Gem investment tax credit repeal initiative fails

The Associated Press
BOISE — An initiative drive to ask Idaho voters to repeal the state's investment tax credit, something the Legislature has refused to do the last two sessions, failed to attract enough signatures by Friday's deadline.
Rep. Ken Robison, D-Boise, turned in 28,311 signatures of registered voters. That was more than 10,000 short of the necessary 38,743, a total based on the vote in the last general election.
At the same time, the elections division of the secretary of state's office said there was no word from two other groups which announced initiative efforts. There will be no initiatives on the ballot in November.

A McCall-based group in February announced an effort to circulate petitions to legalize the use of marijuana. Penny Youens, election supervisor, said it did not appear the petitions ever were circulated.
David Steed, Idaho Falls, and his Trial By Jury Committee also announced an initiative effort for a law strengthening the right to trial by jury.
Robison, joined by the Idaho Education Association and senior citizens groups, wanted to repeal a tax credit the state grants for investments. Gov. Cecil Andrus and others have estimated that would add about $16 million to state tax collections, and the drive has been linked to extra funding for education.

Robison said he stopped trying to get signatures verified when it became apparent the goal would not be reached. More than 40,000 signatures were collected in all, but many were disqualified because they were not from registered voters.
"In all, he said, it appeared the drive produced 32,000 to 33,000 legitimate signatures, more than 5,000 short of the goal."
The Idaho Cattle Association released a statement applauding the failure of the drive and claiming at least partial credit.
"President Eric Davis-Bruneau said the association alerted members last month they would be losing a key investment incentive if the tax were repealed. He said a survey indicated 26 percent of the state's cattlemen use the credit.

"The petition drive was supposed to be a cinch, but given the facts, the people themselves stopped it," Davis said. "Idaho cattlemen take pride in whatever role we stood up for agriculture — and we won."
Robison said the drive got off to a late start, and an intensive effort in June wasn't enough to catch up.
"Basically, we did not gather enough in April and May," he said Friday. "We collected in June, but there was not quite time enough to pull it out, even with an intense effort in June."
Robison said people were not reluctant to sign the petitions; it was simply a shortage of time.

"It was not a problem of not being able to persuade people to sign," he said. "We did not have enough people carrying the petitions in April and May."
The Legislature ran long, and it was well into April before Robison was able to get petitions prepared and circulated.
"It was difficult in the petition campaign, not the issue," he said.
Robison estimated between 1,000 and 2,000 people helped circulate the petitions. He said the issue "isn't dead." Despite prodding from the governor, the last two legislative sessions have refused to repeal

Unemployment hits 14-year low thanks to boom in summer work

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — A boom in summertime work for teenagers dropped the nation's unemployment rate in June to a 14-year low, 6.3 percent, the government said Friday. Joblessness among black youths plummeted more than 2 percentage points to its lowest level on record.
The 0.3 percentage point drop from May's 6.6 percent jobless rate was caused by a seasonally adjusted surge of 820,000 people — three-fourths of them, youths 16 to 24 years old — onto America's payrolls, the Labor Department said.
Including an unusual decline of 536,000 in the number of people at work in May, employment increases had been averaging only 90,000 a month this year until June.
The government's raw data showed 1.4 million more teenagers at work in June than in May, dropping the adjusted unemployment rate among them 2 percentage points to 13.6 percent, the lowest since early 1970.

Among black teens, joblessness dropped from 34.8 percent in May to 28.4 percent last month, the lowest since the government began keeping separate data on them in 1972 and the first time since late 1971 that it has dipped below 30 percent.
Analysts had anticipated a large increase this year in the usual number of available summer jobs, especially in the tourist industry, as foreigners taking advantage of the devalued American dollar flock to the United States for their vacations.
However, some were skeptical that overall job growth and the consequent decline in the unemployment rate was as great as it appeared in June figures.

The Labor Department acknowledged its June figures were affected in part by the fact its survey was conducted late in the month, allowing extra time for students, graduates and seasonal workers to find jobs.
"The numbers were good enough for President Reagan to claim them as 'solid evidence' that his economic policies have worked, and he put in a thinly veiled plug for Vice President George Bush.
Nationwide, the number of unemployed fell by 328,000 in June to 6.5 million, with teenagers and adult men accounting for all of the decline. And the percentage of jobless teenagers — Americans holding jobs climbed to 62.3 percent, an all-time high matched only once before in April.
Construction employment rose by 55,000 and factories added 45,000 new workers — 20,000 more than their average — month-over-month increase from January through May.

Rescuers remove 6 survivors from rubble of collapsed store

The Associated Press
BROWNSVILLE, Texas — Rescuers used cherry-pickers, crawlers and other heavy machinery Friday to burrow through tons of rubble from a collapsed department store, pulling out six "miracle" survivors in a race with rain, 90-degree heat and dehydration.
The death toll in the Thursday afternoon collapse of the Amigo Store stood at 12, with more feared dead. Ten of the victims had been identified, and two other bodies had been sighted in the rubble, police said.
At least 47 were injured, and officials feared anyone still buried alive would not survive.

"Right now, hope is all that is driving the rescue effort. That is fading as time goes by," said police Lt. Victor Rodriguez.
"Because of the 90-degree heat, at this point, the greatest danger to the people in that building is if we don't get to them. The people, if they are in a trapped area, don't have any access to fluids," said Dr. Richard Blanton.
Work crews limited to 30-minute shifts to prevent dehydration were using front-end loaders and other heavy equipment. A yellow-and-white canopy shielded what once had been a three-story, 30,000-square-foot store.

A new worry arose in the afternoon as clouds rolled in from the east, threatening a repeat of torrential rains that caused the roof to cave in.
"We don't want to go in there and find somebody drowned," said Police Sgt. Dean Potts.
The rescue crews also worried that the one remaining wall, along an alley, would collapse if they worked too fast.
"It's frustrating because you want to go in there and tear everything out. But you need to take into consideration that if you tear things out, you endanger the people in there," said Mayor Ygnacio

Navy says Vincennes' radar fixed before ship reached station in gulf

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — A "minor degradation" in radar aboard the USS Vincennes was repaired before the warship entered the Persian Gulf and played no role in the vessel's failure to correctly identify the Iranian ship that it shot down last Friday.
Other Pentagon officials said they were awaiting results of an investigation to learn why the Vincennes missed air traffic communications and other clues indicating that the Iran Air A300 Airbus was a civilian plane and not an F-14 fighter, as officers aboard the ship believed.
The chief of Iran's air force, Brig. Gen. Mansour Sattari, told reporters in Tehran on Thursday that U.S. systems should have been able to monitor 21 minutes of conversation in English between the jetliner and the airport control tower in Bandar Abbas, near the mouth of the Persian Gulf.

But Pentagon spokesmen said they were not sure U.S. forces in the gulf were not working and unable to monitor air traffic control communications at the time of the incident.
"We are looking forward to an analysis of the tapes to help clarify the confusion," said Lt. Cmdr Chris Baumann, a Pentagon spokesman.
As the Vincennes steamed from its home port in San Diego toward the gulf in May, said Navy spokesman Lt. Brian Cullin, an unspecified part in the ship's sophisticated Spyn-1 radar proved to be unreliable.
A replacement was flown to the Arabian Sea, outside the gulf, the repair made and the Vincennes was fully operational on June 6, before she entered the gulf, Cullin said. The ship reported to the battle group in the Arabian Sea on May 22, he said.

The $1 billion ship's Aegis radar and tracking complex, of which Spyn-1 is part, mistook the Airbus for an Iranian F-14 fighter and shot down with all 290 civilians aboard last Sunday. Since then, Pentagon officials have been trying to figure out why.
In other developments Friday, President Reagan said the question of compensation for the families of those killed in the incident is one issue under consideration.
White House spokesman Murlin Fitzwater said there were still some open questions on the compensation issue. He said messages of condolence had gone to the victims' families — in Pakistan, the United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, India, Yugoslavia and Italy.
Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the United States should adopt a new stance in the Iran-Iraq war, "equidistant" between the two warring countries.

State's windfall adds up to $11.7 million for 1988
The Associated Press
BOISE — State officials on Friday put the revenue windfall from the 1988 budget at $11.7 million, just slightly higher than estimates made six weeks ago by economists outside the Andrus administration.
State Auditor Joe Williams said the treasury had a free fund balance of $17.1 million when the budget year ended on June 30. Adjusting that figure for unexpended receipts that had already been identified and for cash carried over from the previous budget year translates into revenues for the 12-month period totaling $675.2 million.
That compared to the projections of around $663.5 million made by Andrus' administration analysts and the Republican Legislature. It was that projected amount lawmakers used as a benchmark in making spending decisions during last winter's session. The budget for the year that just ended was $661 million.
Significant increases in sales and corporate income tax receipts and a modest boost in individual income tax revenues completed with extra earnings on invested state funds were responsible for creating the surplus in general state revenues.

