Wild areas lack water rights, Hodel declares

McClure welcomes backing for state water control

WASHINGTON — Proclaiming what he called a "major victory" for water users in the West, Interior Secretary Donald says the Reagan administration takes the position that wilderness areas have no implied rights to water.

Hodel announced Friday that Attorney General Edwin Meese III concurred with the department solicitor's legal opinion that Congress must specifically award water when it creates a wilderness area.

There are conflicting U.S. District Court opinions on one of the major issues in the arid West — whether wilderness areas, without a specific statement by Congress, are guaranteed the water needed for proper management.

TWIN FALLS — U.S. Sen. James McClure greeted the Reagan administration's policy on wilderness water rights Friday as reaffirmation of state control over its own water destiny.

"The ability of states to control decisions over its water is a fundamental principle in the West," said the Payette Republican. "But those who seek greater federal control over states' water have tried for years to overturn it in the courts."

The announcement by Interior Secretary Donald Hodel is somewhat limited, spanning only water rights within current wilderness. Thus, it does not directly impact pending legislation for Oklahoma's Silent City of Rocks and Hagerman fossil beds or even Idaho wilderness under the Idaho Forest Management Act.

Hodel announced that after a year-long executive review, the administration decided Congress had not intended to reserve federal water rights for wilderness in the 1964 Wilderness Act.

This opinion means that without an • See McClure on Page A2

Idaho Sen. James McClure, who has been battling the Reagan administration's past attempts to usurp state control of water, welcomed the announcement.

It shows, the state's senior Republican said, "that the federal government wishes to be a good partner with state government and that the state governments in the West should have the primary responsibility with respect to the designation with the use of the water which is so very critical."

At the same time, however, McClure said he would continue to insist that land legislation involving Idaho, including the pending wilderness compromise, contain provisions clearly maintaining water rights status quo.

Some Democrats put the Hodel announcement into a presidential campaign perspective.

"The current administration feels threatened in the West because of the all-out offensive by Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis," said Sen. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., who sat in the audience during the announcement, which he said simply reiterated policy the action runs counter to a U.S. District Court ruling in Colorado in 1985 and to a 1979 ruling by an Interior Department solicitor during the Carter administration, when Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus was Interior Secretary, said Maggie Fox of the Sierra Club.

Old Faithful danger eases

The Associated Press

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. — The danger of fire reaching Old Faithful in Yellowstone National Park has been reduced significantly and the south entrance to the park will reopen Sunday, park officials say.

But the news was not as good as the 10,100-acre Shoshone fire which crossed a highway near West Thumb Friday afternoon. Fire officials reported, however, that the controlled burn planned to keep that fire away from Grant Village had been successful so far.

About 6 miles west of Old Faithful, firefighters continued their work Friday to create barriers to keep the 8,800-acre North Fork fire from reaching the park's most popular geysers.

Bruce Fox, fire information officer, said crews made good progress containing the fire's eastern edge Friday and will work in the next several days to encourage the fire to burn to the north, where ground crews will begin work to contain the man-caused blaze.

Fox said firefighters were using natural firebreaks and controlled fires to create barriers in an attempt to herd the fire to the north.

Although Fox would not say Old Faithful, with three lodges, two service stations and a store, was out of fire danger, he did say firefighters manning pumps at the attraction as a contingency measure were told they would not be on duty much longer.

Meanwhile, Dave Poncin, incident commander for the Shoshone fire, said the burnout near Grant Village would continue Saturday, with firefighters expected to burn out about 650 acres surrounding the complex.

Poncin said firefighters will try to stop the fire now that it crossed the road. He stressed, however, that the fire had not reached any park buildings or fa-

More crews on lines at fire near Lowman

More crews joined the battle Friday against the 4,600-acre Willis Gulch fire in central Idaho as flames continued coursing out of control through rugged timbered mountainsides.

Meanwhile, another Boise National Forest fire burning in heavy stands of pine near Riordan Lake northeast of Cascade blossomed from six acres to 30 Friday afternoon. A dozen smokejumpers and three air retardant tankers were dispatched to the blaze to slow its progress.

Fire engines went down the area around the Ten Axe and Seven Peaks subdivisions, where 10 families were forced to evacuate Tuesday night after the Willis Gulch fire burned toward their property. The flames skirted the development as heavily reinforced firelines held.

The families were allowed to return to their cabins at 8 p.m. MDT, Friday, Boise National Forest fire information officer Jennifer Cullan said.

Aerial tankers stood by waiting for visibility to improve enough for them to resume retardant runs over the fire while some 850 firefighters kept digging line near the raging eastern head of the four-day old blaze some 35 miles from Boise.

The number of people working the Willis Gulch fire swelled to 976, including fire crews and management, M.S. Cullan said. Helicopters toting huge buckets pulled water out of the nearby

Andrus names panel to evaluate Idaho tax setup

The Associated Press

BOISE — Agreeing with state lawmakers and government analysts that yearly tinkering has skewed Idaho's tax structure, Gov. Cecil Andrus has formed a 12-member council to fully evaluate the system.

"I am confident when they look at it they will say it is not perfect," Andrus said Friday.

His Taxation Study Council will complement the work of the special legislative committee on taxation matters that has begun the same kind of review in preparation for a legislative session that will have to cope with raising $40 million or more in tax revenues to meet state spending commitments or dramatically cutting back the budget.

Idaho is experiencing the continued demands of education and will feel additional pressure from health and welfare, justice and correctional systems," Andrus said.

To ensure the coordination of the two efforts Andrus named the co-chairmen of that legislative committee — House Revenue and Taxation Chairman Steve Antone, R-Rupert, and Senate Finance Chairman Atwell Parry, R-Melba — to the council.

The council also includes University of Idaho law professor Phillip Peterson, Boise State University economist Charles Skora, Tax Commission Chairman Larry Looney, former legislator and lobbyist Russell Westerberg, state AFL-CIO President Jim Kerns, Richard Bennett of Bennett Lumber in Hayden Lake, Boise attorney Charles McDevitt, Boise stockbroker Louise Schneider, Boise certified public accountant Rager Martell and Legislative Council Director Myron Schlichte.

Andrus, who met with the council members this week, said he has not tried to nudge them in any special direction, and he also said he is not committed to taking their recommendations when he develops his tax and spending proposals for the new legislative session this winter.

"But I want the benefit of their evaluation," he said.

The governor acknowledged, however, that the yearly tax changes made to finance needed state spending or implement specific policies have probably created "a tax system that is unfair, unbalanced and ultimately unworkable."

Continuing drought boosts prices received by farmers

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Prices farmers received for raw products in July rose 3.6 percent from June as drought continued to take a toll of crop and livestock production, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The department's Agricultural Statistics Board said in its preliminary report that higher prices for corn, soybeans and eggs contributed most to the July increase. Lower prices for oranges, cattle and hogs partly offset the rise in other commodities.

Compared with a year earlier, July prices averaged 10 percent higher. The report also included revised figures showing that the index rose only 2.2 percent in June, compared with the preliminary reading of 3.7 percent announced a month ago.

Department projections earlier this month showed that 1988 grain production may be reduced by 24 percent from last year. Heat and drought have dried up pastures and forced many producers to thin out herds to cut down on rising feed costs.

Prices of some major commodities are based on mid-month averages and then are revised the following month when additional information is available.

John Buche of the department's National Agricultural Statistics Service said the July report did not reflect most of the recent downturn in feed grain and soybean prices after rains improved harvest prospects from earlier in the month.

However, the market continued to be highly volatile. At the Chicago Board of Trade on Friday, crop futures soared after falling for nine straight sessions as processors and other users came into the market.

By the market's close, most corn and soybean futures had risen their respective daily ticks of 10 cents and 30 cents per bushel, while the limitless August contract for soybeans soared more than 34 cents.

The USDA report, which uses prices at the farm level, showed that as a commodity group, prices of feed grains and hay — in great demand for livestock in the stricken drought areas — rose 16 percent from June to July.

Psychiatric wing completed

BLACKFOOT (AP) — Work on the multimillion-dollar expansion at State Hospital-South has been completed, and officials will begin moving patients in next week.

"It is a facility that the people of Idaho can be proud of," former hospital administrator George Baskie said.

The 120-bed psychiatric center, built at a cost of $5.4 million, was dedicated on Friday.

3 die in rollover van accident

BOISE (AP) — A state Department of Health and Welfare van carrying handicapped people to a summer vacation camp near Cascade crashed on Friday, killing three of the 13 on board and injuring the other 10, two seriously, authorities reported.

Ada County Coroner Erwin Sonnenberg said the dead were apparently killed instantly when the van careened out of control and rolled several times. He said the injured were taken to area hospitals.

Identities of the victims were not immediately released, but officials said the passengers, both mentally and physically handicapped, were mostly from Canyon County. The van also carried a driver and a police assistant.

Police issue arrest warrant

EMMETT (AP) — A warrant for the arrest of a man suspected of growing 400 marijuana plants at a rural home near Emmett has been issued, but authorities have not released his name.

Gem County Sheriff Bill McConnell said Thursday the suspect's name was being withheld because it might jeopardize the investigation and arrest.

"To the best of my knowledge he is not from Emmett and came in from the Oregon coast to lease property," McConnell said. "I believe he has fled the area, but I don't know how far."

Man dies in boat collision

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — One man was killed and three other people were hospitalized in what an speedboat hit and vaulted over another on Lake Coeur d'Alene, authorities said.

Jack B. McGregor, 32, of Coeur d'Alene, was pronounced dead at Kootenai Medical Center after the accident, which occurred shortly before 11 p.m. Thursday. Kootenai County Sheriff's Capt. John Smith said.

The identities and the nature of the injuries of the two women and one man in the boat with McGregor were unavailable Friday.

Mark Allen Enders, 18, was arrested later on a felony charge of aggravated boating under the influence of alcohol or drugs. He was booked into the Kootenai County jail pending a court appearance.

Idaho sailor's body found

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Divers who recovered the body of a sailor killed when a minesweeping helicopter crashed off the Golden Gate believe the craft's sunken fuselage may contain other remains, the Navy said.

The MH-53E Sea Dragon exploded and crashed into the ocean 10-miles off shore on July 18, killing all eight members of the crew.

The body of Aviation Electrician Airman Christopher Leroy Shell, 21, of Kingstow, Idaho, was found near the site of the crash Tuesday and taken to Oakland Naval Hospital pending notification of his next of kin. Navy spokesmen would not confirm the recovery until Thursday.

Bones discovered are animal's

LEWISTON (AP) — What authorities originally thought were human bones found in the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness probably are the remains of a small bear or cougar, Idaho County Sheriff's Deputy Scott Mealer said.

Mealer, members of the sheriff's posse and Forest Service traveled to the scene on horseback Thursday.

The group found a backpack, a styrofoam pad and other camping items at the site. A Forest Service employee had discovered the remains earlier in the week.

States give reports on centennial plans

BOISE (AP) — The six northern tier states celebrating statehood centennials over the next two years hope a roundup of scheduled events and programs will improve their national images, but at least one is having trouble getting its party started.

"We were just so darn busy trying to raise money that we didn't have a chance to get around to some of the big jobs," Montana Lt. Gov. W. Gordon McOmber said Friday at the fourth annual Centennial States Caucus in Boise.

McOmber, chairman of the Montana Centennial Commission, joined representatives of commissions from North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming and Idaho meetings through Saturday to exchange ideas on how to put together statehood celebrations.

But, compared with the upbeat progress reports from other states' representatives, McOmber's story was a little bleak.

Montana's 1989 centennial celebration is scheduled to begin this year on election day, Nov. 8. But the lieutenant governor said six of the state's 56 counties still have no local centennial organization.

Centennial leaders only recently hired a public relations specialist to promote the celebration, and the effort to recruit corporate sponsorship is just beginning, McOmber said.

What's more, although Montana legislators authorized the Centennial Commission to spend $1.5 million for the celebration, "they never appropriated a penny and a half," he said.

The constitutionality of the state-run commission's licensing program for centennial products also is being challenged, although McOmber said it will continue until and unless it is proven illegal in court.

The sale of special commemorative license plates to fund centennial projects has been a success. But with money still tight and the celebration's start only three months away — ready or not — McOmber said his commission has "had to rely on people, which is good."

Among the events planned is a 10,000-head cattle drive from Roundup to Billings.

Marty Peterson, vice chairman of the Idaho Centennial Commission, kicked off the progress reports Friday with a slickly produced slide show on Idaho's plans for the 1990 statehood celebration.

Peterson said one of his commission's primary goals is to put Idaho's best foot forward and offset its perception as a cultural and social backward.

He encouraged representatives from the other states to take advantage of the exposure their celebrations will bring.

Another opportunity is to put aside regional differences with a state as large and diverse as Idaho, Peterson said. The commission has begun a sister cities and sister counties program to spotlight the mutual interests and heritage of communities in various parts of the state.

"If we can do nothing else with the centennial than poll the people of Idaho together into a cohesive unit, to make the people of Moscow as familiar with the people of Preston as familiar with the moon, it will be a major accomplishment," he said.

Washington state, with a population roughly equal to that of the other five states combined, boasts both the largest budget and the most impressive array of programs and events marking its 1989 centennial.

Putnam Barber, executive secretary of the Washington Centennial Commission, said cooperation with other centennial states has helped his commission develop programs over the past six years of planning that will inspire and excite his state's residents.

