U.S. troops arrive in Panama; church enters fray

The Washington Post

More on Panama - C1

HOWARD AIR FORCE BASE, Panama — The first contingents of nearly 1,900 Army and Marine reinforcements ordered to Panama by President Bush began arriving at this U.S. military base Friday in a move that raised tensions between the United States and the regime of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega...

In a separate development, Panama's Episcopal Conference issued a strongly worded letter condemning the regime for electoral fraud and violence and calling on members of Noriega's Panama Defense Forces (PDF) to stop using their weapons against defenseless people.

The letter, signed by Archbishop Marcos G. McGrath and nine other bishops of Panama's Roman Catholic Church, is to be read in churches throughout this country of 2.2 million people Sunday. It represents the strongest statement by the Church in Panama's nearly two-year-old crisis.

With this capital largely quiet Friday in the aftermath of a brutal attack on opposition leaders Wednesday by Noriega's forces, the opposition looked to Sunday's masses as an opportunity in effect to demonstrate anew against vote fraud and the government's subsequent decision to annul the elections.

The church's letter blamed "our governors" for a series of abuses, including "robberies of ballot boxes and tally sheets," attacks against persons and property by military and paramilitary "mobs," and acts intended to frustrate the popular will.

Meanwhile, the Organization of American States agreed to an urgent foreign minister's meeting on Panama next Wednesday, and Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez said he would formally ask the OAS to call on Noriega to step down from power.

ment, including explosives. U.S. sources said. Most of the nearly 1,900 combat troops aboard more than 50 flights over the next several days, U.S. officials said. A contingent from the U.S. Army's 5th Infantry Division at Fort Polk, La., is to arrive by ship through the Panama Canal.

Besides 18 light armored vehicles, 89 armored personnel carriers and a variety of multipurpose vehicles, the U.S. forces are bringing in a battery of six 105-mm howitzers, the Pentagon announced. Col. Ronald T. Senglers, spokesman for the U.S. military's Panama-based Southern Command, said the troops would live "in the field" on American bases here, mostly in tents. Housing on the American buses, already in short supply, has been further exacerbated by an emergency program, ordered by President Bush Thursday, to move families of U.S. servicemen and civilian Defense Department employees onto the military sites from homes in Panama City.

This program does not cover American employees of the Panama Canal Commission and their relatives — about 3,750 people in all — who live in commission housing areas that were turned over to Panama under the 1977 Panama Canal treaties and now are under the jurisdiction of Noriega's forces.

However, President Bush, in order to protect Americans in Panama, has authorized U.S. forces to intervene militarily.

CSI graduates its 23rd class at ceremony

By MICHELE COLE Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — During her commencement address to the College of Southern Idaho's class of 1989, the head of Idaho's division of vocational education painted a picture of the future, touching on how even new graduates might make a mark.

GED graduation will be tonight at 7:30 in the Fine Arts Auditorium

"The world you inherit may be very different than your parents," said Dr. Trudy Anderson, acting administrator of the State Division of Vocational Education.

Describing the health needs of an aging population, Anderson spoke to graduates like Helen M. Benson, Jerome, who after four years of working her way through CSI, will support her nursing day at St. Benedict's hospital early Monday morning.

"Those of you who have chosen careers in nursing and other health-related occupations will be critical to our future," Anderson said. Describing a world moving towards a global economy, Anderson spoke to graduates like Bashar Ali Alnasser, a CSI foreign exchange student from Bahrain, a small island off Saudi Arabia, who will continue his computer programming studies at Boise State University before returning to his country.

"We will not be isolated from the rest of the world," Anderson said. "We are beginning to develop and must continue to develop relations with those from other nations." And in describing a world where technology will continue to accelerate at a dizzying pace, Anderson spoke to graduates like Shawn McKibben, Piler, who has landed a job at Westland Motors after completing CSI's Automotive Service Educational Program.

Retailers use civil law to force shoplifters to pay

The Associated Press

BOSTON — The father of an 11-year-old girl was irate when a drug-store chain sent him a letter demanding he fork over $100 because his daughter allegedly swiped an 89-cent tube of lip balm. He was successful in fighting the demand, but retailers across the country are increasingly dispatching similar missives to shoplifters and their parents, newly armed with state laws giving stores more power to fight sticky fingers.

The reason it's popular, it acts as a deterrent when the word gets out: When you steal from the store, you're going to pay for it," Carol Sommer, a founder of Civil Demand Associates in Sherman Oaks, Calif., said in an interview Friday. The 4-year-old firm has clients nationwide and is only one of several law firms dedicated to this new weapon against shoplifting.

The tactic of recouping shoplifting losses by sending demand letters to shoplifters or their parents is known in the business as "civil recovery" or "civil restitution." "It's a boon for getting some money back," said Jack Fraser, operations chief for the New York-based National Retail Merchants Association, which has 55,000 member stores.

Bush entices Soviets with 'open skies' proposal

The Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — President Bush today proposed an "open skies" policy with the Soviet Union, under which each nation would be permitted to overfly the other's territory on military activities.

In a major speech outlining his goal in ending the Soviet Union back into the world order, Bush also said he would be willing to ease the Jackson-Vanik amendment, a 17-year-old law that ties trade concessions to with East bloc nations with those countries' emigration policies.

"The United States now has as its goal much more than simply containing Soviet expansionism — we seek the integration of the Soviet Union into the community of nations," the president said in the text of a speech announcing his administration's policy principles for relations with Moscow.

Bush took a carrot-and-stick approach to the Soviet Union in his address to a commencement audience at Texas A&M University, saying he wanted the two superpowers to enjoy a friendship that knows no season of suspicion, no chill of distrust.

Supreme Court opening prompts local comments

By CRAIG LINCOLN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A surprise opening on the Idaho Supreme Court has local lawyers and politicians once again hankering for a Magic Valley justice.

"That appointment should go to Magic Valley," said Sen. Denton Darrington, the Declu Republican and chairman of the Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee.

Huntley resigns - A3

Justice Robert Huntley Jr., 56, announced his retirement Friday after seven years of judicial service. He was considered one of the more liberal justices on the court and argued consistently that Idaho's death-penalty statute should be changed.

Darrington said he was surprised at Huntley's resignation, which came with no warning.

"I would definitely feel lead, a move to get a Magic Valley justice," said Mark Stubbs, attorney and chairman of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee.

No law requires geographic balance on the state's five-member court, but tradition used to split the justices among four sections of the state: one from northern Idaho, one from southwestern Idaho, one from the Magic Valley and one from Eastern Idaho. A complicated series of appointments left the valley without a representative since 1982.

"But Stubbs admitted there isn't a lot that can be done to get an area lawyer or judge on the Supreme Court bench.

"If you push too hard, I think there's a backlash," he said.

Stubbs led an unsuccessful campaign two years ago to get a Magic Valley jurist appointed to the high court when JUSTICE Charles Donald- • See HUNTLEY on Page A2

BYU names Rex Lee its 10th president

The Associated Press

PROVO, Utah — Former U.S. solicitor general Rex E. Lee was appointed Friday as the 10th president of the Mormon Church-owned Brigham Young University, the nation's largest private university.

The appointment was announced to more than 8,000 students, faculty and staff members by Gordon B. Hinckley, first counselor in the governing First Presidency of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Lee, 64, succeeds Jeffrey R. Holland, who was appointed to a church leadership position on April 1. Lee is to assume the presidency July 1.

In his acceptance speech, Lee said BYU occupies a unique place among the world's universities.

"We are in a class by ourselves," he said. "What puts us in a class by ourselves is that our reason for existence is not just to nurture the intellect, but the entire soul, of which the intellect is a constituent part."

Jury convicts 4 Ecclesia members of manslaughter

OREGON CITY, Ore. (AP) — Four members of the Ecclesia Athletic Association were convicted of first-degree manslaughter Friday in the beating death of an 8-year-old girl.

Prosecutors said Dayna Brasseur, daughter of the group's founder, was struck hundreds of times Oct. 13 as punishment for stealing food from another child's plate. The Clackamas County Circuit Court jury returned the verdict after deliberating about 11 hours.

Convicted were Willie K. Chisholm, 35, San Diego; Brian K. Brinson, 31; Constantine Z. Jackson, 38; and Frederick P. Donohue, 28, all of Los Angeles.

when 486 students graduated, 226 were academic students and 226 completed vocational programs. Last night also belonged to two CSI instructors honored by the College of Southern Idaho Foundation and the Twin Falls Bank & Trust Co. "One of the outstanding features of this college is its faculty, and both these individuals have contributed immensely," said Curtis H. Eaton, president of the Twin Falls Bank & Trust in presenting a plaque and $1,000 check to JoAnn Shephell, top assistant teacher, and Terry Patterson, top vocational instructor. Shephell joined CSI's faculty as an associate professor of Sign Language Studies/Interpreter Education in 1980. She holds a master's degree in American Studies from the University of Minnesota. She served as president of the Conference on Interpreter Trainers from 1986-88 and currently serves on the advisory board of the National Task Force on Educational Interacting. Patterson became an associate professor in CSI's Fish Technology Program in 1977. He holds a master's degree from the University of Idaho. In addition to teaching, Patterson is also program manager of the college fish hatchery, which produces two million eggs, 350,000 planters and 50,000 pounds of market trout annually. This is the third year, two outstanding faculty members have been recognized during graduation ceremonies.

Today's weather

Chance of frost reminds us of winter
Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding:
Today, scattered morning rain or drizzle. Showers, then partly cloudy. Highs mid to upper 60s. West winds 10 to 15 mph. Tonight, partly cloudy. Lows in the 40s. Probability of measurable rain 40 percent today and 20 percent tonight and Sunday.

Northern Utah and Nevada:
Utah — Today, variable clouds with showers and thunderstorms. Not quite so cool with highs in the low 60s. Tonight and Sunday, partly cloudy with heavy rain showers and thunderstorms, mainly during the afternoon. Lows in the low to mid 40s. Highs in the 50s to upper 60s. Probability of measurable rain 40 percent today and 20 percent tonight and Sunday.

Summary:
The National Weather Service says low pressure continued to dominate Idaho weather Friday afternoon as an upper air trough extends southward from western Canada to Baja, California, and a surface low over central Wyoming moves very slowly eastward. Skies were cloudy, over most of the state at mid afternoon with temperatures in the eastern two thirds in the 40s, in the west and north where moisture pickup was underway, temperatures in the upper 50s or low 60s were reported. The showers of rain mixed with snow in the east. Friday's morning had mostly dissipated, but Twin Falls had rain showers and fog, and Idaho Falls had light drizzle later in the afternoon. The low pressure moved west at Dixie. Malad reported the most precipitation with .63 inches. Cool, cloudy and sometimes damp weather likely to persist through the weekend. The pollen count in Twin Falls Friday was 93 particles per cubic meter of air.

Baker fails to heal West-German-missile rift

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III failed Friday to heal a rift with West Germany over nuclear missiles, leaving a shadow over the May 25 summit President Bush will attend with other Western leaders.

If he had bridged the gap I would tell you," Baker said after he met with West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher. He said the secretary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization could be at risk if the allies let their defenses down.