Prosecutors add to charges against Jagers

By CRAIG LINCOLN Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls prosecutors have added attempted rape and robbery to the list of felony charges including first-degree murder against Jesse Ray Jagers.
Deputy Prosecutor Joel Horton added the charges just before Jagers' preliminary hearing had been scheduled to begin Friday. Horton also brought another grand theft charge against Jagers in connection with the May 12 slaying of 79-year-old Virginia Westergren.
Jagers, who turned 18 years old only two weeks before Westergren's death, waived his preliminary hearing, which could have taken two days.
At Friday's hearing, he sat and answered 5th District Magistrate Judge Melvin Edwards' questions quietly, wearing a western-style shirt, rather than the orange, county jumpsuit he wears in jail.

Jagers now faces several felony charges: first-degree murder, attempted rape, robbery, second-degree burglary and three counts of grand theft.
Prosecutors allege Jagers killed Westergren by cutting her throat. Police say Westergren also had three stab wounds in her abdomen.
The new filing accuses Jagers of committing the murder while attempting to rape Westergren.
Prosecutors hope to get in court records that Jagers forced Westergren to disrobe while threatening to stab her with a large knife. Police say they found a 16-inch knife they think was the murder weapon in Westergren's house.
The robbery charges stem from allegations that Jagers threatened Westergren with a knife to get directions to Westergren's money and a Visa card.

The alleged theft of the Visa card led to the new grand theft charges. Two other grand theft charges, because Jagers of taking Westergren's 1982 Buick Century and a video cassette recorder.
James Meservy, Jagers' attorney, declined to comment on why he waived Jagers' right in a preliminary hearing Friday. In a preliminary hearing, a magistrate judge decides if the prosecutor's evidence is strong enough to justify a district court trial.
Edwards bound Jagers over to district court. That means Jagers will be arraigned in district court, where he will have to enter a plea to the charges and face trial.

"We wanted to put the issue on the bill and we were confident that it would be soon repealed. I still hope legislators will take a look at the fact 30,000 signatures were gathered and take another look at the investment tax credit," Robison said.

Robison said he personally won't introduce legislation to repeal the credit, but it probably will come from someone on the House Keynotes and Taxation committee, where tax measures originate. "The outcome could depend on this fall's legislative races, particularly in Ada County, he said."

key legislative races, this will be an issue. The outcome of those races could decide what happens next session. In any event, Robison said, people now have a much better understanding of the issue. "A lot of education and information was accomplished," he said.

Six survivors - one a screaming toddler - were freed Friday morning from the debris where they had been buried nearly a day. Survivors included a boy and a girl, both 8, a girl about 2, and a 14-year-old girl. Clashes from the children, feedback from microphones and seismic tools, and dogs trained to search for humans led the rescue crews to the survivors. Cheers and wild applause erupted from 400 on-lookers as the survivor was lifted from the sweltering tangle of concrete. The children had been terrified, said Richard Schwand, a Red Cross nurse from Corpus Christi, Texas.

soon as one starts screaming, it's kind of contagious. They all start going for it. The scene grew quiet when electronic equipment was used. Audiotapes cleared traffic for two square blocks and asked people to shut down generators and engines so the microphones could pick up even the slightest sound. The seismic equipment could detect a gentle tapping sound at 1,000 feet, said Jeff Kravitz, chief of mine safety operations with the Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration. Survivors - if any - were asked to tap 10 times by searchers with loudspeakers, speaking in English and Spanish. But no taps sounded, and other noise that would be expected from alert survivors was absent, Kravitz said.

Heavy equipment moved in, but Schwand said he feared only bodies would be found now. "It's just the dead people under there and not just one, I'm sure. The victims were presumed to have been in the store when its roof caved in, taking the walls with it, after 2 inches of rain fell in less than 30 minutes Thursday. The National Weather Service said the collapse could have been caused by the weight of rain. The 2-year-old survivor appeared to have been protected by some other people around her.

Counsel says his Meese report leaked; plans to seek sanctions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Independent counsel James McKay said Friday the court order prohibiting any leak of his report on Attorney General Edwin Meese III has been violated and that he would investigate and seek sanctions against those responsible. The New York Times reported in Saturday's editions that it had obtained portions of the report and revealed details from the 800-page document, but did not identify its source.

Meese's former lawyer and confidant, E. Robert Wallach. Both Wallach and his attorney did not immediately return telephone calls. McKay, who did not identify the source of the leak, said he regards this as an extremely serious development and intends to investigate this matter and seek sanctions against the person or persons responsible for this violation.

The special three-judge court which appointed McKay authorized him to give out portions of his report to individuals who were mentioned in it, so they could have an opportunity to submit rebuttal comments before the report is released publicly by the court. They were given until July 14 to submit such comments.

Executives of the Times in New York and Washington declined immediate comment. One source said the Times had acquired those portions of the report which were made available to Meese's former lawyer and confidant, E. Robert Wallach. Both Wallach and his attorney did not immediately return telephone calls. McKay, who did not identify the source of the leak, said he regards this as an extremely serious development and intends to investigate this matter and seek sanctions against the person or persons responsible for this violation.

McKay's office said those portions were released under an order from the court requiring that the portions be kept confidential. Any violation of such an order would subject the violator to potential contempt of court penalties, to be determined by the three-judge court, McKay's office said.

arrested Jaggers on the Las Vegas strip 10 days after Westergren's death. Two Twin Falls police officers, in Las Vegas to question two men who said they bought Westergren's car, spotted Jaggers sitting on a bench. The two officers were taking a stroll along the strip on the off chance they might see Jaggers. Since Jaggers' arrest, Edwards has appointed a delay in a preliminary hearing schedule and ordered the appointment of a psychologist to examine Jaggers. On Wednesday, Meservy dropped a motion to close Jaggers' preliminary hearing to the public. The Times-News and KMYT-TV protested Meservy's request.

Westergren was alone in her Twin Falls home at 460 Buchanan at the time of her death. Her husband, Al, was visiting relatives in Portland at the time.

FBI suspects Paisley took several bribes

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI suspects that defense consultant Melvyn R. Paisley accepted bribes or gratuities from three defense contractors even while serving as a top Navy official, court documents disclosed Friday.

The warrant issued by the FBI in the June 14 search of Paisley's house was released by the clerk of the U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va. The search was one of a series carried out across the nation on that day in an investigation of massive corruption in the $150 billion-a-year Defense Department purchasing system.

Correction GOODING - A Thursday story on a hearing for Leon Howard, charged with vehicular manslaughter, contained errors. Swenson, Bolmer, and Scoggin holds the county public defender contract, not attorney Craig Hobbey, who was appointed special-public defender due to a conflict of interest with the regular public defender's office. Howard is free on his own recognizance on the condition he abstain from drinking. The Times-News regrets the errors.

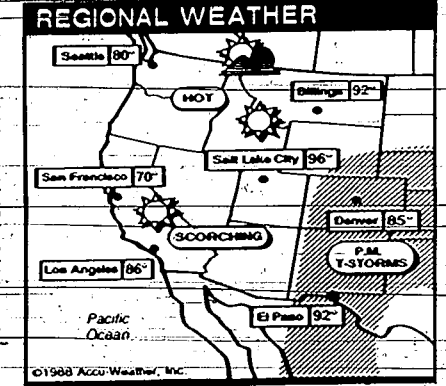

A search warrant said the FBI was looking for memos about "payment from General Dynamics and McDonnell Douglas to Paisley in the form of checks, gifts or other forms of remuneration, or to his wife, Vicki" at the time he was an assistant Navy secretary. Agents were also looking for evidence of payments or gratuities from Pratt & Whitney employees to Paisley. In a detailed search warrant of Paisley's home in Melenn, Va., the FBI also said it sought evidence that Paisley gave James E. Gaines, a deputy assistant secretary of the Navy, a Western painting titled "Lonesome Whistle." They also sought evidence that Paisley or fellow consultant William Galvin provided gratuities to Gaines' companies, entertainment tickets, and lives. The warrant issued by the FBI in the June 14 search of Paisley's house was released by the clerk of the U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va. The search was one of a series carried out across the nation on that day in an investigation of massive corruption in the $150 billion-a-year Defense Department purchasing system. The FBI documents showed the government is investigating Paisley's work as a consultant to 10 defense contractors and disclosed the names of several Pentagon employees whose contacts with Paisley are being investigated. The warrant discloses the length of information about Paisley, a key figure in the investigation into allegations that defense contractors and consultants, many of them former military men, bribed Pentagon officials for contracting details that could be vital in winning contracts worth billions of dollars. To date, no one has been charged in the case.

