The Idaho Gold Co. started a test

The Idaho Gold Co. started a test operation in October of a mine using this process in the Lava Creek field west of Arco.

The mine so far has produced 200 to 400 ounces of gold and about 1,600 to 1,800 ounces of silver. Gold currently sells for about $416 per ounce. The recovery cost could be as much as $300 per ounce of gold, said Collin Gay, project engineer for Idaho Gold.

The test phase includes mining and processing about 30,000 tons of limestone ore, which should be done by January, Fay said.

It appears to be quite successful, studies, he said. The company expected to recover 70 to 75 percent of the gold in the ore and about 50 percent of the side. To get the remaining metal out would cost more than the metal is worth, he said.

The company plans to build a full-scale processing plant next year to process up to 700,000 tons of ore annually.

When Idaho Gold Co. stops mining, the cyanide solution and leaching area will be neutralized using a solution similar to swimming pool chlorine or hydrogen peroxide, Fay said. The area will be recontoured and topsoil that was saved will be put in place and respected.

The leaching process uses a weak solution of cyanide, which is sprayed on crushed ore spread of on leach

DOE cleanup cost proves staggering

By CASS PETERSON The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — In the four decades since the Manhattan Project and the development of the atomic bomb, the government has spent about $250 billion (in 1968 dollars) about $250 billion (in 1988 dollars) building and equipping a massive complex to assemble nuclear weapons. In the next four decades, according to DOE estimates, it will need to spend almost that much to clean up the mess it has created. Adding to the financial crunch are replacement costs for some of the part expensive plant.

The department estimates it will cost $35 billion to $45 billion to build cost $35 billion to $45 billion to build new plants, including two production reactors to replace aging units at the Savannah River Plant. The figure also includes a Special Isotope Separation plant, to be built in Idaho, that will recover waste plutonium. Sewage systems, many of 1940s vintage and never upgraded, routinely leak pollutants into the ground or nearby waterways. Air-pollution controls are inadequate or nonexistent. In the next five fiscal years alone, DOE has estimated, about $30 billion will be needed to address problems that pose an immediate threat to worker safety or the environment. A DOE report released in July made it clear that the Reagan administration had not figured out where the money would come from. The report noted that the figures exceed. . . the budget target for fiscal 1990 to 1996 and do not represent an administration • See WASTE on Page A2

The gold-bearing cyanide solution then runs into a "pregnant pond," or holding porth. The gold is removed from the solution and electroplated onto steel wool. The steel wool then is burned and the residue sent to a refinery for final processing.

Myers said a ton of ore produces about 0.055 of an ounce of gold by this method.

Once the gold has been removed, the cyanide solution is recycled. Only a little cyanide is added to the solution to replace the amount that is broken down.

Any cyanide that should escape won't last long in the environment, Myers said. It is quickly destroyed by ultraviolet rays.

by ultraviolet raya. The mining company, however, has more at stake than protecting the environment in making sure more of the cyanide solution escapes. If the solution gets out, the gold goes out with it. Myers said. The leaching and 'pregnat' ponds are double lined with leak detectors between the layers. All ditches also would be lined. The whole operation is designed for zero discharge, not just to protect the environment, but to protect our investment. The said.

Noranda wants to reopen an old gold mine in the Black Pine Division of the Sawtooth National Forest where the company plans to mine 7.5 million to 10.5 million tons of ore.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — You could almost hear the cheers echoing along the unexpectedly white ski runs when snow-laden storms recently blanketed the Wasatch Mountains, breaking the back of a stubborn ridge that had shunted early season precipitation away from northern Utah.

For the first time since 1985, the state's ski resorts could look forward not only to cashing in on the Thanksgiving weekend, but taking a run at the 1985-86 record for ski lift ticket

November's snow came as a surprise following a dry October that had fueled fears Utah may be in for a third straight slow start on the ski season.

The ridge was so strong in October that all the storms were being shucked north of Utah, "Alder said. But things really changed around the first part of this month and we been in a flavorable pattern for storms since."

The early storms left from 18 inches to three feet of new snow on northern Utah's mountains, and another good snowfall or two were forecast for the Thanksgiving weekend, Alder said.

The complete stuly looks like this: $110 billion over the long term to clean up existing meases, upgrade waste disposal practices and repair or install polition-control acquipment. Cleaning up the Hanford Nuclear Reservation near Richand, Wash., alone is expected to require more than $45 billion. Put another way, the Natural Resources Defense Council noted that DOE's cleanup estimates amounts to nearly $2 million for each of the 60,000 warkends the nation has produced:

Moreover, DOE's estimates for major construction projects, which pollution-control activities and many of the cleamps will involve, have proved natoriously inaccurate. The House Appropriations subcommittee on energy and water development recently noted that 21 DOE construction projects increased in cost, on average, nearly fivefold by the time they were completed or a bandoned. Elderly suffer low-status jobs

Pay is low: $4.60 or $5 an hour.
Often, benefits don't exist. And then, the jobs are 'bad' jobs: the low-skill, high-tedium slots created at McDonald's and the local laundromat by the galloping service sector.
Yet all the same, as demographers predict a rapid decline in the number of teen-agers, exactly such 'bad' jobs are more and more the ones being thrust at America's fastest-growing labor pool, the elderly.
Woode by cheerful ads, publicized and fussed over by corporations desperate for cheap labor, this expanding gray-haired work force suddenly looks as spictually useful to minimum wang'e employers in the 1990s as the Baby Boom's teen-agers were to the '70s.

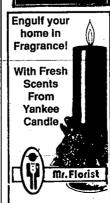

As more and more businesses turn by necessity to the elderly and retired for diligent low-cast help, it appears to advocates like Stiritey Waldrum of the American Association of Retired Persons that a decidedly mixed blessing' has been conferred upon the nation's alder citizens.

In soniq ways, of course, the present appears a time of exciting new opportunity for retirees.

Due to a reporter's error, a story incorrectly identified the Hallmark store in the Magic Valley Mall as "Jeffrey's Hallmark." The store has changed hands and is now called Andrew's Hallmark. The manager of the store is Reba Speers. The Times-News regrets the error.

The five-year project about 60 miles southeast of Burley will employ about 100 people. Most would be hired locally. It would require construction of some buildings, leach pads, holding ponds and six miles of new road in addition to the mine pits.

When mining is done, the cyanide in the leach pads and used ore will be mettralized and washed. Then the whole site will be graded, covered with topsoil and replanted, said Joe Scheuering, Noranda's project manager.

Scheuering, total ager.

Included in post mining objectives, or rehabilitation, are measures to enhance wildlife habitat, Scheuering asid. Seeding will be done with improved grazing in mind, he said.

But the plans must wait. The Idaho Department of Fish and Game has appealed U.S. Forest Service approval of the open-pit mine.

Fish and Game officials feel the impact on wildlife would be greater than the Forest Service environmental assessment states, said Carl Nei-

"Once we find out what the operating plan is, we'll know if we've get out differences worked out," Nellis said.

Residents should insist on better education

In what has become something of an annual ritual, local school officials across the Magic Valley are once again putting the arm on newly-elected state legislators for more money for Idaho's education system.

But sadly, they have drawn a wide circle of subject areas they don't want the state to meddle in, from superintendent ntability to consolidation.

In effect, they're saying, give us more money, but don't ask

In circu, tiey is earlier, give us inde inducing, but don't eave we're going to use it.

The familiar scenario was repeated last week in a couple of re usual forums, a school boards' meeting and a presentation by local superintendents for area legislators.

