Governors offer plan but will press DOE to speed up opening of waste storage site

The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — The Energy Department and three Western governors outlined a plan on Friday to resolve an impasse over the storage of radioactive wastes from nuclear weapons plants.

However, the governors of Idaho, Colorado and New Mexico vowed they would keep up the pressure to ensure the DOE keeps its pledge to speed up the opening of a pilot storage plant in eastern New Mexico.

"We stand here today to say there is no way we can guarantee anything. There are uncertainties in the world, but I think we can bridge that," said Colorado Gov. Roy Romer following a three-hour closed meeting.

Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus said that he would reconsider his decision to close his state to further waste shipments provided the Department of Energy took steps to hasten the opening of the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant.

Andrus, who triggered the crisis by closing Idaho's borders to waste shipments in October, said he would decide next month whether to reopen them.

Andrus said he decided to reconsider after being told in a classified briefing that his decision to stop shipments could hurt national security by forcing closure of the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant near Denver.

Since Andrus' order turning back an armored boxcar of nuclear waste, the material has been piling up at Rocky Flats, which produces components for hydrogen bombs. Romer has said he would close the plant when its temporary storage capacity is filled sometime between March and May.

Andrus said his promise to reconsider was not an assurance that the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory in eastern Idaho would again accept shipments of radioactive waste.

Andrus said the Energy Department must first keep its pledge to introduce legislation and launch administrative procedures for a land swap with the Interior Department that must be completed before the pilot plant can open.

Trump loses bidding battle for piano from 'Casablanca'

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A Japanese trading company outbid developer Donald Trump for a piano that was a centerpiece in the classic movie "Casablanca," paying $154,000 Friday for the ivories once tickled at Humphrey Bogart's request.

"It's because many Japanese are fans of the old '40s movies," said Mashahiro Kanaoka of C. Itoh & Co., who bought the piano on behalf of an anonymous "Casablanca" buff in Japan.

Trump was in the audience bidding himself, but he went home without the piano — and without comment — immediately after the piano sold at Sotheby's auction house in Manhattan.

The green and beige upright piano, from the 1942 Warner Brothers classic, had a resale estimate of $75,000 to $100,000 — bench included — by Sotheby's. Clark Gable's script from the 1939 movie "Gone With the Wind" went for $77,000 to a telephone bidder — well over its resale estimate of $3,000-$4,000. The script, its worn leather cover embossed in gold with Gable's name, was given by the actor to an MGM studios secretary who was a "close personal friend," the auction catalog said.

A pointed, black witch's hat from the "Wizard of Oz," circa 1939, went for $33,000 — it had been estimated at $30,000 to $50,000. At the end of "Oz," the hat was all that remained of the melted Wicked Witch of the West, who had shrilly warned Dorothy and Toto, "I'll get you, my pretty, and your little dog, too!"

Disney also had a niche at the sale. An oil panel depicting Donald Duck trying to hit a golf ball had an estimate of $30,000 to $40,000. It did not sell. And a celluloid, showing Lady carrying Scamp past a proud Trump as three other puppies romp around him, was estimated at $16,000 to $20,000 and sold for $44,000.

Bidders also had a shot at nine stemware glasses from Rick's Cafe in "Casablanca," estimated at $1,000 to $5,000, with the winner paying $3,020. A Maconite advertising board used at the movie's 1943 premiere, estimated at $5,000 to $7,000, was sold for $22,000.

The "Casablanca" piano was from the famous Paris flashback scene at Le Belle Aurore Cafe.

INS sorting out phony political asylum seekers

The Associated Press

HARLINGEN, Texas — A new immigration policy to sort out and deport immigrants filing unfounded political asylum claims before they travel farther into the United States began Friday in the southern tip of Texas.

The Brownsville area is the main entry for Central Americans who cross the border illegally and claim political asylum, and the new policy is expected to concentrate more displaced would-be immigrants in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

It requires the 2,000 asylum applicants each week present their cases in the area, instead of waiting to apply until they reach their final destinations. Brownsville is about 30 miles south of Harlingen.

Few of the immigrants intend to stay in impoverished southern Texas, where unemployment ranges from 12 percent to 50 percent and many people live in rural slums that lack running water.

To deal with the workload from the new policy, the Immigration and Naturalization Service sent six additional adjudicators to Harlingen to work 10 hours a day, six days a week interviewing applicants. It will send 20 more after Jan. 1. The procedure applies to all nationalities, but was designed to relieve the backlog of asylum applicants in places such as Los Angeles, with 30,000 pending cases, and Miami, with a backlog of 50,000, said Rick Kenney, an INS spokesman in Washington.

Similar procedures have taken effect in those two cities, which are also congregating points.

In the lower Rio Grande Valley, refugee shelters have been filled to capacity for months. Many immigrants end up sleeping outdoors or in dilapidated immigrant motels.

Tower pledges defense reforms

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Ending a lengthy and often humiliating delay, President-elect George Bush selected former Texas Sen. John Tower as his secretary of defense Friday.

Both men immediately pledged to pare military spending and reform the entangled defense procurement process.

Other transition appointments, including the nomination of Rep. Jack Kemp as secretary of housing and urban development, are expected as early as Monday. Transition sources said Thursday that Kemp had accepted the job after meeting with Bush. Also expected early next week is the nomination of Chicago-area transit official Samuel Skinner as secretary of transportation, sources said.

Tower's appointment came after an extensive FBI investigation of allegations raised about the former senator's private life and his connections to military contractors, for whom he served as a consultant after leaving elective office in 1985.

Bush was briefed on the FBI report Thursday and met with Tower for breakfast Friday, a few hours before the nomination was made public. Tower's appointment had been forecast as far back as late November, but the investigations took longer than expected, transition aides said.

Investigators are said to have spent much of their time in

State revenues slowing down

The Associated Press

BOISE — State sales and personal income tax revenues continued accumulating at rates higher than expected in November, but the excess collections moderated significantly, reflecting what state economists predicted would be a slowdown in Idaho's explosive growth.

In addition, demands for refunds from corporate income taxpayers last month exceeded payments of the tax to actually cause a reduction of $600,000 in total revenues for that category.

But even with that decline, after five months of the current budget year revenues were still running $13.1 million ahead of the Andrus administration's projection. That was down from the $13.9 million in excess collections accumulated through October.

"All three of the major general account revenue sources slowed from the torrid growth that had characterized the first four months of the current fiscal year," analysts for the Division of Financial Management said in their monthly update on the state's budget situation.

Their revenue benchmarks, however, already have a $12.2 million surplus built into them so that even if some slippage in the additional excess continues through the rest of the budget year prospects remained good for a total surplus next summer of $30 million or more.

That would come on top of the $14.4 million in surplus revenues rolled up during the last budget year

Social Security chief says many workers lack data for statements

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Social Security commissioner said Friday she'd like every worker to have a personalized statement of future retirement benefits but many people have failed to provide information needed to make the estimates.

Despite a clamor for the request forms last summer when the new service became available, several million people who got the forms have not yet filled them out, Dorcas R. Hardy said.

Call toll-free, 1-800-234-5772, to request a personalized future benefit statement or make other inquiries about Social Security matters.

"More than 6 million people have asked us for the statement. But only 35 percent of them have sent it back to us," the commissioner told reporters. "It's still hanging on their refrigerators."

The agency was flooded with phone calls when it began offering the Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement in August. Many people encountered busy signals or long waits when they did get through.

But Hardy said those bottlenecks are a thing of the past. She said anyone can call a toll-free number — 1-800-234-5772 — to request the form or make other Social Security inquiries.