Officials remove tequila thought to contain lead

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — The Idaho Liquor Dispensary has ordered managers at its state liquor stores to pull from the shelves two brands of a Mexican tequila suspected of being tainted with lead.

Dispensary officials also, directed store owners to alert restaurant and tavern owners to switch to tequila brands other than Idaho Gold and Idaho Silver.

The federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said Friday that it was awaiting test results on samples of tequila from the 3rd Street Cantina in Coeur d'Alene, where several people became ill last week after drinking margaritas.

John Dafron, bureau supervisor for Idaho; Oregon, Montana and Utah, said results on samples of Idaho Gold taken from stocks at the restaurant should be available next week.

—The tequila is imported in bulk from two manufacturers in Mexico by Frank-Lin Distillers of San Jose, Calif., Dafron said. At Frank-Lin, the bulk tequila is cut with demineralized water to lower its alcohol content to 80 proof.

A Frank-Lin chemist, John Stevens, said the tequila arrives in 6,000-gallon stainless steel tanks on trucks and all subsequent processing is done in stainless steel vats and plumbing to avoid metal contamination.

The tequila then is bottled and shipped throughout the West under various labels, he said. The product is marketed in Idaho by Cougar Gulch Distillers Inc., based in Coeur d'Alene.

Tom Crone, an Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms supervisor in the bureau's San Jose office, said agents inspect Frank-Lin and its liquor processing practices "at least once a year."

—The bureau has no authority to regulate the bulk manufacturing process in Mexico, he said, but it can prohibit the tequila from being distributed in the United States if it does not meet U.S. standards.

However, Crone said, the bureau does not routinely test the tequila or other liquors brought into the country for metal contaminants unless problems with specific manufacturers are suspected.

"Then we test the bejeezus out of it until we determine whether it was just an isolated incident," he said.

The possible lead hazard came to light when Panhandle Health District officials tested an unopened bottle of Idaho Gold at the 3rd Street Cantina and found it contained about 20 times the amount of lead allowable in drinking water.

The test was done after several women dining together at the restaurant experienced nausea and vomiting. The diners all had consumed margaritas, which contain tequila, and a beef dish, said Shirene Sementi, the district's senior environmental health specialist.

Ms. Sementi said traces of lead also were found in a margarita mixing and dispensing machine at the restaurant, the night the illness occurred.

The district has yet to determine whether the beef dishes or the margaritas caused the illness.

Indians ask officials not to phase out reservation

LAPWAL (AP) — Nez Perce leaders have asked officials from four Idaho counties to not request the National Association of Counties support phasing out tribal reservations.

The Nez Perce met Thursday with representatives from Clearwater, Idaho, Lewis and Nez Perce counties — which encompass the reservation. The tribe also asked the county officials to drop their opposition to the Nez Perce placing newly acquired federal land in a tax-exempt status.

In late March, the county officials called for stripping the Nez Perce Tribe of its sovereignty. Two weeks ago, a majority of them proposed phasing out the reservations and granting adequate compensation and tribal assets in return. They resolved to ask the National Association of Counties to adopt similar resolutions.

"When you say to phase me out and my people, that is upsetting to me," said Elliott Moffett, treasurer of the Nez Perce Tribal Executive Committee.

Idaho County Commissioner George Enneking said the tribes have been exploited for many years and county officials believe that having just one government ruling all citizens would stop that.

"Why should we have 260 (tribal) governments within a government," he asked. "The best solution is to join forces and be one government."

The county officials also had voted against allowing the tribes to place newly purchased land in tax-exempt trust status unless the land is accessible to the public and taxable by county governments in the same manner as private lands.

Lewis County Commissioner Horowd Croninger said the tribe agreed in a meeting closed to the public in January to keep county officials informed about what Bureau of Land Management lands on the reservation the tribe wants, but the Nez Perce never did so. Alan Pinkham, chairman of the tribal committee, said the Nez Perce are developing another plan for Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, to consider under which the BLM would transfer some of its lands on the reservation to the tribe.

The counties will get a chance to comment on the land-transfer plan: when an environmental impact statement is drafted by the BLM on the proposal, another tribal official said.

"We gave up a lot to accept you as a neighbor in a reservation," Pinkham said, and, if the tribe can find a way to get back land it formerly owned on the reservation, it will do so.

On dropping the counties' recommendations at the national convention set to start Tuesday, Lewis County Sheriff Don Fortney said it was almost impossible for the county officials to et together and rescind their earlier resolutions before the gathering gets under way.

But the resolutions must go through various committees before the whole convention even sees them, Enneking said.

The two sides agreed to form a joint panel meeting quarterly to hash out their problems.

"Even if we haven't done anything, at least we are talking," Clearwater County Commissioner James Wilson said.

Koop renews battle against smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General C. Everett Koop on Friday renewed his call for the nation to escalate the battle against smoking with the same fervor it devotes to illicit drugs, and he unveiled a new smokeless cigarette as a drug in a cigarette-shaped dispenser.

Koop and other anti-smoking witnesses told Congress that the Food and Drug Administration should regulate any sales of the "smokeless cigarette" being developed by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., even though the agency does not have jurisdiction over regular tobacco products.

The surgeon general noted that "Our nation has mobilized enormous resources to wage a war on drugs — illicit drugs. We should also give priority to the one addict that is killing more than 300,000 Americans each year."

Koop, as he has previously declared, said that tobacco is as addictive as cocaine and heroin. And he told a House subcommittee that the FDA should regulate any sales of the so-called smokeless cigarette because it "contains nicotine, which is a drug in a cigarette-shaped dispenser."

Koop testified to the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on health and the environment about the 618-page, anti-smoking report he issued in May.

"Careful examination of the data," he said, "makes it clear that cigarettes and other forms of tobacco are addicting. An extensive body of research has shown that nicotine is the drug in tobacco that causes addiction."

Charles O. Whitely, representing the Tobacco Institute, said the FDA barely has the resources to carry out its current duties without adding tobacco products to its jurisdiction. He also said Koop's report "is a political document."

"Its conclusions conform with the Surgeon General's political goal of a smokeless society, and undoubtedly were reached long before the report was drafted," Whitely said.

R. J. Reynolds announced last September that it would market the smokeless cigarette, which contains tobacco. Unlike other cigarettes, the company says, it heats but does not burn the tobacco to deliver the nicotine.

Several organizations, including the American Lung Association, the American Cancer Society and the American Medical Association, have petitioned the FDA to take jurisdiction over the proposed product by classifying it a drug.

Several bills have been introduced in Congress to give the FDA authority to regulate the proposed cigarette.

Reagan wants MIA program to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Thursday he will pass on to his successor a program for the "fullest possible accounting" of servicemen still missing from the Vietnam war, based on the assumption that "some of our countrymen are alive."

Addressing the National League of POW-MIA Families, Reagan also called upon the government of Vietnam to move rapidly to determine the fate of the 2,394 American servicemen still missing or unaccounted for from the Southeast Asian conflict.

He urged the Cambodian government to return the remains of Americans that the Cambodians have said they are holding.

Reagan said efforts to secure an accounting of the missing "will continue on a priority basis" during the less than six months remaining in his administration.

"We must call upon the next administration to do the same," he said. "In preparation for transition, I am directing a comprehensive study on the POW/MIA issue, detailing our efforts, accomplishments, and what remains to be done to achieve the fullest possible accounting."

"I implore the governments concerned to respond to our previous proposals," Reagan said. "Should there be anyone remaining voluntarily, their family deserves to know. And every American who has perished deserves to rest on U.S. soil. And until our questions are fully answered, we will assume that some of our countrymen are alive."

Nixon meets with Reagan, Chief of Staff Duberstein

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Nixon returned to the White House this week to meet with President and Mrs. Reagan and Chief of Staff Kenneth M. Duberstein, it was announced Friday.

Presidential spokesman Martin Fitzwater the four met for about an hour Thursday evening in the White House residential quarters. He said the meeting was requested by Reagan.

"I can't discuss the content of their conversations," he said.

John Taylor, Nixon's spokesman in New York, said Duberstein telephoned Nixon about 10 days ago to say that he would like to meet with him and to arrange a meeting with Reagan.

He said Nixon met with Duberstein on Thursday morning in addition to the later meeting with the president and first lady. He said he did not know what was discussed.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Leslye Arahi said the Nixon-Duberstein meeting was held outside the White House.

"It was a private meeting, and we won't have any further comment," she said.

Nixon was last at the White House for a meeting with the president early last year.

"The two presidents have had private visits on a number of occasions," Fitzwater said.

Nixon was at the White House in October 1981, along with former presidents Carter and Ford.

Rowan charged with illegal weapon possession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Syndicated columnist Carl T. Rowan, a longtime proponent of strict handgun control, has been charged with unauthorized possession of a weapon and ammunition after shooting a teenager who took an unauthorized dip in his backyard pool, court records show.

District of Columbia officials denied Friday that they tried to suppress public knowledge of the charges, even though they had told reporters no decision had been reached a day after the paperwork was filed on Wednesday.

Rowan, 62, allegedly used an unregistered pistol and bullets to shoot a trespasser in his backyard June 14. The youth suffered a wrist wound and was treated and released the same day.

Rowan is scheduled to appear in District of Columbia Superior Court Monday for arraignment on the misdemeanor possession charges, according to court records.

If convicted on both counts, the columnist would face a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

When contacted by a reporter in Reno, Nev., where he was scheduled to deliver a speech before the National Conference of State Legislatures, Rowan refused to discuss the legal developments.

"My lawyers are doing all the talking. I don't know all the details yet," Rowan said.

District of Columbia Corporation Counsel Frederick D. Cooke

Jr., the city's top attorney, contended that an administrative filing error left him and other top attorneys unaware that the charges had been filed.

"The agreement we reached with Mr. Rowan's attorney was to file charges next week, since he (Rowan) was out of town," said Cooke. "There was never any intent to deceive the press or the public about what was going on."

Rowan's attorney, Raoul L. Carroll, confirmed Cooke's account of the matter.

Newspaper chain claims no policy of pulling editorial cartoons of Meese

MIAMI (AP) — Knight-Ridder Inc. says it has no policy of pulling its editorial punches on Edwin Meese, even though two major Knight-Ridder newspapers have blocked editorial cartoons critical of the attorney general as he nears a decision crucial to the publishing company's bottom line.

Editors at the Detroit Free Press and The Miami Herald acknowledge that they decided against running some cartoons about Meese while he was considering a proposed agreement by which the Free Press and the Detroit News, a Gannett newspaper, would merge business functions while remaining editorially separate.

"But other Knight-Ridder editors across the country said they are not preoccupied with Meese's pending decision. In fact, one of the papers described Meese in an editorial as 'a boob.'"

The editors also said they have received no corporate directive on the issue.

"The partner in the Detroit deal, Gannett Co. Inc., said it has not tried to guide its papers on covering Meese. 'We have not, and do not, offer guidance to our papers on editorial matters.'"

Charles Overby, Gannett vice president for news, said Thursday.

Louis A. Weil III, publisher of Gannett's Detroit News, said the pending Meese decision has not affected his newspaper's editorial page content.

Larry Jinks, senior vice president for news and operations at Knight-Ridder's corporate headquarters in Miami, said Thursday that corporate interference in editorial coverage would be out of character for the newspaper group, winner of multiple Pulitzer prizes and owner of 30 daily newspapers in 16 states.

"I don't tell people what to put on their editorial pages," he said. "It's a fundamental article of faith that we don't dictate editor-al page policy from the corporate level.

Meese has agreed to decide, before he leaves office next month, the fate of an application from Knight-Ridder and Gannett to merge the business functions of the two Detroit newspapers.

Shuttle testing set back

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A critical launch pad test-firing of the space shuttle Discovery's main engines was delayed three more days Friday and it seemed almost certain the first post-Challenger shuttle flight would slip into October.

The postponement of the firing from Monday until Thursday, the third delay in a week, came while the launch team was pumping propellant into Discovery's huge external tank, the first time a shuttle had been fueled since Challenger exploded shortly after liftoff Jan. 28, 1986.

Once the liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen started to flow, engineers' worst fears were realized. Pumps, lines and sensors not used in 2 years began to fail.

Faulty sensors and a bulky oxygen pump were corrected, but a hydrogen line leak and a second bad oxygen pump could not be repaired quickly, and launch director Bob Sieck called off the countdown.

All the problems were associated with launch pad ground support equipment and were not on the shuttle itself.

The 20-second firing of the three main engines is to test several modifications made since Challenger and is considered crucial to certifying Discovery for flight.

With the latest delay, NASA must face the real possibility that the launch will be postponed until October.

The space agency listed early September as the launch target and has said it will not set a new date until engineers have assessed the results of Discovery's engine test.

The date has been officially changed five times since the original February target date was established.

Official documents available Thursday listed Sept. 13 as an internal target date for launch. But that was before the latest postponement and did not allow for time to repair a major problem plaguing Discovery: a small gas leak in a vent line for a steering engine system separate from the main engines.