Couple gets probation for mailing obscenity

BOISE (AP) - A Nampa couple received probation Friday on charges of mailing obscene videotapes, but U.S. District Judge Marvin Callister warned Randall and Margie Porter that they faced stiff prison terms if they took up the practice again.

Porter was charged with mailing obscene materials and his wife with aiding and abetting. Porter could have received up to five years in prison and a fine up to $250,000.

The Justice Department charged the Porters with running a business of preparing and selling by mail obscene videotapes, with themselves as the performers.

Callister placed both on probation for the next 18 months. He ordered Porter, 33, to serve four weekends in jail over the next three months, to perform 100 hours of community service and to pay a fine of $50. Mrs. Porter, also 33, also was ordered to do 100 hours of community work and pay a fine of $50.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Joanne Rodriguez said the presentence report indicated the Porters felt their videotapes were artistic works, with redeeming social value, which meant they were not pornographic or obscene.

The tapes they mailed showed only pornographic sexual acts. "There is no artistic merit in them," she said, and no story.

"I am confident that no matter what jurisdiction, no matter what jury, a jury would find this film obscene," Ms. Rodriguez said.

She suggested fines of $3,500, which she said was about the profit the couple made from selling the tapes, plus fines of $1,000 to take away the profit incentive. She also recommended short jail terms.

The Justice Department set up a videotape monitor, and Rodriguez invited Callister to watch the tape "if there is any question in your mind that it is obscene."

"I do not believe that will be necessary," the judge said.

Defense attorney William Morrison IV said his clients "kinda fell into it" after buying sexual tapes through advertisements, deciding to make their own, trading them with others and then deciding to sell through the mail. "They did not intentionally know they were violating federal law" by mailing obscene material, he said.

Morrison said it started with trading films with other couples, and it became more commercial over a period of time.

The attorney called the Porters "middle class citizens, raising a family," and noted the family's children were not involved. Morrison acknowledged that Porter still is on probation on a state marijuana charge.

"I feel I'm being quite easy with you," Callister told Porter. "I want you to give serious thought to giving up this sort of activity, even though you have a legal right to do it in your home."

Both promised they would, Mrs. Porter crying all through her sentencing.

2 join state parole board

BOISE (AP) - The Commission for Pardons and Parole has returned to full strength with two new members, appointed by the state Board of Corrections.

The board said Friday that Paul Morris, "Emmett," retired California, correctional official, was appointed to a term running until 1991. Last month, Pete Rodriguez, Burley, was named to another term. Carryover members are Ida Leggett, Coeur d'Allene; Frank Chidichimo and Del Ray Holm, Roberts.

Morris and Rodriguez succeed Gary Schein and Faber Tway. Rodriguez retired as chief of detectives for the Burley Police Department in 1986.

Morris retired as deputy director for institutions for the state of California in 1985 and moved to Emmett then. He served as warden of the Folsom prison from 1978-85.

Teen will be tried in girl's slaying

CALDWELL (AP) - A Caldwell teen-ager accused of killing his girlfriend on the campus of the College of Idaho will stand trial next Tuesday on murder charges this fall.

Steve Waddell, 18, pleaded innocent to murder on Friday, and 3rd District Judge Jim Doolittle set Oct. 31 for the trial. Waddell remained in the Canyon County jail without bond.

He was indicted a week ago by a grand jury for the June 22 stabbing death of Michelle Seebec, 17, at a dormitory on the College of Idaho campus where she was attending a program for honors high school students.

The two had been dating for two years while attending Valley High School, where counselors and teachers described them as popular.

"Police said an argument preceded the stabbing incident, and they have said the girl may have been trying to break up.

PUC will not reconsider surcharge

BOISE (AP) - The Idaho Public Utilities Commission will not reconsider its decision granting Idaho Power Co. a surcharge of less than $10 million.

The utility asked for a much larger surcharge, claiming two years of drought cut its ability to generate power at hydroelectric plants. Idaho Power also said the drought greatly reduced its income from surplus power sales to other utilities.

In an order released Friday, the commission said the primary issue raised in Idaho Power's petition for reconsideration will be considered in a general rate case, if one is filed.

In its bid for rehearing, Idaho Power said the surcharge should be increased by $5 million, to take into account secondary market changes.

The PUC said the surcharge was designed to offset higher production costs caused by abnormally low streamflows.

"This is an appropriate focus of the surcharge because the surcharge was designed to recognize unusual or temporary aberrations from average or normalized conditions, not structural economic changes," the commission said.

The PUC said a significant part of Idaho Power's increased costs are not related to low stream flows. "Secondary markets...likely have undergone a structural change," it said.

The commission said it did not want to put a permanent rate increase into effect, because proceedings on the surcharge issue did not cover all the matters that would have to be covered in a full rate hearing.

Bull gores rancher to death

RIGBY (AP) - A Rigby rancher has died after being gored by a Holstein bull in a pasture at his ranch, authorities reported.

DuWayne Brown, 55, was pronounced dead at the scene on Thursday by Jefferson County Deputy Coroner Nyle Raymond.

The Jefferson County Sheriff's office said his body was found shortly after noon by one of his ranch workers. Brown had apparently been killed several hours earlier.

The bull will be destroyed, a spokesman said.

Services return to post offices

WASHINGTON (AP) - Window service at the nation's post offices, reduced last February to save money, will be returned to normal levels in September, Postmaster General Anthony Frank announced Friday.

Frank told the Postal Service Board of Governors that his managers have been able to find enough savings in other areas to end the reduction in window service, which was one step to trim spending by $160 million. At the same time, Frank said it appeared likely the mail agency will have to either modify or cancel its controversial contract with Texas computer billionaire H. Ross Perot, who is studying ways to improve the agency's efficiency.

Frank said at a news conference that local postal managers have been directed to restore window service effective Sept. 10. Guidelines call for a return to "the same level of service that existed prior to Feb. 15," he said.

Local managers will have the discretion to decide what changes are best for their community, he explained. For example, in some areas evening hours may be expanded, while in others an extra clerk may be put on at busy times instead of having longer hours with fewer clerks.

Meese could have been charged with felonies, counsel concludes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Independent counsel James McKay concluded Attorney General Edwin Meese III could have been charged in connection with his holdings of $14,000 in regional Bell telephone stock, but decided against prosecution. National Public Radio reported Friday.

NPR quoted unidentified sources as saying Meese's lawyers were told toward the end of the 14-month investigation that at least technically, McKay determined Meese could have been charged with two felonies.

NPR said it could not determine what McKay's reasons were for not proceeding with a criminal case.

Nathan Lewin and James Roca, Meese's attorneys, declined to discuss the NPR report, saying in a statement that McKay's decision not to prosecute Meese "is, in every real sense, a vindication of the attorney general."

The statement added that "the avenue" by which McKay "arrived at that result or the rationale he employed is entirely beside the point."

Federal law prohibits any official from participating personally and substantially in any matter in which he or his family has a financial interest. Sources familiar with the probe, speaking on condition of anonymity, have said McKay was examining a possible violation by Meese against the provisions of this federal conflict-of-interest law.

Meese met in 1985 and 1986 with executives of four regional Bell companies which wanted the Justice Department to switch its position.

North will stand trial

WASHINGTON (AP) - The judge in the Iran-Contra case Friday ordered fired White House aide Oliver L. North to stand trial Sept. 20 and ordered prosecutors to give the defense any secret documents showing North "acted" with higher authority.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gezell ruled that during a closed hearing earlier this week, North had demonstrated that highly sensitive documents are relevant to defend charges he conspired to illegally divert U.S.-Iran arms-sale profits to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Pentagon unsure about number of consultants

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon, the government's largest agency, is having a difficult time determining how many private consultants it employs because it still hasn't properly defined the term "consultant," the Defense Department's deputy inspector general said Friday.

As a result, the number of consultants and the total value of their contracts is likely to continue to be underreported, Derek J. Vander Schaaf told the Senate Governmental Affairs Federal service subcommittee.