Here were some themes:

tion by local superintendents for area legislators. Here were some themes:

-No, legislators should not mandate school consolidation to improve educational quality and, perhaps, save money. Wouldn't want to cut any of those $40,000 to $60,000 administrator jobs, now would we? (You doubt the figure? Just ask.)

-No, school administrators don't need any additional standards, such as required familiarity with budgeting and finances. Teacher standards are fine, though.

Funny, they must have overlooked the Castleford auperintendent a few years ago who had a yen for X-rated videos or the sloppy account practices which allowed Shoshone officials to keep some $10,000 in a file cabinet this fall just waiting to be stolen.

(Want a good project? Look at how much your district takes in in un-audited funds and accelled "activity and the cials to keep some $10,000 in a file cabinet this fall just waiting to be stolen.

(Want a good project? Look at how much your district takes in in un-audited funds and so-called "activity and athletic accounts" for which there little or no accounting.)

—Yes, lower the majority now needed to pass school bond votes from the two-thirds vote now needed. A simple majority will do nicely, and thanks for the additional money, folks.

—No, we couldn't possibly ask for more from the people in direct overrides for which we might have to explain the need. Why, just let that good ole sugar daddy, the Idaho Legislature, insulate us from having to explain the costs and benefits in our local communities.

Some of those points found their way into a Times-News article on Wednesday, which ironically was published on the same day as an opinion article by Texas businessman H. Ross Perot, who headed a Texas committee to improve that state's school system.

Ross Perot, who headed a Texas committee to improve that state's school system.

Many of Perot's points dealt with the quality of local school administration and leadership. There had to be change from a system in which many school administrators are recycled coaches and in which athletic activities are rampant; in which there is no economic accounting for programs; in which activities and a long list of non-essentials crowd the school day; in which there is precious little vision, clearly-stated objectives or philosophy at the top.

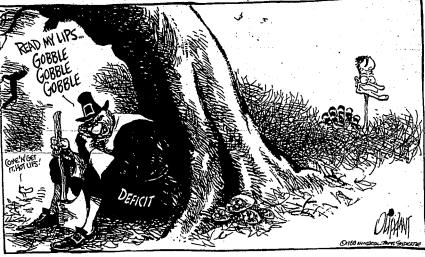

Change the name of the state and much of what Perot is talking about is true today in Idaho educational administration.

That is not to say things can't be changed here. Many legislators know this, but for many reasons, things go on year islators know this, but for many reasons, things go-on, year-to year, pretty much as they are.

When, for example, was the last time you heard about a school administrator being let go for incompetence?
As Perot suggests, Texas is now on the way to closing the education gaps in his state. Where is Idaho? Where are the Magic Valley schools going?
As with many other things, folks, we get the level of excellence in education which we are willing to insist upon. And as Perot suggests, until we insist on more, we'll get just about what we have now.

Idaho needs better teachers

I hope that Senators Noh and McRoberts read the editorial in today's paper by H. Ross Perot of Texas who, I thought really pinpointed the trouble with education in America.

with education in America.

Mr. Perot claims that Texas had one of the poorest educational records in the country. Not as low as Idahos, of course, but very low.

One thing that Texas got rid of in their schools was social promotion. I feel that many teachers in our school system aren't qualified to teach our children.

In sorry to say that, but it's true! Ever since 1972 I've been writing to our State Superintendent of Schools and to our State Legislature complaining about the quality of education in our schools.
I was one of many who attended a meeting at the old ULeary Junner High when the school board was deliberating about whether to have public kindergartens.

as demonstrating and indergrartens.

It shouldn't have been necessary to debate the should have been mandatory! Percent have been mandatory! kindergartens.

It shouldn't have been necessary to debate the issue! It should have been mandatory! Perot claims that small preschools help prepare our children for their entrance into grade school. Children from lower income homes are able to go to Head Start which has proven a wonderful program. But only a small percentage get to go!

Mr. Perot also claims that there is an over emphasis on sports and extracurricular activities in most of our public schools. In certain that it's true here. Parents should decide which is more important winning a football gome or having their children, and when they know their kids are being should start insisting on an education for their children, and when they know their kids are being short changed by a particular teacher, that teacher should be reported to his superior. Instead of trying to teach Creationism and science simultaneously, we should leave Creationism to the theologists and the churches.

Idaha must get better teachers! To get them, we must increase their wages! The future success of our country is dependent on the education of our children!

I am greatly distressed by the recent article titled "Charbonneau Appeal Raises Cost Specter.

the incident occurred, but so many try and pass judgement, with only a few tainted and sided facts. Is this the way to grind your axe?

I could come to Carl's defense and try and give my side of the story but it would probably be as tainted and sided as the first letter. I feel what Carl did was probably within his bounds as a fish and game officer, but this like everything else could be debatable.

The real issue isn't one incident at Rock Creek but the thoughtless actions of some sportsmen. Most people would probably agree that we as hunters must have respect for the game laws, landowners, our hunting partners, and ourselves. But do we need respect for the non-hunters and wildlife? By the actions of some, they must feel we don't. I think to preserve hunting we must change some of our priorities and show respect for both non-hunters and the game we hunt.

To put dead animals or their heads on display to the public can be very offensive to some people.

To put dead animals or their heads on aispiss to the public can be very offensive to some people Should a father have to explain to his small child why someone would tie a deer's head up for view with a beer can on its antler? Should he have to explain why a deer is hanging in someone's front yard without a game bag on? Should he have to agreements a game bag on? Should he have to explain why there are deer careasses along the roads on the outskirts of town?

If he is a non-hunter he probably tells his child that that's the way hunters are, they like to kills things, and they have no reverence for the land or the animals they hunt. Now if he's a responsible hunter, he probably has to make up excuses to explain it to his child "Well, son, he probably aloesn't have enough room in the back of his truck' or "Maybe he can't afford a meat locker" or "His game bag is dirty". He just didn't have time to drive to the landfill or his garbage cans were full.

When ninety five pursue of "This parbage can't we have the probably he had the landfill or his garbage cans were full."

When ninety five percent of our nation is non-hunters, we must show them respect because they control our destiny, and they are the majority! Now I'm as proud as anybody when I take game, but I don't need to show everybody on the Failure of Marxism beneficial only if U.S. spirit prevails

Henry Luce, the founder of the Time and Life publishing concern and the man who be-fore World War II called this the "American Century," made a speech in the 1950s in which he said that America must win the Cold war.

I was present at the speech, and I thought the goal was unrealistic. But in a sense, America and its allies have now indeed won the Cold War.

We are witnessing the dismal failure of

We are witnessing the dismal failure of Marxism as an economic, political and social system. That is the true meaning of the phenomenon known as Gorbachev.

The failure of Marxism has not happened suddenly; we cannot point to a single date or a single event as marking the change.

All we can say is this: Throughout this century, Marxism was a major force in the world desperately fought against and fought for, today it is simply no longer that important.

Henry Grunwald

This is a major change in the balance of power of ideas. As the world's leading demo-cratic, anti-communist country, America is entitled to take some satisfaction from this, d to expect some benefits.

cally, unless we can substitute for a failed Marxiam the continuing success and expanding relevance of our own system. What is the evidence for the failure of Marxiam? First of all, the Soviet Union. Seventy years after the Russian Revolution and after innumerable reform programs and several rulers of very different styles, the Soviet Union remains an underdeveloped country that cannot feed its own people.

