New York group zeroes in on stopping Idaho hunting

By Phil Sahn
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho might be one of the last to fall, but it eventually will join other states in banning recreational hunting, says a New York group's spokesman.

"We want to end recreational killing and the management of game for recreational killing," said Luke A. Dommer, who founded the Committee to Abolish Sport Hunting. "Idaho may be among the last to go ... but in the end, it can't hold up alone as the other states fall."

CASH first will target larger states with heavily urbanized areas — New York, New Jersey — because states with big cities have far fewer hunters. As the national opinion against sport hunting grows, Idaho will join in, Dommer said. Dommer said members and supporters of CASH were instrumental in getting a recent California referendum passed that prevented a mountain lion hunt from being reintroduced there, even though state officials said that the proposed hunt was biologically sound. Soon afterward, CASH officials said they were "ever so close" to stopping mountain lion and bear hunts in Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and Washington.

In a telephone interview from his Connecticut home this week, Dommer said "ever so close" is a relative term. It might be 10 years before a push is made to stop recreational hunting in Idaho, but one will come, he said. CASH has members in Idaho, as it does in every other state, he said. He estimated the group's nationwide membership totals 40,000.

CASH can stop hunts by exploiting federal laws.

Justice William Brennan
Puts his health first

Brennan resigns from court

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan resigned Friday after a 33-year career as a leading voice of liberalism on the nation's highest court.

Brennan, 84, said his "advancing age and medical condition" led to his decision to step down.

His departure gives President Bush his first chance to name a justice to the court, which has been deeply divided in recent years on such issues as a woman's right to an abortion, affirmative action and separation of church and state. Brennan has been a firm advocate of all three.

Bush, a strong opponent of abortion, was traveling in Wyoming when Brennan's decision was made public.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy hailed Brennan — appointed by President Eisenhower in 1956 — as one of "the greatest justices the country has ever had."

Last April, just days before his 84th birthday, Brennan said he had no intention of retiring unless his health required it.

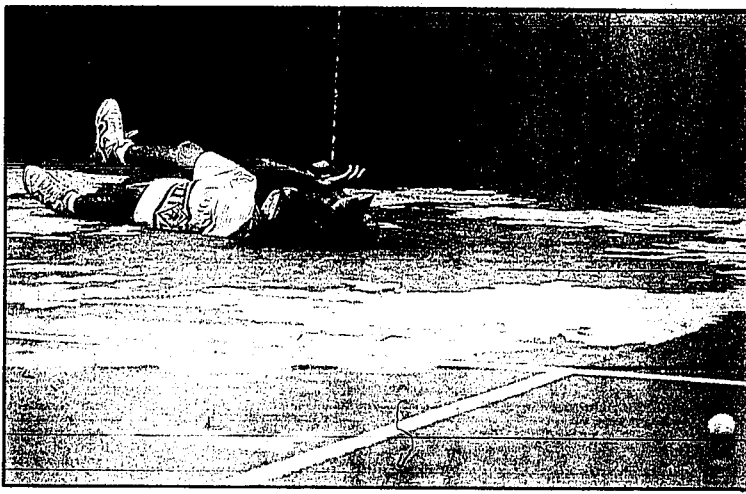

In his letter to Bush, Brennan said: "strenuous demands of court work and its related duties required or expected of a justice appear at this time to be incompatible with my advancing age and medical condition."

"I, therefore, retire effectively immediately as an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States."

National Public Radio reported that Brennan suffered a fall and a small stroke recently and talked over his health with his wife before deciding to

Court nullifies North convictions

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A federal appeals court panel set aside Oliver North's Iran-Contra convictions Friday.

It reversed one outright and ordered a "witness-by-witness" review of whether all three were impermissibly tied to testimony he gave Congress under a grant of immunity.

The panel, divided 2-1, suggested that North's Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination may have been violated.

The ruling also could signify trouble ahead for the Iran-Contra case against John Poindexter, who was convicted of five felonies in April. Like North, Poindexter had given immunized public testimony to Congress in 1987.

North, in Baton Rouge, La., campaigning for a Republican Senate candidate, said he was "very pleased" by the ruling and added, "I certainly hope the special prosecutor ends it now." He said, "We've been under virtual siege."

Gesell

The ruling was also celebrated by congressional supporters of the former Marine lieutenant colonel and White House aide who became a national figure during the televised congressional hearings.

Independent Counsel Lawrence Walsh, who is supervising the continuing Iran-Contra investigation, said merely, "Everyone familiar with these proceedings has recognized the difficulties presented by the grant of immunity by Congress."

Walsh could seek review of the ruling by all 12 members of the appeals court or he could go directly to the Supreme Court if he chose.

The appeals panel reversed one of North's convictions, blaming faulty jury instructions from U.S. District Court Judge

North

Gerhard Gesell, the trial judge in the North case. On reversal, the only way the conviction could be reinstated would be through a new trial.

The panel "vacated and remanded to the District Court" all three convictions, telling Gesell he "must hold a ... full" hearing on the taint question. Gesell could reinstate the two remaining convictions if he found there had been no taint.

Gesell's inquiry "must proceed witness-by-witness" if necessary, it will proceed line-by-line and item-by-item," the appeals court said in an opinion supported by judges Laurence Silberman and David Sentelle, both Reagan administration appointees.

Senators reject increased grain production plan

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate on Friday voted down a proposal to allow farmers to grow additional amounts of grain before being subjected to government management controls.

The amendment to the 1990 farm bill was offered by Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn., who said the acreage reduction program in the legislation hurts the ability of U.S. farmers to compete in the world market.

But supporters of the acreage reduction plan prevailed in their arguments that it was needed to control the size of surpluses and stabilize prices. The amendment was defeated 50-37.

Boschwitz said the program requires farmers to idle some of the most fertile land in the country.

"We have foregone production and in the process given the markets to the Europeans," said Boschwitz.

Sen. Bob Kerry, D-Nebr., argued that the Export Enhancement Program was designed to get those markets back and could be used more effectively by the Bush administration.

Kerry said huge-grain surpluses are expensive for the government. The Boschwitz amendment was the second major attack on the bill, designed by the Senate Agriculture Committee to set farm policy for the next five years.

The first came Thursday in the 66-30 defeat of an amendment offered by Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., eliminating subsidies to farmers with gross sales over $500,000 a year.

Televised testimony, trials don't mix

By James Rowley
The Associated Press

Analysis

WASHINGTON — The court that set aside Oliver North's Iran-Contra convictions warned Congress that compelling the testimony of suspected wrongdoers in major scandals is likely to scuttle future prosecutions.

The court, in effect, told Congress that it must choose between its desire to quickly air the details of a major scandal such as Watergate or the Iran-Contra affair or wait quietly while prosecutors investigate the participants and put them on trial.

By compelling testimony of witnesses such as North, lawmakers are "taking a great chance that the witness cannot constitutionally be indicted or prosecuted" because of Fifth Amendment protections against self-incrimination, the court said.

The ruling dealt a severe blow to the work of Independent Counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, raising the possibility that the conviction of former National Security Adviser John M. Poindexter could meet the same fate as North's.

Both men testified before televised congressional hearings on the Iran-Contra affair under limited grants of immunity from prosecution.

This "use immunity" guaranteed that North and Poindexter's words would not be used as evidence against them.

But the court felt North's testimony received so much publicity that his words might have influenced the memory of the witnesses who gave evidence against him at his 1988 trial.

"It may be that it is possible in the present case to separate the wheat of the witnesses' unspooled memory from the chaff of North's immunized testimony, but it

Weather summary

A little bit of rain arrived in Idaho due to a recent hurricane.

Upper level moisture was still dominating Idaho's weather with cloudy skies across the Gem State except for the Panhandle area where clear skies reemerged. Rain showers fell in the eastern half of Idaho. Reports were '41 inches fell at Malad. Grace received .23. As of Friday morning it was raining in Sun Valley, Stanley, and Idaho Falls. This moisture was expected to move slowly eastward through today.

Oversight low temperatures ranged from 39 degrees at Pierce to 69 degrees at both Boise and Caldwell. In the higher elevations nighttime low temperatures were in the lower 40s to mid-50s. In the valley regions overnight low temperatures were in the upper 50s to upper 60s.

The warmest temperature in the state Friday was 97 degrees at Lewiston. Pierce reported the coldest at 39 degrees, which was also the lowest reading in the nation.

Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the highest temperature was 115 degrees at Bullhead City, Ariz.

Thunderstorms rock Northeast, produce floods in Iowa

The Associated Press

A fierce storm overturned boats and tossed docks through the air at a crowded New Hampshire resort lake Friday as thunderstorms boomed over the East and the Gulf Coast.

The storm that hit Lake Winnepesaukee also blew down huge trees and knocked out power here and in Moultonboro, Tuftonboro and Center Harbor, N.H., but no injuries were reported.

The storm was part of a system developing along and east of a stationary front stretching from Indiana to Maine.

Thunderstorms over western New York state produced high winds which downed power lines around Port Byron and felled a tree near the town of Thorop.

Shower and thunderstorms produced locally heavy rain in the Ohio Valley, and deluged parts of Iowa with 2 to 5 inches of rain. Mount Ayer, Iowa, reported 5 1/2 inches of rain.

Flooding was reported along the Chariton River and the Thompson River in Iowa. The Thompson River was expected to crest at 14 feet, heavily flooding farmland.

Showers and thunderstorms also fell over the central Gulf Coast and the southern Atlantic Coast, and a few scattered showers dampened the north-central Plains.

In the southern deserts of California, gusty, southeast winds churned up dust and sand, cutting visibility to one to three miles.

The nation's hot spot was Death Valley, where the temperature hit a scorching 120 degrees.

Ebyan leader accuses U.S. of using AIDS, flies as weapons

ROME (AP) — Libya's leader Muammar Gadhafi accused U.S. intelligence services of creating the AIDS virus and spreading it throughout the world, a dispatch from the official news agency of the radical North African nation said Friday.

The United States pledged $3 million last Tuesday to help Libya fight the fly infestation. The pledge was for a drive organized by the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

Washington said it agreed to help for humanitarian reasons and because an international organization was carrying out the program.

The United States has imposed sanctions on Libya, which it accuses of aiding world terrorism.

DOE to get permit to burn wastes

DENVER (AP) — The Department of Energy has agreed to not burn mixed plutonium and uranium wastes in two incinerators at the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant without getting a permit from Colorado or the Environmental Protection Agency.

The consent agreement, approved Thursday by U.S. District Judge Lewis T. Babcock and announced Friday, settles a lawsuit brought by the Sierra Club against the federal agency. EG&G Inc., which operates Rocky Flats for the department, was added to the action later.

The settlement and the court's order remove the threat that DOE will resume its "trial burn"-plans without a hearing before the public," Eugene De-Mayo, chairman of the Sierra Club's Rocky Mountain Chapter, said in a statement.

"We are happy that DOE agreed that a permit is necessary in this instance," he said.

The DOE had said it had authority to operate the incinerators while awaiting a permit, but the Sierra Club challenged that claim in its June 1989 lawsuit. Rocky Flats, 16 miles northwest of Denver, makes plutonium triggers for nuclear weapons. Plutonium processing there has been suspended until the plant's safety procedures are upgraded.

David Simonson, DOE deputy director of Rocky Flats, said in a telephone interview Friday that the agency agreed to drop its contention that it did not need a permit before using the incinerators.

The incinerators never have been used to dispose of wastes mixed with plutonium at the plant, and Simonson said there are no plans to use them for that purpose.

The Sierra Club and DOE have been at odds since 1987, when the DOE first proposed "trial burn" employing the incinerators over whether the federal government needed to get a permit before burning the wastes.

Following the announcement, the Sierra Club filed a lawsuit. It was settled later in 1987.

may not," the ruling said.

The court ordered the federal judge who presided over the North case, Gerhard A. Gesell, to conduct a "witness-by-witness" review of the trial testimony to make that determination.

Chief Judge Patricia Wald, a Carter administration appointee, dissented, saying she was "satisfied that North received a fair trial" and received all of the constitutional protections to which he was entitled.

In six days of compelled testimony in U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here he was later charged with crimes.

The government was shown by "a preponderance of the evidence" that no use was made of North's immunized testimony either by witnesses or by the Iran-Contra prosecutor's office, said the appeals panel.

The hearing would deal with the testimony of a witness before the grand jury which indicted North, as well as with witnesses who testified at his trial.

A jury convicted North on May 4, 1989, of three of the 12 charges he faced:

- Aiding and abetting an obstruction of Congress in connection with a November 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran.
- Altering and destroying National Security Council documents detailing his efforts to provide military assistance to the Contras.
- Accepting an illegal gratuity, a $13,800 home security system, from retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord whom North had enlisted to get arms to the Contras and assist the Reagan administration's initiative toward Iran.

