Democrats offer pair of bills on abortion

The Associated Press

BOISE — Senate Democrats have introduced the first two bills on abortion, ignoring the Republican leadership's plan to confine the initial debate on all abortion bills to the House.

But Senate Republican leaders on Friday were considering action to effectively kill the two proposals so they could not be used by the minority to undermine their procedural scheme.

Republicans maintained the management plan was intended to assure fair consideration of all abortion bills in a dignified and responsible manner.

But Democrats, needing to win just three more seats this fall to take control of the Senate, claimed the plan was intended to shield the slim GOP Senate majority from voting on the most extreme, and potentially politically damaging abortion positions.

Sen. Mari Calabretta, D-Osburn, was joined by nine other Democrats Friday in offering repeal of the so-called trigger law that imposes prison sentences on doctors and women involved in abortions. That law, considered repugnant even by many in the anti-abortion camp, would take effect if the U.S. Supreme Court completely returns abortion regulation to the states.

The other bill, sponsored by Sen. Brian Donesley, D-Boise, would set up an advisory vote on the abortion issue in November. Voters would be asked to decide whether "the current Idaho state laws relating to abortion, which permit abortions only under certain defined conditions, be continued as the law of the state of Idaho."

The current law is patterned after the 1973 Supreme Court decision that effectively allowed abortion on demand during the first three months of pregnancy and under controlled conditions in the second three months. No abortions would be allowed in the final three months of pregnancy except to save the life of the mother.

Mrs. Calabretta said she was not challenging the Republican management plan for the abortion issue, but only sending "an early signal that the people of this state want ... the minimum to occur from our actions this year."

Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus, who personally opposes abortion except in cases of rape, incest and to save the life of the mother, also has endorsed repeal of the so-called trigger law. He has taken no position on any other proposals.

Poll shows Idahoans divided on abortion

By MICHELLE COLE Times-News writer

BOISE — As Idaho's Republican lawmakers attempt to minimize the threat of election-year damage from the abortion issue, a confidential GOP-conducted poll finds voters evenly split on the subject.

A December telephone poll of 500 voters found 43 percent favoring abortion rights and 43 percent opposed. The poll carries a margin of error of plus or minus 5 percent. Fourteen percent had no opinion.

Twenty-three percent of those polled said they strongly supported the abortion alternative, while 33 percent said they were firmly opposed.

The results differ from a poll conducted 11 months earlier by market research specialist Larry Eastlund, who is also GOP finance chairman. That poll of 500 registered voters found 30 percent strongly opposed and only 8 percent strongly favoring abortion.

The most recent poll, conducted by the Idaho Republican Party and shared with Republican legislators, reports Idaho's Protestants favor the right-to-choose-abortion, while Mormons and Catholics are firmly opposed.

Candidates who are moderate in their views on abortion may have the edge in November, according to partial poll results released to The Times-News this week.

Presented with a scenario of four candidates, only 14 percent of those polled said they would vote for a candidate who "opposed abortion at all times and for any reason." Forty-three percent favored the candidate who felt "a woman should have the right to an abortion in cases of rape, incest and when the mother's life is in danger."

Thirty-eight percent said they would vote for a candidate who agreed that "during the first three months of pregnancy a woman should have the right to an abortion for any reason."

Following a closed-door caucus, the Republican Senate majority stayed quiet Friday as Democrats introduced to abortion-related bills.

One bill seeks to repeal the state's "trigger" law, which would impose criminal penalties for abortion are constitutional even though they don't distinguish between viable and non-viable fetuses.

"The defendant who assaults a pregnant woman causing the death of the fetus she is carrying destroys the fetus without the consent of the woman," the court said. "This is not the same as the woman who elects to have her pregnancy terminated by one legally authorized ..."

The U.S. Supreme Court's landmark 1973 ruling that legalized abortion "protects the woman's right of choice; it does not protect, much less confer on an assailant, a third-party unilateral right to destroy the fetus," the Minnesota justices said.

GOP chief wants party loyalty first

Knight-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — Republican National Chairman Lee Atwater said Friday that party loyalty is more important than the abortion issue and urged "pro-life" Republicans to support GOP candidates even if they are "pro-choice."

Atwater's remarks during a Republican National Committee meeting were his latest attempt to deal with the explosive subject, which contributed to the defeat of two anti-abortion Republican gubernatorial candidates in 1989 and threatens the chances of several others this fall.

"I would hope that Republican voters would support Republican candidates regardless of their position on abortion," he said. "There is no litmus test on any issue that would be grounds for repudiating any candidate who supports this president and this party."

Atwater's stand went over well with the national committee members and state party chairmen — all political professionals — at their regular winter meeting in Washington. They applauded when he said, "We are an umbrella party ... big enough to accommodate different views."

But how his attempt to blur the sensitive issue will go down with anti-abortion activists around the country is another question.

The National Conservative Political Action Committee, for example, denounced Atwater's position in a letter sent Thursday to President Bush, Vice President Dan Quayle, Republican congressional leaders and all members of the RNC.

Nevertheless, for the first time in a generation, abortion foes seem to be out of step with Republican leadership.

Mayor Marion Barry leaves federal court in Washington after facing a magistrate Friday Barry turns over official duties after appearing on drug charge

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Mayor Marion Barry turned over "the duties and functions" of his office to an aide Friday after being formally charged with drug possession in an FBI sting that officials said included a videotape of Barry smoking crack cocaine.

Barry did not give up his office, which he has held for 11 years, and retained authority to sign and veto legislation and approve contracts.

The drug charge added to the turbulence of the political situation in the nation's capital, where Barry had already been under fire and the list of challengers for next November's election had been growing.

Jesse Jackson, the leader in early polls though he has said he would not run against Barry, said Friday he felt only sorrow about the new development and would not talk politics.

Federal prosecutors said Barry tested positive for cocaine in blood and urine tests after he was taken into custody Thursday night at a Washington hotel. His lawyer said Friday he would plead "innocent to the charge."

The FBI used a woman to get Barry to the hotel room, said a law enforcement source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The woman was identified by sources familiar with the case as Rasheeda Moore. One source said Ms. Moore agreed to cooperate with the FBI's investigation of Barry after she got into trouble with state authorities in California.

The Washington Times said in an extra edition

Friday afternoon that Ms. Moore, according to one law enforcement source, agreed to cooperate with the FBI because she believed Barry "needed help because he had been addicted before and had been showing signs of being addicted again."

According to the newspaper's account, she invited Barry to a party at the hotel. But three of the partygoers were FBI agents.

Barry, the newspaper said, was shirtless when arrested.

U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens denied the mayor had been unlawfully entrapped by the operation, saying prosecutors had found evidence of Barry's predisposition to commit drug-related crimes.

"Whenever there is predisposition there is no entrapment," said Stephens. "It was scrupulously fair to the subject of the investigation, Mr. Barry."

After Friday's brief court hearing, in even briefer remarks to reporters swarming around the Federal Courthouse, Barry said, "I'm going to leave here and go about the business of government."

But the mayor's office issued a statement later which said he was temporarily giving up his day-to-day mayor's chores because of a "need for time to handle his legal matters, his concern for his family, and because it is in the best interests of the citizens of Washington, D.C."

He has been plagued in recent years by accusations of drug use as well as the corruption convictions of several top city officials. He has repeatedly denied ever using or buying drugs.

Court upholds homicide law

The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn. — It is not necessary to define when human life begins to impose criminal penalties for killing a fetus, the Minnesota Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The court, in upholding Minnesota's 1986 fetal homicide statutes, said the laws "do not raise the issue of when life as a human person begins or ends. The state must prove only that the implanted embryo or the fetus in the mother's womb was living, that it had life, and that it has life no longer."

