Baghdad threatens terror use

The Associated Press
Iraq warned Thursday of possible terrorist attacks against U.S. forces, sounding the theme of Arab feelings wounded by the presence of non-Muslim soldiers massed in the holy lands of Saudi Arabia.

But a condemnation of Muslim clergy in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, condemned the Iraqi annexation of Kuwait and said the U.S.-led multinational force's presence was justified by Iraq's invasion.

In another development, the U.S. commander in Saudi Arabia said the flow of equipment for American forces into Saudi Arabia was eight days behind schedule. The commander, though, said the troops and military hardware already there were sufficient enough to stop any Iraqi attack.

Iraq's warning came in a memorandum to the U.S. charge d'affaires in Baghdad, according to the Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus. It said Iraq was responding to a U.S. claim that Iraq-based terrorists were preparing to attack U.S. targets.

The United States is creating a "pretext" for aggression, the memorandum was quoted as saying, and "Iraq reserves its legitimate right to self-defense, to reciprocate and to retaliate firmly against those parties if it becomes a target."

"President Bush should expect that the crimes—the United States of America is committing against the Arab nation and the insult it is directing to the Islamic shrines by occupying holy lands will undoubtedly provoke a natural reaction from the Arab and Islamic masses," said the memorandum.

Video message on way to Iraq

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON—President Bush plan to communicate with the Iraqi people through a video message, a source close to the White House said Thursday.

After receiving assurances from the ambassador that the tape would be shown on a "better procedure" was found for delivering it, the State Department decided to send a courier to Baghdad.

"With cameras recording the scene Thursday morning, Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger tried to give the eight-minute tape to Ambassador Mohamed al-Masbat.

Later, speaking with reporters, al-Masbat said his complaint with the form of delivery—not the substance of the tape, which is designed to enable Bush to tell his side of the Persian Gulf crisis to the Iraqi people.

"We welcome the tape," al-Masbat said, adding that he assured Eagleburger that the Iraqi government will broadcast the statement "in prime time."

Al-Masbat also raised the possibility that his government might broadcast the tape via satellite "for the whole world."

Astronomer Carl Sagan warns of the dangers associated with the greenhouse effect during a speech Thursday at CSI.

'Massive greenhouse effect' on neighbor planet

By Craig Lincoln
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS—The planet Venus may hold the key to breaking the world's dependence on oil.

Astronomer Carl Sagan, speaking to more than 1,000 people at the College of Southern Idaho Thursday, pointed out that the planet is barren, lifeless and a generally hot place because "there is a massive greenhouse effect on Venus."

Recent discoveries have given us lessons for everyday life, Sagan said, especially for a planet addicted to fossil fuels.

Every lump of coal burned, every gallon of gas puts carbon dioxide in the air, Sagan said. Doublers of the greenhouse effect need look no farther than Venus, which has lots of carbon dioxide and surface temperatures of 500 degrees Fahrenheit.

Sagan said temperatures projected for earth during the year 2020 will be the hottest in 150,000 years, bringing on widespread drought and higher ocean levels. That's a result of the greenhouse effect—caused by increased carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere that will trap heat.

But those insights on the impact of man's actions on the global environment are only possible because of unmanned-space exploration.

"If all you care about are practical things on earth, then you should be for robotic exploration," Sagan said.

McClure blocks mining law changes

By Caryn Shetterly
States News Service
WASHINGTON—Sen. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas has decided to abandon until next year his battle to change a 118-year-old mining law.

Instead, aides say, he will try for a one-year moratorium on new government patents for mining claims. Bumpers will attempt to attach the moratorium to the Interior Department appropriations bill, expected to be discussed by the House and Senate next week.

"The reason for the dropped fight? Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, who has vehemently opposed changes in the law, will have retired after three terms.

The Arkansas Democrat—also a three-term—has tried for more than a year to alter the 1872 Mining Act, which allows prospectors to buy public land for $2.50 an acre if they intend to look for hard-rock minerals. Claims are patented by the Bureau of Land Management after the agency determines the land contains minerals.

Bumpers' bill, dubbed the Mining Act of 1989, would place an 8 percent royalty on mining production, and would impose a holding fee of $100 per claim, plus a $50-an-acre "diligence" fee on the property.

In the House, Rep. Nick Rahall, D-W.Va., has introduced a bill requiring claimholders pay the government $1.50 an acre annually, which would increase to $5. Please see MINING/A2

Medicare cuts snag talks

Knight-Ridder-News Service
WASHINGTON—Congressional and White House negotiators Thursday reportedly have "been included in the proposed deal."

Graham told reporters he understands that half the domestic budget cuts would come from the Medicare program. "That would be unconscionable," Graham said. Sources said the negotiators are discussing Medicare cuts as well as an increase in the current 28.6 percent Part B premium paid by most retirees. Under the proposal, the tax would be greater for wealthier Americans, possibly quadrupling for the wealthiest taxpayers.

Meanwhile, the negotiators continued to discuss a Republican proposal to cut the capital gains tax. Democrats have called for a 20 percent surtax on taxpayers earning more than $500,000 per year, but Republicans were trying to get Democrats to accept a tax on luxury items such as furs and jewelry.

Souter says there's a right to privacy; silent on abortion

Knight-Ridder News Service
WASHINGTON—In calm and measured tones, Supreme Court nominee David H. Souter said Thursday that the Constitution contains a right of privacy, but he reportedly refused to say whether that right encompasses a woman's decision to terminate her pregnancy.

Testifying during the first day of confirmation hearings on his nomination to become the 10th justice at a pivotal time in the high court's history, Souter said it would be "inappropriate" for him to comment on "the one issue which has been on everyone's lips since the moment of my nomination."

He referred to Roe vs. Wade, the bitterly controversial 1973 landmark that gave women a privacy right to choose abortion in the early state of pregnancy without government interference.

This is about the lives and health of millions of women but, he quickly drew the wall (of silence) down, he complained. Kate Mitchell, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said "We believe that's unacceptable," added Planned Parenthood's Kaye Wattleton. Weather summary

Idahoans enjoyed hazy sunshine and warm temperatures again Thursday in what was essentially a run of Wednesday's weather.

A fairly warm and dry air mass remained over the Gem State and, until an upper low presently lying along the coastline pushes inland during the weekend, little change is expected. Even then, no major change will take place. Just increasing clouds and possibly a few showers in the north with temperatures statewide continuing a bit warmer than the normals for mid-September.

At 3 p.m. Thursday temperatures across Idaho were mostly in the 70s. The exceptions were readings in the upper 60s in the north and over the higher elevations, and the 90s in the southeast.

The warmest temperature in the state Thursday was 93 degrees at Malad and Payette. Stanley reported the coldest at 36 degrees, which was also the lowest in the nation.

Elsewhere in the nation Thursday, the highest temperature was 114 degrees at Borrego Springs, Calif.

Scattered rains bring flooding to South, Nebraska cools

The Associated Press

Rain extended over most of the nation Thursday, causing flooding in Texas and some southern states. Cooler weather was forecast in sizzling Nebraska.

Flooding was expected Friday across a portion of south-central Texas from Palestine to Huntsville. There was minor flooding Thursday in southwest Georgia.

A dry front shorted and thunderstorms extended from the Texas coast across Louisiana to Florida; along the East Coast into eastern Pennsylvania and in northwest Minnesota and North Dakota.

Low pressure over northern North Dakota moved east Thursday, while a cool front trailed southwest across the Midwest toward northeastern Nebraska.

The National Weather Service said the front would bring rain and cooler weather Friday to Nebraska.

Nebraska has sizzled for most of September, with temperatures in the high 90s accompanied by high humidity. Many schools suspended classes because of the weather.

In Colorado, unseasonable highs continued. By early afternoon, Colorado Springs reached 88 degrees, tying a heat record for the date. Pueblo reached 97, breaking a record of 96 degrees last reached in 1956.

Fog forced air traffic controllers to shut down Greater Cincinnati International Airport and nine satellite regional airports for about an hour Thursday morning.

The dense fog was caused by a combination of humidity, UV fog, wet ground conditions and cooler air that reached the region Thursday.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 59 degrees at Caribou, Maine, to 103 degrees at Twenty-nine Palms, Calif.

The lowest temperature in the nation Thursday was 29 degrees at Truckee, Calif.

numerous like gold, silver, lead and copper. The state's administrators to permit $100 worth of work on the land annually to look for minerals, and miners can buy the claim for $2.50 or $5 an acre to gain title.

Bumpers and supporters of his bill opposition to the proposed changes in the law.

Overhauling the 1872 law will be a Bumpers priority when Congress returns next year for a new session, an aide said Wednesday, and changes are more likely because McClure will be gone.

A McClure spokesman said a fellow Westerner, with congressional seniority such as Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., will continue opposition to Bumpers' proposals.

The Bush administration opposes the House and Senate bills, although BLM Director Cy Janson has agreed changes in the 1872 act are needed.

There are about 1.2 million mining claims in the United States, and the BLM patents about 40 claims a year, Janson said Thursday. Agency officials have not commented on Bumpers' moratorium proposal.

the U.S. claims were contained in a note delivered Wednesday to the Foreign Ministry in Baghdad.

In Washington, State Department officials said Baghdad's diplomats in Baghdad "told Iraqi authorities Wednesday night that the United States would hold them accountable for any terrorist attacks on Americans."

A U.S. official said American intelligence indications terrorist groups based in Iraq have been planning for possible actions against various targets — not only American, but also of allied Arab countries.

All U.S. intelligence gathering posts are at a high state of alert, the official said. All the U.S. officials spoke on condition of anonymity.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III flew to Damascus on Thursday to try to reinforce U.S. cooperation with Syria against Iraq, its longtime enemy.

Meanwhile, more than 300 Moslem religious scholars and preachers from the Saudi-funded Moslem World League issued a declaration after a meeting that ended Wednesday. They condemned Saddam's annexation of Kuwait as "un-Islamic."

The "Mecca Declaration" said the invasion of Kuwait and the massing of Iraqi troops on Saudi borders "are enough Islamic reason" to justify the presence of non-Moslem forces for Saudi Arabia's defense.

Iran's reported "food-for-oil" deal with Iraq could allow Tehran to earn nearly $2 billion more a year by eliminating its other oil imports and boosting exports. Sources have said Iran agreed to allow food and medicine to be shipped in exchange for 200,000 barrels of oil per day.

The Security Council held hammer-out guidelines for humanitarian food distribution to foreigners trapped in Iraq and Kuwait. No decisions were announced, but the Council convened later Thursday.

Japan's government Thursday rejected plans by the U.S. House of Representatives to link support for U.S. troops in Japan to Tokyo's contribution to the Middle East peace effort.

Iran has pledged more than $1 billion for the gulf intervention.

was the most-watched show in public television's history.

Sagan, who used slides projected on a huge screen to illustrate his lecture, pulled no punches. He criticized the Reagan administration for ignoring global energy problems. He urged the administration for its military response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, the teaching of creationism in schools and U.S. science education in general.

President Jimmy Carter was "aware" of global energy problems, Sagan said, and even installed a panel on the White House roof to heat water.

"One of the first acts of the Reagan presidency was to zip this panel off," Sagan said. "And through the 1980s, few government officials thought about energy policies, the science education system, or how to grow up and not encounter it," he said. Teachers and parents sometimes ridicule "children who ask questions and schools are afraid to encourage laboratory work for fear of lawsuits."

And teaching creationism, which he called a "pseudo-science," is another example of society's reluctance to sanction good science teaching, he said.

"That's another problem, people who don't want science taught in schools," he said.

2 people hospitalized following 1-car wreck

HOLLISTER—Two Twin Falls people were in stable condition Thursday afternoon at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, a spokeswoman said, with injuries from a one-car accident that occurred Wednesday.

Viengey Svannavong, 38, was driving north on U.S. Highway 93 when she went off the road just north of Hollister, according to the Idaho State Police. Svannavong overcorrected and the car rolled over.

Svannavong was partly thrown out of a passenger window. Her passenger, 25-year-old Phouvanh Chanhavicheng, was completely thrown out the rear window, the dispatcher said.

Neither wore seat belts. The accident, which occurred at about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, is still under investigation.

Twin Falls Regional Airport terminal a smoke-free area

TWIN FALLS—The terminal of the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport has become smoke-free.

Airport Manager Ron Madsen sent a letter to businesses in the terminal saying smoking has been prohibited in the building except in a section of the lounge and a portion of the baggage area. The no-smoking designation is due to the Idaho Clean Air Act.

No smoking signs will be placed in the terminal soon.

3 Ketchum residents facing robbery, burglary charges

FAIRFIELD—Three Ketchum residents will appear in court next week on charges of robbery and burglary, according to Camas County Sheriff Harold Lee.

Lou Schaeffer, 42, Gary Dougherty, 45, and Kathy Joos, 35, were each arrested last month and charged with two counts of robbery and one count of burglary.

They are all on bond and are scheduled to appear before 5th District Magistrate Judge John F. Varin at 10 a.m. on Sept. 20 for a preliminary hearing.

Fairfield residence was broken into on July 8, and the renters, who were home during the break-in, were assaulted with a steel pipe, Lee said. They left the area and reported the break-in nine days later by phone, he said. Taken from the home as payment for a cocaine-related debt was $2,800 in cash, checks, $1,000 cash, and some guns, including rifles, valued at about $1,500, Lee said.

Drivers' license office now open 9 a.m.-4 p.m., 5 days

TWIN FALLS—The drivers' license department at the Twin Falls County Sheriff Office has announced new hours, effective immediately. The department will be open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Eden buys garbage truck, begins hauling own refuse

EDEN—The City Council has bought a garbage truck and has begun hauling garbage itself.

There will be a rate increase to $5 a month for weekly garbage pickup to pay for the new truck. Trash will be picked up on Fridays, though on exact time has been set. Because of insurance reasons, a teenager will not be able to drive the garbage truck but can assist city employee John Ellis who will pick up residents' garbage.

Murtaugh School Board will start teacher growth plan

MURTAGH—The School Board voted Monday evening to implement a teacher growth plan.

The teachers will make an annual written report consisting of personal and professional goals which will be submitted to a supervisor.

Upon reaching their goals, the teachers will receive a 5% raise in certification. In other business, the board approved a grant from the state to pay for curriculum in self-concept improvement for the elementary grades. The board also approved a motion to increase bus drivers' salaries.

CSI receives $5,000 in gifts for several areas, programs

TWIN FALLS—The College of Southern Idaho has received several major donations this month.

The Early Iron Car Club donated the proceeds from its annual car show. $1,402 went to the General Motors ASEP program, $1,002 went to the CSI Juda Club and $1,000 went to the CSI Foundation.

The ASEP students and Juda-Club members assist the club in its car show. The CSI Child Care Center has received $1,200 from U.S. West for its parent resource library. Last year, U.S. West donated $1,800 for the same purpose.

Odiaga remanded to care of Corrections Department

By Anita Dennis
Times-News writer

HAILEY—Because he poses a danger to society, Mitchell John Odiaga will be placed in the custody of the Department of Corrections for care and treatment, a judge ruled Thursday.

The decision to send Odiaga to the Idaho Security Medical Facility, as opposed to committing him to Health and Welfare Department's custody, occurred on Odiaga's 16th birthday. Blaine County Prosecutor Ned Williamson said.

Fifth District Judge James J. May sent Odiaga to the Boise facility for up to 90 days, unless he is deemed competent to stand trial before then.

Odiaga was indicted in July in connection with the shooting deaths of two people in Ketchum in June. The shooting spree also left a third person injured. The Boise man is charged with two counts of first-degree murder, one count of attempted first-degree murder and three counts of aggravated assault.

After examining Odiaga, a state psychiatrist and a state psychologist concurred that Odiaga is unfit to stand trial because he does not understand the proceedings against him and cannot assist in his defense.

In a letter to the court, Dr. Michael B. Estess called Odiaga "actively psychotic." He said Odiaga may have a personality disorder and that he may be a substance or alcohol abuser. He recommended Odiaga be confined and treated.

Williamson, who declined to contest the psychiatric finding, said he is disappointed that proceedings have been suspended.

