In a series of five vates, the Senate killed, piece by piece, the amendment pro-posed by Steve Symms, R-Idaho.

Symms' amendment noted that Reagan has told Congress the Sowtets are violiting the SALT. I and SALT II arms-limitation reaties, a 1963 pact banning open-air atomic tests, a 1925 Geneva protocol ban-ning chemical weapons and the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty.

Conservatives, using Senate rules, insisted on five separate votes rather than a single roll call. In the tallies, the votes to kill Symms' proposal were 85-11, 87-10,

The decision came after Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas called on his fellow Republicans to speed up the action.

"We need to start making real progress on the treaty itself," Dole said. "Time is of the essence: the president leaves next Wednesday" for his Moscow summit with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Sen. David-Duronborgor, R.Minn., opposed the Symms proposal because he said "it is designed to kill the INF treaty, not to produce Soviet compliance.

Judge blocks federal drug tests

Los Angeles Times

A federal-judge in San Francisco prohibited the Reagan administration Friday from beginning a program of random drug testing of all 13,000 federal prison employees, which was to begin Monday.

The program would force lawabiding employees of the Bureau of Prisons to submit to testing even though not suspected of any wrongoing, negligence or dereliction of duty. U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel said in a brief but strongly worlde order. Weigel bunned the tests until Thuradiy, when he holds a hearing to decide whether to issue a preliminary injunction.

Weigel said decisions by the U.S.
Supreme Court and the isderal 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, based in San Francisco, "asst serious doubt upon the constitutionality and lawfulness" of the program, which is part of massive drug-testing efforts luunched by the Rengon administration earlier this year.

The Supreme Court has not ruled on the constitutionality of drug-testing. Weigel apparently was alluding to Supreme Court decisions on Fourth Amendment search and scizure issues referred to in a brief by lawyers challenging the tests. The Fourth Amendment provides that the government cannot search a person without probable cause to believe that a crime has been committed.

The judge said his order does not preclude testing Burcau of Prisons employees for whom 'there is a reasonable suspicion that drug use' is impairing performance.

The order has no impact on drug testing programs being conducted by orivate businesses.

Educators ponder C average

LEWISTON (AP) — The state's top education official says the jury is still out on a controversial rule that re-quires high school seniors to maintain a C average in certain subjects.

"I am certain that it has focused some attention on academic skills and some attention on academic skills and competency that we've not had in the past," said Jerry L. Evans, Idaho's superintendent of public instruction. "But it is too soon to tell because the first class is just now approaching their graduation time."

Educators are less circumspect in their assessment of the rule. "It is not having quite the impact we thought it would," said Marvin Rarns, counselor at Lewiston High School. But that's because of a provi-sion that allows students who didn't achieve the required C to graduate if they passed proficiency tests in the subject, he said.

"The reason for the diminished im-subject, he said.

The reason for the diminished impact is option 2," which allows students who not not have a-C-grade-in-the core but who passed proficiency tests to graduate.

Schools also can now devise a third option, which would have to be approved at the state level.

The C-average requirement was prescribed four years ago can a way-of-miproving standards in schools, and this year's class will be the first to shouldn't have these options."

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — Contract negotiations remined stalemated and less than half of the Mountain Home School District's students had returned to class Friday and teachers strike entered its second week.—

Six of the district's eight schools were open, one more than the day before. Administrators said 44 percent of the students enrolled in the open schools reported to classes Friday, up from 37 percent at the five schools open Thursday. The official said the Mountain-Home Education-Association has been pushing for a master agreement that would give the association the right to negotiate district policy. But that would allow for the filing of teacher grievances against policies not approved by the union and require outside mediation to settle disputes, effectively stripping the board of its authority, he said.

Ed board resignation may provide reorganization 'golden opportunity'

MOSCOW (AP) — Last week's re-ignation of the state Board of Educa-ion's executive director may present golden opportunity to reorganize the way higher education is run in Idaho, way higher education is run in Idaho, some legislators say.