The justices, in a 4-3 decision, held that the fetal homicide statutes are constitutional even though they don't distinguish between viable and non-viable fetuses.

"The defendant who assaults a pregnant woman causing the death of the fetus she is carrying destroys the fetus without the consent of the woman," the court said. "This is not the same as the woman who elects to have her pregnancy terminated by one legally authorized ..."

The U.S. Supreme Court's landmark 1973 ruling that legalized abortion "protects the woman's right of choice; it does not protect, much less confer on an assailant, a third-party unilateral right to destroy the fetus," the Minnesota justices said.

Spratt says SIS funding unlikely

Soviet troops battle extremists in Azerbaijan capital

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Soviet troops broke through blockades set up by ethnic extremists in downtown Baku early Saturday and killed at least seven people in street battles, a spokeswoman for a militant Azerbaijan group said.

She said two pitched battles were fought inside the Azerbaijan capital, leaving at least seven Azerbaijanis dead.

"It's very dangerous on the street," she said. "Battles are still going on."

the Caspian Sea. Western reporters have not been allowed to go to the scene since the ethnic violence flared a week ago.

The army intervention, the first such combat reported in Baku involving Soviet soldiers, came after ethnic riots turned into open warfare between Azerbaijani and Armenian militants. Bad blood between the two peoples goes back centuries.

If the latest deaths are confirmed, the toll now would be at least 79 people killed and more than 200 wounded.

Leila Unusova, a spokeswoman for an organization calling itself the Azerbaijani Social Democrat Group, reported by telephone from Baku that Soviet troops surrounded a square near the Communist Party headquarters building where about

About 5,000 regular army troops and thousands more Interior Ministry soldiers and police had moved into the troubled areas to try to restore order, but Soviet authorities were reluctant to engage the militants directly.

An American journalist in Moscow spoke by telephone before dawn Saturday to a spokesman for the Azerbaijani People's Front in Baku, who said Soviet soldiers were engaged in street fighting and doctors were told to stand by.

Moscow Radio said reinforcements were being sent to Armenia and Azerbaijan.

Earlier Friday, President Mikhail S. Gorbachev blamed extremists opposed to his reforms for the ethnic warfare in the Caucasus and said some Azerbaijanis were calling for a separate Islamic state.

Despite attempts by the troops to maintain order in Armenia and Azerbaijan, Gorbachev said the situation was not improving following six days of battles. Gorbachev told a conference on his reforms that the warfare served the interests of a group of extremists, irresponsible adventurists and representatives of the shadow economy.

Former justice Goldberg dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice, labor secretary and U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was found dead in his apartment here Friday, He was 81.

Goldberg's physician, Dr. Michael Newman, said Goldberg died late Thursday or early Friday of cardiac arrest from coronary artery disease.

Henry Fleisher, a long-time friend who said he had lunch with Goldberg Wednesday, said a maid found the former justice lying on a sofa, where he apparently had been reading a newspaper, early today.

richest and most satisfying period of my career."

By contrast, Goldberg's tenure at the United Nations was frustrating. He resigned in April 1968, separated from the center of power in the administration and with the United States mired in the war in Vietnam.

Goldberg, after returning to the practice of law in New York, was defeated by Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller in the 1970 race for governor of New York.

In 1971, Goldberg left New York and returned to Washington to practice law and teach at American University. While his name was seldom in the news in later years, he remained active in public life.

In his three years on the nation's highest court, Goldberg was allied with Chief Justice Earl Warren and others who asserted the court's authority against other government institutions and expanded its role as a protector of individual rights.

Corporate jet crashes in rain; 7 die

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A twin-engine corporate jet crashed short of a Little Rock municipal airport runway in a storm Friday, killing all seven people aboard, authorities said.

The 21-seat Gulfstream II jet, carrying employees of an Eastman Kodak Co. subsidiary, apparently was attempting a landing shortly after 5 p.m., witnesses said.

Seven bodies were recovered from the wreckage, said Coroner Steve Nawojczyk, adding there were no survivors.

"The airplane broke apart on impact," Nawojczyk said.

The plane hit ground lights short of the airport, hit a street near an airport intersection, struck railroad tracks and a fence, losing a wing and wheel, and plowed 200 feet into airport property without reaching the runway, said Bill Booker, who was at the scene.

Heavy rain and lightning swept through the area about the time of the crash.

labor unrest grows in Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Bulgaria's leaders on Friday faced a wave of labor unrest as the ruling Communist Party headed toward an extraordinary party congress likely to approve introduction of multiparty democracy and other major reforms.

The state news agency BTA said Friday more than 100 labor conflicts were registered by newly formed, independent trade unions from Dec. 25 to Jan. 10.

The labor unrest surged into the open after the Communist Party's 10th congress, which began Jan. 10, was deposed on Nov. 10 in the reforms that swept Eastern Europe.

The Jan. 30 party congress will be the first since his ouster.

Zhivkov, who has already been charged with malfeasance in office, abuse of power and other crimes, was accused in a newspaper article Friday of having been a Nazi intelligence agent in wartime Bulgaria.

Yugoslavia to end party's key role

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — On the eve of Saturday's opening of the Communist Party congress, the government announced plans to scrap the party's constitutionally guaranteed role in society.

The politically influential military said it opposes a multiparty system, but Petar Simic, head of the Communist leadership in the army, said authorities would not contest its adoption.

The party's policy-making Central Committee held a final session Friday to work out the congress agenda and complete the texts of draft resolutions.

The Central Committee proposed the party reamp itself to conform with the drive for democratic reforms that has coursed through Eastern Europe this past year, the national news agency Tanjug said.

The key document to be adopted at the four-day congress is a declaration backing free elections and a

Salvadoran soldiers to face trial

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The director of the Military Court was among nine Salvadoran soldiers charged Friday with murdering six Jesuit priests in a case closely watched by the U.S. Congress and human rights activists.

Judge Ricardo Zamora of the 4th Penal Court ordered Col. Guillermo Benavides, three lieutenants and four enlisted men to stand trial. The murder charges imply "premeditation and perfidy" and carry a maximum sentence of 30 years, court secretary Nicolas Hernandez said.

The fifth enlisted man, who deserted in December, is a fugitive.

All six priests were educators at the Jose Simcon Cajas Central American University. On Nov. 16, 1989, their housekeeper and her teenage daughter were shot to death by uniformed men.

Acquittal leads to civil lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peggy McMartin Buckey, acquitted in the longest trial in U.S. history, said she filed a federal civil lawsuit alleging malicious prosecution Friday even though it may mean more days in court.

Mrs. Buckey, who along with her son endured nearly three years of the McMartin Pre-School molestation trial, told a packed news conference that she at first discouraged her civil attorney, James H. Davis, from seeking damages.

Mrs. Buckey said the suit, which seeks $1 million in damages, may help her family recover from the financial devastation they suffered in their 6½-year ordeal in court proceedings.

"I feel I have a right to have a hearing," Mrs. Buckey said. "My husband and I worked hard for what we had."

asked for it and I doubt the Congress will fund it if they do seek it," he said. "We'll give it a completely fresh hearing but at this point, it seems doubtful."

But the testing program at Lawrence Livermore National Lab in California will go forward as planned, he said. With tests there, the Department of Energy hopes to be able to convert fuel grade plutonium to weapons grade.

Having spent several million dollars to date on the testing program, Spratt said it makes sense to spend a few more millions to complete the project, which will also have application for similar fuel separation projects.

