U.S. to aid some neutral vessels if attacked

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, expanding the role of U.S. naval forces in the Persian Gulf, has decided to authorize them to aid some neutral ships under Iranian attack, congressional sources said Friday.

The new rules of engagement, which were not publicly announced, go far beyond the role originally prescribed for U.S. forces in the Gulf last May when President Reagan ordered them to begin escorting 11 Kuwaiti oil tankers that had been re-registered under the American flag.

Although many members of Congress have expressed fear that U.S. forces were being drawn into an escalating war with Iran in the gulf, sources said congressional leaders voted no opposition when they were briefed on the new policy by Defense Department officials Friday.

House Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., issued a statement suggesting that he approved of the new policy. And aides noted that Senate Armed Services Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., had been pleading with the administration to permit American forces to come to the aid of other ships under attack in the gulf.

Navy ships, according to sources, will be authorized to intervene if they witness an Iranian attack on a neutral vessel and if they are in a position to help. But the new policy does not provide U.S. naval escorts for ships other than those flying the American flag. Aspin said it was necessary to keep the rules of engagement secret so the Iranians did not know which ships would be defended by U.S. forces and which would not be.

"We are trying to deter the Iranians from violent action in the gulf," Aspin said in a statement issued by his office. "When they know what the rules of engagement are, they can work around them."

Aspin noted that the Iranians had attacked neutral vessels in plain view of U.S. naval warships ever since the administration announced that it did not intend to come to the aid of any ships not flying the American flag.

While Nunn had urged the Department of Defense to provide protection for all neutral shipping in the gulf, Sen. John Warner, R-Va., had called for extending such protection only to U.S.-owned ships sailing under other national flags.

A White House official, who declined to be identified, said the rules of engagement actually were expanded last Monday after U.S. A-6 attack planes witnessed a Panamanian

Words a-flying over trade bill

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan on Friday charged Congress with caving in to organized labor with its trade bill but supporters of the measure said it was his "wishful thinking" that a veto would win him a versus he prefers.

The president has promised to veto the bill because of a provision requiring all but the smallest employers to give 60 days notice of plant closings and large-scale layoffs.

As the Senate began debate on the sweeping trade measure Friday, Reagan told a group of conservative state legislators that the plant-closing provision "would make American industry less competitive."

"Put simply, on key provisions in the trade bill, the Democratic leadership in Congress has caved in to pressure from organized labor," Reagan said. "If this bill is unloaded on my desk, I'll stamp it reject and ship it back to where it was made."

The House on Thursday passed the bill, with Democrats achieving more than the two-thirds vote needed to override a Reagan veto.

The White House continued lobbying senators on Friday to vote with the president, arguing it would force Congress to send him a bill without the plant-closing provision. "That's wishful thinking," Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said as Senate debate began Friday. If enough senators voted to sustain the veto, "we would be taking a severe chance in not having this legislation become law," he said. "And I would argue that we not gamble."

Byrd said a Senate vote on the 1,000-page bill would not come before Tuesday evening, and although confident it would pass he was not sure he could muster the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. The House vote on the legislation was 312-107.

If the president's veto were sustained, Byrd said the trade bill — a product of years of work and a House-Senate compromise on competing bills that passed last year — would have to start from scratch in the process.

Arms, regional issues occupy Shultz, Soviets

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — With the superpower summit only five weeks off, Secretary of State George P. Shultz chipped away on arms control problems and regional disputes with Soviet leaders Friday but apparently made little headway.

"Maybe we're marking time," General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev declared. Shultz challenged the Soviet leader's assessment. "From our point of view, we're far from marking time," he told reporters at the windup of two days of talks. But he said "the going is hard" in trying to conclude an arms treaty in time for President Reagan and Gorbachev to sign at their May 29-June 2 summit meeting here.

In a joint statement, the two sides said negotiators would deal with the disputed issues "on a priority basis."

They reaffirmed their "strong commitment to make an intensive effort" to complete the treaty and said the summit "should mark another important step in the process of building a more stable and constructive relationship."

Shultz was scheduled to leave today to visit Kiev and Tbilisi, stop in Brussels to brief the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on Monday and then fly home.

He will hold another session with Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze before the Moscow summit, probably in Geneva around May 10.

"It's pick and shovel work," Shultz said of the uphill effort to complete the Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty, or START, to crown Reagan's fourth and probably final meeting with Gorbachev.

At a news conference, Shevardnadze said he could not promise a strategic arms treaty before Reagan's

Explosions level grain elevator, kill 2

The Associated Press

JOLIET, Ill. — Two explosions ripped through a riverside grain elevator complex Friday.

They killed at least two people, injured three others and leveled six grain silos and an office building, authorities said.

Three more people were reported missing at the ADM Growmark complex along the Des Plaines River about 40 miles southwest of Chicago, said Lynn Behringer, a spokeswoman for the Will County Emergency Services and Disaster Agency.

Officials on the scene confirmed that two people died and at least three others were injured, Ms. Behringer added.

"It shook this building like a truck or something had hit the back of this building," said John Vanderlinden, a worker at nearby Slonitsch Construction Co. "It was quite a big explosion."

Authorities suspect grain dust may have caused the first explosion about 11 a.m., which ruptured a natural gas main and touched off a second blast moments later, said Fire Chief George Plesse. Granaries pose an explosion risk because of highly flammable grain dust.

The explosions leveled the complex's six 100-foot tall concrete silos, which hold a total of about 100,000 bushels, said Dick Burket, a spokesman for the granary. One silo crushed the adjacent one-story office building.

"It's gone, totaled, level, complete — just like dynamite," said Bob Butterfield, 64, a Wilmington farmer who said he saw metal and concrete flying through the air after the blast.

"I ran about 30 feet when I fell and rolled. It just came down in a big pile," said Butterfield, who witnessed the blast while he was leaving the complex after unloading a truckload of grain.

Rescue workers used dogs, bulldozers and a crane to search for two people believed missing in a 25-foot-high pile of concrete chunks and twisted steel mixed with corn and soybeans, authorities said.

Judicial poetry no recipe for settling simmering war

The Associated Press

DALLAS — A federal judge has put the bite on the beef between dueling Terlingua chili cookoffs, saying the law offered no recipe for settling this long-simmering range war.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Buntin of Pecos said he had no authority to determine which party would have the official world's chili cookoff.

"The parties should see this as an issue of good sense and decency and not look to the courts," he said Thursday.

However, he settled one lesser issue in the suit filed by the faction headed by Ray King of Folsom, ruling that the rival group founded by the late Frank X. Tolbert had no right to call itself the Chili Appreciation Society International Inc.

"Jalapeno Sam" Lewis, a San Angelo armadillo-race promoter, Jalapeno lollipop seller and longtime supporter of the Tolbert group, said there will be no change in the cookoff format.

"We'll still have two chili cookoffs in Terlingua the first Saturday in November. We'll identify one as the Tolbert cookoff and one as the King cookoff," Lewis said Friday.

Amnesty seekers flooding INS offices

The Associated Press

BOISE — Idaho immigration offices are being flooded with illegal aliens seeking amnesty as the May 4 deadline for the federal program approaches.

"The numbers are up a lot," said Ron Bastyr, a legalization supervisor at the Boise office of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. "Last winter we were lucky to get five applications a week. Now we're getting 60 to 80 per week."

The legalization program, which began May 4, 1987, offers temporary resident status to aliens who can prove they have lived in the United States since 1982. The process requires application forms and a $185 fee.

Spring planting and the fact that many aliens did not apply for amnesty last year are among the reasons for the surge in applications now, Bastyr said.

But the May 4 deadline does not apply to aliens seeking amnesty under the government's Special Agricultural Worker plan. That program allows aliens who worked on U.S. farms for at least 90 days between May 1985 and May 1986 to apply for temporary resident status. The deadline for the farm worker plan is Nov. 30.

The goal of the amnesty program is to give qualifying aliens an opportunity to legally work in this country or force them to return to their homelands, said Alonzo Martinez, a supervisor at the Idaho Falls INS office.

Congress knows that many farmers depend on illegal aliens — who are paid little by U.S. standards — for their work force, Martinez said. The later deadline for farm workers avoids a labor shortage in the middle of the harvest, he said.

"It's all economical," he said. Of the estimated 17,000 illegal aliens in Idaho, about 10,000 are eligible for amnesty under either plan, said Camilo Lopez, a Caldwell attorney involved in immigration affairs.

About 7,000 aliens have applied at the two Idaho offices for temporary residence since the amnesty program began, Martinez said.

Jackson, Dukakis joke about running mates during debate

By The Associated Press

Jesse Jackson said it is too early to be "giving out coronation roses" for front-runner Michael Dukakis as the Democrats held their first one-on-one debate Friday and joked about choosing a vice presidential nominee for the fall.

Emergency data sought

TWIN FALLS — City police officials this week renewed their request that area business owners and managers contract with the department to provide information needed to update its emergency card file.

Commander Bill Stonemets of the Twin Falls Department of Public Safety said the card file is used for listing people at particular businesses who should be contacted in case of an emergency. The file generally lists the names of owners or managers, their addresses and phone numbers.

Stonemets said situations in which the file would be consulted include those times when a business is robbed, vandalized or catches on fire. It is particularly important that new businesses contact the police department with the necessary information, Stonemets said.

Numerous other businesses need to update their information. Police officials requested that business owners or managers either write or call Stonemets at the police department.

"I look forward to choosing a running mate; Mike looks forward to choosing a running mate," Jackson said. "But however it goes, when it's all said and done and coming out of (the Democratic national convention in) Atlanta, we will come out as a unit to send the Reagan-Bush forces back to private life."