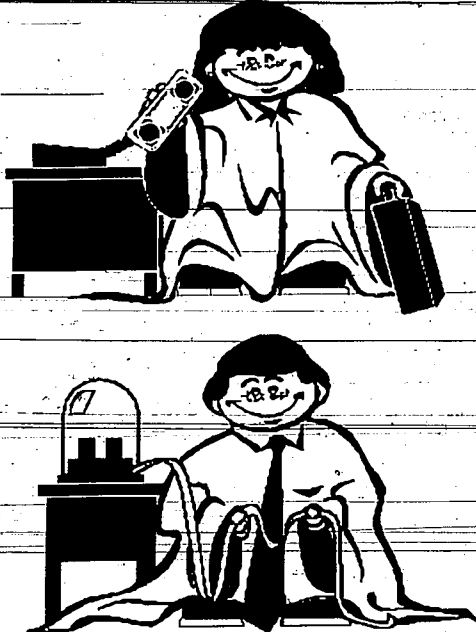

Vander Schaaf told the panel that the Pentagon recently overhauled its administrative system for overseeing consultants, but that new regulations to implement the changes have not yet been published.

Ketchum chamber denounces RSVP tactics

By BART JANSEN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Sun Valley-Ketchum Chamber of Commerce has denounced the "confrontational" and "divisive" tactics of the RSVP group, which alleges Sun Valley Co. mismanages its namesake ski resort.

The chamber's board has voted unanimously to urge RSVP, short for Restore Sun Valley's Ski Prominence, to change its tack and join cooperative development efforts among the chamber and Sun Valley Co.

Instead, RSVP spokesman Jim Gibson said the group will appeal Sun Valley's control through the U.S. Forest Service and other avenues, to break up the company's "monopolistic" community influence that bridges skiing and lodging.

The chamber's decisive move, boasting representation of nearly 300 businesses, could signal a lack of broad community support for RSVP, whose membership and fundraising remain secret.

Gibson said businesses may support both RSVP and the chamber, since he doesn't view them as mutually exclusive. "I would doubt that the resolution represents all 300 of their members," he said.

But Chamber President John Wells disputes that theory. "It is side-taking," Wells said, "We felt good progress was being made cooperatively between businesses and Sun Valley Co. We felt the RSVP program was very counterproductive."

RSVP burst onto the scene in May when it issued a report attacking Sun Valley Co.'s management.

The report compiled by Boise State University researchers blamed declining skier tourism on what it claimed was the closely held company's practice of milking profits instead of reinvesting them. Gibson said it was inadequate to spend an estimated 4 percent of gross sales on promotion, compared to a 9-percent industry average.

While skiing across Idaho improved nearly 10 percent during the 1980s — and by nearly 28 percent in Utah and 24 percent in Colorado at the same time — the number of skiers spending time in Sun Valley fell nearly 15 percent.

But Sun Valley Co. owner Earl Holding countered that the mismanagement charges were "mythical." The company has invested heavily in improvements at the resort and on the ski hill, he said. He blamed the drop on poor snow conditions and troubled air transportation.

Gibson said RSVP will challenge the "monopolistic claim" Sun Valley exercises in the area — using solitary control of the skiing to benefit its own lodging interests — and try to separate those facets of the industry.

"It's our contention that they're using the mountain to subsidize their lodging operations," Gibson said, counting employee benefits and linking deals on lodging and lift tickets. Holding has responded that Sun Valley Co. offers no special deals accompanying its own lodging that aren't available to other area businesses.

RSVP is trying to raise $625,000 to appeal Sun Valley's lease of Bald and Dollar mountains from the U.S. Forest Service. But Gibson would reveal neither how much has been raised nor how many members RSVP represents.

In the past Gibson has commented that his group numbers in the "thousands." If that's the case,

"They're certainly well hidden," the chamber's Wells said.

Wells contends the business community's best strategy for working with Sun Valley is through cooperation and trust.

In part, the chamber's resolution urges RSVP to cease its confrontational tactics which, we believe, are contrary to the collective endeavors of the community and are damaging to the position of Sun Valley-Ketchum as a ski resort competing in the international marketplace.

But Gibson maintains RSVP's aggressive style is necessary.

"This is not being divisive," Gibson said. "We are pointing out wrongs and inequities."

Up in smoke

Twin Falls firefighter Mike Andersen sprays water on a structure fully engulfed in flames at the Twin Falls Labor Camp. The vacant house, which had partially burned years ago, was finished off Friday by the fire department at the request of the Idaho Mountain Council. A second engine was called to the scene after the fire started spreading into weeds, but the fire was quickly contained.

Jerome council plans to enforce weeds ordinance

By DENISE TURNER
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — The Jerome City Council has declared war on noxious weeds and abandoned automobiles. Mayor Ralph Peters told city officials this week to enforce the city's ordinances concerning weeds and abandoned vehicles. "I get the impression council wants us to press hard on the weed and junk problems," Peters said. "I expect a full report at the next meeting that abandoned vehicles and weeds have been cleaned up."

Public Works Supervisor Lanny Sloan told council members the main problem is on private property. The city takes care of areas like alleys," he said.

Councilman Rocky Jackson said there is also an ordinance affecting visible abandoned vehicles and junk that causes a decline in property values. "There are some of these things in this town that could be classified like that," Jackson said.

Councilman Nathan Brooks said he hopes anyone noticing noxious weed problems gets in touch with a member of the city council.

The council also discussed offering a three-year lease to the Jerome Chamber of Commerce for the old Mountain Bell building on South Lincoln Street. The chamber currently has a small room in the Jerome Historical Society Museum, which Past President Sharon Neuberger said has become too small.

"We've grown immensely in the past two or three years," Neuberger said late last week. "We just need better facilities that offer more space?"

Councilman Jackson questioned whether such a lease agreement might prevent the city from using the building for an incubator program designed to give economic boosts to cities and towns. The council is considering enrolling in the federally funded program, which gives businesses start-up funds and a building in which to locate.

Under the program, however, the Chamber would not qualify as a start-up business, and thus would not be able to locate in the building, Mayor Ralph Peters said. Likewise, the building would be disqualified as a location for the program if the Chamber located there, Peters said.

"I hate to tie up a well-constructed building that could be used for business at any time," Jackson said.

Councilman Gerald Ostler said he doubts the council will find another use for the building. Councilman Donald Jacobson said he would have no objections to the lease agreement if it contained an escape clause.

"If we could get something of that nature, that would satisfy my concern," Jackson said. Peters offered to go to the Chamber of Commerce and discuss possible options.

Peters said he would like the council to decide the issue at its next meeting, July 19.

In other council business: The Jerome LDS Stake was held at the building. Councilman Donald Jacobson said the city's South Park at 5 p.m., July 23, for action. See JEROME on Page A6

Prosecutors refile Watson charges

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Vehicular manslaughter charges have been refiled against Clinton Watson, former city supervisor of Hazelton.

Watson faces the charges in connection with the death of Elvin Cory on April 4. Prosecutors allege Watson struck and killed Cory while driving intoxicated on Second Avenue North.

Twin Falls prosecutors filed the original charges against Watson, 49, immediately after the accident, but were forced to dismiss those charges when key evidence wasn't available at a preliminary hearing.

The Times-News was unable to reach Watson for comment. Leon Smith, listed as Watson's attorney, was not in town.

Watson was allegedly driving his 1985 Toyota pickup northeast on Second Avenue North. Both he and a passenger in his car said they didn't see Cory crossing the street. The accident occurred at 8:30 p.m.

Watson took a breathalyzer test after the accident. Police reported it measured a blood-alcohol content of .12, higher than the legal limit of .10. See WATSON on Page A6

Unemployment rate drops in Valley

By The Associated Press and The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The unemployment rate in the Magic Valley dropped further with seasonal improvements in the construction, agricultural, service and retail sectors of the economy.

The June unemployment rate dropped 1 percent from May's rate to 4.9 percent in June. Lon McDonald of the Twin Falls Job Service office said the seasonal improvements contributed to the continuing drop in valley unemployment.

Idaho's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate also slipped a notch in June to continue at the lowest level of the decade as the number of workers on the job last month hit the high-water mark of the 1980s, the Department of Employment reported.

The jobless rate last month was forecast at 4.7 percent, down from May's preliminary rate of 4.8 percent and four-tenths of a point below the rate in June 1987. It was the 18th straight month the current unemployment rate has run below year-earlier levels and only the third month in the 1980s that the rate has been below 5 percent.

At the same time, the state's work force expanded by another 2,100 people, but all of them found jobs in June to push total employment to 412,200, the highest level since December 1979 when 413,100 Idahoans were at work. Record monthly employment for the state was set in June 1979 at 416,300.

