Soviet Asia riots spreading

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Rioting in Soviet Central Asia spread on Friday to Uzbekistan, where members of the Muslim majority fought ethnic Armenians in the fabled city of Samarkand, Radio Moscow reported.

Reinforcements of Interior Ministry troops were sent in and a curfew imposed, the state radio said, but quoted its Interfax news service as saying rallies and demonstrations continued.

Telephone calls from Moscow to Samarkand did not go through.

Radio Moscow's midnight report on the "intercommunal rioting" contained no details and no one answered the telephones at Uzbekistan's official news agency Uztaq in Tashkent, capital of the republic.

Violence in Uzbekistan follows seven days of unrest in the neighboring Central Asian republic of Tadzhikistan, a predominantly Moslem region bordering China and Afghanistan where 20 people were killed and 568 wounded, by Interior Ministry count.

Tass, the official news agency, reported earlier Friday that inflammatory leaflets had appeared in areas of Uzbekistan bordering Tadzhikistan.

"The leaflets demanded the immediate eviction of Russians from Central Asia," Tass said.

They denounced the alleged resettlement in Uzbekistan of refugees from Azerbaijan, presumably Christian ethnic Armenians, who were fleeing the two years of ethnic warfare in the Caucasus, the agency reported.

It was not clear what started the riots in Samarkand, an ancient city conquered by Alexander the Great in 329 B.C., but rumors of apartments being given to Armenian refugees also started the riots Tadzhikistan's capital, Dushanbe, the night of Feb. 10.

Samarkand, about 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow, has a population of 390,000.

Wind whips dust over Magic Valley

Hailey, Ketchum hit by heavy snow from Friday storm

By ANITA DENNIS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Any dreams that the mild winter would thaw into an early spring were literally blown away Friday, as gusts of wind up to 50 mph ripped through the Magic Valley and snow deluged the Wood River Valley.

The weather closed only one highway, U.S. Highway 20 through Blaine and Carnas counties, but sheriff's departments reported that wind-driven dust had hampered visibility on other roads.

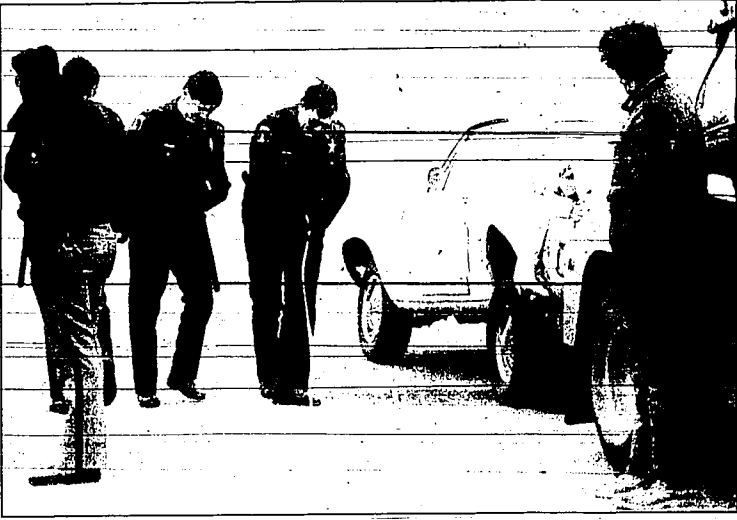

There were no major accidents, according to sheriff's offices. The Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department responded to four wind-related accidents Friday morning and Filer, noon, Deputy Dave Cline said. A three-car collision on U.S. Highway 30 just east of Filer closed the highway in both directions for about an hour, he said.

The accident occurred at 12:32 p.m., Cline said. All three cars were eastbound on Highway 30, about a half-mile east of Filer, when dirt blown across the road reduced visibility to nothing, he said.

"The driver of the first car, Dale York of Filer, slowed and was hit from behind by a vehicle driven by Pete Benedictus, Jr., 18, of Twin Falls, Cline said. Benedictus was in turn hit by a car driven by Marilyn K. Fisher of Filer.

Each driver was treated and released from the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, a nursing supervisor said.

The highway was closed between 2300 East and the edge of Filer until the accident was cleared, Cline said.

Idaho State Police officers work in gusty wind and dust at the scene of a four-vehicle accident east of Filer. The other three accidents were all on Pole Line Road or Highway 30 between Twin Falls and Filer, Cline said. A car and truck collided; a camper shell blew off a pickup and hit a car; and a car was blown into a power pole, he said.

The Twin Falls airport tower reported gusts from 30 to 50 mph Friday afternoon, Hailey reported 22 inches of snow, and Sun Valley reported 14 inches of snow Friday, a spokesman at the National Weather Service in Boise said. It was "still snowing hard" Friday evening, he said.

The roads in Ketchum were "the worst I've seen them," Ketchum firefighter Rob Parsons said. He said there were a few fender benders in the city but no major accidents.

A Blaine County sheriff's dispatcher reported a few cars had slid off the road, but said there were no injury accidents.

Friday's wind in the Magic Valley was caused by a low-pressure front along the Washington Coast, according to the National Weather Service in Boise.

The Weather Service expects the wind to continue blowing from 15° to 25° mph today. Up to 4 inches of snow is also forecast.

Storms pummel nation with floods, snow, ice

By The Associated Press

Flooding forced hundreds of Southerners to evacuate Friday after thunderstorms generated tornadoes and up to 10 inches of rain, while a strong Pacific storm swept inland after dumping up to 3 feet of snow in the Sierra Nevada.

"All of a sudden the roof went one way and the floor went the other way," Frank Higginbotham said of a tornado that struck his home Friday morning in Alabama. "I cradled my daughter to my chest and we were blown through the wall into another room." He had a bump on his head; his daughter was unhurt.

Thousands of customers still had no power in the Midwest and Northeast after snow and ice storms. "Hot wires are falling all over the place," said police dispatcher Rosemarie Million in Erie, Pa.

Even sled dog races scheduled this weekend in Truckee, Calif., were postponed because of the blinding snow.

In the Northwest, the snowstorm closed more than 70 miles of Interstate 80 — the main east-west route across California's Sierra Nevada — in both directions from Auburn, the California Highway Patrol reported.

At Incline Village, Nev., on Lake Tahoe, Diamond Peak spokeswoman Lee Weber said the resort had received 3 feet of new snow by midmorning and had blizzard conditions.

"The storm's sure to hurt the holiday traffic in it, but some people can't leave either," said Susan Hill of the Reno News Bureau.

Wind clocked at 45 mph and low visibility at San Francisco International Airport closed two of four runways, causing delays of at least 20 minutes for arriving and departing aircraft, reported spokesman Ron Wilson.

On the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, the storm swept into the Reno-Carson City area, snarling traffic, closing schools and shutting down the Reno airport.

Driving conditions were poor across parts of Oregon and schools were closed over a wide area of western Oregon. Traffic was delayed as long as five hours on Interstate 5 over the Siskiyou Summit, where chains were required to navigate a foot of new snow.

One man apparently drowned Friday in a raging North Carolina river and one was missing in Georgia. Traffic accidents on ice and snow had killed at least 11 people since Wednesday — four each in Kansas and Minnesota, two in Michigan and one in Missouri.

In Georgia, a tornado destroyed 15 homes and injured 11 people in Carrollton, the National Weather Service confirmed.

And authorities said as many as 1,000 people were evacuated Friday from Triun in northwestern Georgia after 10 inches of rain fell in 15 hours and the Chattooga River rushed out of its banks.

Authorities could not determine if a dam on the Chattooga at Triun had burst because "it's 10 feet under water and the currents are so fast going across it that they can't see the dam," said Chattooga County sheriff's deputy Tommy Owing.

Schools were closed in Chattooga and other counties of northwestern Georgia.

In McCalysville, in extreme northern Georgia near the Tennessee border, the Toccoa River washed over its banks and

Reagan grilling for trial video goes on today

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Former President Reagan, known as the great communicator, went before cameras in a new role Friday — explaining during sworn court testimony what he knew about the Iran-Contra affair.