"The test prototype at Lawrence Livermore has been funded, has been built and the only thing standing between it and the final testing is an environmental impact statement, an environmental impact study of funds in the Department of Defense budget so they could complete testing."

The findings of the Livermore program can be mothballed and reopened if the full-scale facility is ever needed, Spratt said.

An environmental impact study of the testing program began this year.

Both bills were sent to printing. But Democrats doubt they will make it out of the Senate committees.

As type of insurance policy for the Senate bills, Rep. Gary Robbins, D-Twin Falls, said he'll introduce an identical bill in the House next week calling for a repeal of Idaho's trigger law. Under the Republican plan, Robbins' bill is guaranteed to make it to public debate in the House State Affairs Committee.

"I wasn't going to get involved with this stuff," Robbins said following the Senate action.

"You have a lack of courage up here," he said. "They all seem to be concerned about being elected. No one wants to do the job."

Bills

Senate Republicans held a closed-door caucus on the issue just before the bills were introduced Friday, trying to decide whether they should use their power as the majority to kill the bills before they went anywhere.

After less than a half hour, the Republicans emerged to allow the introduction with Senate President Pro Tem Michael Crapo of Idaho Falls, saying simply, "Monday's another day."

"We didn't take any votes or anything, but we had some pretty consistent thinking out there," Crapo said. The caucus had previously endorsed the procedural plan to confine the initial abortion debate to the House, a scheme Crapo acknowledged would eliminate a lot of the battles over the issue.

Another closed-door session will be held next week before the Republican majority has its second chance to kill the bills outright.

The maneuvering on the issue came a day after State Republican Chairman Randy Ayre was questioned in his attempt to get the Republican National Committee to reaffirm the anti-abortion plank in the party's 1988 national platform.

Ayre said a firm statement on the "sanctity of life" question was needed to help candidates in Idaho's election campaign.

On Tuesday, however, the Ada County Republican Central Committee voted 27-16 in favor of a resolution urging local Republicans to support the anti-abortion position.

Less than half of the more than 100 central committee members were at the meeting, where abortion opponents managed to defeat attempts that would have supported abortions in the case of rape and incest. The final resolution also made no reference to permitting abortions to save the mother's life, but supporters maintained that was understood.

2 medical centers may be merged

POCATELLO (AP) — The possibility is being discussed of merging Bannock and Pocatello regional medical centers in Pocatello, with Idaho State University playing a pivotal role, officials say. Bannock County Commission Chairman Tom Katsilometes said preliminary talks are under way between the Bannock Regional Medical Center governing board and officials of Intermountain Health Care Inc., which owns and operates Pocatello Regional Medical Center, on the possibility of merging. "The talks so far are really just surface discussions to explore the various possibilities," Katsilometes said Friday.

Antidegradation agreement reached

BOISE (AP) — More than a year after a strategy was unveiled for controlling "non-point source" water pollution, a final agreement has been reached on the progress of implementing Idaho's landmark antidegradation plan. The agreement by industry and conservation interests clears the way for the Idaho Health and Welfare Board to adopt rules and regulations implementing the antidegradation plan, Gov. Cecil Andrus said Friday. "I believe this process clearly shows that when sometimes competing interests are willing to sit down and talk through a problem they can arrive at a conclusion that everyone can live with," Andrus said.

Andrus watching Pocatello situation

POCATELLO (AP) — Gov. Cecil Andrus will "continue to look into the situation" of Richard "Rick" Morgan, the son of former Idaho Democratic Party chairman Mel Morgan who was hired for an Idaho Department of Employment job requiring Spanish fluency he does not have, a spokesman said. But Andrus press secretary, Marc Johnson, would not predict Friday whether any action will be taken. However, Morgan now is working in a job that does not require an ability to speak Spanish, and the Department of Employment's Pocatello office is advertising an opening in a position requiring bilingual capabilities.

Idaho judges among the lowest paid

BOISE (AP) — Idaho judicial salaries now rank among the lowest in the nation, $8,000 to $13,000 per year below those of most surrounding states, a judicial official says. Carl Bianchi, administrative director of Idaho's court system, appeared before the House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee on Friday and won approval of a two-year pay raise bill for the judiciary. Idaho judicial salaries now rank 48th for Supreme Court justices and 46th for district judges and are lower than any surrounding state except Montana, which has the lowest judicial pay levels in the nation, he said. The legislation calls for an increase of 3 percent in the budget year starting July 1 and another 5 percent in the next budget.

Tax chairman warns of discontent

BOISE (AP) — The chairman of the state Tax Commission has warned lawmakers of public unrest with the state sales tax and is urging a comprehensive review of the key revenue component. "I don't think there is any question that it's a good time to look at it," Larry Looney told the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee on Friday. "It was a good time to look at it five years ago," he said. "I think you will see a growing dissatisfaction with the sales tax." Looney made his comments as the budget-writing committee quizzed him on complaints from some small businesses and charitable organizations about commission enforcement of the sales tax law. The 5 percent sales tax generates about 37 percent of Idaho's general tax revenue.

Routes picked for 2 highways

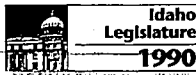

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Transportation Board has decided the existing route of U.S. Highway 20 west of Idaho Falls will be widened rather than moved a half-mile north. The board approved a $7.57 million plan Thursday to expand 3.5 miles of U.S. 20 between Cinder Butte and Old Butte from two lanes to four with a center turn lane. The work is expected to begin in 1992, and a public hearing will be scheduled in about one year. Meanwhile, the board also decided Thursday that a 3.6-mile section of U.S. Highway 95 will be relocated east of Ferdinand in Lewis County. Preliminary engineering work will begin immediately for that $5.4 million project, which will be the final stage of the highway.

Proposals would whittle at huge surplus

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Legislature has a $126 million state budget surplus to spend this session, but if a couple of proposals introduced so far win approval, there will be far less in the kitty. The House Revenue and Taxation Committee on Friday gave preliminary approval to a bill managed by Rep. Ed Osborne, R-Boise, establishing the tax credit for groceries from $15 per exemption to $25. Osborne estimated it would cost $9 million per year in tax revenue.

Both measures will return to the committees involved for discussion. Next week, Sen. Rachel Gilbert, R-Boise, plans hearings on her three proposals to cut individual and corporate income taxes and to repeal the 5 percent sales tax on groceries. Together, they would grant tax cuts of nearly $52 million per year. Osborne said the Legislature authorized $15 per person tax credit to offset the sales tax on food. But that was when the sales tax was 3 percent. The credit has not increased now that the sales tax is 5 percent. He said the sales tax is a very regressive tax when it applies to food, falling heaviest on those least able to pay it. "What I'm proposing here is an adjustment that would remedy what I perceive as one of the only real imbalances in our tax structure," he said. The committee also approved legislation sponsored by Hansen to clarify and expand the sales tax exemption on prescription drugs and medical equipment. Hansen said it would cut sales tax collections by $200,000 per year. The state now has a budget reserve account, similar to the proposal from Hansen, but there are no restrictions on how it can be spent. There is $12 million in the account now. In a key provision of his budget plan, Gov. Cecil Andrus has proposed putting another $38 million from the surplus into it and using income generated by the $50 million to help pay for new state buildings. Hansen's proposal would allow the money only to be used if there is clear evidence state revenue will not cover the budget.