"Employment gains were evident in agriculture, construction, retail trade, services and federal government," department spokesman Bob Cooper said. "Expanded employment was also reported by most Idaho mines."

Nationally, the job picture also brightened as the unemployment rate fell another three notches to 6.3 percent and 820,000 more workers, most of them between 16 and 24 years old, found jobs.

In Idaho, over 14,000 more people had jobs last month than a year earlier when the state's economic expansion was just getting under way.

Gov. Cecil Andrus signaled Friday's bright job outlook the day before when he credited the financially revitalized Department of Commerce with generating at least several thousand of those jobs through its development efforts.

The governor also promised the department would produce twice as many new jobs in the coming year. Analysts have projected the state's average. See JOBS on Page A6

USDA eases policy for feed relief

The Associated Press

BOISE — Ranchers in Twin Falls, Camas, Cassia, Blaine and Elmore counties could benefit from the modification of federal policy that will make it easier for drought-stricken producers to qualify for emergency feed programs.

Lincoln and Canyon counties have already been declared eligible for emergency feed programs, but the changes could extend help to half the counties in Idaho, says Gov. Cecil Andrus.

"After so many delays in providing drought assistance, I am pleased that the Department of Agriculture has responded by removing one of the roadblocks to federal assistance for hard-pressed farmers and ranchers," Andrus said Friday.

Previously, the department had required the 40 percent loss standard to be met countywide before any producer could qualify for relief.

Andrus and other farm-state governors, acting through the National Governor's Association, pressed for the change last month, and Lyng acted after North Dakota Gov. George Sinner presented that position to the secretary on Thursday.

Andrus pointed out that in Idaho where dryland farm areas are interspersed among irrigated operations, some dryland producers can have losses of 90 percent but because of irrigated fields countywide losses might only average 30 percent or less.

Andrus said Thursday's change could extend emergency feed relief to producers in Power, Owyhee, Bear Lake, Franklin, Oneida, Caribou, Bannock, Cassia, Twin Falls, Elmore, Camas, Bingham, Bonneville, Madison, Blaine, Custer, Butte, Clark, Gem and Washington counties.

Twin Falls requests grant to help finance treatment plant expansion

By ADRIENNE TOOMEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls has applied for a $950,000 grant from the federal Economic Development Administration to help finance a $3.5 million wastewater treatment plant expansion.

"That grant is very critical to the success of the project," said City Engineer Gary Young.

"Twin Falls' application has passed through the EDA's state office and is now waiting at the regional office in Seattle. "We'll continue to work with them until they get to the point of inviting us to make a final application or rejecting us," Courtney said. That could take a few weeks or a few months. ... I think we have a good shot."

The project's timetable is contingent on grant approval.

"Ideally speaking, we'd like to have it completed by this time next year which would mean starting construction next spring," Young said. "But it all depends on when we get the grant."

If Twin Falls' application is rejected, "We'll have to look for alternative sources of funding," said Courtney. "If we don't get the funding, we might have to scale down the project."

Twin Falls had also requested a $50,000 Community Development Block Grant for the expansion, but was rejected by Idaho's Department of Commerce.

"It was a matter of priorities," said Tom Courtney, Twin Falls City manager. "We only applied for $50,000. It's easier for us to acquire that from other sources than some of the other communities."

Several Idaho communities were vying for the block grants that totaled $70,000. Although Twin Falls' application was rejected, "the grant was not an integral part of our funding," Courtney said. "The city is hoping to use part of a court settlement from previous work at the treatment plant to pay for part of the current expansion. One way or another, Twin Falls must expand its sewage treatment system, which is currently operating near full capacity. Without expansion, existing industries will stagnate and See GRANT on Page A6

Fire hits 2 stores in Rigby

RIGBY (AP) — Fire swept through two businesses here Friday afternoon, forcing evacuation of people living in apartments above the buildings and gutting the Ben Franklin store.

Firemen said the blaze broke out about 3:30 p.m., apparently in the rear of an apartment above the Ben Franklin store. The store was virtually destroyed, and there appeared to be heavy fire, water and smoke damage to the adjacent Road Drug building.

Fireman said the firefighting effort was delayed while apartment residents were taken to safety.

"That's what kept us from saving it (the Ben Franklin store)," said Todd Stowell, deputy Jefferson County fire chief. "It took us so much time getting the people out."

He said he had no immediate count on the number of people evacuated, but a bystander said about 30-35 people lived in the apartments.

Within an hour, there were eight fire trucks and dozens of firemen battling the blaze, from Rigby, Bonneville, Madison and Jefferson counties and Idaho Falls. Rural fire departments Ammon, Roberts and Menan also sent help.

After a two-hour battle, firemen appeared to be winning the battle to confine the fire damage to the two businesses.

Flames leaped 50 feet into the air and the billowing smoke could be seen for miles.

Owners of adjacent buildings used hoses to spray water on their roofs to keep the flames from spreading.

Two doors down from the center of the fire, Mayor Keith Scott, owner of an auto parts store, and a line of volunteers passed out parts hand-to-hand to remove them from the fire danger.

The mayor said he was just winding up a five-week effort of moving everything from an older building into his new quarters. But within an hour, much of his inventory was scattered on a vacant lot and in the backs of parked trucks.

He said that wiped out much of his moving work but he appreciated the volunteer effort when the store was threatened.

Art classes begin Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — The Recreation Department will begin its second session of children's art classes Tuesday. The following classes geared for kids ages 6 to 16 are scheduled to meet once a week for five weeks at 347 Sunrise Blvd. North: • A drawing class meets Tuesday at 1:30. • A beginning art class meets Wednesday at 1:30. • A ceramics class meets Thursday at 1:30. Cost of each class is $30, which includes all materials. To register call Carol Conover, 734-1588.

Sheriff seeks information

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office is seeking information in the investigation of a string of burglaries at two subdivisions northeast of Twin Falls. Chief Deputy Harold Jensen said there have recently been nine burglaries in the affluent Skyline Drive area. They occurred from June 18 through the Independence Day weekend. "They're related, almost for sure," Jensen said. "We know the same people are doing some of them, but we're not sure yet about all of them." Jensen said the stolen items included "all household goods from food and appliances to clothing." The burglaries have occurred during both daytime and nighttime hours, and some happened while the homeowners were out of town, Jensen said. "If anyone has any information, we'd like them to call the sheriff's office direct or call Crime Stoppers if they want to remain anonymous," Jensen said.

Parents may assist minor in courtroom

BOISE (AP) — In an exception to the general rule, a minor defendant may ask to be represented by lay counsel through his or her parents or guardian, the Idaho Court of Appeals says. The court on Friday overturned two Bonneville County misdemeanor traffic violations against James A. Ritchie, 17, and held that when Ritchie asked to be assisted by his father, not a lawyer, the judge should have held a hearing to determine whether the youth would be helped.

Ritchie, at age 15 was convicted of driving with expired license plates and driving an uninsured vehicle. He was fined and sentenced to 10 days in jail. On appeal, representing himself, he raised various constitutional issues which the Court of Appeals rejected. The Idaho Supreme Court and other courts have ruled there is no constitutional right for a criminal defendant to be represented at trial by a nonlawyer, the Court of Appeals said. But it's different for a minor. "A minor may not be capable of representing his or her interests in court to the same extent as an adult," the court said. "When a minor lacks this capability, the right of self-representation has little genuine meaning unless it is deemed to embrace the assistance of a parent or guardian." "We see no cogent reason for imposing a blanket prohibition against such assistance," it said. After a hearing, the judge should decide whether the parent or guardian can help the minor defendant. "If parental assistance clearly will not aid the case, the request may be denied with a reasoned explanation," the court said.

Rain helps control park fire

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Firefighters battling a 5-day-old, 16,300-acre blaze near Mount Rushmore National Memorial finally had the weather on their side Friday as they worked to re-inforce existing fire lines before digging new ones. Rain helped cool the fire Friday afternoon, but Dennis Neill of the U.S.

Forest Service said: "This rain is no panacea. It's not going to put the fire out, but it helps." Neill said the showers helped lower the temperature and raise the humidity, but he said it also could bring stronger winds and the possibility of lightning. Lightning is believed to have started the fire Monday night in Custer State Park. It spread Wednesday into the Black Hills National Forest, site of the memorial to four presidents. Friday afternoon, flames jumped a highway and 30 families were ordered to evacuate. The blaze could be contained by Sunday night if the weather holds.

Jerome Jobs

Continued from Page A5 • Activities to coincide with the LDS Pioneer Days celebration. A parade would be staged by the group from the city's water tower to the park.

