Congress will fund reactor at INEL, says Stallings

The Associated Press

BOISE — Rep. Richard Stallings is predicting that Congress will provide preliminary funding for a tritium-producing reactor in Idaho this year, despite a government report discrediting plans for the project.

Stallings said the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory's superior safety record makes it better suited as a site than a facility in Washington state favored in a recent report by the Government Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress.

In August, the DOE proposed building one NPR at the Savannah River Plant near Aiken, S.C., and a second one at the INEL. "I believe very strongly that you'll see this year funding for NPR, both at the Savannah River facility and at INEL," Stallings said Friday at a gathering of Idaho business leaders. But the Idaho Democrat said he was not as optimistic about the outcome of another proposed project for the INEL, the Special Isotope Separator.

The GAO report says an NPR at the INEL would take 16 years to build and would only provide half of the Energy Department's tritium needs. Tritium is a radioactive hydrogen isotope used in nuclear weapons.

However, the GAO said converting an idled Washington Public Power Supply System reactor at Hanford would cost two-thirds of a new plant, take less time to complete and supply 80 percent of the DOE's tritium needs.

The agency estimated that the WPPSS No. 1 plant could be converted in seven years at a cost of $2.2 billion. The INEL plant would cost $3.6 billion to build.

But Stallings questioned the GAO's estimate for the Hanford site, saying that the figure does not include the cost of the federal government acquiring the WPPSS reactor. That could cost as much as a half billion dollars and tie the government up in litigation.

Though the Savannah River Plant would provide all of the nation's tritium needs, Stallings said the United States should not rely on only one production site.

Stallings said environmentalists concerned about the production of plutonium and fiscal conservatives hoping to save $1 billion are both questioning the need for the SIS, a laser-driven refiner to produce weapons plutonium.

"The future of the Special Isotope Separator of things very much in the balance," he said.

Stallings spoke at the 1989 Congressional Dialogue sponsored by the Idaho Association of Commerce & Industry, the Independent Employers Council and the National Association of Manufacturers.

At the same conference, Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, urged business interests to band together to counter organized and well-funded environmental efforts that he said threaten Idaho jobs and development.

Trade deficit sinks by 13% in quarter

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States enjoyed its best trading performance in four years from January through March as the deficit fell 13.7 percent to $27.63 billion, the government reported Friday.

The Commerce Department said that a decline in non-oil imports and the highest level of farm exports in almost eight years helped to lower the deficit from the fourth quarter level of $32.02 billion.

Propelled by the higher farm sales, exports jumped 5.7 percent in the first quarter to a new record of $88.9 billion.

Imports hit an all-time high as well of $116.13 billion, but the 0.3 percent increase was much smaller than the pace of export expansion.

Friday's report on merchandise trade as calculated on a balance of payments basis confirmed an improvement already noted in the Commerce Department's monthly merchandise trade reports.

The totals are slightly different because the new report excludes military sales by the U.S. government to foreign governments and makes other minor adjustments to the monthly figures.

While the Bush administration and some analysts are looking for the first quarter trade improvement to continue, other private economists expressed fears that deficit will begin widening in coming months.

They are particularly worried about the strength in the dollar, which makes American products more expensive on overseas markets, and rising oil prices, which boost the country's foreign oil bill.

Cynthia Latta, an economist with Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass., predicted that the trade deficit for the entire year will be essentially unchanged from the $127.22 billion deficit in 1988.

"While agricultural sales were up sharply in the first quarter, that sector is really threatened by the strength in the dollar because there are so many other countries willing to supply the products if the American price becomes uncompetitive," she said.

But Allen Sinai, chief economist of the Boston Co., said he was more optimistic that the U.S. trade deficit would continue narrowing this year, helped out by faster growth overseas and slower U.S. growth, which would cut the demand for imports.

"So long as the economies of the world stay strong, there is every reason to believe that our exports will keep doing well," he said.

The Bush administration is trying to help the process along with efforts to open foreign markets.

Rep. Lukens found guilty on sex charge

The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio — U.S. Rep. Donald Lukens was convicted Friday of having sex with a 16-year-old girl whose mother accused the congressman of offering a government job to buy her silence.

Hours after the verdict, one Ohio congressman called for Lukens' resignation, but an aide predicted he would seek reelection next year.

"I think he should do the gentlemanly thing and resign," said Rep. Chalmers Wylie, the senior Republican among Ohio's congressional delegation. Lukens also is a Republican.

A jury deliberated for 1 1/2 hours before finding Lukens guilty of contributing to the delinquency and untruthfulness of a minor, stemming from an incident last Nov. 6. The misdemeanor carries a maximum sentence of 180 days in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Lukens stood still, his hands pressed on the defense table and his mouth slightly open, as Franklin County Domestic Relations Judge Ronald Solove read the verdict.

The 35-year-old divorced congressman from Middletown was indicted Feb. 23, about three weeks after Columbus television station WSYX broadcast a secretly recorded videotape that appeared to show Lukens offering to find the girl's mother, Anna Coffman, a job. She had gone to the station to get help and agreed to the secret taping.

On the tape, the woman asked Lukens why he was "messing around" with her daughter, Rosie. Lukens replied, "Well, first of all, I didn't really know she was a teenager."

Toward the end of the tape, Lukens said, "Let me go back to Washington and see what there is part-time and so (inaudible). ... I don't know what, uh, the government has, but I can check and find out."

House Whip Coelho will resign soon

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., beset by a growing controversy over a 1986 financial investment, will resign his congressional seat, effective June 15, to spare himself, his family and the Democratic Party further ethical inquiries, senior congressional colleagues said Friday night.

His abrupt decision, coming on the heels of House Speaker Jim Wright's apparent plans to resign his position as the senior elected House Democrat because of a prolonged ethics committee inquiry into his financial dealings, throws the ranks of Democratic leaders into disarray and promises to bring a new generation of leaders to the House.

A close friend of Coelho's told The Washington Post of the whip's decision, saying "he was confident he hadn't done anything wrong, but he knew he would continue to be in the spotlight. He didn't feel it was something he wanted to put himself, his party or his family through."

Speaking of his decision in an interview with The New York Times, published Saturday, Coelho said, "I want to give my party a chance to move on," and said he does not intend to put either the Democratic Party or the House "through more turmoil. And more importantly, Coelho said, 'I don't intend to put my family through more turmoil.'"

Protestant Bible undergoes revision

Los Angeles Times

The Bible version most commonly used in mainline Protestant churches and in biblical scholarship has undergone a long-awaited editing to improve the English phrasing and to eliminate references to "man" when both sexes are meant.

The New Revised Standard Version, which will be available in bookstores next summer, was previewed by Bruce M. Metzger, who chaired the team of Christian and Jewish scholars that began working on the new edition in 1974.

The current version, which was first published nearly four decades ago, has such familiar lines as, "Man shall not live by bread alone." But the New Revised Standard Version committee decided to render the line as, "One shall not live by bread alone."

Metzger, an emeritus professor of New Testament at Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey, said in an interview this week that that change was made because it was "an unnecessary, restrictive use of the word 'man,' whereas the import was both men and women."

In the case of "O men of little faith," an expression attributed to Jesus in the Gospels of Matthew and Luke, Metzger said that the word for man was not even present in the Greek texts. The new translation will read, "O you of little faith."

Likewise, in the Gospel of John, the new edition has Jesus saying that when he is "lifted up from the earth," he will draw all "people" to him — not all "men" to him as the current edition says.

Metzger, 75, discussed the new edition last week in Lexington, Ky., at a meeting of the Governing Board of the National Council of Churches, which holds the

China's hardliners begin crackdown

The Baltimore Sun

BEIJING — The purging of Communist Party boss Zhao Ziyang is only the beginning of what is expected to be a widespread crackdown on China's liberals, diplomats said Friday.

Zhao, 69, is under virtual house arrest and is to be formally relieved of his job as the party's general secretary, perhaps as early as this weekend, diplomatic sources said Friday.

Also Friday, thousands of students had all but abandoned Tiananmen Square, leaving the central plaza at midnight locking its gates in 13 days. Earlier, some students voted to continue their protest in the square. But, with only a few thousand demonstrators remaining, it appeared the Tiananmen siege had lost much of its vitality.

