Craig will vote for $36.5 million for rebels

Stallings to vote against Contra aid request

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, said Monday he will vote against President Reagan's request for $36.5 million in aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

"I'm opposed to it for a variety of reasons, but mainly we're not to give the (Central American) peace plan a chance to succeed," Stallings said in an interview here.

Despite advertisements by a Washington-based group in Idaho newspapers urging constituents to call him to vote for Contra aid, Stallings said his constituents reject more aid. "My phone calls have been running about five to one against contra aid," the two-term Rexburg Democrat said.

"People in Idaho tend to be against foreign aid of all kinds," he explained. "There's not a lot of support for either side (in the Nicaraguan civil war). Both sides are seen as bandits."

Reagan has asked Congress for the money to provide mainly non-military aid to the rebels who are fighting the Sandinista government that has ruled Nicaragua since the dictator Anastasio Somoza was overthrown in 1979. The aid proposal includes $3.6 million for weapons; that money would be placed in an escrow account while the peace process continues.

The House is scheduled to vote on the request on Wednesday. If the House approves the request and that's considered doubtful — the Senate may vote on the request the next day.

"The House Democratic leadership is working to defeat the request, saying the aid would disrupt the peace process that began with a peace plan written by Costa Rican President Oscar Arias. The Republican leadership and the White House maintains the aid is needed to pressure the Sandinista government to negotiate."

Stallings said he voted for aid to the contra in 1985, but voted against a request for $100 million in aid in 1986.

Meanwhile, Rep. Larry Craig, a long-time Reagan supporter who represents Idaho's First District, said he will vote for the aid request.

"I think the package, with both humanitarian and lethal aid being held in escrow pending action by the Sandinistas and the peace process, is one of the best proposals in a long while," the Republican from Midvale said.

"I'm amazed at those who would argue the peace process would be damaged (by the new aid). Just the opposite...the aid would be the ultimate club over (Nicaraguan President) Daniel Ortega's head to go to the bargaining table."

Craig said he believes most Idahoans support continued assistance to the contra and dismissed Stallings' contention that public opinion is just the opposite.

"If you ask Idahoans the question if they oppose foreign aid, the answer will be yes," Craig said. "If the Stallings uses that as an argument, he's arguing a false premise. If you ask Idahoans if they support the freedom fighters against communist tyranny in Central America, the answer will be yes."

Symms reportedly is backing an effort by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to provide $300 million in aid to the contra.

These claims Pipeline dealings 'lawful'

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Monday that his involvement with a proposed Iraq pipeline project was "entirely lawful, proper and responsible" — the 1985 memorandum from his close friend, E. Bob Wallach, raised "no grounds" for questioning the proposal.

Meese said he felt "compelled, for this one time," to take the unusual step of commenting publicly on the investigation being conducted by independent counsel James C. McKay.

He said he was responding to "a cascade of misinformation, false headlines, half-truths, innuendo and misunderstanding of the law" prompted by reports that McKay is focusing on a 1985 memo in which Wallach allegedly detailed a plan to make payments to the Israeli Labor Party to secure a guarantee that Iraq would not attack the proposed pipeline.

Reading from a prepared statement at the Justice Department, Meese said Wallach regularly sent him memos on an array of subjects and that he "rarely had time to read them thoroughly, particularly when they dealt — as these two did — with subjects outside my responsibilities as attorney general. I do not recall having read the specific words that have now mushroomed into importance, but I certainly did not receive from this memorandum — any — impression of illegality whatsoever."

In Israel Monday, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres' office disclosed that in 1985 Meese sent a handwritten letter on official stationery to Peres, then the prime minister, notifying him that Secretary of State George P. Shultz was unable to deal with Israel on the pipeline issue because he had been a top official of Bechtel Group Inc., the San Francisco-based company which proposed to build the pipeline. Meese said in the letter that all contacts on the matter would be with then-national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane.

The pipeline was to run 540 miles from Iraq's Kirkuk oil fields to the Jordanian port of Amman, from Red Sea. Bechtel brought in Swiss businessman Bruno Rappaport, who has close ties to prominent Israeli figures, to help.

Rappaport in turn hired Wallach, Meese's friend of 30 years. Wallach was indicted by a federal grand jury in New York shortly before Christmas on racketeering, fraud and conspiracy charges for allegedly extracting payments from Wedtech Corp. in order to influence Meese and other federal officials.

Meese said Monday that when Wallach "sought my advice" in May of 1985, he referred him to Mr. McFarlane, and consideration of the project thereafter on behalf of the United States was handled — as it should have been — by the National Security Council staff.

A source familiar with McKay's inquiry said Meese's letter was sent in October 1985.

A senior State Department official said Monday that it was unusual for the attorney general to communicate directly with the head of a foreign government. A former official familiar with the pipeline said the State Department was involved in the pipeline through the spring of 1985, when it became clear the Iraqis had cooled to the project.

Ruling ignites fiery words about water

By JANE ROBISON Times-News writer

BOISE — A federal ruling struck like lightning and touched off prairie fires of rebellion Monday over state control of water.

State officials and lawmakers continued to react angrily to a decision issued by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission last week that effectively takes away state control in appropriating water upstream from licensed hydropower projects.

"This is going to enrage the Western United States," said Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Resources.

"This is the stuff of which civil disobedience is made," said Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, chairman of the Senate Resources Committee.

FERC last week refused IDWR's request to reform the Horseshoe Bend hydroelectric project on the Payette River near the city of Horseshoe Bend in Boise County.

The state wanted FERC to condition the license to future upstream depletions in the Payette River, Higginson said.

"By denying the request, FERC said the subordination clause would give the state, rather than FERC, ul-timinate control over hydro projects.

In its decision, FERC said the state's right to permit unlimited diversion upstream of a hydro project "could nullify the balance between environmental protection and power generation."

Higginson said FERC's position was "untenable."

"I cannot understand the basis for a federal interest in small hydro projects, located entirely within a state," he said.

He urged the congressional delegation "to act immediately to prevent FERC from over-reaching into matters that are the province of state and local leaders."

Noh said FERC's ruling does several things. It now lets the decision-making process heavily in favor of out-of-state energy sales.

In addition, if someone wants to build a house in Cascade or along the Wood River, that person will need federal approval if it means digging a well, officials said.

The ruling also gives a new spin on why FERC denied Idaho Pym Company's filing for the Wiley Dam project near Bliss, Tacoma City and Light is now studying the same site.

FERC said it denied the license to see KULING on Page A2.

'Churched' youth start sex early

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — More than 40 percent of teenagers who attend conservative churches have had sexual intercourse by the age of 18, while one-third decline to brand sex outside marriage as morally unacceptable, according to a study released Monday.

The "Teen Sex Survey in the Evangelical Church" found that 49 percent of the "churched" youth who responded to a confidential four-page questionnaire had sexual intercourse by their 18th birthday.

Thirty-five percent of the 17-year-olds said they had engaged in sexual intercourse, while 26 percent of the 16-year-olds said they had had intercourse.

The questionnaire was given to 1,438 young people, aged 12 to 18, last June and August. Eight evangelical denominations conducted the study.

New Idaho justice takes seat as double debates continue

The Associated Press

BOISE — Veteran trial attorney Byron Johnson took his seat on the Idaho Supreme Court Monday amid continuing debate over whether his addition will shift the high court's balance to the left.

But in a ceremony marking the first change in the court's membership in six years, Chief Justice Alvin Shepard, part of what many view as the court's conservative bloc, joined others in praising Johnson as an intelligent, thoughtful and compassionate man.

"Those of us who have known him for a long time know that more than anything else, Mr. Justice Johnson is his own man," Shepard told some 200 people after administering the oath of office.

Johnson, 50, a Boise attorney and Idaho City resident, was appointed by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus last month to replace Justice Charles Donaldson, who died of a heart attack in October.