It was a good-natured, hour-long confrontation between the two survivors. Democrats five days before the Pennsylvania primary.

There was little heated rhetoric in the debate and what existed was directed at Vice President George Bush and the Reagan administration, echoing the themes from the candidates' day of campaigning across the state. Jackson did press Dukakis seriously on policy toward South Africa, which Jackson said sponsored terrorism.

"I would be very tough on South Africa," the Massachusetts governor replied. "The No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket in the fall was a major topic of the debate — the first in the two-man game for the nomination — as it has been since Dukakis took a giant step toward the presidential nomination with his New York victory on Tuesday."

During the debate sponsored by the Pennsylvania Democratic party, Jackson was asked if he wanted the vice presidential spot.

"It's a bit premature to be giving out coronation roses for the governor and taps for me," Jackson said. "We're now moving into the last lap of a significant race, and I'm a long-distance runner. I look forward to it."

Then Dukakis turned to Jackson and asked in a soft voice: "Are you interested?" Jackson smiled and replied, "You got it, Mike."

Late Dukakis was asked how he could win in the South in the general election. Jackson added his analysis: "Mike Dukakis on my ticket will win the South," provoking laughter from the audience at the University of Pennsylvania campus in Philadelphia.

Asked if he believed polls saying Jackson as vice president would hurt Democratic chances in the fall, Dukakis gave a one-word answer: "No."

Jackson was late arriving for the debate, walking onto the stage about three minutes after it began. He shook Dukakis' hand and then the two held their clasped hands high.

Both men pleaded with voters to ignore the polls, which give Dukakis a big lead in the state.

"People ought to vote conscience, courage and conviction. If they do they will vote for Jesse Jackson or, at least, they will vote for their choice," Jackson said. "I give you a choice. You give me a chance. I will make you a good president... When I win, there are no more impossible American dreams."

During the debate, both men repeated the themes they used campaigning Friday.

Dukakis praised the trade bill moving through Congress, saying it would be "a tragedy" if President Reagan vetoed the measure over a provision requiring companies to give a 60-day notice before shutting down a plant.

Collision kills Rupert man

RUPERT — A Rupert man was killed northwest of here Friday morning when his car collided head on with a pickup truck, officials said.

Blaine Jensen, 48, was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident, said officials with the Idaho State Police.

The accident occurred at 7:41 a.m. near the intersection of county roads 500 West and 800 North, state police said. Jensen, driving a 1984 Ford two-door, was northbound on 600 West when his car hit a southbound pickup truck driven by Magdalena Munoz of Rupert.

Munoz, 23, was taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital where she was listed in guarded condition.

Jensen, a substitute delivery person for The Times-News, was delivering newspapers at the time of the accident, said Jim Dalos, the paper's motor-route supervisor.

State police said the accident is still under investigation. No citations were issued Friday.

Today's weather Another verse of the same old song

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding: Today and tonight, partly cloudy with a chance of afternoon or evening showers or thunderstorms. West winds 10 to 15 mph. High 55 to 60. Lows mid-30s. Sunday, partly cloudy. Highs 60 to 65.

Idaho Falls, Prairie and Wood River Valley: Today and tonight, partly cloudy with a chance of afternoon showers or thunderstorms. Southwest winds 5 to 15 mph. High in the mid-50s. Lows near 30. Sunday, partly cloudy. Highs in the mid to upper 60s.

Northern Utah and Nevada: Utah — Mostly cloudy today with scattered showers. Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with scattered showers. Cool today. A little warmer Sunday. Lows near 30. Highs today and Sunday in the 50s and 60s.

Nevada — Widely scattered showers afternoons and thunderstorms with the snow level near 5,000 feet. Partial clearing tonight. Partly cloudy and warmer Sunday. Lows in the mid-20s to mid-30s. Highs today in the mid-40s to mid-50s. Highs Sunday in the mid-50s to mid-60s.

Summary: With the snow level near 7,000 feet Friday afternoon, snow fall at some of the higher stations. Snow showers were reported at Idaho Falls, Soda Springs, Mallet and Stanley.

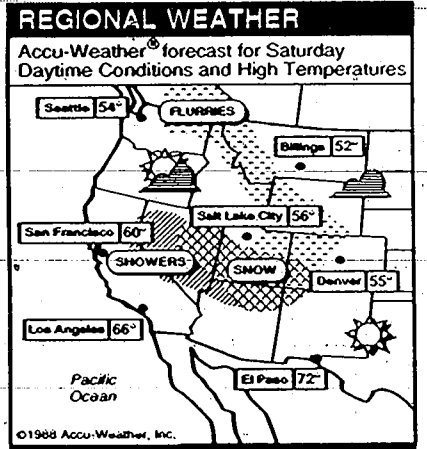

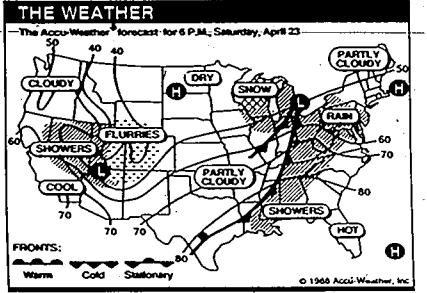

Friday was a typical spring day with partly cloudy skies, scattered showers and occasional gusty winds. This springtime condition should continue well into next week.

Afternoon temperatures were about 5 to 10 degrees below normal for the date with most highs in the low 50s.

The warmest temperature in the state Friday was 69 degrees at Hagerman. McCall and Stanley reported the coldest at 26 degrees.

The extended forecast for southern Idaho, Monday through Wednesday, calls for partly cloudy Monday with isolated showers cast. Fair and warmer Tuesday. Isolated showers, mainly west Wednesday. High 59 to 65 Monday warming to 65 to 70 Tuesday and Wednesday. Lows mid-30s to the mid-40s.

Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the highest temperature was 102 degrees at Laredo, Texas, and the lowest was 17 degrees at Dickinson, N.D.

Gulf

 an-flag ship with 15 Americans aboard under attack in the Mubarak oil field of the southern gulf. In response, the administration approved air strikes on three Iranian speedboats.

Previously, the U.S. ships had to wait until a Navy vessel or U.S. flag carrier had been attacked. Current rules allow response in case of any attack to a ship asking for U.S. help, according to the White House official.

The decision now facing the administration, according to this official, is whether U.S. forces should continue to operate under these expanded rules of engagement or whether the rules should be limited. "We know that we cannot expand the assets we have there," he said. "We would continue the close protective escort. If an opportunity presents itself to step in or prevent an attack on a ship of a friendly country — that is the issue, whether we would step in."

Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci, who briefed members of Congress about the change on Friday, was expected to give a similar briefing to NATO allies in Brussels over the weekend. The White House official said the change in policy could be modified after Carlucci had discussed it with the allies.

"A lot of people on the Hill have been calling for it; we want to make sure we don't overextend ourselves," he said.

The more liberal rules of engagement became known a day after the Defense Department announced that it would dispatch 13 new warships to the Persian Gulf region.

Although department spokesmen described the deployment as a "long-planned rotation," officials privately conceded that some of the new ships there now are withdrawn, leaving a beefed-up American presence in the gulf.

 some 200 chili chefs to the mercury-ming ghost town 300 miles southeast of El Paso, but they are not the biggest in the world. The Texas Chili Championship in San Marcos draws 300 or 400, Lewis said.

The Terlingua cookoff, Lewis emphasized, "is the big cookoff: You cook through the year (at other competitions) and receive points to get to Terlingua."

Tolbert — the author of "A Bowl of Red," the bible of chili — began the cookoff in 1967. By the early 1980s, he was complaining that the cookoff had become too stuffy and structured, so he bolted and formed the opposition group.

"We're more laid back," Lewis said. "We don't have a lot of rules or regulations."

Shultz

 vity and he criticized any attempt to rush negotiations.

He suggested that without a treaty Gorbachev and Reagan could still sign a document stating progress toward an accord.

While U.S. arms negotiators offered a new proposal in a dispute over air-launched cruise missiles, the treaty to sharply reduce U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear weapons was still stymied in a dispute over "Star Wars."

The U.S. proposal was to count as nuclear weapons all cruise missiles carried by fighter planes even though some may be conventionally armed. Both sides would have the right to develop air-launched cruise missiles that were not nuclear, and the weapons would not be covered by the treaty.

The idea is to bypass a dispute over verifying which of the cruise missiles are long-range nuclear arms.

The Soviets agreed to study the proposal, a senior U.S. official said at a briefing for reporters under rules of anonymity.

A major stumbling block in completing the treaty is finding ways to monitor U.S. and Soviet weapons to make sure cutbacks are not circumvented.

Two other weapons, mobile missiles and cruise missiles on warships, are also hard to track.

On the regional front, the Soviets again refused to heed Shultz's appeal for the United Nations to declare an arms embargo against Iran.

Shultz also could not persuade the Soviet Union to restore diplomatic relations with Israel after a 21-year break or to pledge to increase Jewish emigration, which hit a 15-month official said.

They (King group) say you have to have chili a certain color (red), a certain type (no beans). That creates coin cooking."

Jo Ann Horton of Houston, editor of the Goat Gaz Gazette, the "clarion of the chili-world," agreed with Lewis.

"One guy puts Cracker Jacks in his and wins, they all put Cracker Jacks in theirs," but she said most winners stick to the KISS recipe: Keep It Simple, Stupid.

The two CASI groups had their own recipe for rivalry: Beginning in 1983, both sides flew the CASI Inc. banner at competing events on the same day. Both filed in 1983 for rights to the same name. Both ended up in Bunton's court.

Bunton said King had registered the CASI Inc. name as a federal trademark, so the Tolbert group had no right to use it. He found that prior use of the trademark by Tolbert did not constitute infringement, but that future use by anyone other than the King group would.