"I think it's an opportune time; it should be dealt with now," said Rep. Janet Hay, R-Nampa, a former Board of Education member. There's no doubt the governor is ready for a change in higher education governance and I hope we'll be able to look at something soon. Hay has been one of the main proponents of a single chancellor governing Idaho's higher education system, Currently, day-to-day operations at the University of Idaho, Boise State University, Idaho State University and Lewis-Clark State College are managed by each school's president.

Betablishing a chancellor system has been a perennial issue. But since Richard Sperring announced his recipient of the board after less than one year on the job, the calls for change have increased.

Among Romney's achievements was creation of a prototype for the church's welfare system, organized in 1936 to combat the impact of the Great Depression.

The system, a network of farms, cannaries and bakeries which provide employment and goods for needy church members, is based on a philosophy of self-help that has drawn praise from President Reagan. Recipients are required to work at one of the enterprises or perform some other service in return for assistance.

Soviet television interviews Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan sat down with two television correspondents from Moscow on Friday for a 30-minute interview that will be broadcast in the Soviet Union on May 27, two days before the begins summit talks with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The session was similar to the television interview Gorbachev gave NBC-TV anchorman Tom Brokaw last Nov. 28 before the start of the Reagan-Gorbachev summit in Washington. That interview lasted one hour.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan was questioned by Valentin Zorin and Boris Kalyagin from Soviet television. Fitzwater said the interview will be broadcast May 27 at 7 pm. Moscow time: A transcript is to be released at that hour to reporter accompanying Reagan, who then will be visiting Helsinki, Finland. They have agreed to carry the entire interview in its entirety on Soviet TV — approximately 30 minutes — and then they are entitled to cuit it up for individual news segments as they want to do, Fitzwater said.

Gorbachev's interview with Brokaw, after being shown in the United States, was broadcast in the Soviet Union. It covered arms control, human rights and Alghanistan. However, the Soviet version omitted a segment in which Gorbachev indicated that he talks with his wife, Raisa, about top government affairs.

Contras to get 'last resort' cash for food agan administration's plan to give, cash to the Contra rebels inside Nicardgus is "a last resort" aimed at feeding the starving remnants of the guerfills force, the head of the U.S. foreign aid program said Friday.

"There are people inside Nicaragua who are desperate ... we've had reports of people eating tree roots," Alan Woods, administrator of the Agency for International Development, told a Senate subcommittee.
"Woods said AID plans to send cash at the rate of $1$ per day per rebel, but at the rate of $1$ per day per rebel.

Drug war in New York seems losing cause

NEW YORK — With crack in its third year as New York's top illegal drug and despite skyrocketing drug arrests, the city appears to be in a losing battle, according to state and city law-enforcement officials.

Crack dealers are reacting to heightened-police enforcement by becoming more sophisticated at trafficking in the drug.

"Losing, there is no question about, we are losing," special narcotics rosecutor Sterling Johnson said this week.

And, officials say, unless more resources are committed to the battle and a national drug strategy devised, the city's criminal-justice system from the cops on the street to the overworked judge in the courtroom will be swamped.

"We are not succeeding," said Bronx District Attorney Paul Gentile. "My view is we are probably hold-ing our own," said Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Mor-genthau. "Are we stopping it? No, "we are not."

we are not."
Only about 10 percent of the co-aine destined for the United States is seized by federal officials before it enters, the country, Morgenthau said. If the city doesn't commit more resources and if the federal government doesn't pitch in, city law enforcement is in danger of being overwhelmed, of ficials said.

"It's a 'roach ranch.' 'said Johnson, comparing crack dealing to the city's—ubiquitous pest." No matter-what-wedo, you can't get rid of them." The latest city police statistics show that in 1987 there were 13,603 crack arrests, including 398 felony possession cases, 7,386 felony sole cases and 5,817 misdomeanor possession cases. In January 1988 there were 2,534 felony and misdomeanor arrests involving crack, according to police.

In Manhattan, from January to April 1988, 1,373 felony complaints for crack were handled in criminal courts, compared with 1,135 in the same period last year, an increase of 39 percent.