Parma attorney enters congressional race

BOISE (AP) — Stressing his pioneer roots, Parma attorney and State Sen. Skip Smyser on Friday jumped into the race for the 1st District congressional seat being vacated by Republican Rep. Larry Craig. "This is the first step in what will be a long, and I'm sure, a very, very difficult trail," he told a gathering in Parma, where he launched the campaign. At Boise, he introduced his children, Lincoln, 4, and 15-month-old Logan and said they are sixth-generation Idahoans. Smyser told the audience his great-great-grandfather, Aaron Newman, was a pioneer in the Idaho Territory but found ways to overcome the obstacles and promised to do the same. Smyser, 40, became the first to formally announce for the seat held for the last 10 years by Craig. Craig is running for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Smyser made it clear he will seek support in the Republican primary from Craig's supporters. He promised to support an effort in Congress headed by Craig to force Congress to require balanced budgets. "If elected as your congressman, I will continue the 25-year tradition of common sense conservatism of Jim McClure, Steve Symms and Larry Craig," he said. The 1st District seat has been held by Republicans since the 1966 election. Post Falls attorney Chuck Lempsis has been considering the race but will not announce his intentions until February. Democrats Larry LaRocco of Boise, Jeanne Givens of Coeur d'Alene, Sen. Mike Blackbird, D-Post Falls and state Agriculture Director Dick Rush of Boise have been talking about the campaign.

Smyser, a former prosecutor and deputy attorney general, promised a strong stance against drugs, to be strong on national defense and to defend state water. "It isn't trite to say water is Idaho's lifeblood, it's a fact," he said. Smyser, who is chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, said he did not plan to resign to campaign for the nomination. He said he expected to spend about $100,000 on the primary and would work on a budget for the general election if he wins the nomination. Smyser has been working for months on a possible bid for the Idaho Supreme Court, facing Justice Stephen Bistline.

ST. MARIES (AP) — Two youths helping to direct highway traffic around a stalled log truck were struck by a car and one of the youths was killed, officials said. Chad E. Dickerson, 17, of Fernwood, died of head injuries after he was hit by a car driven by Tina Anderson, 19, of St. Maries, according to Idaho State Police reports. Joe C. Nelson, 18, of Fernwood, who was also hit in Wednesday night's accident, was taken to Benewah Community Hospital, where he was listed in fair condition. The two teen-agers were helping to direct traffic around a log truck that had jackknifed on Idaho 3 three miles south of here, blocking both lanes, a state police dispatcher said. Police said Ms. Anderson was northbound on the highway when she saw the two and panicked. She slammed on her brakes and then let up, losing control of her car, police reports said. The car hit the two youths broadside before plummeting down a 30-foot embankment and into a creek. Ms. Anderson was treated for injuries and released. Her passenger refused medical treatment.

Sheriffs report more mailbox clobbering

BUHL - Fifty-one mailboxes all around Buhl and Filer were vandalized late Thursday night and early Friday morning, said Cpl. Bob Gauthier of the Twin Falls Sheriff's Department.

"It's the usual game of mailbox baseball," Gauthier said. Ever since a movie that depicts mailbox bashing was released on video about two years ago mailboxes have been clobbered around the county, he said.

Last week, seven mailboxes east of Castleford and south and southwest of Buhl were vandalized, Gauthier said. The same people are probably responsible for all the destruction, he said.

In one area, vandals last night used a 14-foot piece of railing to smash the targets. Some road signs were also vandalized.

The sheriff's office is investigating and has suspects, Gauthier said. Anyone with information can the sheriff's office in Twin Falls, 733-6171, or in Buhl, 543-8454. Anonymous information can be planned to Crime Stoppers at 736-2200.

Paine withdraws from race for Twin Falls county clerk

TWIN FALLS - Nancy Paine has withdrawn from the Twin Falls county clerk's race because she has decided to move to Austin, Texas, Mark Stubbs, county GOP chairman, said Friday.

"She's putting her support behind no particular candidate," Stubbs said.

Two other Republican candidates remain in race to replace retiring Republican County Clerk Richard Pence. Linda Wright has served for two years as county jury commissioner and Linden McGinty has worked the last two years as fiscal manager and grants administrator for the Region IV Development Association.

So far no Democratic candidate is running for the seat.

Newcomb backs bill to create research center near Albion

BOISE - A farm research center would be established near Albion, under a bill sponsored by Rep. Bruce Newcomb, R-Burley.

BRUCE NEWCOMB

A committee of the Idaho House Friday gave preliminary approval to legislation designed to encourage Brigham Young University to develop the center on about 6,300 acres of land east of Albion donated by drug store developer Sam Skaggs.

The Revenue and Taxation Committee voted on Friday to print and introduce a bill sponsored by Newcomb. The measure would grant tax-exempt status to any facility established by the private Utah school in Idaho, the same as resident schools enjoy.

Anticipating possible objections about the Mormon Church-owned school, Newcomb said, "This is not a religious bill. It is an attempt to encourage expenditures to be made in Idaho instead of Utah."

He said both he and Skaggs are Methodists.

Jaycees' 'Freeze on Skis' raises $2,700 for charity

TWIN FALLS - Waterskiing in the wintertime could be classified as crazy - but it can also raise $2,700 for a good cause.

That's how much the Magic Valley Jaycees raised for the Magic Valley Children's Medical Fund during the club's New Years Day "Freeze on Skis," President Henk Heeley said.

Money from the first two years of the annual event went toward paying for the dock and boat ramp at Challenger Park at Shoshone Falls.

Local counties earn largest industrial revenue bonds

BOISE - The city of Twin Falls and Jerome County received the largest industrial revenue bonds approved by state officials in 1989.

Gov. Cecil Andrus reported Thursday that more than $31 million in state-aided financing was approved for construction and equipping manufacturing and processing facilities.

In Twin Falls, an $8 million bond issue funded improvements at the Norco Window manufacturing facility. In Jerome County, a $7.8 million bond was issued to finance improvements at Spears Manufacturing Co. plastic pipe manufacturing plant.

Eight bonds were issued statewide to manufacturing plants in Boise, Nampa, Blaine County, Meridian and Kootenai County.

DOE expects response to report next week

By N. S. NOKKENTVED
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The federal Energy Department expects to respond next week to a report that downplayed the need for plutonium and a proposed Idaho plutonium refinery.

"We're feverishly working on it," spokeswoman Kathy Kalenik said Friday from department headquarters in Washington, D.C.

When the National Research Council report was made public last month, the department had no immediate response but said it would make one within 30 days. The council report recommended that the department postpone building the Special Isotope Separator, a laser-driven plutonium refinery proposed for the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

The report questioned the need for additional weapons-grade plutonium for the nation's nuclear stockpile and the need for additional capacity to refine and reprocess plutonium. It also recommended postponing plans to build new plutonium refining facilities.

"To our knowledge, no compelling need for this material has been demonstrated; not are there currently foreseen uses for the SIS facility after the reactor-grade plutonium has been processed," the report states.

The National Research Council is the research arm of the National Academy of Science.

Meanwhile, the Energy Department plans to go ahead with testing and developing the SIS laser technology. The process involves vaporizing plutonium and imparting electrical charges to individual atoms with a high-powered laser.

The charged atoms would stick to electrically charged metal-collector plates. The points cuffed from a conveyor belt, the unwanted plutonium isotopes would be separated from plutonium-239, which is used in nuclear weapons. Though it will not produce any plutonium, the SIS would increase the amount available for producing new weapons by refining weapons grade plutonium from reactor fuel.

The department plans public hearings on an environmental impact statement.

Feeder project for the birds, seniors

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS - It was just a simple wooden bird feeder, but it brought delight to residents at the West Magic Care Center.

"I think it's going to be grand," Hattie Ehlers said.

