Growth in jobs keeps unemployment steady

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Unemployment held steady at 5.9 percent last month as the economy added 213,000 jobs, the government said Friday in a report that stilled talk of an imminent drop in interest rates.

The surprising economic strength to begin the fourth quarter — which came despite the seventh consecutive monthly decline in manufacturing — was largely attributed to continued local government hiring for the school year.

Automobile manufacturing led the overall decline in the industrial sector. Analysts interpreted the data as proof no recession would come this year although some said the economy would flirt with one early next year if the manufacturing slump spills over into related services industries.

And they said the unexpected job growth and fresh evidence of persistent wage inflation would keep the Federal Reserve from raising its "base rate" which in turn would have triggered lower interest rates for consumers.

The Labor Department said average hourly earnings rose 0.7 percent in October. Most analysts had anticipated job growth of about

Magic Valley jobless rate lowest since Ford era

The Times-News and The Associated Press

TWIN FALLS — The last time Magic Valley unemployment was as low as October's was about the time President Gerald Ford was trying to "win inflation away." The area's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 4.2 percent in October, the Job Service reported, a .5 percent decline from the September rate. This is the lowest rate since July 1975, Lon McDonald of the Job Service said. The rate has hovered between 4 percent and 5 percent for much of the year, with a new low set in October.

Last October, the area's unemployment rate was 5.9 percent. Harvest jobs jumped total agricultural employment "significantly," increasing employment levels in the three-county Magic Valley area by 700 workers, McDonald said.

The local Job Service, part of the Idaho Department of Employment, measures unemployment in Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties. McDonald noted two apparent trends that brighten even further the Magic Valley's low unemployment rate.

Others said it might relax its hold on credit when policy makers meet next week, when the government will have issued new inflation data.

Infant seats aboard airliners may be next

The Washington Post

SIoux CITY, Iowa — Federal safety officials indicated Friday that they may step up the pressure on the government to require the use of infant seats on airline flights.

"We're considering recommendations in that area," said National Transportation Safety Board member Joseph Nall, who is chairing four-day hearings on the crash of United Airlines Flight 232 here in July. More than 10,000 infants fly in the United States every day, according to airline industry figures. Nall said he would like to allow children under 2 years old to fly free on the laps of adult passengers.

The potential consequences were dramatically illustrated in testimony released by the safety board. Three parents described how their children were torn from their grasp as Flight-232 began cartwheeling into its crash landing. The crash killed 112 people, including one infant.

"Suddenly, the world seemed to end—I saw for an instant my son's body floating and flying at a very high speed down the right aisle towards the back of the plane," recalled Sylvia Tsao, mother of Evan Tsao, who died of smoke inhalation one month before his second birthday.

Sylvia Tsao, of Albuquerque, N.M., was uninjured in the crash. She said she had followed the flight attendant's instructions to hold him on the cabin floor between her legs. "I remember being in the brace position, with my son's head tucked between my knees, my left hand holding his ankle, my face pushing down on his head, my legs outside his legs," she said.

Another survivor, Gayle Noigrass of Pine Bluff, Wyo., told the safety board that her 23-month old son James "flew up in the air and I managed to grab a hold of him around the waist. He struck the top of my head and I thought he was going to slip out of my grip."

Eleven-month-old Sabrina Michaelson of Denver slipped from her mother's grip and was plucked out of an overhead luggage bin after the crash, safety board documents show.

"The best method of protecting infants during air turbulence is a rough landing is strapping them in an approved safety seat, buckled into a passenger seat, Federal Aviation Administration cabin-safety specialist Donnell Pollard said on Friday's hearing.

"The FAA, however, does not require use of safety seats, leaving it up to the parents to decide. If parents want to use safety seats, they must purchase a ticket for their infant."

"We have indications from the public that they like the option of not having to purchase a seat for their children under two," Pollard said.

Critics of the policy say parents cannot make informed choices because they are not aware of the risks.

Bush backs 'reasonable' pay boost

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush will support "any reasonable proposal" by lawmakers to receive pay raises for themselves and other top federal officials and judges, his spokesman said Friday.

Bush's support on the politically touchy issue could encourage new effort to push a pay raise through Congress before adjournment.

House leaders hope to bring the issue to the floor before lawmakers adjourn for the year around Thanksgiving, but they acknowledged that much remained to be done and time was running out.

One congressional source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the package would provide a "cost-of-living" raise for top government officials in all three branches of about 8 percent on Jan. 1.

Pay scales would increase another 25 percent — the amount Bush asked earlier this year for executive, branch and judicial officials — on the next January. Members of Congress, in exchange, would give up all outside speaking fees, the source said.

In addition, Congress would adopt a series of other ethics reforms, including eliminating the right of members to keep excess campaign money for personal use when they retire; The House also would set up a new, two-tier ethics committee, with one panel to hear cases like a grand jury and another to act as a trial jury.

Senators worry about future of farm price supports in talks

By MILDICENT LAWTON Status News Service

WASHINGTON — Two farm state senators Friday told Bush Administration officials they are concerned about the fate of agricultural price supports in international trade negotiations now in progress.

The outcome of the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) negotiations could have "extraordinary ramifications" for farmers, said Sen. Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., a member of the Senate subcommittee that heard the officials' testimony. "A good trade agreement could be a bonanza for American farmers," said Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee's International Trade subcommittee. "But a bad agreement could be an economic disaster."

Daschle and Baucus made several comments about the potential loss of at least some "internal support measures," which include farm price supports. Internal support is one of the four main negotiating areas in the U.S. GATT proposal on agriculture tendered Oct. 25 in Geneva.

Both senators expressed their overall support of the concept of freer trade and specific support for the proposals, but they were concerned about the fate of the program. Daschle told the Administration witnesses, "You are going to run into greater opposition domestically than internationally on the U.S. GATT proposal because of the proposed phase out of support programs."

Baucus said that farmers need U.S. trade negotiators are concerned more with ideology and using policy to create a "perfect world" than advocating the producers' point of view. "But a bad agreement could be an economic disaster."

The U.S. GATT plan calls for these internal support measures, which are perceived to hinder free trade the most to be phased out over 10 years, while others would be "disciplined" or continued according to certain criteria.

In prepared testimony, a U.S. Department of Agriculture trade policy official said that the United States proposes essentially eliminating commodity-specific subsidies tied to the level of output, input or price.

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has emphasized that the policy changes proposed by the United States would not occur without other countries doing the same.

And Friday, Deputy U.S. Trade Representative Julius Katz told the subcommittee that the U.S. proposal was not to "go cold turkey" on farm support programs.

