Summit brings arms, trade pact signings

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush and Mikhail S. Gorbachev approved the outlines of a landmark treaty Friday for the first-ever cuts in long-range nuclear missiles and signed a pact to slash chemical weapons.

The world has waited long enough, the Cold War must end, Bush said.

In a major concession to Gorbachev, the two leaders signed a trade agreement that is politically important for the Soviet president, who is burdened by deepening economic problems at home. Also sealed was a five-year grain sale anxiously sought by American farmers.

The trade agreement is a step toward granting most-favored-nation status to Moscow, providing the lowest possible tariffs on Soviet goods. U.S. officials said they would not even send the treaty paperwork to the Senate for ratification until the Soviets enact a law protecting Jewish emigration.

The Senate is sure to stall approval of the trade benefits unless Gorbachev eases pressure on Lithuania, struggling to secede from the Soviet Union.

Referring to their storm-tossed meeting in Malta last December and the dramatic changes in Lithuania and across Eastern Europe, Gorbachev said "the turbulent developments in recent months after Malta have not led us astray from the goals we set together."

Bush said the nuclear-arms agreement was designed to "enhance stability and reduce the risk of war." It will require months of work to put the treaty in final form, but Gorbachev said he shared Bush's goal of signing it by year's end.

The final treaty will force both superpowers to cut their nuclear arsenals by about a third.

Heralding the pact to cut stockpiles of poison gas, Bush said, "Let this landmark agreement quickly lead to a global ban on chemical weapons." Negotiations are under way among 40 nations for a world-wide treaty.

We are making steps toward a new world, Gorbachev said. "The area of disagreement is being narrowed."

Midway through a four-day summit, Bush and Gorbachev sat down at a gleaming mahogany table in the East Room to sign an array of agreements. The two men were flanked by Soviet and American flags.

Barbara Bush and Raisa Gorbachev, who traveled together to Wellesley College earlier in the day, applauded their husbands' achievements from their front-row seats.

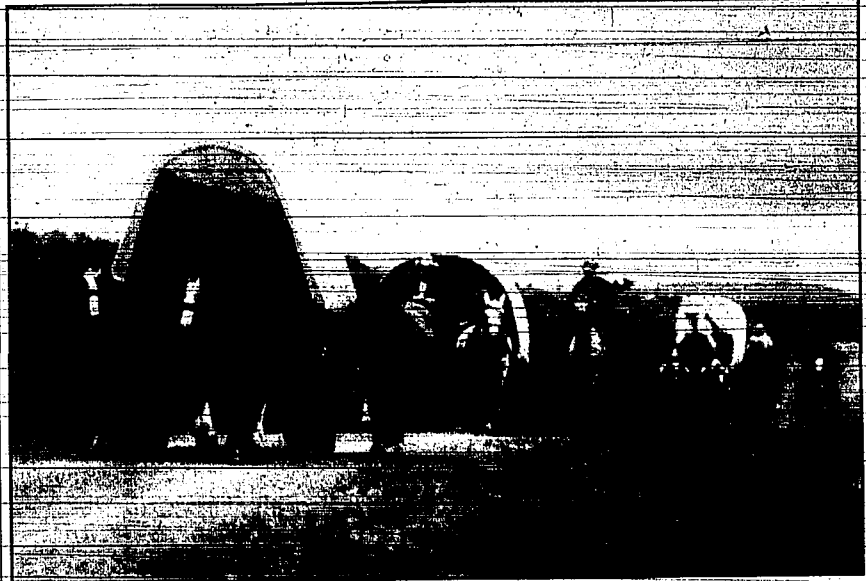

They capped the day with a dinner honoring Bush at the Soviet embassy. The menu featured roast duck, sucking pig and baked fish, accompanied by the best wines of the Soviet Union.

The televised ceremony ended a day of suspense and last-minute haggling and the spotlight from disputes ranging from German unity, European security, and reductions in conventional forces. The two men will talk again Saturday in the quiet surroundings of Camp David.

At a news conference later, Secretary of State James A. Baker III took note of "two areas where real disagreements do remain" — Germany and Lithuania.

"While we did not narrow our differences on these two issues, we did heighten, I think, our understanding of each other's concerns," Baker said.

As the day unfolded, the two leaders hit snags in the outlines of the nuclear-weapons pact and sent Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze into a harried round of talks.

Wilderness area negotiations commence

The Associated Press

BOISE — The first step has been taken in the state Legislature's fragile plan to resolve the long-running wilderness controversy through mediated negotiations.

But it took 75 minutes on Friday and reassurance from legislative leaders to the 40 people present before the broad range of interests could reach a consensus just on the procedure to be used to select the independent mediator.

Although the atmosphere was positive about prospects for finally reaching an elusive settlement of the wilderness issue, Idaho Cattle Association Vice-President Gary Clean acknowledged, "It would be nothing short of a miracle if everyone around the state agrees."

The negotiating plan, used with some limited success in other natural resource disputes, was initiated by House Speaker Tom Boyd and Senate President Pro Tem Michael Crapo in the waning weeks of the 1990 legislative session after it became apparent a wilderness bill drafted by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus and Republican Sen. James McClure was dead in Congress.

Conservation interests initially balked at the proposal on grounds that there was no way to bind the members of the congressional delegation to following any solution that might be reached, but they finally agreed to participate.

Legislative leaders hope it will finally yield a consensus disposition on 9 million acres of Idaho backcountry that has barred to development for a decade. Under even the most liberal preservation plans offered in the past, over half that land would be opened to nonwilderness uses if a bill could win congressional approval.

At issue in Friday's opening session was the membership of the mediator-selection committee, which the chairmen of the House and Senate natural resource committees wanted to keep small to expedite that initial phase of the process.

Some expressed concern that their exclusion from that first step would put them at a disadvantage as the actual negotiations get under way. But Senate Resources and Environment Chairman Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, assured the groups that any of the seven organizations seeking the mediator job have solid histories of fulfilled work.

As far as any interest gaining a negotiating advantage through its initial decision, Noh said, "This process of selecting a mediator is the least important."

Wellesley says first ladies really first rate

Knight-Ridder News Service

WELLESLEY, Mass. — Barbara Bush didn't really need any help Friday, but she brought Raisa Gorbachev along anyway, and the two first ladies showed the feminist skeptics in this year's Wellesley College graduating class that sisterhood comes in many forms.

"Who knows?" Bush told them. "Some of them out in this audience may even be someone who will one day follow in my footsteps, and preside over the White House as the president's spouse. 'I wish him well!'"

So what if she had used that line before? It was a perfect conclusion to a spring of controversy and confusion unlike Wellesley had ever seen.

It began when about a quarter of the 375 women in the Wellesley class of 1990 petitioned for another commencement speaker in addition to the first lady. They contended that their classmates had invited her for the wrong reason — the prestige of the man she married, rather than any accomplishments of her own.

The national reaction from public and press was no more than they ever could have imagined. Wellesley alumnae called them impolite and immature. Editorialists called them spoiled little rich girls. A Boston columnist branded them "whining, unshaven feminists."

Then Barbara Bush not only said she wasn't offended but asked if she could bring Raisa Gorbachev while their two husbands were conducting summit talks in Washington.

