Snow, wind ease but cold moving in

By The Times-News and The Associated Press

TWIN FALLS — While a bona fide blizzard ripped into eastern Idaho Friday, drifting snow and freezing conditions closed roads and schools in much of the Magic Valley. All area schools outside Twin Falls County were closed, officials said, and most nighttime basketball games were postponed. State Highway 46 between Gooding and Fairfield was still closed at 8 p.m., Idaho State Police said. State Highway 75 between Shoshone and Timmerman Hill was expected to remain closed until sometime today. Other roads, including Interstate 84 from Burley to the Utah border, were re-opened Friday afternoon or evening. Conditions should improve somewhat today, with a forecast calling for partly cloudy skies through Sunday with a chance of snow showers in the Magic Valley and the Sun Valley area. Temperatures will be much colder, with overnight lows ranging down to 10 to 15 degrees below zero. Daytime highs for the weekend will be from 15 to 25 above. Authorities reported near-zero visibility on several stretches of highway. Winds of up to 30 mph also caused problems for the Idaho

Transportation Department, whose sanders and plows spent the day battling icy road conditions. "We can't sand very well when the wind is blowing because it just causes a mess," said Jack Morris, Transportation Department assistant maintenance engineer. In eastern Idaho, a blizzard prompted avalanche warnings in addition to the closing of highways and schools. The winter storm, the National Weather Service labeled "strong and dangerous," dumped several inches of snow in southwestern Idaho beginning Thursday, but gathered strength as it moved past Twin Falls.

"We easily met the criteria for a blizzard," said Dan Keirns, a National Weather Service specialist. State police said there were at least seven reportable accidents on the Magic Valley's highways Friday, and even more slide-offs. An accident is reportable if it involves injuries or more than $300 damage. Area law-enforcement agencies also reported a large number of slide-offs and minor accidents on county and city roads. State police can be called at 733-7200 for information on area road conditions. Police, however, said the service does not provide forecasts, only information on current conditions. The new layer of snow on old snowpack created "avalanche conditions" in Idaho's backcountry. An avalanche warning was issued north and south of Sun Valley, as well as the Pocatello and Malad ranger districts of the Caribou National Forest in southeastern Idaho. County agricultural extension agents in central Idaho counties did not expect the snow would keep stockmen from feeding their herds. The storm covered southwestern Idaho with about 3 inches of snow. U.S., Libya tangle during UN session

The Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — U.S. Ambassador Vernon A. Walters exhibited blurred photographs to the Security Council on Friday showing what he called a heavily armed Libyan MIG-23 and said U.S. jets shot down that plane and a companion MIG-23 in self-defense. Libyan Ambassador Ali-Sunni Muntasser called the photographs doctored and said, "It is completely fake. It is untrue." Walters later asked reporters: "Do you think this is a bouquet of roses hanging under the wing?" "We have photographs which prove that the planes were armed," he said. Walters passed two photographs around the council chamber, where Libya has sought an emergency session to condemn the U.S. downing of its two aircraft on Wednesday. Libya says they were unarmed planes on a reconnaissance mission over international waters of the Mediteranean Sea. The two enlarged photographs show two views of one of the MIGs, the U.S. Mission said. They are labeled "Libyan MIG-23, P-1" and "Libyan MIG-23, P-2." One shows a full view of an aircraft with what the United States said are two APX and two Aphid missiles. The other shows a portion of an aircraft in the lower right corner. "The missile parts show quite clearly," Walters said of the photos, taken from a videotape. "There were two different types of missiles on the aircraft wings and hanging from other parts of the fuselage." "We have photographs that show the planes were armed," Walters said. "You can see for yourself whether there were or were not missiles." He said the photos were taken by one of the U.S. F-14 Tomcats that shot down the Libyan aircraft. The black-and-white photographs were enlarged to about 16 inches by 20

Soviets say conference atmosphere 'poisoned'

The Associated Press

PARIS — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze said the U.S. downing of two Libyan jet fighters this week has "poisoned the atmosphere" of an international conference on chemical weapons that opens Saturday. He called the incident over the Mediterranean "unacceptable" upon arriving at Orly airport Friday. There has been speculation that the conference risks being dominated by U.S. charges that Libya is building a chemical weapons plant. Nations will strive at the five-day meeting, the largest such gathering ever held, to revive the taboo on the proliferation of chemical weapons. At least 141 nations are attending the conference, about 80 of them led by their foreign ministers.

Earlier Friday, France, Canada and Egypt joined Britain in supporting U.S. contentions that Libya is developing poison gas in a factory at Rabta, 80 miles southwest of Tripoli, a senior U.S. official said. However, the U.S. official reported added agreement among U.S. allies that Libya, under Col. Moammar Gadhafi now is developing chemical weapons in its own factory. U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz, in Paris for the conference, has said he will try when he meets Shevardnadze on Sunday to persuade the Soviets about the nature of the plant and ask their help in closing it. The U.S. official said foreign ministers Michel Rocard of France, Joe Clark of Canada and Esmet Abdel-Meguid of Egypt all told Shultz they did not doubt the Libyan plant was producing chemical weapons.

Idaho delegation says 'No' to pay raise

By AMY GAMERMAN, States News Service

WASHINGTON — Although most people wouldn't say no to a pay raise, Idaho's congressional delegation has vowed to do just that after President Reagan announced Thursday he will ask for a 50 percent increase in their salaries. On the recommendation of a federal commission, Reagan endorsed a hefty pay hike for members of Congress, federal judges and other top officials. Congressmen and senators, who now earn $39,500, will see their salaries increased to $125,000. Unless it is formally opposed in both the House and the Senate, the increase will be automatically approved and will take effect Feb. 8. Both the leaders of the House and the Senate have expressed their support for the increase. Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, went on record with his strenuous opposition to the pay increase in a letter to Reagan in late December. "That's a message the 'gutless, no good' Congress would understand," he wrote. But Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, intends to reserve judgement on the salary increase for the time being, according to a spokesman.

"(McClure) certainly isn't going to be one of those people who's going to jump up and down in a demagogic fit of righteous indignation," said H.D. Palmer, McClure's press secretary. "He will wait and see how the votes are structured and go from there," Palmer said. But Reagan's approval of the salary increase drew fire from both Reps. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, and Larry Craig, R-Idaho. "I would have hoped that this conservative president who has talked about fiscal responsibility

Pentagon fraud case expanding

Los Angeles Times

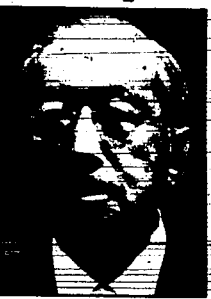

WASHINGTON — The government brought the first charges in the Pentagon fraud case Friday, accusing Teledyne Industries Corp., three Teledyne executives, a Navy official and two defense consultants with crimes including racketeering, conspiracy, bribery and theft of government property. The indictments followed guilty pleas earlier Friday on similar charges from defense supplier Hazeltine Corp., two of its former officers and a Washington marketing official for Teledyne. Hazeltine agreed to pay $1.9 million in fines for its part in a scheme to pay a Navy contract officer for inside information on a Pentagon electronics program. The long-awaited charges in the "Ill Wind" investigation provide the outline of the government's case against Pentagon officials, weapons makers and consultants who allegedly bought and sold confidential information in order to profit from the $160 billion-a-year military purchasing system. Henry E. Hudson, the U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia, who is supervising the investigation, said Friday's 27-count indictment represented "a small percentage" of the larger government corruption case he is building. He predicted that more charges would be filed in the coming months. The companies and individuals who were charged or who pleaded guilty Friday form a relatively small circle which Hudson and the Department of Justice hope to widen to ensnare a much larger number of big players, including some of the nation's top defense contractors. The Hazeltine and Teledyne executives who admitted guilt have agreed to provide evidence against others in the continuing investigation, Hudson said. Among the companies and people charged are: Teledyne Industries of Newbury Park, Calif., whose Teledyne Electronics unit was accused of trying to bribe a Navy official to help win a $24 million electronics contract. The company, the nation's largest defense contractor, faces fines up to $6.5 million. See FRAUD on Page A2

Cancer claims Japan's emperor

Knight-Ridder Service

TOKYO — Japanese Emperor Hirohito died early today of cancer at the age of 87, the Imperial Household Agency announced. His death ended a 62-year reign that spanned the most catastrophic war and the most dynamic economic recovery in Japanese history. Hirohito, once worshipped as a living god, died at 6:33 a.m. (4:33 p.m. MST Friday) after a long bout with cancer of the duodenum that was detected Sept. 19 after he began vomiting blood. Court physicians kept the diagnosis a closely guarded secret for fear it would distress the monarch and his apparenty never told the extent of his illness. "The death of the emperor is an extremely sad event," Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita said in a somber address on national televi-

The government announced an official period of deep mourning for the next six days, during which all "song and dance" will be proscribed. Private citizens were asked to refrain from song and dancing for two days. Shichi Fujimori, grand steward of the Imperial Household Agency, announced the death at a nationally televised news conference, confirming for the first time that Hirohito had suffered from cancer. Following Japanese tradition, the 85-year-old crown prince Akihito, 65, was named the moment his father died. The new emperor was driven from the Akasaka palace to

Bush ideas on deficit still to come

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Bush said Friday he will unveil ideas for reducing the deficit to a special joint session of Congress after his inauguration.

And while expressing support for President Reagan's decision to back a 50 percent pay increase for members of Congress ...

"I don't know whether we can afford anything other than to get this deficit under control," he said.

On budgetary matters, Bush said that with his proposed "flexible freeze" on spending, some things will go up and then some things must be offset by going down.

But as for the pay increase, he said, "I am vice president and I will be supportive of what the president decides. I've done that for seven and eleven-twelve years ..."

"When the ball is in my court, and the buck is stopping on my desk, I may have something else to say about matters of this nature," he added.

Traffic accidents were reported and a jackknifed semi-truck closed the eastbound lanes of Interstate 84 for several hours.

Falls dipped severely Friday when a power outage shut down the computer that regulates city well pumps. A loss of water pressure caused cancellation of some elective surgeries at Eastern Idaho Regional Medical Center, said hospital spokesman Frank McGoey.

Once again, Idaho's ski resorts benefited from this winter's storms. A new foot of snow was reported Friday at Bogus Basin near Boise, while Sun Valley received 11 inches and Grand Targhee on the extreme western end of Wyoming picked up 6 inches.

Bannock County roads around Pocatello were "absolutely horrendous," said Undersheriff Bill Lynn. County patrol units were unable to respond to other than emergency calls.

Business was brisk at Betty's Cafe in Blackfoot when five buses, carrying about 100 workers returning from the INEL sought refuge from the blizzard.

"In those situations, we'll get in somehow, even if we have to use bulldozers," he said.

Owner Peter Stenman was surprised to see the crowds, but her restaurant seats 150 and she had plenty of pancakes, eggs and hot coffee on hand to feed the stranded workers.

"It's possible we're getting plastered and the snow is drifting in faster than we can keep it off the roads," he said.

"I was shocked. We expected only 2-4 inches of snow last night," she said. "This looks like 1949."

Flights were delayed at the Idaho Falls and Pocatello airports Friday morning due to snow and fog.

Workers at INEL stayed for an extra shift and manned the reactors, Walsh said. The last time the facility closed was in 1985.

Wind and snow caused power outages throughout eastern Idaho. Electric lines blew down by wind gusts up to 60 mph left about 2,500 homes in the Fort Hall area near Pocatello without power from late Thursday through Friday morning.

With the exception of Challis and Salmon, all eastern Idaho schools were closed, as was Idaho State University. All of the schools in western Idaho's Gem, Canyon and Payette counties — also closed.

Water pressure in part of Idaho was restored Friday.

Meridian, Harshbarger-Bend and Council school districts took the day off. Treasure Valley Community College, across the border in Ontario, Ore., was shut down.

Today's weather Brrrr! That about sums it all up, folks

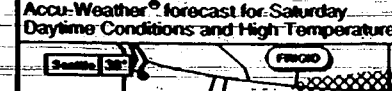

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding: Today and Sunday, colder with partly cloudy skies and a chance of snow.

Camas, Prairie and Wood River Valley: Today and Sunday, partly cloudy with a chance of snow showers.

REGIONAL WEATHER Accu-Weather forecast for Saturday

Northern Utah and Nevada: Today and Sunday, variable cloudiness through Sunday.

Nevada: Continued cold with a low-mountain snow-furrow today. Mostly cloudy with a chance of light snow.

Summary: The National Weather Service says the intense low-pressure system that brought blizzard conditions to the southeast Thursday night and Friday morning was moving slowly southward.

Locations in the southeast were still feeling some effects of the system as the low pressure system blew and drifting snow. High air will enter the Gem State following the low pressure system and colder temperatures are expected for the next few days.

Late afternoon temperatures Friday were in the 20s and 30s. Winds in the southeast and the Snake Valley were in the 15 to 30 mph range with higher gusts reported.