The appeals court reversed North's conviction for altering and destroying NSC documents, saying Gesell had given an erroneous instruction to the jury on how to weigh evidence of what superior might have told him with crimes.

President Bush, who was vice president at the time of the Iran-Contra affair and had dealings with North, was told of the ruling, his spokesman said, but the White House declined any comment.

In the Poindexter case, assertions of faint are "a big issue in our appeal" and the former national security adviser is "very pleased" with the ruling, said Richard Beckler, one of his lawyers. Beckler's office and Iran-Contra prosecutors are preparing documents for the appeal in the Poindexter case.

North and Poindexter were both convicted of concealing from Congress the U.S. government's role in a legally questionable November 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran. A presidential document approving the shipment wasn't drawn up until after the missiles were delivered.

Brennan

leave the court.

Brennan also suffered a small stroke in 1979 before the grand jury and hand partially paralyzed, and in 1978 underwent radiation treatments for a cancerous tumor in his throat.

"This was a very difficult decision after almost 34 years of service on the court," Brennan said in a statement.

"It is my hope that the court during my years of service has built a legacy of interpretation of the Constitution and federal laws that make them responsive to the needs of the people whom they were intended to benefit and protect. This legacy can and will withstand the test of time."

Brennan's departure is bound to cause a dramatic change in the liberal-conservative balance at the court.

For more than three decades, Brennan has been a leading exponent of liberalism and, by the accounts, a leading behind-the-scenes strategist in helping mold liberal rulings and in later years in preserving them on an increasingly conservative court.

Appointed to the court by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, he quickly found a home among the liberal majority led by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Along with fellow liberal Justice Thurgood Marshall, Brennan has maintained that the Constitution forbids the death penalty as cruel and unusual punishment.

He also remains among four justices on the court who wholeheartedly support the court's 1973 ruling that legalized abortion nationwide.

He also was the author of a landmark ruling that gave the news media the right to broadcast live trials by public figures.

Although the court and its changing case of justice grew more conservative over the years, he remained a powerful force.

Conservatives have consolidated their power and in most cases common sense. The Supreme Court has been clear-cut and "burned land" to increase low browse for deer, Dommer said.

"We are talking about land use. It is total, unadulterated insanity. They are looking at national treasure," Dommer said. "Hunters and wildlife managers."

Ranchers are not guilt-free either. They look up rangeland from animals that need forage, and livestock interests promote bear and regulations regarding environmental impact statements in hunting areas, Dommer said. An EIS is required in new areas proposed for hunting, or in areas where hunting is permitted but where there has not been an EIS completed for 10 years, he said.

Idaho Department of Fish and Game spokesman Jack Trueblood said he was not aware of those regulations.

"If there were any, we would have to comply in Idaho," he said.

A U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service spokesman in Boise, Jay Gore, said the regulations apply to animals managed by the federal government. Species managed by state fish and game departments do not fall within those requirements.

But state agencies are not immune from the force to file an EIS, Dommer said. If wildlife managers do not keep an updated count of game, such as bear or cougar, they can be stopped from holding a hunt if a judge can be convinced the species is endangered or threatened, he said.

California's spring bear hunt was stopped because an updated count was not on record, Dommer said.

But Trueblood said counting techniques are improving. "By the time groups like CASH get to Idaho, we'll be to the point where they can argue with our facts."

Other tactics are available to close hunting seasons.

Anti-hunting groups can seek restraining orders against state hunting regulations immediately before a season opens, which could temporarily halt a hunt. They also could seek state legislators to reclassify animals from big-game status.

Trueblood said CASH would have a difficult time finding support in Idaho, where one-third of the population is estimated to hunt.

"They would have a tough row to hoe," Trueblood said.

But as time goes on, more people will oppose hunting, Dommer said. Even rural states, like Idaho, where a larger percentage of the population hunts, will ban sport hunting, he said.

Aims

as "nature-centered" and said he formed it as a child in New York City's Central Park.

"I hated Sunday school. Instead of going to Sunday school, I walked in the park and fed the squirrels," he said.

He contrasted his philosophy to that of people who are "man-centered and who think everything is expendable for the sake of man ... that doesn't necessarily mean hunters are bad people." But their pastime has hurt the ecosystem, he said.

Wildlife management policies have served the special interests of hunters and damaging ecosystems, he said.

Biologists have allowed Michigan's white-tail deer population to grow from 400,000 to 1.4 million purely for the sake of hunters, he said. As the deer population has grown, forage and plant cover have declined, forcing smaller game animals out of their habitat.

As the smaller game disappears, predatory animals and birds follow them, he said.

State and federal have bulldozed clear-cut and "burned land" to increase low browse for deer, Dommer said.

"We are talking about land use. It is total, unadulterated insanity. They are looking at national treasure," Dommer said. "Hunters and wildlife managers."

Ranchers are not guilt-free either. They look up rangeland from animals that need forage, and livestock interests promote bear and mountain lion hunting as ways to protect livestock.

"They don't want anything around that competes with cattle for grazing," he said.

Idaho Department of Fish and Game spokesman Jack Trueblood said Dommer's theory about game management, in Michigan at least, does not hold true in Idaho. The deer population in southern Idaho has mushroomed in recent years, but the growth has come from a series of mild winters, Trueblood said.

"To say the state did that is ridiculous," he said, Dommer's claims to the contrary, CASH is an animal rights group, Trueblood said.

"Attributing rights to dumb animals is ridiculous. It takes man out of his role as manager," Trueblood said.

The issue is larger than that, Dommer said. Millions of plant and animal species are being killed off by humans and other related activities, he said. Hunting and wildlife management contribute to the destruction, he said.

The executive vice president of the Idaho Cattle Association, Gary Glenn, said he views the attempts to stop hunting as a freedom issue.

"Hunters and sportsmen have as much right to use our national resources as anyone ... The cattle association would throw all its weight behind sportsmen and against any attempt to restrict or eliminate hunting of any other multiple use of our national resources," Glenn said.

"Hunters and sportsmen have as much right to use our national resources as anyone."

Advocates want federal laws for information on right to die

WASHINGTON (AP) — Julianne Delio said her husband made her promise she would never let him live in a vegetative state connected to artificial life support machines. Keeping that promise took more than a year of court battles, cost Delio her job and left the 36-year-old New York woman emotionally brutalized, she told a Senate subcommittee on Friday.

"You cannot imagine the psychological trauma involved in pleading for the death of the person you love most in this entire world," she said.

Delio urged lawmakers to pass a bill that would help inform people of their right to determine their own medical treatment through such things as living wills and other advance directives that legally enable others to speak for them if they cannot speak for themselves. But an official of the Health Care Financing Administration, which handles Medicaid and Medicare, said the bill could allow some patients to be "pressed into making a hasty choice."

In 1986, when Danny Delio was 33 he underwent a minor operation. Because of a problem with the anesthesia, he was left brain dead, permanently unconscious, she said.

She requested that his life-support systems be shut off and he be allowed to die, but the Westchester County Medical Center refused and she filed a lawsuit.

Shortly after that, she was fired from her job as an assistant professor of medicine at New York Medical College, which is affiliated with the hospital where her husband was being treated.

An appeals court eventually agreed with Delio and ordered the hospital to terminate treatment or transfer her husband to another facility that would abide by her wishes. Ten days after he was transferred, he died in her arms.

Delio urged the Senate Finance subcommittee on Medicare and long-term care to approve legislation that would require the federal Department of Health and Human Services to develop an educational program to give people information about their options in determining their own medical treatment.

Hospitals, nursing homes and other facilities that provide services to Medicare and Medicaid patients would be obligated to provide such information as a condition for participating in these programs, under the bill.

Court rules reporters' promise to source not legally binding

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The state's highest court Friday overturned a $700,000 award against two newspapers that broke a promise of confidentiality to a political campaign worker.

The Minnesota Supreme Court also held that enforcing a promise of confidentiality under a doctrine that implies a legal contract where none exists would violate the First Amendment rights of the Saint Paul Pioneer Press and the Star Tribune of Minneapolis.

The decision on a 4-2 vote overturned a jury verdict in favor of Dan Cohen, who said he will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Cohen sued the newspapers for 1982 stories identifying him as the source of documents showing the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor was convicted of shoplifting 12 years earlier.

Cohen, then a Republican gubernatorial candidate's consultant, had given the newspapers' reporters the information in return for assurances of confidentiality. But editors overruled the reporters, believing readers should know the information came from the GOP candidate's campaign.

In his lawsuit, Cohen said he lost his advertising agency job after the newspapers breached an oral contract.

"It's a very important case, one with far-reaching implications," said Cohen's attorney, Elliot Rothenberg. "The issue is, to what extent do newspapers and the media have a constitutional right to violate promises to which everyone else in society would be held liable?"

Louise Sommers, an attorney for The Associated Press, called the ruling a major victory for the news media.

The AP filed the only friend-of-the-court brief in the case.

Cohen's victory at the trial had produced a spate of similar lawsuits around the country, the AP's attorneys said.

Nation Plan set to protect Civil War sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government will ask private groups and state and local governments to cooperate in preserving the nation's historic battlefields, Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan said Friday.

The "American Battlefield Protection Plan," eventually will cover all wars fought on U.S. soil, but will begin by focusing on 25 key Civil War sites, Lujan said.

Because the government can't afford to buy all the land involved, he said, a cooperative effort is needed to make sure the farms and fields where Union and Confederate soldiers fought aren't overwhelmed by shopping malls and industrial parks. "We want the governors, local governments, foundations, corporations and owners to all join," Lujan said in an interview on NBC-TV's "Today" program.

"Some of the battlefields, for example," would be purchased, but some of them can be commemorated simply by easements, some of them maybe the owner would want us to put a plaque there commemorating that particular battle," he said. "We don't have enough money just to go off and buy all these sites."

Details of his plan, which includes a request for $15 million in seed money, will be explained Saturday when Lujan speaks at Manassas National Battlefield Park in Virginia in ceremonies marking the 129th anniversary of the First Battle of Bull Run.

Lujan said he also planned to discuss his ideas with governors.

Leak forces launch delay

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A leak forced postponement of Friday's liftoff of an Atlas rocket with a satellite that will illuminate Earth's invisible magnetic field in a series of dramatic displays resembling the northern lights.

Liftoff had been scheduled for 3:33 p.m. from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station. But the launch was delayed more than an hour because of the inability to start a compressor that furnishes gaseous nitrogen to the rocket to keep the satellite cool.

Workers managed to start the compressor in time for a second launch opportunity starting at 4:49 p.m. until a liquid helium line leak forced postponement.

NASA spokesman George Diller said it was not certain whether another attempt would be made today.

The $189 million Combined Release and Radiation Effects Satellite, a joint program of NASA and the Defense Department, carries 24 chemical-filled canisters that will be ejected at various altitudes during the next year.

Quake death toll nears 700

BAGUIO, Philippines (AP) — President Corason Aquino on Friday defended her government against criticism that it has been tardy and ineffective in aiding victims of a devastating earthquake that killed nearly 700 people.

"Let us not blame others," she said in a nationally televised address, her first since Monday's quake. "What we need to do now is help each other."

Five days after the earthquake, measuring 7.7 on the Richter scale, officials said reports of damage and deaths were still trickling in from remote areas. By latest counts, 674 people were killed and more than 2,600 injured.

Mrs. Aquino ordered several aides to take over relief operations, apparently bypassing the disaster-coordination agency headed by Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos.

The president, already beset by Communist rebels, rebellious military officers and popular discontent, has come under criticism for a government rescue effort described by many as inadequate.

The rescuers, for their part, battled poor communications, fatigue, supply shortages and equipment problems.

On Friday, a U.S. Marine OV-1 observation plane taking part in rescue operations smelted a trail of fresh blood in the rubble of two crewmen. The victim's name was not released pending notification of kin, and the cause of the crash was under investigation.

Also Friday, a helicopter carrying Ramos on an inspection tour made an emergency landing after a cockpit warning light came on. Ramos transferred to another aircraft and continued his tour.

Both incidents were near the mountainous resort of Baguio, 130 miles north of Manila.

Rescuers in Baguio dug through the night after finding fresh blood in a tunnel they had dug under the rubble of the Hyatt Hotel — indicating there could be victims alive in the debris.

But they found only the bodies of a man and a woman. As many as 50 people were believed to have been caught in the hotel when the quake struck.

Members of a British rescue team said it was unlikely there were any survivors in the rubble of seven other Baguio hotels that collapsed during the quake.

At least 224 people, including two Americans, were killed in Baguio during the quake. In addition, more than 120 were feared dead in eight factories of the Baguio Export Processing Zone, which caught fire during the quake.