But Daschle said he was uncomfortable with the idea of "getting governments out of agriculture without any assurances that agriculture will be the beneficiary."

Fish, Game Department pushes pheasant habitat improvement

The Associated Press

BOISE — The Idaho Department of Fish and Game will more than triple the number of assignments to its upland game bird Habitat Improvement Program for the next year in an effort to increase the state's dwindling pheasant population.

"We're not going to have 500,000 more pheasants with this effort; it's not possible," Tom Reinecker, chief of the department's Wildlife Bureau, told the Idaho Fish and Game Commission at its meeting Friday in Boise.

now, and to get the populations in the habitat over the next three years. The action comes in response to growing pressure from sportsmen, including Cecil Andrus, who is upset over a decline in hunting quality. Reinecker said Idaho's pheasant populations, like those in many other states, have been declining steadily over the past five to 10 years as a result of lost habitat, weather conditions and other factors.

The plan is outlined for commissioners. It allocates $88,000 from the Habitat Improvement Program account, financed by the sale of upland game bird stamps, to hire eight temporary wildlife technicians to work during next June. Along with reassigning existing field staff to the program, the program will hire 12 biologists will increase the man-months Fish and Game devotes to the program from 82 to 272 over the next year.

The personnel will coordinate habitat improvement projects on federal and state property with private groups such as Pheasants Forever, and with landowners who agree to allow acreage to be used for food, winter cover or nesting cover for pheasants or chukars. Existing Habitat Improvement Program efforts will affect about 15,000 acres during 1989, but Reinecker said the beefed-up program should double or triple that total during the coming year.

However, Commissioner Louis Reinecker questioned the need for so much additional manpower. He asked why the department has not stepped-up the process already by offering landowners full compensation for land set aside for game habitat, rather than paying half or three-quarters of the cost for materials needed to create "shelter belts."

Commissioner Richard Hansen of Bayview said some, though also should be given to changing pheasant regulations to reduce limits and shorten seasons if necessary. Reinecker said regulations should be addressed separately, and landowners seem satisfied with the current cost-sharing arrangement. In fact, he said, there is a backlog of landowners throughout the state eager to cooperate with Fish and Game plans to improve habitat for upland game birds, including programs where the department provides technical expertise and a portion of the money for fencing or

Report says CIA knew about bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Ohio congressman said Friday an insurance investigator's report convinced him the CIA had been tipped in advance that terrorists might attempt to blow up Pan Am's Flight 103, but remained silent.

Rep. James Traficant said the report concluded the CIA was "covering up a drug run," protecting the terrorists' Frankfurt-to-New York heroin route in exchange for contacts that might lead to the release of American hostages.

"The CIA immediately denied covering up a drug run," protecting the terrorists' Frankfurt-to-New York heroin route in exchange for contacts that might lead to the release of American hostages.

Traficant's charges and labeled the report as "nonsense." The congressman said he had not checked the report with the CIA in advance of his meeting with reporters.

Traficant, a Democrat who ran a short-lived campaign for president, read from what he said was a report prepared by an investigator hired by Pan Am's insurance underwriter.

He declined to make copies available to reporters and declined to say why, indicating he might release copies next week.

The report claims the CIA had pinpointed the location of the eight Americans held captive in Lebanon and several of its agents were on Flight 103 along with evidence that may have survived the explosion, Traficant said.

"The plane exploded over Lockerbie, Scotland" last December and 259 people died.

"We have not seen the report," Rep. Traficant has described, said CIA spokesman Mark Mansfield. "The allegations it makes, however, are nonsense."

Traficant said the report detailed a complicated web of plots and connections involving hostages, spies, bombers and drug-runners. Among the claims in the report is that West German intelligence agents told CIA agents in Frankfurt about an hour before Flight 103 departed that they suspected a bomb may have been enclosed in a specific suitcase, Traficant said.

"The report says CIA agents told their superiors in Washington about the suspicion but got no response and the suitcase was allowed on the plane undisturbed," Traficant told a news conference.

"Whether or not they contacted CIA here I don't know. The report says they did," Traficant said. "The bottom line is... I think the CIA knew."

"Was it a CIA rogue group? I don't know," he said. "My charge is the CIA was covering up a drug run from Frankfurt to New York, trying to penetrate information on the hostages, and that drug run uncovered by terrorist spies and intermediaries ended up using that drug run."

"Scotland Yard had found specific bomb-proof types of luggage whose contents were intact," Traficant said. The items in that luggage were turned over to the U.S. government, he said.

Traficant said the 27-page report concluded the bombing was ordered by Ahmed Jibril of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, working through arms and drug smuggler Monzer Al-Kassar.

"Pan Am" has subpoenaed documents relating to Al-Kassar.

Traficant said the report said Al-Kassar had a relationship with a CIA unit referred to as CIA One and the relationship provided the CIA with terrorist contacts in exchange for undisturbed transit of heroin into the United States.

New questions raised on offshore drilling

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Academy of Sciences study raised new questions Friday about oil drilling off the California and Florida coasts, concluding that existing studies give no assurance the environment can be protected.

The report was presented to a presidential task force that must make a recommendation to President Bush by the end of the year on whether he should issue leases for oil and gas exploration at three controversial sites.

A panel of the Academy's National Research Council said the technical and scientific data available on environmental impacts of oil drilling at the three sites was found to be insufficient to warrant leases being issued now.

Robert Kallman, the task force director, told reporters the findings would be taken into account, but he said he wasn't prepared to call the report a setback for drilling nor to rule out a possible recommendation that leases should be issued.

The report "clarifies some of the issues that need to be addressed," Kallman said, suggesting the task force might submit a series of recommendations to Bush that includes one calling for additional environmental studies.

Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan, chairman of the task force, has been a strong proponent of offshore oil development.

Lujan spokesman Steve Goldstein said Friday that the Academy's report doesn't change the fact that offshore oil development is needed to reduce the country's dependence on oil imports.

Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., called the report "a major blow" in the offshore oil drilling program.

"It shows when you put three controversial lease sales together under a microscope you find out that the Interior Department didn't have enough information to safely go ahead with them, but they did anyway," Miller said.

The sites off Northern and Southern California and in the Gulf of Mexico near the Florida coast stand among the most controversial government leases sought by the oil industry. Environmentalists and many local residents oppose opening the offshore tracts because of environmental concerns.

Bush put a hold on issuing the leases in February, directing the special task force to examine the environmental concerns and asking the National Academy of Sciences to examine the technical and scientific issues involved.