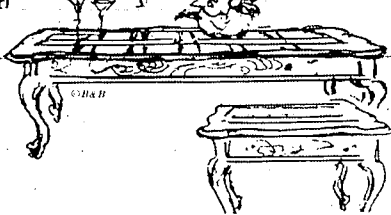

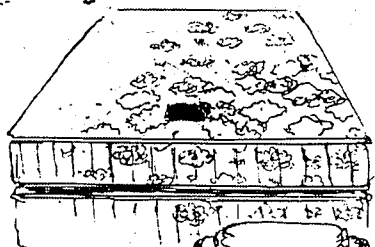

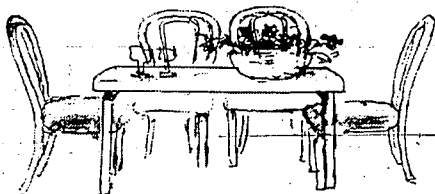

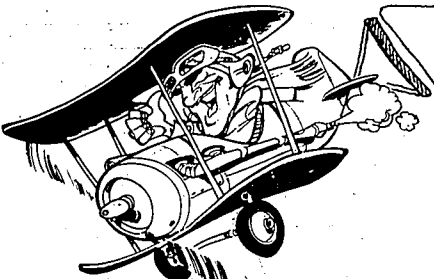

The problem with the leak is that it is inaccessible on the launch pad, but engineers discovered late Thursday that technicians cut a 20-square-inch hole in the rear bulkhead of Discovery's cargo bay. Once they cut through they would ensnare the leak in a clamshell device filled with a sealant.

Tree-sitters end protest over road

GALICE, Ore. (AP) — Two environmental protesters came down from their treetop perches into the waiting arms of sheriff's deputies Friday after professional climbers sealed a tree and cut loose one man's food and water.

The tree-sitters had gone out on a limb in an attempt to stop construction of a logging road and to prevent the taking of timber in the remote section of the Siskiyou National Forest. The forest is in Oregon's coastal mountains.

"It's inevitable," a protester who identified himself as Bald Mountain Bill said after he rappelled down a rope from his perch 80 feet up a charred Douglas fir. "Obviously, they're not going to let us stop a $1 million road."

He and the deputies traded good-natured jibes during the 90 minutes between their arrival and the arrests.

An unidentified woman also came down from her plywood perch lashed to a trunk after watching two tree climbers who perform at timber carnivals scale the other protester's tree and cut loose the platform holding his food and water.

Deputies arrested a third person on a ridge overlooking site. All three were charged with trespassing.

The environmental group Earth First! is fighting U.S. Forest Service plans to extend a gravel road nearly a mile to allow salvage logging. The area was burned last summer in Oregon's biggest forest fire in 50 years, a 96,500-acre blaze.

The timber industry contends the dead trees will otherwise go to waste. Opponents argue that building roads and logging will promote erosion that will damage salmon and steelhead spawning beds in Illinois River tributaries. Earlier this month, the National Wildlife Federation failed in a bid to get a court order stopping the road and the logging.

Jerome County considers tightening zoning

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

JEROME — After controversy and legal wrangling over a new dairy locating in the county, Jerome County commissioners are thinking about making the zoning ordinances more comprehensive.

The proposed changes would do away with public hearings and special use permits for new dairies.

The moves follow a battle over a special use permit application issued to the Kenneth Vanderham dairy west and south of Jerome.

In May 1987 a spillover crowd of neighbors angry about the possibility of flies and odor from the dairy attended a public hearing on the special use permit.

Then, when the matter came before the County Planning and Zoning Commission again this spring, Vanderham supporters outnumbered detractors.

"The Vanderham case is what brought out the inadequacy of the present ordinances," said Jim Jurgens, Jerome County planning and zoning director, who wrote the proposed ordinances.

Jerome County may see more dairies moving in as California dairies get crowded out by residential developments, says Jurgens. Last year five new dairies moved into the county, bringing the total to 75.

Before commissioners are amendments to the 1985 zoning ordinances detailing what a dairy needs to do before locating in the county.

One of the new provisions calls for a 1,200 foot buffer between "intense animal concentrations" and residences downwind. Residences upwind could be as close as 330 feet. Direction and speed of prevailing winds will be taken into account in establishing the buffer zone.

The buffer is intended to put distance between residences and corrals, barns, calf pens, sump pits, lagoons for waste runoff and algae storage areas.

Under the present ordinances, all commissioners have to base their decision on is an ordinance saying a dairy must be at least 1,000 feet from a residence, says Jurgens.

If commissioners agree with the amendments, they will be published in a local newspaper. And the public will have a chance to comment on the ordinances at two hearings.

Should the ordinances be accepted, there would be no public hearing requirements for new dairies, Jurgens says.

The changes would not affect existing dairies, he says.

Meanwhile, the Vanderham dairy case that started the dispute is still tied up in front of the commissioners and probably will end up in court.

When county commissioners ruled in favor of the Vanderham special use permit, the neighbors went to 6th District Court and sued commissioners.

Commissioners await a court ruling on the validity of a county zoning ordinance saying a dairy must be at least 1,000 feet from a neighboring residence.

A dairymen and a woman who is suing to keep Vanderham out both said they liked the idea of more comprehensive ordinances.

"They should have some definite rules," said Ruth Berg, a Vanderham neighbor.

She said she supports the amended ordinances but adds that whatever commissioners adopt, they need to follow the rules.

In the past, the county commission ignored what the planning and zoning commission recommended, she said.

Jack Tolman, who milks 400 cows south and east of Jerome, said he didn't think adding 200 feet to distance between dairies and residences would make a bit of difference. Tolman said, "1,000 feet is plenty."

Tolman supports the limits on the number of cows allowed per acre. "I know one fellow who has 150 head on one acre," he said.

They need to have guidelines, he said. "Since I moved here in 1968, I have seen houses built next to dairies and vice versa," Tolman said.

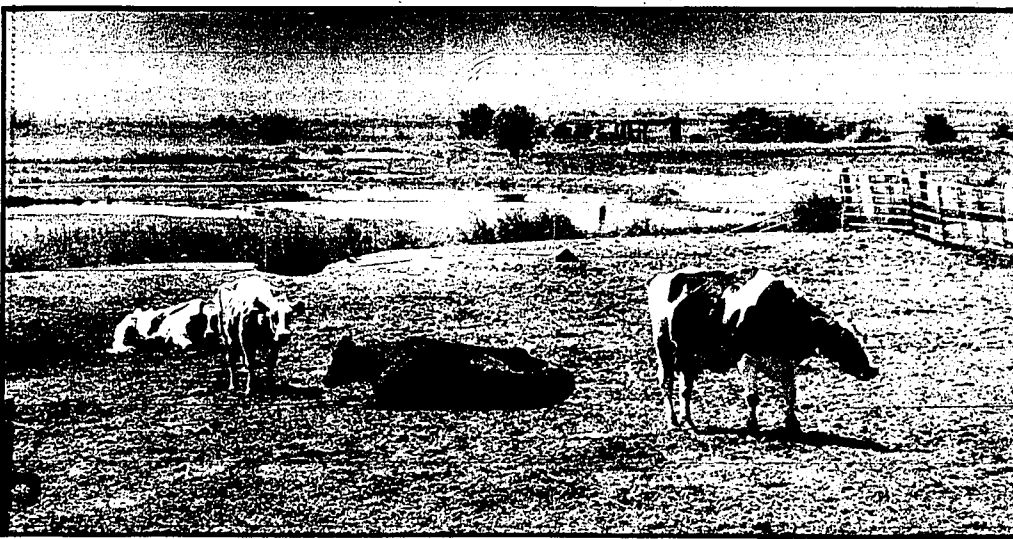

The proposed ordinances also require that dairies be at least 80 acres. Another section limits the number of animals allowed per acre. Limits vary according to the age of the animal.

The proposed ordinance would also require the applicant to submit dairy plans including the location of all neighboring buildings within 1,000 feet of the dairy boundary.

Commissioners have to make an objective decision when there isn't objective evidence presented, Jurgens says.

Jurgens says when an application for a special use permit goes to a public hearing, what happens is a flip of a coin.

Since the late 1970s, when dairy construction in Jerome County began in earnest, there have been changes in zoning ordinances, challenges and complaints about enforcement of anti-pollution laws.

Waste water ponds stretch out behind cows on John Reitsma's dairy. Neighbor Eric Hettinga says lagoon is too close to his house.

County mulls waste lagoon disagreement

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

JEROME — Jerome County is mulling what to do about a waste lagoon dispute pitting dairymen against dairymen.

Eric Hettinga says his neighbor John Reitsma built a lagoon too close to his house. Both dairymen operate near Interstate 84 in Jerome County.

Hettinga says Reitsma's lagoon, several hundred feet from Hettinga's house, breeds mosquitoes and flies and he is worried about the lagoon threatening his well water. Reitsma completed his lagoon last April.

The federal and state government require some Idaho dairymen to build lagoons to contain animal waste that runs off when cows are washed before milking or when it rains.

"His (Hettinga's) biggest complaint is looking at the pond. I found a natural hole and he's jealous," Reitsma says.

Reitsma says construction of the 310-by-170 foot lagoon cost him $1,000.

Hettinga has to build a new lagoon at a cost of $60,000 after authorities told him his existing lagoon is 10 times too small to handle the waste produced.

Planning and Zoning Chairman Jim Jurgens inspected Reitsma's lagoon but he hasn't come to a conclusion.

McClure adds 'irrigators' amendment' to relief bill

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The federal drought-relief measure approved by Congress on Thursday included an "irrigators' amendment" from Sen. James McClure.

"Two weeks ago I said this was a good piece of legislation," said the Payette Republican. "With the addition of this amendment and other changes, it's even better."

The Senate passed the bill unanimously and it awaits President Ronald Reagan's signature. The measure approves disaster payments to farmers depending on the severity of their crop loss.

McClure's amendment provides money for irrigation farmers to extend existing wells or drill temporary wells to bring water to their crops. Also, the amendment allows construction of temporary irrigation delivery systems.

"I think it's much better to spend a little on temporary irrigation measures than a lot on drought disaster payments," McClure said.

As estimated 3.6 million acres of Idaho's 6.2 million farmland acres are irrigated.

The bill received the Idaho congressional delegation's support, despite uncertainty over how much area farmers will benefit from it.

Republican Sen. Steve Symms did not expect many Idaho farmers to be eligible for disaster relief because of widespread reliance on irrigation farming less affected by the drought. He expected benefits to extend only to farmers stricken in the southeast portion of the state.

Farmers suffering less than 35-percent crop loss qualify to keep their entire 1988 deficiency payment, according to McClure's office. Those suffering between 35- and 75-percent crop losses will receive 65 percent of the target price for program crops or market price for non-program crops. And farmers losing more than 75 percent of their crops will be paid 85 percent of either the target or market price, depending on the crop.

"This ensures that producers of all crops, such as cherries, sugar beets, potatoes, hops, rapeseed, lentils, dry beans and other horticultural crops are included in the assistance program," McClure said.

Symms had listed soybeans, in particular, as a crop where the damage was still uncertain and said he was still bullish on Idaho's potato crop weathering the drought well.

City OKs change in sign law

By ADRIENNE TOOMEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — An ordinance relaxing restrictions on electronic message centers was given the go-ahead by the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission on Tuesday.

The zoning recommendation comes as good news to Magic Valley Mall operators, who hope to install a message center along Blue Lakes Boulevard.

"This would be an improvement not only for us, but for any sign owners," said Don Chandler, Magic Valley Mall manager. "It would make things more feasible."

The mall's message center "will be another means of advertising," said Chandler. "It will also be used for community messages."

Currently, the city code restricts message centers to 25 percent of the total sign or a maximum of 60 square feet. The zoning commission is recommending that this limit be expanded to 75 square feet for businesses with street frontage of at least 400 feet. In addition, the new ordinance will not measure the electronic portion in terms of the overall sign.

The current city code "forces you to make a big sign to make the electronic portion legible," said Chandler. "We don't want a huge massive sign."

The mall's sign would measure approximately 116 square feet, according to Rex Lytle, whose company, Lytle Signs, is making the sign. The electronic display, which flashes moving messages, will measure approximately 116 square feet.

Full moon presides over criminal activity

By KEN ARMSTRONG
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The full moon bridging Thursday and Friday kept watch over two Twin Falls robberies and a convenience-store burglary.

However, the collective spoils taken from the three peculiar crimes amounted to two bottles of cheap wine and an old truck that was returned to its owner a few hours later.

Garry Corder, commander with the Twin Falls Department of Public Safety, said Friday that no arrests have been made in connection with the incidents, all of which remain under investigation.

The first of the bunch began around 10:30 p.m. Thursday when Brent Richardson was reportedly removed from his pickup truck at knifepoint, then beaten with clubs by three men who left in his truck. Richardson, 25, walked from the area on Second Avenue East to the police station to report the crime.

Police reports state Richardson had cuts on his wrist and face, several lumps on his head, and cuts and bruises on his body. He was taken by ambulance to the hospital, and a bulletin was issued on Richardson's truck.

About two hours later, at 12:46 a.m., a police officer saw the truck, a red, 1968 International Scout with no top or doors, going through the intersection of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue East. The officer stopped the truck, but, instead of finding three robbers, discovered Richardson behind the wheel.

According to police reports, Richardson told the officer that he had found the truck a few yards away from where he was staying at the Cactus Inn on Kimberly Road.

The other two incidents occurred at convenience stores during Friday's wee hours. Police believe both crimes were committed by the same man, described to be in his early 20s with straight, shoulder-length hair.

He was wearing a black tank top and gray shorts.

Around 1:10 a.m., the man walked into Circle K Food Store on Addison Avenue East and asked if he could still buy liquor, according to police reports. Toni Horvath, a store clerk, told him no because it was after legal hours.