Meanwhile, officials of the 15 other NATO nations welcomed in guarded terms Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's proposal to unilaterally cut 500 short-range nuclear weapons. Baker said it was merely a Soviet public relations ploy and Bush's national security adviser said it was designed to split NATO.

Brent Scowcroft, speaking with reporters aboard Air Force One as Bush flew to Texas for a speech, said the Soviet proposal "is designed principally to create problems within the alliance ... divisions within the Western alliance."

The NATO officials, in a statement after Baker briefed them on his trip earlier, this week to Moscow, said, "We consider reduction in 500 weapons alone as a welcome, positive, but rather modest step." The statement said NATO looks to Moscow for further "reductions in its unwarranted superiority."

The Bush administration's dispute with West Germany is over short-range nuclear missiles. Societies stressed that demand letters are not intended to generate profits. "This is not a money-making operation," Mrs. Sommer said. "It's meant to be a deterrent. That's really the bottom line."

Each time someone gets in trouble, at least 20 people look at the community," said Lewis Shealy, head of Jess. prevention at Marshall Field's and Co. department stores. For five years the store has been demanding $300 from each shoplifter. Last year it recuperated close to $100,000.

That's paying the salary of "at least six security guards," Shealy said from his Chicago headquarters.

These, he said, include reducing their military forces abroad, tearing down barriers between Eastern and Western Europe, improving their human rights commitment and working with the West in positive, practical — not merely rhetorical steps — solving international regional disputes.

Where there is cooperation, there can be a broader economic relationship," the president said. "Ending discriminatory treatment of U.S. firms would be a helpful step. Trade and financial transactions should take place on a normal-commercial basis."

As he has in the past, Bush said he welcomed the Soviet moves toward glasnost or openness, and economic restructuring. But he sounded a skeptical note, saying these "hopeful — indeed remarkable — signs should be viewed in the vein that Western security is not predicated on hope."

Neither Webb nor Granata could be reached for comment Friday.

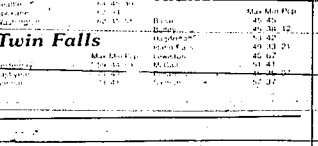

Lee was nominated by a search committee composed of three members of the BYU Board of Trustees and approved by the full board. Donaldson, 48, was appointed six weeks ago to the church's First Quorum of the Seventy, a lifetime position. He had been BYU president since August 1980 when he replaced Dallin H. Oaks.

A former church commissioner of education and dean of BYU's College of Business, Holland has not yet received a specific assignment as a Seventy. That body holds the Council of the Twelve Apostles administer the affairs of the 6.7 million-member church based in Salt Lake City.

As BYU president, Holland initiated a $100 million fund-raising campaign called "Excellence in the '80s," and oversaw completion of the BYU Jerusalem Center despite opposition from orthodox Jews.

BYU, established in 1863 by pioneer leader Brigham Young, has nearly 27,000 full-time students.

3rd proposed timber sale challenged

OROFINO (AP) — A third proposed timber sale in the Clearwater National Forest has been challenged by an environmental group, the Forest Service says. The environmental group Friends of the Clearwater filed the appeal challenging the forest's environmental assessment of the proposed French Tamarack timber sales east of Piece. The group contends the assessment's economic analysis fails to include the impact of damage to wildlife habitat and streams. The French Tamarack sales involve 22 million board feet of timber on 1,100 acres in the general area of French, Hem and Sylvan creeks.

Designer-pilot says he'll fly again

BOISE (AP) — Flying Wing designer-pilot Gilbert Davis, lying in a hospital bed with no feeling in his lower legs after his second crash in three years, says he can't wait to fly again. "If you wrecked a car, would you drive again?" Davis asked a group of reporters huddled around his bed Thursday at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center. He broke his back and suffered other injuries when his boomerang-shaped plane crashed into a Canyon County hillside Tuesday. He lay injured for more than nine hours in the wreckage.

2 found guilty in connection with fire

POCATELLO (AP) — Two Blackfoot men were fined $300 each after being found guilty of dropping a lit cigarette in dry grass or timber where the North Fork fire started in the Targhee National Forest last summer. "That blaze quickly spread into Yellowstone National Park, eventually burning 120,000 acres and threatening a number of park attractions. U.S. Magistrate Craig Jorgensen found Tony Monerack and Leland J. Owens guilty Friday on federal charges of littering and throwing or placing a lit cigarette in a wood-cutting area of the forest next to Yellowstone.

Pocatello school receives honor

POCATELLO (AP) — The federal Department of Education has selected Pocatello High School as one of the most outstanding in the nation. Principal Carole McWilliam was notified late Thursday that the school was selected in the National Secondary School Recognition Program. Officials who evaluated the school during a visit in April "were very impressed with how hard the teachers here were willing to work for so little money, compared to other schools they visited," Ms. McWilliam said. "They were impressed with kids, with the diversity of the student body and yet the good spirit of the school."

Lankford captured near Butte

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — Anthony Lankford, the 20-year-old murder suspect who escaped Saturday from the Montana State Hospital at Warm Springs, was captured today near Butte. The arrest was confirmed by Butte-Silver Bow Sheriff Bob Butorovich, who said Lankford was arrested by two officers when they checked a report of a suspicious person loitering near a Silver Bow railroad crossing. Lankford was not armed, Butorovich said. Lankford and another suspect, Richard Allen Smith, 29, were being held in the hospital's prison unit for pre-trial evaluation. They used smuggled hacksaw blades to saw through window bars, then vaulted a fence. Smith was arrested in Butte on Thursday.

Huntley resigns from Supreme Court

BOISE (AP) — Robert C. Huntley Jr., a member of the Idaho Supreme Court for nearly seven years, is resigning in August to return to private law practice.

Huntley, 56, announced Friday afternoon he will step down effective Aug. 7 to be a partner in what will become the Boise law firm of Givens, McDevitt, Pursley, Webb and Huntley.

The former Pocatello resident practiced law for 23 years in that community before accepting appointment by Gov. John Evans to the Supreme Court Oct. 1, 1982, when Joseph McFadden resigned. He was elected to a six-year term in 1984. The term ends next year, and whoever is appointed by Gov. Cecil Andrus to the nonpartisan position will have to stand for election next May.

Huntley said he decided he wanted to return to private law practice. With his new firm he will specialize in trial and appellate practice, federal courts and his primary focus. Huntley has been known in his term on the Supreme Court as a defender of civil liberties. And with Justice Stephen Bistline, Huntley has steadfastly maintained that juries, not judges, should decide whether the death penalty should be imposed.

"I really am a believer in the fact that the jury system is the single most important institution to preserve our form of democracy," Huntley said.

He has been perhaps the most outspoken member of the court in recent years. Huntley has made a number of public appearances on various issues, advocating reform of the state's tax structure, and better funding for education.

He has publicly chastised appeals courts for lengthy delays in handling death penalty cases. Next month, Huntley is scheduled to appear before an American Bar Association task force on criminal justice with a message that he feels much of the delays in major criminal cases are caused by a lack of court calendar management.

Huntley said he wants to be known for his work on the Idaho Supreme Court in speeding the handling of cases and appeals. Along with the late Charles Donaldson and courts administrator Carl Bianchi, Huntley worked on ways to reduce the long delays in deciding cases.

"We probably have made Idaho the state with the most current court calendars in the nation," Huntley said. He said he will continue to work on death penalty cases. Huntley has not opposed the death penalty, just Idaho's current system of letting judges weigh aggravating and mitigating factors before deciding whether the death penalty shall be imposed. Huntley received bachelor and law degrees from University of Idaho and practiced law in Pocatello for 23 years with the firm of Racine, Huntley, Olson, Nye and Cooper.

Huntley served a term on the Pocatello City Council, served on the Idaho House of Representatives as a Democrat from Blannock County and is chairman of the Boise Opera.

"I regret that Justice Huntley has resigned from the bench," said the governor, who will appoint a successor. He said Huntley did not express dissatisfaction with the job. "He had an opportunity to become a partner in a local firm, so he is resigning to take advantage of that offer," Andrus said.

As soon as he receives formal notice from Huntley, Andrus said he will notify the Idaho Judicial Council. The council will conduct interviews and submit a list of nominations to the governor. "I don't enter into it until they send their recommendations," Andrus said.

When a new justice is appointed, it will mean that Chief Justice Allan Shepard will be the only justice not appointed originally by Andrus.

Officials find human bones in Utah canyon

FAIRVIEW, Utah (AP) — More bones have been gathered for analysis following the discovery of a human knee cap in a central Utah canyon where serial killer Ted Bundy claimed he left a body. Authorities say.

However, investigators cautioned there was no way to establish the origin of the right knee cap found in a three-mile search last weekend in Fairview Canyon east of here.

The bone was identified by the state Medical Examiner's Office among the more than 10 bags of animal bones recovered during that search.

"At this point, we know it's definitely human," Bountiful Police Sgt. Ira Beal said Friday.

"It's probably 15 to 30 years old, but that's only an estimate and they can't say for sure," he said. "It's a smaller bone, and consistent to a female (or) small male...they are unable to determine the sex."

Searchers returned to the area Thursday and collected many more bones that "look much the same" as the first batch, said Beal, who directed the new collection to the medical examiner Friday.

Bountiful police and Sanpete County Sheriff's personnel have scoured the area several times for the remains of 17-year-old Debra Kent, who vanished on Nov. 8, 1974, from a Bountiful high school parking lot.

"In an interview with a Utah detective shortly before his Jan. 21 execution in Florida, Bundy claimed he buried Kent's body in rugged terrain between Fairview and Mayfield."

The bone was found in the general area that was identified by Bundy, Bountiful Police Chief Larry Higgins said earlier.

Higgins said he was hertzen by the discovery, but cautioned that no conclusions could be drawn about its origins.

"What it tells us is we may possibly be in the right place. All we have found as a bone that has been identified as human," he said.

Beal said the area where the bone was found had been flooded severely earlier this decade, and that any other remains could have been washed away or scattered by scavengers long ago.

Only a skull with intact teeth would provide a positive identification, Beal said.

In interviews before his execution for the murder of a Lake City, Fla., schoolgirl, Bundy said he killed eight women in Utah.

Idaho companies will take part in trade show

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Five Idaho companies will be taking part in a major international food and agriculture trade show in Boston starting on Monday. The five companies participating are Trapper Creek Fisheries, Hagerman; Peruna Lotions International, Nampa; and a consortium of three wine producers, Rose Creek Winery of Hagerman, Indian Creek Winery of Kuna and Pintler Cellars, Nampa. The show runs Monday-Wednesday and is expected to be attended by up to 12,000 U.S. and international food buyers.

Two years ago, Idaho companies took part in a similar trade show at Seattle. The department also has sponsored food and agricultural sales efforts in Japan, Taiwan, Thailand, Europe and Australia.