According to an LDS spokesman, 600 to 700 people could be served food and treated to the music of the Old-Time Fiddlers. Council asked that the LDS group provide a check person at each end of the parade route. The group was also instructed to contact people in nearby houses and businesses at least a week in advance to tell them of the event. In return, the Jerome Police Department will barricade Main Street between Buchanan and Cleveland.

Council approved the purchase of $16,000 worth of seal-coat oil, which Sloan said would be enough to cover six miles of streets and last the entire summer. Priority streets are North Birch and Eighth Avenue East, he said.

Council approved the purchase of $1,900 worth of materials to fill cracks in the city's streets. Also approved was a $2,000 purchase of six-foot chain-link fence for the water department. The fence would enclose building and shop areas, Sloan said, and would replace the four-foot fence removed from the area around the old water tank.

Tempering the job picture, however, was labor unrest in the lumber industry where 600 Boise-Cascade workers at three Idaho mills have been off the job for three weeks and 450 more workers at four Panhandle mills owned by WI Forest Products and DAW went on strike Friday. Those workers are included in the labor force but not considered unemployed by analysts since they are not actively seeking jobs.

Still, the number of layoffs off the job in June dropped another 300 to 20,300, aided by the fact that the Tupperware plant in Jerome, which was scheduled to finally close last month, remained open because of consumer demand.

Perfect weather for most outdoor activities helped the number of unemployment insurance claims drop by 66 percent in the lumber and wood products industry and 32 percent in construction, Cooper said. "Unemployment claims declined in all sectors except retail trade, where a slight increase was attributed to the closure of the 'Burger Jack' stores throughout the state."

The June report also backed up the latest short-term economic forecast for Idaho, which projected average 1988 unemployment at just 5.3 percent.

Regionally, the unemployment rates for June and May of this year and June 1987 were:

"Completion of the project is essential to our short and long term growth," said Courtney. "Without it, our economic development will come to an end."

The project is designed to increase the city's waste treatment capacity by 60 percent. It will begin by building an anaerobic treatment facility near United Frozen Foods. UFF requires 70 percent of the city treatment plants' biological oxygen demand capacity, which is the amount of oxygen needed in water to support bacteria that consume waste.

The new anaerobic facility will remove substantial BOD before it reaches the city plant. "That would make room for other users," Courtney said.

The project will also construct a

A $350,000 aeration system, designed to supply oxygen to microorganisms that feed on pollutants, will be constructed at the plant this summer. "It's more efficient," said Young. "It will tie us over until the project next year."

been a consultant for the United Nations Industrial Development Organization. He recently extended his ministry by founding Transformation International, an agency which equips third world churches and generates employment opportunities.

TWIN FALLS — DeWayne Luchziger, general manager of Radio Station KCJR, will speak to the Community Outreach collective class of the adult Sunday School at the First Baptist Church at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

His topic will be "Christian Risk in the Community." Jody Shotwell and Bob Brackett are coordinators for the class. The Adult Sunday school has three other electives for the summer session: Study of Exodus, Living Prayer and Spiritual Disciplines. Coffee is served at 9:30 a.m. in the Fellowship hall preceding the meeting to which the public is invited.

TWIN FALLS — Juanita Upton and Shirley Harris will attend the first churchwide gathering of Presbyterian women July 12-18 at Purdue University.

West Lafayette, Ind. This year the focus will be on the merger of the United Presbyterian Women and the Women of the Church into a new organization called Presbyterian Women.

More than 5,000 women are expected to attend from throughout the U.S. and many foreign countries.

Both women have been active in local church women's groups. Harris was one of 36 women chosen to visit China last year. Upton will be a voting representative and also take special training to become an enabler, a new office in the organization.

HAILEY — The first annual Gospel Music celebration in the Wood River Valley will be held today, beginning at 11 a.m. at the Bellevue city park, sponsored by the Coalition for Christian Education. Dinner will be served at noon with proceeds to be used for Christian education. Cost is $4 for adults, $2.50 for children or $12 per family.

There will be speakers and various music groups perform throughout the afternoon.

Jehovah's Witnesses flock to Vancouver conference

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Almost 30,000 people stood in absolute silence inside B.C. Place Stadium. Not even a baby's wail could be heard, although children were present in abundance.

"I guess we're just used to it, so it doesn't seem unusual to us at all," said Don Beard of Kamloops, one of 40,000 Jehovah's Witnesses expected to gather daily at the stadium until Sunday.

"We've come from" across British Columbia, Washington, Idaho and Montana for the "Divine Justice" district convention in religion, said American Christians. About 18,000 people will fill 85 city hotels, while thousands more stay in private homes.

The crowd was different from the usual sports or rock-music fans who fill the stadium's seats.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some extraordinary warmth is showing up in the Soviet Union's relations with religion. Some American church leaders who returned from last month's celebrations there of Christianity's millennium. But they add that just what the friendlier climate means in practical implementation and lasting effect remains in question.

"As is true with many historical events, we won't know for about 25 years what happened in Moscow," says Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom of Chicago, head of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

"It may be a 'blip on the screen women in crisp cotton dresses, men in suits, and children well-behaved miniatures of their parents.

"We're a trusting bunch," Beard told a reporter Thursday. "You'll see people leaving carrying bags and jackets hung on seats, and we just don't worry about our children wandering around."

"I forget about the difference until I talk to someone like you, and then I'm jerked back to reality," Beard said.

Anyone just a few years ago had said it could happen in that officially atheist state, they'd have been laughed at, Chilstrom says, but a change had come through Soviet leader Mikhail S.Gorbachev.

"Don't expect that suddenly you're going to have a change of

The sect, founded in the United States in the late 19th century, bases its doctrine on the second coming of Christ. All members are considered ministers, and they refuse to participate in government or to serve in the military. Their belief forbids them from accepting blood transfusions, even if their lives are endangered.

Don Trapp of Langley said the Witnesses carry on their work in 205 countries, with about 3,250,000 members actively carrying on the work of public preaching.

There are about 20,000 Witnesses in British Columbia. The convention serves as a Bible education seminar on the topic of divine justice and increasing lawlessness, terrorism and violence.

Thousands attend LDS pageant

MANTI, Utah (AP) — More than 11,500 people flocked to this century Utah town Thursday for the 23rd annual Mormon Miracle Pageant on the south lawn of the Manti Temple.

Each year, a cast of 800 depicts scenes from the Book of Mormon and the early history of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on the south hill of the century-old temple.

Since this is a centennial year for the limestone structure, a church general authority speaks and a special choir from one of the eight Manti Temple districts performs each evening before the pageant begins.

What's what

The lion in flight
An oil company in the 1920s sought publicity by sending a pilot around the country accompanied by a lion cub in the co-pilot's seat. Made a pretty good picture. But the Humane Society ranted: Until the oil company fitted the cub with a parachute.

Q. You said divorcees who remarry wait an average of four and a half years before they do so. How long do knows about "the golden fleece" sought by Jason and the Argonauts? Near Colchia, a town on the Black Sea. What not all know is there really were golden fleeces. Herders in the Caucasus Mountains stretched sheepskins across waterfalls tributaries. To catch occasional flakes of gold washed down by the stream. The herders picked out the gold after the skins dried.

Deer, too, came here across the Bering Bridge from Asia.

You don't read much about knifefights in the history books, but the fact is that in Louisiana a number of formal duels were fought with Bowie knives.

Am told about 3,000 miles of mine are abandoned nationwide every year.

HANDGUNS
Veteran police never call a revolver a pistol or vice versa. Neither do veteran police reporters. These handguns are used in evidence and the terminology is exact. It's a pistol if the cartridge is fired either from the breech or barrel. It's a revolver, if the cartridge is fired from the revolving cylinder.

Q. Where does Valdez Harbor, Alaska, rank on that list of busiest U.S. ports?
A. No. 3. No. 1 is New York City. No. 2, New Orleans. Or so reports a transportation authority.

What can you do with old railways?
ders for advice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Work hard at your Saturday duties. Your mate has a worthwhile and convincing plan, so listen. Set your mind to completing what you start.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Spend some time with a partner who can give you more data about a project you are working on. Don't be influenced by bigwigs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You had better get at your work. Don't waste time lighting into others. Postpone that talk with a family tie.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Use your talents and energies for something important you want to do today. Forget that private sorrow you have.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Get at those duties you have been putting aside for some time at home, and they are soon done. Solve your financial problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): A good day for handling communications well, but avoid a bigwig who is full of ire. Do not be too critical.