But the rate of increase for misdomeanor crack cases is even greater, at 88 percent, and Robert Silbering, a Johnson aide. So far this year, Johnson's staff has handled 3,917 misdomeanor crack cases for possession, compared with 2,078 in the same period last year, an increase of 190 misdomeanor crack cases for possession, compared with 2,078 in the same period in 1997.

Energy flow big concern if quake hit, expert says

ay, May 21, 1988

SUN VALLEY (AP) — A major earthquakealong the Wasatch Fault could cause structural damage in southeastern Idaho, but more likely would paralyze the region by disrupting power, transportation and communications, supra Utuh ciecutist.

Spaaking at a Geological Society of America Conference in Sun Valley this week, DougSprinkel, deputy director of the Utah Geological and Mineral Survey, said scientific evidence suggests that a massive earth movement will occur along the 220-mile fault within the next 100 years.

While that quake could send tremors into Franklin and Oneida counties strong enough to topple buildings, Sprinkel said its probable impact on Jdaho would be interruption of the flow energy through the region's electrical grids and the closure of transportation routes. "A migin vent on the Westech Fault was some damage in southern Idaho, but more importantly it is going to cause a significant economic impact," he said.

into Idaho.

Geologists theorize a major earth movement takes place along the fault every 300 years. No earthquakes have been recorded in the fault region since Mormon settlers entered Utahamore than a century ago While seismic events are uncommon along the fault, Sprinkel said when they do come they are major events, in the range of 7.5 on the Richter scale.

First discovered in the late 1800s, the fault came under extensive study by Utah authorities in 1983 following the central Idaho certhquake that killed two children. Sprinkel said Utah is preparing for a quake by raising public awareness and providing land developers, community planners and engineers with geologic information. He added the effort is sometimes Irustrated by an unconcerned public and short-sighted by a land of their terms."

Grindstaff opposes Blass in Twin Falls race

TWIN FALLS — Common sense and the ability to meet the publicare skills Joyce Grindstaff hopes will vault her to a spot on the Twin-Falls County Commission.

Grindstaff said the experience she has accumulated has been at the school of "hard knocks." As a former single parent; she raised herchildren while working for 10 years.

children while working for 10 years.

Grindstaff joins Filer resident Norma-Blass in the race for the Republican nomination. Commissioner Judy Felton has decided not seek re-election for the two-year District I post.

Democrat Tom Lancaster of Filer will run against whomever wins the Republican nomination Tuesday.

Grindstaff, who has never run for public office before, has served on the Buhl Recreation Board and Magic Valley Consumers Coop, was guardian of Josh-Daughkars, and was the former president of the Magic Valley Tolers.

"So I know what it's all about."
For example, she said funding the indigency program is bank rupting the county.

Tt's ridiculous, a waste of time and county commission resources, she said. It's frivolous.
She said a recent case in which a woman went to court over $150 rent money the county refused to pay her is an example of the problems with providing indigent care.

Clara Tuller sued the county, claiming she qualified for indigency assistance because she was about to be evicted and didn't have enough money to pay her rent. But in early April, she withdrew her case after it was determined she was not in immediate danger of eviction.

Gindetaff also referred to an incident two weeks ago in which three Menican nationals were severely burned in a Castleford housefire and taken to the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and the University of Utah's burn center.

County Wellare Director Juanita Bryan said the county will probably

TWIN FALLS — Norma Blass says programs that take care of the poor are nice; but funding them has gotten out of hand.

The Filer resident and mother of three college graduates said she is relying on an ability to work with people and a determination to do what ahe thinks is right to help her in her first try at government office.

I can relate to people. I enjoy people," she said. "By talking to them I'm able to find out their opinion on important issues.

By BARBARA NEIWERT Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — Both Jerry "Wait" Fem-ling and Dan Norton, candidates for the Blaine County Republican nomi-nation for sheriff, say their law en-forcement accomplishments in the Wood River Valley make them the heatchoire.