Reagan smiled and waved but didn't speak to reporters as he entered the federal courthouse Friday morning to give a videotaped deposition in the trial of his former national security adviser, John Poindexter.

Poindexter goes on trial March 5 on charges of concealing from Congress Oliver North's assistance to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels and lying about a 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran.

Poindexter entered the courtroom a few minutes before Reagan, flanked by a half-dozen lawyers and legal aides, who had in tow a red cart with boxes of documents.

The two exited separately about 6½ hours later, again ignoring shouted questions from the crush of reporters waiting outside.

U.S. District Judge Harold Greene told reporters Reagan would be questioned again today. The former president was to return to court at 9:45 a.m. on the beginning of the Presidents Day holiday weekend.

"It's hard to tell, but we'll be finished by lunch," Greene said when asked how many more questions Reagan had to answer.

The public was barred from the session, in

Senate sends open school enrollment bill to House

The Associated Press

BOISE — Legislation giving parents the opportunity to enroll their children in schools outside the district they live in and not pay any additional tuition has cleared the Idaho Senate, and its chief sponsor is predicting success in the House.

On a 30-9 vote Friday, the Senate endorsed the measure being pushed by Rep. Herm Steger, R-Boise.

Education Chairman Jerry Thorne, R-Nampa, had to overcome warnings that open enrollment was another part of the conspiracy to force consolidation of small rural school districts and would lead to widespread recruiting of star athletes.

"Parental choice, that's what this really amounts to," Thorne said. "There are some concerns with this bill, but basically it's a starting place."

Steger called the Senate vote the toughest hurdle for the bill, and he said it was likely the measure would pass the House.

300 sign to testify — A3

If enacted, the open enrollment option would become available in the 1991-1992 school year.

Five Democrats — John Peavey of Carey, Ron Beilschaper of Grangeville, Mike Blackburn of Coeur d'Alene, Mari Calabretta of Osburn and Marguerite McLaughlin of Orofino — joined Republicans Denton Darrington of Declo, Rex Furness of Rigby, Dennis Hansen of Soda Springs and Norris Hyde of Emmett in opposing the bill.

Democrats Don Mackin of Moscow,

Tim Tucker of Porthill and Ralph Lacy of Poateville did not vote.

Under the bill, school districts would have a choice of participating in the open enrollment plan and accepting students from outside their boundaries without charging tuition. But no district would be able to bar students from applying for transfer to another district.

Supporters maintained the concept, already being used in Minnesota, is not as radical as it might seem since Idaho already allows a great amount of choice. Alternative programs, which allow students in one district to benefit from special programs in others, have been in effect in a number of areas.

Couple hopes new infant will save daughter, 17, from cancer

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — A couple conceived a child in hopes the baby's bone marrow cells could save the life of a teen-age daughter who is dying of cancer, but ethics experts said Friday the decision is outrageous and troubling.

Such criticism means little to Abe Ayala and his wife, Mary. They found out this week that despite one offspring, their unborn baby girl will be a compatible bone marrow stem cell donor for their 17-year-old daughter, Anissa, who was diagnosed with leukemia two years ago.

"We've been searching for a donor for almost two years and we haven't been able to find anybody, so this is the only other alternative," Ayala said in a telephone interview Friday. "We can't just stand idly by and do nothing about it and wait for Anissa to die."

The Ayalas live in the Los Angeles suburb of Walnut with Anissa and a 19-year-old son, Airon. They were told that Anissa has a 70 percent to 80 percent chance of surviving if she receives a transplant of bone marrow cells that help produce various blood cells — but no chance if she doesn't, her father said.

None of the Ayalas have compatible marrow.

So against the advice of Anissa's doctor, and after years of resisting her wife's wish to have another child, the 45-year-old Ayala had his vasectomy reversed last year. Mrs. Alaya, 43, is due to deliver a baby girl in April.

ANISSA

If not for Anissa's leukemia, "it's true we would have never had another baby like this late," Ayala said.

"It is troublesome to say the least," medical ethics expert Philip Boyle said from The Hastings Center think tank in Briarcliff Manor, N.Y. "It's outrageous that people would go to this length."

"The ideal reason for having a child is associated with that child's own welfare — to bring a child into being and to nurture it," said Alexander Morgan Capron, a professor of law and medicine at the University of Southern California.

"One of the fundamental precepts of ethics... is that each person is unique in himself or herself, and is never to be used solely as a means to another person's ends without the agreement of the person being used," he said.

The baby can't consent to the transplant, and the parents face a conflict of interest in making the decision, the experts said.

The Ayalas' baby "is not seen as an end in itself, but as a means to another end. The fact that the other end is laudable doesn't change that," Capron said.

Anissa said Friday she is "sort of upset" by such criticism of her parents, but "we're going to love our baby."

Mrs. Ayala added, "Our baby is going to have more love than she probably can put up with."

Leukemia is a cancer of white blood cells.

U.S. trade deficit slips to lowest level in 5 years during 1989

The Baltimore Sun
WASHINGTON — The nation's trade deficit fell sharply to $7.17 billion in December, the lowest level in five years, the government reported Friday.
 The unexpectedly large 30 percent decline reflected in part a strong economy, which caused a substantial fall-off in demand for imports.
 For all of 1989, the trade deficit totaled $108.6 billion, the smallest gap between exports and imports since 1984, when it was $106.7 billion.

The 1989 deficit came down slightly from $118.5 billion in 1988. In 1987, the deficit reached a record $152.1 billion.
 Private economists expect scant improvement in the deficit for some time as the huge expansion of exports tapers off and imports, especially oil, remain strong.
 "On balance, we are probably stuck with deficits of $9.5 billion to $10 billion a year for the foreseeable future," said Sung-Won Sohn, chief economist of the Novwest Corp. Administration officials and the International Monetary Fund also have forecast only gradual improvement after 1989.

 The huge improvement in the December deficit compared to a revised November imbalance of $10.3 billion appeared somewhat overblown because much of the change came from an end to the 45-day strike at Boeing Co., which caused a surge in overseas shipments of commercial aircraft.
 Overall, exports rose to $31.1 billion in December from $30.4 billion in November. That included a rise of $744 million in aircraft exports.

 Sohn said, furthermore, that the decline of imports to $38.3 billion in December from $40.7 billion in November appeared to balance out an unexpectedly sharp rise in imports last fall.
 Nonetheless, economists said that the overall declining import level points out the drop in demand for foreign manufacturing equipment and consumer goods as the U.S.

economy falters.
 The economic slowdown was reflected as well Friday in a Federal Reserve Board report that showed the largest plunge in industrial production in nearly four years. It fell 1.2 percent, caused by a drop in energy use and a sharp fall in auto output. But even without these special factors, output went up only 0.2 percent last month.
 Last year, exports rose 13 percent to reach a record $364.3 billion. Imports went up 7.3 percent to a record $472.9 billion.

IDAHO Weather

Saturday, Feb. 17
 'Accu-Weather' forecast for daytime conditions and high temperatures

Summary:
 The National Weather Service says considerable moisture continued to move over Idaho from a low pressure system along the coast of Washington.
 Gusty winds caused blowing and drifting snow from the Magic Valley eastward to the Montana and Wyoming borders. Winds in the Treasure Valley of south-western Idaho have been blowing 15 to 25 mph.
 Snow fell over Idaho Friday, from the northern Panhandle through the central mountains and into the southwest. The snow activity was moving eastward. Some areas of heavy snow were reported in the mountains with 8 inches of new snow falling at Sandpoint and 6 inches at Idaho City at several other locations in the central mountains.
 Today is expected to be moist with locally heavy snow falling in the southern mountains and continuing showers in the valleys. By Sunday, things should begin to dry out at least briefly.
 The warmest temperature in the state Friday was 45 degrees at Laywell. Soda Springs reported the coldest at 9 degrees below zero.
 Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the highest temperature was 88 degrees at Lakeland, Fla. The lowest was 20 below zero at Craig, Colo.

forced an estimated 500 people from their homes, authorities said. No injuries were reported.
Just across the state line in Copperhill, Tenn., the Ocoee River ran out of its banks and flooded the business section of the old mining town of 400 people.
"It's the worst flooding I've seen in the last seven or eight years," said Police Chief Charles Bond in Eton, Ga. "Water in low-lying areas is 6 feet deep. One guy said it was up to the top of his pickup truck."
Roads were flooded, bridges were out and mudslides and rockslides were reported in several mountain areas in nearby western North Carolina, up to 6 inches of rain fell and the body of a man who apparently was swept away from his trout hatchery was found downstream on the French Broad River, police said.

