TWIN FALLS — The city council has voted in favor of an ordinance that limits adult entertainment shops be certain parts of town, but several people at a public hearing said it was not enough.

What I can't realize is that you have an entire community against the adult entertainment shops and con't want anything to do with it."

The council voted Monday on the ordinance that sets boundaries for adult entertainment shops by designating how many feet from a

Nielson said the responsibility to pursue the lawsuit rightfully belonged to the county prosecutor, who he claimed knew that the store was violating state statutes, but did nothing about it.

He also said the standard for determining what shops are govered by the ordinance, which requires that the preponderance of a shop's stock and trade be in sexually oriented material, should be changed to 10 percent of the stock and trade.

Shallow water halted barge traffic on the drought-pinched Mississippi River again Monday, and officials in Ohio and Nebraska set up "hay hotlines" to organize shipments of food to hungry cattle in the Midwest.

Showers and thunderstorms teased farmers in some drought-stricken areas but gave little relief, and temperatures on the Plains reached for 100 degrees.

This hot, dry pattern is going to continue, probably for the rest of the month," said Richard May, a meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Bismarck, N.D. There will be aportly precipitation here and there."

"Hay hotlines" set up to help organize hay shipments from the Midwest to help farmers in the South during a dry spell two years ago are being re-

Defense officials may be suspended

WASHINGTON — Top Defense Department officials met Monday to discuss whether to suspend deputies to the Navy and Air Force secretaries and three other Pentagon officials implicated in a defense contracting investigation, officials said.

The officials, who insisted on anonymity, said a "nigh-level meeting" was held Monday afternoon to discuss whether the Pentagon employees should be suspended or moved to other jobs. The sources declined to any whether Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci sat in on the meeting, but said a final decision was expected after another meeting this morning.

They should have something to announce tomorrow," said one source. The lawyers have been doing a lot of work."

Monday's meeting came less than a week after federal investigators served 38 search warrants on defense contractors, military consultants and Defense Department officials in connection with possible bribery and fraud im alleged leaks of classified contracting infomation worth millions of dollars.

Beneath this high pressure, a surface low pressure center drilled into eastern Idaho and created heavy cloud cover for the southern two-thirds of the state, the National Weather Service at Boise said. However, little pre-cipitation was associated with this low.

The biggest effect the cloud cover had on the state was the increase in humidity percentages. Most-stellons had humidities that were in the mid teen Sunday and in the 30 to 40 percent range Monday, Salmon's humidity level was 68 percent, McCall's at 56 percent and Challias at 56 percent.

Willingness to face problems is a step forward for Soviets

It is easy to list the things that are not going well for Soviet reformers in the fourth year of Mikhail S. Gor-the fourth year of mikingsi S. Gor-bachev's party leadership.

Although many sensible economic reforms already have been introduced on paper and many more are being se-riously considered, Soviet consumers are still no better off economically than they were under the late and un-lamented Konstantin U. Chernenko.

And while nationality problems are being admitted, studied and dealt with much less crudely than in the past, Gorbachev's reward (the lot of many a reformer of an authoritarian many a reformer of an authoritarian regime) has been serious unrest in Soviet Armenia and the neighboring republic of Azerbaijan. There are no simple solutions to the problems of the economy and of national relations. The economic reform is meeting enormous resistance from within the industrial ministries and the middle and lower levels of the the middle and lower levels of the Communist Party apparatus; many of its departments (together with the careers of the officials who man them) will disappear if and whan an economic reform with a serious market element is actually implemented. As for the nationality problem, its intractability is illustrated by the present impasse between the Armenians and the Azeris (the titular nationality of Azerbaijan who make up 78 percent of its population). Mere concessions from Moscow in the form of greater decentralization of power by them. from Moscow in the form of greater decentralization of power by themArchie Brown selves can solve nothing.

Paradoxical though it may seem at a time when the Armenian capital of Yerevan has been gripped by large-scale strikes and demonstrations, the Armenians as a whole remain pro Gorbachev, pro-perestroika and com-paratively pro-Russian. They have long looked to Russians to protect long looked to Russians to protect them against wheir traditional enemies, the Turks and the Persians.

The predominantly Russian leadership in Moscow, while extremely hesitant about making boundary changes between one Soviet republic and another for fear of setting dangerous new precedents, is probably rather more sensitive to Armenian than to Azeri complaints. It has already authorized a substantially grapter "Armenianization" of the disputed Nagorne-Karabakh territory within Armeniantation of the disputed Nagorio-Karabakh territory within Azerbaigan than existed hitherto. This, however, has failed to satisfy the majority of Armenians who want to settle for nothing less than Nagorio-Karabakh's incorporation in the Soviet Armenian republic.