Schlagenhauf receives 'Person of Year' honors

Chamber recognizes Hagerty for life's achievement

By Craig Lincoln
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—On Wednesday, she was decussing the College of Southern Idaho convocation for this year's Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce Success Breakfast.

On Thursday, Jeanne Schlagenhauf was the guest of honor for nearly 1,000 people at the breakfast.

The chamber's Ambassadors named Schlagenhauf its "Person of the Year" for her work among many other activities.

"I think the reason I'm here is because what she was doing was visible this year," she said.

The chamber also awarded a "Lifetime Achievement Award" to Elmer Hagerty, who has served on the local Salvation Army board for more than two decades. He also has served on the Project Share board, an organization that helps pay for heating bills for the poor, and spearheaded the Kiwanis Club's recycling program. He is also active in the booster club for the CSI basketball team.

A Piler native, the 38-year-old Schlagenhauf spent "an awful lot" of her life as a single parent. She has volunteered for the mental health advisory boards, the American Heart Association and a local consumer credit counseling association in addition to her work with the Twin Falls Centennial Committee.

Her work with the Centennial committee started when she attended an organizational meeting several years ago. Dan Peters, the former Twin Falls County Fair manager, asked her to do some computer work for the committee after the meeting.

Then Peters left for a job in the Treasure Valley. Schlagenhauf took over the whole show.

"There were weeks when 65 hours wasn't uncommon," she said.

But that kind of dedication is common for Schlagenhauf, said Idaho Power executive Jack Miller, last year's Person of the Year.

Schlagenhauf has a long history of rolling up the sleeves. Miller said when he presented her award.

"I guess I can't say no," Hagerty said, referring to the long list of organizations that he has helped.

His food and clothing, the needs are almost double of what they were five years ago," he said. "A lot of people don't realize how poor some people are in this community."

Thursday was an especially good day for Hagerty.

"Not only did he receive the chamber award, but his wife, Dorothy, was released from the hospital after having a benign tumor removed.

The chamber called him "a quiet and inspiration man whose limitless contributions make our community a better place to live."

Airport gets reprieve on date for fire protection

HAILEY—"Slack" season in Sun Valley has provided Blaine County Airport Commission with more time to come up with a way to provide necessary firefighting services for commercial flights using the airport.

For the time being, commercial flights will continue to fly into Hailey.

During a special meeting Tuesday, Airport Manager Randy Petrovick told the commission a closer inspection of Federal Aviation Administration regulations revealed standby crash, fire and rescue response is only required for commercial airlines with more than 30 seats.

Service was previously thought the standby service was needed for all flights, regardless of size.

During busy summer and winter months,

Horizon flies its 37-passenger Dash-8s into Hailey—but during fall and spring months, its 19-passenger Metroliners are employed.

The city, at that time, presented a $132,000 plan to provide four full-time firefighters to be at the airport during oil hours, weekends and holidays when trained airport personnel are not available to cover in-coming and out-going flights.

The commission said the $132,000 price tag was too steep, however, and the city lowered its offer to officials asked for $74,000 a year for two firemen plus administrative costs.

However, Hailey officials Tuesday night presented yet a third plan. This time the city offered three full-time firefighters for $5,000. Under this plan, two people would be on airport grounds to respond at all times if a crash occurred. The cost includes only salaries, with Hailey absorbing the administrative cost.

And city officials threatened to report the airport to the FAA if a solution was not found by Sept. 15.

Bulldozers tear up junipers to make room for improved range land.

BLM seeks to restore range in juniper desert

By N.S. Nokken
Times-News writer

OAKLEY—Tortured metal shovels and trees crack under the weight of two bulldozers that grow through stubby juniper trees, dragging a piece of anchor chain between them.

A Bureau of Land Management crew is trying to turn a juniper stand south of Oakley back into the productive range land it once was. The bulldozers will drag their chain across about 500 acres in five sections.

The clanking, smoke-belching beasts crunch through trees and the heavy chain—with pieces of railroad track welded to it—wrenches others from the ground. Wispis of dust and diesel smoke drift on the breeze over the blasted juniper stand.

The shattered, uprooted trees reveal only dust and rocks. Not much else grows in this juniper desert. What little grass does manage to survive is grazed off by livestock during a three-week period in the spring.

Once they have been uprooted, some of the trees will be stacked up and burned. Others will be left in piles for wildlife. The area will then be reseeded with grasses, small plants and shrubs. Historically grass grew tall in this area interspersed with sagebrush and juniper. Ranchers once report up to three tons of hay per acre.

Periodically—about every 20 to 30 years—a fire burned over the area; but the grass bounced back quickly. The sagebrush and juniper took a little longer.

But after the first livestock arrived, cattle and sheep cropped the grass and fires rarely swept through the area. What fires did get junipers were put out quickly, giving the junipers a chance to get established.

"I'm sure this started occurring when grazing first became established," said Dave Shunsud, a range conservationist with the BLM's Budley Office.

"They've established such a dense stand there's no understory," he said. With the grass to carry fires from one tree to the next, fire doesn't spread through the juniper stands.

"They almost become fireproof," said Roy Neiwert, range supervisor with the Forest Service's Twin Falls Ranger District.

County may take abandoned gas station for taxes

By Phil Sahn
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Tests of an abandoned gasoline station near Filer showed no evidence of leaks from underground tanks and it might become Twin Falls County property soon.

The owner has not paid taxes on the station since 1986, leaving it open for Twin Falls County to foreclose, County Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said. In July, the commission did not want the property because assuming ownership could make the county liable for cleanup costs if the underground tanks leak.

But Hempleman said a local engineering firm contacted the commission recently and said it had tested the soil and found no traces of gas around the tanks. "It's looking like we might want to go get it," Hempleman said.

An employee at FHM Engineering, Gary Burkett, said the firm tested the soil around the tanks last year at the request of a man who considered buying the property. Burkett said no traces of gas were found in the soil, but warned that does not prove the tanks don't leak.

"I would certainly recommend that before anybody bought the property, they test the tanks," Burkett said.

The self-governing commission requires that the soil surrounding taking underground gas tanks be removed and transported to a site that stores toxic waste.

The county cannot test the tanks before taking the property because that would be trespassing, Hempleman said. The commission will check with a lawyer to see what liabilities the county might incur if it takes the station and tests the tanks, he said.

With the soil test results proving negative, Hempleman said the commission probably would take the property if the county's risk of being held liable is minimal. If the risks are too great, the commission would hold off on taking the property, Hempleman said.

If the county takes the property, it will try to sell it. Prospective buyers would be told the tanks were rumored to leak and Hempleman said.

The county already has received offers to bid on the property.

which would face a three-year period in which the current property owner could get the property back for the purchase price, Hempleman said.

The county assessor valued the lot at $45,395. The owner, Philip Siriani of Los Angeles, owes $5,608 in taxes from 1986 through 1989. The assessor also owes on two other lots on Washington Street North.

Siriani, according to his son, denies owning the property. The three lots were transferred to him by quit-claim deed.

Gramery terminated the assessor's son, said his father and Gramery were embroiled in a legal dispute over the property.

Officials seek new road funding sources

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Eastern Idaho officials are urging state lawmakers to consider new sources of revenue, including a property tax on vehicles, to provide the huge sums of money needed to pay out the estimated $7.3 billion backlogged road and bridge work throughout Idaho.

Raising the current 18-cent-gallon fuel tax, the primary source of cash for highway work now, is the obvious option for the special legislative committee looking into the problem.

"Another nickel of gasoline tax would be peanuts compared with what the oil companies have stuck us with," Butte County Commissioner Herman Aikele told the panel at its latest hearing on the issue Wednesday.

House Transportation Chairman John Session of Driggs, the committee's co-chairman, said he believed that tax would remain the primary source in the future.

But city and county officials, faced with disappearing federal funds and deteriorating roads and bridges, argued that a variety of options should be considered. They included:

- Imposing an annual vehicle property tax similar to those levied by some neighboring states, where the levies range from 10 to 20 cents.
- Allocating to local governments money in the state's $35 million "entirety" fund.
- Allowing local governments optional taxing authority to deal with their own road problems.
- Dedicating 1 percent of the state sales tax to transportation needs.
- "We've got to find an alternative measure of funding," said Fremont County Commissioner Jim Sandwell.

Jim Sandwell is charged with determining just how bad the work backlog is and what would be the best way to finance it. But Sessions said he does not believe the state can raise the billions of dollars a study issued earlier this year said was needed over the next six years.

As of last April, the Transportation Department estimated that there were over 400 miles of primary highway and more than 300 miles of secondary highway in eastern Idaho that needed pavement or surface repairs "as soon as possible," Transportation Board member John Combo of Idaho Falls said.

The department's current highway program includes projects aimed at fixing only 72 miles of the primary system and 11 miles of the secondary system, he said.

"The current funding levels, it will take 20 to 25 years to correct the approximate 600 miles of remaining highway with high-priority deficiencies," he said.

SNF trail closure sparks heated debate

By Barbara Newert

HAILEY — Hikers and off-road vehicle enthusiasts squared off in an emotional hearing Thursday night over a Forest Service plan to close some trails in the proposed Boulder-White Clouds Wilderness and the Smoky Mountains to motorized traffic.

"All of the trails that are open to hikers are open to hikers," said Bill Summers of Council, arguing that nothing is being taken away from hikers under the proposal while whole trails would be off-limits to motorized travelers.

"But singer-songwriter, Carol King-Sorensen, a Custer County resident, contended that off-road vehicle groups are being used by industry as a way to exploit national forests.

Thursday night—Those have been the subjects of previous hearings. Steve Jones of Twin Falls closing the agency that caused trails to off-road vehicle use would mean heavier motorized vehicle use on other trails. He urged the Forest Service to spread out the impact by leaving the trails that are slated for closure open or opening trails to off-road vehicle elsewhere.

Mel Quale of Twin Falls suggested the Forest Service considering Little Boulder-Trail in the Smoky Mountains to motorized traffic as a compromise to closing the Germania Creek Trail.

Lee Morrow of Idaho Falls warned the Forest Service that closing the trails to motorized travel now would necessitate drafting an environmental impact statement—a lengthy process that requires hearings and studies—to reopen them later on.

"Non-motorized and motorized don't work together," she said. "Nearly 300 people attended the hearing at Wood River High School, the 110 in a series of sessions held by the Forest Service to get comments on the proposed travel plan for the Sawtooth National Forest. Much of the discussion centered on plans to close the 4th of July Creek and Germania Creek trails in the proposed Boulder-White Clouds Wilderness.

Ed Bloedel, recreation and lands staff officer for the SNF, said rumors that the Forest Service is planning to close the whole forest to snowmobiling and off-road vehicle use are unfounded.

The Forest Service representatives declined to discuss proposed trail changes in the Twin Falls and Burley ranger districts.

The comments from the 113 hearings will be considered as the Forest Service drafts its final plan, which is due by the end of the year. Unless there is an appeal, the changes will go into effect next spring.

The agency will make public comments until Oct. 1. Those comments should be addressed to Cathy Hardy, Sawtooth National Forest, 2647 Kimberly Road, Twin Falls.

Caldwell teachers hit picket lines

CALDWELL (AP) — Caldwell teachers took to the streets Thursday as about 170 educators munched informational picketing over negotiations for a new contract.

Negotiators planned another meeting Thursday night in an effort to break the contract deadlock, and the body was talking strike. Picketers marched near the school district office after school.

Caldwell Education Association President Louise Daniels said Wednesday unresolved issues include length of workday, class size, sick leave and salary.

Monday, CEA members gave 94 percent approval to a strike authorization vote. But the impasse continued despite a three-hour negotiating session Wednesday. Teachers want to raise to 22.5 percent, while district officials have been seeking last finding.

The district's 235 teachers usually have a signed contract by this time, and neither teachers nor Superintendent Darrell Deide knew of any previous strike authorization vote.

their root systems that go down 30 to 40 feet into the ground — crowd out everything. An average juniper 10 to 12 feet tall uses 30 gallons of water a day.

The canopy of the trees intercepts moisture, keeping most of it from reaching the ground.

"If you remove the juniper and get grass growing, you double the water supply," Sjastad said. "Often streams that have gone dry will return, he said."

"Public land officials refer to the process of juniper encroachment as "desertification." As the junipers gradually take over, they crowd out other plants. And as the diversity of the vegetation disappears, so does the animal diversity.

"The juniper itself makes a desert," Melven said.

With bare ground beneath the

trees, what moisture does reach the ground often just runs off. Recently, during a heavy rain in Oakley, a road was washed out by the unimpeded runoff where the rain fell on the junipers.

Continued grazing, however, has only strengthened the juniper grip on the land. Nothing grows beneath these crooked evergreens.

"My opinion is that grazing activities have prevented the underground to build up enough to carry a fire," Newert said.

The chaining project, once completed and reseeded, will help prevent soil erosion, establish wildlife habitat and grow "cow feed" and

Range

"wildlife feed."

The increased forage and existing water system also will help keep cattle out of sensitive streams bottoms, Sjastad said.

The chaining process costs about $52 per acre, which ranchers who graze their livestock in the area pay about 40 percent. Because of the lack of grass and shrub undergrowth, it can't be burned, he said.

Once the grass is reestablished, the BLM will keep the junipers in check, with periodical prescribed burns.

"You can't just walk away from it," Sjastad said.

Attorney general candidates muddy each other's image

When the two contenders in Idaho's Attorney General race accuse each other of being too beholden to special interests, they leave the uncomfortable impression that both accusations are right.

That's the problem with campaign mud-slinging. Everyone gets dirty, and voters are left to feel ever more cynical about politicians in general.

That appears to be what has happened in the race between Pat Kole and Larry EchoHawk.

Kole, the Republican, accuses EchoHawk of relying too heavily on campaign money from out-of-state individuals and groups.

EchoHawk, the Democrat, accuses Kole of relying too heavily on Idaho corporations — mostly wood-products outfits.

And each offers roughly the same defense: Whatever contributions I accept won't affect my performance as attorney general.

That, unfortunately, is the stock answer of all politicians confronted with such questions. What, he is influenced by campaign contributions? Perish the thought!

The issue begs the crucial question: If that's really the case, then why are wealthy donors and special interests so eager to pour money into what has to be, from a national perspective, a relatively obscure contest in a small state?

Of the two candidates, EchoHawk's out-of-state ties are more troubling. He acknowledges being backed by Democratic Party Bohkrolers at the national level, and by groups and individuals nationwide who would like to see a Native American hold a statewide office somewhere in America.

EchoHawk has, in fact, sought out such support, in effect telling national interests that his Indian identity is a reason they should support his race.

Increased minority representation in political office is a laudable goal. But the ties and donations raise questions about where EchoHawk's loyalties will lie, and whose agenda he will pursue.

Given such support, it is a legitimate question to ask how EchoHawk will represent and protect Idaho's interests when they conflict with those of Indian tribes, on such issues as reservation gambling, water rights and fisheries.

EchoHawk makes few promises on these points.

Indeed, in an interview last week, he hinted that he might consider reservation gambling as a federal issue.

Would he oppose Indian reservation gambling in Idaho?

He waffles on the answer, but gives the clear impression he would not prevent reservation gambling, despite the clear intent to the contrary of both Idaho legislators and citizens.

Equally troublesome, in the same interview, was EchoHawk's inability to identify some of the contributors whose donations had been challenged by Kole.

His attitude was that he didn't know who all those people were — and didn't need to know because no contribution would ever identify him to the contributor.

But on the other side, Kole is not much more reassuring. EchoHawk has a good point when he says Kole has raised the question of issue-because-Kole's own finances.

And EchoHawk scores again when he says that disproportionate amount of Kole's financial backing comes from timber companies, who have an obvious interest in Idaho land and legal issues.

Kole's position on wilderness designation (no "unacceptable impact" on industry, whatever that means) suggests that his ideas are closely aligned with those of the timber and mining industries.

Again, there's nothing specifically wrong with that. It just raises a question about his loyalties.

Kole, unlike EchoHawk, says he screens all his contributions.

He won't accept money from anyone in litigation with the state or with litigation pending. And he won't take a gift if it's apparent that the giver will want some special favor.