A tornado touched down Friday afternoon in Robeson County, near Maxton, said Robert Ivy, a community relations officer with the county sheriff's department. Three trailers were damaged and one overturned, causing up to $15,000 in damage, Ivy said. There were no injuries.
Officials in Harnett County reported an unconfirmed tornado. Some schools were closed because of slippery, muddy roads. But students in parts of Transylvania County were held in school because driving conditions were too treacherous for buses.
An apparent tornado struck rural central Alabama early Friday, tearing apart a fire department building in Enterprise and destroying several mobile homes at Cooper, Chilton

County sheriff's officers said.
Flooding forced hundreds of Alabama residents to evacuate. Water was over the gas pumps of a service station near Baptist Medical Center-DeKalb at Fort Payne, where hospital workers used a motorboat and rowboat because a small bridge leading to the medical center was flooded.
Alabama's Shelby County received more than 9 inches in less than 24 hours and 30 people evacuated from two trailer parks that were under 6 to 8 feet of water had to be moved twice.
"We had them in an armory, but the water got so high there we moved to them to the Baptist and Methodist churches in Pelham," said Bill Klein of the Alabama Emergency Management Agency.

which Reagan was to answer 154 questions in addition to following-up that focus on his meetings with Poindexter. Then Reagan faced cross-examination by Iran-Contraprosecutors.
Greene allowed Reagan to give videotaped testimony at the federal courthouse near his Bel-Air area home rather than require him to appear in person at the Poindexter trial in Washington.
Friday's questioning, according to court papers, was to concern:

The president's knowledge of North's relationship with various individuals in the Contra operation and the Iran initiative.
 Whether Poindexter told Reagan of the status of Richard Secord who had enlisted to move supplies to the Nicaraguan rebels and who operated the network of offshore accounts known as the Enterprise to move money in the Iran-Contraprogram.
 Reagan's discussions with Poindexter regarding a chronology on a November 1985 Hawk shipment that forms the basis of four of the five criminal charges against Poindexter.

 Whether Reagan advised Poindexter to tell congressional committees they already had been given information about whether North was secretly assisting the Contras. The earlier responses were denials that North was raising money and "providing military advice to the Contras. They led to former national security adviser Robert McFarlane's guilty plea to criminal charges of withholding information from Congress.

300 sign up to testify at abortion hearing

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Legislature's hearings on abortion next week promise to be lengthy. They're scheduled for four hours on Monday and Tuesday nights. But judging from the number of people who have signed up to testify, that might not be enough time.

"The goal will be to allow as many as the citizens as possible to testify," said House State Affairs Chairman Pam Bengson, R-Boise.

By Friday, she said about 150 people had signed up to testify each night. They will be limited to three minutes each, but even at that rate, it appears the four-hour set aside each night won't be enough.

There are 13 abortion bills before the Legislature. After the hearings, Ms. Bengson said House State Affairs will start voting on them.

starting the week of Feb. 26.

Because there are so many bills, she said, the committee probably will take up two or three abortion bills at each meeting until they all are dealt with.

"They all will be brought up for a vote," Ms. Bengson said. "It will be obvious which bills have support and which do not."

Of the 13 abortion bills, 11 originated in the House and two in the Senate. However, the two Senate bills are duplicated by House measures. And an earlier abortion bill introduced by Rep. Myron Jones, R-Malad, is being dropped in favor of an amended version, so there actually are 10 abortion bills under consideration.

Ms. Bengson said they generally fall in three groups: One repeals the "trigger law" that imposes tough criminal penalties for abortions if the U.S. Supreme Court reverses its 1973 ruling sanctioning most abortions.

The second group seeks to ban abortions for birth control purposes.

A third group of proposals seeks to put the abortion issue before Idaho voters in the November election in the form of a referendum.

The hearings will be held in the ballroom of the Student Union Building at Boise State University. It can hold 750. Ms. Bengson said if more people attend the hearings, a closed circuit television broadcast will be set up in the adjoining cafeteria so more people can watch.

The 32 members of the House and Senate State Affairs committees will conduct the hearings. There will be a court reporter for the sessions, Ms. Bengson said, and a time keeper to strictly enforce the three-minute limit.

No questions will be allowed, to give people more time to testify. And Ms. Bengson said when the Senate State Affairs committee for final action, only the major proponent and opponent will be allowed to testify.

No demonstrations will be allowed. "If there is disruptive behavior or demonstrations, we will adjourn until decorum is restored," Ms. Bengson said.

New INEL head sees 'business as usual'

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The new manager of the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory expects "business as usual" when he takes over the reins of the nuclear research facility in April.

"I think what we will be looking for is doing our primary mission and maintaining institutional health. Whatever that is, we will do it," Augustine "Augie" Pirollo said Thursday.

Pirollo, 58, said he plans no major changes at the U.S. Department of Energy installation west of Idaho Falls, but hopes to maintain its high-quality image.

"I have a rule: If it ain't broke, don't fix it," he said at a news conference. "This place doesn't need fixing."

Pirollo was in Idaho touring INEL and acquainting himself with its staff. He will succeed Don Otte as manager of the Department of Energy's Idaho Operations Office. Otte retired in December.

Since 1975, Pirollo has been director of the Morgantown Energy Technology Center, an Energy Department facility in Morgantown, W.Va., where he manages a staff of 600 federal and contractor employees.

The INEL has nearly 11,000 employees, but the Morgantown facility also works closely with private firms and its 300 contractors are worth nearly $1.8 billion, almost double the INEL's annual budget.

Tax panel raise approved

BOISE (AP) — The House State Affairs Committee, which has battled recently over whether to raise the state minimum wage of $2.30 per hour, had fewer problems deciding to boost pay for the four members of the state Tax Commission by nearly $4,000 per year.

The committee voted Friday to give the tax commissioners 10 percent more — $43,725 per year, effective July 1. The measure still has to clear the full House and Senate.

Tax Commissioner Robert Fry, former state legislator from Horseshoe Bend, said because of "the knowledge and ability" required for the job, "the salary does not measure up."

Senate Affairs Committee nods Martin Luther King Jr. holiday

BOISE (AP) — Legislation designating the third Monday in January as a state holiday in memory of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. has been endorsed by Idaho's Senate State Affairs Committee.

The committee voted 7-4 on Friday to send the measure to the full Senate with a recommendation that it pass.

Proposed by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus in his State of the State address last month, the new holiday would remove Idaho from the list of only four states failing to recognize King with an official holiday. The others are Montana, New Hampshire and Arizona.

Joining John Peavey in support of the bill were Democrats Mary Lou Reed of Coeur d'Alene, Marti Calabretta of Osburn, Claire Wetherell of Mountain Home and Bruce Sweeney of Lewiston and Republicans Lee Staker of Idaho Falls and Melinda Smyser of Parma.

The Democratic minority needed Republican help to head off two alternative proposals — one for a Martin Luther King Jr. holiday replacing Columbus Day.

Budget writers give arts program 'elderly' funds

BOISE (AP) — More than half the money legislative budget writers saved by cutting Gov. Cecil Andrus' proposed expansion of in-home services for the elderly has been funneled into the state Commission on the Arts.