For some of the women at the school, Gorbachev's presence answered their complaints. They noted her substantial academic background, vs. Barbara Bush's

Magic Valley jobless rate higher in May

By The Associated Press and The Times-News

The central Magic Valley unemployment rate edged up slightly in May, but the number of people working continued to increase.

Nationally, the hiring of thousands of temporary census workers helped push the nation's unemployment rate down slightly to 5.3 percent in May, the government said Friday.

The Idaho Department of Employment reported a 5.3 percent unemployment rate in the three Magic Valley counties of Twin Falls, Gooding and Jerome. That compares to a 5.2 percent rate in April and May 1989.

"The weather impacted on us a little bit," Labor Market Analyst Lon McDonald with the Twin Falls

Employment Department said. "We're seeing a few extra folks laid off for one reason or another."

But the Magic Valley is faring well, compared to the Panhandle-Pocatello and Canyon County, which all posted higher rates.

The local labor force was 1,134 more people in it than the same time last year. And although there were 131 more unemployed workers than last year, 1,003 more people were working.

And the total labor force stands at 39,443 — continuing a steady increase in the number of people working and looking for work in the area.

The state's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate held steady at a two-year high of 6 percent as wet weather limited outdoor work and seasonal job expectations.

Mine shutdown leaves Camas County in precarious position

By MARK KIND Times-News writer

FAIRFIELD — Unemployed workers from a gold mine shut down by the state are in such financial distress that the Camas County commissioners have declared an economic disaster.

"Laid-off workers ... are unable to meet their domestic obligations and as a result are placing an extra burden on Camas County's services and financial resources, which are also more limited due to a lowered tax base," the commissioners' declaration said. "The county's largest employer, Camas Mine, has been shut down since March 10, when a tailings dam at a nearby gold extraction mill burst and polluted three streams, possibly with cyanide, said Robert Braun of the Idaho Division of Environmental Quality."

Commissioner Jack Renfrow said the Camas Mine and the mill employ 30 people with a monthly payroll of $120,000.

Precious Metal Technology Inc., owner of the mine and the mill, rebuilt the failed dam and then built a second one upstream, but the Division of Environmental Quality has not issued permits to allow use of the dams.

"We're simply asking them to do some additional engineering," Braun said. "It's very important to us that we not have another tailing impoundment failure."

Braun has issued a 22-item list of engineering questions the Department of Environmental Quality wants answered before it grants permits for the dams.

Mine owner H.P. Cash could not be reached Friday.

Renfrow said the upper dam was designed by an engineer and the state should approve it. The commissioners' disaster statement encourages Camas County residents and officials to "take all lawful action" to promote resumed operations at the mine.

"What we're trying to do is really put the pressure on DEQ to approve dam No. 2," Renfrow said.

On April 18, County Attorney Lavon Loynd filed papers seeking a court order against the Division of Environmental Quality to allow the mine to reopen. Loynd dropped the suit May 8.

The mill uses a cyanide extraction process to separate gold ore from rock. The March 10 dam failure poured "thousands of yards" of contaminants — mainly sludge — into Big Beaver Creek, Willow Creek, and Camas Creek, said Michael Mc Masters, with the state Division of Environmental Quality's Twin Falls office.

The mill is next to the Princess Blue Ribbon Mine, which has not operated for many years.

Liberia rebels close to capital

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — President Samuel Doe tried to appease advancing rebels Friday by promising not to seek re-election, and he pleaded with the United States and other allies to help end the revolt.

A U.S.-based spokesman for the rebels said they had dropped their demand that Doe be tried and stand on alleged corruption and atrocities. The spokesman, Tom Wroewiyu, said if Doe left Liberia, the insurgents would be willing to work with the existing regime to set up an interim government.

Doe said his comments were approved by Charles Taylor, leader of the rebel National Patriotic Front of Liberia that was marching on two fronts toward Monrovia.

Doe, threatened by the approaching rebels, told reporters Friday he wished to announce here today a firm decision not to stand for the 1991 general elections.

The main column of the 6-month-old rebel incursion has reached within 25 miles of the capital, Monrovia, with rebel troops camped near the international airport.

The airport remains open. A British Airways flight arrived late Friday, but an earlier KLM flight had difficulties finding ground crew to service the plane, airport officials said.

This capital city is already feeling the effects of the rebel incursion. Rice, a staple, is in short supply, many market shelves are empty, there are frequent power outages and there has been no running water for two days.

Rumors persist in this city of about 500,000 residents that the water supply has been poisoned by the rebels but water company officials denied this Friday, saying old pipes had broken but had not been repaired.

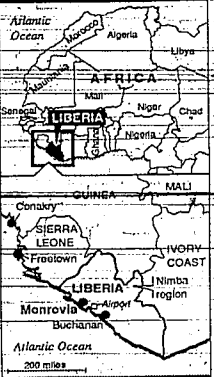

Rebel troops already control the country's main port of Buchanan, 60 miles southeast of the capital, and have been advancing from Buchanan and Kakata, 33 miles to the northeast.

Insurgents slain by government troops. U.S. Navy warships meanwhile were en route from their Mediterranean base to Liberia to evacuate Americans if necessary, Pentagon sources said Friday.

No appeal in computer case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday it would appeal the sentence of a suspended Cornell University graduate student placed on probation for paralyzing a nationwide computer network.

The Justice Department, which has sought a prison term for Robert Morris Jr., decided last month not to appeal the lighter sentence imposed May 4 by a federal judge in Syracuse, N.Y.

The decision was made after a recommendation by Assistant Attorney General Edward S.G. Dennis Jr., head of the criminal division, officials said.

Morris, 23, convicted of unleashing a computer virus in 1988 that paralyzed 6,000 computers linked to a government network, was placed on three years' probation, fined $10,000 and ordered to perform 400 hours of community service.

career as wife and mother.

In the end, the Soviet sociologist spoke superficially of the turmoil in her own country, and the American ones in the hearts of her audience, caught between ambitions for family and career.

She drew some of the crowd's most fervent applause when she said, "At the end of your life, you will never regret not having passed one more test, not winning one more verdict or not closing one more deal. You will regret time spent with a husband, a friend, a child or a parent."

Janet Jones of Newburgh, N.Y.,

who just completed her first year at Wellesley, spoke for many of her schoolmates when she said in her speech: "It was good. She really caught our fancy as a family, our success as a society, depends not on what happens at the White House," she said, "but on what happens inside your house."

Even Christine Bicknell of Yarmouth, Maine, approved of Bush's performance. Bicknell, who gave the student address immediately before the first lady, had been outspoken about her disapproval with Bush's invitation and her wish that the first lady would become more supportive of women's issues.

After an exchange of letters and phone calls, the two made their peace, and Friday-Bush called Bicknell "my new best friend."

"She satisfied me," Bicknell said with a grin. "It was great."

And then the day was over. The Secret Service and the KGB had followed their respective first ladies off the campus. The secret handlers passed people packing up. And 375 young women had received their diplomas.

The group ultimately accepted an eight-member committee. To thoroughly review mediation proposals from seven organizations. It will narrow that field to two later this month, and then all interested groups will have an opportunity to comment on the finalists before the eight-member committee makes its recommendation to the Legislative Council.