Some critics of the appointment said Johnson's history as a defense attorney, counsel for the Idaho Education Association and a state board member for the American Civil Liberties Union might indi-of nominees selected by the state Judicial Council, a process intended to keep politics out of court appointments.

But Republicans on the Senate panel questioned whether the three-year terms and the checks and balances are all but impossible for voters to oust a Supreme Court justice.

"There are those who feel like it's been very polite the way it's been handled," said Sen. Ed Morgan, R-Twin Falls. He echoed comments made by some GOP lawmakers — when Johnson was appointed about the potential that he could shift the court away from the more conservative tone it had with Donaldson's swing vote.

Out of courtesy to sponsor Ann Reynolds of Idaho Falls, a Republican Democrat aborted an attempt to block introduction of the confirmation mandate.

But Coeur d'Alene Democrat Mary Lou Reed said, "We have a mechanism in place that is remarkably good."

She said the controversy over new U.S. Supreme Court justice points out "what a political football a Supreme Court appointment can be."

Candidates step up verbal barrages

By The Associated Press

White President George Bush said Monday he is better qualified for the Vice House than rivals he dismissed as "creatures of Congress," and Democrat Bruce Babbitt criticized six-term Rep. Richard Gephardt as a "lifelong Washington insider" trying to run against the establishment.

In the paper chase, Bush and Sen. Bob Dole each picked up $6.3 million during the last quarter of 1987 — more than many of the candidates collected all year.

Meanwhile, another contender for the Republican nomination, Pat Robertson, accused the Bush campaign of Watergate-style dirty tricks in the wake of the Michigan convention. The former television evangelist's supporters "cried foul" after Bush captured a lion's share of Michigan's delegates over the weekend.

"The things that are being said, the anti-Christian bashing that going on by the Bush forces, such things as calling evangelicals fascists and Nazis, putting out literature with Mr. Bush's picture on it saying 'keep these fundamentalists out of the party,' Robertson told a news conference in Washington.

"There's been some really raw stuff going on and I thought we were past that after Watergate," he said.

Robertson refused to assess his chances in Kansas county caucuses that began Monday and continue through Sunday. Pro-Dole state party officials, worried about a possible Robertson threat, have been urging Kansas via radio ads to turn out and vote for the favorite son.

Bush slammed members of Congress, his main target obviously Dole, during a speech in New Hampshire.

"Six of the 13 people running for president are creatures of Congress, "Bush said.

"I've run an essential government agency. I made more decisions running the Central Intelligence Agency in a week than I did in four years as a congressman from Texas," Bush said. He said members of Congress lack leadership ability, quoting an old line, "It's hard to look up to a leader who has his ear to the ground."

Bush's court was off by one: Of the GOP candidates, Dole and New York Rep. Jack Kemp are current members of Congress and Peter D. Rant is a former House member. Of the Democrats, Gephardt, Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. are sitting members and Gary Hart is a former senator.

Earlier in the day, the vice president appeared on NBC's "Today" show and was questioned again about his role in the Iran-Contra affair.

"I've answered 98 questions in writing," he said. "We've had 88 press conferences ... I think the problem is, some people don't like the answers."

Robertson took on Gephardt in Iowa, where the Missouri congressman holds a narrow lead over the Democratic field. Gephardt has struck a populist stance in recent weeks and portrayed himself as the anti-establishment candidate, despite his six terms in the House where he holds the No. 4 leadership post.

"Plenty of politicians change their minds, and plenty of politicians stay as-is — as opportunists every now and then," Babbitt said. "But when Congressman Gephardt, the lifelong Washington insider, becomes candidate Gephardt, the scourge of the establishment, he shows a versatility of conviction that takes your breath away."

"Where I come from, Dick Gephardt is the establishment," the former Arizona governor said.

Kemp continued to criticize Dole and Bush on Social Security, calling them "double threats" to the governing benefit while campaigning in Mason City, Iowa.

But the GOP front-runners unleashed surrogates to respond to Kemp's charges. New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu came to Bush's defense and said a Kemp mauling that accused Dole and Bush of voting to limit Social Security increases "seems to have some aspects of a scorched earth policy," a Dole backer. New Hampshire Sen. Warren Rudman called the letter "quixotic."

"I fear that Rep-Kemp has started to engage in the politics of fear and distortion that prey on people," Rudman said.

The campaigns filed their final 1987 finance reports with the Federal Election Commission on Monday.

Thirty-eight percent of the survey group said they obtain most of their information about sex from their friends, while 27 percent listed movies as their main source and 23 percent said parents and school classes provided much of their information about sex.

Seventy-three percent said they got little or no information about sex from their church.

The teen-agers in the survey were predominantly white, from stable home environments and described themselves as A or B students.

Forty-four percent were from the central states and 27 percent from the South.

Andrus chooses chairman for juvenile jail committee

BOISE (AP) — Daniel J. Jacob, Sandpoint, was named Monday by Gov. Cecil Andrus as chairman of a committee studying the problems of juvenile jails.

Legislation authorizing the Jail Removal Committee requires that no juvenile may be housed in an adult jail after the end of 1988, with a few exceptions. The Jail Removal Committee is to study the removal of the Idaho Commission for Children and Youth.

Other members of the committee from the legislature include State Sen. Denzou Darrington, R-Declo; Sen. Mary Lou Reed, D-Coeur d'Alene; Rep. Robert Fay, R-Horse shoe Bend and Rep. Louis Horvath, D-Pinehurst.

Other members include Twin Falls County Commissioner Judy Felton; Nez Perce County Sheriff Ron Keoper; Lewiston; Benneville County Prosecutor Larry Eoh-Hawk; Magistrate John Dutcher, Boise; Roseanne Hardin, Boise, Department of Health and Welfare and P. Michael Burkett Jr., Boise.

In announcing the appointments, the governor said the Jail Removal Committee will come up with a plan to meet the requirement for jailing juveniles separately.

The governor also announced reappointment of William Vaughn of Pocatello to the Idaho Board of Architectural Examiners.

Watkins considering race

BOISE (AP) - Former state Sen. Dane Watkins of Idaho Falls is gathering an exploratory committee as a tentative step to running against Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho.

Watkins, who attended the state GOP Central Committee meeting in Boise over the weekend, has not officially thrown his hat in the ring.

Rep. Con Mahoney of Idaho Falls, who heads the Republican Party in Bonneville County, said the fact that Watkins did not bolt from the party after losing in 1986 to Mel Richardson has kept him in good standing with the party faithful.

John Scorechy of Idaho Falls, employed by former Congressman George Hansen's Washington-based consulting business, said his decision hinges on what his boss does. Hansen, who served a federal prison term for violations of financial disclosure laws, has not said whether he will make another bid for his old seat.

Keith Nyborg of Ashton, a former U.S. ambassador to Finland, is still considering a bid for the seat.

Slaying suspect at large

MALAD (AP) - The weekend slayings of two Utah men in this small southeastern Idaho farming community have left residents shocked and eager for authorities to find Victor Wade, the man suspected in the deaths.

Erven Wade, 52, of Sandy, Utah, and his brother Vern Wade, 63, of White City, Utah, were found dead Saturday morning at a ranch house on their family's property west of Malad.

Oneida County Prosecutor David Evans said a nationwide bulletin had been issued for 69-year-old Victor Wade, a brother of the slain men who was seen driving away from the ranch Saturday morning.

Autopsies were scheduled for the two victims in Pocatello on Monday, Ma. Wadley said. Evans said earlier it appeared both men had been shot, but no gun had been recovered.

Court throws out charge

BOISE (AP) - The misdemeanor conviction on a charge of enticing a child against an Ada County man was thrown out by the Idaho Court of Appeals on Monday.

The court ruled unanimously that Edward P. Sindak did not receive a trial within the six months guaranteed by law, and there was insufficient reason for the delay. Sindak was charged in September, 1985 with the misdemeanor crime of attempting to persuade a minor child to leave a trailer, without permission of the parents.

