemen in uniform.

Gibbs' main concern is the tender ankle of George Rogers, his starting running back. "But I expect that he'll be able to start," Gibbs said of Rogers. He usually gives way in the second quarter anyway to rookie Timmy Smith.

Gibbs, whose team will change hotels Saturday in accordance with its regular season routine, will spend the next two days with his assistant coaches, scripping the offensive plays for the first part of the game.

They will determine, for example, what plays they will use on the first 1st-and-10, the first 3rd-and-short, the first 2nd-and-long and the first play near the goal line.

"They're a lot like us," Gibbs said. "You never see the same look — offensive or defensive — on two consecutive plays. We may run the same play over and over, but it's from a different look."

Twin Falls loses 11th straight

IDAHO FALLS — The early minutes of the first and fourth quarters were enough to let the Skyline Grizzlies coast into a 65-52 Gem State Conference victory over the Twin Falls Bruins Saturday night.

From the opening four minutes of the game when Skyline mounted a 12-1 lead to the fateful first three minutes of the first period when the Grizzlies outscored the Bruins 14-3, there was some competition.

In fact, the Bruins got it down to five points one and six points on a couple of occasions. But it was never an offensive relationship for the low-scoring Twin Falls team and wasn't really in doubt.

Skyline, which nipped the Bruins in overtime in their first meeting, ran its record to 6-8 while Twin Falls slumped to its 11th loss in a row and now stands 1-11 on the year.

Twin Falls' major troubles came inside and on the back end of the break. Robert Jensen raked the first five for 19 points through the first three and one-half quarters. On those rare occasions when Twin Falls would make a run at the Grizzly lead, Skyline would get behind the defense for a fastbreak bucket or two.

Two such field goals by Brent Hadley blew this away at 61-10 with 4:22 left in the last quarter. The Bruins rallied back after that, as Jody Bryant got six of his 10 points in the closing minutes.

The Grizzly defense also did a good job of limiting Bruin top gun, junior Swede Trenkle, to one point in the first half although sophomore Jason Astorquia got away for four three-pointers to help somewhat. At one point Astorquia had 16 points while the Bruins had 40 total. He ended with a game-high 19.

Twin Falls will return to Twin Falls and combine with College of Southern Idaho in a rare high school-college doubleheader Wednesday.

Burlley Willmore has plenty of tournament experience under his belt

Willmore seeks third trip to state

By RON GATES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A year ago, Twin Falls-High-School wrestler-Burlley Willmore — the bright spot in a heretofore dismal Bruin mat program — battled weight problems, and fell out of state contention for the first time.

At a more comfortable 128 pounds Willmore, now a senior, has licked that obstacle and is faced with only a challenge from what is probably the most competitive class in the 1983 Region III state qualifying wrestling tournament.

"I probably made a big mistake last year," admitted Willmore. "I dropped from 125 pounds to 112. I went on a Diet Center diet. That was fine, but I didn't want to maintain that weight all year so I wrestled up. A couple weeks before district I discovered it was impossible to get back down on the diet and I dehydrated myself."

Not wishing to miss even that goal the youngster succeeded in reaching the desired lower class, but paid dearly for the effort.

"It seems like every year at district he kind of chokes," said Minico Coach Brad Cooper. "That's not the case — he's a competitor and he's a good one. (But) Last year he cut all that weight, lost to one of my jayvees in the first round and retired from the tournament. He's seeded third in a tough weight class this year, but I'm sure he'll go to state."

That the 17-year-old — a wrestling devotee for the past 10 years — has failed to withstand the pressures of state qualifications should easily be dispelled on his performance as a freshman alone.

"Burlley won district as a freshman," offered Bruin Coach Wiley Dodds. "He's the only one from Twin Falls to ever do that so far as I know."

Willmore achieved a second consecutive berth in the state event a year later with a bronze medal to his credit at regionals behind Highland's Travis Bell and Kirk Harris, who went 1-2 in both tournaments.

For the effort.

"This season's record, a sparkling 20-0, ranks among the best yet doesn't tell the full story."

"He's lost five of the six out of his weight," Dodds explained. "Four losses came at 135 and another at 130. Pocatello's (Monte) Page was the only one to beat him at 125 and that was by one point."

Willmore calls his senior campaign his favorite and lays much of the credit on Dodds, who is completing his first year at the Bruin helm.

"This year has been a lot of fun," Willmore says. "Some of the others have seemed to drag on, but this one has gone by so fast. It has to be fun. If I'm not enjoying myself I don't wrestle well. You've got to go out and give 110 percent, but have fun doing it."