The council will actually hire the mediator, but Boyd has said the recommendation will be rubber-stamped.

The selection committee, which will meet June 14 in Sun Valley, is composed of Jim Yost of the Farm Bureau, Jack Lyman of the Mining Association, Joe Hinson of the International Forest Industries Association, Jim Kerns of the AFL-CIO, Craig Gehrk of the Wilderness Society, Mike Medberry of the Idaho Conservation League, Mike Luque of the regional wildlife councils and Herb-Moys representing recreational interests.

The organizations expressing interest in the mediation job are the Northwest Renewable Resources Center in Seattle, the Mediation Institute in Woodland Hills, Calif., the Center for Dispute Resolution in Selma, Ala., the technology Inc. of Bellevue, Wash., jointly with CDR Associates of Boulder, Colo., Wildlands Restoration of Tucson, Ariz., and the Conflict Management Project in Cambridge, Mass., which helped negotiate the Camp David Accords.

government's hiring of 145,000 temporary census workers.

Despite the 0.1-percentage point decline in the jobless rate, analysts viewed the report as a sign of sluggish economy because private sector job growth slowed to a near standstill in May.

"These numbers are a real danger signal.... and bring into question whether we can muddle through without falling toward recession," economist David Jones of Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. said.

The report, the first comprehensive look at May's economic activity, shows the economy is "worse than sluggish — it's moribund," said Richard W. Rahn, chief economist at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Stock prices on Wall Street rose to a new high as investors took weak job data as a sign that the Federal Reserve might lower interest rates.

At the close, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was 2,900.97, up 24.31 from Thursday.

In other week-end economic news Friday, the Commerce Department said construction spending continued to slide in April, dropping 0.7 percent for the second straight month as interest rates remained high.

The civilian jobless rate as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics fell slightly in May from April's 5.4 percent unemployment rate, the Labor Department said. The nation's jobless rate has been fluctuating around 5.3 percent for more than a year.

Trade deals linked to human rights, leaders tell Gorbachev

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said Friday they cannot approve Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's request for favored trade status — even if President Bush should do so — until Moscow relaxes pressure against freedom-minded Lithuania.

"Anything we do needs to come with some strings attached," said House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., one of a dozen members of Congress Gorbachev invited for a 90-minute meeting at the Soviet Embassy.

Gorbachev used the occasion, which was broadcast live on television, to argue that freer trade between the superpowers would be in the interests of both countries, and to chide Congress for linking most-favored-nation trading status to resolution of the Lithuanian situation — a connection the Bush administration also has made.

But the leaders appeared to be unmoved, saying human rights issues could not be separated from any concession on trade. "We have a political problem," Gephardt said. "We have a political problem," said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., afterward.

As if to illustrate that, about 1,500 Lithuanian-Americans rallied on the steps of the Capitol, waving green, yellow, and red Lithuanian flags and signs such as one that read: "Gorbachev is a Big Bully."

"The United States will not give new trade benefits while the Soviet noose continues to strangle Lithuania," said Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., who spoke to the rally but was not among those invited to the Soviet Embassy.

Gephardt and the others at the meeting with Gorbachev took a gentler line, saying they recognized the Soviet president's efforts to resolve Lithuania's status. "We want it done peacefully," said Gephardt. "We recognize that everybody can't get everything they want."

"I don't think any of us believes that all of the issues have to be finally and successfully concluded before we can do anything on a trade negotiation," he said. "But we do need to see some substantial progress."

Any suggestion by Bush to advance MFN status would be seriously considered on Capitol Hill, Gephardt added. "I think it's conceivable that in this year, we could deal with an MFN suggestion."

Democrats in the group also reacted favorably to a Gorbachev remark questioning why President Bush had recommended most-favored-nation status to China, which just a year ago crushed a pro-democracy movement, but was withholding the same treatment from the Soviet Union.

"That's a good point — the total inconsistency of President Bush's position," said Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, who has been among Bush's harshest congressional critics on China policy.

The leaders indicated that another requirement for favored trade status — free emigration, particularly for Soviet Jews — has largely been met and is no longer a serious obstacle. But Mitchell and Gephardt added a new one: a measure of success in establishing free markets.

"The central requirement is reform of the economy," Mitchell said. "Favored trading status alone will not increase U.S. demand for Soviet products, many of which are seen as inferior," he said, adding that MFN status would be primarily of symbolic value to Gorbachev.

For his part, the Soviet leader said he was not asking for charity from the United States, only for normal credits which would be repaid and for what he called a new trade relationship that would benefit both countries.

"This is a genuine revolution," Gorbachev told the lawmakers as they sat around a long table covered with green felt.

"We have to turn around our brains, as it were," he said.

Arms treaty may be symbolic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The superpowers are billing their nearly completed arms treaty as a step toward ending the arms race, but private experts said Friday its value may be mainly symbolic.

The deal as agreed to in outlining form by President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev carries a potent political punch: It's the first treaty to reduce the number of long-range nuclear arms.

But by the time the pact is fully implemented, probably in 1992, analysts say both the United States and the Soviet Union may be nearly as well stocked with nuclear arms as they are today, unless additional treaties are negotiated before then.

The military significance of the emerging agreement is diluted by decisions to "discount," or exclude, some weapons from the counting rules, and to leave the road clear for both sides to develop newer versions of the arms to be destroyed.

Also, both Moscow and Washington have steadily added to their strategic arsenals throughout the eight years that negotiators have been working on the deal.

Previous strategic arms treaties, including the 1979 SALT II deal, put a cap on future deployments but did not require a cut in the overall numbers of weapons.

Some experts also are calling into question the value of the chemical arms reduction agreed to by Bush and Gorbachev.

Few, if any, doubt the importance of ending production of lethal gases and reducing each side's chemical stockpiles. But they wonder if the U.S.-Soviet deal will work.

The problem comes in destroying the chemical agents. The Soviets don't even have an operational plant that could destroy thousands of tons of poison gas. It's also not clear how the two sides will guard against possible hidden stocks.

The emerging nuclear arms treaty, as envisioned in the early stages of the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks during Ronald Reagan's first administration, would have made 50 percent cuts in U.S. and Soviet weapons capable of reaching each other's soil.

Now the best-case estimate is a one-third reduction. Some private analysts say the reductions could be only about 10 percent.

The scaling back of estimated reductions is due in part to decisions to exclude some weapons, such as certain air-to-surface missiles, from the counting rules.

Jack Mendelsohn, a former member of the U.S. delegation to START, estimates that the current U.S. stockpile of 12,400 strategic nuclear warheads could be lowered only to about 11,600 warheads by the late 1990s, based on current Pentagon plans. The Soviet total would drop from 11,200 currently to about 9,600, he estimates.

In some categories of these weapons, including bombs and cruise missiles delivered by aircraft, both sides are likely to actually increase deployments, he says.

Soviet leader greets crowds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev hopped out of his limousine Friday and worked the crowds for a second straight day to the delight of passersby in downtown Washington.

"He was a very warm, very personal type of person," said Keith White, who was among those Gorbachev greeted on busy Connecticut Avenue.