He ordered CASI Inc. to pay the Tolbert heirs $1,500 for the cost of the federal trademark, but said the defendants must pay court costs. No attorneys fees were awarded.

Bunton's ruling also waxed poetic on one issue the rivals hadn't raised: hot chili!

"Some like it hot, some like it cold. Some like it in the pot nine days old. When it comes, however, to good, stout chili, if you don't like it hot, you're just plumb silly," his ruling said.

Agency recalls medicines

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare said Friday it is notifying health-care providers of a nationwide recall ordered by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration of products used to induce vomiting and to disinfect wounds.

Health and Welfare said it was notified Friday that a labeling mixup triggered a recall covering 12,000 bottles of Brite Life Ipecac Syrup and 4,600 bottles of Brite Life Iodides Tincture. It was not immediately known if any of the non-prescription medicine was sold in Idaho.

Officials said incorrect labels may appear on 1-ounce amber bottles of Ipecac syrup in lot number 004715 with a 7-32 expiration date. On bottles of iodides tincture, the lot number is 004713 with a 2-92 expiration date.

Senator supports project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. James McClure says he's confident that the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory eventually will land an experimental new cancer treatment program, despite a disappointing feasibility report.

The National Cancer Institute is studying the feasibility of using an idle nuclear reactor at INEL for a treatment center for inoperable cancer. It is called Boron Neutron Capture Therapy.

A high-intensity neutron beam is used to bombard cancerous cells infused with a boron compound, killing them while leaving healthy cells intact.

Newspaper, Jones settle

BOISE (AP) — The Daily Idahoian at Moscow and Attorney General Jim Jones have resolved their differences over information provided by Jones to a legislative committee last session.

Jones testified before the House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee in support of a bill, later withdrawn, to prevent disclosure of names, addresses and telephone numbers of certain crime victims and witnesses.

"Some of the information brought forward in connection with the bill turned out to be erroneous," Jones said in a news release Friday afternoon. "I have discussed the matter with the publisher of the Idahoian and we have agreed to lay the dispute to rest."

Risch endorses Gilbert foe

BOISE (AP) — In a rare move for a legislative leader, Senate President Pro Tem James Risch has decided to support a challenger over an incumbent from his own party in the May 24 Republican primary.

Risch, R-Boise, is backing Gordon Tronson's attempt to unseat two-term state Sen. Rachel Gilbert in Boise's District 17.

"I, like all other Republicans, feel free to choose a candidate in the primary election, based upon the individual's qualifications, their willingness to be part of the team effort, and the likelihood of retaining the seat for our party in the general election," Risch wrote in a letter to Mrs. Gilbert dated Tuesday.

Club membership still issue

MOSCOW (AP) — Public interest in Gov. Cecil Andrus' membership in an exclusive all-male club in Boise may be waning, but one Moscow woman says she still considers it an important issue.

Andrea Chosch-Pittenger said within the next few days she will send "the first round" of petitions objecting to Andrus' membership in the Arid Club to Boise.

While she has collected just 260 signatures, she said she will continue to press Idaho citizens to make their opinions known.

"To me, this is an issue as long as he's an active member, as long as he's governor," she said Thursday.

GRAND VIEW (AP) — Envirosafe Services of Idaho Inc. has set up a $100,000 scholarship fund to help qualified Idaho college students who attended high school in Owyhee County and are majoring in environmental or chemical engineering or environmental science.

"Envirosafe has a big stake in Owyhee County and to the greatest extent possible, we want to do our part to support and promote the well-being of the citizens here," said David Hodge, Envirosafe vice president and general manager.

"Envirosafe operates a hazardous waste disposal site near Grand View.

No injuries from waste

IDAHQ FALLS (AP) — Three workers suffered no injuries when the collected small amounts of transuranic material on their clothing and one on his hand while working at the Radioactive Waste Management Complex at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

Officials at the Department of Energy facility in eastern Idaho said the three were immediately decontaminated and no internal contamination was found.

Transuranic material, such as plutonium, is heavier than uranium and emits radioactive particles that cannot penetrate skin or clothing. The only health threat is when particles are ingested or inhaled.

The damaged box was repackaged, and a radioactive survey was conducted at the waste facility Friday.

Normal operations at the pilot plant were expected to resume Monday.

The plant is used to inspect transuranic waste containers stored by the INEL for the Rocky Flats Plant in Colorado. The containers will eventually be shipped to the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant in New Mexico.

Pro, con views on lottery win approval

BOISE (AP) — Public lotteries have been around for the last 500 years and 23 states and the District of Columbia now run them.

Lotteries in a recent year produced nearly $5 billion for state treasuries.

Those are among the arguments that may be submitted to Idaho voters this fall on a proposed constitutional amendment clearing the way for a state lottery in Idaho.

The Legislative Council meeting in Boise Friday gave preliminary approval to pro and con arguments for submission to voters.

The council will circulate the statements. If there is no substantial opposition or major changes, the statements will be sent to the secretary of state's office in early July.

That agency will be responsible for putting out voter information pamphlets or booklets on a proposed constitutional change which will be on the general election ballot in November.

Idaho voters approved a lottery initiative in 1986 by a vote of 226,134-153,338. It was blocked by court challenges. The Legislature in 1987 agreed to put a constitutional change on the ballot this year removing from the Idaho Constitution a flat ban on lotteries and allowing Idaho to launch a lottery program.

The 1988 session set up lottery machinery and provided for a $1 million line of credit to get the lottery going. It's to be repaid within 18 months at 10 percent interest.

The Legislative Council staff noted that lotteries have been used to raise money for public purposes for many years. Lottery proceeds provided revenue for the original 13 colonies and helped fund major universities such as Yale, Harvard, Brown and Princeton.

New Hampshire started the first modern lottery in 1964. In fiscal year 1986, lotteries generated $12 billion in gross sales and contributed $4.8 billion to state treasuries.

The statement also said Idaho's neighbors of Oregon, Washington, Montana and British Columbia in Canada all have lotteries. "A large number of Idaho residents cross the border to areas where lotteries are legal and spend thousands of dollars on lotteries and large amounts on food, gas and entertainment," the statement said.

If Idaho had its own lottery, much of the money would be kept in the state, it said.

Arguments against the lottery stressed that money which will be spent on lottery tickets by Idaho residents could be spent on rent, food, clothing, recreation, home repairs, furniture, automobiles, health care and other goods and services. "With a lottery in Idaho, less money would be spent on taxable goods and services and the sales and income tax revenues for the state would suffer," it said.

Tax collection jump reflects legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total state tax collections in Idaho went up 11.4 percent during the budget year that ended last June 30, one of the highest percentage jumps in the nation, the Census Bureau reports.

Only 14 other states, including Oregon and California in the West, posted larger revenue increases from 1986.

But rather than reflecting strong economic growth that can fuel higher income and sales tax receipts, the Idaho increase to nearly $830 million only reflected the emergency actions of the Legislature in 1986 to erase a $27 million deficit and balance a modest $600 million budget.

Three-quarters of the $65 million increase in tax receipts came from the then temporary one-cent increase in the state sales tax, pushing it from four to five cents on the dollar. Another $2 million was raised when the cigarette tax was permanently doubled, effective during the final three months of the budget year in question.

The sales tax hike was made permanent in the 1987 legislative session as part of a $100 million in higher taxes to finance significant hikes in state aid to education. Those actions will likely keep Idaho among the top states in tax revenue growth in next year's Census Bureau report as well.

On a per capita basis, the federal figures translated into a tax payment of just over $831 for every man, woman and child in Idaho during the 12 months that ended June 30, 1987. That was up about $88 from the year before.

But the government's per capita figures have been challenged by state officials who claim federal analysts are relying on faulty estimates that Idaho suffered another decline in population last year to fall below 1 million.

The state has disputed that population decline, which would have been the second straight year of net outmigration for Idaho. Officials believe the state actually picked up population after losing about 1,500 people in 1986.

But even if state analysts are correct, their population estimate would still put per capita tax payments at over $828, about $85 higher than the previous year.

Court reverses ruling in dancer death case

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court has reversed a ruling that an exotic dancer, slain in a tavern shooting, was an independent contractor and not an employee of the tavern.

In a 3-1 decision released Friday, the court reversed a decision by the Industrial Commission that the husband and son of dancer Patrice Robin Lynne Hanson was not entitled to workmen's compensation death benefits. The case was returned to the industrial Commission for a new hearing.

In addition to other factors, the Industrial Commission ruled Mrs. Hanson was an independent contractor because she was required to furnish her own equipment for the job, which the commission said included her body.

The Supreme Court said what was an incorrect interpretation of the law, and listing the dancer's body under "major items of equipment" she furnished to the job was wrong.

Mrs. Hanson was one of several persons killed early on the morning of Aug. 8, 1985, in a shooting at the Hide-Out Saloon, a tavern in rural Ada County between Boise and Meridian. Witnesses testified that a man was ejected from the tavern and later came back with others and started shooting as the tavern closed for the night. Mrs. Hanson and another man were killed and two others were wounded.

Although several men were put on trial for the slayings, they were acquitted.

Israeli police arrest 30 Moslems at holy mosque site

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israeli police stormed the holiest Islamic site in Jerusalem to pursue hundreds of stone-throwing Palestinians after Friday noon prayers.

Soldiers shot two Arabs to death in the occupied lands.

Police arrested more than 30 Moslem worshippers in the compound of the Dome of the Rock and Al Aqsa mosques on Temple Mount, which is sacred to both Muslims and Jews. The hill known in Arabic as Haram es-Sharif, or Noble Enclosure, Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon. The military command said they scored accurate hits on targets north of Sidon and returned safely.

