Math scores don't add up

The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — If math teachers are asked 98 questions on a certification test, how many do they have to get right to pass? A) 90; B) 70; C) 60; or D) 49.

In a new certification test in Florida, the correct answer is C. And although a score of 60 would earn most students a D on a math exam, the Florida standard is high compared to some other states.

Fifteen states — Idaho is not among them — use a different exam, developed by a national testing company, and have established cutoff scores that range from approximately 35 percent of 150 questions to a high of approximately 55 percent.

"It won't do any good to have passing scores... that nobody can reach," said Tom Fisher, head of testing for the Florida Department of Education.

The supply and demand of teachers is a problem that always confronts states as they debate certification requirements, said Catherine Havrilesky, executive director of teacher programs at Educational Testing Service (ETS) in Princeton, N.J.

Marita Eng, a high school math teacher in Jacksonville who sat on an advisory panel that recommended a higher cutoff score in Florida, said international comparisons of student performance show that the United States is in the middle of a "crisis in mathematics education."

One of the problems, Eng said, is poorly prepared teachers.

However, defenders of the testing system point out that the exams include hard questions and aren't designed to result in extremely high scores.

The ETS developed the 150-question test used by 15 states. It also offers tests in about 40 other subjects.

Mississippi loophole lets gunslings in

The Associated Press

JACKSON, Miss. — The gun-slinging of the Old West may be poised for a comeback — in Mississippi, because of a loophole in a new gun law.

On July 1, the state's new gun permit law went into effect. And to the chagrin of the governor, lawmakers and law enforcement officials, it allows most Mississippians to tote concealed handguns almost anywhere — including sports events, bars and even the state Capitol.

An 11th-hour attempt to fix the flawed legislation failed in a special legislative session last month, and law enforcement officials fear its looseness will allow the wrong people to be armed — and in the wrong places.

"It's the law, and we've got to live with it," said Sharkey County Sheriff Joe Ford, president of the Mississippi Sheriff's Association.

The law allows Mississippians over age 21 willing to pay $100 for a three-year permit to carry a concealed weapon. The only exceptions are convicted felons, fugitives, drug and alcohol abusers, the mentally incompetent, illegal aliens, those dishonorably discharged from the military, those who renounce their citizenship or those who falsify permit applications.

Applicants must undergo background checks, be fingerprinted and photographed.

Hanford risks known but no action

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal records show the government knew as early as 1948 that radiation from the Hanford nuclear reservation posed a serious risk to human health but rejected secret advice to conduct cancer studies.

Records of the Atomic Energy Commission, a predecessor agency of the Energy Department, which owns Hanford and other nuclear weapons complexes, also show airborne emissions of radiation continued at Hanford at least until the mid-1950s.

The government first acknowledged the problems publicly in 1986.

No INEL figures yet — A2

On Thursday a panel of health experts disclosed that one in 20 residents around Hanford in south-central Washington state between late 1944 and December 1947 absorbed a level of radiation equal to 1,200 times what the Energy Department now considers safe for people living near weapons plants.

The panel of independent health specialists said releases of radioactive iodine, a byproduct of the plutonium extraction process, were serious enough to justify a study of potential illnesses or deaths related to the emissions.

The release of the report marked the first time the government has publicly acknowledged that radiation releases from its nuclear arms factories could have harmed human health. Yet the government was made aware shortly after the Hanford plant began operating in 1944 that airborne contaminants posed serious health risks.

The radiation health and safety chief at Hanford reported in March 1948 that emissions of radioactive particles from plutonium-processing buildings "can produce radiation damage." The report also said "the theoretical possibility of injury developing 10 to 15 years from now poses a serious problem."

Many workers at Hanford were not told of the potential health hazards, according to Atomic Energy Commission records and interviews with former workers at Hanford, which produced bomb-grade plutonium

Housing shortage may cut numbers of students at CSI

By Kirk Mitchell
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho students may decide not to go to school this year because of a serious housing shortage, college officials say.

"I anticipate an extraordinary housing crunch in August and we may even lose students because they won't be able to find a place to live," said Graydon Stanley, high school and community relations director for CSI.

Stanley said Magic Valley's housing shortage will get much worse once college students start coming back to school seeking rental housing, he said.

All college residence halls are filled and have waiting lists for fall, he said.

Last year the local rental market was saturated and students were finding it difficult to find places to live by Aug. 1.

In the past, rentals started filling up about a month before school started, but rentals were scarce this year in May, he said.

Stanley said his office has contacted several housing complexes in Twin Falls and the surrounding towns and they already have long waiting lists.

"I don't know of anyone who has rentals available," said Tom Lewis, owner of the property management company Lewis and Associates. "We haven't had a place to rent for a month."

It doesn't matter whether people are looking for condominiums or one-, two- or three-bedroom homes or apartments, they're not available, he said.

Buhl, Fler and countryside housing is also scarce, Lewis said.

"It's almost more practical to buy a house than rent," he said.

Many students may be forced to commute from as far away as Burley, which also has somewhat of a housing shortage. He knows of one student already who is commuting from Murtaugh, he said.

Lewis said the booming economy has lured workers from more depressed areas of the country, all looking for work.

He said he knows of at least one white-collar worker who is living out of a hotel.

Stanley said the college is working with the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce's housing committee and hopes community leaders will be encouraged to develop more rental housing.

Meantime, the college is welcoming listings from local residents who have houses for rent, or people who would like to trade baby-sitting services for room and board, he said.

Trans IV could drop school-oriented runs

By Craig Lincoln
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Subsidy cutbacks may force the Magic Valley's public-transit system to cut its most popular service — getting school children to and from day-care centers.

The Trans IV bus system is caught between cuts in federal subsidies and increases in liability insurance premiums. It has been warning of service cuts, and may have to target some school-oriented routes.

"It's a great deal of the business," Trans IV Manager Charlie Chambers said. Although the bus system's day-care and school service accounts for 50 percent of its business, the Trans IV's federal grants require the system to give priority to the elderly and handicapped.

Chambers plans to ask for money from city and county governments in its five-county service area. If the city councils and county commissions aren't interested, "it's a very good likelihood" Trans IV will cut back on its school-related services.

Trans IV's federal grants peaked in 1986 at $139,000. The 11-bus fleet received $105,000 for 1990 and has been notified that its 1991 grant will be $84,000.

Meanwhile, liability insurance increased $13,350, to $52,289 in this year's budget. That's 14 percent of its $367,493 budget.

Extended forecast: Southern Idaho — Monday through Wednesday, fair and continued warm. Highs in the 90s cooling slightly into the upper 80s to lower 90s Wednesday. Lows mid-50s to mid-60s.

Northern Utah and Nevada: Utah — Today and tonight partly cloudy with a slight chance of thundershowers mainly afternoon and evening. Highs 90-95 and lows in 60s. Sunday fair to partly cloudy. Highs 90-95.

Nevada: Flash-flood watch central portion until 8 p.m. scattered thundershowers through this evening. Locally heavy rain and possible flash flooding central. Partly cloudy overnight. Scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms today and Sunday. Highs upper 80s to around 104. Overnight lows mostly upper 50s to upper 60s.

Weather summary

A weak trough of low pressure moved through Idaho Thursday night and Friday morning producing cloudy skies and scattered precipitation across the state. Skies were mostly cloudy Friday morning, but clouds gave way to clearing skies in the west as the morning progressed and temperatures rose as the day progressed. Eastern Idaho remained partly cloudy. Precipitation was scattered through the north and central mountain regions with Coeur d'Alene reporting the most precipitation with 1.3 inch. Other reporting stations received from .01 to .06 inch of rain. Overnight low temperatures were on the warm side with the lowest reported 47 at both Fairfield and North Star. Lewiston had the warmest overnight with 74 degrees. The hottest temperature in the state Friday was 103 degrees at Caldwell, Emmett and Weiser. Fairfield reported the coolest at 47 degrees. Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the highest temperature was 112 degrees at Bullhead City, Ariz., and Laughlin, Nev. The lowest was 38 at Custer, S.D.

Locally heavy rains drench eastern sections of nation

The Associated Press

More locally heavy rain fell over parts of the eastern half of the nation Friday, and temperatures dipped to record lows from the Plains to New England.

In the East, showers and thundershowers continued to develop along and ahead of a slow moving cold front curving through the central Gulf Coast states, the southern Ohio Valley and the middle Atlantic coast region during the morning and early afternoon.

Showers and thundershowers were developing along the same cold front over the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas, and storms were clustered over a few parts of the lower and middle Mississippi Valley.

Heavier rainfall totals for the six hours up to 2 p.m. EDT included 2.65 inches at Apalachicola, Fla., 2.48 inches at Panama City, Fla., 1.48 inches at Knoxville, Tenn., and 1.44 inches at Montgomery, Ala.

It was unseasonably cool east of the Rockies, with afternoon temperatures generally in the upper 60s and 70s. Temperatures in the 80s and lower 90s were primarily confined to southern Texas, the central Gulf Coast states, and the southern Atlantic Coast region.

Temperatures were not as unseasonably hot as they have been in the Pacific Northwest, where afternoon readings were mostly in the 80s and 90s. However, temperatures again soared above 100 in the valleys of northern and central California and the desert Southwest.

Overnight lows dipped below 60 across most of the area from the Rocky Mountain region to New England, with lows in the 40s reported in the northern and central Plains, the Great Lakes, and the northern Atlantic Coast.

Record lows for the date were set at Bridgeport, Conn., 57; Dallas-Fort Worth, 64; Dodge City, Kan., 46; Duluth, Minn., 39; St. Cloud, Minn., 44; and Goodland, Kan., 43. The previous record at St. Cloud had stood since 1897.

Crop insurance out of farm bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee on Friday approved $50.4 billion for agriculture spending in fiscal 1991, but angered House Agriculture Committee leaders by virtually eliminating crop insurance.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., said an amendment to restore funding would be offered during full House debate if the program is not reinstated.

Senate defense bill calls for cuts in Star Wars, troops in Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee approved a $289 billion defense bill Friday that would cut U.S. troop strength in Europe and reduce President Bush's 1991 budget request for Star Wars.

The panel, responding to the lessening Soviet threat overseas and economic demands at home, unanimously agreed to slash $18 billion from Bush's proposal of $307 billion in military spending for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

"This is the most sweeping degree of change we've seen in a defense bill that I've had anything to do with since I've been in the Senate," committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said in announcing completion of the legislation.

Among the decisions reached in an all-night, closed session that ended early Friday was approval of the administration's request for the B-2 stealth bomber, a significant cut in the MX rail-garrison nuclear missile program and a delay in production of the C-17 transport plane.

But the surprise was the committee's action on the issue of the nation's 2.1 million men and women in uniform.

The panel, by a vote of 15-5, approved reducing the level of 311,855 troops stationed in Europe to 261,855, a cut of 50,000 by Sept. 30, 1991.

In negotiations with the Soviet Union on reducing conventional forces in Europe, Bush has proposed cutting the number of U.S. troops to 225,000 — 195,000 in the central front and 30,000 elsewhere in Europe. The reductions would be achieved within the time frame of a conventional forces treaty, but negotiations between the two superpowers have stalled.

The committee also included a provision that would allow Bush to refuse to reduce troops in Europe if he believes the cut isn't in the nation's security interests.

The panel approved a total personnel cut of 100,000, more than three times the 38,000 the Pentagon proposed for 1991, and set a fiscal 1995 target of 1.6 military personnel, a reduction of nearly 475,000 from current levels.

The committee also:

- Deferred procurement of the C-17 transport plane because of development and testing delays, for a savings of $1.8 billion.
- Trimmed $150 million from the more than $400 million request for the H1 helicopter and directed the Army to postpone full-scale development and fly a prototype first.
- Eliminated procurement funds for the A-12 aircraft for a savings of $1.5 billion.
- Approved $238 million in research and development money for the V-22 Osprey, the tilt-rotor aircraft Bush proposed canceling.
- Deleted all new funds for chemical weapons production.
- Killed an Energy Department request for $65 million to build a new plutonium facility at Rocky Flats, Colo.

INEL study of radiation not released

By N. S. Nokkentved
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Results of a radiation release study at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory have not yet been released.

Preliminary results, however, indicate guidelines in the past did not exceed releases in effect at the time, according to Bob Tiler, deputy manager at INEL.

Allowable release standards at the time were set in relation to Soviet-American above-ground nuclear weapons tests.

NEL released radiation studies at the Hanford Nuclear Reservation in Washington state indicate releases there were high enough to cause illnesses including cancer.

A number of accidents and experiments at INEL over the years have revealed significant amounts of radioactive materials including iodine-131, which was the subject of the Hanford study.

Iodine-131 has been linked to thyroid disease including cancer. No figures on the total releases of radioactive iodine-131 from INEL were available Friday.

From 1952 to 1981, releases of various radioactive materials at INEL included 13,021,730 curies in airborne releases and 82,950,970 curies in solid and liquid radioactivity.

A curie is a measure of radioactivity.

The INEL study, however, differs significantly from the dose reconstruction studies at Hanford.

The historical dose evaluation now being completed at INEL tries to find the maximum dose a person may have received from releases. The Hanford dose reconstruction tries to estimate the doses people actually received.