"I think Coach Dodds probably averages about four hours sleep a night," he continued. "He works hard at the program and he knows how to win. It's also nice to have a coach who will stick on a pair of shorts and get up here and wrestle with you."

Highland is apparent favorite in A-1

By RON GATES Times-News writer

POCATELLO — With a half-dozen No. 1 picks, including 1987 state titlist-Slack and Travis Bell at 119 and 130 pounds, respectively, among their 15 seeded grapplers the Highland Rams would appear a likely favorite on their home floor in today's Region III A-1 Wrestling Tournament.

Still, it will by no means be a Ram takeover, according to a first-year, Twin Falls Coach Wiley Dodds.

"It's going to be a real dogfight between Pocatello, Highland and Minico," he predicts. "And I think too that all three have a shot at the state title as well depending on how things come out Saturday. If they don't cancel each other out that is."

Indeed, the Spartans, 10-2 in dual competition, head the five team field with 18 seeded wrestlers including five division favorites and are bent on improving on a back-to-back runner up finish. Pocatello, with 10 seeded contestants headed by a trio of state medal winners, has the potential to defend the title it won a year ago.

State berths await the top three individuals in each weight and the Bruins, coming-off their best showing in years despite a squad dominated by underclassmen, will rely on senior Burlley Willmore (20-6), picked third by the coaches, and a trio of fourth seeds in Darin Kent (103); Bob Moulson (189) and heavyweight Tom Fowler.

Minico's Roy Villanor lost only seven times at 103 pounds this season — three of those to defending state champ Kevin Aoki of Idaho Falls — and along with 145-pounder Nick Welch (18-8) drew the nod for a gold, but the Spartans' greatest strength comes from 171 up.

Chris Rogers (23-4) at 171, Roy Barera (12-1) and Lewis Jagnis (20-4), all seniors could provide the difference in the team standings with a sweep of the top three classifications.

"We've got five number one and three number two seeds. Highland has six and three and Pogy the other two first and four seconds, but I think where the difference will be is in the junior varsity wrestlers," explained Minico Coach Brad-Cooper. "I really think we've got the best j.v.'s in the region."

Brown sparks Idaho victory

MOSCOW (AP) — Raymond Brown scored 26 points and grabbed six rebounds to lead the Idaho Vandals past Big Sky Conference rival Weber State 73-57 Friday night.

The victory lifted the Vandals' record to 14-5 overall and 6-1 in the conference, while Weber State fell to 4-15 overall and 2-6 in league play.

Brown scored 16 of his game-high 29 points in the second half.

James Fitch had 17 points and grabbed seven rebounds for Idaho, which led 36-35 at halftime.

The Vandals started icing the game in the second half when they went on a 12 run and pretty well controlled the Wildcatters after that.

Vandal Coach Tim Floyd said that as the critical part of the game, noting "we finally settled down in the second half and took better shots. I thought we showed a lot of poise offensively in the second half. That was the best thing we did tonight."

Weber State was without the league's second-leading scorer and top rebounder, Rico Washington, who injured his ankle before the game. Washington was replaced in the starting lineup by Fred Rollin, who scored 12 points.

Faxton Cobb led the Wildcatters with 16 points. Idaho forced 18 Weber State turnovers, while giving up nine of its own.

Spartans lose in cliffhanger

By STEVEN CRUMP Times-News Sports Editor

BLACKFOOT — Absent their two best offensive players, Minico and Blackfoot got into an offensive shootout here Friday night.

The Broncos' shot was the last to fall, giving Blackfoot a 71-70 Gem State State Conference victory over Minico.

Minico's Jack Bagley and Blackfoot's Tom Crumbley were thrown out of the game after an altercation 30 seconds into the second period, and after that, both coaches were wondering what to do for offense.

"I tell you what, without Crumbley we've got no inside game," said Blackfoot Coach Bill Cowell. "Then when George Trenkle fouled out with six minutes left I thought we were through. But Bagley is such a great offensive player, I knew Minico was going to be hurting."

But the Spartans rolled up 34 points during a nine and one-half minute stretch in the second half, held the Broncos to 19 and had a five-point lead with 2:34 remaining.

"We've been in this situation in four or five games already this season," said Cowell. "I thought we were dead. But these kids know how to win the close ones."

They won it on a 14-foot jump shot by Blackfoot's Rick Shipley with five seconds left.