Ten Palestinians were reported wounded in the Gaza Strip during street battles between soldiers and Arabs protesting the assassination of Khalil Wazir, the PLO military commander. He was killed in Tunisia last Saturday by commandos said to be Israeli, and buried Wednesday in Damascus, Syria.

Friday's death brings to 171 the number of Arabs killed since a rebellion began Dec.

8 among the 1.5 million Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza, which Israel has occupied since capturing them from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 war. An Israeli soldier and Jewish settler also have been killed.

About 10,000 worshippers attended prayers on the Moslem Sabbath at Al Aqsa and the adjacent Dome of the Rock, the site from which the prophet Mohammed is said to have ascended to heaven on his horse.

Afterward, hundreds of people threw stones at police, who responded with rubber bullets and clubs, Associated Press photographer Max Nash reported from the scene.

He said the protesters carried black banners and Palestinian flags, which Israel has outlawed, and chanted: "With our spirit and our blood, we will avenge Abu Jihad!" - Wazir's nom de guerre, which means Father of the Holy War.

Police spokesman Rafi Levy put the number of arrests at more than 30. He said officers stayed at Temple Mount until the Arabs moved a nearby police station, and did not enter the mosques.

Six Arabs were reported injured by rubber bullets and beatings, and five Israeli policemen were hurt by stones.

It was the most violent confrontation on the sacred site since Jan. 15, when up to 100 Palestinians were treated for the effects of tear gas and a police officer was wounded in a knife attack.

In the Gaza Strip, where Wazir spent part of his childhood, Arabs waved black flags and shouted "Abu Jihad sacrificed his blood!"

Israel radio said a Palestinian was killed when soldiers opened fire in Khun Yunis.

Police hunt fugitive gang after robbery

LOS MOGHIS, Mexico (AP) - Hundreds of police and soldiers hunted Friday for bank robbers who escaped at the end of a 24-hour siege with the help of a huge crowd shouting, "Freedom, freedom."

Five people were killed, 15 wounded and 42 held hostage and later freed in the assault that ended Thursday at the branch of the National Bank of Mexico in this Gulf of California agricultural town.

Unconfirmed reports said the seven robbers took about $1,000 from the bank, but neither police nor bank officials would confirm the amount.

Police on Friday combed a working-class neighborhood where the young men abandoned a pickup truck and station wagon.

Judicial police chief Arturo Moreno said Friday the search so far has yielded no results.

Army soldiers kept watch at the borders of this northwestern state.

We did not promise pardons.

While the pursuit would begin immediately, Simón Cárdenas Labastida Ochoa said late Thursday.

Labastida Ochoa, who directed negotiations for the release of the hostages, criticized "irresponsible people who called for turning a tragedy into a political act."

"They mobilized people and called on the population to free the hostages, (and) the criminals and to take to the street in irresponsible acts that could provoke a great tragedy," he said.

25 missing from tanker found afire

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) - Ships and planes searched the north Atlantic Friday for about 25 crew members from a Greek fuel tanker that broke in two and caught fire, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

By midday Friday, the bow had sunk and the stern was burning.

Searchers believed there might be survivors from the Athenian Venture because three rafts and a lifeboat were missing, said Petty Officer Larry Lawrence, a Coast Guard spokesman. One lifeboat was burned in its cradle.

The 500-foot fuel tanker reportedly was on its way from Gibraltar to New York when the Canadian research ship Hudson spotted it burning around midnight, 370 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, said Petty Officer Larry Lawrence, a Coast Guard spokesman.

The Athenian Venture, registered in Cyprus, is owned by Patron Marine in Athens, said Lawrence.

Aircraft and vessels continued to search as rainstorms began to close in, decreasing visibility and triggering 5-foot swells, said Lawrence.

The Hudson was joined in the search by other ships, including an Italian ship, the Italian, and a Canadian fisheries patrol vessel, officials said.

Two Canadian Aurora patrol aircraft flew to the site.

USSR sets off nuclear test shot

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union exploded a nuclear device at the Semipalatinsk testing range of the Central Asian Republic of Kazakhstan, the official Tass news agency said Friday.

Tass said the purpose of the blast was to test research on the physics of nuclear explosions. It was the fourth test this year.

The explosion had a yield of up to 20 kilotons, equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT, Tass gave no other details of the test.

American scientists visited the Semipalatinsk range in January to gather information that may be used in verifying U.S.-Soviet compliance with a future test ban.

Video cattle auction keeps pace with market

By MARTA CLEAVELAND
Times-News writer

JEROME — About 300 buyers watched as the heifer yearlings paraded past for inspection. The seller watched too, and waited.

With the instant energy of a bullrider exploding from the chute, the auctioneer started the bidding on its rapid ride to a sale.

At that moment, the seller, Kent Gillespie of Heyburn, was in Jerome. His cattle were in Hagerman. And the bids were coming from Greeley, Colo., and Omaha, Neb.

It was a live national cattle auction broadcast by satellite, viewed by television, and bid by phone.

The auctioneer was in Amarillo, Tex. The cattle were presented on prerecorded videotape. The buyers were scattered all across the country, calling in from broker locations and even some from their homes.

It was Gillespie's first taste of selling by satellite Thursday. He was selling a forward contract. He didn't get the price he wanted, so he "passed out" — didn't accept the final bid. Still he was pleased with the result.

His three-minute sale time turned out to be a national television ad for his cattle viewed by exactly the audience he wanted to reach, all for only $2 a head.

"A lot of people saw those cattle," he said. "If the market increases, those buyers know what my cattle looks like and where to find them." Video auctions are the way of the future for large bunches of cattle, said the Muir who manages the Producers Livestock Market Association office in Jerome.

His operation has been involved with satellite auctions since January. The local response has been very good, he said.

Producers Livestock has brokered four video sales so far. Six local sellers have tried their hand. Their buyers were from California, Colorado, Nebraska, Utah, and Idaho.

"We're just trying to stay up with the times," said Muir. "We're creating another form of marketing for our customers."

The cattle market moves from West to East. The bulk of feedlots and meat-packing operations are in the Midwest, so that is where the majority of buyers are. The video auction lets eastern buyers actually see the western cattle they purchase without having to go to them, said Dan Schiffer, a broker for Producers.

Muir cited three major advantages to satellite selling: the seller and the buyer are still trading through a local broker they know they can trust, the cattle never leave the pasture until the sale contract is signed and the check is in hand, and the stock are viewed by 200 or 300 buyers at a time.

The practice of selling by satellite has been around for about five years, Muir said. Producers Livestock became a member of the Satellite Cattle Exchange which runs the auctions when it was formed in January, and is the exclusive broker for the entire Northwest.

Producers Livestock has been in the cattle brokering business for 52 years. It has five branch offices in four states. Muir has been the local manager for more than 20 years.

Both buyers and sellers are checked out thoroughly before they get in the game. The integrity of the system depends on the reliability of the sale. The group takes no chances with traders who might not come through, Schiffer said. Only preregistered buyers may bid. They are given a buyer number that they keep permanently. The system has more than 500 registered buyers now. The company does a credit check on each one every six months.

The buyer is anonymous. No other bidder knows who the final buyer is.

With a satellite dish at home a buyer can purchase 5,000 head of cattle from 12 different locations around the country in less than two hours and never leave his armchair.

All registered buyers get a catalog with all the sale lots listed with descriptions and contract terms three days before the sale. If they have questions they can call the local broker.

A seller is required to have at least one truck load of the same type and size cattle to

Filer board hires a new principal

By DON PUDER
Times-News correspondent

FILER — The Filer School Board has hired Beverly Loranger as principal for the Filer Elementary School for the coming school year.

Loranger has been a teacher and teaching principal at the Hagerman Elementary School for the past 15 years. Prior to that, Loranger taught in both regular and handicapped education programs.

In addition to her teaching and administrative experience, Loranger has conducted numerous workshops for elementary teachers on learning centers and individualized education strategies. As principal of the Filer Elementary School, Loranger will supervise the education program for kindergarten through fifth-grade students and coordinate the special education program for the district.

The district will pay her $30,000, said Superintendent Dave Teater. He said that is less than the statewide average for elementary school principals this year, $32,896.

Also at the meeting, Teater proposed that the cheerleading-drill team class be dropped from the curriculum and be designated an extra-curricular activity. Teater told the board and a number of parents present that he did not want to "cut the legs out from under" an extremely valuable program, "but with less money and more graduation requirements, something just has to give."

Janice Brown, sponsor of the drill team and cheerleaders, said the program brings about many positive changes in the young people who participate, helping them develop a more positive self-image, leadership skills and skills needed to work within a group. She and several parents said they were concerned that if the cheerleaders and drill team had to practice either early morning or after school, students who have jobs or live long distances from school may not be able to participate.

Teater, the board members and the parents all said the students in the

Rupert agrees to help move depot

By DONNA SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — The Rupert City Council agreed this week to help the Minidoka County Historical Society move the town's old railroad depot to museum grounds.

Several years ago the Oregon Short Line Railroad agreed that the city could have the building when and if the railroad decided to dispose of it, if the city would agree to move it.

The railroad now says it would like the building moved "sometime in the future," but has not designated a date. It plans to place a small prefabricated office on the site.

Since the agreement with the Short Line was made, however, the city has decided that it has no use for the building, but would like to see it preserved for its historical value. The council decided to give the building to the historical society.

The historical society asked the city for financial help to move the railroad depot to the museum located one mile west of Rupert, but the city does not have funds available in the budget to move the large building.

The city did offer to donate any labor it could get the building moved, providing there is no actual cash spent.

