Carpenter Chuck Taylor helps build a three-bedroom house in Twin Falls. City officials say there are more Twin Falls housing units than were counted by the Census Bureau.

Twin Falls officials seeking recount of housing; say census figures low

By Phil Sabm
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls could lose tens of thousands of dollars in sales taxes and possible grant money if the Census Bureau's recent count of city housing units is accurate.

City officials say the count is too low and want a recount. But time grows short.

The bureau's preliminary estimate shows 11,001 housing units in Twin Falls, Community Development Director LaMar Orton said. But the city estimates the total is closer to 11,580 housing units.

The city has issued 836 building permits the past 10 years. Another 171 properties have been annexed since 1986, Orton said. Yet census data show the number of housing units in the city rose only 428 the past decade, a difference of 382 units.

Some building permits were issued in the area of impact, the territory surrounding the city which, under Idaho law, is partially controlled by city laws. But Orton said permits within the city limits probably exceed 500 the past decade.

Pinningpoint where the difference between the federal and city estimates arose would be difficult. But a likely place is the periphery of the city limits, where there has been a lot of development, Orton said.

The city will send out workers the next few weeks to count houses on individual blocks. If the city can gather conclusive information about specific block numbers in the next couple of weeks, the Census Bureau might re-count the area.

"We don't have much time," Orton said.

When the city received the preliminary data, it was given two weeks to contest the results with specific information, such as particular blocks where the count was inaccurate. The city could not get specific information within that time, so Orton sent a letter asking for an extension.

The extension was refused. However, if Twin Falls can get information into the bureau within the next couple of weeks, the bureau might grant a recount, said

Living costs creeping up in Twin Falls

By Craig Lincoln
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Living expenses in Twin Falls are slowly creeping up toward the national average — but the town still is the 33rd lowest in the nation.

Overall living costs in Twin Falls were 91.4 percent of the national average during the second quarter of this year. Utilities, at 72.6 percent of the national average, and housing, at 81 percent, remained the best bargains in Twin Falls.

Every six months, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association compiles cost of living data from cities throughout the country. The study is designed to collect data on a mid-management lifestyle, and this time the chamber surveyed 295 cities.

The survey doesn't measure tax rates.

The only other cities in Idaho surveyed were Boise, which came in at a 97.1 percent, and Pocatello, which recorded a 91.6 percent.

'Mommy, I love you,' are dying girl's last words

The Associated Press

Twelve-year-old Lisette Rodriguez insisted she had to go to church in the "middle of the night."

At 2 a.m. Tuesday, her nurse, Holly Popovich, dressed her and drove her to the St. Elizabeth's Hospital chapel in Elizabeth, N.J.

Lisette prayed for her life for 20 minutes. "God, please help me, please help me," she implored. "I don't want to be like this. I'm scared. I don't want to die. I want to live."

Sandy, as she is nicknamed, saw her nurse crying at her side. In tears herself, she told Ms. Popovich not to cry.

She carried with her from the church a book, "Christ The King," and a cup of holy water.

After church, there was one more stop — an all-night supermarket. Sandy bought some gum, candy and a Mickey Mouse book.

Back at her home in Elizabeth, she gave the religious book to the woman she called her mother, Carmen Candelaria, who is really her aunt. Sandy blessed her with the holy water. "Mommy, I love you," she said.

She fought sleep because it represented a death that struck her until she finally slipped away shortly after 9 a.m. Barely 12 years old, she was another victim of AIDS, one of the more than 1,300 children who have died in the United States.

Sandy was born four weeks prematurely in New York City. Mrs. Candelaria took Sandy from her own sister when she was born because the sister was unable to care for her. Sandy contracted AIDS through a blood transfusion needed because of her early birth.

The girl's mother died two years ago at age 41, after mixing Valium and alcohol at a party, Mrs. Candelaria said. She knows nothing about Sandy's father.

Fun, not fuel economy drives American car buyers

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Janice Walsh was eager to take the Nissan 300ZX for a test drive.

"Like many potential buyers, she wants a car that's fun, regardless of its gas mileage. Automakers are giving her what she wants."

mileage statistics for 1991 model cars released Tuesday by the Environmental Protection Agency show virtually no gains in average fuel efficiency since 1987 with more than half the cars getting fewer than 23 miles per gallon.

Best, worst cars '87

While midsize and many of the "performance" cars such as the Nissan 300ZX are getting much better mileage today than they did, the EPA said, overall fleet fuel economy figures have increased only slightly since 1987.

Over the last five model years, the average fleet figures have been stuck around 28 mpg. The EPA said the 1991 models are about to be introduced average 28.1 mpg, a shade higher than last year, but no better.

figures for 1987.

Even the segment where Ms. Walsh and her young son eyed the Nissan that gets 18 mpg in the city, John Webb and his wife looked over a Mercury Grand Marquis — a big car with a V-8 engine and a cavernous trunk.

"When we travel we want a good size car and lots of trunk space," said Webb, a teacher with the Marcus fish-bill although its city mileage is a thirsty 17 mpg.

"We really haven't talked about mileage," Webb said.

The Persian Gulf crisis has prompted renewed efforts in Congress to require au-

Saddam message cites war horrors

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said in a message to Americans broadcast Tuesday that President Bush was sending their sons to a war more terrible than Vietnam.

Saddam's 45-minute address taped last week warned that if Bush were to launch war against Iraq, "it would not be up to him to end it."

Sitting at his desk with an Iraqi flag at his side, Saddam said he was addressing his message to the American people to explain the truth behind Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

The rambling address peppered with references to Allah and his teachings, repeatedly accused Bush and Kuwait's rulers of plotting to impoverish his country and steal its oil.

Bush is "placing you in a critically embarrassing situation... on the edge of a bottomless abyss," by defending undemocratic governments like those of Kuwait, Saddam said.

"Bush, ladies and gentlemen, is sending your sons to war for no purpose save fatal arrogance."

Saddam spoke in Arabic. His remarks were translated with English subtitles supplied by Iraqi authorities.