Femling, 31, has served as Blaine County sheriff for the past 14 months after being appointed by the county commissioners to replace resigning sheriff Dennis-Haynes. Prior to that sherin Dennis Traying.

The worked for more than seven years as a sergeant with the Ketchum Police Department. He studied criminal justice for three years at Washington State University

State University.

Femling has several goals for the 23-person department which he oversees. He said he would work toward police education to specialize in different aspects of law enforcement.

Femling would like to see more employees in the department to keep up with the continued growth of Blaine County. One of his accomplishments while serving as sheriff this past year was to obtain a grant to purchase a $20,000 patrol boat for Magic Reservoir and to fund a full-time officer to patrol the recreation area.

Among Femling's accomplishments as sheriff are current work on the details of an updated countywide disaster plan. The plan calls for procedures and chemical spills.

Elrod said the nature of assessment work in the county requires a continual assessment of properties. The state mandates 20 percent of properties be re-evaluated each year.

Elrod said there are certain areas within the county that need greater attention than they are currently receiving, and he would devote his time to the complexities of assessing the varying types of properties in Blaine County.

"Especially in the north end of the valley, I've seen lots right next to each other that sell for $50,000 difference in price," Elrod said. That makes it a complex task to arrive at a fair assessment of property values.

By DONNA SCHORZMAN

BURLEY - The Burley City Coun-has awarded bids for the downtown beautification project.

At the last meeting bids were opened for the project, but came in well above the $50,000 allotted to the plan.

The council decided this week to award the bids to the low bidders, Ralph Thornton of Burley for the cement and asphalt.work, and Kimberly Nursories of Twin Falls for the trees and shrubs, but only after modifications were made to bring it in under the $50,000 ceiling.

The two bids added up to just over $70,000, but Mayor Ken Fronk said that it could be brought down by elim-inating some of the planters.

Rules or not, juice prevails over wine for most Christians

NEW YORK (AP) - Issue or non-isaue, it still was the question.
United Methodists debated whether to retain a rule requiring use of grape juice in communion. They dropped the rule, but most will still retain the practice.

That was the curious consequence of a bubbling interlude at the church's governing conference in St. Louis ear-lier this month, throwing a spotlight upon the diverse customs of denomi-

Consumer prices up again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big in-reases in food, energy and clothing-cats sent consumer prices up 0.4 per-cent in April, an annual rate of in-crease of 6.3 percent, as the country-got its second monthly dose of higher inflation, the government reported Friday.

Friday.

Inflation, which has been at or be-Initation, winci-mas ocen at or. De-low 4 percent for the paist six years, is being pushed higher by price pres-sures caused by tight labor markets, high factory operating rates and a weak dollar, analysts said.

The April price increase followed a 0.5 percent May advance, which had 0.5 percent May advance, which had been the sharpest monthly gain since January 1987. Analysts said the up-tick in inflation over the past-two months is worrisome because it re-flected price increases in a variety of areas.

In April, grocery store prices shotup 0.8 percent, the biggest increase in 20 months, while gasoline costs, which had fallen from September though February, jumped 1.1 percent.

—Clothing-costs, which-had-surged-a-record 2 percent in March, posted another 2- percent-rise-in-April, rec-flecting higher costs of imports.

"We have an unacceptably high rate of inflation that is widespread," said Allen Sinai, chief economist of the Boston Co. "This is the consequence of both the strength in the economy, and the effect of the weaker dollar on imported goods prices."

Seven months after the October stock market crash raised fears of a recession, analysts have now stock market crash raised fears of a recession, analysts have now switched to worrying that the economy is growing so strongly that inflationary pressures are building. They cite the fact that factories are now operating at the highest level in eight years while unemployment has fallen to a 14-year-low of 5.4 percent.

The Federal Reserve already has boosted interest rates twice in the past. Two months in an effort to

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell-6.13 to closes at -1, 952.59, bringing the loss for the week to 37.95 points as concerns about inflation and higher interest rates continued to dominate the market.

Top Reagan administration officials, including Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, have contended the market's inflationary fears are overblown.