The facts and figures to illustrate this are endless. An estimated one out of three Russian families lives near or below the poverty line. The amount of time Soviet citizens spend in queues equals the yearly labor of 35 million people working a 40-bour week. Gorbachev claims he can repair and revisitize Marsism. He blames "deformations" of Marrism for the disaster, blames bureauers, overcentralized management, cerruption, the colt of personality, Stalin, Breathnes.

But the phenomena and individuals now being condemned were themselves the product—I would say the inevitable product—I would say the inevitable product. An estimated one out of three Rus-

Marxism tried to organize industrial sociéty by combining the social principle of an egalitarian commune and the command principle of an army — two principles that are contradictory and incompatible. The egalitarian ideal proved a sham and the command system ineffective.

The Chinese, who have undertaken far more radical reforms than Gorbachev so far, seem best on removing the party and the government from economic management and making private enterprise certist with a communiest political system.

They may have a greater talent than the Soviets for reconciling opposites. But despite their spectacular success in agriculture, it is doubtful that they can succeed in industry and the economy as a whole. In fact they have recently applied the brakes.

Possibly Gorbachev can build a mixed system and improve the Soviet economy to a degree given persistence and patience — his

The federal government is also a very hig spender, the world's biggest. It is spending about $75 hillion this year to buy weapons, or about $300 per person. It also allocates billions annually to buy items ranging from space launchers to dams, reads, sedans for congressional leaders and that of paper to write and duplicate millions of letters and reports.

country, dedicated not only to greater efficiency but to democracy and more freedom.

But we need to remember that glasnost is relatively easy; unlike economic and deep political reforms, it largely involves the removal of some restrictions and the rights signals to the intellectual clite.

Despite Russia's new flexibility, the rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union—and the larger rivalry between the Free western societies —is not over. That is especially clear from the fairly obvious Soviet temps to drivide NATO and to denuclearize Europe.

A more benign, pragmatic and less ideologically driven Russia may actually present a greater challenge than the old, heavy-handed, crusading power which frightened people and often was its own worst enemy. Finally, the failure of Marxism has important choes in the advanced industrial countries. Today, the public debate has moved to the center; it is concerned with different forms and degrees of the free society.

cent forms and degrees of the free so-ciety. We should not forget what gave rise to Marxism in the first place. It was not only a rebellion against the misery caused by the Industrial Rev-olution, but a gainst the lack of spiri-tuality and common humanity in ear-ly capitalism.

The free market, efficiency, the cre-ation of wealth—by themselves— will not satisfy people in the long run unless their non-material yearning, their spiritual needs are also served.

That cannot be done by govern-ments and their bureaueracies, but must be accomplished by our church-es, our community institutions, by the marshaling of all our spiritual re-sources. Unless we also succeed in this dimension, the failure of Marx-ism will not ultimately benefit our side.

Bush faces as he prepared to assume command of the country and its economy.

As a measure of how deeply spending is ingrained, the United States over the past sit years borrowed a whooping $700 billion from foreign lenders to get the wherewithal to live quite nicely on imported goods while saving a pittanee.

We now know the miracle of supply-side economics, "asys C. Fred Bergsten, director of the Institute for International Economics." The foreigners supplied much of the goods and most of the money.

But the United States' spending binge has its serious downside.

The sharp decline in the everseas value of the dollar over the past two weeks since Bush's election, despite his presumed sympatry to the business community, underscores the economy's tenuous nature after these years of relying on funds from abroad.

Investors around the world, refo-

Investors around the world, refo Investors around the world, refo-cused again on economic reality after the election, are indicating by selling dollars a shaky confidence in the ability of Bush, holding only an un-certain mandate and facing even larger Democratic majorities in Congress, to manage the economy under potential stress from depen-dence on these foreign leans. The dollar has become in a way a barometer of how well the world thinks Bush is doing.

That does not mean the ceiling is about to fall on the nation if the Bush administration in the traditional first 100 days for fast action falls to deal decisively with economic issues, represented by the low saving rates as reflected in the huge budget deficit.

In fact, private economists, we were horizon, predict no crisis necessarily included to the saving the savent of the work of the savent of the savent

Even the stock market crash is Even the stock market crash is nearly a forgotten occurrence. A survey issued last week by the University of Michigan showed consumer confidence more favorable than at any time over the past two years. Although it is not the stuff of headlines or television sound bites, this is the nation's fundamental economic problem.

Problem.
Each month the failure to address this issue shows up in the figures on international trade, with the U.S. deficit running at about $10 billion time aller time as imports demanded by American consumers stay high and exports fall short of keeping up that pace.

When the government enjoys the rare event of a budget surplus it is adding to the nation's savings by withdrawing more money in tax revenues than it is spending. But when it runs large deficits, the usual pattern of recent parents when it runs large deficits, the usual pattern of recent pending:

As a result, the national savings rate has been plumeting to record lows and the amount saved for the future has been dwindling.

Parents have filled the gap by lending from their large savings pool. That benefit may be running out, however, which could imperit the U.S. economy.

Should the Bush administration and Congress reach an agreement to reduce the budget deficit, the American economy would begin to accumulate wealth once again at a more normal pace. That would mean less borrowing from overseas as investments from the country's own savings rise.

But should the coming administration and Congress dawile over this painful issue and fail to act, then there is only one alternative. The Federal Reserve Board is going to have to cut be spending through a taugher monetary policy and higher interest rates.

That will slow growth in the United States and dampen consumer.

That will slow growth in the United States and dampen consumer spending, which will make the country less dependent on foreign funds. This policy, though, would have serious results. It would have investments needed to build the nation's wealth. In addition, the higher interest rates would draw more funds from abroad, worsen the trade deficiand force the United States to continue to rely on foreign borrowings. The higher interest rates would also raise the government's cost of borrowing and deepen the budget deficit. It is for these reasons that Federal Reserve thairman Alan Greenspan said the other day that the need for lowering the budget deficit is becom-ing "ever more urgent."

INDIANAPOLIS — As the Democratic Party struggles to define itself, searching for a candidate and a message to someday regain the White House, some believe the answer might lie in Indiana.

In a state known for a dominant Republican Party, Democrats are pointing with pride to the election of Evan Bayh as governor. When he takes office in January, Bayh, 32, will be youngest governor in the nation, and the first Democratic governor in Indiana since 1968.

Bayh ran what even Republicans concede was a brilliant campaign, keeping his opponent, Lt. Gov. John Mutz, on his heels over taxing and spending. In effect, Bayh ran as a conservative, but advanced such independent issues as health care, day care and education.

He also won in the face of long political odds. Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana helped George Bush carry the state in a landslide, and Republican Sen. Richard Lugar won re-election by a record, 760,000 votes.

If Bayh had lost the governor's race, some prominent Democrats have said, the two-party system in Indiana might never have recovered. As it was, his victory is being anied by Democrats on the national scene, who already are touting Bayh as one of the prominent faces in the party's future.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new effort by OPEC to limit oil production, if successful, will worsen inflationary pressures in the United States at least temporarily and put more upward pressure on interest rates, many economists believe. That would mean slower growth next year and make President-electroly and put the correct of the production cuts will soak up seven harder, these analysts said. Falling energy prices have been a key factor helping offset drought-induced increases in food prices over the past several months.

But that fall apparently is about to be reversed. Instead of decliming, gasoline and heating oil costs will be rising, just as the worst impact of the summer drought will be hitting greecry stores, economists believe.

These forecasts are being many devent hough analysts are skeptical that the 13 nations of OPEC will be able to reach their target of pushing oil prices up to $18 per barrel.

