Basketball time
Since the sun was shining Friday afternoon, 9-year-old Terry Knudson decided it was warm enough to toss a basketball around. The Twin Falls youngster and his brother Mike, 16, were playing outside a house on 16th Avenue East while their mother did some landscaping.

S. African government, apartheid foes far apart

By SCOTT KRAFT
Los Angeles Times

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — A few blocks from where President Frederik W. de Klerk delivered his speech to Parliament Friday, a young activist, microphone in hand and perspiring in the summer sun, was raising his voice at an anti-apartheid rally with the demand that has been heard for decades at gatherings like this in South Africa.

"We demand that de Klerk unban the African National Congress and the South African Communist Party!" the man proclaimed to cheers from the crowd.

As the activist spoke, people all across South Africa were hearing de Klerk meet those demands in a speech broadcast live nationwide.

Analysis
A few seconds it took de Klerk to declare "the prohibition on the African National Congress and the South African Communist Party are rescinded," the politics of South Africa underwent a sudden, unprecedented change.

"Quite clearly, in the coming weeks and months, we're going to see a major realignment in white and black politics in South Africa," Robert Shrire, a political scientist at the University of Cape Town, said Friday night.

Willem de Klerk, a liberal political commentator and brother of the president, added: "We're going in for a difficult time." He predicted "turmoil in the country, for the right wing and the left wing as well."

President de Klerk's surprise decision to lift the 1960 ban on the ANC, the primary guerrilla group fighting white minority-led rule, its ally, the South African Communist Party, and its guerrilla rival, the Pan-Africanist Congress, has altered the future, perhaps irrevocably, political analysts say.

"He caught everybody by surprise, particularly the ANC and the PAC. He called their bluff," said Thami Mazwai, senior assistant editor of the Sowetan newspaper.

Although it is still too early to tell for sure what effect de Klerk's moves will have on South Africa's internal politics, analysts see significant shifts in the National Party, which has ruled South Africa since 1948, as well as in the ANC.

Denver man's double life a big surprise to his wife

The Associated Press

DENVER — A mild-mannered ex-minister suspected of bombing a bank and carrying out 20 other bank robberies and burglaries in the past year led a double life, according to relatives and the FBI.

"He was loved by everybody in the community," said Sherry Jones after her husband, Edward, was arrested in the case. "I mean, there's not a person, including myself, who would have ever dreamed he'd be capable of this."

Jones, 50, was arrested Monday and charged with the botched attempt to blow open a safe at American Industrial Bank of Cherry Creek on Jan. 10. A homemade pipe bomb used in the attempt dinged the carpet and blew a few holes in the ceiling.

He also is suspected in as many as 20 more robberies and burglaries in Colorado, said Bob

Pence, head of the Denver FBI office.

An ordained minister who graduated from the Conservative Baptist Theological Seminary in Denver, Jones hadn't preached for several years. Jones most recently worked for a furniture manufacturer.

But Mrs. Jones said her husband began showing signs of trouble a few weeks ago. On Jan. 23, she called Lakewood police because she was concerned about her husband's emotional stability, said police spokesman John Hunt. Jones was taken to a hospital for psychiatric evaluation.

About an hour later, his wife called police again to alert them to "some things that might be of interest to you and also might show that he's having some problems with coping," Hunt said.

Wigs, masks, a handgun, tools, nylons, a trench coat, keys and a stolen federal license plate were in the trunk of the couple's car.

Bush calls development 'positive,' hints lifting of sanctions possible

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — President Bush Friday called South Africa's announcement that it will free black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela "quite positive."

Bush also said he will consult Congress about whether the United States should lift sanctions against Pretoria's white-minority government.

"I'm very encouraged by some of the changes that have taken place," Bush said about President Frederik W. de Klerk's statement to the South African parliament that he intends to free Mandela as part of a move to end his country's racial divisions through a political settlement with the black majority.

Bush, who spoke with reporters aboard Air Force One during a trip to Raleigh, N.C., and Knoxville, Tenn., said he has not read de Klerk's full statement, but he added, "I view it positively. And I think it's an interesting development."

However, the president sounded a cautious note when asked whether he will reverse Congress's 1986 decision to override a veto by then-President Ronald Reagan and impose stiff sanctions designed to force Pretoria to change its racial-separation policies. Bush, who was vice president at the time, recalled that he also has been opposed to sanctions.

"I think when people move in the right direction, it's certainly timely to review all policy," he said.

Congressional leaders took similar or tougher positions. Some hailed de Klerk's move as a step in the right direction while others insisted that South Africa must do considerably more before removal of sanctions.

The sanctions include a ban on new American investment in South Africa, a prohibition against the importation of such South African products as steel and coal and the cancellation of U.S. landing rights for South African airlines.

"Although these actions clearly fail to satisfy the conditions for repeal of the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act, they do represent positive signs of change in South Africa," Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, said of de Klerk's statement.

Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., an architect of the 1986 sanctions legislation, called de Klerk's actions "a bold stroke for freedom" that should encourage the trend in South Africa toward negotiation. But Lugar noted that while Bush has the power under the law to remove some of the sanctions, he has promised not to do so without consulting Congress.

Party-line vote kills 2-term limit in governor seat

The Associated Press

BOISE — Despite Republican declarations to the contrary, a proposed state constitutional amendment limiting the period any individual can serve as governor has been killed by the Senate on a party-line vote.

The proposition needed a two-thirds majority to move on to the House, but the slim Republican majority in the Senate failed to attract any Democratic supporters on Friday. None of the 19 Democrats supported it, so it drew only 23 GOP votes, five short of the two-thirds needed.

Rule change delayed — A11

The proposal, which would still have needed voter approval even if it made it through the Legislature, would prohibit any person from being elected governor more than twice. It also would limit one service on the state's chief executive to no more than 10 years.

Job hunters flock in; employment at 20-year high

By The Times-News and Associated Press

TWIN FALLS — Like a herald of good economic times, the local Job Service office has been busy, busy with incoming job hunters — and they're moving in while the area's unemployment rate is the lowest since at least 1970.

The Department of Employment reported a preliminary estimate of 3.8 percent unemployment level in the three-county Magic Valley area, nearly 2 percent lower than last year's. The department defines its Magic Valley area as Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties.

"That rate is below the magical 4 percent level some economists have felt is full employment," Labor Market Analyst Lon McDonald of the Department of Employment said. The department can't be certain when the rate was lower, since comparable data were available only back to 1970.

While the low unemployment rate normally would bolster worries of a tight labor force in an expanding economy, McDonald said the Job Service is seeing an "abnormally high" number of workers move into the area.

In January the Job Service placed twice the normal number of workers in jobs.

"We've never had a January close to this," McDonald said.

Since last January, the unadjusted labor force

Former Twin Falls man shot in escape attempt

By The Times-News and The Associated Press

BOISE — A former Twin Falls man at the Idaho State Penitentiary was hospitalized after being shot in the lower back during a pre-dawn escape attempt with two other prisoners, state Department of Corrections director Richard Vernon said.

Marvin D. Hedger, 41, underwent surgery Friday morning at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise after the 7:15 a.m. shooting.

Hedger was sentenced to prison in November 1987 on charges of rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery. He was found guilty of entering his former wife's home June 9, 1982, raping her and forcing her at knife point to drive to Jackpot and to a rest stop where he told her he was going to kill her.

He was serving 15 to 30 years for forcible rape and a concurrent 10- to 20-year term for kidnapping and aggravated battery charges.

All three inmates were recaptured in a field only a few hundred yards outside the prison fences within minutes of their escape. Vernon said the penitentiary was very close.

Drug czar William Bennett holds up a 'Budget ball' during testimony on Capitol Hill.

'Scourge is beginning to pass,' U.S. anti-drug director declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — National drug policy director William J. Bennett said Friday that "the scourge is beginning to pass" and the war against drugs is being won.

"If you want to take World War II, people say the battle of Midway was a turning point," Bennett told the Senate Judiciary Committee. "I think we're at Midway, maybe a little beyond."

Bennett said that when he became head of the war on drugs a year ago "it was by no means certain that we would win it."

"My view has changed," Bennett said. "The war is by no means over, but it is clearly winnable and the momentum, I think, is shifting our way. Indeed, while there is still too much bad news, there are scattered but clear signs that we are beginning to win. The scourge is beginning to pass."

"If we keep up our efforts, indeed intensify our efforts, we are going to win," Bennett said.

His testimony contained little, if anything beyond what the Bush administration presented last week when it unveiled the second installment of its drug-war strategy, calling for a $10.6-billion budget in the fiscal year that begins next October.

For the most part, senators of both parties were not interested in any clash of swords with Bennett over details of the plan.

The committee chairman, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., did ask Bennett to comment on an alternative strategy Biden wrote. It calls for putting more stress on hardcore users, education, treatment and a one-time program to forgive international debt owed by Andean nations if farmers there plant other crops in place of the coca they normally produce.

Bennett said that he agreed with the bulk of what Biden proposed and that any differences were mostly a matter of emphasis. He did say that if forced to choose between education and enforcement he would pick the latter.

The former secretary of education said that education remains his "first love" but that in fighting drugs it represents "a helpful auxiliary."

"I know children," Bennett said. "That may not be a very rosy view of children, but I do know children."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., pressed Bennett on why the administration after barring a number of foreign-made semiautomatic assault rifles has allowed importers to bring in semiautomatic assault pistols from the same manufacturers which are often only slightly different from the rifles.

Kennedy repeatedly asked why Bennett had not urged the president to ban the pistols, as well. The exchange was similar to ones involving the gun issue that have erupted at past Judiciary Committee hearings between Bennett and Sens. Kennedy and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

Day-care children photographed in nude begin exams, interviews

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A man who allegedly took nude photos of children at his day-care center was found with his wrist slashed Friday as 14 of the children began undergoing medical and psychological exams.

John Shaver, 56, was in fair condition at Broward General Medical Center after a maid discovered him at a hotel, said Fort Lauderdale police spokesman Maj. Joe Donisi.

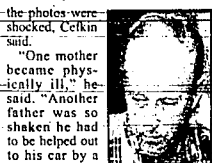

"There's no danger of him dying," said Donisi. "We'd call it an attempt, but not a real serious one."

Shaver had only his right wrist cut, and was admitted as a psychiatric patient, police said.

More parents were expected over the next week to view the pictures, which show the children wet or in a wading pool and often covered with finger paint, said police spokesman Ot Cefkin. The pictures do not depict sex acts and are not pornographic, he said.

Shaver, free on $5,000 bond, faces five counts of possessing child pornography for magazines found at his home, just across the street from his Rainbow Learning Center.

Parents whose children were in the photos were shocked, Cefkin said.

"One mother became physically ill," he said. "Another father was so shaken he had to be helped out to his car by a counselor."

Parents grateful their children were not found in the photographs said they had spotted other preschoolers they recognized.

"All I can say is he's one sick guy," said parent Gail Souza, after viewing the pictures.

Fourteen children who attended the day-care center were identified by some of the 140 parents who went to the police department Thursday night and sorted through 200 to 300 photos from Shaver's home. Three other children were tentatively identified, and about 60 families still have to review the photographs, Cefkin said.

The children shown in the photos reported to the Sexual Assault Treatment Center on Friday for medical tests and interviews, said director Joanne Hecar. "The medical tests are mostly to alleviate the fears of the parents, and rule out the possibility of actual sexual abuse," she said.

If there is any evidence children were abused, Cefkin said Shaver could face more serious charges.

Although the photographs themselves are not pornographic under the law, they could lead to sexual exploitation accusations against Shaver if the evidence meets that criteria, he said.

"We can't just go throwing out charges," Cefkin cautioned.

Shaver admitted owning the pictures police confiscated but does not consider them pornography.

"It didn't cause harm to anyone. A lot of people have secret wives," he said, after his release. Wednesday. The case came to light when a photo lab used by Shaver took some pictures of children to police.

"The way I understand child pornography is to tell kids to take off their clothes and photograph them in the nude. I didn't do that," he said. "It's probably done ... but I am not that way."

FBI mail probe continues in Alabama

ENTERPRISE, Ala. (AP) — FBI agents will remain in a southeastern Alabama county for the foreseeable future as they investigate the mail bombings that killed a federal judge and a civil rights attorney, a spokesman said Friday.

Scores of federal agents have been in Enterprise since Jan. 22. Robert Wayne O'Ferrall, an area salvage store owner, has been questioned several times and has given the FBI hair, blood and saliva samples. He has not been charged.

The FBI has collected other evidence in the area, and on Friday

continued to search for a typewriter believed to have been used to write a letter from a person or group calling itself Americans for a Competent Federal Judicial System, which claimed responsibility for the December bombings.

"I don't think we're at the end of it," said Doug Marshall, an FBI spokesman in Mobile. "I don't see any plans to end it at this point."

Marshall would not say if investigators are satisfied with the evidence uncovered so far. "We're not at the point where we can say anything evaluative like that."

O'Ferrall's attorneys have asked the FBI to provide them with a case file of their client. Lawyer Anthony Bishop said Friday the FBI has notified him that the documents have been prepared and that he would meet with O'Ferrall when he gets them.

The mail bombs killed U.S. Circuit Judge Robert H. Vance of Birmingham and civil rights attorney Robert Robinson of Savannah, Ga. Bombs were also mailed to the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta and to the NAACP headquarters in Jacksonville, Fla., but did not explode.

Costly aircraft bomb-detecting device isn't good enough, commission says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new device designed to detect plastic explosives in airplane luggage is deficient and "probably could not have discovered the bomb which destroyed Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, members of a presidential terrorism commission said Friday.

Panelists at a hearing of the Presidential Commission on Terrorism Aviation Security and Terrorism sharply questioned plans by the Federal Aviation Administration to require the airline industry to buy hundreds of the bomb detecting devices, complaining that they have not been adequately tested.

But Monte Belger, the FAA's associate administrator for aviation standards, said he believes "the sophisticated detection device is the best of its kind in the world, has been adequately tested and should be deployed."

In a three-hour hearing, the commission also was told that the device, which employs a technique called thermal neutron analysis, or TNA — will cost far more than original estimates of between $700,000 to $1 million each.

Belger said the first five TNA machines actually will cost a total $15 million or about $2.5 million each because of the rush nature of the order.

A TNA system — an 18-foot high, 20,000-ton machine — is at work inspecting baggage at Kennedy International Airport in New York. A second system was installed at Miami International Airport last week and is being calibrated. A third TNA machine is to be installed at Gatwick Airport near London next month, and site planning is under way to place one at Washington Dulles International Airport.

"I think there is a lot of flim flam going on," said Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., a commission member. "The TNA looks good but it does not do what it is supposed to do. Congress has been sold a bill of goods."

"There is a reduced ability to detect plastic explosives at the levels believed to have been used at Lockerbie," the senator said.