Martial law remains in force, even though most of the city has returned to near normal. Thousands of soldiers remained poised on the edge of the city, and Premier Li Peng and President Yang Shangkun have said that the troops eventually will be brought into the capital.

Meanwhile, an obviously orchestrated campaign to support Li's martial law decree continued Friday, as state-run newspapers and the government radio and television gave wide publicity to various messages backing the order.

Communist Party members from all over China were "holding meetings to discuss and learn from Mr. Li Peng's and Mr. Yang Shangkun's speeches," the evening television news said Friday. "These speeches have expressed the desires and thought of the whole party and the people of all the nation."

Support for the martial law order also came from the Beijing military commanders, who had been the last holdouts in the nationwide call-by senior army leaders to enforce the martial law orders of Li and Yang.

It appeared that the earlier divisions in China's 3 million-member army on whether to use force against the Tiananmen Square protest had been resolved, at least temporarily, diplomats said.

The downfall of the moderate Zhao, who already has been stripped of his decision-making powers, follows an intense political struggle that is apparently being won by hard-line party conservatives led by Li.

Missionary slayings raise questions

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The machine gun slayings of two Mormon missionaries in Bolivia has sparked debate on whether the assassinations were carried out by leftists as reported, or possibly by rightists or drug lords upset with American efforts to eradicate coca crops, a newspaper says.

In its Friday editions, the Deseret News quoted unidentified government officials in Washington as saying many questions remain in a bloody wave of Wednesday night slayings in La Paz of Jeffrey Brent Ball and Todd Ray Wilson, both 20-year-old Utahns.

A Senate Foreign Affairs Committee official said the killings purportedly were carried out by a small clandestine group and nobody seems to really have a handle on it.

"One knows much about the ideology of the group, except that it issued a communiqué to several La Paz newspapers claiming responsibility for the missionary murders that shows it has anti-Yankee, anti-foreign sentiments," the source said.

Ball, of Coalville, and Wilson, of Wellington, were gunned down as they returned to their apartment in a poor neighborhood of La Paz. Authorities said the victims apparently were chosen at random.

Occupants of a small, yellow compact car drove to the apartment complex where the missionaries lived, firing into a crowd with 9mm weapons. No one else was injured.

The remains of Ball and Wilson were to be flown out of La Paz late Friday on a commercial flight, and were expected to arrive in Salt Lake City Saturday night, according to Utah Rep. Howard Nielson's office.

Federal services for Ball are planned noon Tuesday at the Coalville Stake Center. Wilson's funeral also is set for noon Tuesday, at the Wellington Stake Center.

Bolivian police said they have no suspects in the killings. The victims were among 400 Mormon missionaries in the South American nation.

In a statement released in La Paz, an obscure group called the Armed Liberation Front of Zarathe Wilka took responsibility for the slayings.

But State Department and congressional sources said that Mormon missionaries are unpopular with both the right and left in Bolivian politics, and someone from either side could have committed the slayings and pinned it on the Armed Liberation Front.

The group is the same one that claimed responsibility for a dynamite attack last December on the motorcade of then-Secretary of State George Shultz.

Senators add ethics questions to Alar debate

WASHINGTON — The debate over apples and Alar, generally confined until now to regulatory and scientific arenas, took a pointed turn last week when two senators broadened the debate to include charges of conflict of interest in the government's selecting its advisers people who are industry consultants.

Sens. Joseph I. Lieberman, D-Conn., and Harry M. Reid, D-Nev., charged that two members of the Environmental Protection Agency's scientific advisory panel on pesticides, only months after considering the Alar case, began working on behalf of the company that makes it, apparently in violation of the law.

The two EPA panelists could not be reached for comment. A spokesman for one of them said the charges may hinge on a matter of interpretation.

Perhaps more important, Lieberman and Reid said, seven of the eight members of the panel that weighed Alar, a carcinogen used on red apples, have been paid consultants to the chemical industry.

The scientific advisory panel, Reid said, "should have pediatricians on it. We should have public health officers on it. We need to have someone to represent the consumer. We don't have it."

Bruce Jaeger, executive secretary of the EPA advisory panel, disputed the suggestion that the panel's makeup is too narrow. "We have toxicologists, veterinary pathologists, environmental toxicologists, reproductive physiologists, microbiologists, entomologists, biochemists. The idea that these are all people in the 'chemical industry' is kind of strange; you have to take the broadest possible meaning of 'chemical industry.'"

Jaeger also noted that it is difficult to find experts who can handle technical issues and a burden for those who decide to serve on the panels. "More than half of those asked to serve turn down the chance," he said. Nominations came from the National Institutes of Health.

Ohio reels under widespread flooding

CINCINNATI (AP) — A temporary bridge collapsed Friday, plunging as many as four autos into the swollen Green Miami River, and the people inside were feared dead. A child was found dead in a creek flooded by widespread flooding in southwestern Ohio sent people scurrying to rooftops and high ground. One couple and their 10-year-old son were stranded on the roof of their house from morning until 5:30 p.m. when rescuers reached them by boat, the Butler County Sheriff's Department said. In Hamilton, rescuers used lifelines and boats to lead 30 occupants of a trailer park through chest-high water to safety. A total of 200 people were forced from their homes in the town of about 1,900 people southwest of Dayton.

Divers recovered the body of 20-month-old Brandon K. Irwin of Springfield in Daniels Creek, northeast of Dayton, about 7:30 p.m., the sheriff's department said.

Four hours earlier, authorities received a report that Brandon wandered away from his grandmother, fell into the creek from a bridge and was swept out by her ranch. Sheriff's Lt. Vaughn McKeeney said two helicopters were sent to search for the boy.

Swift currents and the danger of floating debris prevented rescuers from going into the river where the bridge collapsed near Middletown, about seven miles east of Cincinnati, authorities said.

called for by millions of demonstrators in the past two weeks, is backed by China's senior leader, Deng Xiaoping.

Diplomats say that Deng has decided on a massive purge of the liberal wing of the party because of the liberals' sympathetic views toward the masses of demonstrators who have beset the government for press freedom, better treatment of intellectuals and a crackdown on official corruption.

Diplomats say that Deng has concluded that a crackdown is necessary to preserve his hold in power.

"It could be a major setback for China," a Western diplomat said of the planned purge of Zhao's liberal supporters, who, in effect, represent the leaders of a decade-long liberalization of China's economic policy and opening to the outside world.

Li has promised that China's economic reform programs will not be threatened under the new leadership. However, the purges of Zhao and his protégés would deprive China of many of the younger, newer politicians who fueled the reforms.

Deng's crackdown follows nearly six weeks of student-led demonstrations that climaxed last week in a virtual revolt by Chinese workers and intellectuals who seized control of central Beijing. The demonstrators blocked troops sent by Li to enforce the martial law order in the capital.

Deng's purge of Zhao is the second time in 2 1/2 years that the 84-year-old paramount leader has removed from office the country's top Communist Party boss and his most likely successor.

In January 1987, Deng forced the resignation of party leader Hu Yaobang after much smaller demonstrations by anti-government students angered conservative politicians.

The liberal Hu fell and took a handful of other reform-minded figures with him. But, just as this year's upheaval was far larger than the 1986-1987 protests, so will the response be tougher, diplomats predicted.

"There will be a widespread clampdown," said an East European diplomat, who added that it could be "open season" on anyone considered closely aligned with Zhao's camp.

There has been no dearth of new Bible translations in recent decades, including versions produced especially for conservative Protestants or Catholics. Two best-sellers in Christian bookstores are the New King James Bible and the New International Version. But the Revised Standard Version is the standard in United Methodist and Presbyterian churches, for instance, and is the preferred version of mainstream biblical scholars.

The new Bible edition retains masculine references to God in keeping with the Hebrew and Greek words in biblical manuscripts. Thus, the committee differed from the "Parent" and "Kingdom" to "Realm" in biblical passages for the controversial "inclusive language" lectionaries published in the mid-1980s by a National Council of Churches agency. The "thees" and "thous" and "thys" common to English-language Bibles since the time of the King James Bible have been eliminated from the new edition.

changes in English vernacular: "The 53rd psalm now has a line: 'I will accept no bribe from your house. That has been altered to 'I will not accept a bribe from your house.'"