There are operators to answer the calls at various Social Security centers from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. local time on weekdays. Those who call after working hours or on weekends will get a recording capable of taking messages.

Once the form is mailed back, it takes the agency three weeks to crank out the estimates of future monthly retirement benefits, as well as how much the worker and his family would get now if he or she became disabled or died. The retirement benefits are expressed in terms of today's dollars.

The agency also provides a year-by-year list of how much people earned and how much they paid in Social Security taxes.

Hardy said the personalized benefit statements were "clearly a major breakthrough this year."

They help people detect whether their employers reported their earnings to Social Security correctly. Social Security generally does not correct mistakes more than 3 1/2 years old, so the government recommends that all workers check their records every three years.

Streisand fund to oppose SIS

POCATELLO (AP) — The Streisand Foundation has pledged up to $25,000 to the campaign against construction of the Special Isotope Separation project, proposed for the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

Officials said the foundation, an endowment set up by entertainer Barbra Streisand to finance various environmental interests, will match contributions from others to the campaign up to the $25,000 maximum.

The Natural Resources Defense Council, a national environmental organization, mailed out letters to its 300 Idaho supporters and some others in November, soliciting donations to fight development of the laser-driven weapons-grade plutonium refinery in eastern Idaho.

Council officials declined to say how much money they had raised in the campaign.

Attorney Dan Reicher, the organization's chief spokesman against the project, predicted the billion-dollar project would come under another attack when Congress convenes next month. Opponents managed to withhold any construction money this year until the DOE proves the facility is needed.

Reicher said the continuing thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations is growing acceptance that the American plutonium stockpile is adequate, and the mounting bill for clean-up at U.S. nuclear weapons facilities are making the case for the SIS "weaker and weaker."

"I think there are many members who see there are many more important projects DOE should be focusing its limited resources on — both clean-up and production," he said.

The Snake River Alliance, an Idaho based environmental group, has already said it will likely go to court to challenge the adequacy of the environmental assessment issued last week on the project.

That assessment maintained the SIS would threaten the environment or public health.

Bonneville teachers ratify new district contract

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The battle over a new teachers contract in the Bonneville School District has finally ended with teachers trading their demand for higher salaries for better budget accountability and a piece of any future financial windfalls.

The new pact, ending seven months of negotiations, was ratified by 87 percent of the East Bonneville Education Association last Thursday. The school board approved the agreement earlier.

"We now have something in place,

I feel, to help us in future years to see more accuracy on where money is and to create some trust between the groups," Association President Lynn Hollowell said.

Base salaries will remain unchanged in the new pact, but teachers and other district employees will receive 80 percent of any unanticipated funds the district receives through mid-1991. Any deficit in payments would have first claim on unanticipated funds, but after that district employees will get a bonus.

INEL cancer research promising, may expand

POCATELLO (AP) — Promising results from an experimental cancer treatment using radiation have prompted Idaho National Engineering Laboratory officials to seek $8.5 million for modification of an idle nuclear reactor at their site.

The Boron Neutron Capture Therapy program would use a mothballed reactor at INEL to treat a rare form of brain cancer. Researchers were also expanding the scope of the project to include tumors in organs like the lungs and liver.

"As far as the research results we're getting, if I were to grade them on a scale of 0-100, I'd say all the results are much greater than 50," program manager J.C. Crocker said.

Officials: Tax credit safe

LEWISTON (AP) — Idaho's investment tax credit will not face a challenge in the upcoming legislative session under Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus makes it an issue, a Potlatch Corp. spokesman and a Republican lawmaker say.

"Perhaps the support for the investment tax credit is probably going to be greater next year than it has been during the last two years," Potlatch public affairs director Todd Maddock told a meeting of Idaho Women in Timber Thursday in Lewiston.

Maddock lobbies for the timber and paper-products company in the Idaho Legislature.

"With the state generating excess revenues, generating surpluses, there's a good chance that there will be adequate funds in the existing tax structure to do the things the Legislature wants to do for all the needs of the state," he said. "I'm anticipating a quiet, peaceful session with no real problems."

Republican legislators had rejected Democrat Andrus' call to repeal the credit which compensates businesses for making capital investments. Andrus contended the credit did little to help the state economy and would provide $15 million for education if it was eliminated.

An initiative drive this summer to put the credit repeal before the voters died for lack of signatures.

Rep. James "Doc" Lucas, R-Moscow, added the Legislature would not fancy raising taxes at a time of a sizeable budget surplus.

Craig supports amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Larry Craig says he mailed letters to all members of the Idaho Legislature Friday, urging approval of an amendment on congressional pay raises.

If two-thirds of the members of the Legislature approve, Idaho will be the 26th state to ratify an amendment saying no congressional pay raise can go into effect until an election has intervened. It takes 38 states approving to put the amendment into effect. Voters approved the amendment by a margin of about three to one in the general election.

"That would give the voters the chance to decide whether their representatives had, in fact, earned an increase," said Craig.

Craig said he will introduce legislation requiring members of Congress to hold off on any pay increase until after an election.

A federal commission last week recommended that salaries of congressmen and other top elected officials increase by 50 percent, to $135,000 per year, with restrictions

Bacteria contaminate Wilder water

WILDER (AP) — City officials notified Wilder residents on Friday to boil their water after finding a strain of coliform bacteria in the system.

The bacteria problem forced the Wilder School District to dismiss classes for the day. High school principal Dick Seibold said tests were being run on the water, and city officials will use the results to determine how to resolve the problem.

If the bacteria cannot be removed through chlorination or some other method, Seibold said the district may consider bringing in bottled water so school can reopen next week.

Centennial cycle plates will be sold

BOISE (AP) — Starting next month, motorcycleists can purchase Idaho centennial license plates, available in the past only for passenger vehicles.

So far, more than 80,000 centennial license plates have been sold, said Douglas Kraemer, chief of motor vehicles. He said the special plates are expected to generate $3.1 million, which is being used to fund a variety of events pointing toward Idaho's centennial on July 3, 1990.

In addition to regular licensing fees, the centennial plates cost $25 the first year and $10 per year for renewals through 1991.

Personalized plates of up to six characters are available. Starting in February, seven characters, letters or numbers, will be available for personal messages on the plates.

Court rejects 'good time' argument

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court has rejected prison inmate Walter "Bud" Balla's bid for immediate release over lost "good time."

The high court on Thursday denied Balla's petition for writ of habeas corpus "on its merits."

Balla is finishing a final 10-year, indeterminate sentence for assault with a deadly weapon in the knifing of a prison guard during a 1984 escape.

Labor Department opens office

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The U.S. Department of Labor has opened its first federal contract compliance office in Idaho at Idaho Falls.

The office is responsible for enforcing federal requirements that contractors take affirmative action to ensure equal employment opportunity for all employees.

Patricia Chadwick, an equal opportunity specialist at Portland, has been reassigned to the Idaho Falls office. She worked in a similar position with the U.S. Forest Service at Portland and with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare at Pocatello.

Inmate files suit over prison care

MOSCOW (AP) — An inmate in the Latah County Jail, who has been waiting for months for space to open in the state prison, has filed a lawsuit contending he's not getting the care and programs available in the state prison system.

John Warren, 22, formerly of Deary, filed the complaint with 2nd District Judge John Bengtson Tuesday, asking for a hearing to discuss the conditions of his confinement.

ISU adds classes on Indian issues

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho State University is adding three new classes on Indian issues for the spring semester, and may consider adding a full Indian studies program.