By a two-to-one margin Friday, the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee increased the governor's $85,000 recommendation for grants to arts organizations to $185,000 to bolster local activities during this year's statehood centennial celebration.

"Idaho has languished badly over the years in supporting the arts," said Sen. C.E. Blyue, D-Pocatello.

Applications have been running nearly twice the level of money the commission has had available in the past for grants that must be matched by local organizations. Still, programs underwritten with grants in the past year attracted more than 500,000 people statewide.

But the committee reduced the governor's recommendation for other commission programs by $35,000 — to offset part of that increase. As a result, the initial pieces of the draft budget for the year that began July 1 continue to run just below the amount of money Andrus proposed spending.

On Wednesday, the panel cut $100,000 out of the governor's proposed expansion of in-home services for the elderly in what appeared to be the start of a campaign to build up enough excess cash to finance some programs being pushed by Republican legislative leaders that Andrus did not recommend.

The committee's recommended disposition of a record cash surplus coupled with another recommendation for a state-worker pay package more lucrative than the governor's has turned what once was a relatively bright spending outlook into an increasingly tight budget blueprint.

State lotto security director leaves post

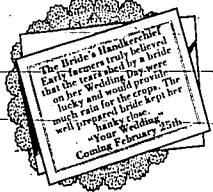

BOISE (AP) — The security director for the Idaho Lottery, Michael R. Best, has resigned, citing personal reasons.

Lotto director Wally Hedrick said Friday Best will take two weeks administrative leave before officially stepping down from the $32,800-a-year job he took in January 1989.

Best, 45, of Eagle, is a former Secret Service agent who was among the first appointments to the Lottery staff when it began organizing early last year.

Hedrick said Best's work in developing and installing game and facility security systems has been crucial to the Lottery's early success.

He said a new security director will be named in the near future.

AROUND THE VALLEY

Many offices closed for Monday holiday

TWIN FALLS — All government offices, except law enforcement and fire protection, and many businesses will be closed Monday in observance of Presidents' Day.

Schools, banks and libraries will also be closed.

Post offices will not have window or delivery service but mail will be picked up, sorted and taken that day to Twin Falls. Mail will be sent out that evening on normal schedule.

Most insurance agencies will be closed, but a few have chosen to remain open.

The liquor stores will be open for regular business hours.

Most local stores, restaurants and service stations will be open.

Sheriff's department reports no solid leads in rape case

JEROME — The sheriff's department has gotten a few calls but no solid leads that could identify two men involved in the recent reported rape of a local woman.

"At least people are looking for us," Undersheriff Mito Alonzo said Friday.

The sheriff's office wants tips from the public that could identify two men in a pickup who gave a ride to a 21-year-old Jerome County woman, whose car broke down Feb. 4 on Idaho Route 25 near Hazelton, and allegedly raped her.

The pickup is described as older, green and white, a 4-wheel-drive, and possibly a Dodge. It had three antennas and a 21 license plate, Alonzo said.

The driver is described as heaviness, with possibly disheveled blond hair.

The passenger is described as tall and blond, with an acne-scared face, bushy blond eyebrows and dirty teeth from chewing tobacco. He wore a baseball cap, Wrangler jeans, and a tan and brown down jacket.

Anyone who may have driven by, or who has information on the men or the truck is asked to call Alonzo at 324-8844.

Burley man pleads innocent Friday to kidnapping charges

BURLEY — A Burley man pleaded innocent in District Court Friday to charges of kidnapping and intent to commit a serious felony — lewd conduct with a minor.

Alvaro Irbe Soto, 26, appeared before 5th District Judge George Genate Jr. He faces charges stemming from the Jan. 26 abduction of a 9-year-old Burley girl.

According to the girl's previous court testimony, she was walking to school when a man in a pickup offered her a ride. She refused and began to run away, but the driver caught up with her, pulled her into his truck and drove out to the country. She yelled and kicked until she finally got out of the truck and ran across a canal and field for help.

Feds raise drug fight grants to Idaho by 170 percent

BOISE — The federal government this week gave Idaho more than $2.3 million to fight drugs—a 170 percent increase over the amount it gave the state last year.

The U.S. Attorney General granted the state $2,358 million for fiscal year 1990, according to a press release from Congressman Larry Craig. About two-thirds of the appropriation will go to local agencies, Craig says.

At the state level this week, a legislative committee declined Idaho Attorney General Jim Jones' request for $1 million for the same cause, according to a press release from Jones' office.

The Joint Finance Committee turned down Jones request 4-7. Jones said he will ask for $500,000 in the regular budget, which begins July 1.

Idaho Power says refinancing dam will save ratepayers cash

TWIN FALLS — Refinancing the American Falls Dam will save Idaho Power Co. ratepayers about $600,000 per year over the next 30 years, the company says.

The state Legislature has approved a bill that will allow redemption of high interest bonds sold to finance construction of the dam more than 10 years ago. New lower interest bonds will be sold.

The original bonds were sold at 10.78 percent interest resulting in annual payments of $2.4 million. The new bonds will reduce annual payments to about $1.8 million.

The Associated Press

BOISE — Former Gov. John Evans decided Friday that he will not run for the U.S. Senate.

"I am not going to be a candidate for the U.S. Senate," Evans said in a telephone interview, ending weeks of soul-searching on whether to make a second bid for the U.S. Senate.

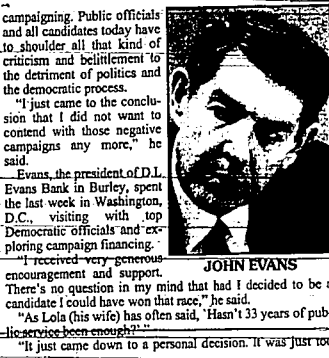

"There is no uncertainty about this. It is a very firm position," he said.

Several leading Democrats have announced in the past few days that they did not plan to run for the Senate this year. But as word of Evans' decision circulated through the Statehouse Friday afternoon, some of them said the announcement has rinded their prospects.

Evans, who served 10 years as governor, gave up the job in 1986 in an unsuccessful campaign against Republican Sen. Steve Symms. He was considered the frontrunner to capture the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat Republican Sen. James McClure will be surrendering at the end of this year.

He said the increasingly negative tone of the 1986 campaign helped him decide not to go through it again.

"One of the problems in politics today is the very negative campaigning. Public officials and all candidates today have to shoulder all that kind of criticism and belittlement to the detriment of politics and the democratic process.

"I just came to the conclusion that I did not want to contend with those negative campaigns any more," he said.

Evans, the president of D.L. Evans Bank in Burley, spent the last week in Washington, D.C., visiting with top Democratic officials and exploring campaign financing.

"I received very generous encouragement and support. There's no question in my mind that had I decided to be a candidate I would have won that race," he said.

"As Lola (his wife) has often said, 'Hasn't 13 years of public service been enough?'"

"It just came down to a personal decision. It was just too much of a family and personal commitment for us to make at this time," Evans said.

Earlier in the week, one prospective opponent, state Sen. Kent Briggles, D-Boise, declared that he would not run. And state Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, whose grandfather and stepfather both served in the U.S. Senate, said he will not run for the Senate himself this year.

Both could not be reached for immediate comment on Evans' decision.

Former legislator Ron Twilegar of Boise is expected to declare for the nomination. The only formally announced candidate for the Democratic nomination is Idaho Falls negotiator David Sneed.