Russ Lively, a Twin Falls architect working with the city on the Senior Citizen's Center and a member of the Twin Falls County Historical Society, said there are federal funds available for projects of this kind. He said he will work with the Minidoka County Historical Society

Court resolves media flap

The Associated Press

KETCHUM — The Idaho Supreme Court has sided with the weekly newspaper Idaho Mountain Express, Ketchum, in a dispute over which Blaine County weekly is entitled to run Ketchum's legal notices.

In a unanimous decision Friday, the court agreed with 5th District Judge George Granata that the Mountain Express is the only newspaper "published" at Ketchum.

E-Dah-Hoe Publishing Co. Inc., which publishes the Wood River Journal, Hailey, argued that it was "published" at Ketchum because the Journal was circulated and disseminated in that community. The Journal is currently paid to publish Ketchum's legal notices.

The Supreme Court noted that the issue has never been decided in Idaho before.

But relying on Oklahoma and New Jersey cases, the court decided that although a newspaper can be circulated in several

Haffner to receive mental evaluation

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fifth District Judge Daniel Meehl sent Roy Haffner, 47, charged with second-degree murder, to the Idaho penitentiary for a mental evaluation and treatment Friday.

Haffner is charged with the second-degree murder of Jesus Hernandez last November. Police found Hernandez with a knife with a 9½-inch blade in his chest on Nov. 10.

Meehl's decision suspends the criminal case against Haffner for 90 days. If the state decides Haffner is too schizophrenic to stand trial and assist in his defense, he could be committed to a mental hospital.

The key question is whether Haffner can assist in his own defense, which is required under Idaho law.

Chief Deputy Prosecutor Rockne Lammers and Public Defender Michael J. Wood already have argued over Haffner's mental condition. In January, a magistrate judge dismissed first-degree murder charges against Haffner, saying the Twin Falls man wasn't capable of forming a first-degree murder state of mind.

After Lammers filed second-degree charges against Haffner and got him bound over to district court, Meehl requested another mental examination before proceeding.

Friday's action is the fourth time a judge has ordered a mental examination of Haffner.

Lammers said he didn't understand why Haffner couldn't stand trial, but didn't object to Wood's motion to suspend the proceedings.

Richard W. Worst, the psychiatrist who most recently examined Haffner, said Haffner suffered from schizophrenia.

"When he starts to talk about the crime he has committed, the schizophrenia starts to take hold and he starts to talk about religious types of things," Worst said. Although Lammers didn't object to the motion after examining Worst, he said he was still troubled by Worst's conclusion.

The psychiatrist said Haffner could understand his proceedings, the charges against him and the consequences of his act, "yet, this indicates he doesn't have the ability to assist in his own defense beyond giving simple historical facts of what happened," Lammers said.

Several witnesses who testified at Haffner's preliminary hearing said

Tough questions for teens elicit some surprising responses

The Associated Press

BOISE — What will your life be like in 10 years?

The question is tough enough even for an established, secure adult.

But for a teen-ager struggling through the trials and uncertainties of adolescence, looking ahead to balancing a career and a marriage in the late 1990s can be mind-boggling.

Adding to the confusion, social and economic changes have created conflicts between the demands of family and work for both men and women that generally are glossed over in high school classes on the subject. The result, says Wylla Barsness, a psychology professor at Boise State University and member of the Idaho Health and Welfare Board, is a lack of awareness of what awaits them in the brave new grown-up world of two-income households, single parents, day-care centers, fast-track careers and quality time.

"Women today have to be prepared to work all their lives. Men, equally, have to be prepared to be a part of a family all their lives," Barsness said. "They haven't been doing that."

After reading conflicting studies on young women's perceptions of their roles after marriage and finding little mention of the question in other literature, Barsness decided to examine how both male and female teens see themselves responding to the challenges.

Her study of high school seniors in Idaho and other states is not yet complete. But what she has gleaned so far from interviews and responses to questionnaires has been both enlightening and troubling.

"Only a few anticipated any problems at all working through the conflicts," she said. "I think I expected a little more concern about it. But the reality is their cognitive development at that age doesn't extend far into the future."

Barsness' research has included high school seniors in Bliss, Rexburg and Blackfoot in Idaho, and outside the state in San Marino, Calif.; Pickens County, Ga.; and the New Orleans suburb of Metairie, La. She plans next fall to add high schools in Boise and Lewiston.

Besides an essay question on how they perceive their lives a decade from now — to which only two of almost 250 mentioned the possibility of nuclear war — students were asked anonymously about... their backgrounds and a series of questions to gauge their degree of commitment to family, work and traditional values.

The questions examine such issues as whether the youths expect their life's most important accomplishments to be related to their job or to their family, whether they think women are as competent as men in non-traditional roles, who should be a family's primary breadwinner, and how should household duties be distributed.

Among the preliminary indications is that although girls still generally have a stronger commitment to family than boys, most recognize they probably will have to work after marriage and see their traditional role as homemakers more of an option than an expectation.

But as their commitment to work grows, Barsness fears that without some early recognition of possible conflicts and how to avoid them, they run the risk of substituting a successful career for a happy home.

"I get very uneasy when I hear some young career-oriented women

Reagan wants Meese to stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Friday that Attorney General Edwin Meese III should not resign and that the Justice Department is virtually certain to keep him. Reagan said Meese should stay in the department and that Meese should be indicted.

In a brief appearance outside the White House, Reagan responded to reporters' questions by saying "no" when asked whether Meese should resign or whether he had offered to.

When asked whether the Justice Department was running well, Reagan replied: "Just fine."

The Nos. 2 and 3 offices at the Justice Department are virtually vacant and the department plans to shore them up by naming a number of temporary replacements to fill the positions, perhaps nearly a dozen people in all, department spokesman Patrick Korten said. The posts probably will be filled on Monday.

"We will have people there" in the offices of deputy attorney general and associate attorney general "to keep the paper moving and the usual lines of communication open," Korten said.

Meese, Shultz on witness list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Attorney General Edwin Meese III are among a host of current or former top national security officials listed Friday as possible witnesses at the Iran-Contra trial of Lt. Col. Oliver L. North and three other men.

Independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh also listed Deputy CIA Director Robert Gates, former White House chief of staff Donald Regan and Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds among 105 possible witnesses against the four Iran-Contra defendants.

"The FBI felt — and so did I — that his was a good time for getting out, because everybody was being killed," Pistone said.

But for a brief time Pistone said, he sought permission to continue the assignment so he could make FBI history.

Medical check shows Reagans healthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — First lady Nancy Reagan had her first major examination Friday since her cancerous left breast was removed six months ago, and the White House physician, Dr. John Hutton — said the exam showed no cancer in her right breast.

Dental X-rays performed on President Reagan at the same time showed that he requires no immediate treatment of any kind, Hutton said.

"The president had a series of routine dental X-rays in the dental clinic, while Mrs. Reagan had her first post-operative mammogram," the doctor said. "The mammogram was negative. No immediate treatment of any kind is required as a result of today's procedures on the president and first lady."

The Reagans spent a half hour inside the medical center. As he boarded the helicopter, the president made an "A-OK" sign with his fingers, but did not talk with reporters. They flew to Camp David, the presidential retreat in the nearby Catoctin Mountains, for the weekend.

When they left the White House for a short helicopter ride to the hospital, the Reagans paused briefly to talk to a group of visitors, one of whom presented Reagan with a school jacket.

"White House spokesman" Martin Fitzwater described the procedures as "routine checkups ... not associated with any current physical findings or problems."

It is the first time Reagan has gone to Bethesda for dental work.

The last time Reagan visited the hospital was in January, when he underwent his annual checkup for colon cancer.

The first couple planned to spend about an hour at the suburban medical center and then helicopter to Camp David for their usual weekend at the Catoctin Mountain retreat in Maryland.

The 77-year-old president "will undergo a routine series of dental X-rays in the dental clinic, while Mrs. Reagan will have her first post-operative mammogram," the spokesman said in a statement issued late Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Reagan had her left breast removed on Oct. 17, 1987, after doctors discovered a quarter-inch cancerous lesion.

The 66-year-old first lady chose to undergo a modified radical mastectomy, which involves the removal of the entire breast and some lymph nodes.

Elaine Crispin, the first lady's press secretary, said Mrs. Reagan has had periodic examinations since her surgery, but that this is her first X-ray of the right breast.

"It's wise and routine to check the other breast," after such surgery, she said.

Mrs. Crispin said the couple wanted to have the results of Mrs. Reagan's exam before leaving for Camp David "so they could send her off for a comfortable, worry-free weekend."

The spokeswoman said White House physician Dr. John Hutton planned to be present for Mrs. Reagan's exam. The mammogram was to be conducted by a radiologist, Dr. Claudia Galbo, Mrs. Crispin said.

Mrs. Crispin said that not only was it time for the first lady's six-month checkup, but the president could use the time "to get his dental X-rays taken, rather than usually doing it at the White House."

Fitzwater said Reagan usually has a cleaning and checkup every three months at the White House, but that the president planned to have a "panoramic" X-ray done this time in order to get a full-view picture of his mouth.

Fitzwater explained that the White House has X-ray machines that take pictures of parts of the mouth, but it does not have the larger machine that pans the entire mouth area.

Airline smoking ban goes into effect soon

NEW-YORK (AP) — Flight attendants and ticket agents will ply passengers with free candy and gum, and get tough if necessary to enforce the new federal ban on smoking that takes effect on thousands of domestic flights Saturday.

The new regulation, which outlaws smoking on flights of less than two hours, carries stiff fines for violations: up to $1,000 for smoking and $2,000 for tinkering with lavatory smoke alarms.

It applies to around 80 percent of all U.S. flights, or an estimated 13,600 a day.