The extended outlook for Southern Idaho calls for not so cold. Scattered snow showers Monday and Tuesday. Partly cloudy Wednesday.

had been more responsible, Stallings said, adding that he intends to lend his support to bipartisan efforts to defeat the increase.

Craig most objects to the automatic nature of the pay increase.

"I don't think the American people are saying that Congress isn't entitled to some pay raise; but it ought to be treated up front with a vote, and Congress ought not to dodge the issue and pass it off to some untouchable commission," Craig said.

Craig has given his backing to a bill authored by Rep. Thomas Tauke, R-Iowa, which would eliminate automatic pay increases in favor of a recorded vote in both the House and the Senate.

Tauke's bill, which would also defer any approved pay raise until after the next election, is expected to win bipartisan support in the House.

Despite their unanimous opposition to the pay hike, the congressional representatives differ on whether or not to accept it if approved.

Stallings, who used the last congressional salary increase to set up a scholarship fund in 1987, would either return the new increase to the federal treasury or add it to the fund.

Craig would accept the bigger paycheck, but intends to put up a good fight first. "I fight gallantly, I fight smart," he said. "I make no bones about doing that, and I think, my constituents know that."

At 10 a.m. he was formally invested with the symbols of his power: a sacred sword, the imperial jewels, a mirror and the seals of state.

The deathwatch for the emperor lasted just over 16 weeks; and his 122 million subjects were more than prepared for the end. Although it had been feared that some would commit suicide to express their sorrow at the emperor's death, there were no reports of any untoward incidents Sunday morning.

The U.S. Embassy in Tokyo issued a short statement of condolences, calling Hirohito "a true gentleman of quiet strength and scientific scholarship."

"We are happy that his Majesty was able to witness the rebirth of a prosperous and peaceful Japan that has taken its rightful place in the international community," said charge d'affaires L. Desaux Anderson. "May his soul rest in peace."

Japanese leaders extolled the late emperor's virtues while glossing over his role at the beginning of the second World War.

"The great Second World War broke out against his will," Takekoshi said. "Towards the end of his war, looking at how people were suffering, he made a bold decision to end the war in 1945, to end the poverty and suffering of the people."

Jones wants states to monitor nuclear impact on environment

BOISE (AP) — Congress should appropriate money directly to Idaho and other states with federal nuclear facilities so they can independently monitor environmental impacts of new projects, Attorney General Jim Jones said today.

JIM JONES

Wants more state control
New projects will be built with full participation by its own state experts.
Gov. Cecil Andrus has been discussing with Department of Energy officials for months "the need for additional resources to support monitoring and permitting activities that the state needs to be involved in," an official in Andrus' office said today.

Andrus plans to unveil specific proposals on the issue of state monitoring, and the need for federal support, in his State of the State and budget addresses to the Idaho Legislature next week, the official said.

Jones said no strings should be attached to any monitoring appropriations, which would be used to hire state or private contractors with the necessary expertise to perform this complicated work.

Costs would vary according to the size and type of project, but Jones said he expects $5 million to $25 million would be needed to monitor each new facility during design, construction, and the initial shakedown phase of operation.

He said independent monitoring is needed to avoid the inevitable "in-house bias" of the DOE.

"I believe the time is right for this kind of proposal, given problems which have surfaced at certain DOE facilities," Jones wrote. "Each host state should have the assurance that

Police search for man seen with abused child

BOISE (AP) — Law enforcement officials searched Friday for a man who reportedly was seen at the freeway rest stop southeast of Boise where a badly abused and malnourished boy was found Wednesday.

Ada County Sheriff Vaughn Killen said detectives wanted to interview the unidentified man who a witness reported seeing with the boy in a closed stall inside the restroom at the Blacks Creek Rest Area off Interstate 84.

A witness reported seeing the man about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, Killen said. The boy was found abandoned in the restroom about 45 minutes later, whimpering and wearing only a T-shirt.

The only thing the witness could tell officials about the man was that he was wearing worn cowboy boots.

The sheriff said he may have been driving a small off-white pickup, possibly a Mazda or Ford Courier.

The four 3-year-old boy, who officials have dubbed "Johnny Doe," remained Friday at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center. He was being treated for bruises, scrapes, burns and malnutrition, and was undergoing tests to determine his level of development.

Dr. Thomas Cornwall, the pediatrician who has handled the boy's case, said there was evidence of developmental retardation.

He still had not spoken, and Cornwall said it would be difficult for him to overcome the trauma of what appears to have been a lifetime of abuse.

The boy is sleeping, eating and watching television, the doctor said.

Wednesday night, nurses found him drinking out of a toilet bowl, which Cornwall said was another indication of how he had lived.

Lawmakers examine past year

BOISE (AP) — The past year was a banner one for Idaho Agriculture overall, but the agriculture dean at the University of Idaho told lawmakers Friday it has not bailed out every farmer in the state.

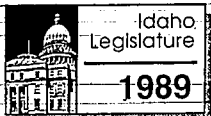

Total cash receipts rose 13 percent in 1988 with major gains in cattle and calf returns and higher revenues from all major crops.

"We probably had the best year in agriculture we've seen in a long time," Larry Brannen told the Joint Revenue Projection Committee. "It really was because other people in other parts of the world didn't raise the crops we did. The drought was the primary reason."

Government analysts estimate net farm proprietors' income in Idaho last year will exceed $600 million for the first time, and Brannen said the improved agricultural economy brought financial life back to nearly a third of the producers and half the farm-dependent businessmen who were on the edge.

But Brannen said problems still persist.

"We still have in the neighborhood of 15 percent of our farmers who have a debt-to-asset ratio that puts them in danger," he told the panel that is assessing the prospects for Idaho's economy over the next 18 months and the tax revenue it will produce.

Brannen said there should be sufficient credit in the coming season for agriculture operations, though lenders like many farmers are being more cautious despite prospects for continued strength in the farm sector.

"The farmers who are left are more conservative," he said. "They know what happens when you get yourself too deep in debt."

Breaking the trend of generally bright outlooks for Idaho's economic future was Parke Garrard of the Idaho Motor Transport Association.

Garrard said the threat of a federal fuel tax to reduce the national budget deficit coupled with state laws that are disincentives to truckers, including a high sales tax, are taking their toll on his industry in the state.

The number of motor carriers based in Idaho has declined by over 8.5 percent since 1985, he said, as some operators have relocated to other states with better business environments or opportunities and mergers have erased others.

Although some Idaho carriers are expanding, he said, that expansion is occurring outside Idaho, and the main reasons are the sales tax on trucks and parts, high workmen's compensation insurance premiums and the state's ton-mile tax.

If truckers do not leave the state, Garrard maintained, the laws require many marginal operators to take illegal actions to avoid various government-imposed costs to stay afloat.

Board considers steroid penalties

BOISE (AP) — In order to help keep muscle-swelling anabolic steroids out of the hands of Idaho teenagers, the state Board of Pharmacy is considering steps to boost criminal penalties for their sale and possession.

When the five-member board meets Jan. 25-26 in Pocatello, officials said the panel will decide whether tougher laws are needed to curb the flow of the drugs to athletes.

If a going to be addressed, "I think we will come out of there with a recommendation," said board Chairman Donald Tolley, a Caldwell pharmacist.

Under present Idaho law, unlawful sale and possession of steroids — illegal without a prescription — are misdemeanor offenses, though authorities said there been no arrests to date.

Executive Director Mick Markuson said the board will review a number of enforcement options, the most severe of which would list steroids as a controlled substance. That would make offenders subject to the same penalties cocaine and heroin peddlers face.

Holland moves to disqualify judge

BOISE (AP) — A convicted slayer is making another attempt to disqualify 6th District Judge William Woodland from his first-degree murder case.

Patricia McDermott, attorney for James Louis Holland, 48, this week filed a motion to disqualify Woodland from hearing the Holland case.

Holland already is under death sentence in Utah for a slaying, a case that is on appeal to the Utah Supreme Court.

In a separate Idaho case, Holland is accused of the July 4, 1987, slaying of Karl Behn, 24, Highland Heights, Fla., at the Juniper rest stop on Interstate 84 in Oneida County near the Utah border.

Earlier in the week, Woodland rejected a defense motion that he be disqualified for cause. He ruled no cause was shown that would require him to step down from the case.

Lewiston wants trucks rerouted around city

LEWISTON (AP) — The Lewiston City Council wants east-west truck traffic routed around the city to prevent the possibility of deaths or injuries if an accident occurs involving hazardous materials.

The council has asked the Idaho Department of Transportation to take over and upgrade a 2.1-mile section of road that Councilman Robert Wing said is in such poor condition that some trucks detour through the city to avoid it.

The Idaho Transportation Board is expected to decide on the request in mid-February.

Upgrading the 2.1-mile portion of the Old Spiral Highway and Down River Road near Lewiston would cost about $2 million, Wing said.

Group proposes ban on phosphates

SANDPOINT (AP) — The Clark Fork Coalition has proposed banning the use of phosphate detergents in Bonner County near Lake Pend Oreille and the Clark Fork River.

The Bonner County Sportsmen Association endorsed the proposal Thursday after coalition Secretary Ruth Watkins spoke at the group's regular meeting in Sandpoint.

The coalition's plan previously won support from the Bonner County Commission and county planner Lorin Morgan.

Check hoax doesn't amuse authorities

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — When Percy Eubanks Jr. arrived at work Wednesday, his bosses jokingly asked him if he would mind writing them a personal check.

Eubanks didn't get the joke until they showed him a newspaper article saying his name was signed on 12 million-dollar checks and sent to a dozen people across the country as lake sweepstakes prizes.

"If I was that rich, I would help the needy, not just anyone," Eubanks said, sitting in a booth at the Ontario McDonald's where he works. "Or I'd invest the money."

Postal officials said they regarded the hoax as such a bad joke that they did not plan to pursue it.

SNOW BUILD-UP
 During the last few days of continued snowfall and snow buildup, the City Street crews have had an increasing problem with snow being pushed out into streets and alleys from private property. City Code Section 8.2.9 (2) prohibits the obstruction of public ways except by special permit. Those who block or partially block streets, alleys, and sidewalks with snow removed from private property are violating the law. They are also increasing their personal liability exposure by creating hazardous driving conditions for the traveling public. Property owners should pile snow on their own property to stay legal. Citations will be issued if continued violations occur.

Hatch calls for pardon for North

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Orrin Hatch has called on President Reagan to pardon Oliver North in the wake of a special prosecutor's decision to drop the chief Iran-Contra scandal charges against the former Marine lieutenant colonel.

On Thursday, Special Prosecutor Lawrence Walsh asked Judge Gerhard Gesell to drop charges of conspiracy and theft against North, saying his case required secret documents that could not be used in open court without damaging national security.

Hatch said that if Reagan were not "guided," he would have pardoned North long ago. Now, with the major charges dropped, Hatch said the president is less likely to face allegations of a cover-up if he pardons North of the remaining charges.

Tower recovering from colon surgery

DALLAS (AP) — Defense Secretary-designate John Tower had a cancerous polyp removed from his rectum last week and was recovering Friday from surgery to remove a polyp, believed benign, from his colon, hospital officials said.

The 63-year-old former Texas senator was in good condition today and "should expect 100 percent recovery," said Dr. R. D. Dignan, who performed the three-hour operation at Baylor University Medical Center.

Dignan said a preliminary test showed the growth, to be benign. Final results are expected today.

Domestic air travel safe, study says

BOSTON (AP) — Deregulation has compromised air traffic safety, but domestic air travel is still so safe that odds are a person could take a flight every day for more than 29,000 years before being involved in a fatal crash, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology study released Friday.

The 1977-86 figures for domestic non-stop flights with established carriers indicate travelers are at 10 times less risk today than they were during the 1960s, but the skies could be safer.

"One can come up with a very long list of things that make one nervous about flying, but the good news is that very rarely have these horrible genes really come out of the bottle," said MIT Professor Arnold Barnett, who compiled the fatality statistics with Pentagon analyst Mary K. Higgins.

Jobless numbers equal 14-year low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dipped to 5.3 percent in December, the government said Friday, matching a 14-year low as President Reagan's presidency neared a close.

The jobless rate averaged 5.5 percent for all of last year, down from 6.2 percent in 1987.

The Labor Department said December's civilian unemployment rate was down 0.1 percentage point from November, hitting 5.3 percent for the third time in 1988, the lowest level since the 6.1 percent of May 1974.

Service-producing industries led in the creation of 229,000 new jobs last month, bringing to nearly 3.8 million the number of jobs created during the year, the most since 1981's total of 3.95 million, the department said.

The unemployment rate among adult men and adult women remained unchanged at 4.3 percent in December. Joblessness among teenagers rose from 14.1 percent in November to 14.8 percent.

The Labor Department said unemployment rates among other demographic groups were: blacks, 11.6 percent, up from 11.2 percent in November; black teenagers, 29.3 percent, down from 29.9; Hispanics, 7.6 percent, down from 8 percent; whites, 4.8 percent, unchanged.