The Hanford study showed some infants may have received as much as 2300 rads, "a rad is a measurement of absorbed radiation comparable to the dose received from a dozen chest X-rays.

That dose estimate is based, in part, on release of 530,000 curies of radioactive iodine-131 from 1944 to 1955 at Hanford — an amount comparable to the radioactive iodine released by the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear plant accident in the Soviet Union.

Leaders of the Hanford plant during those years consistently maintained that civilians living in the surrounding area beyond the boundaries were safe.

The 1979 accident at the Three Mile Island accident released about 15 curies of radioactive iodine.

Abortion measure may become unsigned law

The Associated Press

BATON ROUGE, La. — Gov. Buddy Roemer said Friday he will not sign the nation's strictest state anti-abortion bill, but may allow it to become law without his signature.

A state official, meanwhile, said the bill would mean while allow exceptions for the options to two. I will either veto the bill or allow it to become law without my signature," Roemer said in a statement.

He has until July 29 to decide whether to veto it.

Roemer said that although the bill provides exceptions for pregnancies resulting from rape and incest, he was not happy with provisions of the legislation and the way the Legislature passed it during the closing days of its session.

Roemer, who originally requested a 30-day period in which a woman would be allowed to report a rape and have an abortion later, said he was not happy with the bill's seven-day provision.

He also said he believed the bill did not do enough to protect a woman's mental health.

"It's an issue that gives me great concern," he said. "It's part of the discussion of how complex this is. At the very minimum, the mother's physical health has to be taken care of. Mental health of the mother is a legitimate point of discussion and has always been a concern to me."

The bill calls for up to 10 years in prison and fines of up to $100,000 for doctors who perform abortions.

Roemer vetoed a measure that allowed exceptions only to protect the life of a mother. The Legislature hastily assembled and passed the measure that Roemer now says he won't sign.

Louisiana Attorney General William Guste said Thursday he discussed the measure with the anti-abortion measure.

An assistant state attorney general, Jennifer Schay, said the bill would prohibit the use of intrauterine devices, or IUDs.

Hanford

Records of a December 1948 meeting of the AEC's advisory committee for biology and medicine indicate that the manager of a nuclear weapons plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., recommended that workers leaving jobs at Hanford and Oak Ridge be told if they exceeded radiation exposure limits and that medical assistance be provided if former workers developed radiation-related illnesses.

The AEC committee rejected the recommendation, suggesting instead that "a terminating employee should be advised at the exit interview as to the care that the AEC utilizes in protecting each employee," according to official records of the meeting.

The commission also rejected a recommendation by the biology and medicine advisory panel that studies be conducted on possible links between cancer and Hanford workers' exposure to radiation, the records show.

The AEC records were cited in a December 1989 report by the Democratic majority staff of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee that recommended the Energy Department release more of its long-secret data on radiation releases at Hanford.

Gene Plock, who worked as an engineer at Hanford's plutonium-processing buildings from 1946 to 1950, said in an interview Friday that he and others in his work were informed of the emissions problem in late 1946 — months after it was discovered by General Electric, a government contractor.

Plock said he and some other workers there began wearing protective masks.

When he recommended that military guards outside the building also be informed and required to wear protective masks, he said GE officials rejected his suggestion.

"Their response was, 'No, let's not alarm them,'" he said.

The Hanford study released Thursday contains the most specific information known to the public about radiation releases at that facility, but it tells only part of the story.

"We've got to get children working parents who can't afford fare increases, Chambers said.

Help from local governments doesn't appear likely.

"We have not gotten a positive response," Chambers said.

"Two of our city's primary city budget, used to be presented to the council, doesn't include any Trans IV funding, City Manager Tom Courtney said.

"Frankly, our revenues are not growing fast enough to offset the increasing need for new services," he said. "Basically what that means is we have to cut an existing service in the city to provide a new service."

Trans IV is in its second decade of operation. It is a department of the College of Southern Idaho, but the college doesn't directly fund it, except for $15,000 this year for liability insurance premiums.

Old Bush friend meeting with son Neil on S&L controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Thomas L. Ashley said Friday he has been regularly advising Neil Bush on his savings and loan troubles as "a good sounding board" and longtime family friend — but not at President Bush's request.

Ashley, a banking industry official who was a college classmate of the president's, denied a published report that Bush had asked him to intervene and counsel his son. But he also said the president was well aware of his activity.

Meanwhile Friday, Democrats got the 12th signature needed to petition the Justice Department for a special prosecutor to look into the collapse of a Denver savings and loan where Neil Bush had been a director.

And Democratic House Speaker Thomas S. Foley lashed back at a Republican effort to force the president to let the Democrats were to blame for a national S&L crisis expected to cost taxpayers hundreds of billions of dollars.

Ed Rollins, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, said the Democrats had sold out "for a few million dollars in campaign contributions." But Foley, D-Wash., angrily dismissed Rollins on Thursday as "in a panic... an out of control person."

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., one of 12 petition signers representing a majority of Democrats on the Judiciary Committee, said their request to Attorney General Dick Thornburgh was made because "the people have a right to feel we're doing everything to get impartial justice done."

She said there is a public sense that in the S&L mess and now the aftermath, "it's who you know, not what you know or what you've done."

Thornburgh has 15 days to decide whether to open a preliminary inquiry to determine if a special prosecutor should be appointed, then another 15 days to tell Congress how he acted on its request. He has 90 days from start of the preliminary inquiry to determine whether to appoint an independent counsel.

Neil Bush
A director of failed S&L

Tempera on all sides have risen as more attention has been given to Neil Bush, who faces a public disciplinary hearing before federal regulators in September on his role as a director of the bankrupt Silverado Banking, Savings and Loan.

He has been accused of conflict of interest but has said he has done nothing wrong. His father, the president, has twice defended his "honor and integrity" during news conferences but has promised to stay out of the investigation.

Ashley, a former Democratic congressman from Ohio, said Friday, "I've talked to the president (about the situation) on a couple of social occasions, when we're alone... I talk about the kids. Neil's one of the kids."

Ashley said that his own experience in politics and in bank regulation made him a good source of advice for Neil Bush. "The situation is such that he can't go to his father and talk to him," Ashley said.

The Denver Post reported on Friday that Ashley, a college classmate of George Bush's at Yale, had talked to the younger Bush at the president's request before Neil Bush was questioned last December by federal banking regulators.

The newspaper attributed the report to comments by Neil Bush himself, in a deposition taken by the Office of Thrift Supervision.

However, Ashley said called the report "absolutely inaccurate" and added, "If Neil thinks his father called me, he's mistaken."

Ashley, 67, is president of the Association of Bank Holding Companies, a banking lobbying organization based in Washington. The organization generally does not get involved in savings and loan issues, Ashley said.

He said he contacted Neil Bush on his own last winter after reading about his troubles in newspapers.

Since then, "I've seen Neil a half dozen times. We talk about it," Ashley said.

He said he is not trying to serve as a go-between for Neil Bush and the president, nor trying to influence any decisions. "I'm too smart for that," Ashley said.

Ashley said that Neil Bush has made up his own mind in the matter, including his decision to fight the case and refusal to negotiate an out-of-court settlement.

"I'm a good sounding board," he said. "It's not a partisan matter or he wouldn't be coming to a Democrat."

Senate approves disabilities act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation hailed as an "Emancipation Proclamation" for 43 million disabled Americans cleared its final congressional hurdle Friday, and President Bush was expected to sign it into law as early as next week.

"It will change the way we live forever," Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, said after the Senate voted 91-6 to approve the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Voting against the bill were: Sens. Christopher S. Bond, R-Mo.; Jake Garn, R-Utah; Jesse Helms, R-N.C.; Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H.; Steve Symms, R-Idaho; and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.

Not voting were Sens. Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va.; James A. McClure, R-Idaho; and Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the bill would allow millions of people to "look forward to the day when they will be judged by the strength of their abilities, not misconceptions about their disabilities."

The bill defines as disabled anyone who has a mental or physical impairment limiting "some" major life function. It protects the disabled from discrimination in employment, public accommodations, transportation and telecommunications.

"This legislation will serve as a declaration of independence for millions of persons with disabilities in this country," Bush said Friday.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said the president would sign the bill into law as soon as a ceremony could be arranged — probably as early as next week.

Throughout the more than nine months of debate, various lawmakers spoke of disabled friends and relatives. Just before the final Senate vote Friday, Harkin gave a dramatic tribute to his brother Frank, who is deaf.

Harkin, chief Senate sponsor of the bill he termed a "20th century Emancipation Proclamation," addressed his colleagues in sign language: "I wanted to say to my brother Frank that today was my proudest day in 16 years in Congress."

Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, a principal Republican co-sponsor, became misty-eyed when he spoke of the travails and accomplishments of a brother-in-law who has polio.

The disabilities bill, like other major civil rights legislation, includes a variety of sanctions for violators, including those found to have been engaged in job discrimination.

It follows current civil rights law by allowing victims of employment discrimination to seek back pay, reinstatement and attorneys' fees.

Hubble probe could be long-lasting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of NASA's investigation of the Hubble Space Telescope's blurred vision said Friday it may take more than six months to pinpoint the error but that the probe should reveal what went wrong and who was responsible.

Dr. Lew Allen, chairman of the NASA review panel, told a House panel the results of the investigation could prove "very embarrassing" to those responsible for the flaw. "We are confident we have the ability to find the error" and determine responsibility, he said.

Allen, making his first congressional appearance since the probe began, testified before the House Committee on Science, Space and Technology.

The most likely problem, Allen said, is an error in the curvature of the telescope's primary 94-inch mirror that makes it impossible to properly focus the $1.5 billion observatory.

The margin of error is microscopic to the human eye, but enough to make the telescope's vision no better than quality observatories on the ground. The mistake makes it impossible to focus light from all parts of the mirror onto one point.

Quayle says Vietnam veterans sacrificed more than he did

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle told families of missing servicemen Friday that he'll never apologize for his Vietnam-era service in the National Guard, but that those who fought made a "far, far greater" sacrifice than he.

Quayle noted his National Guard service, which became an issue in the 1988 presidential campaign, in a speech opening the 21st annual meeting of the 3,650-member National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

"As you know, during the Vietnam era, I served in the Indiana National Guard," he said. "And while I have not apologized, and never will, for my National Guard service, I recognize that the members of my generation who served in Vietnam made a sacrifice for their country that was far, far greater than mine."

"The men and women who served in Vietnam were heroes — not just because of their deeds of valor — but because they served at a time when words like duty, honor and country had lost their meaning for many," Quayle said. "For the rest of my life, I will live in admiration of their courage."

As George Bush's running mate, Quayle was dogged by accusations that he avoided combat duty by joining the National Guard.

The issue surfaced again May 9 when some members of the American Legion of Paris boycotted a ceremony commemorating the late President Eisenhower's World War II service as Supreme Allied Commander. The vice president spoke at the ceremony in the French capital.

Quayle, who was to speak later Friday to the Republican National Committee in Chicago, also told the POW-MIA group that the "fullest possible accounting" of missing servicemen "will continue to be a matter of highest national priority until we achieve success."

"We will do everything a government can do to recover your loved ones," he said. "And, if we discover proof of captivity, action will be taken to bring our men home."

He added, however, that U.S. efforts "can be fully productive only if Vietnam makes the political decision truly to cooperate with us."

U.S. to examine possible MIA remains

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of U.S. experts will travel to Cambodia July 24 to examine the remains of what may be American servicemen unaccounted for from the Vietnam War, it was announced Friday.

The visit is the first of its kind since the communist triumph in Cambodia in 1975.

The initiative was disclosed by Sen. Charles Robb, D-Va., who visited Cambodia earlier this year to appeal for cooperation in obtaining an accounting of the 83 Americans missing and believed dead in that country.

The United States has received cooperation from Vietnam and Laos on the MIA issue. All told, the three countries account for 2,302 missing Americans.

State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said he did not know how many sets of remains the American experts will be invited to examine in Cambodia.

He said the mission was strictly humanitarian in nature. But a senior State Department official, asking not to be identified, said the gesture by the Cambodian government apparently was aimed at achieving increased international recognition.

Boucher said that if any of the remains appear likely to be those of Americans, a U.S. Air Force plane will repatriate them to Hawaii for further analysis.

Politician says census not accurate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1990 census has been riddled with inaccuracies and omissions that will render it the worst national head count in U.S. history, Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., charged Friday.

"The magnitude of the (census) bureau's mission does not excuse it from the sorts of logistical and bureaucratic gaffes we have witnessed over the past few months," Schumer told the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee.

But Barbara Everitt Bryant, acting Census Bureau director, stressed that the tally isn't finished and "the fat lady has not sung."

"This has been a well-planned census, despite what some detractors said," she said.

The hearing was to confirm Bryant as head of the Census Bureau and to assess progress of the nose count to date.

Jury awards $52 million in Ford infringement case

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. was ordered Friday to pay nearly $5.2 million to the inventor of intermittent windshield wipers because the automaker unintentionally infringed on his patents.

They have no interest in paying for innovations," said Dennis Kearns, the inventor's oldest son.