"This will be a tremendous opportunity for these five small Idaho companies to gain access to major purchasers," said Gov. Cecil Andrus. The show is sponsored by the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture. Idaho's participation in the show is sponsored every two years by the Idaho Department of Agriculture's marketing di-

Runaway train plunges into houses, killing 3 people

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — A runaway freight train jumped its tracks at 90 mph on a downhill grade and plowed into a row of houses Friday, killing at least three people, two of them children.

The train was all over the place. It looked like a toy in a sandbox. It was just everywhere — in people's yards. Pieces of the axles were in people's yards, said witness Al Dorn.

At least two people were reported missing and firefighters and police combed the wreckage of the residential neighborhood hours after the morning wreck. Hospitals reported treating at least eight people for varying injuries.

The Southern Pacific freight apparently lost its brakes toward the top of treacherous, 4,190-foot Cajon Pass and came raging down the grade at more than 90 mph before the derailment, said Southern Pacific spokesman Doug Stephenson.

It flew off an embankment and into a neighborhood of modest two- and three-bedroom homes on the northwest outskirts of San Bernardino, smashing houses and throwing out its load of sand-like potash.

Stephenson said one of the five crewmembers rode to a dispatcher in Los Angeles that the train was out of control.

They said the speed was 90 mph a few miles up the track (from the crash site), he said. They absolutely were out of control. ... It was a runaway train.

He said the train apparently lost its brakes near the top of the pass in the mountains about 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

The train had four engines in front and two "helper" engines in back, and had between 55 and 69 cars in all. The rear engines had applied full brakes, Stephenson said.

Reports of the number of cars and houses involved varied as authorities tried to help the injured and assess the damage inflicted by the train.

Ambassador-designate defends himself against charges of lying

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's ambassador-designate to South Korea defended himself Friday against allegations that he assisted Oliver North's secret Contra resupply operation in 1985 and is lying about it.

Donald Gregg, who was Bush's national security adviser when Bush was vice president, disputed the allegations of Sen. Alon Cranston and also said North had testified incorrectly about dealings with Gregg.

Gregg, who testified Friday at his confirmation hearing, is to be called back for further questioning on the Iran-Contra affair.

At the hearing, Cranston, D-Calif., accused Gregg of sponsoring a free-lance covert operation out of the vice president's office.

He also accused Gregg of later making "sweeping denials" of his knowledge about the Contra network, "apparently in order to cover up the truth and to limit embarrassment to your boss, then-presidential candidate George Bush."

Gregg said Cranston's comments added up to "a rather full-blown example of a conspiracy theory" and he denied its accuracy.

Gregg underwent a three-hour hearing before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee chaired by Cranston.

"There's going to be another hearing," said Cranston spokesman Murray Flinder. "The questions have not all been asked or answered."

Gregg said he didn't find out until August 1986 from former CIA operative Felix Rodriguez that North might be involved with facilitating the supply of lethal aid to the Contras.

With support from Gregg, Rodriguez had been sent to El Salvador to help the air force there. But Gregg said he didn't know until the August 1986 meeting that Rodriguez was involved in helping the Contras.

Gregg's training at the CIA and friendship with Rodriguez "apparently led you to believe you could serve the national interest by sponsoring a free-lance covert operation out of the vice president's office," said Cranston. The senator said a cover story about Rodriguez's sole mission in Central America being to help the "Salvadoran air force" was seemingly concocted.

OSHA proposes exposure limits for chemicals for use in construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government on Friday proposed setting exposure limits for a substance used for various construction tasks involving plastics and sealants and said the guidelines could prevent up to 23 cancer deaths a year.

The proposed limits on exposure to methylenedianiline resulted from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's first attempt at mediated rulemaking, a procedure which included a committee consisting of government, industry and labor union representatives.

Methylenedianiline, known as MDA, is a potential carcinogen found in chemicals and plastics such as polyurethane foam and various coatings, resins, adhesives and sealants used in construction.

OSHA, an arm of the Labor Department, proposed setting an exposure limit of 10 parts of MDA for every billion parts of air over an normal eight-hour workday.

The proposed guidelines, subject to public comment before they take effect, also would require workers exposed to MDA at half the acceptable level be monitored for potential health effects and provided training on limiting their exposure.

Workers exposed to MDA at half the acceptable limit or in greater amounts would be required to shower immediately after work and have their skin inspected for exposure. Prolonged exposure to MDA turns skin yellow.

Areas where the substance is used also would be regulated, with employers required to provide workers with protective clothing and respiratory equipment.

Jury convicts Kraft of killing 16

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Randy Kraft, who authorities said killed nearly 90 people in three states, was convicted by a jury today of killing 16 young men in Southern California over 12 years and could face the death penalty.

In addition to the slayings in Orange County, authorities have said Kraft is suspected of killing an additional 21 young men in California, Oregon and Michigan.

Jurors also found Kraft, a 44-year-old former Long Beach computer programmer, guilty of one count of sodomy and one count of sexual mayhem.

Kraft sighed loudly as the court clerk began reading the verdicts, then showed no other emotion during the 30-minute repetition of guilty verdicts.

Jurors had been deliberating since April 28 after seven months of trial that included evidence of necrophilia and mutilation surrounding the sex-related deaths of young men beginning in 1972.

Judge Donald A. McCartin set a Tuesday hearing to determine a date for the penalty phase of the trial, during which jurors will hear about the other slayings for which Kraft is suspected.

Husband sends letter describing wife's death

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A woman's body was found after a newspaper received a letter in which her husband allegedly confessed to killing her because she didn't understand his promonitions and said he left a list of 54 people who "will be punished."

"Last Friday night I shot and killed my wife," began the five-page letter, allegedly from David Schoenecker, 48, that was received Thursday by Orange County Register columnist Bob Emmers. Schoenecker was arrested by a Montana sheriff Friday afternoon, wandering in the Clearwater National Forest just inside the Idaho border. He was carrying a .357-caliber Magnum revolver but did not resist, authorities said.

"There was no hatred — I loved her — but the action was necessary because I have a purpose and one that cannot have an interruption or interference," the letter said. "Gail reasoned only in black and white or good and bad. She never dealt in the grey or devious world. A world where I now totally exist," it said.

The letter, dated Monday and handwritten on stationery from a Missoula-Mont. Travelodge, said there was a possibility that the body of Gail M. Schoenecker, 40, had not been discovered. The writer included the couple's address and advised Emmers to contact authorities.

"I never got anything like...it before...It gave me the chills," Emmers said.

Police Sgt. Chet Barry said Friday that police had confirmed that the body they found Thursday afternoon in the Schoenecker's home was that of Mrs. Schoenecker, an elementary school teacher. The cause of death had not been determined, he said.

Schoenecker had been seen Sunday when he checked into the Travelodge and apparently spent the night. His car was found abandoned Tuesday in the Lolo National Forest, about 60 miles west of Missoula, and cabins in the area were searched, Mineral County Sheriff Wade Van Gilder said.

Mom faces charges in daughter's death

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A mother was charged Friday with concealing a homicide and obstructing justice in the 1988 death of her firstborn daughter, as authorities try to unravel the mystery of her second baby's slaying two weeks ago.

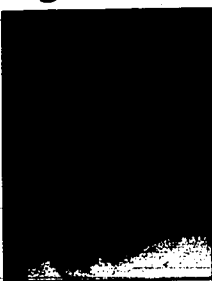

Paula Sims, 29, and her husband, Robert, reported each of the baby girls abducted by a masked gunman who threatened Mrs. Sims and took the infants while Sims was at work.

Authorities have considered them suspects in both deaths. No charges have been filed in the latest case.

Jersey County State's Attorney Richard J. Ringhausen signed a criminal complaint Friday alleging one count of concealing a homicide and three counts of obstructing justice in the death three years ago of 13-day-old Loralei Sims, said Linda Long, chief deputy court clerk.

An arrest warrant was issued and Mrs. Sims was expected to surrender later in the day. Jersey County Circuit Judge Claude Davis set bond at $100,000, Ms. Long said.

Sims was not named in the complaint, which says Mrs. Sims knew Loralei had died by homicide means and gave false information to county Sheriff Frank Yocom and state police investigators.

Charged in daughter's death

Ringhausen was not available to comment, said his secretary, Carol Kanklakan. — The Sims' attorney, Donald Groshong, was at the prosecutor's office on another matter and declined comment on the Sims case, although he has said previously the couple is innocent of any wrongdoing.

The charges are the first in the nearly three-year-old case, which began June 17, 1986, when the Sims...

'People's Park' flap surfaces again

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — People's Park, a hippie haven that touched a bloody riot 20 years ago, remains much as it was in 1969, a vacant lot that the University of California wants to develop and activists want to see as a shrine to the '60s.

"This is going to be one of the top 10 or top 20 most important pieces of land in history because it represents how the youth of the '60s stood up to the big, powerful institutions that tried to control their lives," said Jon Read, a landscaper who helped organize the park project two decades ago.

A virtual truce between activists and the university that began in 1972 was disrupted last month when activists poured concrete for a permanent toilet at the park. The university had the concrete torn up twice — and had four activists who chained themselves to the slab arrested.

Lugar defends FSX plane deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vital importance of U.S. Japan defense ties is a key reason why Congress should approve the $7 billion FSX warplane deal, a senior member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Friday.

"It is important that we stay together with Japan, that we maintain that cooperation and alliance," said Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., as the Senate headed over the controversial deal.

He sought to rebut arguments by opponents that the proposal to jointly develop and produce a next-generation fighter for Japan would jeopardize American jobs and technological progress. Lugar said U.S. industry would gain the same amount of business — about $2.5 billion — with the FSX as it would by selling wholly American-made F-16 fighters to Japan, as critics of the FSX have urged.

"We're not losing business by failing to sell the F-16s off the shelf," he said.

Lugar contended that if the United States pulls out of the FSX deal, this most likely would drive Japan into a concerted effort to develop and produce the fighter on its own.

U.N. health group votes against PLO

GENEVA (AP) — Delegates of the World Health Organization today voted against a measure that would have granted immediate membership in WHO to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In a secret ballot, the WHO annual assembly voted 80-19 against the Nicaraguan proposal. There were 19 abstentions.

Another proposal to defer the question of PLO admission until next year has yet to be voted on. WHO's chief urged delegates to support that measure, saying to do otherwise would jeopardize WHO's future.

The United States has threatened to withdraw funding for WHO if the Palestinian state becomes the organization's 167th member state.

Arab League works on Beirut truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Arab League envoys shuttled between Christian and Muslim sectors Friday to try to settle a dispute over the terms of a cease-fire and keep the rivals from rekindling their war.

The Arab League's latest truce, the fifth in more than two months of fighting, was tested by minor shelling fired from Syrian positions at the coast of the Christian enclave north of the city.

A police spokesman said the shelling was "a clear message that the Syrians would not allow any ship carrying Iraqi weapons to dock at ports in the enclave."

Shamir develops election guidelines

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir scheduled Thursday the first political review of his election plan for the occupied lands, where doctors said Israeli troops shot and killed a 24-year-old Palestinian.

At least 10 other Palestinians were wounded in confrontations between soldiers and stone throwers in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, Arab reports said.

Shamir called meetings on Saturday and Sunday to consider guidelines for the elections—the first with Cabinet ministers of his right-wing Likud bloc and the second with the full Cabinet, including members of the left-leaning Labor Party.