In a statement Friday, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said "inflation remains under control" with no significant acceleration from recent years.

But private economists disagreed.
David Jones, an economist with Aubrey G. Lenston & Co., a government securities dealer, predicted consumer prices would rise by 5.5 percent this year. That would be the fastest inflation rate since 1981 and up substantially from the 4.4 percent increase in -1987.

"The fears that people have had about higher inflation are justified," nbout higher inflation are justified; said Bruce Steinberg, an economist with Merrill Lynch. The general message in this report is that prices have been rising in the past two months at a faster pace and they will continue to do so."

Steinberg said the Fed will be forced to keep pushing interest rates higher to fight rising inflationary pressures and that this eventually.

Oil profits rise despite sinking prices

The Washington Post

Crude oil prices may be taking a beating, but you wouldn't know it by glancing at the bottom lines of the major oil companies.

In the first quarter of 1988, while oil prices bobbed back and forth between low and lower, many of the nation's largest oil companies were enjoying huge earnings gains. Excorés income climbed 36 percent, to $1.6 bil. Jion. Amoco's earnings of $469 million, were up 80 percent, thevron's profits jumped 81 percent, to $553 million, and profit at both. the Christie's auction firm in Jondon set their worth at $11 million.

The theft at the downtown museum, also known as the Stedelijk Museum, was discovered after 5 a.m. when someone broke a window in the building and triggered an alarm.

Narita's airport still source of bitter tension decade later

NARITA, Japan (AP) — Ten years after its opening, Narita Airport is still surrounded by barbed wire and riot police — bitter reminders of the often violent war between disaffected farmers and the government.

Now are ambitious expansion plan-threatens-to-bring-more trouble.

Since its conception 22 years ago, farmers and demonstrators have clashed ferociously with riot police over plans to expropriate vast amounts of fertile farmland and polish it into a gleaming international gateway.

Today, the sprawling New Tokyo International Airport, located 40 miles from Tokyo, resembles a beseiged city, patrolled day and night by 700 policeman.

Departing passengers and guests are frisked with metal detectors at several security checkpoints and at times required to produce identification when entering the airport grounds.

Six lives have been lost in bloody battles since the 1966.

quired to produce identification when entering the airport grounds.

Six lives have been lost in bloody battles since the 1966 government decision designated Narita as the site for a new airport. But Koji Kitahara, leader of a group of airport opponents, claims the figures mean nothing.

More lives will be taken in the fight," he vows.

Together with the Chukaku-ha, Japan'a largest radical group, anti-Narita protesters have sabotaged construction work and even managed several times to delay the airportinauguration, originally scheduled for March 1971.

In one such clash, a handful of leftists crept into Narita's 16th-loor control tower through a sewer tunnel and destroyed its radar, weather and communications equipment. Outside, about 6,000 demonstrators fought pitched battles with 13,000 policemen.

The sabotage pushed back the opening for another two months and it was not until May 20, 1978, that the first flight took off from the heavily guarded Narita.

"For 22 years we have fought the government for disrupting our lives and taking away our right-to-a-normal-livelihood," said Kitahara, 65.

"If we allow the completion of the second-phase con-struction project, we will have no future," he said in an in-terview at his home 500 yards from Narita's only runway. Overhead, a jet roared by,

Overhead, a jet roared by.

Kitahara, who has been arrested three times in his fight against the airport, said many of the displaced farmers have been reduced to working as day laborers on construction sites. Some wives have taken up part-time jobs and 'a few of the men even work as guards at the airport' to make ends meet, he added.

"But many of them come to me now and say they wished they never sold their land," Kitahara said. "They're no longer their own boss. They have to take orders from someone else."

Government plans call for Narita to be doubled in size by March 1991 with the construction of two runways measuring 8,250 feet and 10,560 feet, and a second terminal building to increase the current capacity of 11 million pas-building to increase the current capacity of 11 million pas-sengers annually to 23 million.