Gorbachev's brief stop came as his entourage was returning to the Soviet Embassy from a summit session at the White House. He also left his limousine on Thursday, to the applause and cheers of a crowd of about 500 onlookers.

That was a popular — the total inconsistency of President Bush's position," said Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, who has been among Bush's harshest congressional critics on China policy.

The leaders indicated that another requirement for favored trade status — free emigration, particularly for Soviet Jews — has largely been met and is no longer a serious obstacle. But Mitchell and Gephardt added a new one: a measure of success in establishing free markets.

"The central requirement is reform of the economy," Mitchell said. "Favored trading status alone will not increase U.S. demand for Soviet products, many of which are seen as inferior," he said, adding that MFN status would be primarily of symbolic value to Gorbachev.

For his part, the Soviet leader said he was not asking for charity from the United States, only for normal credits which would be repaid and for what he called a new trade relationship that would benefit both countries.

"This is a genuine revolution," Gorbachev told the lawmakers as they sat around a long table covered with green felt.

"We have to turn around our brains, as it were," he said.

Powerful states still a threat to Idaho water, Stallings says

POCATELLO (AP) — Even with a new pact with the Shoshone-Bannock nation, Tribes and pending congressional legislation, Idaho still could lose its water to politically influential states such as California, Rep. Richard Stallings says.

"There's always a danger," said Stallings, D-Idaho, "of losing water to other states. The kind of population and political clout, that if the drought worsened I suspect you would see increased pressure to look at interbasin transfer."

Stallings, who is in Idaho during the Memorial Day recess, said the recent proposal for agreement between the state, the Sho-Bans and private water users outlining tribal water rights will help protect Idaho water from out-of-state interests.

"The agreement with the Sho-Bans has been helpful because it solves some long-standing water disputes, and we as a state will now speak as a united people, having distributed and allocated the water to Idaho needs," he said.

Legislation requiring state governors to have a voice in federal interbasin water transfer studies, introduced by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, should also protect Idaho water, the Idaho Democrat said.

But the U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission has the authority for setting streamflow conditions at federally licensed dams.

Oregon pledges fight to keep water

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Neil Goldschmidt has a blunt reaction to the possibility of sending Columbia River water to Southern California.

"Over my dead body," Goldschmidt said when asked about the issue Friday.

He had criticism for the idea advanced by some Los Angeles County supervisors of channeling Columbia water to their area.

Goldschmidt said the posture of Los Angeles people "always has been if somebody's got it and they want it, they can get it."

Lujan ends Idaho visit with chilly float down the South Fork

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan wrapped up a three-day visit to Idaho with a wobbly float trip down the South Fork of the Snake River in eastern Idaho.

The 15-mile float Thursday afternoon took Lujan past bald eagles, a peregrine falcon, beavers and ducks, prompting him to call the South Fork the most wildlife-rich river he had ever seen.

"This is an area that needs to be finely managed because of the diversity of wildlife and habitat," he said. "This area shows why management is important."

The former 10-term congressman from New Mexico fished for a while but caught nothing, and his float of rubber rafts was greeted with rain and even a few snowflakes.

Kiebert returns to highway job

BOISE (AP) — Kermit Kiebert is back to work in his job as director of the Idaho Transportation Department.

In a brief action Friday morning, the Transportation Board formally reinstated Kiebert to his $72,000 per year job as chief of the second-largest state agency and he started work immediately.

He was suspended without pay in December when he was arrested on charges of sexually molesting his young daughter. But May 22, a jury cleared him of the charges and the next day the board in a telephone conference voted to reinstate him with back pay of about $21,000.

"I'd like to express my appreciation for the board's handling of these with me through thick and thin," said Kiebert. "I know it was tough at times, but I think it was right."

The board formally ratified its earlier action, and after brief discussion, voted to reinstate Kiebert Friday, the first day of June.

Martinez found guilty of murder

CALDWELL (AP) — A Canyon County jury has convicted Jose Alphonso Martinez of the June, 1979, murder of Caldwell businessman Troy Vance Jr.

The verdict by the 10-woman, 2-man jury came Friday afternoon after 13 hours of deliberation.

The verdict was read by a court clerk about 12:30 p.m. Members of the Vance family present in the courtroom reacted immediately with smiles and tears of relief.

Third District Judge Gerald Weston set sentencing for Sept. 17 at 9:30 a.m. Martinez, 60, could receive the death sentence for the first-degree murder conviction.

A second man, Robert Richard Jones, 46, awaits trial on a similar first-degree murder charge.

Andrus mum on re-appointing Rush

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Cecil Andrus met Friday with the former director of the Idaho Department of Agriculture, Dick Rush, but said afterward there will be no immediate decision whether Rush will get his old job back.

Rush resigned March 5 to campaign for the Democratic 1st District congressional nomination. He finished third in a three-way race, behind winner Larry LaRocco and former state senator Jeanne Given.

Bowling alley fire due to arson

CRAIGMONT (AP) — An early morning blaze that destroyed the Prairie Lanes bowling alley and a beauty shop in the same building last week was an accident, Lewis County Sheriff David Fortney says.

Sheriff's investigators and the state fire marshal's office have confirmed the May 24 blaze was arson-caused, Fortney said Thursday. But he would not elaborate on how the fire was set.