With the removal of Geidar Aliev from the Politburo in 1987, the Azeris lost their sole representative in the top political leadership in Moscow.

The Armenians are now in a more advantageous position than that, for though they have not had one of their own nationals in the Polithuro since Anastas Mikoyan was dropped from the Leonid J. Brezhnev legdership in 1966; they are much better represented at a policy advisory level in Moscow than any of the nationalities of Turkic or Persian origin.

One of Gorbachev's personal assistants, Georgi Shakhnazarov — a prominent reformer in his own right — is an Arntenian who was born in Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan. One of the general secretary's main economic advisers, Abel Aganbegyan, is an Armenian of Georgian birth: Aganbegyan actually gone on record as supporting the reincarporation of Nagorno-Karabakh in Armenia, and for that he has been roundly attacked in the mass media of Azerbaijan. It is indeed a sign of the greatly changed times that not only will am Soviet newspaper take a radically different line from another but that some will also severely criticize an adviser known to be personally close to the general secretary.

This openness is the greatest achievement so far of the Gorbachevera, and in its own way provides hope achievement so it of the Gorbachev era, and in its own way provides hope for those who want to see the Soviet Union move further down the path of what Gorbachev calls "socialist plu-ralism." Though the old mixture of coercion and concessions kept Soviet na-tionality problems under control at least to the extent that they did not lead to the unraveling of the Soviet state, they did little to solve the underlying disputes or to change subjective perceptions for the better in areas like the Caucasus, where ethnic rivalries have deep roots.

Now the leading Soviet specialists on ethnicity are hard at work on documents that will be presented to a plenary session of the Central Committee to be specially devoted to the na-tional question. It is scheduled to take place sometime after the party conference, which will be convened next week. Social scientists, to an even greater extent than journalists, are being given their head and are ex-pected to help the politicians come up with better answers than hitherto to

The politicians themselves, however, cannot wait for the experts, and it would be naive to think that the latter could do their job for them. Yet the greater openness at least means that real problems are being addressed; and though some of them do nothing to simplify the task of Gorbachev and the reform wing of the Soviet leader-ship, their new-found willingness to face up to the nature and scale of the national and other problems is itself a

Taking a fairytale ride on welfare roller coaster

Sounds like Sheri Mills, good faith and all, took Mr. Fraley and Ms. Fel-ton for a ride. She (Sheri) certainly tiptoed through the welfare system, leaving Mr. Fraley and Ms. Felton be-hind on their faces.

Does every welfare recipient receive such kind opportunities to get off the welfare relipient receives use kind opportunities to get off the welfare roll? Even at the expense of the road department, and schools? Do other welfare recipients get to cancel their property taxes, or can they even afford to buy a house?

Yes, I believe it to be a fairytale indeed. I doubt Ms. Mills 'good faith' Jim Fraley's judgment, and I just doubt Judy Felton. If this is their idea of getting the welfare system straightened out I'm afraid for all property owners and non-owners. Taxes are taxes, fairytales are fairytales.

The IEA is one of NEA's state affiliates. Both organizations are dedicated to the welfare of public education. In fact, the IEA and NEA provide to teachers and to school districts training in crucial areas which are not provided by other sources.

Moreover, NEA members have pleaged nearly $2 million of their own money for each of the next five years in order to provide the National Foundation for the Improvement of Education seed money for locally designed, innovative reform projects.

Over the last two years, NEA members have devoted nearly three-quarters of a million dollars of their dwn money to Operation Rescue, a dropout prevention program fashioned by local teachers. Operation Rescue began before 'youth at risk' was a well-worn phrase. Two projects in Idaho have received $48,000 of that money.

Court 'OKs' drunken driving

The Idaho Supreme Court recently ruled that checkpoints to stop drunk drivers violated the state constitution. In a sense, they merely ruled that it's Okt of rink and drive. In view of the fact that the Magic Valley rently lost a prominent young woman in a head-on crash with a drunk driver, this is indeed bitter medicine to swallow. It seems that law enforcement personnel are doing their best to keep the drunks off the road, while at the same time, the courts are slowly eliminating the tools they use.

The price one pays by spending about four minutes at a checkpoint seems well worth the Project sampling a joy to see

Were you at the City Park Wednesday evening, June 15 for the University of Idaho Centening. June 15 for the University of Idaho Centening. June 15 for the Juniversity of Idaho Centening. June 15 for the Juniversity of Idaho From the University as a part of the year-long celebration in honor of their 100th birthday.

This gift to us from the University and presented by a troupe of fine young people is, indeed, a very special and generous gesture-one weahould receive with joy and graciousness.