Power was restored to parts of Baguio, and banks resumed operations. But more aftershocks rocked the city, terrifying the city's 120,000 people. Many refused to sleep in doors.

More than 100 people were believed stranded on highways near Baguio, and Marines and Philippine troops mounted rescue operations.

Officials said more than 900 people also were stranded in a mountain pass along the border of Nueva Vizcaya.

Heat wave sparks Siberian peat fires

MOSCOW (AP) — A heat wave near the Arctic Circle set off fires in the tundra around the western Siberian city of Nudym, Tass reported Friday.

A dense cloud of smoke hung over the city after two dozen fires broke out in peat bogs over an area of 1,730 acres, the official Soviet news agency said.

The mayor of Nudym, a gas-protection center, told Tass 900 firefighters were battling to keep fires away from gas pipelines.

"A tundra fire is a terrible scene," said construction worker Igor Shapovalov.

London Exchange ripped by bomb blast

LONDON (AP) — A bomb blew a hole in the London Stock Exchange on Friday, but no one was injured and trading hummed along without interruption on computers.

A telephone caller earlier had warned of an IRA bomb.

Authorities rushed to the exchange and evacuated scores of traders and other employees just minutes before the market was to open to hundreds of visitors.

Glass and chunks of concrete showered down on Old Broad Street in the heart of the city's financial district. The stock exchange index was up for the day, but options trading was suspended until Monday.

Five hours after the blast, employees returned to the building.

"If the purpose of this callous act was to bring the City (financial district) to a halt, they have failed singularly," said Andrew Hugh Smith, chairman of the Stock Exchange.

George Churchill-Coleman, a member of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist unit, said the bomb had been planted in a men's restroom in 10 visitors' area, and contained 3 to 10 pounds of high explosives.

Asked if he believed the Irish Republican Army was responsible, Churchill-Coleman said, "That is a reasonable assumption."

Police evacuated the building and cordoned off streets after the first warning was received at 8:02 a.m. The bomb exploded at 8:49, just 11 minutes before the visitors' area was scheduled to open.

Cosmonauts to try again

MOSCOW (AP) — Two cosmonauts who nearly ran out of oxygen when they were locked out of their space station by a sticky hatch next to take another space walk next week to repair the door, it was reported Friday.

The cosmonauts, who encountered the trouble when they were outside their space station making repairs on Tuesday, will venture out again to fix the hatch, said the Communist Party newspaper Pravda.

Pravda quoted Yuri Isaulov, a ground controller at the Soviet Mission Control Center in Kaliningrad, as saying cosmonauts Anatoly Solovoyev and Alexander Balandín

"We had only half an hour to reach the scene, evacuate the building and clear the surrounding streets," said police Commander Hugh Moore. "If we have been a few minutes later getting there, it would have been too late."

Police, firefighters, evacuated workers and sightseers jammed the district's narrow streets, marked out centuries ago for foot and horse traffic. Hundreds of commuters were delayed in cars and buses caught in traffic jams.

Churchill-Coleman said a man with an Irish accent made warning calls to a newspaper, a news agency, the fire brigade, the Salvation Army and the Stock Exchange. Police said the caller used a code word to confirm that it was an IRA attack.

There had been no warning before the IRA's bomb attack June 25 at the Carlton Club, a gathering place for Britain's governing Conservative Party. The IRA, seeking to undermine support for British rule in Northern Ireland, generally has concentrated its attacks on government and military targets.

Churchill-Coleman said it was "the first time in recent years" that a code had been given with the warning.

Police said the bomb destroyed the men's room next to the public visitors' gallery, which was heavily damaged. The explosion tore a jagged hole about 20 feet high and seven feet wide in the modern concrete building.

will make a space walk Thursday "to put things in order." The balky hatch was the latest in a series of problems to trouble the cosmonauts' six-month mission.

At the end of the strenuous space walk, which took two hours longer than planned, the cosmonauts were prevented from re-entering the spacecraft because they could not completely close the hatch they were using to re-enter. Soviet media reported.

N. Korea calls S. Korea's offer of an open border propaganda

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Communist North Korea on Friday dismissed as propaganda a South Korean proposal to open temporarily the heavily fortified border that has divided the peninsula for 45 years.

South Korea offered to open its border at the border village of Panmunjom for five days beginning Aug. 13, allowing North Koreans to travel freely anywhere in the South.

The Korean border is the last major outpost of the Cold War, exchanged 151 people from each side for the first reunion of separated families in their capitals.

South Korea's President Roh Tae-woo suggested the five-day border opening in a trial period.

It would include Aug. 15, symbolically important to both Koreas as the day that ended 35 years of Japanese colonial rule.

Panmunjom, the Korean War truce village, is in the Demilitarized Zone located 35 miles north of Seoul.

Roh

partitioned by Cold War politics."

North Korea's Pyongyang Radio, monitored in Tokyo, called Roh's offer a "brilliant propaganda" ploy.

The official North Korean news agency, reacting to Roh's offer, urged the demolition of barriers along the border, the repeal of South Korean security laws that forbid unauthorized travel to the north, and the release of prisoners jailed for making such visits.

But the Korean Central News Agency report used unusually polite and restrained language. Typically, the agency refers to Roh as a "traitor." However, Friday's story referred to him as "the South Korean chief executive."

South Korea said it had suggested the two sides meet July 30 to discuss the border-opening offer. Two weeks ago, North Korea offered to open a small portion of its border beginning Aug. 15 at Panmunjom, but with passage to be restricted.

The two Koreas have already scheduled a meeting July 26 to sign an accord setting up the first meeting of the two countries' prime ministers, expected to be held in Seoul as early as August.

Radical South Korean students claimed Roh's announcement was aimed at diverting public attention from troubled domestic politics.

They demanded the immediate release of all political prisoners, including a student and a pastor jailed last year for travel to North Korea.

Lee Hong-ko, one of Roh's top aides, said those arrested for making illegal trips to North Korea would not be released.

Byelorussia OKs Chernobyl aid

MOSCOW (AP) — The Byelorussia legislature has approved compensation for 1.8 million people living on land contaminated by the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear plant accident. Tass reported Friday.

The decision was made Thursday, one week after the legislature declared the republic a "national ecological disaster zone," the official Soviet news agency said.

Everyone living on land contaminated above a certain level will receive $25 per month beginning in August, Tass said.

Byelorussia took the brunt of the radioactivity spewed from the Chernobyl plant in the neighboring republic of Ukraine.

Rebels squeeze troops in Liberian capital

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Rebels overran most of northern Monrovia on Friday, pushing several hundred remaining government troops into a narrow strip of land on both sides of President Samuel Doe's executive mansion.

Witnesses reported many government casualties, and shipping sources said two Liberian coast guard cutters were sunk in the port by gunfire.

The United States said it would not intervene to halt the 2-day-old rebel offensive, the latest drive in the 7-month-old civil war.

The rebels, led by former Doe aide Charles Taylor, captured Monrovia's 2-square-mile port area in the northern suburb of Bushrod Island. They advanced toward the two bridges linking the island to the center of the city. Infiltrating rebel troops fought pitched battles with government soldiers who remained on Bushrod Island.

Head of prison system panel wants solutions immediately

BOISE (AP) — The chairman of a work group studying Idaho's prison overcrowding problem wants proposals that will work now, not just ideas.

"We're looking first for short-term things that could make a difference within a year," said Byron Johnson, justice of the Idaho Supreme Court. He's heading the incarceration work "group" aimed at easing the overcrowding problems that have plagued Idaho's prison system in recent years. "We're looking for concrete things that could be done, not just concepts."

The 21-member panel met in Boise Friday, working on recommendations that will be presented to the governor and next Legislature.

After deciding on short-term proposals, Johnson said the panel worked Friday afternoon on longerrange solutions — but not past three years. "We will not plan beyond that," he said.

Johnson said the first effort would be to utilize the existing prison system and related facilities through enhancement and expansion.

The Department of Corrections released its five-year plan this week, recommending at least four new prison facilities to deal with a state prison inmate population that's expected to jump to near 3,000 from the present level of about 2,000. Just five years ago, the count was about 1,200.

Johnson said he "absolutely" agrees with the projections. "There's a problem here, as elsewhere. If anything, they might be conservative," Johnson said. "There are forces at work driving the need."

Johnson said Idaho's problem is typical of the nationwide need for more prison facilities, and in fact isn't as bad as elsewhere.

"Some of the states are catastrophic yet, but if we do not address it, we will be catastrophic."

A final report, bearing a three-year wish list of desired facilities and programs, will be sent to the governor by Nov. 15.

Johnson has the group tackling a thorny root of crime: substance abuse.

Recent studies, he said, indicate more than 80 percent of Idaho inmates have drug or alcohol problems. And the number of drug arrests statewide are exploding, jumping 36 percent last year alone.

Members also hope to pinpoint feasible alternatives to high-cost incarceration.

Kole campaign racial issue ebbs

LEWISTON (AP) — A Coeur d'Alene-based human rights group has opted not to take any action regarding questions of racial overtones in the Idaho attorney general race.

Members of the Kootenai County Task Force on Human Relations said they were satisfied with Boise Republican Patrick Kole's explanation that a questionable letter had inadvertently been released by his campaign.

"Nobody thought it was important enough to bring it up," said Chairman Norman Gissel of Coeur d'Alene. "My observation is...the civil rights record of both of the guys running for attorney general is substantial. Civil rights in Idaho will be well-served no matter which of those two gentlemen is elected."

Kole, a former chief deputy attorney general, and Bannock County Prosecutor Larry EchoHawk of Pocatello are vying for the office being vacated by Republican Jim Jones.

EchoHawk is a member of the Pawnee Tribe and a former tribal attorney for the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes of Fort Hall.

His solicitation of campaign contributions from a Denver tribal fundraiser prompted one individual to contact Kole's parents in a brief letter which referred to tribal members passing "a blanket ... to collect wampum" for EchoHawk.

Kole kept the letter in his campaign files and a campaign staffer included it within a rough draft of a candidate presentation. Kole said he pulled the letter from the packet before it was published, but a copy inadvertently was provided to a potential supporter.

Disclosure of the incident led the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith to express concern in a letter directed to both candidates as well as to the leaders of Idaho's political parties.

School to continue prayers

REXBURG (AP) — Making only limited concessions, the Madison School Board has voted to stand by its practice of allowing student-led prayer at commencement exercises and in locker rooms before and after athletic events.

"We think we are on very firm legal ground there, and plan to continue that practice in the Madison schools," Superintendent Chris Mattocks said.

That practice along with others in the heavily Mormon district was challenged last month by the American Civil Liberties Union on grounds that they were unconstitutional.

The board generally rejected the charges but it did appoint Presbyterian Church Pastor Larry Bunnell as ombudsman to field questions and report to the School Board on religious intrusion concerns.

"People who are not members of the majority religion around here, it has been my observation the past few years, are hesitant to bring their concerns on these sort of issues forward for fear of reprisals," Bunnell said.

The ACLU asked Mattocks to investigate complaints from students and district taxpayers that the lines between the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and Rexburg schools were blurred.

Among the issues raised were prayers, the use of facilities at Mormon-owned Ricks College for high school graduation ceremonies and school teachers and Mormon seminary instructors holding simultaneous parent-teacher conferences in the schools.

Mattocks drafted the response to the ACLU complaints that was adopted by the school district on Thursday. The five-page document said the simultaneous parent-teacher conferences will be halted. But it said the prayers would continue as would use of Ricks College facilities for graduation exercises.

Mattocks said he has spoken with representatives of those who complained and "as far as I know they are fairly happy with what we are saying."

"I do not think that the ACLU will be pursuing the case further, from what I understand with the local people," he added.

Crews push to gain control of Idaho fires

The Associated Press

Hundreds of firefighters made their final push toward containment Friday, taking advantage of continued cloud cover, higher humidity and lower temperatures to rein in two wildfires in central Idaho's tinder-dry backcountry.

Fire bosses overseeing more than 450 firefighters on the 440-acre Mormon Creek Fire in the Boise National Forest east of Cascade released 60 men, for reassignment after completing nearly two miles of break line around the blaze.

A hundred miles to the east in the Challis National Forest, 160 firefighters completed the final half mile of line around the 255-acre Big Creek Fire near Challis, and crews on both blazes were beginning mop-up work inside the perimeters.

Both fires were expected to be declared contained at 8 p.m., MDT.

"It's quieting down," Boise National Forest spokeswoman

Sue Preece said. "The weather has been the best fire-fighting weather. If we had placed an order it couldn't have been better."

The two fires opened the summer wildfire season in Idaho, where land managers have been bracing for another destructive July and August.