He pleaded innocent, trial was set for Nov. 1, was delayed until February, and then was delayed again until late April. The Court of Appeals said the Sindak case was delayed so local courts could accommodate more pressing cases, even though Sindak was ready for trial both times.

Senate endorses '89 revenue forecast

BOISE (AP) - The forecast for $673.3 million in revenue from the current tax structure, a critical element of the Republican drive to avoid an election-year tax increase, has won final legislative approval.

On a 29-10 vote Monday, the Senate endorsed the revenue projection for the spending year that begins in July over objections of "members from both parties who were optimistic considering the economic uncertainties facing the state and nation toward the end of this year and the beginning of next."

"I view the figure as being somewhat optimistic," conceded Sen. Jerry Hanson, R-Boise, a member of the joint committee that made the recommendation.

"But I do not view it as blatantly optimistic," Hanson said. "It would be a mistake for us to send a message to the people of this state that we do not have the confidence to hold this economy together."

Approved by the House last week, the projection is $7.7 million more than the forecast issued by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus and pushed the outer limits of economic predictions from dozens of experts. It also had to survive an attack in the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee, where a coalition of Democrats and Republicans tried to reduce it by $2 million. They urged more caution in case the economy takes a dive in the next 12 to 18 months.

"If we come up short, it's no laughing matter because the governor has to call a holdback and everyone suffers," warned Sen. Phil Batt, R-Wilder, although he ultimately supported the estimate.

The projection coupled with an anticipated surplus, additional tax collections from increased auditing and a bipartisan-backed change in the insurance premium tax gives legislative budget writers just enough money to draft a spending plan that keeps government services at or near current levels, provides a modest state worker pay hike and underwrites some relatively inexpensive but high profile new or expanded programs.

But that maintenance-level budget, some $23 million below the governor's recommendation, precludes the massive infusions of cash into education called for by the Andrus, who proposed another large tax-increase package to pay the bill.

For the past week or more, however, Republican legislative leaders have all but declared the governor's tax plan dead, and officials say the GOP majorities in both chambers are close to a consensus on a new budget at or just below the $680 million level.

School entry may edge back

BOISE (AP) - A House committee has given preliminary approval to a bill moving the minimum age for entering kindergarten in Idaho back two months.

A parent protested it provided no exceptions for children who are socially and academically ready to enter kindergarten.

"There are children who belong in school who will not be there," said J. B. Johnston, Nampa. "Chronological age is a poor way to determine whether a child is ready to go to school," he said.

The House Education Committee on Monday voted to introduce proposed legislation from Byron Yankey, principal of Lincoln Elementary in the Nampa School District.

Idaho allows children to enter kindergarten if they reach age 6 by Oct. 15 of the entering year. Yankey said that allows some 4-year-olds to enter kindergarten.

His legislation moves the entering age back one month next year and one month the school year after that. So by 1990, children would have to be age 6 by Aug. 15 to enter kindergarten.

Proposal to limit access to police records triggers concern

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

BOISE — Attorney General Jim Jones on Monday introduced a bill to substantially limit public access to police records, a measure that some lawyers and the news media fear goes too far.

If passed, Jones' bill would prohibit the release of names, addresses or phone numbers of victims or witnesses of a crime.

"I think this is a good bill. The National Association of Attorney Generals thinks this is a good bill. And the father of a rape victim in Moscow thinks this is a good bill," Jones said.

Jones said the bill is designed to protect the privacy of victims and witnesses and to prevent their harassment, although Jones only cited one specific case in seven years when it was a problem.

Jones said he received a letter from a distraught father of a rape victim in Moscow whose name was published.

But the prosecuting attorney of Latah County, Greg Moaman, said Monday he was not aware of any problems.

"We had a rape trial in November last year, and I thought the paper showed admi-nable restraint," Moaman said. "If that's the case he's talking about, the paper never published the name of the victim."

From a prosecuting attorney's perspective, Moaman said he did not see the necessity of the law.

"There are laws on the books to protect the victims and witnesses already," Moaman said.

Jones said the bill will not interfere with the right of an accused person to learn the facts upon which the charges against him are based.

But the news media and some lawyers are viewing the proposal with concern.

"I suspect the problem is largely exaggerated," said Boise lawyer Ron Bush, a lobbyist for Idaho Allied Dailies. "I think there is a legitimate concern to protect victims. But by and large, most newspapers handle information very responsibly."

Times-News Managing Editor Steve Hartgen said the proposal would shut off knowledge of a crime in the community.

"I think we need to keep in mind that publicity is a public issue, not just a law enforcement issue," Hartgen said. "People have a right to know as part of citizen awareness and participation in government."

Hartgen wrote a letter to lawmakers urging defeat of the bill.

Boise lawyer Allan Derr, a board member of the Idaho Press Club who served on the First Amendment Committee, said any step blocking public access "is a dangerous step."

"I haven't observed a need for it, although we all want to see victims protected," he said. "I don't think enterprising reporters are going to be hampered by this."

Derr also agrees with Hartgen that information is necessary to allow the public to monitor law enforcement activities.

Jones admitted that the information would become public at a trial.

"We believe the opportunity to harass is over once the person spills the beans in court," Jones said. "At that point, there is no leverage the criminal has against the victim."

Jones then lashed out at reporters questioning him on the proposal.

"We're trying to serve the public. If you don't like it, you can clam it in the press," he said.

Official 'optimistic' about joint venture for cancer center

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Regional Medical Center Administrator John Bingham says he's "optimistic" about a joint venture with a Boise company to build a cancer-treatment center in Twin Falls.

The Boise-based Mountain States Tumor Institute withdrew plans to build its own cancer center when MVRMC announced its intention to start up its own center.

Bingham's comments, given during an update on the county hospital's plans at a hospital board meeting Monday, were based on a meeting with MSTI officials last Friday.

Even though discussions are preliminary in nature, they were very open to our options," Bingham said. "I'm optimistic, relative to those options."

Bingham talks with MSTI come on the heels of a petition drive that collected more than 3,000 signatures urging MSTI to reconsider its decision not to open a cancer center in Twin Falls.

MVRMC says it will not use property taxes to pay for the center and it has always been willing to work with MSTI to develop the plan.

Bingham said MSTI officials are taking the options he discussed with the Boise cancer center to their medical staff for more discussion.

Meanwhile, MVRMC is forging ahead with its planning for the $2 million-plus center.

Bingham said architects have been instructed to draw plans to add the center onto the east end of the hospital.

In addition, they were instructed to use as much existing, unused space in the current hospital as possible, Bingham said.

However, problems may arise with MVRMC's long-term traffic plans because the building will intrude on planned traffic flow.

Bingham said the architects will meet with hospital officials again Feb. 9 with plans and preliminary costs.

MVRMC is also working up feasibility studies based on various assumed patient counts and costs, Bingham said. The hospital's medical staff is recruiting oncologists — doctors who specialize in treating cancer.

A Twin Falls-based group, Advocates for MSTI, has been actively urging the Boise-based cancer center.

Front Page seeks dismissal of suit

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Front Page Book Store has asked for dismissal of a lawsuit demanding the store's closure because the bookstore in Twin Falls has closed its Twin Falls location.

The Front Page, which moved out of its Blue Lakes Boulevard North location last week, requested the dismissal Friday in 5th District Court.

The adult bookstore's request came one day after the plaintiffs, a group of anti-pornography citizens called Determined Citizens Against Pornography (DCAG), asked the court to dismiss the suit.

The lawsuit said the state should close the bookstore because it sold what the plaintiffs called pornography.

In their suit, DCAG asked 5th District Judge James May to declare obscene and video bought by a DCAG member as pornography.

Under Idaho "moral-nuisance" law, the court could close the store, prohibit any business from using the building for one year, and force the landlords to turn over all rent money received from the business to the state.