Those criteria are important, but they are riddled with loopholes. They offer small comfort — a fact that Kole seems to realize.

"There's a slippery slope and we've drawn a line that I've found defensible," he told us last week. "I think we've done a better job than my opponent." Maybe so, but not much better.

The race for Idaho's attorney general position is chief an important one. As the state's chief legal officer, the attorney general must be both advocate and fair representative, free of bias and taint, and answerable, in the purest sense, to the people.

The heavy-duty interests that have lined up behind EchoHawk and to a lesser extent Kole do not inspire much confidence that a pure representation is what Idaho is likely to get.

Right to Life appreciates supporters

Right to Life of Idaho Inc., Maple Valley Chapter, would like to thank the community for the tremendous response and support at the fair this year. One donation more than quadrupled over previous years and signatures on our pro-life petition more than doubled.

We are glad that so many people had the opportunity to view "The Silent Scream" video before we were censored. This particular video of a real-time ultrasound abortion has been shown on national television. It has also been endorsed by former President Ronald Reagan.

We really find ourselves in a position of agreeing with Stephen Hartgen, Pam Lincoln and County Commissioner Norma Bliss; but it is true that the aborting of a baby is a "hastless," "gratuitous" and "grotesque" act. But this is happening over 4,600 times a day in our country. One out of every three babies conceived is aborted. Over 95 percent of these are for birth control reasons (remember House Bill 6257). We do not feel the need to apologize, nor will we, for showing the truth of how an abortion destroys human life.

If an apology is due to anyone, it would be to our children from the community for the gaming booth which gave low prizes and for the pornographic T-shirts sold on the midway. Apologies are also due for the verbal "assaults" they were confronted with by some of the carnival ride operators. These are the things that should be "censored" — not our educational videos.

It has always been the policy of Right to Life of Idaho Inc., through its chapters and affiliates, to appreciate the sensitivity of the issue. We are particularly sympathetic to those who are themselves the second victims of abortion. However, we must at the same time recognize the educational value to those who may be simply doing an abortion or who may be contemplating an abortion for issue. If I may coin a phrase, "a picture is worth a thousand words."

The film being shown to viewers was received by so many positive comments from parents, teens and children. Many times, I witnessed parents who specifically brought their children to our booth to see the film. We received comments like "gross," "disgusting," and "oh, yuck," to that development slides being shown, while most viewers of "The Silent Scream" stood quietly by in reverence for the unborn life being destroyed.

The positive side of this issue is that we have been invited into schools, churches, organizations and private homes to show this and other so-called "controversial" films.

We appreciated the front-page Times-News article concerning this. We felt Michelle Cole and Mark Kind were accurate and fair. This is what we have always and for a non-biased stand from our local reporters and staff. Thank you for your professionalism.

Once again we thank the public and the Ende Board for the opportunity to be a part of such a successful community event. We look forward to serving this community and the unborn again at the next year's fair.

Marlyn M. Scott is president of the Magic Valley Right to Life Chapter. She wrote this article on behalf of the group's board.

Animal protests planned ahead

On Sept. 7, you printed an account of Keichikems raising a howl about animals. Your correspondent, David R. Langhorst, had no way of knowing it, but he who was treated to was a very carefully crafted white lie.

In fact, the complaints raised by William Alma, Judy Kildare and Dick Fosbury would be funny were it not for the injustice they are doing to their unnamed Canyon Run resident.

At present, according to competent legal advice, there is no ordinance against feeding an elephant in your yard — if you can find one — and who knows what will not loose next in Ketchikan?

As a matter of fact, skunks like to shelter under houses. Unnamed's house has no such shelter space, but Mr. Alma's back deck has been sheltering skunks for over a year. One wonders why he didn't call Mr. Kildare to trap them over at his place a long time ago.

As for Mr. Fosbury — poor man, he should know many dogs get sprayed by skunks. If they are smart, it only happens to them once.

This whole matter is being handled in a childish, spiteful manner. Unnamed considers herself to be an elderly person and she is physically handicapped. Several months ago, she quit putting out any food that could attract carnivores and went back to bird seed and evoked.com. Now it is just bird seed and water. How wicked to enjoy bird watching, especially those ferocious ohioxes!

Unnamed liked watching the foxes; but she will gladly settle for chickadees if her neighbors will quit coming on her property, moving her flower pots in a fruitless search for carnivore food and letting dogs run loose.

Mr. Fosbury and Ms. Kildare work for city hall.

They say you can't beat city hall, so Mr. Alma is riding on their coattails. You know something? I bet you can beat it. Unknown.

Year-round schools economical

In order to provide a child the most effective school experience possible, the Twin Falls schools should consider year-round education. The year-round school is designed to make maximum use of school facilities and to provide a focus where a school's overall effectiveness can be significantly increased.

During the past several weeks, months and years, people have raised concerns regarding the need to improve upon traditional educational practices. Therefore, YRE is viewed as providing a framework whereby many educational reforms can occur. YRE is not only possible for the school system to become more cost effective but it provides the opportunity and necessity of the implementation of a successful YRE program depends greatly on the support from district personnel, parents and students. This is no less important than are such practical matters as having adequate physical facilities.

Year-round education is considered by many patrons and educators as the most educationally sound and economically feasible solution to existing problems of the public school system. It meets a growing demand from taxpayers and educators for more efficient use of school materials, equipment and facilities. It provides a means whereby additional classroom space can be made available as school enrollments increase without having to construct new facilities. Teacher contracts are varied, school calendars are better controlled and continuous education for children is ideal.

The construction of a new elementary school is proposed for 1995 in Twin Falls. An existing elementary school building could implement YRE. We have less than five years to prepare and become informed.

Educators, parents and students must work together for the improvement of quality education within Twin Falls and the state of Idaho.

Will you consider YRE a possibility?

Let's become more involved in the educational system — be positive, open-minded and look to the future.

Ranger Oman was 100% right

In my opinion, Ranger Logan Don Oman was 100 percent correct in his attempt to enforce the law and yet he did not get the proper support from his department heads.

Is the Forest Service going to enforce the laws or let the grazers do as they please? If so, one would like to see our federal officers have more backing in their efforts to enforce the public lands grazing laws.

Tusow should be brought back

An open letter to Logan Tusow and the powers that be at Z103:

This is a plea to Logan and the executives at Z103 to bring back our favorite zookeeper. Mornings over just not the same since he left. Let's face it, there is little enough reason to smile at 6 a.m. and Logan and his special brand of whimsy and nonsense at least made it bearable. We have

Was Oman playing games?

Mr. Oman isn't just a politician, he's a politician who will over 50 miles and with only two lawsons in each, then curra a group of law-abiding men, women and children with armed hired hands.

In addition to this excess expenditure of taxpayer's money, could this not be considered a threat to Mr. Winslow Whiteley and the other members of the Wild Rose Callie Association?

Does Mr. Oman take such action because he believes this is a range war of the 1880s and he can play the child's game of sheriff and the bad men?

Drunk driver shouldn't brag

After reading the "Drunk drivers made choices" article by Dan Krueger, I too feel compelled to write my first letter.

Yes, drunk drivers get to make choices! I know of one case of a drunk driving charge where the guilty one even got to choose the days he would spend in jail — when it would be convenient for him! Thank God there was no accident or life taken that time. But I happened to work with him for a while at a job. He would just laugh about it and thought it was smart. All the while, I could see his head all swollen and face all skinned up because of a young drunk driver. You see, this memory is also a "life sentence" to me just like the Hemphens.

Newspaper did a great job

I would like to thank you and your staff for the coverage and support given during the fair.

A special thank you is necessary for sponsoring the Air Force Band in their attempt to perform. It is a terrible thing the weather does to us during scheduled concerts and activities!

On behalf of the Twin Falls County Fair Board and myself, I would like to thank The Times-News for the many talented writers and staff who put together what I feel is the best fair section The Times-News has ever done.

Sincerely, it is a pleasure working with you and the employees of The Times-News and I hope that the future brings much success to you and your staff.

Your support not only strengthens the fair but the community as well. Thank you again for looking forward to working with you again in 1991.

Fear of future sends market into drastic dip Thursday

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market fell sharply Thursday in a light but steady selling attributed to fears of impending bad news on the economy.

Analysts said worries about the steady state of falling earnings system added to the market's swoon.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks tumbled 43.07 points to 2,582.67, for its biggest one-day drop since it jumped 76.73 points on Aug. 23.

Declining issues outnumbered advancing by more than 2 to 1 in national trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 490 up, 1,009 down and 506 unchanged.

Volume on the floor of the Big Board came in 123.37 million shares, against 129.89 million in the previous session. The NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 148.84 million shares.

The government is due to report prices this summer is expected to be lower than the September production report.

Data on retail sales and industrial production for August are also slated to be issued before the market opens Friday.

Those figures, which will be flat or only slightly higher than advanced estimates are correct, stand to be closely watched as potential gauges of whether a recession can be avoided.

Losses among the blue chips included International Business Machines, down 2 1/2 at 105; General down 1 1/2 at 60 1/2; Philip Morris, down 1/4 at 41 1/2; and Exxon, down 1/2 at 50 1/2.

Keeping the peace

An unarmed Peacekeeper missile was successfully launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base Thursday. The entry vehicle reached its destination, some 4,200 miles southwest of the launch site, just 30 minutes after liftoff.

Senate panel urged to OK water rights deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee on Thursday was urged to endorse legislation who introduced the bill Friday. The legislation would call for the historic agreement outlining the water rights of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. Deputy state Attorney General Clive Strong said the water and power subcommittee of the Senate on Thursday passed a bill that would give the tribes a permanent right to ground water. The agreement would allow the tribes to use water and power to meet the needs of the tribe. The agreement would also allow the tribes to use water and power to meet the needs of the tribe. The agreement would also allow the tribes to use water and power to meet the needs of the tribe.

Idaho's retiring senior Sen. James McClure, who introduced the bill Friday, said the agreement would be a creative resolution of what could have become a very divisive fight. "It's clear that the strength behind this agreement is the balance that has been struck for all of the parties involved," McClure said. The negotiated settlement allows the tribes just over $81,000 a year from the federal government for the development and acquisition of grazing rights. McClure said the agreement would help protect the land near Grays Lake that would help protect the area.

Opposition of the unprecedented, basin-wide adjudication of all water rights that is nearly 10 years into its 10-year life. McClure said that if the water rights had been adjudicated, the Indian claims have been elsewhere. Officials have said there are no guarantees that other uses would be preserved. Strong pointed out to the subcommittee that the tribe proposed water agreements, all affected agencies have endorsed the Shoshone-Bannock agreement. The tribe and the private water users in the area. "If nothing else," he said, "the fact that all of these parties support the agreement demonstrates that it is fair and equitable to all parties."

GOP candidate Kole unveils anti-drug plan

BURLEY (AP) — Republican Pat Kole has endorsed a plan to toughen the state's mandatory minimum sentencing for drug traffickers and expanding the ability of prosecutors to try accused juvenile drug pushers as adults. "Several of these proposals are aimed at those who sell drugs to our children," the attorney general candidate said Thursday in joining Sen. Denton Darrington, R-Deer, to outline the anti-drug strategy. "That type of conduct is reprehensible, and mandates a strict response."

Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus and Attorney General Jim Jones have both asked lawmakers to impose mandatory minimum sentences on drug traffickers. But while Darrington was able to strip a five-year mandatory minimum proposal through the Senate, it was rejected by the House Judiciary Committee. Critics maintained the mandatory sentences "ignore special circumstances that can be involved and minimize the discretion of the judge to tailor any penalty to individual situations."

That legislation also allowed juveniles accused of selling drugs or near schools to be tried as adults. The plan Kole and Darrington proposed would expand that provision to include any juvenile accused of selling drugs in any circumstance, and it would impose the mandatory minimum sentence on repeat drug trafficking offenders, those who sell drugs to minors or induce minors to sell drugs and those selling drugs on school buses. But Kole, who faces Bannock County Democratic Prosecutor Larry E. Beck's challenge in November, said the proposal to expand the ability of prosecutors to try all accused juvenile drug traffickers as adults would require serious study because of the potential ramifications.

Grass smoke draws complaints

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — A state official monitoring local air quality said "blatant disregard for environment and health" by field-burning grass farmers resulted in Coeur d'Alene's smokiest day of the year. Terry Christianson, an Idaho Division of Environmental Quality air quality specialist, said local offices got a record number of complaints Wednesday about smoke that blanketed the area. "I said 125 calls were received by 4 p.m. The smoke apparently came from termination" with the County Commission in July and the commission on Tuesday sent a similar claim from Moww to the county attorney's office. "Dutch" Witte and Moww, who were jail supervisors at the time of the suicide, after an investigation indicated jail policies and procedures were not followed.

field burning to the south in Benewah County, despite dry winds blowing toward Coeur d'Alene from that area, Christianson said. "They just flat shouldn't have burned today," he said. Heavy smoke was reported in Coeur d'Alene, Post Falls and Hayden Lake, although operations at the Coeur d'Alene Airport near Hayden were not affected. Christianson said his office received complaints from a number of elderly people, including a Post Falls man with one lung who was forced to go back on respiratory breathing support.

Task force seeks to aid Hispanic

BOISE (AP) — Hispanic high school students should be recruited as paid tutors mentors to help Hispanic pre-school children, a task force is suggesting. The state Board of Education's Task Force on Hispanic Education has come up with tentative suggestions on how to help Hispanics get through the educational system and out a big dropout rate. After an organizing session in July and a meeting at Boise State University earlier this month, the task force will meet at University of Idaho on Tuesday. Chairman Sam Byrd said public input is solicited.

2nd ex-jail employee files Canyon claim

CALDWELL (AP) — A second employee fired by Canyon County Sheriff Gary Putman following a jailhouse suicide has filed a claim with the county. Russell N. Moww and Cleo "Dutch" Witte were fired in July after an investigation into the suicide of David G. Tate, 20, April 11. Witte filed a claim for wrongful termination with the County Commission in July and the commission on Tuesday sent a similar claim from Moww to the county attorney's office. "Dutch" Witte and Moww, who were jail supervisors at the time of the suicide, after an investigation indicated jail policies and procedures were not followed.

The panel eventually will report to the Board of Education. Other tentative recommendations: That the state provide additional funds to augment inadequate federal support for programs such as Head Start, Migrant Education and Home, Infants and Children. That the state should put up more money for "home-school coordinators" working with parents to help students succeed at home. Giving teachers adequate resources, training and assistance to make accurate assessments of the abilities and needs of Hispanic students. That a person or persons be appointed to oversee the implementation of task force recommendations.

Court says no to loitering law

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court says an anti-loitering law enacted by the city of Pocatello is unconstitutional because it is too vague. A 3-2 decision upheld Thursday the Supreme Court released lower court rulings against the law. Chief Justice Robert Bakes and Justice Larry Boyle both dissented, saying the Pocatello law would not be imposed in all possible cases and it should not be struck down. Byron Bire was arrested one night in 1987 outside a closed Pocatello convenience store under a city law making it unlawful to loiter or prowl in a place at a time or in a manner not usual for law-abiding individuals. Based on a 1983 California decision, the Supreme Court held the law unconstitutional because of its vagueness. The law was ruled improper in all instances, not just the Bire case.

Valley arts council looks for coordinator

TWIN FALLS—The Magic Valley Arts Council is seeking a replacement for Coordinator Alice Elwood, who will leave her position Sept. 28.

"I think it's quite a nice new blood," says Elwood. "I think I need to stop thinking it won't go on without me."

"I'm still real interested in Arts on Tour and I'm interested in looking into some grants," says Elwood, who held the job two years. "It's been fun and rewarding."

"We feel real sad," says Gary Babbel, arts council president. "She has so many talents and she really is great working with other people, with a good feel for the kinds of things people like to see."

The council expects to hire a new coordinator by Oct. 1. The position is 20 hours per week. Interested persons are invited to send resumes to P.O. Box 1158, Twin Falls, ID 83303. Applications must be postmarked by today.

Tario moves into final round of unsigned-band contest

TWIN FALLS—Terry Tario has advanced into the final round of Musician Magazine's Best Unsigned Band Contest.