But like the first stage, construction for the expansion has encountered strong opposition and plans originally targeted for completion in 1974 have only reached the ground-breaking stage:

BUDAPEST, Hungary — As Hungary's communist leadership prepares this week for a special conference to consider political reform, journalists and intellectuals have been clustering in a smell wooden theater and a grimy private bar here for an unusual flurry of independent forums, monifeetos and press conferences.

While party chiefs have struggled behind closed doors to prepare the conference's agenda, nominally illegal groups ranging from environmentallists to political clubs and a new 'trade union' of scientists have beer loudly demanding recognition from the government and major changes in the nature of communist rule.

The new groups may have little influence over the debates of the conference, which is also due to elect a substantially renovated Communist Party Central Committee, and consider the possible retirement of Janos Kadar, the country's leader since 1966. Still, the conspicuous activity is a measure not only of the change that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's rule has inspired in Eastern Europe and press demands for market-based economies and political pluralism.

But here, as in Poland and Czechoslovakia, communist regimes that have endorsed Moscow's new policies are responding with slow, halting moves toward change, that often fall short of popular expectations.

Increasingly, East European reform movements, like that of the Soviet Union, have appeared beleaguered by complications and opposition that have considerably narrowed the short-term prospect for real changes in daily life. Moreover, communist leaders in the region seem un-willing or unable to confront the fundamental issues the reforms have raised, beginning with the growing demand for political pluralism and curtailment of the ruling party's sweeping power.

Here in Hungary, as in Poland during its recent wave of strikes, top party leaders have flatly rejected the legitimecy of-the independent groups and threatened-them with police repression. Political activists and Western diplomats think the conterior radical reforms, though Kadar's tenure remains uncertain.

"The silent majority in the party is not yet ready to accept political reality," said Milcos Haraszti, a prominent dissident.—They-still-think they-can limit political reforms to words."

The slow economic progress and thenear-impasse on political renge may in the short run benefit Gorbachey, who must be concerned with stability as well as reform in the region. The Soviet leader has shown signs of unesse when East European policies have appeared to shift too radically.

East European dissidents and many intellectuals, however, warn that the failure of communist leaders was a serior and the they can be a surface and and the the failure of communist leaders was a surface and and the the failure of communist leaders and and and the the failure of communist leaders.

East European dissidents and many intellectuals, however, warn that the failure of communist leaders to initiate meaningful political liberal-ization is achieved. ization is sabitaging longer-range prospects of reform and threatening explosions of namely unrest "Hundo not have peaceful reform with the people and with compromise," Soli-darity leader Lech Walesa warned-during the recent Gdansk-shipyard-strike, "then we will be threatened with a revolution and a bloody one."

with a revolution and a bloody one."

Significantly, the two East European countries regarded by many experts as most in danger of an explosion, Poland and Hungary, are also the two most closely identified with Gorbachev's reform policies.

Both countries initiated market-oriented economic reforms and political liberalization years before Gorbachev came to power. Though they mostly remain ahead of the Soviet Union in implementing the new models, the climate in Moseow has encouraged both to press ahead with further changes; or a "second stage," as Poland's Gen. Woiciech Jaruzelski calls it.

While the new programs may have

While the new programs may have added momentum to Gorbachev's leadership, the overall situation among Moscow's six Warsaw Pact al-lies reflects his mixed success in dominating the political scene. Entrenched nating the political scene. Entrenched communist leaders in two countries, Romania and East Germany, have re-jected Gorbachev's reform policies; those of Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia have pursued saluggish, erratic ver-sions of perestroika while avoiding glasnost.

The widely varying political landscape within the Warsow Prect, extending-from Romanias—harsh—neoSpalinism to Hungary's necepitalist experiment with a stock market, is in one sense tangible evidence of Gorbachev's repeated pledges to allow the allies wide latitude in developing their own policies. Swite actions

At the same time, Soviet actions At the same time, Soviet actions suggest that while resistance to reform is tolerated, strict limits remain, on how for reform can go. Despite their outspoken opposition to perestroika, neither East Germany's Erich Honecker nor Romania's Nicolae Cousescut has seemed to come under strong pressure from Moscow. Ceausers were second to averade the Order of the Couse were the second to averade the Order of the Couse were the second to averade the Order of the Couse were the second to averade the Order of the Couse of the second to averade the Order of the Couse of the Cou

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"No man is prejudiced in favor of a thing knowing it to be wrong. He is attached to it on the belief of its be-ing right."