"Unfortunately," we were only able to see a very small sampling - fragmented bits and pieces of the whole. As described in an excellent article in the Friday Special section of the June 10th issue of the Times News, the pagennt is a dramatization of scenes from Idaho's colorful history, and is truly a fine presentation.

colorful instory, and so say, association. It has a continuity and flow that permits the viewer to feel a part of the drama, the emotion that the troupe presents so well. The production is done with skill, tainet, enthusiasm and dedication that is exciting to watch!

sented it is (as the article in the T-N suggested it would be here) a program around which an evening's events are planned. Unfortunately, in Twin Falls, the situation was not so. It was obvious that a great deal of planning, preparation and hard work had gone into the event that was held in our city part. It was a grand celebration and gathering for alumni of the U of I something everyone associated with the University would surely enjoy. As a promotional event for the school, it probably has much more appeal to the alumni than to prospective students, but nevertheless it was a fine event.

The fact, however, that the Idaho Heritage project pageant was advertised as the gift it fine event. The fact, however, that the Idaho Heritage project pageant was advertised as the gift it was designed to be, but in actuality became much less, is unfortunate. The young people who are traveling to some 23 cities and towns throughout the state to present this gift of entertainment to the people of Idaho, are a generous and appreciative group. They did not, in any way, portray their feeling of disappointment at having their efforts chopped and reduced from a full 1½ hour show to less than 30 minutes of disjointed humbers. They put all of their energies into assembling their equipment and giving their utmost to make what little time they did have, as enjoyable for their audience as possible. There were no pouting faces of grumbling words - they concealed their disappointment very well. Their attitude was quite realistic. "The loss is to the people of Twin Falls, not to us. we know we have a good presentation, and the people who see it all just know that fact a lot better than those who we only seen a sampling of it?" Maybe we ow them an apology for not accepting the gift they brought with an enthusiasm equal to theirs in giving til.

Perhaps the planners of the Twin Falls

Perhaps the planners of the Twin Falls event did not realize what the Idaho Herita, e

Project pageant is. I am quite sure that their intentions were good, and I personally feel that all of the events that took place at the park last evening were very appropriate for the alumni gathering. There simply was not neough time to do all of the other things and present a pageant, too. A two-day program might have been better: the emphasis on alumni events one day, and on promotion of het U of I now during the second day. The enthusiasm and professionalism as well as the talent of the Heritage Players are certainly good promotional material!

As recipients of the Idaho Heritage Project gift, the citizens of Twin Falls would have been treated to a very fine - even an excellent performance. If you would like to have a sec-

City did students injustice

I read in the Times Newgan June 10th about the Idaho Heritage Project coming to Twin Falls. I was looking forward to it. I had found out from's family member who had seen the entire program in Burley on Tuesday evening, that it most definitely was worth going to. In fact I told several other people about it so they would come (which they did!)

We were very disappointed in only getting to see a small amount of the students' program. If we had wanted to see the altumichic (which was good) we would have gone to the park another evening to listen to them. I don't see how anyone could sit through a per-formance like the students gave and not be termine use of the very impressed.

I think that the city of Twin Falls did these young people a great insult and injustice. I feel that a written apology would and should be inorder.

I intend to go to Sun Valley tonight with my entire family to see the program in complete form. Maybe if Sun Valley is lucky, most of the people that were in our city park on Wednesday evening, will be in Sun Valley to see the whole show an Truesday. See you all there.

NEW YORK (AP) — They were city kids on their first Cub Scout camping trip. And when they came across a lake on a hot summer day, they did what kids will do — they jumped in.

First one bey drowned, and then another, and no one seems to know exactly how or why.

Did Joel Niewes dive into Lake Ohrbach in grief after the body of his friend, Tuis Ruiz, was pulled from the bittom? Or did the two 9-year-old Brooklyn boys drown togethe?

"We're in the process now of ascertaining that specific informer lon," said Deputy Inspector William Wallace, the detective in charge of the case, as an investigation into the weekend deaths continued Monday.

Council approves BID expansion downtown

TWIN FALLS — After much polits though forceful testimony on both sides, the Twin Falls City Council approved the expansion of the Downtown Business improvement District Monday and will allow a tax on vacant buildings.

The council voted 4-2 in favor of the measure after lis-tening to numerous witnesses on both sides of the issue. The council split 3-3 on a maendment that would have deleted the expansion portion of the proposed ordinance change. The councilmen opposed to the expansion seemed-

College budget up 5%

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idabo Board passed a nearly $10 million budget Monday, and nobody showed up to comment.

Still, Board Chairman LeRoy Craig felt obliged to note that only about one-fourth of that amount is sponsored by local property taxes.

"I think this college is a bargain, oven if a family in Jerome or Twin-Falls counties never sends a student to school," said Craig, referring to its attraction to new businesses considering relocating nearby.