Instead, a more likely outcome is that oil prices will rise to between $15 and $16 per barrel, up from lows of $12 per barrel.

If that occurs, David Wyss, an economist at Data Resources Inc. predicted that the consumer prices will climb at an annual rate approaching 6 percent in the early months of 1999. That would be up from an expected rise in consumer prices of just 4.5 percent this year.

However, economists predict this inflationary spike won't last long because of their belief the new OPEC accord will fall apart as various countries cheat on their quatas.

The production cuts will soak up some of the excess inventories and prices will firm, said Donald Ratajezak, director of the economic forecasting project at Georgia State University. That will last until the heating season tapers off at the end of February when I believe energy prices will start falling again.

Because of his belief that cheating will keep OPEC from ever reaching the 18.5 million-per-day production limit, Ratajezak said he sees overall consumer prices climbing by about 4.5 percent next year, essentially the same as for 1988.

Wyss a result that inflationary pressures shade to at their worst in the first three months of next year and then begin to ease. However, he said if OPEO is more successful at limiting production than analysts now believe, that could spell trouble, especially with the United States already operating at near full-employment and with U.S. factories producing at hich posertaine rates.

ment and with U.S. factories producing at high operating rates.

"There is a danger that this inflationary spart could set off a wage-price spiral," Wyss said. In such an occurrence, higher energy prices would be translated into higher costs for other goods, which would prompt workers to demand bigger pay increases to keep up with the rising costs.

That would force the Federal Reserve to squeeze down on the growth of the money supply and push up interest rates in an effort to dampen an overheating economy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has re-cted Palestine Liberation Organization chairman asser Arafat's application for a visa to visit the United tates to address the United Nations, the State De-

States to address the United Nations, the State Department announced Staturday.

Secretary of State George Shultz revealed his decision in a two-page statement issued to reporters.

The PLO applied for a visa so Arafat could travel to New York to address the United Nations on Dec. 1 when it opens its debate on the Palestine questions. Shultz said he could not recommend granting the visa to Arafat because of the PLO's positions.

The U.S. government has convincing evidence that PLO elements have engaged in terrorism against Americans and others, the statement said.

3 Islamic nations to launch satellite

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran, Turkey and Pakisthave announced a plan to launch a satellite to be communications between the three countries. Iran's ficial Islamic Republic News Agency reported Saturda

The satellite will be launched under the auspicer of the Economic Cooperation Organization, formed by the three countries in 1964 to coordinate joint economic ac-tivities, said IRNA.

The plan was announced during a meeting in the Ira-nian capital, Tehran, between Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati, members of the organization's sec-retariat in Tehran and the ambassadors of Pakistan and Turkey.

South Africa releases 2 prisoners

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Prison authorities confirmed Saturday that they had released two long-term black political prisoners — one of them a coleague of imprisoned African National Congress leader league of impriso Nelson Mandela.

Nelson Mandela.

Both men — African National Congress organizer Harry Gwala, 68, and the leader of the rival Pan Africanist Congress, Zephanian Mothopeng, 85 — have been in ill health for the last few years and have been the subject of international appeals for their release.

The authorities said they were released on humanitarian grounds and were not placed under political restrictions.

Estonia move called unconstitutional

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's highest executive body on Saturday called Extonia's effort to declare greater autonomy from Moscow unconstitutional and declared it invalid, the official media said.

But President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who convened the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, acknowledged that national constitutional amendments that he proposed had angered Extonians and people in other republics by restricting rather than expanding local autonomy.

Gorbachev said the Presidium made changes in his oposals, but none of the official news reports speciproposals, but none fied what they were.

Winkler, 32, was kidnapped from his car by three unidentified gunmen on Nov. 17. No group claimed responsibility.

The Sidon Red Cross office shut down on Wednesday to protest Winkler's abduction. Three of its attaff left Saturday for Geneva, leaving about 28 in the country, said the Red Cross sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Police believe the Fatah-Revolutionary Gouncil faction led by Palestinian terrorist mastermind Abu Nidal carried out the kidnapping on behalf of Hezbollah, which has no presence in Sidon.

In Sidon, a southern port city, Lebanese and foreign humanitarian organizations went on strike Saturday to protest Winkler's abduction and the apparent kidnapping of Belgian doctor Jan Cools.
Cools, 32, disappeared May 21 after leaving his apartment in a Palestinian refuge camp near the southern port of Tyre, 25 miles south of Sidon.

He worked at the camp for Norwaz, a Norwajan humanitarian group, for three months before he vanished. No group has claimed responsibility. Gilbert Holleufer, International Red Cross spokesman in Lebanon, said the suspension of activities in Sidon will cut back assistance for wardisabled people at a Red Cross orthopedic center there. awareness BOSTOM (AP) — The Canadian earthquake felt over a wide area of the northeastern United States should get people to pay more attention to making essential buildings in the region earthquake-prod, a geologist said Saturday. "Earthquakes in New England are relatively infrequent but they do occur, said Dr. John Ebel, a seismologist at the Westan Observatory at Boston College in Newtan. With that in mind, we need to be sure that critical facilities are made to stand up to earthquakes. Ebel said Massachusetts is one of the few states in New England that have a seismic provision required in the construction of major structures like tall buildings and hospitals. New York state recently required that some structures meet earthquake codes, Ebel said. Nuclear power plants in the region are constructed to withstand earthquakes, Ebel said. Friday's quake, centred 95 miles north of Quebec City, registered 6.0 on the Richter scale, according to Markershocks had been recorded and more were expected, although no damage was reported, state officials said Saturday. wins award

CUPERTINO, Calif. — The stu-dent newspaper at Cupertino's Home-stead High School has received the 1988 Scholastic Press Freedom

1988 Scholastic Press Freedom Award after overcoming the principal's initial refusal to publish a story about AIDS.

Homestead High School's Epitaph was the first high school paper in the nation to be censored after the Supreme Court decided Jan. 13, 1988, that school officials could take such action.

The award is given annually to a high school or college student news outlet that has demonstrated, outstanding support for students' First Amendment rights.

Homestead Principal Jim Warren pulled the AIDS story, which was supposed to run Jan. 15 and included an interview with an unidentified student who had tested positive for the AIDS antibody.

Censored newspaper

Warren backed down, however, when informed of a California law that prohibits school officials from censoring student publications.

U.S. chess team leader secretly marries Soviet

Secretly mar

SALONICA, Greece (AP) — The captain of the American Olympic chess team secretly married a Soviet woman ranked second among the world's female chess players and left with her for the United States on Saturday.

John Donaldson, 31, and Elena Akhmilovskaya, 32, were wed in this northern port city during a major tournament Friday, according to American players.

Tis a real love match, A marriage, not a defection, said Inna Izrailov, a Soviet who plays for the American women's team.

The couple's elopement deprived the U.S. men's team of its captain at a crucial stage in the Olympiad, a biennial world team championship that began in Satonica earlier this month. With three rounds team for a medal.

We really do mind losing our team captain, but we couldn't think of a finer reason why we should, said Yasser Sierawan of Seattle, America's top player. Sierawan said the couple hoped Ms. Akhmilovskaya's dunghter would eventually be allowed to join them in the United

Donaldsdy, an international master also from Seattle, and Ms. Akmilovskaya first met three years ago at a world championship qualifying tournament in Havana, Cuba.

The loss of Ms. Akhmilovskaya, a grandmaster, in the women's championship may make an even bigger difference in that event.

The Soviets are slightly ahead of Hungary, whose remarkable trio of sisters — including Judit Polgar, the highest ranked 12-year-old player in history — threatens to break three decades of Soviet domination.