If Your Child is Born Today: Here she will be one of those charming young people who will be able to carry through steadfastly with any course of action planned. Teach this one to decide which career he, or she, wants. When chosen, back it financially by the best success.

Prince visits survivors of oil rig fire

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — Prince Charles on Friday visited survivors burned in the Piper Alpha oil-rig disaster, bringing solace and equipment needed to treat their burns, and troubleshoot the "Red" Adair flow to the North Sea platform to help plug gas leaks.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher also flew to Aberdeen to console families of those killed in the world's worst oilfield disaster — an explosion and fire Wednesday night in which 166 men died.

Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum, visited some of the 64 survivors and said his company, which owns the platform, was donating $1.7 million to a trust fund for the injured and bereaved. The government gave a like sum and the European Economic Community added $952,000.

Seventeen bodies had been recovered by Friday night, and rescuers said they had no hope for 149 men still missing in the field 120 miles east of Scotland.

Harry Calder, a 35-year-old survivor, said at least 100 men died screaming for help, trapped in their sleeping quarters after surviving the first explosion. Calder said he and a colleague escaped through a door, crawled along scalding pipes and jumped more than 100 feet into the sea.

Prince Charles, heir to the throne, and his wife, Diana, Princess of Wales, were driven to the hospital emergency entrance and spoke briefly with doctors before going to visit the injured.

Britain sells 50 fighters to Saudis

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced Friday it had signed its biggest-ever arms deal with Saudi Arabia, supplanting the United States as the major arms supplier to the oil-rich kingdom.

A Defense Ministry statement gave no details, but official sources said the deal, which includes mine sweepers and some 50 Tornado fighters — was worth more than $17 billion. That dwarfed a $7.5 billion contract won by Britain in 1986.

Train derailment in India leaves 85 dead

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Six cars of a packed express passenger train derailed and plunged into a rain-swollen lake in southern Kerala state Friday, killing 85 people and injuring 500 others, authorities said.

The death toll was expected to rise because up to 200 people were missing.

Rescuers worked under flood lights as navy divers searched submerged cars for survivors and bodies, an official said.

Kerala Railways Minister A. Neeelalohitadasan Nadar said he suspected poor track maintenance was the cause.

Business Job growth report sends stocks sliding

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices declined in light trading Friday, faced with news of unexpectedly strong employment growth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 16.54 to 2,106.15, bringing its loss for the week to 25.43 points.

Declining issues out-numbered advances by about 3 to 2 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 563 up, 847 down and 511 unchanged.

Volume on the floor of the Big Board came to 136.07 million shares, down from 156.10 million Thursday and the smallest total since a 116.75 million-share day on June 20.

Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 158.13 million shares.

Before the market opened, the Labor-Department reported that the civilian unemployment rate fell three-tenths of a percentage point last month, to a 14-year low of 5.3 percent.

Nonfarm payroll employment, a figure watched especially closely on Wall Street, increased by 346,000, that substantially exceeded advance estimates in the financial community.

While the news had many positive aspects, it also served as fuel for recent fears among investors that inflation and interest rates might rise in the economy heats up.

Prices of long-term government bonds fell about $10 for each $1,000 in face value after the employment report was made public.

Losers in the blue-chip sector included General Electric down 7/8 at 43 1/2; International Business Machines, down 1 1/4 at 126 3/4; Dow Chemical, down 1/4 at 87 3/4; Procter & Gamble, down 1/4 at 75 3/4; and Coca-Cola, down 1/4 at 36 1/4.

But Alcoa, which raised its quarterly dividend from 30 cents to 35 cents a share, gained 1 1/4 to 65 3/4.

Florida Steel jumped 3/4 to 47. The company said its top management was considering a leveraged buy-out at a price of "mid-to-high $40s per share."

Genrad Inc. was the biggest percentage loser among NYSE issues, down 1 3/4 at 95 1/4. The company said it expects to report earnings in the range of five to seven cents a share for the second quarter, but less than some analysts had been estimating.

Occidental Petroleum was steady at 26 1/4 in active trading. The company has said it expects no change in its dividend policy resulting from the explosion this week at an oil rig it owns in the North Sea.

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market lost $12.4 billion, or 0.55 percent, in value.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped 81 points.

Standard & Poor's industrial index fell 1.97 to 312.28, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was down 1.76 at 270.02.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market slipped 1.10 to 394.33. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 309.02, up 0.7.

Kansas announces new head basketball coach

ROY WILLIAMS
Hopes for long tenure at KU

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Roy Williams, an assistant coach at North Carolina for 10 years, was named head basketball coach at defending national champion Kansas on Friday. He replaced Larry Brown, who left for the NBA.

Bob Frederick, the Jayhawk athletic director, said Williams was chosen because of his reputation as a good recruiter and a coach who emphasizes academics as well as a winning program. Williams was given a four-year contract calling for $78,000 a year.

Williams said he hopes to spend the rest of his career at Kansas, where he became the school's seventh basketball coach. Brown had the reputation of being a nomad because of his frequent job changes.

"My hope is that you don't have to go through another press conference to hire a new head basketball coach for the next 50 years," Williams said.

Williams, 37, said he anticipated no easy task because of the competitiveness of the Big Eight Conference, the loss of All-American Danny Manning and because other schools will be gunning for the defending national champion.

"Following the job Larry Brown did is not going to be something that's easy to do," Williams said.

Originally, Kansas officials said they expected to hire a head coach from another NCAA Division I school to replace Brown. Several big-name coaches withdrew their names or said they weren't interested before Williams was hired.

Earlier names included Wichita State's Eddie Fogler, Southwest Missouri State's Charlie Spoonhour, Ohio State's Gary Williams and Purdue's Gene Keady.

Frederick said he had no qualms about hiring an assistant coach to take over the Jayhawks.

"That's something I was able to satisfy in my own mind. I felt he could step in and do the job. I don't think I would have considered any other than Roy or other program than the one he was in," Frederick said.

Williams graduated from North Carolina in 1972 and returned as an assistant to Coach Dean Smith after five years as basketball coach at a North Carolina high school.

"Roy is a highly organized person who has all the characteristics of a great coach," Smith said in a statement released at the news conference.

"He's played a key role in the success we've had here in recent years. His goal is to be a head coach and he will be an outstanding one."

Williams said his reputation as a strong recruiter may stem from the fact that he stays put and does not move from job to job. Brown has said his reputation as a nomad hurt his recruiting efforts at Kansas.

"I've had the same wife for 15 years, and I've had the same set of golf clubs for 17 years," Williams said.

Brown, who played at North Carolina and was an assistant coach under Smith in the early 1960s, announced June 13 that he was leaving to become head coach of the San Antonio Spurs for a reported five-year, $3.5 million contract.

The hiring of the new Kansas coach follows one of the most successful periods in the school's 90-year basketball history. Brown's 135-44 record in five seasons includes one Big Eight title, trips to the 1986 and '88 Final Four and the 1988 NCAA championship.

Frederick said when Brown resigned that he had been thinking for more than a year that he might have to hire a new coach this summer.

Brown turned down an offer to coach at UCLA just two months before accepting the San Antonio job.

Jacobsen takes lead in Busch classic

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Peter Jacobsen, who let last week's Western Open title slip away on the final hole, shot a 6-under-par 65 Friday for a two-shot lead after the second round of the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

"I'm very proud of myself for shaking it off, going ahead and playing as well as I have," said Jacobsen, who took a double-bogey 6 on the final hole at the Western Open on Sunday to lose by one stroke to Jim Benepe.

Jacobsen had seven birdies and one bogey Friday to finish two tours of Kingsmill Golf Club's 6,776-yard layout at 10-under-par 132.

Within three shots of Jacobsen were three U.S. Open champions—1976 winner Jerry Pate, 1984 titlist Fuzzy Zoeller and reigning champion Curtis Strange, who lives at Kingsmill.

Pate, continuing his comeback from three shoulder operations that have limited his playing time during the past six years, shot a 3-under 68 and was two shots behind Jacobsen at 134, along with Tom Purtzer, who carded a 69.

Zoeller, with a 68, and Strange, who shot a 67, were at 135 with Scott Hoch, Bill Buttner and Tom Sieckmann. Sieckmann had a 66, Hoch a 68 and Buttner a 70.

Dick Mast, who held the first-round lead after coming within a shot of the course record with a 7-under 64, scored to a 76 on Friday and was at 139.

"I'm happy just to be where I am. This is just like a second life for me in golf. This is dessert," said Pate.

first, rolled in a pair of 15-foot birdie putts and a five-footer to get to 7-under after six holes. His lone bogey came at the 177-yard 17th hole, where his tee shot went into a bunker.