The more than $9.65 million budget for the year beginning July 1 is 5-percent greater than the current year. The majority of CSTs funding-comosfrom the state, where the Legislature appropriated 4 percent more for vocational training, yielding nearly $5 million in those two major areas.

In addition, tuition that counties outside Twin Falls and Jerome must pay for each student rose to $465 from $425, and enrollment counting all students is predicted to rise beyond this year's record levels.

—CSI-Treasurer Karl Black said emrollment is up 10 percent during the current year and is projected to rise another 4 percent, for a total of 14 percent rise in tuition and fees budget, — or $1 million total.

President Gerald Meyerhoeffer earlier described the 5-percent growth as a 'standard, frugal budget."

The only dark cloud on the funding horizon is county property taxes, where the tax rate reached its limit last year. Black said valuations may go down 5 percent, meaning that much less money may flow into the coffers where nearly $2.4 million is budgeted.

But Black said since the projections are uncertain, the amount war-budget.

—Resource development, where Dean-of Planning Joan Edwards gathers money and in kind gifts for CSI, and continuing education under its newly named dean, Jerry Bock, each -ab-sorbed the federal money through state and-idcal dollars for the time be-ing. That way, if the federal dollars are approved and tax valuations de-cline, the budget will still be bal-anced, Black said.

Part of the expected enrollment growth is occurring in summer school under Beck. He told the board that to date Monday, 612 students were taking an average of four credits each, which are both up significantly from a year before.

The councilmen who favored the boundary expansion expressed agreement with proponents that businesses in the outer zone of downtown do benefit, if in no other way than from the maintenance of their property values.

While BID Board President Melissa Dellameter acknowledged that businesses in the district's center doprofit the most, she said outer zone businesses pay a lower-

Although Idaho state government provides such a large share of support for local schools, funneling it through an equalization formula, school districts are viewed as independent government entities, IEA spokesman Terry Gilbert pointed out that members of political parties have served in the Legislature while employed as public school, teachers or administrators.
Gilbert said Callen was continuing "to display a sour grapes attitude and is trying to raise questions of conflict of interest with regard to teachers because the believes they are primarily responsible for his defeat." I don't believe stool legislation results from legislators who are angry because they believe a particular group has been responsible for their political demise, "Gilbert said. There were tears of relief, as well, accomplishing "the greatest thing I've ever done

And, too, the tears came as Strange a golf pro who started Curtis in the

"I've been waiting a long time to do this. This is for my dad. I screwed up the '85 Masters. I've been waiting a long time."

Only a stroke seperated the players when they went to 13, where a two-shot swing — a birdle by Strange, a bogge by Faldo — wrapped it up.

That hit me hard, Faldo said. "It summed up my week."

It built Strange's lead to three strokes.

"It was hard not to start thinking you've got it won," Strange said. "But you can't do that. It's happened to me, it's happened to all of us. You start writing your acceptance speech and you're in a whole heap of trouble."

So he ground it out, although bo-geys by Faldo on three of the last four holes made the task easier.

Thomas' injuries dim NBA's finale INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) -

Wearing a Los Angeles Raiders' T-shirt with the message, "Real Men Wear Black," Thomas said at a news conference he doubted that he could play with his severely sprained right ankle in Tuesday night's deciding game of the championship series against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Asked if he was hoping for a mir-pionship series against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Asked if he was hoping for a miracle, the Pistons' star guard said, 'yes, yes I am.'
In the Lakers' 103-102 victory at their Forum home in Sunday's sixth game, Thomas had a career playoff high 48 points, including 17 after he was hurt with 4:35 left in the third quarter. He was injured after passing the ball from the lane to Joe Dumars for a lavyup and landed awkwardly.
Thomas sat out the next 35 seconds but played the rest of the game. Detroit trainer Mike Abdenour-said that didn't aggravate the injury.

nour-said that didn't aggravate the injury.
During Sunday's game, which he played with a bruised back, Thomas also sulfered a laceration over his left check and a dislocated right pinkie and was poked in the eye, Abdenour said.
Although there is little possibility he will play, Thomas, said he hadn't considered his personal disappointment "because I haven't given up the idea I might be able to play.

haven't given up prayers."

However, he said, no medical personnel who examined him pro-day.

"If I can be effective out on the basketball court, I'm going to put on a uniform," he odded, "If not, I guess I'll be on the bench."

Thomas said the only time he tried to put weight on the ankle "it wasn't very successful." Even without him, he said. "I Even without him, he said, i like our bas-tabil team's chances. We're a strong defensive team and I've said all along the best defensive team can win the series."

At practice before the news conference, the Lakers said they expected Thomas to play.

"I don't think there's any doubt that Isiah will be there if he has to wear a cast er not," Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said. "He'll be ready," guard Magic Johnson said. "I hope he plays.