"The Song of Solomon's first chapter in the old edition says, 'I am very dark, but comely... The new version substitutes "and" for the word "but." "The Hebrew word wa, 49 times out of 50 is translated "and," Metzger said. "We felt we shouldn't allow the idea to surface that because you're black you couldn't be beautiful."

The original Revised Standard Version removed the antiquated language throughout the Old and New Testaments, except for the wording in prayers and in the psalms because "thy" and "thou" sounded appropriate in those cases.

"But the old RSV (Revised Standard Version) introduced a distinction that isn't there in the biblical manuscripts," Metzger said.

The translation team decided to give some stylistic changes that have been introduced into some other modern editions of the Bible. Metzger said that the new Revised Standard Version does not use contractions ("ton chatty") and does not capitalize the pronouns referring to God and Jesus (the Bibles did until recently).

USS Iowa sailor claims Navy wants scapegoat

MIAMI (AP) — The USS Iowa sailor linked to investigation of the massive explosion aboard the battleship Friday denied wrongdoing and charged the Navy was seeking a scapegoat.

Kendall Truitt, 21-year-old gunner's mate 3rd class, got high profile Miami attorney Ellis Rubin to represent him. Rubin warned that continued allegations against Truitt, from homosexuality to that he intentionally caused the explosion that killed 47 sailors April 19, would be "answered in court."

Truitt and Clayton Hartwig, 25-year-old gunner's mate who died in the gun turret blast, were best friends and took out $100,000 life insurance policies naming each other as the beneficiaries. Navy investigators have said they are looking into the relationship, including a reported falling-out last year when Truitt was married, as they study homicide as a possibility in the case.

"I think the Navy is at a loss," Truitt said. "They're just looking for a scapegoat."

KENDALL TRUITT

Holds news conference

Rubin said Navy Intelligence had "leaked the charges to the press little by little" to create what he called a "media frenzy."

He said Truitt had come to South Florida "seeking counsel and advice in connection with these vicious, untrue, false and malicious rumors leaked by the Intelligence Service of the Navy and transmitted to favored elements of the media."

"They have no evidence," he said. "They don't even have probable cause."

Rubin said Truitt risked his life to save other sailors after the explosion.

Truitt and wife, Carole, joined Rubin outside the attorney's law offices for a news conference in which Truitt denied allegations against him. Rubin asked if he were a homosexual, when Truitt denied, and then asked Truitt's wife if he were a good lover. She replied affirmatively.

Thursday, the Navy said Truitt was being transferred.

Demos anticipate Wright resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A widening field of Democrats jockeyed discreetly Friday for position in the House leadership battles likely to erupt publicly next week with Jim Wright's expected resignation as speaker.

Wright, his career in shambles as a result of ethics charges, disappeared for a long holiday weekend — after first-handing out roses from his garden to television reporters camped outside his door.

If Wright steps down next week, as widely expected, popular majority leader Thomas Foley of Washington would likely be elevated to speaker without a hint of discord. But his ascension could trigger a nasty battle for his current job and a wide open race for the No. 2 post, majority whip.

Current whip Tony Coelho will be running to win — as majority leader if Wright quits, a source close to the California Democrat said. Ed Jenkins of Georgia will also be in that race.

Likely candidates for the whip position include Democratic Caucus Chairman William Gray of Pennsylvania, Chief Deputy Whip David Bonior of Michigan and perhaps Richard Gephardt of Missouri — though Gephardt let it be known he won't try for the No. 2 majority leader's position against Coelho, who helped in his unsuccessful presidential campaign.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, the Indiana Democrat who made an impression as chairman of the House Iran-Contra Committee, might also jump into the majority leader's race.

Spokeswoman Sarah Binder said he has been urged by colleagues to run but has made no decision.

In other times, Coelho might be expected to move up as easily as Foley. But questions have been raised about Coelho's financial dealings, and a number of Democrats could well be leery of perpetuating the image problems they have had to deal with as Wright has fought ethics committee charges of financial impropriety.

Common Cause, the private group that joined in the complaint that brought the ethics commission investigation of Wright, said Friday it was asking the panel to open a formal inquiry of Coelho.

A source close to Jenkins said the Georgia Democrat "will be a candidate for the position when the speaker resigns." And Jenkins, apparently will have support from the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois.

The sources, aware of the sensitive nature of the situation with Wright still in his job, commented only on condition they not be named.

North fails to overturn conviction

The Baltimore Sun

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Oliver L. North's first attempt to get his recent conviction overturned in the Iran-Contra case failed in federal court here Friday.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell turned down a plea to dismiss the three charges on which a jury convicted North May 5. A motion filed by defense lawyers after the trial concluded "presents no basis for dismissal," the judge said.

In addition, the judge rejected a plea by North's attorneys to hold a wide-ranging hearing to search for new evidence that could justify dismissal of the charges and thus nullify the conviction.

Armstrong recalls historic words

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neil Armstrong, settling a debate that has simmered since he became the first human on the moon 20 years ago, said Friday that his immortal words — "That's one small step for a man" — were composed on the spot.

Armstrong, commander of Apollo 11, which landed on the moon on July 20, 1969, was reunited with his two crewmates for a news conference in advance of the exuberant celebrations planned across the world to mark the anniversary.

He was asked when exactly he decided on the words "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind," which he said after climbing down the ladder on the lunar lander.

"It was a statement that was natural in the sense of the time," Armstrong said. "I thought about it after we got there."

AT&T, unions progress in talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — AT&T and its unions reported progress Friday in a hectic day of negotiations, but remaining disputes over wages and particularly health benefits left in doubt whether a new contract could be settled before a Saturday night deadline.

"Things have started to heat up," said Francine Zucker, a spokeswoman for the Communications Workers of America. "I think we're going to get very close and we may reach a settlement but that can change quickly."

Ms. Zucker and American Telephone & Telegraph officials said both sides were exchanging offers and counter-offers in the fastest-paced day of negotiating since the talks opened in late March.

New York Post editor resigns

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Amsterdam, editor of the New York Post for 11 months, has quit her $200,000-a-year job, two of its competitors reported today.

A source close to the paper, who spoke only on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press today that no formal action had been taken but was expected early next week.

"She is not yet the editor," the source said.

A spokesman for the Post, Howard Rubenstein, would neither confirm nor deny the reports. He said a statement by Post owner Peter S. Kalikow may be issued later today or Tuesday.

Mortgage rates drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fixed-rate home mortgages averaged 10.5 percent this week, according to a national survey released Friday by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

That was down from a rate of 10.69 percent last week.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 9.18 percent this week.

Consumer spending posts year's high

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer spending in April posted its best performance in nearly a year, rising 1.1 percent, the government said Friday in a report that analysts said shows the economy remains healthy even as growth slows.

Meanwhile, the government reported a sharp improvement in the U.S. trade deficit in the opening quarter of the year as exports jumped 5.7 percent.

While consumer spending rose at its fastest pace since a 1.3 percent increase last June, much of the growth was attributed to a sharp increase in auto sales because of rebates, low-interest loans and other incentives to move cars off dealers' lots.

The Commerce Department also reported that personal income rose weak 0.4 percent last month compared with hikes of 0.8 percent in March and 1 percent in February. The April figure was the smallest increase since last November's 0.2 percent.

But analysts blamed the sluggish income growth in April on lower farm subsidies over the past two months and a fallback from higher auto industry bonuses and retroactive Social Security payments in March.

Discounting the auto sales and one-time weakness in incomes, "what you come out with is reasonably decent income and consumption growth which tends to make the Fed's soft-landing scenario look more realistic," said analyst Cynthia Latta of Data Resources in Lexington, Mass.

Federal Reserve credit-tightening designed to stem inflation has caused some economists to worry that resulting higher interest rates could move the economy into a recession—rather than the targeted soft landing.

But recent reports continue to point to an economic slowdown without recession.