Experts said moisture levels in trees and other fuels in the backcountry are as low as they were a year ago when flames blackened 200,000 acres of Idaho forest and range and caused $100 million in losses.

The Mormon Creek Fire, burning within a mile of salmon spawning beds in the South Fork of the Salmon River, exploded last Sunday from a lightning-sparked ember that had smoldered for nearly a week, and it raced to over 400 acres in less than 48 hours before an infusion of manpower to fight it and improved weather conditions to stall its expansion, combined to hold it in check.

Waste firm now wary of move

POCATELLO (AP) — The company that has won a state permit for construction of medical waste incinerator in American Falls is reconsidering the proposed location because of community opposition.

"We're not sure we want to try to force it on the community," said Jack Woods, president of Enviro Health Inc. of Pocatello.

The Community Awareness Group has pledged to fight the $3.8 million incinerator, despite the 50 jobs it would bring to the American Falls economy, and Gov. Cecil Andrus has urged local officials, who have the final decision on the project, to delay any action until the state Legislature can consider setting criteria for siting such commercial incinerators next winter.

BOISE (AP) — Gary Mayer, American Falls, has been appointed to the Power County Commission by Acting Governor C.L. "Butch" Otter.

Otter, the lieutenant governor who is serving as chief executive while Gov. Cecil Andrus is out of the state this week, chose Mayer from a list of three nominations.

Collision kills woman, hospitalizes passenger

BURLEY — A Burley woman was killed and a second woman was listed in stable condition Friday after a multiple rear-end collision on Overland Avenue Thursday night.

Linda Cantu, 26, was killed at the scene. Her passenger, Pauline Gonzales, 20, of Rupert, was in stable condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital on Friday, a spokeswoman said.

The accident occurred at 10:41 p.m., Cassia County sheriff's Lt. Jim Hignens said.

Cantu's northbound car struck the rear of the pickup ahead of her, driven by Leonel Villacana, 44, Heyburn. Villacana, in turn, then struck the car in front of him, driven by Daniel Garcia-Ramos, 16, Burley.

Villacana was stopped and waiting for Garcia-Ramos to turn left onto Main Street West, Hignens said, when Cantu's vehicle smashed into the pickup.

Garcia-Ramos and his passenger, 14-year-old David Ramos of Burley, were treated and released from Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Nobody was wearing seat belts, Hignens said, and the accident was still under investigation Friday.

Chamber of Commerce plans agricultural tour

TWIN FALLS — The Chamber of Commerce's annual-agriculture-tour begins 8:30 a.m. Tuesday at the College of Southern Idaho.

The tour will stop first at Ward's Cheese in Richfield, then continue to the Buffalo Feedlot in Gooding where participants will receive a tour as well as a sample of the meat raised there during a buffalo barbecue.

The last stop will be the DeWitt Dairy in Wendell.

And the bus will return to Twin Falls by 5 p.m.

Cost is $15 per person and reservations can still be made by calling Betty Zuck at the Chamber of Commerce at 733-3974.

Court of appeals upholds assessment of legal fees

BOISE — The Idaho Court of Appeals has upheld most of the judgment against an Oklahoma carpet manufacturing company in legal action filed over a defective carpet installed in a Twin Falls motel.

Meldeo, Inc., a Montana corporation, won a judgment of $11,732 and $9,740 in legal fees against Hollytex Carpet Mills, Inc. The carpet company questioned such high legal fees over a relatively small judgment.

The Court of Appeals ruled there was no particular limit on legal fees in comparison to judgments received, and said the legal fees were properly documented. The court changed the amount of interest awarded on the judgment.

The court also upheld the awarding of legal fees to Byron Mason, doing business as Mason's Floor Covering, the local merchant who negotiated the sale of the carpet that had to be replaced.

Court overturns conviction for robbery over notification

BOISE — Because investigators questioned a man about robberies without notifying his attorney, the Idaho Court of Appeals has overturned his Elmore County robbery conviction.

The court on Friday overturned the 4th District Court robbery conviction of Jeffrey James Smith, on grounds it was "tainted" by improper contact by police officers.

Smith was arrested in Wyoming for attempted robbery, court records said. He retained an attorney. While in custody in Wyoming, Smith became a suspect for robberies in Boise.

Officers traveled to Wyoming to question him, but did not notify his attorney and questioned him without the attorney present, the court said.

That violated his rights against self-incrimination, the court said, and "tainted" a later confession in which he admitted other robberies in Twin Falls and Mountain Home.

"We believe the second interview with the Idaho police was irreparably tainted by the circumstances surrounding his first interrogation," the court said. "The first interview by the Idaho officers clearly violated Smith's constitutional rights, since the police initiated that interrogation after the defendant had informed Wyoming police that he wanted to talk to an attorney."

Cal official doesn't want Idaho water

By N. S. Nokketted
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — California has a water shortage and it is willing to spend what it takes to get a secure water supply.

But Carl Boronkay, general manager of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, doesn't think that supply is going to come from the Snake or Columbia rivers.

"I don't see that as our answer," Boronkay told a water law and issues seminar here Friday morning.

The answer instead lies in bypassing the bottleneck created by the Sacramento River delta — a project known as the Peripheral Canal — which was scuttled by opposition in Northern California a few years ago.

The recent proposal by Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn to divert 3 billion gallons a day from Northwest rivers to Southern California was purely a political ploy by a revered and legendary figure, Boronkay said.

Convincing the rest of the L.A. County supervisors to back Hahn's position was easy, Boronkay said. Los Angeles County gets its water from the Metropolitan Water District; it doesn't deliver any water. So who would vote against a proposal to study the transfer of water from the Northwest to slake Southern California's thirst, Boronkay asked.

The Metropolitan Water District, formed in 1928, supplies water to half the 15 million people in six Southern California counties, but it expects to be half a million acre feet of water short by the year 2000.

But California has survived the drought where it's needed water, Boronkay said.

To achieve that end, the California mile river — the Colorado that defies gravity. It's like ordinary rivers that transport water. Sacramento rivers in the 2,000 feet over the

Lawyer: Salmon protection will have great impact

SUN VALLEY — Idaho water users may be swimming upstream against efforts to protect Snake and Columbia river salmon, a Boise water lawyer said Friday.

"I think it will touch on anyone that is associated with water in the Northwest," attorney Bruce Smith of the Nelson, Rosholt, Robertson, Tolman and Tucker law firm told a water law and resource issues seminar.

The Shoshone-Bannock Indian Tribes in March filed a petition with the National Marine Fisheries Service to list Idaho sockeye salmon as an endangered species under the federal Endangered Species Act.

In May, a coalition of environmental and sportsmen's groups filed similar petitions for lower Columbia River coho and three strains of chinook.

"The petitions were very well done," Smith said.

"There's very little doubt the National Marine Fisheries Service will pay attention to them," he said.

The petitions cited harvest, water budgets, irrigation diversions, grazing and other habitat damage in addition to problems of fish passage at eight federal dams in the Columbia and the Hells Canyon complex of dams as the reasons for recent dramatic decline in salmon populations.

This year two sockeye made it past the Lower Granite Dam on the Columbia, he said.

Survival of wild salmon is vital to survival of the species because "the reproduction success of hatchery fish is dismal," Smith said.

—Reproduction of wild fish is much better,

he said, and therein lies

County charges woman with theft attempt, prostitution

By Anita Dennis
Times-News writer

GOODING — A Jerome woman was being held in jail Friday on $10,000 cash bail on charges of attempted armed robbery, burglary and prostitution.

Maria Rebecca Davis, 29, 218 W. Ave. "I" No. 72, appeared before 5th District Magistrate Judge Thomas R. Cushman and was informed that she was charged with two counts of felony attempted armed robbery and one count of felony first-degree burglary. She was also charged with three misdemeanors — prostitution, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of a concealed weapon.

Davis was being held in the Gooding County Jail but was arrested in Shoshone and was charged by Lincoln County Prosecutor Lavon Loynd.

The incident leading to her arrest began at the McFall Hotel in Shoshone around 1 a.m. Thursday and continued on the street, Loynd said. A Bliss man was approached by a woman and an offer of sex for money was made.

"The man said he didn't have any money, but he had a Cadillac and the woman didn't believe him, Loynd said.

Farmers are unenthusiastic about spraying arrangement

By Phil Sahm
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has committed $500,000 to a voluntary spraying program to kill grasshoppers and Mormon-crickets on Idaho land in the Conservation Reserve Program. But how many farmers will take advantage of the offer is questionable.

Under an arrangement announced Friday at a meeting in Twin Falls, farmers would pay one-third of the costs to spray, with the state and USDA also paying one-third each. County governments are charged with running the program.

Farmers, extension agents, county commissioners, state and federal officials at the meeting wondered whether CRP landowners have incentive to join the program.

"I don't expect a lot of farmers to join it," said Roger Pollard, of the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. Congress has given APHIS $6.8 million for spraying.

Pollard said contracts let for CRP land contracts have no teeth in them. Until the contracts are changed, there is no reason for recipients to spend money to solve the problem," Pollard said.

Farmers enrolled in the CRP program receive $40 to $50 per acre yearly for not farming highly erodible land for 10 years. But grasshoppers are breeding on the unused land and then spreading to bordering cropland. Recipients of CRP payments must grow range grasses or trees to protect the soil and control pests that might damage the protective vegetation, but they are not required to spray for crop-damaging insects.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the USDA's local arm that administers the contracts, should oversee the spraying program, Pollard said. "If you're going to solve a problem, those that

By Anita Dennis

TWIN FALLS — Jesus Bautista-Mejia, who held his two daughters hostage over a hot July weekend last summer, was turned over to federal authorities after being sentenced in 5th District Court on Friday.

Bautista-Mejia has a federal court appearance scheduled in Pocatello on Monday for a probation violation, said Chief Deputy U.S. Marshal Ron Evans in Boise.

After the U.S. Marshal's Office finishes its business with Bautista-Mejia, he will probably be sent to the federal court on felony charges of deportation and obstruction of a firearm, said U.S. Agent-in-Charge Ted Hays.

If Bautista-Mejia, a Mexican citizen, is released from prison within five years, he must go back to the Idaho county of his birth, District Magistrate Judge who was appointed to the

BLM wants help cleaning polluted seasonal deserts

By Christopher Clark
Times-News correspondent

MINIDOKA — A seasonal pool located in the desolate, rugged desert, German Lake was once considered an oasis by travelers of days gone by.

But today, German Lake is a toxic and debris-filled eyesore and the Bureau of Land Management is appealing to the public to help clean up the mess.

During the past year, more than 3,500 containers have been removed from the area by the BLM.

Of those, "between 250 and 300 were at least half to two-thirds full," said Kirk Koeh, the lustrous materials specialist with the Burley BLM office.

"The 3,000 or more containers that were found empty had to be rinsed and hauled away, all at the taxpayers' expense," Koeh added.

Though many of the containers had labels on them, "there is no guarantee that what is on the label is in the container," he said.

"The one thing that is not water," Koeh said. Officials do not know what chemicals are at the site, but much there is of existing chemicals such as Lasso, and Norton dumped illegally in the

ICL: Legislature took on few environmental issues

LEWISTON (AP) — Environmental issues had a lower profile during Idaho's 1990 Centennial Legislature and the voting record of lawmakers reflects it, Idaho Conservation League members say.

"In 1990, we saw very few new ideas and, in fact, I had trouble putting this list together because there were so few floor votes on environmental issues," said ICL policy analyst Wil Whelan of Boise.

As a result, six of the 10 Senate environmental issues considered by ICL were decided on the floor while four were resolved at the committee level. In the House, five issues were settled on the floor and three were decided within various committees.

The year stands in contrast with 1989, when environmental initiatives were both plentiful and successful.

Among the issues spotlighted by the ICL were:

A plan to establish regional planning for solid waste-management and recycling. Sponsored by Sen. Ron 'Beitenspacher, D-Grangeville, and Deanna Vickers, D-Lewisville, the plan died in the Senate Health and Welfare Committee.

The Republican legislative leadership-sponsored negotiations to settle the fate of Idaho's 9 million acres of roadless forests. The ICL opposed the measure as hastily created and lacking the support of Idaho's congressional delegation, which is ultimately responsible for securing passage of a wilderness bill.

The legislative budget-writing committee's decision to trim Gov. Cecil Andrus' requested $327,000 budget increase in water quality programs to about $113,000. Also evaluated was that committee's rejection of a second attempt to provide $120,000 toward the Clean-Lakes Act, passed in 1989.

"Some of the legislation points to the fact that the budget committee did appropriate significantly more money for environmental programs than had been appropriated last year. In our view, that was clearly appropriate in a good budget-year," Whelan said.

"However, we still have a long way to go and it's clear the Legislature is still giving short shrift to many of the (Andrus) administration's requests for environmental funding, particularly in the area of water quality."

