Financial markets rallied and provided a double dose of evidence interest rates fell in response to the last economic growth and inflation-reports. Traders said the figures remain subdued.

Donald Ratajezak of Georgia State University.

A panel of 19 connomista employed by the nation's largest corporations on Friday predicted slow but sustained economic growth through 1991. The conomy, as measured by the gross national product, will grow 2 percent in 1990 and 2.6 percent in 1991, down from 3 percent in 1989, they said.

The forecast was released in Hot Springs, Va, where the nation's top corporate executives are gathering for a meeting of The Business.

An example of the three processing stages — finished, intermediate and crude — would be clothing cloth and cotton.

Despite the moderate report for wholesale prices last month, some economists remain concerned that inflation may accelerate this year.

Consumer prices, up at an annual rate of 8.5 percent in the first quarter, are rising at a steeper pace than wholesale costs.

Why the divergence between the two sets of prices?

Wholesale prices reflect only the cost of goods, while consumer prices are heavily influenced by the cost of services, which have been less affected by the cost of services, which have been less affected by the cost of recent months.

Court protects used product-sellers

BOISE (AP) — The seller of a used product is not liable for defects or hazards that may surface, if the product is sold in essentially the same condition as it was purchased, the Idaho Supreme Court says.

In its first ruling on the subject, the Supreme Court ruled 4-1 Thursday in favor of a lower court judgment against a lawsuit filed by an Ada County man who claimed the used mobile home he purchased from a bank was unusable.

Kenneth-M-Peterson-sued-Idaho First National Bank, now West One Bank, alleging that the mobile home he purchased for a light was unitabiliable because of the level of formaldehyde emissions:

With only Justice Stephen Bistine dissenting, the Supreme Court said it is clear that the seller of a used product does not face the same product liability as the manufacturer or distributor.

TWIN FALLS. — With medalist John Cook safely in the clubmoute with a one-over-par 69. Coeur d'Alene got big finishes-from Devin Nelson and Travis Thompson to claim the first-day lead in the Idaho Class A high school golf tournament Friday. — Meanwhite, for the second straight-year, the Minico Sparians, who hadn't won a weekly match, burst into the second day of the competition with a 297 — just two strokes behind Coeur d'Alene. Minico was last year's runner-up to Boise, which failed to make today's final four.

In the girls' division, Skyline, paced by medalist Lori Braun at 81, took the lead at 281, two ahead of Centennial.

The top four teams in each division will advance to the finals as a.m. today at the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course. That means the boys' titlist will come from among Coeur d'Alene, Minico, Highland or Pocatello. The girls' finalists are Skyline, Centennial, Bornh (291) and Idaho Falls (307).

Coeur d'Alene coach Jim Kraus was starting to feel some pressure when two of his first three men posted 80s over the wind-blown Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course. But when Nelson and Thompson showed up.with.73s, he became more expansive.

"was pretty nervous, but I knew we had good kids out there," he said, then added with a laugh. "But we also had a couple of good kids in with 80s."

JEROME — In the boys' division the District 4 Class A-3 track and field championships all came down to the final event of Friday. Four-time defending district champion Glenns Erry couldn't beat the record 3 minutes, 32.3 sec-onds posted by Raft River in the 1,600-meter relay, but did follow the Trojans across the thre to-edge past Murtaugh 92-86 for its fifth straight crown.

Raft River holding off Carey for fourth 48-42.
On the distaff side that same 4x400-meter relay meant the difference between first and second:

Carey, second in the 400- and 800-meter relays, pulled off the win, crasing a half-point deficit and squeezing out Filer for the second-place trophy, while Declo — whose foursome was beaten by the Panthers by .01 second in the finale — garnered its fourth district crown in a row.

The Declo girls amassed 96 points over the two days of competition followed by Carey with 74 and Filer at 68%. Again Raft River was fourth in the team standings at 43.

Because of the number of teams competing, the top four individuals plus the three best relays will advance to state competition at Boise State University next weekend.

Yanks trade Winfield for Witt, but Winfield won't go

SEATTLE — The New York Yankees tried to trade Dave Winfield to the Califor-nia-Angels on Friday, but the controversial slugger refused to go and the deal was sent to arbitration.

Winfield, who missed all of last season after back surgery, said he has the right to turn the deal down because he has been in the major leagues for 10 years, he last five with the same team.

The Yankees claim Winfield's contract contains seven teams he was willing to be traded to and the Angels are one of them.

