Reagan signs bill protecting City of Rocks

By AMY GAMERMAN States News Service

Measure includes Hagerman fossil safeguards

WASHINGTON — The City of Rocks and the Hagerman Fossil Beds will receive federal protection from vandals and developers under the Arizona-Idaho Conservation Act, signed into law by President Reagan Friday night.

The strangely shaped granite formations, which look like pyramids and spires, were discovered by American pioneers during the early period of Western migration.

Many of those first visitors signed their names on the rock formations, making the City of Rocks an area of historic, as well as scientific, interest. Unfortunately, that tradition has been continued by modern vandals, who have spray-painted their own signatures on the rocks.

Under its new designation as a natural reserve, the rocks will be protected from such vandalism by federal law. National reserves come under federal, state and local jurisdiction, but their actual management falls to state and local officials.

That understanding was necessary to win support for the bill from local communities, especially farmers and cattle ranchers, who wanted continued grazing and crop-growing rights.

BOISE — Gov. Cecil Andrus chastised the state Board of Correction on Friday for concealing for nearly two weeks the fact that Corrections Director Al Murphy resigned on Nov. 4.

Getting ready for the holidays

Johnny Johnson makes the right electrical connections, reading Christmas decorations for their ascent over Main Avenue West in Twin Falls. A crew from Lyle Signs put up the first of the downtown decorations Friday. Today, a group of volunteers will string lights in City Park, preparing for the holiday season. As it approaches, decorations will begin appearing elsewhere.

Tax Court limits deduction for interest points for refinancing

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Interest points paid to refinance a home mortgage may not be deducted fully in the year the loan is obtained, the U.S. Tax Court ruled Friday.

est charge that some lenders impose to get around laws that limit interest rates. They sometimes are paid by a homebuyer, sometimes by a seller.

The Tax Court case, which could be appealed, grew out of a January 1981 decision by James R. and Zenith A. Huntsman to buy a home in Stillwater, Minn.

Instead of a more traditional 30-year or 33-year mortgage, they obtained a $122,000 mortgage with a final balloon payment three years later. Before that three years was up, they took out a second mortgage for a $22,000 home-improvement loan. Less than four months before the first mortgage fell due, the Huntsmans refinanced their home with a 30-year loan that was used to pay off the first and second mortgages. To obtain the new loan, they had to pay $4,440 in points, which they deducted on their tax return.

The IRS disallowed the full deduction on grounds the new loan was not used to buy or improve the Huntsmans' home. The Huntsmans were told they could deduct only $148 in each of the 30 years.

The law is unclear, saying that points are fully deductible in the year they were paid only when the loan was used "in connection with the purchase or improvement" of a home.

"In a refinancing transaction, the funds generated by the loans generally are used not to purchase or improve a principal residence but to pay off the loan that is already in existence and thereby lower the interest costs incurred or achieve some other financial goal not connected directly with home ownership," Judge Theodore Tannenwald Jr. wrote for the majority of the court.

As a result, the court held, Congress did not mean to allow an immediate full deduction for such points.

The key point was precisely what Congress meant by the words "in connection with." Tannenwald noted that in its own explanation of the 1975 law, Congress had stated that immediate deduction would not be permitted if a loan was "used for purposes other than purchasing or improving the taxpayer's principal residence."

Dissenting judges contended that the ultimate purpose of the Huntsmans' 30-year refinancing mortgage was to buy their home.

Sad, drinking songs prescription for woe per-milling town. It was supplemented by study of about 2,000 groups of one to nine people in 65 similar saloons in the Minneapolis area over the past three years. "No doubt about it," Schaefer said. "Country and Western can be a prescription for trouble among people with little self-control."

President signs bill creating czar to fight drugs

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Declaring the nation one step closer to being drug-free, President Reagan signed major legislation Friday that creates a Cabinet-level drug czar and gives police and the courts "a new sword and shield," including the death penalty for traffickers who kill.

moment to his wife Nancy, who made the "Just Say No" anti-drug campaign for youngsters the centerpiece of her tenure as first lady.

"And now in the eleventh hour of this presidency, we give a new sword and shield to those whose daily business it is to eliminate from America's streets and towns the scourge of illicit drugs," Reagan said.

nor can they be won by any single bill," Reagan told the audience in the glittering, chandeliered room. But the president lauded the bill's tough approach toward so-called "recreational" drug users, as well as its federal-death penalty-for-anyone convicted of drug-related killings.

Spending on health in U.S. rises 10% during '87

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Private and public spending on health increased nearly 10 percent in 1987 and consumed a record share of the nation's total economic output, according to a federal report issued Friday.

By contrast, health expenditures consumed only 9.1 percent of GNP in 1980 and 10.7 percent in 1986, said the report from the Health Care Financing Administration.

It is imperative that we identify the most effective means of providing health care to avoid unnecessary and duplicate procedures.

The chamber was packed with members of the Cabinet and military, congressional supporters, and police officers and private citizens involved in several national anti-drug education programs.

Vice President-elect Dan Quayle was in the audience, seated next to House Speaker Jim Wright. Although President-elect George Bush made a campaign pledge to put Quayle in charge of the nation's battle against drugs, the bill forbids the "drug czar" from holding another federal post.

Bush, at a news conference in Florida on Monday, indicated he might ask the new drug official to report to Quayle on his activities. After giving his wife a big hug and kiss on the mouth, the president presented Mrs. Reagan with the pen he used to sign the four-inch thick bill. Overall, the bill aims to battle the use of illegal drugs through stricter law enforcement, tougher penalties, and increased treatment, rehabilitation and education.

and the solace of drinking.

The songs and lyrics of Hank Williams, Jimmy Rodgers, Jerry Lee Lewis, Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard, Jerry Jeff Walker, Willie Nelson and Waylon Jennings were particularly powerful drinking inducements, Schaefer found.

Their songs celebrate heavy drinking by making heroes out of drunkards, he added.

In contrast, he said, "rock 'n' roll singers don't glorify anything or anyone" and their music doesn't seem to have the same effect.

But in the country-Western bars, "blower music went with faster drinking," Schaefer said. "Hard drinkers prefer listening to slower-paced, wailing, lonesome, self-pitying music generally during slow times in the bar."

"They seemed to prefer bold, macho, strong-beat-based music when the action scene in the bar picks up. And they use the music as a mood-selection device — picking out three or four songs on a jukebox, he said, explaining that the music maintains the normative flow of emotions and the rhythm of activity — sort of like the sound track in a movie."

"As the mood and tempo of the songs filtered through the bar, key actors could be seen changing the level and intensity of their drinking activity," said Schaefer, who heads his university's drug-and-alcohol-abuse program. The team's survey of 89 bartenders and waitresses found "the bar staffs in most places were perceptive, but they kept serving drinks anyway," even though they believed 60 percent of their patrons were drunk, he said.

Hollywood columnist Graham dies

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sheila Graham, the legendary Hollywood gossip columnist who with Louella Parsons and Hedda Hopper formed what came to be known as the "Unholy Trio," has died in a hospital here. Her daughter said she was 84. A spokesman at E. Earl Smith and Son Funeral Home in nearby Lake Worth said Graham, who lived in Palm Beach, died Thursday at Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Lithuanians won't defy Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — The Lithuanian parliament on Friday dropped plans to duplicate Estonia's challenge to Moscow's authority after a high official said Estonia was violating the Soviet constitution, official media reported.

The Estonian parliament on Wednesday passed a declaration of sovereignty and a constitutional amendment giving its own parliament the right to veto Soviet laws.

Many people watching the televised session of the Lithuanian parliament Friday believed the Lithuanian Communist Party chief, Algirdas Brazauskas, said in his speech that Moscow had ordered Estonia's parliament to rescind its actions, said Vitalas Kvetkuskas of Lithuanian TV in a telephone interview.

But another official, Vitutas Astrauskas, appeared on television later to say these people had misunderstood the speech. Kvetkuskas continued.

Walesa meets with Polish minister

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa met Friday night with Interior Minister Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak, an activist source said, but the results were not reported immediately.

Government and Roman Catholic Church officials were unusually secretive throughout the day about the meeting, which appeared to be the latest effort to salvage stalled round-table talks between the government and Solidarity.

Differences stall arms negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Differences with France and the Soviet Union have upset U.S. plans to begin talks this year between NATO and the Warsaw Pact on reducing non-nuclear forces in Europe, a senior Reagan administration official said Friday.

The dispute with France concerns whether European governments outside the two alliances should play a significant role in troop reduction decisions.

losing a director and getting a new director. There were a lot of considerations that we talked about," Anderson said, "a lot of personal considerations."

The governor said he did not agree with the decision to keep the matter secret.

"My experience has been if you try to hide something, you are asking for trouble," he said. "In my opinion, they made a mistake in not telling you about it."

Anderson said he believed that board members learned Friday that secrecy in government was not a good idea, but said he felt the board members acted as they did out of personal affection for Murphy.

Andrus reiterated that he urged the board to fire Murphy, or to seek his resignation. He suggested that George Neumayer, deputy director of the Department of Transportation, be appointed interim director.

Board members said they wouldn't hire an interim director until they have a chance to interview Neumayer. All three board members said they had not met him.

"He's probably one of the best administrators in the business," the governor said, adding that Neumayer did not want to be permanent director.

Anderson said he lost confidence in Murphy, in part because the director did not keep the board and himself advised on what was going on in the department. "I expressed my feelings to the board, the governor said. "I suggested they ask for his resignation or they fire him," he said.

Andrus said since Murphy has resigned, he did not want to go into detail. "I'm satisfied with that," he said, of the resignation.

Anderson said in the past, Correction directors have lasted an average of about three years in a high-stress job. "There's a lot of areas in this business of corrections that you can make mistakes, where you can just fool things up."

"That's just the nature of the business," he said. "In 17 1/2 years a person is going to experience his share of that."

House, calls for allocation of $2 million to the City of Rocks and $5 million to the Hagerman Fossil Beds.

Despite bipartisan support for the legislation, not everyone agrees that the legislation will ultimately benefit Idaho's natural areas. Wilderness Society spokesman Peter Coppelmann called it "a crummy bill."

The biggest objection is a controversial provision forbidding the federal government from claiming any water rights in the areas.

On the face of it, the question of water rights does not apply to the designated areas, because neither contains significant bodies of water. But conservationists argue that the provision establishes a negative precedent for future protective legislation.

"We perceive that in fact there is an automatic right at the time of reservation," said Wilderness Society official Jane Lesoon, who is based in Boise. "This kind of provision simply muddies the waters... it dilutes existing standards." "McClure's action in this regard does not serve the public interest," Lesoon said. "By removing federal rights to water, he is attempting to steal that water from the public."

"That provision was necessary to insure state control over Idaho's rivers and streams," Sen. McClure has said in published remarks.

"He'll be very happy," said McClure's aide Mike Neff. "It's the culmination of 18 months of work."

Jailers uncover escape attempt

BOISE (AP) — Seven Ada County Jail inmates are confined to cells, after jailers uncovered a nearly successful escape attempt earlier this week.

On Monday, deputies found the iron bars in a cell holding the medium-custody inmates had been cut, Sheriff Vaughn Killeen said Thursday.

"The inmates obviously had assistance from the outside because someone had also cut through the security perimeter fence outside the jail," Killeen said.

He would not say whether the department has suspects outside the jail.

"There was very little to go before the bars could have been taken out," Killeen said. "It's fair to say they were well on their way."

No charges had been filed by Thursday. Killeen would not release the names of those in the cell.

All seven inmates are being "locked down," which means they are placed in separate cells and allowed out for only one hour a day.

Since the jail opened in 1977, 11 inmates have escaped, six through the recreational areas, Killeen said. All were recaptured.

Mecham says he'll continue in politics

POCATELLO (AP) — Republican Evan Mecham may be out of the Arizona governor's office, but he's not about to wash his hands of politics or abandon what he calls his dream of a corruption-free Arizona.

Mecham, the first governor in 69 years to be impeached, was in Pocatello Thursday as part of a speaking tour. The visit was coordinated by the Idaho College Republicans.

Although he's out of the political limelight, Mecham said he is involved in a political action committee and is writing a book about his impeachment.

"All they took from me was a job, but I'm still fighting to get rid of corruption in Arizona and because I know I'm right, we'll win this battle," he said.

The 64-year-old former automobile salesman, his soft-spoken manner in sharp contrast to what many consider abrasive demeanor in the past, said national leaders must debunk the idea of increasing taxes to cure the federal deficit.

Mecham said the country must return to its basic underpinnings — the Constitution — to get back on track.

While the jury is still out on what President-elect George Bush will bring to the White House, and the Bush-era in general, Mecham contends Bush will not be running the country.

Court upholds ruling on deed

BOISE (AP) — Outside testimony can't change a property deed when its meaning is plain and unambiguous, the Idaho Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The Supreme Court, in a 3-2 decision, upheld a Court of Appeals finding that a 4th District judge erred when he found in favor of the ex-husband in a divorce property settlement.

The lawsuit involved a ranch near Horseshoe Bend, owned by Carol Hall and Anthony Hall. During divorce proceedings, Hall's grandmother testified the property was sold to Carol and Anthony Hall for $60,000, when it was worth $100,000, because the extra $40,000 in value was intended as a gift to Anthony Hall.