Investigators believe the Lockerbie crash on Dec. 21, 1988, was caused by less than a pound of plastic explosives secreted inside a portable tape player. The crash killed 259 people aboard the Boeing 747 aircraft and 11 people on the ground.

If you multiply the 350 (average) nights a year you'll spend on a mattress by the 10 years you'll probably keep it, and divide that by the price of a high-quality sleep set, you'll discover that the cost of a great night's sleep adds up to only 10 to 30 cents per night. Immigration policy to allow illegal aliens, dependents, to stay, seek jobs

Knight-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of thousands of immigrants living illegally in the United States will be allowed to stay and seek jobs under a dramatic change in policy announced Friday by Immigration Commissioner Gene McNary.

The change affects spouses and children under age 18 of 1.7 million previously illegal aliens who applied for amnesty under the immigration reform law of 1986. It would also legalize the dependents of 1.3 million agricultural workers admitted under the reform law.

To qualify, however, all must show they were living in the United States with their legalized relatives prior to Nov. 6, 1986, the date the immigration reform law took effect, and they would have to re-apply every year.

Applicants also must show they have not been convicted of a felony or more than two misdemeanors while living here and have not engaged in discriminatory behavior.

McNary and his top aides at the Immigration and Naturalization Service said they couldn't predict how many dependents will come forward, although they didn't dispute estimates of 500,000 or more from immigrants' advocacy groups.

"There's no way to count them. It may run to a million," said INS spokesman Duke Austin.

The 1986 law gave INS discretion to deport individual dependents of immigrants eligible for amnesty unless they could "cite compelling humanitarian circumstances."

SNOOZE NEWS

DID YOU KNOW . . . You probably use your bed more than your car, television, stereo or any other single piece of furniture in your home or office?

If you multiply the 350 (average) nights a year you'll spend on a mattress by the 10 years you'll probably keep it, and divide that by the price of a high-quality sleep set, you'll discover that the cost of a great night's sleep adds up to only 10 to 30 cents per night. That's less than your morning newspaper or cup of coffee!

Soviets expel ex-Politburo member from party

MOSCOW (AP) — A former Politburo member and hard-liner was expelled from the Communist Party for using his influence to buy a Mercedes-Benz at a great discount, official media said Friday.

The harsh action against a conservative member of the party's Central Committee comes just three days before the committee holds a critical meeting that is expected to bring heated debate between progressives and conservatives.

The expulsion of Yuri Solovyov, who was a non-voting member of the Politburo until his demotion last summer, must be confirmed by the Central Committee when it meets Monday and Tuesday, said Vladimir Kiryanov of the Leningrad party's press office.

If his ouster is upheld, Solovyov will lose his pension and numerous other privileges, Kiryanov said. It was the second attack this week on a prominent hard-line Communist. The weekly Moscow News on Thursday attacked Politburo member Yegor K. Ligachev and accused him of lying and clinging to outdated socialist ideals.

Solovyov, former Leningrad party chief, was retired last summer during a meeting of the Leningrad party organization attended by President Mikhail S. Gorbachev. Solovyov had been criticized for resisting Gorbachev's reforms.

Last spring, Solovyov suffered a humiliating defeat in the vote for parliament, despite having no opposition, when more than 50 percent of the voters crossed his lone name off the ballot.

Solovyov bought a "luxurious Mercedes" in December for "practically symbolic price, even less than the cost of a new (Soviet-made) Zhiguli," the government newspaper Izvestia reported. He was expelled for violating party ethics because he did not follow the rules on car purchases, Kiryanov said.

Another reason he was kicked out was "immodesty," Izvestia said.

The official news agency Tass implied that Solovyov abused his position to obtain the vehicle, but Kiryanov refused to elaborate. Top Communists have enjoyed special privileges such as foreign cars and luxury food allotments for decades, but Gorbachev has pushed for "social fairness" that has eliminated some privileges.

Former Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, who has been discredited and blamed for economic stagnation and corruption, had a great love of Western automobiles.

Tass implied that others in the generally conservative Leningrad party leadership might be threatened by the scandal.

It said the local prosecutor had been asked to investigate whether other Communist leaders bought their cars illegally. Neither Tass nor Kiryanov explained the precise violation.

Izvestia specifically named former Leningrad Vice Mayor G. Bukin as another involved in the scandal, for acquiring an almost-new Audi.

Solovyov was expelled at an emergency meeting of the Leningrad party committee on Thursday, the day after the sensational Leningrad TV program "600 Seconds" broadcast a report showing Solovyov's name on an auto registration list.

Talks on Armenian civil conflict held in Riga

RIGA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Feuding Armenians and Azerbaijanis opened peace talks Friday and immediately found common ground.

Both sides criticized the Kremlin for sending troops to their southern region.

Armenian negotiators told reporters that the use of the Red Army was unnecessary and "destabilizing the entire Caucasus region, which includes Armenia, Azerbaijan and Georgia."

The Armenians and the Azerbaijanis, meeting in the western republic of Latvia, agreed to discuss the presence of the troops, the estimated half-million refugees of both nationalities, the ethnic conflict has created, and other humanitarian issues.

Both sides agreed not to raise the territorial dispute that sparked the unrest.

Armenians want political control over Nagorno-Karabakh, a largely Armenian district located inside Azerbaijan, but Azerbaijanis want the region to remain in their hands.

Baltic mediators, leaders of the three people's fronts movements in Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, said the talks could last two to three months.

In Baku, the Azerbaijan capital, leaders of the Azerbaijan People's Front met with Soviet military commanders Thursday and took a defiant stand, raising their demand that all 17,000 soldiers be withdrawn. Lt. Gen. Vladimir S. Dubyniak, the military commandant, promised to transmit the demand to Moscow, said Tofik Gosymov, one of the 14 directors of the people's front.

"If the question of the removal of the soldiers is not solved, we won't negotiate with them and we won't cooperate," Gosymov said.

He also said the military wanted to leave Baku for its own reasons. He did not elaborate.

The one-hour talks at the Azerbaijan Interior Ministry bypassed the Azerbaijan Communist Party and the Caucasus republic's government, underscoring the increasing clout wielded by the grassroots People's Front.

The party and government have been sharply criticized for failing to control violence that began Jan. 13 with attacks against Armenian residents and continued when Soviet troops stormed Baku a week later.

At least 214 were killed and more than 500 injured in the unrest, according to official reports Friday.

The republics have been locked in a decades-old dispute, largely centered on Nagorno-Karabakh.

The Armenians are mostly Christian; the Azerbaijanis are predominantly Shiite Moslem.

During the talks with the military, the People's Front also demanded release of arrested members and an explanation of what they said were military assaults on the group's headquarters.

Dubyniak said those issues could only be decided in Moscow, Gosymov reported.

Romanians OK council

Los Angeles Times

"We have reached a national consensus," said Sergiu Cinescu, the leader of the Social Democratic Party. "A new council has been created which is a small parliament virtually, and spirits have calmed down. I think this is the beginning of a truly democratic life in Romania, if we observe the pledges we have taken." The pledges Cinescu referred to are commitments by all parties, including the Front, to refrain from street demonstrations until the elections are held.

The agreement on the power-sharing formula was reached in round-table negotiations led by interim President Ion Iliescu, a member of the Front.

The Front, which has been running the country since dictator Nicolae Ceausescu was overthrown Dec. 22, pulled in 29 newly formed or re-established opposition parties to join a provisional Council of National Unity as the supreme body of state authority until the elections, now set for May 20.

Dubyniak said those issues could only be decided in Moscow, Gosymov reported.

Indian leader stops wearing real fur hats

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister V.P. Singh's trademark fur hats are no longer the real thing.

Following protests from animal lovers and ecologists, including the minister of state for environment, the prime minister has been sporting a new line of headgear made from synthetic fur.

"Some things are done without the awareness of the background," Singh said in a letter addressed to Diana Ratnagar, who heads the Indian branch of Beauty-Without-Cruelty, an international animal-rights trust, founded in Britain in 1959.

Earlier in the 3½-hour debate, which included five party leaders, the politically embattled Kaifu jumped at the opportunity to attack Doi for her party's continued support for "socialist revolution."

The clause, along with support for unarmed neutrality, remains in the Socialists' by-laws.

Noting that Doi had "frozen" the party's advocacy of revolution, Kaifu quipped: "Whatever is pulled out of a refrigerator will soon resume its original form."

Japanese talk of tossing treaty

Los Angeles Times

TOKYO — In the first televised debate in 30 years among leaders of Japan's major political parties, Socialist Party chairman Takako Doi declared Friday that her organization welcomes proposals by some Americans to abolish the U.S.-Japan Security Treaty.

The Socialists had been trying to remove an image of radicalism by softening their traditional advocacy of abrogation of the pact, and Doi had declared that a Socialist-led government would not abrogate the treaty unilaterally.

Her harder-edged remarks Friday take on added significance in advance of the Feb. 18 election for the lower house of Parliament, which in turn elects the prime minister.

Doi, in whom Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu could not respond because of time limits on the debate, said the security treaty should be revamped to stress U.S.-Japanese cooperation in such areas as protection of the environment and economic aid to developing nations.

Does that mean the Socialist Party regards as favorable American calls for abolition (of the treaty)? she was asked by a Japanese journalist.

"Yes," she replied, calling the development proof that "the policy of power of the past" has disintegrated.

Earlier in the 3½-hour debate, which included five party leaders, the politically embattled Kaifu jumped at the opportunity to attack Doi for her party's continued support for "socialist revolution."

The clause, along with support for unarmed neutrality, remains in the Socialists' by-laws.

Noting that Doi had "frozen" the party's advocacy of revolution, Kaifu quipped: "Whatever is pulled out of a refrigerator will soon resume its original form."

Yugoslavian president seeks peace

PRISTINA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Federal President Jancez Drnovsek visited Kosovo province Friday and appealed for an end to violence that has cost the lives of at least 21 ethnic Albanians in 10 days.

He said the ethnic unrest threatens political and economic reform in Yugoslavia, which is trying to transform itself from a Communist nation to a Western-style democracy with a market economy.

Riot police used tear gas to disperse about 200 demonstrators in Pristina, capital of Kosovo, while Drnovsek met with provincial officials.

No other protests were reported Friday, but a virtual general strike seemed to be in force.

Kosovo, a southern province next to Albania, is the nation's poorest region and 90 percent of its 1.9 million people are ethnic Albanians.

"Production has almost completely stopped, and even some people who went to their jobs were refusing to work, the official news agency Tanjug reported.

At least 20,000 people in Kosovo have been on almost constant strike since protests and riots began Jan. 24, according to official statistics.

Ethnic Albanians have demanded greater autonomy since Serbia, the largest of Yugoslavia's six republics, made constitutional changes a year ago that gave it almost total control of the province.

Kosovo is part of Serbia, but had functioned as an autonomous region.

Tanjug quoted Drnovsek as saying: "I appeal to all peoples in Kosovo, regardless of their nationalities, to stop violent activities."

He said the situation was "exceptionally grave and complex," and "blocks the country's fundamental reforms."

The federal government has sent a sweeping political and economic reform package to Parliament.

Chinese protest sanctions

BEIJING (AP) — China on Friday strongly protested U.S. legislation imposing trade sanctions on China, saying Congress had "willfully trampled on the basic norms governing international relations."

The protest was lodged by Vice Foreign Minister Liu Huaqing in a meeting with U.S. Ambassador James Lilley, the official Xinhua News Agency reported. Liu said he had been instructed to "express our utmost indignation and lodge a strong protest" against the "hegemonist act of the U.S. Congress, which, basing its legislation on rumors, has willfully trampled on the basic norms governing international relations and wantonly interfered in China's internal affairs."

The sanctions bill, passed Wednesday by a 98-0 vote in the Senate after earlier approval by the House, was expected to be signed into law by President Bush.

The legislation, however, is largely symbolic, reflecting actions Bush took earlier following the bloody military crackdown of the student-led pro-democracy movement in China last spring.

The bill gives the president the power to waive the measures if he deems it in the national interest or if the cap shows Congress there have been human rights improvements in China.

The sanctions measures were originally part of a State Department spending authorization bill that Bush vetoed in November because of a separate dispute concerning the Iran-Contra affair.

The sanctions suspend financial underwriting for U.S. companies investing in China and end under the Trade and Development Program. Sales of military and crime control equipment are stopped and controls are put on export of U.S.-built satellites and nuclear cooperation.

The legislation also calls for a review of China's most favored nation trading status if repression against political dissidents continues.

Troop removal alters Garcia's summit boycott

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Alan Garcia said Friday he will attend a drug summit in Colombia on Feb. 15 now that President Bush has promised to reduce the number of U.S. troops in Panama to their pre-invasion levels.

Soon after the United States invaded Panama on Dec. 20 and toppled the regime of Manuel Antonio Noriega, Garcia and other Latin American leaders protested to Washington. Garcia said at the time that he would boycott the summit, probably sending a government minister in his place.

Garcia, Bush and the presidents of Colombia and Bolivia had planned to coordinate their fight against drug trafficking at the meeting in Cartagena.

Earlier this week, President Bush said he would reduce the U.S. military presence in Panama to its pre-invasion level of about 13,000 troops "well before the end of February." He did not give a specific date.

Garcia said Bush's announcement caused him to reconsider his decision to boycott the summit in Colombia.

In a statement, he said will not only attend the meeting, but he also will present a "decisive and positive proposal" to combat drug trafficking.

Commuter train wreck claims 15

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Two crowded commuter trains collided at the height of the evening rush hour outside Frankfurt on Friday, killing at least 15 people and injuring dozens of others, officials said.

Rescuers pulled 15 bodies from the wreckage, and between 30 and 40 people had been injured, said Hesse, state Interior Minister Gottfried Milde.

Walter Henss, a spokesman for the Federal Railroad network, said about 700 people had been injured. The accident occurred after one of the drivers of the trains apparently missed a stop signal on the heavily used run between Frankfurt and Wiesbaden, Henss said.

Some cars derailed and rescue workers were unsure how many passengers were trapped in the wreckage.

Henss said both trains were traveling at relatively slow speed when the collision occurred.

Stallings to stay put despite support

By MICHELLE COLE and JENNIFER KAUTH Times-News writers

TWIN FALLS — A strong indication of support from the Magic Valley helped complicate Rep. Richard Stallings' decision about whether to run for the U.S. Senate or to remain in the House, he said Friday.

The three-term 2nd District congressman announced Friday that he would not seek the Senate seat that will be vacated by retiring Republican Sen. James McClure.

Stallings reached that decision this week despite a Democratic National Senate Campaign Committee poll that indicated he could mount a successful statewide campaign.

"When presented with the option of the Senate race, I must admit that there was doubt in my mind," Stallings said. "Today, however, I can tell you in all candor that I have a strong base of support from which to initiate such a race."