Members of the Idaho Non-Game Advisory Council hung the bird feeder and donated 25 pounds of wild bird food at the nursing home Friday afternoon.

"I think it's going to be fun to watch the birds," Gladys Anderson said as she watched council member Keith Turner hang the feeder. "I love to watch the birds," she said.

With the help of Judy Reprecht and Stu Murrell of the State Fish and Game Department, the feeder was hung under an eave outside a dining room window.

"The council has donated bird seed, feeders and bird books to retirement and nursing homes around the Magic Valley. The bird feeders and other programs sponsored by the advisory council are funded by a checkoff on state income tax forms.

Though the group has tried to reach all retirement homes in the area, some may have been missed and they'll contact Murrell if they would like a feeder, he said.

"We have been a long time working on this," new planning commission member John Remsburg III said. "A little more time wouldn't hurt."

Under the proposal:

- A zoning permit, costing $25, would be required for all new structures or major changes to existing structures prior to construction.
- The zoning administrator would inspect the site within five days of application to determine if the building is exempt from the building code.
- Exempt would be new non-habitable agricultural structures or changes to those buildings on land zoned for agriculture only.
- Although exempt from the building code, a one-story agricultural building would be required to be at least 60 feet away from any other buildings or structures for fire protection. If the 60-foot clearance is not possible a fire wall would be required for the new building on the wall closest to the existing building structures. This fire wall could be made of such materials as sheetrock, masonry or metal, as specified in the building code.
- A two-story agricultural building, in addition to the above requirements, would have to have sprinklers.
- Any buildings where employees process or package agricultural products would be classified as commercial and require a special-use permit as well as conformity to the building code.

"All other buildings would have to conform to the building code."

Project to straighten deadly Highway 20 curve in jeopardy

About a quarter mile west of Carey is one of the deadliest sections of road in the state.

By BARBARA NEWERT
Times-News correspondent

CAREY - A project to straighten out a deadly curve on Highway 20 is in jeopardy.

The state Department of Transportation has to find a new location for an asphalt plant for the project because the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission recently ruled.

The decision puts the department in a tight squeeze because, to get bids out and the project underway by mid-April, the plant location must be decided by March, Lamar Duffin, department project development engineer, said.

"The project could be lost if we don't get county approval," he said. "The project was placed on the program because of the appeal of local people, and if we can't get the support of the local people now, there are a lot of places in the state that are clamoring for funds."

Duffin said he expects a solution will be found and presented to the planning commission at its Feb. 8 meeting. If the proposal is rejected, the department will appeal the decision to the Blaine County commissioners, Duffin said.

A town meeting, meanwhile, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Carey School. State Highway Department officials will be on hand to meet with local residents to hear their concerns and ideas.

Residents pleaded emotionally with the planning commission last week to approve a permit that would have allowed the Transportation Department to proceed with its plans to revamp the treacherous curve.

The stretch of road is about one-quarter mile west of Carey at the base of Pieabo Hill. Six people have died there since 1977, making it one of the deadliest sections in the state.

The Transportation Board estimates that 1,200 cars round the corner daily.

Mormon Church doesn't see impact in taxation in wake of court ruling

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon Church officials expect little if any impact on their operations from a U.S. Supreme Court ruling allowing states to impose a tax on sales of some religious merchandise.

The church's present practice is, said Wilford W. Kirton Jr., the Utah-based church's corporate counsel. "It could have some impact further down the road. I don't expect that the kinds of materials that were being taxed in California would have any impact on our church, if it were limited to that."

Church spokesman Don Lefevre agreed.

"The church already complies with those laws in the states where they have them, so it doesn't affect us at all," he said.

However, Richard Wilkins, a professor of constitutional and civil law at Mormon Church-owned Brigham Young University's J. Ruben Clark Law School, said the opinion could have far-reaching repercussions on churches. He particularly is concerned that the high court may have opened the way for states to apply other taxes to religious organizations.

Justices reviewing a California case unanimously upheld collection of $183,000 in book taxes on books, records, tapes and other items sold by the Louisiana-based Jimmy Swaggart Ministries. From 1974 until 1981, mail-order sales from Swaggart's ministry totaled $1.7 million; sales of merchandise sold in California crusades totaled $240,000.

Most states tax proceeds of at least some mail-order sales to their residents, but only two states, California and Virginia, don't exempt religious groups.

"I personally don't view it as threatening to religions at all," said University of Utah Law Professor Thomas Charcellor. "I think the prospect that the state would change the property tax treatment of churches would be quite unlikely."

But Wilkins agreed the ruling could mean that generally applicable tax laws can now be applied to religious institutions.

Dispute between-county, contractor being resolved

By ANITA DENNIS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A dispute between county and the contractor gutting the old county jail is being resolved, the architect in charge of the project said Friday.

Commissioner Jim Fraley said Thursday.

Lively attributed the problem to miscommunication. "Sitting down together and talking next week will resolve the disagreement," he said.

"This whole thing has virtually been blown out of proportion," he said.

Jackson originally planned to finish the job by Christmas in a legal and published in Thursday's Times-News; he condemned the jail as beyond repair.

The walls, Jackson said Thursday, "sway with a breeze" and need to be removed.

Lively said he has inspected the site, and it is safe for Jackson to return to work. He said Jackson has agreed to complete the original job, and will resume demolition after their next meeting.

The county and Jackson still have not decided, however, whether the walls will stay or go. Jackson's $36,000 request has been rejected, but the issue will be discussed at next week's meeting, Lively said.

Hagerman unit member to get hazardous waste emergency certification

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN — Robert Wickham of the Hagerman Quick Response Unit will soon be certified to deal with hazardous waste emergencies.

At the request of Unit President Krista Merrill, the Hagerman City Council agreed to sponsor Wickham by paying the $82-cost of a three-day hazardous waste conference in Boise later this month.

"We are in an area where a lot of chemicals are being used," Merrill said. "None of us are knowledgeable enough to deal with a hazardous waste emergency. That's why this conference is really important."

Merrill said she knows of no one else in Gooding County who is certified to deal with hazardous waste emergencies and Wickham said only two State Police officers are certified.

Merrill said large amounts of chemicals are used at the Bell Rapids farming project west of Hagerman, where water toxic materials are often hauled by truck through Hagerman on Highway 30.

The council voted unanimously to sponsor Wickham at the conference.

The unit and the Hagerman Fire Department will have a fund-raising dinner from 5-8 p.m. Feb. 14 at the American Legion Hall to help pay the remaining $3,000 it needs on a $7,400 semi-automatic defibrillation machine, used to shock patients who are in cardiac arrest, recently bought.

The city of Hagerman donated $500 for the machine, she said.

tor his brother and sister-in-law in a traffic accident near Jerome in 1985, won a battle, with the department two years ago to knock 14 years off the schedule to straighten the road.

Originally scheduled to be redone in 2004, the department moved the corner up on its priority list to reconstruct it this summer. The project had already been approved by the state, with construction expected to begin this spring.

The department planned to locate the asphalt plant at a gravel pit it owns a mile northwest of Carey on Fish Creek Road.

The planning commission had approved the project last fall, but found the asphalt plant would violate county codes when it reviewed the project after a local landowner filed an appeal of that decision.

Adjacent landowner Larry Peterson, represented by attorneys Keith Roark and Jim Phillips, objected to the gravel site and asphalt plant, saying dust from the crushing operation and traffic on the road would ruin his $60,000 alfalfa crop and noxious odors would not meet state air quality standards, John Gredetzer, county assistant planning administrator said.

The department is now working closely with the county planning office to find a location near the corner up on its priority list to be in operation for only two weeks.