Horvath, 20, told police that the

Jordan: Success comes with work

By KATHY McCORMACK
Special to The Times-News

AMOS A. JORDAN JR.
Enthusiasm key to success

BURLEY — Work hard, expand your horizons, get along with others — and do it all with enthusiasm.

That's Amos A. Jordan Jr.'s formula for success.

He should know. Jordan grew up in Heyburn and attended Idaho State College and the University of Idaho. Now he's vice chairman of the board of trustees of the Center for Strategic and International Studies, a Washington-based, non-profit foreign policy research group.

Jordan came home Friday to give the keynote address at the Snake River Symposium on Success. Five other one-time residents of the Mini-Cassia area, who achieved recognition in business, medicine, education or labor, also were on the program sponsored by the Burley Area Chamber of Commerce.

"The central principle of success — is that people count — to listen, to recognize the needs of others the legitimacy of their concerns, to share with them," Jordan said. "And if people are enthusiastic about their commitments, they will motivate others, he said.

Successful people are hard workers who can organize their lives, targeting their problems as well as goals, he said.

The successful person also develops his way to the top. He emphasized that his teachers taught him the importance of the English language and good communication skills.

Jack Simplot, the man behind J.R. Simplot Co., reminisced about his life from the time he left his Declo home at 14 to today when the Simplot name is stamped on chemical fertilizers, semi-conductor chips and, particularly, processed potatoes throughout the world.

"Our technology today is awesome," Simplot said. "We've taken the burden pretty well off the hard labor" that went into his potato business. But, "I think we're just getting started," he said.

One panelist, Richard Gibb of the University of Idaho, said that a person should engage in "a certain amount of risk-taking" to achieve success, and develop incentives to do a little gambling in life.

Gibb, a last-minute replacement for a speaker who cancelled, was the only panelist without Mini-Cassia roots.

Other panelists were J.E. Davis, co-founder of Winn-Dixie supermarkets across the Sunbelt; Kay McMurray, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service; R.K. Hemingway, chairman of Idaho Bank and Trust; and Charles A. Terhune, a retired local doctor now from Sun City, Ariz.

Columnists pummel Bush in conference debate

NIC receives accreditation

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Accreditation has been renewed for another three years for North Idaho College by the Northwest Association of Accredited Schools and Colleges.

President Bob Bennett said there was concern about the adequacy of the library but the accreditation team was satisfied the administration was attempting to deal with the shortage of space and books.

State lawmakers approved $100,000 last winter for preliminary work on a new library building for the junior college in Coeur d'Alene. The overall project calls for $500,000 in state funds with the remaining $2 million coming from other sources.

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Political columnists Carl Rowan and Robert Novak took turns pummeling the George Bush campaign Friday in a debate before the nation's state legislators, portraying the vice president as the underdog presidential candidate.

While the liberal Rowan said Bush is "too preppy" and lacks the sense of humor President Reagan uses to deflect policy attacks, the conservative Novak said the vice president's main problem is "he's never expressed an opinion."

"What we've got is the head of the seven dwarfs. 17 points behind the king of the resumes," Novak began, referring to a recent poll showing Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis ahead of Bush. "Just a few months ago, people thought a Republican couldn't lose. ... They miscalculated. Dukakis is one smart political horse."

"He has learned not to say the secret word... taxes. I guarantee he's going to raise taxes and big. But he's not going to say it."

On the other hand, Bush suffers from the "Republican disease" — not standing for anything, Novak told a brunch that concluded the annual National Conference of State Legislators.

"Democrats win when Republicans don't stand for anything," Novak said. "I think you have a situation where Dukakis is smart enough to where he doesn't talk about the issues and Bush is dumb enough to where he doesn't either," he added, drawing waves of laughter from some 500 state lawmakers.

Novak said Bush should stop trying to use the Democratic "playbook," concentrating on education, environment and minority and women's issues. Instead, he should continue with the Reagan doctrine supporting freedom fighters, strong defense and less government interference, he said.

"Unless this is done we're going to be facing baklava at the White House," Novak said.

Rowan told the lawmakers he hasn't been "steamed up" about Dukakis or Bush and was surprised they wrapped up their parties' nominations so quickly.

But he said that Dukakis' best assets are that he hasn't made any big mistakes and that the American people are tired of the Defense Department, Justice Department and arms-for-hostages scandals of the Reagan administration.

"People are looking for something better," Rowan said. "That's why Dukakis will be the next president."

Unlike Reagan, the so-called "Teflon President," Bush does not have the sense of humor necessary to deflect criticism, he added.

Buhl school board announces new superintendent, principal

By DON PUDEP
 Times-News correspondent

BUHL — The school system here has a new superintendent and high school principal and local voters will have a three-year $75,000 levy to vote on, possibly this fall.

Eugene Pyles is the new superintendent, the school board announced last week. Pyles arrives from Adna, Wash., where he was superintendent of schools. He graduated from Vancouver High School, Vancouver, Wash., and received his bachelor's and master's degrees, both in history, from the University of Washington.

He will be in town, permanently, Monday.

Pyles earned his administrative credential in 1974 at UW. Pyles has been active in Lions Club, Eagles Lodge and as a volunteer fireman and Eagles Lodge.

The new principal is Jack Crippen, for the past two years principal of Independence High School in Elko, Nev. Crippen graduated from Rapid City High School in South Dakota and received his bachelor's degree from Northern State College in Aberdeen, S.D., and his master's from the University of South Dakota.

His major subjects were speech and drama; and his minor was physical education. In 1987, Crippen received an educational specialist degree in administration and speech and has coached football and track.

Boardmember Leonard Crismer said the board is excited about the two administrators. "I feel confident that they're the kind of people Buhl needs," Crismer said.

They replace former Superintendent Gus Spiropoulos, who resigned to become superintendent at St. Helena, Ore., and former Principal Jim Kantola, who is now the superintendent at Midvale, north of Payette.

In other action, the board decided to ask for a three-year $225,000 levy that would provide $75,000 a year to the school district over the next three years.

Crismer said the board will wait for new Superintendent Pyles to arrive before it sets a date for the vote, although he said he'd like the vote to be sometime before next year.

Boardmember Armand Eckert said the money would be partly used to build up the district's emergency fund. The fund has been low the past few years as the district has been paying off large debts accumulated years ago.

Eckert said the fund should comprise about 10 percent of the budget. "We're not at that figure but should strive for it," he said.

Part of the money would be used for a five-year capital improvement plan totalling more than $400,000 that the board tentatively approved.

Tentative plans include:

- Adding a room for the vocational-agriculture program, $54,000; expanding the wood shop, $10,400; and paving and landscaping the elementary school playground, $18,750 — all for 1989.
- Building an entryway onto the middle school gym, $8,750; repair the gym ceiling — $13,100; or replace it, $36,000 — all for 1990.
- Replace the middle school gym floor, $45,000; and upgrade the middle school heating system, $50,000 — all for 1991.
- Consider an additional wing at the elementary school or the high school, $216,000 — for 1992.

In other action:

- Jim Winkle took a seat for his three-year term as the new board member. He replaces Barbara Weaver, who he defeated in the May election.
- Grant Atkinson was re-elected as board chairman for the new school year. Leonard Crismer was elected vice chairman. Armand Eckert was elected clerk and Audrey Sisson was re-appointed as board treasurer.
- The board granted a request by parents for James and Linda Schroeder to attend Buhl High School. The Schroeders are located in the Castleford District.

County sets new ordinance on keg permits

POCATELLO (AP) — The Bannock County Commission has adopted an ordinance requiring people who want to drink keg beer on county land to buy a keg permit and where and when they plan to do their drinking.

Beginning Aug. 12, the $1-per-keg permits will be available at the sheriff's office, Undersheriff Bill Lynn said Friday.

He said Bannock County Commissioner Val Arvas said safety concerns prompted establishment of the keg fee.

"We feel that this will put a stop to some of the underage drinking and driving that kids are doing in the county," Ms. Arvas said. "We feel it's a protection for the young people. In this county, the places where they have kegers are difficult (enough) to get when you're sober."

Lynn said people responsible for kegs must provide their name, address and phone number as well as the time and location where the keg will be tapped.

People buying a permit will receive reflective stickers to attach to kegs. Sheriff's officers finding kegs without the stickers will confiscate the beer, and the person responsible could get up to 30 days in jail and a $300 fine.

He said officers would continue regular patrols in remote areas of the county where teen drinking parties have taken place in the past.

Bonneville County receives state grant

BOISE (AP) — A $150,000 Idaho Community Development Block Grant has been awarded to Bonneville County to buy and renovate three commercial buildings as a home for the Bonneville County-Idaho Innovation Center.

The Innovation Center is a small-business incubator designed to assist new business start-ups, particularly those developing commercial products based on research from the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

The facility will be working with the INEL office of research and technological applications.

"We have tremendous economic development possibilities as a result of the scientific and engineering expertise at INEL," Gov. Cecil Andrus said Friday in a news release. "This new center should help us capitalize on the potential, allowing Idahoans to develop new products and services — and new jobs — in the backyard of the state's premier scientific facility."

Bonneville County, the city of Idaho Falls and the East Central Idaho Planning and Development Association have pledged a total of $535,000 to the project. The federal Economic Development Administration also is considering an application for $735,000 in matching funds.

Prosecutors charge man on 8 counts

TWIN FALLS — Prosecutors on Friday formally charged Wade Woodland with eight felony counts in connection with the string of Willows Subdivision burglaries.

Magistrate R. Michael Redman tagged a $5,000 bail requirement for each charge, meaning Woodland will have to post $40,000 to get out of jail.

Woodland, 20, was charged with five counts of second-degree burglary and three counts of first-degree burglary. Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Ellen Baxter said authorities must prove that a burglary occurred after the sun went down in order to get a first-degree conviction.

"Since several of those people weren't home for several days, we can't prove that it happened at night and so had to charge second degree," she said.

Woodland is accused of stealing a hodgepodge of items from homes in the Willows Subdivision, an exclusive housing area northeast of Twin Falls. The burglaries occurred between June 27 and July 3, according to court records.

Twin Falls sheriff's deputies arrested Woodland Thursday and returned the stolen property in Woodland's filer home and in a storage unit he was renting.

man then asked her what she would do if he tried to kill her. She answered that she would call police. The man went to a cooler and got a burrito.

As he was paying for the burrito, the man asked Horvath if she had a gun. She handed him his change, then backed up to a telephone.

"I could kill you," the man said, according to reports. "Go ahead, call the police. I'm taking what I want."

What he wanted, apparently, was a bottle of blush chablis, priced at $4.79. He took the bottle and left the store.

Police are so far treating the incident as a robbery.

"If you go in and threaten someone and scare them to the point that they don't do anything to stop you, then that can be a robbery," Corder said.

An hour later at 2:10 a.m., the man went into the Seven-11 on Flier Avenue and asked one of the clerks why he always had a frown on his face. The clerk, Larry Tanner, replied that he had just gotten out of bed and come to work, according to reports.

The man then picked up a bottle of Rhine wine, priced at $4.99. When clerks told him he couldn't buy the wine because it was after hours, he reportedly replied, "Do you want to make a bet?"

He darted out of the store with the wine. As he was running away with clerks in pursuit, the man reportedly yelled back that he was sorry.

Police for now are treating the Seven-11 incident as a first-degree burglary.

Heyburn approves hoedown funds

By DONNA SCHORZMAN
 Times-News correspondent

HEYBURN — The City Council Wednesday approved $1,200 to help pay for entertainment, food and prizes at the Heyburn Hoedown.

The Hoedown is set for Aug. 13 in Ghlawn Park. Councilman Nile Bohannon is heading up the second annual event. Events include fair balloon rides (weather permitting), coed softball, horse and cart rides and a pig roast.

Folk musician Rosali Sorrels will headline the musical talent. She has played with such musicians as David Bromberg, Fry Cooder, The Greatful Dead and Country Joe MacDonald.

Old-time fiddlers will also perform.

In other action, the council tabled discussion on the employee's handbook and the budget because Councilman John Ellertz was absent from the meeting. The council tentatively set Aug. 10 to approve next year's budget.

After some discussion, the council endorsed the Craters of the Moon site for consideration as a national park and encouraged law officers to enforce the weed control ordinance in the city. Councilmembers said they like the idea of Craters being made a national park but questioned how useful it would be to local residents who can't walk to many of the monument's attractions.

The Park Service is considering naming the site a national park and visited the location two weeks ago.

imately 70 square feet.

The proposed ordinance would allow colleges and secondary schools to erect message centers measuring 50 square feet.

The Twin Falls High School Booster Club has already made plans to purchase a message center and is awaiting ordinance approval.

"We recognize the need for the community to be aware of the activities which go on at the high school," said Jack Hayes, last year's Booster Club president.

Twin Falls Bank and Trust agreed to fund the majority of the high school message center. "The money is cleared," said Hayes. "It's been cleared by the school administration. ... We could have it up by the time school starts."

If approved by the Twin Falls City Council on Aug. 15, the ordinance will become part of the city code. However, each message center will still have to obtain a special use permit.

The zoning commission recommendation came after a series of meetings over several months. "This turned out to be more complicated because the Planning and Zoning Commission wasn't unanimous in what was put together," said City Engineer Gary Young. "There were certain issues that had to be wrangled out through amendments."