Justices Robert Bakes and Allan Shepard dissented separately. In other decisions announced Friday:

The Supreme Court reversed a district court order that a Jefferson County woman must sell her house so her ex-husband can get cash for his share of the property. The court held that order in a divorce case involving Helen and Vernal Olsen violated terms of the original divorce agreement.

Haagenson apologizes for remarks

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — State Rep. Dean Haagenson, R-Coeur d'Alene, has apologized to Coeur d'Alene police for remarks he made to an officer who cited him for running a stop sign. But he still says he feels the department is overzealous in enforcing traffic laws.

He also said Thursday he would participate as a private citizen in any organized effort to change the way the police department's Selective Traffic Enforcement Program, STEP, is being run.

Haagenson, recently elected to his fourth term in the Legislature and a member of its Transportation Committee, apologized for telling the officer that if he wrote the ticket, the "department will pay."

The letter was published by The Coeur d'Alene Press on Friday. Haagenson was cited Tuesday by Kevin Peden, a STEP officer, for running a stop sign.

Haagenson said he meant by the "pay" comment that the department would lose respect and support from citizens by continuing the STEP program. "There is tremendous opposition out there in the community as to how STEP is being conducted," Haagenson said.

Officials investigate shotgun shells

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Shotgun shells embedded in Christmas candles that were delivered to a police station and a U.S. Army recruiting office have been turned over to federal investigators, authorities said today.

The candles were apparently sent anonymously to the offices last Christmas but were not discovered until later, when they were lit. Larry Bledsoe, Post Falls, purchased one of the candles at a garage sale was injured when he lit one last Friday. Post Falls Police Chief Cliff Hayes said.

Bledsoe suffered minor injuries to his hand after lighting the candle at his home. Investigators traced the candle to a garage sale at the home of Sgt. Bernard Davidson, station commander of the Coeur d'Alene Army recruiting office, Hayes said.

Davidson told police the lilac-scented candle was an anonymous gift that had been mailed to the office last December.

Coeur d'Alene Police said they, too, had received a similar gift that was discovered to be a shotgun shell when lit last February in the police office.

"When they mentioned their incident, we began connecting it with our Christmas candles," said Coeur d'Alene Police Capt. Dave Scates.

Emotions flare at 4th NPR public hearing

CHUBBUCK (AP) — The fourth in a series of public hearings on a proposal to build a weapons-related nuclear reactor complex in Idaho got off to an emotional start with an Idaho State University official scolding opponents for "standing in the way of progress" and "wasting this country's time and resources."

Friday's hearing in Chubbuck was one of a series scheduled by the U.S. Department of Energy to gather input for a draft environmental impact statement on the $3.6 billion New Production Reactor project.

The department wants to build the facility at its Idaho National Engineering Laboratory to produce tritium for use in nuclear warheads.

Additional hearings focusing on the INEL proposal are scheduled early next month in Spokane, Wash., and Moscow. Earlier hearings were conducted in Twin Falls, Idaho Falls and Boise.

Pocatello Mayor Richard Finlayson and Chubbuck Mayor John Cotland led off Friday's hearing with enthusiastic support of the NPR, although Finlayson encouraged the Energy Department to "thoroughly review air and water concerns, and the issue of nuclear waste.

Cotland, meanwhile, said that while he doesn't like having to spend large amounts of money on nuclear weapons production, "it is a fact of life. The price of peace is not cheap."

He said while opponents of the project have raised safety concerns, "I have to trust American scientists, who should know; or at least they should know better than those who lead demonstrations against everything America needs to be prepared."

The strongest rebuke for anti-NPR foes, however, came from David Levinakas, radiation safety officer for the ISU College of Engineering.

Levinakas gave the Energy Department a list of issues he felt the environmental assessment process should not address.

They included whether state agencies will have to increase expenditures to monitor INEL emissions, what will happen to waste produced by the NPR after it leaves the site and whether sporadic or tourists will be offended by construction of the reactors.

Pilot takes joyride in stolen plane

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Jefferson County sheriff's deputies are investigating the background of the Idaho Falls pilot who apparently went on a three-hour joyride in a stolen airplane early Thursday.

Raymond Lee Montgomery, 39, was in fair condition Friday at Eastern Idaho Regional Medical Center with a broken leg and lacerations.

A Jefferson County sheriff's spokeswoman said a single-engine airplane was stolen from the Rigby airport about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Several motorists in Madison, Jefferson and Bonneville counties reported a small plane swooped low over them between midnight and 2 a.m. Thursday. A witness said a single-engine plane flew between the Idaho Falls Mormon Temple and the adjacent towers of the former Riverview Hospital building about 12:30 a.m. Thursday.

The plane is believed to have crash landed about 2:30 a.m. near Ucon when it ran out of fuel.

Bonneville County sheriff's deputies responding to a report of a prowler shortly after 6 a.m. Thursday found Montgomery lying on the back porch of a farmhouse.

A sheriff's report said Montgomery talked to the officers while they gave him first aid and awaited an ambulance. He told them he was on a secret assignment and was doing some advertising when he crash landed, the report said.

Jefferson County Prosecutor Robin Dunn said sheriff's deputies were still gathering information about the incident and about Montgomery. No decision on filing charges will be made until that information is compiled and reviewed, he said.

A Federal Aviation Administration official examined the plane Thursday and released it to its owner, Linden Buttkofer of rural Idaho Falls.

Officials say Wildlife Congress is not 'stacked'

BOISE (AP) — The agenda of the Idaho Wildlife Congress, a major policy-setting meeting on wildlife issues, is not "stacked" to obtain the desired outcome, state Fish and Game Department Director Jerry Conley says.

Conley and Lt. Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter both have received phone calls from people complaining that they were not invited to the weekend meeting in Boise.

Conley said Fish and Game sent out about 10,000 invitations to the gathering, as well as advertising in the media.

He noted that Fish and Game solicited $10,000 in donations to offer financial assistance to those who cannot afford a hotel room, and that a toll-free hotline has been set up for taking reservations.

"Everything we've done is to encourage people to attend," he said. "It's open to anyone."

The agenda has been established to ensure that fish and wildlife priorities are set by all in attendance, he said.

Forty groups will be created from those attending, each of which will focus on a single fish and wildlife issue.

Each group will develop a list of eight suggestions and a top priority for resolving that particular issue. On Sunday, that list of 40 top priorities will be handed out to participants, who will then narrow that list down to 10 criteria, Conley said.

After that, participants will be solicited to sit on six regional wildlife councils and a state council. They will work on developing and implementing field projects, he said.

Input from the congress also will be used to update Fish and Game's 15-year management plan in 1990, he said.

"There's a growing concern that all the specialized groups aren't talking with each other about things that affect all of us," Conley said.

B-1B crash won't ground fleet

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — The second crash of a B-1B bomber in nine days probably will not force another grounding of the nation's fleet of advanced jet bombers, an Air Force general said Friday.

The four crewmen parachuted to safety Thursday night, but the $230 million plane was destroyed after smashing onto a runway at Ellsworth Air Force Base during a routine training flight.

The crash came two days after officials reported that the Air Force had inspected and cleared more than two-thirds of the 98 B-1B bombers, which were grounded briefly following a crash Nov. 8 that destroyed a plane in Texas.

"I see no reason to believe we will ground the fleet. I've talked to my bosses, and there is no intention at this time to ground them," said Maj. Gen. Robert Marquette, commander of the 12th Air Division at Ellsworth. "Statistics will prove that it is a safer airplane than previous bombers we've had at this point in the maturity process," he said.

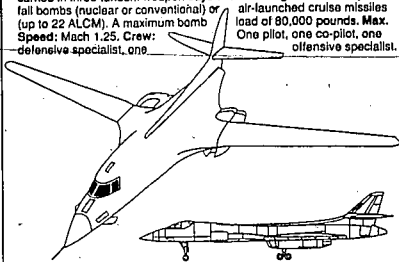

Marquette refused to speculate on the cause of Thursday's crash but said there was no evidence of an engine fire. At least one witness reported seeing an engine on fire before the crash.

Type: Low-altitude, long-range strategic bomber. Built: 1981 (prototype built in 1973) to present. Armament: A wide variety can be carried in three tandem weapon bays or under wing. Able to carry free-fall bombs (nuclear or conventional) or air-launched cruise missiles (up to 22 ALCM). A maximum bomb load of 80,000 pounds. Max. Speed: Mach 1.25. Crew: One pilot, one co-pilot, one defensive specialist, one offensive specialist.

Rockwell first flew the B-1 in 1974. The B-1B was designed to have for high-subsonic, low-altitude penetration of enemy airspace. It has low-altitude ride control, which makes it easier to fly close to the ground (500 ft.). Extreme efforts have been made to reduce the B-1B's radar visibility: it flies low, is light, has extensive electronic countermeasures, and uses radar-absorbing material. As a result, its radar cross-section is less than one-hundredth that of a B-52 bomber.

"I could hear the plane coming in for a landing," said John Hanzel, who lives next to the base. "I heard a muffled boom. It just lit the field up, probably for about 10 minutes. "The engine was on fire before it (the plane) hit the ground," witness Dale Landreth told Rapid City radio station KOTA.

Defense production resumption at Hanford not likely, boss says

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Widely publicized problems at other U.S. Department of Energy facilities have not made it more likely that defense production will resume at the Hanford nuclear reservation, the site manager said Friday.

Hanford remains only a backstop in DOE plans to build new tritium reactors in South Carolina and Idaho, Mike Lawrence said.

"The department has made a decision and I don't see anything changing that at this time," Lawrence said at a news conference.

Hanford, which has produced plutonium for the nation's nuclear weapons arsenal for over 40 years, lost its last production reactor earlier this year when DOE decided to place the N Reactor on "cold standby" because of a plutonium surplus.

The department later announced that it planned to build two new reactors — to make tritium, also a nuclear weapons ingredient — at its Savannah River Plant and the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory. Hanford was named as a contingency site in case of trouble.

Since that decision, there have been months of revelations about widespread safety problems at Savannah River and other DOE sites.

But that negative publicity has not resulted in any DOE decisions to delay shutdown work at the N Reactor, or to build a new tritium reactor on the Hanford site.

Wedtech case nets Biaggi 8-year term

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Mario Biaggi, a hero cop turned rogue congressman, reasserted his innocence and sought mercy for his son Friday before he was sentenced to eight years in prison for racketeering in the Wedtech corruption scandal.

"I'm still of the belief, I always have been, that I am innocent," the 10-term congressman told U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley before she sentenced him to eight years in prison and fined him $242,000.

The judge said a prison term was necessary to assure the community that "the punishment for such crimes upon conviction will be certain and substantial."

Biaggi, 71, in a voice wracked by sobs, pleaded with the judge to spare his eldest son and co-defendant, Richard, from prison.

Richard Biaggi, 39, of Fort Lee, N.J., took off his glasses, buried his face in his hands and wept at the defense table during his father's plea.

Motley later sentenced the younger Biaggi to two years in prison and fined him $71,000.

The elder Biaggi slumped in his chair but showed no emotion while Motley sentenced him.

President spares another tom turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan was presented Friday with his Thanksgiving turkey, a nearly 50-pound bird named "Woody," who gobbled away while the president petted him.

"What did you say?" Reagan asked the talkative Iowa tom as several dozen guests looked on at the Rose Garden ceremony, which has become an annual event.

The president noted that, as usual, Woody would not "go on a platter" next week, but will be taken instead to a petting zoo, in nearby McLean, Va.

The bird was raised by Pete Hermanson, president of the National Turkey Federation, who operates Woodland Farms south of Story City, Iowa.

Big Utah blast tests bomb storage shed

LOW, Utah (AP) — The Air Force detonated 450,000 pounds of explosives in Utah's western desert Friday to test a new ordinance storage shed, a thrice-delayed blast that rattled no windows in the Salt Lake Valley.

The explosion at 1:02 p.m. MST raised a gray cloud some 7,500 feet high and shook buildings about seven miles away, where about three dozen people, including U.S. military and NATO observers, watched on a television monitor.

The explosion measured 1.8 on the Richter scale at the University of Utah Seismograph Stations in Salt Lake City, about 60 miles to the southeast. Seismologist Sue Nava said the jolt was small and she doubted anyone along the populous Wasatch Front felt it.

There was no immediate indication whether the Hayman Igloo kept the force of the explosion from igniting munitions in smaller igloos nearby.

GOP governors want fast action on deficit

POINT CLEAR, Ala. (AP) — The nation's Republican governors, gathering today for partisan brainstorming, generally hope their party's new man in the White House will attack the budget deficit with tight controls on spending.

"Taxes are still too high in this country," said Delaware Gov. Michael N. Castle, chairman of the National Republican Governors Conference, which is holding its Saturday-through-Tuesday meeting at the Grand Hotel resort on Mobile Bay.

"We need to continue to look for ways to reduce costs, to invest in prevention-oriented solutions at the state level, to collect the billions of (tax) dollars that are not being collected right now," Castle said.