County zoning allows a hot plant to be situated in an A-10, or unproductive agricultural land, zone. A location for the batch plant may be at or near the landfill at the top of Picasso Hill.

Mecham said she's frustrated at the delay and potential loss of the project.

"We have to look at it not in terms of inconvenience, but in terms of lives," she said.

Proposal

ply with the Uniform Building Code.

The proposal does not address the farmers' concerns about the large fees on building permits assessed on large structures, agricultural or otherwise, that do not come under the ordinance.

The proposal includes a 0.5 percent building permit fee.

Most Idaho counties that require building permits on rural structures have reduced fees for larger structures to keep the cost down, farmers have told the commission.

The new proposal represents the culmination of several months of work on the part of the zoning commission, zoning administrator and a group of farmers to find a workable solution to the problem of the exemption of agricultural structures from compliance with the building code.

McClung has consistently called for the Uniform Building Code to apply to all rural buildings.

A group of farmers led by Remsburg drafted an alternative proposal retaining the exemption on agricultural structures but allowing structures involved in secondary agricultural activities to come under the regulations.

Creason's new proposal is a compromise between completely removing the exemption and the farmers' more lenient definition of what type of structure should be considered an agricultural structure and, therefore, exempted from the regulations.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. Feb. 21 at Minidoka District Courthouse.

tal impact statement on tests of the laser system using plutonium. So far scientists have used non-radioactive surrogate materials in tests.

The impact statement will cover alternatives that include conducting the tests at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory east of Oakland and at INEL.

It also includes a "no action" alternative that would mean the SIS would be built and operated without any prior tests of the process using plutonium, according to a department statement in the Jan. 6 Federal Register.

The only Idaho hearing on the impact statement is planned for Feb. 7 in Idaho Falls. No hearings are planned in the Magic Valley.

Written comments or suggestions on the impact statement, requests to speak at scoping hearings, question about the proposed tests or requests for local hearings may be sent to Tommy D. Chang, U.S. Department of Energy, 1333 Broadway, Oakdale, Calif. 94612. Or call toll-free 1-800-545-4330.

Written comments should be sent to the department before Feb. 23.

Indian guru Rajneesh dies at 58

By the Los Angeles Times

Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, the bejeweled Indian guru who once spread his message of free love and mysticism from a commune in central Oregon, eliciting both devotion and dissension, died of apparent heart failure Friday.

Rajneesh died in the southern India city of Poona where he had been living in relatively modest circumstances since being deported from the United States in 1985.

He had not spoken publicly since April and was reported to be in failing health.

He was 58 and had met with his disciples as recently as Wednesday at his Indian commune's prayer center. He was scheduled to appear again Thursday but complained of a pain in his chest.

Although his influence had waned but little in the years since he had left American soil, his recent pronouncements produced almost none of the public clamor that raged in Oregon when he toured his 64,000-acre ranch clad in plush robes that were accented with costly jewels; being driven in one of his flotilla of 93 customized Rolls-Royces.

Rajneeshpuram, as the commune was called, was home to 4,000 of his disciples year-round with thousands more swelling their ranks during the summer when young people sought out his blend of free sex and pop metaphysics. Rajneesh's religious movement, which at one time claimed 500,000 members around the world, had moved its headquarters to Oregon from Poona in 1981. Over the next years the Bhagwan's Hindi word for "love," envisaged the spending of more than $100 million on development of what had been grazing land into a flourishing community. Working 12-hour days, disciples built with their own hands a city that included a shopping mall, an airport, a hotel and city hall.

What's what

Drive as you walk?
 Here's a student of behavior who claims he can tell how a man drives by how he walks. "On the highway are people of the wheel," he says, "who swagger, prance, amble, march, stumble, tip-toe, mince, stroll, and repeatedly bump into things."

Drive as you walk?
 Napoleon's troops were issued preserved snails.

Q. In the "gauge" of a shoigan, exactly what do the numbers mean?
 As the number per pound of round lead balls with a diameter equal to the barrel size.

PENNY FARTHING
 In the matter of that oldtime bicycle with a big front wheel and a little rear wheel: Am how told it was called a "penny-farthing" because in comparative size, the big and little wheels looked like a big English penny beside a little English farthing.

Eleven states have named the bee as "Official State Insect." Understandable. Bee pollinate 90 percent of the big crops.

Consider the six coins minted in the United States today. On the heads of all, except one, the faces look left. Quick, which coin is the exception?

Q. What's a "prolate spheroid"?
 A. A football.

HUNGARY
 What do you know about Hungary? What was aware Budapest has the oldest subway in continental Europe? Why don't you go take a ride on it? Austro-Hungarian Emperor Franz Joseph did. In 1896.

In fact, a so-called silly goose is considerably smarter than a so-called wise old owl.

Contrary to whatever you've read here or elsewhere, boneybees weigh 3,000-per-pound, according to none other than the Florida honey bee expert Horace Bell.

Q. Is there an "American Police Hall of Fame"?
 A: Research reveals there is. In Port-Charlotte, Fla.

Briefly

Groups appeal DEA marijuana ban
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Groups trying to make marijuana available for medical uses such as controlling nausea in cancer patients on Friday appealed the Drug Enforcement Administration's decision rejecting the move.
 The DEA acknowledges that marijuana has been used as a drug for centuries and its therapeutic potential has been noted by doctors for 150 years.
 But the drug has been illegal in the United States since 1937 — with only a synthetic tetrahydrocannabinol, THC, available for medical use — and DEA administrators for 15 years have rejected requests for marijuana available to patients, most recently last month.

Soviets pull planes from Vietnam
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Bush administration spokesmen on Friday applauded the withdrawal of some Soviet warplanes from Cam Ranh Bay in Vietnam and said Defense Secretary Dick Cheney will discuss possible responses when he visits U.S. allies in the Far East next month.
 Cheney plans to travel Feb. 10-23 to Japan, Korea and the Philippines, three nations where the United States has major bases, administration officials said.
 The Soviet announcement was not expected to lead to an immediate cut in U.S. troops in the Far East, according to administration spokesmen, and they said no decision was likely before April when the Pentagon is to complete a study on the issue for Congress.

Senator won't endorse tax cut plan
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell said Friday a proposal to roll back Social Security payroll taxes dramatizes "the inequity and regressive nature" of the tax system, but he declined to endorse it.
 Mitchell said he was concerned about the impact that Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan's proposal would have on the federal budget deficit and said he would await two staff studies on this question before making up his mind.

 But he criticized President Bush for immediately resisting Moynihan's proposal, saying, "I regret the manner in which the president and the White House has treated it."
Quayle to meet with heads of state
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle, meeting resistance in his bid to visit some Latin American countries, will hold bilateral talks with six heads of state when he goes to Honduras later this month, the administration said.
 Quayle has scheduled meetings with the presidents of Venezuela, El Salvador, Belize, Costa Rica and Guatemala, as well as with the new president of Honduras, Rafael Callejas.

Bush calls for lower taxes this year
 MIAMI (AP) — President Bush on Friday issued an election-year call for lower taxes and interest rates, saying he's not satisfied with home mortgage rates hovering around 10 percent.
 "We cannot allow the high costs of housing to suffocate the financial life of America's young people. And when it comes to housing, this must not become a society of 'haves' and 'have nots,'" the president said on the eve of the first anniversary of his inauguration.