South African party chief calls for racial integration

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — National Party leader F.W. de Klerk, expected to become South Africa's next president, called Friday for a new political system free from domination by the white minority or black majority.

De Klerk said the racially segregated system "will have to change drastically and quickly," but his speech before Parliament dealt more with policies he rejects than details of the type of government he proposes.

He said the governing party wanted decisions by consensus, dismissing the continued white rule supported by the Conservative Party and calling a one-person, one-vote system favored by the anti-apartheid forces "totally unacceptable."

"A mere majority decision would be domination, and failure to reach consensus should be settled by a fair referee," he said.

De Klerk, 53, became party leader after the post was vacated by President P.W. Botha, who suffered a stroke in January. Botha, head of government since 1978, plans to retire after an election on Sept. 6, and de Klerk, the education minister, is virtually assured of succeeding him.

De Klerk's speech in Cape Town came a day after Constitutional Development Minister Chris Heunis announced his resignation. Last week, Heunis attracted wide publicity with a speech suggesting that blacks be given a role in Parliament, in the Cabinet and in the selection of a president.

De Klerk called Heunis' speech "explosive" and said, "to deduce from his speech that the National Party is now following... the way to majority rule is untrue."

Parliament includes subordinate chambers for Asians and people of mixed-race, but the 26-million blacks have no role in national politics.

"White security can never be built on injustice towards others," de Klerk said. "White domination, over the greatest portion of our country, as the Conservative Party calls for, leads inescapably to catastrophe. And it will be our children particularly who will pay the price."

"The Conservative Party stands for a minority government in a South Africa that will by their own admission—in perpetuity—be populated by a majority of people of color. It is unfair and does not pass the test of justice," de Klerk said.

"The Democratic Party stands for a majority government. In a country with such a massive and wide diversity as ours, this unfair to the smaller peoples and population groups. Their policy, too, fails the test of justice."

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A federal judge today accepted a reported $103 million settlement of lawsuits stemming from the 1986 Dupont Plaza Hotel fire that killed 97 people on New Year's Eve.

Agreement in the case, involving about 2,300 plaintiffs from across the country seeking damages from at least 200 defendants, was reached Tuesday and approved Thursday night.

Shakespeare flap involves theater

LONDON (AP) — Dustin Hoffman and other stars Friday urged the government to halt a new office project on the remains of a theater where Shakespeare once acted.

In a letter to the newspaper The Independent, Hoffman and 15 others called for the site of the Rose theater to be designated an ancient monument to be preserved.

Without the designation, the recently discovered remains will be damaged by the construction work due to start Monday, they said. The remains include part of the stage and collapsed walls of the Elizabethan theater where Shakespeare acted in 1592.

Ridley, who opened an office building in Southampton on Friday, said: "I haven't decided what to do. When I have decided, I will make an announcement."

Greeks to extradite suspected terrorist

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Supreme Court on Friday upheld an extradition order for a Palestinian wanted by the United States in the 1982 bombing of a Pan Am jetliner.

Mohammed Rashid had appealed a lower court's decision that granted a U.S. request for his extradition. Washington considers the case a test of Greece's willingness to fight terrorism.

The court rejects Mohammed Rashid's appeal by majority of votes, said Nikos Sakellariopoulos, president of the Supreme Court's five-member criminal division.

The court gave no reason for its decision.

The final say on whether Rashid is sent to the United States will be made by the minister of justice, according to Greek law.

Parks chairman wants campsites developed

KIMBERLY
The new chairman of Idaho's Parks and Recreation Board says he would like the board to "develop new camping sites rather than concentrating on maintenance."

GLENN SHEWMAKER

Some of the 100 potential park sites identified in a 1988 study by the agency should be made available for public use, said Glenn Shewmaker of Kimberly, who was elected to the post May 5.

"They can't all be state parks, but maybe we can provide help in preserving and developing some of them as local or regional sites," Shewmaker said. "It doesn't always have to be a big budget item."

Shewmaker added that finding money to develop the state's natural resources is always difficult.

The new chairman has an masters degree in agriculture from the University of Idaho and works as a biological technician at the USDA Agricultural Research Service near Kimberly.

Coroner attributes death of man to natural causes

KIMBERLY - An elderly man found lying in his backyard with head lacerations died of natural causes, said Jim Mildon, Twin Falls County deputy coroner.

Edmon Kimball, 79, was found lying on the grass in his backyard with head lacerations early Thursday morning. Police investigated through the day and released the results Friday.

Rollover fatal to teen-ager in accident near Burley

BURLEY - A teen-ager died Thursday in a one-car rollover southeast of Burley. Revel Lee Meyers McMahan, 16, died after his 1977 Pontiac failed to negotiate a curve near a canal, Cassia County Sheriff Billy Crystal said.

Crystal said McMahan was pinned under the wreckage after the car rolled in a pasture.

Repair work, heavy demand cause disruption in power

TWIN FALLS - An unexpected high demand for electricity coupled with maintenance work snapped off power to much of the downtown area Friday morning, including Idaho Power Co. offices.

"This is kind of embarrassing," said Jack W. Miller, division manager, as he walked through a darkened office with dead phone lines.

Idaho Power employees were working on a transformer when increased demand, possibly from furnaces, overloaded the transformer, said Electrical Services Director Dale Monson. "Everything was going fine until somebody ordered this cold weather," Monson said.

Department of Labor seeks men who are owed wages

TWIN FALLS - Two Magic Valley men are being sought by government officials not for any wrongdoing, but because they are owed back wages.

John W. Benefield of Jerome and Manuel Sifuentes of Heyburn are among the 87 unidentified persons the U.S. Department of Labor is seeking to give a share of $21,370 in back-wages owed to them by former employer under various federal laws.

The Wage-Hour Division has been unable to locate the men whose last known addresses were in Idaho, said Jim Valin, regional administrator of Employment Standards Administration in Seattle.

The department will hold the money for three years before returning it to the U.S. Treasury or the employer depending on the circumstances of recovery.

Anyone who believes they may be owed back-wages should contact the Seattle Regional Office of the Wage-Hour Division at (206) 442-1914.

Andrus says CSI will receive funding

By KIRK MITCHELL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Gov. Cecil Andrus says this year's tax revenue surplus is enough to finance the College of Southern Idaho's $2.8 million agricultural classroom and science laboratory project.

"It's a strong economy and it's getting fairly obvious that we're going to meet that commitment at the College of Southern Idaho," Andrus said Friday.

"We're elated," said CSI President Gerald Meyerhoeffer. "I think it's a very important thing for our students."

He said CSI laboratories are used one-third more than other state college laboratories.

"It will benefit the students and if it benefits them it will benefit the valley," Meyerhoeffer said.

Under a spending plan approved by the Legislature, Idaho's colleges and universities will receive construction money on a priority basis if state revenue produces a large enough surplus.

Revenue collections through March, the ninth month of the state's spending year, totaled $515 million, $18.8 million over the projected level. A month earlier, the surplus gap was $14.8 million.

Andrus said that trend is continuing. April figures will be announced next week.

One setback could be the amount of tax returns that are paid out, but Andrus said if this year follows past years' patterns, CSI's money will be available by July 1.

Meyerhoeffer said the 22,000-square-foot agricultural sciences building would be the second of two construction phases of the CSI's Economic Development Center and could be bid out by December.

The center's 12,500-square-foot first phase will be paid for through a $780,000 federal, Economic Development Act grant and $300,000 of state money, Meyerhoeffer said.

The college will seek bids on the first phase within a couple of weeks and construction could begin sometime in June. The project will take about a year to complete, Meyerhoeffer said.

Construction on the agricultural sciences building will also take about a year, he said.

Murderer composes cowboy rhymes

"They show up each mornin' right around eight."

Consistent as clock work, and rarely late.

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

BOISE - Locked in his small death-row cell, Jaimi Charboneau writes about wide-open spaces and the myth of the West.

"Miss Idaho's a grand lady with wide open space, She's a heavenly creation depictin' God's grace."

Charboneau, 29, convicted murderer and erstwhile rodeo cowboy, has been writing away his solitary, death-row confinement at the Idaho State Penitentiary with push-ups, phone calls to his lawyer - and cowboy poetry.

And the poetry, as cowboy poetry goes, isn't bad.

"I think the person demonstrates quite a bit of talent," said Bill Studebaker, College of Southern Idaho assistant English professor.

Under an arrangement with The Times-News, Studebaker and "Redneck Review of Literature" Editor and Publisher Penelope Reedy agreed to review and critique Charboneau's poetry before knowing the author's identity.

Reedy said Charboneau's poetry would best be read aloud - his poems are the kind "that don't work on the page but have kind of a theatrical category."

"He had to dig real deep inside himself," said Charboneau's mother, Misty Hamilton.

Hamilton, 50, said her son has been writing his prison poetry for a year and a half. Hamilton is trying to raise enough money to publish her son's 42 poems and four short stories. Charboneau's own drawings of Western scenes would illustrate the book.

A publishing company in Shelley has agreed to publish the book as long as somebody pays for it, she said. Any profits will be donated to the March of Dimes, she said.

But Jerome County, whose costs of trying Charboneau are well into six figures, could be interested in profits, too, said Prosecutor John Horgan.

"We might ask for the proceeds for the public defender's budget," Horgan said. "If he comes into some money, you bet."

Charboneau was convicted in 1985 of killing his ex-wife, Marilyn Arbaugh. See RHYME on Page B2

Mother takes the side of son on death row

By CRAIG LINCOLN
Times-News writer

MOUNTAIN HOME - Misty Hamilton talks about her son with soft words, cautiously avoiding any that could jeopardize his death-sentence appeal.

"I know that Jaimi did not kill her," she said. "None of the shots that came from that gun were fatal shots."

Hamilton's son, Jaimi Charboneau, 29, was convicted in 1986 of murdering his ex-wife, Marilyn Arbaugh. Her bullet-ridden body was discovered July 1, 1984, at a Jerome County ranch.

Hamilton, a full-blooded Cherokee from Oklahoma, recently moved from Eastern Idaho to Mountain Home to be closer to her son. At first, she didn't visit much.

"It really upset him - he didn't want me even in there," she said. But she doesn't let that stop her visits entirely.

"You can tell when it's time for a visit," she said.

The Idaho Supreme Court recently overturned Charboneau's death sentence and ordered another sentencing hearing. The court left intact Charboneau's verdict, in which jurors found Charboneau guilty of first-degree murder after 13 hours of deliberation.

Charboneau spends his time in a death row cell. He can spend 40 minutes each day outside the cell, Hamilton said.

"Your life is just there, slowly turning to nothing, until you are nothing," Hamilton said.

"As long as she's locked up, I'll be locked up," she said.