He was among the Republican governors interviewed by The Associated Press before the conference. Most called for restraint in spending, some using President-elect George Bush's phrase of a "flexible freeze," in offering their view of how he should deal with the budget deficits of the Reagan years.

"Cut spending, especially on the entitlement side," recommended New Hampshire Gov.-elect Judd Gregg, who is succeeding Bush's chief of staff-designate John Sununu. "Go after the COLAS (cost of living adjustments), don't believe anything (House Speaker) Jim Wright has to say relative to the budget and don't make deals."

Alabama Gov. Guy Hunt, the host of the conference and the first Republican elected governor of Alabama this century, was the only GOP chief executive to mention specifically a balanced budget amendment as an answer to the deficit.

But whatever the solution, said Hunt, controlling the deficit must be the highest priority of the new administration. Without it, he said, "I don't think you can address the other matters."

Hunt said Bush, who addresses the conference Tuesday, has indicated to him that deficit reduction will be his "first priority."

"I'm sure the president plans to handle it by continuing to expand the economy and second by working with Congress to reduce the level of expenditure and set spending by priorities," said Florida Gov. Bob Martinez, whose state is host to the governors Sunday on a tour of the U.S.S. Lexington at Pensacola.

"Controlling spending is critical to deficit reduction," said Wisconsin Gov. Tommy G. Thompson, "and the line-item veto authority should be enacted to help our next president and the United States succeed in reducing the federal deficit."

New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean advocates spending restraint on the federal level, but not the kind of across-the-board cuts imposed by the Gramm-Rudman Act, said Kean spokesman John Samerjan.

Marilyn Quayle won't take seat in Senate

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Marilyn Quayle said Friday she does not want the U.S. Senate seat her husband will give up to become vice president, but an aide to Gov. Robert D. Orr says about 25 other people are interested.

Orr has interviewed at least eight candidates, but has made no formal list, said aide James E. Knoop.

Mrs. Quayle, in a statement released by her husband's transition office, said she told Orr she is not interested in succeeding her husband.

Orr met with Mrs. Quayle on Thursday in Washington, and she emphasized that her responsibilities as the wife of the vice president and the mother of three school-age children would not allow her enough time for the Senate job, said spokesman Jim Carroll.

Orr is looking for someone to appoint to the Senate who can run for election in the remainder of the term in 1990 and seek re-election in 1992 if the effort is successful. State law allows an appointee to serve only until the next general election.

Quayle's term expires in 1992.

Republicans in the Senate will meet to elect their leadership Nov. 23, but they won't likely have a new Indiana colleague by that time, Knoop said.

"He's not going to rush through the process," Knoop said. Background checks eventually will be performed on a few candidates just to be safe, Knoop said.

Turner puts liberals in election forefront

TORONTO (AP) — Whatever the outcome of Monday's election, it will be remembered for the remarkable resurgence of Liberal Party leader John Turner and his relentless attack on the free trade agreement with the United States.

Turner, lambasted for increased deficits when he was finance minister and hiring goofs during a 79-day stint as prime minister, has struck campaign pay dirt with an attack that portrays Canada as a U.S. colony if the trade deal passes.

His forceful charge to Prime Minister Brian Mulroney during a televised debate — "You sold us out!" — invigorated a flagging Liberal campaign and set the tone for its final days.

Turner's nightmare vision of a weakened Canada has captivated the Liberals into a dead heat with Mulroney's Progressive Conservative Party, according to polls.

On Thursday, Turner told voters the deal would let United States overhump Canada and turn it into a branch plant.

Only a Conservative majority government now will ensure that the trade agreement starts Jan. 1 as scheduled. The agreement is to phase out all remaining tariffs between the two countries over a 10-year period.

The socialist New Democratic Party, expected to finish third Monday,

JOHN TURNER Pushes liberal causes

also opposes the trade agreement. Mulroney signed with President Reagan in January.

The 1988 campaign already stands in sharp contrast to 1984, when the Conservatives devastated the opposition to win 51 of the House of Commons' 282 seats. The Liberals — with Turner at the helm — fell from the 147 seats they won in 1980 to 40.

In 1984, Turner inherited the Liberal Party leadership from Pierre Trudeau and served as prime minister through the election. It was the second-shortest term as prime minister ever in Canada.

Pakistani vote brings democracy closer

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Benazir Bhutto's election victory set Pakistan on the road to democracy and was the retribution for the military's overthrow of her father in 1977.

President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq was not present to suffer public embarrassment. He died in a plane crash three months ago.

Gen. Zia overthrew Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto in 1977, after Pakistan's last open National Assembly election, and Bhutto later was convicted of complicity in a murder conspiracy. He was hanged in 1979. Zia still has many supporters among the military and the affluent, but the judiciary began restoring democracy after his death, and in Wednesday's election, the people took a huge second step.

Ms. Bhutto's populist Pakistan People's Party, founded by her father, proved that it still was the nation's most powerful political organization.

It won 92 of the 205 National Assembly seats at stake, far more than the 54 gained by a conservative alliance of Zia loyalists. Ms. Bhutto should be the next prime minister if she can form a majority coalition.

After ruling by martial law for eight years after the coup, Zia held elections for a civilian government in 1985. Political parties were not allowed to enter candidates, and Ms. Bhutto's followers and others in the opposition boycotted the vote.

He let the government, under Prime Minister

Muhammad Khan Jinnah, preside with limited powers until May, then dismissed it and the National Assembly on grounds of corruption, incompetence and slowness in signing Islamic law.

The constitution required elections be held within 90 days, but Zia ignored it. In late July he called them for Nov. 16, again on a non-party basis. He died in the crash Aug. 17.

Source close to the general have confirmed that Zia intended the elections to coincide with the birth of Ms. Bhutto's first child as her personal campaigning would be limited. She is married to Asif Ali Zardari, a Karachi businessman.

Ms. Bhutto, 35, gave birth to a full-term boy Sept. 21. After Zia was killed, family sources admitted they had said the baby was due in late November or early December to foil Zia's plans.

Zia's iron control began to slip in June when the Supreme Court, responding to a petition filed by Mr. Bhutto, struck down his decree empowering the government to accept or reject political parties applying to enter an election.

When Zia died, the presidency passed to the president of the Senate, Ghulam Ishaq Khan, a 73-year-old constitutional scholar.

Ishaq Khan hinted at change by telling his first news conference, on the day Zia was buried, he would let the courts rule on the constitutionality of non-party elections.

Benazir Bhutto has simple majority

Soviets recognize Palestinian state

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union on Friday recognized the proclamation of an independent Palestinian state in a careful gesture to its Arab allies that kept alive recent overtures to Israel.

Faithful to the fundamental principle of freedom of choice, the Soviet Union recognizes the proclamation of the Palestinian state, PLO Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh told a news briefing.

He said the Soviet Union believes a comprehensive settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict "will lead also to the practical completion of the historic process of creating this state."

The statement appeared to signal continued Soviet support for the Palestine Liberation Organization without alienating Israel by extending full diplomatic relations to the PLO. Czechoslovakia issued a similar statement later that also stopped short of recognizing the Palestinian state, while East Germany's state-run news agency said that communist nation had given recognition to the state.

Israeli leaders did not publicly comment on Moscow's move except to say it seemed unclear. But senior officials privately expressed satisfaction that Moscow had stepped short of outright recognition.

Musa Mubarak, spokesman for the PLO office in Moscow, said the statement meant the opening of full diplomatic ties. He said the PLO would be considered "like any other government" in Moscow.

The PLO has maintained an office in Moscow since 1976.

South African black activists found guilty of treason

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — In a severe blow to the anti-apartheid movement, four prominent black activists were convicted of treason Friday and seven were found guilty of terrorism after a 3½-year trial.

The 11 could receive the death penalty. A sentencing hearing begins Dec. 5.

The trial, the longest in South Africa's history, focused on the United Democratic Front, a huge multiracial coalition formed in 1983 with the goal of campaigning militarily, but peacefully, for black political rights.

Eight of the 19 defendants were acquitted on all charges.

The trial judge ruled the United Democratic Front a "revolutionary organization" that inited violence in black townships in 1984 in a bid to render South Africa ungovernable.

"I'm shattered by the verdict," said Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu, a patron of the United Democratic Front. "If any of these people are sent to prison, I will not rest until I get them out. If this is treason, then I am guilty of treason."

Defense lawyers are expected to file an appeal after sentences are issued. If the appeal fails, blacks might respond with a "wave of rage," said the Rev. Allan Boesak, another prominent patron of the group.

Three of those convicted of treason were senior leaders of the United Democratic Front who had spent 40 months in jail without bail — Popo Molefe, 36, the coalition's national secretary; Terror Lekota, 40, its chief spokesman; and Moses Chikane, 40, a leader of the group's Transvaal Province branch.

"We haven't given up. We will always maintain that the UDF is a non-violent organization," Chikane said before he and his colleagues gave clenched-fist salutes and were led away.

Supreme Court Justice Kees van Dijkhorst said the men were the "conspiratorial core" of the group and that they failed in their obligation to "owe allegiance at all times" to the state.

The government in February banned the United Democratic Front and 17 other groups fighting apartheid, under which the 26-million black majority has no say in national affairs.

Ethnic Albanians protest leaders' forced resignations

PRISTINA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Tens of thousands of ethnic Albanians, carrying portraits of former Yugoslav leader Josip Broz Tito, rallied in this Kosovo capital Friday to protest the forced resignation of two popular provincial leaders.

At least 22,000 people took to the streets in other Kosovo towns in opposition to the resignations and to pressure from the Serbian republic for more control over its ethnically troubled southern province, Belgrade radio and television reported.

The crowd in Pristina was estimated by the state news agency Tanjug at 70,000, the largest demonstration in the province in more than four decades of Communist rule.

Protesters held thousands of portraits of Tito, who signed the 1974 constitution granting Kosovo wide autonomy.

"We don't want changes of Tito's constitution!" the protesters chanted in Albanian. "We will give our lives, but we will not give up Kosovo!"

Kosovo's leaders discussed the possibility of "emergency measures ... in case the so far peaceful protests turn into riots," an informed source close to the leadership told The Associated Press. He demanded anonymity.

The protests followed the forced resignations Thursday of two popular Kosovo ethnic Albanian leaders, Azem Vllasi and Kacusa Jassari.

Gorbachev makes state visit to India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, in an apparent reference to China, said Friday that "the development of relations with third countries" will not affect the Kremlin's friendly ties with India.

Gorbachev's three-day state visit began with a brisk motorcade under arches covered with roses, marigolds and chrysanthemums. Thousands of spectators waved Soviet and Indian flags.

A more somber note was sounded by a police warning to all Afghan refugees to stay off the streets until Gorbachev leaves town Sunday.

An estimated 7,000 Afghan refugees, many of them opposed to the Soviet military involvement in their homeland, live in New Delhi.

Gorbachev conferred with Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi for more than two hours before a private banquet.

Idaho Is Too Great To Litter Campaign ... RECYCLING PROJECT

Saving natural resources, keeping Idaho beautiful, and raising money for our schools are three reasons 28 schools are participating in the second annual Idaho Is Too Great To Litter Education Program. The elementary schools are competing for Apple Computers and playground equipment and each individual school has goals for the money they raise.

Secondary Schools are competing for audiovisual equipment and individual students can earn cash at a 1989 Sub!

Everyone wins by getting involved in recycling! This is a terrific opportunity to get involved in our student's education. Most of the schools have had at least one successful drive already.

Liquor candy

If that liquor-laced candy you eat come the Holidays wasn't made in Kentucky or Nevada, something's wrong. Those are the only two states that permit its manufacture. And the United States outlaws its import.

At sea, if the wind shifted, and the sails were whipped against the mast, sailors of old described it with a term that found its way into landlubber usage: "taken aback."

Q. What's the world's largest bird of prey?
 A. Condor of the Andes. With a 10-foot wingspan.

Q. Do ants have eyes?
 A. Some do, some don't.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Home activities, nature and sports are the best bets for today. Avoid the unusual or experimental. Go the familiar route for a pleasing time. Avoid pushing new ideas on others, even though they seem sound.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Others in the household may get up on the wrong side of the bed. Be patient. Everything will get done, and you will arrive on time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Nothing can bother you today. You are stimulated and feel refreshed. Catch up on home matters. Visit the local flea market.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Turmoil at home passes, but your intentions are misunderstood. It will soon cloud your day if you let it. Discuss shared resources.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You want to quit when things are not going smoothly. Grumbling will cause others to feel they must defend themselves.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 31): You are the star, and others will follow you. Give the house a once over. Things you need will be found after a search.

it's because of a phenomenon police call "weapon focus," most likely. In countless instances, they say, the face of the attacker is ignored because the attacker waves a gun or knife. Many a witness in this fix has been able to describe the weapon perfectly, but not the face at all.

Remain cheerful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Keep your temper in check today. Scattered energies aggravate your sense of order. A surprise phone call comes with travel plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Research plans for a visit. Consult others on upcoming holiday plans. Share the workload to free up time. Catch up on correspondence.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You wake up annoyed by home conditions. A closer look reveals better organization. Control your feelings. Avoid taking action. Stay calm.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Let the family decide the plans for the day. It feels good to let someone else take charge. Sporting events are a good idea.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Make out a shopping list, and tally it against your budget. Strike out unnecessary items. Events are in your favor. Romance flourishes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You feel that everything is broken, out of place and misused. It has been that way for some time. Get moving, and clean things up.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Your picky mood is unusual. Give yourself a pep talk. Don't lose an enjoyable day. Use your creative instincts, and rely on intuition.