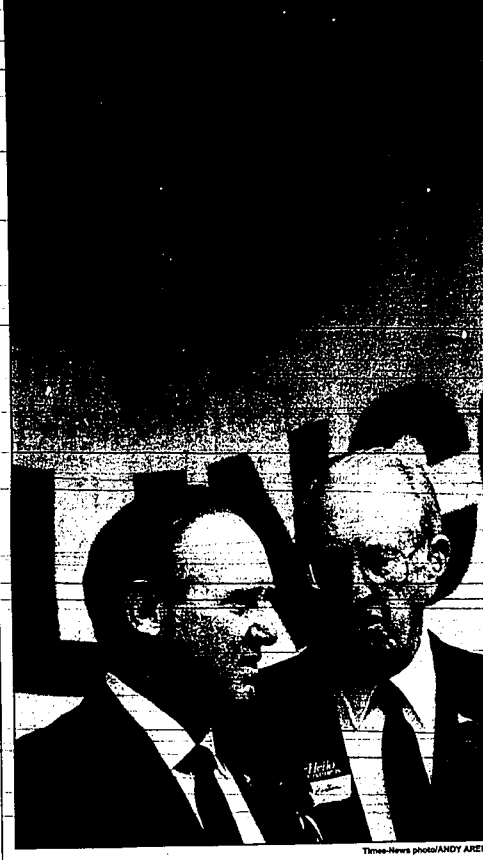

Idaho 1st District Congressman Larry Craig and Attorney General Jim Jones are battling for the Republican nomination.

Even though it is less than three months before the May 22 primary election, Evans said he thought there still is time for other Democrats to get into the race and beat Twilegar.

"I'm sure all of the ones that have been mentioned earlier will be super candidates," Evans said. "They've all been trying with the thought of running. This will give them the opportunity to re-examine their positions and they get to make the decision."

McClure honored at Lincoln Day banquet

By MICHELLE COLE

Sen. James McClure, left, and Gus Kelker confer at the Lincoln Day banquet

TWIN FALLS — In a room bedecked with campaign signs and white-clothed banquet tables topped with tiny flags and busts of honest Abe, Twin Falls County Republicans officially inaugurated the election year.

More than 200 local Republicans paid $15 apiece for the traditional chicken dinner and chery cobbler, for an opportunity to swap nominating petitions, and for the honor of welcoming retiring Sen. James McClure to their annual Lincoln Day banquet and rally Friday night.

Saying "the world is a different, better and more promising place than it has been in decades," McClure told the group that America's "firm resolve" in the military arena can be credited for bringing about the sweeping changes in Eastern Europe.

"Those changes were caused by the firmness and strength of the United States," which brought about a recognition in the Soviet Union that this country could not be defeated," McClure said.

Idaho's senior senator believes today's challenge, at least on the domestic front, "is to pass a balanced budget amendment which would require Congress to bring federal spending in line with tax revenues."

McClure was surrounded at the head table by would-be senators, would-be congressmen and would-be governors eager to win the hearts of the local GOP.

First District Congressman Larry Craig told the group that he had helped form a Saylor Creek working committee to bring the Air Force and citizens' groups together in order to seek common solutions on a proposed bombing range expansion at the Mountain Home Air Base.

"That's the way I work to solve problems for Idaho," said Craig, who was the first to announce his candidacy for McClure's Senate seat.

His opponent in the May primary, Idaho Attorney General Jim Jones, said he would lead the state in protection of water rights. Jones said he would also represent Idaho this spring before the United States Supreme Court in an appeal to set new standards for child-witness testimony in abuse cases.

Referring to Friday's decision by former Gov. John Evans not to seek the Democratic nomination, Jones said, "We won't have John Evans to kick around in this Senate campaign — and that will be a real loss."

Tax reminders startle some county residents

By KIRK MITCHELL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twenty years from now, old friends from the county treasurer's office might sit by a hearth sipping hot chocolate, and one will say, "Remember that day we sent tax reminders all over the county?"

And both will roll their eyes and sigh.

Thousands of Twin Falls County homeowners received cards in the mail Friday reminding them that they still have to pay half their 1989 property taxes.

Many of those people didn't know they needed reminding about something as inevitable as taxes, and they became suspicious and upset, Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said.

Hundreds of people were startled enough about the notices to call or go to the county house, County Treasurer Bonnie Brunning said. The office's three phones rang from the time people first received their mail to well after 5 p.m.

Hempleman said he fielded dozens of angry phone calls all day.

"It was a hectic day," Brunning said.

But county officials say the cards shouldn't cause people to panic. If you paid half of your property taxes in December, the second half isn't due until four months from now.

The cards were meant to remind people who legally paid only half their taxes in December that they still needed to pay the rest. But the remaining taxes are not due until June 20, which was not stated on the cards.

The only date mentioned on the cards was March 1. But that date pertained only to delinquent taxpayers who haven't paid the first half yet, Hempleman said. March 1 is when the penalty and interest listed on the cards will increase.

People who have already paid the first half of their taxes should disregard that date, Brunning said. If the card lists no penalty, that means the first-half taxes have been paid.

People who paid all their property taxes in December did not receive the cards, Brunning said.

This was the first and probably the last time the county will send such reminders, Brunning said. In the past, only delinquent

Twin Falls Clinic asks judge to overturn negligence verdict

By ANITA DENNIS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Clinic & Hospital has asked a judge to overturn a $180,000 verdict by a jury that ruled the clinic was grossly negligent in a patient's death.

In post-trial motions filed this week, an attorney for the clinic also asked a 5th District judge to grant the hospital a new trial or reduce the damage award.

"There is an alarming lack of evidence to support the jury's verdict," writes attorney Steven K. Tolman. "Further, the amount of damages awarded by the jury is clearly excessive."

A jury decided three weeks ago that the clinic was grossly negligent in the death of Daryl Manning, 67, of Rupert, who was hospitalized with chronic lung disease. Manning died at the clinic in April 1987, shortly after nurses disconnected his supplemental oxygen and tried to move him to a private room.

The jury decided one of the nurses was also grossly negligent, and that she must pay $300. Together, the nurse a clinic were to pay the family $4,500 in other damages, the jury decided.

The Manning family's attorney, Ken Pedersen, said he'd win the clinic's appeals. He said the jury's verdict was correct.

"I don't know how many times they have to be told," Pedersen said. "Maybe it'll have to be the Idaho Supreme Court."

In his motions, Tolman argues that Pedersen failed to prove the nurses or the clinic acted with malice. Nor did Pedersen prove that the clinic violated the community's accepted standards by not having a policy regarding moving patients who receive supplemental oxygen.

Prior to Manning's death, the clinic routinely moved patients without supplemental oxygen, but it mandated use of portable oxygen after Manning's death.

"But Pedersen said he doesn't need to prove 'harmful state of mind!'"

Gross negligence is a higher degree of negligence, he said. Moving a patient without supplemental oxygen is negligent, he said, and making it a practice is grossly negligent and deserving of punitive damages.

The jury agreed, he said.

Tolman also argues that the $180,000 punitive damage award was excessive. The award was 40 times greater than the jury's other damage award of $4,500.

"The disparity is grossly disproportionate, shocking to the conscience, and rather plainly appears to be the result of passion or prejudice on the part of the jury," Tolman writes.

An award of $13,500 would be more appropriate, Tolman suggested. But Pedersen said the jury's punitive damage award was fair because "it wouldn't mean anything" to the clinic to pay $13,500.

Plans to build new 4-bay Heyburn fire station taking shape

By DONNA SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

HEYBURN — Plans for a new fire station, possibly by the end of April, are looking good.

City Superintendent Paul Aston is helping draw specifications for a four-bay station designed in rough form by volunteers with the Minidoka County Fire District. The firefighters based in Heyburn are working out of a two-bay facility large enough to handle their two trucks but it doesn't leave room for training or clean-up.

The city plans to build the station on land it recently bought for $15,000 just east of

City Hall. The county will lease the site over the next few years to reimburse the city for the cost.

An early estimate on the new station, planned for 60-by-60-feet, is $55,000, City Superintendent Al Hodge said. The city has already budgeted for the building, he said.

Hodge told the City Council Wednesday the plans should be ready and bids advertised so the council could open bids on April 5.

A couple of local contractors who looked at the preliminary plans for the building said it could be put up in two or three weeks, Hodge said. "So we could be in it by the end of April," he said.

The building would have four bays of office space, a training room and two restrooms.

In other matters, several Heyburn residents asked the council about a sewer study for the city.