Stallings said he thought the poll would make it easier for him to decide not to run for the Senate. Instead it made the decision tougher.

"Magic Valley was one of the top bases of support. It was very flattering," Stallings said following a press conference in Twin Falls. He was greeted by an overflow crowd that included former Democratic Gov. John Evans, who has also expressed an interest in McClure's Senate seat.

In the month since McClure announced he would not return to the Senate, Stallings said he has sought the counsel of many Idaho leaders, including Gov. Cecil Andrus. He was courted by Democratic Senate and House leaders in Washington.

In the end, he said his friendship with House Speaker Tom Foley and his growing seniority in the House of Representatives helped him to make up his mind.

"I stand very close to gaining a subcommittee chairmanship in either Agriculture or Space, Science and Technology," Stallings said. "And from my position I can be of great significance to not just the 2nd District but all of Idaho."

Stallings said there were too many important issues in the coming year, including the agriculture Committee's work on the farm bill, for him to spend the spring and

Rep. Richard Stallings announces he will not run for the Senate summer on the Senate campaign trail. "I am happy to set aside other concerns at least for the time being," he said.

And while he did admit some "old-fashioned arm twisting" took place, Stallings said the speaker did not guarantee him a subcommittee chairmanship in exchange for staying in the House.

"He's a man of incredible integrity and to make promises he can't keep is not his style," Stallings said.

Friday's announcement does not necessarily mean that Stallings intends to spend the rest of his political career in the House.

Will he challenge Republican Sen. Steve Symms in 1992?

Stallings paused, smiled and then said:

"My intention at this point is to run for reelection in 1990."

But he told supporters in Twin Falls that he will be looking at "all the options" after his re-election campaign is done.

Three Republicans have announced that they'll campaign for Stallings' 2nd District seat. They are former Alder Ranger Sean McDermott of Pocatello, civic activist Janet Reid of Idaho Falls and state Sen. Ann Rydahl of Idaho Falls.

TFEA, school board begin preliminaries

TWIN FALLS — Preliminary negotiations between the Twin Falls Education Association and the School Board's negotiators opened Friday.

The half-day session went well, said Tom Schmidt, a high school biology teacher and the spokesman for the teachers negotiating team.

Discussion at the morning meeting focused on the procedural agreement — the rules by which both groups agree to negotiate — and teachers will vote on the outcome next week, he said.

But the teachers' union has not yet finished preparing its package of wants and Schmidt said a lot depends on how the Legislature treats education this session.

Trial goes to jury in case of alleged lewd conduct

TWIN FALLS — A jury began deliberating Friday evening in the trial of a Twin Falls man facing a charge of lewd and lascivious conduct.

The prosecution and defense gave closing arguments Friday afternoon after 28 days of testimony, including that of the alleged victim.

The jury of nine men and three women must decide whether Terry Dean Reynolds, 23, is guilty of lewd conduct with a minor under 16.

He was charged this spring with touching a 12-year-old girl. The District Court trial is before Judge Daniel B. Meehl.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Public will be able to submit comments on river proposal

KETCHUM — Beginning Tuesday, the public will be able to submit comments to the Bureau of Land Management on a report that assesses the environmental impact of the Big Wood River Stabilization Plan.

The plan involves excavating gravel from public land east of the Hulen Meadows subdivision and using it in a highway-widening project north of Ketchum that is scheduled to begin this spring. The report addresses the impact of excavating and stockpiling highway construction materials and redirecting part of the Big Wood River to an old river channel. It also includes a restoration plan for the excavated public land.

Copies of the assessment are available from the BLM Shoshone District Office, 400 West "F" St., P.O. Box 2-19, Shoshone, 83352; the U.S. Forest Service Ketchum Ranger District and Ketchum City Hall. Comments must be submitted by March 12. Questions or comments can be addressed to Floyd DeWitt or Steve Ellis at 886-2206.

Wendell City Council plans to begin using roll-call votes

WENDELL — The City Council will begin using roll-call votes for executive sessions, accepting bids, passing ordinances and other matters because the state requires it, Mayor George Benson said.

"That's the right way to do it," he said. "It's just something I read in a book and decided to use." The council approved it this week.

Council decisions have been made by a motion, a second and then two votes. Now, after a motion and a second, all four council members will vote as their names are called.

"People who visit a council meeting are entitled to know what went on at the last meeting," Benson said. "I would like the public to know what took place," he said.

"That's who we work for, is the public." In other matters, the council gave new City Superintendent Claude Strickland, a city employee since 1967, a $200 monthly pay raise to $1,509 a month — the same amount former Superintendent Charlie Doty received.

The council approved it Thursday at a special meeting.

Counties receive payment for part of grazing fees

BOISE — Area counties have been sent checks representing part of the fees charged for grazing on Bureau of Land Management land, state Treasurer Lydia Justice Edwards announced Tuesday.

The total $243,900 for the state is 12.5 percent of the $1.94 million in grazing fees. The funds are turned over to charging districts and will be used for range improvements.

Local counties receiving funds are: Twin Falls, $32,105; Gooding, $54,652; Cassia, $1,383; Custer, $12,635; Minidoka, $3,417; Elmore, $10,815; Blaine, $13,307; Jerome, $1,463; and Lincoln, $9,513.

Decision leaves race open for Evans, others

By MICHELLE COLE Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Now that he's decided not to run for the Senate, Rep. Richard Stallings said he's looking forward to serving in Congress with another Idaho Democrat.

There are a few in the Magic Valley who would like it to be that Democrat.

There's former Gov. John Evans, who applauded along with the crowd during Stallings' Twin Falls press conference Friday morning.

It's no secret that Stallings and Evans have talked about which of them should campaign for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring GOP Sen. James McClure.

A poll conducted by the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee showed either could beat 1st District Congressman Larry Craig should Craig win the Republican primary.

The poll showed Stallings' possible winning margin wider than Evans', but Evans' numbers were also good, Stallings said.

"He would be a viable candidate," Stallings said. "I would encourage him to get into the race if it's in his interest."

Evans has tempered his enthusiasm in the past week.

On Thursday, when it looked fairly certain that Stallings would stay put, the 65-year-old former governor told reporters not to be surprised if he also decides to stay at the helm of his family bank in Burley.

Evans isn't being coy, state Democratic leader Conley Ward said on Friday.

"I guess I wouldn't be a little surprised if he didn't have a moment or two of doubt now that it is in front of him," Ward said. "I think there's a strong chance that Gov. Evans will run. The numbers just look too good."

Evans is planning a trip to Washington, D.C., early next week to visit with Democratic Party leaders, including Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell. He said he will announce his decision sometime after that.

A hint of encouragement from Mitchell could also pull state Sen. John Peavey, D-Garley, into the race.

Peavey said Friday that he has not yet decided whether he'll campaign for Mc-

Clure's Senate seat. But he would run if the party encouraged him.

State Rep. Gary Robbins, D-Twin Falls, insists he isn't interested in running for a congressional office. But Robbins campaigned for the 2nd District seat in 1986 and could be another Magic Valley wild card.

Former Boise City Councilman and state Sen. Ron Twilgar is also looking at the campaign. Idaho Falls business consultant David Steed is the only Democrat to enter the race formally.

Ward said Idaho Democrats would like to avoid a primary, but there is no movement afoot to discourage any candidates.

"It's a free country," he said. "If people want to run they're entitled."

New jail standards would affect staffing, space

By ANITA DENNIS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fresh air and sunlight are among the improvements county jail inmates in Idaho may see if county commissioners this month approve new jail standards.

After nine months of preparation, sheriffs will present new standards to county commissioners Feb. 13 in Boise. Jail Standards Coordinator Judy Felton said. County commissioners, who would have to pay for any improvements, have final approval of the standards.

Felton, a former Twin Falls County commissioner, inspects county jails annually to see that they meet standards adopted by the Idaho Sheriffs' Association in 1979, she said. But ambiguities in those standards, liability and constitutional issues led sheriffs to devise new standards.

"Whether or not we like it, prisoners have rights," Felton said. "While some people would like prisoners thrown in a dungeon, that's not realistic, she said."

Specifics of the new standards will not be made public until they are approved, but Felton elaborated on three areas that could have major impacts:

Outdoor exercise areas. Based on court decisions, Felton said prisoners need fresh air and sunlight. Some counties don't allow prisoners outside at all, she said.

Capacity. While sheriffs estimate county jail capacity by the number of beds, new standards will call for a certain square footage per prisoner, Felton said. Prisoners' access to a day room, exercise area or library will affect how much space they need in a cell, she said.

Staffing. In smaller counties, a sheriff's dispatcher is often responsible for checking on inmates during the night, Felton said. But new standards would require personal checking on inmates every half-hour, which could be difficult for a dispatcher.

The new standards also incorporate a procedure for reviewing and revising standards on a regular basis, Felton said. If adopted, the standards would affect counties differently. Smaller counties might consider consolidating resources, Felton said as Cassia and Minidoka counties already plan to do.

Gooding County, which has recently denied certification by the Idaho Sheriffs' Association, is making improvements dealing with the same issues as the new standards.

At the 13-year-old Twin Falls County Jail, which was built after a lawsuit contended the old jail was unsafe, inadequate and unconstitutional, it should be easy to meet new standards, Felton said.

The standard will be presented to commissioners at an Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks meeting, Feb. 13 at the Red Lion Riverside in Boise.

Creation of museum boards possible under Antone plan

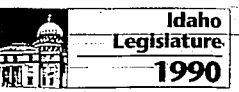

The Times-News

BOISE — If a past proposal can be brought out of the legislative archives and dusted off a bit, the Jerome County Historical Society may receive some extra money.

The proposal, introduced Friday in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee by Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, would allow counties to form five-member museum boards empowered to levy up to 0.1 percent of assessed property values. That's 10 cents per $1,000 of assessed value.

In Jerome, that money would be used to restore and preserve historical sites and buildings, said Virginia Ricketts, a historical society trustee.

"The historical society has been working on this project for many years," Jerome

County Commissioner Carl Montgomery said Friday. State Sen. Lynn Tomlinaga, R-Rupert, has brought the idea before the committee at least twice with no luck. Antone, who is House Revenue and Taxation Committee chairman, said his bill is not much different from Tomlinaga's proposals, though Antone's bill eliminates a provision calling for Centennial districts. "I think I can get it by the House," Antone said. "I don't know about the Senate."

Infant Tracking System locates 'at-risk' children

By JENNIFER KAUTH Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Region V Infant Tracking System is open for business.

"We're just getting going, but I think it probably will pick up once we get the word out," Mary Jones, the program's coordinator, said.

The program is designed to identify and track children up to 3 years old who may have developmental delays, such as hearing or speech problems or mental retardation.

By keeping track of the "at-risk" infants and toddlers, the children will receive services as soon as possible.

For more information about the Infant Tracking System, or to see about enrolling a child, call Diane Snodgrass or Mary Jones at 734-5900.

And studies have shown that the earlier a child receives help, the better the chance of overcoming a problem.

"We've all felt sad because something could have been done for the family and the child if the problem had been detected early on," Cheri Suter, Region V In-cive services as soon as possible.

McClure says INEL funding OK Court says corporate officer liable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Congressman Richard Stallings' warnings there are no research funds in the 1991 federal budget for a nuclear cancer treatment program in Idaho are almost too early in the process to be accurate, Sen. James McClure says.

Of the Department of Energy's fiscal year-1991 budget is $7.2 million for the program, with $3.2 million to keep the Power Burst on standby, while $4 million is directed toward research, said McClure, a member of the Senate committee which funds DOE research programs.

BOISE (AP) — A corporate officer may still be held personally liable for a company's debts even after the corporation's charter has been forfeited, the Idaho Court of Appeals has ruled.

The three-member appellate court ruled unanimously on Friday that Bannock County Magistrate Robert Bennett must reopen proceedings in Priceco Inc.'s lawsuit against Mac Youngstrom, former corporate secretary for Priceco sign maker C.W. Inc.

Burger King. C.W. Inc.'s corporate charter was in forfeiture at the time for failing to submit a required annual report and pay the corporate franchise tax. The company filed a petition for bankruptcy in 1984 three weeks after having its charter reinstated.

action did not protect Youngstrom from her personal liability for the company's debts. The issue had never been decided by an Idaho appellate court. But Judge Donald Burnett cited "better reasoned" case law from other states.

Tracking

Continued from Page A6 might have problems in the future. An interagency effort to help kids get the help they need to become independent will be administered by Public Health District V.

Parents will help professionals track their child's development, through a questionnaire they will complete and mail in every four months. It will include a check list of where the child should be developmentally, so experts can determine whether there could be a problem. For instance, a child should be walking without support by 18 months of age.

Children being tracked will also participate in screening clinics every eight months, where motor skills, hearing and vision, physical growth, and speech and language progress will be checked.

Prisoner faces new bomb trial

PHOENIX (AP) — A prison inmate pleaded innocent Friday to a renewed murder charge in the 1976 car-bomb-slaying of an investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic.

James Robison, 67, of Chandler, was convicted of killing Don Bolles in 1977, but the conviction was reversed on appeal. Robison remained in prison on an unrelated conviction and was still there when Attorney General Bob Corbin filed the new murder charge last fall.

Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Thomas O'Toole set trial April 19.

In addition to the murder charge, Corbin's office has been working with a state grand jury investigating a possible conspiracy to obstruct earlier investigations of the Bolles probe.

The grand jury's work is secret, but there are indications that Phoenix attorney Neal Roberts is a potential target. Roberts was granted limited immunity early in the police investigation, but he told The Phoenix Gazette this week he had brought his lawyer with him to the latest grand jury probe.

Under Arizona law, the only grand jury witnesses who can be accompanied by lawyers are those the state designates as potential targets of the grand jury.

Roberts told police in 1976 that he had arranged a charter flight and motel room for John Harvey Adamson, a greyhound breeder and tow-truck operator who has acknowledged planting the fatal bomb and has claimed that Robison triggered it by remote control.

Roberts has said he had nothing to do with Bolles' death.

Adamson testified at Robison's initial trial in return for leniency. Robison and another man were convicted, but an appeals court threw out the convictions because the defense wasn't allowed to question a witness in court. Adamson then demanded a better deal before he would agree to testify at the new trial.

Man arrested in FBI military theft probe

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Florida man is the latest to be arrested in the FBI's "Operation Punchout" investigation of military thefts.

Guy S. Terry, 42, of Sebring, Fla., was arrested Feb. 2 according to a statement released Friday by the FBI.

A grand jury indictment charging Terry with three counts of theft of government property was handed up in Ogden on Jan. 26.

The indictment alleges Terry stole military gasoline generators and air compressors.

He was a civilian employee of Tooele Army Depot before moving to Florida, according to the statement from Eugene Glenn, Special Agent in Charge of the Salt Lake City Division of the FBI.

Terry is in a West Palm Beach, Fla., and is scheduled for a detention hearing on Monday.