Gas line exploded days after train wreck

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — A gasoline pipeline exploded and killed three people just days after residents were assured it had not been damaged by a runaway train that plowed through the same neighborhood two weeks ago.

"It looks like a bomb went off over Duffy Street," City Attorney James Penman said after the Thursday morning blast that sent flames 300 feet skyward and produced heat so intense that pets and corn stalks were singed two blocks away.

Thirty-one people were injured in the explosion that also destroyed 10 homes and 18 cars. About 300 people were ordered to leave their homes for the night, and the pipeline break cut off Las Vegas' chief source of gasoline and diesel fuel.

Up to seven people were unaccounted for after the blast, but by mid-morning today authorities said all but one had been located.

The May 12 train wreck leveled a row of homes and killed four people. National Transportation Safety Board personnel gathered here today to investigate the explosion, and Calve Pipeline Co. manager Ken Seal said there was a "very good possibility" the company's 14-inch pipeline was damaged by the train accident.

The city and an attorney for more than 100 residents announced plans to file lawsuits against the Las Vegas company. The residents also plan to sue the city and the rail line, Southern Pacific.

"We did not feel in the first place they should have started up that railroad as quickly as they did. And we particularly tried to get the pipeline shut down. Now look what happened," said residents' attorney James H. Davis, who was hired after the train wreck.

The neighborhood was evacuated for several days after the train jumped the track because of fears the pipeline might have been weakened. The city was assured the line was safe when it reopened several days ago, Penman said.

The body of a woman killed in the blast was found in the back yard of a home, pinned to a chain-link fence. The other two fatalities, an adult and child, were found next door.

Indiana Jones hat goes into Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Would that world famous archeologist, Indiana Jones, ever have imagined? His own hat and jacket have become the nation's artifacts.

The Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of American History greeted with pretentious pomp Friday the arrival of its new objects: Ind's brown fedora and worn leather jacket.

They were presented by Harrison Ford, the actor who has played the daring archeologist in two hit movies.

"I was surprised, flattered" at the invitation, he insisted, although the whole thing was timed perfectly to plug the third Indy movie just out.

His trademark attire isn't going on immediate display. But museum officials said it may someday take its place alongside such pop-culture treasures as Superman's cape, Dorothy's slippers and Howdy Doody himself in the History of American Entertainment Collection.

No injuries reported in the latest sub fire

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A fire aboard a diesel-powered attack submarine forced the vessel to the surface, but there were no injuries reported in the second accident involving a San Diego-based submarine this week, the Navy said.

The Blackback was on the surface off the Southern California coast, awaiting a tow and further damage assessment, said Lt. Stanja Hedley, spokeswoman at the Naval Submarine Base, San Diego. Damage appeared to be minor.

The sub, which carries a crew of 63 enlisted and eight officers, was on general training operations when the electrical fire broke out Thursday in the propulsion system, Ms. Hedley said.

On Tuesday, the diesel-powered attack sub Grumara ran aground on a reef four miles offshore, but was freed and returned to port. No injuries were reported in that accident.

Surgeon saves victim by putting fingers in heart

CHICAGO (AP) — A surgeon saved the life of a gunshot victim by plugging the bullet holes in his heart with her fingers and massaging the organ to keep it beating during a 14-minute helicopter ride to a trauma center.

Dr. Wendy Marshall cradled the exposed heart in her hands and kept the patient from bleeding to death while she supervised his transfer Thursday from a Joliet hospital to a suburban trauma center equipped for open-heart surgery.

Surgeons there repaired the holes, and the patient, Tommy Lee "Tony" Harrison, was flown well Friday, said Ms. Marshall, director of Loyola-University Medical Center's trauma unit and its air medical service.

"We were lucky," she said in an interview from suburban Maywood a day after the feat, which the hospital's chairman of surgery, Dr. Robert J. Freeark, called unprecedented and heroic.

Ms. Marshall said the good judgment of surgeons at Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet to call for help before it was too late, coupled with the efficiency of her medical support staff, made the dramatic transfer possible.

"It's a team effort," she said. "That's the success of the system."

World Trade charges draw ire

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and India reacted angrily and leveled countercharges against the United States on Friday after being named along with Brazil as serious trade violators possibly subject to stiff retaliatory tariffs.

The Brazilian government also denied allegations of unfair trade practices and a presidential aide in Brasilia said the nation would present "solid arguments in its defense."

The Bush administration on Thursday listed countries with trade barriers most harmful to American producers, as required by the 1988 Omnibus Trade Act. The government has 18 months to negotiate away the barriers and failure of the talks could lead to tariffs of up to 100 percent on selected exports from the offenders. Foreign Minister Sosuke Uno summoned U.S. Ambassador Michael Armacost to deliver a protest in Tokyo and the government said there were errors in U.S. complaints about alleged barriers to sales of supercomputers, satellites and forest products in Japan.

Uno and other Cabinet ministers said the U.S. action was "extremely regrettable" and officials indicated Japan would refuse to participate in talks sought by the United States to end the alleged practices.

"This designation in no way possesses legal binding force in the international trade system," said Hiroshi Mitsuoka, minister of international trade and industry. India was cited for barriers against foreign investment and the closing of its insurance market to foreign companies. The administration cited Brazil for quotas on imports and licensing restrictions.

"We regard this law and action under it as totally unjustified, irrational and unfair," India's Commerce Minister Dinesh Singh said in New Delhi.

"The United States' action is particularly surprising because the U.S. itself has built and retained a variety of barriers against access to its markets," Singh said. "It is hardly in a position to ask others to lift barriers without doing so itself."

Salvador troops search offices of leftist groups

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Soldiers and police officers Friday searched the offices of several leftist unions, human rights groups and farming cooperatives after the heaviest combat in the capital in years.

The U.S.-backed government and armed forces consider the leftist organizations fronts for Marxist-led guerrillas waging a 9-year-old revolutionary war.

Troops from the 1st army brigade, the National Police and the Treasury Police surrounded the headquarters of the labor organizations UNTS, Fenestras and FUS. The offices of COACES, a group representing cooperative farming enterprises, CRIPDES, a refugees organization, and the non-governmental human rights commission also were surrounded and searched.

Troops and police had searched at least three of the organizations by mid-morning, but there was no immediate word on whether arrests were made or what was found inside.

The UNTS labor organization reported in a paid radio announcement that two members of its directorate were arrested.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECASTS

IF MAY 27 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY earlier this month you made new start in different direction. You did right thing, this will be proven in June. Aries, Libra persons play important roles in your life. You are dynamic, impulsive, must protect yourself from face, head injuries. You are versatile, often read more than one book simultaneously—you also are capable of being in love with more than one individual. You'll have fun in July but must adhere to diet resolutions: December will prove profitable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This could be "some status-as-night." Focus on beauty, entertainment, sensitivity, romance—Wish or endeavor initiated 11 days ago could be fulfilled in dramatic fashion. You'll be presented with gift.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Individual you "look up to," might have feet of clay. Be ready to take "greater charge" of your own destiny. Romantic involvement distinct possibility. Study Area message for valuable hints.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Yet come out of doldrums in dynamic manner. Emphasis on attraction, sensuality, communication. You'll turn apparent defeat into powerful "stand-up" on Israel, discovery, completion of search.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Valuable clue obtained by studying Gemini message. What had been hidden or damaged will be discovered and repaired. Money belonging to another will be placed in your hands. Check source material.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You'll get fresh opportunity to negotiate agreement. Emphasis on independence, creativity, public message. You're dirt of burden. Re-examine rights and permissions, marital status. Aquarian represented.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Mental tasks require attention—includes repairs to mechanical object, mending and sewing. Family member who attempts to be "a love it all" will come down from clouds. Cancer native involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Set your own pace, make room for yourself. Focus on variety, style, creativity, sensuality. Some will say, "You are full of good vibes." Diversity, arrange social affair. Sagittarian is in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Answers regarding property value are not yet complete. Make further inquiries. Family member is due to have "change of heart." Focus on tending, learning, marital status. Another Scorpio plays role.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Maintain sense of humor. Member of opposite sex wants to be close but is too shy to act. Relative carries message but don't take it too literally. Being curious now progress constructive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Family affairs command attention (question exists—members of home quarters. Focus on diplomacy, payments, recovery of lost article: Laura involved).