Donaldson and Ms. Akmilovskaya were married at noon Friday in a civil ceremony at City Hall, then returned to the playing hall to watch the United States women's team hold the Soviets a draw.

The couple spent a sleepless Friday night with the American players, who escorted the cuple to Salonica airport early Saturday.

Later in the morning, after the lane took off, Izrailov infreed the Soviet team that Ms. Akhmilovskaya would not be playing in the 12th round on Saturday.

"When it happens, I can't catch my breath."

Censored newspaper wins award

CUPERTINO, Calif. — The student newspaper at Cupertino's Home-stead High School has received the 1988 Scholastic Press Freedom Award after overcoming the principal's initial refusal to publisher story about AIDS.—

about AIDS.—
Homestead High School's Epitaph was the first high school paper, in the nation to be censored after the Supreme Court decided Jan. 1is 1988, that school officials could take such action.

The award is given annually to a high school or college student news outlet that has demonstrated outstanding support for students First Amendment rights.

Homestead Principal Jim Warren pulled the AIDS story, which was supposed to run Jan. 15 and included an interview with an unidentified student who had tested positive for the AIDS antibody.

Warren backed down, however, when informed of a California law that prohibits school officials from censoring student publications.

Cable company asks for opinions on KSL-TV

By MARTA CLEAVELAND

TWIN FALLS - Subscribers to cable television have until Dec. 16 to express their opinion about whether they value watching KSL-TV enough to pay a 10 cent per month increase in their subscription rate to keep it.

Chris Talkington, general manager of King Videocable Co., which carries the Salt Lake City-based station, said he has made Dec. 16 a self-imposed deadline for deciding whether to drop the station or raise rates

KSL's status on cable channel 23 is in jeopardy be-cause its management is no longer willing to pay the $8,000 annual fee for sending its signal here via mi-

"We'd love to be there," said Bill Murdock, KSL general manager, but we really don't get anything back other than providing free coverage in that area."
Twenty-live percent of King Video's customers are LDS, Talkington said, and there is a large following for KSL, which is owned by the Mormon Church. The CBS-affiliated station's local news programming has been rated third best in the country, and many sporting events from Brigham Young University are broad-ing events from Brignau (1990), a cast.

The $8,000 microwave charge could be covered with The $8,000 microwave charge could be envered with a minimal 10 cent per year cable subscription increase, but Talkington doesn't know if his customers will accept even that amount.

"It wouldn't be as complicated if we hadn't had a rate increase recently, he said.

To gauge the will of his customers. Talkington produced a live call-in show on community channel 10 last Monday night.

Most of the people calling said they wouldn't mind ying (to keep KSL), he said.

But Talkington said the ones that feel strongly were ore likely to call in. He doesn't rule out the presence of the silent majority.

He is considering doing a phone survey or a mail-in survey in the Times-News to get more subscriber reaction to the dilemma.
"It will provide a windsock indicator, that's all," he said.

Talkington urges all subscribers with an opinion either way to call or write King Videocable.

Owsley said Phillips is "not afraid" to clean even the dirtiest mess. "He is sincere in the way he feels and what he does," the mayor said.

In a recent interview, Phillips, wearing navy blue work overalls, explained why he works without pay for the people of Hagerman Valley.

"Their kindness has been very touching to me," he said. "My reward is just knowing these people. That means a lot to me."

Phillips said he spent half his life in Las Vegas and Los Angeles, where neighbors don't know each other money is all that counts and a kind deed makes people suspicious. After living in Salmon, Hailey and Buhl, Phillips moved to Hagerman about a year ago.

Since then, he said, everyone in this river valley has treated him like an old friend. They gave Phillips use of garden space, anonymously brought him a huge box of groceries for Thanksuving, let him have outdated sandwicks from stores and gave him fresh fruit.

And when one person he barely knew offered to advance him some money, Phillips recalled, "I pretty here fold through the floor. People just don't do that where I came from. I didn't know how to respond to it." But the newcomer did respond. He saw that people can be generous instead of selfish and hostile. "It's an experience of a lifetime to understand and realize that difference." Phillips said. "Their kind attitude changed me as a person."

JEROME — Public Works Director Lanny Sloan is formulating a bond issue proposal for the Jerome City Council to raise funds to repair the Jerome Community Swimming Pool. Sloan plans to meet with Jerome Recreation Director Mike Pepper to iron out details for the Dec. 6 council meeting. Officials estimato repairs will cost between $25,000 and $30,000 but Sloan said no decision has been made regarding what size bond to issue.

City officials have described the pool as dangerous and needing new in repaired filters, plumbing, backwashing devices and boiler systems. Which results in water on the floor 'We are looking at borrowed time' night now, not only as far as how long all of this will last, but also for safety reasons," Pepper said.

Officials currently agree the pool's three gravel filters should be replaced with a high-pressure sand fair, which should be located outside the, which should be located outside the, which should be located outside the, which should be located outside the pool, away from the plumbing econnections in the underground maintenance work on dressing rooms.

The 50-by-100-foot pool, at Second Avenue and Buchanan Street, had about 14,000 swimmers last year. Participation is expected to increase this summer, according to Pepper, if the pool at the recently closed Tupperware plant is not opened.

"Frankly, I'm not sure a bond issue is the way to go on this, because it is my personal opinion that this is a small amount of money for a bondissue, Sloan said. "But, on the other hand, I don't know how to get the money any other way."

City seeks information on drugs through forms in bills

AllaANY, Ore, (AP) — Forgs asking for information on suspected drug activity have been included in bills mailed to the city's water customers to give people a chance to snitch in private about possible criminal activity.

There's a number of people in the community who are fearful for their own safety — whether real or imagined — and this provides a way... we can look at it, Police Chief Darrell Pepper said.

The forms state that they are notificial complaints and ask for as many details as possible. They also carry this message: Your help is very important, but do not take unnecessary risks or actions on your own.

Pepper said returned forms come directly to him. He destroys any that seem inapprepriate or vindictive. Were only interested in things that are of a criminal nature, Pepper said.

So far, about a half dozen forms have been returned. None has contained information about suspected criminal activity the police didn't already know about, Pepper said.

Some people have written notes on the forms companing the making to the Nazis asking people to spy on their neighbors, Pepper said.

THE FOURTH ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF TREES"

The Festival of Trees features dozens of especially decorated Christmas trees and wreaths that have been decorated by individuals, organizations, clubs, churches, schools and businesses who then donate the trees to the Foundation. The decorated trees are in turn sold to local patrons. In addition, homemade food items, Christmas gifts, Santa Claus, and continuous entertainment by local performers are all part of the Festival of Trees celebration.

Held in the old Bon Marche Building, Downtown-

he Medical Center Auxiliary, the South Control Medical Auxiliary, The Twin Falls Lions C and the Twin Falls County Junior Club will assist the Foundation in presenting this even Groups create wonderland for annual Festival of Trees

By LORAYNE ORLON SMITH
TIMES-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The former Bon Marche building in downtown Twin Falls is being transformed into a winter wonderland this week to stage the fourth annual Festival of Trees Thursday through Sunday.
A 20-foot tall tree, donated by Wuthrich's Magic Gardens and festooned with bows and mirrors, will be the focal point of the main floor Torest' of more than 60 other elabcontelly decorated trees, all offered for sale to benefit the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.
Using the theme Christmas Reflections, 'the festival also will include an elaborate gingerbread display, a 49-inch train and large carousel made by Pat Heinemann as window displays.
Inside there will be a wooden an sivity set from Wood Hollow and table decorating ideas. Wreaths will be diplayed on the doors.
With more than 1,000 volunteers articipating in either entertainment or arrangements, the fundraiser is probably the largest city report held in Twin Falls each year.