Minico immediately called a timeout, but Eric Miller's 22-foot jumper at the buzzer bounced off the rim.

It was a game that for all its firepower was decided largely at the foul line where the Broncos had 56 opportunities and the Spartans 32. For the game, Minico shot 27 for 48 from the floor including 15-26 in the second half while Blackfoot was 22-40.

"When Miller got the ball what flashed through my mind was that we had too much time left," said Cowell. "We're due to lose one like this; I'm just glad it wasn't this one," said the Minico graduate.

The victory improved the Broncos' second record to 11-3 and put them in a tie with Minico for second place in the Gem State Conference, one game behind Pocatello. The Spartans are now 10-5 in the season.

After Minico's trailing 39-37 at halftime, failed to score for the first four minutes and nine seconds, the Spartans exploded offensively, cutting the deficit to one point at 62-61 at the end of the quarter.

They surged ahead for only the third time in the game on two free throws by Dan Poulton with 6:26 left. The clutch shot that margin to 69-63 on Miller's foul shots at 2:34.

But after a Minico turnover, Shipley scored to reduce the deficit to three and Eric Ross made it a one-point game with a couple of charities at the 1:40 mark. The teams traded points before Blackfoot got the ball back with 42 seconds remaining.

MSU beats Bengals

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Tom Dompko, the leading scorer in the Big Sky Conference, tossed in 28 points to lead Montana State to a 83-76 victory Friday night over Idaho State in a league basketball contest.

The Bobcats, who trailed most of the game, finally overtook Idaho State by going ahead 46-44 with 14:48 to play.

Montana State led by as many as 40 points before the Bengals rallied behind the shooting of reserve forward Gordon Bean, who put ISU ahead 58-57 with 7:34 remaining.

But the Bobcats then reeled off seven straight points to take command for good and opened leads as big as 10 points heading into the final two minutes.

The victory left Montana State at 11-7 for the season and 4-3 in the Big Sky. Idaho State is 8-8 overall and 2-4 in the conference.

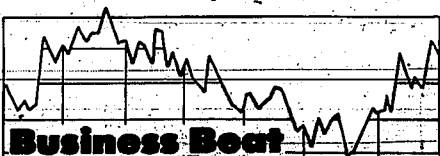

Joining Dompko in double figures for the Bobcats were Ray Willis with 14 points and Chris Conway and Ron McCrary with 11 each.

Regulators propose changes

BOISE (AP) — State utility regulators are proposing a major revision in the way interest on telephone customer service deposits is calculated, and it could mean a substantial reduction in the rate.

The Public Utilities Commission is accepting comments for the next two weeks on the proposal that would affect the amount of additional money customers would receive when they terminate service and get their deposits back.

The proposal would effectively remove telephone companies from the current statutory interest rate of 12 percent and put them under regulations now governing water and energy companies.

Under the regulatory policy, the interest rate on deposits would be pegged to the average U.S. Treasury bill rate for the previous year. That rate for the current year is 7 percent.

If the commission adopts the rule, the lower rate would take effect March 1.

Falk's ID building razed

BOISE (AP) — Boise's Falk's ID building, a fixture in town for nearly a century, has come tumbling down in a cloud of sandstone dust.

The building was leveled to make way for a new midblock parking garage and retail building.

When the dust had settled, planner John Bertram was elated and the original aloha of sandstone — proclaiming "Falk Bros 1898" — that had fronted the building, lying unharmed atop a pile of debris. Contractor Larry Gillingham has agreed to donate the slabs to the state Historical Museum, Bertram said.

The company was originally formed in the 1880s by David Falk.

Demolition has been going on for about a month. All that remained Wednesday was outer stone walls, which were covered with a false metal front in the late 1950s.

Heavy construction equipment pulled on metal cables attached to the walls. A portion of the building crashed down into Main Street, crushing a wooden construction walkway. Police were holding traffic back, so there were no injuries.

The store slabs were part of the building's parapet along 8th Street, Bertram said. The store had remained empty for quite some time.

Ex-treasurer buys weekly

MERIDIAN (AP) — Former State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon is buying her second Ada County weekly newspaper — the Valley News in Meridian.

Miss Moon purchased the Kuna-Melba News last March. The sale is effective Monday. Miss Moon bought the paper from Bob and Pat Wherry, owners since July 1984. The couple also publishes the Cottonwood Chronicle and the Lewis County Herald and will continue to run them. The purchase price of the Meridian paper was not disclosed.