Tario, 40, says he sent a tape containing his songs "Gratititi" and "It's a Good Life Anyway" to the contest last September and heard this summer he'd made the cut. About 250 artists advanced into the finals from among thousands of bands and individuals who submitted tapes.

"To be selected is pretty cool," says Tario, who is also general manager at KEZ. One other Idaho act, "The Fishermen from Boise," advanced into the finals.

Fifteen artists will be selected to appear on "The Best of the B.U.B.'s" compact-disco compilation produced by Musician magazine and Warner Brothers Records.

A grand prize winner will receive a home recording studio. The winners should be announced within a few weeks, Tario says.

The 15 winners will be picked by Robbie Robertson, Lou Reed, Vernon Reid, Lyle Lovett and Bradford Dillman. Tario says it is "quite a rush" to know these people will be listening to his music.

Tario has been writing songs for five or six albums in the car. "He adds he is more interested in writing than performing."

Shoshone-Bannock Indian Exposition shows Yah-ha-Uz

SHOSHONE—A Shoshone-Bannock Indian Exposition featuring Yah-ha-Uz's art is set this weekend at the Elk-Lava Beds Cafe Art Gallery.

Authentic beadwork, moccasins, coin purses, beads, earrings, bells, spears, tomahawks and other crafts will be available according to gallery owner Katie Noel. The show is the work of Cindi Owens of Pocatello.

The gallery will be open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. On Sunday, the Wood River Muzzle Loaders will also be on hand for a rendezvous featuring different shooting events.

The cafe and gallery are located 17 miles north of Shoshone across from the Shoshone Ice Caves.

Robin Crow brings his show to Twin Falls for 2nd time

TWIN FALLS—Guitarist Robin Crow is coming back to Twin Falls for the second September in a row.

Crow's multimedia show will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday in Pine Arts Auditorium on the College of Southern Idaho campus. Admission for CSI and Idaho State University students is free. Tickets are $3 for others.

Crow tours heavily on the college circuit and has recorded with such artists as Tolo bassist David Hungate, Kerry Livgren from Kansas, and Mike Lawler of Steve Winwood's band.

His show is known for its multimedia style using slides and video, and his music incorporates 12 guitars and many styles including rock, avant garde, folk, classical and jazz influences.

Crow's appearance is sponsored by Special Delivery Productions of ISU.

United Way barbecue will share park

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS—An "All-Idaho" barbecue will kick off the United Way of Magic Valley's fall campaign Saturday in Twin Falls City Park.

The meal will feature top round beef from Independent Meat, corn on the cob from Green Giant, potatoes from Sunshine Farms in Wendell, milk and ice cream from Triangle Young's Dairy and orange drink from McDonald's.

Serving time is from noon to 6 p.m. Cost is $3 per person.

There will be entertainment, too. The Southwest Power Cloggers will take the stage at 2 and 4 p.m., and the Stargazers from the Willa Dean Nielsen School of Dance are set to perform at 3 and 5 p.m.

And there will be a Children's Fair, featuring 15 stations offering various activities. Each United Way agency will have a booth set up, and kids who complete each station will receive ribbons.

Harry Knoblich, kickoff chairman, says the barbecue takes the place of the sock hops that have been held the past few years to kick off the campaign. The barbecue is intended as a more family-oriented event, he adds.

Knoblich says that several area rodeo queens and Kamie Hobbs, the newly crowned Magic Valley Outstanding Young Woman, will be on hand to help serve the barbecue and meet their fans.

The United Way of Magic Valley hopes to raise $265,000 in its campaign this fall, according to Dan Brize, president of the United Way's board of directors. Funds go to a variety of community groups and services including the Red Cross, YECA, youth groups and area senior citizens centers.

Brize says the campaign is starting early this year in the hopes it can be wrapped up by Thanksgiving. The drive's official start will be the "one-day campaign" Tuesday, when United Way volunteers visit area businesses to promote the campaign.

Stuffed animals are among the offerings at weekend crafts fair

By Julie Faselow
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Scanning the living room of her Sunburst Street home, Ronda Painter takes stock of "Topsy-turvy" stuffed rabbits, tiny clothes like makes for dolls and for real babies, and cuddly bears of many colors and fabrics.

"Please, will a good fairy come and put snags on these?" she asks, showing a visitor a box crammed full of Barbie-sized doll heads.

Painter is one of about 80 artists and crafters who are expected to be on hand in Twin Falls City Park this weekend for the 4th Annual Twin Falls Arts and Crafts Show.

The event is slated from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Saturday the show will share the park with the United Way of Magic Valley, which plans a gala kickoff for its fall campaign.

Pam Webb and Donna Frenburg, co-directors for the festival, say they anticipate a lot of variety in this year's offerings. Wooden toys, dried and silk flowers, crocheted goods, stained glass and Austrian crystal jewelry will be among the items on view.

There will also be food. In addition to a big barbecue the United Way plans Saturday; browsers will find hamburgers, Mexican food, pizza, "elephant ears," mini-donuts, corn dogs and popcorn during both days.

Booth fees from the festival will again be donated to United Cerebral Palsy. Webb says the event has raised at least $1,300 in past years for the foundation.

Like other artists who will be at the show, Painter—who has appeared at the festival each of its four years—has spent the past few weeks readying work to take to the festival. Her living room is stuffed with her creations, yet she says they represent only about an eighth of what she plans to have available this weekend.

Painter, 36, is an energetic woman of many talents. In addition to attending several arts and crafts shows each year, she creates formal attire for weddings, performs alterations and other sewing tasks for up to 100 clients and makes special handmade stuffed animals and gifts.

In the past year, she started making and dressing porcelain dolls. And somehow, she finds time to work part time as a waitress at the Rock Creek.

Although her handmade works are usually found at craft shows, patrons at the gun shows at the Salt Palace in Salt Lake City have also found Painter's products for sale.

Painter explains that she owns Mountainman Gun & Pawn. "When he first started, I'd go and sit there and be bored," she recalls. But when she started making camouflage-stuffed dinosaurs—and later camouflage baby clothes—her business disappeared.

"One of her most unusual projects is her line of clothing for babies born prematurely. At World Stores carry the tiny togis in the chair, and 14 stores, and preemies born at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center wear Painter's clothes during the stay."

Emmy awards need surprises to be exciting

By Deborah Hastings
The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif.—Besides a preponderance of stars, there is precious little in the yearly Emmy awards to titillate television viewers. Unless the weird or unexpected happens.

On paper, the 42nd Annual Primetime Emmy Awards appear decidedly unexciting. But in the tradition of live television, anything can happen during Sunday night's telecast on the Fox Broadcasting Co. in which "Twin Peaks" and "L.A. Law" were expected to be the big winners.

The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences still winces at past embarrassments.

The 1978 broadcast, which was preempted for more than an hour by a movie premiere announcing the signing of the Camp David accords between Israel and Egypt. The awards ceremony which came to a halt while the historic treaty was unrolled, eventually resumed. Total elapsed time: 4 hours and 10 minutes, the longest Emmy program in history.

The 1980 Screen Actors Guild strike, which left the awards show with no presenters, performers or trophy accepters. Although SAG promised to not picket the ceremony, the union barred 16 members from participating. Some ignored the order. Powers Boothe, who won in the miniseries category that year for his portrayal of President Temple leader Jim Jones, was the only nominee who attended.

Valley native with cowboy roots climbs up country music charts

By Terrell Williams
Times-News correspondent

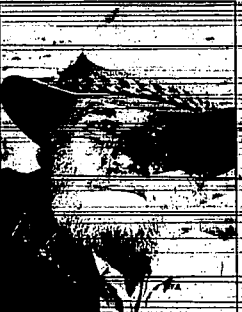

GOODING—Country singer and songwriter Roy Farrar says it is a thrill for him to see his name listed along with George Strait. The judge, Merle Haggard and other country stars on Cashbox Magazine's Top 100 chart.

"We're a ladder, right there in the middle of the list is Roy Farrar, and I wonder, What am I doing there? and it's a thrill."

Farrar, a Boise resident who was raised in Gooding, Hollister and Fairfield, went to Missisquoi recently to record a new album called "On A Roll." His first single from that LP, a song called "100 Years 100 Love," climbed to No. 68 on the Cashbox list this week and is up to 31 on the Indy Bulletin, another national list. A second song, "Lovin' You," also has just hit the charts.

"I'm getting quite a bit of play nationwide," he says in a telephone interview. "It's a difficult field to break into. A good song is not always the answer."

Radio stations are inundated with records from unknown artists, he explains, but they would rather play music that is already popular, so the new artists "don't get much play time."

Roy Farrar
Thriving by success

ceives "efforts" from many singers that "need a little more work." But those do not get air play on KLIK. But Nelson said he has sent for Farrar's record and plans to "give it a spin" this week.

"I've been on Cashbox's chart 17 times, but I'm not getting any air play here, too," Nelson said. "As long as the song is good and it well-executed, we'll play music from just about anyone, as long as it fits the format... There are a lot of up-and-coming artists that have yet to hit it big."

Farrar said he makes private and public appearances and may go on tour, but he does not play the bar circuit.

"I've done my time in honky-tonks and bars, believe me," he added. "I don't perform too much now. I'm more of a writer."

Farrar also co-wrote and sang "Going Back Home to Idaho," a song that is included in the collection of Idaho songs recently released by the Idaho Centennial Commission.

A lifelong outdoorsman, fisherman and ecologist, Farrar said his inspiration for songs often comes from his childhood experiences.

"My grandparents homesteaded on the Salmon tract south of Twin Falls," he said. "And I grew up with a great-uncle that had a place just down the road from them when it was real little."

"It was a genuine cowboy. He'd been on both sides and the rodeo in Idaho from Texas. He always talked about how wonderful Texas was, but we never could get him to go back, not even for a visit. We figured, there was something waiting for him back there like a badge or a woman."

Hanging out with his cowboy uncle, Farrar got Saturday sales and to hear in em movies at the old Roy theater in Twin Falls. On Saturday nights, the boy and the cowboy would sit by the fireplace and listen to the Grand Ole Opry show.

"I learned a lot from him," Farrar said. "We had a lot of fun."

The 1983 program, whose host Joan Rivers helped light up NBC switchboards across the country.

First, Rivers called then-Secretary of the Interior James Watt an "idiot."

Then, she introduced "Dateline" star Joan Collins by saying the character played by Collins "has had more hands up her dress than the Muppets."

Walter Miller, director of such a year's ceremony, thrives on such year's incidents.

"It's like life; you never know what's around the corner until you turn it," said Miller, who has directed three other Emmy programs, as well as four Tony awards presentations and 18 Country Music Awards.

"I must be a mellow everynight," Miller said. "Every show, something comes up."

This year's hosts are "Mud" Brown star and nominee Gail Bergin, NBC news Jane Pauley and comedian Jay Leno.

Miller said his biggest challenge in directing the Emmy awards is keeping the show to three hours. It's no simple feat, given there are 361 nominations.

Trophies in the creative arts categories will give Saturday night and broadcast "Wednesday" night, but only on Fox-owned KTFY-TV in Los Angeles and WNYW-TV in New York.

Sunday-night's zany broadcast live to the East Coast from the Pasadena Civic Auditorium and tape-delayed to Western states, is dominated by nominations for the most-bizarre show on television.

ABC's "Twin Peaks" captured the evening's first nomination. The surreal nighttime soap opera about sex, violence, murder and "junk food" in Northwest-lumber town captured selections including outstanding drama series; lead actor, lead actress, and directing; for eclectic filmmaker David Lynch.

Kyle MacLachlan was nominated for his portrayal of coffee-sipping, pie-guzzling FBI agent Dale Cooper. Piper Laurie was selected for her performance as Catherine Martell, the ruthless director of the Twin Peaks sawmill.

NBC's "L.A. Law" finished second in the nominations race, with 13 including best drama series (which it won last year), and three supporting actor and actress nominations.

Richard Dysart, Larry Drake and Jimmy Smits.

Drake's poignant portrayal of the law firm's mentally retarded messenger won him the trophy in the supporting actor category in 1988 and 1989.

Sunday's three-hour telecast also will feature a montage tribute to the late Muppets creator Jim Henson.

The cast of "In Living Color" Fox's risky-comedy sketch show featuring almost all-black troupe, also will perform.

Farrar

Other family influences came from Farrar's father, Jack, who worked on KTFY radio for many years.

Farrar started his musical career playing jazz and he soon learned to play and appreciate all kinds of music.

"I write all kinds of songs," he said, "but country was my first love and it still is."

In his song, "Loving You," written for his wife, Sally, Farrar sings of skipping rocks, smelling flowers and just enjoying life's simplicity. In "100 Years Too Late," the mellow ballad says, "Inside every man there's a cowboy who died young. Every body has a little bit of a cowboy somewhere inside, he contends."

"The type of music I write and sing is the stuff that pleases me or that moves me in some way," Farrar said. "I love words and phrases, words that really say something or pounce on a situation."

"But some of his songs are spun out of Farrar's humorous side, such as a tune about his Uncle Joe's mule falling in the cistern, an event where the children learned some excellent cussing techniques.

"I feel fortunate I've lived in Idaho all my life," Farrar said. "It's given me a chance to get a more honest look at life."

The cassette "On A Roll" is available at the "Made In Idaho" store in the Magic Valley Mall or can be ordered from Sunny Mountain Music Company, P.O. Box 2367, Boise, ID, 83701.

She says she'd someday like to have a factory to make the clothes, and she believes there is a market for the An averages six six babies are born prematurely each day in Salt Lake City, she says.

But for now, Painter says she enjoys working out of her own home, where she usually spends 8 to 14 hours a day, seven days a week on her various projects. She is often helped by her mother, Jan Barth.

"I like doing it here because I can be a full-time mom," adds Painter, who has three sons - Ryan, 14; James, 6; and Garrett, 3.

Ongoing

TWIN FALLS - One Hundred Years of Idaho 1850-1950 will continue through Oct. 4 at the Hermit Museum and Art Gallery, located on the College of Southern Idaho Campus. Museum hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday; with college holiday's observed.

"Organized by the Boise Art Museum, this exhibit presents the history of art in Idaho from its pioneer days through World War II. The exhibit is sponsored by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts. This edition is traveling to eight Idaho sites.

TWIN FALLS - The Sunspot Art Center is exhibiting "The Art of the Galactic Works of Meridian photographer Charlie Carter." The nine large prints on exhibit feature beautiful landscapes that challenge the viewer's perception. The shows runs through Oct. 10 at the Sunspot Gallery, located on the College of Southern Idaho campus, second floor of the Taylor Administration Building. Viewing hours are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday. Admission is free.

GOODING - The Idaho Women Artists of the West is featuring Barbara Durfee of Gooding in its special fall group exhibit "Wilderness Callings." The exhibiting depicts the beautiful fall colors of the Red Hills of Southern Idaho. Other artists displaying art-works include: Bruce Boyd and Nadine Conrad, both of Gooding; Joan Wise of Hagerman; and Emma Coleman of Wendell.

BOISE - An exhibition highlighting the art of silver making by both national and Idaho silver artists will be featured at the Boise Art Museum through Sunday.

The Idaho Centennial Silver Design Competition includes the winning sterling designs of the Nationwide Student Design Competition and the Silver Design Fellowship Awards; open only to professional silver artists residing in Idaho.

BOISE - Eternal Members, New Art from Italy will be on display through Oct. 21 at the Boise Art Museum.

Large-scale paintings and sculpture by living Italian artists are featured in this contemporary exhibit. Images "drawn" from their Italian heritage include elements which refer to Christian and pagan iconography, art history, metaphysics, mythology and religion.

BOISE - "Figurative Images" is an assembly of portraits, figure drawings and paintings on paper by many well-known artists on exhibit at the Boise Art Museum through Oct. 21.

The works are selections from the Glenn Feldman Collection of American Realism, which features a broad selection of work by many of today's leading artists. Well-known artists included in this exhibit are Edward Hopper, Elmer Bischoff, David Park and Martha Mayer Etzschner.

BOISE - "Quadrants: Paintings and Drawings by John Giarizzo" will be on view at the Boise Art Museum through Oct. 21.