The scientific panel concluded that the available technical and scientific data from each of the three lease sites "is currently inadequate for decisions to be made about development and production of oil and gas resources."

The panel, which included experts in marine science, oceanography and a variety of other disciplines, was critical of past studies of the sites by the Interior Department and raised particular concern about the lack of in-depth examination of the effects on local communities.

In some cases, information was out of date and of other files. "Significant social and economic impacts (to communities) have been ignored," the panel said.

Among its findings were:

- An oil spill in the Florida site likely would result in oil reaching the coastline within hours and polluting some state beaches.
- More information is needed to assess the effect of oil development on corals, seagrasses and other elements of the coastal ecosystems near the Florida site.
- The impact on nearby communities, including potential damage to tourism, has been given little attention.

Vessel missing off of Thailand

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An oil drilling ship was missing with 97 people on board Friday following a severe typhoon in the Gulf of Thailand, Unocal Corp. said.

The Seacrest was reported missing early Friday morning after the typhoon swept through the area with 100-mph winds and 35-foot waves.

Research for the 351-foot-long Seacrest has been launched with aircraft and vessels from Unocal's subsidiary, Unocal Thailand Ltd., as well as ships and aircraft of the Thai navy and air force.

Los Angeles-based Unocal officials said the crew included 67 Thai nationals and 10 people from other nations.

Bush signs Treasury legislation with warnings of unconstitutionality

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — President Bush signed legislation Friday appropriating funds for the Treasury Department, but told Congress that several sections were unconstitutional.

Bush raised objections over a section of the bill he said limited his ability to require government employees in sensitive positions to sign agreements promising not to divulge classified information.

He also complained about a provision preventing the Office of Management and Budget from modifying agricultural marketing regulations advanced by the Agriculture Department.

Bush said his ability to supervise the executive branch had been hampered in both cases and that he deemed both sections to be unconstitutional.

"Accordingly, I direct that executive branch officials implement the provisions in a manner consistent with the Constitution," Bush said.

Senate removes Mississippi judge

WALTER L. NIXON Impeached after conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted overwhelmingly Friday to remove Walter L. Nixon Jr. of Mississippi as a judge of the U.S. District Court in a case stemming from his conviction on perjury charges.

The 61-year-old Nixon became the second judge removed by the Senate by impeachment in two weeks.

"It is therefore ordered and adjudged that the said Walter L. Nixon Jr. be removed from office," declared Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., presiding over the Senate at the close of the proceedings.

The Senate convicted Nixon, 89-8, of lying to a federal grand jury when he said he never talked with county prosecutor about a marijuana case involving the son of a wealthy contractor.

It quickly followed by convicting him, 78-19, of lying to the grand jury in his 1984 appearance when he said he had nothing to do with the marijuana case.

However, the Senate acquitted Nixon on the third and final charge which alleged that he undermined confidence in the judiciary by lying not only to the grand jury but to a Justice Department attorney and an FBI agent.

The lawmakers voted, 57-40, a majority for guilty but short of the longer and longer. Nixon was convicted of two counts of perjury in 1986 and sentenced to five years in prison. He began serving the term at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida in March 1988, moving to a New Orleans halfway house in July. He is eligible for release this month.

"We have to go home and talk about things and get on with our lives," Nixon said, holding hands with his wife, Barbara, and daughter, Courtney.

Nixon had continued to collect his $89,500 judicial salary while serving his sentence, and had expressed hope of returning to the bench. The salary ends with removal from office.

The Senate's action came exactly two weeks after it removed Alee L. Hastings from the U.S. District Court in Miami for conspiracy to obtain a $150,000 payoff and lying about it to a jury that acquitted him in 1987.

Hastings became the first public official removed from the bench after having been acquitted of the offense charged in a criminal trial. Nixon was the seventh official, all of them judges, removed from office through impeachment.

Nixon was convicted on charges of lying when he told the federal grand jury he didn't discuss the marijuana case with Paul Holmes, then district attorney of Forrest County, Miss., and an old friend.

A defendant in the case was Drew Fairchild, a manager of the Hainesburg, Miss., airport and the son of wealthy contractor Wylie Fairchild.

Investigators later found that the elder Fairchild had helped Nixon obtain a highly-lucrative oil and gas investment, but the judge was acquitted of receiving an illegal gratuity.

Nixon contends he was the victim of witnesses who lied and overzealous prosecutors who fought for unreasonably high standards of accuracy in his grand jury testimony. He admitted making a few slips, but put them down as honest forgetfulness.

Fifth amendment interpretation Child withholding case to be reviewed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The case of a woman behind bars for refusing to disclose the whereabouts of her son gives the Supreme Court an opportunity to refine how the Fifth Amendment protects people against self-incrimination, lawyers say.

Ralph Tyler III, of the Maryland attorney general's office plans to argue before the high court Tuesday that the importance of protecting an endangered child outweighs the constitutional claim of Jacqueline Bouknight, who has been jailed in Baltimore for 18 months for contempt of court.

Her lawyers say the case could affect whether courts may use their contempt powers to persuade defendants to produce evidence that could help convict them.

If Ralph were right ... we wouldn't need a criminal code. We could just hold people in contempt until they produce the evidence," said George Burns Jr., a state public defender who is representing Bouknight.

City social workers have not seen Bouknight's son Maurice, now 3 years old, for more than two years and fear he may be dead.

Maurice, born on Oct. 3, 1986, was hospitalized twice before he was 4 months old with pneumonia and a broken leg. Social workers said his mother was shaking the baby and dropping him into the hospital crib. According to prosecutors, X-rays revealed the child had previous bone fractures.

The state took protective custody of the child for several months, but his mother regained custody in July 1987, after promising not to physically punish him and to undergo training in parenthood.

Nine months later, after social workers said Bouknight had ceased to cooperate with them and would not show them her son, a juvenile court issued a civil contempt order that she be jailed until she revealed his whereabouts.

Bouknight, now 23, remains in the Baltimore City Jail. Her attorneys refused to allow her to be interviewed, saying she is hampered by severe learning difficulties, although she meets legal standards of mental competency.

"She's sort of a lost soul," Burns said, noting that he could not find any relatives of Bouknight's. "I know of no real work background. I think she probably lived from place to place."

Maurice's father, who had been jailed for distributing cocaine, was shot to death in March 1988, and Bouknight had a history of drug use, according to testimony in juvenile court.

Defense attorneys say if the child has been harmed or killed, Bouknight would be the most likely suspect, even if someone else were responsible.