"He'il be rendy," guard Magic Johnson said. "I hope he plays. Sometimes it's a letdown more for us than for them if he doesn't play," "You have to have your mind set going in that he's going to play," great, islah's out, "we're going to get beat." Abdenour said Thomas "chances of playing are one in 99." A pessimistic. Detroit coach—Chuck Daly said, "I'd say 99 23 out.

of 100 players would be out of the game, but maybe he's the 13."
But with the scries teid 3-3 and the championship on the line, the Laker's expected Thomas, Detroit's playoff leader in points, assists and steals, to defy the odds.
For seven hours after the game, the trainer said, Thomas was treated with ice, water and electrical stimulation. On Monday, he went to the Raiders' training facility in El Segundo, about five miles from the Forum, and spent much of the day receiving more treatment.
Abdenour said that if Thomas had suffered the same injury during the regular season, in would be sidelined 10 to 14 days and probably would be put on the injured list. Thomas suffered a bruised back in the third gam; and was listed as doubtful for the fourth game. But he played well and led the Pistons to victory. It's tougher to play with the ankle injury. Abdenour said.
With the back, you can compensate in different ways. You can move your hip a certain way." Abdenour said. With your ankle, you can't compensate.
We're not trying to hype this thing,' he added. "Im convinced he's not going to be able to play tomorrow (Tuesday) night."
Abdenour added that "Thomas" ankle had not improved by Monday morning and injecting him with pain killer wouldn't make sense if he can't put weight on the ankle.
Without their team leader-for the biggest game in franchise history, the Pistons probably would use Dumars at point guard and move "Vinne" -Unkney "ting ith belan wallow better." Defroit center move-Vinnie-Johnson into the starting lineup.

If Thomas can't play, "it might help us play better," Defroit center Bill Laimbeer said. "It might make the other players concentrate more to get the job done."

Pistoms forward John Salley wasn't as positive.

"It's going to affect us, like losing a finger on a hand'h es said. "In our case it would be a thumb, the most-important finger."

Deregulation complicates many lives

NEW YORK - Whatever else it may have ac-

NEW YORK — Whatever else it may have accomplished, the deregulation movement of the past 10 years in American business and finance has certainly complicated many people's lives. Crazy-quilt airline fares, nine-page telephone bills, the bewildering array of mortgage choices open to home buyers — the evidence of deregulation's handiwork abounds.

Some of the benefits of increased competition, innovation and opportunity have come through as promised. For example, deregulation has helped open up air travel to people who couldn't afford it before.

oespre. "But while it has created many new opportuni-ties, it also has brought down some established en-terprises, and cost the jobs of a good many people who thought they were working in secure, long-ferm careers.

When you venture into back-to-nature economics, it turns out, you find that it's a jungle out there.

Though deregulation got its first big boosts in the Carter administration, the campaign has come to be closely identified with President Reagan over Analysis'

The outcome of the presidential election this fall will doubtless be read by pundits as a verdict on how the public feels about the results of deregulation, and whether it wants to keep heading in the same direction.

But with all its disruptive influences, deregulation has actually served to stabilize the national economy in some significant ways, one analyst argues.

Michael Druy at Boston Company Economic.

Michael Druy at Boston Company Economic.

Advisors Inc. compared the volatility of several key elements of the economy for the 10-year periods before and after 1978, when the Federal Reserve took the important step of declaring an end to cellings on bank interest rates.

Stock prices, for example, were three times more volatile in 1978-87 than they had been in 1968-77, he reported. Interest rates were twice as volatile, using new bond issues by corporations as a gauge.

But Drury found that "real" interest rates the nominal rate minus the rate of inflation— have been more stable since deregulation. "This probably is a result of fixed-income markets reacting to inflation faster and more efficiently in the 1980s," he said.

Wages of production workers were three times more volatile in the latter decade than in the earone. But the unemployment rate varied less.

more volatile in the latter decade than in the earhier one. But the unemployment rafe varied less.

While there was a period of great volatility in housing starts in the early 1980s as financial deregulation first took hold, 'over the past five years single-family housing has been far more stable due to the wider use of adjustable rate mortgages and larger secondary markets for mortgage securities, 'Drury observed.

With ceilings lifted on interest rates, he added, the economy is no longer as vulnerable as it once was to periods in which the supply of credit for mortgages and construction loans dries up, creating a "credit crunch."

Meanwhile, the gross national product, the output of all goods and services in the economy, has grown at a steadier pace in the past decade than in the previous one, Drury said.

"Over the past 10 years," he concluded, "the ...
U.S. economy, in its broadest measure, has been relatively more stable than in the decade before."