Lion tamer announces pending retirement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Lion tamer Gunther Gebel-Williams said Thursday he plans to retire from the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, where he has been riding elephants and subduing Bengals for the past two decades.

Dressed in blue sequined tights and jacket, the trim, blond Gebel-Williams, 54, said he wanted to retire "while I'm still on top."

He said he would tour with "The Greatest Show on Earth" for two more years before retiring at the end of the 1990 season.

"Tiger training is like race car driving, like boxing. You have to be really on top all the time. It's not possible to feel not so good one day. ... There has to be the time to say, that's it," Gebel-Williams said in a thick, German accent flanked by a 40-year-old elephant, Nellie.

Ringling Bros. President Kenneth Feld said he plans to replace Gebel-Williams with eight to 10 people doing various parts of the many animal acts Gebel-Williams now performs alone.

"It's the most difficult thing I've ever had to deal with," Feld said. "Once in a lifetime there's a Gunther Gebel-Williams."

Gebel-Williams was born in the German town of Schweidnitz, which is now a part of Poland, and was 12 years old when his widowed mother was hired by Circus Williams as a wardrobe seamstress.

He soon began working with animals and became a master showman at age 16. He took over the business after owner Harry Williams died and, in 1968, caught the eye of Feld's father, circus producer Irvin Feld.

Irvin Feld wanted to hire Gebel-Williams to create a second touring unit of his circus. He bought the entire German troupe for $2 million when Gebel-Williams refused to leave it. Gebel-Williams has remained in the center ring since, becoming famous for his flashy showmanship, his flowing gold hair and his taming of tigers, elephants, horses, giraffes and other animals.

Group sponsors turkey liberation

SEATTLE (AP) — It's Thanksgiving, and time to sit down for a big meal of beans and tofu, says the Progressive Animal Welfare Society.

The Seattle animal rights organization thinks it's wrong to chow down on turkey next Thursday. So it's sponsoring "Turkey Liberation Day" on Monday.

Spokeswoman Julia Henry says the main event is a vegetarian potluck dinner featuring beans, grains, pasta and tofu. She said a meatless diet is healthy and very tasty, once you get used to it.

The vegetarian dinner is an annual event started in the 1970's by a vegetarian group.

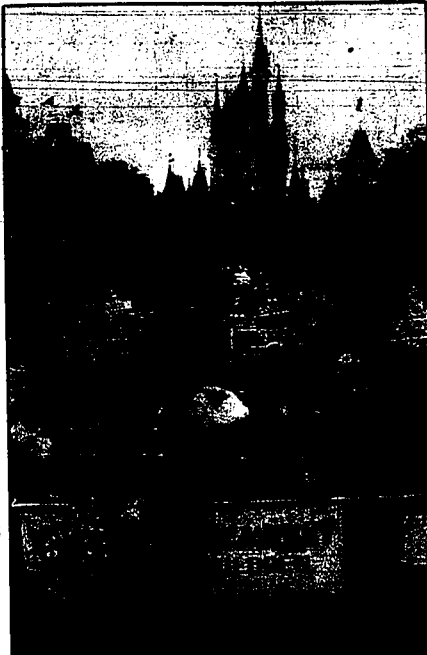

Sakharov doesn't need surgery, pacemaker

BOSTON (AP) — Soviet Nobel laureate Andrei Sakharov will not require heart surgery or a pacemaker, his doctor said Friday.

In a statement released by Massachusetts General Hospital, Adolph M. Hutter Jr. said he met with the Sakharov, 67, and gave him the news. He said Sakharov would return to Mass General next week for final evaluations. Sakharov suffers from angina, or heart pain.

Sakharov returned Friday to Boston after a week in Washington and New York. He was to attend a private reception Friday night at the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in Cambridge.

Mickey and Minnie Mouse lead a group of 4000 children from 116 cities during Mickey's 60th birthday party

A small world helps Mickey celebrate 60

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Some kids tweaked Mickey's nose Friday and others sang "It's a Small World" in Russian, German or English when more than 4,000 children joined in celebrating the 60th birthday of the famous Walt Disney mouse.

"Next to winning the hockey championship at school, this is the best thing that's happened to me in my life," said 10-year-old Christopher Letao of Boston.

Vitaly Yakimov, 9, from Moscow, said the best part was that "everybody smiles, the children and adults, everybody."

Shortly after noon, in groups of 10 to 100, specially invited children — many of them poor or from foster homes — from 116 U.S. cities and several other nations assembled for a parade from Cinderella's Castle down Main Street to town square in the Magic Kingdom.

Decked out in brightly colored Disney T-shirts and mouse-ear "hats," youngsters ranging in age from 8 to 12 marched behind Mickey and Minnie Mouse. They waved and sang "M-I-C-K-E-Y" along with the band as they became the center of attention for the tourist crowds in sunny, 80-degree weather.

Mickey Mouse's day-long party celebrated the squeaky-voiced character's debut Nov. 18, 1928, at the Colony Theater in New York City in "Steamboat Willie," the first cartoon to have sound synchronized with the pictures.

"People who saw Mickey Mouse in his heyday during the Depression saw that he had so many of the foibles that they had, and was striving to get ahead in the world just like them," said Disney archivist David Smith. "People looked up to this mouse."

Friday's festivities also included a global sing-along of the "Mickey Mouse Club March," the famous theme song that spells out Mickey's name, on radio stations around the world. Disney said broadcasters on every continent and at the North and South poles played the 12-line classic at 7:50 a.m. MST.

Bankruptcy court needed in Twin Falls, officials say

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A federal courtroom in Twin Falls for federal court hearings could save debtors and creditors money in bankruptcy cases.

"We now travel to Pocatello or Boise," said Richard Greenwood, a Twin Falls attorney. "A two-hour court hearing in effect lasts all day, and somebody's paying the lawyers to do that."

Jerry L. Clapp, clerk of the U.S. District Court in Boise, said he will pursue permission after the first of the year to rent space in Twin Falls. Some bankruptcy court hearings already are held in the Jerome County Courthouse, but a heavy caseload is making it difficult for the judge to get adequate space.

"Our needs have expanded, and we're already trying to work in a good facility, but it's pushed to its limit already," Clapp said.

Greenwood said Jerome hearings have become abbreviated because of the courthouse's lack of space.

Clapp said he's trying to obtain permission to rent a hearing room in Twin Falls for a few days a month, maybe as few as two or three days. Under the current system, bankruptcy clients are often faced with driving to Boise or Pocatello for many hearings.

"It certainly would be more convenient, particularly if they staff it on a regular basis," said James Tucker, a Twin Falls attorney who works with creditors in bankruptcy proceedings.

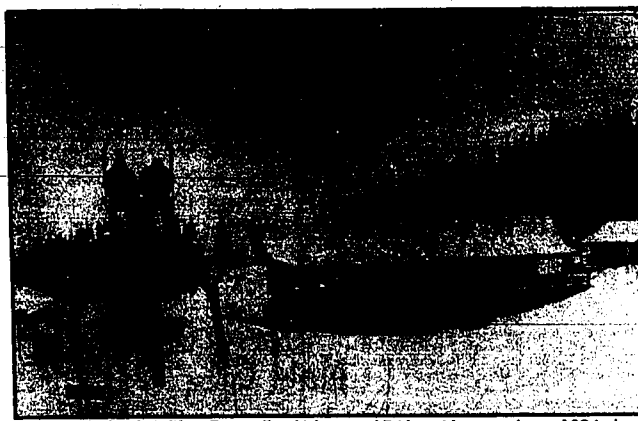

In Jerome, "the courtroom is always packed, and the judge can only afford to hear the briefest of motions," Tucker said. "Anything extended he has to put over."

In the Magic Valley, 344 bankruptcy cases were filed in the 1986 fiscal year of Oct. 1 to Sept. 30 in 1986, 467 in 1987 and 406 in 1988, Clapp said. But a federal courtroom might be used for more than just bankruptcies.

"We have a large problem with illegal entries (aliens), or historically have, from Nevada into that area," Clapp said. "If we had a facility, even a part-time facility, we could have arrangements there."

Clapp is faced with a two-part selling job. The Judicial Council of the 9th U.S. Circuit must first approve his plan. Then the Judicial Conference of the United States must stamp its approval, which probably will be the more difficult step.

"We're under some strong fiscal constraints at the federal level," Clapp said.

Broken wheel may be cause of derailment

The Associated Press and The Times-News

MINIDOKA — Union Pacific crews hoped to have a rail line east of Minidoka reopened by midnight Friday, UP spokesman Greg Thibodeau, Omaha, Neb., said.

Twenty-seven cars of an eastbound Union Pacific freight train derailed just east of Minidoka Friday morning, and repair crews were working to unblock the tracks.

Thibodeau said the 89-car freight left Portland on route to North Platte, Neb. He said normally 25 to 30 trains per day run through the area.

Trains were being held in Portland and Pocatello until the damage can be cleared, he said. The derailment occurred about 5:15 a.m. Preliminary reports indicate a broken wheel was the cause of the derailment, Thibodeau said.

"It's not final," he said. "But right now it's highly suspected. They found a broken wheel."

Eyewitnesses said a number of freight cars overturned, some spilling their cargo of onions and sugar. There was extensive damage to the track itself.

No injuries were reported.

TWIN FALLS — "We're really happy with what Mother Nature has given us," chirps a genuinely cheerful voice on the Pomerelle ski hotline. "Things have definitely changed around here."

The Albion-area ski resort got 19 inches of new snow on Thursday, bringing its total for opening day Friday to 39 inches at the base and 52 inches on the mountain.

Gleeful reports of heaping snow are coming in from ski resorts all over the state. Idaho's second-year of drought seems little more than a bad dream as many of the state's ski resorts open earlier than normal.

Downhill skiing is available today at Pomerelle, Bogus Basin, Brundage Mountain and Grand Targhee.

Cross-country skiers can mount their boards at Galena Lodge north of Ketchum on Highway 75.

The weather should cooperate as well as the snow today, with partly cloudy skies, light winds and highs 35 to 40 degrees in the Magic Valley. A 10 percent chance of precipitation exists today, increasing to 20 percent tonight, according to the National Weather Service.

Sunday is expected to be cloudy with a slight chance of rain or snow in the area. High temperatures will be near 40 degrees and lows 20 to 25 degrees.

For those looking to outfit themselves for ski season, a ski swap will be held at the College of Southern Idaho gym from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Pomerelle's opening day Friday wasn't overly busy, said Manager Jody Anderson, but "the skiing was better than any other opening day save one in the last 15 years."

The road to Pomerelle is plowed, but snow tires or chains are needed. The rates today and Sunday are $12, and the cafeteria and ski rental will be open. The ski school will also be running, but the new triple chair won't be operational until Wednesday. The shuttle bus will not begin operating until Nov. 25.

Sun Valley will open on its traditional day — Thanksgiving.

Soldier Mountain, which has a 38 inch base with eight inches of new snow, is tentatively scheduled to open Nov. 25, but it may open earlier depending on conditions.

Magic Mountain will open Dec. 16. The late date is due to additional renovations being made by the new owners, Marty and Sherrie Jacobs.

Bogus Basin is having its first November opening in three years, and its first pre-Thanksgiving opening in many more. It has more than 40 inches of snow at mid-mountain.

Brundage Mountain near McCall will open for the weekend. Grand Targhee, near Driggs, opened Friday.

"We've almost got a foot of snow in McCall," said Rita Lyon, Brundage marketing director. "We're going to be off and running. Everyone should have a great ski season."

Both Brundage and Bogus will operate Saturday and Sunday, close Monday through Wednesday and reopen on Thanksgiving for the season.

"We have the best cover I've seen in the past five years," said Susie Barnett-Bushon at Grand Targhee. "We're going to be 100 percent open. We've had a couple feet of heavy, wet snow, which makes an excellent base." The resort reported 52 inches at the top of Fred's run Wednesday night.

Owners Mory and Carol Bergmeyer will unveil a wealth of improvements at the resort, including a complete nordic ski center.

Schweitzer at Sandpoint will open on Thanksgiving. Two new runs have been added.

Pedersen's sale draws crowds

By MARTA CLEVELAND

TWIN FALLS — The soggy rain fell on the swirling, shifting, swelling crowd on the sidewalk.

A searchlight cut the sky on a mission to make the growing queue longer still. Inside, the frenzy didn't slacken.

That was Pedersen's on Wednesday night, the grand opening of the downtown emporium's grand closing. Though the bustle has slowed since then, everyone but owner Dave Pedersen has been surprised by the turnout throughout the sale.

It has been a zoo, said salesman Mark Rogers. He has worked at four different sporting goods stores, and this is the most popular sale he has ever seen, he said.

Pedersen said he knew what to expect because he has done big sales for his father's business, State Hardware.