The numbers reflected continued economic growth and brought renewed talk of higher inflation.

It shows that the economy has not shifted to a "lower gear," said economist Roger Reimher of Data Resources Inc., a Lexington, Mass., forecasting service. "With the economy continuing to operate at these levels and continuing to grow as rapidly as it is, inflation is going to keep creeping up."

Average hourly earnings, however, remained unchanged for the third consecutive month at $9.45. This statistic is closely watched for signs of inflation, but wage growth from December 1987 to December 1988 was just 3.4 percent, behind the inflation rate of 4.4 percent.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the figures indicated that the longest peacetime expansion continued, through its 76th month. "The economy is on a strong footing and proceeding moderately and smoothly."

When Reagan took office in January 1981, unemployment was 7.5 percent. It rose to 10.8 percent late in the 1981-82 recession, the highest level in four decades, before beginning to decline.

Janet Norwood, commissioner of labor statistics, said 3 million of the new jobs last year were on the service side of the economy, including 700,000 in retail trade, more than 400,000 in manufacturing and 300,000 in construction.

Utah border gaming plan facing long odds

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A proponent of an amendment to the Utah Constitution to allow gambling in the Utah half of the Nevada border town of Wendover acknowledged the odds aren't too good for the proposal in the upcoming session of the Legislature.

But state Sen. Bill Barton still thinks the idea, which he says would boost the state's economy, is worth a shot.

SJR1 has been pre-filed by Barton, R-Wood Valley City, to allow games of chance or a lottery in cities or towns that share a common boundary with a city in a state that allows such activities. It is not clear what effect the proposed constitutional amendment would have on communities that share a border with Idaho, where voters recently approved a state lottery.

"The part of Wendover that is in Utah has become quite depressed in the last few years. All of the building that is going on is on the Nevada side," Barton said. "This will help rejuvenate the Utah side."

Drug accord signing set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Soviet Union are expected to sign an agreement Sunday on sharing information on drug abuse and narcotics trafficking, American officials said Friday.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Secretary Eduard A. Shevardnadze were to sign the agreement in Paris, said State Department spokeswoman Catherine Shaw.

The agreement is a direct outgrowth of the greater openness in the Soviet Union, which after years of denying it had a drug problem has been acknowledging greater use of narcotics, U.S. officials said.

In the past two years they have reported increased drug use, particularly in regard to the soldiers coming back from Afghanistan," said Shaw. No agents of the DEA will be stationed in the Soviet Union, she said, but it is envisioned that the DEA and the U.S. Customs Service will cooperate with Soviet law enforcement authorities, she said.

The agreement was to cover four main points, DEA officials said: Exchange of information on drug trafficking and drug routes.

Exchange of drug samples. Analysts can determine the region or nation in which a drug originated by detecting a chemical signature unique to the substance.

Training, with Soviet officials having expressed interest in learning some of the techniques DEA agents use.

Exchange of data on precursor chemicals, such as ether, used to process cocaine, and acetic anhydride, used in the manufacture of heroin.

Hawkins Co. files bankruptcy to avoid 'fire sale'

By MARTA CLEVELAND
Times-News writer

FILER — Hawkins Co. Ltd. filed for bankruptcy Friday for the sake of the owners, the creditors, the customers and the growers, the company's attorney said.

Hawkins' directors decided bankruptcy is the most expedient way to handle all the problems, their attorney Jim Tucker said.

A hearing has been set for 9 a.m. Jan. 18 in federal bankruptcy court in Boise.

The Filer bean warehouse company has been under state control since Nov. 22 when the owners' warehouse license was suspended after inventory shortages were discovered.

Wednesday, the state Department of Agriculture petitioned the state court to appoint the bankruptcy trustee as the company's receiver in liquidation.

But the department wasn't moving fast enough to mill and market the beans stored in the warehouse in time to honor a large seed-bean contract with a Canadian company, Tucker said.

The company is in the best position to get the most for the beans, he said. "It is in the best interests of everyone to have a structured liquidation rather than a fire sale.

With a bankruptcy, "there is a road map to follow," Tucker said.

Although the bankruptcy has been filed under Chapter 11, the reorganization section of federal bankruptcy law, Hawkins has no plans to restructure and continue operating, he said.

The company's directors — Jerry Hawkins, William Nungester and Robert Blass — chose bankruptcy partly because of urging from the company's major creditors, including First Security Bank, because they believe the bankruptcy court is best equipped to deal expeditiously with the company tangled claims against the company, Tucker said.

Another lawyer involved in the case was skeptical about that motive.

"The only reason the bank is pushing the bankruptcy is to get the proceeds of the beans," said Lloyd Walker, an attorney representing several growers. It makes no practical sense whatsoever for Hawkins company to go into bankruptcy. It could be a disaster to the growers.

Walker is representing Lyle Abel and Jim Hurley, both Filer-area farmers, in a state-court suit against Hawkins to have the growers declared the legal owners of the beans and to have the beans returned to them.

A hearing to consider making that suit a class action is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday before Judge Daniel Harburt in 5th District Court in Twin Falls. Because the bankruptcy court could stay that action. If so, Walker's clients plan to petition the bankruptcy court for the beans.

The directors want all interested persons to attend the Friday hearing in Boise and offer suggestions to the court, Tucker said. Copies of Hawkins' bankruptcy proposal are available at the law firm of Nelson, Rosholt, Robertson, Tolman and Tucker in Twin Falls.

Local jobless rate still moving down

By THE TIMES-NEWS
and the Associated Press

BOISE — While total employment in the state reached a record high in December, the Magic Valley's jobless rate kept inching its way down for the fourth consecutive month.

The area's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in December was 5.2 percent, according to Lon McDonald, Job Service labor analyst in Twin Falls. That's a little better than November's 5.4 percent, but a bit worse than the 4.9 percent recorded in December 1987.

"A main contributor to the improvement has been employment levels," he said. "Since August, these levels consistently have been moving up several hundred workers per month in comparison to last year's levels.

In August 913 fewer people were working than in August 1987. But in December, 667 more people were working than in December 1987, he said.

Job creation expected in the area in 1989 "could give the Magic Valley economy a nice rebound after several lean years," McDonald said.

In December, the Magic Valley — which the Department of Employment defines as Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding Counties — had a work force of 33,540, with 31,800 working and 1,740 jobless.

Overpass may cost less

By KEN ARMSTRONG
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Transportation officials said Friday that repairs on a U.S. Interstate 84 overpass damaged by an overpass truck will probably not start until May.

That exceeds the preliminary estimate of three months, but the good news is that the repair bill could be less than initially thought.

"If we can do our anticipated repairs, we're looking at $150,000. That would be our minimum," said Loren

Thomas, acting district engineer with the Idaho Transportation Department.

Officials initially estimated repair expenses at between $300,000 and $500,000. Costs could still hit those levels if officials need to replace an entire span of the most heavily damaged overpass.

The bill will be sent to Yankee Machine Shop & Fabrication, the Boise company for which the driver worked, Idaho State Police said.

TV will examine murder

TWIN FALLS — Come February, the television show "Unsolved Mysteries" plans to showcase the May 1987 murder of a California man whose body was found near Buhl.

Representatives of the NBC show are expected to come here sometime next week to gather information on the murder of Donald Edward Smith, said Twin Falls County Sheriff Jim Munn. The badly decomposed body of Smith, 55, of Hemet, Calif., was found in the desert near Miracle Hot Springs on May 27, 1987.

Since its outset, the case has confounded local investigators. Not only was Smith's body found some two weeks after he was killed, but another two weeks passed before authorities could identify him.

"We've gone just about as far as we can go with it," Munn said.

Authorities contacted the show's representatives roughly six months ago about the possibility of featuring

3 sets of twins pop up

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — A trio of storks performed double duty at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center this week.

Pamela Burch, the first of three mothers to give birth to twins in the past week, said she's never really wished for twins, but said she's excited.

"The thought of twins just never occurred to me," Burch said.

Linda Marra, the hospital's director of obstetrics, called the week's triple twin births unusual.

Only 11 sets of twins were delivered at the hospital in all of 1987, the same number as in 1986.

With a total of 1,145 births in 1987 and 1,075 in 1986, twins account for only about 1 percent of the hospital's deliveries.

One set of twins, born to Mr. and Mrs. David Runyan of Hagerman, came on New Year's Day. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sackett of Twin Falls became parents of twins on Thursday.

Burch's duo, born Dec. 31, are still in this hospital's neonatal intensive care unit but doing fine. The new mother said she hopes to have her daughters home next week.

Burch said she and her husband, Paul, have read everything they could find on twins and said she's looking forward to raising the pair.

Two storks and a pair of high chairs await the newborns. But Burch said she hasn't decided whether she'll dress the girls alike, because some experts say twins should be treated as individuals.

Science teaching takes bold step

By KRISTAN WATKINS
Times-News correspondent

BELLEVUE — They haven't developed the cure for cancer yet and they haven't quite launched the space shuttle, but some students at Bellevue Elementary School are working on some pretty important experiments these days, thanks to their new friend STAR-TRAC.

STAR-TRAC — short for Science Technology Activity Room Traveling Center — is a science classroom on wheels. It is piloted by science teacher Bill Quann and makes scheduled stops in each of Bellevue Elementary's classes.

The rectangular silver cart — a refurbished lunch tray cart — proudly bears the letters STAR-TRAC on its side and rolls down the hallway. Children run to it with enthusiasm usually reserved for recess or finger painting.

"Do we have STAR-TRAC today, Mr. Quann?" one asks.

"Yippee, we get STAR-TRAC today!" another says.

These Bellevue students are the last elementary-aged youngsters in the Sun Valley area to get science classes. The program began in 1983 after area parents told the Blaine County School Board they'd pay for the program's expenses if the district would pay teachers' salaries.

The board liked the idea and the first program began in Ketchum.

Plenty of objects and visual aids are the secrets to teaching science to the very young, says Richard Kay, science and environmental education consultant with the Idaho Department of Education. "Students need hands-on experience with concrete objects," Kay said. "Young children cannot understand abstract concepts so it is a waste of time to try to deal with abstractions."

Today in Bellevue, STAR-TRAC is in the kindergarten room. All the youngsters sit with their hands folded on their laps in their "star-trac" positions. The eager hands do not move until Quann has passed out 26 trays stored neatly inside the cart.

On each tray sits a marble, a spoon, a nut, a piece of clay, a ball and a ramp made of an empty toilet paper roll and a piece of cardboard.

One by one the students roll the objects down their homemade ramps. Some objects roll, others simply stop. The spoon rolls and stops, depending on the position.

The room is buzzing as the youngsters try to discover which objects will roll and which will stop or slide. The lesson lasts 15 minutes before all hands are back into the folded STAR-TRAC position.

Today's lesson: gravity.

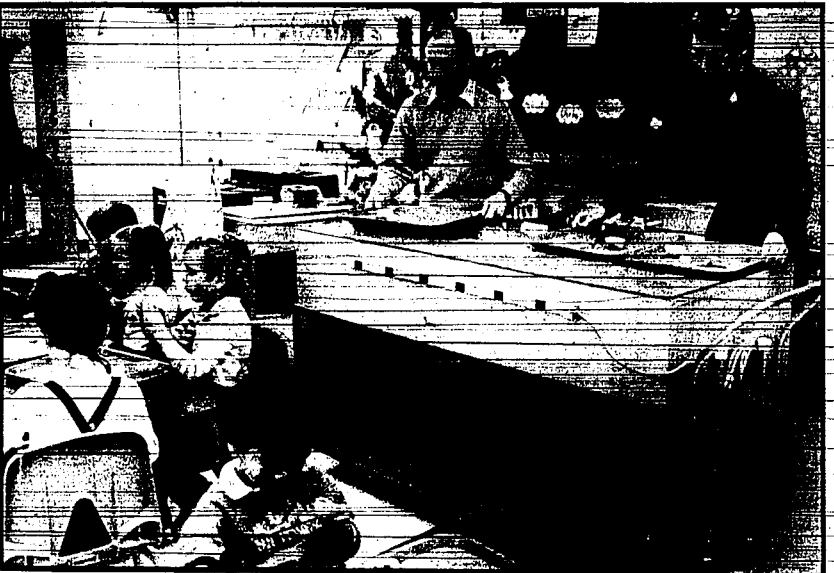

The kindergartners are in class for only 15 minutes — anything more and their attention span wanders. But STAR-TRAC's lessons lengthen in time and complexity for the first, second and third grades. Bellevue Elementary houses kindergartens through third grade while Hailey Elementary has fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Since part of the program depends on support from parents, promoting the program is important. The hallways at Bellevue Elementary are scattered with signs that read "The PTO needs your help to keep the STAR-TRAC carts rolling." STAR-TRAC is super science. ask your child.

Upper Snake water users organize to fight for rights

The Associated Press

REXBURG — Upper-Snake-River-Valley irrigators, organizing to joust with downstream water users over groundwater rights, have agreed their real enemy is Idaho Power Co.