Though it has been by no means the only major influence on trends in business activity, he argued, deregulation has played a prominent part in making things happen that way.

Idaho farm prices stay strong in May

BOISE (AP) — The outlook for Idaho agricul-ture continued to brighten last month as markets for most major commodities remained strong, the government reported.

Although potato prices slipped slightly to break the steady climb they posted since the year began,

Although potato prices slipped slightly to break the steady climb they posted since the year beau livestock prices were at or near decade-high levels, beans continued their recovery and the wheat market was its strongest since 1986.

Based on preliminary estimates of mid-May prices, the potato market broke the steady rise it had been posting since the year began. The average price, alipped 15 coatta—a-hundredweight to $3.70, possibly in response to growers' intentions to increase plantings.

But the only real dark spot for Idaho producers was milk. It dropped to $10.50 a hundred pounds last month as dairymen continued increasing their output over past years.

In a separate report, the Agriculture Department and May milk production totaled 227 million pounds, up 9 percent from May 1987 to mark the ninth straight month current output has exceeded year-earlier levels. Rising production began last August after nearly a year and a half of declining output during the government's wholeherd dairy buyout program.

The livestock sector continued to be the brightest in Idaho agricuture last month as all commodities recorded price gains from April.
Call prices picked up another 50 cents to average $9.100 a hundradweight, the fourth straight month for the calf market to report in at over $90.
The run has marked the highest prices for calves since 1979, the last year that saw four straight $90-plus months.

Steer prices moved up to $70.10 a hundredweight, only the second month in years they have been over the $70 level. The other was in February at $70.50.

The strength in both markets pushed average prices for all beef cattle back over $66 a hundred pounds, to near the highest level since early 1980.

Wheat prices hit a 22-month high in April at $2.87 a bushel. While the mid-May estimate dropped the average for last month back down to $2.71, the government has been underestimated the wheat market by 10 to 15 cents a bushel in the preliminary report for the past several months. That trend would likely mean the May projection would be revised upward next month.
In addition, grain traders have been rapidly bidding up the price for wheat and other grains because of the severed rought haunting the Midwest and Great Plains.
Barley prices remained under $2 a bushel for the third straight month, losing another 12 cents to settle at $1.83 a bushel in May.
Dried beans picked up another 50 cents a hundredweight during the month to continue the price rise that begin in January after the market fell below $13 a hundred pounds. May's average at $1.50 was the highest since late 1986.

8.5% TAX FREE

There's a whole new world of financial options out Incre's a whole new world of thancial options out there, including SPWL's. Joe Russell encourages you to take advantage of an SPWL. Joe will help chart-your course through the WORRY FREE, TAX FREE, opportunity of SPWL. An SPWL will earn up to 8.5% income tax free and is being used more and more because of it's SAFETY AND RETURN.

*EARNINGS ARE BOTH STATE AND FEDERAL INCOME TAX FREE. (no reporting requirements.)

WITHOUT PRINCIPAL FLUCTUATIONS OF A BOND. (you can never get less than you've invested.)

See Joe Russell today to examine whether an SPWL is an appropriate investment for you.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"A mariner must have his eye upon rocks and sands, as well as upon the North Star." - Thomas Fuller.

At the Winter Regional Tourna-ment held in Houston, more than a near, acto in nouston, more than a few pairs reached the super con-tract of six spades, Unfortunately, in many cases, scoring the slam proved more difficult than bidding it.

proved more difficult than bidding it.

Against the lead of a diamond, success rested with how South handled the trumps. Those who drew trumps quickly and lost the club finesse, were left with only II tricks. And those who took the club finesse without drawing trumps suffered a club ruff for the same down one.

Henry Bare of Dalla found a line-to preserve his chances for an important overtrick, while minimizing the risk of losing the slam.

After winning dummy's diamond ace, Baer cashed the ace and king of trumps and ruffed a low diamond trumps.

trumps and ruffed a low diam crumps and ruffed a low diamond with dummys trump jack. He ruffed a low heart and drew the last trump, and the club finesse held the keys to a possible overtrick. It lost to East's king, but that was all for the defense. Since Henry still had control of th' red suits, he won 12 tricks.

What If West had be his recommender.

control of the red suits, ne won 12 tricks.

What if West had led his singleton club instead of a diamond? For West to get a ruff, South would have to finesse to East's king. But after clubs had been bid and raised; South would have read the lead as a singleton, not fourth-best. South succeeds by-winning five spades, one heart, two diamonds, a diamond 'ruff and three clubs. (Careful timing is required.)

No sense carping over_ genetics

Some scientists have expressed concern that genetic experiments involving carp, which include injecting the fish with trout genes so the carp will grow larger, may have considerable risks. Among the genes that researchers are now attempting to transfer into the fish are those from humans, chickens, cattle and mice. The genes could substantially change the characteristics of the aquatic species, scientists such.