The new classes are the result of last year's "Survey of American Indian Issues" class, during which students were questioned on specific interests related to Indians.

"Our ultimate goal is to determine if there is enough interest in Indian studies in this area to warrant an Indian studies program at ISU," said Jack Mauch, dean of the ISU Office of Continuing Education. The new courses are "Law and the American Indian," a political science class, and "Indian Education for Teachers," an education offering. "North American Indians" will be an anthropology class.

Republican session emphasizes education

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's top Republicans have held a planning and strategy session in Boise, and Senate President Pro Tem Mike Crapo says the major topic of discussion was education.

"Republicans have a strong commitment to support education," said Crapo, after the Thursday meeting. "We will be supporting adequate funding and assurances that we have a quality educational system."

About 20 party officials, elected

GOP office-holders and the Republican leadership of the Legislature discussed the 1988 general election and the party's involvement and contributions to specific races, Crapo said. "Those that were successful and those that were not."

He also talked about specific issues expected to come up in the next session, he said, although the GOP talks were more general than decision-making.

He said education, which appeared to be a key issue in several legislative races, was the key topic of discussion. Republicans will be looking not only for proper funding but ways to strengthen the entire public school and higher education system, he said.

Republicans will hold a 64-20 margin in the House in the 1989-90 session and 23-19 in the Senate. House and Senate leaders declared earlier that they want to do more planning in the future.

"We want to get together and plan, not only for the short term but also long range," said Crapo, Idaho Falls.

"We want to know where we think we should be headed. We want to be proactive rather than reactive," Crapo said. "This is the first step in that direction."

He said more meetings probably will be held. "We want to be sure the Republican Party is giving the people of the state what they want."

EPA: Lead cleanup plan may be available

KELLOGG (AP) — A master plan for cleaning up lead contamination of neighborhoods around the defunct Bunker Hill smelter may be available within six months, an EPA official says.

But a Kellogg city councilman says the time for study is over and action must commence soon.

John Meyer, Environmental Protection Agency project manager for the Kellogg cleanup, told members of the Silver Valley's Superfund task force Thursday that while negotiations are not very far along, a cleanup plan could be worked up within three to six months and presented for public comment.

"We're at the beginning of negotiations that hopefully might lead to early activity on this site," Meyer said. "Studies have shown the lead levels in children around the smelter were unacceptably high. Cleanup of the 21-square-mile Bunker Hill impact area includes removal of lead and cadmium-contaminated soil from yards, playgrounds and roads. Remediation would be prevented by controlling heavy metal dust from the smelter grounds, Meyer said.

"The idea behind this is that while there's still a lot of work on the remedial investigation studies, we can work on this early master plan while finishing up the studies," he said.

Task force member Terry Douglas, a Kellogg city councilman, urged Meyer to quit studying Kellogg's heavy metal dust problems and start fixing them. The city is anxious to move ahead with its Silverborn ski area gondola project to attract tourists, he said.

"I don't want this project to stop," Douglas said. "You've got to start moving dirt next summer... It's been nice having you here, but there's going to come a time to say good-bye."

Meyer said it would be impossible to clean up the entire Kellogg-Wardner-Smelterville area in one summer, but the agency probably could decontaminate between 50 and 100 homes next year, followed by a more ambitious cleanup in 1990.

An engineering draft for some of the yard cleanup work will be ready for public inspection next week, he said. The contaminated soil from lawns likely will remain in storage areas in the area.

Meyer said about $5.5 million has been spent studying the contamination problem in Kellogg. But there is no guarantee that federal money will be available for the entire project, since Superfund is budgeted on a year-by-year basis, he said.

Attorney Barry Tierney, representing Pintlar Corp., span off from former smelter owner Gulf Resources & Chemical Corp., said all field studies of unpolluted areas contaminated by smelter dust have been completed and engineers are studying cleanup options.

Tierney confirmed Meyer's version of talks between Gulf and the EPA. Gulf and successor Pintlar have been named as potentially responsible parties by the EPA for the cleanup costs.

Olympics supporters consider referendum

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The idea of putting Utah's bid for the 1998 Winter Olympic Games to a vote of confidence by the state's voters in the form of a referendum is winning some support among organizers.

At an executive committee meeting of the Salt Lake Winter Games Organizing Committee Thursday, some members agreed a November 1989 referendum on the issue should be held if Salt Lake City wins the bidding for the games this spring.

Mike Levitt, chairman of group's communications committee, said it appeared the group agreed the referendum would gauge support for the games.

However, Executive Committee Chairman Tom Welch said "it's too early to put words in as to what the referendum should say."

Whatever the referendum is, it will be to be completed. The one thing we want to be sure we do in this process is be very open," he added.

A November 1989 election would not occur in conjunction with a general election, which is governed by state law. The election would likely be held up to municipalities, he said. Some might choose to put the Olympic question on their ballots and others not.

The group also began assembling a budget to pay for the bidding process. Welch said the process would cost roughly $150,000 while Finance Committee Chairman Harris Simmons said it could cost more than $200,000.

"We have a pretty high level of confidence that we can raise it (the money) privately," said Simmons, a local banking official.

Salt Lake Mayor Palmer DePaulis had said the city might contribute funds to the bidding process.

Spokane bans stove use

SPOKANE (AP) — The Spokane County Air Pollution Control Authority today again banned the use of wood stoves throughout most of the county.

Only rural portions of the county were exempt from the ban, which went into effect 11 a.m., said Fred Gray, director of the county air pollution board.

Also, people who do not have an adequate alternate source of heat could continue to use their wood stoves, Gray said.

It was the second time this month that the agency has declared a state of "impaired air quality" in Spokane County, Gray said. The first time was Dec. 1 through Dec. 6.

Gray said "very, very stagnant" weather conditions were expected to persist for at least two days.

He added that the amount of particulates in the air Thursday night violated federal ambient air quality standards.

Stealth price $516 million per plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new B-2 stealth bomber will carry a price tag of $516 million per plane, making it by far the most expensive aircraft ever built, the Air Force said Friday.

Air Force Secretary Edward C. Aldridge, lifting one more veil of secrecy that has surrounded the project, said the design, development and construction of 132 planes was expected to cost $68.1 billion by the time production ends in mid-1993.

Expressed in terms of the original estimate, the price tag has grown from $36.6 billion to $42.5 billion in fiscal 1988 dollars — an increase of about 16 percent, Aldridge said.

Those figures do not reflect cost increases caused by inflation since 1981 or that projected in future years.

The Air Force gave the public its first glimpse of the radar-evading, flying-wing-shaped craft at a ceremony in Palmdale, Calif. last month. The prototype plane has yet to make its first flight.

Setting aside the money being spent on research and development of the aircraft — about a third of the total — the actual production cost of the long-range bomber amounts to $466 million per plane, he said.

"Whatever it costs, it's worth it," Aldridge insisted at a news conference. "How much is deterrence worth?"

Wholesale prices edge upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite large November increases for gasoline and heating oil, wholesale prices continue to rise at an annual rate of less than 4 percent, the government said Friday, confounding predictions of a mounting inflation problem.

Wholesale prices edged up just 0.3 percent in November as food costs at the wholesale level showed no increases for the second straight month, the Labor Department said.

The November increase, if it persisted for 12 months, would amount to an annual inflation rate of just 3.3 percent, lower than the 3.8 percent annualized rate for the first 11 months of 1987.

"Inflationary fears exceed inflationary reality at the present time," said Donald Ratajczak, director of economic forecasting at Georgia State University in Atlanta.