"Bush wants to bring back the sorrows of America and humanity by repeating the Vietnam experience, only this time in a more radical manner and more violent and more casual," Saddam said.

$40-oil would hit consumer wallets hard

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — As crude oil approaches $40 per barrel, some analysts say consumers should enjoy $1.35-a-gallon gasoline while they can.

Gas prices are likely to go up, perhaps even beyond $2 per gallon, if a shooting war breaks out in the Persian Gulf, experts said Tuesday. And if oil should stay high for a sustained period, the fallout will be widespread, running up the cost of practically everything while slowing economic growth.

"This is not good news for the come summer," said Peter Beutel, an oil analyst with Pegasus Economic Group Inc. in Hoboken, N.J. "The problem with energy is it permeates the economy like a ripple in a pond. It's not just the price of heating oil and gasoline."

Not all analysts believe oil will stay as high as it is. They say that too much war hysteria may have been built into the market. That Iraq's ability to take out Saudi Arabian oil facilities may be overestimated, and that replacing a bombed oil well is much simpler than replacing a bombed factory.

Others, including Beutel, say $40 barrels of oil seem inevitable in the near future. Some estimates have put oil at $60 to $65 during a war.

Oil prices have climbed steadily since early invaded Kuwait last month. Saddam Hussein's saber-rattling this week put them less than $1 away from the ominous $40.

Utah, Idaho school expenditures per student are lowest in nation

NEW YORK (AP) — New Jersey, in the midst of a heated taxpayer-battle-over-school-finance, spent the most per pupil on average of any state last school year — $8,439, according to an annual teacher union survey.

Utah spent the least per pupil in 1989-90 — $2,733, according to the National Education Association's "Rankings of the States, 1990," due for release later this week.

And Idaho ranked 50th on that list, spending $3,037 per pupil, up from $2,935 the previous year. In addition, Idaho's average teacher salary ranked 49th at $23,861, up from $22,734 the year before.

Nationwide, estimated spending per pupil averaged $4,890 in 1989-90, up from $4,607 the previous year, according to the report.

Spending per pupil actually declined in two states: in North Dakota, where it fell to $3,581 in 1989-90 from $3,582 the year before, and in Montana, where spending dropped to $4,147 from $4,176.

In North Dakota, a voter referendum last December repealed three previously approved tax increases.

Among other findings, teacher salaries nationwide averaged $31,166 in 1989-90, compared with $29,570 the previous year, according to the NEA.

Average teacher salaries by state

  50. Arkansas, $22,009, $21,395
  51. South Dakota, $21,300, $20,330

Alaska, with its high cost of living, paid teachers the most on average — $43,153. South Dakota teachers ranked last: $21,300.

Connecticut's teachers got the biggest year-to-year pay boost last year, an 11.5 percent second nationally. Average pay was $40,461 in 1989-90, up $3,000 from $37,343 a year earlier.

Educators differ on whether more spending necessarily means superior schools.

Will Myers, a school finance consultant who helped compile the annual NEA statistics, said per pupil spending correlates closely to average class size.

Utah had the highest pupil-to-teacher ratio in 1989-90: 23.6. New Jersey's ratio was 13.4, third lowest among the states for which such statistics were available. Other factors accounting for state-to-state spending disparities include how homogeneous the student population is and the cost of living in a given state.

"Most of the research that deals with spending versus school performance indicates that family background is pretty important. When you have a heterogeneous population, you probably have a more difficult job bringing students to the same educational level than when you have a homogeneous population," Myers said in an interview Tuesday.

"Utah and New Jersey are in sharp contrast in that respect."

The survey is based on statistics compiled annually from state departments of education. The data is regarded as among the most reliable of its kind by education researchers.

Economy reaches standstill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy nearly came to a standstill in the second quarter, ending up a feeble annual rate of 0.4 percent, the government said Tuesday.

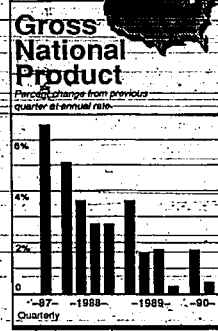

Many of the nation's top economists believe a recession is imminent — if not under way already.

While White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said "we don't believe we are in a recession right now," he acknowledged the latest Commerce Department report on the gross national product "is certainly good for concern. It's not good news."

The department's revised report on the GNP — the nation's total output of goods and services — was the lowest since a 0.3 percent rate during the last quarter of 1989 and showed the economy weakening even before the Persian Gulf crisis.

"The economy was headed toward a recession before Iraq, and Iraq was just the nail in the coffin," said Allen Sinai, chief economist for the Boston Co. A recession "seems inescapable," he said.

Surveys following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait — and the subsequent oil-price spike — showed many top economists forecasting an recession — already has begun or will begin — in the fourth quarter of 1990 or the first quarter of 1991.

And half of the top economists surveyed each month by Blue Chip Economic Indicators — now believe the economy will enter a recession this year.

The department originally had estimated the economy grew at a 1.2 percent rate from April through June, after advances of 1.7 percent in the first quarter and 2.5 percent in 1989 and 4.5 percent in 1988.

But it said Tuesday that more complete data showed weaker net exports and lower inventory accumulation than first thought.

The new data showed net exports declining by $9.2 billion rather than $4.5 billion, and inventories totaling $19.8 billion, not $22.4 billion.

Consumer spending, which represents two-thirds of the nation's economic activity, rose just 0.2 percent, down from 1.1 percent in the first quarter. Business investment fell 4.7 percent after a 5 percent gain from January through March.

Trailing construction plunged 11.2 percent after advancing 15.1 percent in the first quarter. Government spending rose 6.2 percent, but most of that was by the federal government.

Nation Census said to be lacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Census workers missed six dormitories at Indiana University, showed 200,000 people leaving Mississippi in the last 10 years and marked houses vacant if no one answered the door, members of Congress said Tuesday.