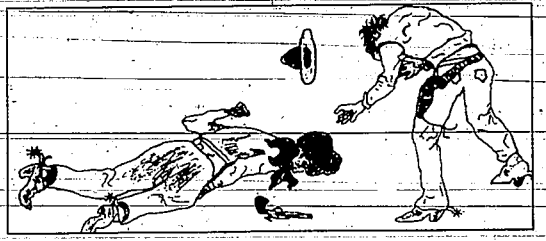

Charboneau grew up in the Buhl area, a cowboy at heart, Hamilton said. With his family, he drove cattle through the Bruneau desert and tried his hand as a rodeo cowboy.

"The wide-open spaces of Charboneau's youth are gone, replaced by prison, courtrooms and the possibility of execution."

"I'll always feel that America has the best court system in the world, but it has its bad points," Hamilton said.

12 candidates in running for 3 Cassia board seats

By DIANE SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY - Twelve people are running for three trustee positions on the Cassia County Joint District School Board.

In Zone 1, incumbent Ann Woodhouse is being challenged by Karla Robinson and Brad Sanders.

Robinson said she is running because she is "deeply interested in what is going on in our children's education" and also because there needs to be more accountability as far as where our money is going.

Robinson says there are many problems in the district, such as the dropout rate and financial problems, that are not being addressed.

Robinson does financial work for several local businesses, and she has three children in the Cassia County schools.

and that a main issue now is teachers and the quality of the teachers.

"We need to be thinking about our teachers a little bit more" and pay them what they are worth," he says.

Sanders also wants to ensure funds for specific purposes are spent for those purposes.

Woodhouse was out of the state and unavailable for an interview.

Heley Almanza, Kent Fletcher, Greg Rasmussen and Merlin Hill are running for Zone 2 trustee.

Almanza said she wants to use her experiences with various parents school organizations and child abuse and foster parent programs to help the school district. She also wants to be part of the educational process.

"We have a 23 percent dropout rate and I am interested in finding alternatives to we can decrease that percentage," says Almanza.

Fletcher, a Burley attorney, says the

Water Resources Board to hold hydro hearings

By N. S. NORKENTVED
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The Idaho Water Resources Board Friday agreed to set public hearings in mid-June on two proposed hydroelectric projects on the Snake River.

The board convened in Twin Falls for its monthly meeting to discuss exceptions to the interim protection status that prohibits new developments on the river. Reports on energy programs and water rights negotiations also were heard.

Proposals for hydroelectric projects at Auger Falls and Star Falls are part of a larger study on the comprehensive impact of power dams in the Magic Valley. The stretch of the Snake River in the same area, from Milner Dam to King Hill, also is being considered as a protected river by the board.

Developers of the two projects seek exemption from restrictions imposed by the river's interim protection status.

A representative of the Auger Falls project said the proposed development would not affect the values that the protective status would preserve.

David Shaw, of the Idaho Department of Water Resources, also filled the board in on negotiations with the Shoshone-Bannock tribe and the federal government over water rights on federal reservations.

The Shoshone-Bannocks have reduced their request to 600,000 acre-feet per year. State negotiators don't disagree with the amount of water, but continue to negotiate the sources of that water, Shaw said.

Another article to be ironed out is the roles the three entities involved with the Indian water rights will have in water management. The tribe, the federal government and state officials all will have roles. The parties have not yet agreed on their respective roles.

American Cancer Society looks for likely suspects for annual jail

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS - Wanted: Jerry Meyerhoeffer, College of Southern Idaho president, seen begging the Idaho Legislature.

He's one of a community members who'll be under arrest by the American Cancer Society during its sixth Jail-N-Bail. They'll be seeking donations to make bail, and the cancer society will also be looking for other criminals. For $10 each the donor will have a name and arrest bosses, friends or relatives and hand them off to the cancer cell in the Magic Valley Mall.

Although the jail event has usually been open during Western-Days, scheduling conflicts have caused the society to hold the event earlier this year - May 18-20 during mall hours.

Local volunteers who'll be raising bail are Meyerhoeffer, KEZ's Sherry Kostler, KMTV's Mark Berryhill and Al Fogelman, KJLX's Tom Nelson, 7403's Logan Tusow, former Mrs. Idaho Shavira Fuller, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, Red Bull Manager Don Chandler, CSI-Canada coach Fred Trunkle and Latham Motors' Barry Langdon.

This year's Jail-N-Bail is being held in memory of Langdon's father, Buzz Langdon, who was executive director of the chamber until his death last August.

Funds raised will be used for cancer society projects. During the past year in the Magic Valley, the group has sponsored support groups, purchased supplies and prosthetics for cancer patients, provided professional education for health-care workers and reached 7,000 adults and 10,000 young in public education programs.

To swear out an arrest warrant for Jail-N-Bail, call 733-7700, Extension 344, before May 17 or 733-4090 after that date.

by pumping at least 15-22 caliber bullets into her body. One sentenced hearing after the Idaho Supreme Court recently voided his sentence.

Charboneau succeeds in one key area of poetry, Studebaker said. His poetry has a sense of movement that carries the reader from image to image and situation to situation.

"If you don't do it right in poetry, it fails," Studebaker said. "You can read these and not get lost."

Reedy said Charboneau's poetry is a little "loose."

Overall, they all seem to start out with a pretty good idea, and then he loses it," Reedy said.

But when compared with his cowboy poet peers, Charboneau has done all right, they said.

"As a matter of fact, when you say cowboy poetry, I expect the worst," Studebaker said. "This isn't."

If Charboneau's poetry ever does become a book, it will be a book about myths.

"That's what it participates in—the myth of the West," Studebaker said. "It's certainly not a contemporary image, it's an image certain ranchers—and certain cowboy-poets are trying to maintain."

Charboneau reaches for that myth as he writes about the Idaho that lies outside his cell.

"Could it be the Lord formed her from a special breed, This is where long to be till my final day spent."

1 Dietrich trustee race contested

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

DIETRICH - One of two school trustee races in Dietrich is contested in a three-year term.

In Zone 1, incumbent Randy McCowan is running unopposed for his third three-year term.

In Zone 2, incumbent Wallace Bingham II is challenged by Patricia Nielgel.

Bingham, a rancher, is seeking his third three-year term. He said he has three children in school and two pre-school age children, "and I would like to make sure they get the best education they can."

Bingham said there are no particular issues this year. The board likely will have to hire a new superintendent next year since the current top administrator, Wayne Perron, has said this probably will be his last year-Bingham said.

The rancher said he would like to continue his work as a trustee. "If they like what I've done, they can vote for me. If they don't, they don't have to," he said.

Nielgel, an office clerk and medical record, said the last of her three children is graduating this year so she would like to join the School Board as an important trustee.

"I thought this was the time and the place to be part of the school and find out how the system actually runs," Nielgel said. "I thought it would be interesting to learn the system. We all have to learn when we go into something like that."

Nielgel said she is willing to do whatever it takes as a trustee to help make the school better.

The $50,000 bond election to maintain school buildings should be passed, she said, because it is a necessity. The annual maintenance program shows community pride in the school, Nielgel said, and the students share that pride by helping to take care of their school.

Nielgel said she was against consolidation and is glad there is no immediate threat of that now. "I'm very proud of our school and I would like to see us keep our school in our own community," she said.

Nielgel is a former member of the Lincoln County Fairboard. "I would like to see everyone in zone 1 and 2 come out and vote, not only for who they want as a trustee, but also on the bond election," she said.

Vintage steam engine coming

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE - Train buffs should take a drive to Shoshone on Sunday to see a classic steam engine that will stop here at about 11:30 a.m. on its way to Nampa.

The Union Pacific 844, one of the last oil-burning steam engines built, was high-class and high-speed in its day, says Paul Wyatt, a supervisor of transportation services for U.P. "It's a well-preserved steam locomotive," he said. "You just don't see them anymore."

The black engine built about 50 years ago, has 7-foot-high driver wheels, a big round boiler and the engineer's cab at the rear," Wyatt said. None like it are still in service and this is the only one the U.P. has maintained in prime working order.

Nielgel said she is willing to do whatever it takes as a trustee to help to leave Pocatello at 9 a.m. pulling about 15 passenger cars. "We're using it to take some of our employees and major shippers for a ride across the railroad," Wyatt said.

In Shoshone, the engine will have to be oiled and a few passengers will board. "A short-while later, it will pass non-stop through Gooding and Bliss."

The 844 is scheduled to make its return run on May 26.

most critical issues facing the district are the 10-year plant-facility levy and long-term plans for new school buildings.

"We have three high schools approaching 40 years of age and one that is almost 100 years old," Fletcher said. "We need to be making plans about what we'll do with those schools—it will be a costly endeavor."

Rasmussen has five children in four different area schools. He is worried that there may be a drug problem in the district's schools and that it needs to be examined.

"And I feel we need a more listening ear on the school board. I feel strongly about a trustee being one to listen to his constituents and the suggestions they make."

Rasmussen is an assistant office manager at Amalgamated Sugar. He'll want to help the district better educate its children.

"Our district spends too much time with administrative and faculty problems and not enough time teaching the kids, and that is the function of our schools."

Hill also wants more emphasis placed on such areas as drama and music, "not just on the athletic program."

Hill works for the state transportation department.

The Zone 4 trustee position will be for two years. Incumbent Bruce Bowen is running because he wants to complete the term he was appointed to a year ago when Mike Judd resigned.

Bowen is being challenged by Robert Harris, Dennis Byington, Katherine Bryan and Curtis Pope.

"I feel, as a citizen, I need to support our community and be involved in the welfare of my kinds," says Bowen.

Bowen says there are many issues that need to be pursued, "but the main issue is the kids. They need to be treated equally and they all need a fair shot at getting a good education."

Bowen farms in the Burley area.

Pope is a certified public accountant with four children in Cassia County schools. He says he has no axes to grind, but he is concerned about the way the district is progressing and what it needs to accomplish.

"I think the district needs to be a little bit more involved in over-all planning and I think I can be a positive influence in long-term planning and the operations of the school."

Bryan is a retired teacher with several grandchildren in school. She wants to use her experience and know-how as a teacher to benefit the board.

She said she's interested in class size in the primary grades, especially first and second grades, because too many students in the lower grades causes reading problems in the upper grades," she says.

"It is not humanly possible for a teacher to teach 28 kids to read in one class."

Byington agrees.

"We need to reduce the number of students in the class room in the lower or grade levels and pay more attention to the under achievers who end up dropping out," he says. "With seven children I haven't great interest in what is happening."

Byington believes the district needs new people who understand the role of the board. Byington is an attorney with Jenkins Law Offices in Burley.

Harris is running for trustee because he is concerned about the quality of education his children are getting.

"I think the people of the district, especially in Zone 4, need an objective representative who can look at all sides of the issue and speak for all the people," he says. "I don't think we have had that in the past."

Harris owns and operates the Burley and Rupert theaters.

State officials also are negotiating with U.S. Department of Energy officials over a request for an additional 250 cubic feet per second for activities at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

Negotiations center on the intended purpose of the original reservation and the implications in water rights of that purpose, Shuw said.

In other business the board heard a report from the Water Resources Department's energy division on construction standards for energy-efficient homes.

Standards for electrically heated homes could reduce energy requirements by one-third to one-half while increasing construction costs by only $1,200 to $1,800, said Gerry D. Galinato, the division's resources section manager.