The arrest is one of more than three dozen since two Hill Air Force Base airmen were charged last July with stealing three F-16 engines.

Operation Punchout is a year-and-a-half probe of military thefts from bases in the West and Southwest.

Officials suspect foul play in fire

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Fire officials say the blaze that gutted Orville's Mission in downtown Jackson early Friday morning has "suspicious origins."

The blaze forced about two dozen homeless people to flee.

Orville Wolf, who has operated the downtown mission for more than two decades, escaped unharmed as flames roared through the residential portion of the old log mission at about 3:40 a.m.

Teton County Fire Inspector Rusty Palmer says an arson team has been called in to investigate. Besides extensive damage to the mission, between $2,000-$5,000 worth of damage was done to the neighboring cinema, he said.

Sheriff's Sgt. John Daily is coordinating efforts at the local Red Cross to provide mission residents with food, clothing and shelter. A disaster fund is being set up at the Jackson State Bank and mission residents are being housed in a local church.

SLC neighborhood EPA cleanup candidate

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Soil in a Salt Lake City neighborhood is being tested by the federal Environmental Protection Agency for possible hazardous waste contamination, state health officials say.

The neighborhood is located in city's north-west sector, an area known as "Cold Swale Town," where Petrochem, formerly known as Ekotek, operated an oil reclaiming and hazardous waste recycling plant until mid-1988.

Authorities are concerned some chemicals may have seeped into the ground from large quantities of waste materials left on the site.

State health officials say they have found organic contaminants, solvents, used motor oil, petroleum products, lead, arsenic, cadmium and chlorinated, aromatic and semi-volatile organic hydrocarbons in the area.

If the EPA test proves the neighborhood is contaminated, the agency's Denver office has indicated the site will be put on the EPA's Superfund toxic waste cleanup list.

In all, 32 companies currently identified as potentially responsible parties have consented to conduct an emergency removal operation at the site.

The companies will treat and dispose of 500,000 gallons of hazardous liquids and contaminated storm water, which is stored in large tanks at the site; sample and dispose of the drums and their contents and maintain site security.

The work plan has been reviewed and approved by the EPA and the Utah Department of Health.

All removal and disposal of wastes at the site will be done with EPA's approval to be sure the terms and conditions are met.

Ken Alkema, director of the Utah division of environmental health, said the agency doesn't have enough money to clean contaminated sites, so this one will "have to wait its turn."

Coyote killed after it bothers Yellowstone skiers

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Park rangers have killed a coyote that threatened concessions workers at Yellowstone National Park who were skiing between their dormitory and Old Faithful Snow Lodge, park spokeswoman Joan Anzelmo said Friday.

A concessions worker, whose name was not released, was cross-country skiing on the employee ski trail at the Old Faithful complex when a male coyote began circling her about 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Anzelmo said.

"The coyote wouldn't let her continue down the ski path," Anzelmo said.

Pilots say tower may cause an air tragedy

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Spokane and Coeur d'Alene pilots are worried about an almost invisible, but nonetheless very real, commercial-radio tower west of Spokane International Airport.

Jack L. Johnson, a Spokane private pilot, has waged a three-year campaign to make the tower visible to the eye. Although the effort has resulted in the installation of "medium-density strobe lights," he and others still are dissatisfied with the Federal Aviation Administration's handling of the matter.

The 490-foot tower is located about two miles north of Reardan, Wash. and 10 miles west of Spokane Airport. Its top has a sea-level elevation of 3,368 feet, which can put it in the path of small airplanes flying around the airport under visual flight rules.

While the tower presents no danger to commercial or military planes, Johnson said he believes the structure and its guy wires pose a hazard to small aircraft pilots unaware of its presence.

"I'm scared to death somebody will hit that tower," said Johnson, who added it is particularly dangerous to pilots in the flowway from Spokane to the west, and those below 2,000 feet.

Homebuilt aircraft, old classic airplanes without electrical systems, and light aircraft without transponders sometimes are forced down to a lower altitude by cloud cover.

"Most of the time it is invisible," Johnson said. "On cloudy days it's terrible."

Eugene Soper, a Coeur d'Alene flyer, is so leery of the structure that he flies to places west of Spokane, such as Davenport, by a longer route around the tower.

Ironically, the tower is not now being used right now. The FM radio station that first occupied the facility moved its transmitter last summer and put the tower up for sale.

Johnson said the FAA was required to do an on-site airspace study before the tower was licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. He said the FAA office in Seattle only reviewed the requirements on paper and found "no significant hazard," thereby allowing the FCC to issue the license in 1986.

Mitch Barker, FAA spokesman, said there are some cases where the agency does not have to do an on-site airspace study.

Since the actual compliance with FAA guidelines is set down in the license with the FCC, Johnson approached the FCC to inspect the tower.

Dennis Anderson of the FCC made an inspection and agreed with the pilots that it was nearly invisible. As a result, the owners installed medium-density strobe lights. But area pilots call the 1988 addition ineffective.

"I see a tragedy coming up someday. It's just a matter of time," Soper said.

County returns tax funds

ST. ANTHONY (AP) — Fremont County has returned more than $14,000 to Upper Valley-Telecable Co. as a result of the cable television operator's successful appeal of its 1988 property tax assessment.

The refund represents a 254 percent tax increase on Upper Valley-Telecable's property based on a method of valuating cable TV operations directed by the Idaho Tax Commission in September 1988.

Upper Valley Telecable's 1988 assessment was about $13,000 higher than in 1987.

The commission method, which calls for calculating the value of cable operations based on income potential as well as physical assets, has been challenged by a number of companies and some counties.

Ada and Gooding counties have won partial court victories over the increased tax assessments, but several key issues are expected to be decided in a lawsuit pending in 2nd District Court in Nez Perce County.

In Fremont County, Upper Valley Telecable has paid its 1989 property tax assessment, but only under protest.

The assessment used the same valuation method as the 1988 bill, the company successfully appealed.

The refund, required by that decision, meant taxing districts in Fremont County that received funding from 1988 property taxes had to refund their share.

Rangers move to new site

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — The U.S. Forest Service station in Coeur d'Alene Friday bid farewell to its historic ranger station and began moving operations to a new $1.4-million complex down the street.

Workers at the Fernan District are were slated to begin relocating to its 15,000-square-foot building.

Six of the eight buildings the district leaves behind will be demolished to make room for an off-ramp planned as part of the Interstate 90 improvement project.

"Even though it's got drafty windows and a balky heater, this is a historic old ranger station," Forester Dave Brown said. "I feel good and bid about this move."

Construction of the new three-story building began in June.

"The move will consolidate offices which had been scattered throughout eight buildings, allowing the ranger district to operate more efficiently," a district ranger said.

"I have people in eight different buildings here," said ranger Don Bright.

"There are people in this district who wouldn't recognize some of their co-workers because they've never seen them."

"Now we'll feel like we're all part of the same team."

The Forest Service expects to be in full operation at its new building Feb. 12.

Girl released after accident

PRICE, Utah (AP) — Four Parowan High School students were injured when a school bus they were riding in slid off the road and flipped over on its side, authorities said.

Utah Highway Patrol Trooper Jeff Horrocks said the bus was traveling to Price for a wrestling match when the accident occurred about 22 miles south of Price Thursday.

"The cause of the accident is under investigation, but the weather contributed," he said.

Fifteen students were taken to Castlevie Hospital in Price where three were treated for minor injuries and released.

The fourth was kept overnight for observations.

Horrocks said the student's names were not released because they are minors.

Cunningham leads highest-paid NFL players; top 7 are QBs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles' quarterback Randall Cunningham is the highest paid player in the National Football League, averaging $2,662,857 a year, according to a salary survey compiled by the NFL Player's Association that the Baltimore Sun published in today's editions. The top seven players were quarterbacks: Philadelphia defensive lineman Reggie White is the highest paid non-quarterback, making an average $1,512,500 a year, the survey said.

Cleveland Browns quarterback Bernie Kosar was second at an average $2,328,571 a year, followed by Denver quarterback John Elway, listed at $2,116,667 a year.

The figures were contained in 10 salary surveys, one for each position, compiled by the NFLPA and distributed to NFL players. Copies of all 10 surveys were obtained by the San Diego Tribune and The Sun. The Sun reported today.

Cunningham signed a five-year, $15.4 million extension last year that included a $3 million signing bonus. Kosar signed a six-year, $15.1 million extension last year, including a $3.1 million signing bonus. When the bonus is tacked onto his $1 million base for 1989 in his old contract, he had a seven-year package of $16.3 million for an average of $2,328,571.

Following Elway in the top 10 were Houston quarterback Warren Moon, $2,000,000; San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana, $1,990,000; Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman, $1,839,500; Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly, $1,600,000; White; Buffalo defensive lineman Bruce Smith, $1,500,000; and Miami quarterback Dan Marino, $1,500,000.

Business Stocks

The market-fell sharply to the jobs data in response to a side-in the bond market but quickly bounced back after digesting the data.

Traders said renewed merger activity also helped revive takeover stocks. In particular, drug and biotechnology stocks got a boost from news that Roche Holdings would acquire a majority stake in Genentech Corp.

Despite the rally, the market retraced some of its gains late in the day as investors remained cautious ahead of next week's $30 billion Treasury refunding, which could provide a better clue as to the prospects for interest rates.

out of its recent doldrums.

"Nationwide" consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 195.42 million shares.

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks: the market increased $23.55 billion, or 0.74 percent, in value.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 1.23 to 182.75.

Among actively traded issues on the NYSE, Genentech, the most active stock, rose 8/4 to 29% on news that Roche Holding's would acquire a majority stake in the company. Philip Morris rose to 38% on USX added 3/4 to 34% and AT&T advanced 1 to 39%.

Chrysler meanwhile declined 1/4 to 16, Harcourt Brace dropped 1/4 to 2, Bristol Myers dropped 1/4 to 25, while IBM ended 1/4 at 98 and General Motors ended unchanged at 41.

Standard & Poor's industrial index rose 2.80 to 381.13, and S&P's 500-stock composite index advanced 2.13 to 330.92.

The NASDAQ composite index over the over-the-counter market ended with a 4.43 gain at 422.21. At the American Stock Exchange, the key value index closed at 353.56, up 2.06.

S. African government, apartheid foes far apart

By SCOTT KRAFT
Los Angeles Times

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — A few blocks from where President Frederik W. de Klerk delivered his speech to Parliament Friday, a young activist, microphone in hand and perspiring in the summer sun, was raising his voice at an anti-apartheid rally with the demand that has been heard for decades at gatherings like this in South Africa.

"We demand that the Klerk abandon the African National Congress and the South African Communist Party," the man proclaimed to cheers from the crowd.

As the activist spoke, people all across South Africa were hearing de Klerk meet those demands, in a speech broadcast live nationwide. And in the few seconds, it took de Klerk to declare "the prohibition on the African National Congress and the South African Communist Party are rescinded," the politics of South Africa underwent a sudden, unprecedented change.

"Quite clearly, in the coming weeks and months, we're going to see a major realignment in white and black politics in South Africa," Robert Shrire, a political scientist at the University of Cape Town, said Friday night.

Wilson de Klerk, a liberal political commentator and brother of the president, added: "We're going in for a difficult time." He predicted "turmoil in the country, for the right wing and the left wing as well."

President de Klerk's surprise decision to lift the 1960 ban on the ANC, the primary guerrilla group fighting white minority-led rule, its ally, the South African Communist Party, and its guerrilla rival, the Pan-Africanist Congress, has altered the future, perhaps irrevocably, political analysts say.

"He caught everybody by surprise, particularly the ANC and the PAC. He called their bluff," said Thami Mazwai, senior-assistant editor of the Sowetan newspaper.

Although it is still too early to tell for sure what effect de Klerk's moves will have on South Africa's internal politics, analysts see significant shifts in the National Party, which has ruled South Africa since 1948, as well as in the ANC.

Since the sun was shining Friday afternoon, 9-year-old Terry Knudsen decided it was warm enough to toss a basketball around. The Twin Falls youngster and his brother Mike, 16, were playing outside a house on 5th Avenue East while their mother did some landscaping.

Denver man's double life a big surprise to his wife

The Associated Press
DENVER — A mild-mannered ex-minister suspected of bombing a bank and carrying out 20 other bank robberies and burglaries in the past year led a double life, according to relatives and the FBI.

"He was loved by everybody in the community," said Sherry Jones after her husband, Edward, was arrested in the case. "I mean, there's not a person, including myself, who would have ever dreamed he'd be capable of this."

Jones, 50, was arrested Monday and charged with the botched attempt to blow open a safe at American Industrial Bank of Cherry, Creek on Jan. 10. A homemade pipe bomb used in the attempt singed the carpet and blew a few holes in the ceiling.

"He also is suspected in as many as 20 more robberies and burglaries in Colorado," said Bob

Pence, head of the Denver FBI office.

An ordained minister who graduated from the Conservative Baptist Theological Seminary in Denver, Jones hadn't preached for several years. Jones most recently worked for a furniture manufacturer.

But Mrs. Jones said her husband began showing signs of trouble a few weeks ago. On Jan. 23, she called Lakewood police because she was concerned about her husband's emotional stability, said police spokesman John Hunt. Jones was taken to a hospital for psychiatric evaluation.

About an hour later, his wife called police again to alert them to "some things that might be of interest to you and also might show that he's having some problems with coping," Hunt said.

"Wigs, masks, a handgun, tools, nylon— a french coat keys and a stolen federal license plate were in the trunk of the couple's car."

Bush calls development 'positive,' hints lifting of sanctions possible

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — President Bush Friday called South Africa's announcement that it will free black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela "quite positive."

Bush also said he will consult Congress about whether the United States should lift sanctions against Pretoria's white-minority government.

"I'm very encouraged by some of the changes that have taken place," Bush said about President Frederick W. de Klerk's statement to the South African parliament that he intends to free Mandela as part of a move to end his country's racial divisions through a political settlement with the black majority.

Bush, who spoke with reporters aboard Air Force One during a trip to Raleigh, N.C., and Knoxville, Tenn., said he has not read de Klerk's full statement, but he added, "I view it positively. And I think most people around the world will. It's an interesting development."

However, the president sounded a cautious note when asked whether he will reverse Congress's 1986 decision to override a veto by then-President Ronald Reagan and impose stiff sanctions designed to force Pretoria to change its racial-segregation policies. Bush, who was vice president at the time, recalled that he also has been opposed to sanctions.

"I think when people move in the right direction, it's certainly timely to review all policy," he said.

Congressional leaders took similar or tougher positions. Some hailed de Klerk's move as a step in the right direction, while others insisted that South Africa must do considerably more before removal of sanctions.

The sanctions include a ban on new American investment in South Africa, a prohibition against the importation of such South African products as steel and coal and the cancellation of U.S. landing rights for South African airlines.