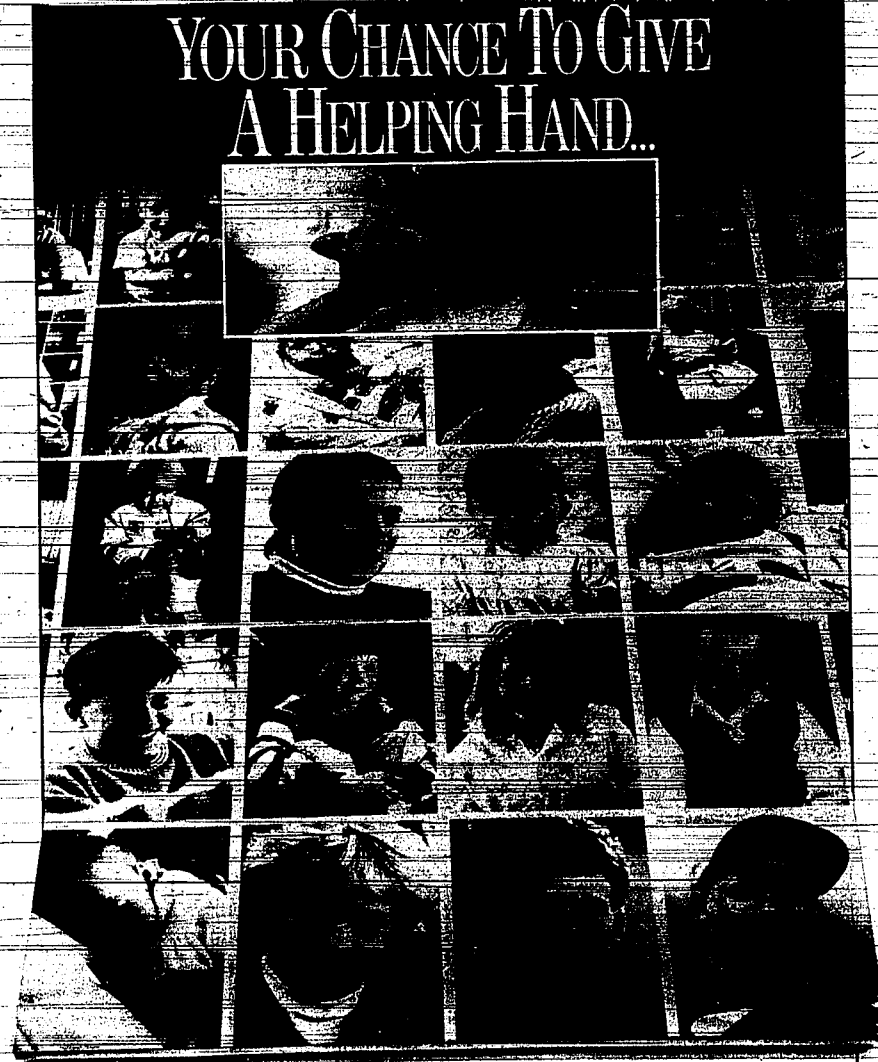

Craig demands NRA official be fired

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Congressman Larry Craig, a member of the National Rifle Association's board of directors, has tatted for the firing of an NRA official who mistakenly endorsed state Rep. Dean Haengenson's opponent in the May 22 Republican primary.

Craig also said Thursday he wants a change in the way the NRA handles endorsements in state legislative elections.

The Idaho Republican, who is running for the U.S. Senate this year, said David S. Marshall, senior state liaison for the NRA's Institute for Legislative Action in Sacramento, Calif., based his endorsement of Robert Horton over Haengenson on faulty information.

Craig said he has urged NRA officials to fire Marshall or ask him to resign. Horton edged Haengenson by 85 votes in the GOP primary. The NRA estimates its membership in District 2 at about 500.

COMING TO YOU JUNE 2 & 3

This weekend, the Children's Miracle Network Telethon is helping kids by raising money to benefit critical care services at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center.

It's your chance to lend a hand to kids who need your help to live.

Kids like Eric. He's alive today because you helped St. Luke's provide the only extracorporeal membrane oxygenation (ECMO) service available in the Northwest.

Or little Al, who underwent the first fetal shunt surgery in the nation at St. Luke's. And newborn Luke. Now, with the help of artificial surfactant research at St. Luke's, he's able to breathe without his lungs collapsing.

Over the last several years, you've made miracles like these possible for hundreds of kids who need St. Luke's help to get a start in life, to keep their heart alive, and to overcome the threat of cancer.

But today, there's more that's needed: A Home Fetal Monitoring system for mothers at risk; an Indirect Calorimeter to design diets that promote human growth in chronically ill infants; and a High Frequency Oscillator and pediatric patients alike.

While the problems may seem complicated, the solution isn't.

Your pledge to the Children's Miracle Network Telethon adds up to a lot more help than you can imagine.

So take a moment this weekend and give a helping hand to the kids at St. Luke's. Pledge yourself to the Children's Miracle Network Telethon on RIVI Television. Live from the new Convention Centre in Boise, starting at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday.

Rhyan shoots course record in 1st round of Commemorative SCARBOROUGH ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Rhyan, who had only one top 10 finish in 41 tournaments on the PGA Senior Tour last year, shot a 7-under-par 63 Friday, tying the course record for the first-round lead in the $350,000 Commemorative at the 345-yard Sleepy Hollow Country Club.

The 55-year-old Rhyan had seven birdies and no bogeys in registering a one-stroke lead over Jimmy Powell in the 54-hole competition. Powell bogeyed the opening hole but then registered seven birdies for his 64.

Gary Player is third with a 65 followed by Lee Trevino, who leads the Senior Tour in victories with four and in earnings with $340,133, with a 66.

Bob Charles, the two-time defender, won Walk Zembriski, Bob Betley, Bob Gaona, in only his second tournament this year and third as a senior, and 69-year-old Mike Fetchick share fifth place with 67.

At Kelley, Guy Brewer, Lou Graham, Ted Nott, Gordon Jones and Rocky Thompson each had 68, one stroke better than Chi Chi Rodriguez, his brother, Jesus, Roger Ginsburg, Ben Smith, J.C. Goosie and John Paul Cain.

"I've been playing well the last several weeks," said Rhyan, who opened with a 66 in last year's Commemorative only to fade and finish in a six-way tie for 19th. "Playing in Thursday's Pro-Am helped tremendously because I had six consecutive birdies. Today, it was never in danger of a bogey. It was a relatively easy round."

Rhyan, on the senior tour since

1987, had a chance at the course record, which is shared by Charles, Kelley and Tom Gronauer, the former club champion at Sleepy Hol-

"I had no idea the (four-foot) putt on 18 would tie the record," said Rhyan, who plays out of Sarasota, Fla. "In the Pro-Am, I saw Trevino make that same shot and I just tried to do the same thing."

In eight tournaments this year, Rhyan has co-ed finish with 5672 and a tie for 14th at Naples, Fla., last February.

"I'm on the tour to make money," said Rhyan, whose best previous rounds this year were a pair of 69s. "However, I like to win, too. Today was my luckiest round ever on the tour and it was fun. I hope it lasts for a while."

Morgan leading Kemper Open

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Gil Morgan birdied four of the first eight holes Friday en route to a 4-under-par 67, and one shot led over Scott Hoch after two rounds of the Kemper Open.

Morgan, bidding for his first tournament victory since 1983, completed 36 holes over the TPC at Avenel at 7-under 135.

Spain's Jose Ballesteros shot a 72 and at 145, missed the cut by Hoch. A double-bogey on No. 8 — his second in two days — contributed to his early exit.

Defending champion Tom Birnbaum, who had a 71, also was at 145 and wasn't among the 71 who qualified for week-end play.

First-round co-leaders, Ted Schulz and Pat McGowan shot 72's and were among five players two strokes behind Morgan. Buddy Gardner and Billy Ray Brown reached the halfway point at 138.

Schulz had a wild front nine, with three birdies and four bogeys. He settled down on the back "with nine straight pars."

"I drove it in trouble all day," he said, "I was constantly scrambling."

McGowan had three birdies, two bogeys and a double bogey.

Mike Smith tied a course record with a 64 to join a group of eight players at 139.

Morgan is ranked 14th on the money list, highest of any player in the tournament. But he hasn't found a way to come up with a victory in seven years.

"I've been hitting the ball well but my putting hasn't been very consistent," he said. "Maybe my luck is changing this week."

Hoch and Morgan, playing in a threesome with John Inman, battled each other all day. They were tied coming to the final hole, but Hoch went eight feet past on a 50-foot birdie putt and missed the comeback for par.

Farwig, Rogerson, Zimmerman share front in Lady Keystone Open

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Stephanie Farwig, Kate Rogerson and Mary Beth Zimmerman shot 5-under-par 67s to share the first-round lead in the LPGA's Lady Keystone Open on Friday.