One of these amendments prohibits churches from erecting electronic message centers. "Churches often reside in residential property, and we didn't think there should be restrictive signing there," said Young.

that failure to comply could bring a $25,000 fine for each violation.

Reitsma sent in his notice of intent to comply with the discharge rules, the late says. Reitsma had one wastewater discharge into an irrigation lagoon in 1988, the state says.

Last year in the Magic Valley some 600 EPA letters explaining the permit system brought only 16 replies from dairy and feedlot operators. The government was looking for notices of intent to comply with the rules.

Dairy farmers have long resisted the permit system, but this year the state and EPA have been stepping up inspections, leaving the dairy farmers with little choice but to comply.

The rules apply to operations that stable, confine or feed more than 300 slaughter and feeder cattle or 200 mature dairy cattle.

clueless yet about whether it meets county zoning requirements. The county says a lagoon can be no closer than 300 feet from the property line.

"We need to address it," Jergens says.

The 300-foot rule is a recommendation that has to be tested legally, says Rich Morrison, of the state Division of Environmental Quality. The state isn't treating the rule as regulatory, he says.

Reitsma's lagoon met the state's requirements and was approved, Morrison says.

Reitsma says he is unaware of a county zoning regulation on the placement of lagoons.

Reitsma complied with pollution rules in a timely manner while Hettinga did not, says Morrison.

The state made two inspections of Hettinga's dairy last winter and found several violations including discharging wastes into an irrigation later of the North Side Canal. The wastes end up in the Snake River.

After the second inspection, the state gave Hettinga a two week deadline for fixing the problem and applying for a permit. Nearly two months later the state had not received a reply.

Last April the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency warned Hettinga that failure to comply could bring a $25,000 fine for each violation.

Reitsma sent in his notice of intent to comply with the discharge rules, the late says. Reitsma had one wastewater discharge into an irrigation lagoon in 1988, the state says.

Dual congregation celebrates 13 years

By JOAN BEAN
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Every Sunday morning the congregations of the Valley Christian and Our Savior Lutheran churches pass in the hallway, as one's worship service ends and the other's begins.

But on the first Sunday in August the two congregations will worship together to celebrate 13 years of joint ownership of their church building.

An 8:30 a.m. breakfast followed by a 10 a.m. outdoor worship service is planned to "celebrate our life together, and sharing the facility, and our common faith as Christians," says the Rev. Fred Westerhold.

Not only is the church building shared, but the two congregations share the expense of equipment, custodial care and a full-time secretary.

The pastor of the Rev. John R. Dewey of Valley Christian, who has just accepted a job in California, and Westerhold of Our Savior Lutheran, agree this has worked out very well.

"It's a large facility that both of the churches are able to maintain that probably neither church could do on their own," Dewey says.

The arrangement between the churches began 13 years ago when Our Savior Lutheran offered to buy half the property owned by Valley Christian.

At that time, Valley Christian had the property and the education building, but had had to use the social hall for a sanctuary. Our Savior Lutheran Church had outgrown its building on the other side of town.

After the proposal was accepted, and the purchase made, the Lutherans built a sanctuary on the existing education building, and the Valley Christian Church added to the unit and built a wing that attaches to the new sanctuary.

When there is a need to modify anything, there must first be agreement between Valley Christian's board and Our Savior Lutheran's council, through a co-op board. This board meets to discuss the use and maintenance of the church building, and any proposals go back to the individual board and council. Once the agreement is made, and it goes back to the co-op for finalization.

"Sometimes it can be a pain," Westerhold says, "but it's the only way to fly for this kind of thing. Otherwise, one group could have some really big dreams, and the other can't keep up. It's a way to have a check and balance on it."

Everything runs smoothly on Sunday morning for the two congregations. At 9:30 a.m., the two groups pass each other in the hall, as they change places.

"The memberships of the two churches do not cross over, however. That's one of the things we've kind of squeaked right from the beginning," Dewey says.

"The pastors do not encourage this — in fact we discourage it. Otherwise we'd just have confusion."

On occasion, Westerhold says, someone will worship in the church he does not belong to, but as far as, if one of my parishioners got upset with me and if I were to allow anyone, I want to join your congregation, we'd discourage that.

Members of the group come from many different parts of the United States and Canada, chosen from nationwide auditions.

They are responsible for raising one-third of their travel expenses. The remainder of travel costs is raised by free-will offerings, record sales, and partners of the ministry.

The Celebrant Singers founder and director, Jon Stankoski, has conducted services in all 50 states, Canada, the Caribbean, Guatemala and El Salvador, Iran, Egypt, India, Hong Kong, Sri Lanka, and parts of Europe, including the Iron Curtain countries of East Germany, Yugoslavia, and Poland. He spent several years singing with and directing the Continental Singers and served as Administrator of Campus Musical Resources at Oral Roberts University.

The Celebrant Singers are the first full-time Christian singers to have a widespread ministry among America's nearly 50 million Roman Catholics. Since 1977, they have provided liturgical music concerts Catholic churches throughout the world.

The Celebrant Singers have recorded four albums. Their most recent, "Gloria, Him Fruits Vol. III," has won national acclaim.

Ousted bishop bitter

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Dissident Bishop Richard Williamson, excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church in the church's first split in 118 years, says Pope John Paul II is wrecking his own job.

"He is like a soft drink seller praying for cold weather," Williamson says. "He's going to put himself out of business."

Williamson, 48, was ousted from the church at the end of June after he and three others were consecrated by Rebel Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre in a ceremony in Switzerland. Pope John Paul II promptly excommunicated him and the four new bishops, provoking the first major schism in the Roman Catholicism since 1870. Also ousted was Brazilian Bishop Antonio de Castro who took part in the ceremonies.

RICHARD WILLIAMSON Excommunicated by church. Williamson predicted the 'official church' in 10 years will almost have disappeared.

DIME NOVELS

Earliest of the dime novels didn't cost a dime and weren't novels. They cost a nickel and were called biographies. Was about when everybody realized they were 90-percent phony that the price went up.

Another of the simplest ways to diet off-weight, it's said, is eat-un-an-half an hour before every meal.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today is unusually good for extending your interests and activities beyond their present scope, so be up and at 'em early for best results. Don't take chances concerning your finances.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Get in touch with close friends concerning mutual pleasures and other activities. Don't commit yourself to important practical affairs.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): It's a good day to handle civic matters, but not so good for heavy business dealings. Be wise and plan for future benefits.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't keep concentrating on something you can do little about. Become very active and accomplish a great deal.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Steer clear of an acrimonious individual who wants to spoil an idealistic concept you have. Keep busy at keeping promises.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): A fascinating individual in the world at large can show you how to gain greater prestige. The evening is fine for requesting favors.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Get better results from your daily activities by adding something special to them. Seek pleasures out on the town tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Contact pals you want to have fun with. Keep appointments which you have made. Don't overspend on recreational outings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Get the okay of family and friends to do something important. Avoid an associate who wants to pick a fight with you or anyone else.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You can write those letters that others will appreciate in the morning. Then enjoy some hobby with a good friend in the afternoon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If you study your monetary status early, you can get the exact picture of it and know where you stand. Try to cut down on expenses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Handle intimate activities in the morning in a positive way. Don't upset anyone at home. Take your mate out for entertainment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): You get an inspired idea in the morning, so do something about it. Then spend the evening quietly and happily at home.

If Your Child Is Born Today: He or she will have many fine ideas for making a big success in life, and especially in an executive position which requires the ability to think big. Teach your progeny to be concerned not so much with money, but with helping others. There will be much originality in this child.

Crystal Gayle returns to Indiana home to visit family, friends

WABASH, Ind. (AP) — All eyes in town are turned on country singer Crystal Gayle, who returned home this week for the first time in nearly a decade.

Miss Gayle, 37, known for the hit "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue," will be grand marshal of the annual Canal Days Parade on Saturday before playing two benefit concerts.

Gayle, who lives in Nashville, Tenn., arrived midweek to visit family and friends. "I'm planning on visiting some of the old hang-outs and maybe reliving my childhood a little," she said.

Gayle, youngest of eight children, including singer Loretta Lynn, released the first of several hit albums in 1974, including "Talking in Your Sleep."

Dame Sutherland set to sing in symphony

NEW YORK (AP) — Dame Joan Sutherland, Australian col-oratura, will sing with the Sydney Symphony during its first American tour.

The Oct. 16 through Nov. 6 tour celebrates Australia's bicentennial. It includes young Australian mezzo-soprano Elizabeth Campbell, who will sing at six concerts. Sutherland will perform at three.

Soviet-born pianist Shura Cherkassky will play at three concerts. Richard Bonyngue will conduct for his wife, Sutherland, and artistic director Stuart Chalender will conduct the others. Each concert will contain a work by an Australian composer, either Carl Vine's "Symphony No. 2," Malcolm Williamson's "The Display" or Peter Sculthorpe's "Mangrove."

White Sox scandal film to premiere in August

CINCINNATI (AP) — A movie starring Christopher Lloyd and Charlie Sheen about the 1919 scandal in which Chicago White Sox players allegedly threw the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds premieres Aug. 24.

Parts of the movie were filmed in Cincinnati.

Yves Montand hopes birth will grow on him

NICE, France. (AP) — Sixty-two-year-old Yves Montand hopes the birth of his baby will make him feel young enough to get excited about it.

"One does not welcome paternally at my age as one would at 30," Montand said. "But I believe the moment of truth will be at the birth. Perhaps I will wake up suddenly and find myself in the skin of a young and completely doting father."

Montand told the daily Nice Matin that Carole Amiel, 28, is expecting his child in November or December.

"To be frank, I had not considered raising a baby now," he said. "Carole made a choice that was not mine, but it is incumbent on me to respect a decision that is profoundly respectable."

Montand, who was married for nearly 40 years to actress Simone Signoret, said the couple had been disappointed at their inability to have a child. Signoret had a daughter from a previous marriage, and Montand adopted four.

Prime minister defends raising officials' pay

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Prime Minister Anibal Cavaco Silva says he doesn't mind earning about the same money as the chiefs of most other European premiers.

But he's not sure university rectors and the directors of public companies should earn more.

Cavaco Silva was defending salary increases of 12 percent to 36 percent for deputies, ministers and other elected officials recently approved in parliament by his Social Democracy Party.

Other state employees in Portugal have had to remain content with wage increases of 6.5 percent this year.

The prime minister said Friday that Portuguese government officials earned far less than their counterparts in the rest of Europe, comparing his salary to that of other premiers' chauffeurs.

Texas Rangers to add 1st black to elite ranks

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The ranks of the elite Texas Rangers will be joined in September by a lawman believed to be the first black to serve in the 165-year-old peacekeeping force, the Department of Public Safety says.

"I feel pretty good. It's been an ambition of mine for many years," said Lee Roy Young Jr., 41, a 14-year DPS veteran who currently is an investigator assigned to the criminal intelligence service in San Antonio.

DPS officers, also known as state troopers, have duties similar to state police or highway patrol in other states.

The Rangers, also within the DPS, are an elite force assigned to major crimes such as hostage-takings or long-standing murder investigations. They also are called on by authorities in small towns and less populated counties for help with homicides.

Rangers have a good reputation and are highly trained, DPS spokesman David Wells said Thursday. But the DPS has been dogged by charges of racial discrimination in recent years. There are five Hispanic Rangers and no women Rangers, Wells said. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has threatened to sue.

Michael Scott, a black state trooper from Houston, last year publicly voiced disappointment when he wasn't selected for the Rangers.

"I'm happy for Mr. Young. This is a step in right direction for him and his career. I'm disappointed for Michael Scott, because he really is the person who brought all this to bear," said Gary Bledsoe, president of the Austin NAACP branch. Young and three white DPS officers will join the 94-man Rangers unit in August.

British actress allowed to appear on Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — British actress Margaret Tzack, best known to American audiences as the evil Cousin Betty on public television's "Masterpiece Theater," will be allowed to appear with Maggie Smith in "Lettice and Lovage," when it arrives on Broadway in January.

Actors Equity, the American actors union, has agreed to let Miss Tzack perform in New York, recognizing the role she plays in the London production of Peter Shaffer's play. In the hit comedy, Miss Smith is an eccentric English tour guide and Miss Tzack is her employer.

Equity usually grants permission only for stars of international caliber to work in New York, saying other roles should be filled by Americans. Miss Smith reportedly would not consider an American engagement unless Miss Tzack also appeared in the Broadway version, which will be directed by Michael Blakemore.

Nicaraguans tell of living in fear

CASA-DE-TABLA, Nicaragua (AP) — The peasant woman crouched in the lamplight and whispered bitter tales of sheltering her sons from Sandinista army recruiters and heeding the demands of the anti-government rebels.

She said she wants to survive in this remote southern mountain village, where soldiers from both camps in Nicaragua's six-year civil war pass through the steep paths, leaving their mark upon the lives of the peasants.

"We try to avoid both, even though the Contras in these parts don't recruit by force, but the Sandinistas do," she said.

The woman, her relatives and neighbors spoke over the course of two days to a reporter visiting this rugged village, 185 miles southeast of Managua. Casa de Tabla is accessible only by foot or horse along steep hills and narrow paths knee-high in mud most of the year.

They told their stories on the condition their names not be used for fear of revenge by the leftist Sandinistas or the rebels, known as Contras.

The Soviet-supplied Sandinista troops and the U.S.-supported rebels agreed to suspend military operations four months ago. Residents say the recruitment continues and the fighting has grown less frequent but has not stopped.