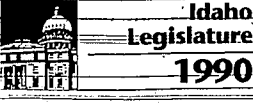

"Although these actions clearly fail to satisfy the conditions for repeal of the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act, they do represent positive signs of change in South Africa," Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, said of de Klerk's statement.

Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., an architect of the 1986 sanctions legislation, called de Klerk's actions "a bold stroke for freedom" that should encourage the trend in South Africa toward negotiation. But Lugar noted that while Bush has the power under the law to remove some of the sanctions, he has promised not to do so without consulting Congress.

Party-line vote kills 2-term limit in governor seat

The Associated Press
BOISE — Despite Republican declarations to the contrary, a proposed state constitutional amendment limiting the period any individual can serve as governor has been killed by the Senate on a party-line vote.

The proposition needed a two-thirds majority to move on to the House, but the slim Republican majority in the Senate failed to attract any Democratic supporters on Friday. None of the 19 Democrats supported it so it drew only 23 GOP votes, five short of the two-thirds needed.

Rule change delayed — A11
The proposal, which would still have needed voter approval even if it made it through the Legislature, would prohibit any person from being elected governor more than twice. It also would limit the number of the state's chief executive to no more than 10 years.

Job hunters flock in; employment at 20-year high

By The Times-News and Associated Press
TWIN FALLS — Like a herald of good economic times, the local Job Service office has been busy, busy, busy with incoming job hunters — and they're moving in while the area's unemployment rate is the lowest since at least 1970.

The Department of Employment reported a preliminary estimate of 3.8 percent unemployment level in the three-county Magic Valley area, nearly 2 percent lower than last year's. The department defines its Magic Valley area as Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties.

"That rate is below the magical 4 percent level some economists have felt is full employment," Labor Market Analyst Lon McDonald of the Department of Employment said. The department can't be certain when the rate was lower, since comparable data were available only back to 1970.

While the low unemployment rate normally would bolster worries of a tight labor force in an expanding economy, McDonald said the Job Service is seeing an "abnormally high" number of workers move into the area.

In January the Job Service placed twice the normal number of workers in jobs.

"We've never had a January close to this," McDonald said.

Since last January, the unadjusted labor force

Former Twin Falls man shot in escape attempt

By The Times-News and The Associated Press
BOISE — A former Twin Falls man at the Idaho State Penitentiary was hospitalized after being shot in the lower back during a pre-dawn escape attempt with two other prisoners, state Department of Corrections director Richard Vernon said.

Marvin D. Hedger, 41, underwent surgery Friday morning at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise after the 7:15 a.m. shooting.

He is very fortunate to be alive," Vernon said at a news conference Friday. "The bullet missed some vital organs, but it was very close."

Hedger was sentenced to prison in November 1987 on charges of rape, kidnapping and aggravated battery. He was found guilty of entering his former wife's home June 9, 1987, raping her and forcing her at knife point to drive to Jackpot and to a rest stop where he told her he was going to kill her.

He was serving 15 to 30 years for forcible rape and a concurrent 10- to 20-year term for kidnapping and aggravated battery charges.

All three inmates were recaptured in a field only a few hundred yards outside the prison fences within minutes of their escape, Vernon said the penitent was very close.

Drug czar William Bennett holds up a 'Budget ball' during testimony on Capitol Hill

'Scourge is beginning to pass,' U.S. anti-drug director declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — National drug policy director William J. Bennett said Friday that "the scourge is beginning to pass" and the war against drugs is being won.

"If you want to take World War II, people say the battle of Midway was a turning point," Bennett told the Senate Judiciary Committee. "I think we're at Midway, maybe a little beyond."

Bennett said that when he became head of the war on drugs a year ago, "it was by no means certain that we would win it."

"My view has changed," Bennett said. "The war is by no means over, but it is clearly winnable and the momentum, I think, is shifting our way. Indeed, while there is still too much bad news, there are scattered but clear signs that we are beginning to win; the scourge is beginning to pass."

"If we keep up our efforts, indeed, intensify our efforts, we are going to win," Bennett said.

His testimony contained little, if anything beyond what the Bush administration presented last week when it unveiled the second installment of its drug-war strategy, calling for a $10.6 billion budget in the fiscal year that begins next October.

For the most part, senators of both parties were not interested in any clash of swords with Bennett over details of the plan.

The committee chairman, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., did ask Bennett to comment on an alternative strategy Biden wrote. It calls for putting more stress on hardcore users, education, treatment and a one-time program to forgive international debt owed by Asian nations if farmers there plant other crops in place of the coca they normally produce.

Bennett said that he agreed with the bulk of what Biden proposed and that any differences were mostly a matter of emphasis. He did say that if forced to choose between education and enforcement, he would pick the latter.

The former secretary of education said that education remains his "first love," but that in fighting drugs it represents "a helpful auxiliary."

"I know children," Bennett said. "That may not be a very rosy view of children, but I do know children."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., pressed Bennett on why the administration after barring a number of foreign-made, semiautomatic assault rifles has allowed importers to bring in semiautomatic assault pistols from the same manufacturers which are often only slightly different from the rifles.

Kennedy repeatedly asked why Bennett had not urged the president to bar the pistols as well. The exchange was similar to ones involving the gun issue that have erupted at past Judiciary Committee hearings between Bennett and Sens. Kennedy and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

Costly aircraft bomb-detecting device isn't good enough, commission says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new device designed to detect plastic explosives in airplane luggage is deficient and probably could not have discovered the bomb which destroyed Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, members of a presidential terrorism commission said Friday.

Panelists at a hearing of the Presidential Commission on Terrorism Aviation Security and Terrorism sharply questioned plans by the Federal Aviation Administration to require the airline industry to buy hundreds of the bomb-detecting devices, complaining that they have not been adequately tested.

But Monte Belger, the FAA's associate administrator for aviation standards, said he believes the sophisticated detection device is the best of its kind in the world, has been adequately tested and should be deployed.

In a three-hour hearing, the commission also was told that the technique called thermal neutron analysis, or TNA, will cost far more than original estimates of between $700,000 to $1 million each.

Belger said the first five TNA machines actually will cost a total $15 million or about $2.5 million each because of the rush nature of the order.

A TNA system — an 18-foot high, 20,000-ton machine — is at work inspecting baggage at Kennedy International Airport in New York. A second system was installed at Miami International Airport last week and is being calibrated. A third TNA machine is to be installed at Gatwick Airport near London next month, and site planning is under way to place one at Washington Dulles International Airport.

"I think there is a lot of flim flam going on," said Sen. Alphonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., a commission member. "The TNA looks good but it does not do what it is supposed to do. Congress has been sold a bill of goods...."

"There is a reduced ability to detect plastic explosives at the levels believed to have been used at Lockerbie," the senator said.

Investigators believe the Lockerbie crash on Dec. 21, 1988, was caused by less than a pound of plastic explosives secreted inside a portable tape player. The crash killed 259 people aboard the Boeing 747 aircraft and 11 people on the ground.

Immigration policy to allow illegal aliens, dependents, to stay, seek jobs

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of thousands of immigrants living illegally in the United States will be allowed to stay and seek jobs under a dramatic change in policy announced Friday by Immigration Commissioner Gene McNary.

The change affects spouses and children under age 18 of 1.7 million previously illegal aliens who applied for amnesty under the immigration reform law of 1986. It would also legalize the dependents of 1.3 million agricultural workers admitted under the reform law.

To qualify, however, all must show they were living in the United States with their legalized relative prior to Nov. 6, 1986, the date the immigration reform law took effect. And they would have to re-apply every year.

Applicants also must show they have not been convicted of a felony or more than two misdemeanors while living here and have not engaged in discriminatory behavior, McNary and his top aides at the Immigration and Naturalization Service said they couldn't predict how many dependents will come forward, although they didn't dispute estimates of 500,000 or more from immigrants' advocacy groups.

"There's no way to count them. It may run to a million," said INS spokesman Duke Austin.

The 1986 law gave INS discretion to deport individual dependents of immigrants eligible for amnesty unless they could cite "compelling humanitarian circumstances."

Baker to answer Soviets' questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III will make an unprecedented appearance and answer questions before a committee of the Supreme Soviet during a visit to the Soviet Union next week, the State Department announced Friday.

Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said Baker will leave Washington on Monday, stop in Prague en route to Moscow and hold meetings in the Soviet capital on Wednesday through Saturday.

Day-care children photographed in nude begin exams, interviews

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A man who allegedly took nude photos of children at his day-care center was found with his wrist slashed Friday as 14 of the children began undergoing medical and psychological exams.

John Shaver, 36, was in fair condition at Broward General Medical Center after a maid discovered him at a hotel, said Fort Lauderdale police spokesman Maj. Joe Donisi.

"There's no danger of him dying," said Donisi. "We'd call it an attempt, but not a real serious one."

Shaver had only his right wrist cut, and was admitted as a psychiatric patient, police said.

More parents were expected over the next week to view the pictures, which show the children wet or in a wading pool and often covered with finger paint, said police spokesman Ott Cefkin. The pictures do not depict sex acts and are not pornographic, he said.

Shaver, free on $5,000 bond, faces five counts of possessing child pornography for magazines found at his home, just across the street from his Rainbow Learning Center.

Parents whose children were in the photos were shocked, Cefkin said.

"One mother became physically ill," he said. "Another father was so shaken he had to be helped out to his car by a counselor."

Parents grateful their children were not found in the photographs said they had spotted other preschoolers they recognized.

"All I can say is he's one sick guy," said parent Gail Souza after viewing the pictures.

Fourteen children who attended the day-care center were identified by some of the 140 parents who went to the police department Thursday night and sorted through 200 to 300 photos from Shaver's home. Three other children were tentatively identified, and about 60 families still have to review the photographs, Cefkin said.

The children shown in the photos reported to the Sexual Assault Treatment Center on Friday for medical tests and interviews, said director Joanne Richter. The medical tests are "mostly to alleviate the fears of the parents, and rule out the possibility of actual sexual abuse," she said.

If there is any evidence children were abused, Cefkin said Shaver could face more serious charges.

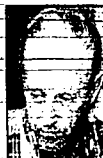

Although the photographs themselves are not pornographic under the law, they could lead to sexual exploitation accusations against Shaver if the evidence meets that criteria, he said.

"We can't just throw out charges," Cefkin cautioned.

Shaver admits owning the pictures, police confiscated but does not consider them pornography. He was arrested Sunday.

"It didn't cause harm to anyone. A lot of people have secret wishes," he said after his release Wednesday. The case came to light when a photo lab used by Shaver took some pictures of children to police.

"The way I understand child pornography is to tell kids to take off their clothes and photograph them in the nude. I didn't do it. It's probably done, but I am not that way."

FBI mail probe continues in Alabama

ENTERPRISE, Ala. (AP) — FBI agents will remain in a southeastern Alabama county for the foreseeable future as they investigate the mail bombings that killed a federal judge and a civil rights attorney, a spokesman said Friday.

Scores of federal agents have been in Enterprise since Jan. 22. Robert Wayne O'Ferrell, an area salvage store owner, has been questioned several times and has given the FBI hair, blood and saliva samples. He has not been charged.

The FBI has collected other evidence in the area, and on Friday

continued to search for a typewriter believed to have been used to write a letter from a person or group calling itself Americans for a Competent Federal Judicial System, which claimed responsibility for the December bombings.

"I don't think we're at the end of it," said Doug Marshall, an FBI spokesman in Mobile. "I don't see any plans to end it at this point."

Marshall would not say if investigators are satisfied with the evidence uncovered so far. "We're not at the point where we can say anything evaluative like that."

O'Ferrell's attorneys have asked the FBI to provide them with a case file of their client. Lawyer Anthony Bishop said Friday the FBI has notified him that the documents have been prepared and that he would meet with O'Ferrell when he gets them.

The mail bombs killed U.S. Circuit Judge Robert S. Vance of Birmingham and civil rights attorney Robert Robinson of Savannah, Ga. Bombs were also mailed to the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta and to the NAACP headquarters in Jacksonville, Fla., but did not explode.

DID YOU KNOW

You probably use your bed more than your car, television, stereo or any other single piece of furniture in your home or office?

If you multiply the 350 (average) nights a year you'll spend on a mattress by the 10 years you'll probably keep it, and divide that by the price of a high-quality sleep set, you'll discover that the cost of a great night's sleep adds up to only 10 to 30 cents per night. That's less than your morning newspaper or cup of coffee!

Soviets expel ex-Politburo member from party

MOSCOW (AP) — A former Politburo member and hard-liner was expelled from the Communist Party for refusing to buy a Mercedes-Benz at a great discount, official media said Friday.

The harsh action against a conservative member of the party's Central Committee comes just three days before the committee holds a critical meeting that is expected to bring heated debate between progressives and conservatives.

The expulsion of Yuri Soloyov, who was a non-voting member of the Politburo until his demotion last summer, must be confirmed by the Central Committee when it meets Monday and Tuesday, said Vladimir Kiryanov of the Leningrad party's press office.

If his ouster is upheld, Soloyov will lose his pension and numerous other privileges, Kiryanov said. It was the second attack this week on a prominent hard-line Communist. The weekly Moscow News on Thursday attacked Politburo member Yegor K. Ligachev and accused him of lying and clinging to outdated socialist ideals.

Soloyov, former Leningrad party chief, was retired last summer during a meeting of the Leningrad party violating party ethics because he did not follow the rules on car purchases, Kiryanov said.

Another reason he was kicked out was "immodesty," Izvestia said.

The official news agency Tass implied that Soloyov abused his position to obtain the vehicle, but Kiryanov refused to elaborate. Top Communists have enjoyed special privileges such as foreign cars and luxury food allotments for decades, but Gorbachev has pushed for "social fairness" that has eliminated some privileges.

Former Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, who has been discredited and blamed for economic stagnation and corruption, had a great love of Western automobiles.

Tass implied that others in the generally conservative Leningrad party leadership might be threatened by the scandal.

It said the local prosecutor had been asked to investigate whether other Communist leaders bought their cars illegally. Neither Tass nor Kiryanov explained the precise violation.

Izvestia specifically named former Leningrad Vice Mayor G. Bukin as another involved in the scandal, acquiring an almost-new Audi.

Soloyov was expelled at an emergency meeting of the Leningrad party committee on Thursday, the day after the sensational Leningrad TV program "600 Seconds" broadcast a report showing Soloyov's name on an auto registration list.

Talks on Armenian civil conflict held in Riga

RIGA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Feuding Armenians and Azerbaijanis opened peace talks Friday and immediately found common ground.

Both sides criticized the Kremlin for sending troops to their southern region. Armenian negotiators told reporters that the use of the Red Army was unnecessary and was destabilizing the entire Caucasus region, which includes Armenia, Azerbaijan and Georgia.