Robert Kearns, a former Wayne State University professor who lives in Gaithersburg, Md., was absent when the jury announced the award. The verdict could have wide implications because Kearns has similar suits pending against more than 25 other companies.

"It follows the standard of the auto industry, but I don't think that's fair. They have no interest in paying for innovations," said Dennis Kearns, the inventor's oldest son.

City of Rocks ceremony features Idaho senator

OAKLEY — Idaho Sen. James McClure will preside during a ceremony today recognizing Oakley's Silent City of the Rocks as a federal historic reserve.

The ceremony is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. within the City of the Rocks park, about one-half to 1 mile south of Bath Rock. A barbecue will follow.

To reach the City of the Rocks from DeLo, drive south on Highway 77 then follow the signs for Elba.

Now a haven for rock climbers, the area's granite pyramids and spires attracted American pioneers who scribbled their names into the rocks. Unfortunately, modern-day vandals have continued the tradition using spray-paint.

Two years ago, McClure was the sponsor and a key negotiator on legislation to bring the City of the Rocks under federal management and protection.

The bill passed Congress in fall 1988 and was signed into law by President Reagan. State Sen. Denton Darrington, R-DeLo, said McClure will present members of the Cassia County Historical Society with letters and the pen Reagan used in signing the legislation.

Pair of 14-year-olds charged in connection with burglaries

JEROME — Two 14-year-olds have been charged in connection with a string of burglaries around town during the last week.

Each Jerome boy was charged with six counts of first-degree burglary and one count of grand theft, Jerome Police Chief George Silver III said.

Huber Feed Service and Jerome Junior High School were each burglarized twice the night of July 5, Silver said. The same night, a bicycle was stolen from a residence in the 800 block of South Cleveland Street. The junior high school was burglarized again on July 6.

Berger & Co. was broken into on either July 10 or 11, the police chief said.

Total loss in each burglary was less than $250, he said.

The boys were charged with the crimes after a citizen called Crime Stoppers and led police to one of the youths, Silver said.

Rollover sends Oregon woman to hospital with broken back

HAZELTON — A pickup that rolled on Interstate 84 Friday morning sent an Oregon woman to the hospital with a broken back, the Idaho State Police said.

Gretchen Hurm, 17, of Powell Butte, Ore., was in fair and stable condition Friday evening at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, a spokeswoman said.

The eastbound pickup was driven by Shawn Storey, 17, who fell asleep at the wheel at 6 a.m. near the Valley Road exit, a state police dispatcher said. The pickup went off the left side of the road, then Storey overcorrected and the truck rolled once, the dispatcher said.

Storey and a second passenger, Irene Hurmer, 45, were treated and released from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. They are both from Powell Butte, Oregon.

Four cows in an attached horse trailer rolled with the truck but were not injured, the dispatcher said.

Centennial Fountain runs dry while workers finish projects

TWIN FALLS — The Centennial Fountain in City Park has run dry while city workers install a tank float, signs and drain.

The float will raise the water to the proper level in the fountain's 1,600-gallon tank, said City Parks and Recreation Director Chad Browning. The signs ask park patrons to not play in the fountain. Children and adults alike have been seen splashing in the holding pond, sitting in the water trough and climbing the lava rocks surrounding the fountain.

Browning advises people that the water in the fountain is recirculated and is not filtered. Those playing in the water might be taking a health risk.

Monday, crews will put a drain in the grass on the northeast side of the fountain where a quagmire has formed from wind blowing water on the lawn.

The fountain should be running again on Tuesday morning, Browning said.

Thieves take various items from Main Avenue business

TWIN FALLS — Petty cash, a coffee table and a VCR were stolen from Banner Furniture on Main Avenue East sometime Wednesday night, according to a police report.

The thief, or thieves, smashed glass doors to enter the building, the report said. The burglary occurred between 6:15 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday.

Damage to the doors is $1,000. The stolen property is worth $700, the report said.

Psychiatrist says Odiaga not fit to assist in defense

By Anita Dennis
Times-News writer

HAILEY — A psychiatrist for the state has found that Mitchell John Odiaga is not fit to assist in the defense of the first-degree murder charges against him, Blaine County Public Defender Brian Elkins said Friday afternoon.

Elkins said he learned of the evaluation through his own mental health examiner who is also testing Odiaga. He did not know state psychiatrist Dr. Michael E. Estes' exact diagnosis.

"They need to stabilize him first, but he's definitely having fibril psychotic episodes and he's not able to assist counsel," Elkins said.

Neither Estes nor Blaine County Prosecutor Ned Williamson could be reached for comment.

Thirty-five-year-old Odiaga, of Boise, was indicted this week on two counts of first-degree murder, one count of attempted first-degree murder and three counts of aggravated assault.

Odiaga is also charged with a misdemeanor, reckless driving.

He was initially charged with only one count of aggravated assault — driving a 1986 Oldsmobile Cutlass at Ketchum Police Officer Kelly Wilson.

The two additional counts charge that Odiaga aimed a rifle at a man north of Galena Summit early Saturday morning, June 23, and at three people on Ketchum streets Friday night, June 22 — a 16-year-old boy from Ketchum, an 18-year-old woman from Hailey and a 20-year-old California man.

Earlier that night, Jerrold "Shenandoah" Wright, of Ketchum, and Bruce Tate Schaffer, of Burley, were killed in apparent random slayings on Ketchum streets.

Odiaga was taken to the state prison in Boise last week for evaluations by Estes and by a psychiatrist or licensed psychologist of his own choice. Estes was to report to the court whether Odiaga understands the proceedings against him and can assist in his defense.

Elkins declined to identify his independent evaluator, but said the evaluator has not yet made a diagnosis.

Odiaga will now be medicated and committed to the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Elkins said.

"My position is I want him to be kept at the Idaho Secure Medical Facility, just because he's close to both evaluators," he said.

After the evaluations are completed, Elkins said Odiaga will probably return to Blaine County to be arraigned in district court, and further proceedings will be suspended until he is stabilized and can assist counsel, Elkins said.

"I think today's decisions are critical because now the focus will turn to the issue of mens rea," he said.

Mens rea is the Latin term for the criminal intent element of first-degree murder.

Elkins and Williamson met briefly Friday morning with 5th District Magistrate Judge Barry Wood, who turned the case over to 5th District Judge James J. May.

After the hearing, Williamson said he had not decided whether to seek the death penalty for Odiaga.

Police arrest Hansen man after gunshots

By Kirk Mitchell
Times-News writer

HAISEN — A Hansen man has pleaded guilty to driving under the influence and malicious destruction of property a day after the solitude of a Hansen neighborhood was shattered by gunshots.

John Bamberg, 534 Wiseman St., pleaded guilty Friday before 5th District Magistrate Judge Charles Brumback to charges of drunken driving, driving without a license and malicious destruction of property. Court Clerk Dorothy McMullen said.

All the charges are misdemeanors, she said.

Bamberg was being held Friday in the Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail. His sentencing date has not been set, McMullen said.

Hansen Police Chief Dan Kennedy said that a man was driving recklessly up and down Wiseman Street.

The Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department, the Kimberly Police Department and the U.S. Border Patrol helped in the arrest, he said.

Neighbors reported hearing two or three gunshots and a loud argument coming from Bamberg's house at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

A relative of Bamberg's neighbor, whom Kennedy declined to identify, told police he was driving his car out of the neighborhood when a man ran out in front of his car and started cursing at him.

The man then struck the neighbor's relative in the face without provocation, Kennedy said.

Kennedy said Bamberg's wife refused to speak with him about the shootings, to which there were no other witnesses. He said no one suffered gunshot wounds in the incident.

Abandoned house's neighbor helpless in controlling weeds

By H.R. Weixel
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — A local resident says he has talked to every official in Jerome, but can't get any help with the abandoned, rodent-plagued house next door that he claims is a fire hazard.

"There is rotten food in the house and rodents all over the place, and with this hot weather it really smells," Lawrence Peyton, 37, said during a press conference he called at his own home Friday.

Some of yard around the abandoned green house is black from a July 4 grass fire, apparently set by kids with fireworks. The fire department quickly responded to Peyton's 911 call and doused the fire.

But the fire department didn't do anything about the real problem of getting rid of the dead weeds, which are a fire hazard, Peyton claimed.

There is little yard between the vacant house and Peyton's home, and the weeds nearly reach Peyton's house.

Jerome Fire Chief Jim Auclair said his department has inspected the property, located at 130 East Avenue F, but cannot do anything without the owners' permission.

Police Chief George Silver said his department cannot do anything without the owners' permission either.

But no one can find the owners, listed as William and Elizabeth Clifford, according to Silver.

Silver said the Cliffords are somewhere in Nevada.

He also said the city has had weed control people as well as animal control people at the house. And he said the health department has also investigated, but found no mice or rats.

During his own investigation, Silver said he found a large cat living under the back steps.

"I assume if the cat is doing well, the mice and rats are not," he said.

The Lomus Mortgage Company in Dallas, Texas, will foreclose on the house Friday. Please see NEIGHBOR/16

County balks at matching city's airport contribution

By Phil Sahn
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Commission wants to see a list of administrative costs for the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport before matching the city's $71,000 commitment toward the airport's budget for next year.

The commission met with airport manager Ron Madsen and Twin Falls City Manager Tom Courtney Friday afternoon to discuss the airport's fiscal 1990-91 budget. Courtney told the commission the city incurs a number of costs — liability and property insurance, fire protection, computer services, for example — that don't get charged back to the airport.

To make up the costs, the city transfers money into its general fund from the airport fund. These administrative costs are estimated at $54,160 for the 1990-91 budget, Courtney said.

"If we can see a line item of the (administrative) expenses, I personally wouldn't see any problem with the $71,000," Commission member James Friley said. Courtney agreed to work up a list detailing the costs.

The county has scaled back its support of the airport in recent years, leaving the city to pay a greater share of the costs. In some years the city has provided more than three times as much money as the county has toward the airport budget, according to the Courtney's figures.

"The county, like the city, has a lot of demands on it and can only stretch the dollars so far," Courtney said. "If the city were to make similar reductions in its (airport) commitment, there would be a significant reduction in the level of ser-

Father says his arrest 'freaked out' juveniles, prompting flight

The Associated Press

HAILEY — The father of a 16-year-old boy who along with a 17-year-old friend eluded authorities for nearly a week says his arrest on theft and forgery charges prompted the boys' flight and their knowledge of the outdoors helped the juveniles remain at large until giving up Wednesday.

Thomas Shepherd said the police cars descending on his central Idaho mountain camp northeast of here to arrest him on July 5 "freaked out" the boys and they "lit out," heading to a cache where they had weapons and sleeping bags stored.

Shepherd, in an interview at the Pioneer Mountains camp near Hailey, said the boys stayed at a hidden camp until Saturday night, when with him still in jail they believed they had no choice but to "get out of the country."

A friend finally baited Shepherd out last Monday. Shepherd has denied the grand theft and forgery charges against him.

He made his comments about the flight of his son in an interview with the Idaho Falls Post Register.

Shepherd's son and the 17-year-old from Florida were facing charges under juvenile laws of grand theft, forgery, burglary and possession of stolen property.

Their flight just ahead of Shepherd's arrest prompted a massive manhunt in eastern and central Idaho that left authorities baffled until the pair finally got tired of running and surrendered to the Blaine County Sheriff's Department late Wednesday.

Shepherd said police were close to them several times over that period, and at one point he said a helicopter equipped with a sophisticated infrared tracker that detects heat repeatedly flew right over the boys without determining their presence.

He said the boys told him they were lying so still on the ground and were so cold that the device failed to detect them.

A combination of divine intervention, his son's knowledge of survival techniques and the street savvy of the 17-year-old boy enabled them to elude authorities for as long as they wanted, Shepherd said.

"I taught my sons survival skills so they could live at peace with Mother Earth," Shepherd said. "My son chose to use his skills wrongly."

Sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning, the two came out of the mountains and police claim they stole a Jeep in Ketchum to drive to Madison County where Shepherd said he has relatives.

On Sunday, the search turned to Madison County after the Jeep was found wrecked east of Rexburg. But the focus was back in Blaine County after a truck the pair allegedly stole from a Madison County farm was found wrecked near Gannett Monday.

Shepherd said the boys had been trying to make contact with him now that he had been freed from jail, but they kept spotting police when they made attempts.

Then they went into the Deer Creek area to try to make contact with the caretaker they trusted at the Fawn Creek Ranch, where they once worked, he said. When police searched the Deer Creek area on Tuesday, the boys escaped up the creek.

Finally on Wednesday night, they made contact with the caretaker, who brought Shepherd to them, and Shepherd said he persuaded them to surrender after hearing their story.

Air conditioner repairs will bring chills to courthouse

TWIN FALLS — A cold front is expected to move through the County Courthouse this weekend when the building's air conditioner comes back on line.

"Monday should be a good day" for county workers, said Commissioner Marvin Hempleman. "We hope to chill the building this weekend."

The air conditioner broke a couple of years ago and has not been used yet this summer. Workers tore the air conditioner apart last spring for inspection by the insurance company, the commissioner said. The air conditioner's chiller is being replaced.