Of the 42 state senators, six received perfect scores. Besides Beitenspacher, they included Democrats Karl Brooks, Michael Burkett, Brian Donseley and Sue Rents, all of Boise; as well as Mary Lou Reed of Coeur d'Alene.

Three Republican senators Mark Ricks of Rexburg, Rep. Ernest Ribby and Jerry Thorne of Nampa received scores of zero.

Of the 84 House members, eight received 100 percent scores. In addition to Vickers, they included Reps. Claud Judd, D-Orofino; Leanna Larsen, D-Mountain Home; Mary Ellen Lloyd, D-Pocatello; Don Loveland, R-Boise; Dorothy McCann, D-Wallace; Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello and Kenneth Robinson, D-Boise.

CAREY — Townspeople today will begin their annual two-day Pioneer Days celebration to remember when Joseph Smith led a group of Mormon pioneers to settle the Salt Lake valley.

The weekend of events is also to recall the homesteading that began in the Carey valley 100 years ago.

The festivities begin today at 10:30 with an "Idaho - Gem of the Nation" parade on Main Street. Lowell and Orpha Mecham are today's grand marshals.

Parade participants are asked to meet at 9:30 at the school.

Monetary prizes will be awarded to three winners in each of the four categories: commercial, civic, religious, and individual.

A special lunch will follow the parade at 12:30 p.m. at the LDS Church. The entire community and visitors are invited to join in

The Pioneer Days celebration winds down with the final segment of the rodeo at 8 p.m. at the Carey Rodeo Grounds. Starting at 8 p.m., the Idaho Cowboy Association sanctioned rodeo will feature more than 120 contestants.

While there will no queen contest for this rodeo, but there will be eight exciting events: steer wrestling, barbecue riding, Brahma bull riding, calf roping, team roping, break away roping, saddle bronc riding and barrel races.

The Slash-T Rodeo Co. from Shoshone is putting on the show.

Tickets can be purchased at the gate and are $4 for adults and older children. Kids 8 and under will be admitted free, however, and family passes are available for $15.

Ada commissioner becomes Idaho's U.S. marshal

BOISE (AP) — Mike Johnson resigned as an Ada County commissioner Friday morning and a few hours later was sworn in as the new U.S. marshal for Idaho.

"It's a loss to the citizens of Ada County, but the citizens of Idaho have gained the services of a very effective and competent U.S. marshal," said U.S. Magistrate Mikel Williams.

Johnson said he left employment with Ada County after 17½ years as an ambulance driver, deputy coroner and later county commissioner for two terms on the County Commission.

"It was a little harder than I thought it would be," he said.

Johnson was recommended by Sen. James McClure to President Bush, who sent Johnson's nomination to the U.S. Senate. He was confirmed to the $60,000 per year job on a unanimous consent vote last week.

Johnson succeeds Blaine Skinner, who retired.

Mary Harvey, chairman of the Ada County Republican Committee, said the central committee will meet within 10 days to nominate someone to fill the remainder of Johnson's term, and also someone to replace him on the ballot in the November general election.

Democrats did not field a candidate against Johnson, so whoever is appointed to the ballot position will win a new four-year term, barring a successful write-in campaign.

Lake

But one side of the lake rim is mostly volcanic rock — a never-ending network of cracks and crevices, which allows water to seep deep into the earth. When filled to capacity, both water and chemicals could find their way down to the aquifer, Koch explained.

While the BLM works to clean German Lake, however, people continue to dump illegal chemicals in the area.

"While the cleanup attempt goes on out at German Lake and the public is aware that the area is being watched," Koch said, "similar dump sites have popped up and have begun to fill with the same type of waste that we are cleaning up here."

Koch said he believes that there is an answer to this dilemma, but he said he needs the community's help.

"Federal money to clean these areas up is harder and harder to get," he said. "As a result, we are making a public appeal to the community to help us find some solutions to this problem."

Though a prime candidate for environmental concerns, German Lake is a single representation of what the BLM has to deal with. And the state of Idaho recently threatened the BLM with a $12,000 fine if the German Lake area is not cleaned up soon.

Though the site is on BLM land, the Minidoka County Commissioners "helped to what degree they could," Koch said.

And the National Guard is "infatuated" with the idea of helping to clean up the site, but doesn't have the time or the equipment, Koch told a board of farmers at Thursday night's Minidoka Soil and Water Conservation District meeting.

He appealed to the board to help with the cleanup and the continuing dumping problems elsewhere.

The Minidoka Soil and Water Conservation District, which sponsors an annual tour of various points of interest, will include a viewing of German Lake in this year's tour next week.

The tour will also stop at Duane Grant's farm where County Agent Ivan Hopkins will host a view of cereal and grain trials of spring grain.

And a stop at the farm of Max Robbins, named the Good Year Conservation Farmer of the Year, is also scheduled.

German Lake will be the final site. The tour is scheduled to leave the Soil and Water Conservation District building, located at 200 W. and 90 S. in Rupert, at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The district's clerk, Dyane Regas said the tour will be open to the public and will "give us a chance to view the area and talk about the problem."

Regas has sent invitations to all of the city and county officials, state legislators and others, including Sen. Steve Symms and Congressman Richard Stallings.

Supreme Court.

Wood gave Bautista-Mejia a suspended one-to-five year prison sentence and five years' probation on each of two counts of felony injury to children. The sentences will run concurrently.

Bautista-Mejia pleaded guilty to the charge in May, and prosecutors dropped three felony counts of aggravated assault on law enforcement officers.

The hostage episode began when police were called to a Ramarge Street home for a domestic disturbance last July 28, a Friday. His wife told police that Bautista-Mejia had beat her that night, that he was suicidal and had threatened to kill their 6- and 9-year-old girls, whom he kept inside the house.

Police tried negotiating with Bautista-Mejia on the phone, and on Monday morning, July 30, they lobbed tear gas into the house, thinking he was asleep and could be surprised.

But he came out of the house carrying the girls and a gun. He proceeded down the street to a relative's house, placing the children in the line of police gunfire.

He surrendered that afternoon.

The woman fired one round from a .22-caliber Magnum. No one was injured.

caused it should solve it. I think ASCS is saying that it's not their problem."

A USDA employee who worked on a similar spraying program in North Dakota said 320 acres were enrolled in the program there. About 3 million acres were eligible, he said.

Oneida County's extension agent, Raubin Panting, said a farmer called him recently complaining about grasshoppers. The farmer-owned CRP land, bordered by an alfalfa crop, which he also owned. When Panting advised him to spray both areas, the farmer replied that he could not afford to spray the CRP land.

That farmer's attitude was not unique, Panting said.

"People have got to take care of themselves and take responsibility for themselves," he said. However, Panting said he was hopeful the USDA's offer was a step in the right direction. With federal and state aid, farmers' costs to spray CRP land might be as low as $2 an acre.

Panting had no estimates on crop damage but said about one-third of Oneida County, primarily in the Malad Valley, had grasshopper problems.

Oneida County Commissioner Con Alder said the USDA is foisting the problem onto the counties. A work plan for the spraying program lists the county in numerous functions but mentions the USDA only a couple of times.

"In every instance where it says county, that ASCS office should be listed," Alder said. The program also is about a month late, he said.

No one disagreed with that assessment. But Roger Vega of the Idaho Department of Agriculture said it is important to get the program in place for next year.

An environmental assessment is being prepared regarding the spraying program. After a scoping meeting this Monday in Pocatello, the assessment could be ready in two weeks and spraying could begin, Vega said.

Because federal funds are involved, spraying must fall within guidelines of the National Environmental Policy Act, which will dictate the types of spray used and the method — aerial spraying.

Farmers who spray on their own do not have to follow those guidelines, Pollard said.

Salmon

A petition to put species on the list can be filed by anybody, but it must be accompanied by accurate scientific information, Smith said. The National Marine Fisheries Service then has 90 days to review the petition to determine if it is serious enough to warrant a full-scale biological study.

A proposal to list a species would be referred to public hearings before a final decision is issued. The decision to list a species is based on a biological survey; commercial and economic aspects are not considered.

All federal agencies must support a listing.

Once the species is listed, affected projects or water users have seven options. But only one is reasonable. "There has never been a successful challenge to a listing," Smith said. Twice exemptions have been requested, but only one was successful. Four times amendments to the act have been tried and failed.

Consultation with the appropriate agencies has over the last 15 years has been the most successful in dealing with endangered species listings, Smith said.

Already the groups that petitioned for the listing of the salmon are working on plans to restore the fish before the listing can take place, he said. The NMFS would, in fact, consider such a plan in its decision to list the fish.

"If we can avoid a listing and come up with a recovery plan I think it would be to everyone's advantage," Smith said.

But even with the recent listing of the spotted owl and now the petition to list five kinds of salmon, the Northwest shouldn't feel picked on, he said. California has so many endangered species that "every time they try to do something, one pops up."

that separate California's San Joaquin Valley from the Los Angeles Basin.

But a lot of water is lost in the Sacramento River delta, which Boronkey called "a big hole in the California water system." Environmentalists would like to see the water left in the delta, but that would hurt Southern California, he said.

The water district has looked at some other sources of a dependable water supply, "which is what water managers live on," he said.

It has negotiated a deal with irrigators in the Imperial Valley in southeastern California to line irrigation canals. The district would pay for the improvements and get the water saved in exchange.

That deal cost about $100 million over five years, but the district gets the 100,000 acre-foot of water saved per year for the next 25 years.

"It makes sense all around," Boronkey said.

The district also offered to pay farmers in the Palo Verde Valley on the California-Arizona border to reduce their irrigation by 20 percent. That could give the district another 100,000 acre feet.

It also is looking at ground water storage, reclaimed water, and water conservation efforts are saving about 200,000 acre feet per year. That figure is expected to double, Boronkey said.

He said he hopes the governor elected in November will work seriously on the water problems of Southern California like the governors of the past whose foresight gave California the excess water supply that has finally run out.

"They won't be able to put it off forever," Boronkey said. "We are going to run out."

One of the most debated questions in the history of Christendom is the question of fellowship and brotherhood among those who claim the name "CHRISTIAN". Should we draw lines, and if so, where? What constitutes the center of the Christian faith? Which doctrines are negotiable and which are not? What sort of Christian efforts are to be supported, and where must one decline support? Upon what basis do we extend fellowship to other Christians? Whom do we consider to be brothers and sisters in Christ? ## Mormon mecca nearly restored

NAUVOO, Ill. (AP) — Craftsmen are putting the finishing touches on a dream, spanning generations, of a restored Mormon mecca on the Mississippi River.

Completion of a log cabin and post office by Oct. 1 will cap an extraordinary rebirth for the city known in its 19th century heyday as "Nauvoo the Beautiful."

After 28 years and more than $15 million, the Mormon Church's finished project is an attempt to preserve both history and religious heritage. It also is a significant departure for the missionary-minded faith.

Of 110,000 visitors last year, some 65 percent were members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Surveys show that fully 80 percent of the remainder visit Nauvoo for its history as a major staging point of the westward thrust of a young nation.

From 1839 to 1846, the swampland below a bend in the Mississippi River, some 80 miles upstream from Hannibal, Mo., was transformed into a bustling city of 12,000 by Mormons fleeing mob violence in Missouri or arriving in new-convent droves from Great Britain.

A rival of Chicago as the most populous Illinois city, Nauvoo was where church founder Joseph Smith's vision of a theocracy achieved its fullest flowering. But just as before in Missouri, political, economic and religious differences with non-Mormon neighbors degenerated into armed conflict.

Less than two years after Smith was slain by a mob in nearby Carthage in 1844, the "City of Joseph" stood a virtual shell as the Mormons under Brigham Young made their pioneering exodus to the Great Basin.

Although the project was carefully researched, it has drawn criticism from scholars who say its well-manicured—grassy—and—emphasis on brick structures over wood bear little resemblance to the original.

"People who go to Nauvoo and think they have seen the real Nauvoo are sadly mistaken," said Robert Bruce Flanders, a Southwest Missouri State historian of the town. "It's true of Nauvoo as of Williamsburg. It really doesn't look anything like Nauvoo did in 1845."

The church's 1,250 acres of old Nauvoo includes 23 restored homes and shops.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, which split with the Mormons after the Nauvoo period, has restored a 44-acre section that includes the residence and grave site of Smith.

Sometime in September, a 28-year restoration of Nauvoo, Ill., will be completed by the Mormons.

Family Reading Challenge 1990

Boys and Girls . . .

Rex and Rita Saurus challenge you and your family to sign on for The Family Reading Challenge 1990.

How does it work? Read at least two books, two magazine articles and two newspaper articles between June 8 and Sept. 8 and discuss what you have read with a parent, guardian or other adult.