Wyoming artist Giarizzo was influenced by high-Renaissance artist, Caravaggio after a trip to Italy. The images in his works are of Italian villagers with superimposed figures behind each face similar to those found in Caravaggio's paintings.

The Renaissance-style paintings are deeply shadowed with dark, rich colors and highlighted with characteristically dramatic lighting. Drawings are done with some of the classical deep-orange clay material, in a style which closely resembles the master's draftsmanship of the artist's subjects and centers.

The Boise Art Museum is located off Capitol Boulevard in Jalla Davis Park. Hours are Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from noon to 5 p.m. Thursdays are a public free day. Regular admission is $2 for adults, $1 for seniors and full time college students with ages 17 and under and museum members free. For more information, call 245-5100.

Upcoming

BOISE - Anne Murray will perform at 8 p.m. Oct. 3 at the Boise State University Pavilion. Tickets are $16 and are available at all Select-A-Seal outlets. For ticket information, call 385-1766 or 385-1100.

Out-of-the-valley

BOISE - The Boise-Treasure Doll Club will present its 38th Annual Doll Show and Sale at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Sacred Heart School, 3901 Cassia St. Booth.

Doll dealers of the Northwest will offer their "treasures" - dolls, dolls, parts and supplies for sale. Three doll dealers will also be present for consultation and door prizes will be announced every half hour.

The theme of the show is the centennial, with dolls representing the 100 years of Idaho's statehood. A cash raffle for the doll dining area will be available. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. The show ends at 4 p.m. The Boise-Treasure Doll Club is a member of the United Federation of Doll Clubs, a non-profit organization.

GOODING - The Idaho Dance Theater will perform at 8 and 8 p.m. Saturday at the Special Events Center. Tickets are $5 for students and available at all Select-A-Seal outlets.

BOISE - The Broadway play, "I Love My Wife" with Lynn Redgrave and her husband, John Clark will be at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Marion Center. The production is a benefit for the Bereavement Fund. The play is written by A.R. Gurney. Tickets are $12.50 and $18.50 and are available at all Select-A-Seal outlets.

BOISE - A touch of humor and technical brilliance are part of the program for the Chicago Brass Quintet's "Americana" concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Special Events Center. The concert is presented by the Boise State University Student Programs Board fine arts committee.

The quintet will perform "Suite from Porcys and Bess" by George Gershwin, "West Side Story Medley" by Leonard Bernstein, a selection of pieces by Scott Joplin and other works, including two American marches.

Tickets are $8 for general admission, $6 for BSU faculty-student seniors and $3 for all students and are available at all Select-A-Seal outlets. For more information, call 385-3653.

SANDPOINT - The Pore Oreille Arts Council announces the opening of the third round of Artwalk V with 18 shows in Sandpoint from Sept. 14-24.

Arts to be on display include oils, watercolor, acrylics, pastels, tiles, photography, sculpture and fiber vessels. There will be a musical performance, a puppet show and a group showing of fifty-six artists.

To facilitate viewing of this self-guided tour, a brochure is available at all Artwalk locations, including the Sandpoint Chamber of Commerce. For more information, call Sally Lindemann at 264-4742.

Dear Abby: Abigail VanBuren

on candy and gum, but he never really thought much about his savings until he had accumulated his first $10. When he realized what he could get if he saved up his money, he began saving ALL of his allowance.

Every year on his birthday, his allowance was increased 50 cents, so he had 25 cents more to save. Also, the amount he was required to save increased by $10.

He now has his first after-school job, and he's saving for a set of drums and a school trip to France. I have never talked to him directly about the virtues of saving, but he saves money like no other teen-ager I know.

PROUD SEATTLE POPPA
DEAR POPPA: You have a right to be proud — of yourself, as well as your son. You've given him a gift that will last a lifetime. — a lesson in saving.

FRUSTRATED IN FLORIDA
When my son was 3 years old, I started giving him an allowance of 50 cents a week. There was one catch — he could spend 25 cents on anything he wanted, but the other 25 cents he had to put in his piggy bank. He could spend his piggy bank savings on anything he wanted, but only after it reached $10.

Every week, he spent his 25 cents

UNITED WAY OF MAGIC VALLEY
IT BRINGS OUT THE BEST IN ALL OF US!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The "Secret Diary of Laura Palmer" is roughly equivalent to "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" on a four-year basis.

Lynch

"If Twin Peaks" the television series seemed dark, violent and just plain confusing, don't pick up the musings of its dead-homecoming queen.

This girl imbibed more controlled substances and indulged in more sexual dalliances than the entire cast of a porno movie on location at a crack house.

Released this week by Pocket Books, "The Secret Diary of Laura Palmer" is one of several marketing spinoffs (including a cassette tape, pie and coffee) from the mind-boggling ABC series created by eclectic film maker David Lynch and former "Hill Street-Blue" writer Mark Frost.

The diary actually is written by Lynch's 22-year-old daughter, Jennifer, and is living proof that the apple does not fall far from the tree.

Jennifer Lynch's first novel is a twisted slice of Americana in which nothing is quite what it seems and sex is never quite making love.

It is vaguely reminiscent of her father's chilling depiction of sexual blackmail in "Blue Velvet."

Yes, says Jennifer Lynch with a smile, smoking cigarettes in her publisher's West Hollywood office, she knows who the killer is.

Will readers of the book? "The careful reader will know the clues and who the killer is," she replies.

What about this BOB character in the book and why is every mention of his named spelled in capital letters? "That's the way it needed to be," she answers.

Have we seen BOB thus far in "Twin Peaks" episodes? "I should probably let that slide," she replies.

On the subject of herself and on the inner workings of Laura Palmer, the author is, thankfully, less enigmatic.

Jennifer Lynch carries herself with a self-possession that belies her age in conversation she refers to her father as "David" and in a clear, but undeniably, way patiently stresses that she alone is responsible for the book.

"I had a job to do and I did it," she says. "It was a tricky situation at first. I wanted to keep my career different from his."

Young dancers

First and second graders at St. Edward's Catholic School imitate the dance movements of Lori Head. Sponsored by the Idaho Commissioner of the Arts, Head is the resident artist at St. Edward's where she instructs students in first through sixth grade. Demonstrations by the young dancers are being planned for later in the year at other area schools.

ANDY ARENZ/The Times-News

Briefly

Oil painting seminars planned

HEYBURN - Barbara Durfee of Gooding will hold two oil painting seminars Sept. 24-26 and Oct. 1-3 at Dick and Donna's Hobbies.

For more information, call the Heyburn hobby shop at 678-3056.

Quilt festival occurs this weekend

STANLEY - The Sixth Annual Sawtooth Mountain Mamas Quilt Festival will be held today, Saturday and Sunday at the Stanley Community Building in Stanley. Several state and county centennial quilts will be shown, as well as many quilts from Cluser County.

Workshops this year are being given by Idahoans Nita Sale, Jeanie Koch, Joyce Stewart and Dorothy Crooks. Classes offered are on Celtic Quilting, Flex Curve Flexibilities, Beginning Applique, Coloring the Amish Way, Teton Trails (log cabin/fan block comb), Fast Patch, Seminole and Hand Quilting. Classes are still open.

The Sawtooth Mountain Mamas is a non-profit organization which began about 15 years ago to benefit and sponsor activities in and for the community. All proceeds from events are returned to the area via a scholarship fund—donations to the Salmon River Emergency Clinic, Stanley Pioneer Park and the Stanley Community Building.

For more information, call Freda Nicholson, 774-3343, or Floris Neustadter, 774-3529.

Louie Fontaine to play in Jackpot

JACKPOT - Louie Fontaine, former lead singer for Paul Revere and the Raiders, brings his '50s-'60s show to Cactus Pete's Hotel and Casino in Jackpot, Nev. The show is scheduled for Sept. 19-20.

Fontaine formed Louie & the Rockets in 1972 as a 20's nostalgia act and has been performing "old" rock and roll ever since.

Fontaine performed across the country as an opener for many national acts including Seal & Crofts, John Denver, B-B-King, Jim Stafford, Chuck Berry, BTO, Tower of Power, Heart and Journey.

In 1977, Paul Revere of television and recording fame saw Fontaine in Boise and soon hired him as the new lead singer for Paul Revere and the Raiders, replacing Mark Lindsay, who had retired.

In 1980, Fontaine decided to go back out on his own. Louie Fontaine and the Rockets have spent the last decade performing their old rock and roll show throughout the western United States, including several appearances in Reno, Lake Tahoe, Las Vegas and Hawaii.

Boise Philharmonic plays pops

SUN VALLEY - The Boise Philharmonic will present a First Interstate Pops in the Park Sunday.

The free concert will begin at 2 p.m. on the terrace at the Sun Valley Lodge. James Ogle, artistic director for the Philharmonic, will conduct more than one hour of "pops" music with a variety of selections from Sousa marches to a Danny Elfman suite from the motion picture "Batman" and PDQ Bach's "Un-begun Symphony."

The program is sponsored by the First Interstate Bank of Idaho, N.A.

Snowriders plan membership dance

PNW - The Idaho Snowriders Snowmobile Club will hold its first membership dance of the season starting at 9 p.m. Saturday at Deer Creek Lodge near Pine.

Admission will be paid membership for the 1990-1991 season or $2.50 a person. Carolyn and the Taberock will provide music.

On Sunday, the club will hold a general meeting and cook-out at the Peatherville Saloon. Grills will be provided, and participants are asked to bring something to cook and a side dish.

Disney scouts will hold auditions

PROVO, Utah - Talent scouts from The Walt Disney World Resort in Florida will hold entertainment auditions at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, Sept. 21.

The resort is looking for professional-level entertainers, both male and female dancers, as well as singers who dance/move. Registration times begin at 10 a.m. for male singers who dance/move, 11 a.m. for male dancers, 1 p.m. for female singers who dance/move and 2 p.m. for female dancers. Callback auditions will begin at 4 p.m. All auditions will be at 20 Knight-Monquon Building, located on the southeast corner of the BYU campus.

Performers must be at least 18 by May 1, 1991, and must bring a current, non-returnable resume and photo to the registration. Musical performers should prepare two vocal selections consisting of one ballad and one up-tempo. An accompanist will be provided and performers must bring vocal sheet music in their best key. No tapes will be allowed.

Singers must have movement ability and may be asked to learn at least one movement combination. Dancers will be taught dance competitions and proper dance attire will be required.

No appointments are necessary. For further information, contact Walt Disney World Auditions at (407) 345-3701 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. EDT Monday-Friday.

Mrs. Idaho Pageant seeks candidates

TWIN FALLS - The Mrs. Idaho Pageant is beginning a statewide search for interested candidates. The pageant will be held June 7 and 8, 1991.

Contestants must be 18 years old or older, be an Idaho resident and have been married at least one year at the time of entry.

Areas of competition are evening gown, interview and swimsuit.

For more information, contact the state director, Lori J. Head, 1740 Spruce Ave., Twin Falls, ID 83301, 733-8918; or Michelle Barth, 734-3357; or Leslie Packard, 734-2126.

Sweet Adelines decide to make name change to Magic Harmony

The Times-News

Magic Harmony, a women's singing group formerly known as the Mini-Cassia-Sweet Adelines, announces its name change and a new schedule of rehearsals in both Twin Falls and Burley.

The group will meet from 5 to 7:30 p.m. the 3rd and 4th Mondays of each month starting next week at Valley Christian Church, 1708 Heyburn Ave. P. This will be the first time rehearsals have been scheduled in Twin Falls.

Women who leave work at 5 p.m. are welcome to come late to rehearsals. For more information in Twin Falls, call 733-6238 or 734-1900.

The Burley rehearsals are set for 4:30 to 7 p.m. the 1st and 2nd Mondays of each month at Dworshak Elementary, 19th Street and Overland Avenue. The practice site will soon move to First Minico Junior High School in Paul. Call 678-9600 for more information.

Singers are welcome to attend rehearsals every week, but they need not do so to participate. Magic Harmony officials say. New members are invited.

The group's new name reflects its broader geographical area; singers now taking part are from Wendell, Twin Falls, Oakley, Rupert, Declo, Heyburn and Burley. Mary Liston, the group's director, is from Pocatello.

The international group Sweet Adelines also recently changed its name to Harmony International. The organization has 25,000 members all over the world. Its international competition will be held in October in Salt Lake City.

Magic Harmony recently installed its new officers. They are Ruth Budge, president; Druce Mulconery, treasurer; Rosemary Hoggan, vice president; Betty Mulconery, recording secretary; and Charmaine Ralph, corresponding secretary.

The group also recently attended the Region 24 Gold Rush music workshop at Idaho State University. There, participants took classes in topics including arranging, interpretation and technique, stage personality, costuming and choreography.

College begins courses soon

TWIN FALLS - The following courses start next week through the College of Southern Idaho's Center for New Directions:

• "PEER" - The Program for Education/Employment Readiness will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays from Sept. 18 through Oct. 19. The five-credit class helps people deal with making transitions in their lives and relieving the stress changes can cause.

Participants will learn about the options open to them. The program covers self-esteem, self-management, communication skills, education and career exploration. Cost is $200, and scholarships are available.

• "Communicating with Confidence" will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays Sept. 18 through Oct. 4. Participants will learn skills to understand others and be understood on the job and at home.

The class will present information on listening techniques, negotiation methods and assertiveness skills. Fee for the course is $40 and scholarships are available.

Humor, war mix in 'Air America'

The following are capsule reviews of movies now showing in the Motion Picture Association of America and the Los Angeles Times. Opinions are by Los Angeles Times reviewers.

AIR AMERICA (R) Roger Spottiswoode's high-style black comedy about the covert CIA airlift operation in S.E. Asia during the Vietnam War. It's often intoxicating in its combination of surreal jumpscapes and "MASS" style pranks, but the script finds its focus too late. The film is scaled too big for the tinker-tony ironies you're left with. Mel Gibson and Robert Downey star.

In 'Postcards,' Hollywood takes a hard look at itself

By Sheila Benson
Los Angeles Times

HOLLYWOOD Postcards From the Edge: If We should be so lucky. You can write something on a postcard. This is more like fortune cookies, pithy, expert zingers from the mother-daughter battle-field. Hollywood division: a star of '50s musicals (Shirley MacLaine) and her movie actress-daughter (Meryl Streep) struggling with a drug habit that lifelong insecurity has built.

Review

As Carrie Fisher has adapted her successful, somewhat autobiographical 1987 novel about the physical and psychological rehabilitation of a spirited, wisecracking, just-turning-30 actress, she has taken one of the book's most minor preoccupations, the mother-daughter stuff, and made it the movie's whole shooting match.

"Postcards" is a puzzle. It's possible to float out of it on the titanic high generated by Streep's two-trial numbers, singing as affecting as Bonnie Raitt. If it needed proving, it's clear now that there is nothing Streep cannot do, except, possibly, oral surgery, and high-platform diving, and only a sucker would bet against either of those.

As director Mike Nichols speeds the movie by and Streep's Suzanne Vale gives behind-the-scenes Hollywood the benefit of her wry eye and bad mouth, it's a funny-void to be let in on hip, inside and deadly clever. Unsurprisingly, with this director and this writer, "Postcards" cuts close to the bone with its insights about the workings of old and new Hollywood — a past full of stars with ironclad images built by studios and nourished by fan magazines, and an unsentimental and utterly forgetful present in which grosses alone are the measure of success.

But apart from Suzanne and her egocentric mama, MacLaine's Doris Mann, who can suck minutes, these enemies get what they want from the sheer warmth and presence of their actors, a considerable amount in the case of Hackman and Dreyfuss. Quaid, playing a character so loosely sketched that it isn't clear

Defiantly underwritten, onscreen for mere minutes, these enemies get what they want from the sheer warmth and presence of their actors, a considerable amount in the case of Hackman and Dreyfuss. Quaid, playing a character so loosely sketched that it isn't clear whether he's a producer or Suzanne's fellow actor, still seems to be flitting away like Jerry Lee Lewis, although that song has ended.