Dirk Van Dongen, president of the National Association of Wholesalers-Distributors, said he sees no indication from the association's 45,000 member companies that they are building inventories in anticipation of future price spikes.

Gasoline prices rose 3.4 percent and home heating oil skyrocketed 12.2 percent despite a 0.5 percent drop in crude oil prices. Natural gas prices, however, fell 2.5 percent, sending overall energy prices up just 1.2 percent. Heating oil prices had fallen 10 percent the previous month.

Food prices, which the summer drought had pushed up at an annual rate of 8 percent, showed no overall change last month after falling 0.1 percent in October.

Prices for fresh fruits jumped 9.4 percent, while those for canned fruits and vegetables gained 1.1 percent.

Pork and beef prices each dropped by about half a percentage point. Large declines also were recorded for a wide variety of other food items, with egg prices off 14.5 percent, rice down 2.7 percent, pasta products off 4.7 percent, chickens off 7.4 percent, turkeys down 4.1 percent and coffee off 2.9 percent.

Grocery shoppers can expect even better news in the months ahead. The Labor Department's price index for crude foodstuffs such as grains and livestock fell 6 percent in November, the largest monthly drop since June 1974.

Finished goods other than food and energy posted a 0.3 percent gain, the same as the overall rate. Price gains accelerated, however, for prescription drugs, detergents, books and newspapers.

After falling a month earlier, prices turned upward for household appliances, over-the-counter drugs, jewelry and sporting goods.

Wholesale automobile prices were off 0.1 percent after a 1.7 percent decline in October. Capital equipment costs rose 0.3 percent, erasing a similar decline in October.

Canadian envoy thinks acid rain bill will pass

Knight-Ridder Service

WASHINGTON — Canadian Ambassador Allan Gotlieb said Friday he believes the U.S. Congress will pass acid rain legislation next year, ending a seven-year political deadlock that has strained U.S.-Canadian relations.

"We have the best chance in the years that I've been here," Gotlieb said. "I believe the 101st Congress will adopt legislation."

The ambassador also told reporters that continued opposition to the U.S.-Canadian free trade agreement in some provinces will not prevent the Canadian government from implementing the accord.

Gotlieb predicted that the support of President-elect Bush and new Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, will help pass a clean air bill that reduces the pollution causing acid rain.

He praised Bush for working with in the inner circles of the Reagan administration as vice president to increase sensitivity to Canada's concern about the problem.

"George Bush has a very special knowledge of Canada," Gotlieb said.

Canadian officials believe sulfur dioxide from the United States, primarily coal-fired Ohio River Valley power plants, causes about 50 percent of the acid rain that falls in Canada.

Fernald plant violated laws, neighbors contend

(CINCINNATI AP) — The Fernald uranium-processing plant repeatedly contaminated its environs with radioactive materials and violated pollution laws in three decades of operation, its neighbors told a federal judge Friday.

The neighbors are suing the Department of Energy plant's former operators, National Lead of Ohio Inc. and its parent company, National Lead Industries, in a $300 million class action.

Their chief lawyer, Stanley Chesley, on Friday asked U.S. District Judge S. Arthur Spiegel to issue a summary judgment in favor of the plaintiffs. An Energy Department lawyer representing National Lead argued that a summary judgment — a judge's ruling based on the evidence already presented without further proceedings — should be issued in favor of the company.

Westinghouse Materials Co. of Ohio took over operation of the 37-year-old plant from National Lead, the facility's only previous operator, on Jan. 1, 1986.

The plant dumped radioactive radium and uranium daily into the Great Miami River which flows by the 1,050-acre site, often exceeding its stated desire to limit the uranium dumping to 36 pounds daily in the 1950s, said Chesley and his assistant, Louise Rosselle.

The Great Miami aquifer, an underground regional aquifer extending southward from Dayton to Hamilton, Ohio, flows under the plant, and there is evidence of radioactive ground water contamination at the plant site, Chesley said.

The plaintiffs' attorneys also said they have evidence to show that the plant has subjected residents to excessive daily doses of radiation and has failed to qualify for federal Clean Air Act operating permits since 1984.

Chesley told the court he has documents indicating that the government apparently lied when it told residents in the past that the plant was not contaminating the environment.

But Energy Department lawyer Marc Johnston said the department found that National Lead did not violate its contract with the government in running the plant. That is critical, he argued, because Congress exempted Energy Department facilities from the laws that the neighbors cite and instead left it up to the Energy Department to regulate its own facilities.

"We do not dispute that there were emissions of various materials from that plant, including uranium," Johnston said. "We do deny that there were hazardous conditions created."

The Energy Department admitted in 1985 that the plant had released an estimated 300,000 pounds of uranium oxide dust into the atmosphere through faulty exhaust-air filter systems during three decades of operations.

The Energy Department is representing National Lead of Ohio and its parent because they ultimately were told by the government how to operate the plant, Johnston said. The government is not a defendant in the lawsuit.

Johnston also said he was challenging Spiegel's previous decision to grant class-action status to the lawsuit.

He argued that National Lead cannot be found liable because it was following the government's orders to run the plant, and an Energy Department contract enforcement officer concluded that the company had carried out its responsibilities.

Engineers investigate crack in Savannah River Plant pipe

(WASHINGTON AP) — It is too early to know whether a pipe crack found in the cooling system of a reactor at the Savannah River Plant is of major safety significance, a Department of Energy spokesman said Friday.

Engineers at the nuclear weapons production facility near Aiken, S.C., were still trying to determine whether or not the crack may have resulted from heat due to welding work on the pipe, DOE spokesman Gary Pitchford said.

The Washington Post reported Friday that the crack at the plant's L reactor appeared to be either a flaw or stress-induced defect in the stainless steel pipe metal itself.

An official the newspaper did not identify said the problem was a "potential show-stopper" that could seriously delay restarting the three reactors at Savannah River and possibly require the L reactor to be shut down permanently.

Asked about the Post story, Pitchford said "it is somewhat premature to go out and say, one, it is indeed a crack outside the heat-affected zone, or two, what the significance of that crack is."

"It is too early to know whether or not it is in fact of some major safety significance. We don't know that yet," said the spokesman, speaking by telephone from DOE's Savannah River office.

President Reagan answers questions following an address at the University of Virginia

Reagan: Resolve created dialogue

(CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. AP) — President Reagan said Friday that America's "strong and steadfast support of Israel's statehood persuaded the Palestine Liberation Organization to moderate its views toward the Jewish nation."

"That resolve has now paid off with the opening of a U.S.-PLO dialogue aimed at advancing peace in the Middle East, Reagan said in a mostly reflective foreign policy address at the University of Virginia.

In his speech, Reagan also conceded that America "no longer enjoys preponderant power" in the world and said future presidents and congresses must work more cooperatively to achieve foreign policy goals.

Reagan acknowledged that "U.S. policies have faltered" in Central America, but he blamed that on Congress' "on-again, off-again indecisiveness on resisting Sandinista tyranny and aggression" in Nicaragua.

"It is precisely where Congress and the president have worked together, as in Afghanistan and Cambodia, or resolved differences, as in Angola, the Persian Gulf and many aspects of U.S.-Soviet relations, precisely there, (where) our policies have succeeded, and we see progress," the president told a crowd of students and faculty on the campus founded by Thomas Jefferson.

Reagan's speech came in the wake of his decision to reverse a 13-year U.S. policy of refusing to hold talks with the PLO and just a little over a week after he held his fifth — and final — meeting with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

"Where we are strong and steadfast, we succeed," he said. "The country stood firm for years, insisting that the PLO had to accept Israel's right to exist... and renounce terrorism."