The Yankees said the deal — for pitcher Mike Witt – will be decided by an arbitrator, but no timetable has been set. Until the dispute is settled, Winfield won't play for the Yankees or the Angels. Witt has 72 small-school golfers hadn't heard a lot about Priest River High School this season, but that changed Friday when the northern Idaho crew burst into a six-stroke lead over defending champion Jerome in the Idaho Class B golf toumament.

The two-time defending state champion
Buhl girls, with senior Tar Cantrell having a remarkable 78 for medalist honors, shotu 294 and took the lead on Bishop Kelly at 298 and Kellogg at 299.

The field-had mixed success on the-long Canyon Springs Golf Course, which wasmade more difficult by a strong wind.

The wind burt and helped indiscriminately, For instance, it cost local medalist hopeful Kade Wilson of Buhl a five-over par 10 on the 15th hole that is dead into the wind. The long-hitting Wilson saw the gale sweep two of his shots out of bounds and settled for an 81.

On the flip side, the long par-five 18th used it to score a pair of eagles there.

Priest River ended the day at 321 with Chris Blayne at 78 and Chris Martin at 79.
Defending state champion Jerome had a 327 with two members under 80.
The only other breaking 80 was Preston's Milt Yearsley, whose five-over par 77 carned him medalist honors.
With Priest River rather an unknown entity, it had been judged in southern ldaho that Buhl and Jerome might be the top contenders. But Friday's round started Jerome coach Dale Mowrer thinking.
"Two years ago in Cocur d'Alene they finished third," he recalled. "I think they must-have had a couple of sophomores.
—The trouble is you-don't hear about teams up north. Last year they missed the firstday cut."
Concerning that six-stroke deficit oning

Thetroune is you may north. Last year they missed the maday cut."

Concerning that six-stroke deficit going into today's final round, Mowrer noted "it's possible but I'd rather be six ahead of them than six behind. On this course, a 40-stroke swing is not unreasonable if you keep it in the fairway."

Concerning his own team, Mowrer said "we dign't play well but considering the conditions we didn't play badly either."

Cantrell's 78 just might have been the best round of the day as she handled both the wind-length problem and the putting undulations well.
"I've been in a bad slump" she explained of her 87 at the District 4 finals in Jerome last week "and I'm just coming out of it. I. shot a 75 practice round (Thursday) and I had a good attitude about today. I just came out to play the best I could."
"There was nothing exciting about the round. Just par golf. I stayed down the middle of the fairway and didn't have any penulty strokes. It's funny. I had a 78 at Jerome (on-the-first state day) last year but-learned in thirtden of the length of

-teame in third."

Cantrell said protecting the lead against Kelly and Kellogg "is going to be a tough match. It will go down to the wire."

Chasing Cantrell across winte medalist race were Sarah Brackenbusch of Kellogg and Madi Patterson of Gooding at 90 (Patterson won the playoff) and Nicolle Reinke of South Fremont at 91.

championship bracket it looks good for us," said Coach Ken Wright.
"Let's just say that I'm relaxed enough lonight that I'm not counting points like I was at this time last year."

The Tigers will have both sides of the boys' doubles covered with Ben Burdick and Junior Alonzo meeting teammates Lee Wright and Vichien Misri in the final. That is the power play of the championship charge. The mixed doubles team of Jeff Wong and Tami Bailey will play a Weiser duo for that title while Ben Skaug and Amy Minard are still in the consolation title hunt. The boys' singles will be a Fourth District affair with Jerome's Dave Perry meeting Wood River's John Driscoll in a rematch of last year's final. Wood River still has freshman Wolf vonLindenau alive in the consolation bracket.

"This is what we were aiming for when we lined the team up for district," said Wright.

 Ferry qualified nine individuals and a relay for next week's state A-3 meet.

 The Devils will go to Boise without a relay, but with the largest number of individual qualifiers at 10.

Included in that group are district titlists Forrest Andersen (110-meter, hurdles), Evan Nebeker (high jump), and Eric Andersen (discus)

While the 1990 district event saw some changes, Declo's Kristin Heward beating out defending intermediate hurdle champ Mandy Holland of Valley and Nebeker missing out after banging into a high hurdle, there were a number of outstanding performances.

Drought in Utah official

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - It's official: Utah is stricken with Otherait: Utan is stricken with drought.

But local water cars are making sure that supplies are protected.

"Our message is at this point that we have an adequate water supply, but we encourage people to use it wisely and don't waste it," said LeRoy Hooton Jr., director of public works for Salt Lake City.

Hooton's assessment is pretty cool considering above-normal heat has resulted in streamflows of just 39 percent of twerage.