"It's Upper Valley against Lower Valley, and it's pumpers against stream users until all of us are subordinated to the power interests of Idaho Power Co.," said Dell Raybold, a Rexburg farmer who helped organize Thursday a meeting, which attracted nearly 200 people.

The irrigators appointed a five-member committee to fight petitions filed with the Idaho Department of Water Resources by the Twin Falls and North Side canal companies and the American Falls Reservoir District.

The petitions ask for expansion of Water District No. 1 to include administration of groundwater and a moratorium on groundwater permits on any groundwater tributaries to the Snake River above Milner Dam.

The water district currently administers only surface water.

"The Magic Valley canal companies contend they have priority rights to water being diverted by irrigators in the Upper Valley and that diversions from the groundwater directly reduce flows in the Snake River or in storage reservoirs.

Adding groundwater wells to the water district's authority could double the assessments paid by the current water users, said District Watermaster Mon Carlson. There are about 2,500 wells in the affected area.

"There is no evidence these canal companies have been damaged," Carlson said. Even with increased diversions in the Upper Valley, stream flows at American Falls and Swan Falls dams have remained stable or increased slightly, he said.

"It is serious. It is serious. Groundwater water pumpers should feel threatened," said Robert Lee of Rexburg, former chairman of the Idaho Water Resources Board. There is not a groundwater pumper who would not be shut off in a series of dry years, if the moratorium is granted.

"You have to fight it."

Lee said the North Side and Twin Falls canal companies use an antiquated system for delivering water that needs an estimated $65 million in improvements, including reconstruction of Milner Dam.

Their system wastes tremendous amounts of water, and they're challenging one of the most efficient irrigation systems in the world, Lee said.

But Richard Smith, a Rexburg bench farmer and meeting organizer, said competition between pumpers and hydropower developers is the real issue.

Magic Valley canal companies have entered into an agreement with Idaho Power to finance reconstruction of Milner Dam, while the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission has approved a license for Idaho Power to build a hydroelectric generating plant there.

The attorneys representing the Magic Valley canal companies also represented Idaho Power in the Swan Falls lawsuit.

"Draw your own conclusions from that, Smith said.

Those at the meeting voted unanimously to organize a steering committee, and gave it authority to hire an attorney who can file an answer with the Department of Water Resources and ask for a continuance of a hearing scheduled Jan. 30 in Boise.

A decision from the department is expected next year.

Smith said.

Panel to tour nuclear waste sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., said Friday that five members of Congress will make a two-day tour next week of nuclear waste storage sites in New Mexico, Colorado and Idaho.

Richardson said the group will visit the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant near Carlsbad on Wednesday, Jan. 11, and on Thursday will tour the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory and the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant near Denver.

Joining Richardson for the tour will be Reps. Joe Skeen, R-N.M., Sen. Dan Claitor, D-N.M., D-Colo., and Richard Stallings, D-Idaho.

This trip will assist Congress in better understanding the gravity of our nation's nuclear waste problem by seeing first-hand the facilities and the states most affected by the Department of Energy's unwillingness to make WIPP safe," Richardson said. "While I share the concerns of those in Idaho and Colorado about the accumulation and temporary storage of nuclear waste, I will not compromise the safety of New Mexicans in our effort to pass a WIPP land withdrawal bill."

WIPP is the nation's first permanent repository for disposal of defense-related transuranic nuclear waste. The repository is located in underground salt beds southeast of Carlsbad.

The Idaho National Engineering Laboratory is a temporary storage site for nuclear wastes slated for permanent disposal at WIPP. Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus last October closed his state to further importation of nuclear waste and ordered that a hazardous load of wastes be returned to the Rocky Flats plant in Colorado.

Some of the waste generated at the Rocky Flats plutonium fabrication plant is temporarily stored on site. Colorado Gov. Roy Romer has said he will close that plant once its temporary waste storage capacity has been filled.

Rupert council discusses walk for Big Valley

By LONA RAYMOND Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — The City Council met this week to work on funding of a sidewalk for Big Valley School at an estimated cost of $4,155.

They are proposing that the School District provide 50 percent of the cost — about $2,077 — and the city would pay $1,385. It is hoped the remaining $693 would be raised by community action organizations and the Parent Teachers Association.

Mayor Bill Whitton, representing

The Farm-Times, kicked off the fund-raising by pledging $100.

In December a bid by Woodstone Inc. of $13,455 to remodel the electric garage facility was approved. That bid was rescinded this week, as the Council needs additional time for deliberation on whether to remodel the existing garage or build a new one.

Dealers have until Feb. 7 to enter bids for two police vehicles needed by the city.

Accident

engineers from Boise reassessed the damage Thursday and Friday.

Two I-84 overpasses that cross U.S. Highway 93 north of here were damaged Thursday when a southbound truck hauling a backhoe scraped their undercarriages. Damage to the eastbound overpass was minimal, but tension cables in three of the westbound overpass' six stringers were severed.

Officials hope to avoid fixing the whole span by restricting repairs to those three stringers, Thomas said. Meanwhile, authorities will continue to close I-84's right-hand westbound lane, which passes over the three weakened stringers. Since the inside lane will remain open, Thomas said "the inconvenience should be minimal."

One of U.S. 93's southbound lanes will also be closed until all the loose concrete has been knocked off the overpass' undercarriage, Thomas said. That should be accomplished by early next week.

The accident occurred Thursday afternoon when Tracy Irish, 24, of Jackpot, clipped the overpass with the boom of a backhoe he was hauling from Bellevue to Jackpot. No one was injured, although the impact sent chunks of concrete crashing to the ground.

Police cited Irish for driving an overweight vehicle.

The case, and they "just grabbed right into it," Munn said.

While in town, the show's representatives plan to interview investigating deputy Bill Tilson, examining the site where the body was found and piece together a re-enactment scene, Munn said. Authorities have a suspect in the case, but they have only a description of him, not a name.

Jobs

retail Christmas demand and expansion in business services held Idaho's adjusted jobless rate steady from November to December.

The Department of Employment's preliminary estimate put the December jobless rate at 4.7 percent, unchanged from November and still more than a half-point below the national jobless rate.

The economy's continued strength as the year ended produced an average unemployment rate for 1968 of 4.9 percent—the first time the annual average has slipped below 5 percent in a decade.

The average rate in 1967 was 5.7 percent, and that was the first time the rate had been below 6 percent in the 1960s.

At the same time, the state's total labor force grew to a record 443,700 and nearly 463,000 workers were on the job. Never have so many Idahoans gotten paychecks since the state began keeping records.

"1968 was a solid growth year for Idaho," Employment Director Julie Kilgour said. "Employment increased at the fastest rate in more than a decade."

Nationally, the unemployment rate dropped another notch to 5.3 percent, matching the 14-year low as service industries led the way in creating 279,000 new jobs over the month.

Science

Quann, a teacher for 13 years, operates the entire program on less than $1,000 a year. Bellevue and Halley parents hold fund-raisers, such as a recent Christmas auction, to gather money.

In Ketchum, Hemingway Elementary parents have set up a $38,000 endowment for their classes and they operate off the interest. This leaves Hemingway less vulnerable financially than Halley and Bellevue.

Parents can burn out on fund raising," Terry Thode, who teaches at Hemingway, said.

Blaine County's elementary science programs began there with the onset of the school's MESH (multi-media environmental science and humanities) program.

Students in the MESH room can learn and work with a variety of equipment, from simple computers to robots and lasers. Thode describes MESH as "fantastic, a place where students get tremendous hands-on experience."

Enthusiasm and success has not wavered, even in MESH's fifth year. The kids are even more turned on now," Thode said. "At Hemingway, a sixth grader graduates computer friendly to decide what technology they can use in their lives."

After the success of MESH, Halley Elementary followed in 1967 with its science technology activity room, or STAR program. Joy Blangewicz teaches Halley students concepts of science, which include testing the acidity levels of aspirin and work with the rooms' Apple Macintosh computer.

Bellevue's STAR TRAC program emerged this year and is the least "hi-tech" of the three.

That's part of the its success,

Quann said.

In Quann's project room, remodeled for him by Bellevue's parents, the shelves are filled with empty milk cartons, baby food jars, yogurt cartons and other discarded household items collected by his students. Much of his time is spent working with these items to prepare for class.

Quann's experiments and lessons are designed to keep cost down and concepts simple. "I try to get the kids to understand the world around them," said Quann. "We learn about osmosis and gravity and pollution, only we don't use those words."

Quann said parents stop him on the street and tell him their children talk about class experiments at home.

"The secret of his success," said Quann, "is you have to be able to think a little bit like a kid."

What's what

Marriage in Athens
Q. Why did marriages in ancient Athens last longer than marriages in other Greek cities of the time?
A. Athens law required divorced husbands to give back the brides' dowries.

Richard II introduced the handkerchief into England. Didn't do his reputation much good. His peers thought him a sissy. Or their word for it.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You rise today to a New Moon in Capricorn. Financial investment plans can be made. In the evening relationships may be vulnerable because of increased sensitivities and defensive feelings.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): An inspiring romantic connection may be under stress. Put a new slant on weekend plans. Organize yourself and make lists before shopping.

TALIBUS (April 20 to May 20): The New Moon events financial progress. A mixup occurs over mate's plans. Chores and errands may have to be postponed again.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): The weekend's tempo starts slowly. A short trip finds you farther from home than planned. Morning hours are good for shopping.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You are full of energy today. Follow budget plans. Enthusiasm for social activities keeps your evening fun. Be patient with children.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Avoid careless actions. Keep maintenance plans intact. Social affairs may be disappointing. Real-to-relieve any emotional strain.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Today is a welcome relief from yesterday's hectic pace. Stay close to home, and catch up on neglected personal LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Little annoyances have you on edge. This is not the time to test your partner's intentions. Shop for bargains. Mix with friends later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Fun and frolic may not get off the ground. Other activities prove worthwhile. The evening promises to be seasonally fulfilling.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Try to collect what is owed you. A weird friend may try to influence you. Creative projects require your immediate attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): The same Saturday scenario is becoming a bore. Ditch the kids, and spend some time alone with your mate at your special place.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Close relatives may have more advice than you can use. Be a good listener, but leave it at that. Peace of mind is better than arguing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Tweede-Dee and Tweede-Dum may make a visit today. Be hospitable (with tongue in cheek). Later spend time with children.

If Your Child Is Born Today: He or she will be highly motivated, success-oriented and competent in business. Somewhat of a loner, your child will prefer to make his or her own choices and follow self-made rules. Able to lead others, your progeny will be attracted to causes and politics.

Longest-serving state official to retire

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Thad Eure, the nation's longest-serving state official and who calls himself the "oldest rat in the Democratic barn," on Friday announced he would retire as North Carolina's secretary of state.

THAD EURE Ends career

"He is the essence of North Carolina — its symbol," Rufus Edmisten, a Democrat elected to succeed the 89-year-old Eure, said Thursday. "Governors come and go, but Mr. Thad has remained."

State officials will sport red bowties — one of the flamboyant secretary's many trademarks — at a ceremony honoring him in the Capitol on Friday.

Eure is retiring voluntarily from a post to no one has been able to wrest from him since he was elected in 1936 when he ran on the campaign slogan, "Give a young man a chance."

His term has spanned the administrations of 12 governors and nine presidents. President Reagan wrote Eure in 1987 congratulating him on serving longer than any state government official in the nation.

"Still, he is reluctant to discuss his feelings about his departure, saying only, 'I haven't thought too much about that.'"

Eddie 'The Eagle' sustains injuries ski jumping

CHELLENHAM, England (AP) — Ski jumper Eddie "The Eagle" Edwards, the world's best-loved Olympic loser, has been hospitalized again for treatment of injuries he sustained in an Austrian training session.

"After leaving an Innsbruck hospital Thursday, Edwards returned home to western England and checked into Cheltenham General Hospital."

Edwards broke his collar bone and bruised a kidney when he took a tumble Tuesday while training for a World Cup ski event.

In a statement, Cheltenham General Hospital said Edwards was being kept for observation: "It is not expected to be for long, probably a few days. He is comfortable."

In last winter's Calgary Olympics, the 24-year-old plasterer came last in the 90-meter and 70-meter events and rocketed to instant fame under the tag "Eddie The Eagle."

Zsa Zsa Gabor, Delta part company

ATLANTA (AP) — Zsa Zsa Gabor says she never wants to hear the name of Delta Air Lines again — and Delta officials probably feel the same way about her.

Police escorted the 69-year-old entertainer off a Delta flight Thursday night after she refused to keep her dogs in "travel kennels," an airline spokesman said.

The confrontation occurred during a stopover in Atlanta. Airline officials said Ms. Gabor, who was traveling from Los Angeles to her home in Palm Beach, Fla., let two Shih Tzu dogs out of their kennels in the first class section of the Boeing 767.