"Why is this sale so popular?" "Everybody likes a bargain," Pedersen said. "They are tired of non-

Problems of address system should abate

By KIRK MITCHELL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A newly completed rural addressing system in Twin Falls County is causing a few nightmares for postal carriers, but soon will take the adventure out of finding obscure locations, officials say.

The addressing system, commissioned by three utilities — Idaho Power Co., Intermountain Gas Co. and Mountain Bell — pinpoints on a grid approximately 6,500 unincorporated county residences and businesses with addresses accurate to within about 63 feet, said Scott Allen, designer-drafter for EHM Engineers, which was hired to draft the system.

EHM used the southwest corner of Twin Falls City as a reference point and added 100 to address coordinates for every mile in each direction. For example, a location 28 miles east and 34.8 miles north of that point would be 2800 E. 3480 N.

In a few cases, homeowners have been using the new addresses before postal carriers received maps, causing some confusion, Kimberly Postmaster Ted McNeal said. In most cases, postmen recognized names on the letters and knew where to take them, but a few people who recently moved into town had to pick their mail up at the post office, McNeal said.

Homes outside city limits but within the impact area will not get new addresses even though their addresses — Rt. 2, Buhl, for instance — are as vague and difficult to find as those getting changed.

McNeal said postal carriers are being unfairly blamed for the problems. "I feel like it could have been coordinated better," he said. "We are the ones who catch the lack. We ended up with egg on our faces."

He said the final draft had been promised Oct. 1 and "we still don't have it."

Allen said the problems arose when McNeal sent notices to people telling them to use the new addresses before the final draft was released this week. He said notices were also sent to homes inside the impact zone where addresses will change.

Several interests, including churches, well drillers, emergency services, foreclosure attorneys as well as the utilities, have been interested in the new addressing system, Allen said.

"It should significantly improve our ability to get to rural addresses" faster, said Dave Silbernagel, director of ambulance service at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Allen said people can buy an addressing package that includes a large gridded map and a book of the addresses sorted alphabetically and numerically.

The utilities have also discussed converting all county addresses to the coordinate system in a few years, Allen said.

Maury Miller, supervisor of mail processing and delivery in Twin Falls, said the new system is more complicated for sorting because there are more numbers, but workers should soon be able to sort as quickly as the old system.

He said letters will not be sent back to the sender until every attempt is made to locate the new address.

Gooding woman faces embezzlement charges

GOODING — A Gooding woman faces trial on 10 counts of grand theft in an embezzlement case that once seemed dead.

Sonia Branch had once worked out a plea-bargain contingent on paying restitution of $189,000 by writing checks to a Jerome bank account under the name of WEGO Systems.

Meanwhile, a civil lawsuit filed by Bastarretta against Branch and her husband, Lester Branch, has been appealed to the Idaho Supreme Court before trial. Bastarretta Distributing is asking for $189,361 in damages from Branch.

Nelson had first filed conspiracy charges against the Branches but dropped those charges, saying he couldn't prove the two agreed to their actions.

Idaho National Guard plans to modernize tank, gunnery range

By The Times-News and The Associated Press
BOISE — The Idaho Army National Guard will modernize its tank and gunnery range in the Snake River Birds of Prey Area despite outcry from environmentalists.
The U.S. Bureau of Land Management has approved a right-of-way application by the Guard in what is considered the densest known nesting population of raptors in the world.
Conservationists had pressured the BLM to refrain from granting the right-of-way until research into the impact of previous tank maneuvers on prey species is done. Jackrabbits and ground squirrels are the chief prey of the birds on the flats above the Snake River Canyon.

"We don't have any data at all that show the Guard has had any adverse impact on Birds of Prey," said Barry Rose, spokesman for the BLM's Boise District.
The BLM's own documents say they don't know what's going on, so they're saying, "Why not approve the right-of-way?" said Maurice LaFane, director of the Institute for Wildlife Research for the National Wildlife Federation.

"We're saying, 'If you don't know what's going on, how could you say yes?'"
"The Guard wants to spend $11.3 million to upgrade the training range into a state-of-the-art complex including electronic targets, permanent roads, storage buildings and ammunition sheds.
With permanent gravel roads, the impact of tanks on the range will "ultimately actually be less than the present practice of tanks running over bare ground," said Major Richard Sheehan, an environmental engineer with the Idaho Army National Guard.
The canyon and the tablelands support golden eagles, prairie falcons, red-tailed hawks and other raptors.

Since 1941, the area has also been home to military activity as a bombing range for the U.S. Army. At the end of World War II the range was closed. It was reopened in 1953 as a National Guard training area.
"We don't think (the improvements) will have any additional impact," Rose said. "The project would disturb only about 24 acres in construction. The impact of that is really negligible."
Rose said a four-year study is planned in the area, and once $2.9 million in funding is obtained, research will begin.

A three-year noise study by the BLM and Idaho Power Co. is "just being completed," Sheehan said. Demolition charges were set off near nesting areas to see their effect on the birds.
Though final results have not yet been compiled, the study showed birds apparently get used to the noise quickly and continue to nest successfully, Sheehan said.
The tank firing range is about eight miles from nesting areas.
—National Wildlife Federation, Audubon Society, Wilderness Society and Natural Resources Defense Council may file appeals on the BLM's decision.

Filer School Board hears plans for several local PTO projects

By DON PUDEK
Times-News correspondent

FILER — The Filer Parent-Teachers Organization has a number of projects planned to help local schools, Ann Peterson, coordinator for the parents in the group, told the School Board on Tuesday.
Peterson said 100 to 120 parents have worked in some way with the PTO.
In addition to working as volunteer teacher aides, the group is developing a reading incentive program in the elementary school, with cooperation of Pizza Hut and McDonalds.
In September, the group planned parties and developed some ideas for fund-raising finance projects to aid students and teachers.
The projects include modifying the slide in the kindergarten play area to make it safer, resurfacing the third-grade play area and repairing and reinforcing the swings there.
Peterson said Ray Willis helped obtain a fact-of-surplus-pooling-fence to replace and extend the old fence. That fence was just about at eye-level to the children, creating a hazard, Peterson said.
Peterson also reported that Rep. Richard Stallings has obtained new flag for the school. The flag will be installed in January.
Other projects planned are a spring telethon, a Campbell Soupco, bel drive and a search for available educational grants. In other matters, High School Principal Bob McGrew reported on the formation-of-a-Core-Group to deal with drug and alcohol abuse problems.

The "drug squad" as they have named it, consists of McGrew, and three teachers. McGrew said he will ask two parents and a board member to join the group.
The Filer group hopes to incorporate IMPACT, a peer counseling and prevention program used successfully by Twin Falls District.
Much of the help for developing the program will come from the Boise Workshop Drug Abuse and from the Northwest Regional Lab in Portland, Ore.
In his report to the board, Superintendent Dave Tester said that the district cash flow continues to go well and said that interest which the district earns through the state investment pool was a little better than anticipated.
He also said that he was pleased with the steady enrollment figures so far and that the anticipated drop in total student numbers after harvest time did not materialize this fall.
McGrew reported on a cooperative plan with the College of Southern Idaho in which vo-ag students can earn a maximum of four credits in animal and plant science.
The students use computers hooked up with CSI to take the class and credits are transferable to Idaho State University, University of Idaho and Utah State University.
In other items, the board:
— Heard the second reading of the Property Disposal Procedure Policy, which—now becomes—board-policy.
— Heard the second of the Expulsion

Policy, which also now becomes board policy. Voted to not grant attendance area exceptions requested by two families, with the understanding that before the next school year the request may be granted then. The first reading of two changes made in the district philosophy of education was presented by Sue Lammers. The changes involved the adding of "fine arts" to the second paragraph and basic skills and "personal responsibility" to the first paragraph. Tester said a foreign exchange student from Australia will most likely be attending Filer High School.
John Scholes was hired as custodian at the middle school. Scholes has had considerable experience in industrial and commercial maintenance.
— Sue Lammers, president of the Filer Teachers Association, presented the board with balloons and candy to show appreciation for the support the board has given the teachers.
Board Chairman John Draney thanked Lammers and said the board, administrators and teachers have a good working relationship.
— McGrew thanked the board for the opportunity for he and other district administrators had to participate in Project Leadership, a program in which principals, superintendents and special education administrators from the area meet to discuss issues facing education.
"We get so involved within our own buildings, that it is quite a help to us to meet with other people with some of the same problems and challenges," McGrew said.

Denver man sentenced in murders

CRAIG, Colo. (AP) — A Denver man accused of killing three members of a Craig family pleaded guilty Friday to three counts of first-degree murder and was sentenced to three consecutive life sentences.
David Hisey, 34, pleaded guilty to the murder charges as part of a plea-bargain agreement at a hearing before Moffat County District Judge Rebecca Lee Kouris.
He faces at least 120 years in prison.
The court hopes you spend the rest of your life regretting and atoning for the heinous crimes you have committed," Kouris told Hisey when she imposed the three consecutive life sentences.
In exchange for the guilty plea, prosecutors agreed not to seek the death penalty for the murder charges. They also dropped an escape charge against Hisey that stemmed from an Aug. 23 escape attempt at the Moffat County Jail.

Hisey who next May 1, was charged with the shooting deaths of Brian Williams, 32, his common-law wife, Gail Boyer, 17, and their 17-month-old son, Steven Williams, all of Craig. Their bodies were found last Jan. 11 in a remote ravine 20 miles southwest of Craig. Investigators said they believed the victims died two days earlier.
Hisey, a computer system analyst for the state Department of Social Services, "was an acquaintance of Williams and apparently had spent the weekend of the murders in Craig."
Authorities have released only sketchy details of the murder case, and Kouris earlier this year imposed a gag order barring court personnel and attorneys from discussing the case publicly.

Authorities said Boyer and the child apparently were killed execution-style and died of single gunshot wounds to the head. Williams died of blows to the head and a gunshot wound to the chest, autopsy results showed.
After Hisey entered the guilty plea to the charges Friday, Kouris imposed the consecutive life sentences. Hisey would have to serve 40 years in prison to be eligible for parole on each charge, so he faces a 120-year minimum sentence as a result of his plea.
In addition, Hisey waived his rights to a jury trial and to lodge an appeal.
Prosecutor Kerry St. James said he had contacted relatives of the murder victims, and none had objected to the plea-bargain agreement.

'Chop shop' leader files suit from prison

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The ringleader of a "chop shop" that sold stolen "semitrailer" trucks—has filed suit from prison, claiming the city of West Jordan sold a semi that belonged to him.
James Frank Lovelless, a Salt Lake County resident sentenced to eight years in prison on the chop shop charges in 1984, filed the U.S. District Court suit against seven FBI agents. He is seeking $380,000 in damages.
The suit names as defendants FBI agents W. Don Rogers and "John Doe." Bryant, plus five others whose names are unknown to him. Lovelless is serving a term in federal prison at Boron, Calif.
The action stems from a 1983 federal prosecution in which Lovelless was indicted along with seven others in a chop shop operation. Prosecutors said—semitrailer—trucks—and other equipment were stolen and dismantled, and the parts sold through a fencing network.

A lawyer was acquitted of two counts of obstructing justice. All others were found guilty.
Lovelless pleaded guilty to one count of receipt of stolen goods and one count of interstate transportation of stolen goods. U.S. District Court Chief Judge Alden J. Anderson sentenced him to eight years in prison to be followed by three years of probation.
The suit says Lovelless owned a 1986 semitrailer that was seized in 1982 by the city of West Jordan. It says the FBI may mistakenly think it is a 1980 truck.

On Nov. 15, 1982, the suit says, the 5th Circuit Court ordered the truck returned to Lovelless.
But the city of West Jordan continued to hold the vehicle, pursuant to a writ of attachment issued by the 3rd Judicial District Court. It adds that on Nov. 18, 1983, the court ruled that third-party claimants have no right to the truck.
On the same day, the FBI took possession of the truck "without a search warrant from the city of West Jordan and transferred it to a Utah County road shop facility in Provo," the suit says.
Defendants claimed that some parts of (it) belonged to Mr. Fred Kobold. However, Mr. Kobold inspected said truck and stated that none of the parts thereon belonged to him, the suit said.

Canyon County files suit against woman

CALDWELL (AP) — Canyon County has filed a 3rd District Court lawsuit seeking $85,000 from a Nampa woman it claims had $22,000 in a savings account when she applied for and received medical indigent assistance.
The lawsuit, filed this week, seeks to recover money paid by Canyon County to Utah and Idaho hospitals for expenses incurred by Paige Goertzen Hoover in the births of two children. The claim includes back interest, punitive damages and legal fees.

The medical bills stem from the births of Paige Goertzen Hoover and Larry Hoover's children. The couple did not have insurance when the children were born.
The first child was born May 20, 1986, with birth defects. A second child was born in July of 1987.

Canyon County paid all but $92,000 of the medical bills, but Primary Children's Hospital, Salt Lake City, won a lawsuit requiring the county to pay the final $22,000.
The lawsuit alleges Goertzen Hoover had $22,000 from a civil lawsuit in a bank account, and later used the money for a down payment on a house.