"There's no question we're in a drought year," said Jon Werner, data collection office supervisor at the Soil Conservation Service, which has the last word on water conditions.

Following an unseasonably warm April, mountain snowpack melted away at record rates, causing streamflow projections for the 1990 irrigation season to be reduced by as much as half of last month's totals. Streamflow forecasts now range from 'IT percent to 65 percent of normal across the state, or an average reduction of 17 percent since last month, Werner said.

"Streams are peaking about a month ahead of normal this year, due to the early melt and poor snowpack conditions," he said. Many reservoirs will not fill this season and streams will reach extremely low flow rates very early in the season.

That means users who lack reserves may be faced with rationing early in the season.

That means users who lack reserves may be faced with rationing early in the season to stretch supplies, Wemer said.

But Hooton said there is plenty of water in streams along the Wasaatch Front now, and Salt-Lake City won't ration water unless conditions—become extinardinarily dry.

Such plans are effective and easy to implement. Hooton said the supply can flip-flop after major water users in the valley are asked to cut back and rotate watering schedules.

There are junk companies too, financed by junk bonds. There is plenty of junk analysis too.

A brokerage house analysis just issue grows enthusiastic about the demise-of the single-family home, as the American family's primary investment. Now, it suggests, people will turn to securities. The analyst contends that "adjusted for quality and price change, the average American homeowner is worse off toddy than he or she was in 1980." "Really?" housing people ask. In 1980, the median price of single-family homes was $64,000. By late last year, just before the decade closed, the median was more than $125,000, or close to double, an in-

"The reality of home price underperformance in the 1980s has been very slow to sink in, Many people clung (and in some instances still cling) to the expoctations of renewed appreciation," the manysis continues.
Perhaps they do; but meanwhile they have a roof over their heads and a foundation under their feet, which is more than ean be said for some of the junk companies that Wall Street recommended in the 1980s.
But why, bousing industry people ask, should home prices collapse or barrly keep pace with inflainor? Because, say Wall Street's analysts, housing has been priced beyond the ments of buyers. Prices must full to meet the market.

Maybe so, but isn't the market there? Those same analysts have been saying for years that millions of Americans couldn't afford houses; and it is unlikely that they will have disappeared at the very time opportuinsuppeared in very limit opportunity arrives.

But, the analysts say, the young-family builge that supported home—buying in the 1980s will flatten in the 1990s. Yes, say the housing people, and that means builders probably—won't build as many houses as in the 1990.

Aside from these considerations, the home builders point out other salient considerations that tend to support price.

Buildable land, the biggest single factor in housing costs, is not growing in supply. If anything, building and environmental todes may become even more strict: Labor cost aren't likely to plunge.

While people don't necessarily need stocks and bonds, and from time to time foresake the markets in time, they do need homes. Most people wouldn't be caught without one.

As for profits, merchandise margins were lower primarily because the company reduced its markup or merchandise to be competitive with other retailers, said spokesman Dave Marriott.

Expenses infereased in part due to inflation_Other factors, some related to the labor-management conflict, also played a role, the company said.

"A wise reserve seasons the aims and matures the means."

— Baltasar Gracian.

- Danidad

Today's interesting slam was played in a team-of-four contest.

One South played impulsively and $\frac{4}{9}75$.

lost the slam. Fran Beard of Dallas $\frac{1}{9}10.6.3$ and the better line that brought $\frac{4}{9}05.32$ much better line that brought success.

The diamond 10 was led at both tables, and both declarers won the ace. The unsuccessful declarer played two top spades immediately to discard the losing diamond. He then tried to establish the club suit. The club king was cashed, but East ruffed dummy's low club lead and ted a heart. South won, but regardless of how he played, the result was fown two.

Fran felt no Immediate pressure regarding her losing diamond: that down two.

Fran felt no immediate pressure regarding her_losing diamond; that could wait. And instead of cashing spades, Fran tried three rounds of hearts. Had they split 4-2, Fran would have discarded her diamond on a high spade and placed all remaining hope on a magic club position. When the trumps behaved nicely, the rest was easy. Fran the trumps behaved nicely, the rest was easy. Fran the det he spade jack, discarding a club. West won but had no effective hearts, a diamond, and two clubs to bring her total to 12 tricks.

That's why I can feel free to pen light hands, said her partner, Dr. John W. Fisher of Dallas. "She laway seets the most out of what I offer as dummy."

As the gards lie, 13 tricks are available via a finesse against west's spade queen. However, that would be a poor play indeed.