King's grave caught in the middle
 ATLANTA (AP) — The grave of Martin Luther King Jr., sacred ground to many Americans, will be caught in the middle today when civil rights activist Hosea Williams and white supremacist Richard Barrett stage dueling demonstrations.
 Gov. Joe Frank Harris activated National Guard units Friday to help police surround Barrett's rally opposite King's tomb Saturday morning.
 The effect of the security will be to shut down The King Center.

Study: 'Medigap' policies not needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roughly half of the 3.5 million low-income older Americans covered by Medicaid needlessly spend hundreds of dollars for private medical insurance, according to a private study released Friday.
 Between 1.3 million and 2 million people 65 and older are estimated to have private insurance such as "medigap" policies even though Medicaid covers their medical expenses, the report said.
 The study was commissioned and released by the American Association of Retired Persons and prepared by Retired Facts Inc. based on interviews with a random sample of 1,500 older people contacted by telephone in January and February 1989.
 "The survey clearly demonstrates that much more needs to be done to prevent the sale of medigap policies to the Medicaid-eligible population," said AAR Executive Director Horace Deets.
 Medigap policies are designed to cover certain hospital and other medical costs not covered by Medicare.
 Other health insurance policies bought by older Americans include hospital indemnity plans and policies covering specific diseases.
 The survey found more than 3 million older Americans who do not qualify for Medicaid say they cannot afford to supplement Medicare.

Bill would ban sexual contact

OLYMPIA, Wash. — In what many are calling a misguided effort to prevent the spread of AIDS, some influential state senators have proposed making "sexual contact" illegal for anybody younger than 18.
 There would be an exception for minors who are married.
 Sexual contact is a legal term defined more broadly than sexual intercourse. According to the definition, it could be interpreted, for example, to include oral sex and "heavy petting."
 The prime sponsor of the legislation, Sen. Jim West, R-Spokane, said Thursday he wouldn't expect the law to be enforced.
 Rather, he explained, it would be used primarily by young people as a convenient way to say "no."

Highland's hot pistols sink Bruins

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — Senior Mike Neves hit all 14 of his points in the first quarter here Friday night, igniting a Highland shooting display that carried the Rams to a 65-52 Region III boys' basketball victory over Twin Falls.

The win kept the Rams in a share of first place in the region along with crosstown rival Pocatello. The loss effectively dropped the Bruins, 8-5 overall and 3-4 in regional games, out of the running for the top seed in the postseason region playoffs.

For the night, Highland shot 62 percent from the field, but it was much more than that in the first quarter when Neves hit four straight three-pointers and Gary Anderson added another to propel the Rams into a 23-11 lead, and that basically was the whole night.

"I loved it," said first-year Highland coach Chris Frost. "If we had had a start like that against Pocatello we would have beaten them (Highland's only Region III loss)."

"They came into the game shooting 40 percent from the field as a team, so we started a zone and they hit — what? — six straight three-pointers against us," said Twin Falls coach John Astorquia. "We went man the rest of the game and that worked out pretty well for us, but we just could never get back."

Highland gave Twin Falls a chance in the third quarter when it managed only seven points, but the Bruins struggled through a

Montana State outlasts ISU for 85-80 win

POCATELLO (AP) — Craig Powell scored 16 points and Brian Elve added 15 as Montana State outlasted Idaho State 85-80 in Big Sky Conference basketball Friday night.

The Bobcats (10-5 and 3-2) took the lead for good when Allen Lightfoot scored off an offensive rebound and was fouled. His free throw put the Bobcats ahead 26-25 with 7:43 to go in the first half.

MSU went on to lead 42-38 at halftime behind nine points each from Elve, Lightfoot and Greg Powell. ISU (4-12 and 1-5) never caught up in the second half, although the Bengals did pull within two several times.

David Fuller sank a bank shot with 11:02 left in the game to pull the Bengals within 58-56, but MSU staged a 12-3 run behind Powell's five points.

Rodney Jackson sank his seventh 3-point goal with 30 seconds left in the game to pull MSU to an 85-80 lead.

Jerome in district driver's seat

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome Tigers proved Friday that you can have your cake and eat it too as they routed Wood River in a cakewalk.

"The Tigers' 61-49 South-Central Idaho Conference boys' basketball victory left Jerome all alone atop the District 4 Class A-2 standings with a 2-0 record. More importantly, it left Jerome with a sweep of its district competition

— Buhl and Wood River — in the first round of their regular-season meetings.

Matt Williams led Jerome offensively with 21 points as he took on most of the action for injured forward Matt Farnsworth, who'll sit out next week's game with Gooding, but should be back in time for the Shelley contest next weekend.

Williams scored seven points in the first quarter. Five in the opening minutes as Jerome took a lead by a dozen early in the contest.

Meanwhile, the Wolverines were off in the first half getting seven points in the first quarter and eight points in the second.

"I didn't think we'd win by this much," said Jerome coach Jim Stauffer. "I think we hit them on a cold night."

According to Wood River coach Norm Cook, the reasons for his team's demise was quite simple.

"Rebounds," he said. "I counted six off of missed free throws and that was it."

Williams lifts CSI past Eastern Utah

The Times-News

— PRICE, Utah — Anthony Williams, taking up the slack for a hobbled David Anderson, scored 26 points here Friday night to lead No. 1-ranked College of Southern Idaho to a 91-80 Region 18 men's basketball victory over the College of Eastern Utah.

Anderson, CSI's leading scorer with a 25-point average, injured his ankle in the first half and was limited to 12 points in the game. But Williams, scoring 16 points in the second half, shook CSI loose from a series of rallies by the persistent home-standing Eagles.

"That was a great effort by Williams," said CSI coach Fred Trenkle. "He had to go against that really good (Jermaine) Halburton kid."

Trenkle said Anderson's status was uncertain for tonight's game at Rangely, Colo., against Colorado Northwestern.

"We'll just have to wait and see," he said.

"The difference in the game, Trenkle said, was the Eagles' free throw shooting — 24-for-27.

"We shoot 89 percent from the free throw line and that's where we pulled it out," he said. "Eastern Utah shoots 71

What would give Denver a victory?

By FRED MITCHELL
Chicago Tribune

Oddsmakers, San Francisco Bay-area fans and most National Football League prognosticators would have us believe the Denver Broncos need only have final rites administered before their anticipated public execution in Super Bowl XXIV.

The San Francisco 49ers, no doubt, represent the collective embodiment of an unbeatable team.

But are they? The American Football Conference champion Broncos, behind game-breaking quarterback John Elway, envision a scenario that would propel them to one of the biggest upsets in Super Bowl history.

Elway says he plans to have the "game of my life" against the 49ers to avenge Denver's two previous Super Bowl blowout losses.

To accomplish that dream, Elway will need considerable help from his offensive line; wide receivers Vance Johnson, Mark Jackson and Michael Young and running back Sammy Winder and/or Bobby Humphrey, who suffered two cracked ribs last week.

But Denver does have precedent on its side. The 49ers, the team of the decade, failed to beat the Broncos in regular-season play in the '80s.

In his three winless starts against the Broncos, Joe Montana completed 53 percent of his passes, averaging 249.6 yards a game. He was sacked twice a game, and Denver won by an average score of 19 to 16.6.

Here is a look at Montana's performances against the Broncos:

Sabatini drops out of Australian Open

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Gabriela Sabatini, the top threat to challenge Steffi Graf's bid for a third straight Australian Open singles title, sprained her left ankle while leading a third-round match Saturday and dropped out of the year's first Grand-Slam tournament.
Sabatini, the No. 2 seed from Argentina, collapsed after charging a 6-2, 1-0 lead over West Germany's Claudia Porwik. She was taken off the court in a wheelchair.