During a brief question-and-answer session with students, Reagan called the opening to Yasser Arafat's PLO "a great step forward." But he said that peace will be achieved only "when the principals come together to negotiate."

He said he decided to reverse the policy of isolating the PLO because Arafat's organization accepted Israel's sovereignty and renounced terrorism as an instrument of policy objectives "without fuzzing it up with ambiguous dialogue."

Combat vet to prosecute North

(WASHINGTON AP) — A combat veteran of the Vietnam war was named Friday to head the team of lawyers to try the Iran-Contra case against fellow former Marine and ex-presidential aide Oliver L. North.

John W. Keker, 44, who like North was wounded while leading a Marine infantry platoon in action, was named lead trial prosecutor in the case; by independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh.

The 76-year-old Walsh, an experienced trial attorney, had said he would like to try the North case personally. But he said in a statement Friday that he would continue to deal with problems posed by a wealth of classified documents and supervise the continuing investigation of the Iran-Contra affair.

Walsh's spokesman, James Wiegart, said Keker's war record, which was not mentioned in the statement, was coincidental to his selection to lead the three-lawyer trial team.

But Keker's Purple Heart for his combat wound is a serendipitous qualification for the lead prosecutor in the case against North, who has made patriotism and his own Vietnam service a hallmark of his public defense since the Iran-Contra affair unfolded two years ago.

North, 44, who earned two Purple

Hearts for combat wounds, wore his Marine uniform when he testified before the congressional committees that investigated the arms-for-hostages deals.

Walsh announced his courtroom team in advance of a hearing next Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell to begin final preparations for North's trial, which could begin in late January.

The former National Security Council aide, who retired from the Marines as a lieutenant colonel following his indictment last March, is accused of conspiring to illegally divert profits from the U.S.-Iran arms deals to the Contra rebels.

VA raises interest rate on mortgages

(WASHINGTON AP) — The Veterans Administration said Friday it was raising its maximum interest rate for federally backed VA home mortgages by one-half percentage point to 10.5 percent.

VA spokeswoman Pam Siciliano said the agency was making the change, which will take effect Monday, to reflect recent increases in interest rates in financial markets.

The latest change is the fifth in 1988. The low for the year was 9.5 percent on Feb. 1. The rate rose to 10 percent on April 4 and to 10.5 percent on May 23. On Nov. 1, it was cut to 10 percent. Meanwhile, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said Friday that the national average for 30-year mortgages without government guarantees rose to 10.71.

Armenians block rescue workers

YEREVAN, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The Soviet premier said Friday some earthquake relief and rescue squads could not work because people lay down in front of bulldozers to keep them from moving until bodies of relatives were found.

Nikolai I. Ryshkov did not give details during a televised report of a meeting of the Politburo commission overseeing the work.

He said one more survivor was pulled from the ruins Thursday in Spitak, the Armenian town where the Dec. 7 tremor killed about 16,000 of the 25,000 residents. Officials estimate the overall death toll at 65,000.

The head of the Soviet Red Cross said Soviet doctors can handle the treatment of earthquake victims and do not need international help.

Several foreign doctors complained privately that Soviet colleagues would not let them treat patients with the millions of dollars worth of sophisticated medical equipment brought in especially for the disaster.

Dr. Dmitri Venzidiktov, chairman of the Soviet Red Cross and former deputy health minister, said at a news conference in Yerevan, capital of the Armenian republic, about foreign help: "If we talk about doctors and nurses, I can say thank you very much, but it's no longer necessary."

He said medical teams had arrived from throughout the Soviet Union, and "we can accept individuals (from abroad) to show them what has been done but we don't need medical assistance in the direct sense."

Ryshkov praised foreign volunteers and said the Foreign Ministry had not given them enough assistance.

Some foreign doctors said they were leaving earlier than planned, but others were on the way to the stricken region.

Thirty-five Israeli doctors and health care workers had been expected Friday, but fog at the small Yerevan airport prevented their arrival. More than 100 international flights have landed at Yerevan since the quake.

George Reid, spokesman for the international League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, said 22,312 bodies were recovered by Friday, an increase of 537 from the previous day. Reid said the projected death toll was 45,000.

Soviet officials say the quake claimed 65,000 lives and left 500,000 of the 700,000 people in the area homeless.

Dr. Robert Gale, an American who helped the Soviets during the Chernobyl nuclear disaster more than two years ago, told The Associated Press he believed 100,000 people had been killed, based on personal observation. He said 5,079 injured remained hospitalized and 4,440 had been discharged.

Gunfire kills 4 Palestinians, wounds 32

JERUSALEM (AP) — Soldiers killed four Palestinians in the occupied territories Friday, one of the bloodiest days of the year-old rebellion against Israeli rule. Arab doctors said 32 were wounded.

At least 228 Palestinians have been killed and more than 7,000 wounded since the uprising began in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, which Israel has controlled since the 1967 war. Thirteen Israelis also have been slain.

Friday's violence was among the worst since April 16, when soldiers killed 14 Palestinians during riots protesting the assassination in Tunisia of Khalil Wazir, the PLO military commander known as Abu Jihad. Israel denied entry Friday to Abdeen Jabara, a U.S. citizen and president of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, "because of his long record of anti-Israeli activities."

Foreign Ministry spokesman Alon Liel said the activities included serving as a defense lawyer in U.S. courts for four Palestinians accused of terror attacks in Israel and making statements against Israel and Zionism.

Jabara called the ban "an unconscionable act" and declared: "I am not an enemy of the state. I have been here at least 15 times before."

A military court convicted an Israeli army private, Eli Yadid, 19, of killing a Palestinian in March with a rubber bullet to the head and sentenced him to 21 months in prison, an army spokesman said.

He said Yadid violated army regulations by firing at "very close range" when his life was not in danger.

Black smoke from burning tires filled the air Friday in Nablus, where the killings occurred, and Arab witnesses said the wail of ambulance sirens was heard throughout city of 120,000, largest in the West Bank. Soldiers imposed a curfew, barring journalists and photographers.

Oil rig capsizes; capsule saves 27 workers

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — Twenty-seven workers from a capsized oil rig spent a day in high seas huddled inside a survival capsule the size of a large van before they were rescued Friday by Canada's coast guard.

"All 27 are reported to be in good medical shape, not requiring any medical attention," said Dick Pepper, spokesman for the coast guard.

Pepper said the 25 men and two women workers from the Rowan Gorilla 1 oil rig were taken from the enclosed capsule to the tugboat Smit London in a motorized rubber raft after the stormy seas calmed enough to permit a rescue.

The winds and waves up to 40 feet high prevented an earlier rescue from the capsule, which can remain afloat for days and hold as many as 50 people.

The offshore rig overturned Thursday about 1,200 miles east of New York City. The Rescue Coordination Center at Halifax, more than 600 miles to the northwest, organized the rescue. Maj. Glen Urquhart said 25 Canadians, one American and a Dutch crew member were released.

The crew members entered the survival pod about noon Thursday, before the rig overturned. The rig, owned by the Rowan Co. Inc. of Houston, was last sighted Thursday afternoon and it was not clear if it sank in the storm.

The rig began listing after one of its ballast tanks cracked and began leaking.

Americans draw jeers during memorial rites

REMSCHIED, West Germany (AP) — Protesters jeered two American officials outside an emotional memorial service for six people who were killed when a U.S. military jet crashed in this central German city.