"If she says she can't produce the baby, the baby's dead and gone," it doesn't take a very imaginative prosecutor to add up the facts," Burns said. "... You can have successful prosecutions of innocent people."

The Fifth Amendment forbids authorities from compelling people to testify against themselves but does not prohibit courts from ordering them to perform certain actions, Tyler said.

For example, courts have held that suspects can be required to provide samples of their blood, handwriting and voice, and to stand in a police lineup.

Biosphere test begins

ORACLE, Ariz. (AP) — A September 1988 and another scientist spent five days in March. Ms. Leigh plans to celebrate her 39th birthday eight days from today by baking a sorghum cake in a microwave oven in the habitat's efficiency kitchen.

After she spends two weeks inside, the experimenters will evaluate whether to continue toward a 21-day goal.

Oracle has begun a two-to-three week stay inside an airtight, steel-and-glass enclosure that with its own ecosystem and atmosphere is a possible prototype for space colonization.

Stalemate target of staffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders said Friday that congressional staff members will be working over the weekend to break a stalemate that has blocked passage of deficit-reduction and debt-cutting bills.

"We anticipate being able to reach agreement and (that we) can announce it on Monday," Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, told reporters.

Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas declined to say that an agreement is near "until we find what the staff is coming up with Monday."

Mitchell said, however, that there are no hump-ups among House and Senate leaders on what the agreement should contain.

President Bush cleared away a major obstacle to passage of the deficit and debt legislation Thursday when he and his Senate allies said they will drop efforts to add a capital-gains tax cut to the debt bill.

The agreement being sought by congressional leaders presumably will include provisions allowing Republicans symbolic opportunities to offer the capital-gains cut to several bills. Even so, Bush's concession apparently ended any real chance that the reduction, which he promised during his 1988 election campaign, would be passed this year.

At the same time, Bush demanded that Congress beef up the deficit-reduction bills it is considering. Unless the final bill produces at least a $14 billion reduction, he said, he will let stand $16 billion of automatic across-the-board spending cuts that were triggered on Oct. 16.

Mild quake hits Sierra area

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A mild earthquake centered in rural Alpine County, Calif., rattled western Nevada and parts of the Sierra late Friday morning.

The quake at 12:09 p.m. MST registered 4.3 on the Richter scale, according to Pat Jorgenson, spokeswoman for the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, Calif.

She said the initial tremor was followed three minutes later by a 3.2 aftershock.

She said the quake was felt from Reno south to Alpine County. People in Carson City and around Lake Tahoe said they experienced a rolling sensation for about two or three seconds.

There were no reports of injuries or damage.

Students arrested in high school bust

They say the two students are only a fraction of the total problem.

The five-member team, including Priest River police and Bonner County sheriff's deputies, staked out a wooded area behind the high school on Monday.

"We didn't have to wait long. Maybe 15 minutes and two students came up," said Deputy John Hess, who organized the watch.

The juveniles are scheduled to go to court Nov. 10 on charges of possession of paraphernalia with intent to use, and possession of marijuana under three ounces. Hess added the operation was not a "one-time deal."

Wymong woman killed in accident

The victim was identified as Kimberly Anderson, 20. Police said Ms. Anderson apparently lost control of the car she was driving Thursday and failed to negotiate a turn on Idaho 36 about 20 miles north of Preston.

San Diego company set to buy lodge

Boise attorney Eugene Thomas, a partner in Payette Lakes Co., said Thursday his group had decided not to compete with developer Douglas Manchester for the 110-room lodge.

Withdrawal of Payette Lakes' $700-a-share offer comes five days before Manchester's bid.

"We wanted to let people they can withdraw the stock they've tendered with us and do what they want with it," Thomas said.

Manchester is offering $800 a share, and his deal ends Monday.

Judge refuses request for prison term

Lewisohn (AP) — A judge refused to get tougher with criminals "anywhere sweeping the state, 2nd District Judge Ronald Schilling found himself in a relatively unenviable position this week.

Standing before him was Kip Hutchins, 25, a Clarkston, Wash., man who was being Schilling sent him to prison for violating his probation on a drunken driving charge.

Hutchins was placed on probation 2 1/2 years ago, and then this fall he was caught wanting a rifle. Possession of a firearm violated the terms of his probation.

"I've quickly admitted the violation and insisted Schilling sentence him to prison 'to get it over with.' ... I don't really like probation."

And when defense attorney Jeff Brudie tried to intercede with the judge, Hutchins simply said, "Shut up, Brudie."

Laughing all the factors, however, Schilling declined to impose a prison term and instead ordered Hutchins to serve a year in the county jail.

"I'm sorry I can't do what you want," the judge apologetically told Hutchins.

Judge avoids closed hearing protest

CASCADE (AP) — A 4th District Court judge has sidestepped a challenge from a central Idaho newspaper to his decision closing the sentencing hearing for a man convicted of sexual misconduct with minor girls.

After listening to the arguments from the attorney for The Star-News of McCall this week, Judge Robert Newhouse declined to make any ruling on the paper's protest over the closure of the hearing for Clayton Hatfield last August.

Judge will rule on sex ed class recall attempt

BOISE (AP) — A magistrate judge will decide in early December whether a drive to oust six of seven Boise School Board trustees over a sex education class will continue.

In a Thursday hearing, Valley County Magistrate Darla Williamson heard arguments over whether School Board Clerk Sharon Brooks should be ordered to canvass recall petitions with 2,306 signatures.

The petitions were circulated by the Pro-Family Coalition of Ada County this fall.

The recall drive was launched in April after the six voted to expand an optional family-life education course from high school students to the junior highs. It addressed issues such as abortion and contraception.

Ms. Brooks declared the petition invalid. She said she contacted the secretary of state's office and was told there should be a separate petition for each person targeted. Instead, the coalition listed all six in a row.

Bill Litsler, attorney for the petitioners, said Ms. Brooks overstepped her authority when she decided not to canvass the signatures.

Candidate hopes to get over rough start

BOISE (AP) — Sen. Roger Fairchild's campaign for governor got off to a stumbling start, with most of the attention stolen when his ex-wife's bearded hunk with accusations of wife-beating, drug use and adultery.

FAIRCHILD

To hot it off, he and his wife, Mary, were holding a campaign-launching news conference at Pocatello on Tuesday. Fairchild said his wife's ex-husband, father of the family's oldest child, was killed in a northern Idaho traffic accident.

"We'll just have to work harder," Fairchild said, in a KTVB's "Viewpoint" program to be broadcast this weekend.