Diane Heinicke-Rauch, Carol-Pierce and Cathy Marino were tied at 68 on the 6,348-yard West Course of the Hershey County Club. Betsy King, last year's leading money winner, joined four others — Laurel Kean, Danielle Ammacapane, Marci Bozarth and Marianne Morris — two shots behind.

Farwig and Rogerson have never won a tournament and Zimmerman hasn't won since 1987.

Farwig birdied six of the last 12 holes to storm into a tie for the lead.

Rogerson started with two birdies and added two more with sensational chip shots at 15 and 16. On the 345-yard 11th, she hooked her drive under the trees but managed to hit a low liner 12 feet from the cup.

Zimmerman could have had the lead to herself, but missed a two-foot putt on the 14th. She made birdie putts of 10 feet at 13 and 17, dropped a 12-footer at 12 and a five-footer at 15 for a 32 on the back nine.

Marino, who started on the back side, was 2-under at the turn. A double bogey on the par-5 first hole dropped her to even.

Walker scored when Mike LaValiere was charged with a passed ball, moving Fitzgerald to third, and Gross made it 3-0 with a perfectly executed sacrifice bunt.

Cardinals defeat Chicago Cubs in matchup of slumping teams

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jose DeLeon gave up four hits in 6 2/3 innings and light-hitting Jose Oquendo drove in two runs as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-4 Friday night in a matchup of slumping National League fast teams.

Terry Pendleton also drove in two runs for the Cardinals, who pulled into a fifth-place tie with the Cubs, the defending East champions. The Cardinals have won only two of their last seven and the Cubs have lost eight of 11.

DeLeon (5-1) gave up seven earned runs in only two-thirds of an inning in his previous start and again had trouble in the first against the Cubs. He allowed two hits and two walks in the first, but escaped with only one run and settled down after that, striking out eight and walking five.

Ken Dayley entered with two outs and runners on first and second in the seventh and got rookie pinch-hitter Hector Villanueva, batting for Mark Green, and in his first major-league at-bat, he popped.

Dayley was later roughed up by Shawn Dunston's RBI double in the eighth and a two-run homer by Villanueva in the ninth. Lee Smith got the last out for his fifth save.

Oquendo broke a 1-for-16 slump with an RBI single in the fourth off Greg Maddux (4-5) and drove in Mill Thompson with a squeeze bunt in the sixth. The Cardinals were the first May 20, a series of 30 at-bats, for Oquendo.

Pendleton had an RBI single in the fourth and a sacrifice fly in a three-run seventh. Willie McGee had an RBI double and Pedro Guerrero added a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

New York 4 Philadelphia 0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Viola pitched a six-inning through eight innings and Greg Jefferies and Mike Marshall hit solo homers as the New York Mets beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0 Friday night for their first victory under new manager Bud Harrelson.

Viola was the fifth straight for the Phillies, who haven't won since a one-day stand atop the National League East last week.

Viola (8-2) struck out five and walked three before getting relief help in the ninth from John Franco. The win was the first for Harrelson, 1-1 since he succeeded Dave Johnson, who was fired Tuesday in Cincinnati.

Phillies starter Dennis Cook lost for the first time after five victories, giving up eight hits and all four Mets runs. The two Mets home runs boosted to five the number given up by Cook in his last two starts.

Jefferies also singled and doubled in extending his hitting streak through 10 games. The Phillies' Lennox Dykstra came in the fifth to equal his career-high 14-game streak. He finished the night going 4-for-4 to boost his major league-leading average to .396.

Montreal 4 Pittsburgh 1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Kevin Gross allowed six hits over seven innings and Montreal manufactured three runs in the fourth inning while pitching a well-hit ball to beat Pittsburgh 4-1 Friday night and end the Pirates' five-game winning streak.

The Expos used Spike Owen's bases-loaded walk, a passed ball, a hit-and-run single and a sacrifice bunt in the fourth to win their fourth in a row and end losing pitcher

Doug Drabek's six-game winning streak.

Andres Galaraga bounced a bad-hop single into left to start the fourth and Tim Lincecum tied out before Larry Walker sliced a hit-and-run single into left. Drabek hit Mike Fitzgerald with a pitch to load the bases; then walked Owen to force in the first run.

Walker scored when Mike LaValiere was charged with a passed ball, moving Fitzgerald to third, and Gross made it 3-0 with a perfectly executed sacrifice bunt.

Brewers regain 1st place in American League East

TORONTO (AP) — Teddy Figueroa, who missed his last start after being struck on the knee by a line drive, helped Toronto to a run and four hits in six innings and Paul Molitor drove in three runs as the Milwaukee Brewers regained first place in the American League East by defeating the Blue Jays 7-1 Friday night.

Figueroa (5-1), making his first start since May 21 when he was hit on the right knee by a line drive off the bat of Seattle's Henry Cotto, struck out six and walked one. Chuck Crim went three innings for his third save.

Lozer Todd Stottlemyre (4-6) yielded nine hits in eight innings. He gave up three runs in the third as the Blue Jays slipped one-half game behind the Brewers.

ers in the ninth. But Dwight Evans singled and pinch-runner Randy Kueker scored on a triple by Tony Pena, who had an RBI single in the seventh.

Mike Greenwell also had an RBI single in the fifth.

New York 4 Baltimore 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave LaPoint pitched 7 2/3 strong innings to end a five-game New York losing streak for the third time this season and Steve Balboni homered in the sixth to break a 2-7 tie. LaPoint (4-4) yielded two runs and seven hits, including Randy Milligan's sixth homer, before being relieved by Jeff Robinson. Dave Righetti gave up a run in the ninth before earning his 10th save.

Balboni's homer with one out in the sixth off Jeff Ballard (1-6) was his fifth of the season, all in his last five games. Jesse Barfield singled and Brian Holton relieved Ballard. Barfield scored what proved to be the decisive run on a single by Rick Cerone and a double by Randy Velarde. After being held to one hit for four innings, New York tied the score in the fifth an RBI singles by Deion Sanders and Steve Sax.

Chicago 2 Minnesota 1

CHICAGO (AP) — Pinch-hitter Carlos Martinez, batting only 195, singled home the winning run with two out in the ninth inning. Steve Lyons and Rolf Karkovic singled off reliever Terry Lench (2-1) with one out. After Scott Fischer popped out, Martinez batted for Craig Grebeck and delivered his game-winning hit.

Barry Jones (7-0), who relieved starter Melido Perez in the eighth inning, got the win by retiring the last four Minnesota batters. Perez gave up a run and five hits in 2 2/3 innings, including Jim Dwyer's eighth-inning homer. Minnesota rookie Kevin Tapani also yielded a run and five hits in eight innings.

Oakland 4 Kansas City 3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jose Canseco and Mark McGwire homered on consecutive pitches in the first inning Friday night as the

After a one-out single by Garney Lansford in the first inning, off-rookie Kevin Appier (1-1), Canseco hit his 19th homer, a drive that hit halfway up the left-field foul pole and increased his major-league-leading RBI total to 49. He began the evening tied with Detroit's Cecil Fielder for the home run lead.

What's what

Q: Where'd the "by" in "bylaws" come from?
A: "By" is Scandinavian for "town."

Q: Taverns were so rough in medieval times a patron could be knifed at any moment. That's why glass-bottomed beer tankards were invented. So a drinker in a bottoms-up stance could still keep an eye on his companions.