Jailers foil escape attempt of 7 Ada County inmates

BOISE (AP) — Seven Ada County Jail inmates are confined to cells, after jailers uncovered a nearly successful escape attempt earlier this week.
On Monday, deputies found the iron bars in a cell holding the medium-custody inmates had been cut, Sheriff Vaughn Killeen said Thursday.
The inmates allegedly had assistance from the outside because someone had also cut through the security perimeter fence outside the jail, Killeen said.
He would not say whether the department has suspects outside the jail.
"There was very little to go before the bars could have been taken out," Killeen said. "It's fair to say they were well on their way."

No charges had been filed by Thursday-Killeen would not release the names of those in the cell.
All seven inmates are being "locked down," which means they are placed in separate cells and allowed out for only one hour a day.
Since the jail opened in 1977, 11 inmates have escaped, six through the recreational areas, Killeen said. All were recaptured.
"It's always a battle of wits," Killeen said. "Some are bent on getting out."
The last successful attempt was Jan. 15, when bank robber Jerry Dean Mills escaped through the roof of the jail's recreation yard. Mills, who now faces a five-year sentence for escape, was arrested nine days later in Montana.

sale. Sales. We really do have good prices.
"We're not making a lot of money; we're collecting a lot of money," he said.
After viewing the row upon row of downhill ski boots at the beginning of the sale, Pedersen said, "Some people told him 'there aren't enough feet in the Magic Valley for all those boots.' But the boots, he said, are walking out of the store.
For the opening Wednesday, Pedersen hired two cops. He needed four.
He used 29 sales people and six checkout stands. "He should have had more," he said.
"A lot of people had to wait a long time," Pedersen said. "We wish we had doubled the checkout stands."
"We filled up the store until we thought it was dangerous," Pedersen said. Then they began limiting entry to 20 people every four minutes. At 9:30 p.m., 300 shoppers still waited outside.
The sale will continue until the final wallpaper roll, the last ski binding, and the concluding bike brake go out the door, Pedersen said. He estimates that will be mid-December.
"Everyone has been going for the skis," he said. "But we still have a lot of bikes left, and wallpaper."

Thanksgiving service set

KIMBERLY — The Community Thanksgiving Service at the Kimberly Christian Church will include the film "Cry From the Mountain"

The story centers around a father's efforts to break the news of divorce to his 10 year old son and the mother considering abortion when a life-threatening accident and an old hermit change the course of events.

The address is 307 Madison St. East, a free-will offering will be taken. Child care will be provided and the public is invited.

Hostage relied on faith to survive his ordeal

NEW YORK (AP) — Recently freed from nearly two years as a hostage of Islamic fundamentalists in Beirut, a university professor says some kind of religious conviction is necessary.

"You've got to have courage and faith in some absolute," says Mithleshwar Singh, an Indian-born American resident dumped on a Beirut street Oct. 3 after 20 months of captivity.

"It was to what I know of God and of myself in relation to God that I had to turn in my 8 1/2 days," he said in an interview with Religion News Service.

"Everybody has an end to his strength. I was near the end of mine. The others must be coming near the end of theirs, too." Singh, 61, a business administration professor who has spent much of his career teaching in the United States but was teaching at Beirut University College when kidnapped, said:

"In the beginning, your span of endurance is large, but as time goes on the span of time grows longer — that's the span of endurance. You become mentally exhausted, confused, listless."

He said he and three other hostages were kept together, usually in handcuffs, by the Islamic Jihad (Holy War) Organization for the Liberation of Palestine. In the 20 months, he said they were moved six times.

Judge will allow polygamist clan member's statements

COALVILLE, Utah (AP) — A judge Friday refused to suppress statements made to police by polygamist clan member John Timothy Singer following a shootout that left a state corrections officer dead.

Singer's attorney, Earl Spafford, had argued his client's right to remain silent and have an attorney present had been violated by police who spoke to Singer before and after he was taken to the Salt Lake County Jail.

"I find there is no indication in the record of threats or promises made by the questioners or anyone in connection with (Singer's statements), said 3rd District Judge Michael R. Murphy.

Singer, 22, clan leader Addam Swapp, 27, and his brother, Jonathan Swapp, 21, are scheduled to stand trial Dec. 1 on charges of second-degree murder in the death of Lt. Fred House.

House was shot Jan. 28 while urging a police dog to attack the Swapp brothers. The shootout ended a standoff at the clan's Marion farm that had begun 13 days before when Addam Swapp bombed a nearby Mormon chapel.

Singer initially was read his rights and told investigators he had nothing to say, but on the trip to the jail became more talkative and said he was only shooting at police dogs and didn't intend to harm anyone.

Ballistics tests and testimony during an earlier federal trial pointed to Singer as having been the one who fired the fatal shot from his bedroom window.

The judge said "there was no trickery, coaxing, subterfuge or deceit" by the investigators who spoke with Singer after he invoked his right to remain silent. "When the right to remain silent was invoked, it was honored."

Attorneys had argued the motion on Wednesday.

Also, Spafford told the judge he intends to call a psychologist to testify about the effects of floodlights and speakers used by authorities to apply pressure on the clan during the standoff. Officials ruled out storming the homestead because nine children were inside.

Murphy asked each defendant in turn if it was true none planned to rely on a defense of diminished mental capacity or insanity.

"That is correct. I do not have diminished mental capacity, nor am I insane," Addam Swapp replied.

Jonathan Swapp and Singer gave similar responses.

"If it's not diminished mental capacity, it's its first cousin, and that's altered mental capacity," the judge told Spafford.

The attorney said he would seek to prove his client suffered from "altered behavior" at the time of the shooting.

Jury selection is scheduled Nov. 25. Singer and Jonathan Swapp were sentenced to 10 years in prison last September following federal convictions on charges related to the bombing and standoff. Addam Swapp was sentenced to 15 years and Vickie Singer, mother of John Timothy Singer and Swapp's two wives, is serving a five-year term.

Campus melee may result in expulsions

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Participants in snowball fights that erupted into a melee involving as many as 200 students face possible expulsion, although milder forms of punishment are likely, Washington State University officials said Friday.

Campus and Pullman police said several people were slightly injured in separate incidents late Tuesday and early Wednesday in the university's Greek Row section, in which some students used pool cues as weapons. Windows of several fraternity houses were broken and one person was treated at a local hospital for an eye injury.

Three people were arrested for failing to disperse, said WSU Police Chief Dave Wareing. They were referred to the university's conduct committee for possible sanctions, he said.

"Police reports are continuing to come in. We are thoroughly investigating it still," said Rory Mueller, administrative assistant to Maureen Anderson, vice provost for student affairs.

Anderson and other university officials sent a memorandum to students warning those involved in assault or property destruction faced possible arrest and expulsion.

Expulsion would be the most severe sanction, and would depend on the extent of the student's involvement, Ms. Mueller said. Most of the reported cases would be handled through administrative reviews, she said.

None of those students identified by campus police have been summoned by a conduct committee, pending completion of the school's investigation, she said.

Pullman Police Chief Ted Weatherly said members of two fraternity houses mainly participating in the fights face sanctions by the university.

"Those that we were able to identify will be dealt with administratively by the university," he said.

Snowball fights between living groups are annual events at WSU, police said.

"This is one of the situations that you have every year. It starts out with a snowball fight, then somebody gets angry," Weatherly said. "You do have some fistcuffs and some damage."

Wareing said the wet, icy snow may have contributed to the melee.

"It turned a bit unpleasant when people started getting hit by this heavily packed snow," he said. "It hurt, so tempers flared."

Weatherly said he is pleased that university officials are cooperating in sanctioning those involved.

Police responded to reports of a large snowball fight between two fraternities at about 9:45 p.m. that escalated into fistfights, he said. The melee ended when campus and city police told the crowd to disperse and several arrests were made, Wareing said.

Shirkmists continued until early Wednesday on Greek Row and at a campus dormitory.

Snow kills last of fires in Yellowstone Park

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Winter storms that have blanketed Yellowstone National Park with as much as 30 inches of snow have snuffed out the last of the fires that raged there this summer, the park announced Friday.

Yellowstone spokeswoman Joan Anzelmo said heavy snow throughout the country's first national park is allowing officials to consider the blazes "officially out."

According to Yellowstone reports, the fires affected some 995,000 acres of the 2.2 million-acre park. But only about 20,000 acres suffered "high-intensity heat" fires that scorch the earth so badly it does not renew itself.

Crews have spent weeks replanting seedlings in burned-out areas, taking measures to prevent erosion of hiking trails and doing other rehabitilation work.

Anzelmo said Yellowstone officials are now looking forward to a busy winter season, and the park may in fact open for winter use a bit earlier this year. Current snow depths range from 8 inches to 30 inches, according to the spokeswoman.

Market struggles to modest gain; dollar stronger

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market struggled to a modest gain in light trading Friday, encouraged by hopes for a steadier dollar in foreign exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 9.56 to 2,062.41, trimming its loss for the week to 4.62 points.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 3 to 2 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 841 up, 552 down and 451 unchanged.

Volume on the floor of the Big Board came to 119.32 million shares, down from 141.28 million in the previous session. Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on

Dollar was ready for current slump

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The dollar was a currency just waiting for a fall.

When currency traders began a frenzy of greenback selling virtually within minutes of George Bush's election, it appeared they suddenly had discovered the president-elect didn't like taxes and may have a tough time shrinking the federal budget deficit.

However, strong skepticism about the ability of Bush, or any other politician, to address the fundamental causes of the weak dollar — the federal budget and U.S. trade deficits — have been present since at least mid-year.

The trade imbalance, after shrinking dramatically earlier in the year, appeared to be approaching a new high. And there was little hope that the next administration, whether under Bush or Democrat Michael Dukakis, would offer a realistic plan to reduce the budget deficit.

Bush, in particular, appeared to be boxing himself into a corner with his "Read my lips: no new taxes" pledge.

The real question, according to economist Michael K. Evans, a consultant in Washington, should be: Why did the dollar rise for the first eight months of this year?

He said the dollar held steady because of traders' perception, rightly or wrongly, that the Federal Reserve and other major central banks wouldn't let anything roll the markets and spoil the prospect of a Republican victory on Nov. 5.

Foreign investors were convinced that up until the election the Federal Reserve would do whatever it takes to keep the dollar stable. After the election, the sentiment among traders was that the Fed would not regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 141.91 million shares.

On Thursday, central banks of the industrialized countries began what appeared to be a concerted effort to intervene in foreign exchange markets to support the ailing dollar.

That intervention continued Friday, pushing the U.S. currency higher.

But analysts said many traders were waiting skeptically to see whether the dollar could manage a sustained period of recovery on its own.

They also said market participants still had many misgivings about the outlook for interest rates. A Treasury auction of 30-year bonds on Thursday met with a relatively cool response.

But analysts said many traders were waiting skeptically to see whether the dollar could manage a sustained period of recovery on its own.

They also said market participants still had many misgivings about the outlook for interest rates. A Treasury auction of 30-year bonds on Thursday met with a relatively cool response.

After the election, currency traders began testing to see how much of a dollar decline would be tolerated, and the initial response from central banks, and from Bush advisers, reinforced the fall.

The intervention in the market appeared to be rather weak. (Traders) didn't get what the British call "the firm smack of policy" ... and suddenly they recognized there wasn't an automatic floor under there," said Robert Dederick, an economist with Northern Trust Co. in Chicago.

The "smack" didn't come until the dollar plunged 5 percent against the Japanese yen and 3 percent against the West German mark, pulling the U.S. stock and bond markets along with it.

On Thursday and continuing Friday the Federal Reserve and 10 other central banks intervened with heavy and coordinated dollar buying. The greenback halted its fall on Thursday and rose slightly Friday.

But between the election and Thursday, confusion reigned.

On the day after the election, Harvard economist Martin Feldstein, a Bush adviser, restated his often expressed view that the dollar must fall 20 percent over the next three years. He emphasized that he was speaking for himself and not Bush, but the dollar fell after his remarks anyway.

On Thursday, while commenting on Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan's warning about the ramifications of not cutting the budget deficit, Bush transition press secretary Sheila Tate said "Economists never agree on anything."

RJR Nabisco rose 1/4 to 84 and led the active list on turnover of more than 4.2 million shares. The company was expected to receive formal offers by late Friday from competing groups seeking to acquire its stock.

General Electric, which raised its quarterly dividend from 35 cents a share to 41 cents a share, climbed 1/2 to 45 1/2.

Hewlett-Packard rose 1/4 to 48 1/2. On Thursday the company reported that its earnings for the fourth fiscal quarter ended Oct. 31 increased to $1.03 a share from 85 cents a share in the like period a year earlier.

Other gainers among the blue chips included Exxon, up 1/4 to 42 1/2; American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 to 27 1/2; International Business Machines, up 1/4 to 115 1/2; and Coca-Cola, up 1/2 to 42.

Veeco Instruments added 1/4 to 25 1/2 when a top of a 1 1/2-point gain Thursday, when the company agreed to be acquired by Intech PLC for $26.50 a share.

Japanese stocks declined amid what brokers described as "profit-taking" after the Tokyo market's recent move to record highs. Matsushita Electric dropped 1/4 to 193 1/2; Honda Motor 3 to 154 1/2; and Kyocera 1/2 to 78 1/2.