"I believe a lot in community journalism," Miss Moon said. "I think it is a shame many communities don't have their own weekly newspaper."

She worked for papers in Caldwell, Pocatello and Salt Lake City before buying the Idaho Pioneer, Statewide in 1952. The paper split into separate papers in Garden City and Engle. Miss Moon served 24 years as state treasurer.

AT&T sends erroneous bills

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Up to 2 million AT&T telephone customers across the country have been billed for payments they already made, and some accounts have mistakenly been referred to collection agencies, AT&T officials said.

The billing problem stemmed from introduction of a new computer system, Peter Cassels, an AT&T spokesman based in Providence, said Wednesday.

One million to 2 million customers who paid bills for November have received subsequent bills saying their payments were not received and their accounts are past due, Cassels said.

He said AT&T received the payments for the residence and small business accounts, but did not properly post them in their billing records.

The errors began to surface this month. Customers who call AT&T with billing complaints are being asked to send in copies of their canceled checks.

Farm prices continue climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers got this month for raw products rose an average 2.4 percent over last month and opened the new year 7.4 percent above January 1987, the Agriculture Department said.

The department's Agricultural Statistics Board said higher prices for cattle, hogs, oranges, soybeans and broiler chickens contributed most to the January increase. Lower prices for strawberries, turkeys and peanuts helped dampen the gains for other commodities, it said.

New quarterly figures showed prices paid by farmers to meet expenses were unchanged, on the average, from last October but were up 4.4 percent from a year earlier.

Feeder cattle and feed prices were higher for the quarter, the report said. "Gasoline and feeder pig prices showed the greatest declines during the period."

Department economists say net cash income of farmers set a record in 1987 of about $57 billion. This year's net — the difference between cash receipts and cash expenses — may be in the range of $50 billion to $65 billion.

Consumer food prices are expected to rise 2 percent to 4 percent this year, compared with a 4 percent average increase in 1987.

According to the preliminary January figures, based mostly on midmonth averages, the index for livestock and livestock products was up 6.1 percent from December and 10 percent above January 1987. Prices were higher for beef cattle, calves and market hogs.

Prices of poultry and eggs showed an overall increase of 5.1 percent from December, but averaged 14 percent less than a year earlier. The index for dairy products was down 0.8 percent from December and 5.1 percent from January 1987.

Crop prices overall were up 0.9 percent from December and averaged 14 percent more than a year ago. Commercial vegetable prices rose 5.6 percent from December and were up 25 percent from a year earlier.

Oil-bearing crops, primarily soybeans, rose 9.5 percent from the December price index and were up 20 percent from January 1987.

Feed grains and hay, collectively, showed a 1.1 percent price gain from December, averaging 16 percent more than a year earlier. Corn and sorghum prices gained, while hay and barley declined and oats were unchanged from December.

January farm commodity prices averaged 130 percent of a 1977 base used for comparison, according to the preliminary figures, up from a revised December reading of 127 percent. A year ago the January index was 121 percent.

The report also said:

- Cattle averaged $65.10 per 100 pounds of live weight nationally, up from $62.20 in December and above the $66.40 reported for January 1987. Those are averages for all types of cattle sold as beef.

- Hogs averaged $42.70 per 100 pounds, compared with $40.30 in December and $47.20 a year earlier.

- Corn, at $1.77 a bushel, was up from $1.72 in December and the average of $1.48 per bushel a year earlier.

- Wheat prices at the farm, according to preliminary figures, averaged $2.77 per bushel, compared with $2.70 in December and $2.53 a year earlier.

- Soybeans were $5.90 per bushel, compared with $5.63 in December and $4.70 a year earlier.

Drought, man draw blame for earnings decline

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Power Co. said Friday its 1987 net income dropped 24 percent, and earnings on common stock hit their lowest level since 1981.

In a statement, vice president and chief financial officer Dewey Hammond blamed both man and nature.

Hammond said low stream flows, caused by drought, crippled Idaho Power's use of its hydroelectric generating plants and forced the utility to turn to coal-fired plants in Nevada and Wyoming. Output from those plants more than doubled during the year, he said.

For the year, Idaho Power reported profits of $69.2 million, but Hammond said that included the impact of recording unbilled revenue, something required by the federal government under new tax laws. He said it didn't actually generate any income.

The $59.2 million profit compared with $78.4 million the year before. Operating revenue fell about $16 million from the year before, to $394.6 million.