The $59,000 project is contracted to be finished by Tuesday. The county is waiting to hear whether the insurance company will pay for the job. Hempleman said he expects the job to be covered by insurance.

JEROME — W.E. Shawver, 82 of Jerome, died Thursday, July 12, 1990, at St. Benedict's Hospital Medical Center of an extended illness.

He was born Dec. 30, 1907, in Sadowia, Ore., the son of Ernest E. and Agnes Lillian Shawver. At the age of 2 months, he traveled with his family to Jerome by covered wagon, where he had since resided. He married Thelma Swainston on Oct. 14, 1930, in Salt Lake City. They moved to Jerome and farmed in the Magic Valley. They moved north of Jerome, where he raised beef and dairy cattle and farmed. He moved to Jerome in 1968. He was employed as a custodian at First Security Bank. In 1973 they worked together as custodians at Idaho First National Bank. He retired in 1980.

Surviving are his wife of Jerome; one son, Richard W. Shawver; one daughter, Linda F. Montgomery; and one sister, Jeanne Heuer, all of Jerome; five grandchildren; three step-grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and four step-great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents and two sisters.

Wendell City Council, fire district defining which controls fire chief

By Terrell Williams
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — The City Council and Wendell Rural Fire District are working together to decide who will give orders to the fire chief of the joint rural-city fire department.

"We'll draw up an ordinance when a decision is made about who will have control of the fire chief," Mayor George Benson, said Thursday.

The letter was not made public. Benson later said the problem is a lack of communication and a lack of cooperation between the fire chief and the city.

Continuing this dispute at the council meeting Thursday, Benson read a letter from city attorney Craig Hobbey.

"There is certainly nothing in Idaho case law pursuant to Idaho Code regarding the removal of the letter of reprimand from the personnel file," Hobbey wrote.

"In order to placate all parties, I would advise that the letter of reprimand be left in the current file and that a new file be started. Personally, I can see no point in belaboring this matter any further."

Interpreting the letter after the meeting, Benson said, "Our attorney advises us to leave that letter in there and stop all this foolishness."

He declined to say whether or not the letter of reprimand is still in Hosack's file.

Hosack said Friday that he does not understand the purpose of the letter, but he is not worried about it being in his file.

"I really could care less, one way or the other," Hosack said.

"There are no problems" on my end" with the fire department, he said, and the dispute with Benson appears to be a misunderstanding.

"I think he's, I don't know, new to the job. I guess you could say," Hosack explained. "It takes a while to figure out what's going on."

The rural-city fire department is complex and this is a sensitive issue, Hosack said.

"I think everybody will get settled down and everything will quiet down and be all right."

The fire chief said he and Benson have not talked about the alleged problems since Benson gave Hosack the letter in May.

In other business:

The council received an appraisal of the drug store building, but did not make the figure public. The city is considering purchasing the building for a new city hall, library and police station.

Benson said the figures will be made public after the full council has considered and discussed it. Councilman Larry Osborn was absent Thursday and Councilman Dale Bunn; who was ill, attended only to provide a quorum to pay bills. One of the bills paid was $925 for the appraisal, paid by Mayer & Associates of Twin Falls.

This ordinance also will be a job description for the fire chief, he said. Until now, nothing on these two matters has ever been put into writing.

An agreement in the form of an ordinance will settle questions concerning the fire chief "without any more hassles," he said.

Councilman Larry Osborn and Wendell Rural Fire District Board Chairman Ralph May will work this month on an agreement that will "lay the groundwork" for the fire chief office, the mayor said.

At the June 28 council meeting, the council voted to remove a letter of reprimand from Fire Chief Keith Hosack's personnel file. Mayor Benson put the letter in Hosack's file without notifying or consulting the council.

Bridge jumper report a false alarm

By Anita Dennis
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A report of someone jumping off the Perrine Bridge on Thursday night turned out to be a false alarm.

"It was a misunderstanding," Twin Falls sheriff's Sgt. Steve Nutting said.

What a passing motorist believed to be a jumper was actually a 17-year-old boy holding onto the rail and sitting down on the sidewalk, Cpl. Bob Gauthier said.

The act was not done maliciously or with the intent to make someone think he was jumping, so the youth will not be charged, Gauthier said.

But both Twin Falls and Jerome county volunteer Search and Rescue teams combed the Snake River Canyon for a body Thursday night and Friday morning before clearing up the misunderstanding.

A motorist crossing the bridge at 11:30 p.m. phoned police to report that someone in the middle of the east side of the bridge appeared to have jumped off, Gauthier said.

Deputies from the Twin Falls and Jerome sheriff's offices as well as ambulances from both counties and the Idaho State Police were dispatched. At about 12:30 a.m., the search and rescue teams were called out.

They worked for about an hour before calling off the search until sunrise. At least two boats from each team searched for a body from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m.

Meanwhile, at the Twin Falls sheriff's office on Friday morning, Gauthier and Nutting re-interviewed two 17-year-old Twin Falls boys who were on the bridge at around 11:30 p.m. Thursday.

One of the boys had decided to sit on the sidewalk while talking to his buddy, who remained standing, Gauthier said. Then the second youth decided to sit down, holding onto the railing as he bent down.

To the passerby, the second youth appeared to have jumped, Gauthier said.

Chemical arms test halt affects Dugway

DUGWAY PROVING GROUND, Utah (AP) — Defense Secretary Dick Cheney's decision to halt U.S. chemical arms production and testing will put a stop to a planned open-air test at this desert installation, officials say.

Cheney ordered the halt Thursday because of the nation's unilateral agreement with the Soviet Union to halt chemical arms production," said Pentagon spokesman Lt. Col. Steve Roy.

Dugway officials had planned to test the "Bigeye" chemical bomb with simulated nuclear this fall, although Army documents have said the chemicals could drift over "buffer areas" on nearby public lands.

Dugway Proving Ground also tests the 155mm binary artillery shell, called the "678" shell, as well as a multiple-launch rocket system that would have a binary warhead.

Cheney's decision "would have an immediate effect in that we would stop those tests," said Dugway spokesman Dick Whitaker.

"It doesn't mean that Dugway will close by any stretch of the imagination. We have lots of other kinds of testing," he said. "This is a relatively small part of the testing we have going on at Dugway."

Among the continuing tests are non-chemical artillery and mortar shells, a new program on explosives technology, biological tests and a tactical weapons test program.

In addition, the sprawling post in Utah's desert is a training center for Army Rangers, regular Army units and the National Guard.

The halt was greeted with enthusiasm by Steve Erickson, spokesman for the military watchdog group Downwinders.

"That means they won't be doing any tests of the new binary chemical weapons systems, and there are several different binaries," he said Friday.

Democrat's Senate campaign picking up steam but trails Craig in financing

BOISE — Democrat Ron Twiggler, running for the U.S. Senate against Rep. Larry Craig, is nearing $300,000 in campaign spending, but still trails Craig in overall financing.

Twiggler's latest campaign finance report, covering contributions and spending through the end of June, was received by the secretary of state's office Friday afternoon. The latest report from Craig, who like Twiggler wants to succeed Republican Sen. James McClure in the Senate, hasn't been received yet.

Twiggler reported contributions this year of $134,888 and a cash balance of $7,530. But he reports overall spending of $178,242 and unpaid bills of $113,498, total spending of $291,740.

Twiggler also reported personal loans of $50,491 to help finance the campaign.

Craig's report through May 2 listed spending of $320,835 and a cash balance of more than $64,000. He listed no debts.

Twiggler showed contributions from political action committees of $60,500 and $175,000 from the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Craig's May 2 report listed $175,051 from political action committees. Twiggler reported $5,000 contributions from political action committees for campaigner, communication workers and food workers and $5,000 from the National Education Association. He also received $5,000 from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for the primary election, and the same amount for the general election.

Twiggler reported unpaid bills of at least $10,000 to a Massachusetts consulting company, Boise pollster David Ripley, Menzel-Higgins Communications of Boise and a New Mexico television production company.

day, Silver said. And 30 to 45 days after that, it will revert back to the Veterans Administration.

"The V.A. will want to get the house on the market, so realistically we're dealing with a short-term problem," Silver said.

The foreclosure attorney also told Silver the weeds should be cleared up in the next four to five days.

When the bank takes over the property, the fire department can work with the new owner under a city nuisance ordinance, Auclair commented.

The city of Jerome does not have a condemnation ordinance, only a nuisance code — but that does not allow any burning or anything else without the owner's permission, Auclair said.

Meanwhile, Peyton said he will keep a close eye on the house, and continue complaining to the police and anybody else who will listen.

Airport

"We are not supplying half the money to the bridge," County Commission Chairman Marvin Hempleman said recently. "The county cut back its support for a simple reason, he said. 'We chose to ... Money got tighter. We cut it back.'"

The airport benefits the whole county, said Fraley, but who uses it more, the city or the county? "They feel we don't give enough," he said. "I feel we do. The airport is one of the lifelines of the city."

A $71,000 commitment would be $16,000 more than the county gave toward the airport last year. The city contributed $68,000 and set aside another $127,000 to use toward matching federal grant money to install security gates, taxiway guidance signs and runway distance markers. Not all of the money will be used, Courtney said.

Crossman, Clawson called to serve missions for LDS church

TWIN FALLS — Two young people have been called to serve missions for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Sister Jennifer A. Crossman, daughter of Derryl and Elaine Crossman of Brea, Calif., and formerly of Twin Falls, will serve for 18 months in the South Korea Seoul Mission. She will speak in Sacramento meeting Sunday in Brea, Calif., and will enter the Mission Training Center in Provo, Utah, Wednesday.

Crossman is the granddaughter of Alice McIntyre of Twin Falls and was a student at Twin Falls High School before moving to California. Elder Chad W. Clawson, son of Margene and George Clawson of Twin Falls, will serve for two years in the Australia Brisbane Mission. He will speak in Sacramento Meeting at 9 a.m. July 22 at the Twin Falls 11th Ward Chapel, 847 Eastland Drive N., and will enter the MTC July 25.

Clawson

Clawson is a graduate of Twin Falls High School, is an Eagle Scout and was president of the Anasazi Explorer Post.

KIMBERLY — Redeemer Luther-

ing prisoners with inspirational services and Bible study materials at a 7 p.m. meeting Sunday at the Filer Mennonite Church, 109 Fifth St. The public is invited to attend.

The Gospel Echoes team currently serves in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Reformed Church, 1631 Grandview Drive N., will hold its vacation Bible school from 9:30 a.m. until noon July 23-27.

Classes for age 3 through the fifth grade will be held outside in tents on the church grounds. The theme is "The Promised Land" and those attending will learn about the 12 tribes of Israel. Preregister by this Monday by calling 733-6128. Ask about Promised Land T-shirts when you call.

Fundamentalists promise to force changes in RLDS

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Richard Price sees no end to the turmoil afflicting the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, unless its liberal leadership resigns or does a doctrinal about-face.

"We don't know exactly how we will get the church back, but we intend to do it," says Price, "one of thousands of former or dissenting members, called fundamentalists, who want the church to return to its 19th century roots."

Just as firmly, the faith's president says that while discontent among a small minority is regrettable, their departure from the main body has unified those who remain.

"I hate to say that it helps us, because it certainly does not," said Wallace B. Smith, RLDS president. "At the same time I would have to say that to the extent there is less contention, less day-to-day bickering...

...it could be advantageous." Discontent rose sharply in the wake of Smith's announcement in 1984 of a revelation encouraging priesthood ordination for women. "That was just the last straw because it was a very tangible issue," said William Russell, a professor at church-operated Graceland College in Limon, Iowa, who is writing a book about the split.

Sharp differences over the future of the RLDS church and interpretation of its past, including the history of the Book of Mormon and its author's visionary claims, have fractured many RLDS congregations and families.

Fundamentalists say the hierarchy has de-emphasized the Book of Mormon and ignored Joseph Smith's divine mandate to restore the true gospel to a Christian world fallen into apostasy since New Testament times.

Ada County man named U.S. marshal

WASHINGTON — The Senate has confirmed Ada County Commissioner Mike Johnson as the new U.S. marshal for Idaho. The action came Friday afternoon on a unanimous consent motion. One day earlier the Senate Judiciary Committee recommended confirmation. Johnson, a Republican who has been on the county commission for the last four years after serving as county coroner, was nominated by President Bush to succeed Blaine Skinner, former Bonneville County sheriff, who retired. The appointment has touched off an intra-party battle in the county to succeed Johnson in the $48,000-a-year county commissioner's job since the Democrats chose not to challenge the GOP for the position in November.

Post Falls asks for cuts in water use

POST FALLS — Post Falls residents are being asked to cut back on their water use after city workers discovered an unusually low reservoir level Wednesday night. Responding to the reservoir's low-water alarm, they discovered the tank level had dropped to an "inordinately low" level of about five feet, nearly five times below its full capacity, public works director George Wilson said. On Thursday, the reservoir's level was back up to 21 feet, three under its capacity, he said. The reservoir may hold as much as 1 million gallons of water, Wilson estimated. Since the local population has expanded, the city may need to increase its water storage, he said.