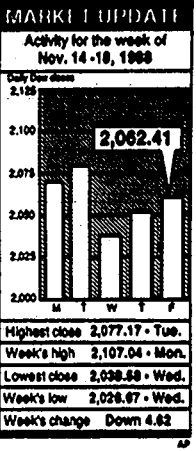

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market gained $13.76 billion, or 0.53 percent, in value.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks added .94 to 150.18.

Standard & Poor's industrial index rose 2.43 to 306.36, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up 1.87 at 266.47.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market edged up 15 to 367.58. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 266.67, up 1.30.

How could the dollar fall?

By The Associated Press

Here are some questions and answers about the dollar's decline:

Q. Who determines the exchange rate of the dollar?

A. Until 1971, its value was rigidly set, first to a certain weight of gold and later to exchange rates of other major nations' currencies. But since then, its price has floated, determined by market forces.

Each day, hundreds of billions of dollars are bought and sold by traders in foreign exchange markets. These traders are usually commercial banks or other large institutional buyers who trade currencies seeking to profit on fluctuating values. Central banks like the Federal Reserve or the Bank of Japan also get involved when an exaggerated move by a currency requires them to buy or sell the currency to stabilize the market.

Q. What makes a dollar "strong" or "weak"?

A. The dollar is subject to the same laws of supply and demand as any commodity—traded—openly. Heavy buying of dollars on exchange markets drives up its price, making it "strong" compared to other currencies. Selling dollars sends the price down, making it "weak."

Q. So what's better, a strong dollar or a weak dollar?

A. It depends. A strong dollar makes Americans' cash go further overseas and reduces import prices — generally good for U.S. consumers and for foreign manufacturers.

If the dollar is overvalued, as nearly all economists agree it was in the early 1950s, U.S. products are harder to sell abroad and at home, where they compete with low-cost imports. That helped give the United States its record trade deficit.

A weak dollar can restore competitiveness to American products—by making foreign goods more expensive. But too weak a dollar can spawn inflation, first through spiraling prices and then through spiraling prices for all goods.

Even worse, a falling dollar can drive foreign investors away from U.S. securities, which lose value along with the dollar. Foreign investment is critically needed to help finance the large U.S. budget deficit.

Q. What has been the Reagan administration's policy on the dollar?

A. The administration until early 1967 actually promoted a weaker dollar to help balance trade accounts. But in February 1967 it agreed that further declines in the dollar could lead to renewed inflation. It joined its trading partners in the "Louvre accord" to try to hold the dollar

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"There is nothing you can say in answer to a compliment. I have been complimented myself a great many times, and they always embarrass me. I always feel that they have not said enough."

— Mark Twain.

"You played the hand as if you were looking at all our cards," said East. The play was well planned and executed, however, East's compliment told only half the story.

West led his fourth best, and East's queen went to South's king. South then cashed four diamond winners, forcing West to part with a low spade. The top clubs came out, and when the queen didn't drop, South led a low heart. West had to win and run the remaining hearts, but then he was employed. The forced spade return went up to South's A-Q, giving South his ninth winner.

West wanted to have the spade king, justifying his vulnerable overcall. He offered a modest South. "We should have beaten you anyway," added a miffed West. "The rule of 11 should have done the job."

When West leads fourth best, the six in this case, East subtracts six from 11 and gets five. There are five cards higher than the six in the three hands. (West's hand is excluded.) Two are in dummy and two are in East's hand. Therefore, South has only one.

East should insert his heart nine at trick one. There is no end-play. South maneuvers, there is no end-play on West.

ANSWER: Three hearts. Denies four-card spade support, indicates acceptance of the invitation and shows a decent heart suit on the way.

Senior Swede Trenkle is back for a third starting season with his penetrating play.

TFHS Bruins open hoop season early

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In the earliest opener in memory, the Twin Falls Bruins will take to the basketball court against the Boise Braves Tuesday night with three returning starters, a potential for excellent shooting and a question mark on quickness and rebounding.

Starting his 11th year at the Bruin helm, Coach John Astorquia has only four seniors on this year's team and will use only 10 other juniors to fulfill the varsity-junior varsity schedule of the team.

The earlier start again is occasioned by the unavailability of the Boise State University Pavilion for the state A-1 and A-2 tournaments in March because it will be used for the first round of half the western NCAA regional action. That has caused the season to be abbreviated by a week and, as Astorquia points out, "we just kinda had to fit into the Boise area schools' schedule this year. They quick it around to accommodate us."

The Bruins will not be playing for a conference title, being independent to continue their look toward the west for future competition, maintain scheduling relations with geographic foes Burley, Minico and Jerome, and participate in the Region III home-and-home slate that includes Burley, Minico, Poetello and Highland for postseason-qualifying purposes.

Although the Bruins are very light on upper classmen, there is considerable experience. Senior Swede Trenkle is back for his third starting season and Jeremy Willey returns his 6-foot, 3-inch frame for inside work. Junior Jason Astorquia, also 6-3, is considered a return starter. The other senior is 6-0 guard Tony Traveller who had some starts late in the second but spent a lot of the year guiding the junior unit.

Looking the strongest among the newcomers are 6-3 junior Chris Smith, a likely starter and Eric Smith, who has been shooting lights out in pre-season practice.

Those two juniors along with Astorquia "have been growing like weeds and could add a half-inch apiece during the season," the coach said.

Kasey Teske probably will draw back-up point guard duties. The other juniors are Scott Edwards, 5-11; Lyle Hudson, 5-9; John Conover, 6-0; Forest Ward, 5-8; Stan Burton, 6-5; Bryce Armstrong, 6-0, and John Horner, 5-11.

"We don't have that real tall guy for the middle but the average isn't bad. The thing about that is I don't think our competition will be all that big this year. Borah will have a 6-8 player but after that the rest of the teams on the schedule will have inside guys in the 6-4 and 6-5 area. Most will be taller than us but not dominantly taller."

The strength of the team, Astorquia believes, is shooting ability.

Broncos, Vandals battle for Big Sky conference title

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

BOISE — No one is arguing much over the hype for today's 18th meeting of the football teams from the University of Idaho and Boise State University.

"It's the biggest football game in the history of the Big Sky," said Bronco head coach Skip Hall. "There are going to be 23,000-plus here and the winner is going to be the Big Sky champion. On top of everything else, it's Idaho."

Kickoff time is 2:30 p.m. in Bronco Stadium, which has been sold out for 10 days. Boise TV station KTUV-TV, channels 7 and 38 in the Magic Valley, has reversed an earlier decision and decided to broadcast the game live.

"It'll be tough to find a place to park," predicted Hall. "I'm getting here early."

The winner of this dream matchup between the second-ranked Vandals, 9-1 overall and 5-1 in league games, and the 13th-ranked Broncos, 8-2 and 5-2, will get the trophy and an automatic invitation to the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs. The runnerup will undoubtedly be invited too, setting up the possibility that a rematch...

The only thing that isn't ideal for today's showdown is the weather forecast: temperatures in the mid-30s and strong, gusty winds, which will make the afternoon uncomfortable in the wind tunnel that is Bronco Stadium. But the U.S. Weather Service says the possibility of rain or snow is remote.

"It doesn't bother us," said Idaho offensive coordinator Bill Diedrick of the possibility of playing on soggy Smurf Turf. "We practice outside all the time anyway except last week when there was a lot of white stuff laying around."

As they often are in this game, the battle lines are clearly drawn between the Idaho offense, which ranks first in the league and third in the country, and the Bronco defense, which is young and opportunistic.

"You can't stop Idaho offensively, but you can slow them down," said BSU defensive secondary coach Mike Snow. "We hope to slow them down enough and be there to take advantage of any mistakes they make."

Idaho has a running game to go with quarterback John Friesz, last year's Big Sky Conference player of the year who is a cinch to repeat that honor. Friesz has accounted for 294 yards per game; on the average, through the air, while running backs Damon Daniels and Bruce Harris have the Vandals third in the Big Sky in rushing offense. Idaho also has a veteran offensive line, but, according to Diedrick, not a lot of consistency these days.

"That's got us concerned right now," he said. "You know we didn't play well against Reno is the first half two weeks ago (a game Idaho rallied to win 32-31) and we didn't play well in the first half against Idaho State last week (that Vandals won 41-7). If we get off to that kind of start this week, we'll have problems."

By contrast, the Broncos are last in the Big Sky — behind winless Idaho State — in total offense.

"We've had so many injuries that our offense has suffered," said Hall. "Fortunately, our defense has been good enough to keep us in the game. The biggest problem for us as an offense has been our line. We played without three of our starters last week against Eastern Illinois (a game BSU won 12-7) and with just two wide receivers. It's really day-to-day for us who's going to be ready Saturday."

Measles could affect outcome of USC-UCLA game

The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. — The status of Rodney Peete figures to be uncertain until shortly before second-ranked Southern Cal faces sixth-ranked UCLA Saturday at the Rose Bowl in the 88th meeting of the cross-town rivals.

Peete, the Trojans' standout quarterback, was diagnosed Wednesday as having the measles. He had been admitted to a hospital Tuesday night so he could be fed intravenously, then was released Thursday in time to watch practice.

If Peete can't play, or gives it a shot and doesn't have the necessary strength or stamina to continue, seldom-used Pat O'Hara would get the call at quarterback for the Trojans in one of the most important college football games of the season.

The nationally televised game begins at 1:30 p.m. MST. All tickets were sold by late September, meaning a crowd in excess of 100,000.

Peete was released from a Long Beach hospital last Thursday, watched film with the other quarterbacks and then watched practice for 45 minutes.

"He was strong enough to check out of the hospital," Coach Larry Smith said. "He's eating solids now. We felt he'd get better rest out of the hospital now."

"It could be right up to game time before we decide if he plays," Smith added. "If we don't watch his recovery, it can develop into something like pneumonia. We're making sure he gets plenty of rest."

"The No. 1 concern is his health, not the team," Smith said.

"I'm feeling much better, even better than yesterday," Peete said Thursday.

Peete missed practice sessions Monday and Tuesday when it was believed he had the flu.

It's been 20 years since the 'Heidi game'

By JOE LAFONTE
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

DETROIT — Nothing had a greater effect on the relationship between sports and television than something that happened two decades ago this weekend.

It was called "the Heidi game."

The facts are fairly simple. On Sunday, Nov. 17, 1968, at 7 p.m. Eastern time, NBC was showing the American Football League game between the New York Jets and the Oakland Raiders.

With 1:06 left and the Jets leading, 32-28, most of the network was switched to regularly scheduled programming — a children's movie called "Heidi," about a little girl who lived in the Swiss Alps.

"I was the supervisor in broadcast operation control that night," said Dick Cline, who still works for NBC.

"I put the football game off the air and put 'Heidi' on. It was pre-determined."

Moments after the football game left the air, NBC president Julian Goodman called Cline on a private circuit, ordering the game to be restored. Cline said he tried. He couldn't reach the proper phone company authorities in time. The game was soon over — but not before the Raiders scored two touchdowns, winning 43-27.

Angry viewers in New York jammed police switchboards.

As a result of the NBC decision, formal policy was drawn up to state that pro football games would be telecast until their conclusion. Advertisers and fans became acutely aware of the popularity of pro football, which had been a relatively minor sport only 10 years before.

Reynolds lost to Oregon

The Associated Press

EUGENE, Ore. — Former Olympian of Southern Idaho guard Kelly Reynolds will be the star of the Oregon basketball team for up to three weeks because of a broken jaw, the school announced Thursday.

Reynolds was injured during practice Wednesday in a collision with forward Alfred Hinson.

The 6-foot-8 Reynolds is a transfer from College of Southern Idaho, where he was a two-time All-Star basketball player. He played at nearby Springfield High School.

Reynolds' injury reduces the Oregon roster to 10 players. Sophomore guard Mike Helms and sophomore forward David Blair also are out with injuries.

Oregon opens its season Nov. 28 at Wisconsin.

Jordan's 34 points helps Bulls beat Hawks in overtime

CHICAGO (AP)—Michael Jordan scored 34 points, including five free throws and a basket in the final 1:51 of overtime Friday night, lifting the Chicago Bulls to a 116-112 triumph over the Atlanta Hawks.

NBA

Jordan rebounded a miss by Dominique Wilkins and then added two free throws to put Chicago ahead to stay at 110-109. John Battle gave Atlanta its last lead at 109-108 with a basket and free throw.

The game marked the return of Chicago's Scottie Pippen, who had an operation for a herniated disc last July 25. Pippen wound up with 15 points while Horace Grant added 20 and Phil Cartwright 19 for the Bulls.

Golden State 123, Miami 117

MIAMI (AP)—Chris Mullin scored 29 points and Winston Garland scored six points in overtime Friday night, leading the Golden State Warriors to a 123-117 victory over the winless Miami Heat.

The expansion Heat, 0-7, rallied from a 23-point deficit to force the overtime on Rony Selkaly's dunk with six seconds left.

Garland's first basket in overtime put the Warriors ahead 113-112 with 1:56 left. Another basket by Garland with 58 seconds to go increased the margin to 117-112, and he later added two free throws.