The conservation standards in these energy-efficient building codes, known as Model Conservation Standards, have several Magic Valley examples, including Minidoka, Burley, Rupert, Declo, Albion and Heyburn.

More than 325 Idaho homes have been built according to Northwest Energy Code standards, which include the Model Conservation Standards compiled by the Northwest Power Planning Council.

Catholic Church tougher with unmarried cohabiting couples

By the Associated Press

The Roman Catholic Church is taking a harder line toward cohabiting couples seeking traditional church weddings, but is making it easier than ever before for Catholics to wed by other means.

A new handbook on marriage preparation drawn up by a committee of U.S. bishops states priests are taking an increasingly confrontational approach toward cohabiting couples who "create an occasion of scandal for others by weakening the sanctity of marriage itself."

"You have to face the issue. We can't ignore it," said Bishop Phillip E. Straling of San Bernardino, Calif., chairman of an ad-hoc committee that drafted the handbook titled "Faithful to Each Other Forever." Marriage is not just a convenience, but a sacrament, published May 8, strives to take what its approach call a "counter-cultural" approach toward sexual ethics, the bishops take an ecumenical approach toward another social trend — interreligious marriages.

The handbook establishes guidelines encouraging cooperative relationships with non-Catholic clergy involved with the wedding and mandating religious freedom for both spouses, stating the wedding should never be the cause of any conversion.

Valerie Dillon, president of the National Association of Catholic

Diocesan Family Life Ministers and a consultant to the report, said interreligious marriages "are really serving as models of ecumenical growth," and they are "the wave of the future."

The 400-page handbook was drawn up by the Bishops' Committee for Pastoral Research and Practices for national episcopal conferences to issue norms for priests and others involved in marriage preparation in the 53 million-member denomination.

The handbook also was approved by the Administrative Committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The Denver City Council last week adopted a "living-in-sin" law as outmoded, but with the number of Americans living together before marriage tripling to 2 million in the period from 1970-84, priests have been losing their inhibitions about confronting cohabiting Catholics with traditional church teaching.

Monseigneur Joseph M. Champlin, the chief author of the marriage handbook, said in an interview.

"Twenty to 25 years ago, priests generally tended to overlook the fact they were living together," Champlin said. "It's like parents; sometimes it's better not to know what the kids are doing."

The new handbook states that while priests refrain concerning the sacrament of marriage, church leaders and clergy have increasingly adopted a more challenging, confrontational approach to cohabiting couples.

The negative statistics and development of statistics that certainly contributed to that development, as well as the potential injury to the sanctity of marriage. Since 1984, the dioceses of St. Cloud, Minn., and Cleveland have established policies encouraging cohabiting couples to separate completely. Champlin said such dioceses have decided that to have a big ceremony with a great drama of marriage is like making a mockery of marriage itself."

Methodist seminar set

KIMBERLY — The Rev. Ray Wright, pastor of the Whitney United Methodist Church in Boise, will present a special two day seminar on "Rekindling The Flame," at the Kimberly United Methodist Church, at the corner of Madison and Chestnut in downtown Kimberly. Pastor Wright, who is a British minister working temporarily in the United States, will begin the sessions at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday. The seminar centers on the Rev. Wright's approach to re-vitalization of the United Methodist Church and John Wesley Methodism, both in the local church and the denomination nation wide. The public is invited to attend, and a free offering will be taken.

AMA president: Doctors will remain scarce in rural areas

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Rural communities across the country will continue to have problems attracting doctors unless liability insurance costs decrease and Medicare reimbursements are made more equitable, the president of the American Medical Association says.

Dr. Alan R. Nelson said Friday that many doctors are forced to quit practicing in rural towns because of the high cost of insurance.

"It's not economically feasible to continue to provide those services," Nelson said in an interview before speaking at the annual meeting of the New Mexico Medical Society. "They're moving out of rural hospitals because they can't continue to practice in light of liability costs." Nelson, a Salt Lake City internist and endocrinologist, said skyrocketing malpractice insurance costs are the single largest factor keeping young people from pursuing a career in medicine.

In Florida, for example, insurance costs run as high as $200,000 a year for doctors in some fields, he said.

"How could a young person open an office and come up with $200,000?" Nelson said. "When I counsel medical classes I tell the students their future is extremely bright, but we must solve the malpractice insurance problem."

Malpractice complaints ruin a doctor-patient relationship because an association once based on caring and trust is replaced by suspicion and fear, he said.

"The economic rewards of being a physician are being undermined so drastically by this," Nelson said. "Once it happens, physicians never have the same sense of confidence and fulfillment as before."

The AMA has recommended that instead of suing doctors, patients' negligence complaints should be handled in a way similar to workers' compensation claims. Nelson said the AMA favors establishing a hearing panel that would determine whether a patient's claim had merit and, if it found the complaint was justified, would award damages promptly and without all the circus atmosphere."

Boise State nursing program wins approval

BOISE (AP) — The baccalaureate nursing program at Boise State University, which had some problems three years ago, has been reauthorized for eight years by the National League of Nursing.

"We have turned things around and are back on track," said Anne Payne, chairperson of the nursing department and associate dean of the College of Health Science. An accreditation team identified deficiencies in the program during a 1986 visit. League officials returned for another visit last fall.

Tribes considers creating own school district

FORT HALL (AP) — While state officials look for ways to reduce the number of Idaho school districts through consolidation, some members of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes are considering creating a new district on their reservation.

Failure to obtain the money needed to build a school on the Fort Hall Reservation has generated the debate over a new tax or creation of a state-supported school district as the way to secure the $2 million for the project.

Utah Olympics foe publishes book

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Alexis Kelner, conservationist and longtime foe of Utah's bid to host the Winter Games, says he will unveil a book later this month concerning the state's courting of the Olympics.

The release during the week of May 22 of the book, titled "Utah's Olympics Circus," will come just two weeks before city officials travel to Des Moines, Iowa, June 4 to make their final sales pitch to the U.S. Olympics Committee.

The committee will hear presentations from Salt Lake City, Anchorage, Denver and Reno, Nev., and then select one of the four cities as the United States' candidate for the 1998 Winter Games.

Kelner said the general message of his book is that the Olympics are a costly deal. Unless you have a rich sugar daddy, you ought not to be in-involved."

The 80-page paperback book includes written text and nearly three-dozen cartoons aimed primarily at "keeping the dialogue alive" surrounding the Games and its approval or disapproval during a fall Olympics referendum.

Kelner said that if Salt Lake City wins its bid, proceeds from sales of his book will go toward continuing a vigorous public debate during the forthcoming statewide Olympics referendum.

The book is dedicated to the Roman emperor Flavius Theodosius, who banned the Olympic Games in the Fourth Century. It focuses on the history of the Olympic Games and Salt Lake City's six Winter Olympics bids.

In past Winter Olympics, Kelner writes, hosting cities drained public coffers of millions of dollars. Winter Games in Squaw Valley, Calif., cost taxpayers nine times the original $15 million in public money while hosting the 1980 Winter Games, he asserts.

The history of Winter Games is one of expansive increases in Olympic budgets, Kelner contends.

For example, the original cost projections for the 1988 Winter Olympics in Calgary, Canada, totaled $415 million. By the end of the Games, the budget had swollen to $770 million, including contributions totaling $425 million from the Canadian government.

That public subsidy prompted Kelner to question whether the Calgary Games, which boasted a $22 million surplus, were indeed a financial success.

American personnel Troops mobile, trained for Panama conditions take refuge at bases

The Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, Panama — Hundreds of American military dependents evacuated their homes in Panama, and a U.S. military source said today that some Panamanians had joined them in taking refuge at U.S. military installations.

The first contingent of U.S. troops today headed for the Central American nation under orders of President Bush, who stepped up his offensive against Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega by ordering in 2,000 soldiers.

Fifty soldiers took off shortly after dawn from Travis Air Force Base in California.

Bush on Thursday also recalled U.S. Ambassador Arthur Davis to protest the annulling of Sunday's election and the beating of the opposition presidential and vice presidential candidates by supporters of Noriega.

Armed forces television announced there was no school today for the children of Americans in Panama. It also reminded guards at the gates of military installations to check identifications.

The State Department issued a travel advisory for Panama, saying Americans shouldn't travel in the country due to "extremely unsettled conditions."

The crisis convulsing this strategically important country occurred after the government halted the counting of ballots Wednesday and claimed its presidential candidate, handpicked by Noriega, held a 2-1 lead.

A team of international observers headed by former President Jimmy Carter said the opposition presidential candidate, Guillermo Endara, had won by a 3-to-1 measure despite widespread fraud.

Endara, who was severely beaten

Wednesday during a street protest by a group of about 2,000 youths and metal pipes, remained hospitalized today.

Several hundred U.S. diplomatic and military families on Thursday packed up emergency supplies of clothing and treasured keepsakes to seek refuge in one of the 10 American embassies.

A U.S. military source said today that since Monday night, more than 160 Panamanians, some with families, have been given refuge at U.S. military installations.

"We screen them to make sure they have reasons to seek refuge," the source said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

"They are here because they have shown that they are in physical danger for political reasons. Some of them eventually may be granted political asylum. Others probably will return to Panama if the situation settles," said the source.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Terry Knochen said there were no direct threats against U.S. personnel but that in the past the Panamanian government has publicized the neighborhoods where Americans live.

U.S. government figures put the number of embassy dependents in Panama at 152. There are about 10,000 military dependents in Panama, lives of those, according to U.S. Southern Command figures.

In addition, there are another 20,000 American civilians living in Panama, most of them retirees or in private business. Representatives of American businesses based in Panama, once a leading international financial center, were urged to evacuate their families.

Opposition vice-presidential candidate Ricardo Arias Calderon called the sending in of American troops "a U.S. policy provoked by Noriega."

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Most of the military units being sent to Panama by President Bush in Operation Nimrod Dancer are rapidly deployable and trained in the peculiar military terrain that they are likely to encounter in Central America.

The initial wave of deployments to Panama will bring more than 1,000 lightly-armed foot soldiers into Panama quickly. But a second wave of troops will introduce both heavier firepower and the kind of armored transportation U.S. troops will need to evacuate civilians if the violence in Panama's recent escalates.

With the addition of 1,781 U.S. soldiers, 10,000 already in place in Panama, U.S. forces would be better able to repulse an attack on U.S. bases and the Panama Canal if the Panamanian Defense Forces tried to mount an assault, U.S. officials said.

They are combat troops. They are there to protect American lives and, if necessary, to protect the Panama Canal," said national security adviser Brent Scowcroft. But Scowcroft added that the troops also would be used to exercise "one of the important treaty rights... the right of unimpeded travel for official convoys and troops throughout the country."

One defense official said that while the troops would probably travel on some Panamanian streets, he warned that "they're not there to bait anybody."