Under the new regulations, airlines are required to tell passengers before takeoff that smoking is prohibited on the flight, and to keep the "No Smoking" sign illuminated for the duration of affected flights.

Many airlines also plan to make announcements in the gate area before passengers board.

"Our employees have been briefed," said Paula Musta, a spokeswoman for Eastern Airlines. "The flight attendants, as the front-line people, will have to deal with it more than anybody."

Travelers flying United Airlines, the nation's largest carrier, will be advised individually of the new regulation when they check in.

CSI splits with TVCC, hosts Cardinals today

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho's hopes for entry in the Region 18 baseball finals continue to find rough going.

Treasure Valley's first baseman-right fielder Jim Straw, carrying a 1-1 mound record, limited CSI to four hits — all to the wrong field — in beating the Eagles 6-3 in the first game of a regional double-header Friday. CSI, with a three-pitcher performance that allowed just one hit but nine walks, claimed the second game 8-1.

The Eagles will have a chance to break their 50-50 performance today when they host the North Idaho Cardinals in another double-header starting at 1 p.m. at Frontier Field. The Cardinals already have a sweep of Treasure Valley and had their twin-bill at Ricks rained out Friday. That means they will have their one-two moundsmen for today's battles with CSI.

The Ricks-North Idaho rainout threatens to throw a major monkey wrench in the closing two weeks of the regular season. When the makeup games will be made up is the problem. CSI winds up the season on the road against the three regional teams starting next Thursday.

The Eagles led with right-hander Corby Schroder in the opener because of his 1.67 ERA the five he had gone the route in four of five previous starts. But Treasure Valley rocked him for three runs early and when he walked the lead off batter in the fourth, Coach Jim Walker went with Tom Cheek. Cheek couldn't hold the Chukars, giving up the decisive RBI single to Dan Britton and the Chukars then tagged him with two more runs on Mike Redmond's singled up the middle in the top of the seventh.

The Eagles had a couple of chances to make life miserable for Straw but the lower end of the batting order produced no timely hits. That allowed Treasure Valley to yield three intentional walks to cleanup man Chris Hanks with impunity.

do anything. Hanks will be walking all the time," Walker said.

But in the first inning it worked to CSI's advantage when Billy Satterfield singled and Hanks and Carl Smith walked to load the bases with two outs. Lance Leitner followed with a sliced double to rightfield to make it 3-1. In the fifth, CSI put runners on second and third with one out and couldn't score and had a double play wipe out a two-base runner threat in the third.

Bob Molitor had singled in TVCC's first run in the opening inning and John Harrington's base-loaded single and a round out by Ray Queen plated two more in the second.

TVCC Coach Eric Baumann was pleased with Straw's mound performance, noting "he's really a position player and hitter for us but I go with him in pitching situations like this because he's our mentally toughest."

In the nightcap, CSI kept TVCC off the scoreboard for five innings despite all those walks. The Chukars' lone run was scored by former Twin Falls Bruins Casey Bartholomeo on a wild pitch. Gary VanTol got the lone hit, a single, in the fifth.

Meanwhile, the Eagles sacked things up with seven runs in the first two innings.

Lance Leitner, moved to the third hitting spot, doubled in the walking Error Shirer in the first and Satterfield scored from third on Hanks' sacrifice fly. John Nesmith wrapped that up by singling in Smith.

In the second inning, Shirer tripled and scored on Leitner's sacrifice fly after Satterfield had walked. Hanks then unloaded his 12th homer of the season and Nesmith again ended it with an RBI single.

Walker tried to take the split as calmly as possible, noting "I don't think it hurts us. I think we're going to beat each other the rest of the season and two home losses won't be fatal. We feel we can win on the road."

"Saturday's games are big ones, just like these were," he continued. "We'll just try to find a way to win somehow."

The Eagles will lead with right-hander Don Emery this afternoon and Bill Moeller will start the nightcap.

Elks returning club fighting to area scene

By COLIN MULDOON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — There's something to be said for an athlete who day in and day out, trains and prepares not for public recognition, but for his own love for sport.

There are 12 such athletes in the Magic Valley. They are a part of the Twin Falls Elks' Boxing Club, possibly the most successful boxing club in the state.

On Saturday, the boxing Elks will wind up their seven-month season with a 16-fight card beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Lodge.

The fighters that make up the Elks' boxing club may be the most successful and least known athletes in the area.

According to trainer Woody Turley, the fighting Elks have been on the winning end of 72 percent of their matches. Two boxing brothers, Ron and Melvin Carnell of Jerome, are reigning Idaho State Golden Gloves champions in their respective weight divisions.

Reasons for the club's lack of notoriety can be speculated upon, but the most obvious is the fact the boxing is not a sanctioned sport on the high school level. Whatever direction these boys take in their fighting careers is on their own time and, no doubt, their sport will play second fiddle in popularity to the likes of high school football and basketball.

All of the fighting Elks are members of the Amateur Boxing Federation (ABF). According to Turley, $25 a year will provide a young athlete with a place to work out and membership in the ABF. The $25 actually goes towards medical insurance provided by the ABF.

The Twin Falls Elks Club has actually only sponsored the young boxers since February. Ten years prior to that, the boxers fought under the title of the Jerome Boxing Club. Turley said the move to the Elks Club was essentially due to the service organization's facility.

The dedication of the young fighters is nothing less than amazing. Turley said that only 1 in 20 youths actually stick with the program over a year, but those who do are usually around four or five years.

In the case of Melvin and Ron Carnell, 10 years of hard work has been their dues, but the fruits of their labor have been sweet—Melvin has won the Golden Gloves state title three consecutive years and brother Ron has taken the title the last two years.

A group of young fighters shadow box during practice for the Twin Falls Elks' Boxing Club

"The quality fighters, according to Turley, begin around age 10. That is the minimum age a fighter can compete in compliance with ABF regulations.

The usual workout regimen, according to Elks' coaches Mel Carnell and Mike Capps, consists of two-hour daily workouts in the gym and two to four miles a day running. When all is said and done, these young fighters commit around three hours of training daily.

"By the time the season is over," Capps said, "they're ready for a vacation."

In addition to the time spent in workouts, there is a staggering amount of money involved in raising boxers, something Carnell is all too familiar with.

He has four sons involved with the Elks' program and said that this year alone, he has travelled 7,000 miles from Seattle to Pocatello attending meets.

Turley has been involved with boxing for over 40 years, but has only been with this particular club since March 1987. He said the club's aim is not to make Olympic fighters, merely to instruct them in art of boxing. "All we want to do," he said, "is to fight the best we can."

Cornell said that contrary to what many people believe, boxing on the amateur level is very safety-minded. Turley agreed, "safety is first and foremost," he said, "if the referees even have the slightest indication that a boy is hurt, they'll stop the fight."

Turley also said that if a fighter is stopped during a bout, he may be restricted from competition for up to 90 days depending on the severity of the blow taken during the fight. Capps said that rarely is decision reached by knockout and in most cases, a technical knockout is the result of a body blow, not a blow to the head.

In the years to come, the Magic Valley's claim to fame may be boxing. Both Ron and Melvin Carnell are shooting for the '92 Olympics as is Jerome's Jeff Pedroni (the 165 pounder is 5-11 this year, four by knockout). If the success of these young fighters sparks a fire in younger athletes in the area, Twin Falls could become a boxing Mecca in the Northwest.

Boise relays, Andrus meet slated today

BOISE — Some of the Magic Valley's best will be meeting most of the state's best Saturday when the annual Boise Relays unfolds at Bronco Stadium, while many of the rest will be in Hazelton for the annual Monte Andrus Memorial meet.

Field events begin the competition at 12:30 p.m. with the running to start at 1 p.m. The tournament will take a break about 4 p.m. and then conclude with a late-afternoon and evening session.

Just how many Magic Valley individuals will show up isn't known but it appears that the biggest hopes for a Fourth District relay victory will be provided by Twin Falls in the girls division and Jerome in the boys.

Twin Falls' Jennifer Hannah has elected to run the 3,200-meter run this week for the last time in her high school career — because it is the only individual distance event available. She'll be battling Michelle Brown of Borah among others at that distance.

Hannah returns more toward her strengths as a participant in the two-mile and 1,600-meter relays and she also will be running on the Bruin 800-meter relay. Twin Falls carries another hope for an individual champion in senior shot putter Kris Horner who set a personal best of 41 feet-plus last week. Lisa White of Skyline is the only Idaho girl with a stronger effort this season. Jerome can put together some strong relay teams, particularly in the long sprints to distance. "We'll mostly stay with the same personnel in the relays we have with the exceptions that we will be up with the 800 with (junior John) Gourley and out distance medley will be about as good as we can put together," says Coach Tim Dunne.

Kevin Thompson gives the Tigers hopes for an individual first in the pole vault although this field boasts considerable 14-foot potential. Gourley will be running in the 400.

Whether Magic Valley's recently crowned sprint champ, Frank Tompey, of Hagerman, shows up wasn't clear. Coach Randy Clark said a final decision on whether the youngster would go to Boise for a one-day state might not be decided until Saturday morning.

The Monte Andrus, traditionally the Magic Valley's most prestigious A-3 track meet, will bring defending District 4 boys' champion Glens Ferry and defending girls' champion Declo together for their last meeting on an all-weather track prior to next month's Canyon Conference and district meets.

The meeting on the Valley High School oval will be the third this season between the two track powers. The Declo girls and Glens Ferry boys have won both. Murtaugh and Kimberly will join the other three schools for the meet, which will begin at 10:30 with the preliminary running events and the field events. The running finals are scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

A chance at the brass ring Bruins take aim at Region's top spot

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

POCATELLO — It's four games today for all the marbles — or at least most of them.