The poor peasants in Casa de Tabla, like many others in isolated battle zones, express their helplessness at being caught between two armies. Their allegiance lies with the latest group trudging through carrying guns.

The residents of the village said they don't sympathize with either side. They just want to be left alone.

U.N. Security Council condemns kidnapping

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council on Friday unanimously condemned the kidnapping of U.S. Marine Lt. Col. William R. Higgins, a U.N. military observer in Lebanon, but did not mention his pro-Iranian abductors.

Earlier Friday, Higgins' wife, Marine Maj. Robin Higgins, met with Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar. "I am making a constant effort to obtain his release," he told her. Mrs. Higgins did not speak to reporters.

The resolution, adopted by a 15-0 vote, also demanded Higgins' immediate release and called upon U.N. members to use their influence in any way possible to promote implementation of its appeal for freedom.

Higgins was abducted Feb. 17 by a previously unknown group calling itself the Islamic Revolutionary Brigades. He is one of nine Americans and nine other foreigners held captive by pro-Iranian extremists in Lebanon.

The secretary-general has raised the issue of the 18 hostages during talks this week with Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati. The U.N. chief has appealed to Iran to use its influence with the Islamic fundamentalist captors loyal to Iran to gain their release.

An Iranian diplomat, speaking on condition of anonymity, later told a reporter that there had been no response from Tehran to the secretary-general's plea for Higgins' release.

Arabs hold strike in occupied territories

JERUSALEM (AP) — Arabs in the occupied territories staged a near-total commercial strike Friday in a show of solidarity with Arab women held in Israeli jails. Three Arabs were reported wounded in clashes in the Gaza Strip.

An extremist faction of the Palestine Liberation Organization called on residents of the West Bank and Gaza Strip to reject negotiations with Israel.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine put out a leaflet calling dialogue with Israel an illusion. It criticized PLO spokesman Bassam Abu Sharif, who recently advocated Palestinian-Israeli talks under the auspices of an international conference.

"At the same time your uprising is getting better and better, some in the field are going back to their old tactics and trying the way of dialogue and negotiations," said the leaflet, which was distributed in Arab east Jerusalem. "These are nothing but illusions."

In another development, Palestinian leaders were divided in their reactions to Jordan's decision on Thursday to cancel a $1.3 billion development fund for the occupied territories.

Pro-Jordanian figures who favor continued Jordanian involvement in the territories said the cancellation would increase hardships for Palestinians, who have already suffered considerably during the uprising.

Deposed Gaza City Mayor Rashad Shawana, allied with Jordan, said the move was "regrettable because people here need help, and this was an important source of help." But PLO figures did not oppose the move, which was seen as an effort by Hussein to disengage himself from leadership in Palestinian affairs and give the PLO more responsibility.

Cowboys bow to budget, Pocatello

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — Budgetary constraints intervened with the Twin Falls Cowboys here Friday night, forcing them to play an all-or-nothing game for the championship of the Southern Region "A" American Legion baseball tournament.

They lost that showdown, and the regional title, to the Pocatello Rebels, 12-5.

The outcome means nothing in terms of the state Legion tournament, which will be played at Twin Falls Frontier Field starting next Saturday. The Cowboys had already qualified for state by virtue of hosting the tournament.

American Legion Baseball

ment; the Rebels — who qualified for state Wednesday night by beating Mini-Cassidy in the opening round of the district playoffs — had already gained the No. 1 seed from the Southern Region by beating Idaho Falls 8-0 here earlier Friday.

Under district bylaws, Pocatello's victory over the Cowboys Friday night would have set up a second championship game here this morning because Twin Falls had defeated the Rebels 10-9 in Thursday's tournament championship semifinal game.

But Twin Falls Coach Mike Federico announced before the game Friday that because of financial constraints, the Cowboys could not afford to either stay one more night in Pocatello or return to Twin Falls Friday night and drive back this morning. On that basis, Federico said the Cowboys, who entered the last round undefeated in these four-day, state-qualifying playoffs, would let it all ride on the tournament semifinal game.

Win, lose or draw at district, the Cowboys still have a first-round appointment with last year's state tournament host, the Lewis-Clark Twins of Lewiston, in the opening round of the state tournament next Saturday.

"I think our position showed in the way we played tonight, although I hate to use that as an excuse," said Federico. "We just were never in it mentally from pitch one. We ran ourselves out of three potentially big scoring innings and gave up a few runs on just non-thinking plays."

Federico said earlier he felt this district's champion would have the best possible bracket in the eight-team state tournament since the Southern Region winner is scheduled to meet the runnerup team from the Boise area and then go against the winner or loser of the opening-round game between Twin Falls and Lewiston.

"When we get to the tournament meeting on that, we're going to raise that point as loudly as we can," Federico said. "If we had not already had that automatic host seed, we would have had a lot more to play for tonight."

Pocatello, now 47-15, pounded four Twin Falls pitchers for 17 hits. Probably the key inning was the third when three Twin Falls errors, a walk and singles by Bryan Atkinson, Bo Simmons and Brady Swallow made it 5-1.

The Rebels added five more runs in the fourth inning when Twin Falls committed two more errors and let one run score on a sacrifice fly to the second baseman, who made the catch and simply dropped the head as the Pocatello baserunner streaked home from third.

Poky right-hander Ralph Obroy, who picked up his seventh victory in eight decisions Friday, was also 4-for-5 at the plate and had three RBIs.

Twin Falls managed 11 hits, its most of the tournament, but was unable to sustain anything offensively — sometimes due to poor baserunning, as Federico had pointed out.

Mike Buster was 3-for-4 at the plate and John Hayes had 2-for-3 as the Cowboys saw their record dip to 23-19. It was the Cowboys' fourth loss in six games to Pocatello this season.

Buhl's stay at state ended by archrival Pocatello ballclub

By COLIN MULDOON
Times-News writer

ST. MARIES — It was a story of too little, too late for Buhl here Friday in the third round of the Idaho State "B" American Legion baseball tournament.

After absorbing an 8-3 first-round loss on Thursday to the Lewis-Clark Cubs of Lewiston, the Indians staged a six-run, sixth-inning rally to defeat Kellogg 19-6 in a loser-out game Friday morning.

But Buhl's championship hopes were quelled in their Friday afternoon tournament consolation semifinal contest with season-long nemesis, Pocatello, 7-6.

"A couple of base hits," was really all Buhl needed against the Rebels, mused Coach Tom Fleming. Had they come in the fifth inning, they probably would have lifted the Indians to victory.

As it was, Buhl lost for the fifth time in eight games this season to the Southern Region "B" champion Rebels. The teams have played in Buhl, Pocatello, Shoshone and St. Maries, with the Indians winning twice. One game ended in a tie.

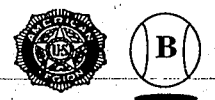

Pocatello, which lost to defending state champion Meridian in the championship semifinal contest earlier Friday, will take on the Boise Gems at 11 p.m. MDT this morning in the tournament consolation final at St. Maries Legion Park. Meridian and Lewis-Clark, the two remained unbeaten teams, will square off in the championship semifinal at 2 p.m. MDT.

A couple of base hits in the fifth inning would have probably lifted Buhl to victory over Pocatello. In that inning, Rebel right-hander Mark Kaip led off the inning by giving up a walk to Indian right-fielder Darrel Lierman. One out later he walked Casey Boyer and after the second out of the inning, Cornelio Hernandez stroked a single to left field, driving in Lierman.

Kaip then walked Buhl catcher Kelly Atkinson to load the bases.

The Indians were right at the brink of getting back into the game, but four pitches later Buhl second baseman Jeremy Schabot was caught looking at a third strike for the final out of the inning.

Pocatello Coach Gary Parkin was

breathing a sigh of relief, but Buhl wasn't finished yet.

In the seventh inning, the Indians touched off another rally. Consecutive singles by Boyer, Mike Brady and Hernandez led off the inning, scoring one run, and Poky reliever Conan Andrews walked Atkinson to load the bases.

Andrews then gave up RBI sacrifice flies to Schabot and Troy Ruhler and the Rebels' lead was cut to one run, 7-6.

When he needed it most — Buhl's Atkinson was second base and Indian left-fielder Brian Hansen was at the plate — the 15-year-old right-handed relief specialist came up with the right stuff. Andrews fanned Hansen to record the save.

Buhl came close to going 0-2 for the tournament earlier in the day when it met up with Kellogg.

Thye Loggers led 6-4 going into the bottom of the sixth, but Buhl went on an offensive tear, sending 11 batters to the plate and scoring six runs — good enough for the victory which set up the afternoon contest.

The loss ended Buhl's season 30-19-1.

On Thursday, Lewis-Clark beat Buhl with two big innings — the third and the sixth — after greeting Indian left-hander Mike Brady with a two-run uprising in the first.

Lewiston startstop Shawn Taylor led off the inning with a double to right and teammate Robin Lund followed up with a single to left. Brady then walked first baseman Todd Kolb, loading the bases and setting up a sacrifice fly by Cubs' catcher Kirk Bohl which drove in Taylor.

Orioles part with Boddicker

The Washington Post

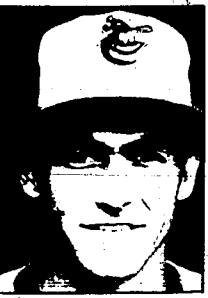

The Baltimore Orioles said goodbye to another piece of their glorious past Friday by trading pitcher Mike Boddicker to the Boston Red Sox for two minor leaguers — outfielder Brady Anderson and pitcher Curt Schilling.

The Red Sox said Boddicker will start against the Brewers Sunday at Fenway Park, and to make room for him on their roster put Oil Can Boyd on the disabled list.

Meanwhile, the Orioles accelerated their rebuilding by announcing that Peterson will be their starting center fielder.

"As far as I know, we'll throw him in and let him play," Manager Frank Robinson said. "That's what we've been saying all along, so I guess that's what we'll do.

Boddicker's departure leaves only shortstop Cal Ripken and first baseman Eddie Murray from the 1983 championship team and reflects the needs of two teams playing toward different ends in 1988.

The Red Sox hope Boddicker can lift them past the Tigers and Yankees in the American League East, and believe their front three — Roger Clemens, Bruce Hurst and Boddicker is as good as any.

The Orioles, headed toward their worst season, are restocking and are prepared for a two- or three-year rebuilding process.

"Boddicker is going to add a great deal; he's a great shot in the arm," Red Sox General Manager Lou Gorman said. "He's an excellent pitcher — much better than his record (6-12). He's a high-quality type person. He's a competitor, a winner. He was thrilled and so are we."

Orioles General Manager Roland Hemond said pretty much the same thing — "You don't like to give up a Mike Boddicker, but we like Brady • See BODDICKER on Page B3

Tobin commences quest for berth in Olympics

By COLIN MULDOON
Times-News writer

SPOKANE, Wash. — Ketchum's cycling queen, Katrin Tobin, will be among nearly 100 other women's cyclists vying for a spot on the U.S. Olympic women's long road race cycling team when the trials unfold this Sunday.

The five-day, three-race trials, coinciding with the men's road race trials, will determine which eight cyclists will represent America in Seoul's Summer Olympic games.

Eight cyclists will be chosen, but only three will actually compete in the Olympics. Those three will be selected later next month when the pre-Olympic training sessions in Colorado Springs conclude.

Tobin, the 1986 national points champion and 1987 runner-up is favored to make the long team but she'll have her work cut out to finish with the trials best overall time.

The likes of Reno's Inga Thompson Benedict and Seattle's Rebecca Twigg, both former Ore-Ida Challenge champions, should provide Tobin — this year's Ore-Ida champ — with some stiff competition.

In addition to Twigg, Tobin and Benedict, likely candidates for the long team include Tobin's Lowrey's Meat Snacks teammates; Lisele Schenk, Janelle Parks and Sally Zack.

According to co-media director, Sharon Cruise, up to 75 women are expected to compete, but registration does not close until Friday and the number could be higher or lower.

Sunday's women's race will be 1 1/2 laps over a 35-mile course (58 miles in all) located in the Wild Rose Prairie area northeast of here. Seven hills are scattered throughout the course with a total elevation of 1,700 feet per lap, according to Cruise. This course • See TOBIN on Page B3

Idahoans advance at BCI

By The Times-News

PHOENIX — The Idaho Basketball Congress International team defeated South Coast of California 78-72 here Friday, moving into the consolation semifinal of this international tournament.

The Idahoans, 2-1 so far, have never advanced this far in the six years the state has sent a team to this tournament.

Idaho will play an as-yet-undetermined opponent Sunday at 2:30 p.m. MST, and if it wins, will play in the consolation bracket final Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

Jerome's Clint Banley scored six points; Twin Falls' Sewed Trenkle four and Minnie's Dan Poulton two for the Idaho team.

Rams, Bengals kick off NFL exhibition games

By RUSTY MILLER
The Associated Press

CANTON, Ohio — Los Angeles Rams coach John Robinson calls it "a vanilla-type game." The National Football League calls it the start of a new season.

The Cincinnati-Bengals meet the Rams Saturday in the annual AFC-NFL Hall of Fame game at Fawcett Stadium, next door to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Earlier in the day, Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker Jack Ham, Oakland

Pro football

Raiders wide receiver Fred Biletni-koff, Minnesota Vikings and Chicago Bears defensive tackle Alan Page and current Bears coach — and former Bears, Dallas Cowboys and Philadelphia Eagles tight end — Mike Ditka will be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Kickoff time is 12:30 p.m. MDT. ABC, Channel 6 in the Magic Valley, will televise it live.