The service was held Thursday night, one week after the A-10 Thunderbolt II jet crashed, destroying several homes in a working-class neighborhood.

Loudspeakers broadcast the service to at least 1,000 people who stood outside the packed Lutheran church, located near the site of the tragedy.

The crash killed five civilians and the American pilot and renewed the public outcry over military training flights in West Germany's crowded skies.

The cause of the crash has not been determined. Air Force officials say the aircraft was not engaged in a low-level flight.

West German military officials have speculated the pilot may have become disoriented when he flew into bad weather.

The 60-minute memorial service was attended by U.S. Ambassador Richard Burt, U.S. Air Force officials, West German Defense Minister Rupert Scholz and representatives of state and local government. After the service, Burt and the Air Force officers were jeered by about 50 protesters outside the church.

Several shouted "Amis (Americans) Go Home!" at Burt, and others shouted "murderers" at the military men. Protesters also booed at Scholz.

Gunmen abduct 3

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunmen on Friday kidnapped three Irish soldiers serving with the U.N. peacekeeping force in south Lebanon and demanded the release of a guerrilla leader abducted by Israel, police said.

In another development, police said eight fighters were killed and four wounded in the southern city of Sidon when the mainstream Shiite Muslim Amal militia fought guerrillas of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Stay calm, and avoid risky or hasty decisions. Quarrels over trifles may arise, and irritating responses can escalate to full-scale battles. Over-charged sensuality can be directed toward a new relationship.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): For those traveling, getting there will be half the fun. Be tolerant of immature attitudes. Rely on inner resources to handle upsets.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Pushing others along may get a negative response. Shopping may move ahead if you are patient. Try to divert moody family members.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Be a good friend to someone who needs help. Social opportunities may have to be shelved. Relaxing at home will have stimulating rewards.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Love can take a strange twist. Control the home situation, and ignore foolish actions and hot tempers. Stay in a good mood.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You feel held back by family and partnership difficulties. A diplomatic approach will clear the air. The evening has more of the usual sparkle.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Variety is the spice of life. Throw the day's plan out and start anew if necessary. A cozy setting will enhance a pleasing event later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Too many chiefs and no Indians may start the day's course. It is difficult to admonish those you love, but you master the situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Someone from the past misses you very much. A love theme needs to be patiently changed. Holding back will make matters worse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You appreciate being where you can relax and reorganize your plans. Chose to be with stable people who can add to the quality of your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Trust your intuition and earthy instincts to handle a disorganized day. Taking a friend along for the ride will be emotionally rewarding.

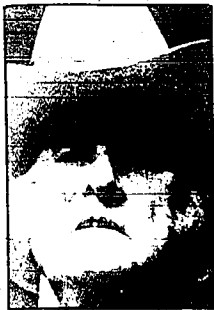

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Avoid arguments over finances and budgets. Stay with a realistic approach. You impress another and receive a loving response.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): A change in lifestyle may not go in the direction, you planned. Time spent with a companion is a pick-me-up. Check the scale before indulging.

If Your Child Is Born Today: He or she will be a leader of leaders and can rise to the highest position with a fearless, adventurous nature that at times may be vain and self-imposing.

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — If President-elect George Bush has some free time, he is welcome to revel in his victory over Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis at the home of a third-grader in northern Illinois.

"I would like him to come to my house and rub it in to my dad that he won and Dukakis lost," said Patrick Yanez.

Patrick and the other students in Nancy Sandberg's class at Gregory School in Rockford, 75 miles northwest of Chicago, did not forget their own agendas in essays providing advice to the next president.

"I would like him to force my parents to buy me a horse," said Kari Morgan.

Kristina Bernard wrote, "I want Mr. Bush to help my grandma because she is in River Bluff Nursing Home. She had a stroke and I felt sorry for her. I want her to get better."

But she had other plans for two siblings.

"I would really like it if he would take my 20-year-old brother and my 18-year-old sister away. I will really

Sonneck Society plans to induct Bill Monroe

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bill Monroe, the "father of bluegrass music," will be named an honorary member of the Sonneck Society on April 8.

The mandolin player will be honored at a banquet at the society's annual meeting in Nashville, said Buddy Lee Attractions, Monroe's booking agency.

The non-profit Sonneck Society is dedicated to the encouragement and study of music. Monroe, 77, has performed on the Grand Ole Opry for 50 years. His best known song is "Blue Moon of Kentucky."

Hometown will honor Christmas songwriter

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — James Lamon, "Hawa" Gillespie, who wrote the lyrics for "Santa Claus is Comin' 'n Town," will no longer be without honor in his hometown.

City officials unveiling a historical marker Thursday at Goebel Park said there was no better time than Christmas to honor Gillespie on the 100th anniversary of his birth. He was born Feb. 6, 1888, in the northern Kentucky city and died in Las Vegas on March 14, 1975.

Gillespie, author of some 1,000 songs, wrote the lyrics to his most famous song on the back of an envelope in 1933 and collaborated with J. Fred Coots on the music. Eldie Cantor made it famous when he sang it on his radio program in 1934.

City Commissioner Irvin Callery said Thursday he became interested in 1984 in having the city recognize the songwriter "because I couldn't find anything to honor him," Callery said.

Callery said Gillespie's famous Christmas song has "brought joy to millions of people. Anyone who hears it remembers childhood."

Wife of Tom Selleck gives birth to child

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tom Selleck's wife, Jillie Mack, gave birth Friday to an 8-pound, 7-ounce girl, a publicist said.

The baby born at 4:25 a.m. will be named Hannah Margaret Mack Selleck, said Esme Chandice. The 29-year-old mother and baby were fine.

Hannah is the first child for the couple, who were married in August 1987.

Selleck, 43, starred in the "Magnum, P.I." television show.

HONG KONG (AP) — In an effort to reduce violent crime in Tibet's capital, officials have outlawed the long, decorative knives that many residents wear attached to their hips, a newspaper reported Friday.

The Chinese-language Tu Kung Pao said that although carrying the knives is a part of Tibetan custom, many people in Lhasa, the capital, have used the weapons in murders, robberies, rapes and burglaries.

So far this year, 25 people have been killed and 34 injured in 56 cases involving the long knives.

Armenians can make collect calls

MORRIS TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Armenians can now make collect phone calls to the United States for the first time, under an agreement reached between the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Soviet authorities.

In a statement Thursday, the company said the agreement covers only the Armenian Republic, which has spent the past 10 days digging out from a devastating earthquake.

"This is the first agreement of its kind between AT&T and the Soviet Union, and marks a dramatic lessening of restrictions for Soviet citizens seeking to call the United States," the company said.

The volume of calls to and from the Soviet Union rose to eight times the normal level following the Dec. 7 quake, said Rick Matthews, spokesman for Morris Township-based AT&T International.

AT&T said it is also sending 10 facsimile machines to Armenia to help rescue teams coordinate relief plans with organizations around the world.

Escapee returns

2nd felon remains at large

By KEN ARMSTRONG
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Javier DeLeon, one of two felons who escaped from jail Tuesday, made a present of himself Friday at the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office.

"He just came and turned himself in -- no problem," said Sheriff Jim Munn.

DeLeon, 21, of Twin Falls, and Jerry Leroy Holton, 21, of Jerome, escaped from the Jerome County Jail around 11 p.m. Tuesday. Holton, who was awaiting trial on a charge of threatening a man with a knife, was still at large Friday night.

DeLeon, accompanied by a cousin, turned himself in around noon, Munn said. Three hours later, authorities transported him back to the Jerome County Jail where he was placed in a high-security cell pending arraignment Monday.