All participants ages 5-12 who successfully complete the challenge will qualify for a nationwide drawing for thousands of awards, including prizes such as bicycles, computers, family trips, cassette tapes, hamburgers and encyclopedias. Look for an official entry form in this newspaper. It will be printed several times during the summer.

The Family Reading Challenge 1990 begins on June 8 with the first-ever National Read Aloud. Parents, kids and famous people will read aloud in their homes and schools and on television and radio all across the country.

The program ends on Sept. 8 when millions of families across the United States and Canada will have the opportunity to show that they met the Challenge by taping their newspaper's front page in a window of their home.

Watch these pages for some enjoyable summer reading activities that will help you and your family read and use the newspaper together.

And just who are Rex and Rita Saurus? They are the famous "dinosaur" twins who have been encouraging children to read for the past two summers. Rex and Rita firmly believe that "Winners Read and Readers Win."

Chaplain charged with faking record depicting heroic service

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — A military chaplain apparently faked a heroic record with the elite Green Berets and Army Rangers in the Vietnam war, base officials say.

A court-martial is planned Aug. 7 for Maj. Gary Probst, 37, a Mormon minister and the highest-ranking officer on the base in recent memory to face such action, post officials said.

Prosecutors will show Probst never served in Vietnam with the Marines or the Army, never earned the Bronze Star or 14 other insignia he wore and was not an expert field medic or explosives expert as he claimed, said Army Capt. Martin Eckert.

He faces a maximum sentence of dishonorable discharge and 20 years in prison.

In an interview with the Morning News Tribune of Tacoma, Probst refused to discuss the charges in detail but indicated he wore the insignia to gain the trust of soldiers.

"If anything, those things can be helpful at times," Probst said without elaboration.

He did, however, criticize Lt. Gen. Calvin A.H. Waller, the base commander, for refusing without explanation to let him resign his commission without a court-martial.

as prosecutor Capt. Jeffrey Smith says is commonly allowed for officers charged with crimes.

"I'm totally amazed at the extreme the government has gone with me, like I'd done some real heinous crime," Probst said. "I'm continually amazed at the vindictiveness."

"I could understand how they'd want to make an example of me if I was a person of endangerment. (But) I have not been a harm to anybody," he continued. "I have done the best job I could as a chaplain ministering to people in the military. I always carry myself as a minister."

Probst was enrolled in summer Marine Corps officer training programs in 1975 and 1976 but never received a commission, Eckert said.

He was a student at Brigham Young University during the early 1970s, when he claimed he was in the Marines and Army, Eckert said.

Probst joined the Army in 1980 as a chaplain and served at Fort Gordon, Ga., and Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, before coming to Fort Lewis in 1987, Eckert said. He has been reassigned to other duties pending the court-martial.

Probst is charged with violating the Uniform Code of Military Justy by:

 • Wearing 15 insignia he never earned, including the Bronze Star, Vietnam campaign ribbon, Marine Corps expeditionary medal, Ranger tab, Special Forces badge and air assault badge.

• Making false official statements in a signed statement listing his career duties and decorations and in application for top-secret security clearance in which he said he had never been arrested. Army officials said Probst had been arrested but refused to give details.

• Disobeying an order of a superior by returning to the 1st Special Forces Group complex April 6 after being told to stay away.

• Making a false claim of about $100 in motel bills for a trip to Salt Lake City for temporary duty in 1988.

• Wrongful appropriation by taking a government-owned chair for personal use.

Eckert said the case arose from a financial investigation of the Green Beret SCUBA Club, a recreational ministry founded by Probst for more than 500 Fort Lewis soldiers. The club got a clean bill of health, but a routine background check revealed inconsistencies in Probst's service record, Eckert said.

Couple files suit against Disneyland

AMMON (AP) — Karen Boozer says she and her husband finally decided to sue Disneyland when the entertainment company suggested the couple was trying to extort money from it for their questionable detention at the amusement park nearly two years ago.

"It was an implication, and I took it very personally," Mrs. Boozer said. "That's when we got serious about filing a lawsuit."

The Ammon couple made good on its threat last week when the southern California firm of Neil C. Newton and Associates filed suit in Los Angeles County Superior Court, seeking over $12 million in actual and punitive damages from the Walt Disney Co.

The claim stemmed from the Disneyland trip the Boozers and their two young children won in the fall of 1989. After purchasing three coin banks at a shop in the park, the family was stopped right outside the door by a security guard who accused them of shoplifting one of the $2.50 souvenirs that was being held by 2-year-old Melissa, who was in a stroller. The other two were in a bag.

The suit alleges the security guard refused to check the sales slip that showed the bank had been paid for and after publicly ridiculing the family took them to a security area, where they were held for two hours.

While there, the suit claimed, the couple's 4-year-old daughter was traumatized when she saw employees who wear the Disney character costumes carrying the costume heads and wearing breathing apparatus. It also accused Disneyland personnel of refusing to provide a place for Melissa's diaper to be changed or allowing the couple to feed their children while being detained.

Silver Valley residents missed by Bush

BOISE (AP) — President Bush's Boise motorcade did not stop to pick up a petition from northern Idaho residents who want an FBI investigation of former regional Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Robic Russell.

As head of the EPA's Seattle office, Russell supervised the cleanup of Idaho's largest Superfund site, the Bunker Hill mining complex in Kellogg. The petitioners, members of the Idaho Citizens Network, charge he stalled cleanup of the site for more than three years.

Bush was in Boise Thursday to stump for Rep. Larry Craig's Senate campaign against Democrat Ron Twieg.

"Despite the fact that Craig is our representative, he has not taken any initiative to assure that the cleanup progresses as quickly as possible and the responsible parties are held accountable," said Ruth Husa, spokeswoman for the Silver Valley citizens group.

Russell, a one-time Idaho deputy attorney general, left his EPA job Feb. 10, amid allegations he consistently delayed or vetoed staff recommendations.

The EPA inspector general in May reported Russell showed "a pattern of decision-making which benefited industry at the expense of the environment."

Idaho Citizens Network director Gary Sandusky said the group is pushing for an FBI investigation to force the EPA to admit its mistakes and pick up the cleanup pace.

The Silver Valley ICN chapter collected nearly 1,000 names for the petition to present to Bush and Craig, although it is uncertain if they finally received it.

High-tech disappointments sent market down

Project will improve utility's Northern Idaho phone lines

The Associated Press NEW YORK — New disappointments in high-technology profits helped send stock prices into a sharp decline Friday as the Dow Jones industrial average fell 31.12 points...

Dow Jones' average of 30 blue chips fell 32.67 to 2,961.14, finishing the week with a net loss of 19.06 points.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by about 5 to 3 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 585 up, 912 down and 513 unchanged.

Late last week, Monday and Tuesday, and again at midsession Friday, the Dow Jones industrials crossed 3,000, only to turn back quickly.

list with an even bigger drop, down 8 3/4 at 25K after the company made a downbeat appraisal of its earnings prospects for the year.

Among other prominent computer and technology stocks, International Business Machines fell 2 1/4 to 117 1/4; Digital Equipment 1 1/8 to 81 1/4; Hewlett-Packard 3/4 to 60 1/4.

Elsewhere in the blue-chip sector, Boeing dropped 1 to 58; General Electric 1 1/4 to 74; Exxon 1 1/4 to 48 1/4; American Express 3/4 to 30 1/4; and福特 Motor 4 to 43 1/4.

Browning-Ferris Industries, also among the volume leaders, dropped 1/4 to 42 1/4. The company reported slightly higher quarterly earnings on Thursday, but the gain was a shade smaller than analysts expected.

was Suave Shoe, up 1 1/4 at 10 1/4 on sharply higher quarterly profits.

Volume—on the floor of the Big Board to about 177.81 million shares, against 161.99 million the previous week.

As measured by Wilshire Associates' index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market lost $29.53 billion, or 0.85 percent, in value.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped 1.73 to 197.65.

Standard & Poor's industrial index fell 4.51 to 428.69, and S&P's 500-company index was down 3.71 at 361.61.

LEWISTON — US West's telephone system will sound much clearer to many northern Idaho customers following the state Public Utilities Commission approval of an upgrade.

The decision was reached sooner than expected so that US West could begin construction while good weather prevails.

Lewiston and Cottonwood are the two areas where upgrading will take place first. Work begins in August.

The improvements, which will cost US West about $955,000 and be completed in 1992, will provide single-party service to some 1,300 rural customers who now have party-line service.

The upgrade also will mean increased customer fees. Paul Krause, library service director at Lewis-Clark State College, testified in favor of the proposal, saying it would allow for improved computer communication between the main library catalog and rural libraries.

LeMond, Chiappucci lead Tour de France

LIMOGES, France — Claudio Chiappucci and Greg LeMond cleared the final barrier to their rendezvous in Saturday's time trial of the Tour de France, staying five seconds apart after today's largely meaningless 19th stage.

Guido Bontempi of Italy won the stage after he broke away from the small lead group late in the 113.5-mile leg from Castillon la Bataille to Limoges in central France. Temperatures again were above 95 degrees.

Chiappucci and LeMond stayed together for much of the race with barely a bicycle-length between them except for one brief moment when LeMond dropped back for a small mechanical problem. He quickly rejoined the pack and hounded Chiappucci's back wheel in the final miles.

Overall Chiappucci maintained his slim margin over LeMond, who is seeking his third Tour de France title.

Rose undergoes knee surgery after getting prison sentence

CINCINNATI — Pete Rose underwent arthroscopic surgery on his injured right knee on Friday, a day after being sentenced to prison for tax offenses.

S. Michael Lawhorn, the Cincinnati Reds team doctor, removed torn cartilage and repaired an injured ligament during the operation at Christ Hospital, according to a prepared statement.

"We expect a full recovery," he said.

Norman, Faldo tie for British Open lead

The Associated Press

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — They're Nos. 1 and 1-A on any list of the world's great golfers. Nick Faldo and Greg Norman will determine who's who over the last 36 holes of the British Open.

Faldo and Norman reached the halfway point of this 119th and lowest-scoring Open Championship in a dead heat at 132, 12 strokes under par on the Old Course, and set up a head-to-head duel for world golfing supremacy.

No one else was within four strokes of the run-away co-leaders, who will be paired together in Saturday's third round, a confrontation reminiscent of a couple of other recent British Opens in which leadership in the game was on the line.

Seve Ballesteros' triumph over Tom Watson here in 1984 made the Spaniard the undisputed leader of the game. Watson relinquished the role he'd secured in a one-stroke victory over Jack Nicklaus at Turnberry in 1977.

Nicklaus' triumph over Ballesteros will be around to watch this latest in a series, however.

Both were victims of the unkindest cut in the history of golf's oldest tournament. A score of one under-par 143 — the lowest ever by three strokes — was required to qualify for the final two rounds.

The old low was two-over par at Royal Troon last year. Eighty golfers made it then; 72 — par for the Old Course — advanced this time.

Norman, who has a recent history of come-from-behind, last-round challenges that seem to meet misfortune in golf's top events, returned to an earlier format here. Just as he did in his only previous major-tournament triumph, the 1986 Open at Turnberry in which he led all the way, he wasted no time in this one.

He held a magnificent sand wedge shot from 75 yards out for an eagle-three that served as the centerpiece Friday of a second consecutive 66 and now has shared the lead at the end of each of the first two rounds.

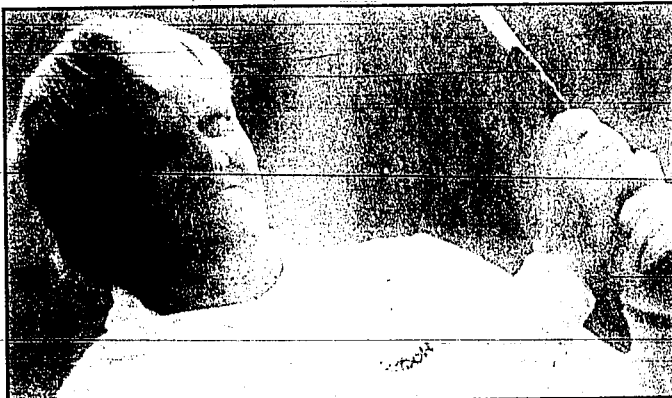

"A real shot in the arm, a bonus," he said of the soft shot that arched against a gray Scottish sky, hit the green four feet beyond the flag and spun back into the cup.

Faldo's approach was less dramatic but no less effective. Just as he has done so often in recent years, in the victories in the 1987 Open and the last two Masters, the tall Englishman's elegant strokes were simply relentless.

He compiled a bogey-free 65 — matching the best score of the tournament — in the chilly weather and brisk breezes off the Bay of St. Andrews.