Rep. Frank McCloskey, D-Ind., said omission of the 7,000 students in dormitories on the Bloomington, Ind., campus "has to take the blue ribbon for census oversight sweepstakes."

He said Bloomington Mayor Tomi Allison also told him that about 900 housing units in the city are missing from preliminary census figures.

Indiana narrowly lost a congressional seat as a result of the 1980 census, McCloskey said. "Although that does not appear likely to occur in 1990, there are concerns about lost tax revenues that will result due to undercount."

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., said Monroe, Mich., has similar problems.

According to census reports, 389 Monroe houses and apartments are vacant, though city officials say there are only 41 units without residents, Dingell said.

He said census workers apparently listed vacancies for houses whose inhabitants were out of town.

"Michigan has a long winter and many permanent residents are away from home during the early spring," Dingell said.

Rep. Arthur Ravenel Jr., R-S.C., who represents Charleston County, said Hurricane Hugo caused many of his constituents to be displaced and uncouned.

"What is unfortunate and unacceptable is that an area devastated by a once in a century event like this hurricane, must be hurried through a bureaucratic process that will determine to a large extent the future of its economic aid," he said.

Rep. Mike Repy, D-Miss., said the count of his state doesn't make any sense.

If one counted births minus deaths to calculate the natural increase of population in Mississippi, there would be an overall population increase of 215,000 since 1980, Espy said.

But census workers counted only 13,814 additional residents over the last 10 years, which means more than 200,000 residents must have moved, he said.

"There are currently 127,000 more Mississippians employed today than in 1980," Espy said. "It is difficult to understand how the work force could increase by 127,000 if the overall population increased by only 13,800."

The lawmakers' comments and those of several mayors came at a hearing of the House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee on the census overseing the Census Bureau's post-census local review program.

Subcommittee chairman Thomas Sawyer, D-Ohio, said the bureau expects to add several million people to the preliminary total of 245,837,681 people counted so far in the United States, but he's concerned too many people still may be uncouned.

Local officials said the 15 days they were given to challenge the bureau's preliminary findings wasn't long enough.

But Barbara Everitt Bryant, director of the Census Bureau, said a strict deadline had to be met to comply with federal law, which requires the president to have the population count by Dec. 31.

Furthermore, the post-census review must be completed in time for the commerce secretary to decide by July 15, 1991, whether the census should be adjusted.

"We have heard some people claim the census was a disaster," Bryant said. "Making such statements is at best premature, and at worst misleading and potentially mischievous."

Nearly all foods pass FDA pesticide residue tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ninety-five percent of U.S.-produced foods and 96 percent of imported foods tested last year met government standards for pesticide residues, the Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday.

The level of violations was about the same as for the three previous years, the agency said.

Group called the FDA's assessment "an outrageous distortion." Rick Hind, environmental program director for the group, said that some of the sample sizes were too small to be meaningful.

Help us celebrate our 100th anniversary by winning trips, shopping sprees, a 35" television and more.

In 1898, our founder, Edward Nordhoff, returning from his first buying trip East, brought sacks of pennies to Seattle. Pennies had not been a part of Seattle's economy until Nordhoff introduced them. All change had been given to the nearest nickel. He advertised merchandise with prices such as 19 cents, 29 cents and 49 cents. People would walk for blocks out of their way to take advantage of these savings.

Briefly

Pilot faces attempted-murder charge

HAMBURG, West Germany — Mathias Rust, the young West German pilot who stunned the world by landing a small plane on Moscow's Red Square, has been charged with attempted murder, authorities said Tuesday.

Rust, 22, was charged in the November 1989 stabbing of a nurse in a Hamburg hospital, said an official of the Hamburg prosecutor's office.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Rust was charged at the beginning of the month. Rust allegedly stabbed the nurse after she fended off his attempts to kiss her. He was held briefly in custody, then released on bail.

Bhutto, opponents begin campaigns

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Ousted Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto and her political foes launched campaigns Tuesday for next month's elections, which are seen as a forum on whether her government was wrongly dismissed.

Ms. Bhutto's 20-month-old government was forced out Aug. 6 on charges of corruption, incompetence and abuse of power. She has been ordered to stand trial next week before a special one-judge court in the eastern city of Lahore on charges of corruption and misconduct.

Typhoon kills 18, leaves 11 missing

BANGKOK, Thailand — A typhoon that struck two Vietnamese provinces "unleashed" or swept away more than 140,000 homes and left 18 people dead and 11 missing, the official Radio Hanoi said.

The broadcast was an update on the destruction of Typhoon Ed, which hit the coastal provinces of Quang Nam-Danang and Quang Tri on Sept. 18. A transcript of the Saturday broadcast was seen in Bangkok on Tuesday.

Australian tour bus crash kills 7

BRISBANE, Australia — A tour bus crashed over a cliff in the Mount Tamborine area Tuesday, killing seven people and injuring at least 35, some seriously, authorities said.

The bus was carrying 54 senior citizens believed to be from New South Wales state, police said. It came to rest halfway down the mountain.

U.S. checks passports in London

LONDON — U.S. immigration officers began checking passports Tuesday at London's Heathrow and Gatwick airports in an effort to reduce long delays clearing customs in the United States, the U.S. Embassy said.

The 45 officers will check travel documents on this side of the Atlantic for four months as part of an experimental program.

A record number of tourists to the United States has resulted in routine delays of two hours at busy U.S. airports and waits of up to five hours for some flights have been reported.

KGB foils attempt at hijacking plane

MOSCOW — A special KGB team foiled an attempt to hijack an airplane by a man who claimed to have a bomb hidden in his briefcase, the state news agency Tass reported Tuesday.

It was the latest in a spate of Soviet hijackings and hijack attempts, most involving the diversion of flights to Nordic countries.

The would-be hijacker, Grigory Polyakov, 53, boarded the flight from Leningrad to the White Sea port of Arkhangelsk on Monday night and tried to divert it to Stockholm, Sweden, the report said.

Preparing for unification, workers test a huge German flag in West Berlin.