Jacobsen had four more birdie putts on the front nine, the longest from 12 feet.

Jacobsen said a big factor in his playing well here this week was the fact that he kept busy following his Western Open loss. He flew into Williamsburg on Sunday night, played in a pro-am Monday and conducted a youth clinic Tuesday.

"I was very disappointed all Sunday-night flying in. I cried a few times and I lamented a little bit," Jacobsen said. "If I had gone home and taken a week or two off, I could have gotten real depressed."

Jacobsen said getting his fourth career victory at the Anheuser-Busch weekend helped ease the feelings of last weekend.

"I just want to prove to myself that I can win again," he said. "I just want to keep my nose clean and see if I can do it this week."

Pate was satisfied just to be able to play competitively again.

Today was a pretty good achievement for me in my career," said Pate, who birdied three consecutive holes on the front nine and got to 10-under through 12 holes before carding a pair of bogeys.

"I'm happy just to be where I am. This is just like a second life for me in golf. This is dessert," said Pate.

Officials institute more precise hours for shooting game

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Stricter shooting hours for all upland and migratory game except waterfowl was one of a host of regulation changes for 1988 and 1989 made by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission at its meeting in Idaho Falls.

In the only new regulation, the commission declined to allow trapping seasons for river otter and fish after the Idaho Trappers Association testified at a Thursday night meeting that its members had counted an adequate number of the furbearing mammals to warrant their capture.

After a public hearing Thursday night in Idaho Falls, the commission agreed to change the legal shooting hours for all upland and migratory game birds and animals from "natural light" to the period from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

Fish and Game Director Jerry Conley said Thursday's change was needed to standardize shooting hours and to avoid some hunters taking advantage of the ambiguity of "natural light."

Earlier, Conley announced that Fish and Game officials plan within the next week to transplant another 200 to 230 spring chinook salmon from the Pahsimeroi River to the Yankee Fork of the Salmon River at the request of the Shoshone-Bannock Indian Tribes.

Fish and Game also transplanted 200 chinook from the Pahsimeroi to the Verbon Fork last month, Conley said. The Sho-Bans have agreed in exchange not to pursue treaty fishing privileges on the Upper Salmon River tributaries.

Among other regulation changes, the commission:

- Adjusted the pheasant bag and possession limits after the first five days of the season at several wildlife management areas to standardize possession limits at twice the daily bag limit.

- Shifted the opening date of the forest-grouse season from the first Saturday following the general deer and elk archery opening to Sept. 1 to provide additional hunting opportunities.
- Delayed the opening date of the pheasant season in southern Idaho by several days to correspond with the fourth day of the general deer season. The northern Idaho opening date also will be delayed several days to remain one week earlier than in southern Idaho.
- Added two days to the sage grouse hunting season in Areas 2 and 3 to provide additional hunting opportunity.
- Set back the falconry season on game birds by two weeks, to begin Aug. 15, rather than Sept. 1, and to end March 15, rather than March 31.
- Increased the sharp-tailed grouse possession limit from two to four and extended the season by two days.
- Established a three-day salmon and steelhead nonresident fishing license to boost the sport-fishing portion of Idaho's tourist industry.
- Amended the state's five-year fisheries management plan to allow the introduction of black crappie to Glendale Reservoir and bluegill to Deep Creek Reservoir to serve as forage for largemouth bass populations.
- Established rules and regulations to govern commercial fishing of non-game species.

The 1988 Legislature passed a law requiring a license for all commercial fishing in the state.

The rules adopted Thursday allow for regulated commercial netting of such "trash fish" as suckers, squawfish, carp and chub.

Former Minnesota football player claims to have received payments

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A one-time University of Minnesota football player says a former assistant football coach gave him cash, bought him clothes and paid his rent and a parking ticket, according to a published report Friday.

Pudgy Abercrombie, a tailback who quit the team before the 1986 season, said Thursday the payments were made by Jim Strong, an assistant coach under then-head coach Lou Holtz.

Holtz now is head coach at Notre Dame and Strong is one of his assistants.

Abercrombie told the Star Tribune that Holtz referred him to Strong. But Strong and Holtz denied Thursday that Abercrombie ever received money from any coaches.

The former player said he received "between $100 and $200" from Strong during his one-plus seasons at the school.

a practice on Sept. 9, 1986. He said he told new head coach John Gutekunst about his decision to transfer to a Division II school close to home. Even though he was quiet, Abercrombie said, Gutekunst paid for his plane ticket to his hometown of Aliquippa, Pa.

Gutekunst denied on Thursday that he met with Abercrombie, or that he paid for his ticket. "I never talked to Pudgy Abercrombie about going home," Gutekunst said. "It's just ridiculous, because I didn't pay anybody's way anywhere. I didn't even know when he left the team."

Abercrombie, who now lives in Pennsylvania, also told the newspaper he received $160 in cash from Luther Darville.

Darville was fired from the university April 22 as acting coordinator of the university's Office of Minority and Special Student Affairs. He later was indicted on charges of stealing $197,000 in university funds and authorities believe he has fled to his native Bahamas.

Several other former athletes already had gone on record with allegations that they received thousands of dollars from Darville.

The latest allegations add to a growing list of possible violations of NCAA rules. The NCAA is monitoring an investigation of the university's athletic department.

Darville said Thursday, through his attorney James Lawton, that he was instructed to give money and other assistance to student athletes by his "superiors."

In his statement, Darville did not identify who those superiors were.

Another university official, LeRoy Gardner, who as academic adviser to the football team often referred players to Darville, resigned last week as acting director of the university's special counseling office. Gardner said he gave an unidentified football player $500 at Holtz's request. Holtz has denied all allegations involving him.

Kentucky assistant sues company

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky assistant basketball coach Dwane Casey filed his $8.9 million lawsuit against Emery Air Freight Corp. on Friday, and his lawyer said it was not a ploy to influence the NCAA's investigation of Wildcat basketball.

"I file lawsuits on the basis of lawsuits," attorney Joe Bill Campbell told reporters outside U.S. District Court. "I don't file lawsuits as plays."

The lawsuit seeks $6,966,950 in compensatory damages and an unspecified amount of punitive damages, charging the company mishandled a package allegedly containing money bound for a basketball player's family.

The suit names as defendants Emery, five of its employees, the security firm that dealt with a package that sparked the NCAA probe, and the head of the security firm.

The lawsuit alleges that Casey's privacy was violated, his character was defamed, information regarding the package was unlawfully disclosed, the package was handled negligently, and Casey suffered "severe and grievous mental and emotional suffering."

Burl McCoy, a Lexington lawyer who represents Emery, told The (Louisville) Courier-Journal late Thursday: "I suspected that he was going to file a lawsuit. If he intends to file a suit, Emery intends to defend it vigorously. We will maintain our position that we have done nothing inappropriate."

On April 14, four of the five Emery employees were quoted in a copyright article in the Los Angeles Daily News.

The employees said they saw $1,000 inside a package Casey had sent to Kentucky recruit Chris Mills' father March 30. The package popped open in transit at Emery's Los Angeles warehouse, the employees said. Casey denied sending the money, and Mills and his father denied receiving it.

Emery employees said the money was resented in the package and delivered to the home.

The fifth employee was not quoted in the paper, but he has a brother-in-law who worked for the Daily News. Campbell said.

Also named as defendants are Security Experts Inc. and its head, who was quoted as saying he saw the money.

A's edge Tigers 3-2 to end losing skid

DETROIT (AP) — Oakland's Mark McGwire drove in two runs with a home run and his 16th home run and Dennis Eckersley pitched his 26th save Friday night as the Athletics snapped a four-game losing streak with a 3-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Winner Storm Davis, 6-4, allowed two runs and six hits in 6-2-3 innings. Loser Eric King, 4-1, making his first start of the season, allowed two runs and two homers — and five hits in 5-2-3 innings. King was starting in place of Jack Morris, who has complained of a tired arm.

Jose Canseco opened the Oakland fourth with a double, was sacrificed to third by Ron Hassley and scored on McGwire's grounder.

Kansas City 4, New York 0

NEW YORK (AP) — All-Star pitcher Mark Gubicza handed New York its first shutout of the season with a four-hitter and Bo Jackson hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 4-0 victory over the Yankees on Friday night.

Gubicza, 12-5, allowed only one hit after the second inning, a leadoff double by Bobby Meacham in the fifth. He then retired the last 15 batters. Gubicza, who was named to the American League All-Star team earlier in the week, walked two, struck out six