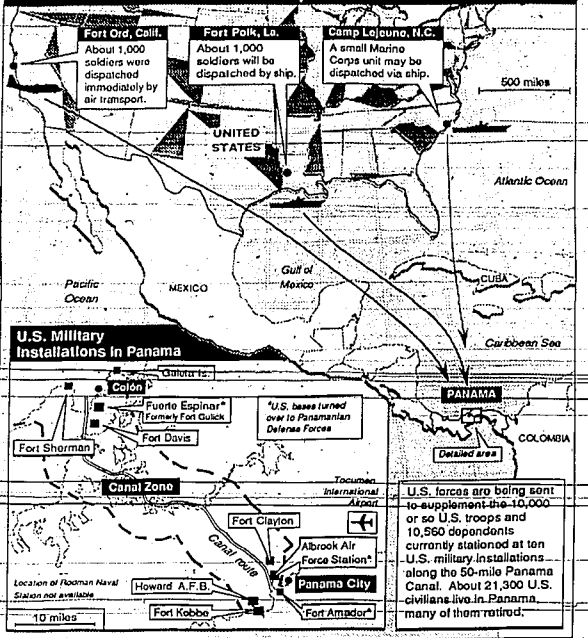

Two battalions from the Army's 7th Light Infantry Division and a company from the Marine Corps' 2nd Expeditionary Force — a total of 1,055 troops expected to begin arriving by Friday have trained extensively in Central America.

In March 1988, when Nicaraguan Sandinista forces allegedly made incursions into Honduras, the Reagan administration dispatched two battalions of the 7th Light Infantry Division to Honduras in an "emergency readiness exercise" called Operation Golden Phoenix.

Elements of the Marine Corps' 2nd Expeditionary Force, ordered to leave Camp Lejeune, N.C., immediately for Panama, deploy routinely to the troubled-Central American nation, where they hone their skills in fighting brushfire wars at the Army's Jungle Warfare Training School.

Both units are among the military's quick-reaction forces, moving in trouble spots lightly armed and highly mobile. While the Army's light in-

OAS calls for meeting to discuss 'serious crisis' in Panama

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Organization of American States permanent council approved unanimously on Friday a Venezuelan proposal to call for a meeting to discuss the "serious crisis" in Panama.

Approval came after a two-hour meeting that featured expressions of deep concern over the tumultuous situation in Panama since last Sunday's national elections.

But many of the 31 delegates urged caution, citing OAS charter provisions asserting that the principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of member countries must be respected.

Panama's representative, Carlos Russell, used the occasion to blast U.S. actions, saying "We will not bow to the colossus of the north."

The U.S. delegate, William Pryce, said that in the interest of the people of Panama the OAS must raise its collective voice "against the dictator Noriega and demand that he respect the will of the courageous people of Panama."

Elsewhere, President Bush's national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, said U.S. officials were talking with other governments about where Panamanian leader Manuel Antonio Noriega might go, and he accepted if "he can be persuaded to step down from power."

Scowcroft, speaking with reporters while on route to Texas with Bush for a speech, declined to say which countries were involved in the discussions.

Meanwhile, U.S. combat troops began arriving in Panama, one day after Bush pledged to increase forces there to protect American citizens.

A C-141 cargo plane arrived in early afternoon carrying Marines and ammunition, and other troops were being loaded. They marked the first wave of Marine reinforcements from Camp Lejeune, N.C., and Army troops from the 7th Light Infantry Division at Fort Ord, Calif., arriving as part of the Defense Department's operation, dubbed 'Nimrod Dancer.'

Bush, reacting to post-election violence, announced the deployment Thursday of 2,000 combat troops to Panama to augment the 10,000 American service personnel stationed there.

There were also suggestions from Capitol Hill on Friday: —Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., urged the administration to engage in informal discussions with Panamanian military forces to press them to oust Noriega.

"I would like to see the military themselves... I want to word this carefully — urge him to step aside," Nunn said at a news conference. "I think that would be in their best interest."

Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., said the United States should organize a multinational army drawn chiefly from Latin American nations for force as needed in Panama.

He told the Senate that such a force would serve the dual purpose of supplementing U.S. forces already in Panama and of showing Latin American support for Bush's condemnation of Noriega's actions.

The United States should take the appropriate steps to assure that Noriega is removed from power," Heflin said.

At the OAS meeting, Panama's delegate, Russell, expressed support for the Venezuelan resolution but demanded that next Wednesday's meeting address "all aspects of the Panamanian crisis," including what he described as a systematic pattern of American interference in his country.

He cited reports alleging that the Bush administration donated $10 million to the opposition candidate's campaign. He also said that the U.S.

government had funded a clandestine anti-government radio operation, that preparations are being made to scuttle the Panama Canal treaties and that U.S. military forces in Panama are engaged in hostile military maneuvers.

The U.S. delegate at the session, Pryce, said impassively a few feet away from Russell as the Panamanian delivered his scathing attack.

"We will not bow to the colossus of the north," Russell said, speaking through a translator.

Pryce was more measured in his remarks, most of which consisted of excerpts from Bush's Thursday speech, in which he outlined U.S. policy toward Panama in the aftermath of Sunday's election and Panama's decision to throw out the results.

Briefly

Friday Bruin-Spartan game is rained out

TWIN FALLS — Friday's scheduled Region III Class A-1 high school baseball tournament game between Twin Falls and Minico was rained out Friday and will be played today.

Game time is 1 p.m. at Harmon Park. The winner will advance to an inter-regional playoff against the runnerup from Region IV on Monday for the right to move on to the state tournament.

Friday's Canyon Conference is rescheduled for Monday

TWIN FALLS — Rain washed out Friday's scheduled Canyon Conference track meet.

The meet has been rescheduled for Monday at 1 p.m. at Bruin Stadium.

Half of District 4 Class B tennis match is rained out

JEROME — The District 4 Class B tennis match was washed out midway through the first round on Friday.

Jerome tennis coach Ken Wright said the tournament would be completed today, weather permitting.

Murtaugh, Raft River win MVC titles

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

JEROME — That Murtaugh captured the boys' portion of Friday's Magic Valley Conference track meet with 79 points to spare failed to surprise.

And while the Raft River girls 136-128-105 team victory over Hagerman and Shoshone could be termed only mild as upsets go, that the Trojans pulled it off with a team composed of 75 percent freshman was an eye-opener indeed.

The Red Devils' were untouchable as Evan Nebeker claimed his initial win of the day in the high jump — junior classmate Kelly Rovig was second — then moved to the track for firsts in both hurdles, where he was seconded by teammate Forrest Andersen.

Capping a perfect day, Nebeker added the opening leg of his team's victorious 4x100-meter relay.

The Reiman brothers, Chad and Bobby, kept Murtaugh's one-two punch alive at 3,200 meters and Shannon Widmire (shot put) and Eric Andersen (discus) added victories.

There were third through sixth points aplenty as well for the winners. Enough to uplet the Devils past Shoshone 170-91 with Hansen and Raft River knotted for third place with 80.

Shoshone's Richard Shimer, 200 and 400-meter dashes, Shawn Butler of Hagerman (800 and 1600-meters) and triple jump 100-meter dash champion Kyle Allen of Hansen all doubled in the victory column on Friday.

For the girls, it was Angie Hibbard, a

Shoshone sophomore, nearly matching Nebeker's point production with firsts in all three sprints and a second-place finish in the long jump and Hagerman senior Nikki McCammon leading the way across the hurdles, including a personal and MVC best of 54.4, in the intermediates.

With just four upperclassmen on the squad, the Raft River girls just managed to hold off an older, but slightly thinner, Bivette contingent and the upstart Indians.

According to Raft River coach Clela

L.A. slips by Sonics, leads series, 3-0

By JIM COUR
The Associated Press

SEATTLE — The Los Angeles Lakers, with Magic Johnson and Michael Cooper making four free throws each, hit 10 in the final 3:19 Friday night to beat the Seattle SuperSonics 91-88 for a 3-0 lead in their NBA Western Conference semifinal series.

The two-time defending league champion Lakers beat the Sonics for the 11th straight time in the playoffs and can clinch the best-of-7 series with a victory Sunday.

The Lakers, who swept the Sonics in 1987, were held to three baskets in the fourth quarter, but won with their late free-throw shooting.

James Worthy and Byron Scott led the Lakers with 20 and 17 points, respectively, while Johnson contributed 14 assists and 10 points.

Dale Ellis had 30 points for the Sonics, who rallied for 12 straight points to pull within 81-80 on a driving layup by Sedale Threatt with 3:39 remaining.

Johnson hit a pair of free throws with 3:19 to go. Jerry Reynolds of the Sonics answered with a basket with 1:23 left, but Johnson made two more free throws with 1:21 remaining.

A.C. Green's two-free-throwers gave the Lakers an 87-82 lead with 52 seconds left and Xavier McDaniel answered with a basket for the Sonics.

Cooper made four free throws in the final 31 seconds and Ellis scored on a tip-in with 10 seconds to go.

State's best vie in T.F. Classic

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — There will be team trophies available — and Centennial and Highland are first in line for those — and some of the best individual talent in the state on display when the Twin Falls Track Classic is run at today Bruin Stadium.

Bringing together 16 of the state's 21 largest schools, in many respects this one is better than the state finals because the elimination of qualifying will not have taken place. Field events and such preliminaries that are necessary will begin at 11 a.m. with the running finals starting at 2 p.m.

What the Classic does is put the best eight in each individual event from the Gem State and Southern Idaho conferences head-to-head. While it always provides excellent spectating, its major purpose is to allow coaches to make final decisions on where to place individual and relay talent for optimum results through regional and state competition.

Both sides enjoyed good weather for last weekend's qualifying meets and conference finals. Both had fair skies and little to now wind with perhaps the best temperatures of the spring to that point.

But comparisons by times are not always that accurate because Nampa's Bulldog bowl has traditionally been one of the top time producing tracks in the state.

If one uses those times, however, it appears a fairly good mix of eastside-vestside individual leaders. But a lot of the auxiliary points headed for the SIC school.

The individuals coming are impressive. A major test arises in the girls' sprints between Highland's Julie Briggs and Meridian's Laura Johnson. Briggs has

KATARINA WITT In Sun Valley this summer

Witt to skate in Sun Valley

The Times-News

SUN VALLEY — Two-time Olympic gold medalist Katarina Witt will skate here this summer as part of the ice show series at the Sun Valley Skating Center.

Witt, an East German who won the gold medals at the 1984 and 1988 Winter Olympics, is scheduled to skate on Saturday, Aug. 5, in a show with Canadian ice dancers Tracy Wilson and Robert McCall, and on Friday, Aug. 11, and Saturday, Aug. 12, with 1984 Olympic gold medalist Scott Hamilton.

Also scheduled to appear this summer are reigning world ladies' singles champion Midori Ito of Japan and current world pairs champions Marina Klimova and Sergei Ponomarenko of the Soviet Union.

Ito, Klimova and Ponomarenko are scheduled to skate on Friday, July 21, and Saturday, July 22.

Other skating notables slated to appear this summer are 1988 Olympic bronze medalist Viktor Petrenko of the Soviet Union, 1964 and 1968 Olympic gold medalists Oleg and Ljudmila Protopopov of the Soviet Union, 1968 Olympic gold medalist Brian Boitano, 1988 Olympic silver medalist Brian Orser and 1988 Olympic bronze medalist Debi Thomas.