However, Idaho's moral-nuisance statute required pegging the suit to a piece of property or building.

Since the building the Front Page occupied is now vacant, DCAG's suit doesn't have the grounds necessary to sue, DCAG lawyer Brent Nielsen said last week.

R. Keith Roark, attorney for the Front Page, asked May to dismiss the suit for the same reason Friday.

He said the suit should be dismissed because "all operations at the Front Page Book Store in Twin Falls, Idaho, have ceased and there is no longer any nuisance to abate even if such a nuisance previously existed."

Roark went on to say his "defendants do not and have throughout these proceedings emphatically denied" that a nuisance existed at the store.

DCAG filed the lawsuit Dec. 3 under a rarely-used "moral-nuisance" statute in Idaho. They asked the court to decide that the bookstore was selling pornography, which would open the door to further sanctions.

But the owners of Front Page's building, Jay and Barbara Movie of Filer, said they already decided not to renew the bookstore's lease when it expired Feb. 29.

The bookstore moved out of its Blue Lakes store early last week, and by Thursday all that was left was a sign on the door telling video club members to send their videotapes to a Jerome post office box.

The Jerome post office box is the box used by Pete Gregory, listed by DCAG's lawsuit as a manager of the store.

May held a hearing on the Front Page suit and he will hold a hearing Thursday in the Twin Falls Judicial Annex on both dismissal motions.

Foundation nets $74,000 for CSI

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Foundation raised $74,000 for scholarships, library endowments, telecommunications and other projects in its latest foundation fund-raising drive.

The drive, which started in November and concluded Jan. 15, had a goal of $70,000. The foundation received about $50,000 last year, which was approximately that year's goal.

"In addition to people recognizing the institution, I think people realize that there's an economic benefit of giving to the college," said Curtis H. Eaton, president of the foundation. "The college, through its programs, really gives back to the community more than they (the donors) give."

A donor could target his money for a specific project, Eaton said. However, he said most of the money went to a "where it's needed most" category, where the college can decide where to spend the money.

Specific projects include the Dr. Taylor Memorial Scholarship Fund, a permanent endowment fund for the college library and a telecommunications link-up with other colleges.

The library is funding a permanent endowment, said foundation Executive Director Joan Edwards, instead of using money raised in the fund drive only to buy equipment on a year-by-year basis.

"The history of the use of that fund is to purchase library equipment," Edwards said. "Last year we just spent the money on projects coming up."

The college also is equipping a classroom for two-way telecommunications link-ups with other colleges. Edwards said past telecommunications technology only allowed colleges to broadcast a lecture into a classroom.

With the equipment CSI wants to buy, it will be possible to have a "where it's needed most" category, where the college can decide where to spend the money.

State takes on groundwater contamination limits

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The state has long had rules on the siting of petroleum and other hazardous waste landfills. And rules on gasoline storage tanks are in the works.

Now the state, in an effort to prevent pollution problems, is trying to come up with a way to measure the effect of these installations and other types of activities on groundwater. The proposed rules to protect the groundwater will work in conjunction with other state regulations.

The issue has importance to Idahoans because 90 percent of the communities in the state, including Twin Falls, rely on groundwater for their drinking water, said Cheryl Brower, principal water quality analyst for the state Division of Environment.

The public comment period on the rules ended Monday. The rules have raised the hackles of the business community and there are moves afoot in Boise to increase the involvement of affected businesses in the groundwater rules question.

At this point the state is being encouraged by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to develop groundwater rules, but some see the threat of greater federal involvement if the state doesn't take the initiative on groundwater.

The rules classify groundwater into different categories based on water quality. The idea is to provide the appropriate level of protection, said Brower.

Most water is in the class two category, including domestic drinking water, and requires minimal treatment, she said. The Rathdrum Prairie Aquifer in northern Idaho is the only class one, Brower said.

"The groundwater standards are a line in the sand that can't be passed," Brower said.

The rules include limits on the extent to which groundwater can be contaminated, said Brower. The limits are set up to trigger action at a particular site before a serious situation is reached, she said.

"Preventive action is a lot more safe and cost-effective," she said. The idea is to seek private-party money to clean up a site. In an extreme case, the alternative may be federal money to clean up a Superfund site, Brower said.

Helping to offset those small losses was the new advertising through a Dodge sponsorship and on 10 chute-gates that earned $5,125.

Also, a Monster Mash and Flying Combses show last May, by the American Truck Pullers, brought in $5,792.

Total operating revenue jumped from $302,672 in 1986 to $323,711 in 1987.

Gatlin Brothers top bill for fair

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers are coming. The Twin Falls County Fair Board voted Monday to hire the country-western band for the first night of the fair, Sept. 6. Tickets are expected to go on sale beginning in late June.

"We're excited about it," said board Chairman Stan Snow.

The fair board accepted an audit for 1986 and 1987 and decided to distribute cash prizes instead of checks for this year's contests.

Landing a big-name band for the fair is expected to boost attendance on an otherwise slow Tuesday evening. Board member Emmett Harrison, who worked on signing the band, conservatively estimated that two one-hour shows could draw 7,500 people.

Snow said the board's only tripulation involved $16,500 in front money. The Gatlin Brothers are guaranteed $15,000 and management gets another 10 percent.

But the board approved $7 general-admission grandstand tickets, so that as few as 3,000 tickets would break even.

Harrison said he knew of couples that would go for $7 each, plus fair admission, parking and food, making a $20 evening. But he said $10 or $12 tickets would be prohibitive.

"I know those $17.50 tickets are what killed the Randy Travis show in Boise," Harrison said. "I'm thinking for the run-of-the-mill people — I think for $7 apiece they'll go."

Board member Jack Ramsey agreed with the $7 price. But while conceding there were different audiences for tractor pulls and country music, he asked rhetorically why tickets for events varied so much.

"If people will pay $12 or $13 to watch combines drive through the mud, why won't they pay that to see the Gatlin Brothers?" he said.

Fair Manager Dan Peters estimated that setting up necessary lighting and sound equipment would fall within $3,500, to meet the board's target of $20,000 total for the event.

The $7 tickets, the $3,500 grandstands could sell out. But selling more than that number isn't as advantageous, because the Gatlin Brothers will get 70 cents for every dollar sold after the first $40,000.

Additional fair admissions, parking, extra people riding carnival rides and concessions are all expected to benefit from this return to a fair entertainment night, last seen during the 1950s and 1960s.

The 1987 fair audit, presented by accountant Robert Valentine, showed that admissions and carnival rides were off slightly from the previous year. But added equipment and building rental, and new livestock and advertising revenues brought total operations to nearly $325,000.

Donor stock sold $99,277 for the year ending last Sept. 30. Fair gate for 1986 was $109,331.

Likewise, carnival rides brought in $59,249 last year, compared to $51,730 the year before.

Slain officer buried on his birthday; some 1,500 attend

OREM, Utah (AP) — A state corrections officer slain during the climax of a polygamist clan's standoff with police was described Monday as a throwback to the Old West who nearly always wore his own hat.

Some 1,600 attended the funeral at the state Department of Corrections Lt. Fred House on what would have been his 38th birthday, including about 400 law enforcement officers from as far away as Aberdeen, Md.

"I was not surprised that Fred gave his life. He was like a person from another time, like a samurai. He was not afraid of die. We knew that. We felt it," Kent Chapman, a close friend, told the crowd.

Chapman said people like to tell "Fred stories," which he described as "kind of like Davy Crockett, but they're all true."

House, married and the father of three small children, was killed Monday by a bullet fired from the main entrance on the clan's compound in Marion, about 60 miles east of Salt Lake City.

Meanwhile, all but one clan member remained in custody following detention hearings in Boise on Tuesday. Monday and a sixth, ring-leader Addam Swapp, recovering from two bullet wounds, was upgraded from serious to satisfactory condition at a Salt Lake hospital.