"The Delta agent came aboard, and she asked her six times to comply. She refused to comply. Each time he was responded to with considerable vulgarity."

Atlanta police were then called to escort Ms. Gabor off the aircraft.

Ms. Gabor contended the dogs were not disturbing anyone, and said the Delta agent "was screaming at me like I was some criminal."

"I was so upset you can't imagine. This is not the end of this," she said before boarding an Eastern Airlines flight to complete the trip.

Jackpot winner sets up charity foundation

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Sheelah Ryan, winner of the nation's single biggest lottery jackpot, has formed a foundation to help the Madonna, Penn plan end to turbulent marriage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sean Penn and singer Madonna have separated and are planning to end their turbulent, three-year marriage, a spokesman for the pugnacious actor said Thursday.

The announcement follows a nullified divorce filing from late 1987 and several well-publicized fights between the hot-tempered Penn and photographers, one of which led to a 60-day prison term.

New divorce rumors have swirled around the couple for months. "It is true," spokesman John West said. "Sean and Madonna are separated. They plan to divorce and it's amicable."

Bob Merlis, a spokesman for Madonna's record label, Warner

Bros., said that Madonna brought the divorce action. "I assume (the divorce was filed) in Los Angeles," he said.

Telephone messages left with Penn's lawyers were not immediately returned.

Madonna, a singer best known as the "Material Girl," won stardom with her hits "Burdese" and "Like a Virgin." Her latest album for Warner Bros., due out late next month, is titled "Like a Prayer."

Penn, who has starred in the movies "Colors," "The Falcon and the Snowman," "Bad Boys," and "Fast Times at Ridgemont High," is appearing in on the Los Angeles stage in "Hurlyburly," a play about Hollywood decadence.

African students boycott class

BEIJING (AP) — African students boycotted classes at a Beijing college for a third day Friday to demand China release three Africans detained after a racial brawl in Nanking.

The 600-boycotting students at Beijing Languages Institute demanded protection after Chinese students at the school distributed anti-African leaflets. The Chinese claim an African male student assaulted a Chinese woman student there Jan. 1, a charge the Africans deny.

The students also called on Beijing to change the Chinese name for Africa, which literally means "bad continent."

Officials at Beijing Languages Institute met representatives of boycotting students Thursday and Friday but reached no agreement.

African diplomats from Beijing arrived Friday in Nanking, where a Dec. 24 clash between African and Chinese students triggered protests and racial unrest in several other cities.

The delegation included Congolese Ambassador Gabriel Emoungue and Kwadwo Kwakye, acting head of the Ghana Embassy.

Czech experts to investigate crash

LONDON (AP) — Bomb experts from Czechoslovakia come to Britain next week to help establish whether Czech-made Semtex plastic explosives blew up Pan Am Flight 103, the Foreign Office said Friday.

Czechoslovakia has denied Semtex was responsible, but offered to send experts to join the forensic investigation, and the British government are grateful for this offer, the Foreign Office said.

Yasser Arafat was quoted as telling a Saudi newspaper that his Palestine Liberation Organization had "plenty of important information" on the Dec. 21 bombing which killed all 259 people aboard the jumbo jet and 11 on the ground.

The PLO was "cooperating with a number of European states and the United States in a joint international bid to expose the perpetrators," Arafat was quoted by Al-Madina as saying. He did not elaborate.

Tighter security measures aimed primarily at U.S. airlines went into effect at all British airports, including more rigorous luggage searches.

Part of Heathrow Airport's Terminal 3 departure building was evacuated for 20 minutes while bomb squad officers checked an unattended black plastic bag near the Air-India check-in desk. It turned out to be harmless.

In the Scottish town of Lockerbie, where parts of the wings and fuselage fell, police said another 20 bodies were released to relatives Friday, bringing the total released so far to 106.

Radicals form counter-PLO organization

JERUSALEM (AP) — Arab radicals announced Friday the formation of a new anti-PLO alliance in the occupied territories that includes Moslem fundamentalists and pro-Syrian extremists opposed to Yasser Arafat's recent peace overtures.

Palestinians in Bethlehem and the surrounding Christian villages, meanwhile, observed a general strike to mark the day Orthodox Christians celebrate Christmas. Graffiti painted on buildings called for an escalation of the Arab uprising.

Also Friday, police said they suspected Palestinian nationalists were responsible for the killing of an Israeli shot to death in the occupied West Bank the night before.

Kim: Korea needs stability and democracy

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Opposition leader Kim Dae-jung said Friday that South Koreans want stability after years of political turmoil and President Roh Tae-woo must keep his promise of full democracy to ensure that stability.

"People want to see stability. Stability is the most important issue for our people," Kim said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Koreans, however, are also determined to have democracy after years of military rule and there won't be political peace if the government fails to meet their expectations, he said. "Without democracy we cannot have stability," he said.

Kim, leader of the Party for Peace and Democracy, also said he plans to visit Moscow for talks on improving relations. He also called on the United States to show it fully supports democracy in South Korea.

Police on alert after hangings

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Thousands of police and paramilitary troops patrolled the capital and three northern states Friday after militants threatened to avenge two Sikhs hanged in connection with the 1984 assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Sikh shopkeepers closed their doors in New Delhi, Bombay and across the Sikh-dominated state of Punjab, officials said. A bus was set afire and two bombs were defused Friday in Punjab, but no casualties were reported.

Mrs. Gandhi was shot by two Sikh bodyguards Oct. 31, 1984, apparently to revenge an army raid she ordered on the Golden Temple, the holiest Sikh shrine. More than 1,200 people died, most of them Sikhs.

Satwant Singh, the lone surviving gunman, and Kehar Singh, convicted of helping plan the assassination, were hanged Friday morning.

Moslems still hold garrison

ZAMBOANGA CITY, Philippines (AP) — Troops backed by tanks and armored personnel carriers stormed a military garrison Friday but failed to "distodge" Moslem captors who killed a general they were holding hostage.

Military Chief of Staff Gen. Renato de Villa said he feared a second officer-held hostage since Thursday also was slain.

He ordered troops to prepare another assault and said the Moslems "will die fighting."

Officials said an unknown number of people died and at least five people were wounded in the assault, which was launched after the military confirmed that Brig. Gen. Eduardo Batalla was killed.

Batalla and his chief of staff, Col. Romeo Abandan, were captured Thursday by eight Moslem policemen and about seven of their supporters.

Eagles go on 132-point scoring binge

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — This was claimed to be perhaps the best shooting men's basketball team the College of Southern Idaho has had in a long while.

You'll probably get no argument from the College of Eastern Utah on that point.

The undefeated Golden Eagles hit 45 of 68 attempts from the field, put eight men in double scoring figures and rolled into a 132-79 Region 18 junior college victory Friday night.

"There wasn't a lot out there tonight to get upset about," said CSI Coach Fred Trenkle after watching his Eagles dominate all phases of the game but free throw shooting. "And they've got some talent, some real athletes. We feel pretty good about this performance."

"It was a great, great performance but the people who were here tonight are going to wonder what's going to happen down there next month and just escape with our lives at all."

That sentiment was rather echoed by CEU coach Ron Stubbs who noted "they're just too big for us — 6-7, 6-8 and we're trying to play them at 6-2 and 6-3. But well be there in February. I don't know exactly how but we'll be there."

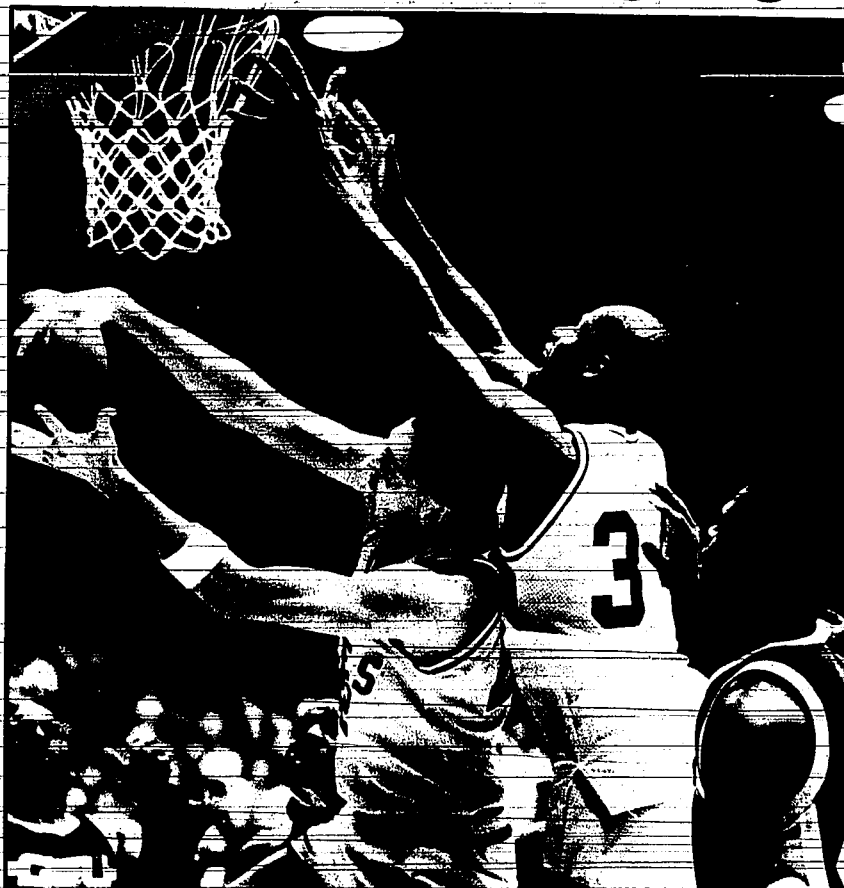

It didn't matter what CSI tried, it worked because of that red-hot shooting percentage. It was especially torrid in the closing three minutes when they hit five of six three-point attempts — and, of course, tailed in the one they missed.

Trenkle also was pleased to see that 6-foot, 6-inch sophomore Cliff Martin was keeping up with his New Year's resolution of working hard every second on the floor.

Martin wound up with only 11 points but he had 16 rebounds — 12 in the first half — and was a big cog in helping the Eagles out to a 64-41 halftime lead.

Enjoying his best night of his college career was 6-7 freshman Corey Warner who had a career-high 20 points, a number of steals and some good fast-break wrap-ups.

Martin played a man's game. Warner got out in the lanes for steals and filled the (fast break) lane for some points. Both our point guards (Dave Henderson and Anthony Williams) played well. But you can't

Bruins bury Burley in 2nd half

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

BURLEY — It counts as only one game in the standings but so different were the halves, it seemed like two separate contests.

Chris Smith and Swede Trenkle split 24 third-quarter points Friday to fuel a 35-point rebound that Twin Falls exploded past Burley 92-64 in a Region III boys basketball contest.

It was the fifth straight win for the Bruins and their first regional win of the season, leaving them at 6-4 for the season.

A second-period lull, which saw Burley carry a 37-35 lead into the locker room on Sam Shaw's 10-foot jumper with four seconds left, left the outcome in doubt.

But only temporarily. Jason Astorquia, who scored 15 of his game-high 22 in the first half, tied the game in 26 seconds, opening a 17-2 run. Capitalizing on four straight Bobcat turnovers, Smith added a putback. Jeremy Willey hit a short jumper and Trenkle held to two points in the opening 18 minutes, made it 43-37 for Twin Falls.

Shaw broke the ice for Burley at the six-minute mark but Willey replied with a tip and Astorquia added a bucket to regain the offensive momentum.

"That was real nice," Twin Falls coach John Astorquia, but the second period wasn't so nice. We weren't in sync in that period and everybody from Burley got into the act." After a series of first-quarter lead changes, the Bruins moved to a 29-20 lead with less than three minutes gone in the second, only to be outscored 17-8 to the halftime buzzer.

Treg Holbrook started Burley back followed by Jeff Garrett and Shaw. Twin Falls junior guard Forrest Ward steadied the Bruins momentarily on three of four from the foul line but it was all Bobcats thereafter except for

No bowls, no TV for Oklahoma State

By OWEN FANTAUZZA
The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla. — No bowls for three years. No TV for two. But one more year of Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders. That was the word Friday at Oklahoma State, placed on four years' probation by the NCAA.

The football team was banned from bowl games for three years and television appearances for two years as part of its penalty for recruiting violations. One more infraction and the Cowboys could draw the "death penalty."

"I'll be back at Oklahoma State next year," the junior running back said. One NCAA investigator said the penalty was the most severe since Southern Methodist football in 1987 received the most extreme punishment — the death penalty, which shut down the program. • See NCAA on Page B2

Broken thumb idles Toolson

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Twin Falls' Andy Toolson, Brigham Young's leading rebounder, suffered a broken left thumb in the team's Western Athletic Conference opener that ended with an 88-84 loss to New Mexico.

Toolson, a 6-foot-6 forward-guard, has been sidelined indefinitely, but the injury could lead to a six-week hiatus and possibly season-ending surgery, Ralph Zobel, associate sports information director, said Friday.