The schedule will start on Saturday, June 17, will Gary Beaumont, the professional

Jerome expected to dominate conference meets

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

JEROME — The annual double function that usually ends up with Jerome having four new trophies to put in the school showcase will be run today at the Murray O'Rourke Tiger Stadium.

It is the combined Cross State and South-Central Idaho conference track meets, which has double and triple meet status across the state and within Magic Valley.

The events are scored by deleting the non-SIC members from the larger Cross State performances.

The Cross State includes Caldwell, Mountain Home, Buhl, Jerome, Wood River, Burley, South Fremont and Shelley. The SIC is composed of Buhl, Jerome, Wood River and Burley.

The field events and 3,200-meter run will begin at 10 a.m. today with the running finals slated for 2 p.m.

Jerome's boys have never lost an SIC title and have won at least the last 10 Cross State titles. Jerome's girls have won both conference titles for the last six years.

"Actually, a person hates to go into a meet this size over-confident but I suppose we should be favored," says Jerome boys' coach Tim Dunne — with some pretty good reasons.

The Tigers have been whipping up on a lot of people and now are starting to get some of their key people back.

For instance, John Gourley is back for the sprints and should be favored in all three.

"He is still taking his therapy because the pulled leg muscle muscle is still a little bit tight. But he's close to 100 percent — maybe just a little leery of trying that little extra. Still, he ran 10.9 and 22.4 last week," said Dunne.

Junior sprinter Doug Stuhlbarg is back for the second week, having posted a 51.4 last week in the 400. And Aaron Meyer, Jerome's hurdler who participated in the Tigers' first meet only, will test a stress fracture in flat races.

He will not hurdle.

"Basically these things will bolster our relays and give us a chance to see what we need to do to get ready for district next week," Dunne said.

The team race may be a little tighter in the girls' division.

Coach Skip Andrew is expecting strong competition from Caldwell and Mountain Home.

Mahler's 5-hit shutout gives Reds win over Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ritek Mahler had complete control over his pitches and the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night.

Mahler pitched a five-hitter and Barry Larkin drove in two runs as the Cincinnati Reds beat the National League East-leading Cardinals 5-0. It was the fourth straight win for Mahler, 5-3, who struck out two and didn't allow a walk.

Mahler lowered his earned-run average to 2.35 as Cincinnati's new five-game home winning streak. It was Mahler's second shutout this season and eighth of his career.

Houston-3 ChiCubs 1

CHICAGO (AP) — Gerald Young stole home and drove in a run, and Jim Deshaies pitched a four-hitter, leading the Houston Astros to a 3-1 victory Friday over the Chicago Cubs. The Astros missed the base on losing a run while the Cubs lost their third straight game.

Deshaies' 52-run his string of scoreless innings to 15 before Chicago scored in the sixth inning when Darrin Jackson stole home two out. Deshaies, who shut out the New York Mets in his previous start, struck out four and walked three.

San Diego 4 N.Y. Mets 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvell Wynne's run-scoring single snapped a 12th-inning tie and New York committed five errors Friday night as the San Diego Padres beat the Mets 4-3.

Tony Gwynn led off the 12th with a groundout to first, but reliever Roger McDowell, 0-1, missed the base on a throw from Keith Hernandez. Gwynn stole second and scored on Wynne's single to right, with Wynne taking second on a throwing error by

Major Leagues

Kansas City 4 Texas 3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Pat Tabler and Jim Eisenreich drove in two runs each Friday night, leading the Kansas City Royals over the Texas Rangers 4-3.

Charlie Leibrandt, 3-4, gave up two runs on 10 hits through seven innings and maintained his mastery over Texas at home. The left-hander is 7-2 lifetime against the Rangers and has won his last five starts against them at home.

San Francisco 2 Montreal 1

MONTREAL (AP) — Rick Reuschel won his 200th game and Donnell Nixon had an RBI single Friday night for the San Francisco Giants beat the Montreal Expos 2-1.

Reuschel, who will pitch 40 next week, became the 86th pitcher in major league history to reach the 200-victory plateau.

Reuschel, 62, had a shutout until he gave up an RBI single to Hubie Brooks with two outs in the ninth. Gossage relieved and picked up his second save when pinch-runner Otis Nixon tried to steal second on his first pitch to Tim Wirtz and was thrown out by catcher Terry Kennedy.

Philadelphia 3 Los Angeles 0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ken Howell allowed four hits in seven innings and pinch-hitter Mark-Ryal singled in the go-ahead run in the seventh inning Friday night as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-0.

Howell, 4-1, struck out seven and walked three before giving way to Steve Bedrosian, who pitched the final two innings to pick up his third save.

Boston 2 Seattle 0

SEATTLE (AP) — Roger Clemens again stopped Seattle, pitching a two-hitter for his 19th career shutout as the Boston Red Sox beat the Seattle Mariners 2-0 Friday night.

Clemens, 5-1, defeated the Mariners for the fifth straight time and has not allowed them an earned run in 37 innings since July 11, 1987. He is 7-3 lifetime against Seattle, including a 20-strikeout performance in 1986.

Baltimore 9 ChiSox 6

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore matched its season high with 14 hits and Mickey Tettleton drove in three runs for the second straight game as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Chicago White Sox 9-6 Friday night.

Cleveland 3 Pittsburgh 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Keith Moreland hit a three-run homer and an RBI double and Jack Morris won his second straight game Friday night as the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 3-1.

Morris, 2-0, has won twice within a week after six straight losses. He pitched a six-hitter in his fourth complete game, striking out five and walking two to improve his career record against Cleveland to 2-0.

Atlanta 2 Pittsburgh 1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Glenn Pittson's two-run double keyed Pittsburgh's first-run third inning and Bobby Bonilla went 3-for-4 with three RBIs Friday night as the Atlanta Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

Pittson, 2-0, has won twice within a week after six straight losses. He pitched a six-hitter in his fourth complete game, striking out five and walking two to improve his career record against Cleveland to 2-0.

Minnesota-6 Toronto 5

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Kent Hrbek hit a home run and a double, striking out five and walking one in the seventh inning Friday night that led the Minnesota Twins over the Toronto Blue Jays 6-5.

Detroit takes 2-0 lead over Milwaukee

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons simply were looking for a job when John Salley took over and went to all the way to meltdown Friday night.

Isiah Thomas keyed a third-quarter run and Salley came off the bench to score 16 points in the final period as the Pistons beat the Milwaukee Bucks 94-92 on a 20-10 run in the fourth quarter.

The Twins won their third straight game. They led to the winning streak, they had lost 13 of 15.

Trailing 5-3 in the seventh, Hrbek, Gene Larkin and Carmen Castillo hit consecutive singles for a run. Brian Harper's sacrifice fly tied it and two wild pitches by David Wells' 1-2 and an intentional walk loaded the bases.

In the final 12 minutes, as their reserves outscored the Bucks' 3-2 in the period and 6-38 for the game. Salley finished with 23 points and another reserve, Vinnie Johnson, had 21.

"Salley was outstanding," Milwaukee coach Del Harris said. "I haven't seen him shoot the ball that well from the outside. He was the difference."

"Their bench is very good. But when you're down to nine players and four out of them are allowing them to take advantage of you."

Bob Heyem of Boise is the big shotup favorite but Madison junior Randy Brock hit 159 feet, 1 inch in the discus and rules there.

The high jump is up for grabs among 10 jumpers and the height will not be spectacular. The long jumper will average over 44 feet in the triple jump and 21-6 in the long jump.

Brad Denny of Madison hit .145 in the puel vault last week and leads an eastern contingent of five 13-foot-plus vaulters. The best in the west cleared 12.6 last week.

Relays times in both divisions will be in beating Centennial won all but the relay at Nampa in 1:29.5 in the 800, 45.56 in the 400 and 3:23.6 in the 1600. Idaho Falls' 43.5 in the 400 is the only better one. The medley was won by Borah in 3:46.6 last week but that was after Dadds tripped and fell on the last exchange but got up in time to post a second by two-tenths of a second.

CSI can earn top seed in regionals

By STEVE CRUMP

TWIN FALLS.—The College of Southern Idaho can wrap up the top seed from the northern division in next week's Region 18 junior college baseball tournament by winning one out of two games today.

CSI coach Jim Walker views that as no small order. "They're in the thick of it as far as the race for getting to regionals is concerned," said Walker, whose Eagles will host the Vikings in a 1 p.m. regular season ending tonight at Frontier Field. "They'll come in with fire in their eyes."

As it stands this morning CSI is 22-16 for the season and leads the northern division of Region 18 with a 23 record. Ricks, 9-16 in the year, is tied with Treasure Valley Community College for second place in the divisional standings at 8-5.

North Idaho, which plays a doubleheader against TVCC in Ontario, Ore. this afternoon, is 3-7. A Ricks sweep today would give the Vikings the No. 1 seed from the north in the Region 18 tournament, which begins next Thursday in St. George, Utah, on the home diamond of southern division champion Dixie.

A split here today combined with a TVCC sweep of North Idaho would put the Chukars into the regional playoffs behind CSI. If TVCC wins TVCC both split today, the Vikings would go to the regional tournament as the No. 2 seed by virtue of a better record against CSI this season.

In any case, the Eagles need to be done a trip to regionals. Walker will send freshman left-hander Steve Cooke (3-2) to the mound in today's opening against Ricks sophomore right-hander Brad Brimhall (4-2). In the matchup, the sophomore will counter with either sophomore right-hander Tom Cheek (7-2) or sophomore right-hander Rob Kuita (3-1) against Ricks freshman right-hander Greg Ehrardt (2-4).

Competition will begin at 8:30 this morning at Frontier Field, with the championship matches scheduled for mid-afternoon. In case of rain, the tournament will be moved inside to the Junior Hills Racquet Club and Idaho State University's indoor courts, with most matches probably to be decided in eight-game pro sets.

The top three singles finishers and top three doubles teams will move to the state Class A tournament in Sun Valley next week.

Rams expected to dominate tennis

POCATELLO.—Highland remains the overwhelming favorite but Twin Falls High School tennis team got some unexpected good news out of the seeding meeting for today's Region 11 Class A high school tennis tournament.

The Bruins, who have won just twice this season in dual match competition, had their lead boys' and girls' singles players, junior Eric Smith and senior Tom Sinclair, seeded first by the coaches. Sinclair is the defending Region III girls' singles champion; Smith finished third with former teammate Eric Robbins in boys' doubles a year ago.

"Eric was 31 in our district and Toni was 31, but the opposite of Toni in this region this season are playing doubles, which gives you an idea of how deep Highland and Pocatello are," said TRHS coach John Heithecker. "Still, there's no doubt that it helps their chances of getting seeded."

Burley junior Matt Taylor and senior Matt Green, undefeated in the three matches they've played together this spring, are seeded first in boys' doubles.

Competition will begin at 8:30 this morning at Frontier Field, with the championship matches scheduled for mid-afternoon. In case of rain, the tournament will be moved inside to the Junior Hills Racquet Club and Idaho State University's indoor courts, with most matches probably to be decided in eight-game pro sets.