Leader: Unification is daunting

EAST BERLIN (AP) — The last leader of a sovereign East Germany said Tuesday, his people are truly afraid as they prepare to join the competitive, free-thinking and robust society next door.

Lothar de Maiziere, in a wide-ranging talk with The Associated Press board, said his nation's 16 million people will need help to thrive in a new world based on initiative and free enterprise.

He said East Germans, forced to live in a Communist society for four decades, have grown accustomed to a life in which their futures — and their jobs — were largely preordained by the government.

Although most East Germans desperately desire the German unification that takes place Oct. 3, de Maiziere said they realize they will be expected to take control of their individual destinies.

"The future in the past meant the future prescribed by the Politburo," he said. "Now, the people see their future is not a prescribed time, but a free time. This is something people did not learn, and they are afraid of that."

He said the government of a unified Germany must have a "strong social consciousness" to help East Germans make the transition and avoid becoming a second-class population.

De Maiziere, a 50-year-old lawyer with four wives in West Germany, said he has made no decision on whether to accept one of the four new Cabinet posts that will be filled by East Germans in the newly expanded government of West Germany.

He credited President Bush, former President Reagan and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev for creating the political climate that made German unity possible.

He defended his people, who critics say will be bringing nothing to a united Germany but debts, social problems, a questionable work ethic and a crumbling economy.

He said East Germans did not choose their system, which was imposed by the Soviets and remains a legacy of the war started by the Nazis. The nation, de Maiziere said, is part of German history and the cradle of the culture that gave the world Bach, Goethe and Handel.

He also said he hoped for a political solution in the Persian Gulf crisis, and believes a united Germany will refute critics who say it is too preoccupied with itself to assume a role of global leadership.

He credited President Bush, former President Reagan and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev for creating the political climate that made German unity possible.

Adviser says Gorbachev needs powers

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev needed sweeping new powers to quickly carry out economic reforms, not to introduce a "state of siege," his economic adviser said Tuesday.

Nikolai Petrakov, fended off charges that Gorbachev was amassing too much power.

The Supreme Soviet parliament voted overwhelmingly Monday to give Gorbachev broad authority to order the switch to a market economy without consulting legislators every step of the way. Dissenting lawmakers said the special powers would make Gorbachev a virtual monarch, despite his vow to act responsibly.

The resolution permits Gorbachev to issue broad presidential decrees for the next 18 months.

Replacement for Moon hard to find

BOISE — With Idaho's general election less than six weeks away, it would be almost impossible for a substitute to step in to replace ailing Democratic Party treasurer candidate Marjorie Ruth Moon, the party chairman says.

"Realistically, it would be very tough" for a new candidate to replace Moon and mount a statewide campaign so close to the Nov. 6 general election, Conley Ward said at a news conference Tuesday.

Moon, who was state treasurer for 24 years, is trying for a political comeback against Republican Treasurer Lydia Justice Edwards.

Fertilizer plant still spewing smoke

POCATELLO — Smoke continued spewing from the FMC Corp. phosphate fertilizer plant west of Pocatello beyond a state deadline for the company to resume using a pollution-control unit taken down for maintenance.

FMC received the Idaho Air Quality Bureau's permission to shut down its secondary condenser from midnight Sunday to midnight Monday. The condenser turns carbon monoxide — a byproduct of the process of drying elemental phosphorus in huge electric furnaces — from a gas into a liquid.

Officials agree on sharing dam costs

BOISE — State and federal officials have agreed to share the costs of shoring up an old wooden dam at the Elmore County mining town of Atlanta.

The price tag: about $200,000 to $300,000, depending on contractors' bids.

Residents of Atlanta have agreed to pay the highest power rates in the state to help fund a portion of the project. They should have electricity this winter, the dam is the sole source of power for the town.

Boise National Forest officials will advertise for bids at the beginning of next week.

Potlatch mill escapes dioxin citation

LEWISTON — The Environmental Protection Agency says the cancer risk from dioxin concentrations in wastewater from Potlatch Corp.'s Lewiston pulp operation two years ago ranked below other Northwest mills.

The EPA's calculations, based on 1988 wastewater samples, showed the Potlatch mill's effluent posed a lifetime cancer risk of seven cases per million residents.

The federal agency announced Monday that it had cited five pulp mills in Washington state and one in Alaska for posing elevated cancer risks. Twenty were cited nationally, but none were operated by Potlatch.

Boisean honored as 'Point of Light'

WASHINGTON — Boisean Jesse Berain was on hand in Washington, D.C., as President Bush pledged excellent educational possibilities for all Hispanic Americans.

Berain, who in the spring became the 94th of Bush's "Thousand Points of Light" and the first Hispanic to receive the distinction, said his first trip to the White House on Monday was memorable.

"I was excited, humbled," Berain, 62, said. "It's an honor."

He was one of three "Points of Light" Bush recognized during a South Lawn ceremony attended by about 1,000 people.

Orofino officials dispute census results

LEWISTON — Orofino city officials are infuriated about a U.S. Census Bureau preliminary count that shows their community losing nearly 24 percent of its population since 1980.

"We think that's absolutely ridiculous," Mayor Paul Decelle said. "We found some immediate, real glaring errors in it."

The report put Orofino's population at 7,286, down 875 or 23.5 percent from its 1980 total of 7,111, he said.

The census numbers do not square with municipal water records, registered voting lists or the current real estate picture, he said.

Special compactor planned for INEL waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Cecil Andrus says the Bush administration plans to build a specialized waste compactor at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory to begin reducing the volume of radioactive and hazardous waste stored there.

Following a meeting with administration officials in Washington on Tuesday, Andrus also said he and other governors from Nevada, South Dakota and New Mexico were told the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant in New Mexico would begin accepting waste for test storage either late this year or early in 1991.

It was just the latest date for beginning operations at the permanent repository for low-level nuclear waste that the government has been promising to open for nearly two decades.

"That's another target," admitted Andrus, who two years ago refused to accept any more waste from outside the state for temporary storage at INEL. "But we're getting closer."