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have "second chance" to perfect techniques. Someone behind scenes talks about you, not necessarily in negative manner. Focus on access, clandestine arrangements. Continue to take initiative.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Study Aquarius message. Individual who had been "out of sight" makes sudden appearance. You'll understand what's been taking place "backstage." Relationship intensifies. Capricorn in picture.

What's what

My space, your space
 "Thing about "your space, my space"—it's real, evidently. Researchers say you see it most clearly when a husband and wife go social. A wife tends to stand between 1 1/2 and 2 1/2 feet from her husband, and she's defensive about the area between them. If another woman moves into that space, they say, a wife can get downright hostile."

Czechoslovakia expels 4 Britons

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The government responded Friday to Britain's expulsion of four Czechoslovaks by ordering four Britons out of the country for "activities incompatible with their status," the standard term for spying.

Three British diplomats and a businessman were ordered to leave within two weeks, the official news agency CTK reported.

The British Foreign Office described the action as an unjustified retaliation for the order Thursday that four Czechoslovak diplomats leave Britain for the same reason.

Israeli vigilantes attack W. Bank village

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jewish settlers shot up a West Bank village Friday in the second vigilante raid in two days, wounding at least three people and damaging houses and cars, residents and Israel radio reported.

A Labor Party minister in the coalition government claimed the surge of vigilantism by the 70,000 Jewish settlers in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip was intended to block Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's plan for Palestinian elections.

A dissident Cabinet minister in Shamir's conservative Likud bloc announced opposition to the proposal and Trade Minister Ariel Sharon, the leading Likud opponent, toured the West Bank to show support for the settlers.

Noriega says dispute is staying end

FORT AMADOR, Panama (AP) — Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega said Friday negotiations between the government and opposition parties might resolve Panama's political crisis.

"They both claim they won," Noriega told reporters after meeting with a delegation from the Organization of American States that seeks to end the impasse created when the government nullified the May 7 presidential election.

The opposition, led by presidential candidate Guillermo Endara, won the elections over pro-government candidate Carlos Dugue by a 3-1 margin, according to international observers. Noriega's troops seized the vote tallies and the election was nullified three days later.

Noriega said Friday: "The key to the problem lies with the contending political parties. The opposition has declined to talk to Dugue."

"If the opposition remains intransigent, the Defense Forces are not going to slip on a banana peel" and be drawn into the dispute.

Bush says he wants a 'stronger Europe'

ROME (AP) — President Bush arrived Friday enroute to a summit with NATO leaders, hoping to use personal diplomacy to resolve a long-simmering dispute over European-based nuclear weapons.

In brief arrival remarks, Bush made no reference to reports that he would use the NATO summit next week in Brussels — his first as president — to announce a reduction in U.S. troops in Europe.

Instead, he declared the United States wants a "stronger and more united Europe," and said he plans to be "actively engaged in Eastern Europe, promoting measures to encourage political and economic liberalization in Poland."

Bush plans to visit Poland in July. The dispute over short-range nuclear weapons has defied resolution by the two main countries at odds — West Germany, pressing for negotiations with the Soviets to rid Europe of such weapons, and the United States, supported by Britain, wanting to keep the weapons there and make them better.

Other members of the 16-nation NATO alliance have lined up on one side or the other; with a few straddling the fence.

Officials on all sides have sought to dismiss suggestions that the issue would seriously disrupt the summit, which was designed to celebrate 50 years of Cold War unity against the Soviet Union.

As Bush left Washington, The Washington Times reported that he planned to use the summit as the stage for announcing a reduction of up to 10 percent in U.S. troop strength in Europe, "as many as 34,000 troops."

Soviets accused of rigging process

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Congress of People's Deputies nominated a handful of radicals Friday to serve in its working legislature, opening the lawmaking process to broader participation after decades of Kremlin monopoly.

But some progressives charged that Communist Party bureaucrats had rigged the process to stay in power and others accused the radicals of undermining the course of political reform.

With Lithuanians announcing at one point they would boycott elections to choose the membership of the new legislature, the Supreme Soviet, President Mikhail S. Gorbachev declared the Congress of People's Deputies in a "crisis situation" on only the second day of its existence.

The 2,250-member parliament was choosing members to fill its 542-seat working legislature, called the Supreme Soviet.

Candidates originally were selected in local caucuses. But they had to be nominated by the congress before they could stand for election. Most delegations nominated only one candidate for each seat they were allotted, but a few offered more. It is in those districts where there are real races. Candidates who get the highest number of votes and more than 50 percent are elected.

The final number of deputies nominated Friday was "around 600," according to one official who addressed the congress.

Arab summit finishes with agreement

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP) — The Arab League summit closed two days late Friday after adopting what Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz called a "gentleman's agreement" for Syria to withdraw its troops from Lebanon.

Syrian intransigence prevented any resolution explicitly calling for the Syrian army to leave Lebanon, the main Iraqi objective. Several times the Syrian-Iraqi confrontation almost led to the summit's collapse.

The Arab leaders appointed a three-member committee and gave it six months to supervise a cease-fire, reconvene Lebanon's Parliament, arrange the appointment of a president and amend the constitution for more balanced power-sharing between the warring Muslims and Christians.

The negotiators are Morocco's King Hassan II, King Fahd of Saudi Arabia and Algeria's President Chadli Bendjedid.

In Beirut, surprising support for the peace plan came from acting Prime Minister Salim Hoss, the leader whose closest ally is Syria. "I welcome the resolutions of the Arab summit and hope they will be implemented as soon as possible," Hoss said in a brief statement.

His Christian opponent, Gen. Michel Aoun, will not comment until after an emergency meeting Saturday of his rival Cabinet, Aoun's spokesman said.

But the Christian Lebanese Broadcasting Corp. said the summit "failed to offer anything more than lip service to help resolve the Lebanon crisis."

"The summit also has failed to devise a mechanism to monitor a cease-fire and made no reference to the role of the Syrian army in Lebanon," it said.

Passions flare in church again

LONDON (AP) — The passions of the 16th century, burning fiercely in the Highlands of Scotland, have driven the Lord High Chancellor from his church.

Lord Mackay of Clashfern, Britain's chief legal officer, said Friday that he would leave the Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland rather than promise not to attend Roman Catholic funeral Mass, as he had done twice in honor of fellow peers.

"I have no intention of giving any such undertaking as that for which the synod has asked," Mackay said in a statement issued from his office in London.

Like a 16th century chancellor, Sir Thomas More, Mackay was forced to choose between private conscience and public duty in a land where the church as well as the state derives its authority from the crown.

More, a Catholic, was beheaded in 1535 after refusing to recognize Henry VIII's supremacy over the newly formed Church of England, and the rhetoric of the Reformation echoed in the church at Inverness where the "Wee Frees" held their annual synod this week.

"I find it very difficult to believe that the lord chancellor of a Protestant country, with a Protestant queen on a Protestant throne, has any obligation by reason of state to go to a Popish Mass," said the Rev. Donald MacLean, clerk of the Southern Presbytery.

Lord St. John of Fawley, a prominent Roman Catholic and former Foreign Office minister, put the issue this way: "What is the lord chancellor of Great Britain, who is the head of the judiciary, doing belonging to such an intolerant organization?"

Tanzania tightens its poaching rules

Los Angeles Times

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania — Tanzania has tightened its poaching laws to protect endangered animals, particularly elephants and rhinos, the Justice Ministry said here Friday.

The minimum sentence under the Wildlife Conservation Act will now be 10 years in jail for any one found guilty of buying, selling or dealing illegally in animal trophies. Depending on the value of the trophy, the sentence could increase to a maximum of 30 years.

Tanzanian President Ali Hassan Mwinyi last weekend called for a mandatory international ban on the ivory trade.

Mall Cinema to stay closed well into June

TWIN FALLS - The Mall Cinema on Main Avenue will probably remain closed until the middle of June and is taking bids for repairs, said Cathy Roper, part-owner of the cinema.