As for the Hall of Fame game itself, Robinson doesn't rank it with the storied show-downs which featured the four honorees.

"The biggest thing is for us to have a good look at everyone," Robinson said. "If you had your way, you'd eliminate all strategy from this game. It will be a vanilla-type game. We're just going to line up and play."

The game is not considered a prelude to the playoffs. Rookies and projects figure to see most of the playing time. Front-line players for both teams are expected to start, but will most likely be off the field before half-time.

"We're not focusing on (the Bengals at all)," Robinson said.

The Rams will be without several holdouts. They include defensive ends Shawn Miller and Doug Reed, nose tackle Greg Meisner and offensive guard Tom Newberry.

Punter Dale Hatcher is out with a knee injury and first-round draft pick Gaston Green, a running back from UCLA, is doubtful with a bruised thigh.

As for the Bengals, Coach Sam Wyche has been a picture of optimism through his team's early workouts. Despite a 4-11 record in 1987 — only Atlanta's 3-12 was worse — and the continuing absence of the team's top rusher, holdout Larry Kinnebrew, Wyche sees nothing but blue skies.

"Last year was a crazy year. Everybody knows that," said Wyche. "But this year I'll gladly take my same defensive people, with a few additions, with a year's more experience, and bet that a lot more bounces are going to go our way."

In addition to Kinnebrew, other

Bengal holdouts include center Dave Rimington and safety Robert Jackson, along with rookie cornerback Ricky Dixon.

"We have quicker, more athletic people at almost every position than we did four years ago, and they're going to make a difference," Wyche said.

Our defense played in bad field position for a lot of last season, because of offensive turnovers and poor special teams play. There is no question in my mind that we improved, or that we will improve, much further this season."

Only 4 NFL first-round picks remain unsigned

By The Associated Press

Sterling Sharpe, Green Bay's first-round draft choice, agreed to terms Friday, leaving just four of the NFL's 27 first-rounders unsigned.

Sharpe, a wide receiver from South Carolina, was the seventh player chosen in the NFL draft. Terms of his contract were undisclosed.

The Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins; meanwhile, signed their last two holdouts, defensive tackle Darryl Grant and cornerback Barry Wilburn. Both are starters and Wilburn led the NFL in interceptions last season with eight.

Sharpe will not begin practice with the Packers until Sunday. After signing his contract in South Carolina, he flew to Georgia where he will speak to an anti-drug rally Saturday.

Sharpe said he realizes he'll be far behind in first-year Coach Lindy Infante's new system.

"I think by being No. 1, you get to feel, 'I got to get this thing done because I'm supposed to be a player and I got to get in camp and learn what to do,'" he said. "I want to go out and prove not only myself but to a lot of people that Green Bay didn't make a bad decision."

several, appeared near signing.

The Giants have offered a contract worth about $1.9 million over four years, which would put him between the ninth choice, Terry McDaniel of the Raiders and the 11th, Michael Irvin of the Cowboys.

But Moore's agent, Jim Steiner, is seeking a contract comparable to the No. 8 pick, Dave Cadigan of the Jets, who signed for $2.1 million — reasoning that the Giants paid their second-round pick, offensive tackle John Elitt, more than some players chosen ahead of him.

Also signing Friday was veteran kicker returned Mel Gray, the last of the New Orleans holdouts. He was in to report to the Saints camp Friday.

The Lame and the Halt

Quarterback Jim Kelly, still recovering from an ankle sprain he suffered just before camp started, will stay behind — when the Buffalo Bills meet the Cleveland Browns in a scrimmage Saturday. Coach Marv Levy said he will play the three quarterbacks behind Kelly — Frank Reich, Stan Gelbaugh and Brian McClure —

Running back Ruben Mayes will be held out of New Orleans' intrasquad scrimmage Saturday as a precaution against re-injuring his surgically repaired right knee. Several other players will also miss the scrimmage because of injuries, including guard Chuck Cominsky and running back Lloyd Carr. The fourth-round draft choice, punter Brian Hansen has a sprained right ankle and may be held out...

AL: Sizzling Bosox win 15th game in 16 tries

BOSTON (AP) — Todd Benzingner hit a two-run homer in the third inning and then broke a tie with an RBI single in the eighth Friday night as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 5-4 in a doubleheader and win for the 18th straight game at home.

The Red Sox improved their record to 16-1 under new manager Joe Morgan since the All-Star break. Boston's winning streak at home is the team's second longest ever. The Red Sox won 21 straight at Fenway Park in 1949.

Baseball

Jody Reed, who had four hits and a walk in Boston's 6-4 victory in the first game, scored the tie-breaking run after beating out an infield single, his third hit, and advancing to second on Paul Molitor's throwing error.

Reliever Dennis Lamp, 5-3, blanked the Brewers on three hits for 3 1/2 innings. Bob Stanley earned his third save by pitching the ninth. Chris Bosio, 6-13, making his first appearance of the season as a reliever, lost his 10th straight game to tie Danny Darwin's club record.

Molitor triggered a three-run first inning in the nightcap by hitting Mike Smithson's first pitch of the game for his fifth homer.

The Brewers added two more runs on RBI singles by B.J. Surhoff, who had four hits, and Jody Meyer.

Boston picked up a run on Wade Boggs' sacrifice fly in its half of the first and then tied the score in the third on Benzingner's seventh homer, a two-run drive into the Red Sox' bullpen right center.

Milwaukee went ahead 4-3 on a double by Dale Sveum and a single by Juan Castillo in the fourth, but the Red Sox bounced right back to tie the score on an RBI single by Reed.

In the opener, Bruce Hurst, 11-4, won for the eighth time in nine decisions at home this season. The left-hander allowed only three hits through the first six innings but was relieved by Stanley after Rob Deer walked and Greg Brock doubled off Jody in the seventh.

Deer scored on Meyer's grounder to short and Brock came around when Stanley dropped a throw on a two-out grounder to first baseman Larry Parrish. Lee Smith struck out the side in the ninth to earn his 17th save, one more than the entire Boston staff had last season.

Mike Greenwell, who leads the major leagues with 83 RBI, hit a two-run homer, his 17th, off Bill Wegman, 10-8, in the first. The Red Sox added another run on a walk to Ellis Burks and Benzingner's double.

Molitor's two-run double in the third made it 3-2, but the Red Sox broke the game open with three unearned runs in the fourth.

With two outs, Reed walked and Marty Barrett's grounder to short went between the legs of Sveum for an error. Boggs, Greenwell and Burks followed with RBI singles.

Texas 2, Detroit 1

DETROIT (AP) — Bobby Witt pitched a four-hitter and Steve Buechele went 3-for-4 as the Texas Rangers defeated Detroit 2-1 Friday night to snap the Tigers' four-game winning streak and gain a split in their doubleheader.

Witt, 3-6, struck out seven and walked five for his fifth complete game.

Ruben Sierra led off the ninth inning with a single against reliever Guillermo Hernandez, 5-3, and Pete Incaviglia walked. After Mike Henneman replaced Hernandez, Bob Brower hit a sacrifice bunt to move the runners up.

Cecil Espy was intentionally walked to load the bases and Buechele grounded into a fielder's choice to score the winning run.

Toronto 7, New York 1

TORONTO (AP) — Jeff Musselman scattered six hits in 7 1/2 innings and Fred McGriff had three RBI with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the New York Yankees 7-1 Friday night.

The Yankees capped 1 1/2 games behind the Detroit Tigers, who split a doubleheader with Texas, in the American League East.

Musselman, 3-0, won for the third straight time since being activated July 14 after recuperating from offseason shoulder surgery. He walked two and struck out seven in lowering his earned run average to 0.87. Duane Ward closed.

Toronto took a 4-1 lead with three runs in the second. Ernie Whitte led off with a walk and McGriff hit the first pitch from Richard Dotson, 8-4, for his 23rd home run. Jesse Barfield singled, advanced to third on a single and a bunt sacrifice, and scored on Tony Fernandez's sacrifice fly.

Neil Allen replaced Dotson with runners on second and third and none

American League RBI leader Mike Greenwell of the Boston Red Sox celebrates a home run Friday against Milwaukee.

Chicago 4, California 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Thad Bosley went 3-for-3 and drove in a pair of runs with a double and a tie-breaking sacrifice fly as the California Angels reached the .500 mark for the first time since April 18 by defeating the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Friday night.

The third-place Angels are 27-11 since June 15, when they were last in the American League West. Bosley ended the game batting .167.

Willie Fraser, 7-10, pitched 6 1/2 innings, allowing five hits, walking three and striking out four. Bryan Harvey, the third California pitcher, worked 1 1/2 innings for his 11th save in 13 opportunities.

Bill Long, 4-6, was the loser despite pitching his first complete game of the season in eight starts. The right-hander allowed nine hits, walked one and struck out four.

Brian Downing led off the sixth with a double, took third on Chilly Davis' fly to left and scored on Bosley's sacrifice fly. The Angels added an insurance in the ninth when Steve Lyons made a throwing error on Dick Schofield's grounder to third.

Kansas City 6, Baltimore 2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bret Saberhagen allowed three hits in seven innings to win for the first time in six starts and George Brett and Bo Jackson homered as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-2 Friday night and snapped a four-game losing streak.

Saberhagen, 11-10, winless since June 25, walked one and struck out four in beating Baltimore for the third time this year. In his five previous starts, Saberhagen was 0-4 with a 6.55 earned run average. Jeff Montgomery closed, allowing one hit.

Houston 4, Los Angeles 1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Scott pitched a four-hitter and Buddy Bell had three hits and drove in two runs Friday night as the Houston Astros edged Los Angeles 4-1, trimming the Dodgers' lead to 4 1/2 games in the National League West.

Scott, 10-3, struck out five and walked none as he won for the fourth time in his last five decisions and helped the Astros to their third consecutive victory and ninth in the 11 games.

Scott, in his fourth start since his return from the 21-day disabled list on July 14, gave up his only run in the fourth on consecutive singles by Steve Sax and Kirk Gibson and a run-scoring grounder by Mike Marshall.

Shawn Hillegas, 3-3, allowed eight hits in 7 1/2 innings, failing to win for the fifth time in his last six starts.

Bell broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth with a two-out double just inside third base that scored Terry Puhl, who had bled off and stole second. Houston added a run in the eighth on Ken Caminiti's double in the third and gave up McGriff's sacrifice fly.

Singles by Manny Lee, Tony Fernandez and Lloyd Moseby loaded the bases with none out in the sixth. Lee scored as Rance Mulliniks grounded into a double play.

Whitte, who criticized Manager Jimmy Williams and teammate George Bell earlier in the day, hit his fifth homer in the seventh.

Cleveland 7, Minnesota 0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Greg Swindell pitched a five-hitter, retiring 19 straight batters during one span, and Ron Kittle and Joe Carter each hit two-run homers Friday night as the Cleveland Indians beat the Minnesota Twins 7-0.

Swindell, 12-9, gave up two singles and his only walk with one out in the first, but set down the next 19 hitters in winning for the second straight time after a personal eight-game losing streak. He has three shutouts and nine complete games this year.

The left-hander, who struck out

San Diego 5, Cincinnati 3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rick Reuschel pitched a six-hitter, retiring 15 of the last 17 Atlanta batters, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Braves 5-3 Friday night.

Reuschel, 14-5, struck out four and walked none in his second consecutive complete game. He had none this year before pitching a seven-hit shutout at St. Louis Sunday.

He also played a key part in the Giants' winning three-run rally in the fourth with a sacrifice bunt. An error was made on the play, allowing Bob Melvin to score the tie-breaking run, and Brett Butler followed with a two-run single.

San Francisco got seven hits and five runs — two unearned — in four innings against Zane Smith, 4-8. He came into the game with a career record of 5-1 and an earned-run average of 1.16 the Giants.

NL: Elster's eighth-inning homer lifts Mets over Pirates, 1-0

NEW YORK (AP) — The longer Bob Ojeda and John Smiley duelled, the more the New York Mets and Pittsburgh Pirates knew the most important game in the National League East so far this season would be decided by one pitch.

"This type of game, I thought, it would take a home run to win," Kevin Elster said. "I just didn't think it would be me."

Elster, the number-eight batter in the Mets' lineup, hit a home run in the eighth inning Friday night that broke up a tense matchup and gave New York a 1-0 victory.

A crowd of 49,584, the largest this year at Shea Stadium, saw the Mets win the opener of a four-game series and extend their division lead to three games over Pittsburgh.

The Mets and Pirates are the two highest-scoring teams in the league, but no one would've known as Ojeda and Smiley each pitched three-innings. Smiley had retired 19 straight batters before Elster connected with one out in the eighth, only the second Mets' hit.

"I went up there looking for a changeup. I knew he likes to get ahead with his changeup and off-speed pitches," Elster said. "I used a heavier ball than my previous times. That was as hard as I could hit it."

Elster, batting only .216 entering the game, connected for his first homer since June 29. He has homered in each of the Mets' last three games with Pittsburgh, all victories.

"Maybe he was sitting on that pitch. Elster looked bad on changeups the first two times up," Smiley said. "The pressure was building as we both kept runners off the bases."