"No one's ever said that I am not capable, that I am not experienced and that I am not addressing the issues," he said.

Fairchild, Senate majority leader, said he will resign Jan. 10 and campaign to win the GOP gubernatorial nomination in the May primary. The pressures of the legislature are such that he owes it to his Senate colleagues to resign when he launches his full-time campaign for governor, he said.

When Fairchild announced his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor, he said he never had any intention of running for office in one larger than his legislative district, which covers Washington and Teton counties.

When his campaign started, Fairchild said his name might be recognized by 10 percent of the people. Normally, when he made a statewide series of announcements that he was running, he might expect that to increase to 25 percent, he said.

"I've become tabloid news and been discussed in every tavern and work place in the state," he said, estimating 90 percent of the people knew his name.

With that notoriety, he said all he has to do is get his stand on the issues out.

Fairchild said his campaign will focus on the need to end 20 years of Democratic rule in the Statehouse. He said Anders has allowed "incestuous relationships" to spring up with his staffers building the state

He said there were good things from his opening day. "I've never had any public office in an area larger than his legislative district, which covers Washington and Teton counties."

Fairchild said when he and his ex-wife, Mary, were divorced, she demanded $100,000 as a settlement, which he refused.

"I'll run you if you don't," and she's been trying ever since," he said.

But Fairchild said his ex-wife's allegations have been made public in his last two legislative races and people in his district have paid them little attention.

"I've faced them before and have been re-elected with at least 58 percent of the vote each time during my last two legislative terms. Senate colleagues elected me majority leader," he said.

He acknowledged he has little organization and few campaign contributions, but said he just decided to try to run for office.

Pocatello considers cable plan

POCATELLO (AP) — The Pocatello City Council has taken under consideration a recommendation that it join a nationwide movement to regulate the cable television industry.

City officials say they needed time to review the massive regulatory legislation being proposed.

"I really don't think we're in a position to make any decisions until we know what is being suggested," said councilman Greg Anderson, at Thursday's meeting.

Pocatello-Chubbuck Cable Commission members in October urged the city take a stand. Commission representatives said they had reached the end of their influence over TCI Commission Rising Prices, limited channel selections and a lack of competition in the cable industry.

prompted cable commission members to call for the council action.

Big game depredation panel expects to finalize recommendations Monday

BOISE (AP) — The 12-member panel negotiating an answer to the big game depredation problem that plagued Idaho last winter expects to finalize its recommendations to the 1990 Legislature on Monday.

Don Clower of Meridian, president of the Idaho Wildlife Council and a member of the committee appointed by the state departments of Agriculture and Fish and Game, said Friday that the report should be made public when the panel meets with legislative oversight committee Dec. 7.

"It may not be the best of all worlds, but in a give-and-take process there has to be compromise," Clower told the Idaho Fish and Game Commission at its 73rd complex problem; there is no simplistic by marauding deer, elk and antelope, and of sportsmen worried about adequate habitat for big game.

The 1989 Legislature, which ordered formation of the depredation negotiating committee, authorized payment of $500,000 to landowners with claims of big game damage during the last six months of 1988. Those claims amounted to $1.2 million, of which the state $100,000 was paid and recommended payment of 20 cents on the dollar.

The money allocated by the Legislature also was intended to compensate landowners for depredation during the first six months of 1989, but the fund was exhausted before House claims were processed.

Clower said the final product will be a comprehensive package addressing the concerns of landowners whose crops and fences were damaged

Appeal court rejects parole argument

BOISE (AP) — Time spent on parole from a criminal sentence does not count as part of the time served under that sentence, the Idaho Court of Appeals said.

Even though that might cause a prisoner to serve more time on parole and in prison than his sentence called for, that's a result of the prisoner's own conduct, the court said Friday.

The court unanimously ruled Friday that Archie Winter was not entitled to relief from his prison sentence.

The man was sentenced to up to 11 years in prison for burglary in 1976. Four times he was released on parole, but each time was returned to prison for alcohol-related violations.

When he was returned to prison for the last time in 1987, he asked for release because the 11 years ordered under his original sentence were up.

Fourth District Judge D. Duane McKee granted his petition for habeas corpus and Winter was released.

Philippine Vice-president Salvador Laurel, ctr, addresses thousands of supporters of the late president Ferdinand Marcos during a rally Friday at a suburban Quezon city park.

Marcos supporters demand return of his body for burial

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Thousands of Ferdinand Marcos loyalists rallied at national police headquarters early Saturday after an 11-day march from his home province to demand the return of the deposed president's body for burial.

Corazon Aquino, who became president when Marcos was driven into exile in February 1986 after 20 years in power, has refused to allow his body to be brought home from Hawaii. Marcos died there Sept. 28 at age 72.

An estimated 15,000 protesters assembled at the gates of the Camp Crame headquarters of the Philippine Constabulary, the military national police, and refused orders to disperse by midnight Friday. Their leaders then negotiated an agreement to leave at 5:30 a.m. (2:30 p.m. MST Friday).

The standoff followed a day-long rally Friday by more than 25,000 people, which capped the 250-mile march by Marcos supporters from Ilocos Norte, his native province.

It was the largest show of support for Marcos since 1986 and occurred on the eve of Mrs. Aquino's departure for Canada and the United States, where she hopes to convince businessmen the Philippines is a stable place to invest.

Vice President Salvador Laurel told reporters at the rally that Mrs. Aquino's refusal to allow Marcos to be buried in the Philippines was the "great mistake" of her administration.

Marcos had lived in Hawaii since a civilian-military uprising forced him from office. Mrs. Aquino has refused, on national security grounds, to allow the return of his body or of his widow Imelda and their three children.

During the rally, the crowd cheered wildly when Laurel asked, "Do you agree that Marcos' body must be allowed home?"

Court employees strike for protection

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Court employees crippled the judicial system Friday with their third strike of the anti-drug war led by judges who want judges' full bulletproof cars for protection from assassins hired by cocaine barons.

A union of judges and court workers said this strike had no time limit. The first strike lasted a week and the second three days.

Also on Friday, all 42 of Medellin's federal judges announced they were resigning, according to the Colombian radio network RCN. They had begun an indefinite strike Thursday, demanding more protection from drug traffickers.

The resignations are not effective until accepted by the Supreme Court, which usually does not accept such mass actions.

Drug traffickers have killed three federal judges in three months, one just before President Virgilio Barco declared war on the cocaine cartels in August. They showed no sign Tuesday of ending a terror campaign aimed at forcing the government to end extraditions to the United States.