Earnings per share of common stock were $1.63, not enough to cover the currently authorized dividend of $1.80 per share. The 1986 profit was equal to $2 per share of common stock.

For the fourth quarter of 1987,

Hammond said Idaho Power netted $7.9 million, or 28 cents a share. The comparable 1986 report was a profit of $17.2 million or 45 cents per share.

"Although the drought had an effect on our earnings, the most significant factor was the lack of adequate rate relief," Hammond said.

"Our calculations show that even if streamflows had been normal, we would not have had sufficient earnings to cover dividends, much less earn our authorized rate of return on common equity," he said.

"Over five years without any meaningful increase in rates in Idaho is unrealistic in today's economy."

Keiser pitches proposal to keep Micron

BOISE (AP) — Boise State University President John Keiser has pitched a proposal for more than $60 million in incentives aimed at keeping Micron Technology's expansion in Boise.

In a letter to Gov. Cecil Andrus, Keiser requested to Micron's announcement that it was considering taking a 1,000-job expansion to Portland, Ore.

"If Idaho cannot keep Micron, with its strong Idaho connections, is there a basis to believe we can recruit other firms to Idaho?" Keiser wrote.

Micron President Joe Parkinson said last Friday the company was considering an offer from Oregon officials that includes a cash grant, which he would not specify, and use of a building abandoned by another computer-chip manufacturer.

But Parkinson said access to quality elementary and higher education, including engineering programs, is the chief reason Micron is shopping around. Two other states, Arizona and Missouri, also are being considered.

Keiser's letter, dated Monday, is billed as "a rough draft of ideas and possible actions that can be refined and built upon."

He suggests $11.5 million in spending to directly or indirectly benefit Micron and another $52 million over 10 years for education improvements.

"I truly believe that the way we respond to the loss of 1,000 new jobs and potentially 1,700 existing jobs will be a very clear signal to our own state as well as competitors about our ability and determination to make Idaho's economy grow," Keiser wrote.

Parkinson had not seen the letter but expected Idaho to respond aggressively.

"These guys are tough competitors," said Parkinson, who has met with Andrus and other state officials this week.

"We're still leaning toward Boise," he said. "The major liability is the education, and that's why we're beating the drums on it. Hopefully we can get something done."

But Senate President Pro Tem Jim Rich, R-Boise, discounted the education complaint. "It's very apparent what they're looking for are some financial incentives."

Rich pointed out that Idaho Scholastic Aptitude Test scores rank higher than Oregon's, and Republican House Speaker Tom Boyd of Genesee said the reports that Boise is in one way and out the other make him feel that "we've been getting jerked around in the last week or two over this issue."

Among the incentives Keiser suggests:

- Immediate construction of a $5 million College of Technology at BSU.

- $750,000 annually for applied research to benefit companies like Micron and Hewlett-Packard Co. and use of BSU property for a research facility.

- Redirection of $500,000 a year in state vocational education money for training at Micron's southeast Boise plant.

- Two-year manufacturing and four-year electronics programs at BSU, along with more engineering courses offered at BSU by the University of Idaho.

- Financing schemes, such as industrial revenue bonds backed by the state, to lower construction interest rates for Micron.

- A Boise School District bond election to build a new elementary school in the southeastern portion of the city; Micron has complained the lack of a school hampers its recruitment efforts.

- City funding for utilities at a new Micron plant and Ada County Highway District help on roads.

Marc Johnson, Andrus' press secretary, said Andrus appreciated the thoughts offered by Keiser, but the governor did not endorse any specific moves.

"Dr. Keiser has made the same case that Gov. Andrus has made for a long time," Johnson said. "That is: we're going to have to provide quality education facilities and services if we're going to advance the cause of economic development. Can anyone doubt that?"

Asked about the letter Thursday, Keiser stressed that the state's response to Micron would be coordinated by Department of Commerce Director Jim Hawkins.

"I'm obviously not in the position to commit to anything unilaterally," he said. "That's what I think of over the weekend. We're trying to feed a discussion and suggest things but by no means should it be treated as a final package."

Hawkins said the proposal to Micron would include programs to benefit other, high-tech firms in Idaho and help attract new companies.

Exports of autos under lid

TOKYO (AP) - Japan will limit its passenger car exports to the United States for an eighth consecutive year to avoid fanning protectionist sentiment in Washington, the government said Friday.

The decision to retain the limit of 2.3 million cars in the fiscal year beginning April 1 was made in spite of a debate within the Ministry of International Trade and Industry.