Sales of Centennial items still strong

BOISE — Despite all the Centennial hoopla last week, the markets for Idaho products denoting the state's 100th birthday continue to hold up. Southwestern Idaho retailers say they are selling Centennial memorabilia at nearly the same pace as before the July 3 celebration, even with items that have been available for months such as hats and belt buckles. "It's just unbelievable. A few days ago I sold 20 Centennial medallions in one day," said Jim Beem, owner of Idaho Stamp and Coin and Nampa Coin and Pawn. He speculates that many people are putting them away or buying them for gifts. Overall, the sale of Centennial products has been "very, very successful," said David Eaton, marketing director of the Idaho Centennial Foundation.

Rockwell-INEL wants contract to end

IDAHO FALLS — Rockwell-INEL will honor the remainder of its contract for a secret military project at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, but doesn't want to extend the agreement, a company official says. In February, Rockwell told the Department of Energy it would not seek to renew its Specific Manufacturing Capability project contract, said Ray Catalano, director of administrative support. Rockwell's five-year, nearly $300 million SMC contract expires Sept. 30, 1991. Federal funding for the project may end at the same time.

Indian children to visit New Jersey

FORT HALL — A dozen children from the Shoshone-Bannock Indian tribes will visit New Jersey next week in what's described as a first-ever cultural exchange program. Marvin Osborne, a member of the Tribal Business Council, said the children, ages 9 to 14, will leave by bus Sunday for Paramus, N.J., where they will be welcomed Wednesday by the mayor. Five days of activities have been planned, he said, including deep-sea fishing, a day at a water park and special meals.

Andrus says double-digit growth to continue

BOISE (AP) — With a third straight cash windfall in hand, Gov. Cecil Andrus is predicting state revenues will continue to exceed projections.

Tax revenues were even stronger than analysts expected during the budget year that ended June 30th, running 2.6 percent ahead of those expectations to produce another multimillion-dollar cash surplus that bolstered prospects for some kind of 1991 tax cut.

Andrus

"That was made possible by the strength of the economy," Andrus said Friday in discussing the state's financial picture. "It will give us the opportunity to look at some kind of tax relief... or the repair of some of the infrastructure like roads and bridges."

The governor said last March when he announced for an unprecedented fourth term that if re-elected he would consider backing a general tax cut as long as the state economy remained strong.

'I don't see any change in our growth rate in the near term. I think we'll be running right at 10 percent next year.'

—Gov. Cecil Andrus

According to figures issued by state Auditor J.D. Williams, the cash surplus totaled $17.6 million after some adjustments for spending commitments in the current year that began July 1, and further offsets could reduce the uncommitted cash windfall to $13.4 million.

But Andrus was confident the economy would remain strong, predicting the kind of growth in the coming 12 months that should more than quadruple that amount.

The auditor's figures showed total receipts hitting $857.7 million, 11 percent more than generated by the tax system a year earlier. Andrus was confident that the pace of growth would not slow measurably in the near future, and that view was reinforced by the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board's indication earlier that the board was prepared to relax interest rates, which are crucial to the financial health of Idaho's key resource industries.

"I don't see any change in our growth rate in the near term," the governor said. "I think we'll be running right at 10 percent next year."

That kind of growth would produce another $65 million more than lawmakers expected last winter when they wrote the budget the state is currently spending.

Combined with the existing cash surplus, that would push the total amount of uncommitted revenue available for one-time spending programs next winter to between $70 million and $80 million. Last winter, an accumulation of surpluses gave the Legislature a $126 million one-time cash windfall to spend.

But Andrus was also cautious about how that money should be used, citing forecasts of solid population growth through the 1990s.

The auditor's figures showed the personal income tax, a key indicator of the state's underlying economic health, as the primary contributor to the most recent windfall. It ran about 4 percent over expectations. At $395.1 million reported by Williams, personal income tax receipts were 15 percent higher than a year ago.

Sales tax receipts ran 10 percent ahead of last year, hitting $319.3 million.

80 firefighters hit Yellowstone fire

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Yellowstone National Park officials trying to stop a 15-acre lightning-caused fire before it grew any larger put more than 80 firefighters on duty battling the blaze Friday.

Park spokeswoman Marsha Karle said 82 firefighters were working to contain the Stonetop fire north of Yellowstone Lake, which was reported Thursday afternoon.

The fire covered 15 acres when it was first reported and Karle said firefighters were able to keep it from growing Friday despite occasionally brisk winds that gusted to 21 mph at times.

Idaho ROTC a victim of freedom

POCATELLO (AP) — The international wave of democracy has claimed a victim in Idaho.

The government announced Friday that Idaho State University will lose its Reserve Officers Training Corps program next year as the Army begins phasing out ROTC programs nationwide.

"The reason is very obvious," said Lt. Col. Eric Watkins, Idaho State's ROTC commander. "Peace has broken out, and the world is getting smaller. Not as many officers are needed."

And the fact that Idaho State's program was one of 50 the Army targeted in its first round of cutbacks came as no surprise, Watkins said.

"For the past five years, we have not met the required viability standards, which say we must commission 15 officers per year and contract 17 juniors per year," he said.

Eight seniors will be allowed to finish the program, he said, and 18 juniors will be given several options, including taking their third and fourth years of ROTC education in one year. The school's ROTC students are stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., and Fort Knox, Ky., and Watkins said they were being notified of the developments.

Officials said the 27 freshmen and 14 sophomores who currently have ROTC scholarships at Idaho State will also have options including the chance to transfer their scholarships to other schools.

The program reductions intended to reduce the number of potentially commissionable officers by 700 will still leave 363 ROTC programs intact. The cutbacks will not affect cadets at historically black colleges because those schools produce a high number of minority officers, officials said.

"I guess we've just hit the cutting point," Watkins said. "We've worked hard and the region has given us their support."

Dam owner frets over cost of fixing leaks

ATLANTA (AP) — While water behind an aging dam on the Boise River is rerouted to repair the structure, its owners wonder if the renovation costs will put their small hydroelectric company out of business.

State emergency crews on Thursday hurriedly diverted water around the Kirby dam at the town of Atlanta, which officials feared could break and leave the town of 40 without electricity.

"I think anybody with any sense would be concerned," said Sonny Hornbaker, who was supervising for the state Department of Water Resources. "The dam is continuing to erode. This is a serious situation."

The 85-year-old dam was holding back five acre-feet of water — the amount needed to cover roughly one football field five feet deep — and about 20,000 cubic feet of silt. If it failed, the sediment could damage fisheries for several miles downstream. Logs and rocks have broken free from the structure all week.

Relieving the water pressure should make the dam safe until the owners make repairs, he said.

Israel Ray of Caldwell, one of the dam's owners, is not looking forward to making those repairs.

Ray, who said he believes the work is unnecessary, is worried he will have to pay for the emergency work done by the state, as well as future repairs. "That's a disaster for us, if we have to pay for it," Ray said.

Woodcutter finds missing toddler

ISLAND PARK (AP) — A 2-year-old Ohio boy, missing 18 hours in heavy timber country in a steady rain, was found safe and apparently unharmed Friday afternoon, the Fremont County sheriff's office said.

Joshua Lewis Kern, son of Richard and Jackie Kern, Xenia, Ohio, was discovered missing Thursday night during a family reunion at Harriman State Park in eastern Idaho.

Up to 150 people joined in a massive search which at times included helicopters, airplanes, horseback teams, tracking dogs and boats. A steady rain fell through much of the day.

The sheriff's office said a woodcutter heard a whimper Friday afternoon and spotted the boy curled up in deep grass, in an area that had been searched before.

"It was just a miracle," said Fremont Dispatcher Marge Garrett.

Subway tunnel fire jams traffic in L.A.

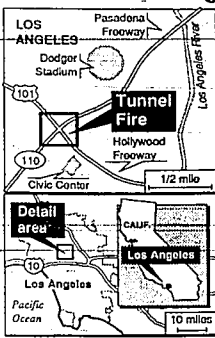

Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Fire raged out of control Friday in an unfinished subway tunnel, collapsing a section of the tube, severing a major commuter artery and intensifying the traffic nightmare from which the long-awaited rail system is supposed to rescue commuters.

Only minor injuries were reported, but the fire that has been burning for more than 12 hours forced closure of the heavily traveled Hollywood Freeway, snarling commuter traffic in and around much of downtown Los Angeles.

Six workers facing a wall-of-flame escaped harm when they dashed under the freeway to safety, but two of about 150 firefighters battling the blaze were injured. What started the fire was not immediately determined.

Fire officials said that wooden shoring and highly flammable plastic lining were burning the length of the 750-foot bore, threatening a Fire officials said the blaze apparently started in one of the tunnels about 1:50 a.m. PDFF: No one was in that tunnel at the time, officials said, but half a dozen men were working in the other who managed to flee to safety.

Firefighters responded quickly, but there was little question of their entering the burning tunnel to battle the flames.

Instead, firefighters adopted a "defensive position," aiming fans and fire hoses into each end of the tunnel to contain the fire and wait until it burned itself out.

By 5 a.m., the tunnel roof began to collapse. The surface of the ground sagged and broke through above the failing roof, and flames began breaking through to the surface. Bulldozers were brought in in an effort to fill the holes created by the collapsing tunnel. Firefighters said that they planned to flood the tunnels with carbon dioxide foam to suffocate the flames.

The fire — by far the worst accident to mar construction of Los Angeles' Metro Rail Red Line subway system — was expected to further delay completion of the project, which already is 18 months behind schedule.

It could add millions of dollars to the $1.4 billion cost for the first phase of the subway project, which already is running $135 million over budget. Officials say that each day of delay costs $100,000 in interest and escalating costs alone, but Southern California Rapid Transit District spokesmen said that the loss to the tunnel itself is covered by insurance.

Clouds of moderately toxic smoke from the burning plastic liner forced firefighters to don protective masks, further complicating a task already made arduous by temperatures in the mid-90s and high humidity.

Air superheated by the blaze created a "bazooka" effect, spurting flames that at times shot 100 feet into the air from both ends of the tunnel.

Blaze at plant destroys rocket fuel oxidizer

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — Fire blast at a neighboring plant two years ago with averting a more serious fire or explosion.

Fire and company officials say 100 tons of a fuel oxidizer used in the space shuttle and military rockets was destroyed in the blaze late Thursday. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

Philippines wracked by explosions

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Six bombs exploded Friday, causing damage but no casualties, and an anonymous caller claimed the explosives were planted by military dissidents opposed to President Corazon Aquino.

Troops and police went on full alert in the capital following the pre-dawn blasts, which occurred in the tourist and financial districts. Unexploded bombs were also found in cars at the Silahis Hotel and Philippine Plaza Hotel and on two trucks in the Paco district.

Three rifle grenades were also found in a plastic bag near the headquarters of an American-sponsored foundation.

An anonymous caller told the private television station ABS-CBN the bombs were the work of the underground Reform the Armed Forces Movement. The station said the caller, who claimed to be a military officer, said the bombings were part of a "test mission" for new recruits to the organization.

The dissident military group led the February 1986 revolt against the late President Ferdinand Marcos, which triggered the uprising that propelled Mrs. Aquino into office.

Later, the group turned against Mrs. Aquino and played a major role in at least three of the six coup attempts against her. The most recent was a December coup that left 113 people dead.

Earlier, Foreign Secretary Raul Manglapus said the chief suspects in the attacks were right-wing military dissidents seeking to topple Aquino. Brig. Gen. Marino Filart, chief of the police Capital Command, ordered round-the-clock checkpoints established throughout metropolitan Manila, which has a population of almost 8 million.

The military chief of staff, Gen. Renato De Villa, appealed to the public to "remain calm and go about their usual activities."

He called the bombings the work of "a handful of extremists."

Liberian war talks stalled.

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP) — Negotiations to end Sierra Leone's civil war were at an impasse Friday, but the head of the rebel delegation said he was prepared for more talks next week.

Thomas Woewiyu, the chief rebel delegate, said he had conferred with the mediation committee of the Economic Community of West African States for two days and was returning to Liberia to report to rebel leader Charles Taylor.

"There has been absolutely no cease-fire and no agreement for an occupation of Liberia by ECOWAS forces," Woewiyu said, referring to the organization.

But, he said, the rebels were willing to sit down with members of the economic group "to find a way to peace without any preconditions."

In the Liberian capital of Monrovia, power had been restored to a small area of the city for the first time in two weeks. The government said it was sending technicians to power plants to try to resume regular power supplies.

Water remained cut off. The road out of Monrovia to neighboring Sierra Leone also was reported open, although numerous government checkpoints made travel slow.

Student arrested

BEIJING (AP) — A Beijing University student, who gave a speech marking the anniversary of the Tiananmen Square crackdown has been arrested, sources at the school said Friday.

The sources said the arrest of Li Ming, a 21-year-old economic management major, was announced at a teachers' meeting. Li was expelled from the school in early June and fellow students said he disappeared almost immediately.

Moscow, Leningrad mayors leave party

MOSCOW (AP) — The mayors of Moscow and Leningrad joined Boris N. Yeltsin in quitting the Communist Party on Friday, putting the country's two largest cities as its heartland republic in the hands of non-Communists.