The theater sustained $7,500-$10,000 damage in a midday fire Thursday. The fire started when a popcorn warmer was left on, fire officials said. Damage was limited to the lobby area and clean-up began Thursday evening, Roper said.

Board accepts resignation of Principal Chris Charlton

KIMBERLY - The School Board here accepted the resignation of elementary school Principal Chris Charlton at a special meeting Thursday.

Charlton, principal at the school for eight years, said she has been considering retirement for some time but decided definitely after the defeat Tuesday to build a new middle school. "I don't want to leave a legacy of crowded classrooms," Charlton said.

Charlton said she plans to retire to her farm near Kimberly with her husband, Frank, Twin Falls High School principal, who announced his retirement earlier this month. She also wants to do volunteer work for the schools.

"It will be difficult to fill her shoes for the district," Superintendent Richard Bauscher said. The district has begun advertising, will accept applications until June 20, and may have a recommendation by June 30, he said.

Tracie O'Gorman heads back to Omaha hospital

TWIN FALLS - A blocked liver duct sent Tracie O'Gorman back to an Omaha, Neb., hospital Wednesday night. But on Friday, O'Gorman's father said she was feeling much better.

"It's a little problem, but it's nothing serious," Ernie O'Gorman said. "I think she's okay now and should be home in a few days."

Tracie is a patient at the University of Nebraska Medical Center. Her mother, Deanne Packer, accompanied O'Gorman on her trip.

The College of Southern Idaho student had just returned home last Saturday after undergoing a liver transplant.

Times-News publisher gains association vice presidency

TACOMA, Wash. - Times-News publisher Bill Howard has been elected vice president of the newly merged Pacific Northwest Newspaper Association for a one-year term.

Howard is the immediate past president of the Allied Daily Newspapers of Tacoma. Allied Daily merged with the Portland-based Pacific Northwest Newspaper Association earlier this year, taking the association's name, but keeping the headquarters in Tacoma.

Fred Stickel, publisher of The Oregonian in Portland, will become president of the newly merged association. Larry Hanson, publisher of The Herald in Everett, Wash., will serve a one-year term as treasurer.

The association elected officers at its Portland meeting May 17-19. The new membership includes 58 daily newspapers in Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Utah and Alaska.

Malad student wins contest to build strongest bridge

TWIN FALLS - Malad High School student Jason Rich won the statewide bridge-building contest sponsored by the University of Idaho College of Engineering.

Rich, representing Idaho Falls area, will receive a year's tuition at U of I. The top three winners at each of last week's five regional contests received $250, $100 and $50 prizes.

Rich's bridge withstood 545 pounds per square inch of pressure from a hydraulic press. "We were overwhelmed at this amount of pressure," said U of I civil engineering instructor Richard Nielsen. "We're not sure why this particular bridge was able to withstand so much."

Nielsen added that most of the bridges around the state averaged 200 pounds per square inch. Twin Falls regional winner, Becky Bendorf of Bliss High School, entered a bridge that crumpled at 226.5 PSI.

Exon controversy divides Fairfield

By ANNETTE CARY
 Times-News writer

FAIRFIELD - The resignation of Peggy Exon has left a bitter aftertaste in Fairfield.

"The town is just split. Everyone is just mad," said resident Joyce Johnson after stopping downtown Fairfield Friday, the day after Exon resigned from the district.

Those not involved in the controversy are left trying to reconcile vastly different accounts of Exon's teaching style.

On one side is the teacher honored by Gov. Cecil Andrus in his January State of the State address. One who residents say loves her students and is loved in return. One whose students bring home state and national awards and have impressive test scores.

On the other side is a woman whom some parents accuse of hitting and belittling the children in her classroom, allegations she sharply denies.

Also at issue is how the school administration treated Exon. She and the Idaho Education Association regional director who has advised her over the last month say the district has handled the matter poorly. Residents are talking about recalling board members or demanding that school administrators resign.

But Exon's critics say she brought the trouble on herself by refusing to make changes.

"Nobody is pleased with what had to happen," said Laurie Maxwell, whose son was paddled by Exon. "But she brought it on herself. She fought it instead of trying to work on it."

Friday Exon said she had seen no reason to make changes. Her discipline methods were reasonable and she had to be strict to maintain order in her classroom of 30 third- and fourth-graders.

She agrees with supporters who say she demanded much of her students, but also says she made sure they knew she cared about them.

"She told them, 'I love you too much to have you act bad,'" she says.

"I worked hardest with the child who has difficulties," Exon says. "I dangled a carrot in front of the fast ones."

Johnson says she believes none of the stories that some students feared Exon or dreaded going to school while they

Last week of school means bad case of spring fever

By BRAD BOWLIN
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The sun is shining and 6-year-old Jon Woolley is staring out the window, dreaming of tee-ball and his bicycle.

But school is still in session, at least for a few more days, and teachers have the unenviable task of keeping anxious students interested in class.

"They're pretty tired," said Brenda Astle, Joe's first-grade teacher at Harrison Elementary School. "They're still learning stuff, we just try to disguise it."

The last week of school means lots of fun activities for grade-schoolers, and lots of review and tests for the older students.

Astle keeps her 21 students moving, which helps keep their minds on reading, writing and arithmetic rather than the great outdoors.

"We move quickly," she said. "With little kids you have to switch around a lot. I have them doing things at the tables, in their desks, on the rugs and outside."

Down the hall, Joyce Becht keeps pushing her fourth-graders to keep them from getting bored.

"I try to leave with something new and challenging rather than just reviewing what they've already done," Becht said.

"I think the more normal the atmosphere is, the more normally they function," she said.

Normal is the key word for Joe Keeney's algebra class at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

"His students know what is expected of them this late in the year and they respond accordingly," Keeney said.

"I love this time of year," he said. "All year long we've worked hard and now we can relax a little bit."

Keeney said he gives his students some free time in class in exchange for hard work and good behavior.

"I shouldn't have discipline problems now. They know their responsibilities," he said.

But spring fever does strike.

"The kids are harder to keep in their desks and in class," said Mary Howie, counselor at Robert Stuart.

Special graduates have had help with employment skills

By DONNA SCHORZMAN
 Times-News correspondent

RUPERT - Like most seniors at Minico High School, Lois Kerbs' graduates this year face the daunting question of what to do after graduation.

Unlike most seniors, however, Kerbs' students have a few additional problems to contend with. But the Special Education Department at the high school, under Noel Croft, is trying to help. Minico has developed a program designed to help mentally retarded students and students with learning disabilities get a head start on their future.

Kerbs' students who graduated this week are the first seniors to benefit from the program, which trained them in job-hunting.

Impound fees not right, city declares

By KIRK MITCHELL
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Doubling impound fees that nearly sent Pancho the pooch to doggie heaven was a mistake, city officials say.

As a result, the city has sent refund checks to Pancho's master and to three other dog owners.

Mike Pecheus brought the ordinance into the spotlight last week when he complained that the city's fees, which were doubling each time his dog was caught, would soon spell his dog's demise.

Pancho, his frisky German shepherd, had cost him $340 in impound fees, Pecheus said.

But City Manager Tom Courtney said this week that a new fee schedule created in 1987 set impound fees at $20 the first time a dog is captured and $30 the next time.

City employees took that to mean the fees would double indefinitely, and they put up a sign in the dog pound to that effect.

However, the fees were meant to remain at $40, Courtney said. He said the City Council will consider clarifying the ordinance next week.

Clay Vanderpool, animal control officer, also has retracted last week's statement that some people had let their dogs be destroyed rather than pay the even $80 each. On Friday, he said he had no way of tracking down such instances and did not recall it ever happening.

In addition, Councilman Rick Carr denied an earlier report that he was one of those who let dogs be destroyed. Carr said he paid two impound fees totaling $80 to bail his dog out.

"I did not have my dog executed," Carr said.

Since the law was passed in 1987, 2,623 dogs have been impounded, Courtney said. He did not know how many of those were bailed out and how many were destroyed.