"If and when it is confirmed that these restraints are no longer necessary, even during fiscal 1988, the restraints will be removed," he said.

In Washington, the Reagan administration reacted coolly. "We haven't asked them to do it. In fact, since 1985, we have been urging them to put an end to automobile export restraints. That policy hasn't changed. We favor free and fair trade," said White House spokesman B. Jay Cooper.

The administration has contended that Japanese quotas, while they may benefit U.S. automakers, represent the kind of artificial market restraints it is seeking to eliminate.

Desire Tucker, an official in the Commerce Department's International Trade Administration, said: "It's up to the Japanese. It's purely their decision."

Japanese automakers have long argued that the limits should be removed, saying the quotas originally were set to allow U.S. automakers to recover from an industry slump from which they have now recovered.

Some of Tamura's aides, however, argued that termination of the curbs might result in an uncontrolled acceleration of exports and a sharp rise in disputes with the U.S. auto industry.

"So I decided to continue the limits, and I'll have the restrictions continue as long as it is feared that the removal of the restraints would cause a rapid surge in (exports)," he said.

The yen has more than doubled in value against the U.S. dollar in the last three years, forcing Japanese automakers to raise prices of their exports to the United States as sharply in recent years.

Toyota Motor Corp. and Honda Motor Co. Ltd. last week raised sticker prices in the United States for the second time since October.

THE VALUES KEEP GETTING BETTER!

WE FIGURE ONCE IS ENOUGH TO PAY FOR A CAR REPAIR.

We don't believe customers should pay two, three or four times for the same car repair. That's why we offer the free Lifetime Service Guarantee for repairs on your Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, or Ford light truck.

With the Lifetime Service Guarantee, you pay just once for a covered repair. If that repair ever needs to be done again, we'll do it free. Free parts, free labor. Our Lifetime Service Guarantee is good on thousands of covered repairs. For as long as you own your car or truck. It doesn't even matter how old your vehicle is, how many miles it has on it or where you bought it. What does count is that we back our repair work with the best car repair guarantee in America, bar none.

Get us for a copy of the free Lifetime Service Guarantee. Read through it and you'll see that once is enough to pay for car repairs.

 WILLIS MOTOR CO.

"I, who have never willfully pained another, have no business to pain myself."
 - Marcus Aurelius.

At the critical point of today's game, South had to guess which suit to play and he guessed wrong. Study the play to see if you can spot when and how South shot himself in the foot.
 West started with three rounds of clubs, laying the groundwork for a possible trump-promotion play. South won his club jack, and to dodge an embarrassing fourth round of clubs, he cashed three diamonds, discarding his club queen. (Had he not done so, West would take the first trump and lead a fourth club.)
 South then led a spade to his king to lead his 10 of hearts, but West hopped right up with his heart ace to lead a second round of spades, won by dummy's ace. To return to his hand to finesse in trumps, South had to guess between spades and diamonds. He guessed wrong, West overruled in spades and the game went one down. How should South have avoided the guess?
 Before South crossed to his king of spades to lead the first trump, he should have first cashed dummy's spade ace. Had he done so, there would have been no guess to make. When West wins the trump ace, he cannot lock the lead in dummy and South can maneuver the winning trump finesse.

ANSWER: Two no-trump. Two clubs is an alternative; however, two no-trump is more descriptive -- a balanced hand of 13-15 HCP.

"I, who have never willfully pained another, have no business to pain myself."
 — Marcus Aurelius

At the critical point of today's game, South had to guess which suit to play and he guessed wrong. Study the play to see if you can spot when and how South shot himself in the foot.

West started with three rounds of clubs, laying the groundwork for a possible trump-promotion-play. South won his club jack, and to dodge—an embarrassing fourth round of clubs, he cashed three diamonds, discarding his club queen. (Had he not done so, West would take the first trump and lead a fourth club.)

South then led a spade to his king to lead his 10 of hearts, but West hopped right up with his heart ace to lead a second round of spades, won by dummy's ace. To return to his hand to finesse in trumps, South had to guess between spades and diamonds. He guessed wrong, West overruled in spades and the game went one down. How should South have avoided the guess?

Before South crossed to the king of spades to lead the first trump, he should have first cashed dummy's spade ace. Had he done so, there would have been no guess to make. When West wins the trump ace, he cannot lock the lead in dummy and South can maneuver the winning trump finesse.

 ANSWER: Two no-trump. Two clubs is an alternative, however, two no-trump is more descriptive—a balanced hand of 13-15 HCP.