The exodus of those leading reformers from the party was unleashed by Yeltsin on Thursday and gathered steam as the party's 28th congress drew to a close.

Leaders of the Democratic Platform reform group said they would reap their departures by founding their own, non-Communist party this fall.

The congress "showed the complete inability of the party to offer the country a real program of transition to a new society," Moscow Mayor Gavriil Popov and Leningrad Mayor Anatoly Sobchak said in a statement.

Popov, an economist, and Sobchak, a lawyer, were elected this spring as reform-minded candidates swept to power in local councils. Under their leadership, the two city councils have been trying to break the control of local Communist Party organizations.

They have been active in the same reform circles of Soviet politics since Yeltsin.

Moscow has about 9 million people and Leningrad has 5 million. They are by far the largest cities in the Soviet Union.

Yeltsin, elected in May as the president of the huge Russian federation, announced to the congress Thursday that he was quitting the party. As president of the Russian republic, which has three-quarters of the Soviet Union's territory and 52 percent of its people, he must listen to all political parties and cannot obey only the Communist Party, he said. Moscow and Leningrad are both located within the Russian republic.

The Tass news agency quoted Yeltsin as telling the Russian parliament on Friday that he made the decision "with a heavy heart."

At the party congress, delegates voted to strip him of his congress credentials.

An aide to Popov, who is traveling outside the Soviet Union, read the statement from the Moscow and Leningrad mayors to reporters in Moscow's City Hall.

Leaders of Democratic Platform made a declaration after Yeltsin's speech Thursday that they also were quitting the party. They said they would struggle to gain a fraction of the party's vast wealth in proportion to the percentage of the 18 million party members who join them.

Soviets release Japanese vessels

TOKYO (AP) — Twelve North Korean flagged Japanese-owned fishing vessels and their crewmen left a Soviet port Friday where they had been held for two months for poaching Soviet salmon, the Foreign Ministry said Friday.

The Soviets released the boats after demanding that North Korea take measures to prevent future fishing violations, the Japanese Foreign Ministry said.

North Korea also agreed to pay an unspecified amount of compensation to the Soviets for illegal fishing, and Soviet inspectors will be permitted to examine the boats once they arrive in the North Korean port of Hungnam.

The ships have North Korean officers, but about three-quarters of their crews are Japanese. It is unclear when the vessels will be allowed to sail for Japan.

Japan's consul general in the Soviet Far East port of Nakhon, where the seamen have been held since mid-May, strongly protested that the vessels were headed for North Korea and not Japan.

Albanians glad to see Italy's shore

BRINDISI, Italy (AP) — Thousands of weary Albanians trudged from ferry boats onto Italian shores Friday, realizing a dream that had led them to besiege foreign embassies in Europe's last citadel of hard-line Communism.

"We shall win!" refugees on one ferry chanted in Italian as they approached the port of Brindisi.

The four ships, chartered by the West German and Italian governments, picked up about 4,500 Albanians in the port of Durres early Friday under an agreement worked out with United Nations mediation.

After journeys of about seven hours, the ferries disgorged crowds of ragged, sweaty Albanians onto the Brindisi docks, where they were met by Red Cross workers and soldiers serving warm milk and cold soda.

"I am very, very happy to come here," said Artano Harizai, 25, as he and three friends examined plastic relief bags filled with new socks and shirts.

"Here and in Europe there's freedom. In Albania there's not."

His friends, one without shoes and another shirtless, nodded vigorously and gave thumbs-down signs for the Albanian police.

Fifteen Albanians were admitted to Brindisi's hospital, including two women expected to give birth soon, said Red Cross spokesman Ricardo Moro. Several other people were suffering from wounds they suffered when Albanian police fired at people trying to scramble into the Western embassies.

A baby was born on one ship, the Espresso Grecia, after it left Albania, a Red Cross spokesman said.

About 3,200 of the refugees were from West Germany's Embassy, and they boarded trains at the dock to continue to that country.

Red Cross nurses helped deal with flood of refugees.

Islamic group takes credit for plant explosion

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — An extremist Islamic group today claimed responsibility for an explosion at a Texas chemical plant July 5 that killed 17 people.

Arco Chemical Co. of North America said it from its headquarters in Newtown Square, Pa., that it had not heard of the claim and did not know whether it was valid.

The cause of the blast is under investigation, and no signs of sabotage at the plant have been reported.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, which is investigating the blast, said that it has so far turned up no signs of sabotage. "There is absolutely no information to substantiate this reputed claim," the agency said in a statement released in Washington.

A spokesman for the Islamic Liberation Front told The Associated Press the Arco plant in Chananelview, Texas, was attacked because the United States supports Israel despite "its killings and terrorism against our Palestinian families" in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Washington "ignores the human rights of our Palestinian people," said the official.

Idaho Falls Reds beat Jerome Reds 22-8

JEROME—The Idaho Falls Reds used a 15-run fifth inning to break open their Southern Region "B" American Legion game here Friday night with the Jerome Reds en route to a 22-8 victory. Jerome led 7-5 going into the top of the fifth inning when disaster struck. Jerome pitchers allowed four walks while getting no defensive help as the Reds had 7 fielding and 3 throwing errors in the inning.

Purves' eagle putt gives him 1-stroke lead at state

By Larry Hovey
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls' Jim Purves declined to play the gracious host when he rolled in a five-foot eagle putt on the final hole to secure the first-round lead in the Idaho State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament here Friday. The three on the par-five No. 18 at the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course allowed him to relegate his house guest for the weekend, Steve Hays of Blackfoot, into second place. "I thought about that," Purves said with a knowing smile. "But then I thought I had to make the putt because it was such a great second shot."

The eagle capped a very steady day for the Twin Falls veteran who wound up at a five-under-par 63 with Hays a stroke back. But the line was forming very well after that. Boisean Rick Spaeth had a 65 and Brad Martin of Elko, Nev., had a 66. Five men, including a pair of former champions, were judged at 68. Those included Scott Masingill of Payette and Dave Molitor of Pocatello, who have split eight titles between them, plus Mickey Dugger of Elko, Dave Peterson of Nampa and Boise's Bret Rupert.

Seven others, including former state champion Joe Malay of Weiser, were lodged at 69 and another five were at 70. While Purves basically was cruising to his 63 without a lot of muss or bother, Hays had a little more adventure, particularly the three chips he needed to surmount the side

Poky sweeps Minico, moves within 1 of league title

By Jeff Hoaksson
 Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Pocatello Rebels moved one step closer to the Southern Region "A" American Legion regular-season baseball championship with a doubleheader sweep of the Minico Sage here Friday night. "We needed both of these games to stay ahead of Twin Falls," said Rebel Coach Bill Derham after his team collected 9-7 and 13-3 wins. The wins moved the Rebels to 23-5 in all games and 8-2 in the conference with two games remaining. Pocatello can clinch the title outright by winning one game in its regular-season ending doubleheader in Idaho Falls next Wednesday or if Twin Falls loses any of its remaining three games. At stake is the top seed in the regional tournament, which begins in Twin Falls July 26. The Sage did not go down without a fight in the opener Friday, forcing the game into extra innings. "These guys really played well," said Minico Coach Doug Bailey. "We had a couple of chances to win in the sixth and seventh innings, but you can't blame the players. We were playing with people out of place and in positions they have never played before, but they really competed." The Sage rallied for three runs in the bottom of the sixth to tie the game. Brandon Oswald led off the inning with a walk and moved to second on a shot to right-center by Brian Cofer. Oswald then came home on a single by Ken Condie, and on the play Cofer went to third when the relay throw got past the catcher. Condie then tied the game when Jake Garro bounced a shot up the middle. With the game tied and the bases loaded, Bailey tried to squeeze Garro home from third for the winning run. But Pocatello pitcher Conon Andrews saw the play developing and fired the pitch high; Garro was tagged out at the plate. Again in the seventh, the Sage had a chance to put the DULUTH, Ga. — Jane Geddes took the clubhouse lead at the U.S. Women's Open on Friday, but it took her 12 hours to do it. Geddes shot a 2-over-par 74 in a soggy second round that was interrupted three times by rain delays totaling 6 hours, 11 minutes. "I feel like I'm on a golf marathon," she said. "I've never been at the golf course for 12 hours." The round was suspended by darkness at 8:30 p.m., with 84 of the 156 players still out on the course and another 18 golfers still waiting to tee off. They will try to complete their second round on Saturday morning, when play is scheduled to start at 7:15 a.m. The U.S. Golf Association said it planned to start the third round at 1 p.m., with threesomes beginning play on the first and 10th tees. Geddes was just happy to complete her second round, which gave her a 4-under 140 total and a two-stroke lead among 36-hole finishers. "I'm thrilled I finished," Geddes said. "I was getting really aggravated today. Two of my bogeys were three-puttts after a break. I just didn't know how fast the greens were." Geddes, the 1986 Open champion, had shared the first-round lead with Patty Sheehan at 66 — the best opening score in the history of the event.

Strawberry shoots for free agent status as Mets cease negotiations

The Associated Press

CINCINNATI — The New York Mets broke off contract talks Friday with outfielder Darryl Strawberry, who says he'll file for free agency after the season. Strawberry, in the final year of his contract, said he'll listen to offers from other clubs and from the Mets at the end of the season. "I'm going to have to file for free agency," Strawberry said. "They are backing off on contract negotiations. Nothing can be accomplished. They wanted to give me a three-year deal, and I'm not interested in a three-year deal." Strawberry, enjoying a resurgence after a poor 1989 and a slow start this season, said it'll take a five-year agreement to keep him in New York. "I'm happy in New York," Strawberry said. "I've been here for seven years. I want to be here for five more years. I just enjoy it here. It's a real let-down knowing it had to come to this point." Mets senior vice president Al Harazin said the sides were far apart on length of contract and money, so the club decided to end negotiations for now. The club had approached Strawberry a few weeks ago in hopes of reaching an agreement quickly. Strawberry, 28, signed a five-year deal with an option year before the 1985 season. The package amounted to $7.2 million over the six years. No other Met has received more than a three-year contract since. Strawberry is making $1.8 million this year. Harazin said he hasn't given up hope of signing Strawberry. He plans to make another offer at the end of the season, and Strawberry said he would listen. Strawberry has indicated he'd like a contract similar to that of Oakland's Jose Canseco, who signed for $23.5 million over five years. Harazin said Friday he doesn't consider Canseco's contract the norm.

Douglas' revenge: Skip Tyson?

New York Daily News

NEW YORK — Buster Douglas, saying he was less nervous than he was before knocking out Mike Tyson, took the stand in his own defense Friday. Later, he said he might knock Tyson off his schedule. "I'm looking for another knockout," said the heavyweight champion before testifying in the breach-of-contract suit brought against him by promoter Don King. Douglas said he was so angered by King's words and actions that he might not grant Tyson a rematch, because he's "married to the man (King). King is worsening the chances of Mike fighting for the title," said Douglas, who was scheduled to defend against mandatory challenger Evander Holyfield. Douglas conceded that the 2-week-old trial might delay that fight until October. He has said that he wants only two more fights before retiring — Tyson and the Holyfield rematch. The 30-year-old fighter said Friday. "George Foreman might be one of the two now." Douglas said at first, King's actions "made me want to take it out on Tyson even more. A lot of animosity and hostility has built up inside me," he added. Now, however, Douglas says he is tempted to take "revenge" against King by skipping Tyson and going after Foreman instead. "I'm a big-game hunter," he said. "People close to me are talking to me about George. You know me, I go against all odds." King, who Douglas and manager John Johnson claimed tried to overturn the results of Douglas' Feb. 10 upset over Tyson in Tokyo, testified earlier in the trial. "The champion was lazy." "He don't know me," said Douglas. "It's a joke to come back with statements like that and still want to do business with me. I can't trust the man. He has even conceded that he is a liar. He may say he lies-only to the press, but if he lies to the press he lies to everyone. He hears many faces."

Gibson may be headed to Oakland

Times-News wire services

LOS ANGELES — Kirk Gibson wants to go home to Detroit, but he may end up in Oakland, The Associated Press reported Friday. The Tigers aren't really sure Gibson fits into their future plans, the AP said. Meanwhile, the A's have had trouble replacing Dave Parker as the designated hitter. Gibson hit a dramatic two-out, two-run, pinch-hit ninth-inning home run off Oakland relief ace Dennis Eckersley in the first game of the 1988 World Series. The Dodgers went on to win the series in five games. Neither Dodgers' General Manager Fred Claire nor A's G.M. Sandy Alderson would comment on Gibson Friday. Gibson, with the Dodgers in Chicago, had little to say except to order reporters to "stop following me around." Gibson and Claire had a vocal confrontation in Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda's office in Los Angeles last Sunday, and Gibson told teammates he didn't expect to return to Dodger Stadium. He said Wednesday that he wanted to be traded, but only to play closer to his home in suburban Detroit. The A's are shopping for a left-handed power hitter to fit into their DH position, vacated when Parker signed a free agent contract with the Milwaukee Brewers last fall. His replacement, Ken Phelps, was traded to Cleveland last month after hitting .134 for the A's. The Oakland lineup has struggled against right-handed pitching this season.