A car bomb exploded in Bogota shortly before midnight Thursday, killing four people, including a child. Three other small bombs went off Thursday night and a fourth was deactivated, police reported.

No one claimed responsibility, but security forces assume the scores of explosions that began in August are the work of the drug gangs. The 186 bombings reportedly have killed 29 people and wounded 226.

The court strike began in stages Thursday after federal judge Mariela Espinoza was shot down with automatic weapons Wednesday night in front of her home in Medellin, headquarters of the most notorious cocaine cartel.

Forty-three judges and 179 other court employees have been killed in Colombia during the past eight years, many of them by drug traffickers.

Americans share research award

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — American scientists Luke A. Lett and Isaiak J. Faller have won the 1992 Dr. Josef Steiner Cancer Research Award, the Steiner Foundation announced Friday.

They will share a prize of $250,000, which will be invested in cancer research of their choice. This was stipulated in the will of the founder of the award, a wealthy Swiss pharmacist who died in 1983.

Liotta's group from the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., discovered a series of five proteins and their associated genes which stimulate and suppress key steps in the process by which tumor cells invade normal tissue and spread in the body, the foundation said.

Fidler of the University of Texas Cancer Center, was honored for his pioneer work in metastasis research, discovering that metastasis is the result of a selective outgrowth of specialized subpopulations of tumor cells, the foundation said. In other studies, he worked on understanding the role that host defense cells play in the growth and regression of cancer metastases.

Yugoslavs, security units clash in south

PRISTINA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Security forces on Friday clashed with an angry crowd in Podujevo and moved to quell other protests by ethnic Albanians in this southern province where at least three people died in unrest this week.

The wave of protests in Kosovo, Yugoslavia's poorest region, was sparked by the trial of a popular former Communist leader, Adem Ylli, and 14 other leaders of the province's ethnic Albanian majority.

More than 500 villagers tried to force their way into the center of Podujevo, a 20-mile north of Pristina, sources said on condition of anonymity. Security forces blocked off a local road where demonstrators were marching and used tear gas in a bid to disperse them.

The government's Tanjug news agency said the demonstrators and the security forces clashed, and sources said gunshots were heard, but no other details of the incident were reported.

A demonstration by about 150 school children was also reported in the town of Suva Reka, 40 miles south of Pristina. The demonstrators dispersed as soon as riot police took up positions in front of their, a witness said.

Riot police and armored vehicles were out in force in the center of Pristina, the capital of Kosovo province, where they dispersed 70 people who were attempting to stage a demonstration.

Police said a shootout with "terrorists" Thursday night ended when a 26-year-old railroad worker committed suicide while another unidentified man died of wounds inflicted by police and was found with an explosive device.

600 mink set free

PORDENONE, Italy (AP) — About 600 mink were set free at dawn Friday from a breeding ranch, and police said they suspect animal rights activists in the raid.

Farm attendants captured 450 mink in the countryside.

The action was not immediately claimed but police said it could have been the work of the Front, an organization of animal welfare supporters, which carried out a similar protest one year ago.

Reds name Piniella new field manager

CINCINNATI (AP) — Lou Piniella Friday was appointed manager of Cincinnati as the Reds started life after Pete Rose.

Piniella, former manager of the New York Yankees, accepted a three-year contract reportedly for $350,000 a year. He replaces Rose, who was banned from baseball on Aug. 21.

"This is a good ball club I'm coming to," Piniella said at a news conference at Riverfront Stadium. "It's not like I'm going into a rebuilding process. This is a ball club that can win now."

Piniella, 46, was joined by his wife, Anita, a son, Derrick; Reds owner Marge Schott and general manager Bob Quinn. Quinn worked with Piniella in the Yankees' front office.

The last hurdle for the hiring was cleared when Yankees' pitcher George Steinbrenner released Piniella from a two-year, personal services contract that paid Piniella $400,000 for each of the two years.

Last season, Piniella was offered the Toronto managerial position. But Steinbrenner asked too much compensation from the Blue Jays.

The Dayton, Ohio, News reported unidentified sources saying the Reds assured Piniella that he can pick his own coaching staff. Tony Perez said Schott told him he still has a job with the Reds; and Piniella agreed that Perez will stay as batting coach and first base coach.

The Cincinnati Post also reported today that Piniella agreed to become manager.

Piniella began his playing career with Baltimore, moved to Cleveland and then Kansas City before playing 11 years with the Yankees. He retired after the 1984 season.

The Tampa, Fla., native was named Yankees manager after the 1985 season, replacing Billy Martin.

In 1986, the Yankees finished second in the American League East under Piniella with a 90-72 record, but fell to fourth in 1987 with a 79-73 record. Martin came back for a fifth-term at the start of the 1988 season, with Piniella moving to the front office as general manager, replacing Woody Woodward.

Martin lasted only until June 23, 1988, and Piniella came down from the office to manage again, with Quinn taking over as general manager.

After the Yankees finished fifth in 1988, Dallas Green became the manager. Green, who was fired before the season ended, withdrew a week ago as a candidate for the Reds' job, after saying Cincinnati had offered him the position.

Piniella, who now is 14 while a member of the Yankees, replaces Cincinnati's most famous No. 14, Pete Rose. The late baseball commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti banned Rose from the game for life because of gambling.

Tommy Helms was named interim manager when Rose left. Helms was 42-21 in his 35 games as the Reds finished fifth in the NL West with a 75-87 record.

Lou Piniella holds his new Cincinnati Reds jersey at a press conference Friday.

McNamara hooks on with Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — John McNamara, who has lost more games than he has won, got his sixth chance to manage a major league club Friday when he was hired by the Cleveland Indians.

McNamara succeeds Doc Edwards, who dismissed Sept. 12 as the Indians were on their way to finishing 73-83, sixth in the American League East and 16 games behind first-place Toronto.

Indians president Hank Peters announced the two-year contract during a news conference at Cleveland Stadium.

"I look forward to the challenge and task of leading the Cleveland Indians," McNamara said.

McNamara said although he has known Peters for 39 years, he doesn't think friendship has anything to do with his standing here.

McNamara, who was a scout for Seattle during the past year, said the Indians could be a contender in their division.

"I think this division is wide open," he said. "I honestly feel this ballclub has a chance to be a contender."

Peters selected McNamara from a list of candidates that included Rene Lachemann, third base coach for the World Series champion Oakland Athletics; Mike Hargrove, former Indians first baseman and manager of the club's Class-AAA team at Colorado Springs; and John Hart, a Cleveland special assignment scout who was 8-11 as the Indians' interim manager after Edwards was fired.