"As we first meet Suzanne," she's twirling, blurring and snorting her way through a crummy-looking movie about Latin American intrigue, directed by Hackman. Next, she awakens in the other half of Quaid's hotel and finds herself in a detox center, headed by a no-nonsense therapist played by C.C. Hyde. Pounder — her power reduced to slivers of scenes, improbably brief as the detox-section is. Streep gets memorable support from Robin Bartlett as her rehab roomie Aretha (of "I Wanna Get Some" fame), whose parents were expecting someone black, whose drug delivery and owl take on life are the stuff of which lifelong friendships are made.

These and wickedly funny backstage snap shots of movie making are the good times of "Postcards," but even they can't hide its emotional starvation. While we chorize at the one-liners — and Streep's running, grumbling delivery of them — the real work seems to happen too fast and infrequently. Drug rehabilitation, family reconciliation, career regression, work, casually matched though Streep and MacLaine seem as a mother and daughter, they bring every drop of empathy from a last-minute hospital-bed scene of caring and contrition. Nevertheless, "Postcards" is a quick-sketch of a screenplay whose details are still to come.

Even if it comes straight out of left field, Streep's performance as a country singer at the movie's close is irresistible. Just let your mind loose at this point; this is such unadorned fun that there's not much left to do but roll with it, in the same way you can luxuriate in Michael Ballhaus' fluid camera work, Patricia Von Braunhau's designs, for the peculiarly awful movies Suzanne is making, Ann Roth's witty perfect costumes, and J. Roy Helland's superb hair and makeup, which in MacLaine's case is a devastating trip down Memory Lane.

Capsule reviews

ARACHNOPHOBIA (PG-13) For anyone that plans to scare the kapok out of us, Frank Marshall's funny-scary, primal-scream of a comedy is a friendly and nicely witty affair, technically, it's a wonder, if it's the classic form, done on a grand scale, the black-Martin spider from far, far away that very nearly wipes out the perfect American small town. On the other hand, we have a very contemporary hero (a dryly humorous Jeff Daniels), un-macho enough to yell to his kids, "We need Mom in here to kill a spider."

DARKMAN (R) It's thinly plotted, predictable, garishly over-violent. But it's the best of all the recent comic-book movies — indeed, the only one that really captures the look, feel and showed style of the comic. Director Sam Raimi ("The Evil Dead") and his crew lavish prodigious visual gifts on this movie: a simple, organic tale, with "Count of Monte Cristo" overtones, in which a horribly disfigured scientist (Liam Neeson), who can change his face at will, seeks revenge on the criminal vermin (including surreally vicious Larry Drake) who destroyed his life.

FLATLINERS (R) Some lines shouldn't be crossed; some movies shouldn't be watched. No, that's not easy. This Joel Schumacher film, in which five photogenic med students decide to experience death and afterlife scientifically, is eminently watchable, gloriously aflame with swanky deep-focus decor. But it's built around the kind of spiritually huckster tale Maseratis with. The theme is like a little dry pea rattling through the vast, echoing museum of the high-tech images: Why should anyone risk death to see the afterlife depicted here, when they can get the same stuff by subscribing to cable TV?

GHOST (PG-13) The movie's slogan is "Believe, not an impossible request." But even those who'd be happy to comply must get past a certain woolly-mindedness to its script and a production prettified to the point of stickiness. With some of its actors — Demi Moore as the cracked-voiced, desolate lover; Whoopi Goldberg as an extremely reluctant spirit; go-between and Vincent Schiavelli as an insouciant, sub-way-dwelling ghost — things are in the best hands possible. But Patrick Swayze as a corporate New York banker? Never in a 7-million-corporate years.

Astrological Forecasts

IF SEPTEMBER 14 IS YOUR BIRTH DAY: You have "writer's signature." You are not happy unless expressing "communicating, disseminating information." Current events are highly significant. That could include actual change of residence or status. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. During this month, September, you will be reacquainted with family member who claimed money was not fairly divided.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): At first you'll feel the weekend could be gloomy later you'll know that opportunities are being given to you. Be independent, creative and possibly in love. Fresh start in new direction featured.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What had been scattered comes together. A key responsibility, communication, financial plan, may be independent, creative and despite minor disagreements.

OPINION (May 21-June 20): You'll end a costly proposition... you're ready for new beginning, for wider audience and larger success. Love relationship enhanced as you open lines of communication.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Financial problem will be settled sooner than anticipated. You'll also focus article that had been just passing or spoken. Cyclic activities high. Trust your own judgment in connection with justice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Focus on initiation, teaching and learning. Regarding matters of law, education, direction. Moon moves toward your sign, wear bright yellow and gold. You'll be center stage. Cancer native plays role.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What starts as joke could become serious, perhaps costly. Someone is hiding something and this is not to your advantage. Know when to draw line. Be on before tonight. Sagittarian could figure prominently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money comes from unorthodox source. What you thought was lost may be recovered. Possession of Scorpio individual says, "I want to be with you, and I will help you!" Major wish is on brink of fulfillment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You'll be asked to do some detective work. Trust your own instincts. Proposal made to Libra will have positive reception. You are going places, including short-trip involving relative. Discern motives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Family member says, "I appreciate what you have done but I need additional aid. Focus on domesticity, design, music, romance. Long distance communication helps in making real-time work. Trust your own instincts. Proposal made to Libra will have positive reception. You are going places, including short-trip involving relative. Discern motives."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Focus on power, authority, production, promotion, strong physical attraction. What had been downward turned will be reversed in dramatic fashion. You could actually receive physical attention. Don't hide right.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You'll finish long-standing project, assignments. In high time, assign an assistant. "Neither distance nor language can really separate us!" Virgo, another Pisces figure in scenario.

JUSTICE SYSTEM

Justice system both great with juries in the 18th century I don't know. Those juries could be fined for acquittals. For one not-guilty verdict in a 1554 case, jury members were required to pay the equivalent of $39,000.

LONG TRIP

In the 18th century, a Neger Republic is an oasis. Once, thereby, stood a lone tree. With no other trees within 30 miles. Historical footnotes show that in February of 1900 a truck driver ran into it.

Been awfully hot in Oklahoma. A Stillwater man writes, "I saw a smoking bird pull a worm out of ground and he was using a potholder."

THE CHRISTMAS BLUES

The Christmas blues are blamed by many on artificial temperatures, mild and otherwise. Client writes: "I told my doctor I drank no such drinks, but still felt bad. He asked me if I ate a lot of candy, cake and ice cream. I said yes. He said, 'Aha! Sugar!'"

Tews' game preserve open-house Sunday

SHOSHONE — Richard "Rusty" Tews will celebrate the grand opening of the Tews Ranches' shooting preserve with an open house from 1 p.m. until dark Sunday. The operation will offer a pleasant and chukar hunting club Aug. 15-April 15 on almost 500 acres of private land in Lincoln County. The open house Sunday will include dog handling exhibitions, an art display, wildlife displays, tours of the ranch and refreshments with samples of wild game cooking. The ranch is 6 miles north of Shoshone on Highway 75, "Equity Road." The route will have signs marking the way from Highway 75. The Times-News regrets the errors in its story from the Thursday Outdoor section.

Florida State reported ready to join Atlantic Conference

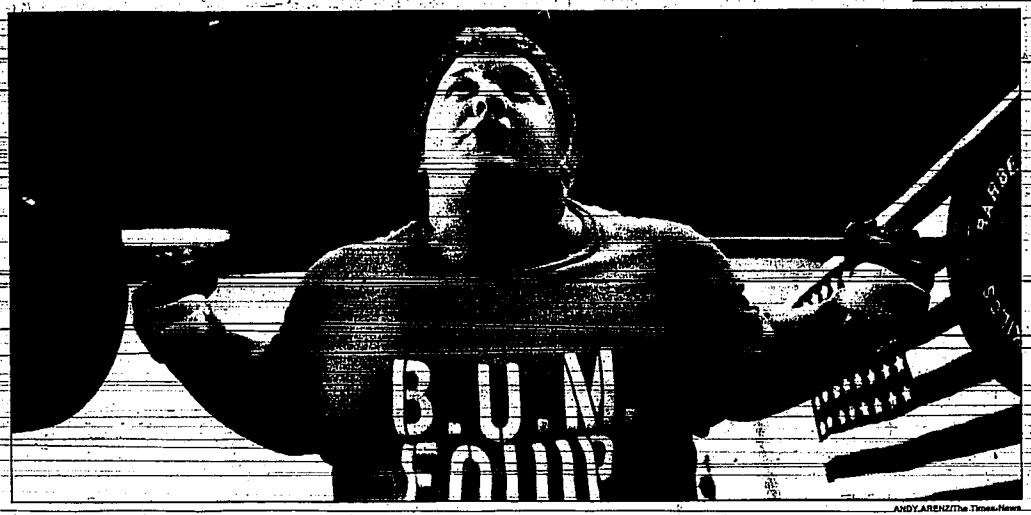

GREENSBORO, N.C. — The Atlantic Coast Conference joined the national expansion movement Thursday. Following an intense day of back-and-forth deliberations, the league voted to expand and offered an invitation for membership to Florida State. Sources said Florida State already has informally accepted and that the Seminoles' decision should become official Friday after it is approved by the State Board of Regents and the school's athletics board. The ACC said it had set no deadline for a response and that membership details would be worked out in the next few days. "I think it's a terrific opportunity for us in terms of every aspect of athletics," Florida President Bernard Sliger said.

Heavy weights lift locals to national status

By Brad Dowlin
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two local men are pushing their way to the top of the national powerlifting and bodybuilding scene.

Denny Peyman, 37, recently returned from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he won his class in the Southern States Classic, one of the top bodybuilding shows in the United States.

Powerlifter James Greene, 20, will compete in the Soviet Union in November as part of the U.S. Junior World team.

Greene works out at Peyman's Body Shoppe in Twin Falls and earned a spot on the team by winning his second consecutive national junior powerlifting title in Moscow.

The Moscow meet is part of a goodwill tour, Greene said. In March, he will return to the site of his national titles, Oklahoma City, to compete for a spot in next year's Junior Worlds in Indonesia.

"That could be my first chance to win a world title," Greene said.

Both Peyman and Greene are "natural," avoiding the steroids commonly associated with weightlifting sports. A recent report issued by the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services estimated that more than 250,000 American adolescents — mostly boys — have taken steroids.

When he's not training, Greene is studying at the College of Southern Idaho for a career as a physical education instructor. Both Peyman and Greene are "natural," avoiding the steroids commonly associated with weightlifting sports. A recent report issued by the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services estimated that more than 250,000 American adolescents — mostly boys — have taken steroids.

Most steroid users mistakenly think the drugs will allow them to skip on the essentials of bodybuilding — workouts, rest and nutrition, Peyman said. He stays away from the drugs because

Hagerman High motors by Raft River 15-4, 15-10

The Times-News

HAGERMAN — A 15-4, 15-10 win against Raft River raised Hagerman High School's record to 2-0 in Magic Valley Conference volleyball Thursday.

Julie Thompson had six kills and Mary Hensler-15 service points for the Pirates, 6-1 overall.

"It was overall good team play," said Hagerman coach Gerald Dietrich. "Raft River is a pretty good team."

Raft River won the JV match 15-11, 18-16.

HANSEN — Led by Nikki Melody's hitting, Murtaugh dropped Hansen to 1-1 in Magic Valley Conference play, 1-4 overall.

"They just outthrust us tonight," said Hansen coach Renee Remaley.

Fury evens score with Wolverines

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Behind three Justin Aiken goals, the Twin Falls Fury soccer club avenged a season-opening loss to Wood River with a 3-1 decision over the Wolverines at Sawtooth Elementary School Thursday.

Aiken broke a 1-1 tie with a header into the net midway through the second half. His penalty kick with 10 minutes to play gave the Fury the final margin.

"We had good defensive play by the whole team," said Twin Falls coach Reed J. Hollingshead. "From the players Ben Murphy and Greg Thompson assisted in the offense as well as the defense. They were key players."

Hollingshead also singled out the defensive play of Vince Gibson and Stacy Lucich.

The Fury now 2-1 play at Gooding State at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

Bliss, Gooding at Dietrich
DIETRICH — The Blue Devils sent Bliss home with a 15-13, 15-4 loss, also topped Gooding 15-12, 15-6 in a pair of Magic Valley Conference contests.

Bliss and six more in the Gooding match to help Dietrich go 4-1 in MVC play, 6-3 overall.

"The team was starting to jell tonight," said Dietrich coach Denise Christ. "We worked on a lot of things, and they came together."
Bliss downed the Devils 15-13, 15-4 in Gooding.

Strawberry, Mets cut into Pirates' N.L. East lead

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Darryl Strawberry's bat and arm dominated the dream matchup between Dwight Gooden and Doug Drabek, and the New York Mets moved back within 1 1/2 games of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East, beating the Pirates 6-3 Thursday night.

Strawberry hit a three-run homer for his 10th RBI and threw out Barry Bonds at the plate as the Mets completed a two-game sweep of the Pirates and tied a team record with their 11th straight victory at home. New York is 50-22 at Shea Stadium, the best home record in baseball.

The Mets and Pirates finish the season with three games at Pittsburgh.

Gooden (17-6) survived a shaky start and went on to win for the 14th time in his last 15 decisions, giving up 10 hits and three runs in 7 1/2 innings.

Drabek (19-6) lasted only two innings. He gave up four runs on six hits. John Franco set a Mets' record with his 32nd save in 36 chances, breaking Jesse Orosco's mark of 31 in 1984.

Strawberry and Bonds, candidates for the MVP award, put on a dazzling display of offense and defense before a season-high crowd of 51,079.

Reds extended their lead over second-place Los Angeles and San Francisco, who were both idle.

Rob Dibble (7-3) pitched the ninth for the victory.
Cardinals 6, Expos 4
MONTEREAL — Rookie Ray Lankford homered and drove in two runs, Pedro Guerrero had four hits and rookie Omar Olivares got his first major-league victory as the St. Louis Cardinals snapped a three-game losing streak, beating Montreal 6-3.

Owners approve new Yankee

The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Broadway producer Robert Nederlander promising to bring from once stability to the New York Yankees franchise is the great news for the team's owners after they agreed to perpetuate that symbol.

Hinting he won't be a headline-seeking, hands-on owner like Steinbrenner, Nederlander said he won't second-guess general manager Gene Michael, player personnel director George Bradley or manager Stump Merrill.

My own personal philosophy is you have to give people a chance, and continuity is important," he said. "If a reasonable agreement has been made, you should stick with it, and you shouldn't second-guess people I believe in letting baseball people make decisions when it comes to baseball."

Saying he was asked to become general partner very suddenly, Nederlander debated taking over a once-proud franchise racked by player dissension and carelessness spending. "After due deliberation, I felt their form system and will operate in a fiscally responsible manner."

Nederlander backed off criticizing Steinbrenner's free spending on free agents and revolving-door hirings and firings, but said the Yankees will rebuild their farm system and "will operate in a fiscally responsible manner."

BYU, Virginia starts bode well for rest of teams' seasons

The Associated Press

Which two college football teams have the best chance to go undefeated this season? Believe it or not, they're Brigham Young and Virginia.

Both have already beaten the toughest team on their schedule, both play in relatively easy conferences and both have great quarterbacks who can make the difference in close games.

After upsetting Miami last Saturday, BYU is expected to have a legitimate shot to repeat its 1984 dream season, when the Cougars went 13-0 and won the national championship.

BYU's remaining opponents had, combined 56-57-4 record last season. True, the fifth-ranked Cougars must still play 1989 bowl games Oregon, Air Force and Hawaii on its schedule.

But it's also true that Oregon, Air Force and Hawaii aren't Notre Dame, Florida State and Michigan.

No. 11 Virginia doesn't have any world-beaters left on its schedule, either, after defeating Clemson for the first time in 30 years.

The rest of the Cavaliers' foes had a combined 45-53-4 record last year.

Virginia faces its toughest stretch in November, when Virginia Tech and Maryland at home and Virginia Tech and Maryland at the end of the regular season. They won't play for the national title in a bowl game.

As champion of the Western Athletic Conference, BYU would be obligated to play in the Holiday Bowl. And as champion of the Atlantic Coast Conference, Virginia would almost certainly play in the Citrus Bowl.