Region III leader Twin Falls and Minico come calling on Pocatello and Highland at Halliwell Park today for a pair of high school baseball double-headers that could all but seed the region's postseason tournament.

Highland Coach Zane Simmons, whose Rams host Minico in a 2 p.m. doubleheader after Pocatello plays Twin Falls at 10 a.m., puts it more succinctly.

"We have to win to have a prayer," said Simmons. "We'll know by the time we take the field. If Twin sweeps Poky, it's all over."

What would be all over would be the suspense over the site of the regional tournament, which awarded to the region's regular-season champion. Twin Falls beats Pocatello twice, the Bruins would be 6-0 with two games to play and the next-best team would have at least one regional loss.

Bruin Coach Bill Ingram isn't quite ready to make his postseason reservations for Twin Falls' Harmon Park diamond, but he admits a sweep — or even a split today — would make the Bruins' chances awfully good.

"I'd like to go out of there with at least a split," said the Bruin coach, whose ballclub has won five straight to improve its record to 13-4 for the season. "That's going to be awful tough to do there, though. Poky plays tough at home, and if the wind is blowing from the West, Halliwell Park is a tough place for pitchers." "As it stands, the Bruins hold a one-game lead over Highland (11-2 for the season and 4-2 in region), 1 1/2 games over Minico (8-8 and 2-1) and 2 1/2 games over Pocatello (12-5 and 1-2). Under the regional format, the teams are seeded according to their regular-season records; the higher the seed, the more games each team plays at home.

"We're playing pretty well right now," said Poky Coach Rick Parkin, whose Indians handed Glens Ferry State Conference leader Idaho Falls its first two league losses Thursday, 12-5 and 7-3. "If we can play that well against Twin, we have a chance to stay in this thing."

The Indians put themselves in jeopardy two weeks ago by losing a double-header to Highland, but by winning three out of four against Twin Falls and Minico, Pocatello would still have a chance to claim the top seed.

"Pocatello is a good hitting ballclub and they have some good pitchers," said Ingram. "We've got to do what we did against Highland and Minico: be patient at the plate, play good defense and get some good pitching."

What Poky isn't is a healthy ballclub at the moment. The Indians' leading hitter is sidelined and today's second-game starter, sophomore Scott Wolfenbarger, is nursing a sore arm after beating Burley last Tuesday.

Complicating that situation is that fact that Wolfenbarger, a right-hander, is also the Indians' No. 2 hitter.

"We're not in real good shape physically right now," said Parkin. "But we do have some depth in the pitching staff, and that's going to have to help us now."

Junior right-hander Jim Hallinan (1-3) is scheduled to open against Bruin ace right-hander John Hayes (5-2). Wolfenbarger is slated to work the second game for Pocatello, but if he can't sophomore right-hander Eddie Seal (1-0) will start.

Ingram wasn't sure Friday who he second-game starter would be.

"Jody Bryant's arm is still a little tender," he said. "We're going to have to get some good pitching from John Hayes, Steve Call, Shawn Wallace and Barry Smith to get through these games."

Pocatello beat Twin Falls 4-3 in a five-inning semifinal game at the Mini-Cassia Easter Tournament three weeks ago, but all four of those runs were unearned. Since then, the Bruins have won nine of their last 12 games, averaging just over one error in each.

"We're playing good defense right now, and that's what we're going to have to continue to do because we're not as strong offensively as we have been in the past," said Ingram.

Pocatello's leading healthy batter is outfielder Duane Cummins, who is hitting .420.

Bobby Jenco is hitting .387 and catcher Shanon Quessnell .386.

Late this afternoon, Minico and Highland will be working to keep their chances alive of spending the regional tournament at home.

"I know Highland has some good hitters, especially their 1 and 2 hitters, so we're going to have to keep them off the bases," said Minico Coach Cory Bridges. "Offensively, if we don't panic, I think we can hit their pitching."

The Rams' ace, senior right-hander Paul Murphy (4-1) and junior right-hander Ralph Obray (4-1), will be on the hill to face Minico junior right-hander Eric Miller (1-2) and junior right-hander Jeff Hull (0-2).

"I haven't seen Minico play, but I know they've been up and down," said Simmons. "Their pitching impressed me last year, and I know they've got a couple of kids who are just coming back from injuries (Miller and right-hander Jesse Villanueva)."

Highland, which hasn't played since it was swept by Twin Falls a week ago, is led by Obray, a sometime first baseman, with a .531 average. Outfielder Tom Bell is hitting .435 and outfielder Brady Swallow is batting .396.

Villanueva, Dan Poulton and Kent Schow are all batting over .300 for the Spartans. "These are big games for us," said Bridges, whose Spartans must still play Pocatello twice and Twin Falls once. "We need to win two, but that's going to be tough on the road."

Mets collect fourth victory over Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ron Darling scattered eight hits for his second shut-out in four starts and Howard Johnson hit a three-run homer as the New York Mets defeated St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 Friday night, their fourth triumph over the Cardinals without a loss.

Darling, 2-1, struck out five and walked two while handing St. Louis its sixth loss in its last seven games. He pitched out of a two-on, none-out jam in the first inning by picking Vinny Coleman off second base.

Darryl Strawberry, who started the night as the National League's top hitter, doubled to the right-field corner off Jody DeLoon, 1-2-to start the Mets' second and scored when Kevin McReynolds dropped a single in front of center fielder Willie McGee.

Darling protected the 1-0 lead until the Mets broke it open in the ninth. Strawberry again doubled, Gary Carter was intentionally walked by DeLoon and Johnson greeted Todd Worrell with his second home run in the season.

Bruins nab fifth loop golf crown

By The Times-News

IDAHO FALLS — Twin Falls High School golfers clinched their fifth straight GSC State Conference title Thursday at the Pinecrest Municipal Golf Course with an eight-stroke margin over Highland.

The Bruins compiled a 307-total score while the Rams tallied 315 for second place. Minico totaled 316 for third.

Medallists honors went to Minico's Scott Erling for a one-over-par 71 and Bonneville's Lori Bruner 45.

Twin Falls, which won two of the three GSC tournament this spring, will travel to Pocatello on Wednesday for the Gate City Invitational at the Highland Municipal Golf Course.

Royals score nine in first, pin 16th loss on Orioles

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles lost their 16th straight game to start the season Friday night, their trouble turning to travesty when Kansas City scored nine runs in the first inning as the Royals romped 13-1.

The Orioles' embarrassment reached new proportions as they extended the major league record for season-opening defeats and the club mark for consecutive losses.

The Orioles' 16 straight losses tie the ninth longest streak in American League history. The record is 20 by three teams. The major league record for consecutive losses is 23 by the 1961 Philadelphia Phillies.

Kansas City's first seven batters singled, establishing a team record. Kurt Stillwell and Willie Wilson capped the carnage with triples while shortstop Cal Ripken and third baseman Rene Gonzalez contributed throwing errors for the bumbling Birds.

Mark Gubicza, 3-1, held the punch-line Orioles to three hits as the Royals ended a five-game losing streak, which had been the second-longest in the majors.

Indians 11, Twins 6

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Cory Snyder and Joe Carter hit grand slams and Greg Swindell won his fourth game as Cleveland beat Minnesota Twins 11-6.

The Indians, 13-3 and off to their best start since 1966, had never before hit two grand slams in a game. It had been done 39 times previously in major league history.

The defending World Series champion Twins have lost five straight games and seven of their last eight.

Carter's grand slam, the fourth of his career, came in the eighth off Keith Aulton after Minnesota had pulled to within 7-6. Carter was 5-for-32 against the Twins last season.

Pirates 8, Cubs 4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — R.J. Reynolds hit a tie-breaking single in the seventh inning and Mike LaValliere went 4-for-4 with a two-run double, leading the streaking Pittsburgh Pirates to a come-from-behind 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs on Friday night.

Pittsburgh, which trailed 3-0 after 1 1/2 innings, won for the ninth time in the last 11 games with a two-out uprising against reliever Les Lancaster, 0-2.

Lancaster walked Bobby Bonilla and Sid Bream before Reynolds' single put the Pirates ahead 4-3. LaValliere, who tied his career high for hits in a game, followed with his second double to score two more runs.

LaValliere scored on a triple by Rafael Belliard and the Pirates scored an unearned run off Frank DiPino in the eighth. Jody Davis hit his Cubs' ninth.

Doug Drabek, 3-0, scattered eight hits with a career-high 11 strikeouts for the 11-4 Pirates, off to their best start since 1962.

Leon Durham opened the Cubs' second with a double and scored when Davis singled; Davis was thrown out trying for a double but Vance Law doubled to extend his hitting streak to a career-high 15 games.

Floyd decides to stay as Idaho cage coach

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — University of Idaho head basketball coach Tim Floyd withdrew his name from consideration Friday for the head coaching job at the University of New Orleans.

"The New Orleans job would be a great situation for someone," said Floyd, who is from the south, having graduated from Louisiana Tech and previously worked for the New Orleans Saints.

"But I think the program at the University of Idaho is alive," he said in a statement. "The future is bright, and I want to be a part of its continued growth."

The second-year coach in the Big Sky Conference was selected as a finalist for the New Orleans job last week along with Auburn assistant Ned Fowler and former pro and Tulane assistant Tom Nisslake. He had his second interview with the seven-member search committee on Wednesday.

Interim Vandal Athletic Director Hal Godwin said Floyd's decision was not a total surprise although welcome "after hearing how much the selection committee liked him."

Blue Jays 6, Yankees 4

NEW YORK (AP) — Pinch-hitter Nelson Liriano singled home Lloyd Moseby with the tie-breaking run in the 12th inning as Toronto beat New York 6-4.