HAPPINESS
Some people look for truth, some for money, some for fame. But that specialist on such weighty matters, Dr. Theodore I. Rubin, says what's most in-

Q: Who was the youngest general in the history of the U.S. Army?
A: George Custer, a brigadier at age 23.

Q: Socrates killed himself by drinking hemlock. From what part of the tree?
A: Didn't come from a tree. But from a European plant of the carnal family known as poison hemlock.

Q: The two "Pillars of Hercules" stand on each side of the mouth of the Mediterranean. Which is the taller?
A: Africa's Jabal Musar. It's twice as high as Europe's Rock of Gibraltar. But not half as famous, what?

SUICIDE
Q: Never happens that a pregnant woman commits suicide, right?
A: Make that rarely. In one study of 168 female suicides, one was pregnant.

Clarence Darrow said, "Laws should be like clothes, made to fit the people they're meant to serve."

Spies build fortunes: A rich merchant in old Germany wasn't called "Old Moneybags," but "Old Pepper Sacks." Bumblebees live underground.

Bill Griffing sweeps debris from his home in Vicksburg, Miss., Friday after flash flooding soaked his belongings. Heavy rains Thursday caused flooding to about 200 area homes.

Feds back drug abuse program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal health officials said Friday they support a drug prevention program that focuses on changing the way communities view drug use — legal and illegal — rather than merely telling youngsters to stay away from drugs.

The program is unique because it utilizes all components in the community — schools, parents, the media and community groups — which contribute to changing the social norms for drug use and providing a healthy drug-free environment for all people," said Charles R. Schuster, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

Schuster's agency, a part of the National Institutes of Health, helped pay for an evaluation of a Midwestern Drug Abuse Prevention Research Project, a just-completed five-year study in Kansas City and Indianapolis by researchers from the University of Southern California.

Storms hit Mississippi, Texas

Residents of waterlogged Vicksburg, Miss., stuck in soggy mud Friday after record flash flooding. Wreckage was cleared from a Texas-Panhandle town that witnessed swarms of funnel clouds. No injuries were reported. Damage in Spearman, Texas, was estimated at $5.5 million. Estimates were still being collected in Vicksburg.

About 200 Vicksburg residents were forced to higher ground Thursday when thunderstorms dumped as much as 7 inches of rain, overflowing creeks and drainage ditches.

Water damage was reported to 187 homes and at least 20 businesses. Some bridges and roadways in Warren County on the Mississippi River also were damaged, said Civil Defense Chief Luther Wamock Jr.

"We've even had fire trucks out using their hoses to help wash the mud and debris out of houses before it dries," Wamock said. "I've been here for 30 years and ... this was the worst flooding anyone can remember."

In Spearman, 10 mobile homes and 10 houses were reported destroyed. A church also was reported demolished. Some of the mobile homes were "smoothed off to the ground," said Mayor Bill Buchanan.

It is estimated that 5 percent of the Panhandle town of 3,500 had property damage. About 80 percent of the city was blacked out and phone service was spotty until Friday morning.

There was disagreement over just what caused the damage in Spearman late Thursday. Residents and witnesses said three funnel clouds caused the damage even though they didn't touch down. The National Weather Service said one tornado did scour the surface.

"There was one that hit Spearman itself, and there were multiple tornadoes in the vicinity of Spearman for several hours last night," said Steven Cooper of the National Weather Service office in Amarillo. "There were about three different storm systems. Two dropped tornadoes. The funnel clouds were too numerous to count, he said. State Trooper Wayne Beightle of Amarillo said 10 twisters were spotted in the area Thursday night.

"We were up there until 1:00 (a.m.) and there were still tornadoes dancing around. They were all over the place," Beightle said. "None touched the ground — they were hovering just above the ground, but that was enough to do the damage."

In Vicksburg, officials declared a state of emergency Friday.

"Any time there is this kind of flood, where people are forced to evacuate their homes, it is a bad situation," said Mayor Robert Walker.

"I've been back to my home and everything is turned over and destroyed," Hope Williams said after water drained from her home.

"That was my first year in the subdivision and I hope it was my last year. I mean water was 6 feet deep in that house."

Williams and her six children, ranging from age 2 to 17, spent the night with other flood victims at an emergency shelter.

Denver installs wind shear radar
DENVER (AP) — Stapleton International Airport on Friday began looking up a newly improved radar system to detect wind shear. The device has been blamed for plane crashes that killed more than 650 people since 1972.

John McCarthy, director of research application programs at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, said a similar device will be tested this year at Orlando International Airport, before Raytheon Corp. delivers it for nationwide use.

The device, called a terminal doppler weather radar, is scheduled for installation at 47 airports nationwide beginning in 1992.

Burger chides lawyers' advertising
WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Chief Justice Warren B. Burger Friday scolded lawyers who engage in "slyster advertising" and prosecutors who try their cases in the news media.

Speaking to the American Inns of Court lawyers group, Burger denounced those in the nation's legal profession he said "seem bent on turning the practice of law into a trade or business like selling groceries, automobiles or real estate."

Burger has long opposed lawyers advertising their services.

'Hunky' won't be sculpture's title
PITTSBURGH (AP) — An artist Friday offered to change the title of his sculpture "Hunky Steelworker," and the festival's organizing group, quieting criticism by steelworkers and ethnic groups offended by the name.

The 12-foot-tall statue is the most prominently displayed sculpture in the Three Rivers Arts Festival, which opened downtown Friday.

Croatians and other Eastern Europeans in western Pennsylvania's steel towns consider the term "hunky" a slur.

Judges order asbestos case reopened
NEW YORK (AP) — Two judges supervising hundreds of asbestos injury lawsuits on Friday ordered the Manville Corp. bankruptcy case reopened to overhaul a financially ailing trust fund designed to compensate victims of asbestos-related diseases.

In a joint order, a federal judge and a New York state judge said the Manville Personal Injury Settlement Trust was out of money and suggested the company advance it $200 million to $300 million so it can resume payments to victims.

Sued businessman found dead on links

ENGLEWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A businessman accused of bilking celebrities and other investors out of millions of dollars was found dead on a golf course from an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head, authorities said.

The body of Richard M. Wood, 56, was found Wednesday afternoon, sitting in a golf cart near the fifth tee and holding a handgun, said Cindee Singletary, spokeswoman for the Charlotte County Sheriff's Department.

Yeltsin may seek Russian-Lithuanian ties

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris N. Yeltsin promised Lithuania's president Friday that he would foster close ties between the huge Russian republic and the now-heads-and-the-accessionist Baltic region, Lithuanian sources said.

Yeltsin's offer openly defied Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who ordered a partial economic blockade against Lithuania in an effort to force it to back-off its March independence declaration.

Yeltsin, who was elected president of the Russian Federation on Tuesday, met with Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis for a very friendly talk with full mutual understanding," said Natasha Boganova, sec-retary of the Lithuanian representation in Moscow.

"Yeltsin is prepared, as soon as Russia gets its sovereignty, to cooperate fully with the Baltic republics, and Lithuania first of all," she said.