The city received a grant for a study of the sewer system's needs, but no plan has been developed for the project. The council would like to update the sewer system a little each year.

Mayor Harold Hurl directed Hodge to meet with CH2M HILL, the company conducting the sewer study, to obtain a cost estimate.

A public hearing is scheduled for Feb. 28 on the sewer system but that may be cancelled if the cost is not yet determined.

The city decided not to accept a bid on water meters. Only one bid was received from Water and Waste Water Equipment Co. for $80,145 for the meters and $8,947.06 for a billing system. The council decided to wait on water meters until they know what the sewer project will cost.

The council awarded the bid for a 4-wheel drive utility tractor to Mini-Cassia Equipment, which submitted the low bid of $19,800.

The city sold a used electric line derrick truck to the highest bidder, Dairy Electric, for $19,600.

Kellogg gets sales tax break on gondola project

BOISE (AP) — Despite reluctance on the part of some committee members, Kellogg spokesmen have won committee approval for legislation exempting the city's $12 million gondola project from sales tax.

"I think a sales tax contribution is something that ought to be left in place," said Rep. Stan Hawkins, R-Ucon.

And Rep. Jerry DeKard, R-Eagle, asked Cox and other gondola boosters why the Kellogg project should get special tax treatment when other cities get no exemption for sales and use taxes on sewer and water project construction.

Utah lawmakers, governor move to avoid statewide teachers' strike

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — While more than 15,000 Utah educators Friday voted on whether to authorize a statewide strike, Gov. Norm Bangert rallied lawmakers and education leaders around a pay package he hopes will persuade teachers to stay in the classroom.

The proposal offers all teachers a net $1,000 increase in their base or net percentage increase in their base pay, plus an additional 2 percent retirement and increases the amount the state pays for each student by 4 percent, a 1 percent increase over what had been offered previously.

Teachers may negotiate with their districts for that money to be added to their salaries.

More importantly, it gained the tentative approval of UEA President Jim Campbell, who said he would take his recommendation back to the union's board of directors Saturday as they tally the strike vote.

"That's a pretty good piece of change," the governor said. "That is without question, the largest infusion of money we've ever had in the history of this state into this program."

Bangert said the package was not condition on whether or not there is work action; the governor told reporters. "This is the action we intend to take, this is the package we've put together and we believe it's a good package and I'm pleased to recommend it to all of you."

Ada County commissioners defer from new $50 million courthouse

BOISE (AP) — The Ada County commissioners have approved March 20 ballot on a $20 million bond issue to solve the beleaguered jail situation.

The bond would more than double the capacity to 572 beds through remodeling and an addition. The expansion is projected to meet needs for 20 years. State law requires a two-thirds majority for a bond issue to pass.

It would cost the owner of an $80,000 home with a homeowner's exemption an extra $16 a year in property taxes for 20 years, county officials said.

Official gets cards printed in wrong language

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's secretary of state is preparing for a trade mission to China. But he wants it to be with business cards printed in Chinese, not Japanese.

Pele Cenrusa leaves next week with a trade delegation that will travel to Beijing, leaving San Francisco next Thursday for the Far East and returning in about a week.

"It would have been great for a Basque shepherd like me to be trying to meet with officials in China with cards printed in Japanese," said Cenrusa, a Carey sheep rancher.

Possibility of El Nino predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Changing water temperatures in the tropical Pacific Ocean may be signaling the start of a new El Nino, a climate event that could be felt worldwide, government scientists said Friday.

“The current situation deserves very close attention,” the federal Climate Analysis Center said in a statement.

The latest El Nino in 1986 was relatively mild, but one in 1982-83 led to weather changes that were blamed for 1,500 deaths and billions of dollars in damage across the globe.

“We don’t want to say something is developing that could be like that, because that was exceptional,” Dr. Vernon Kousky of the climate center said in a telephone interview.

Kousky’s office monitors sea surface conditions continually, and has learned the warning signs that an El Nino may be developing. Formally called El Nino-Southern Oscillations, or ENSOs, these events are characterized by unusually warm water conditions in the eastern tropical Pacific Ocean and by changes in air pressure over different parts of that ocean.

Water temperatures near the international date line have risen 1 and 2 degrees Fahrenheit above normal. While that may seem a small change, the slow rate at which water changes and the great amount of energy needed to warm such a large mass of water can make it a significant increase.

Years ago, when such changes tended to be first noticed by South American fishermen around Christmas, the phenomenon was given the name El Nino, which is Spanish for child, a reference to the baby Jesus.

The problem is relocating warm water from one side of the Pacific Ocean to the other. Normal conditions include strong easterly winds, which move the warm surface waters of the ocean toward Asia and allow cooler waters to rise up from the depths along the coast of South America. But when an ENSO occurs the easterly winds diminish or are replaced by westerlies, and the warm water sloshes back toward the Americas.

The fact that warm water is more likely to evaporate than cooler water means it has more warm air above it. Warm air is buoyant, tending to rise and cause its moisture to condense into clouds.

Molasses spill adds meaning to town's name

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — A mass of molasses oozed through two blocks of Colorado’s “Sweetheart City” on Friday after a storage tank ruptured, forcing a kindergarten to close and blocking several businesses.

No one was injured, but before the syrupy mess was identified, authorities took precautions against what they thought was a potentially dangerous chemical spill.

Waters of the spill reached authorities early Friday after a car spun out of control on a slippery substance and ran into a ditch.

City Manager Mike Rock said two young males were in the vehicle and “one of them told me it was like hitting glare ice. His windshield was so splattered with the stuff, he couldn’t see.”

The molasses was steaming when it escaped but it thickened in the 5 degrees below zero temperature. It flowed down a busy street, into an industrial park and on into an irrigation ditch where it ran for another half-mile, said police Cpl. Al Sharon.

“It gives a whole new meaning to the town Sweetheart City,” Sharon said. Sharon estimated the ruptured tank was three stories high and 30 to 50 feet in diameter.

SYDNEY OMARR

ASTROLOGICAL FORECASTS

IF FEBRUARY 17 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Current cycle features marital status, possible change of residence, perhaps necessary for forming partnership. You'll make public appearances, special success indicated in connection with women. Cancer, Capricorn people play important roles in your life. You are creative, stubborn.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You'll breathe sigh of relief in connection with money. Mood if for celebration tonight as you become aware that financial structure is more firm than originally anticipated. Romance is inviolate.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You might want to test adult obligation, but that won't be quite possible. You'll learn tonight there are ties, legal as well as emotional. If cautious, you'll gain strength, confidence. Inhibit!

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You'll be saying, "I just adore being adored!" Family member responds, evening features music, harmony, romance. Vigor is present, young ideas dominant. Major domestic adjustments will be featured.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You might be asking, "Why are people consulting me about property values?" You inspire confidence, many seek reassurance by being with you, obtaining guidance. You'll exclude qualities of mysticism, intellect.

"HE TOOK THE TELEPHONE BOOK IN HALF... ONE PAGE AT A TIME!"

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Less than 24 hours ago, you made contact that could result in profitable enterprise. Focus on integrity, responsibility, strong love relationship. Close relative cautions. "Take care!"

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Nov. 21): Stay far away from one who takes without giving anything in return. Money is involved along with prized possessions. Means guard the silverware! You'll be invited to spread influence, media involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasize independence, originality, daring. Cycle high make fresh start. People are drawn to you, many will declare, "I would follow you anywhere!" Leo, Aquarius people figure prominently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Unorthodox methods get results. Family ties valuable, but you do have your own life in life. Cancer, Capricorn, Aquarius natives play significant roles. Giandine management pays dividends.

APRIL (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Key is to diversify. Don't feel guilty about being "lighthearted." Experiment, satisfy curiosity by asking questions. Romantic involvement tends quiet, renews vigor. Sagittarius plays major role.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Check structure... architectural plans. Family member who attempts to dominate is in for date awakening. You are free now to take greater charge of your own destiny. Views will be verified.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You were premature in expediting settlement involving property, money. By tonight, however, you'll have legitimate reason to be optimistic. Member of opposite sex helps gain facts, figures.