He said Toolson was uncertain when he was hurt during Thursday's game in Albuquerque, but he reported feeling pain after the last play.

A cast has been placed on Toolson's arm and he will consult with team physicians when the Cougars return from their WAC match against Texas-Palo Verde Saturday.

If surgery is necessary, he will definitely miss the rest of the season, he said. Coach Laddell Andersen was unsure of Toolson's replacement, but he was considering sophomore guard Mike Herring, Zobel said. Toolson has averaged 81 re-

NFC: McMahon will lead Bears

By DAVE GOLDBERG
The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Call the NFC title game the game for the championship of the half-decade, at least.

While the upstart Buffalo Bills and Cincinnati Bengals meet for the chance to represent the AFC in the Jan. 22 Super Bowl, consider the cast when the Chicago Bears and San Francisco 49ers meet at Soldier Field Sunday.

Two high-profile coaches radically different in style but markedly similar in success — cool, intellectual Bill Walsh of the 49ers vs. volatile, emotional Mike Ditka of the Bears. Ditka, the victim of a mid-season heart attack, Walsh considering stepping down after a decade running the 49ers.

Two high-profile quarterbacks — Joe Montana, who won a Super Bowl in 1981 and 1982, and is now seeking his third at 32 vs. Jim McMahon, who quarterbacked the Bears to the 1986 championship.

McMahon, who publicly lobbied to start at quarterback in the NFC championship game, was given the starting job Friday by Ditka.

Jim McMahon will start at quarterback, Ditka said, ending a week of suspense by naming him to start over ailing Mike Tomczak, who started against Philadelphia last week. He's (McMahon) "the healthiest," Ditka said. I don't know if he can take the hits.

AFC: Buffalo braves the 'Jungle'

By BARRY WILNER
The Associated Press

CINCINNATI — John Fogerty, a noted baseball fan as well as a rock music superstar, certainly wasn't thinking about rampaging Bills and Bengals when he wrote "Jungle Through the Jungle." Fogerty has limited his sports-music association to the 1986 hit "Centerfield."

All week, however, Fogerty's piercing guitar work on Creedence Clearwater Revival's early 1970s hit has been heard throughout Cincinnati.

On Sunday, when the Bengals play the Buffalo Bills for the AFC Championship, Riverfront Stadium — better known in these parts as the Jungle — will be rocking to the tune.

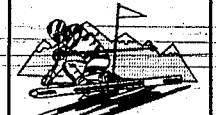

It's a very emotional setting, Anthony Munoz, Cincinnati's All-Pro tackle, said. "The fans are pumped up on the whole place is going crazy and that has to carry over to us."

The Bengals are 9-0 at home this season. Only the Bills could match that home record — but they have to go on safari in the last step toward the Super Bowl.

"You still have to play the game," Munoz said. "There was a lot of talk about wanting to play them at home. When we beat Washington (in the season finale) and they lost to the Colts, it meant we would play them here if we met by the first round."

"Here we are." Kickoff time is 10:30 a.m. MST. NBC, channels 7 and 38 in the Magic Valley, will televise it live.

Munoz won't be hard to find. Not that Bruce Smith, Fred Smerlas, Shane Conner and Cornelius Bennett will be looking for him.

Ski report

Sun Valley — Sun Valley picked up 11 inches of new snow overnight Thursday and another 3 inches Friday morning, bringing the total to 58 inches on the top of Bald Mountain, with 50 inches at mid-slope with powder on all runs. Temperatures ranging from 5 to 20 degrees on Baldy and Dollar and winds gusting to 30 miles per hour Friday drove the wind chill favor to sub-zero, however.

All lifts and runs will be in operation today, although crews will be working to clear the bowls. Hours today: 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Hammerley — Open today, no report.

Soldier Mountain — Soldier added 10 inches of snow overnight Thursday and Friday morning on top of a base of 65 inches at the lodge and 65 inches on top of the mountain. Conditions at the resort were cold and windy Friday. The access road has been plowed, but snow tires or chains are advised. Bus service will run from Twin Falls and Jerome today and Sunday, leaving Blue Lakes Mall in Twin Falls at 7:30 a.m., Lincoln Plaza in Jerome at 8 a.m., M&W Market in Wendell at 8:20 and Gooding Junior High School at 8:30. Hours today: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Magie Mountain — Eight inches of new snow fell on Magie overnight Thursday, bringing the total of over 70 inches at the top of the mountain and 50 inches at the lodge. Dejong's shooting sparks CSI

TWIN FALLS — It definitely was a first game back emphasized Colorado of Southern Idaho Coach Ben Steier after watching his women knock off College of Eastern Utah 65-63 to remain undefeated in Region 18 basketball play Friday night.

Stroud spent the night substituting and trying to find a combination that would click. But other than what is becoming the norm of reheat-Hellie Dejong shooting, inconsistency was the rule.

Dejong had so many turnovers, 50 many defensive and mental errors: It was just sloppy, Stroud continued.

But, he admits, at least the first one-back is behind now and things might brighten up when Colorado Northwestern shows up at 5:15 p.m. today at the CSI gymnasium. That game will be followed by a men's battle between the teams.

Dejong, who began hitting just about everything five games ago, hit her first six attempts against CEU and joined with Monica Gustin to pretty well guarantee the Eagles would never halt.

Dejong opened the game with a splash, which CSI immediately took note of. Tom Ample's Chubb, CSI went for keeps and Gustin hit the next six points of the game.

But as Stroud pointed out, the Eagles never hit the full mesh of its offense although it was never seriously threatened with defeat.

In the second half, Audra Urie started picking up points on steals and fast breaks to end the night with 16 points—Dejong had 22 and Gustin 18.

Hagerman moves past Shoshone

OAKLEY — Hagerman moved percentage points ahead of Shoshone in the Magic Valley Conference boys' basketball race here Friday night with a 61-59 victory over Friday night.

The win left the Pirates at 6-2 for the season and 3-0 in conference, while Shoshone is 6-1 and 2-0.

The Pirates kept the lead, although not a comfortable one, for all but a few minutes of the first and fourth quarters. The Hornets managed to tie the game once in the late going and got within three points with a minute remaining. But Oakley missed two shots in the last 45 seconds.

Sophomore forward Ryan Pharris led the Pirates with 28 points, including 10 of 13 free throw shooting in the second half. Junior forward Jason Warr was 9-for-12 from the charity stripe after intermission and ended up with 13 points.

Carl Judd paced the Hornets with 21 points.

The loss dropped Oakley to 2-8 for the season and 1-2 in conference. Hagerman won the junior varsity

With 20 seconds left and the score tied at 47, the youngster let loose an errant pass that resulted in a turnover. But 10 seconds later he made a steal and drove the length of the court for the winning layup.

Jackpot trailed by narrow margins most of the first three quarters but outscore Eureka 25-16 in the final period.

Because of the three-year ban on postseason play, NCAA rules would allow players who still have three years of eligibility, or less, remaining to transfer to other schools and play.

Barry Sanders could play for anybody he wants next year, NCAA enforcement director David Berst said.

"But Sanders said he wouldn't abandon the Spartans," he finished the season range 11th at 10:2, not even for the NFL.

"It would be nice to sign for all those millions. I'm sure you can appreciate that. That can wait," he told students at Wichita North High School in Kansas, where he and his brother, Byron, played football.

Barry Sanders will be back at Oklahoma State next year, and they won't be able to tackle him then, either, Coach Pat Jones said.

The penalty comes three weeks after the NCAA hit the University of Oklahoma with three years' probation. The Sooners cannot play in bowl games after the 1989 and 1990 seasons, will be kept off television in 1989 and must reduce their scholarships and paid recruiting visits.

The NCAA's Committee on Infractions found more than 40 recruiting violations, including the purchase of cars and cash payments made to football players by boosters.

Oklahoma State's football staffs and athletic representatives have been operating without regard for NCAA rules for most of the period since 1972, the NCAA's report said.

In addition to the bowl and TV bans, the committee limited to 20 the number of scholarships Oklahoma

State can offer through 1992. Schools usually can offer 25. It also slashed the number of paid recruiting visits the school can offer the next two years.

John R. Campbell, Oklahoma State president, said the university would not appeal the sanctions. He said no current members of the Cowboy coaching program were involved in the violations.

Campbell said steps would be taken to ensure additional recruiting violations do not occur. He said he will personally check into the background of assistant football coaches considered for employment in the future.

Jones expressed regret for the incidents that led to the probation, but said he was proud of the football team and others at Oklahoma State.

Utah 106 Chicago 92

CHICAGO (AP) — Karl Malone scored 20 of his second-half points during a decisive 16-4 third-quarter run and Thurl Bailey came off the bench to score 33 points as the Utah Jazz held off the Chicago Bulls, 106-92, Friday night.

Bailey, who scored 20 points in the first half and Malone, who added 30 points, helped the Jazz win for only the fifth time on the road against 11 losses.

The Bulls' Michael Jordan was held to a pair of first-quarter baskets and eight points in the second quarter. Scottie Pippen scored 17 points for Chicago but center Bill Cartwright was held scoreless. Jordan finished with 27 points.

After Malone's 13-point third quarter had given the Jazz an 60-58 lead, Bailey and Malone combined for 14 fourth-quarter points.

Both coaches went to the bench over the final eight minutes and the Twin Falls lead stood at 74-49.

5:12 left when Stan Burton tailed a miss. In all, 12 Bruins scored.

Elks boxing club makes appearance — The Twin Falls Elks Lodge Boxing Club will make its first Magic Valley appearance of the current season tonight at Jerome Junior High School with a card that will include boxers from Twin Falls, Jerome and Rupert against fighters from the Boise area and Utah.

The event is scheduled to get under way at 7:30 in the Jerome Junior High gym.

The Elks' two undefeated boxers, 176-pound Jeff Pedrow from Jerome and 119-pound Mel Carmel of Jerome, will top a fight card that will include at least eight bouts.

Other club members who will fight tonight include Johnny Valdez, a 139-pounder from Rupert; Estrada, a 147-pounder from Twin Falls; James Carnell, a 105-pounder from Jerome; Kevin Capps, a 95-pounder from Jerome; and Frankie Gonzales, a 147-pounder. Admission will be $3.50 for adults and $2 for students.

This will be the first of three cards that will feature the Elks' boxers fighting in the Magic Valley this season. They also have bouts tentatively scheduled on Feb. 4 and March 4.

Winfield takes on Steinbrenner — NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Winfield used his boss, New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner, for more than $1 million that the outfielder said is owed to his foundation, which fights drug abuse.

In a lawsuit filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Manhattan, Winfield charged that Steinbrenner has not been in compliance with an agreement to pay $300,000 a year to the David M. Winfield Foundation. The suit seeks $450,000 that Winfield says Steinbrenner has not paid in quarterly payments owed since Sept. 1, 1987. In addition, the suit seeks the balance owed, for a total of $1,050,000, for the 10-year life of the contract.

According to a statement issued by the Winfield Foundation, this is the third time it has had to sue Steinbrenner for non-compliance. In 1982 and 1983, Steinbrenner was sued and paid the full amount owed, the statement said.

Elks sponsor free throw contests

The Jerome and Twin Falls Elks lodges will sponsor their annual free throw contests tonight.

The Elks' free shoots are for boys and girls ages 8 through 13. The Jerome contest will be for residents of Jerome County, the Twin Falls shoot for residents of Twin Falls County.

The Jerome contest is scheduled for 1 p.m. in the Jerome High School gymnasium, while the Twin Falls

Arizona succumbs to Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Todd Light scored a career-high 35 points, including 11 straight for Stanford down the stretch, as the Cardinal overcame a 21-4 deficit and beat No. 8 Arizona 83-78 in a Pac-10 game Thursday night.

Light hit 27 points in the second half and made all 15 of his free throws as Stanford upended the Wildcats at home for the second straight year in boisterous Maples Pavilion. Last year's 82-74 triumph cost Arizona the No. 1 ranking.

Sean Elliott hit five 3-pointers and scored 35 points, one short of his career high, for Arizona, which also got a career-high 16 points from redshirt freshman Sean Rooks.

The Wildcats fell to 8-2 overall and 3-1 in the Pac-10 and had their 14-game conference winning streak snapped, while Stanford improved to 9-3 and 2-1.

Light gave Stanford the lead for good with 7:27 remaining as he tied the odds on a 1-on-3 fast break for a layup and three-point play that made it 63-60. He then hit four more free throws and two baskets in the next 2:14 for a 71-62 Cardinal lead.

Arizona fought back and closed to 80-78 on a layup by Elliott with 40 contest will be held at 9 a.m. in the College of Southern Idaho gym.

Girls and boys will shoot in separate contests. The winners will be determined by the most shots made out of 25 attempts from the free throw line. Eight- and 9-year-olds will shoot from a position 4 feet in front of the hoop.

Trophies will be awarded for the first- and second-place winners in each age group; the first-place winners advancing to the district competition.