Vickie Singer, one of the clan's leaders, and three other polygamist John Singer, were held in custody while one of her daughters, Charlotte Singer Swapp, 19, was released to a community treatment center where she can visit with her child.

Meanwhile, Judge Ronald Boycock under advisement until Tuesday a detention hearing for Heidi Singer Swapp, 23, who has five children, including a nursing 10-month-old. Heidi Swapp's attorney had asked for some kind of conditional release, but U.S. Attorney Boyd H. Haws said there was no evidence she would not orchestrate another siege like the one just ended.

Also, Boyce ordered wheelchair-bound John Timothy Singer, 21, to remain in custody, but he said he would review the case if any charges are filed against him.

David Schwindman, deputy U.S. attorney, said state charges "are being considered seriously" against Singer. Earlier, officials said that the shot that killed House apparently was fired from a window where Singer was sitting.

Boyce did order Jonathan Swapp, 21, detained and Ward said he posted a risk of flight.

Gary DeLand, Department of Corrections director, said House would have thrived in the Old West, where lawmen were given $2 for rounding up fugitives.

"When faced with one of the most difficult situations in the history of Utah, Fred House was one of the first ones called. He was a central part of every plan, every scenario, in order to bring that situation to its end," DeLand said of the standoff with the clan's six adults and nine children.

House and members of an FBI SWAT team infiltrated the compound last Thursday, hoping to use an attack dog to isolate Swapp outside the clan's log house and thus peacefully end the 13-day siege which began Jan. 16 with the bombing of a Mormon chapel.

DeLand said FBI officials have said the German shepherd hesitated in its attack and as House exposed himself in a doorway to urge the animal on, he was shot from the house. Authorities have said privately they believe the fatal shot was fired by John Timothy Singer, 21, the wheelchair-bound son of the clan's patriarch, Vickie Singer.

DeLand described House as "kind of a freelancer." "When something needed to be done that was difficult, DeLand says he would tell his officers, 'Let's get our ninjas.'"

He said House, who had more success finding fugitives than anyone in the state, would dress like a bum and pass a bottle around with other bums if that's what it took to find his quarry.

"Fred's death will not cause this family to hate," said his sister, Dawn Tracy, a Salt Lake Tribune reporter. "We'll leave punishment to the criminal justice system and God."

Gov. Norin Bangerter attended the funeral, which was held at the First Presbyterian Church of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints who brought a letter of condolence from the faith's ruling First Presidency.

Also present was a delegation from the Alabama Canine Law Enforcement Training Center in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Its director, Ted Sexton, said House had graduated in the past year in the top 5 percent of all graduates.

At the Orem City Cemetery later, a killed bagpiper played "Amazing Grace" as mourners gathered around the flag-draped coffin carried by police pallbearers. A 12-member honor guard fired three times and the flag was given to House's widow, Ann, along with the state's Medal of Valor.

Tautomu Ohshima, House's karate instructor, said, "You not only were strong and courageous but warm and greatly loved by many people."

Addam Swapp, who was shot in the left forearm and chest, should be well enough to leave the hospital this week, although authorities worry he may become of security concern, said University of Utah Health Sciences Center spokesman John Dwan.

perfund money goes towards cleaning up the most hazardous waste sites in the country.

A well with high nitrate levels is not going to be a Superfund site, also said.

But whether the standards will ever be put into effect is another question. When the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry held a meeting on the rules recently, it was the biggest turnout ever, said Matt Eames, IACI lobbyist.

There were concerns from farming, agricultural processors and the mining industry about whether the state would go to a permit system to protect groundwater, Eames said.

A lot of people had concerns about preventive action limits, he said.

The Legislature is also starting to make noise about the rules and may want to pass a law on groundwater protection, said state Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly.

The Legislature has been getting "stuck" from the public that there needs to be more public input on the groundwater issue, said Noh, chairman of the Senate Resources and Environment Committee.

Noh said there will be an interim legislative study committee to look into the groundwater question.

Noh said it is not clear at this point whether the state will have rules on groundwater or whether the Legislature will get into the act and draw up a law on the subject.

"It has to be worked out," he said.

check. Several hundred dollars in premium checks would routinely go uncashed, in denominations of $3 or so, breaking havoc with bookkeeping after the fair.

Also, the fair itself may benefit from the switch.

"That'll be $19,000 in circulation at fair time," said board member Don Kramer, referring to total amount awarded during the week-long fair.

Peters will check with banking officials to determine the legality of putting sliders on the premium money to see how it is spent.

In other business, the board was reminded that its theme contest will be decided at the next board meeting. People are encouraged to submit suggestions for the 1988 fair's theme, using the word "magic" in the title.

Entries should be mailed to the Twin Falls County Fair Theme Contest, Box 257, Filer, Idaho, 83428.

The winner to be chosen at the March 7 board meeting, will receive fair tickets and carnival passes for the week of the fair.

For two years, MVMRC, MSTI and the privately-owned Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital discussed opening a cancer center in Twin Falls.

However, talks broke down and MSTI decided to proceed on its own after its officials heard an Ogden-based company was planning to open a cancer center in the Magic Valley.

The medical staff at MVMRC urged its administration to proceed with its own center when MSTI started making its own plans. MVMRC's board of directors responded by announcing its decision in December.

House speaker calls Micron vice chair 'front man' for BSU

MOSCOW (AP) — Idaho House Speaker Tom Boyd is lambasting the tone in the debate over engineering courses at Boise State University, calling Micron Technology Vice Chairman Ward Parkinson a "front man" in a campaign to create a BSU College of Engineering.

"My personal opinion is that Ward Parkinson is the front man to put pressure on to get an engineering school at Boise State," the Genesee Republican charged.

Boyd had earlier complained of the way the state has been "jerked around" by Micron, which has blasted Idaho educational quality in justifying its reconsideration of a decision for a major expansion in Boise. Parkinson said last month the company was looking beyond its Idaho base to Phoenix, Portland and Kansas City.

Parkinson said on Monday he did not mind being viewed as a "front man" for BSU.

"Anything that increases access to quality engineering in Boise, I hope to be involved with," he said.

Gov. Cecil Andrus entered the debate late last week when he told University of Idaho officials that any extension of engineering courses beyond Moscow would be under their purview. But Andrus emphasized that if engineering or other courses are needed elsewhere in Idaho, the university would provide them.

Boyd was joined by Reps. James Lucas, R-Moscow, and Don Markin,

D-Moscow, in complaining about the perception that Boise State was using the industry demand spearheaded by Micron officials for additional engineering courses in southwest Idaho to gain additional financial support from the Board of Education.

"There have been hidden agendas and in place of that there should have been people working for a bigger pie," said Lucas.

But, holding up a newspaper article on BSU President John Keiser's call last week for $60-million in state incentives to keep Micron expanding in Boise, Lucas added that "not all the agendas have been hidden."

Ward Parkinson said Micron was "deeply appreciative" that the University of Idaho has taken steps to provide engineering courses in Boise, "but when will the student be able to complete an engineering degree in Boise without leaving the city?"

Currently, engineering degrees are only offered on the Idaho campus in Moscow and Idaho State campus in Pocatello.

Bill would give lakes' water control to DWR

BOISE (AP) — With almost no discussion, the House Resources and Conservation Committee has approved introduction of legislation stripping water right control on four Idaho lakes from the Department of Water Resources to the Department of Parks and Recreation.

"This places the authority where I think it would be, where all the expertise is in the state of Idaho," said sponsor Rep. Bruce Newcomb, R-Burley.

The committee on Monday gave routine approval to two bills which Chairman Rep. Dean Haagenson, R-Coeur d'Alene, announced last week he was having prepared.

One bill would reverse the effect of a 1927 law granting Idaho's governor control over water rights on Lake-Pend-Oreille, Lake-Coeur d'Alene and Priest Lake. It also would impact Payette Lake, which is covered in another law.