Critics have opposed opening the facility on grounds that burial of the waste is not the solution and would only create serious hazards in transporting the waste from throughout the nation. They have called for major research to find alternative disposal methods.

The delegation of Western governors, meeting with White House Chief of Staff John Sununu and officials from the Energy Department, Environmental Protection Agency and the Office of Management and Budget, made it clear neither the West will not be the nation's waste dump.

"We told them the western governors, Republican and Democrat alike, are not going to be a party to policies that make us the dumping ground of the nation," Andrus said. "Whether they agree or not, they've heard the message. To quote the president, 'That's not a boast. That's not a threat. It's a fact.'"

Andrus said the question of compensation for New Mexico to handle problems created by the permanent depository had been settled and EPA Chief William Reilly assured him that the required environmental permit to begin testing the underground waste disposal facility would be issued within the next two weeks.

That leaves only legislation transferring the dump site to Department of Energy control standing in the way of testing the facility, with actual waste deposits, and that bill has been held up in Congress until after the November election.

Western governors oppose waste-dumping plans

CARSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Bob Miller said he and governors of South Dakota, Idaho and New Mexico told federal officials Tuesday to stop targeting them for nuclear waste dumps.

"In waste management, whether low-level or high-level, the government has drawn a bulls eye over the intermountain West and suggested that's the solution to everything," Miller said after two meetings in Washington, D.C.

"Much of that has been done without any dialogue with the states," Miller added in a telephone interview. "We are united in our opposition to this formula."

Miller said he and governors of the other three states "feel it's imperative that we have ongoing discussions in advance of final decisions with a combination of representatives of the Dept. of Energy, Department of Defense, Environmental Protection Agency and other federal agencies."

He added the governors found "some receptiveness" from EPA Director William Reilly, top DOE aide Leo Duffy and other federal agency and White House representatives at the meetings.

Miller also said he told the official Nevada will continue to fight the DOE plan for a high-level nuclear storage dump at Yucca Mountain in a remote desert area north of Las Vegas.

The governor said Duffy stated that the DOE may ask Congress next year to pursue a different storage plan in view of the delays the Yucca Mountain project has encountered.

"We hope they will leave us out," Miller said. "My point is, you just can't look to Nevada for everything."

The governor said Bob Griffith of the Office of Management and Budget said at one point that the DOE was only responding to Congress in pushing the Yucca Mountain project.

But Miller said he countered that the DOE was as responsible as Congress for getting the politicians on nuclear waste storage.

The Nevada governor also said he would favor a U.S. Supreme Court appeal of last week's 9th Circuit Court of Appeals decision to let the federal government continue to examine Yucca Mountain as a possible dump site.

Miller said, however, that he still must discuss the strategy with Attorney General Brian McKay.

McDevitt sees gulf crisis helping campaign

By Michelle Cole
Times-News writer

McDevitt

TWIN FALLS — Although political pundits nationwide predict the Middle East crisis will give the election-year advantage to incumbents, Republican Sen. Ed McDevitt says events in the Persian Gulf may help his 2nd District congressional campaign.

"During times of danger, voters look for stability and experience, and that works to incumbents' advantage," Democratic strategist Peter Hart told the Associated Press last week.

McDevitt's Democratic opponent, incumbent Rep. Richard Stallings, worked as a college history professor before he was elected to the House in 1984.

But, in an interview Monday, McDevitt said Idaho voters may decide it's important to elect someone with a military background not only to offer perspective on the current crisis, but to lend expertise in military spending decisions.

"We need to protect Mountain Home (Air Force Base) and make sure that stays open," McDevitt said.

McDevitt, 27, has focused on his military experience throughout his campaign. He is a 1985 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point and participated in the Panama invasion before mustering out of the military last December. His wife, Rebecca, is a military nurse who will probably be dispatched to the Middle East within the next three weeks.

An Army reservist, McDevitt himself could face Persian Gulf duty. He said his unit has not yet been activated.

"At the same time that the Middle East crisis helps spotlight McDevitt's military training, the candidate worries that Stallings will try to use the Persian Gulf to throw a smokescreen on the real issues" — such as the burgeoning budget deficit and impending across-the-board cuts under the Gramm-Rudman sequestration requirement.

"I think it's very unfortunate that sequestration has to happen," McDevitt said. "It just shows that Congress doesn't have fiscal responsibility."

During a speech to the Twin Falls County Republican Women, McDevitt advocated a constitutional amendment mandating a balanced budget.

The social Security trust fund should be set aside and not used to mask the deficit, he said.

Instead, McDevitt said members of Congress should hold the line on their own pay raises, end congressional franking privileges and cut all federal aid — except when natural disasters occur, such as earthquakes.

"It's unfortunate that there's suffering," he said. "But first we have to take care of us first."

McDevitt said he is also concerned that Idaho has no representative in Washington who is fighting to keep the sugar program in tact.

"Now the administration is bowing under and the president has dropped the price of sugar 2 cents," he said.

But Stallings spokesman Ted Sullivan said McDevitt is incorrect.

The president cannot "legally" cut domestic sugar supports, Sullivan said. Last week the administration did pass a resolution in an attempt to comply with international trade rules. That proposal reduces barriers to sugar imports and replaces those barriers with a 16 cent-per-pound tariff.

The 1990 Farm Bill, which was sent to a congressional conference committee last week, retained U.S. sugar price supports at 18 cents.

Stallings opposes Bear River hydro project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard Stallings says he is urging the director of the Idaho Department of Water Resources to reject a water application for the proposed Bear River hydro project.

It would be located at the mouth of the Oneida Narrows near Preston.

The dam would create a reservoir that would flood about 360 acres of land now used for fishing, hiking and other outdoor activities.

Stallings said he shares the concerns of many Idahoans upset over the impact the dam would have.

Interest groups say McClure takes polluters' funds

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Republican Sen. James McClure is one of 10 senators who have taken substantial sums from political contributors who oppose clean air legislation, environmental organizations said Monday.