The key to the growing success of the festival — which began with a modest $10,000 goal four years ago —is the involvement of an increasing number of organizations, Ball

In addition to the variety of gft items offered by hospital auxiliary, several speciality items, such as aprons and sweat suits, have been made exclusively for the festival by local craftsman, Harder says, Several hundred other volunteers will serve as hosts in two-and three-hour shifts. The South Central Medical Auxiliary members serve as the core group for this activity.

There also will be a 'Gala Opening' to kick off the festival Wednesday night.

Although some 1,000 personal invitations have been mailed, Sue

BURLEY — Burley's Festival of Trees is scheduled Thursday through Saturday at the Burley Inn with nearly 50 trees to be offered for sale.

The three-day event, which last year raised $30,000, was originated by Cassia Memorial Hospital between eight and 10 years ago, said Dick Packer, hospital administrator. Similar events are now held in both Twin Falls and Gooding.

It has become a popular event which people view as the beginning of the Christmas season, he said. The event now benefits not only the bospital, but other health-related agencies in the Mini-Cassia area.

Packer said $17,000 from this year's proceeds have been pledged toward purchase of a heart monitor, two blood pressure monitors and an oxygen tent.

Hours are from noon to 10 p.m. Thursday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday. Admission charge is $1 per adult and 50 cents for children.

On Friday, from 8 to 10 a.m., senior citizens will be admitted free. They are urged to come at this time when there will be less congestion. Whiel chairs will be available, Packer said.

Bruce Beck, chairman, said there will be entertainment by local groups and individuals throughout the-festival.

Cassia Memorial Pink Ladies auxiliary will operate a sweet shop, country store and will serve chili, hot dogs, sandwiches and pie.

A $500 pot of gold will be given away during the event. The drawing will be held at 10 p.m. and persons do not have to be present to win.

DEAR ABBY. You are probably sick of hearing people say. T never thought I'd be writing to you, but, Abby. I have to talk to someone about this because the gult is killing me.I have a 10-year-old daughtor who is legally blind and mentally retarded. "Maria" is able to walk and talk, bushe has the mind of a 2-year-old. She is almost as big as I am, and I have to feed, bathe, diaper and dress her. I can't leave her alone for a minute. I may 3 years old and have no life of my own. My husband helps as much as he can, but he's at work all day. Maria is physically abusive. Bahy sitters quit after one day. If I try to

Retailers expect bah-humbug attitude from shoppers

Sizing up the coming holiday shopping season for retailers is proving easy, with merchants' visions midway between sugarplums and a lump of coal.

"It will be he-hum instead of he-he-ho, said Carl Steidmann, vice president and chief economist of Management Horizons, a consulting company in Columbus, Ohio.

Retailers, who have suffered through and say that they have no plans to repeat the frenzied discounting that turned last season into a bargain-hunter's delight, marred as it was by consumer uninterest in fashions and skittishness after that October's stock mar-ket crash. As a result, customers who were spoiled last year by the price cuts of desper-ate retailers will probably be disappointed this time.

this time.

But retailers, usually an optimistic lot, are low-key in their predictions for the holiday, categorizing their expectations as "reasonably good," not a barn burner, "respectable" or "cautious."

or "cautious."
Kurt Barnard, publisher of the Retail Mar-keting Report newsletter in New York, re-flects the gloomy mood. "Retailers are faced with a Christmas that is going to be dull at the very best." he said. They're trying to minimize the downside as much as possible."

Retaiters and economists expect the impor-tant fourth quarter — which usually ac-counts for one-third of merchants' annual sales and 50 percent to 60 percent of their profits — to show only modest sales growth of 4 percent to 6 percent. After inflation is taken into account, that will mean real gains of a paltry 1 percent to 3 percent, compared with last heliday's real growth of just over 2 percent. (In one respect, however, this may be a better year. If retailers can hold the line against price discounts, profits are likely to be improved over 1987.) Such modest forecasts belie the fact that consumers appear to be heading into the holi-

The clear that the American public views itself as doing quite well these days," said Andrew J. Brown, president of Opinion Research Corp., a marketing research company in Princeton, N.J. People are working and money's around. Nobody seems to feel he is in bad shape."

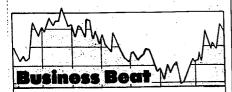

On the other hand, shoppers' recollections of last year's uneasiness have not dimmed, he noted. "Ever since last October... we have seen people indicating a desire to avoid major purchases and to do less credit spending," he said. "And that has an impact on Christmas." Since September 1987, when the nation's savings rate hit an all-time low, consumers have been slowly rebuilding their caches of cash. Meanwhile, department store credit balances have been declining since February, said Thomas H. Thshjian, vice president of retail trade at the Seidler Amdee Securities brokerage in Los Angeles.

Toverall ... the consumer sales trends are showing the impact of an aging baby boom (set) who are more attuned to their home, to saving a little more and to being a lot more practical about their spending, he said.

Such a spending environment has proved especially difficult for the nation's largest retailer, Sears, Robuck & Co., which has watched its business deteriorate of late. This holiday it is mounting a television advertis-programs in a more market-oriented direction," the GAO said. "However, rigidities in the bill's production control provisions have discouraged farmers from producing certain crops, even when commercial market conditions are favorable.

For example, it said, the programs this year affected decisions of farmers in the Corn Belt, who maintained their level of corn plantings and dinct expand their soybeans despite a strong soybean market relative to corn.

GAO boss Charles A. Bowsher said that other concerns lawmakers should address include:

Reducing the cost of Farmers Home Administration loan programs.
Finding long-term ways of reducing dairy surpluses.

Strengthening the viability of the USDA's federal crop insurance

Enhancing U.S. agricultural petitiveness in world markets.

WASHINGTON — Scores of government and private experts are poring over computer print-outs and maybe a crystal ball or two as they prepare for the Agriculture Department's 65th annual Agricultural Outlook Conference this week.

These experts will outline their 1989 forecasts for farmers, consumers and world traders. But the experts usually hedge their predictions, just in case.

A year ago, for example, none foresaw the devastating drought that swept across much of the nation in the apring of 1988 or the economic grief it caused for hard-pressed farmers trying to recover from earlier financial troubles.

For others whose crops escaped severe damage from summer heat and drought, the year turned out profitably as market prices of wheat, feed grains and soybeans climbed in response to reduced supplies.

private sectors, including information specialists, market analysts, lobbyists, consultants, advisers, congressional staffers and others whose livelihoods depend on up-to-date, accurate information.

gins on Tuesday and concludes at mid-day Thursday, will attract hun-dreds of onlookers. They will represent both the public and private sectors, including infor-mation specialists, market analysts, lobbyists, consultants, advisors, con-gressional staffers and others whose livelihoods debend on up-to-date, ac-curate information.

Nearly all will be watching for new signs or projections that may direct their paths in 1989, any indication of trends ending, beginning or continu-

ig. The USDA's role in national statistics and economics goes back to its of-ficial beginnings during the Civil War. Gradually, as Congress expand-ed the department's functions and authority, expert information became a precious commodity in itself, to be ...made public and distributed widely. In 1922, under the guidance of Agriculture Secretary Henry C. Wal-lace (whose son, Henry A. Wallace, would one day also become secretary of agriculture), the department began a world survey of agricultural condi-tions.