Peters also announced that Hargrove, 40, would serve as McNamara's coaching staff.

Peters said each of the finalists was well qualified but that McNamara stood out.

"McNamara knows what price you have to pay in order to win. John knows the American League very well," Peters said.

Auburn, Florida square off in Southeast battle

Auburn or Florida will drop from the Southeastern Conference race Saturday and the performance of Emmitt Smith could decide which one does.

A junior on Florida who leads the Division I-A in rushing with a 161.1-yard average, hasn't had good experiences against Auburn. He missed last year's game with a knee injury and the Gators lost Auburn, held him to 72 yards in 21 carries in 1987 and the Tigers won 29-6.

"Emmitt's going to get his yardage," Auburn coach Pat Dye said, "but you have to be sound against a runner like Emmitt. He's as good as we've played against."

Both are 3-1 in the conference, one game behind unbeaten Alabama, ranked fifth in the nation. Auburn is ranked 12th and Florida 19th.

Bruins rout Nampa to wrap up winning season

By DAVE GOINS
Special to The Times-News

NAMPA — With John Horner hitting some key passes, the Twin Falls Bruins nailed down a winning season by dumping the Nampa Bulldogs 41-14 in their season finale Friday night.

The Bruins, saying goodbye to the seniors, welcomed newcomer Ty Gordon, a sophomore running back who helped his classmates to a 7-0 record this fall. Gordon ended the night with 130 yards in 20 rushes and had one long kickoff return.

The victory snapped a three-game losing streak, allowing the Bruins to finish 6-4 overall and 2-4 in Class A-1 Division I Youth Group A.

"We're usually a second-half team," Twin Falls coach John Judd said. "I think the kids just know you have to come out and play for quarter."

The Bruins trailed only once, that coming after Nampa's Ryan Hopkins made an over-the-shoulder TD catch and Jason Thompson kicked the extra point in the 7-6 lead with two minutes left in the first quarter.

After that it was all Twin Falls. The Bruins used Horner's passing — 13 of 30 for 208 yards — to move quickly downfield. A 38-yard pass to Casey Teske put the ball on the Nampa and after the fifth of nine holding calls the Bruins suffered, Horner then threw to Teske for 12 yards and the touchdown.

"Later in the quarter," Horner scowled at the Bruins' third touchdown and Gordon got his first carry TD from the 4 for Twin Falls' next touchdown with 25 seconds left in the half.

"I think he's going to be the center of our offense next year," said Judd.

"Plus, the passing of good company in his sophomore class."

Twin Falls proved to be bad company for Nampa, 1-8, and 0-7, in the second half. It opened with an eight-play, 85-yard scoring drive that ended Nampa's fate. Horner and Teske capped the drive on a 36-yard screen pass. Dave McClusky hit the first of three extra points.

"Our offense has done the job for us all year. No one has really shut us down except Centennial," Judd said. "I think the seniors wanted to go out with a 6-4 record. We had our chances to get into the playoffs and we didn't."

"This is a good closing, positive note for our program," the coach said.

Twin Falls out-gained Nampa 430 to 241 in total offense. The Bruins had 222 yards rushing.

Hagerman

The Pirate defense kept the Raiders at bay all evening, forcing quarterback James Pincher to throw numerous errant passes to avoid being sacked.

"We were a little off," said Raiders' coach Bob Murphy. "We had the opportunity to score."

The Pirate defense was tested in the first quarter as Hagerman moved the ball inside the 20 before Hagerman stopped them, forcing a field goal attempt which the Raiders missed.

The Pirates got the game's first score with a 1-minute, 37-second remaining in the first half when Chris Wally connected with Ryan Pharis for a six-yard touchdown pass.

Pharis' TD reception was set up by one of those errant Pincher passes. This one was kicked off by the Pirates' Kirk Lindsay at the Raiders' 37.

The first half was clearly a defensive battle with the two teams forcing four turnovers between them.

"Our people up front put the pressure on all night," said Clark.

The second half opened with a strong Raiders defensive stand as they kept the Raiders on three plays forcing them to punt.

The Raiders took over on their own 25. On first down, Steve Emery, rimrock's only bright spot on the evening with 111 yards rushing on 14 carries, picked up the 20 before Hagerman moved the ball inside the 20 before Hagerman stopped them, forcing a field goal attempt which the Raiders missed.

Boise St. QBs back in good graces for Reno game

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

RENO, Nev. — Mike Virden and Duane Halliday are back in Boise State University coach Skip Hall's good graces — well, his better graces.

"It's so close between the two of them now that I couldn't tell you which one will start," Hall said Thursday about his plans for the Broncos' must-win encounter with Nevada-Reno today. "It really doesn't matter, because the other one will be able to come off the bench and do a good job."

Seventy-two hours earlier, it wasn't all out of the bag. Virden and Halliday, who combined to surrender 10 interceptions as Montana last week, would be in a position to start. Hall even talked about putting either player in the starting lineup. Mladenich, a redshirt freshman, on the field.

Several days of drifk have evidently changed his mind. Mladenich didn't make the travel squad, which means that the Broncos will sink or swim with Virden/Halliday.

"Quarterback is matter of concern for us because we need to establish some consistency," said Hall. "But it's only one aspect of our offense. We have to establish consistency throughout the offense to have a chance to win."

And win the Broncos must if they harbor aspirations of returning to the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs. Boise State, 5-3 overall and 4-1 in the Big Sky, will have to beat Reno today. Eastern Washington next week and Idaho on Nov. 15 will have even be considered for postseason by the NCAA I-AA committee.

UNR coach Chris Ault, and the lion's share of the anticipated 19,000 full-throated fans who will fill Mackay Stadium this afternoon, will do their best to make sure the Broncos' next week and Idaho on Nov. 15 will have even be considered for postseason by the NCAA I-AA committee.

"We're expecting the biggest crowd ever to watch a sporting event in northern Nevada," said Ault. "But that doesn't mean a thing if we don't produce on the field."

The Wolf Pack is 4-4 overall, 3-3 in the Big Sky and out of the running for postseason. But Ault rejects the suggestion this is meaningless game for UNR.

"It's bearing on the conference race, particularly for Boise, and it has bearing on the 1989 football season for the University of Nevada at Reno," he said. "When you're 4-4, you're not good and you're not bad, so a lot remains to be seen about what this football team will do."