U.S. Public Citizen Research Group and Public Citizen studied "dirty air" contributions between 1981 and April of this year, hoping to spur Congress to pass a revised Clean Air Act this session. A conference committee of House and Senate members is negotiating the final version of the bill.

The Clean Air Act has not been revised since 1977. Opponents of proposed changes say small businesses like dry cleaning operations would be forced to spend inordinate sums to conform with chemical storage requirements.

Critics of the reforms also maintain thousands of employees in the coal and timber industries, for example, would be out of work as the two fuels are perceived as increasingly polluting.

Public Citizen, founded by environmental advocate Ralph Nader, and U.S. PIRG say the contributions they analyzed indicate the system of political contributions must be revamped, because money from industry has influenced how senators and House members vote on clean air issues.

The so-called "dirty air" organizations scrutinized were the National Auto Dealers Association, United Mine Workers' Atlantic Richfield, General Motors, Chrysler Corporation, LTV Aerospace, Peabody Coal, Mapco and Bethlehem Steel. The companies contributed more than $28.3 million to politicians since 1981.

The compilation shows McClure got $42,775 during the nine-year period, placing him eighth in the groups' top 10 list. And based on five-year data, McClure took more than 20 percent of the time.

H.D. Palmer, McClure's spokesman, said the senator does not deserve the anti-environmental rating, but added he is not surprised by it.

"This is another special interest group with another ax to grind," Palmer said. "Groups like Public Citizen and PIRG fall short of the mark as far as getting the facts right."

Sen. Steve Symms, also a Republican, got $95,250 in contributions in the nine years.

Symms aide Dave Pearson also blasted the survey, saying the groups have targeted Symms before.

"In 1986, U.S. PIRG attacked Symms for taking money from Unocal, the second largest fertilizer manufacturer in Idaho," Pearson said. "And the senator will continue to support coal interests because he thinks coal is an important alternative to foreign oil."

Senators getting more than McClure, according to the analysis were: Phil Gramm, R-Texas, $261,090; Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, $254,302; Bennett Johnston, D-La., $240,720; Pete Wilson, D-Calif., $190,886; Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., $182,275; John Warner, R-Va., $153,637; and Pete Domenici, R-NM, $149,350.

But the compilation indicates the contributions may not have affected the way the senators voted. Wilson, for example, was listed as having voted "correctly" 100 percent of the time.

Rounding out the top 10 were Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and John Danforth, R-Mo., both given zero ratings for their environmental votes.

Leaders say suit may up school funds

By Anita Dennis

TWIN FALLS — The next Twin Falls police officer may be a cocker spaniel, a Labrador retriever or a poodle.

The Twin Falls Outrigger Club on Tuesday presented the city police, with $5,300 toward the cost of recruiting a drug-sniffing dog to join the force.

"With the drug problem in the city and surrounding areas, this is a good way to benefit the youth community," said the club's president, David Marsh.

The club has been raising funds for a year, ever since Paul Du Fresne, the city's police and fire chief, told them of the need, Marsh said.

"The money will pay for the dog itself and for a city officer to go to a school to learn to be its handler, Du Fresne said.

"We hope by the first of the year, we'll be ready to go," Du Fresne said.

Now that the money's available, the department can choose a school, which provides a partially trained dog. A city officer, as yet unchosen, will go to the school and work with the dog until they're successfully cross-trained, as it were," Du Fresne said.

He said the upkeep costs for the dog — food and veterinary care — will be minimal because some services might be donated. The police will budget money to cover necessary expenses, though, he said.

The dog needs a good nose, not an aggressive personality, so it could be a Labrador retriever, cocker spaniel or even a poodle," Du Fresne said.

This will make a total of four dogs helping law enforcement in the Magic Valley.

Marsh said he has a dog in the Cassia County Sheriff's Office. The Magic Valley Drug Task Force also has a dog, Bridger, who is handled and kept by a special deputy for the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office, Pat Touchette.

BLACK WALNUT CAKE
2 cups sifted flour (preferably cake flour)
1/2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder

1/2 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup ice water
2/3 teaspoon cream of tartar
Frosting ingredients:
1/2 cup butter
2 1/2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk

First for the cake, get out a 10-inch tube-cake-pan. Don't grease it. Preheat your oven to 325 degrees. Sift the flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and spices...

In a separate bowl add the cream of tartar to the egg whites and beat them until they form stiff peaks. Now pour the egg yolk mixture over the beaten egg whites and gently fold together.

To make frosting, blend the butter with flour and salt in a saucepan and cook 1 minute over medium to medium-low heat, do not allow to brown.

CABERNET STEAK SAUCE
3 shallots, minced (could use 6 green onions, mostly white part)
1 1/2 tablespoons unsalted butter or good grade olive oil
1 cup cabernet sauvignon wine
1/2 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup beef stock (consomme canned soup works well)

Saute the shallots in the butter or oil, add the seasonings and wine and cook until it reduces to about one cup. Add the beef broth and oornstarch and continue to reduce until sauce is the consistency of light syrup.

Use extra time to enjoy fabulous fall fare

As the cool weather sets in and autumn colors take hold, we have extra time to prepare and enjoy warm, savory meals with family and friends. These hearty dishes, perfect for fall dining, call for the versatility and goodness of veal, the variety and ease of American-made pasta, and the smooth and milky flavor of ripe olives.

Hearty Veal Stew for example, is a heart-warming fall favorite. This colorful, aromatic one-dish meal teams wholesome pasta shells, just right for cradling the light sauce, with delicately flavored veal for stew and the distinctive taste and texture of ripe olives. A loaf of crusty warm bread and a light tossed salad are ideal accompaniments.

HEARTY VEAL STEW
Preparation time: 30 minutes.
Cooking time: 1 hour and 5 minutes.