The Armenians and the Azerbaijanis, meeting in the western republic of Latvia, agreed to discuss the presence of the troops, the estimated half-million refugees of both nationalities the ethnic conflict has created, and other humanitarian issues.

Both sides agreed not to raise the territorial dispute that sparked the unrest.

Armenians want political control over Nagorno-Karabakh, a largely Armenian district located inside Azerbaijan, but Azerbaijanis want the region to remain in their hands.

Battle mediators, leaders of the three people's fronts movements in Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, said the talks could last two to three months.

In Baku, the Azerbaijan capital, leaders of the Azerbaijan People's Front met with Soviet military commanders Thursday and took a defiant stand, raising their demand that all 17,000 soldiers be withdrawn. Lt. Gen. Vladimir S. Dubinyak, the military commander, promised to transmit the demand to Moscow, said Tokik Gosyomov, one of the 14 directors of the people's front.

"If the question of the removal of the soldiers is not solved, we won't negotiate with them and we won't cooperate," Gosyomov said.

He also said the military wanted to leave Baku for its own reasons; he did not elaborate.

The one-hour talks at the Azerbaijan Interior Ministry bypassed the Azerbaijan Communist Party and the Caucasus republic's government, underscoring the increasing clout wielded by the grassroots People's Front.

The party and government have been sharply criticized for failing to control violence that began Jan. 13 with attacks against Armenian residents and continued when Soviet troops stormed Baku a week later.

At least 214 were killed and more than 500 injured in the unrest, according to official reports Friday.

The republics have been locked in a decades-old dispute, largely centered on Nagorno-Karabakh. The Armenians are mostly Christian; the Azerbaijanis are predominantly Shiite Muslim.

During the talks with the military, the People's Front also demanded release of arrested members and an explanation of what they said were military assaults on the group's headquarters.

Dubinyak said those issues could only be decided in Moscow, Gosyomov reported.

Japanese talk of tossing treaty

Los Angeles Times

TOKYO — In the first televised debate in 30 years among leaders of Japan's major political parties, Socialist Party Chairman Takako Doi declared Friday that her organization welcomes proposals by some Americans to abolish the U.S.-Japan Security Treaty.

The Socialists had been trying to remove an image of radicalism by softening their traditional advocacy of abrogation of the pact, and Doi had declared that a Socialist-led government would not abrogate the treaty unilaterally. Her harder-edged remarks Friday take on added significance in the advance of the Feb. 18 election for the lower house of Parliament, which in turn elects the prime minister.

Doi, to whom Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu did not respond because of time limits on the debate, said the security treaty should be revamped to stress U.S.-Japanese cooperation in such areas as protection of the environment and economic aid to developing nations.

"Does that mean the Socialist Party regards us favorable American ally for abolition of the treaty?" Kaifu quipped. "Whatever is pulled out of a refrigerator will soon resume its original form."

Earlier in the 3½-hour debate, which included five-party leaders, the politically embattled Kaifu jumped at the opportunity to attack Doi for her party's continued support for "socialist revolution."

The clause, along with support for unarmed neutrality, remains in the Socialists' by-laws.

Yugoslavian president seeks peace

PRISTINA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Federal President Jancz Drnovsek visited Kosovo province Friday and appealed for an end to violence that has cost the lives of at least 21 ethnic Albanians in 10 days.

He said the ethnic unrest threatens political and economic reform in Yugoslavia, which is trying to transform itself from a Communist nation to a Western-style democracy with a market economy.

Riot police used tear gas to disperse about 200 demonstrators in Pristina, capital of Kosovo, while Drnovsek met with provincial officials.

No other protests were reported Friday, but a virtual general strike seemed to be in force.

Kosovo, a southern province next to Albania, is the nation's poorest region and 90 percent of its 1.9 million people are ethnic Albanians.

"Protestation" has almost completely stopped, and even some people who went to their jobs were refusing to work, the official news agency Tanjug reported.

At least 30,000 people in Kosovo have been on almost constant strike since protests and riots began Jan. 24, according to official statistics. Ethnic Albanians have demanded greater autonomy since Serbia, the largest of Yugoslavia's six republics, made constitutional changes a year ago that gave it almost total control of the province.

Kosovo is part of Serbia, but had functioned as an autonomous region. Tanjug quoted Drnovsek as saying: "I appeal to all peoples in Kosovo, regardless of their nationalities, to stop violent activities."

He said the situation was "exceptionally grave and complex," and "blocks the country's fundamental reforms." The federal government has sent a sweeping political and economic reform package to Parliament.

Chinese protest sanctions

BEIJING (AP) — China on Friday strongly protested U.S. legislation imposing trade sanctions on China, saying Congress had "willfully trampled on the basic norms governing international relations."

The protest was lodged by Vice Foreign Minister Liu Huaqing in a meeting with U.S. Ambassador James Lilley, the official Xinhua News Agency reported.

Liu said he had been instructed to "express our utmost indignation and lodge a strong protest" against the "hegemonist act of the U.S. Congress, which basing its legislation on rumors, has willfully trampled on the basic norms governing international relations and wantonly interfered in China's internal affairs."

The sanctions bill, passed Wednesday by a 98-0 vote in the Senate after earlier approval by the House, was expected to be signed into law by President Bush.

The legislation, however, is largely symbolic, reflecting actions Bush took earlier following the bloody military crackdown of the student-led pro-democracy movement in China last spring.

The bill gives the president the power to waive the measures if he deems it in the national interest or if he can show Congress there have been human rights improvements in China.

The sanctions measures were originally part of a State Department spending authorization bill that Bush vetoed in November because of a separate dispute concerning the Iran-Contra affair.

The sanctions suspend financial underwriting for U.S. companies investing in China and aid under the Trade and Development Program. Sales of military and crime control equipment are stopped and controls are put on export of U.S.-built satellites and nuclear cooperation.

The legislation also calls for a review of China's most favored nation trading status if repression against political dissidents continues.

Troop removal alters Garcia's summit boycott

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Alan Garcia said Friday he will attend a drug summit in Colombia on Feb. 15 now that President Bush has promised to reduce the number of U.S. troops in Panama to their pre-invasion levels.

Soon after the United States invaded Panama on Dec. 20 and toppled the regime of Manuel Antonio Noriega, Garcia and other Latin American leaders protested to Washington. Garcia said at the time that he would boycott the summit, probably sending a government minister in his place.

After Bush and the presidents of Colombia and Bolivia had planned to coordinate their fight against drug trafficking at the meeting in Cartagena.

Earlier this week, President Bush said he would reduce the U.S. military presence in Panama to its pre-invasion level of about 13,000 troops "well before the end of February." He did not give a specific date.

Garcia said Bush's announcement caused him to reconsider his decision to boycott the summit in Colombia.

In a statement, he said "I will not only attend the meeting, but he also will present a 'decisive and positive proposal' to combat drug trafficking."

Commuter train wreck claims 15

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Two crowded commuter trains collided at the height of the evening rush hour outside Frankfurt on Friday, killing at least 15 people and injuring dozens of others, officials said.

Rescuers pulled 15 bodies from the wreckage, and between 30 and 40 people had been injured, said Hesse, state Interior Minister Gottfried Milde.

Walter Henss, a spokesman for the Federal Railroad network, said about 70 people had been injured.

The accident occurred after one of the drivers of the trains apparently missed a stop signal on the heavily used run between Frankfurt and Wiesbaden, Henss said.

Some cars derailed and rescue workers were unsure how many passengers were trapped in the wreckage.

Henss said both trains were traveling at relatively slow speed when the collision occurred.

Stallings to stay put despite support

By MICHELLE COLE and JENNIFER KAUTH Times-News writers

TWIN FALLS — A strong indication of support from the Magic Valley helped complicate Rep. Richard Stallings' decision about whether to run for the U.S. Senate or to remain in the House, he said Friday.

The three-term 2nd District congressman announced Friday that he would not seek the Senate seat that will be vacated by retiring Republican Sen. James McClure.

Stallings reached that decision this week despite a Democratic National Senate Campaign Committee poll that indicated he could mount a successful statewide campaign.

"When presented with the option of the Senate race, I must admit that there was doubt in my mind," Stallings said. "Today, however, I can tell you in all candor that I have a strong base of support from which to initiate such a race."

Stallings said he thought the poll would make it easier for him to decide not to run for the Senate. Instead it made the decision tougher.

"Magic Valley was one of the top bases of support. It was very flattering," Stallings said following a press conference in Twin Falls. He was greeted by an overflow crowd that included former Democratic Gov. John Evans, who has also expressed an interest in McClure's Senate seat.

In the month since McClure announced he would not return to the Senate, Stallings said he has sought the counsel of many Idaho leaders, including Gov. Cecil Andrus. He was courted by Democratic Senate and House leaders in Washington.

In the end, he said his friendship with House Speaker Tom Foley and his growing seniority in the House of Representatives helped him to make up his mind.

"I stand very close to gaining a subcommittee chairmanship in either Agriculture or Space, Science and Technology," Stallings said. "And from my position I can be of great significance to not just the 2nd District but all of Idaho."

Stallings said there were too many important issues in coming years, including the Agriculture Committee's work on the farm bill, for him to spend the spring and summer on the Senate campaign trail. "I am happy to set aside other concerns — at least for the time being," he said.

"And while he did admit some 'old-fashioned arm twisting' took place, Stallings said the speaker did not guarantee him a subcommittee chairmanship in exchange for staying in the House.

"He's a man of incredible integrity and to make Stallings he can't keep it not his style," Stallings said.

Friday's announcement does not necessarily mean that Stallings intends to spend the rest of his political career in the House.

Will he challenge Republican Sen. Steve Symms in 1992?

Stallings paused, smiled and then said:

"My intention at this point is to run for reelection in 1990."

But he told supporters in Twin Falls that he will be looking at "all the options" after his re-election campaign is done.

Three Republicans have announced that they'll campaign for Stallings' 2nd District seat. They are former Army Ranger Sean McDevitt of Pocatello, civic activist Janet Reid of Idaho Falls and state Sen. Ann Ryal of Idaho Falls.

Stallings said he can't keep it not his style, Stallings said.

Decision leaves race open for Evans, others

By MICHELLE COLE Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Now that he's decided not to run for the Senate, Rep. Richard Stallings said he's looking forward to serving in Congress with another Idaho Democrat.

There are a few in the Magic Valley who would like to be that Democrat. "There's former Gov. John Evans, who applauded along with the crowd during Stallings' Twin Falls press conference Friday morning.

It's no secret that Stallings and Evans have talked about which of them should campaign for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring GOP Sen. James McClure.

A poll conducted by the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee showed either could beat 1st District Congressman Larry Craig, should Craig win the Republican primary.

The poll showed Stallings' possible winning margin wider than Evans', but Evans' numbers were also good, Stallings said.

"He would be a viable candidate," Stallings said. "I would encourage him to get into the race if it's in his interest."

Evans has tempered his enthusiasm in the past weeks, charismatically in exchange for staying in the House.

On Thursday, when it looked fairly certain that Stallings would stay put, the 65-year-old former governor told reporters not to be surprised if he also decides to stay at the helm of his family bank in Burley.

Evans isn't being coy, state Democratic leader Conley Ward said on Friday.

"I guess I wouldn't be a little surprised if he didn't have a moment, or two, of doubt now that it's in front of him."

Ward said, "I think there's a strong chance that Gov. Evans will run. The numbers just look too good."

Evans is planning a trip to Washington, D.C., early next week to visit with Democratic Party leaders, including Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell. He said he will announce his decision sometime after that.

A hint of encouragement from Mitchell could also pull state Sen. John Peavay, D-Carey, into the race.

Peavay said Friday that he has not yet decided whether he'll campaign for Mc-

Clure's Senate seat. But he would run if the party encouraged him.

State Rep. Gary Robbins, D-Twin Falls, insists he isn't interested in running for a congressional office, but Robbins campaigned for the 2nd District seat in 1986 and could be another Magic Valley wild card.

Former Boise City Councilman and state Sen. Ron Twilegar is also looking at the campaign. Idaho Falls business consultant David Steed is the only Democrat to enter the race formerly.

Ward said Idaho Democrats would like to avoid a primary, but there is no movement afoot to discourage any candidates.

"It's a free country," he said. "If people want to run they're entitled."

New jail standards would affect staffing, space

By ANITA DENNIS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fresh air and sunlight are among the improvements county jail inmates in Idaho may see if county commissioners this month approve new jail standards.

After nine months of preparation, sheriffs will present new standards to county commissioners Feb. 13 in Boise. Jail Standards Coordinator Judy Felton said. County commissioners, who would have to pay for any improvements, have final approval of the standards.

Felton, a former Twin Falls County commissioner, inspects county jails annually to see that they meet standards adopted by the Idaho Sheriffs' Association in 1979, she said. But ambiguities in those standards — ability and constitutional issues led sheriffs to devise new standards.

Whether or not we like it, prisoners have rights," Felton said. "While some people would like prisoners thrown in a dungeon, that's not realistic, she said.

Specifics of the new standards will not be made public until they are approved, but Felton elaborated on three areas that could have major impacts.

Outdoor exercise areas. Based on court decisions, Felton said prisoners need fresh air and sunlight. Some counties don't allow prisoners outside at all, she said.

Capacity. While sheriffs estimate county jail capacity by the number of beds, new standards will call for a certain square footage per prisoner, Felton said. Prisoners need a day room, exercise area or library with at least how much space they need.

Staffing. In smaller counties, a sheriff's dispatcher is often responsible for checking on inmates during the night, Felton said. But new standards would require personally checking on inmates every half-hour, which could be difficult for a dispatcher.

The new standards also incorporate a procedure for reviewing and revising standards on a regular basis, Felton said.

If adopted, the standards would affect counties differently. Smaller counties might consider consolidating resources, Felton said, as Cassia and Minidoka counties already plan to do.

Gooding County, which was recently denied certification by the Idaho Sheriffs' Association, is making improvements dealing with the same issues as the new standards.

At the 1-year-old Twin Falls County jail, which was built after a lawsuit contended the old jail was unsafe, inadequate and unconstitutional, it should be easy to meet new standards, Felton said.

The standard will be presented to commissioners at an Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks meeting, Feb. 13 at the Red Lion Riverside in Boise.

Creation of museum boards possible under Antone plan

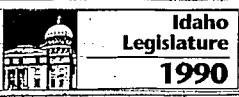

The Times-News

BOISE — If a past proposal can be brought out of the legislative archives and dusted off a bit, the Jerome County Historical Society may receive some extra money.

The proposal, introduced Friday in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee by Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, would allow counties to form five-member museum boards empowered to levy up to .01 percent of assessed property values. That's 10 cents per $1,000 of assessed value.

In Jerome, that money would be used to restore and preserve historical sites and buildings, said Virginia Ricketts, a historical society trustee.