Pecheus had bailed Pancho out five times. The third time, instead of having to pay $80 as the pound policy demanded, he was allowed to pay $40 again, he said. He speculated that was out of sympathy.

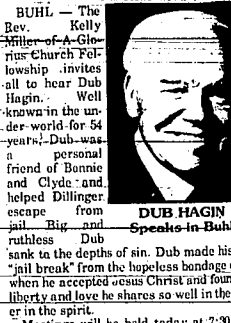

After that, however, the fee went up to $80 and then $160. He told the City Council last week that if Pancho landed in the canine cage again, it would be a death sentence. Pecheus couldn't afford $320, he said.

Now, however, the city has given back $160.

Pecheus' wife, LouAnn, said she has received the check and plans to use part of it to pay two $5-misdemeanor citations she and her husband received for letting Pancho run at large.

Also getting refunds are Shane Hoffman, who was sent $40, and Jerry Proce and Kelly Davis, who received $80 each. Each has had two dogs impounded three times each.

Justice Shepard remains critical
BOISE (AP) — Idaho Supreme Court Justice Allan Shepard remained in critical condition at a Boise hospital Friday after suffering a heart attack and doctors indicated it would be several days before a prognosis could be made.
 "The doctor said he was showing some signs of improvement but it was still too early to make any prediction about his condition," Court Administrator Carl Bianchi said.
 "He is and has been severely ill, and apparently that is important, so I was somewhat encouraged by that report," Bianchi said. "But again it's still too early to tell."
 Shepard, 66, the senior member of the high court, was taken to St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center by a neighbor on Thursday after complaining of chest pains at home.

Symms: Guns ensure free elections
BOISE (AP) — Conservative Idaho Sen. Steve Symms fears President Bush's move toward gun control with a ban on imported assault-weapons could undermine the strongest nation in the free world.
 Symms, the only senator to vote against banning cop-killer bullets because of the gun-control overtones, told business leaders in Boise on Friday that Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega's theft of that nation's recent national election was a case in point.
 "The reason Noriega is still in is that the one-third of the people who voted for him are the one-third that have guns," Symms said. "The reason we have free elections in this country is that everyone has a gun."

Police arrest 37 abortion protesters
COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Police arrested 37 abortion protesters Friday after doors were blocked at a clinic where elective abortions are performed.
 The protesters, who refused to give police their names, were booked into Kootenai County Jail for investigation of trespassing, and some were accused of resisting arrest.
 Police Chief Frank Prego said Spokane, Wash., police had warned that members of the Northwest Rescue, a Spokane-based anti-abortion group, were planning the action. Coeur d'Alene police were on hand when an estimated 65 members of the organization arrived at 7 a.m., Prego said.
 "You people aren't doing God's work," Dr. William Tarnasky, a physician at the Women's Clinic of North Idaho, told the demonstrators. "God doesn't say you have to make a spectacle of yourselves. And I don't want you doing it on my property."

Nez Perce cut back chinook fishing
LEWISTON (AP) — The Nez Perce Tribal Executive Committee has cut back spring chinook salmon fishing by returning to Idaho waters.
 The limited weekend fishing was described as "a precautionary measure to repair hatchery equipment," Chairman Allen Pinkham said in a news release.
 The limited closure will also be in effect near Dworshak and Kooskia national fish hatcheries on the Clearwater River.
 The closure takes effect Monday at 6 p.m. Fishing will be allowed Fridays beginning at noon and ending Sunday at midnight.
 "If the number of returning chinook reaches the critical stage, it might warrant full closure, Pinkham added."

Food processor recalls hams that could cause infections

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cedar Rapids, Iowa, food processor, Cedar Rapids Meats Inc., has voluntarily recalled an estimated 500 canned hams distributed in 19 states because the meat may be undercooked, the Agriculture Department said Thursday.
 Lester Crawford, administrator of the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service, said the hams — a total of about 9,000 pounds — could cause trichinosis if eaten. However, he added, no illnesses have been reported.
 The hams were distributed to consignees in Arkansas, Florida, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont and Virginia. Those may have sold the hams to customers in other states.
 The product was described as canned 11-pound, 4-ounce hams labeled "Wilson Continental Deli Ham, Water-Added."
 The establishment number, "Est. 111" is printed inside the USDA inspection seal on the label.
 Crawford said the hams can be identified by the code number 0896D embossed on the end of the can. The hams are generally sold as a food service item to establishments such as delicatessens, hotels, schools and restaurants. No other products are involved in the recall.
 "As a precautionary measure, we are encouraging all food service establishments who purchased these hams to return them to their distributor," he said. "We are also encouraging consumers who may have purchased this product in sliced form to contact their delicatessen."
 The problem was reported to Wilson Foods by a food service customer, who noticed the ham did not look properly cooked, Crawford said. Cedar Rapids Meats was contacted, and the company immediately initiated a recall and notified USDA, Crawford said.
 "Hogs may have microscopic living worms called trichinae in their muscle tissue at the time of slaughter, he said. If the organisms are not killed by proper cooking or processing, the pork could cause trichinosis, described as "an uncommon but potentially serious infection."

M-K to sell headquarters

BOISE (AP) — The Morrison Knudsen Corp. is putting its Boise headquarters complex up for sale in another phase of its restructuring campaign to improve profitability.
 The construction and engineering company announced Friday that it had hired Morgan Stanley Realty to handle the deal, which would involve a partial leaseback to Morrison Knudsen for its corporate offices.
 "The proposed transaction is a significant step in redirecting our assets to more productive use," Chairman William Agee said in a statement. "We feel that funds invested in this asset can be better deployed into the expansion of our basic business."
 Agee also announced that the J.R. Simplot Co. has leased 77,000 square feet of the 600,000-square-foot complex to relocate its food division headquarters from Caldwell to Boise.
 Simplot will be the second tenant in the complex since Morrison Knudsen began consolidating operations last year. West One Bank Corp. agreed to lease about 100,000 square feet of space several months ago.
 The company said that the lease to Simplot brings the four-building complex to nearly full occupancy, indicating that under the sale-leaseback plan, Morrison Knudsen would continue to occupy about two thirds of the space with its corporate headquarters operations.
 "MK is committed to Boise and will obtain a long-term lease from the buyer as a condition of sale," Agee said.

Nevada Senate boosts Reno bid for '98 Olympics

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The Reno area's effort to win the 1998 Winter Olympics got a boost today in the Nevada Senate with approval of a tax package to pay for construction of $30 million to $35 million in Olympics facilities.
 The Senate's unanimous vote followed action by its Finance Committee in favor of a measure authorizing the loan and other resources for building a bobbed and luge run near Squaw Valley, Calif., and a speed skating rink in Reno.
 SB474 now moves to the Assembly for final legislative action which is expected to come Saturday.
 The measure would increase Washoe County's 5 percent local tax by 1 percent and allow the county's 1 percent sales tax to go up by 0.1 percent to guarantee repayment of the loans.
 Before the measure passed the Finance Committee, Sen. Don Mello amended it to impose a 20-year limit on the sales tax, which has to go to voters for approval.
 The Sparks Democrat also amended the bill to include the city next to Reno in the Olympic effort, saying that if Sparks voters are being asked to support the tax increase, it should be called the Reno-Sparks-Tahoe Olympic bid.
 The local Olympics backers have early next week for Des Moines where the U.S. Olympic Committee will meet next week-end to choose the U.S. nominee to host the 1998 Olympics.
 "I'm sure the funding bill will give them an advantage that other communities wouldn't have," Senate Majority Leader Bill Raggio, R-Reno, said.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

Dear Mr. Wolff:
I open one club and partner responds one diamond, does his response have anything to do with diamonds? Or does it show point count (or lack of it) instead?

ANSWER: Yes, he does. Law 43 of the Laws of Contract Bridge also invokes this penalty if dummy leaves his seat to watch declarer play, or if he, as a defender, looks at a defender's cards.

ANSWER: In a forcing club system, in which the one-club opening is artificial, the one-diamond response is usually used as a negative (usually 0-7 HCP). In a standard system, the one-diamond response promises, essentially the same values as a one-heart or one-spade response.

ANSWER: Not exactly. Declarer may ask any player during the wait until it's his turn to play.