What's what

Q: Are there pink hippos?
A: There are sunburned hippos. So, yes.

Q: What's the only Olympic Games event timed to the 1/1000ths of a second?
A: The luge - wherein one racer rides a sort of mini-bobsled.

The average sheep would live two years longer than the average goat, if you'd let them.

ANOTHER CAPITAL
Q: Wasn't Mount Vernon, N.Y., once the capital city of the United States?
A: Unofficially, it so served for two months in 1797. When President John Adams moved to his daughter's home there to get away from a yellow fever epidemic.

Some cigarettes still insist those who smoke cigarettes too, so inhale less cancer-causing tar.

By law, you can't "ride an ugly horse" in Londonderry, Nova Scotia.

Q: What's an "ent"?
A: A 2-year-old canary.

Despite praise, some questions remain following drug summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush won Democratic applause Friday for attending the Colombia drug summit, but there were lingering questions about the meeting's achievements and its deliberate avoidance of areas of dispute.

"I respect and admire" the show of solidarity with Colombian President Virgilio Barco, said Sen. Joseph Biden, D-De., chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

But while Biden praised Bush for "his courage and leadership" he called the president's drug policies misdirected, with too much emphasis on military assistance.

"This continues our policy of attacking the drug-traffickers but doing too little to stop coca growing by farmers, which is the root of the problem," Biden said.

The United States, Biden said, should focus on crop development, economic assistance, debt relief and trade policies that do not undermine legitimate exports such as coffee and flowers.

Controversial subjects such as the extradition of drug suspects and increased U.S. military involvement in the drug war were largely ignored when Bush met Thursday with the leaders of Colombia, Bolivia and Peru.

Likewise, there was no discussion of any specific amount of increased aid from the United States, though the Andean nations clearly want more assistance and relaxed trade policies.

The summit communique proclaimed sweeping goals, such as replacing the coca-growing economies in Peru and Bolivia, attacking the production and trafficking of drugs and reducing the demand by users.

However, the document didn't say how those goals would be achieved.

National drug policy director William Bennett said many of the blanks would be filled in during bilateral negotiations with the summit countries.

"I'm not saying we won't have more difficulties (with the Andean nations) from here on. We will," he said, adding that the summit had been of "transcendent importance."

"It was the first time the four countries faced up to all the problems," Bennett said, calling it important for the South American leaders to talk about the "moral dimensions" of a coca economy.

Assistant Secretary of State Bernard Aronson called it a meeting in which nobody talked in stereotypes or clichés.

Bennett said there was "a lot of good-natured sparring."

Bush gave no hint that he was about to beef up the $2.2 billion, five-year Andean aid program already on the table.

"We're going to stay with that figure for now," the president said Thursday before returning to Washington.

Merely by attending the summit, Bush provided a dramatic gesture of support for Barco and his unrelenting battle against the drug lords.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, called Bush on Friday to congratulate him.

Rangel, who had urged Bush to attend the summit, said it had been "a significant first step in the global effort to control the drug trade" and that the communique provided "a valuable framework for future cooperative efforts."

International terrorism down in '89
WASHINGTON (AP) — Incidents of international terrorism declined about 25 percent in 1989, in part because of a decrease in Palestinian activity, but attacks by Iranian-sponsored Shiite groups rose, a U.S. official said Friday.

"Iran believes terrorism is a legitimate part of foreign policy," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Preliminary figures compiled by the State Department for its annual report on terrorism to be issued next month also show a decline of about 27 percent in the number of fatalities from terrorist acts — from 660 to 485.

Man pleads innocent to 911 theft
CHICAGO (AP) — A 19-year-old Missouri man has pleaded innocent to federal charges he broke into the 911 emergency telephone network for nine states, then published information on its access to other computer buffers.

Craig Neider, a student at the University of Missouri, was indicted earlier this month along with Robert Riggs, 20, of Decatur, Ga.

Prosecutors said the two used computers to enter the 911 system of Atlanta-based Bell South, then copied the program that controls and maintains the system. The 911 system operated by Bell South controls emergency calls to police, fire, ambulance and emergency services in cities in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida.

Noriega gets Red Cross prison visit
MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega on Friday received his first prison visit from the Red Cross since the U.S. government agreed to treat the deposed Panamanian leader as a prisoner of war.

A doctor and a delegate from the International Committee of the Red Cross sought to ensure Noriega's treatment was in keeping with the Geneva Convention, said Jean-Marc Bomet, the organization's chief delegate for Latin America.

The details of Friday's prison inspection are confidential, but generally the procedure follows a pattern, Bomet said.

"This first visit is a very traditional task," Bomet said. "We first of all have a discussion with the manager of the camp or prison. Then we visit all places of detention, we see the facilities, the cells, the kitchen." After the tour and the talks with prison officials, the Red Cross meets with the prisoner, Bomet said.

First lady feels 'great' after surgery
WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Bush kept an active schedule Friday, saying she felt great following minor skin-cancer surgery that left her with a slightly swollen lip and a row of stitches below her nose.

The first lady was cheerful and energetic as she toured an interior decorating exhibit benefiting the Washington Home, a health care and hospice program with which she has long been associated.

Smiling, but not broadly, she replied "great" when asked how she felt following the outpatient operation Wednesday to remove a small basal cell cancer on her upper lip.

Regulators seize large Kansas thrift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regulators on Friday seized Franklin Savings Association of Ottawa, Kan., the state's largest thrift and one of the few S&Ls to participate heavily in futures markets.

To protect depositors, the Office of Thrift Supervision said it was turning the institution over to the Resolution Trust Corp.

"Franklin was operating in an unsafe and unsound condition likely to cause insolvency or a substantial disposition of assets," the thrift office said.

"Baltimore is the birthplace of the national anthem, which no one can sing, but it is the birthplace nonetheless. We shouldn't name the stadium after Babe Ruth because he was not an exemplary character. He was a womanizer who hit the sauce. I don't think the city has to name its newest jewel after that."

Wolves whip Hagerman 53-44 in semifinal game

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

JEROME — The third-ranked Castledorf Wolves secured themselves a place in the District 4 Class A-4 basketball playoffs next week with a 53-44 victory over Hagerman in the semifinals of the Southside Subdistrict tournament here Friday night.

"They'll be joined in the district clash with either the Pirates or Shoshone, who topped Raft River 50-40 Friday night in a loser-out game.

The Indians and the Pirates will play tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Jerome High gym to determine which team will advance to Monday's subdistrict championship game against Castledorf.

For the third time in their third meeting of the season, the Pirates took the lead on the Wolves, just to see it diminish in the second quarter.

Down by five points in the first quarter, the Wolves made their move in the second quarter. Castledorf tied the contest just a minute into the second quarter on a 3-point play by Jeremy Burgess and a Bill DeBoer bucket after he stole the inbound pass.

Mike Yarbrough had five points for Hagerman in the second quarter building the five-point advantage again, but the Wolves fought back, this time taking the lead for good.

Bruce Hahn, the Wolves' sixth man, had eight of his 11 points in the second quarter and it was his back-to-back buckets mid-way through the second quarter that gave Castledorf the lead.

"Last week was the first week that he didn't feel any pain in his foot," said Castledorf coach Andy Wiseman, about Hahn, who sat out most of the season with a foot injury. "He stuck with it and contributes coming off the bench."

The Wolves held Hagerman to six points in the third quarter and soon the lead was 44-34 after another Hahn bucket in the fourth quarter.

The Pirates made one last run, but fell

CSI men rally to overhaul Colorado NW by 115-88

By LARRY HOVEY

TWIN FALLS — Don't understand this score too quickly: College of Southern Idaho 115, Colorado Northwestern 88.