"The historical society has been working on this project for many years," Jerome

County Commissioner Carl Montgomery said Friday.

State Sen. Lynn Tomlinaga, R-Rupert, has brought the idea before the committee at least twice with no luck.

Antone, who is House Revenue and Taxation Committee chairman, said his bill is not much different from Tomlinaga's proposals, though Antone's bill eliminates a provision calling for Centennial districts.

"I think I can't get it by the House," Antone said. "I don't know about the Senate."

Infant Tracking System locates 'at-risk' children

By JENNIFER KAUTH Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Region V Infant Tracking System is open for business.

"We're just getting going, but I think it probably will pick up once we get the word out," Mary Jones, the program's coordinator, said.

The program is designed to identify and track children up to 3 years old who may have developmental delays, such as hearing or speech problems or mental retardation.

"By keeping track of the 'at-risk' infants and toddlers, the children will receive services as soon as possible.

For more information about the Infant Tracking System, or to see about enrolling a child, call Diane Snodgrass or Mary Jones at 734-5900.

And studies have shown that the earlier a child receives help, the better the chance of overcoming a problem.

"We've all felt sad because something could have been done for the family and the child if the problem had been detected early on," Cheri Suter, Region V Infant Tracking coordinator, said.

Counties receive payment for part of grazing fees

BOISE — Area counties have been sent checks representing part of the fees charged for grazing on Bureau of Land Management land, state Treasurer Lydia Justice Edwards announced Tuesday.

The total $243,900 for the state is 12.5 percent of the BLM fees charged. The funds are turned over to grazing districts and must be used for range improvements.

Local counties receiving funds are: Twin Falls, $112,105; Gooding, $4,052; Camas, $1,982; Cassia, $12,638; Blaine, $3,471; Elmore, $10,813; Blaine, $13,307; Jerome, $1,463; and Lincoln, $9,515.

McCure says INEL funding OK Court says corporate officer liable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Congressman Richard Stallings warns there are no research funds in the 1991 federal budget for a nuclear cancer treatment program in Idaho are alarmist and too early in the process to be accurate, Sen. James McCure says.

Stallings has said the use of a neutron beam for the Boron Neutron Capture Therapy program at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory is only enough to keep the Power Burst reactor on standby, not research the radioactive treatment of glioblastoma, a dangerous form of brain cancer.

by Congressman Stallings that the BNCT is somehow in danger because of this budget simply isn't borne out by the facts," the Republican senator said.

"There is over $7 billion in the federal budget for BNCT for fiscal year 1991, and over half that amount will be spent on research to determine how and when this treatment could be used to fight cancer in humans," he said.

In the therapy, a boron compound is injected into the patient and concentrates in the brain tumor. A neutron beam from the reactor kills the cancerous brain cells, while leaving healthy ones intact.

Of the Department of Energy's fiscal year 1991 budget is $7.2 million for the program, with $3.2 million to keep the Power Burst on standby, while $4 million is directed to continued research, said McCure, a member of the Senate committee which funds DOE research programs.

"It's important to note that this is only the beginning of the budget process, and there's every possibility that additional funds may be made available for the project," he said.

The Power Burst is the only reactor of its kind in the world capable of producing the neutron beam sought by researchers.

BOISE (AP) — A corporate officer may still be held personally liable for a company's debts even after the corporation's charter has been forfeited, the Idaho Court of Appeals ruled.

The three-member appellate court ruled unanimously on Friday that Bannock County Magistrate Robert Bennett must reopen proceedings in Priceco Inc.'s lawsuit against Mae Youngstrom, former corporate secretary for Pocatello sign maker C.W. Burger King.

Bennett issued a summary judgment, later upheld by 6th District Judge William Woodland, for Youngstrom against Priceco's claim seeking payment for a subcontracted 1983 sign installation it performed for C.W. Inc. at a Chubbuck action did not protect Youngstrom from her personal liability for the company's debts.

"The issue had never been decided by an Idaho appellate court. But Judge Donald Burnett said 'better reasoned' case law from other states recognizes that 'corporate officers cannot invoke a corporate shield against liabilities unless they are acting in disregard of a statutory command to cease doing business during forfeiture.'"

The Court of Appeals said whether Youngstrom should be held liable depends on a factual finding of whether she was personally aware of or participated in the Priceco transaction. The question, it said, must be decided at the magistrate level.

Since the Priceco debt was listed among C.W. Inc.'s obligations and the corporation's two other officers had in one case filed for personal bankruptcy and in the other disappeared, Youngstrom became the only defendant in Priceco's lawsuit.

But in overturning the lower court rulings, the Court of Appeals said the forfeiture of C.W. Inc.'s former charter before the Priceco trans-

Eastern Idaho lottery sales booming

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Despite the voter opposition to authorizing a lottery, the state's piece-of-Lotto sales are booming. The Idaho Lottery, which has led in the sale of scratch-off tickets since the Lottery began July 19, sold $486 in Idaho Super Lotto tickets Thursday.

But participation in the multi-state lotto game will give players a crack at $3.5 million in Saturday night's drawing. The minimum jackpot is $2 million every Wednesday and Saturday.

Another eastern Idaho outlet was among the top five in first-day Lotto America sales — the La Tienda convenience store in Franklin County where voters rejected the lottery authorization.

Until the start of Idaho Super Lotto, the state's piece-of-Lotto America, Idahoans could only buy instant-winner scratch-off tickets with maximum payoffs of $10,000.

But participation in the multi-state lotto game will give players a crack at $3.5 million in Saturday night's drawing. The minimum jackpot is $2 million every Wednesday and Saturday.

Another eastern Idaho outlet was among the top five in first-day Lotto America sales — the La Tienda convenience store in Franklin County where voters rejected the lottery authorization.

La Tierra, which has led in the sale of scratch-off tickets since the Lottery began July 19, sold $486 in Idaho Super Lotto tickets Thursday.

Ahead of it was Super Save Drug in Pocatello at $539 and Hannafin's Cigar Store in Boise at $535.

The number-five outlet was Jackpot Food Mart in Coeur d'Alene at $438.

Statewide, first-day sales totaled $53,000, and lottery officials predict sales will average about $400,000 a week.

Museum displays Lincoln memorabilia

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A desk and chair used in Abraham Lincoln's law office — and home in Springfield, Ill., and other Lincoln memorabilia will be displayed through the end of February at the Bonneville County Museum.

The owners are Bonneville County residents, but have asked to remain anonymous for personal and privacy reasons.

"We're just ordinary people and we want to keep it that way," one of them said.

The sloped-writing desk has one drawer, with a key lock that still works. The size of the desk might be the most surprising aspect. It's only 25 1/2 inches wide and 23 inches deep, and the sloped writing surface is 33 inches high at the back.

In addition to the desk and rush-bottom chair — which were not necessarily used together — the display has a number of Lincoln memorabilia from the same owners.

Included is a piece of White House china, part of a 190-piece set Mary Todd Lincoln purchased from its New York manufacturer, E.V. Haughton, for $34.95.

Other items are an original play bill from "Our American Cousin," which was playing at Ford's Theatre when Lincoln was shot there, and an original Republican Party handbill from Massachusetts advertising Lincoln and his 1860 running mate, Hannibal Hamlin of Maine.

The display includes photocopies of three documents owned by the donors, whose originals are considered too delicate to display.

DOE names new manager for INEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Augustine A. Petrollo, who since 1975 has been director of a Department of Energy facility in West Virginia, is the new manager of the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

Energy Secretary James Watkins on Friday named Petrollo to succeed Don Orte, who retired as Idaho operations manager in December.

Sen. James McCure met with Petrollo and later issued a statement praising his "solid track record of managing a large scientific complex" and said the new manager's technical and engineering background is a plus for Idaho.

Since 1975, Petrollo has been director of DOE's Morgantown Energy Technology Center in West Virginia, which specializes in fossil energy research and development.

Prior to that, he held several management posts with General Electric Co., including construction of space reactors used in the Apollo program.

"Augie is a very outgoing and personable guy who is set on running a topflight operation," said McCure. "I know he's committed to working in a cooperative and open manner with the workers at the site, the eastern Idaho community and the entire state of Idaho."

Prisoner faces new bomb trial

PHOENIX (AP) — A prison inmate pleaded innocent Friday to a renewed murder charge in the 1976 car-bomb slaying of an investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic.
 James Roberts, 67, of Chandler, was convicted of killing Don Bolles in 1977, but the conviction was reversed on appeal. Robison remained in prison on an unrelated conviction and was still there when Attorney General Bob Corbin filed the new murder charge last fall.
 Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Thomas O'Toole set trial April 19.
 In addition to the murder charge, Corbin's office has been working with a state grand jury investigating a possible conspiracy to obstruct earlier investigations of the Bolles probe.

The grand jury's work is secret, but there are indications that Phoenix attorney Neal Roberts is a potential target. Roberts was granted limited immunity early in the police investigation, but he told The Phoenix Gazette this week he had brought his lawyer with him to the latest grand jury probe.

Under Arizona law, the only grand jury witnesses who can be accompanied by lawyers are those the state designates as potential targets of the grand jury.

Roberts told police in 1976 that he had arranged a charter flight and motel room for John Harvey Adamson, a greyhound breeder and tow-truck operator who has acknowledged planting the fatal bomb and has claimed that Robison triggered it by remote control.

Roberts has said he had nothing to do with Bolles' death.

Adamson testified at Robison's initial trial in return for leniency. Robison and another man were convicted, but an appeals court threw out the convictions because the testimony was not believed or questioned a witness adequately. Adamson then demanded a better deal before he would agree to testify at the new trial.

Man arrested in FBI military theft probe

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Florida man is the latest to be arrested in the FBI's "Operation Punchout" investigation of military thefts.

Guy S. Terry, 42, of Sebring, Fla., was arrested Feb. 1, according to a statement released Friday by the FBI.

A grand jury indictment charging Terry with three counts of theft of government property was handed up in Tilden on Jan. 26.

The indictment alleges Terry stole military gasoline generators and air compressors.

He was a civilian employee of Toole Army Depot before moving to Florida, according to the statement from Eugene Glenn, Special Agent in Charge of the Salt Lake City Division of the FBI.

Terry is in a West Palm Beach, Fla., and is scheduled for a detention hearing on Monday.

The arrest is one of more than three dozen since two T-111 Air Force Base airmen were charged last July with stealing three F-16 engines.

Operation Punchout is a year-and-a-half probe of military thefts from bases in the West and Southwest.

Officials suspect foul play in fire

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Fire officials say the blaze that gutted Orville's Mission in downtown Jackson early Friday morning has "suspicious origins."

The blaze forced about two dozen homeless people to flee.

Orville Wolf, who has operated the downtown mission for more than two decades, escaped unharmed as flames roared through the residential portion of the old log mission at about 3:40 a.m.

Teton County Fire Inspector Rusty Palmer says an arson team has been called in to investigate.

Besides extensive damage to the mission, between $2,000-$5,000 worth of damage was done to the neighboring cinema, he said.

Sheriff's Sgt. John Daily is coordinating efforts at the local Red Cross to provide mission residents with food, clothing and shelter. A disaster fund is being set up at the Jackson State Bank and mission residents are being housed in a local church.

SLC neighborhood EPA cleanup candidate

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Soil in a Salt Lake City neighborhood is being tested by the federal Environmental Protection Agency for possible hazardous waste contamination, state health officials say.

The neighborhood is located in city's northwest sector, an area known as "Old Swede Town," where Petrochem, formerly known as Ekotek, operated an oil recycling and hazardous waste recycling plant until mid-1985.

Authorities are concerned some chemicals may have seeped into the ground from large quantities of waste materials left on the site.

State health officials say they have found a number of contaminants, solvents, used motor oil, petroleum products, lead, arsenic, cadmium and chlorinated aromatic and semi-volatile organic hydrocarbons in the area.

If the EPA test proves the neighborhood is contaminated, the agency's Denver office has indicated the site will be put on the EPA's Superfund toxic waste cleanup list.

In all, 32 companies currently identified as potentially responsible parties have consented to conduct an emergency removal operation at the site.

The companies will treat and dispose of 500,000 gallons of hazardous liquids and contaminated storm water, which is stored in large tanks at the site; sample and dispose of the drums and their contents and maintain site security.

The work plan has been reviewed and approved by the EPA and the Utah Department of Health.

All removal and disposal of wastes at the site will be done with EPA's approval to be sure the terms and conditions are met.

Ken Alkema, director of the Utah division of environmental health, said the agency doesn't have enough money to clean contaminated sites, so this one will "have to wait its turn."

Coyote killed after it bothers Yellowstone skiers

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Park rangers have killed a coyote that threatened concessions workers at Yellowstone National Park who were skiing between their dormitory and Old Faithful Snow Lodge, park spokeswoman Joan Anzelmo said Friday.

A concessions worker, whose name was not released, was cross-country skiing on the employee ski trail at the Old Faithful complex when a male coyote began circling her about 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Anzelmo said.

"The coyote wouldn't let her continue down the ski path," Anzelmo said.

Pilots say tower may cause an air tragedy

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Spokane and Coeur d'Alene pilots are worried about an almost invisible, but nonetheless very real, commercial light tower west of Spokane International Airport.

Jack L. Johnson, a Spokane private pilot, has waged a three-year campaign to make the tower visible to the eye. Although the effort has resulted in the installation of "medium-density strobe lights," he and others still are dissatisfied with the Federal Aviation Administration's handling of the matter.

The 499-foot tower is located about two miles north of Reardan, Wash. and 10 miles west of Spokane Airport. Its top has a sea-level elevation of 3,368 feet, which can put it in the path of small airplanes flying around the airport under visual flight rules.

While the tower presents no danger to commercial or military planes, Johnson said he believes the structure and its guy wires pose a hazard to small aircraft pilots unaware of its presence.

"I'm scared to death somebody will hit that tower," said Johnson, who added it is particularly dangerous to pilots in the flyway from Spokane to the west, and those below 7,300 feet.

Homebuilt aircraft, old classic airplanes without electrical systems, and light aircraft without transponders sometimes are forced down to a lower altitude by cloud cover.

"Most of the time it is invisible," Johnson said. "On cloudy days it's terrible."

Eugene Soper, a Coeur d'Alene flyer, is so leery of the structure that he flies to places west of Spokane, such as Davenport, by a longer route around the tower.

Ironically, the tower is now being used right now. The FM radio station that first occupied the facility moved its transmitter last summer and put the tower up for sale.

Johnson said the FAA was required to do an on-site airspace study before the tower was licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. He said the FAA office in Seattle only reviewed the requirements on paper and found "no significant hazard," thereby allowing the FCC to issue the license in 1986.

Mich Barker, FAA spokesman, said there are some cases where the agency does not have to do an on-site airspace study.

Since the actual compliance with FAA guidelines is set down in the license with the FCC, Johnson approached the FCC to inspect the tower.