There is no entry fee, but participants must wear warm or foot-cold shoes.

Further information about the Jerome contest can be obtained by phoning Linda Ekren at 324-5428. Information about the Twin Falls contest is available from Karl Cunningham at 788-2678.

College basketball

Greg Anthony, who suffered from muscle spasms this week, added 11 points and 10 assists for Nevada-Las Vegas, while Steve Mason added another 10 for the Rebels.

The Aggies were led by Johnny Roberson and Steve McGlothlin, who both scored nine points.

The Runnin' Rebels, 9-2 and 4-0 in the Big West, have defeated the Aggies, 8-4 and 1-1, in their last 12 meetings.

UCLA 97 Oregon 66

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Trevor Wilson scored 24 points, 16 in the first half, to help UCLA to a 97-66 Pacific 10 Conference basketball romp over Oregon Thursday night.

The Bruins, 3-0 in the conference and 8-2 overall, never trailed and led by as many as 33 points.

Pooh Richardson added 21 points, including four 3-pointers, for the Bruins.

Oregon, 0-1 in the Pac-10 and 5-6 for the season, was led by Keith Reynolds with 17 points. Brett Coffey added 15 for the Ducks, 11, in the first half. The loss was the third straight for Oregon.

Pro basketball

Phoenix, 13-2 on its home floor this season, went ahead to stay at 24-22 on Gilliam's jumper with 9:29 remaining in the first quarter. That started an 11-6 run that put the Suns up 32-28 at period's end.

L.A. Lakers 118 Miami 86

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Orlando Woolridge scored 13 of his season-high 29 points in the third quarter and Magic Johnson added 25 as the Los Angeles Lakers dealt the Miami Heat its fifth straight defeat, 118-86 Friday night, and improved the Bulls' best home record to 12-0.

Byron Scott scored 22 points for the Lakers, who have won 19 consecutive regular season games at the Forum, dating back to a one-point loss against Denver on March 25. Rony Seikaly paced Miami with 16 points.

Milwaukee 128 Washington 121

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ricky Pierce scored four of his 29 points in the second overtime Friday night, leading the Milwaukee Bucks to a 128-121 victory over the Washington Bullets. Pierce had scored three of Milwaukee's first five points.

pick out any one. Who didn't play well tonight? It was just the kind of performance that shows us what we can do with concentration and intensity. Thank you."

The team missed the school scoring record by three points and, surprisingly, could find that record at the foul line, where it managed 21 of 32 free throws, but was shooting just over 78 percent this point.

Oh well, you can't have everything.

CEU battled the Eagles hard throughout the night, but were particularly pensive early when team Captain and Larry Langdon provided the scoring that kept the visitors point mark with 8:12 to play on a Warner tip.

The Eagles thus remained undefeated in regional play with Colorado Northwestern coming in tonight at 7:30 p.m.

North Idaho kept pace in the Northern Division race, one behind CSI, with a three-point win over Snow White Ricks absorbed a 110-90 Rinking at Dixie.

CEU sliced back to within 19 points early in the second half but CSI inched back out to a 24-point lead with 10:07 to play.

The Eagles first hit 20 points at 4:26 on a Warner steal with 6:06 left in the half and then nursed that to 64-41 in the closing minute when Henderson hit twice and Cino Guidon had a putback at the buzzer.

Young bides time on bench, waiting for a legend to retire

By CHRIS DUFRESNE
Los Angeles Times

SANTA CLARA, Calif. — A few minutes into Steve Young's last championship game appearance, in Tempe, Ariz., a truck driver in Los Angeles was heading toward the airport with orders to tear the uniforms off a team's back if it decided to return home later that night.

Young lost the 1984 Western Conference title game to George Allen's desert rats, the Arizona Outlaws, and avoided the embarrassment of advancing to one league's version of a Super Bowl with its equipment confiscated, locked in storage because of payments past due.

Not even Steve Young believes he could have played the United States Football League title game that year without a helmet.

"I'd love to know who's wearing our pants now," Young said this week. "Somebody's probably dyed them."

Whenever Young gets a slight case of the blues, and he has one now because the San Francisco 49ers plan to start Sunday's NFC championship game without him, he wonders what became of his old uniform pants.

Every quarterback in controversy needs a release.

Mike Tomczak admitted seeking counsel when his situation in Chicago became unbearable. Well, for two seasons, Steve Young leaned back on a couch known as the Express, a sporting aberration that blipped off football's radar screen in 1985.

Young, a gambler, was supposed to secure the USFL's title, but he realized all too soon that he and his hyper-inflated, over-publicized contract did far more harm to the league than good. Young admitted once in a moment of guilt that he may have indeed "ruined football" before his 23rd birthday. "Maybe in the long run, it'll be the thing that will make me a hands-off situation that comes along," Young said this week of his USFL experience. "Because I don't think there's anything I haven't seen. Well, maybe the Super Bowl's the only thing I haven't seen yet. And maybe I'll see that next week."

"I'm a little better person for it, if you're looking at it in those terms. How can you not learn about yourself about people about politics, business, sports? I've seen it all. Well, not all, but I feel like I've seen a lot."

Yet, nothing previously seen or felt compares to the angst Young is experiencing now — playing backup to the great Joe Montana. Not Express owner Bill Odenbuck poking Young in the chest with his stubby index finger or the water company shutting off the Express's spigots, or Young's playing running back in his last USFL game.

"Of all the things I've been through, watching is the worst," he said. "Because at least then you were playing. You could go out and compete."

The subject of Young's life-of-futility was not always his brush with the sporting world's richest and most eligible bachelors, his latest engagement having collapsed at the last moment.

Young's financial gatherings are legendary: He escaped the USFL with a cool $4 million stashed into his faded blue jeans for less than two weeks. He instead quietly signed another deal with Tampa Bay of the NFL for $5.4 million over six years. "All that said, money and Steve Young have never been comfortable partners. Money prefers silk in its shirts. Young fancies the ones with alligators. Money drives a Mercedes. Young squeezed 270,000 miles out of his family's 1985 Oldsmobile before it finally died last year of natural causes. Young has since purchased a deep-demonstrator-floor model. It was cheaper.

Young has always seemed more iffy, prospective than material, and more pressing than a lifetime of riches at the moment is a daily and delicate battle for the starting quarterback job with the 32-year-old Montana, who has outplayed Young's threat to his throne and seized the moment.

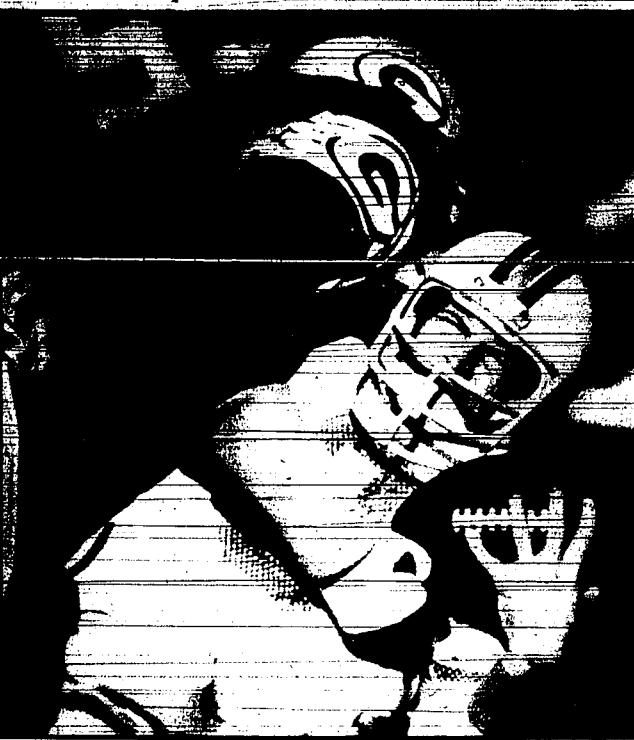

"I think he's made Joe that much more competitive," 49ers Coach Bill Walsh said of Young. "Joe knows he's got a great talent right alongside of him."

Thus far, Montana has held off the charge. In 1987, substiting for an injured Montana, who was returning from back surgery, Young finished with a stunning quarterback rating of 120.8, 10 touchdowns and no interceptions. "God—enough to beat—nah, Jay Schroeder, maybe, but not Montana."

In last year's divisional playoff game against Minnesota, Young was summoned from the bench to replace the struggling Montana with the 49ers trailing, 27-10. Young nearly made it a game, completing 12 of 17 passes for 158 yards and a touchdown while rushing for 72 yards.

Some thought the quarterback torch had been passed, considering Montana's age and injuries. Young figured his time had come.

"I feel I'm coming into the main years of my career and that it's important that I play," Young said. "I think Bill knows that. So we need to take a look at some of that. That's the bottom line. To stand there and watch is... "Killing you?" "Yeah."

Walsh hired Young, who was unhappy in Tampa Bay, in 1987 to back up the ailing Montana. AP Laserphoto

Habitual opponents Aikman, Peete team up in Hula today

By STEVE ELLIOTT
The Associated Press

HONOLULU — Troy Aikman of UCLA and Rodney Peete of Southern Cal competitors for the Heisman Trophy and Pacific 10 Conference championships, join forces in the Hula Bowl today.

Aikman and Peete will split time at quarterback for the West in the college all-star classic, featuring 68 players who have completed their NCAA eligibility.

"For two years, I've been competing against him. It feels good to be on the same side," said Peete, who passed for 2,654 yards and 18 touchdowns to lead the Trojans to the Pac-10 championship this season.

"Troy and I are friends. There's no rivalry between him and myself," Peete said. "We're just trying to have a good time and play the best football we can play."

Aikman, who passed for 2,599 yards and 23 touchdowns for the Bruins, is likely to be the first player selected in the NFL draft.

Peete was second in Heisman Trophy voting behind Barry Sanders of Oklahoma State, and Aikman was third. Kickoff time is 2 p.m. MST. NBC, channels 7 and 38 in the Magic Valley, will broadcast it live.

Although many of the nation's best college football players seek the Hula Bowl as a challenge to impress pro scouts, Aikman and Peete said they don't expect their performances to affect their status as pro prospects.

"I've played 24 games the last two years with UCLA, and I think that speaks for itself," Aikman said. "I don't think the Hula Bowl is going to make me or break me."

"Both of us — we were talking — we were here to have fun and have a good time meeting the great players we play against across the country," Peete said.

Aikman and Peete face an East defense with six All-Americans, including award winners Tracy Rocker of Auburn and Derrick Thomas of Alabama.

Rocker, a 6-foot-3, 270-pound defensive tackle, won the Outland Trophy for the outstanding interior lineman and Lombardi Award for outstanding lineman. The 6-4, 230-pound Thomas won the Butkus Award, presented to the nation's outstanding linebacker.

Other All-Americans on the East defense are defensive end Frank Stams of Notre Dame, tackle Mark Messner of Michigan, cornerback Dion Sanders of Florida State and free safety Louis Oliver of Florida.

The West has three All-Americans on offense: Washington State offensive guard Mike Utey, wide receiver Hart Lee Dykes of Oklahoma State and placekicker Kendall Trainor of Arkansas. All-American Broderick Thomas of Nebraska will anchor the West defense.

Anthony Dilweg of Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference player of the year, and Iowa's Chuck Hartlieb are quarterbacks for the East.

"Hopefully by the end of the game, we'll be able to show we're on the level of Rodney and Troy," Hartlieb said. "I'm confident about my capabilities."

Lou Holtz of Notre-Dame coaches the East, while Grant Teaff of Baylor coaches the West.

Soviet national team disappoints Europe

LONDON (AP) — Money is carrying nothing but a bad name for the Soviet-Union Olympic champions in basketball, who have left a trail of dissatisfied fans and promoters across Western Europe.

"As the 12th annual World Invitational Club Basketball tournament in London ended Monday, the Soviets were packing for the trip home with no championships from the three tournaments they entered and reduced appearance fees from disgruntled organizers.

At least four team members apparently also were taking home memories of New Year's Eve revelry.

"I wouldn't say we were cheated, but they have not treated the tournament or the public with respect," said David Last, organizer of the London tournament, where the Soviets were upset by a run-of-the-mill Scottish team on New Year's Day.

The trouble began in Madrid, where tournament organizers guaranteed the Soviet Basketball Federation $50,000 for the team's appearance but also had to pay $5,000 into the players' pool for each of their three scheduled games.

The Soviets arrived without three stars from the Olympic team, meanwhile, lost to Spanish Real Madrid, and promoters withheld an undisclosed percentage of the Soviets' appearance fee.

Next stop Paris, and the same story, where the Soviets lost to France.

"They think all they must do to win is be there," Soviet coach Yuri Selikov moaned.

As one young man stated upon the arrival of one of the familiar referees, "Oh, him, we've lost it for sure now."

One recommendation to that predictable referee: Buy glasses, go to church, or just retire, but whatever it takes, let your conscience be your guide.