Moseby opened the 12th with a single and continued to second when left fielder Rickey Henderson bobbled the ball.

Dave Wells, 2-1, the third Blue Jays pitcher, pitched 1 2-3 innings for the victory.

White Sox 7, Athletics 5

CHICAGO (AP) — Carlton Fisk hit a two-run homer with two outs in the bottom of the 10th inning to lead Chicago past Oakland 7-5.

With two outs in the 10th, Greg Walker singled and Fisk followed with his fifth home run of the season on a pitch from reliever Eric Plunk, 1-1. It was Fisk's 309th homer of his career.

John Pawlowski, 1-0, pitched 2 2-3 innings for his first major league victory.

The defeat ended a four-game winning streak for Oakland.

TIM FLOYD

"Throughout the process, Tim has been consistent in his discussions with me that he feels a great deal of loyalty to the University of Idaho. We're glad to see him stay."

Hawks 133, Celtics 106

ATLANTA (AP) — Dominique Wilkins scored 16 of his 35 points in the first quarter as the Atlanta Hawks rolled to a 133-106 victory over the injury-weakened Boston Celtics Friday night.

Atlanta, in a close battle with Chicago for third place in the Eastern Conference, sank its 11th field-goal attempt, and used a 13-0 run early in the game to take control. The Hawks led 36-24 at the end of the first period and 67-45 at halftime.

The Celtics, however, rallied at the start of the second half. Kevin McHale and Danny Ainge each scored four points during a 15-5 stretch that closed the gap to 72-60 with 7:55 left in the third quarter.

But Atlanta followed with a 13-5 spurt that extended the Hawks' lead to 95-75 with 44 seconds left in the period.

Mavericks 127, Spurs 96

DALLAS (AP) — Daley Aguirre scored 26 points and the Dallas Mavericks rolled to a 20-point first period lead Friday night, then coasted to a 127-96 rout of the San Antonio Spurs.

Dallas remained alive in its attempt to repeat as Midwest Division champion, but needed losses by first-place Denver in its last two games to have a chance to catch the Nuggets.

The Spurs, losers of six of their last nine, have already clinched the eighth and final Western Division playoff berth and will meet the defending NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers in the first round.

Alvin Robertson led San Antonio with 20 points against the Mavericks.

Knicks fate hangs in balance

ATLANTA (AP) — Scores Friday night in the Eastern Conference, close their regular season Saturday night in Indiana. New York could miss the playoffs despite winning and would still have a chance with a loss.

New York led 97-96 with 7:36 to go, but scored only 12 points the rest of the way as Krystkowiak got a sellout crowd and the Bucks rolling in their final regular-season game at the Milwaukee Arena.

Milwaukee scored seven straight as Jack Sikma made a three-point play, and Krystkowiak and Sidney Moncrief scored on fast breaks to give the Bucks a 103-97 lead with 6:11 left.

Gretzky shoots down Flames

By The Associated Press
"Gretzky again. What else is new." That's how Calgary Coach Terry Crisp summed up his team's fate after NHL Flames fell to 0-2 in their best-of-7 Norris Cup playoff series against Edmonton.

Enough said. Gretzky, who has more career playoff points than any player in NHL history, scored a short-handed goal in overtime Thursday night to give Edmonton a 5-4 victory and send the Oilers home for Smythe Division games Saturday and Monday nights against Calgary.

The Detroit Red Wings also took a 2-0 lead in their second-round Norris Division series with a 6-0 victory Thursday night over St. Louis. The Red Wings, however, now must travel to St. Louis for the next two games.

Friday night, New Jersey maulled Washington 10-4, as Patrick Sundstrom broke one of Gretzky's playoff records with eight points, to take a 2-1 lead in the Patrick Division finals. Boston downed Montreal 3-1 for a 2-1 lead in the Adams Division finals. Both series resumes Sunday night.

Smythe Division
Gretzky's goal came at 7:54 of overtime to complete Edmonton's rally from a 3-1 deficit. The goal was his second-of-the-game. His first tied the score 3-3 in the second period.

The Flames went ahead again, 4-3, in the third period, but Jari Kurri scored at 16:01 of the period to force overtime.

"When you blow a 3-1 lead and a 4-3 lead late in the game, then have a power play in overtime and they score short-handed, you have to say to yourself, 'Hey, we're our own worst enemies,'" Crisp said.

Gretzky's overtime goal came with Patrick Messier sitting out a tripping penalty. He took a pass from Kurri, skated to the top of the left faceoff circle and whipped a slap shot that beat goaltender Mike Vernon high on the goal slide.

Norris Division
Petr Klima scored three goals, and Greg Stefan made 19 saves for his first playoff shutout as the Red Wings beat St. Louis 4-0.

"They're still going to be tough in St. Louis," Stefan said. "They always are."

While Blues Coach Jacques Martin was concerned about the lopsided score of Game 2, St. Louis center Bernie Federko was more concerned about the deficit in games.

"What's the difference? We only got beat 5-4 in the first game, but we still lost," Federko said. "It's nothing. We're down 2-0, that's all. Every-

NEW YORK (AP) — The intrigue surrounding the NFL draft heightened Friday following the Los Angeles Raiders' acquisition of an extra first-round choice.

While a well-positioned source in the Raiders organization denied his team was ready to poached on Schroeder and Redskins officials called the deal "highly unlikely," there were also signs that the Raiders could be on his way to Los Angeles if the right deal could be worked out.

Thursday's Raiders-Oilers deal was typical of the kind that usually occur on draft day. The Raiders sent defensive end Sean Jones to Houston for one of the Oilers' two first-round picks.

There were several signs a trade might be in the works. There were reports that that the Redskins who don't get their first pick until 57th in the draft, have been working out players who are likely to be picked between fifth and fifteenth.

Washington also is known to want a heavy-duty running back to replace George Rogers in the one-back offense that was constructed for the now-retired John Rigginis.

If they're not thinking trade, what are they doing looking at those guys? asked one NFC personnel director, who asked not to be identified.

Seahawks sign Stouffer

KIRKLAND, Wash. (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks signed newly acquired quarterback Kelly Stouffer Friday and sent future draft picks to the Phoenix Cardinals as compensation after safety Kenny Easley failed a physical exam.

Stouffer, 23, sat out what would have been his rookie year in 1987 in a contract dispute with the St. Louis Cardinals, who have since moved to Arizona. The deal for Stouffer, who starred at Colorado State, originally was going to be Easley, a five-time Pro Bowl selection, and a future undisclosed draft choice.

"Kenny Easley is still our starting strong safety," Seahawks Coach Chuck Knox said. "Kenny knows the trade was strictly a business decision."

McCormack said the Seahawks sent undisclosed draft choices for some time after this year to the Cardinals instead of Easley. Stouffer, 23, sat out what would have been his rookie year in 1987 in a contract dispute with the St. Louis Cardinals, who have since moved to Arizona.

The draft itself begins Sunday at noon EDT with any round that doesn't start before 9 p.m. continuing on Monday. With only about 15 sure-thing players available, it's considered the most unpredictable draft in years and one that's almost sure to produce a large number of last-minute deals involving teams seeking to trade up or down for the player they want.

Typical was the Raiders-Houston deal. Not were Jones and a top pick involved, but the teams engaged in the kind of lower-round fudging that keeps draft-watchers in a state of confusion.

Raiders official that the Jones deal had nothing to do with Schroeder, Al Davis, who still controls the football operation, is known to have told some people that his team isn't going into next season with its present cast of characters. Davis, however, is reportedly not as high on Schroeder as some others.

The Redskins, meanwhile, are sending signals in both directions. "I think he can be a top quarterback in the next eight or nine years and I'd love it to be here," General Manager Bobby Beathard said of the 25-year-old Schroeder.

Also, while Gibbs prefers a veteran backup — the reason they signed Williams after the USFL fold in 1986 — they want into the 1988 season with an aging Joe Theismann, backed up by Schroeder, who had played just one college game and never thrown an NFL pass. They might also try to get Wilson thrown into a Raiders' deal.

When Theismann broke his leg, Schroeder took over and performed admirably for the rest of the season and in 1986, when he made the Pro Bowl and quarterbacked Washington to within one game of the Super Bowl.

Colts sign Joe Klecko

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Colts, who traded their picks in the first two rounds of the NFL college draft, announced the signing of veteran defensive lineman Joe Klecko to a two-year contract today.

Klecko, 34, played 11 seasons for the New York Jets and was released after the 1987 season after being advised by the team doctor to retire because of chronic knee problems.

General Manager Jim Irsay announced the signing and also said the Colts were close to signing veteran quarterback Joe Ferguson, a 15-year NFL veteran with Buffalo and Detroit.

"We feel it's very close. Today we might have something on that," Irsay said, regarding Ferguson. "All negotiations have been concluded. At this point, it's just (the Colts) waiting for an answer."

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

BOBBY WOLFF

"A lie always needs a truth for a handle to it."
— Henry Ward Beecher.

East put up a cagey defense against today's no-trump game. But his falsecard worked well primarily because it was believable.

South took the heart jack with his ace and returned the heart nine, finessing against West's presumed 10. East won with his queen, concealing the 10, and South was left in the dark regarding his best chance for a ninth winner.

East returned a low spade, South's jack losing to West's queen. Back came a club to South's eight, and South led his last heart, again planning to finesse against West's 10. Horrors! West discarded and the game was now beyond reach. South cashed the rest of his eight winners and ruefully conceded the one-trick set.

Had East won the second heart trick with his 10 instead of the deceptive queen, South would have been left with no hopes in the heart suit. And with no future in hearts, he might well have found the successful line of establishing a diamond or a spade trick for his ninth winner.