Chisox win again in New York, within 1 game of AL West lead

EW YORK (AP) — Greg Hibbard thought he was just lucky. "I didn't have great stuff" or my outstanding control," said Hibbard, who teamed with Barry Jones and Bobby Thigpen to help the Chicago White Sox to a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees Friday night.

American League

The victory, combined with Oakland's loss to Milwaukee, left the Chisox one game out of first place in the American League West.

Hibbard allowed seven hits and both Yankee runs over the first seven innings while Jones pitched a hitless eighth and Thigpen earned his major-league leading 28th save, although tying run reached third base in the ninth.

"I was giving up a lot of hard hit balls, but I had a couple of good runs after the home run to (Steve) Balboni," Hibbard said.

With the White Sox leading 2-0, Hibbard gave up a Baltimore lead-off homer in the fourth to make it 2-1, and Jesse Barfield followed with a double that produced the tying run.

"When I got behind in the count to Balboni and Barfield, I paid for it. It was just lucky tonight," Hibbard said.

Perhaps Hibbard's most important piece of luck came in the fifth when Scott Fletcher singled, but went all the way to third on an errant pickoff throw by Yankees second baseman Steve Sax, attempting to catch Fletcher rounding first.

It was only the sixth error of the season for Sax, but it set up the winning run as Lance Johnson followed with a sacrifice fly to center.

"The breaks will come soon or later, I guess. I hope things change a little," said the Yankees' Chuck Cary (4-5), who allowed only five hits in a complete game losing effort.

"That's usually one play that does it, but I can't blame him," said Cary when asked about the Sax throw. The White Sox, who beat the Yankees 8-0 Thursday night on Melido Perez's six-inning, run-shorted no-hitter, took a 2-0 lead in the fourth on Ron Kittle's run-scoring groundout and Carlton Fisk's RBI single.

"He's a kid whose learned how to pitch, and he made the right adjustments after that bad inning," said White Sox manager Jeff Torborg with assessing Hibbard's performance.

Brewers 2, Athletics 0

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dave Parker drove in both Milwaukee runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to beat the Oakland Athletics 2-0 Friday night, the Brewers' first victory over Dave Stewart in Oakland.

Mark Knudson (6-4) pitched his first career shutout, allowing seven hits as the Brewers won at Oakland for the first time in five games. He struck out five and walked two for Milwaukee's seventh shutout this year.

Parker led off the sixth with his 12th homer, a line shot to right. He added a sacrifice fly in the seventh off Stewart (11-8), who is now 6-0 at Oakland and 12-3 lifetime against the Brewers.

Stewart, who also lost to the Brewers 7-1 on July 4 in Milwaukee, gave up seven hits, but struggled with his control and walked a season-high six batters. He walked Jim Gantner with one out in the seventh, and Gantner eventually scored on Parker's major league-leading 10th sacrifice fly after singles by Gary Sheffield and Robin Yount landed the bases.

Milwaukee ended Oakland's three-game winning streak and the A's lost their eighth in the AL West dropped to one game.

Dave Henderson was 4-for-4 against Milwaukee for the second time this season with two singles and two doubles.

Parker moved into 54th place among all-time home run leaders with 319, just six behind Willie Horton, next on the list.

Soyals 5, Red Sox 3

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Macfarlane, who had struck out twice, broke a sixth-inning tie with a two-run single as the Kansas City Royals beat the Red Sox 5-3 Friday night and extended Boston's losing streak to five games.

The loss dropped the Sox into second place in the American League East, one-half game behind Toronto, which was playing a late game in California.

Macfarlane's two-out single to left-center field came off Mike Boddicker (11-5), who has lost two straight after winning 10 in a row.

Tom Gordon (6-6) allowed seven hits and two runs in six innings, walked five and struck out one. Steve Farr followed with two innings of one-hit relief and Jeff Montgomery pitched the ninth for his ninth save.

Royals center fielder Bo Jackson missed the game because of a death in the family. He was not expected back for Saturday's day-night doubleheader but may return for Sunday's game.

With the score tied 2-2 in the sixth and two outs, Jim Eisenreich singled and stole second. Willie Wilson walked, but Tabler added an RBI single in the eighth.

Tabler's two-out, RBI single gave

Kansas City the lead in the second but Boston took the last two runs in the bottom of the inning on RBI singles by Tony Pena and Kevin Romine.

Kansas City tied the game in the fourth when Danny Tartabull singled, Eisenreich doubled and Wilson beat out a grounder to first for a single that allowed the run to score.

The Red Sox scored an unearned run in the ninth on catcher Macfarlane's throwing error with a runner on the second.

Twins 3, Orioles 1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kent Hrbek and John Moseley homered as the Minnesota Twins won the second game of a doubleheader 3-1 and ended the Baltimore Orioles' four-game winning streak.

David West (5-6) allowed five hits in 6.2 innings, struck out eight and walked four. Terry Letcher finished for his first save since Sept. 15, 1988 for the New York Mets against the Chicago Cubs.

Baltimore's Dave Johnson (8-5) pitched a four-hitter for his third complete game, striking out three and walking two.

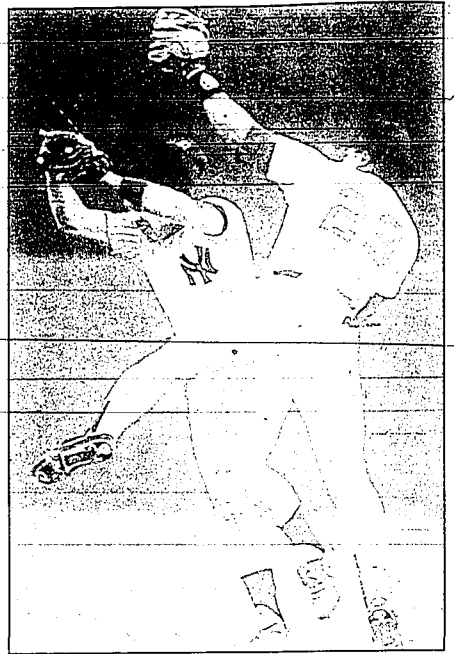

Orioles 8, Twins 5

BALTIMORE (AP) — Phil Bradley, batting for the first time since June 16, pinch-hit a grand slam in the eighth inning as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Minnesota Twins 8-5 in the first game of Friday's doubleheader.

Randy Milligan hit two solo homers for the Orioles, who won their fourth straight. It was his third multihomer game of the season.

Garry Gaetti and Paul Sorrento hit two-run homers for the Twins and Kent Hrbek added a solo shot.

Bucs defeat Padres to earn 2-game lead over Mets in NL East

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The San Diego Padres' new manager, Greg Riddoch, is having the same problem that predecessor Jack McKeon had: He can't figure out how to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates.

But, there, a lot of teams are having that problem.

Pittsburgh turned Dan Bilandello's suicide squeeze bunt and a hit-and-run single into two runs to back Doug Drabek's strong pitching as the Pirates beat the Padres 12-1 Friday night for their ninth victory in 11 games.

The victory gave the Pirates a two-game lead over New York, which lost to Cincinnati on Friday, in the National League East.

The Pirates have won 12 of 16 games to improve to 51-32, the first time they finished 19 games over .500 since they finished 98-64 before winning the 1979 World Series.

The Padres have lost nine of 10 games to Pittsburgh this season and lost 14 overall, and are 0-2 under Riddoch.

"This is one of those things you can't explain," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "They have an outstanding lineup, a scary lineup with Jack Clark and Tony Gwynn and Joe Carter. I'm just glad we only got two more games against them because they're going to break loose on somebody."

Drabek (10-4) retired the first 11 batters in outpitching Dennis Rasmussen (7-6) for the second time this season. Drabek gave up only one hit, struck out seven and walked one in seven-plus innings and has allowed the Padres two runs in 13 innings in two 1990 starts. He also beat San Diego and Rasmussen 10-1 on April 29.

Stan Belinda, the third Pirate pitcher, worked 11-3 innings for his fourth save. The Pirates' bullpen has allowed only one run in its last 43 innings.

"I've never felt bad coming out of a game because of the way the game is being pitched," he said. "The guys here are really doing it right now. All the (starters) have to do is keep the score close."

The Padres stranded four runners in the final three innings. They had two on and one out in the eighth, but Belinda got Roberto Alomar to fly out and struck out Carter. Carter hasn't had an RBI in eight games and has only two in 15 games.

"It will turn around and we'll start getting things—happening—for us," Rasmussen said. "They're playing like a first-place team right now and we're playing like a fourth-place team ... but eventually we'll get things to go our way."

"Every team goes through these periods and we're in one right now," Riddoch said. "It seems like nothing goes right. We had a couple of chances to score and we pitched good enough. They had a couple of hits that we checked swing and we'll eventually get some of those breaks, too."

The Pirates, winners of 15 of their last 19 home games, broke a scoreless tie in the fourth. Bobby Bonilla singled and moved to third on Jeff King's one-out bloop double to left.

Jose Lind singled home Bonilla before Bilandello, batting .038, put down a perfectly placed sacrifice bunt to score King standing up. Lind advanced to third and Bilandello to second while Rasmussen threw the ball into right field, but the left-hander struck out Drabek to end the inning.

Jay Bell singled and moved to third on R.J. Reynolds' hit-and-run single into center to start the fifth off Rasmussen, who allowed four runs and eight hits in six innings. Rasmussen is 0-4 in five career starts against Pittsburgh, the only NL team he hasn't defeated.

Bonilla's RBI grounder scored Bell ahead of Barry Bonds' run-scoring double to left. Bonds was 1-for-3 and is hitting .462 with five homers and 14 RBIs in 10 games against San Diego.

Thomas Howard doubled to lead off the sixth and scored on Jack Clark's double-play grounder for the Padres' only run.

Reds 4, Mets 2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tom Browning allowed two runs in 7 1/3 innings and Mariano Duncan had two hits and scored twice as the Cincinnati Reds beat the New York Mets 4-2 Friday night.

Browning (9-5) retired the first 12 batters before Darryl Strawberry led off the fifth with a single off the top of the right-field wall. Strawberry advanced to third on a double but hit with a solo homer to center field in the seventh, his 23rd of the season and sixth in his last nine games.

game away with a runner on second and one out. This time Andrews got Mike Dennis to strike out and Cofer to ground out to end the threat.

In the eighth, Minico put runners on second and third but could not get either of them home.

The Rebels finally took advantage in the ninth. Bo Barrus led off with a single to left, advanced to second on a wild throw by Dago Maldonado and scored the go-ahead run when Stan Hales lined a double to left. The Rebels made it a two-run margin when Brian Atkinson doubled to left.

Scott Wolfenberger came on in the bottom half of the inning and got David Ventura and Dennis to strike out and Jeremy Dunahoo on a comeback.

"My outs too bad that Conan (Andrews) didn't get the win. We didn't get the runs or the hits. He pitched so well but we couldn't do it for him," said Derham.

The game began as a pitchers' duel between Andrews and Maldonado, a pair of right-handers.

Trailing 1-0 going into the bottom half of the third, Sage opened a short-lived margin.

After the first two batters were retired, Ken Condie got the rally started with an infield hit. He was followed by a single from Garro and a bunt single by Raul Zamora, which loaded the bases. Mike Price got the Sage on the scoreboard with a two-run single to left and Maldonado added another run with a single to center.

Price picked up the fourth run in the inning when Ventura hit a grounder to third baseman Doug Hagler, whose throw to second was in the dirt allowing Price to come home.

The Rebels wasted no time in getting two of the runs back as Atkinson led off with a single to center, stole second and moved to third on the throwing error by Zamora. Atkinson then scored on a Hagler single to make it 4-2 and Hagler scored when Richard Henderson grounded out to second.

The sixth inning saw the Rebels at the end of the season. The Mets moved within 4-2 and chased Browning in the eighth when Kevin Elster doubled and scored on Dave Magadan's pinch double. Randy Myers relieved and finished for his 19th save, allowing one hit. Browning allowed six hits.

four run back out on top as they scored four runs on four hits, a walk and an error.

In the nighttime, Pocatello jumped out early only to have Minico come back to tie the game at 3-3 in the second.

Up to that point, Rebels' starter Avery Griggs was having problems finding the plate, throwing 11 straight balls. In the third he settled down and took control of the game, striking out a total of 12 hitters and walking none after the second.

While Griggs' pitching got tougher, the Rebels kept going. They picked up five runs in the third, two more in the fourth, one in the fifth and two more in the sixth to end the nightcap after six innings 13-3.

Trevino shares Kroger lead with Hill

MASON, Ohio — Lee Trevino strung together four consecutive birdies on the back nine to complete a 6-under-par 65 that was worth a share of the first-round lead with Dave Hill in the $600,000 Kroger Senior Classic on Friday.

"I made a couple of mistakes today, and that's about it," Trevino said. After three straight birdies, Trevino bogeyed No. 7 — "misclubbed that one" — and No. 8 — "pulled a four from off the edge of the green."

But he rallied with a birdie at No. 9 and steadily made up ground from there on over the 6,628-yard Grizzly Course at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center.