An escape clause in the ACC's Citrus contract permits the league champion to go to the Cotton, Sugar or Orange bowls if it means playing for the national championship.

But Citrus officials would do everything in their power to keep an undefeated Virginia team.

That could be done by boosting the payout with additional money from ABC, which televises the game, or the Bowl's sponsor, the Florida Citrus Growers Association.

HURTING HURRICANES
The Miami Hurricanes lost more than a game to BYU. They lost to a team named John Routh dressed as a turkey on his left leg in a sideline collision with a BYU runner. Routh underwent surgery and will miss Miami's game at California on Saturday.

"I feel like a bird that's been clipped," Routh said. "I've got to stay in my cage for a while."

Routh said he expects to be back for Miami's home opener against Iowa on Sept. 29.

CAN'T DO KANSAS
Saturday was the first time in six years that Kansas and Kansas State won on the same day. Kansas beat Missouri 38-12 and Kansas State defeated Western Illinois 27-6.

The last double victory occurred on Nov. 17, 1984, when Kansas beat Missouri 35-0 and Kansas State downed Colorado 38-6.

COLLAPSING CHAMPIONS
Miami is the third straight preseason No. 1 to lose its opening game.

Michigan lost its opener to Notre Dame last season 24-19 and Florida State was beaten by Miami 31-17 in 1988.

Actually, the Michigan defeat deserves an asterisk because the Wolverines were No. 2 when they played No. 1 after beating Virginia in the Kickoff Classic.

GIANT GROUNDGAINER
Tennessee's biggest player made a big play in the Volunteers' victory over Mississippi State.

Bernard Daffney, a 6-foot-7, 300-pound offensive lineman, ran 32 yards for a touchdown on a "fumble-rookie" play in the second quarter.

After Tennessee's quarterback intentionally dropped the center snap, everybody run to the right except Daffney, who picked up the ball and ran the other way for the score.

ISU, BSU hit the highway in Big Sky action

The Associated Press

The two Big Sky Conference football games on tap for this week are expected to be a remarkable contest.

At Ogden, Weber State hosts Idaho State and in the last five games, all won by Weber, the two teams have averaged 60 points per game.

At Cheyenne, Wyoming State will play the State of Idaho in a game matching two of the top defenses in the Big Sky.

The other Big Sky teams take on a variety of opponents, ranging from Oregon of the Pac 10 to a tiny NAIA school from Kentucky playing its first year of college football.

Idaho, led after a come-from-behind victory in Texas last weekend, plucks Oregon for the first time in 20 years, hoping to break a 19-game losing streak to the Ducks.

Cal State-Sacramento travels a short distance to Reno for a game against Nevada, also the renewal of a long-running rivalry. The teams used to play on a regular basis but the series stopped in 1978.

After the Wolf Pack ran up a 75-0 Western Illinois is at Montana State in the week's only Montana game matching two Division IAA teams.

Thomas More, from Crestview Hills, Ky., is at Montana in what might be the biggest mismatch involving a Big Sky team in recent years. Former Grizzly assistant coach Vic Clark is the coach of Thomas More, which probably is a small NAIA school in the Montana schedule this year.

The Grizzlies, meanwhile, picked to win the Big Sky this year and with an opening-season 22-15 victory over Oregon State, expects a tough game at Ogden against Weber.

Northern Arizona gets the week off to recover from last week's crushing by Nevada, 55-14.

ISU won against Division II Southern Utah State last week but Bengal Coach Garth Hall expects a tougher game at Ogden against Weber.

"This will be a big game and the level of competition increases," he said. "We play them there and we haven't played well against Weber State recently," he said, referring to the fact ISU has allowed Weber an average of more than 48 points in five straight losses.

"They are a lot better than people give them credit for at the start of the season," he said.

WSC Coach Dave Atkinson said he was encouraged by his team's rally in a loss to Boise State last week. "We played a tough enough game to win it," he said.

Eastern Washington is suffering from a lot of injuries, including four at running back and two other starters. And Boise offensive lineman Dave Koch is out with a knee injury.

Not because he's given up on Idaho.

Odds makers say 49ers will be back on track

The Associated Press

Some hope in Las Vegas doesn't care much for last weekend's results: As in Washington 31, Phoenix 0 and San Francisco 13, the 49ers.

Why else would the 49ers, who play better on the road anyway, be six-point favorites over the Redskins in their home opener?

Some suggestions:
• The 49ers are the 49ers, the best team in the NFL until proven otherwise.

• Brigham-Young could probably do what Washington did last week - beat Phoenix 31-0.

• Washington's defense doesn't exactly terrify people.

On the other hand, Mark Rypien isn't John Fouce, and against the 49ers Monday night looked like the Arizona football league's leading line is scary... to Joe Montana.

Kansas State (plus 5) at Denver (Monday night)
The Way John Elway played Sunday in Los Angeles, you'd have thought it was the Super Bowl.

Super Bowls aren't played at Mile

High Stadium, where the Chiefs haven't won since 1982.

BRONCOS (plus 3) at Green Bay
Put Chicago's shutout over Seattle in the Washington category - they weren't exactly facing the league's best offense. If this wasn't the Bears, the Packers might let down. But it's Packers.

PACKERS (plus 17) at Detroit
Wayne Foye says he told us the Lions are still rebuilding. So are the Falcons, and this is the kind of game where the air goes out of Jerry Glavin's teams.

LIONS (plus 14) at Minnesota
Let's see. The Burns-Moore-Schneider-Tresman quartet will call for a fake punt on fourth and 13. They'll have Herschel-Walker throw an option pass. They'll win.

VIKINGS (plus 12) at Houston (plus 2k) at Pittsburgh
Chuck Noll meets Jack Parker after they convene a meeting of the Jerry Glavin/Fan Club. Meanwhile, Bobby Brister is having a love-in with John

CSI bests Northwestern

The Times-News

REXBURGH - The College of Idaho took one step toward its championship streak at the Rockies this week.

The tournament, involving a dozen teams playing in three days, started Thursday with CSI blasting Colorado Northwestern 15-2, 15-5.

There are six teams in two different pools with CSI being in a pool with the Colorado squad along with Utah Valley, Treasure Valley, Eastern Utah and Spokane Falls Community College.

The top four teams from each pool will play on Saturday in a single elimination tournament to determine a champion.

CSI dominated its match; Thurs day, thrashing Colorado Northwestern. The Eagles found many of their serves go in without being returned.

The Golden Eagles, 14-7 overall and 1-0 in the Classic, will play Utah Valley today at 10 a.m., TVCC at noon and CEU at 7 p.m. They will play Spokane Falls on Saturday morning at 7 before the single elimination tournament starts.

Olivares (1-0), making his fifth start, allowed three runs on six hits in six innings. He struck out three and walked five. Leo Smith pitched one inning for his 26th save. RBI gave up Delino DeShields' RBI grounder.

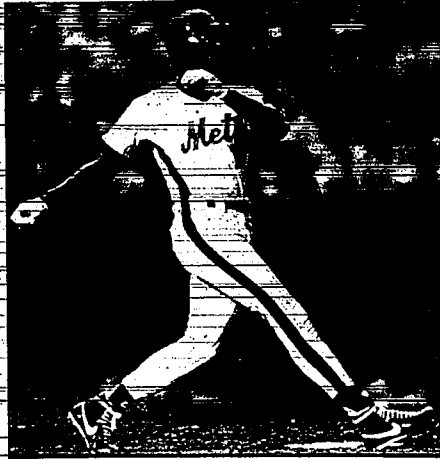

Lankford drove in the Cardinals' first run in the first against Bill Sampen (10-6) when he singled home Cincinnati's Benji Mott and stole second.

Cubs 6, Phillies 5
CHICAGO (AP) — Jerome Walton's RBI grounder broke an eighth-inning tie and Chicago beat Philadelphia.

Grandi led off the eighth with a single against Roger McDowell (6-7). Doug Dasenczo walked, and Dwight Smith, hitting for Paul Assenmacher (5-2), reached first safely when Jeff Jelder von Hayes dropped his fly ball.

Orioles 5, Blue Jays 3
TORONTO (AP) — David Segui and Steve Finley drove in two runs apiece in a five-run sixth inning and Jose Mesa scattered six hits over 6-2-3 innings for his first victory of the year, leading the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays on Thursday night.

It was Toronto's second straight loss after a six-game winning streak. The Blue Jays began play four

With the game scoreless, Cal Ripken started the sixth with a double and Sam Hogg walked. Mickey Tetleton singled and the throw from right fielder Junior Felix was on target but catcher Pat Borders caught the ball in front of the plate, causing Ripken room to slide in safely.

Yankees 7, Tigers 3
DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Kevin Maas hit a two-run homer in the first inning, his 18th home run in 200 at-bats, and Mike Witt (4-8) pitched a five-hitter. One of the Detroit hits was a two-run home run in the ninth by Cecil Fielder, his 46th. The eighth-inning shot struck the facade top the upper deck in left-center.

Losar Walt Terrell (4-4) gave up four runs and six hits in 3.1-3 innings. He also hit three batters and walked one. Jesse Barfield drove in two runs for New York with a single and a bases-loaded walk and Roberto Kelly had an RBI triple.

White Sox 9, Red Sox 6
CHICAGO (AP) — Ivan Calderon, batting leadoff for the first time in his career, doubled to start a five-running three-run third inning and broke the game open with a three-run homer in the fourth. Boston maintained its four-game lead over Toronto in the AL East.

Matt Start hit a two-run double for his first major-league RBI and fellow rookie Alex Fernandez (3-3) won for the first time in three weeks, giving up three runs and nine hits in seven innings. Tom Bolton (.9-3) lasted 3-1-3 innings, giving up seven runs and nine hits.

he wants to set a good example for his five sons and for the high school students to which he gives seminars. He also worries about the physical side effects that could result from steroid use.

"I want to watch my kids grow up," he said. "I don't want to be on a lung machine or a liver or kidney machine."

The 5'5", 185-pound former Shoshone police chief said the drug began lifting weights regularly until he was 21 years old.

"It has to become a lifestyle," he said. "People nowadays want things too fast. If they could make bodybuilding harder, I think I'd like it even more."

Peymann will appear in four national weightlifting magazines within the next two months. He is frequently asked why he lives in Idaho, which is far from most major bodybuilding shows.

The answer, according to Peymann, is simple: 80 percent of bodybuilding is nutrition and where better than Idaho to find wholesome foods.

His diet spans the Magic Valley, with spring water from Sun Valley, organic grain from the Camas Prairie, fish from the Thousand Springs Trout Farm in Hagerman, eggs from the Parkview Poultry Farm in Richfield and potatoes from Bull.

In addition, Peymann has a large garden and raises his own poultry. He spends at least two hours each day studying nutrition.

A typical day starts out at 5:30 a.m. with a breakfast of fried egg whites (15), a cup of oatmeal, one half-cup of low-fat yogurt and a banana. Peymann eats seven meals every day, one every two hours.

A native of Phoenix, Ariz., Peymann first moved to Idaho in 1972. He describes himself as "a hometown boy" who likes the relaxed atmosphere of Southern Idaho.

He is a five-time Idaho powerlifting champion and still holds Idaho state records in several events. Peymann hopes to win the Mr. America title by age 40. Staying away from steroids and maintaining his strict dietary regimen are essential to longevity in the sport, he said.

"Very few people I competed against when I started out are still around," he said. "I'm confident I can go on for another 10 years."

JV play Gooding won a 15-5, 15-13 JV decision over Dietrich.

Glenns Ferry 15, 7, 6 Valley 9, 15, 15
HAZELTON — Karena Kohrt not play helped Valley earn a split decision from Glenns Ferry in Canyon Conference action and go 3-2 on the season.

Valley won the JV match 15-6, 15-7.

The Vikings host the Valley Jamboree Saturday. The round robin tournament including Hansen, Kimberly, Oakley and the host school starts at 10:30 a.m.

Jerome 15, 15 Burley 5, 12
JEROME — The Jerome Tigers are off to one of the hottest starts in the school's history.

The Tigers beat Burley Thursday night taking up their seventh win in a row with a 15-5, 15-12 sweep past the Bobcats.

Wendy Mathews and Anya Miranda turned out to be a two-person wrecking crew. Each had eight service points with Mathews chalking her eight in the opening game and Miranda knocking in eight in the second contest.

The Jerome defense also helped in the victory, as the Tigers boosted their record to 8-1.

Burley won the preliminary contest 12-15, 15-12, 15-13.

Filter 9, 15, 15 Kimberly 15, 6, 9
KIMBERLY — The Kimberly Bulldogs had upset on their mind Thursday night, but Filter had other ideas.

The Wildcats kept near the top of the Canyon Conference with a 9-15, 15-6, 15-9 victory over the home Bulldog team.

Chari Gartner still comes out as one of the surprise players in the conference. Her net play, the service points from Nicole Dolman and the entire play of the Wildcat defense helped in the come-from-behind victory.

In the JV contest, Kimberly beat Filter in a three-game match.

Ketchum-Sun Valley 15, 15 Richfield 4, 11
RICHFIELD — The Ketchum-Sun Valley Community school, forecasted to be in the bottom of the Northside Conference standings, has suddenly made a major upgrade.

The Cathartons easily disposed of Richfield Thursday night 15-4, 15-11 in a conference encounter.

Ketchum found some success in both it's serving and ball handling en route to the victory.

The Tigers won the JV contest 15-12, 15-5.

Camas County 15, 15 Carey 13, 13
CAREY — There couldn't have been two more evenly matched teams than those playing in Carey Thursday night.

The Camas County Musters moved into Panther county and paired with a close 15-13, 15-13 victory in a Northside Conference contest between the two clubs.

The Musters didn't give up any big leads in either contest, but squeaked any Panther ideas of coming from behind late in the games.

The Camas County won the preliminary contest 15-9, 15-5.

Oakley 15, 15 Castleford 9, 10
OAKLEY — The Oakley Hornets cruised to a Magic Valley Conference victory over Castleford Thursday night.

The juniors proved to be the big stars for Oakley. Kelly Strauss had some big serves in the opening game.

Strauss and Ann Hale, another junior, combined as a setter and spiker dominating the second game.

The Hornets also won the JV contest 15-4, 7-15, 15-8.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFF

"If a man's wit be wandering, let him study the mathematics."
Francis Bacon.

It has been said that anyone who can count up to 13 can become a good player. True enough. However, as Jan. Mollin of Stockholm points out, one must aim his counting in the right direction.

South ruffed the opening lead and counted a quick 10 tricks. He included five spades, four clubs and the diamond ace. He cashed dummy's top spades and top clubs and the diamond ace, then reached his hand via a second heart ruff. Then he cashed his trump queen, expecting a 3-3 break. It didn't materialize, so he cashed one more club before East ruffed. South ended up with only nine of his 10 sure tricks.

South's mind wandered when he counted four club winners. He could be sure of those only if trumps were 3-3. A surer way to 10 tricks is a crossruff.

After ruffing the heart lead, South should cash dummy's ace and king of clubs and diamond next, and then crossruff hearts and clubs with high trumps. In this manner, he wins three minor-suit tricks and takes seven more tricks by using his trumps separately.

Counting to 13 may be easy; counting the right tricks can be a little tougher.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFE

Whipping and abuse are like laundry; you have to double the dose as the season wears on.

—Harriet Beecher Stowe

When an audacious opponent makes a two-level overcall, in a bridge card suit, it's usually a good idea to double for punishment. Today's example from the Phoenix Regional Tournament demonstrates the best way to exact the maximum penalty.

It's tough for a vulnerable East to sit for the penalty double, however. East deferred to West in hopes of maintaining marital harmony.

What's West's best lead? If he leads spades to reduce South's trump holding, he plays right into dummy's queen and East's king. Two trumps with small trumps and two trumps with either two or three down — a filthy score for East-West.

The maximum penalty is achieved if West leads trumps. His aim is to eventually draw South's small trumps so that South cannot score any ruffing tricks.

The trump king (in case dummy has a singleton-honor) is led, and South wins the ace. A club is led to dummy's queen and East's king.

East cashes his ace of hearts. West discards a club and then ruffs out South's heart queen. East continues with the king queen — a second trump is led to South's jack, and South tries a spade exit. West wins his jack and leads a third high diamond.