__Thomas Paine.

Most players will see only one chance to score ioday's game. They take the familiar-diamond finesso, and when it falls, the game fails with it.

South wins his spade king and cashes his diamond queen or the 10 haif fallen under the ace, the rest would have been casy. South would have collected three diamond winners for a total of nine tricks. (Had a singleton 10 dropped, South would have continued with his king and jack to establish dummy's nine.)

When—neither—outstanding—diamond finesse or should be just diamond fromset or the chances of finding a 3-3 diamond split or a doubleton queen or a doubleton 10 ars much better (about 70 percent).

of finding a 3-3 diamond spitt or a doubleton queen or a doubleton 10 are much better (about 70 percent vs. 32 percent).

The percentage play wins in today's layout. The diamond kind grops East's 10, the jack fives out West's queen, and dummy's sole entry is used to cash dummy's sole entry is used to cash dummy's high diamond.

Stevens takes another step toward Triple Crown

By VINNIE PERRONE

BALTIMORE, Md. — The speed of Winning Colors, the status of Risen Star and the prospects of a sloppy track have been central themes of Saturday's $350,000-added Preakness Stakes. Friday, a new subplot developed around a colt previously considered part of the supporting cast.

Finder's Choice worked three muddy-furlonge-in-a blistering 34 seconds Friday morning in preparation for the 115th Preakness, second leg of the Triple. Crown. Trainer-Charlie-Hadry said the workout was designed

CSI wins sixth straight Region 18 baseball title

By STEVE CRUMP

TWIN FALLS — In a College of Southern Idaho baseball season that played like an Indiana Jones movie, the Eagles escaped in the final reel played like an Indiana comes move, the Eagles escaped in the final reel Friday.

Errol Shirrer, who had hit one home run in the previous 50 games, unloaded for two Friday and acc closer Tom Cheek pitched a season-high seven innings as CSI defeated North Idaho College 8-6 and won Coach Jim Walker's sixth consecutive Region 18 championship.

"If you had told me at the beginning of the season that Errol Shirrer was going to hit third, I would have said you're crazy, said Walker of his right handed-hitting left-fielder, who carned the tournament's most valuable player award. But Errol and Hanksy (Chris Hanks) and Billy (Satterfield), the three guys who played for us last year, always find a way to win.

CSI lost four of its first seven north-for us last year, always find a way to win.

CSI lost four of its first seven northern division Region 18 games this season and was in jeopardy of not qualifying for the tournament before pulling out a 10-2 victory over NIC in the second game of a double-header in Co-cur d'Alene on April 28.

That was the turning point of our season, "said Shirrer. We had to win it and we won it big, and after that we had the confidence to win the rest."

They (NIC) beat "us badly here even though we pulled out the second game for a split," said Walker of the Eagles' first encounter with the Cardinals here on April 23. "We had to prove to ourselves that we were good enough to beat them, and beating them easily in the second game (in Co-cur d'Alene) was the key to the whole season."

WEISER — The Buhl Indians broke their state tournament jinx -here-Friday, winning their-first game since the school's baseball pro-gram was resurrected a year ago, and will play for the Idaho Class B tournament consolation trophy this

The Indians, facing the Shelley Russets for the second time this year, took the lead with a four-run outburst in the fifth inning and outburst in the futh inning and coasted into a 11-4 victory. Ironically, although Shelley came into the tournament as the champion of the District 4-5-6 in which Buhl competes, the Indians handled the Russets with ease.

The Indians will take on host Weiser at 10 this morning.

Tanner, Vogel only District 4 winners during opening day

By RON GATES

BOISE — With alightly less than one-third of the scheduled events already on the books, the 1988 Idaho High Schöol Track and Field Champtonships are far from being settled.