Joe Jimenez, Walt Zembriski and John Paul Cain were one stroke back at 5-under-par 67. At 67 were Rivech DeBevoise, Homero Blancas, Charles Coody, Jim Dent and George Archer, winner of last week's Northville Long Island Classic.

Norris defends WBC title on points

ANNECY, France — Terry Norris easily defended his World Boxing Council super-welterweight title Friday by outpointing former champion Rene Jaquet in a 12-round bout.

Norris knocked down Jaquet in the first and second rounds with quick combinations, then opened a cut under the left eye of the Frenchman in the third.

Although Jaquet stayed out of serious trouble for the rest of the fight, Norris dominated the contest.

It was a unanimous decision. Daniel Gomez of Argentina had Norris in front 120-107, while Giuseppe Ferrari of Italy scored it 119-108 and Miguel Donate of Puerto Rico had Norris winning 117-109.

Hornets sign Newman on offer sheet

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The Charlotte Hornets have signed New York Knicks forward Johnny Newman to an offer sheet, team officials announced Friday.

The Knicks have 15 days to match the offer for the 6-foot-7, 190-pound Newman, a restricted free agent who averaged 12.9 points a game last season for New York.

Dennis D'Agostino, a Knicks spokesman, said that the team had not yet decided whether to match the Hornets' offer.

Newman, 26, signed with the Knicks as a free agent in 1987. He played his college ball at Richmond, where he finished as the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,383 points.

Newman started the first 67 games of the 1989-90 season for New York. As a starter, he averaged 13.6 points a game on 47.9 shooting. He led the Knicks in scoring five times last season and dished off a career-high 180 assists.

of No. 2 green from the left side. That gave him a double-bogey five on the second hole and made him wonder if leaving Blackfoot had been a good idea.

But he had just one more bogey after that and came up with seven birdies. He had a tough birdie on the 16th and then a great up-and-down for par three from the left side of No. 17. The birdie on 18 is virtually a laydown for the championship flag.

Massingill bogeyed 16 and 17 to wind up at even par during this double-duty weekend.

The other half of the job is coaching a team in the Jerome junior baseball tournament.

"There wasn't a lot to choose from in the rest of the flights as Nampa's Bill Thompson tops the first flight at 68 and Twin Falls' Dave Hanchey leads the second at 69.

Dave Labato of Boise had a 69 for the best in the third flight and Tim Zebarth led the fourth with a 73.

From a one-shot standpoint, the day's best was posted by Twin Falls veteran Jack Whitehead who hit a full four-iron into the No. 1 handi-capp hole (No. 8) for an eagle. He scored an up with a 76 — just three over his age.

The tournament runs two more days with the leading championship foursome leaving No. 10 tee at 10 a.m. today. The best four scorers will begin their final round at 2 p.m. Sunday.

A highlight of today's action will be the post-tourney state putting championship.

Astrological Forecasts

IF JULY 14 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are dynamic, impulsive, a natural reporter, seldom satisfied to know merely that something happened. You seek motives and are skillful at analyzing character. Members of opposite sex say you can be traceable but also charming. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. You'll shine at social affair in August — you'll make contact that could lead to romance, financial success. Travel indicated for October.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Spread wings, emotional and otherwise. You might wake up saying, "I am articulate, I am going to write and communicate and make my views crystal clear!" Individualism is your motto.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Family member "comes out of hiding." Period of sulking is over, much to your relief. You'll locate article that had been lost, hidden or stolen. Another Taurus urges you to take risk.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): There will be delay but eventually you'll get your way. Poses person makes lucrative offer but could be financially embarrassed. Wish will be fulfilled, perhaps in dramatic fashion. Hold tight!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Those who "Vig" wouldn't do it will now be "doing crew." Attention revolves around achievement, power play, possible financial jackpot. Capricorn, another Cancer native figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You complete task that was considered onerous. Focus on freedom, universal appeal, ability to gain wider audience. Emphasis also on distribution, literature, possible journey. Aries involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stress originality, independence, insistence on hearing sound of your own voice. Means issue directives that favor your cause. Message, puzzling at first, becomes increasingly clear. Aquarian involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on teaching, learning, remodeling, bringing about reunion of family members. You'll be concerned with motive, direction, language. Spotlight also on public relations, prominently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Marital status of friend commands attention, could be Libra. Social activities accelerate, many people seek your services and you might feel as if you are an "entertainer." Money news poor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Develop routine that enables you to complete variety of tasks, assignments. Do not panic! Focus on distribution, showmanship, challenge. Love relationship will prosper. You are going places.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Study Sagittarius message. Focus on movement, writing, education, clash of ideas. Member of opposite sex might say, "I am interested in more than mere flirtation!" Check quality of durable goods.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Visitor, at first welcome, could finally appear to be playing role of, "Man who came to dinner." Be gracious but let it be known there is limit to your patience. Libra will figure, prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What you have been seeking will be handed you on proverbial silver platter. Emphasis on discretion, clandestine arrangements. Secret money transaction is part of intriguing scenario. Remain alert!

What's what?

What's a 'Gonus'?
Collegiate slang much slang. On UCLA's campus, if he's not too swift, he's a "Gonus." A "Gonus" is a loser. An ugly is an "Eddy." If nerdy, a "harney." That happy fellow thought to be good-looking is an "Adams." So named by somebody who read an old book.

Q. How were Caribbean hurricanes identified before they were given first names of people?
A. For centuries most were named after the saints' days on which they occurred. Some were named for ships hit by them, others for towns and islands they damaged.

An historical footnote claims one old family in Venice was so rich it cleaned up after dinner by throwing its gold plates into a canal. I don't believe it.
ICE
You knew ocean-going freighters of the 19th century sailed south out of Boston with ice blocks cut from New England's lakes. But did you know how much? Ice then accounted for more tonnage so shipped than anything except cotton.

Most of the 170 languages spoken in Brazil are well known only to the people who speak them. Just 20 have been fully documented by outsiders.

Low briefly passes 3,000 level for 1st time as stock market forges ahead

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market moved ahead Friday in buying that carried the Dow Jones industrial average briefly to the 3,000 level for the first time.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 2,980.20, for a net gain of 10.40 points on the day and a 75.25-point rise for the week.

The average, the oldest and best known measure of trends in stock prices, crossed 3,000 just after 1:30 p.m., then turned back a few moments later.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 3 to 2 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks.

With 954 up, 619 down and 460 unchanged, Greenprints, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, surprised traders in the stock and bond markets Thursday by signaling a shift in the emphasis of the Fed's credit policy.

He said the central bank, which has been concentrating on fighting inflation, is now ready to ease credit conditions if necessary.

Interest rates fell sharply on the news. An auction of Treasury securities also went a long way toward relieving recession worries on Wall Street.

Enthusiasm over that prospect persisted Friday, apparently not much affected by statistical reports from the government for June showing a 0.5 percent rise in retail sales and a 0.2 percent increase in the producer price index of finished goods.

A major index traded blue chips, International Business Machines rose 1 to 121; General Electric 1/8 to 74 3/8; Merck 3/4 to 88 1/4, and Eli Lilly 1/4 to 88 1/4.

Model E-15 was one of the volume leaders among NYSE issues, up 2 1/2 to 22. Accor S.A. of France announced an agreement late Friday. Please see MARKET/B6

Business

Retail sales rebound for 1st gain in months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose a modest 0.2 percent in June as declines in food and energy costs helped offset large increases for autos and tobacco, the government said Friday.

Meanwhile, retail sales rebounded a strong 0.5 percent, the first gain in five months.

The overall increase in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for goods one step short of the retail level was about what economists expected.

However, prices for items outside the volatile food and energy sectors jumped 2.6 percent in June, the steepest increase in a year and about double the anticipated rise.

Analysts consider this so-called "core" rate a better indicator of underlying inflationary pressures in the economy.

Normally, a combination of stronger consumer spending and an uptick in core inflation would spook financial markets by discouraging any hope that the Federal Reserve would lower interest rates.

This time, the market shrugged off the statistical reports. Both stock and bond prices rose in the hours after the reports' release.

Traders' optimism still was buoyed by Thursday's comments from Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, who suggested the central bank was on the verge of cutting interest rates slightly to offset the economic effects of an apparent pullback in bank lending to businesses.

A rate cut would come at an opportune time for the Bush administration, which needs continued economic growth to bolster Republican chances in the November congressional elections.

Most analysts agree a rate cut would be needed to counter the economic effects of any White House-Congress budget agreement including higher taxes and reduced spending.

At the White House, spokesman Martin Fitzwater welcomed Greenspan's comments and said the administration was pleased with the reports on retail sales and wholesale prices.

"This is excellent news for the economy," he said. "Declining inflation should continue to relieve pressure on interest rates."

The 0.2 percent increase in wholesale prices followed a moderate gain of 0.3 percent in May and declines in April and March.

Last month's increase brought wholesale inflation for the first time of 1990 to an annual rate of 3.7 percent, compared with 4.8 percent for all of 1989.

Prices rose 3.2 percent for tobacco and 2.3 percent for cars. They were also up for women's clothing, furniture, jewelry, newspapers and over-the-counter drugs.

Tobacco prices are now 13.9 percent higher than a year ago. Automobile costs are rebounding as dealers

French group to buy Motel 6

NEW YORK (AP) — Judging from its folksy radio ads and customer conveniences, Motel 6 might be the last place one would expect to find the French.

But Paris-based Accor SA said Thursday it had agreed to pay $1.3 billion in cash for Motel 6 LP in a deal that would make Accor the world's budget motel leader.

Analysts said the timing of the proposal was somewhat surprising, given the generally weak environment for both real estate and financing. But Accor said it already has arranged financing for the buyout.

Accor already owns more than 850 hotels and 3,000 restaurants in 60 countries, including the growing 120-hotel Formula 1 budget chain in Europe. Its target has been to own 2,000 budget hotels, and buying Motel 6 with 554 motels would be a big step toward that goal.

Motel 6 has carved out a profitable market niche for itself by emphasizing its low cost — rooms average about $27 a night — and no-frills ambience. Its radio ads end with the signature, "We'll leave the light on for you."

The company estimated it would have operating income of $220 million on revenue of $475 million this year.

The deal appears to signal another hefty return for the buyout specialists Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co., which led a group that bought the Motel 6 chain for about $880 million in 1985 and kept a controlling interest after the company went public a year later.

Paul Dubrule and Gerard Pettison, co-chairmen of Accor, said the deal will help their company become the world's pre-eminent budget hotel company. They said Motel 6 Chief Executive Joseph W. McCarthy and his management team would stay on, and Motel 6 headquarters would remain in Dallas.

Market

Thursday to acquire Motel 6 for $22.50 per partnership unit.

Castle & Cooke jumped 6 to 36 1/2. The company said it has received inquiries from several parties interested in buying its Dole operations.

Computer Securities International dropped 8 to 9 1/2 on top of a 6 1/2-point slide Thursday, when the company said it would probably show declines in both revenues and earnings for the second quarter.

Volume on the floor of the Big Board came to 215.60 million shares, against 211.51 million in the previous session. Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 259.30 million shares.

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market increased $17.45 billion, or 0.50 percent, in value.

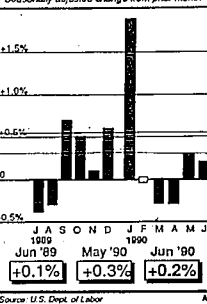

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 1.01 to 200.33.

Standard & Poor's industrial index gained 2.01 to 435.38, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up 1.87 at 367.31.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market added 1.27 to 468.44. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 363.99, up 1.76.

scale back buyer-incentive programs. Economist David Wyss of DRI-McGraw Hill, a Lexington, Mass., forecasting firm, attributed the higher tobacco prices to changes in federal price supports and taxes and to a crop shortfall.

Wyss said about half of the 0.6 percent rise in core inflation can be attributed to autos and tobacco.

"In general, it's neutral data," he said. "Most of what we're seeing is just a swing in food and energy prices... We think the inflation rate is going to remain essentially stable."

Energy prices, which skyrocketed 13.7 percent in January because of a severe cold snap, have declined every month since. They were down 0.9 percent in June after dropping 1 percent in May.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

BOBBY WOLFF

"Too much light often blinds gentlemen of this sort. They cannot see the forest for the trees."
— Christoph Wieland.

A defender faces a dangerous moment when he has a problem with his play to trick one. His total concentration on the possibilities in the suit led may cause him to overlook better prospects in another suit.

East's immediate problem centered on the heart suit. Was West leading from K-J-10 or was he leading the top of his heart holding? If the former, East should play his ace and return the suit (possibly cashing his club king first). If the latter, the play of the ace would give South two sure heart tricks.

Remembering South's bidding, East played South for 9-10 HCP, leaving very little for West. And since West couldn't have the heart king, East ducked the ace, limiting South to only one heart trick.

Unfortunately for East, South also took five spades and four diamonds before losing the lead, and made the game with an overtrick.

East's best chance for a plus score lies with the club suit, a fact he overlooked by concentrating only on the heart suit. At trick one, East should take his heart ace and lead his low club, hoping for the best. The best wins; West takes his queen and returns the suit, giving the defense the first five tricks for one down.