— From The New York Times

At first I refused to believe that my wife was a carp. Sure, I had always had my suspicions. Once, for example, she locked herself in the bathroom and stayed in the tub for three days. Then there was the fact that she did not have eyelids.

But never in my wildest dreams did I think I could be married to a mutant genetic experiment who dabbed ex-pensive perfume on a long, lovely neck that once sported gills.

My first clue that something was my first citie that sometime was wrong came on our honeymoon, wher my wife refused to come out of the pool. Ordinarily, this would not have been enough to arouse suspicion, ex-cept that we were married in Janu-

"Then what were you talking about?"
"Uh, germs," see, that's it germs," she said. "I just wanted to make sure the hotel was clean." It didn't get any better once we got home. For one thing, the house always smelled like fish.
"I'm going to open some windows," I said one stuffy evening. "This place stinks."

My wife just shrugged. "I don't smell anything," she replied.

And there were the showers — four or five a day.

"I have dry skin," my wife would

"I have dry skin," my wife would say.
Yes, it was annoying, but when you're young and in love, you tend to overlook such things. I was even willing to overlook the scales I found in the bedsheets. One night, however, we had a terrible fight because she wanted to stay home and eat goldfish food rather than go out for pizza. When she started to berate me for my insensitivity, I threw up my hands and sald, "Carp, carp, carp, Is that all you can do?"

Immediately she broke down. "You better sit down," she sobbed. "I have something to tell you."
Then she climbed into the sink and

"It was awful," she said. "I felt just like a fish out of water."

At first the scientists began injecting the other carp they had caught with trout genes to make them larger. Then they started to conduct even more bingre experiment that submore bizarre experiments that sub-stantially changed the characteristics of the fish.

"They got my best friend and in jected her with genes from a mouse," my wife recalled, tears welling up from her eyes. "A few days later she was eaten by a catfish."

MOSCOW — Royalty returned to Russia on Sunday as a 16-year-old student became the first Moscow beauty queen in a pageant that celebrated Soviet reforms. The prizes included a crown, two trips abroad and a suitcase full of cosmetics.

Maria Kalinina's warm smile and svelte figure won over the panel of 12 judges, who chose her from six finalists in a contest that emphasized bathing suit competition.

The "Moscow Beauty '88" contest, made possible by the more tolerant policies of Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, was the first of its kind in the Soviet capital, although similar pageants, hive been staged in several other Soviet cities.

In a question-and-enswer competition, practically the only event in which the finalists wore more than a tiny scrap of cothing, Kalinian was asked what made the Moscow contest different from beauty pageants in the Wast

"Ours is different because we have 'perestrolka,' "Kalinina replied, using the Russian word for Gorbachev's policy of economic and social reforms. The third and final night of what was a gala event by normally austere Soviet standards went smoothly until the glittering crown was placed on Kalinina's head. At that moment, long-stemmed red roses began to rain from the ceiling, knecking off the crown and causing the beauty queen to duck and dodge, although she never lost her smile. The next shower of roses was aimed a'little in front of the beauty queen, and did not disrupt the ceremonies.

The crowd of about 11,000 in the Palace of Sport sighed in amazement as the master of ceremonies read out the list of prizes for Kalinina: a cruise on the Adriatic Sea, a trip to Austria, armfuls of roses, a television and mounds of cosmetics from the Western and Soviet

NEW YORK — New York's smart set held its collective breath waiting to see who would show up in Dominick Dunnés, new novel, "People Like Us" (Crown, $19.85). Early, reportable Us and famous. Now it can be told: The main character is, indeed, a figure in New York night life and a habitue of Mortimer's, Gotham's toniest restaurant. It is Dominick Dunne. On the terrace of his small but stylish East Side penthouse apartiment, the author of the best-selling movel. The Two Mrs. Grenvilles' says that the main figure in his new novel, a magazine journalist named Augustus "Gus" Bailey, is more than somewhat autobiographical. "I wouldn't say somewhat," he says as he smiles. "He's a lot like me."

Oh, there are others there, too.
Dunne set much of the action in Mortimer's, although he changed the restaurant's name to Clarence's and owner Glenn Bernbaum became Chick Jacoby. ("I did this with Gernbaum's) permission." Dunne says.) And inspired by "The Way We Live Now" (1875), Anthony Trollope's. tainly veiled send-up of victorian London society, Dunne gays he fashioned fictional characters from some of the elegant characters he mixed with for two years while he worked on the book. Daily News society columnist Liz Smith found herself in the book and, in a March column, named a host of other character sources, including the Saul Steinbergs, Elizabeth Taylor, Brooke Astor, Norman and Norms Mailer, Oscar de la Renta, Claus von Bulow, the Fords and the Rock-ofellor.