DeLeon told authorities that he had spent his two-and-a-half days of freedom in the Jerome-Twin Falls area, said George Silver, sergeant with the Jerome County Sheriff's Office. At one point he apparently went to his home in the Twin Falls labor camp.

Holton and DeLeon were wearing jail-issued orange coveralls when they escaped, but when he turned himself in, DeLeon was wearing blue jeans and a long-sleeve shirt.

Authorities have charged DeLeon with escape, a felony that carries a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and/or a $5,000 fine, said Jerome County Prosecutor John Horgan. State law requires that any sentence stemming from an escape conviction must be served consecutively, meaning that it will be attached to the end of any prior sentence.

Buhl gains support in block grant quest

By MIKEL BENTON
Times-News correspondent

BUHL — The Idaho Department of Commerce recommended Friday Buhl be one of three cities awarded federal block grant monies, bringing one step closer to reality Pet Inc.'s planned multibillion-dollar expansion plans.

City officials received notice by phone Friday that the department will recommend to Gov. Cecil Andrus that Buhl receive a $350,000 grant to upgrade services and facilities in and around the city, Mayor Tom Tappen said.

Andrus is expected to approve the recommendation.

Also, the Economic Advisory Council of the department has pared a list of 61 community development grant applications to 33.

Of the 22 applications for public facilities or housing grants, Magic Valley governments making the "short list" are Rupert, Hagerman, Elmore County and Lincoln County.

The department also has $300,000 available in senior citizen facilities grants. Locally Jerome, Buhl and Oakley have submitted requests.

The 33 communities will be asked to submit full applications for the $3.8 million in available funds. The grants can go for public facilities, housing, senior citizen centers and economic development projects.

The 33 communities approved for full application have until Feb. 3 to submit their requests to the Economic Advisory Council and the Department of Commerce, which will make recommendations to the governor.

Andrus will announce final award recipients for public facility, housing and senior citizen grants in March. Economic development grants are awarded by Andrus throughout the year.

A public hearing on Wednesday, meanwhile, showed overwhelming support for the $350,000 grant, its planned uses and Pet's $4.5 million plans to begin producing B&M Baked Beans by 1990.

The grant funds would finance drilling a new well, installing fire pumps, upgrading the wastewater treatment plant and improving Highway 30 at the north end of Buhl. The completion of these projects would allow Pet Inc. to expand 40,000 square feet and begin production of baked beans.

As far as we're concerned, it could be the first step to producing other lines here," Roger Johanson, Pet's quality control supervisor, said at the hearing. Pet is a subsidiary of Whitman Chocolates, which also owns Progress Soups and Old El Paso.

"The employees are really behind it," Johanson said. "Everyone is in favor of it that I've spoken to."

Lee Bliven, representing Buhl's northside, said Pet has always demonstrated community pride and involvement. "The Pet expansion is in the best interests of the entire community. Pet Milk has been a good neighbor for a really long time."

He also said the benefits of up-

Auditorium to be Koutnik funeral site

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho's 900-seat auditorium will be the setting for the funeral of talk show host and civic leader L. James Koutnik.

Koutnik, 67, died from a heart attack Thursday evening. His funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the fine arts auditorium.

Koutnik's son, Gary, said he is trying to arrange a band to fulfill one of Koutnik's last wishes — to have "When the Saints Go Marching In" played at his funeral.

The funeral will have a speaker from the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, and airmen from Mountain Home Air Force Base will attend.

Koutnik was the host of "Party Line," the popular call-in show on radio station KLX. He also co-owned Coldwell Banker Western Realty, served on the Idaho Board of Corrections and recently retired from the Air Force Reserves as a lieutenant colonel.

Koutnik served on the corrections board through its most recent crises that included a riot at the state prison earlier this year and the eventual ouster of Corrections Director Al Murphy over release of prison inmates to halfway houses.

Company fills in for missing NSN publisher

By DENISE TURNER
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Another major change has taken place on the newspaper scene in Jerome.

Barely two months after Dave Combes arrived from Boise to take over as publisher of the North Side News, he is no longer with the paper. "Dave Combes is not here any more," said Mike Thornberry, publisher of the Mountain Home News and now in charge of the News' publishing operations. "He has been gone since Wednesday, but, as to the whys or wherefores of his leaving, I have no comment."

Dick Cain, the paper's owner, could not be reached for comment.

Thornberry is hesitant to call himself interim publisher of the North Side News. "We're just putting out a paper, and I'll be in charge for the immediate future," he said. "It's a challenge, and I haven't yet decided exactly how I will divide my time between the two papers; but we are mainly concerned with continuing to put out a good quality newspaper for the people of Jerome."

Thornberry said the paper is looking for an advertising manager and hopes to have one on board within another week. Combes was hired as publisher and advertising manager.

He also said the paper does not plan to hire a new publisher and that some of those duties could be handled by a new advertising manager.

No other staff changes are planned, he said. "I think morale among the staff is good, and I see nothing but good days ahead," said Thornberry, who moved from Texas to Idaho last January, when he began his work at the Mountain Home News. "The owner is

Legal muddle

Liability varies from 1 side of Foothill Road to the other

By KIRK MITCHELL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — If your car hits a cow on one side of Foothill Road, the accident is the rancher's fault. Bash a bovine in the other lane, and you're to blame.

A historic herd district boundary bisecting the road is the reason.

"If the critter gets killed on the north side it's the herd district and the rancher would be held responsible, but if the critter gets killed on the south side its the open range and the driver would be held responsible," said Bob Mail, chairman of the Twin Falls Highway District.

County commissioners, Highway District commissioners, a Bureau of Land Management official and ranchers met Friday in Twin Falls to resolve the issue that has left drivers, ranchers and sheriff's deputies in a quandary over liability.

County commissioners want to resolve that issue and improve the road to make it safer, Commissioner Jim Fralay said.

The road runs east from Hollister along the base of the South Hills. Mail said past and upcoming road improvements on the road will result in faster traffic along a seven-mile cattle crossing that begins about four miles east of Rock Creek Road.

About two and a half miles of the road was blacktopped this summer, and an additional five or six miles will be blacktopped next summer, he said.

Mail said the first two miles of the road crossing are completely within the herd district, the second two miles are split and the last three miles are in open range territory.

The herd district likely was created 60 or 70 years ago before cars were used on the road, he said.

"I don't think they worried about a horse and buggy running into a cow," he said. "We're trying to bring it up to modern."

Officers acquitted in brutality lawsuit

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After more than four hours of deliberation, a six-member jury decided in favor of two police officers sued for police brutality stemming from a 1982 incident.

One of the officers reacted to the verdict by hugging his co-defendant and nearly breaking into tears.

"We both knew what was the truth," said Kent McDowell a former Twin Falls officer who now lives in Illinois. If they had lost, McDowell said, "our careers were over. ... Nobody's going to touch someone who violates civil rights."

McDowell and city policeman Ron Axman, the defendants, sat through the four-day trial that alternated between a cramped magistrate courtroom and a room rented from the First Presbyterian Church. The case, assigned to District Court, was forced into alternate quarters because the Twin Falls County courthouse was flooded with trials.

Closing arguments Friday were held in a courtroom so cramped that attorneys had to switch chairs to see jurors while they spoke. Bo's attorney Donald Lejek argued the two policemen violated his clients' civil rights during a late-night arrest in August 1982.

Plaintiffs Curtis Grant and Robert Grant said police used improper force while booking them into jail. The two brothers were arrested after being ejected from the Windbreak bar. The Grants started arguing with each other in the bar and carried the argument into the parking lot and ultimately to the police booking area.