The Broncos have won the last two meetings between the two schools, and the full house will be largely due to the number of southern Idaho fans in attendance.

"Boise always has a good following here, and that's good for us," said Ault. "I think we'll give them a heckuva game to watch."

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. MST. Boise station KTVB, channels 7 and 38 in the Magic Valley, will televise it live.

teammate Neto Villarreal, picked off a pass at the Marsing eight-yard line 12 seconds before the final gun to preserve the victory.

"We could have done what I looked like we couldn't do anything," said Kail River coach David Richins. "But we came back and made it interesting."

From the viewpoint of Marsing coach Bill Barr, the final minutes were more than just proving.

"I was convinced that we played like we did and still win," he said after seeing his club draw a 10-point victory.

"We gave them every chance in the world to beat us. I'm concerned with the fumbles and penalties. We've been hit with 10 penalties in penalties all most every game."

Down 12-0 with 1 minute, 22 seconds on the game clock, Colebey Klindenn scored for the Trojans off a six-yard run. The two-point conversion was short and when Villarreal covered the on-side kick, the game appeared to be over.

But Villarreal fumbled it back — giving the Trojans their last chance from the Husky 40. Quarterback Scott Hitt found Myron Durfee for 12 yards before unleashing the fatal throw.

"The kids just rose to the occasion when they had to," said Barr, who inherited a program that was revived last year after being discontinued for lack of turnout in 1987. "It just goes to show you that anybody can rise up and beat anybody. We've been the big underdogs all season."

Marsing carried a 6-play into half-time as Villarreal's 42-yard scamp and a 25-yard field goal by Todd Hughes, whose second kick from the same distance put the Huskies up 12-0 at 4:27 of the fourth period.

man champion. "I knew we'd have trouble matching up with them. We didn't win today, but this has been my best year since I've been here. These kids have worked as hard as I could asked and we've achieved a lot more than anybody thought at the beginning of the season."

"Our rushing defense has been the strength of our ballclub, so I felt we could shut down their running game," said Garden Valley coach Sam Nelson. "I wasn't 100 percent about their passing game but I think we've always been as good as it was today. But we got a lot of pressure on their quarterback, and that forced the interceptions."

Garden Valley had two interceptions in the first minute of the game and 14 points after running two offensive plays. Linebacker Jason Torpey picked off Tyler Ballard pass at the Camas 28 on the first play from scrimmage and returned it for a touchdown. On the Musers' first play of their second possession, Garden Valley defensive back Chris Chesnut picked off Ballard at the 34 and returned it to the 18. Running back Chris Fenton ran for four yards and took a 14-yard pass from Jason Adams for the Wolverines' second TD. Fenton's PAT run made it 14-0 with two minutes gone in the game.

Back to back, Garden Valley turnovers stilled two drives, with Ballard recovering Fenton's fumble at the Wolverines' 17 on the second,

The Musers moved seven yards on their first play, and on the fourth — and three from the 10; Eddie Harness hauled in a scoring pass from Ballard to put the Musers in the scoring column. Ballard connected with Ryan Smith for the two-point conversion, pulling Camas to within 14-8 with 4:18 left in the first quarter.

But from that point Garden Valley rolled off 42 points unanswered "points" in 12 minutes. The Wolverines converted their next two offensive series on touchdown passes of 49 and 58 yards from Adams to Chesnut. With his team leading 28-8, Torpey returned his second Ballard interception for a touchdown, this time from 18 yards to make it 34-8.

The Wolverines made it 42-8 with a two-play, 47-yard drive, capped by Fenton's 21-yard TD run and David Lindstrom's PAT run. They made it 48-8 when Fenton returned the Robbie Tupper's punt 45 yards for a TD and broke the 45-point barrier after Chesnut's 44-yard interception return and Lindstrom's PAT run.

Futility

"And that's been one of the good things about these players. They've been very good about keeping their focus on each game as it comes. It's not like we've been playing ourselves mentally prepared for each one."

Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m. Nampa-TV station KIVI, channels 6 and 35 in the Magic Valley, will broadcast it live.

Idaho State, 3-4 and 2-3 in the league, is coming out of its shell. The best game came in a 24-20 decision over Northern Arizona). We're not a great team but we played well enough to win. We are improving but we still have to struggle for everything we get on the football field.

"I don't have any question that Idaho is the top team in the conference and the best team we'll face this year. They are centered around (quarterback John) Priest and he has sufficient talent to raise anyone playing with him to another platform," Hall said.

"I think we're going to have a good season. We know and use the Idaho passing game now.

ward to all that."

The part that does, both Malone and the fact Grangeville, 8-1 and ranked fourth in the final Associated Press high school football poll among A-3 teams, will be sitting up about 40 players, including two returning all-stars. Grangeville has been to the playoffs seven times, won its conference title seven years in a row and has lost to an A-3 team in northern Idaho in 42 straight outings.

That still includes a long line of District I opponents, including the last three years, Kimberly in 1985, Declo in 1984. No Magic Valley team has beaten the Bulldogs since Kimberly knocked them off in the first round of the state A-3 playoffs in 1983.

"We haven't seen any film on this year's team," Malone said. "But they apparently are doing the same things they have for the past several years. A lot of what they do is very similar to what we do so it's nothing complicated."

Kickoff time is 3:45 p.m. MST. Twin Falls radio station KTFI-AM will broadcast the game live.

Grangeville lost its season opener to Class A-2 Coeur d'Alene 27-7 last week. It was pressed aside. And that's a worry to Coach Crisp Cunningham who notes it's hard to tell how good they really are. We think our league is down a little this year. But the problem has nothing to do with the right now is that our starters have played only about half the time in the last five games and that's not real convincing."

But the reason the starters haven't been playing much is their injuries. The Bulldogs have scored at least 50 points in their last five games.

Their return all-star back is three year tailback starter Jeremy King who this year has picked up 958 yards and scored 11 touchdowns. Last year he scored 22. "He's not big but he has good vision and a nose for the goal line," Cunningham said.

He alternates senior Chuck Thom-

(548 yards and 10 TDs), and junior Steve Wain with (427 yards and six TDs). At fullback, Jason Falles has picked up 436 yards and 10 touchdowns from his wingback position.

"As you can see, we like to run the ball and we like to give our backs a chance to run with it," coach said.

Quarterback is junior Bryan Fontana who has completed 52 of 100 passing attempts for 14 touchdowns. He has been picked just three times.

"We're not a throwing team. We've been known as a running team for years," Cunningham said. "But fortunately, we've always been able to come up with players who can throw and catch."