For the first 11 minutes you would have had great trouble identifying the nation's No. 1-ranked men's junior college basketball team. CSI went into the Region 18 contest with that designation but with nine minutes left in the first half, the Eagles were trailing the 2-11 Spartans 33-17.

With a surprisingly large crowd exhorting them, the Eagles starting breaking out of the Spartans dominance when Junior DaSilva, snapping a 0-for-4 slam dunk streak, blistered one through the next and scored a follow seconds later. So quickly did this one turnaround that in the next six minutes and 39 seconds, CSI took the lead

James propels Jerome to consolation final

By DAVID GOINS
Times-News correspondent

NAMPA — A new addition to the Jerome Tigers proved to be a very welcome addition Friday afternoon.

Freshman James made four steals and scored 12 of her team-high 15 points in the second half to lead Jerome to a 49-41 come-from-behind victory over Marsh Valley in the consolation bracket of the Idaho Class A-2 girls' basketball tournament.

Jerome, 16-10, now has a shot at the tournament consolation title in a 9:30 a.m. contest this morning in the Northwest Nazarene College gymnasium against St. Maries. The Lumberjacks beat Kellogg 39-25 on Friday to earn its way into the consolation final.

After an inconsistent first half offensively and defensively, the Tigers trailed 25-19. But James, who averaged 18 points a game with the junior varsity this season before being elevated to the varsity to replace the injured Erin Pringle, burst into the picture with a highly aggressive playing style.

The 5-foot-9, 9-inch forward, after sparking the Tigers with points and steals the entire second half, put in the clincher with 46 seconds left. After senior center Ginny Keyes rebounded a missed free throw, James scored a layup to give Jerome a 43-41 lead.

"As a freshman, she really helps us out," said Jerome coach Ken Wright. "She comes in and plays full bore."

The 15 points matched James' previous high of 15 in the District 4 A-2 tournament against Bliss.

"She's sparked us an awful lot," said Wright. "That about all you can ask of a freshman. And most of it she just gets by playing so hard. There's not a bunch of fi-

Bronco 2nd half surge trips up Bengals, 75-61

By DAVE GOINS

BOISE — Two three-point goals in the opening minutes of the second half gave the Boise State Broncos just the push they needed on route to a 75-61 Big Sky Conference victory over Idaho State here Friday night.

Freshman Pete Eisenrich hit the first of the two just 17 seconds into the half to break a 30-30 tie. Senior guard Brian King made another a minute later to put the Broncos (11-2, 6-6) ahead 36-30 before a BSU Pavilion crowd of 9,107.

"It really helped that Pete hit that three-point shot that got us going," said BSU coach Bobby Dye. "So many times this year we haven't play well in the second half. I thought we played very well tonight."

As a team, the Broncos made 28 of 37 free throws, including a 14-for-16 performance in the final five minutes. For the Broncos, who have struggled through the year at the free throw line, it was a good night.

"We've been working on that," said BSU freshman center-Tanoka Beard, who scored a career-high 25 points and pulled down seven rebounds. "It's (poor-free-throw shooting) hurt us in quite a few games, but we just keep on it. And tonight we really had to concentrate because we really needed this win."

The victory kept BSU in the thick of the race for one of six of the

Camas ends Bliss' state tournament dreams, 49-32

By JEFF HOSKISSON
Times-News writer

GOODING — The top-seeded Camas County Musershurs gained a measure of revenge Friday night as they eliminated the fifth-seeded Bliss Bears from the District 4 Class A-4 Northside Subdistrict boys' basketball tournament with a 49-32 victory.

"You've got to give them credit, they were super prepared for everything we did," said Bears coach Jerry Couch, whose Bears upset Camas in the tournament second round last Tuesday. "They were pumped and ready tonight."

The win puts the Musershurs into tonight's championship final against the Dietrich Blue Devils at 7 p.m. in the Gooding High School gym. It also guaranteed the defending subdistrict champion Musershurs a spot in next week's District 4 playoffs.

The top two finishers from those playoffs will advance to the state tournament in Moscow next month.

"It felt good. We had a lapse at the end of the third quarter but came back well," said Musershurs coach David Shirts.

The Musershurs' earned their championship berth on the strength of a strong defense and the scoring of Eddie Harness and Andy Frostenson.

Harness ended up with a game high 25 points, 11 of those coming in the first half. Frostenson helped the Musershurs cause by chipping in 14 points.

Camas' got things going early as they jumped out to a 6-0 lead on a pair of baskets from Harness and one from Clint

Wolf.

Shane Jensen got the Bears' lone basket of the first quarter when he hit a jumper from the baseline.

Camas, who controlled the game from the get go, got baskets from Tyler Ballard and Harness to end the first quarter of play up by 8 at 10-2.

The Musershurs' success continued in the second quarter as the outscored the Bears 10-3 over a five minute stretch at the beginning of the quarter.

The ability of the Musershurs to spread the floor on the offensive end and prevent the Bears from getting the ball inside enabled them to take a 25-8 halftime lead.

"With the 1-3-1 zone you have to spread the floor," explained Shirts of his teams' offensive success.

"Last time we played them we held the ball too long. This time we made the good passes and things opened up for us."

In the first half the Musershurs offense connected on 11 of 14 attempts from the field while their defense held the Bears to 3 of 15 attempts.

The third quarter saw the two teams trade baskets with the Musershurs upping their lead to 33-16 before an injury to Brian Pule caused play to be stopped for almost 30 minutes.

Camas (10-26 49-32) vs. Bliss (11-29 32-16) at 7 p.m. in the Gooding High School gym. Camas has a bye in the quarterfinals.

Bliss — Shane Jensen 4, 1-2 4 9, Shawn Jensen 5-0 5-14, Taylor 1-2 2-4, Victor 0-0 1-0, Pule 1-0 0-22, Overly 1-0 0-2, Uvase 0-2 0-16 22.

Three-point goals: Bliss, Shawn Jensen (4), Overly.

Both sides report progress in baseball talks

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball talks recessed for the weekend on Friday with the union saying it finally felt owners were negotiating seriously, and management saying discussions were at "an important juncture."

On the second day of the lockout of 1990, negotiators and players finished two days of what union chief Donald Fehr called "reasonably heated" meetings with Commissioner Fay Vincent.

The talks covered Vincent's nine-point proposal, which calls for a 75 percent cap in salary arbitration increases and a settlement of the three collusion cases.

Fehr, the executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said the odds of the union accepting an arbitration cap were "reasonably long," and Vincent said the union told him it "simply will not discuss" arbitration limits.

Yet Fehr said he thought it was a positive sign that Vincent substituted his plan for the revenue-sharing proposal.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

"What's too hard for a man must be worth looking into."
— Kenyan proverb.

Today's interesting hand was dealt at the 1989 Bridge Championship, at which four men's teams were competing for the right to represent the U.S. in one match, both stopped in four hearts for a difference of one IMP. In the other match, both played in six diamonds, only one successful, for a huge swing.

At the first table South took his spade ace, cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club. When no queen appeared, he cashed dummy's diamond ace, ruffed a spade and cashed the king and queen of trumps. Had trumps split, he would have cashed a club and claimed 12 tricks. When they didn't, he was forced to go one down. (He scored his small trump by playing three rounds of hearts.)

When Lew Stansby of Oakland, Calif., played the slam, the play was the same for the first four tricks.

However, when the club queen didn't drop, he chose a different line. Instead of cashing dummy's diamond ace and hoping for a 3-3 diamond break, Stansby played for a coup against East. He ruffed a spade, ruffed a club with dummy's ace of trumps and ruffed another spade. When dummy's ace and king of hearts were cashed and a heart was led from dummy, East was trapped. Stansby had won nine tricks and held K-Q-8 of diamonds and a good club, while East held J-10-6-4 of diamonds.

East ruffed with the 10, but Stansby overruffed and exited with a club, claiming the last two tricks with his K-8 over East's J-6. It was a well-played hand, good for a swing of 1,470 points (16 IMPs).