A semifinalist here and at the U.S. Open last year, Sabatini had played well this week and said she was probably the only woman at the tournament who wasn't afraid to play Graf, the defending champion.
Sabatini is ranked third in the world on the women's tour behind Graf and Martina Navratilova, who decided to skip the Australian Open. "It doesn't feel like a victory at all," said Porwik. "I hope she gets back soon and it's not too bad for her. I saw her foot stick on the surface. It happens on hard courts like this when you can't slide."

In the men's draw, John McEnroe has rediscovered his old skills and added a new personality. McEnroe, who smiles, sweats, talks politics with the umpire, even tells jokes.
"He kills with kindness, yet once again brandishes a left-handed serve-and-volley game as lethal as it was when he ruled men's tennis in the early 1980s.

McEnroe is not only a model of decorum these days, he's winning again, gliding easily into the round of 16 at the Australian on Friday with a 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 victory over fellow American Dan Goldie.
A month shy of 31, McEnroe says he's come to realize at last that the temper tantrums that once fired him up now merely burn him out.

Pooley takes lead in Bob Hope Classic

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) — Don Pooley, playing in something approaching solitude, took the third-round lead and didn't know it Friday in the spread-out Bob Hope Classic.
There are no scoreboards, no leaderboards over there and I didn't know whether I was leading or close or what," Pooley said after he'd completed a 6-under-par 66 at Bermuda Dunes.

It was not until he telephoned a PGA Tour official that the 39-year-old veteran learned his 201 total, 15 strokes under par for 54 holes, was good for the lead.
Peter Jacobson and Australian Steve Elkington played that course in the third round and were tied for second, a single shot behind Pooley at 202, 14 under par.
"It doesn't really matter," Pooley said. "Not yet. We all play different courses tomorrow, then, on Sunday, we'll know where we are."

He referred to the unique format for this five-day, 90-hole event spread over four desert resort courses separated by almost 20 miles.

The 128 pros, each accompanied by a three-man support team, will complete a circuit of one round on each of the course Saturday.
After the field is trimmed to the low 70 scorers, the pros-only final round will be held Sunday at the Arnold Palmer course at PGA West.
Elkington had a string of seven consecutive birdies in his 65. Jacobson shot 69 in the mild temperatures and gentle breezes.
Tom Kite, the 1989 Player of the Year, played his front side in 29 and, despite three-putting the last two greens, finished with the best round of the tournament, a 64.

He played at the Indian Wells, where most of the gallery gathered to watch the celebrity amateurs, many of them show-business friends of the host.

"I had it smoking there for a while," Kite said. "I played so well, made so many putts even though I was tired at 203 with Chip Beck, Mike Reid, rookie Robert Gomez and Don Shirley."
Beck had a 66 at Indian Wells and Reid played Tamarisk in 69.

Senior Bowl should showcase QBs

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The "Very" nature of the game puts the burden, and more often than not, the hero's mantle on a quarterback.
Four of them will be looking to enhance their position in the NFL draft Saturday when the North meets the South in the 41st Senior Bowl game at Ladd Memorial Stadium.
Tom Hodson of Louisiana State and Kirk Baumgartner of NCAA Division III Wisconsin-Stevens Point will carry the banner for the North.
Reggie Slack of Auburn and Peter Tom Willis of Florida State will try to improve the South's 20-17-3 lead in the series.
Each will have a chance to play. Historically, Senior Bowl-quarterbacks split playing time, with the starter giving way to the backup in the second quarter.

Kickoff time is 12:30 p.m. MST. ESPN, channel 13 in the Magic Valley, will broadcast it live.
History also gives the quarterback the inside track to the Most Valuable Player award.
Six times in the last 10 years the honor has gone to a quarterback.
But running backs have made a move in recent games, winning four of the last five — Alabama's Paul Ott Caruth in 1985, Navy's Napoleon McCallum the following year, Oklahoma State's Thurman Thomas in 1988 and Miami's Cleveland Gary last year.

"I came to the Senior Bowl to see if I could improve my standing in the NFL draft," Hodson said.

Hodson, the only player in Southeastern Conference history to surpass the 9,000-yard mark in passing, is coming off a losing season at LSU.
He bypassed other all-star games to concentrate on the Senior Bowl, one that has NFL coaching staffs handling both squads.
Hodson and the North are under the direction of Marty Schottenheimer and his Kansas City Chiefs staff.
Philadelphia's Buddy Ryan and his Eagles' assistants are handling the South.

Yount asks arbitrator for $3.4 million

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee's Robin Yount asked for a record $3.4 million in salary arbitration Friday as 45 players submitted figures for $1 million or more.

On Dec. 19, the Brewers held a news conference to announce Yount had agreed to a contract for $9.6 million for three years.
But the contract was never signed.
Yount was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1989 when he hit 318 with 21 homers and 103 runs batted in. He was paid $1,150,000 last season in base salary.
The previous record figure of $2,425,000 was submitted last winter by right-hander Orel Hershey, who later agreed to a three-year deal with the Los Angeles Dodgers for $7.9 million.
The history of the process indicates that, like Hershey, most players will settle before their hearings.
Arbitration hearings are scheduled from Feb. 1-21.

A Brewers spokesman said Friday that the "exchange-of-figures" with Yount was a formality.

Owner Bud Selig said last week that only 15 arbitrators were holding up a three-year deal.
A total of 135 players exchanged figures with their clubs on Friday. Last season, 136 exchanged figures but only 12 players went to a hearing.
Joe Carter got $1.63 million last season in the year's biggest arbitration award.
The record award was in 1987 when New York Yankees first baseman Don Mattingly got $1,975,000.
In addition to Yount, Brewers teammate Paul Molitor and San Francisco first baseman Will Clark also submitted $3 million figures.
Molitor asked for $3.25 million and was offered $2.6 million. Molitor hit 318 with 11 homers and 56 RBIs in 1989.

Clark, the MVP of the National League playoffs, asked for $3 million and was offered $2.3 million.

The first baseman hit 233 homers and 111 RBIs. Clark made $1,125,000 last season.
Kansas City's Bo Jackson, who also balances in football for the Los Angeles Raiders, asked for $1,900,001 and the Royals offered $1 million.
The $900,001 was the furthest apart between any club and player. Last season, Jackson made $610,000 while hitting .256 with 32 homers and 105 RBIs.
The Royals are also far apart with outfielder Jim Eisenreich, who asked for $899,000 and was offered $375,000.
Royals catcher Bob Boone, who won the Gold Glove award at 41, submitted a figure of $2.05 million and was offered $1.5 million.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

We seldom break but leg so long as life continues a tollsome upward climb. The danger comes when we begin to take things easily and choose the convenient paths.

Nietzsche.

West may appear to be easier than it really is. Try your luck after West's opening lead and see if you can cover all the bases. Dummy captures West's club king, and South draws trumps. What is a tempting solution is to lead club, forcing West to win with ease of gaining a favorable lead. A grand exit would be nice, even a side exit surrenders a free finesse. Unfortunately a spade lead by West does no real good. South gets a free finesse, but he still loses a spade and two diamonds in addition to the club. Is there a better solution?

West is known to have the K-Q in clubs and is assumed to have the diamond ace. (If East has the diamond ace, the game is a virtual clinch.) If West also holds the spade king, he would have undoubtedly opened the bidding. So this card is placed with East.

The detective work done, the play is straightforward. Cash the ace and king of trumps, take a spade finesse and cash the spade ace. When the king doesn't drop, lead a club, giving West the drop and a sick headache. Regardless of what West leads, South enjoys a free trick, and instead of down one, South has his 10 tricks.