Lithuania, struggling to circumvent the Kremlin blockade, has been seeking direct ties with newly elected national leaders in various parts of the country.

On Thursday, the legislature of the republic of Moldavia recognized Lithuania's independence, the official Tass news agency reported. It was the first Soviet republic outside the Baltics to do so.

Gorbachev has said Lithuania must suspend its declaration of independence before he will lift the economic blockade and begin talks with Lithuanian leaders. Lithuanian lawmakers have offered compromise measures but balked at suspending the declaration.

Yeltsin has said he expects the Russian parliament to declare the Russian Federation's sovereignty within the first 100 days of his term.

Public places to open

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The white minority government introduced legislation Friday to remove one of the pillars of apartheid, racial segregation of public amenities such as parks, libraries and bathrooms.

The Separate Amenities Act passed in 1953, has granted provincial governments, municipalities and privately owned entertainment establishments the right to reserve facilities for whites.

A bill that would repeal the act was published Friday and is expected to be passed in mid-June, the South African Press Association reported. It was the latest move by the government of President F.W. de Klerk to dismantle apartheid.

The Conservative Party, the largest white opposition party, is the only group expected to oppose the bill, but the party does not have enough votes to block it.

Arafat flays U.S. veto of observers

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — PLO leader Yasser Arafat on Friday denounced the United States for a veto of a U.N. resolution urging the deployment of United Nations observers to the Israeli-occupied territories.

"I only ask why the United States keeps protecting and covering the crime Israel is committing against the Palestinian people," Arafat told a news conference. "Why does the United States champion human rights everywhere but stop doing that when Palestinian human rights are concerned?"

The United States on Thursday vetoed a U.N. Security Council resolution that called for a fact-finding mission to visit the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Of the 15 voting members, only the United States opposed the measure. As a permanent Security Council member, it has veto power over resolutions.

Its veto came a day after Israel foiled an attack on its coastline by Palestinian guerrillas. Four guerrillas were killed and 12 captured. No Israelis were harmed.

A PLO faction, the Palestine Liberation Front, claimed responsibility and said the action was in part to retaliate for the murder last week of seven Palestinian laborers by an Israeli civilian. Arafat has said neither he nor the PLO was involved in Wednesday's incident.

Arafat met Friday with ambassadors of the Soviet Union, China, Italy, France and Ireland and urged their governments to reopen U.N. discussion of the renewed upsurge of violence in the occupied territories.

Tight security at Clark base

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — U.S. officials Friday imposed new restrictions on American troops at Clark Air Base because of a security threat in the area where Communist rebels killed two airmen last month.

Maj. Gen. Cesar Nazareno, chief of the Philippine Constabulary, said he ordered heightened security patrols because of the Communist threat.

He said he was also honoring a U.S. request to let American troops accompany Philippine forces providing security outside the bases in "areas where there are visible American targets."

He said the request came from Rear Adm. Roger Lee-Rich, commander of the Subic base 50 miles west of Manila. But there was no confirmation from U.S. officials.

At Clark Air Base, spokesman Lt. Col. Ron Rand said today's regulations prevent U.S. troops, Defense Department civilians and military dependents from leaving the bases except on essential business.

Wagon train recreates spirit of Old West

A lone horseman appears among the sagebrush, followed by several dozen horses and riders. Then a small covered wagon crosses the ridge, followed by another and another. In all, 10 canvas-topped wagons inch their way along a bumpy, muddy trail that winds its way across the windswept desert southwest of Arco.

It's a scene straight out of the 1800s. One expects to see banners saying "Oregon or Bust" or "Westward Ho!" bedecking the prairie schooners, but these weary travelers are headed east well into 1990.

Choosing to walk - B2

"Kinda puts a lump in your throat, doesn't it," said one scruffy looking pioneer as he held the reins of the rear wagon Wednesday and looked ahead at the wagon train strung out nearly a mile ahead.

If not for five days worth of beard and road dust, it would be difficult to tell that Lawrence Valdez of Rupert had been on the trail for four days.

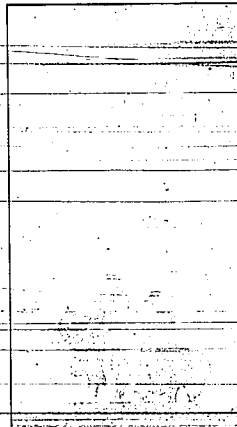

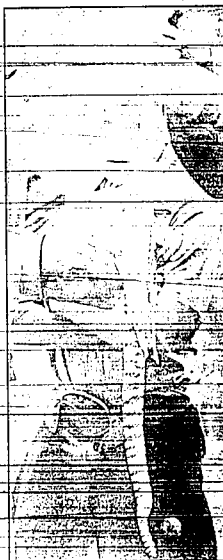

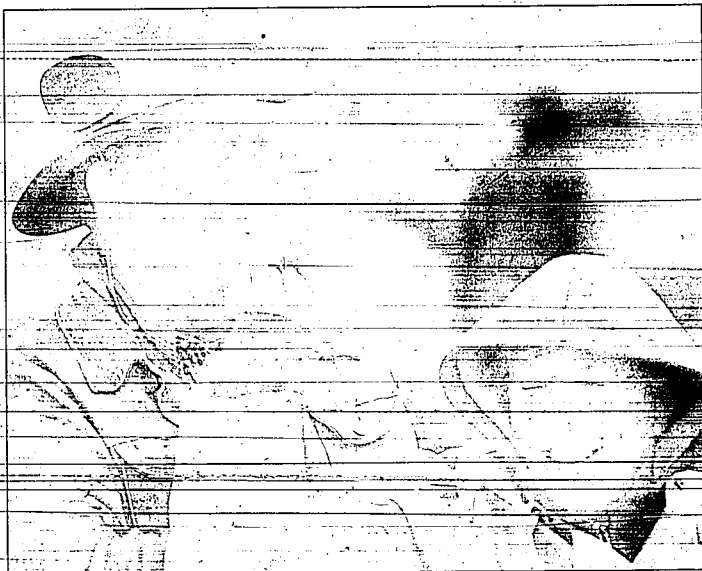

He has been preparing for this trip, the Centennial Wagon Train from Rupert to Arco, for over two years.

"We're sore and tired, but we're getting just a taste of what (our forefathers) went through," Valdez said.

The 70-mile, week-long trip across the wildest stretch of southern Idaho desert was meant to recreate the spirit of the Old West and give people an appreciation for the hardships faced by those who tamed it.

"These people have really brought back the old spirit of working together," said Valdez, an Idaho Youth Rancher.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"A thousand-things advance... hundred-and-ninety-nine retreat that is progress..." - Henri Frederic Amiel.

In days gone by, a jump to game in a new suit guaranteed possession of the long; strong suit. Nowadays it's not always clear.

Against this bidding, East leads the diamond queen, and the end comes swiftly. The defenders take three diamonds and a trump for one down.

A modern gadget called the Texas transfer is designed to make an opening-trump bidder the declarer when responder holds a long-major.

After an opening of one or two no-trump, a responder wishing to play in four of his long major bids for the suit immediately below his long major suit.

In today's case, North bids four diamonds. South transfers to four hearts and West is on lead instead of East.