The bill would declare that control over surface water rights is under the Department of Water Resources.

"My only question is what is a guy from Burley doing with a bill on my lake," said Rep. James Stochell, D-Sandpoint, minority party leader in the House.

"It's a tradeoff," said Newcomb, who then presented a second bill taking similar action on five scenic Magic Valley areas.

It would shift control of water rights from the Department of Parks and Recreation to the water agency.

Parks and Recreation now holds water rights to protect recreation and similar use at Niagara Springs, Big Springs, Box Canyon and Malad Canyon. The bill also stipulates that if hydroelectric generation ever gets at Thousand Springs, the water rights then would be shifted to Water Resources.

Stochell was recorded as voting against both bills.

Rep. Ken Robison, D-Boise, said current law vests water rights in Parks and Recreation to protect re-

U.S.-Soviet meetings slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz plans to put heavy emphasis on human rights and other U.S.-Soviet problems, not arms control alone, when he opens a series of monthly sessions Feb. 21-22 with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze in Moscow.

Shultz is also striking the drive for a treaty to cut strategic nuclear forces in his, whether or not the accord will be ready to sign at the next superpower summit. Shultz and other U.S. officials are focused on a much broader agenda, however.

Assistant Secretary Rozanne L. Ridgway, who will accompany Shultz on the trip, said Monday that he will give equal weight to the campaign to persuade the Soviets to improve living conditions for their people and to lower emigration barriers.

Jurors screened in KKK trial

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Attorneys Monday questioned potential jurors in the murder trial of two former Ku Klux Klan leaders accused in the death of a black teen-ager who was beaten and hanged from a tree in a case that eventually drove a Klan organization into bankruptcy.

Mobile Circuit Judge Michael Zoghby withheld rulings on several pretrial motions Monday, including a defense request to exclude blacks from the jury.

Bennie Jack Hays, 72, and his son-in-law, Frank Cox, 32, were indicted in August in the March 1981 beating death of Michael Donald, 19, whose death resulted in a $7 million civil verdict that led to bankruptcy for the United Klans of America.

Zoghby gave attorneys permission to question potential jurors individually after nearly all the panelists raised their hand when asked if they had heard of the case. Zoghby estimated the trial would last a week.

Freed man opposes contra aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Illinois farmer released by the Nicaraguan government after 56 days in prison said Monday he opposes aid to Contra rebels even though he once helped them.

Flanked by the men who secured his release, James Denby told reporters he is more than glad to support their position: rejection of President Reagan's request for a so-called down-$36.2-million-aid package for the Contras.

"I'll pretty well go along with it," Denby said at a news conference in the Capitol. "Anybody who will do what they did for me, I want to help them in any way I can."

The House is scheduled to vote Wednesday on the administration's aid request, and Denby said he was sure the congressional debate was a factor in his release two months after his small plane was forced down over Nicaragua.

"These people are certainly not dumb," he said of the leftist Sandinista government that set him free Saturday.

Desire to fix contract alleged

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aide to Edwin Meese III "wanted to orchestrate" the award of a defense contract to Wedtech Corp., which conducted a 1982 White House meeting, the Army's top procurement official testified Monday.

The May 19, 1982, meeting called by then-deputy presidential counselor James E. Jenkins "changed the course" of the Army's unwillingness to grant Wedtech the no-bid contract, Assistant Army Secretary Jay Raymond Sculley said at the illegal-lobbying trial of former presidential aide Lyn Nofziger.

In other testimony, former budget director David A. Stockman described a 1982 directive signed by President Reagan expressing continued support for production of a warplane made by a company Nofziger was representing.

Stockman said Reagan signed the memo to get support for the $98.3 billion tax hike from several Republican congressmen who wanted to save the A-19 anti-tank plane.

Nofziger is accused, among other things, of improperly lobbying National Security Council officers on behalf of Fairchild Republic Co., which made the A-10.

Mecham refuses to answer questions

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Evan Mecham denied wrongdoing Monday before a House panel considering his possible impeachment; but the hearing was abruptly adjourned when he refused to answer questions from House attorneys.

Speaker Joe Lane, like Mecham a Republican, said lawmakers would discuss whether to subpoena the governor, hold him in contempt or forego his testimony in deciding whether to impeach him.

Also Monday, Mecham, in office just barely over a year, was ordered to face a recall election on May 17. He also faces a March 9 trial on criminal charges accusing him of concealing a $350,000 campaign loan.

"I am in this case the accused, not just another witness," Mecham told House select committee Chairman Jim Skelly.

The governor, who previously had promised to answer House questions with "no conditions," said he would answer questions from lawmakers but not from their attorneys.

"Governor, it's obvious that you feel that you should not comply with the rules that every other witness has complied with," Skelly said. He adjourned the hearing "until such time as you decide you will comply with our rules."

The House could decide by mid-week whether to impeach Mecham. Lane has said if the governor is impeached, Secretary of State Ross Moford, a Democrat, would take over as acting governor while Mecham faced trial in the Senate.

Earlier Monday, the governor made an opening statement to the House panel in which he denied wrongdoing in his failure to report a $350,000 campaign loan and an $80,000 loan from the governor's protocol fund to his auto dealership.

The governor did not directly address a third allegation that he tried to thwart a state investigation of an alleged death threat, instead saying he had not been fully informed about the alleged threat.

Inouye concedes he made 'error in judgment'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, saying "I have made an error in judgment," told the Senate Monday that he wants Congress to rescind $8 million to build schools in France for North African Jews.

But Inouye, D-Hawaii, defended his action in supporting the program, which drew widespread criticism from members of Congress, the Reagan administration and civil liberties groups.

Forty-one House members co-sponsored legislation last week that would have blocked the expenditure, said Rep. Harris W. Fawell, R-Ill., the bill's author.

The American Civil Liberties Union filed suit Monday in federal court challenging the constitutionality of the provision, and the American Jewish Committee was looking into the legality of building religious schools abroad. In the United States, such a program would violate the constitutional separation of church and state.

Inouye, in an emotional speech on the Senate floor, said he continued to believe that his actions in pushing for the program were appropriate, and he attacked his critics.

"Never before have I felt the lash of such unjust and unfounded criticism," he said. "Nonetheless, I have concluded that, if this avalanche of criticism is allowed to continue, this institution — the Senate which I honor and respect — could suffer."

"I have made an error in judgment," he declared. "I fear that I have embarrassed — my colleagues. I intend to correct that error."

Inouye said he would "move as quickly as possible" in the Senate to have the appropriation rescinded.

He said he also had asked Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., "to place before the House a bill to rescind the $8 million."

Bush leads fund-raising at $19 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential front-runners George Bush and Bob Dole each collected more than $6.3 million during the last quarter of 1987, more than all but one of the Democratic candidates raise all year, reports released Monday showed.

Dole, the senator from Kansas, edged out the vice president for the three months ending Dec. 31, taking in $6.35 million to Bush's $6.33 million.

Former television evangelist Pat Robertson took in $4.7 million for the quarter, making his total for the year $16.4 million. But Robertson ended the year with $2 million in debts after borrowing $1.5 million, and with only $108,650 in cash on hand.

Bush remained the overall fund-raising leader, with a cumulative total of $19 million for the campaign, while Dole's total jumped to $14.3 million, according to their reports on file with the Federal Election Commission.

On the Democratic side, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis had his least productive financial quarter since entering the race, with receipts of $2.6 million.

2 Palestinians killed in Israeli gunfire

ANABTA, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Israelis killed two Arabs and wounded three others Monday when they opened fire on a crowd of stone-throwing Palestinians who had trapped a "convoy" of soldiers and civilians, the army said.

Soldiers wounded four Arabs in two other clashes, a military spokesman said. The Arab-owned Palestine Press Service put the number of Arabs wounded by gunfire at 22 and provided a list of names.