While the Mets surged from the dugout to congratulate Ojeda, the Pirates quietly filed into their clubhouse. All except Smiley, who walked alone down a runway tunnel toward left field, kicked over a trash can and then went to the locker room.

"I just wanted to relax and not blow up," said Smiley, a second-year player. "This was the toughest loss of my career."

Ojeda, the veteran on New York's staff, said the Mets did not want put too much importance on these meetings with Pittsburgh.

"It's July. I've pitched more important games for this team than that. But it is nice," Ojeda said, clutching the game ball.

Ojeda's shutout was the Mets' 15th, most in the majors. Elster's homer was the Mets' 91st, tops in the league. That's what it took to outlast Smiley in a matchup of off-speed left-handers.

Even before his home run, Elster had been the star of the muggy night with several fine plays at shortstop.

"That's my job on this team. To play defense," the rookie said.

Elster also got the final ball of the night, throwing out Bobby Bonilla. "It was only fitting," Mets manager Davey Johnson said.

Ojeda, 8-8, increased his career record against the Pirates to 8-2. He struck out six and walked one in his third shutout of the season.

Smiley, 9-7, struck out six and walked two while completing his fourth game in 21 starts. He fell to 3-1 lifetime against the Mets as the Pirates rested for only the sixth time in 20 games this season.

Before the game, Pirates' fans had planned a rally in the parking lot at Shea Stadium as part of promotion by a Pittsburgh radio station. Commissioner Peter Ueberroth, however, advised the Pirates to cancel the festivities as a safety precaution.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Vance

Law drove in four runs on two homers and Rick Sutcliffe ended a personal four-game losing streak Friday night, leading the Chicago Cubs past the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3.

Sutcliffe, 6-9, allowed 10 hits and three runs in 6 2/3 innings for his first victory since July 3. Jeff Pico finished up.

Kevin Gross, 10-7, gave up eight hits and six runs in 6 1/2 innings.

Andrew Dawson went 2-for-4, giving him 17 hits in his last 29 at-bats. He is 14-for-26 against the Phillies this season.

Chicago trailed 2-1 but scored two runs in the sixth and five in the seventh. Andre Dawson's RBI doubled tie and Mark Grace's run-scoring single gave the Cubs the lead.

In the seventh, Sutcliffe scored from third during a rundown and was credited with a stolen base. First baseman Ricky Jordan's error allowed another run to score and Law hit his three-run homer, his seventh, increasing the lead to 8-2.

Lance Parrish hit an RBI double in the seventh.

St. Louis 7, Montreal 5
MONTREAL (AP) — Tony Pena hit a two-run homer and Willie McGee had four hits and stole three bases Friday night as the St. Louis Cardinals beat Montreal 7-5, snapping the Expos' five-game winning streak.

Jose DeLeon, 7-8, allowed nine hits in 8 1/2 innings as St. Louis ended a nine-game losing streak in Montreal since last Aug. 3. DeLeon struck out eight and walked three. Todd Worrell, the fourth St. Louis pitcher, got the last out for his 20th save.

Pascual Perez, 7-5, the major league earned-run average leader, allowed eight hits and five earned runs in 3 1/2 innings. His ERA rose to 2.08 from 1.73.

Expos right fielder Hubie Brooks hyper-extended his left knee running after Pena's foul pop in the sixth and left the game.

San Diego 5, Cincinnati 3
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tony Gwynn hit an inside the park home run and Gary Templetin hit a two-run homer Friday night, leading the San Diego Padres past the Cincinnati Reds 5-3.

Andy Hawkins, 10-8, became San Diego's first 10-game winner, allowing seven hits in 6 1/2 innings. Mark Davis got the final seven outs for his 18th save.

Jack Armstrong, 2-1, gave up three runs and five hits in four innings.

 Anderson and what he does for our team.

Boddicker, who will hit 31 Aug. 23, has a 6-12 record and a 3.86 earned run average in 21 starts. He lost his first eight decisions, but has been outstanding since.

Since he came to the big leagues for good in 1983, he became an Oriole favorite both inside and outside the clubhouse. He spent parts of five seasons at Class AAA Rochester, and at one point was told by former Orioles manager Earl Weaver: "You can't win in the big leagues with that stuff."

In 1981 Boddicker endured a 10-10 season at Rochester while perfecting the change-up that pushed him over the top. He was 16-8 in 1983 and pitched back-to-back shutouts in postseason starts. More recently, he had watched as Scott McGregor, Mike Flanagan, Jim Palmer and Dennis Martinez departed, and when his name came up again he accepted it with "relief and sadness," saying:

Lumber production on rise

PORTLAND (AP) — Lumber production and orders were up, while shipments fell, in the 12 Western states last week.

The Western Wood Products Association reported lumber production of 348 million board feet, up 5 million feet from the previous week.

Orders for 284 million board feet were reported, up 9 million feet from the previous week.

All three figures were off substantially from the same week a year ago.

The association reported production of 11.3 billion board feet, orders for 11.5 billion board feet and shipments of 11.5 billion board feet through the first 29 weeks of 1988, all down from the same week a year ago.

The association reported inventories of 1.9 billion board feet, up 16 million feet from the previous week, and down from 2.1 billion board feet in the same week a year ago.

Utility earnings stronger

SPOKANE (AP) — Washington Water Power Co. reported strong second-quarter earnings, in part because of improved wholesale electricity sales and better performance by two subsidiaries.

Earnings for the second three months of this year reached 53 cents per share, compared with 33 cents per share in the similar 1987 period, the Spokane-based utility said.

For the 12 months ended June 30, earnings were $2.64 per share, compared with $1.71 per share in the 1987 period.

Profit for the quarter was $15.6 million on revenues of $98.3 million, compared with $11.5 million on revenues of $92.1 million a year ago.

The 12-month period produced $75.7 million in profit on revenues of $427.7 million, compared with $54.3 million earned on $376.2 million last year.

Chairman Paul Redmond credited wholesale power sales and the subsidiaries for much of the improvement. He said better retail sale and the accelerated amortization of investment tax credits also contributed to the brighter picture.

The upturn also came despite the creation in June of a $3.1 million after-tax reserve for its unrecoverable investment in abandoned Washington Public Power Supply System commercial nuclear plant.

M-K subsidiary wins job

BOISE (AP) — A Cleveland-based subsidiary of Morrison-Knudsen Corp. has been awarded a contract for more than $50 million to erect piping at a power plant conversion project near Moscow, Ohio.

The parent company announced Thursday that the contract had been awarded to MK-Ferguson Co. by the project's owners, Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co., Columbus Southern Power Co. and Dayton Power and Light Co.

American Electric Power Service Corp. is the project manager.

The work at the William H. Zimmer Generating Station is part of converting the partially completed nuclear plant to a 1,300-megawatt coal-fired generating facility.

The project is scheduled for completion in April 1991.

Kuney wins viaduct work

WALLACE (AP) — Spokane-based Max J. Kuney Co. has outbid nine other companies and will be awarded a $22.7 million contract to build a viaduct to carry Interstate 90 through Wallace, a state transportation official said.

Having a company from the region do the work should benefit the area's economy, Robert Dunsmore, resident engineer for the Idaho Department of Transportation, said.

The project involves construction of a 4,478-foot-long concrete viaduct 30 feet above railroad tracks along the north side of the city. Construction should begin later this summer and is scheduled to be completed by July 1, 1990.

The next lowest bid was a $25.2 million offer from Kiewit-Pacific Co., of Vancouver, Wash.

Down advances in robust rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market climbed sharply Friday in a robust rally that surprised traders and lured institutional investors from the sidelines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed at 2,128.73, up 46.40 points in its largest one-day advance since June 8, when the index rose 48.36. The Dow average's gain on the week totaled 67.74 points.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 15 to 4 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 1,175 issues up, 329 down and 470 unchanged.

Volume on the floor of the NYSE came to 192.34 million shares, up from 154.57 million in the previous session. Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trading at regional exchanges and on the over-the-counter market, totaled 217.91 million shares.

The market's advance steadily gained momentum and breadth throughout the session, peppered with computer-triggered buying activity.

The Dow average's push above the 2,100 level at midday helped lure money from the institutional investors who had been reluctant to participate.

Analysts attributed the advance to fresh strength in the dollar and continued favorable reaction to comments by Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, who indicated Thursday that the Fed hasn't changed credit policy recently.

With the spotlight off interest rates, investors were able to turn attention to the positive corporate earnings reports pouring in over the past few weeks. Investors had been reluctant to react to the favorable reports for fear that higher interest rates would dilute corporate profits down the road.

Among actively traded Big Board issues, IBM rose 2 to 125 1/2. Chevron, which said it would realign certain departments in its domestic oil and gas subsidiary, rose 2 to 48 3/4.

Memorial was up 3/4 at 84 1/4. The publisher said it was exploring options after rejecting a $76-a-share bid from the Robert M. Bass Group.

Union Carbide, which withdrew a planned offering of 15 million common shares, rose 1/4 to 23 3/8. Eastman Kodak gained 1/4 at 45 1/2 as rumors the company may sell its household products division for as much as $2 billion.

Public Service of New Mexico, down 1/4 at 147 1/4, was the most active issue with nearly 23 million shares changing hands as traders moved to capture the utility's quarterly dividend.

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market gained $47.7 billion, or 1.80 percent, in value.

The NYSE index climbed 2.95 to 153.35.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks gained 6.68 to 313.98, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up 6.00 at 272.02.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 2.55 to 306.18. The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 387.33, up 3.25.

Get the best paycheck for your skills

You've graduated from school, taken a few weeks off to celebrate and now you're seriously entering the job market.

Do you know how to negotiate the best paycheck for your skills?

Chances are that, even if you've done your homework and are aware of the salary range for your kind of position, you don't know how to negotiate. And you probably do not know that getting the best paycheck possible at this stage in your career can save you months or even years of playing catch-up.

Jack Urno, senior vice president at Adia, headquartered in Menlo Park, CA, says, "Even first-time job seekers can negotiate the salary they're initially offered."

To start, there are three basic "nevers" that you must not underestimate:

- Never mislead your prospective employer on anything, including past salary, compensation and achievements. Lies are self-sabotaging.
- Never accept an offer when it is first given. Nor should you turn down one immediately, even if it is disappointing. Thank your prospective employer and ask for a day or two to think about it.
- Never reveal the minimum salary you would accept. If asked, say you have no firm figure in mind, but will consider the situation that offers the best combination of opportunity and salary.

There is a fourth "never" and it involves your package of benefits. In a way it is a "hidden" salary and must be competitive. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that for all private industry, total benefits can be worth as much as 28 percent of the overall compensation package. Among the benefits and perks you should look for: medical insurance, a retirement plan, profit-sharing, vacation and flexible, tuition reimbursement, stock options, bonuses, etc.

Janet Jones-Parker, executive director of the Association of Executive Search Consultants, Inc., says, "Increasingly, a number of employers are looking at competitive benefits as a way to attract and compensate employees. Everything from bonuses to profit-sharing to health and life insurance coverage should be considered."

Other valuable guides:

- You need the right mindset. Remember that the job interview is a two-way communication, and that includes salary.
- When should you discuss salary? "Let the interview guide you — wait until all job responsibilities have been discussed and an offer is on the table," suggests Urno. He stresses that having several pending offers before going in adds to your bargaining power. Determine whether an offer is a firm take-it-or-leave-it situation, or if there is flexibility, both in salary and the compensation package.

• Try to negotiate your best salary going in — aim for the high end of the employer's salary range. It will determine to a large extent future raises. Demonstrate your value to the potential employer through relevant prior achievements so that you can justify the higher pay.

• If the matter of salary comes up before you've decided that you want to work with each other, steer the interview toward other issues. Ask such questions as, "Could we explore the specifics of the position in greater depth?"

• If the company's salary offer is way out of line with the market, try to find out why — educate the employer rather than lose the job.

• Don't change jobs for less than a 10-15 percent increase in pay, unless other factors (e.g. opportunities for growth, extensive benefits) far outweigh salary.

Once you have worked out all details to the satisfaction of both you and your prospective employer, get it in writing. It could be in the form of an employment contract or a letter of agreement. If possible, get written confirmation to review your salary in six months. Your bargaining power diminishes when you've begun employment, so work out as much as you can before you start work.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

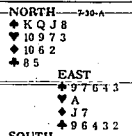

"Do your work with your whole heart and you will succeed - there is so little competition." - Elbert Hubbard.

A halfhearted defense will not get today's job done. It's not enough to switch to the right suit; East must also choose the right card.

South won his club king and led a low trump to dummy's 10 and East's ace. East concluded that the future lay with diamonds and he switched to his diamond jack - top card from a doubleton.

South won his diamond king to continue trumps, driving out West's king. However, West could not continue to attack in diamonds without sacrificing a trick. (A low diamond would go to dummy's 10.) South was then able to knock out the spade ace and discard his low diamond on one of dummy's high spades.

It was right for East to have switched to diamonds, but should have led the seven, not the jack. When West wins his trump king, a diamond return to East's jack establishes West's queen. South cannot get rid of his losing diamond without leading spades, and it's 100 points for the defense instead of 10 for South.

BID WITH THE ACES South holds: ♠ 9 7 6 4 3 ♥ A ♦ A ♣ A 7 3

ANSWER: Four spades. Not much in high cards, but the double fit in the black suits should produce many tricks.

Send bridge questions to The Aces, P.O. Box 1363, Dallas, Texas 75215, with self-addressed stamped envelope. Send $3 for subscription.