4 teaspoons olive or vegetable oil
1 1/2 pounds veal for stew, cut into 1 1/2-inch pieces
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped (about 1 1/2 cups)
2 cups water, divided
1/2 cup dry white wine
2 teaspoons Italian dressing

1/2 cup dry white wine
2 teaspoons Italian dressing
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup each: chopped green, red and yellow bell pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup whole pitted ripe olives
1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar

VEAL SHANKS BRAISED IN HERB-TOMATO SAUCE
Preparation time: 30 minutes.
Cooking time: 1 hour and 50 minutes.

2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons olive or vegetable oil
4 pounds veal cross cut shanks, cut 1 1/2 inches thick
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) whole peeled tomatoes
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup each: finely chopped celery and carrot

Drug-using parents put children's lives on line

DEAR ABBY: I am a pastor, but please don't identify my church or location. About four or five years ago, a woman who attends this church came to me complaining because her teen-age son (I'll call him Michael) had been stealing. She said he had been stealing the marijuana she and her husband had hidden away for their own use!

Yesterday, I officiated at Michael's funeral. He was 22 years old and had many friends and a loving family. There is much speculation about whether Michael's death was a suicide or an accidental overdose of drugs.

Abby, please print this to let parents know that their use of drugs can have a devastating effect on their children.

SAD PASTOR: Thank you for sharing your personal experience in an effort to stress an important point. Parents may feel their children, "Don't do as we do; do as we say." But the children who fare the best are those whose parents have set the best example by their own actions.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I were eating dinner in a cafeteria where we could pick whatever we wanted to eat. I selected a cup of thin soup with very thin noodles in it; but it was mostly broth. After I had eaten the noodles, I picked up the cup and drank the broth. Well, my sister bawled me out and said it was ill-mannered to "drink the broth" that way. She made such a fuss, I felt just terrible. I am 72 years old and my sister is 57. She has bossed me around all my life, she finally decided I had had enough. Please tell me if she was right to criticize me.

Dear Abby

HAD ENOUGH IN BANGOR, MAINE:

DEAR ENOUGH: There is nothing ill-mannered about picking up a cup of soup and drinking the broth. You may quote me, and I hope you do.

P.S. A bowl would be a different story.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago, my sister, who is two years older than I am, was planning her wedding, but she broke her engagement. I was 17 at the time, and she had asked me to be her maid of honor.

Anyway, she's still not married, but I am planning my own wedding, and here's my problem: My sister said, "I hope I'm going to be your maid of honor. Remember, I asked you to be

Abby, if she is not my maid of honor, she will feel that her understanding is that your maid of honor should be someone whom you trust and is always there for you - like your best friend. My sister does not qualify.

I have two close friends I'd rather have - but Sis would be hurt and probably would not settle to be one of my bridesmaids. How shall I tell her one who has been my best friend through-thick and thin?

Please print this. I'm sure there are thousands of others out there with the same problem.

PLANNING MY WEDDING

DEAR PLANNING: If you are old enough to be married, you are old enough to stand up to your sister. Simply ask her to be one of your bridesmaids, and don't be apologetic about it. It is your right to have whomever you want. It's your wedding. Good luck!

Elks National Foundation offering $2,000 grants

Students planning to pursue a vocational/technical course in a school or college leading to terminal associate degree, certificate or diploma, but less than a baccalaureate degree, are eligible to compete for $2,000 grants offered by the Elks National Foundation. The Elks National Foundation Trustees have set aside $642,000 for grants for the 1991-1992 1992/93 school years. Each grant will be awarded, with at least one per state and the areas of Guam and Puerto Rico, and additional grants allotted according to Elks' donations within each state. Although graduating high school seniors are eligible to apply, older students who desire training, or re-training are encouraged to apply for these grants. A high school diploma or GED is not required. Applications are available from financial aid officers at community and technical colleges and at local Lodge No. 1183 of the BPO Elks, P.O. Box 226, Twin Falls, ID-83303. Application deadline is Nov. 24, 1990, and applications must be submitted to the student's local BPO Elks Lodge. Each state's application will be judged by a panel of judges selected by the Association of Community College Trustees (ACCT).

Save seeds from your favorite flowers, veggies

Many people do not realize how easy it is to save seeds from flowers and vegetables. Although there are many hybrid varieties which do not give very satisfactory results, most seeds will produce plants very much like those from which the seed was picked.

Allen Wilson
Gardening

Beans, peas and sweet peas are among the easiest seeds to save. Most of the time there are a few brown pods on the plants which were not picked. They will have ripe seed inside if the pods have not already split and seed fallen on the ground.

If you have allowed a few lettuce or spinach plants to produce a seed stalk, they will probably have ripe seed now. One seed stalk will produce hundreds of seeds. If the dry seeds do not shake out readily, let seed heads mature a while longer.

Unharvested broccoli will produce yellow flowers followed by clusters of small seed pods. Seed is ready when it turns dark in color and pods begin to split open.

Save many broccoli varieties as hybrids, the results from your saved seed may not be quite as good as purchased seed or plants.

Cucumber, squash, pumpkins and melons can produce variable results depending upon conditions. Many varieties are hybrids and saved seed produces quite variable results. If you grew more than one variety of squash or pumpkin, they will inevitably cross, producing an undesirable mixed breed. If you grew only one variety, seed will probably be quite true to type. Seed must be saved from completely mature fruits.

Tomatoes and peppers seldom give satisfactory results from saved seed since most varieties are hybrids. Few peppers reach the mature red stage necessary for ripe seeds in our climate. Send saved, from non-hybrid tomatoes should be placed in an open dish and allowed to mold so that the gelatinous pulp can be separated from the seed.

Marigolds, asters, zinnias, dahlias and daisies all produce harvestable seed. Simply pick a few old brown flowers and place them in a warm, dry place for a few weeks. The dark colored seeds with tails are easily separated after drying. Other flower seeds which are easily harvested from browsing seed pods include poppy, pansy, snapdragon, delphinium, columbine and lupine.

Penunia, begonia and impatiens are mostly hybrids and saved seed does not usually produce uniform plants.