Dennis Anderson of the FCC made an inspection and agreed with the pilots that it was nearly invisible. As a result, the owners installed medium-density strobe lights. But area pilots call the 1988 addition ineffective.

"I see a tragedy coming up someday," it's just a matter of time," Soper said.

County returns tax funds

ST. ANTHONY (AP) — Fremont County has returned more than $14,000 to Upper Valley Telecable Co. as a result of the cable television operator's successful appeal of its 1988 property tax assessment.

The refund represents a 254 percent tax increase on Upper Valley Telecable's property based on a method of valuating cable TV operations directed by the Idaho Tax Commission in September 1988.

Upper Valley Telecable's 1988 assessment was about $13,000 higher than in 1987.

The Tax Commission method, which calls for calculating the value of cable operations based on income potential as well as physical assets, has been challenged by a number of companies and some counties.

Ada and Gooding counties have won partial court victories over increased tax assessments, but several key issues are expected to be decided in a lawsuit pending in 2nd District Court in Nez Perce County.

Fremont County, Upper Valley Telecable has paid its 1989 property tax assessment, but only under protest.

The assessment used the same valuation method as the 1988 bill the company successfully appealed.

The refund, required by that decision meant taxing districts in Fremont County that received funding from 1988 property taxes had to refund their share.

Rangers move to new site

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — The U.S. Forest Service station in Coeur d'Alene Friday bid farewell to its historic ranger station and began moving operations to a new $1.4 million complex down the street.

Workers at the Fernan District are were slated to begin relocating to its 15,000-square-foot building.

Six of the eight buildings the district leaves behind will be demolished to make room for an off-ramp planned as part of the Interstate 90 improvement project.

"Even though it's got drafty windows and a balky heater, this is a historic old ranger station," Forester Dave Brown said. "I feel good and bad about this move."

Construction of the new three-story building began in June.

The move will consolidate offices which had been scattered throughout eight buildings, allowing the ranger district to operate more efficiently, a district ranger said.

"I have people in eight different buildings here," said ranger Don Bright.

There are people in this district who wouldn't recognize some of their co-workers because they've never seen them.

"Now we'll feel like we're all part of the same team."

The Forest Service expects to be in full operation at its new building Feb. 12.

Girl released after accident

PRICE, Utah (AP) — Four Parkway High School students were injured when a school bus they were riding in slid off the road and tipped onto its side, authorities said.

Utah Highway Patrol Trooper Jeff Horrocks said the bus was traveling to Price for a wrestling match when the accident occurred about 22 miles south of Price Thursday.

The cause of the accident is under investigation, but the weather contributed, he said.

Four students were taken to Castleville Hospital in Price where three were treated for minor injuries and released.

The fourth was kept overnight for observation.

Horrocks said the student's names were not released because they are minors.

Baseball owners OK a lockout for spring

By ROSS NEWMAN
Los Angeles Times

Baseball's owners voted unanimously in December to keep spring training camps closed if the Major League Players Association does not accept a revenue-sharing proposal that has stalled the collective bargaining negotiations, several owners said Thursday.

It has been assumed that a lockout vote would be conducted at a Feb. 9 owners meeting in Chicago, but that vote was actually taken at the annual winter meetings in Nashville.

Said Jerry Reinsdorf, co-owner of the Chicago White Sox: "There is no doubt in my mind there will be a lockout because we already voted on that. I haven't taken a poll on what everybody's been thinking lately, but the last time I checked, it was 26-0."

The last time Reinsdorf checked was in Nashville.

Of the meeting in Chicago Feb. 9, Reinsdorf said there has been misinformation and misperception.

"That meeting is just for us to update ourself on what has transpired since the last time we met and get a progress report on the negotiations," he said.

"So unless the union agrees to a revenue participation program, there will be a lockout, and I'm in total agreement with it."

Said Bill Giles, president of the Philadelphia Phillies: "There's a misconception about a vote taking place (in Chicago). We already voted when we met in December, and it was unanimous."

"If we have to lock them out, we lock them out. It's that simple."

"I believe wholeheartedly in the revenue concept. I know it works for everyone in baseball, and the players and agents love it. Hopefully, our union will be so wise to agree to what'll do for them."

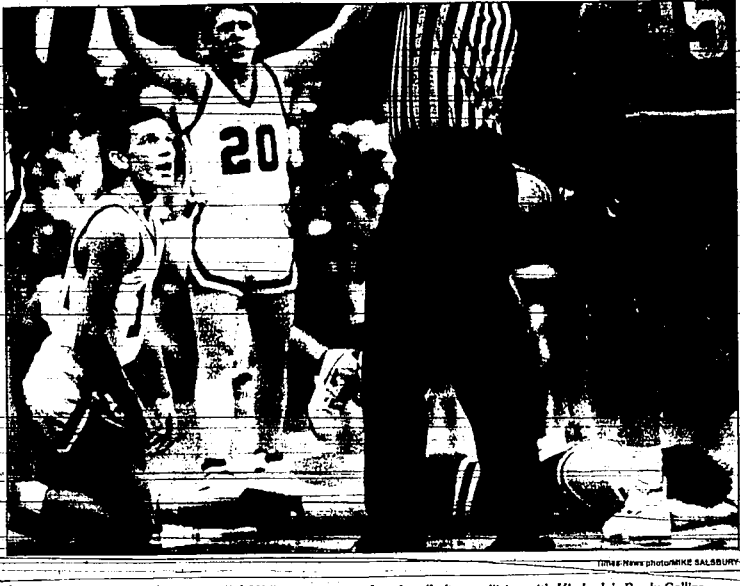

"I know this, if the current system does not change, everybody will go broke, and we'll be in the same shape as we were four to five years ago."

Informed that a lockout vote had already been taken, Don Fehr, the union's executive director, said:

"I'm not surprised. It just reinforces the notion that this is all a sham."

"I mean, I've assumed there will be a lockout and I've assumed it since the clubs began beating the drums for it more than a year ago. I assume Chuck O'Connor (general counsel of the owners' Player Relations Committee) wouldn't be shooting his mouth off if he didn't know that he had the support of the owners."

O'Connor has repeatedly said that the camps will not open if the union does not agree to the concept of revenue sharing by Feb. 15.

Valley romps over Kimberly, 73-46

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

HAZELTON — Between the time Randy Collins opened the scoring for Kimberly from three-point range and reserve Mike Young got their final three in the same manner Friday became a very long night for the Bulldogs.

Valley's fourth-ranked Vikings, aided by the 21-point scoring of senior point guard Dave Black, blasted to a 73-46 Canyon Conference victory that all but wrapped up both the conference title and attending bye in the district tournament, which opens in Wendell on Feb. 12.

In winning their 15th of the year against one loss the fourth-ranked Vikings improved place Kimberly, which was ranked No. 5 in Class A-3 basketball in the latest Associated Press poll, fell to 14-3 and 7-2, respectively.

Black and Chuck Springer offset Collins' early offering although 6-foot-5-inch Bulldog senior center Kelly Holcomb restored the lead on a putback three minutes into the contest and Brad McDougal followed suit a half-minute later to make it 7-0.

The Bulldogs, 6 of 30 in the half and 15-for-63 on the evening, were destined to add just three more baskets before intermission.

"Hey, when we score six field goals in the first half — we don't have the individual talent that Valley has," moaned Kimberly coach Randy Potter. "There a good team."

For Valley, the first good news was a 3

NFL teams let Williams, Kramer, 488 other players go to free agent market

By HAL BOCK
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Keena Turner, Mike Wilson and Eric Wright, who played on all four of the San Francisco 49ers Super Bowl champions, were left available to other teams as free agents in the NFL's Jan. 8 marketplace Friday.

The 49ers also failed to protect tight end Brent Jones, who caught a touchdown pass in the 55-10 Super Bowl rout of Denver, and punter Barry Helton. The AFC champion Denver Broncos left three regular off their protected list, linebacker Rick Dennison, tight end Clarence Kay and punter Mike Horton.

The list of 490 players released by the NFL includes several well-known names, many of them high-salaried veterans, some coming off injuries, some retiring.

They included several prominent quarterbacks — Doug Williams of Washington, the 1982 Super Bowl most valuable player who has been bothered by injuries the past two seasons; Tommy Kramer of Minnesota, Tom Jovanovics of Kansas City and ex-Houston Trophy winner Doug Elutie of New England.

The players may sign with any other

Turner, Wilson and Wright tight with other teams, it would leave quarterback Joe Montana and safety Ronnie Lott as the last 49ers to leave played on all the championship teams. Turner is a linebacker, Wilson a wide receiver and Wright a two-time Pro Bowl defensive back who lost his starting job last season.

Altogether, the 49ers put 20 players on their Plan B list, including nose tackle Jim Burt, linebacker and special teams player Steve Henderson, defensive end Pete Kuhar, running back Harry Sydney, guard

Terrell Tausch and running back Spencer Tillman. But signed with the 49ers after retiring briefly last year when he was left unprotected by the New York Giants and went unsigned by any one else.

Denver's list included running back wide receiver Ken Bell, guard Keith Bishop, linebacker Scott Curtis, defensive back Mike Hyman, linebacker Bruce Klostermann, linebacker Tim Lucas, center Mike Ruetlicher and running back Sammy Winder. Also left unprotected was running back Tony Dosssett, the NFL's second all-time leading rusher who recently announced his retirement.

Two former Boise State stars, inside linebacker John Rade and defensive tackle Markus Koch, were left unprotected by the Atlanta Falcons and the Washington Redskins, respectively.

POCATELLO (AP) — Brian Sullivan scored 16 points and Greg Olson added 13 to help Eastern Washington hand Idaho State its sixth straight loss 79-64 in Big Sky Conference play Friday night.

Sullivan's basket with 9:09 remaining in the game gave the Eagles a 57-55 lead and the Bengals never recovered.

The Eagles (13-8 and 1-3) put on a balanced second-half scoring attack with Olson, David Peed, Greg Trygstad and Ronn McMahon scoring eight points each while Sullivan scored nine.

Idaho State (4-15 and 1-8) opened with promise as Steve Garrity scored 12 of his 20 points in the first half and the Bengals led 35-28 at halftime.

Eastern Washington staged a 9-0 run early in the second half to take control. Olson scored with 14:33 left in the game as the Eagles took their first lead, 43-42.

Record field expected for Boulder Mountain Tour

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

KETCHUM — A field of record size is expected to participate in the 15th Annual Boulder Mountain Tour cross-country ski race today in the hills north of here.

Although race organizers did not have a full count as of Friday, they expected entries to top last year's total of 594. It is by far Idaho's largest cross-country race and one of the biggest in the country.

The 30-kilometer (18.6-mile) event will be run on a course from Galena Lodge off Idaho Highway 75 north of here to the headquarters of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

John Aalberg of Salt Lake City, the defending champion, and U.S. Ski Team ace August Endestad, last year's runner-up, will participate again this year, along with defending women's champion Rosanne Toly of Park City, Utah.

At stake is a record purse of $3,000 in cash and training grants, in addition to product prizes.

Although the race is headed by marquee names, most of the participants are recreational skiers concerned more with skiing than racing.

Organizers had feared that sparse snow conditions might force the shortening of the race to 20 kilometers, but the Kachium area received more than 18 inches of snow last weekend allowing the race will be run on its traditional course.

The event is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

The race is sponsored by Gatorade.

The Boulder Mountain Tour will be run in conjunction with the U.S. Ski Association's National Masters' Cross Country Championship, which begins Sunday.

Cunningham leads highest-paid NFL players; top 7 are QBs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Randall Cunningham is the highest paid player in the National Football League, averaging $2,562,857 a year, according to a salary survey compiled by the NFL Player's Association that the Baltimore Sun published in today's editions. The top seven players were quarterbacks. Philadelphia defensive lineman Reggie White is the highest paid non-quarterback, making an average $1,512,500 a year, the survey said.

Cleveland Browns quarterback Bernie Kosar was second at an average $2,328,571 a year, followed by Denver quarterback John Elway, listed at $2,116,667 a year.

The figures were contained in 10 salary surveys, one for each position, compiled by the NFLPA and distributed to NFL players. Copies of all 10 surveys were obtained by the San Diego Tribune and The Sun. The Sun reported today.

Cunningham signed a five-year, $15.4 million extension last year that included a $3 million signing bonus. Kosar signed a six-year, $15.3 million extension last year, including a $3.1 million signing bonus. When the bonus is tacked onto his $1 million base for 1989 in his old contract, he had a seven-year package of $16.3 million for an average of $2,328,571.

Following Elway in the top 10 were Houston quarterback Warren Moon, $2,000,000; San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana, $1,990,000; Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman, $-839,500; Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly, $1,600,000; White; Buffalo defensive lineman Bruce Smith, $1,500,000, and Miami quarterback Dan Marino, $1,500,000.

than market expectations of about 160,000 jobs, analysts said. The market had declined sharply last month, as the Dow industrials fell more than 210 points.

But the government said the strong job-growth figures might be exaggerated because many January weather-related idling jobs fell in December. It is tough to seasonally adjust job totals for construction and other industries affected by weather. Delays in the reporting of post-Christmas layoffs in retail trade also may have skewed the numbers, the government said.

The employment report also showed a continuing slump in the construction and mining jobs fell by 112,000 last month, with 90,000 of the losses suffered by the struggling auto industry. It was the 10th straight month manufacturing jobs declined.

Nonetheless, analysts said the data, while suggesting the economy continued to slow, also indicated that the economy may be breaking out of its recent doldrums.

The market first reacted negatively to the jobs data in response to a slide in the bond market but quickly bounced back after digesting the data.

Traders said renewed merger activity also helped revive takeover stocks. In particular, drug and biotechnology stocks got a boost from news that Roche Holdings would acquire a majority stake in Genentech Corp.

Despite the rally, the market traced some of its gains late in the day as investors remained cautious ahead of next week's $30 billion Treasury refunding, which could provide a better clue about the prospects for interest rates.

Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 195.42 million shares.

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market increased 523.358 billion, or 0.74 percent, in value.

The NYSE's composite index of all listed common stocks rose 1.23 to 182.75.

Among actively traded issues on the NYSE, Genentech, the most active stock, rose 3/4 to 29 1/2, on news that Roche Holding's would acquire a majority stake in the company. Philip Morris rose 3/4 to 38 1/2, AT&T advanced 1/2 to 39 1/2.

Chrysler, meanwhile, ended down 1/4 at 16, Harecourt Bank declined 1/2 to 21, Bristol Myers dropped 1/4 to 52 1/2, while IBM ended up 1/4 at 98 1/2 and General Motors ended unchanged at 41 1/2.

Standard & Poor's industry stock index advanced 2.13 to 330.92.

The NASDAQ composite index of the 4,457 companies on the American Stock Exchange, the market value closed at 353.56, up 2.16.