Golden State, 4-37 on the road last season, improved to 3-2 away from home. The Warriors won their third road game last season on Feb. 15.

Miami Heat center Rony Selkaly (4) tries to get past Golden State Warriors Manute Bol Friday night in the Miami Arena.

Boston 114, Washington 108

BOSTON (AP)—Kevin McHale scored 27 points and Robert Parish added 26 Friday night as the Boston Celtics bid farewell to hospital-bound Larry Bird with a 114-108 victory over the Washington Bullets.

Bird, who is expected to be sidelined for three months after surgery Saturday for removal of bone spurs on both heels, watched from the end of the bench as the Celtics struggled to their 12th consecutive regular-season home victory over the Bullets since March 14, 1984.

Philadelphia 137, New York 135

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Charles Barkley had 38 points and 13 rebounds and made a key steal with 10 seconds left, carrying the Philadelphia 76ers to a 137-135 victory over the Knicks Friday night, snapping New York's five-game winning streak.

Two free throws by Hersey Hawkins with 10 seconds remaining gave the 76ers a 135-132 lead. Barkley, who was 14-for-15 from the line, stole New York's inbound pass at halftime.

Maurice Cheeks connected on a foul shot with six seconds left and New York's Johnny Newman hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer for the final score, 137-135.

The Knicks led for most of the game until a layup by Gminski gave the 76ers a 101-100 edge with 3:48 left in the third quarter. Philadelphia took a 125-118 advantage on a jumper by Barkley with 5:45 left to play.

But New York rallied to tie the score at 131 on Jackson's layup at the 1:24 mark. Gminski's two free throws with 1:07 to go gave the 76ers a 133-131 lead.

Cleveland 95, New Jersey 94

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP)—Larry Nance's slam dunk with 22 seconds left and Mark Price scored 27 points on 12-for-14 shooting, giving the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 95-94 NBA victory over the New Jersey Nets Friday night.

Cleveland, undefeated in three road games, trailed 94-83 after Lester Conner hit two free throws for the Nets with 27 seconds remaining.

After a timeout, the Cavaliers inounded the ball on Nance at mid-court, and he drove to the lane and dunked the ball over Roy Hinson.

The Nets had a chance to win in the closing seconds, but rookie Chris Morris missed a 10-foot baseline jumper with six seconds to play.

John Bagley grabbed the rebound, but his desperation shot at the buzzer glanced off the backboard.

Aberdeen beats Raft River in prep basketball opener

Bruins suffer tough loss, 65-3

By BRAD BRELAND Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It was an all new look for the Twin Falls wrestling team in its season-opener Friday night.

There was a new wrestling mascot, new uniforms and new headgear, but the same results occurred as defending Region III champion Minico pounded the inexperienced Bruins, 65-3.

It came down to experience in the form of the Spartans, against a team with little or no experience.

"That's exactly it," said Twin Falls coach Wiley Dobbs.

The lone Bruin win came in the 180-pound weight class where Aaron Swafford edged Minico's Kelly James, 12-11.

It was the highlight of an otherwise dismal night for the boys in blue.

"I thought we'd be better. I'm disappointed," said Dobbs. "I'm a com-

The one major deficit Twin Falls has faced for the past couple of years has been lack of quickness.

"But the thing I'm pleased about right now is they all seem able to run."

"Our question mark is rebounding as a team," he said. "The other pluses about the unit, Astorquia said are a positive attitude and we're excited about this bunch of players."

At the same time, however, he cautions that the first three games could be season setters or enders.

Xavier upsets Louisville in NIT first-round action, 85-83

CINCINNATI (AP)—Coach Pete Gillen says his Xavier (Ohio) Musketeers had two things in their favor Friday night against No. 4 Louisville — time and luck.

Tyrone Hill hit a short bank shot with two seconds to play, giving Xavier an 85-83 upset of Louisville in a first-round Big Apple NIT game at Riverfront Coliseum.

"Louisville was great," Gillen said. "We just caught them on a night that was our night. We were lucky to win."

The Musketeers were lucky that the Cardinals decided to play fast and loose with the ball after building a 12-0 lead to start the game. Louisville ended up with 33 turnovers, many of them caused by Xavier's defensive pressure.

"We were not as good as we were ranked," Louisville coach Denny Crum said. "And we also know we guards as trouble with a team with a solid backcourt as quick as they. We knew they were very quick, quicker than us at guard. We made far too many turnovers to win."

North Carolina 111, Tenn-Chattanooga 84

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Kevin Madden scored a career-high 31 points and Jeff Lebo had a school-record 17 assists as No. 6 North Carolina breezed Friday night to a 111-84 victory over Tennessee-Chattanooga in the first round of the Big Apple NIT tournament.

When Madden wasn't on the receiving end of Lebo's passes, the 6-foot-4 point guard was finding Rick Fox for dunks and layups. Fox scored 25 points before fouling out in the final five minutes.

Lebo broke the single-game Tar Heel record for assists, previously held by Phil Ford, who had 14 on three occasions.

Missouri 73, SW Missouri St. 54

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri guard Lee Coward scored 19 points, nine of them on 3-point goals, as the Tigers defeated Southwest Missouri State 73-54 Friday night in a first-round game of the Big Apple NIT. The 14th-ranked Tigers took a 28-20 lead into halftime and the Bears never got any closer.

Syracuse 92, La Salle 76

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Senior guard Sherman Douglas scored 30 points and junior Stephen Thompson added 24 as No. 6 Syracuse showed a surprising touch from long range in defeating La Salle 92-76 in a first-round NIT game Friday night.

They just might call this one Super Saturday

The Associated Press

It is doubtful there has ever been a college football Saturday like this Super Saturday — at least, not in a long while.

No fewer than eight of the Associated Press Top Twenty will go at it head-to-head and next week's rankings may bear scant resemblance to the current poll.

Saturday's schedule is so scintillating that the Michigan-Ohio State game, for years the one that decided the Big Ten's Rose Bowl representative, has been relegated to also-ran status. Even the Nebraska-Oklahoma Big Eight shootout has lost some of its luster, although both teams are in the Top Ten and the winner, as usual, will go to the Orange Bowl, with the loser bound for the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Topping the schedule is 'Measles Mania' — second-ranked Southern California at No. 6 UCLA for the Pac-10 crown and a Rose Bowl berth. Ironically, the game will be played in the Rose Bowl, which also serves as UCLA's home field. If USC wins — the Trojans are 9-3 against UCLA at the Rose Bowl — UCLA goes to the Cotton Bowl; if UCLA wins, Southern Cal goes to the Sugar Bowl.

Third-ranked Miami, bound for the Orange Bowl again and still hoping to repeat its 1987 national championship, has a night game at No. 11 LSU, which will play in either the Sugar or Hall of Fame Bowls, depending on Saturday night's game, plus what Auburn does against Alabama next Friday.

Fourth-ranked West Virginia, Notre Dame's Fiesta Bowl opponent in a possible national championship game, entertains No.

College football

14 Syracuse (Hall of Fame Bowl) under the lights and No. 7 Nebraska visits No. 9 Oklahoma.

In the Second Ten, No. 12 Michigan (Rose Bowl) is at Ohio State, No. 13 Oklahoma State (Holiday) at Iowa State, South Carolina (Sun) and No. 15 Clemson (Citrus), No. 16 Wyoming (Holiday) at Hawaii in a night game, No. 17 Houston (Aloha) at Texas Tech and Washington at No. 19 Washington State (Aloha).

Fifth-ranked Florida State (Cotton or Sugar), No. 8 Auburn (Sugar or Hall of Fame), No. 10 Arkansas (Cotton), No. 18 Alabama (Sun) and No. 20 Georgia (Gator) are idle.

Among Saturday's most concerned spectators will be the bowl scouts, who will re-act for the NCAA as the invitations they actually issued a week or more ago.

Other games involving bowl teams or hopefuls include Army (Sun) vs. Boston College in Dublin, Ireland; Pitt at North Carolina State (Peach), Appalachian State at Wake Forest (Independence, if it wins), Northwestern at Illinois (All American, if it wins), Wisconsin at Michigan State (Gator, if it wins), Iowa (Peach) at Minnesota under the lights, Indiana (Liberty) at Purdue, Kansas State at Colorado (Freedom) and Brigham Young (Freedom) at Utah.

Penn State hasn't had a losing season since 1988 (3-4-1) — an NCAA record 49 years — but Coach Joe Paterno is more concerned about the long-range future than the immediate one.

"I never thought about the streak, and I'm not thinking about it now," he said.

He also said — and you can bet Notre Dame's Lou Holtz was listening — that a young Penn State team's athletic ability is "good enough for them in a couple of years to have a shot" at the national championship.

Holtz also is aware that Penn State has won the last three games in the series and six of the last seven.

"I don't think that there's any doubt that Penn State will come in here and play as fine a football game as they've played all year," Holtz said. "They've got one of the best defenses against the rush in the country."

"Penn State matches up very well against us in terms of personnel. They're a big, strong, physical Penn State team that blocks and tackles awfully well. They're a multiple defense team, and that concerns me."

"They've run at least 40 different defenses this year. Their defensive scheme is as complex as anything we've seen all year."

After upsets over California and Arizona State the last two weeks with his biggest games of the season — a combined 45-of-62 for 666 yards and six touchdowns — Peete came down with the measles. His illness is part of a recent outbreak on the USC campus and all Trojans were inoculated Tuesday.

"We're a team first, although Rodney is a very valuable component of our team," Coach Larry Smith said. "If it means we have to play Rodney's backup, Pat O'Hara, we have a lot of confidence in him."

"We'll go ahead with the basic game plan that we've prepared. This is something that we have to be good enough to overcome."

O'Hara has seen very limited action this year, completing five of seven passes for 61 yards, with one interception.

The Trojans need only a tie to return to the Rose Bowl, but that result could puncture their national championship hopes.

"This is the dream game that both teams have been playing so hard all year to get to," Smith said.

This is the 34th time the game has meant the Rose Bowl for one or both teams; USC leads in those encounters 20-11-2, including 12-3 since 1987. It's the 20th time the Rose Bowl is on the line for both teams; in those situations, USC leads 13-5-1, including eight in a row.

"As a player, as an assistant coach, as a head coach, I've been involved in a lot of UCLA-USC games," UCLA coach Terry Donahue said. "This USC team is as complete a USC team as I've seen in my tenure at UCLA... We're going to have to play at a much higher level of intensity and a much higher rate of efficiency than we have in the last month or so."

For the record, Aikman is fourth nationally in passing efficiency (177-of-278, 1,993 yards, 15 touchdowns, seven interceptions), Peete is seventh (168-for-266, 2,240 yards, 17 TDs, eight interceptions).

LSU coach Mike Archer will be facing his alma mater when the Tigers entertain Miami. He also coached under Howard Schnelberger when Miami won the 1983 national championship.

"We have everything to gain and nothing to lose," Archer said.

Not entirely true. The Tigers have clinched a tie for the Southeastern Conference crown and can go the Sugar Bowl if Alabama beats Auburn — provided they beat Miami.

"We're going to take some chances in every phase," Archer promised. "Nobody gives us a chance to win. We are the definite underdogs... and it's nice to be in an underdog's role."

West Virginia expects its toughest game of the regular season against Syracuse, which was ranked No. 4 a year ago. Coach Don Nehlen would appreciate it if no one mentioned Notre Dame until late Saturday night at the earliest.

"There's only one game on our schedule — in a row."

Then Nehlen let the cat out. "We've already received a bowl bid and it takes the pressure off the kids."

The Fiesta Bowl?

"I can't make any statement about bowls. It's not my job. All bowls are great. Some bowls are greater than others."

Is the Fiesta Bowl the greatest?

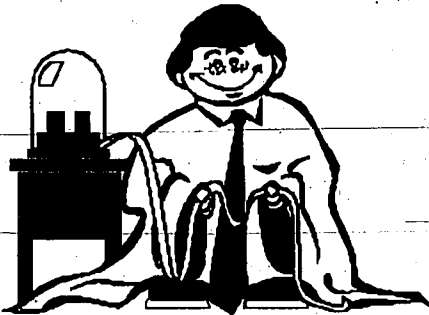

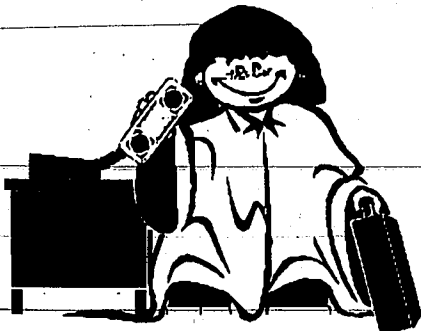

"There's no question this year we hit the jackpot."

Nebraska-Oklahoma is almost ho-hum after last year's 1-2 showdown won by No. 2 Oklahoma 17-7 in what was billed as Game of the Century II.

The Sooners have won four straight Big Eight championships by beating Nebraska in each of those years. The winner of this game has won or shared the conference crown 39 times in the last 43 years. Only once since 1969 has the title not been on the line, and that was in 1981.

Since Nebraska's Tom Osborne and Oklahoma's Barry Switzer became head coaches in 1973, both teams have been ranked in the Top Twenty every year.