Troops battled Palestinians in protests throughout the West Bank and Gaza Strip, leaving more than a dozen Arabs hospitalized with beating injuries and three soldiers injured by stones.

The renewed violence caused the first deaths from gunfire since Jan. 15 and brought to 41 the confirmed Arab death toll in the rioting that began Dec. 8. It came as the United States was exploring ways to revive the stalled Middle East peace process.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said he hoped the new U.S. initiative would lead to political negotiations, but he warned that Israel would use force and collective punishment to quell protests.

"I just want to make it clear to Palestinian residents of the territories that we are ready — even if it demands lengthy action — to act with force," he said on Israel TV's Arabic-language program.

In response to the upsurge of violence, the army clamped curfews on seven refugee camps and two towns.

In Anabta, a town about 60 miles northwest of Jerusalem, hundreds of protesters barricaded the Nablus-Tulkarem highway and stoned Israeli vehicles, an army spokeswoman said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Freighter crew taken to Iran

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Salvage crews worked to save a disabled Greek-owned freighter in the northern Persian Gulf on Monday after the 22 crew members apparently were rescued and taken to Iran, shipping sources said Monday.

There were conflicting reports on whether the ship was attacked by Iraq or Iran, enemies in a 7-year-old war. Iraq hits Iranian-chartered vessels and Iran has raised ships doing business with Gulf countries it considers Iraqi allies.

Also, in the northern gulf, another U.S.-escorted Kuwaiti tanker arrived safely, the U.S. Navy said. It was the seventh such convoy this year and the 28th since the operations began in July to prevent Iranian attacks.

Poland's prices soar

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The government on Monday imposed sweeping price increases that raised food prices by 40 percent and rents by half in an attempt to stimulate Poland's sluggish economy.

Solidarity, the outlawed trade federation, said it was ready to support any factory protests against the harsh austerity measures but added that it would not appeal for large-scale demonstrations to fight the change.

In an apparent effort to defuse worker reaction, factories around the country immediately began paying workers their first monthly compensation payments of $15.60 designed to offset the impact of the increases.

Toxic spill forces evacuation

MOSCOW (AP) — A freight train derailed and spilled a "highly toxic liquid" in the industrial and tourism center of Yaroslavl, forcing evacuation of homes and threatening the Volga River, Soviet media said Monday.

Soviet television said people were evacuated from homes within 600 yards of the accident, but were allowed to return by Monday evening.

The television report said no one was injured or killed in the derailment or spill.

Media reports did not identify the substance spilled in the derailment, which occurred late Sunday or before dawn Monday.

Weinberger given knighthood

LONDON (AP) — Former U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has been awarded an honorary knighthood in recognition of his "outstanding and invaluable" contribution to defense cooperation between Britain and the United States, the Foreign Office said Monday.

Weinberger, 70, will be the 56th American to receive an honorary knighthood when he attends a Buckingham Palace ceremony Feb. 22 or 23, a palace spokeswoman said.

"It was a great surprise and a great honor," Weinberger said in Washington. "I'm very flattered. I had no idea such a thing was being considered until a few days ago."

Stalin's henchman dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Georgi M. Malenkov, Josef Stalin's henchman in the purges of the 1930s who served as his successor before being sent into political oblivion, has died at the age of 86, a Soviet official said Monday.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Genady I. Gerasimov said Malenkov died a few days ago, but provided no other details.

Dissident historian Roy Medvedev, who wrote a biography of Malenkov titled "The Helix That Never Was," said the fallen leader had died about two weeks ago.

"His family members said nothing, apparently because they did not want to cause a sensation," Medvedev said.

State-run media carried no mention of Malenkov's death. Rumors had it that Malenkov had been shot after vanishing in 1957.

A round-faced man who appeared in public wearing a Chinese-style tunic buttoned up to his neck, Malenkov served as prime minister for two years after Stalin's death in 1953 and was the apparent No. 1 Kremlin leader.

BYU moves up to No. 3 spot in this week's AP college poll

By SKIP LATT
The Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — After impressive victories over Kentucky and Florida, Vanderbilt Coach C.M. Newton said Monday the job before him now is to keep his 15th-ranked Commodores on an even keel.

The rankings, to me, are very simply a recognition of doing well. It's a recognition by outsiders who look and say "You're the best basketball team that has done well. If you continue to win, they won't continue to recognize you. If you don't continue to win, they won't recognize you," Newton said.

The Commodores, 13-4, assured their first spot in the Associated Press poll since the 1978-79 season by following last Wednesday's 83-68 thumping of Kentucky sports writers and broadcasters and compiled 1,239 points to remain atop the poll for the fourth straight week.

Nevada-Las Vegas jumped from fourth to second with 1,094 points, while Brigham Young, the only unbeaten major-college team and holder of the longest current winning streak at 15 games, moved from seventh to third and landed the other No. 1 vote.

Duke, Temple, Purdue, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Pittsburgh and Kentucky complete the Top 10.

Michigan heads the second-10 with Syracuse-low, Georgetown, Vanderbilt, Iowa State, Illinois, Bradley, Florida and St. John's following the Wolverines.

Vanderbilt, which downed then-No. 1 North Carolina in December, lost its first three Southeastern Conference games before putting things together.

The Commodores have rebounded for six straight wins behind the strong inside game of 7-foot senior center Will Perdue and a bevy of 3-point shot marksmen to stand 6-3 in the league, good for a second-place tie with Kentucky and one game behind league-leading Florida.

The turnaround really began with their Georgia game and our Alabama game (both victories) in which we played very well," said Newton, who is in his 31st year as a head coach and has compiled a 483-354 record during stops at Transylvania, Alabama and Vanderbilt.

Perdue's inside power, which accounted for 19 points and 15 rebounds against Florida, has been complimented by the outside shooting of guards Barry Goheen, Barry Booker, Derrick Wilcox and Scott Draud and forward Charles Mayes. Draud, who considered leaving the Commodore program last season, led a 3-point assault on Kentucky by hitting six of nine from 3-point range and "has hit 49.3 percent, 34 of 69, from the 19-foot, 9-inch arc."

"Scott has been phenomenal through all this. All our guards have played well, but I think Scott has really come of age," said Newton, whose Commodores are hitting 46.3 percent from 3-point range as a team.

"We determine in the preseason who our 3-point shooters are going to be. We have no restrictions on the shot except we don't want a 3-point shot off our primary bread and in situations dictated by time and score," Newton said.

"Newton said there is no great secret to Vanderbilt success; it has been a matter of maturity and experience.

"We take a very consistent approach. We try not to get thrown off by big wins or big losses. We were 6-3 early in the conference and we've won six in a row. Everybody gets excited when you do well. A fan as the team is concerned, I went through those three losses without any real change of work habits," Newton said.

"I think we're playing as close to our potential as we can. I feel we've a solid Division I basketball team playing a schedule where every game is winnable and every game counts."

Oakley staves off Hagerman to capture Southside tourney

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

MURTAUGH — Stephanie Hale scored 10 of her game-high 15 points Monday night as the Oakley Hornets beat Hagerman 26-18 in the final game of the District 4 Class A-4 southside sub-district girls' basketball tournament.

The victory put Oakley in the state A-4 tournament, which begins in Boise on Feb. 11. The top-seeded Hornets along with the Pirates now advance to the District 4 Class A-4 playoffs in Jerome on Wednesday.

Oakley will play in the 6:30 p.m. contest against Camas County, the Northside Sub-district champion, while Hagerman plays in the 8 p.m. game against Carey. The winner of latter game will move on to an inter-district playoffs Saturday for the right to advance to the state tournament.

Camas County and Oakley will both advance to the state playoffs, while Hagerman and Carey can still make the playoffs with a victory Wednesday and a win in the inter-district playoff on Saturday.

The Hornets started out the contest with an early run that gave them a 7-1 advantage after a Hale layup and free throw.

Hagerman was held without a field goal until 20 seconds left in the first quarter when Niki McCammon hit a jumper.