South exits in clubs and the defenders are in charge. East wins and leads a third club for West to ruff, and West picks up trumps. The rest of the tricks belong to the defense, and South is held to only his three high trumps — a very nice (scoring).

James Earl Jones plays convicted killer released after spending 20 years in jail

By Christopher Hull

James Earl Jones has been something of a ubiquitous commodity lately. Active in feature films ("The Hunt for Red October"), cable movies ("Heat Wave") and network TV movies ("Last Flight Out"), Jones now is turning his talents to a prime-time drama called "Gabriel's Fire."

The series, which airs Thursdays on ABC, stars Jones as Gabriel Bird, a convicted killer who has spent 20 years in prison and suddenly, unwillingly finds himself back on the streets, released on a legal technicality. "Oh God, why?" wonders Bird on the eve of his release. "For years I prayed, I begged for freedom and you were silent. Now that there's nothing left, you give me what I wanted — freedom. Freedom to do what? To wander the streets alone? Gabriel Bird is dead; I'm convict D72721." But Gabriel Bird is not dead; he only awaits resuscitation.

Laura Robins plays Victoria Heller, the attorney who learns about Bird while investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of one of her clients in prison. She takes it upon herself to get him released. ("He's gonna get justice whether he likes it or not," Heller says to an assistant after Bird refuses to meet with her in jail.) Subsequently, Heller also employs Bird as a private investigator on a case-by-case basis.

To be sure, there were extenuating circumstances that led Bird, the only black cop on a Chicago special operations unit, to gun down a fellow police officer during a 1969 raid on a suspected safe-house of the militant Black Liberation Movement. But Bird is guilty of pulling the trigger, a fact that he confirms in an angry confrontation with Heller in the series pilot: "I am not innocent. You just sprang a murderer, I wasn't framed; I'm guilty."

According to co-executive producer Coleman Luck ("The Equalizer"), Gabriel Bird is the kind of tainted hero that it is important for television to present. "Establishing Bird's guilt was very important to us," says Luck in a telephone interview. "The difference between him and the other prisoners is that he really understands his part in the guilt ... and he accepts it. That's a very important part of his character, and this is important for television to do. Everybody is tired of the perfect hero. It's not realistic, and it's not interesting."

"Gabriel's Fire" was written with Jones in mind. "When I came over to Lorimar, they asked me if I would be interested in working on a project with James Earl Jones," says Luck. "I jumped at the opportunity. Jones had already approved the basic concept, so we (Luck and co-executive producer Robert Lieberman) came in and made it into a story and a script and so forth." The series is airing on a network that has built its recent success on sometimes unusual programming choices (e.g., "America's Funniest Home Videos," "Twin Peaks" and "Life Goes On").

ON THE COVER: James Earl Jones stars as Gabriel Bird, a man who is suddenly released from prison after 20 years behind bars, in "Gabriel's Fire." It airs Thursdays on ABC.

Q: What's become of TV's former Wonder Woman, Lynda Carter? We haven't heard much about her lately.

A: There's a good reason—Lynda's busy raising a family. In fact, she's currently expecting her second child and has to stay in bed for the rest of her pregnancy. Wonder-Woman roles or no, Carter is physically fragile in some ways, obviously. Lynda tells me she's working on two projects for her independent production company, one about breast cancer, the second about child molestation.

Q: I've heard that Brooke Shields finally gets to play a real adult love scene in her new movie, "Back Street Blues." Does she bare all in the film? — F.M.

A: Despite the ballyhoo, Brooke's lovemaking scenes in "Back Street Blues" (in which she plays a teacher) are rather tame. It's a Hollywood irony that Brooke, who's now 25, projected greater sensuality — and bared more — back when she was a "scandalous" 12-year-old in "Pretty Baby," and in the steamy "The Blue lagoon" released a couple of years later.

Q: It's our impression that TV actor Chris Eastwood is a really nice guy even though as the son of Jack Eastwood he was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Are we right? — H.P.

A: Can't vouch for the silver spoon part, but can tell you Chris is one of Hollywood's genuinely nice guys. He's a talented actor, singer, pianist. He's religious — I spotted him not long ago attending Sunday Mass in sinful old Hollywood. He's a first attentive husband, and now, father. When his wife Gina delivered the couple's new daughter, Sydney Noel, Chris stopped by a fancy restaurant located near the maternity ward to pick up caviar and other goodies for the new mom.

Q: We hear that longtime deejay Casey Kasem is furious with his much younger wife because she let her looks go after the baby arrived. What's the story? — J.L.

A: Yes, Kasem is married to a younger woman. And yes, the couple recently had a child — their first, named Liberty. But, no, Mrs. Kasem hasn't let her looks go. I spotted the couple recently dining at a fancy Hollywood restaurant. Jean Kasem looked as glamorous and well-endowed as ever. Even Casey looked pretty good.

Q: In a recent column you mentioned that Burt Lancaster could not appear in the movie "Old Gringo" because the insurance company would not insure him. You said Jane Fonda and the rest of the cast offered to put up their salaries as collateral. Has this ever happened before? — D.L.

A: Yes. Jane Fonda and Katharine Hepburn in "On Golden Pond" put up their salaries so Jane's father Henry Fonda, who was not well then, could star.

Q: Does Clint Eastwood have children? And also, what happened to his plans for running for governor of California? — T.A.

A: Clint has two children. His son Kyle has been playing bass guitar with a band since graduating from college and his daughter Allison just graduated from high school. Eastwood says it was a group of California Republicans who were urging him to run for governor. However, he felt that he neglected his children during the two years he was mayor of Carmel and also, he says, "My sole obsession is to make movies."

Q: We hear that after all these years, Esther Williams will get into a bathing suit once again and make another Hollywood movie. Can that be true? — M.R.

A: Esther, 67, was around the cameras in Hollywood recently, but she wasn't making a movie you'll see on TV or in the theaters. It was a promotion for the catalogue featuring the new Esther Williams swimwear line. Esther was behind the cameras: former Miss America Courtney Gibbs was front and center. Some of the suits remind Williams, naturally enough, of the kinds of things she wore in those great bathing beauty flicks of the '40s and '50s. "The studio made me famous back then, and I'm enjoying it now," Esther told me.

STRONG IDEAS: In addition to her aversion to "The Star-Spangled Banner," opinionated singer Sinead O'Connor has some definite notions about food. O'Connor threw a birthday party for her 3-year-old son, but since she doesn't believe in sweets for children, the menu consisted of tuna fish, celery sticks, and sugarless carrot cake for 12 disgruntled children.

Q: Who are the major Hollywood personalities who do not have stars on the Hollywood Walk of Fame? — T.T.

Behind the swimsuit scenes are Clint Eastwood, Paul Newman, Robert Redford, Jack Nicholson, Robert DeNiro, Dustin Hoffman and Warren Beatty.

Q: As a teacher in a nearly all-black school I'm interested in introducing my students, since they all watch television, to blacks who work behind the scenes in TV. Can you tell me who they are? The kids all know about Bill Cosby, Bryant Gumbel, Oprah and Arsenio. — M.P.

A: A growing number of African-Americans have made an impact on television because of their behind-the-scenes talent. These include Thomas Carter, executive producer of the ABC series, "Equal Justice"; Michael Moya, executive producer of Fox's "Married...With Children"; and Suzanne de Passe, president of Motown Productions, which made the critically acclaimed miniseries "Lonesome Dove." They will soon be joined by Quincy Jones, who will serve as executive producer of two of the most talked about upcoming shows, "Fresh Prince of Bel-Air" and "Voices of America with Jesse Jackson." In addition, Jones is the owner of a TV station in New Orleans.

Fontaine could be the boost soap needs

By John N. Goudes

General Hospital—Hoot along in the number two ratings slot just behind "The Young and the Restless." A small boost is required for the show to be king of the mountain again in the afternoon.

The answer just might be "General Hospital's" new Hispanic storyline, a long overdue attempt to tap the huge Hispanic audience. Step number one was the appearance of beautiful Laura Herring, the first Hispanic Miss USA of 1985. As Carla, love interest for Colton, Laura must learn the acting business on camera so boss Joe Hardy signed New York's Robert Fontaine to play Frankie Greco alongside Carla.

Watching handsome, skillful Fontaine in action, it appears the soap may have stumbled onto a new Hispanic matinee idol. Fontaine could be "General Hospital's" main attraction this fall.

The trick is to write Fontaine's Frankie, bring out his emotions, avoid the path of villains. At first, the soap's writers weren't sure which way to play Frankie. The actor had to provide the clues. Schooled in the New York theater, Fontaine holds the eye with his presence. He's a sensitive Frankie, so different from the usual Hollywood macho Latin image.

Fontaine knows this is the place to be, yet his heart belongs to the theater and his native Bay Bridge neighborhood in Brooklyn. Since the age of 14, Robert has been smitten with the theater. His heroes are Chekhov, Strindberg, Pinter and his favorite—O'Neill. When he describes the hunt for strict acting coaches and how to "smell them out," Fontaine can be most ingratiating.

He's a Brooklyn kid without an accent, in love with his work, used to six- and eight-month layoffs between theater jobs, but determined to hold on.

As for opinions of L.A., a lonely town, and the soap business, Fontaine keeps it to himself, allowing surprise over local casting requirements where beauty often takes precedence over training.

At the moment, Fontaine is showing Mom the sights; exposing her to crazy, exhibitionist Venice, Calif.

Robert Fontaine plays Frankie Greco on "General Hospital."

It's so different from the Fontaine neighborhood in Brooklyn where the actor intends to live out his days.

"It's peaceful, serene, nothing has changed in 40 years," says Robert. "In my neighborhood you don't leave. You stay and you raise your family. We're very tight-knit and secure, and I love it."

Does that sound like a new Hispanic hero? It shows a bit of the actor's emotional core. With a little care and help from the staff writing staff, Robert Fontaine could be a ground-breaker. Tune in - you won't be disappointed.

CHANNEL CHATTER

Most soap opera actors don't know what their character will be doing a few weeks hence. However, Gillian Spencer, who writes for ABC's "All My Children" and recently returned to Pine Valley, resurrecting her character Daisy Cortlandt, is the exception. Gillian probably knows what's in store for Palmer and many of the other residents of Pine Valley, but she's not talking. Although Daisy is leaving town (see Plot Portents) she will continue shaping the destiny of the other characters as part of the writing staff.

For the record, Gillian began her soap opera career as an actress in "Secret Storm," appearing later in "The Edge of Night," "As the World Turns," "One Life to Live," "Guiding Light" and "All My Children." As a writer, she has supplied plots for "As the World Turns," "Texans" and currently "All My Children."

Spellings razed the old Bing Crosby house to put up their 57,000 square foot, 123-room house and it looks as though it will finally be completed by Christmas. However, the sultan of Brunei, who seems to collect megabuck houses as a hobby, has shown some interest in buying the place, which the Spellings have reportedly spent nearly $60 million building. As the old real estate bible goes, "Everything is for sale if the price is right." Has anyone told the sultan that locals have dubbed the mansion "the tackiest house in Hollywood?"

Q: Can you tell me something new about that bundle of energy and talent, Paula Abdul? — KA.

A: Abdul, who has achieved almost instant fame as both a choreographer and singer, yearns to follow in Madonna's footsteps and make it on the big screen.

The former Los Angeles Lakers cheerleader is very much involved with Michael Douglas's production company and a script is being developed for her. Abdul, by the way, has one of the best reputations in terms of the way she treats her legions of fans.

She has been known to go out of her way to chat with them when they encounter her on the street outside restaurants in L.A.

Q: Isn't it true that actress Diane Ladd is furious with her daughter because she caught her making a porno movie? — R.P.

A: No question that the latest flick of Laura Dern, Ladd's daughter by actor Bruce Dern, is steamy. It's director David Lynch's quirky

"Wild at Heart," featuring a number of nude love scenes involving Dern and Nicolas Cage. But Ladd is in no position to be miffed. She's also in the movie, and tells me she in no way was shocked at her daughter's on-screen behavior. Off-screen, Dern's boyfriend is director Renny Harlin, who's planning to supervise yet another flick featuring the mother-daughter team.

LIVING IN THE PAST: A while back the ever-glamorous Lana Turner was dining at an Acapulco restaurant. Strolling to the piano bar, she asked the young pianist if he knew "You Stopped Out of a Dream." Lana explained that Tony Martin had sung the song to her in her movie, "Ziegfeld Girl." As he played it, the star sang along, seemingly transported back in time. Later, she added wistfully, "That was my song, you know. It was a very big production number."

Q: I know that great British actress Margaret Lockwood died this summer. How old was she and do you have any idea what she died of? — M.B.

A: Lockwood was 73 and best remembered by American audiences for her role as the frightened heroine in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Lady Vanishes." One of the causes of her death was cirrhosis of the liver, often caused by heavy drinking. Friends say that during most of her life the actress never drank until her live-in lover left her 12 years ago and married a much younger woman. After that, Lockwood became a recluse and they believe she started drinking then.

Q: How old is Brian Bosworth anyway, and how does he get off thinking he's a big-time Hollywood actor? — LP.

A: The 25-year-old Bosworth, the former $11-million pro-football star of the Seattle Seahawks, tells me with a straight face that he's been studying and preparing for his movie debut — in something called "The Brotherhood" — for more than a year. And it's a straightforward action movie. Says the Box: "I've alienated myself from people, sacrificed to make this movie role real, stayed away from my home, my girlfriend (Catherine Nicastro) of 12 years. I work best when I'm not disturbed."

Miss America pageant takes the crown as last week's most watched TV show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — TV coverage of a superpower huddle to discuss the Middle East crisis and a late-summer premiere proved no competition for the Miss America pageant, which was the most watched show on television last week.

Saturday night's crowning of Marjorie, Judith Vincent from Illinois breezed past a CBS update on the Helsinki superpower summit and NBC's debut of "The Fanelli Boys," situation comedy, according to figures released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co.

NBC's live broadcast of the Miss America pageant grabbed a 17.8 average rating, well ahead of the network's "The Golden Girls," which occupied the No. 2 spot with a 15.9 average. Both ratings point represents 931,000 homes.

In the No. 6 slot was Sunday's "60 Minutes," featuring a segment by Dan Rather in Helsinki, where President Bush and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev discussed the Iraq invasion of Kuwait.

Landing in the No. 4 spot was NBC's Saturday night premiere of "The Fanelli Boys," a half-hour program focusing on four Italian

Chancellor is returning

NEW YORK (AP) — John Chancellor, commentator for "NBC Nightly News," has recovered from heart surgery and is returning to the show, the network announced Monday.

Chancellor, who underwent double bypass surgery in late June will make weekly appearances through September, said NBC spokeswoman Katherine McQuay.

"He's reportedly feeling fit, healthy and anxious to return," said Ms. McQuay.

Chancellor, 62, will resume his normal schedule on Oct. 2, with commentaries on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Chancellor began work at NBC in 1950.

Wallace will stay until 'toes turn up'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Wallace, 72, the senior citizen of CBS News' durable "60 Minutes," said Tuesday he'll retire only when he dies — or, as he put it, his "toes turn up."

Wallace, who with Harry Reasoner was on the staff of "60 Minutes" when it began 23 years ago this month, spoke at a breakfast to publicize "Mike Wallace, Then and Now," a CBS News Special. The one-hour program, scheduled for Sept. 26, is a retrospective of his 40-year career in news, of which 31 years have been at CBS.

The program includes old black-and-white clips of his smoke-wreathed "Night Beat" one-on-one series of the mid-1950s. The show, which began on local TV in New York and then appeared on ABC, was responsible for first gaining Wallace fame as a hard-boiled interviewer who rarely gave his subjects any slack.

As a result of one interview on that show, Wallace said, he was sued for libel. Then Los Angeles Police Chief William Parker sued over remarks about him by mobster Mickey Cohen. Wallace said ABC settled the suit for $44,000.

The most publicized lawsuit against him was by retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who sought $120 million for a 1982 "CBS Reports" documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception." Westmoreland dropped the libel lawsuit in February 1985 after a long trial.