Congratulations, Hagerman, and thank you for being our host and congratulations, Castelford, for your spirit and enthusiasm, in spite of the odds.

Jones takes lead in Tournament of Champions; Palmer fumes

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Steve Jones took the lead and Arnold Palmer very nearly took a walk Friday in the second round of Jones' Tournament of Champions.

Jones, a rookie in the competition that brings together only the winners from 1988 PGA Tour events, managed a second straight 69 in the blustery winds and completed two rounds in 6 under-par 138.

Chip Beck was one shot back at 139 after a 70. PGA champion Jeff Sluman, veteran Larry Wadkins and Mark Calcavecchia were next at 141. Calcavecchia had a 69, Wadkins a 70 and Sluman a 71.

But it was Palmer, competing in the separate but simultaneous competition for Senior players, who drew the most attention.

That's the closest I've ever come to walking off the golf course," Palmer said after he was assessed a two-shot penalty for playing from the wrong tee.

Palmer made it clear that his anger was not over the penalty but was directed at the unique situation under which Seniors play from shorter tees on nine of the 18 holes — long a very sore point with Palmer.

"Ridiculous," Palmer said after he and Harold Henning had been assessed two-shot penalties for playing from the wrong tee on the second hole.

The Seniors, players 50 and older, and the regular Tour players both are competing on the La Costa Country Club course. On nine of the 18 holes, there are two sets of tees. The front ones are for the seniors.

This is the only tournament on the PGA Tour schedule in which such a situation exists, and it long has been a point of contention with Palmer.

"You shouldn't have two tees. If you're going to do that, they ought to make us ride in carts and give us petticoats."

Arnold Palmer

It's the only tournament I've played in my entire career where there are two sets of tees. I've complained about it from day one," Palmer said.

"It's a second-class citizen sort of thing," he said. "You shouldn't have two tees. If you're going to do that, they ought to make us ride in carts and give us petticoats."

Strangely enough, Palmer and Henning were penalized for playing the longer tees, about 15 yards back of the Seniors tees, on the second hole.

A spectator informed Brian Henning — Harold's younger brother and the Tournament Director for the PGA Seniors Tour — of the action while Palmer and Harold were playing the second hole.

The rule is explicit: "They were not on the teeing ground," Brian Henning said. "I took them back to the tee under penalty of two strokes."

Palmer eventually scored a bogey-six on the hole and Henning took an eight.

Palmer finished the day's play with a 74 and a 149 total for two rounds. Henning was 78-153.

Dale Douglas bogeyed two of the last four holes for a round-of-par-72 and finished 36 holes at 139 and the lead in the Seniors section.

Miller Barber and Australia Bruce Crampton were next at 140 and were the only other Seniors under par. Barber had a 67 and Crampton shot a 70.

Ben Crenshaw got to within one stroke of the lead in the regular Tour competition. Then pumped two shots into the water on the 17th hole, took an eight and fell four strokes off the pace at 142 after 72.

He was tied with Masters champion Sandy Lyle of Scotland, Jay Haas and South Africa David Frost. Haas had a 67, Frost a 70 and Lyle a 71.

U.S. Open champ Curtis Strange improved to a 70 and was at 147. Australian Greg Norman was at 143 after a 72. First-round leader Andrew Magee fell back to 143 after a 75.

Supreme Court ruling in Tarkanian case leaves much unsolved

By ROBERT MACY
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — NCAA vs. Tarkanian, a precedent-setting ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court Dec. 12, presents a Catch 22 for college athletics in general and perennial basketball power Nevada-Las Vegas in particular.

The ruling gives the National Collegiate Athletic Association, college sports governing body, the right to order the suspension of any coach at any NCAA school without regard to the question of due process. But the same high court ruling reaffirms that the institution, if it is a public school, must afford that coach due process before carrying out an NCAA-ordered suspension.

In layman's terms, the 5-3 decision involving UNLV basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian puts the $60 million NCAA member schools between the proverbial rock and a hard spot. The high court order has, in effect, established one set of guidelines for the colleges and universities involved.

The complex legal case began in 1977 when UNLV was hit with two years probation for alleged NCAA rule violations. The NCAA also ordered that UNLV suspend Tarkanian from coaching for two years.

It is believed to be the only time the NCAA has ordered someone suspended from coaching, according to Jim Maxson, the NCAA director of communications.

The university served the probation and suspended Tarkanian, as ordered. The coach went to state district court the day after his suspension went into effect, obtained an injunction, and continued coaching.

Now in his 21st season, he has compiled a major college record of 507 wins and 168 losses — the winning record, percentage-wise, among active coaches.

The common misconception grew out of the U.S. Supreme Court decision in that Tarkanian's job is on the line. The fact is that Tarkanian's job is safe, thanks to a permanent state court injunction preventing his suspension by the university — the only body that can fire him.

UNLV President Robert Maxson has discounted any effort to suspend Tarkanian.

"I think it's obvious there's no interest in carrying out a suspension," Maxson said Wednesday. "I think Maxson agrees that's out of the question. I don't think anybody would take that option seriously."

The NCAA infractions committee is scheduled to meet in San Diego Feb. 3 to weigh the court decision. And the committee's action will be watched by coaches and universities across America, not just in this gaming capital where college basketball competes with name stars for celebrity status.

The NCAA infractions committee, meeting in Myrtle Beach, S.C. in 1979, agreed that UNLV had carried out every request made of it, including the formal suspension of Tarkanian.

Despite that assurance, UNLV is waiting to see whether it will face further action.

Diego Schultz, NCAA executive director, has talked with Maxson and UNLV Athletic Director Brad Rothermel about concessions the university could afford the NCAA to help close the book on the 12-year legal hassle. Schultz says he doesn't think the committee will want the university to go soft-free after the long legal battle.

"It should be something reasonable to (UNLV) and something that may be acceptable to the infractions committee," Schultz said in mid-December.

Maxson and Rothermel say there are limits to what the university might consider. "I don't have any interest in my university being penalized twice," Maxson said Wednesday. This university served its penalty 10, 12 years ago.

Postal Service to battle rising costs

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Saving pop singer Neil Sedaka should write a song for his agency titled "Breaking Even If I Had to Die." Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank pledged Friday to mount an aggressive program to keep the Postal Service's costs down.

Even so, he predicted that the agency will have to seek another rate increase in late 1990, continuing the cycle of a rate increase every other year.

Speaking at a National Press Club luncheon, where postal officials had passed out commemorative letters bearing 29-cent postage stamps, Frank turned aside a question that the service was hinting at the size of the next rate increase.

"Yes, rates will go up," he said. "Whether it will be to 29 cents or not, I don't know." First-class postage increased last year from 22 cents a letter to 26 cents.

$3,700 unused-to-save-yield son

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — An unemployed former minister and his wife had more than $3,700 but didn't use the money to save their teenage son from starvation because it "belonged to God," police said Friday.

"There's just no excuse for having money available and having your son starve to death. It's just unjustifiable, both morally and legally," Luzerne County District Attorney Corrales Stevens said Friday.

The family and their 14-year-old son, Eric, were hospitalized last Thursday night on charges of criminal homicide in the death of their 14-year-old son, Eric.

The couple and their 12-year-old daughter, Laura, were listed in serious condition Friday with varying degrees of malnutrition, dehydration and vitamin deficiencies.

"Larry Cottam said he did not spend the money because it did not belong to them," according to an affidavit by state Trooper James J. Henry Jr. "He stated that the money was 'holy' money and belonged to God."

President in hospital for surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, saying he felt fine, entered Walter Reed Army Hospital on Friday to prepare for surgery early today to correct a curvature of his left ring finger.

The president, accompanied by his wife Nancy, waved to reporters as he entered the emergency room of the military hospital. Asked how he felt, the president called out, "Fine."

Due to heavy cloud cover, the president went to the hospital by motorcade, rather than by helicopter.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said the operation is scheduled for 5:30 a.m. MST and doctors expect the president to be "up and around... following the operation."

Stain cadet's parents settle lawsuit

PORTSMOUTH, Maine (AP) — The parents of a cadet killed by a mob while on a training cruise on a Portuguese Island have settled a lawsuit for an undisclosed sum, attorneys said Friday.

Leroy and Grace Blauvelt, the parents of Maine Maritime Academy cadet Paul S. Blauvelt, 19, sued the academy last June for $150,000, charging the academy with allowing their son to suffer great physical and mental pain, shock and agony.

Senators want trial for North

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of two Senate committees Friday asked Attorney General Richard Thornburgh to explain why former presidential aide Oliver L. North cannot be tried on key Iran-Contra charges.

The chairmen of the Senate Judiciary and Intelligence committees asked Thornburgh to provide the "full explanation" if, as expected, the judge in the case grants a prosecution motion to dismiss the conspiracy and their charges against North.

The law requires the attorney general to report to the congressional intelligence and judiciary committees any time criminal charges are dismissed because of continued prosecution in open court would jeopardize national security.

The two committees also would require a full explanation to the congressional committees... as to why these two charges could not be tried without disclosing classified information.

The explanation was sought by Sens. David Boren, D-Okla., and William Cohen, R-Maine, respectively chairman and vice-chairman of the intelligence panel and Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., who chairs the Judiciary Committee.

The senators asked Thornburgh to include the explanation in his next semiannual report on the operation of the law, which was passed by Congress to prevent defendants from using "graymail" to scuttle their prosecution.

The judge in the case, meanwhile, indicated he might postpone the scheduled Jan. 20 trial of North and others because of the latest developments in the case.

"All dates now scheduled will be subject to the hearing Monday in light of Walsh's dismissal motion," U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said in a recent order.

Gesell will consider Walsh's dismissal motion at the hearing. Dropping the two main counts is expected to require significant adjustments in the documents both sides plan to present in the case.

Environmentalists battle Brazil loan

Knight-Ridder Service

WASHINGTON — Environmentalists and at least one U.S. senator hope to block a proposed $500 million World Bank loan to Brazil that they believe could endanger millions of acres of rain forest and might enable the South American nation to develop a nuclear weapons arsenal.

Sen. Bob Kasten, R-Wis., who serves on the Senate Appropriations subcommittee that sets U.S. funding of the bank, planned to send a letter Monday protesting the loan and urging World Bank President Robert Condon to stop the project.

If environmental and nuclear concerns are not considered, the bank, which receives almost a quarter of its funding from the United States, will face a storm of controversy on Capitol Hill and around the world, said Kasten.

World Bank spokesman Peter Riddelberger said, however, that no vote will be held on the loan as long as the Brazilian government insists on including nuclear power projects in its proposal.

The position of the World Bank is there is no way to go ahead with this scheme if the Brazilians insist on having a nuclear component in it," he said.

David Wirth, senior attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council, a private non-profit environmental group, said environmentalists in this country and in Brazil are fighting the loan.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF HAWKINS CO., LTD. ("Hawkins") has filed a petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code in conjunction with that filing. Hawkins has asked the Bankruptcy Court for approval to sell and process a sufficient quantity of 8800 beans on hand at Hawkins warehouses to satisfy an existing contract with the Alberca Wheat Pool. If the Court grants Hawkins' request, the sale of the beans will begin immediately, and Hawkins will be allowed to borrow new money to pay the expenses of milling, sale, and costs related to the fulfillment of that contract. Proceeds from the sale of seed beans will go first to repay the new money borrowed, plus accrued interest, and the remainder of the proceeds will be held in a supervised account until such time as the

003—Announcements

Court authorizes disbursement of those proceeds.
A hearing on Hawkins' request will be held in Bankruptcy Court, 6th Floor, 505 West Fort Street, Boise, Idaho, at 9:00 a.m. on Friday, January 13, 1989.
Hawkins' proposal can be reviewed and copies obtained at Nelson, Roahol, Robertson, Tolman & Tucker, 142 3rd Avenue, North, Twin Falls, Idaho at 1020 Main Street, Suite 400, Boise, Idaho.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"Reading made Don Quixote a gentleman, but believing what he read made him mad."
George Bernard Shaw.

In a recent team game, one South relied on his ability to read West's cards. He didn't have to wait. The other South considered other factors. His result was 720 points (12 IMPs) better.

West led the club king, cashed his ace and then shifted to a low spade. South "flew" with dummy's king, losing to East's ace, and West's spade queen became the setting trick.

South was quick with his explanation to North: "I've never seen West Underlead a queen through dummy's K-J combination; he always leads a sneaky low card when he holds the ace."

"Did you consider that he might have opened the bidding had he held the spade ace-ace-king as the A-K of clubs?" offered North.

"He's a notorious underbidder," replied South.

In the replay, the bidding and West's play to the first three tricks were the same. However, South was slow to spade, inserting dummy's jack instead of the king. Did he choose the winner for the reasons offered by North at the other table? Actually he had a better reason than those. To make the game, he had to assume that West had the trump king, (A singleton king with East was too remote). And if West had the trump king, surely he couldn't also have the spade ace and the known A-K of clubs and not have opened the bidding.