Shoshone's Bryan Sologa looks to teammate Lane Davis (20), but four Murtagh defenders are there to complicate the maneuver

Shoshone spitters, then tops Murtagh

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — If the Shoshone Indians were a car, they definitely needed a tune-up Friday night. Shoshone's spark plugs sputtered before kicking in the second half to beat Murtagh 55-47 in a conference-opening matchup between the two Magic Valley Conference pre-season favorites.

For the second game in a row, Bryan Sologa provided the punch that Shoshone needed.

"He was the spark plug. He did a good job," said Shoshone coach Larry Messick.

He played two minutes in the second quarter, but scored six points in those two minutes giving the Devils a 26-18 lead at the break.

What was most surprising though was the 11 fouls by the Indians and numerous turnovers and missed shots.

Nebecker and Shannon Widmier hit back-to-back buckets from the 3-point line and boosted Murtagh to three point lead heading into the final quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Murtagh didn't hit a single shot from the field and Shoshone was quick to take advantage.

The Chukars managed a five-point lead in the second half and then fell behind 74-68 with five minutes left. Trailing 76-74 with 2:40 left, Treasure Valley collected six straight points from Wes Luces to fashion an 80-76 lead. But four Walla Walla free throws by Brian Martin, who enjoyed a 32-point game, and Jason Woods tied it at 80 with 26 seconds left.

Trenkle free throws lift Bruins, 67-66

By The Times-News

BOISE — Swede-Trenkle hit two free throws with six seconds remaining here Friday night to lead Twin Falls to a 67-66 non-conference boys' basketball victory over fourth-ranked Boise.

But early in the fourth quarter, Boise's full-court press produced three unanswered baskets, the last by Phil Bird cutting Twin Falls' lead to 52-50 with 5 minutes and 30 seconds left in the game. A bucket by Willey and a free throw by Smith stretched it back out to five, but Smith fouled Bird with 3:37 left and the Bruins hit the front end of a one-and-one free throw opportunity to cut the deficit to 59-55. A few seconds later, Smith was whistled for another foul, this time against Bart Leach, who hit both free throws to make it 59-57 Twin.

Golden Eagle Classic CSI breezes to win, 115-94

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It was the College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team in a breeze and Treasure Valley's Chukars by inches Friday night in the opening round of the CSI Golden Eagle Classic.

had them shutdown pretty well. But after that they shot a lot of layins. The defense will be better tomorrow night. It has better be because Walla Walla will target their offense over and over and make us chase them. If we don't do the job, they'll be shooting crumples."

CSI clicked with its fast break and transition consistently during the game with guards David Henderson and Anthony Williams leading the way.

TVCC was tied a couple of times and took its first lead on a three-pointer by Gill at the buzzer.

TVCC opened the game with a five-point lead in the second half and then fell behind 74-68 with five minutes left. Trailing 76-74 with 2:40 left, Treasure Valley collected six straight points from Wes Luces to fashion an 80-76 lead. But four Walla Walla free throws by Brian Martin, who enjoyed a 32-point game, and Jason Woods tied it at 80 with 26 seconds left.

The Bruins trailed only once in the game, that with 20 seconds remaining after Jim Cornwall scored to give the Braves their only lead, at 68-65. But Trenkle was fouled as the clock wound down, setting up his game-winning foul shot.

"We just played hard and played with a lot of confidence," said Brian coach John Astorquia, whose team's two wins this season over Boise are their only victories.

After a Twin Falls turnover, Chris Billings tied the game at 59 with 2:46 remaining.

Tony Traveller, Willey and Trenkle put the Bruins back ahead with baskets, but Boise matched each of them, and after a missed free throw by John Harper, Cornwall gave the Braves their only lead. After Trenkle sank his free throws to put Twin Falls back on top, the Bruins called time out with three seconds left. Boise inbounded the ball to Cornwall, who stepped out of bounds in the corner, giving the Bruins the ball as time ran out.

The Classic concludes with two games tonight, Treasure Valley playing SAIT at 7 p.m. and Walla Walla and CSI tangling in the 9 p.m. windup.

Those two games will be preceded by two women's games, Treasure Valley playing Northwest Nazarene in the consolation final at 3 p.m. and CSI meeting Western Montana in the title battle at 5 p.m.

CSI coach Fred Trenkle wasn't pleased with the defensive effort of his Eagles over the closing 12 minutes.

"We didn't show a lot of character after we had that 30-point lead and things pretty well poised for a blowout," Trenkle said. "Early we play defense well and in the first eight minutes of the second half we Actually, it was a close game throughout. In the first quarter, the Bruins shot 67 percent from the field and outscored the Braves 25 percent against Centennial and were outboarded 44-33.

If there was one big difference, it was Jeremy Willey," said Astorquia of his 6-foot, 3-inch senior forward. "He played his worst game of the season against Centennial and his best tonight."

Willey wound up with 16 points and 10 rebounds, the biggest of these coming on the offensive boards during a three-quarter stretch, during which the Bruins kept the Braves out of the game.

UL grid coach interviews with UW

The Associated Press

SEATTLE — Keith Gilbertson, the University of Idaho's head football coach, has been interviewed by Washington's Dan James about the possibility of coming to Seattle as an assistant coach, a newspaper reported today.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer, citing a source who asked not to be identified, said the Thursday interview involved the position of offensive line coach, and possibly offensive coordinator.

The Vandals had an 11-2 record this season and lost to Furman 38-7 in the semifinals of the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs last weekend. Idaho went 6-4 and 9-3 in its first two seasons under Gilbertson, 40, a native of Snohomish and a Washington graduate assistant for James in 1976.

James would neither confirm nor deny that he had interviewed Gilbertson, who was unavailable for comment, the P-I reported.

After Washington finished with a 6-5 record in 1983, James fired five-year offensive line coach Dan Dezario.

Highland disappoints Minico, 57-41

By JEFF HOSKISSON
Times-News writer

Minico came looking for a big win and ended up without it Friday night, losing to Highland 57-41 in a Gem State Conference and Region III boys' basketball game.

"We played really hard, but just couldn't score," said Minico coach Craig Dexter, whose Region III champions fell to 2-3 for the season and 1-1 in regional games.

in the second period, getting two out-of-baskets from Eric Miller to take a 10-3 lead. The Rams came back with two scores of their own, the first on a three-point play by Jim Burrup and the second on a layup by Craig Hagler.

The Spartans came right back, overtaking the Rams 16-14 when Miller canted an 18-footer. Highland then outscored the Spartans 10-2, taking a 24-17 lead into the half.

Despite shooting only 22 percent from the floor, Minico was still in the game thanks to its work on boards.

"Minico is a great rebounding team," said Ferguson. The Spartans were able to outboard the Rams 16-14 at the half.

Minico again started quickly in the third quarter on jumpers by Miller and Pete Dexter, to close within four points. After the two teams traded baskets, the Rams blew the game open with a 9-0 run, taking a 33-

Again in the third quarter, Minico was hurt by poor shooting, hitting only 6-for-15.

"Just couldn't put the ball down," said Dexter.

Highland extended the quarter up by 12 points, 40-28, and the fourth period was all Highland. The Rams scored most of their points from the free throw line as the Spartans tried everything to get back into the game.

"We spread out our offense and forced them to either foul us or gamble to get the ball back to get back into the game," said Ferguson. "We made our free throws. I told them going in to be patient and let them get us to foul line."

Highland won the junior varsity preliminary, 67-32.