A new Bureau of Agricultural Eco-nomics was created and 'a movement gst under way to make available to farmers the results of economic research to aid them in planning production and marketing for the coming year, says one USDA history.

The first outlook conference was held April 20-21, 1923. It was so popular that another was held on July 11-12 the same year.

Early emphasis at the conferences was pretty heavy on crops and the outlook for planting, USDA historian Doug Bowers said in a telephone interview. And the repeat of meetings in July was only a one-shot deal, he said.

Annual outlook conferences were held thereafter, mostly in the fall, when farmers began looking ahead to the following spring's planting and the mowing spaning spaning solution with the fall scheduling held until the late 1960s and early 1970s, Bowers said. At that time, the outlook meetings were shifted to February.

That worked out better for some economic numbers but didn't help ing blitz to "set Sears apart from the clutter," according to Tom Morris, vice president of marketing.

At an estimated cost of $30 million, Sears has produced 27 different ads that will appear a total of nearly 1,000 times during the season and get an estimated 3.5 billion viewings.
Each spot will feature a gift item of routstanding value" found only at Sears, Morris said.
The campaign, Sears biggest marketing effort ever, precedes the chains risk-danen strategy, planned for early next year, to cut everyday prices and climinate heavily promote sales.

for early next year, to cut everyday prices and eliminate heavily promotice sales.

We knew early on that we had a lot riding on the last six weeks of this year, Morris said.

Other chains will bombard shoppers with a plethora of warm, fuzzy, sentimental ads. At Toys R Us, the theme You'll Never Outgrow Us is aimed at cuturing the growing number of shoppers who received Toys R Us gifts as children and now have youngsters of their own.

Target Stores, an upscale discount chain, is for the first time using celebrities in its TV and radio spats, including Arctha Franklin giving a bluesy rendition of an original song called "Bringing Christmas Home."

And K mart's campaign is tied in with a new photo book called. Christmas in America.

Although retailers do not see any real blockbuster products in the haliday offering, they expect traditional items and some of last years favorites to be strong, Among the expected standouts this year will be the E.T.: The Extra-ferrestrail videotape, the Pictionary game and Nintendo video games, consumer electronics gear, home furnishings and necessories such as hosiery, scarves and jewelry.

But even a so-so selling season could lift the retailers mood at the end of this lackluster year. Having been badly burned last season, merchants planned cautiously, stocking conservative supplies of goods to try to avoid unexpected markdowns.

By analyst Tashjania se stimate, inventories on a dollar basis are down 2 percent to 3 percent at thepartment stores and 17 percent at specialty appared chain stores. At general merchandisc and discount stores, they are about even with last year.

One economist, however, cautioned that low supplies of items could burt retailers — and frustrate those customers who wait until late in the season to shop.

I think retailers may have a problem of the product of th

lem not having enough going into the pers on Christmas Eve

Christmas season, said Rosalind Wells, chief economist of the National Retail Merchants Association and president of Wells & Associates, a New York consumer rescarch company. They may be caught short.

Tim sure some of them will feel sorry they didn't have more (supply) in certain areas, but I think they're happier this way.

Indeed, if sales come out as expected, merchants stand to show respectable profits for the quarter. Moreover, since their figures will be compared to poor numbers last year, they really don't have much of a hurdle to jump over to improve profitability, Steidtmann said.

Overall, holiday shoppers are expected to do little to revive the women's apparel business, which has been in latters for more than a year.

At the few chains where the clothing business is reviving, merchants credit the improvement to a greater variety in styles and a return to traditional looks that appeal to working women.

Retailers this year can thank Santa for at least one big break. There are two more shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas falls on a Sunday, with the promise of a block-buster eleventh-hour push by shoppers on Christmas Eve.

does, no harm should result, thergame. Should I have bid differently?

wise such action should be avoided.

Missi Bag, Seary, AriRINSWER: In the original form of Stayman, a two-club response folligwed by a bid of three clubs was used to indicate a club but. Today that's no longer the case and yourbidding was in accord with modern practices. Obviously your partner is on one wavelength and you are on another. Discussing bidding systems before the game prevents these misunderstandings.

Dear Mr. Wallf:

Dear Mr. Wolff: . At rubber bridge, the opponents sac-At rubber bridge, the opponents sacrificed at four spades over my conlifted at four spades over my conlifted in o-trump game. Should I Partner opens two no-trump and I have doubled or bid four no-trump if Lestimated my chances of success now—continues—to-four—no-trump, there 50-507.1 was vulnerable; they looking like a man in quest of aces.
Is this Blackwood? Lestimated my chances of success were 50-50? I was vulnerable; they were not.

Prabet to Limit, Absquarree, N.M.

ANSWER: Let's look at the arithmetic. Assuming a 300-500 set against four spades, you collect between 3,000 and 5,000 points over 10 deals at you bid on, you make 50 opercent of the time for 3,650 points one to decide whether the combined four 10 deals (five 700-point rubber bonuses and five 130-point game scores minus five 100-point set). However, when you double for the sire plus, you're still "vulnerable while they aren't, so the smart money stays with the double.

Dear Mr. Welff:
Is it permissible for a player holding only four bearts to temporize with a two-heart response over partner's one-spade opening?

Major Over Major, Payesteville, N.C.

Dear Mr. Wolff:
My LHO deals and opens one notrump (16-18 HCP). Partner doubles and RHO passes. What should I do with seven HCP and a five-card diamond suit?

ANSWER: Unless you're playing with a pinochle deck, your RHO is broke. Partner and LHO have promised at least 32 HCP between them. Pass and expect to collect a nice penalty.

Top-ranked Irish pounce on USC, 27-10

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — They came to the Los Angeles Coliseum — 93,829 strong — to praise Rodney Peete and the Southern California Trajans.

Tony Rice and his Notro Dame. The Rodney Read with the Rodney Rodn z said he thought his decision end the two players "might be a divisive influence bocause we'd boen-close all year. I told them last night (Friday). They realize — with me — that the team has to come before anything else.

Holtz's team came up with a strong effort keyed by big plays by Rice.

"Coming into the game, it looked like there was only one quarterback in the game," said Rice, whose Six yard pass to Green from his 2-yard line on Notre Dame's first play from scrimmage actually set the tone. But I showed them I could do the job, too."

I showed them I could do the job, too.

It was the 24th time the No. 1 and No. 2 teams had met since The Associated Press poll began in 1936 and the top-ranked team has won 15 while losing seven and trying two.

Notro-Dame's -wictory -snapped a string of four consecutive losses by the No. 1 team.

In achieving its first-ever 11-0 regular season, Notro Dame took advantage of two intercoptions of Peete and two fumble recoveries. All came in the first half and one of the fumbles set up Green's 2-yard touchdown runture minutes after Rice's score, giving the Irish a 14-0 lead.

Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz said he has "never had a year that's been as gratifying as this one. I'm thrilled for the players. I've never had a team that was 11-0.

For Southern Cal's Larry Smith it was "the most bitter loss of my coaching carreer because we didn't give ourselves a chance to win."

Vandals' 2nd-half defense shuts down Grizzlies for playoff win

By COLIN MULDOON Times News correspondent

MOSCOW — It was a day of taking care of unfinished business for the University of Idaho Vandal football team Saturday as the Vandals shut out the University of Montana in the second half er route to 38-19 thumping of the Grizzlies in the opening round of the national IAA nlawffs.

opening round of the national IAA playoffs.