But in the first field event finals Friday, Magic Valley athletes didn't get office of good start.

In the team races, Middleton and Malad lead the boys' standings in the A-2 and A-3 divisions with 34 and 28 points, respectively, while Coeur d'Alene, Capital and Madison each with 18 stand atop the girls' A-1. Jerome and Orofino, knotted at 20 points, head the A-2 girls' standings and Malad's girls lead their division with 19 points.

Competition was still taking place in the A-1 pole vault at press time Friday night and no team standings were available for that division.

The Jerome boys trail Middleton by 20 points and second-place Kuna and Salmon — the latter last year's state chaning — by 16.

Declo junior Angie Tanner duplicated last year's fishe in the A-3 girls high jump by winning again Friday with a 5-foot, 2-inch effort.

The conches had told me that you get worse as you get older. You add weight and Idd, "said Tanner. Next year, I'm going to come back and get that back to 5-6 or better."

Friday's other Magic Valley itle went to Jerome's Tanya Vogel in the A-2 girls' shot put. Vogel, a senior,

That Jerome's boys — likely District 4's best shot at winning a team title—stand well back after the field events came as no big surprise, yet prompted Coach Tim Dunne to voice some concern.

"We thought we would pick up some points in the jumps and didn't, said Dunne. "And when you have a

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—It's a fact. William "The Refrigerator" Perry weighs 377 pounds, and the goal is to get him down to a Coach Mike Ditka let it slip in his windup interview of the Chicago Bears' throe-day mini-camp Friday.

Ditka was assessing Perry's possibilities of being switched from defansive tackle to end-when he said;—Iton't want-a-377-pound-defensive end."

Ditka was adamant that the target date for Perry to get to 320 is opening day of summer camp July 21.

Indy 500 qualifying resumes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former champions A.J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncosk head a list of about 20 drivers trying to wedge into 12 open spots in the Indianapolis 500 lineup. They hope to get a chance when qualifications resume Saturday. The three veteran racers, all over 50, were on the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval Friday during the last full day of practice for the May 29 race, trying to find enough speed to climb into the falst field.

"Twenty-one drivers, led by pole-winning Rick Mears, made the tentative lineup by completing four-lap, 10-mile qualification runs last Saturday and Sunday, the first of two weekends of time trials. Once the 33-car field is full, the slowest of the qualified cars can be bumped out by faster cars until the track closes at 5 p.m. MDT Sun-

New Mexico hires Bliss

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — If his opening act is any indication, Dave Bliss indeed is ready to take over the No. 1 show in town. Bliss is leaving Southern Methodist University to become the head coach at New Mexico, a school where basketball is king regardless of the season.

Bliss inherits a program rich in fan support but hungering for national prominence. While New Mexico has ranked in the top 10 nationally in attendance for 22 consecutive years, the Lobos haven't been to the NCAA Tournament since 1978.

The was that shortcoming that paved Bliss' road from Dallas to Albuquerque as the successor to Gary Colson. Colson won more games than he lost in eight seasons at New Mexico — a 146-106 record—but his failure to get the Lobos to the NCAA Tournament eventually led to his forced resignation on April 26.

Broncos eyeing Rogers

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Bronces hope to get-former Wesh-ington Redekins running back George Rogers into camp by the end of the week for a tryout and Rogers says he's all for the idea. The three-time Pro Bowier and 1980 Heisman Trophy winner out of South Carolina cleared waivers Tuesday and became a free agent. "Well try to get him in here, give him a physical and work him out," said Broncos coach Dan Reeves on Tuesday. Lide Huggins, Broncos director of pro personnel, said Rogers could-be here by the end of the week.

By all accounts, the engoing series between the Lakers and the Jazz has been the most interesting confrontation of the NBA playoffs to date. It also has pitted two of the most misplaced franchises in professional sports. Los Angeles, with its naturally arid climate, and Utah, where jazz has, to be imported, are tied three games to three.