Like Dunne, Bailey has Connecticut roots, an ex-wife and a long-lost career in California. In the novel, Bailey's daughter was killed by her boyfriend, just as Dunne's real daughter, actress Dominique Dunne, was murdered in 1982 by boyfriend John

Noboru who? ... Poll reveals our ignorance

TOKYO (AP) — A poll released Monday found that only four of 1,500 Americans could name the Japanese prime minister, while 90 percent of 2,000 Japanese knew the U.S. president was named Ronald Reagan. For the record, the Japanese leader is Noboru Takeshita, the Jeader of Japan's dominant Liberal Democratic Party, who succeeded Yasuhiro Nakasone as prime minister seven months ago after serving as finance minister in Nakasone's cabinet.

The poll was conducted jointly in May by the Tokyo Broadcasting System and CBS. Most of the questions involved trade issues. Other results

l were:

**Seventy-two percent of the Americans polled said they favored protection for domestic agricultural markets, while about 60 percent of the 2,000 Japanese surveyed said the same about their markets.

**Forty-three percent of Americans said Japan's barriers on imports of U.S. beef and citrus fruit were improper, and only 14 percent conditional cered them fair.

Among Japanese respondents, 59 percent said the restrictions were fair and 29 percent unfair.

The margin of error in the poll was not specified.

He moved to films and produced "The Boy in the Band" as well as a number of films written by brother John and sister-in-law Joan Didion, including "Fanic in Needle Park," "Play It ag It Lays" and "Ash Wednesday."

And his life certainly was impressive from the standpoint of wellth, excess and extravagance.

"It wasn't just the big house and the swimming pool and the cook and the gardener and the namy for the kids—we had the whole works—but it was the constant entertaining, the parties we gave, the people," he says. He had become one of the people he had so long admired. And, toward the mid-1970s, he divorced, became alcoholic and, in his own words, was "heabed by". The phone stopped ring; the work wasn't there. It's deliciously simple.

Order any two dinners from our Plateau Room menu — anything from Filet Mignon to Shrimp Mediterranean Flambe — and we'll pick up the tab for one entree.

This offer is good only on Tuesday nights. But, as we hope you'll see, the Plateau Room is great any night of the week.

A message to all kids: It's normal to have self-doubts

DEAR ABBY: Our Middle Level
Education Week events are behind us, but I want to thank you for taking the Lime and effort to send our students apersonal bit of advice on how to renew positive attitudes toward themselves
'and their school.

Our principal read it over the public address system, and as I walked through the building. I was very—much impressed with how attentive through the bunding, 1 was much impressed with how attentive the students were.

Would you please consider publishing that message in your widely-syndicated column? It deserves a nasyndicated column? It uses tional audience.

BARBARA ZELLEY, CHESAWIDDLE SCHOOL, PEAKE BAY MIDDLE SCHOOL, PASADENA, MD.

DEAR MS. ZELLEY: With pleasure:

The years between 10 and 15 are indeed filled with self-doubts, confusion, excitement and energy.
If you want to help students renew a positive attitude toward themselves and their school; let them know that

THEY ARE NORMAL!
ALL kids are filled with self-doubts, insecurities — and not a little envy because there will always be someone in the class who is brighter, more popular, taller, shorter, thinner, fatter, richer, smarter and more likely to succeed.

I say, Don't sweat it. Just do the best you can. Thank the good Lord that you have as many good qualities as you do have, and don't worry about what you don't have. Go for improvement, but always accentuate the posi-

Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: How does a mother handle hurt feelings when a 41-year-old son-doesn't remember Mother's Day or her last bithday? There have been no misunder-standings or hard feelings, as we both live in different states and have for live in different states and have for the past several years. I visit the grown children once a year, and he and his family seem happy to see me, but there's ever little correspondence during the year except an occasional note, and that is always from his wife. Maybe I failed him as a mother where along the line?

DEAR HURT: You haven't failed im as a mother; he failed you as a son. While thoughtlessness is not a cardinal sin, it can be painful. Per-haps you can nudge him without nee dling him by sending him this letter.

DEAR ABBY: You told "Flat in the

DEAR ABBY. You told "Flat in the Back in Florida" that Frederick's of Hollywood had "rear-filler-outers" that might help to solve her problem—Sorry, Abby, those false fannies are very shifty, and should be used for standing-room-only occasions.

I know. I was "unfulfilled" when got up from my chair the first time! wore my new posterior. I looked as though my bust migrated around to my back and went south.

I hope this reaches "Flat" before the "sit" misting hacks up on hecks up on "sit" uation backs up on her.