The second quarter was the exact opposite of the first quarter for the Pirates.

Jackie Yarbrough caught fire scoring three points as Hagerman outscored Oakley 5-0 in the opening three minutes.

The senior kept the pressure on scoring all nine of her points in the quarter and Hagerman led at the break 14-13.

Oakley came out of the gates quickly in the second half, increasing its lead to five points on a pair of Jennifer Hardy buckets.

The 6-1 sophomore center proved to be too much for the smaller Pirate team as the Hornets made that lead stand up at the end of the third quarter.

With the quick start, many wondered what Oakley Coach Don Tompkins said to his team at the half.

"I didn't go in. I was too mad," said the coach.

What he did tell his team came after a timeout in the early moments of the third quarter.

"We switched to a man-to-man defense. Our feet were in concrete. It started making things happen," said Tompkins.

The movements got Hale into the ballgame. The 5-foot, 7-inch held to just five points at the break, exploded in the second half wheeling and dealing through the middle keeping the Pirates at bay, so to speak.

"They (Hagerman) were tired. They were playing four games in a week. We played three. We shouldn't be tired and we weren't," said Tompkins.

The Hornets outscored the Pirates 8-6 in the final quarter leading by as much as a dozen in the period.

For Hagerman Coach Jeff LaCroix, it was just another example of his team's luck against Oakley.

"Earlier this year we had them by 13. Eight with six minutes left. A girl turned an ankle and they scored 16 quick ones against us. That's just the way it's been."

The morning line

Good morning, it's Tuesday, Feb. 2. There's a rematch brewing tonight in Canyon Conference boys' basketball, where league-leading Filer (9-4 overall, 7-1 in league games) will invade Declo (10-4, 7-2) for an 8 p.m. showdown for the conference supremacy. The Hornets whipped the Wildcatters 75-60 in Filer on Jan. 18. Filer's only conference loss this season. Because of that win, the victory by Declo over Filer tonight would give the Hornets a potential tiebreaker should the league standings end in a deadlock. Game time is 8 p.m.

There's plenty of other basketball in the Magic Valley tonight, with the Region III Class A-1 girls' opening their postseason tournament with Pocatello at Twin Falls (7:30 p.m. in the Bruin gym) and Minico at Burley (also 7:30). In Wendell, Canyon Conference regular season champs Declo and Valley will square off in the District 4 Class A-3 tournament consolation final.

Camas charges past Carey 40-35 to win Northside crown

By RICK SHACKLETT
Times-News writer

GOODING — Coach Mike Hansen of the Camas County Musters said his girls' basketball team got an education last Saturday night.

"I won't say that we took Carey lightly," he said, referring to the Musters' 45-27 loss in Saturday's District 4 Class A-4 girls' sub-district semifinal. "But we weren't ready to play that serious of a basketball game. Tonight we were."

Indeed the Musters had learned their lessons, and learned them well. They were so serious that there wasn't a smile on the Camas side of the court until the final buzzer that found them winning the championship with a 40-35 victory over Carey here Monday.

The victory earned Camas a spot in the state A-4 tournament, which starts in Boise on Feb. 11. The Musters will take on Northside Subdistrict champion Oakley in the District 4 playoffs Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Jerome High School. Carey will compete against Southside runner-up Hagerman for another state tournament berth, the winner of Wednesday's 8 p.m. game will advance to an inter-district playoff.

One particular Musher came out with blood in her eyes. Jennifer Dugan scored the first basket of the game with only 22 ticks gone from the clock, then added six more points in the first quarter as the Camas County jumped out to a 14-5 lead.

"Her star is tough," Hansen said of Jennifer forward. "Sometimes she has to be reminded of that, but tonight she was super."

Dugan scored a game-high 20 points, had five steals and the night had nine rebounds and pulled down 11 rebounds for the night. She was also part of the inside of a 3-2 zone defense that shut down Carey's hot handed Jennie Hendrickson for much of the second half.

If the first quarter belonged to Dugan, the second was all Hendrickson's. Trailing by eight with over two minutes gone in the

Jerome advances to Round 2 of District 4 A-2 tourney

JEROME — The Jerome Tigers advanced to the second round of the District 4 Class A-2 girls' basketball tournament by whipping Wood River 53-14 Monday night.

The Tigers earned a berth in Thursday night's championship game against Burley at the district home court at 8 p.m. The loser of that contest will host Wood River in a loser out game next week.

There was really no question how this game would turn out. Jerome took a commanding 17-0 lead after the first quarter and increased that lead to a 25-point advantage at the half.

Freshman Liz Gilbert led the Tigers' attack with 10 points while Vickie Hobson added 9.

Pilots shock Declo in A-3 semifinal

By COLIN MULDOON
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Pamela Jo Pember canned 24 of her game-high 30 points in the second half and the ensuing overtime period as Glenns Ferry downed top-seeded Declo 59-53 in District 4 Class A-3 girls' basketball semifinal action Monday night.

In the preliminary semifinal matchup, Valley staved off the second-half rally by Filer, eliminating the Wildcatters from the postseason tournament, 56-48.

Down by 10 points at halftime, Pilot Coach Doug Moore took the advice of his assistant, DeAnna Peterson, and changed offensive strategies in the second half in hopes of freeing up Pember under the basket.

"We went with man against their (Declo's) zone defense. That opened up. Pam and once she started hitting, everyone started loosening up," Moore said.

The rest was up to Pamela Jo. The 6-foot, 1-inch center hit crucial 15- and 17-foot jump shots consecutively in the final 11 minutes and 30 seconds of the fourth quarter to put the Pilots ahead, 49-47.

Declo senior Kim Wells then tied the game with 35 seconds remaining in regulation at 49 with a 15-footer.

Glenns Ferry took the lead again, 50-49, with 19 seconds remaining when Heidi Labrum hit the back end of a two charity tosses, but Melissa Disley took the inbound pass coast-to-coast for layup, putting the Hornets back up to 51-50.

Jan Solosalba tied it up for Glenns Ferry at 51-51 with a charity strike with one second left in regulation.

The overtime period saw the Pember take over, scoring six points to take the victory for the Pilots.

Crying babies in restaurants raise a fuss

DEAR ABBY: Roger's Mom wrote of her experience in a restaurant with Roger, her 6-month-old colicky boy who became fussy and cried a lot.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

Seated at the table next to us was a couple with a baby who appeared to be about 10 months old, the baby first whimpered, then cried, and finally screamed during most of the meal.

suggested that they take the crying child out until it settled down. Everyone around us was upset. One couple left without finishing their meal.

I think it is the height of insensitivity for parents to expect a child to carry on that way in a public dining room. ... DISGUSTED IN DENVER child speak. That noise that is disturbing some of you is music to me. I'm sorry that more children aren't here today. Children are our future. Don't teach them they're not wanted. Don't teach them to be silent. Let the child speak!

THE FAR SIDE By GARY LARSON

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"It is as easy for the strong man to be strong as it is for the weak to be weak."

WEST ♠ 10 9 7 6 5 4 3 2 EAST ♠ A Q J 10 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

A weak declarer plays today's game in a straightforward manner. Add it leads to one down. A strong declarer adopts a less direct method but he actually guarantees the success of his game.

West's diamond jack rides around to South's king and South draws trumps. What happens if South takes the direct route and leads a club to dummy's jack?

West's diamond jack rides around to South's king and South draws trumps. What happens if South takes the direct route and leads a club to dummy's jack?

Next, he leads a diamond, ducking when West plays the nine. West shifts to clubs (best) but South is ready. He rises with dummy, and puts East on play with the diamond ace. East now has no safe leads and South comes home with his 10th trick.

ANSWER: Four spades. Should prove safer than a stab at three no-trumps.

Four aces equities to the ace, 20-10-5-325, Dallas, Texas 7325, with self-addressed stamped envelope for replies.