Faldo's may have been the more difficult role. He was playing behind both Norman and Ian Woosnam of Wales, all of whom shared the lead at one point or another.

Golden Bear at home on British links

The Associated Press

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — The sea breeze is his ally. The course whispers its secrets to him. The spectators are old friends.

In the "Home of Golf," no golfer is more at home than Jack Nicklaus.

The Golden Bear's love affair with this ancient town began in the 1960s and is stronger than ever today. After a 2-under-par 70 left him with view of the second-round lead at 14th Friday, Nicklaus declared himself ready for a fourth British Open crown.

"I'm in position on the Old Course to win the tournament with two good rounds," he said. "You just never know what's going to happen."

Nicklaus was runner-up to Tony Lema in his first British Open at St. Andrews in 1964 and won the title the following two times it was held on the Old Course, in 1970 and 1978. He also won the Open at Muirfield in 1966.

But the 50-year-old Nicklaus, who now plays mostly in the Seniors Tour in the United States, is tied to St. Andrews by much more than golf.

He is the favorite of the grandstands, where even the sentimental final journey of Arnold Palmer must take a back seat.

What's more, the man who calls St. Andrews "my favorite place in the world" holds an honorary degree from the local university and is one of only eight non-royal members of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club that sits beside the Old Course.

The most successful golfer in history, Nicklaus said he has a shot at another title this year because his back feels better than it has in years and because of his experience here.

NCAA bans UNLV Rebels; Tarkanian shocked

The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — After 13 years of trying, the NCAA finally got UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian, banning his Runnin' Rebels from defending their national basketball championship in a decision that left university officials shocked and outraged.

UNLV immediately announced it would appeal the one-year ban on post-season play, which the NCAA imposed Friday as the final resolution of a bitter battle with Tarkanian that stretches back to 1977.

"I think it's a miscarriage of justice," UNLV President Robert Maxson said. "We're being penalized twice for the same offense and that violates one of the basic principles of justice."

Nor are the school's problems over.

Tarkanian

The ban came as the NCAA wrapped up another, more recent, investigation of UNLV, which centers on violations stemming from the 1987 recruitment of former New York City prep star Lloyd Daniels.

Sources close to that probe say the NCAA is expected to hand UNLV a list of alleged violations within the next month, which if upheld could result in probation for the basketball program.

"I'm more concerned about the outcome of the Daniels situation now," Maxson said.

"Before, I was under the impression that no one knows of any major violations. But with this type of penalty, I don't know what to expect."

A stunned Tarkanian, who had been led to believe the sanctions would be nothing more than a slap on the wrist, said he couldn't believe the decision.

"It's absolutely incredible," Tarkanian told The Associated Press from his San Diego vacation home. "It just makes you wonder if I'll ever be treated fairly by that organization."

UNLV became the second champion ever — and the second in three years — to be banned from defending its basketball title.

The one-year prohibition from the NCAA tournament will not affect television appearances or the number of athletic scholarships UNLV is allowed to give.

It also includes the NIT tournament, but it will be up to the Big West Conference to determine if UNLV can play in its postseason tournament.

The postseason ban couldn't have come at a worse time for Tarkanian, whose team is returning four starters, including stars Stacey Augmon and Larry Johnson, from the second that routed Duke 103-73 for the national championship and figured to be a consensus No. 1 preseason pick.

"I just feel bad for Stacey and Larry," Tarkanian said. "They did what very few kids have done."

"They turned down big money to stay in

Goodwill Games see world mark

The Associated Press

SEATTLE — Mike Barrowman emphatically stamped his approval on the Goodwill Games on Friday, breaking his world record in the 200-meter breaststroke.

Not many people are sure about how to assess this event. Barrowman had no doubts, smashing the record by 1.35 seconds with a time of 2:11.53.

The 21-year-old from Potomac, Md., originally set the record at the 1989 Long Course Nationals and broke it at the '89 Pan Pacific Championships.

The U.S. swim team, for example, was told to point toward the Goodwill Games as their big meet of the year. Barrowman obviously took those instructions to heart.

So did Kirk Suckale of Penasquitos, Calif., who also went under the old record. His time of 2:12.24 was the same as Sergio Lopez of Spain and both were awarded silver medals.

It was a rousing start to the swimming at the new King County Aquatic Center, where, two races earlier, Matt Biondi beat Tom Jager for the first gold medal of the Goodwill Games.

Still left to be answered at these second Goodwill Games:

— Can the United States avenge its Olympic basketball loss to the Soviets?

— Will Carl Lewis beat Leroy Burrell in their first meeting of 1990?

— Is Randy Barnes ready for another world shot put record?

— Why are so many athletes coming to Seattle?

F&G stunned by deaths of sturgeon at Brownlee

The Associated Press

BOISE — Twenty-eight dead sturgeon, some of them 8 feet long, have been found dead this week at Brownlee Reservoir on the Snake River's Hells Canyon.

"We're just sick about it," Terry Holubetz, regional fisheries manager for the Idaho Department of Fish and Game, said Thursday. "It's a population that is teetering on the brink of extinction. We hate to lose one of them, let alone a dozen or more at a crack."

The cause of the deaths is a combination of high water temperatures, low streamflows and low levels of dissolved oxygen in the water, a result of "non-point" pollution, said Holubetz. He said he could remember no similar sturgeon kills.

Although sturgeon are not listed as threatened or endangered, their numbers have decreased drastically as dams have been built, Holubetz said.

Fertilizer residue draining off fields into the river is one source of non-point pollution, which increases water nutrient levels and causes more algae to grow. Algae, in turn, uses up oxygen as it decomposes in the water.

Bill Meiners, former president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, said, "It's a disaster. It points out the need for minimum water flows on the river."

Many of the dead sturgeon likely were about 50 years old, Holubetz said. The fish, which fisherman can catch and release, live to age 100 or older.

Most of the dead sturgeon, first reported Tuesday by a fisherman, were found in the reservoir between Steck Park and Spring Creek. Idaho Fish and Game officials counted a dozen carcasses Wednesday. On Thursday, the total rose to 28.

Solutions are murky. Fish and Game might try to increase streamflows by moving some of its share of the water in Lucky Peak Reservoir to Brownlee via the Boise River, said Chris Chaffin, Fish and Game spokesman.

The pollution issue is tougher, he said. "You're talking about the way people make their livings. We aren't callous to that at all," Chaffin said.

In addition to the sturgeon, dead catfish, smallmouth bass and crappie were found this week in Brownlee Reservoir, considered one of the most popular fishing reservoirs in all of Idaho.

All the dead fish were left where they were found, although sturgeon fins were removed to help determine age, Chaffin said.

"The gulls are working on them over-time," Chaffin said. Ravens, buzzards and crows also are feeding on the carcasses, which will rapidly be picked clean.

Officials speculated the dead sturgeon might have been an isolated population unable to reproduce because of poor water conditions.

Officials do not know exactly how many of the fish remain in Idaho.

Cubs slip by Giants, 5-4, in 9th inning to take 5th consecutive win

CHICAGO (AP) — Shawn Dunston and Joe Girardi hit run-scoring singles off Jeff Brantley in the ninth inning Friday and the Chicago Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 5-4 for their fifth consecutive victory.

Brantley (3-2), who had blown only two saves in 18 opportunities coming into the game, gave up a one-out double in the ninth to pinch-hitter Greg Varsho. Varsho stole third and scored one out later on Dunston's single.

Dunston stole second and Brantley balked him to third before Girardi lined the game-winning hit for the Cubs.

It was the fourth time in 48 games this season that San Francisco took a lead into the ninth inning and lost.

Rob Dibble pitched three perfect innings for his eighth save. The Reds opened the scoring in the fourth when Chris Sabo and Jeff Reed, who went 3-for-3 with two RBI, each singled in runs off Jeff Parrett (3-8).

The Reds extended their lead to 4-0 in the fifth with the help of a misplay by Phillies center fielder Lenny Dykstra. Charlton walked and Barry Larkin singled into center field, where Dykstra let the ball roll through to the wall and allow both runners to score.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Junior Ortiz singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning and Allan Anderson pitched a four-hitter as the Minnesota Twins beat the New York Yankees.

Brian Harper doubled with one out and Kent Hrbek was intentionally walked. John Moses pinch ran for Harper and Ortiz lined a single off Dave LaPoint (5-7).

Anderson (4-12) has allowed only three earned runs in 25 1/3 innings to the Yankees this season. He is 1-0 against the Yankees this year and 4-0 lifetime.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sid Fernandez allowed four hits over 7 2/3 innings and struck out 10 Friday night, leading the New York Mets over the punilches Atlanta Braves 6-1. The Mets got 11 strikeouts from David Cone in beating the Braves 6-2 on Thursday, and have now won 22 of their last 29 games.

Howard Johnson drove in three runs for the Mets with a two-run single and a double. Fernandez (6-4) beat Jeff Blausner with one out in the first inning and then retired 14 in a row. During that span, the left-hander struck out seven consecutive batters to come within three of Tom Seaver's major league record set in 1970.

Wilson walked to force in a run in a three-run first inning, one of 10 walks issued by Montreal pitchers, then doubled home two more in the second when the Astros batted around to take a 9-0 lead.

He didn't go down easy, however. Trailing 12-0 in the ninth, they scored six times off reliever Jim Clancy before Dan Schatzeder got the last two outs for the Astros.

Danny Darwin (4-1) was the winner, allowing three hits and one walk in seven innings. He has a 1.03 ERA since moving into the starting rotation July 1.

Ryan wins 299th verdict as Rangers beat Tigers 5-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Nolan Ryan won his 299th game Friday night, allowing one hit in six innings as the Texas Rangers held on to beat the Detroit Tigers 5-3.

Ryan will try to become the 20th pitcher in major league history to win 300 games on Wednesday night at home against the New York Yankees.

The last to reach 300 was Don Sutton in 1986.

A sellout crowd of 41,719 saw Ryan (10-4) win his fifth straight decision. He walked one striker out after and threw 77 pitches before leaving with tightness in his back.

Ryan, who got his sixth no-hitter on June 11 against Oakland, permitted only a fourth-inning single by Lou Whitaker.

Nursing a bad back, Ryan was reluctant after walking Tony Phillips on four pitches to start the seventh. Detroit scored three runs in the seventh after 'Ryan left. Dave Bergman hit an RBI single off Craig McMurtry and Lloyd Moseby had a two-run triple.

Backley takes back world javelin record

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Steve Backley on Friday took back the world javelin record with a throw that was more than four feet longer than the previous record.

Backley's heave of 298 feet, six inches was the first to break the 90-meter barrier of 295-3.

Less than a week ago, Czechoslovakian Jan Zeleny kept them buzzing. Backley's previous world mark with a throw of 294-2 in Oslo, Norway. On Friday, the Briton used the Nemeth javelin he had earlier criticized.

Zeleny was there to see it, competing against Backley at the International Amateur Athletic Federation Grand Prix meet at Crystal Palace.

After his monster throw, Backley said, "I always said that if he had borrowed the record from me, I knew I would get it back and it was great to do it here in front of the British fans."

It's a historic best reply on Friday was 281-7.

While a packed Crystal Palace crowd awaited the attack on the men's world javelin record, three British track speedsters and a trio of Kenyan 800 meter runners kept them buzzing.

Europe's Linford Christie ended a losing streak by winning the 100 meters, countryman Jon Rogie is stromed to victory at 200 meters and Welshman Colin Jackson run the fastest 110-meter hurdles on British soil.

The Kenyan trio of Steve Olemar, Olympic champion Paul Ereng and Nixon Kiprotich run away with the 800 meters to dampen the hopes of Scotsman Tom McKean.

Mets won't go to extremes for Strawberry

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets general manager Frank Cashen said Friday the club would "not give away the store" to keep right fielder Darryl Strawberry.

Strawberry is eligible for free agency at the end of the season and was quoted in Friday's editions of the New York Daily News as saying he would consider playing for George Steinbrenner and the New York Yankees.

Negotiations between Strawberry and the Mets broke down last week when the club offered $9.1 million for three years.

Strawberry wants a five-year deal for at least $23 million and considered the Mets' offer insulting.

"Certainly we're not signing Darryl, but not at all costs," Cashen said. "Three million a year isn't bad."

Strawberry

"I know all about George and how tough he can be," Strawberry told the News. "But I play hard, so why wouldn't they like me?"

With me, I could turn Donnie (Mattingly) into a 300 hitter again, giving the man some protection, shoot, and the home runs ... man, I could bring exciting into their lineup. Who do they have now that can do the things I can do?" Cashen said he is concerned the stoppage in negotiations could result in clubhouse problems.

"It's a ludicrous thought that we're going to give everybody everything they want," Cashen said. "We're not going to give away the store. That's not the answer to running a ballclub."