The victory was redemption. The Idaho football program has been pestered throughout this decade by the media and its boosters for not being able to win when it supposedly counts -in post-season play. This was the fourth straight post-season game for the Vandals and the fifth appearance in the 80's, but only once prior to this year, has Idaho gone to the second round of the playoffs -in 1982 when it defeated Montana 21-7, then lost to eventual champions. Eastern Kentucky 38-30.

The topped-ranked Vandals kicked the so-called first-round jinx, however, and will host eighth-ranked Northwest Louisana State University in the Kibbe Dome in second-round action.

northwest Louisiana State University in the Kibbe Dome in secondround action.

Idaho outrushed, outpassed and outdefended the Grizzlies in every statistical category and Vandal Head Coach Keith Gilbertson deservedly took time out in the post-game interview to gloat and joke.

I don't understand this, Gilby quipped. A guy downstairs hands me this and it says 600 (yards total offense), this says only 533 (the official yardage was actually 550), that's a horrible day for us. What hell's going on, Friese?

A smiling John Friesz said, Tmsorry, Junior all-American quarterback from Couer d'Alene completed 29 of 53 passes for three touchdowns.
A 398 yard peformance. In three meetings with the Grizzlies, Friesz has passed for 1,227 yards.

"Id like to say a couple other things, too," Gilbertson continued.
No. 1 is that we got a lot of monkeys off our back's this year. You know we basically caught hell around here for a whole year because we lost in the first round of the playoffs last year was just best up. We lost to Weber and caught hell about it.

"We came back and repeated as conference champions and got that monkey off our back, beat Weber sagain during the season (27-24 Oct. as for 22 and got that monkey off our back and now in the latest of the first two drives of the first number of the first two drives of the first quarter, the Grizziles seemed the first two first two drives of the first quarter, the Grizziles seemed to move the ball rather easily and it results to the first two first downs in the second half, ldahn shut the door, holding the Grizziles to just the door, holding the Grizziles to just the first downs in the second half, and the first two first downs in the second half. The main thing that I was concerned about was that I didn't want it (the interception) to affect the whole team."

And I hope I won't have to go read in the paper again about how we get outcoached or outprepared or all that stuff, cause it ain't hoppering. Are there any monkeys left?

Oh, I don't know, man, I'm going to make some up. I'm going to invent one, Gilbertson said.

Probably the chap carrying the heaviest monkey around on his back for nearly the entire season was Friesz. In the loss to the Girzilies in Missoula, Friest threw four interreptions, two returned for touchdowns. He more than made up for it in the rematch, but he and the 5,500 fans on hand esperience a bit of dojavujust before the half, when Friesz, on a second and goal from the Grizzly six lofted a timing pattern into the corner of the endance and was picked off by junior cornerback Dwayne Hans and returned 99 yards for touchdown with no time remaining. The soor read 21-19 and that peaced the Grizilies had the momentum.

The main thing that I was concerned about was that I didn't want it (the interception) to affect the whole feam, Friesz said. We were fairly quiet at halfulme and a lot of people were thinking about that and I didn't want my bad play to affect how the defense was playing and stuff, so I was real thankful that everybody continued to play good in the second half.

13-year Yankee veteran Randolph begins search for new home

By Newsday

The Thanksgiving eve call had come from his agent, informing Willie Randelph that his New York Yankoes career likely was over. The Yankees had signed Steve Sax and assigned him to second base, the position Randelph has held for 13 years. Typical of his style, Randelph's first concern was his family and in particular his 10-year-old daughter, Chantre.

Randelph called a team meeting that included his four children. He told them they were going to have to move, at least during the summer months. Chantre was the most upset. After 2 straight Super Bowl seasons, Elway no longer Denver's golden boy

Back in Denver, Broncos fans are starting to alphabetize the reasons why quarterback John Elway has lest his golden touch, which just goes to show that you can't have your halo to snow that you can have your hate and wear it too.

Elway tried and look what's hap-pened to him: Two years a hero with consecutive Super Bowl appearances; this year, another guy with an over-consecutive Super Bowl appearances; this year, another guy with an overbite.

Life has become a tiny bit nasty for Mo. 7. His Broncos are 6-6 and tied for first place in the AFC West, but you wouldn't know it by talking to him. His onco-glorious passing statistics have taken a dive. And for the first time in years, Denver — his Denver — has benever—has turned on him.

"A lot of times, especially during feetball season, the attitude of the town is determined on how we're playing as a footbell team," he said. No one's reality too excited about the way we're playing.

I think it's as fun a town to play football in when things are going well as it is bad when things are going bad. Heek, we're tied for the division at 6-6 and they're ready to lynch us. Id hate to see if we were 2-8 or 2-10 or something like that.

The discontent has a lot to do with the shapes and izes of those six losses. The Broncos have lost heart-treakers (the Los Angeles Raiders beat them, 30-27). They've lost loss beat them, 30-27). Lynn Jennings won the women's division.

Jennings, also running for Athletics West, and Sabrina Dornhoefer moved into the lead immediately and pulled away early, taking a 10-meter lead over Betty Geiger. Jennings and Dornhoefer entered a wooded section of the 6,000-meter course together, but Jennings took a 15-meter lead when they emerged 400 meters later. Jennings, who won the championship for the third time in four years, finished in a time of 19:32, while Dornhoefer was second at 19:53. Geiger finished third at 20:16, Margaret Groos was fourth at 20:37 and Lynn Nelson fith at 20:42.

Porter and Jennings automatically qualify for a spot on the U.S. team at the World Cross Country Championships at Stavenger, Norway, on March 19.

Naturally, it revolves around television, the medium the 34-year-old nine-time Pro Bowler wants to enter when he finally does quit.

Last Sunday, Carson went on NBC that he was placed on injured reserve after undergoing arthroscopic surgery on his knee. He intimated that if he did play again, it wouldn't be in New York.

Jackson, McMillian take Big 8 show to the NFL

By The Associated Press

Back in the Big Eight, Keith Jackson and Erik McMillan got to know each other pretty well. Now, pro foall fans are becoming familiar with them.

Jackson, the All-America tight end from Oklahoma, has been the NFL premier offensive rookic this season. A first-round selection by the Philadelphia Eagles, all Jackson has done through 12 weeks is lead the league in receiving.

Philadelphia Eagles, all Jackson has done through 12 weeks is lead the léague in receiving.

McMillan also is a league leader, as well as the NFL's best defensive rookie. Taken on the third round out of Missouri by the New York Jets, McMillan was handed the free saidy bed and made the most of it. Ilis eight interceptions are tops in the league. Despite what many socuts and personnel directors termed a weak crop, the draft has produced dozens of rookies who are playing significant roles for their teams. Jackson and McMillan aren't the only important first-year players on their clubs—the Eagles have Eric Allen starting at cornerback, the dets use James Hasty at that position.

Other rookies who have made big impacts are running backs Ickey Woods of Cincinnati, John Stephens of New England and Thurman Thomas of Buffale; receivers Michael Leing of Palis Amon Cox of Los Annotation.

Then there are the disappointments, including Lorenzo White of Houston and Rickey Dixon of Cincinnati, a pair of All-Americans who hardly play, and tacke Dave Cadigan of the Jets, who has missed all but four games with an ankle nigury.
Jackson has filled a vital need in Philadelphis — a tight end who can

Ryan said it took Jackson 'about 30 minutes to become a pro. 'He has called the 6-foot-2, 250-pound Jackson 'a wide receiver in a lineman's body' and never has groused about

"I'm trying to please my teammates and myself," Jackson says.