Dear Mr. Wolff:
Most players use the four-club Gerber ace-asking bid in any auction or only if the first or last bid has been in no-trump? How often do you ask for kings - next suit or five clubs?

ANSWER: This behavior is covered under the section on priorities labeled "Conduct and Etiquette." The Law of a "As a matter of courtesy, a player should refrain from..."

ANSWER: Most tournament players use the Gerber convention only if the first or last bid has been in no-trump. However, some use it in all-auctions, and I imagine they have specific agreements regarding its use.

ANSWER: Not exactly. Declarer may ask any player during the wait until it's his turn to play.

Dear Mr. Wolff:
If a player (dummy) has exchanged hands with declarer, does he forfeit his rights as dummy?

ANSWER: Not exactly. Declarer may ask any player during the wait until it's his turn to play.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"If pleasures are greatest in anticipation, just remember that this is also true of trouble."

Give today's East hand to any good player, and he will double the club slam with pleasure. The double (Lightner slam double) asks for an unusual lead, typically for the lead of a suit that the doubler can ruff. In the 1988 World Championships, both sides doubled the slam, both sides got the desired lead and both sides had good reason to regret asking for

In a match against Poland, my partner, Bob Harman, opened two clubs to show clubs and an opening bid. My two-diamond bid asked for more information, and when the opponents "competed" vigorously, I jumped to six clubs. (I knew that partner was likely to hold six clubs.) East doubled confidently, asking for an unusual lead, certainly not spades or a trump.

West led a diamond as East had hoped; and East got his ruff. Unfortunately, his spade ace was uncatchable, and thanks to the 3-3 split in hearts and the 2-2 split in clubs, it was an easy matter to win the remaining tricks.

Our teammates doubled six clubs after a similar auction, as almost every expert would, only to suffer the same disappointment. Doubles that would have happened without the double? A review in the Bridge World magazine offers this view: West would lead a spade, forcing dummy to ruff. Facing a complex play problem, South would probably then lead a diamond. East would ruff and force dummy with another spade. Dummy's entry to the hearts would disappear and the slam would become a hopeless case. Getting a wish fulfilled is not always a paying proposition.

Torres signs contract with Pittsburgh Pirates

TWIN FALLS — Recent College of Southern Idaho graduate Jessie Torres has signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League.

Torres, from Nampa, had twice been drafted by the Pirates.

He was the starting catcher on the CSI baseball team this year, batting .355 with three home runs after spending most of the 1988 season as the Angels' designated hitter because of a broken finger.

Carl Lewis plans to boycott national outdoor track meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Carl Lewis and other American Olympic medalists in track and field disgruntled with The Athletics Congress say they are boycotting the national outdoor championships next month.

"We cannot continue to be put in this position because the TAC is killing track in America. They are holding back funds, they are misappropriating situations and making it very difficult for athletes to compete here," Lewis, a six-time Olympic gold medal winner, said Thursday.

Lewis said he'd like TAC to establish a plan to pay the top 10 athletes in every event, instead of the current process of paying only about 10 to 15 athletes, including Lewis, while "everyone else gets dogged."

High jump surprises at state track meet

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Don't tell Stan Burton of Twin Falls or Liz Gilbert of Jerome that there isn't hope right down to the last chance.

These two used their final opportunities in the Idaho State High School Track and Field Championships Friday to become individual winners on a day that wasn't particularly kind to Magic Valley athletes.

Gilbert, languishing in fourth place with one leap left in the long jump, sailed into first place with one-half inch to spare at 16 feet, 7 1/2 inches for her Class A-2 title.

For Burton, it was an all-time personal best of 6-6 on his third and last try that capped his only track season with the A-1 high jump championship.

In explaining how he managed to win the state title just eight weeks after attempting the high jump for the first time, Burton laughed. "I just numbed myself out. I tried to get everything out of my mind and just watch for my feet going over the bar."

Burton, a transfer from Burley, noted that teammate John Canover and Coach Duane Stands had talked him into trying the event.

"I guess Coach Stands watched me played basketball and said I had potential and I should come out and try it," he said.

But there was disappointment in the girls' A-3 high jump competition, where Declo High School senior Angie Tanner failed in her bid to win a third straight state title, losing to Theresia Batt of Parma on fewer misses. Both jumpers cleared 5-2.

"Angie hurt her arch in district last weekend on her planting foot," said Declo girls' coach Jay Darrington. "As it was, she just missed the title by one more miss. Every girl in Idaho with the exception of

Worthy leads Lakers to 3-0 lead over Phoenix

By WALTER BERRY
The Associated Press

PHOENIX — James Worthy scored 11 of his 29 points in the fourth quarter and the Los Angeles Lakers hit six free throws in the final 38 seconds to beat the Phoenix Suns 110-107 Friday night and take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-7 Western Conference final series.

The two-time defending champion Lakers can wrap up the series in Game 4 Sunday at Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum. No NBA team has ever come back from an 0-3 deficit to win a best-of-7 playoff series.

Los Angeles is now 10-0 in the playoffs this season, breaking the league record of nine consecutive wins the Lakers set in 1982.

The Suns have lost all five of their previous playoff series with Los Angeles and were swept by the Lakers 4-0 in 1982 and 3-0 in 1985.

Phoenix trailed 93-83 with 7:14 remaining in the game. But Eddie Johnson, the league's Sixth Man Award winner, broke out of a series-long shooting slump to score nine points in a 4:06 span and give Phoenix a 103-102 lead on a three-point play with 1:50 remaining.

Armon Gilliam's layup with 1:22 left put the Suns up 105-102 before the Lakers won the game from the free throw line.

Worthy sunk two foul shots with 1:04 left, then Mychal Thompson converted two with 38 seconds remaining and two more with 22 seconds to play for a 108-105 lead.

Phoenix rookie Dan Majerle had his 3-point attempt bounce off the rim with 17 seconds left and 10 seconds remaining before Michael Cooper's free throws capped Los Angeles' scoring with eight seconds to go.

Kevin Johnson's layup for the Suns with four seconds left accounted for the final score.

Magic Johnson finished with 20 points for the Lakers while Cooper had 16, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 15 and Thompson 13. Worthy also grabbed 12 rebounds and Magic Johnson 11 assists and nine rebounds — just missing a triple-double for the second straight game.

Latham tourney brings back major match play to Muni

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For the first time since around 1959's Magic Valley Amateur, a major match play tournament will be hosted at Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course.

The Latham Motor Magic Valley Match Play tournament, offering a total prize list of $21,000 including an added $10,000 by the sponsor, gets under way this morning.

The competition begins at 7:45 a.m. this morning with all competitors playing an 18-hole match today and Sunday. Monday will have the field reduced to the semifinalists and the 10 men and three women's flights will be completed Monday afternoon.

A second major highlight is slated for 7 p.m. Monday when the awards banquet will be held at the Turf Club, replete with entertainment.

Walker's mound-side manner stuff of legends

Things you wouldn't know happened on the field until people talked about it afterward.

First, you have to understand that College of Southern Idaho baseball coach Jim Walker can be orally sarcastic or perhaps even cruel with his comments to players at propitious moments of games.

And so, with the score reading 1-1 in a last-out game in the Region 18 junior college tournament in St. George, Utah, recently, the fat came on the fire when Utah Valley catcher Blaine Milne came to the plate to face opposer right-hander Rob Kubta of Prosser, Wash.

Larry Hovey

Milne, you must understand, had slammed a Kubta fast ball about 350 feet for a homer in the first inning. Two innings later, he tested the integrity of the St. George ballpark's left-field fence with a line drive double.

And now, with elimination riding on the outcome, the score tied at 1-1, here strode Milne to the plate for a third confrontation with Kubta.

He hit the first one about 350 feet up, 450 feet, the plate umpire, to the surprise of CSI catcher Jessie Torres and this writer, calling the ball foul. No doubt it was foul by 40 to 50 feet when it hit out in the parking lot but it appeared fair to Torres and this writer when it came inside and low and again and Milne ripped it 350 feet high and maybe 470 feet out. This time it was foul when it left.