Strawberry declined to comment other than to say his statements to the News were accurate.

Cashen said he had not talked to the outfielder about his comments but did not rule it out.

Strawberry spent a month in alcohol rehabilitation before the start of the season and got off to a slow start.

But over the last 49 games, he has 19 homers and 45 RBIs.

school and that's what college basketball is all about and what the NCAA is supposed to stand for. I just feel sick for them."

Under NCAA rules, Augmon and Johnson, who are both seniors, could transfer and play immediately at their new schools. Two blue-chip recruits, Ed O'Bannon and Shon Tarver, could also go elsewhere and play right away.

However, the NBA said that because its draft was held last month, Johnson and Augmon will have to wait a year to play in the league.

The sanctions go back to the mid-1970s, when the organization first started investigating possible recruiting violations at UNLV, where Tarkanian became head coach in 1973.

UNLV was hit with a two-year probation in 1977 and the NCAA — under an unprecedented ruling — ordered the university to suspend Tarkanian from coaching for a similar period.

UNLV served the probation, but Tarkanian won a state court injunction banning the university from suspending him. The case went to the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled although some have been modified. Tarkanian said he couldn't understand the university being penalized because he got the injunction on the grounds the NCAA did not give him a fair hearing before ordering him suspended.

"All the courts held up the fact I didn't get a fair hearing," Tarkanian said.

O'Hern takes Ameritech Senior Open lead

ACME, Mich. (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez had the crowds but Jim O'Hern had the lead Friday after the first round of the $500,000 Ameritech Senior Open.

O'Hern had six birdies and no bogeys over the 6,679-yard Bear course at a Grand Traverse Resort for a 66 and a one-shot lead over Rodriguez and Don January.

"You know, if you put the ball in the fairway, this isn't a bad golf course," O'Hern said. "I missed only two greens but I got it up and down."

Jim Dent, a three-time winner this year and the winner last week of the Kroger Senior Classic near Cincinnati, was in a group of four tied at 4-under 68.

The course, designed by Jack Nicklaus, is considered the most difficult in Michigan with its woodlands, marshes and deep bunkers. Last month, Bob Proben won the Michigan Open on the Bear course at 1-over. His best 18-hole score in four rounds was 67.

Senior PGA Tour officials moved the tees up to shorten the course by nearly 500 yards, mowed the rough and set up fairly easy pin placements for the Ameritech.

As a result, 28 golfers shot par or better Friday.

"I am surprised, but I think I know why," January said. "The greens are so soft because of the heavy rains the last two nights. If it wasn't for that, the balls would be ricocheting every which way. As a result of the rains, the greens superintendent hasn't had a chance to do squat."

"I had heard it was just a God-awful golf course. I have not seen anything to make me think differently. But we're playing membership tees and soft greens. That makes it a whole different story."

January had seven birdies and two bogeys in a round that required only 23 putts.

"I putted great. It was a pleasure to see," he said.

In the absence of Senior crowd favorites such as Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer — all playing in the British Open this week — the flamboyant Rodriguez had most of the fans trooping along the fairways with him.

Rodriguez, who won at Las Vegas in May, is eighth on the senior money list with $317,796, January is

F&G agent kills stray elk

MUD LAKE (AP) — State Fish and Game agents have shot one marauding elk on the northern edge of the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory site, and officials said more animals in the problem herd could be shot if they continue plaguing area farmers.

Fish and Game wildlife biologist Justin Naderman said the animal was shot shortly after midnight on Wednesday in an attempt to discourage the herd from grazing on neighboring farm fields.

The big game herds in the Mud Lake and Howe areas have been posing serious degradation problems for years, worsened by recent droughts, because the animals take refuge during the day on the INEL site, where hunting has generally been barred, and then raid the fields for forage at night.

"The hunts we have had in there the past couple of years have not been effective so we had to try something else," Naderman said. He said the department issued 75 controlled hunt permits in the unit last year, but only nine hunters were successful.

The deer was given to a poor person for its food value, officials said.

Fish and Game officers will continue to harass the herd until it stops raiding the fields, Naderman said, and more animals will be shot if necessary.

Goodwill games lose 2

Seattle Times

SEATTLE — The Goodwill Games lost two more U.S. track headliners and the Kenyan who holds the world record in the steeplechase.

A key addition is Jamaican sprinter Merlene Ottey in the women's 100 and 200-meter dashes. Ottey, top-ranked in both events last year and holder of the best times this year, had been unhappy with the appearance money offered. The Athletics Congress now says she is "definitive" for the meet.

Also added is East German javelin thrower Petra Felke, the world-record holder (262.5).

Steve Lewis, the 1988 Olympic gold medalist at 400 meters, has withdrawn because of illness, and Mary Slaney, holder of seven U.S.

records, is sidelined after undergoing arthroscopic surgery on an Achilles' tendon this week.

Missing from the preliminary entry list released Thursday by IAC is Peter Koeh of Kenya, holder of the world mark (8:05.35) in the 3,000-meter steeplechase. It had been announced earlier this week that the former Washington State University star would compete here. Another Kenyan steeplechaser, Julius Kariuki, also is off the list.

Also missing from the entry list is Soviet women's long jumper Galina Chistyakova, the world-record holder at 24-89. She reportedly suffered a recent knee injury.

Another Soviet out of the meet is hammer thrower Sergei Litvinov, the 1988 Olympic champion. He is being replaced by the present world leader, countryman Igor Nikulin.

Bengals sign Munoz to pact for undisclosed amount

The Associated Press

One day after signing their top draft pick, the Cincinnati Bengals announced their top offensive lineman.

The Bengals signed Friday that Anthony Munoz, a nine-time Pro Bowl pick, has signed a new contract. Munoz, 6-foot-6 and 284 pounds, was a unanimous choice on the NFL's all-decade team for the 1980s.

Terms of the contract weren't disclosed.

The Bengals, who traditionally have had problems signing their top picks, signed No. 1 choice James Francis of Baylor on Thursday.

The signings left the Bengals with six unsigned draft picks and five unsigned veterans — wide receiver Tim McGee, safety David Fulcher, linebacker Joe Kelly and cornerbacks Lewis Billups and Eric Thomas.

Lions

Detroit's Barry Sanders led the NFC in rushing as a rookie and missed all of training camp last year.

So the Lions can't wait to see what their star runner can do after six weeks of camp. The only one who's not so crazy about it, though, is Sanders.

"I can't say I'm looking forward to it, but it should help," the former Heisman Trophy winner said Friday as the Lions opened camp at the Silverdome. "Hopefully, I can start where I left off last year."

"We as a team can do what we did at the end of last year. We're closing the gap on a lot of teams."

Sanders and the Lions both finished on a high note last season. Sanders rushed for 873 and 11

Cardinals

"Big Daddy" is on the move again.

Defensive end Carl Hairston, a 14-year veteran, was claimed off waivers by Phoenix. Hairston had anchored the Cleveland Browns defensive line for the last six years with 37% quarterback sacks. Last year, he had 60 tackles and 6% sacks.

"We're delighted to add a player of Carl Hairston's character and ability," Cardinals general manager Larry Wilson said. "Carl will add valuable depth to our defensive front."

Phoenix opens its camp Monday under new head coach Joe Bugel.

other.

"When you're all playing well, and holding puts, you look at the leaderboard and keep going," Faldo said.

"We were all sort of like chasing each other. It was a good mode to be in, going for every pin and trying to hole every putt. It was the key to the round. Everybody was adding to their score and when it's like that, it's a nice mode to be in."

"And it provided some spectacular, record-matching golf to the 40,000-plus Scots who milled and mused over the course where the game was born.

Payne Stewart, the current PGA title-holder and the leader of the greatly diminished American forces, shared third at 136. Each had a 68.

Woosnam shot 69 and was tied at seven under par with Nick Price of Zimbabwe, a two-time runner-up in this event; James Spence of England, and Miles Reid, who let two major titles escape him last year.

Spence shot 65 as the first man off the tee, matching Faldo for the tournament's low round. Price and Reid each had a 67.

They were followed at 138 by Americans Jodie Mudd, Steve Pate and Peter Jacobsen, Jose-Maria Olazabal of Spain, Scot Sam Torrance and his elongated putter, and Anders Sorenson of Denmark. Mudd had a 66, Olazabal 67, Sorenson and Pate 68 and Jacobsen a 70 that included a birdie on the Road Hole.

Watson and Ballesteros each shot 145, too many to make it into the final field.

Ballesteros had a second-round 74 and Watson said he "three-putted myself to death" in a 73.

But they were not alone in their disappointment and frustration.

"Take Mark Calcavecchia for example. The defending champion struggled to a 75 and was at 146 after what he called some "idiotic" play.

Curtis Strange also missed at 71-145.

And so did Arnold Palmer. The 60-year-old winner of 15 titles who played his first British Open at the Old Course in 1960, shot 71-144 — even par — in his farewell appearance in the tournament he helped restore to the front ranks of golf's great championships.

While the head-to-head duel between Norman and Faldo may be a spectators' delight, Norman said he was supremely indifferent to the pairing.

Astrological Forecasts

IF JULY 21ST IS YOUR BIRTHDAY:
Current cycle emphasizes marital status, shelter, protection, unique relationship with older woman who could be employer, close associate or parent. Decision will be made in connection with business, financial backing. Gemini, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. You are sensitive concerning appearance, wardrobe, body image. You possess excellent sense of humor, are versatile.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Although some rules are broken, you emerge unscathed. Individual who attempts to "keep you in place" will fail. Focus tonight on laughter, entertainment, long-distance communication. Gemini involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Someone loves you, a curve - reverse twist is meant to trip you. Remain alert, know that relative could mean well but could also be mistaken. Study Aries message: You'll encounter "mirror image."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dialogue with articulate individual could lead to successful investment. Keep mind open, be perceptive, combine physical attraction with mental agility. Virgo and another Gemini figure prominently.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Harmony replaces friction - involves family relationship. Emphasis on music, domestic adjustment, correct timing. Visitor could be portraying "man who came to dinner." Taurus figures prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Scenario features mystery, intrigue, participation in experiment that might border on the occult. You'll have glimpse behind scenes. Theatrical performance could dominate evening. Pisces in picture.

What's purring?
Q. Do you still insist a cat's purring is some sort of signal?
A. Am not qualified to insist, sir. Can only report the researchers with their hidden microphones insist cats never purr when alone.

Statistics out of hospital emergency rooms show about 2,500 women annually injure themselves putting on eye makeup.

During the great Yukon Gold Rush about a century ago, you couldn't cross into Canada without 1,500 pounds of flour, bacon, whatever - provisions to keep you alive for a year. The Mounties enforced that one.

The distance between the eyes, typically, is equal to the width of one eye.

MONOPOLY
Trouble with Monopoly is it takes too long to play. That's what George Parker of Parker Bros. said. Or words to that effect. But Charles Darrow, credited as the game's inventor, convinced Parker to market it anyway.

Argentina's Omba tree is top wet to burn, too spongy to chop. What good is it?

Q. In concrete in front of what used to be Sid Grauman's Chinese Theater here in Hollywood are footprints of three horses. Tom Mix's "Tony," Roy Roger's "Trigger." Name the third!
A. Gene Autry's "Champion."

Report is corn now covers a quarter of this country's farmland.

PLANETS
Planets in our solar system are assembled in a certain configuration today. They will not be in the same configuration again for 93,408 years.

Historians say George Washington couldn't handle an off-the-cuff speech. He needed scripts.

Q. What's the only Zodiac sign without a living critter as its symbol?
A. Taurus with a balance scale.

Q. Haven't dinosaur fossils been found on every continent?
A. Every one except Antarctica.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"Every man is the son of his own works."
— Cervantes.

"I intended the heart nine as a correct signal," said East.
"Given the situation, how could I possibly have interpreted it as anything but sub-preference?" replied West.

"You decide which side was at fault."
Six diamonds would have proven a much safer contract, however, at duplicate, North took his shot at six spades.

"West led his heart king, and East signaled with his nine. West shifted to the higher-ranking side-suit, expecting East to ruff, but there was no ruff. Dummy's jack held, resulting trump finesses against East went, and South brought home 12 uneasy tricks. Did West have a point about East's signal?"

"Decidedly so. Given the six-card diamond suit in dummy, and South's raise, East might well have had a void in diamonds. West was right to switch to diamonds at trick two. East was the guilty one in this defense. Instead of "encouraging" with his heart nine at trick one, he should have overtaken with his ace and returned a heart, forcing dummy to ruff. This protects East from repeated finesses against his trump, and instead of losing 1430 points, the defenders would have collected 100 points.

"Why should West be expected to do what East could have done for himself?"