All seeds should be dried well before storage. A warm location is best for drying. When seed is dry, it is best stored in a cool, dry location. Although refrigerators and basements are cool, they are not dry. Dry seeds can be placed inside a sealed jar such as a mason jar to keep them dry. Normal room temperature is also satisfactory as long as humidity is low.

Some ceiling, wall cracks are easy to fix

Q. The ceiling in my living room has a crack the length of the room that has been in there for years. The people who fill it with patch material and paint it, and after a while it looks terrible again. What needs to be done?

A. It is probably a crack between panels of gypsum board (drywall) that were not properly fastened and sealed when the ceiling was installed. The best bet is to carefully scrape away any old patching material, including loose joint tape, and re-apply a new joint compound and seal the joint. If this is a crack between panels, there may be a ceiling joist under the crack.

Check for loose edges in the panels on both sides of the crack and fasten them with joint screws. The heads of the nails or screws should penetrate to just below the surface of the panels.

Send away old paint and rough areas to about six inches on each side of the crack, using a block wrapped with medium-grit sandpaper, but be careful not to damage the gypsum board. Clean the crack thoroughly by vacuuming up sanding dust and small chips.

To repair, use fiberglass joint tape instead of paper tape. Fiberglass tape, which has more flexibility, should be sealed with a special setting-type joint compound that must be mixed before use. A building supply center is the best source of the correct materials.

Press the tape firmly into the compound, with the joint knife and sand the compound over it, extending the patch to about three inches on each side. Let the compound dry and sand as smooth as possible, then vacuum to remove sanding dust.

Apply another coat of joint compound, extending the edges by a few more inches on each side when the last coat of compound is dry. The patch can be smoothed, primed and painted.

Q. Our home is brick with wood trim. Some years ago chalk from

Do it yourself

chalk onto the woodwork, probably due to the chalkboard. What do you have to do to remove it? I've tried heavy-duty cleaners and paint remover. Any suggestions?

A. That is a fairly common problem with the use of so-called self-cleaning paints, which chalk heavily. Owners of brick homes should stick with acrylic latex paints, which generally have little or no chalking, for trim work or wooden areas that might be touched onto the bricks.

A heavy-duty cleaner might still work if used with this technique. Scrub with a solution of one cup TSP (trisodium phosphate, sold at paint stores) in a gallon of water, using a fairly stiff wire brush to apply the cleaner and help dislodge particles from brick pores.

If that doesn't work, try staining the stains, but test the technique first on an inconspicuous area. First, a exterior paint that approximates the color of the bricks and use a nearby dry brush to dab small amounts of paint into the pores of discolored bricks. Immediately wipe excess paint from the surface of the bricks.

We recently had new roofing installed on our house and later were shocked to find a lot of wood chips and even a four-inch square piece of wood on the attic floor, knocked from the ceiling by nails. A lot of nails are poking through into the attic. What can we do?

A. You should certainly complain to the roofer for using nails too long for the job. Also repair the area where the large piece of wood fell into the attic by putting in place and holding it with a wood cleat secured to the sheathing. Make sure the screws don't penetrate the sheathing.

Periodic checks should be made in the attic this winter for signs of condensation on the protruding nails. Although the nails can be planned for attic condensation, a poorly ventilated attic where moisture can condense or freeze. The moisture can drip to the floor, where it might ruin insulation and damage wood structural members.

If condensation occurs, you will need to improve air circulation in the attic by adding vent space, or improve the vapor barrier in the attic floor to reduce moisture penetration from the living area.

Helpful hints for the house

Knights-Ridder News Service

Between 10 percent and 15 percent of all service calls on major appliances are unnecessary, according to Julie Bundy, manager of consumer education at Maytag.

By making a few simple checks before calling an appliance service firm, consumers could save millions of dollars annually, she said.

Among some common problems or oversights, washers that are not plugged in properly; dryers that take too long to dry because the lint filter needs cleaning; dishwashers that aren't cleaning properly because the house's water heater isn't set to deliver water that is 140 degrees Fahrenheit at the tap; refrigerator temperature controls set improperly.

While operating instructions for most major appliances include checklists to follow when problems arise, Maytag has prepared a comprehensive guide covering a full range of major appliances. The 13-page booklet, "Before You Call," also discusses where to find good service when you need it, the costs behind servicing and what to look for when buying appliances.

Fresh coat of paint is first step to sprucing up bathroom

New York Daily News

Q. Because bathrooms get such heavy use, they deteriorate faster than other spaces in the home. What is the easiest way to spruce up this room?

A. Start with a fresh coat of paint. Oil-base satin finish is best for bathrooms, especially those with poor ventilation. Moisture buildup could cause wallcoverings to peel in poorly ventilated rooms. Try a new paint technique, such as glazing or stenciling a border below the ceiling, for an interesting look.

If you prefer a vinyl wallcovering, be sure it's canvas-backed for better adhesion. A small repeat pattern makes small baths look larger. Neutral backgrounds allow you to change accessories easily, but a dark color or a

Assertive red zinfandel wine best to enjoy with pizza, meatloaf

By Bob Hoosmer
Knight-Ridder News Service

Q: Sometimes when I get home from work I'm just too tired to cook or go out to dinner, so I order pizza to be delivered. Which wine do you recommend with pizza? Does it matter which type I choose? — D.H.

A: The best wine to enjoy with pizza is red wine. And the best red wine for your pie is zinfandel. Although the grape has mysterious origins, it's now unique to the United States and grows wild in California, where it grows make a variety of styles including the traditional red and the now-popular white. Red zinfandel has sufficient character, body and flavor to handle the rich flavors of pizza, including tomato sauce and cheese — and virtually any topping that you may select — including sausages, peppers, onions or mushrooms.

Some favorite red zins on the market include Ridge, Kendall Jackson, Frog's Leap, Grinch, Robertson and Ravenswood. All priced at $10 to $14 a bottle. If you're looking for something at a lower price, then consider Fetzer, Montevina, Sebastian and Gutter Home.

Q: Both for my budget and because my family likes it, one of our favorite meals is homemade meatloaf. But I would like to turn over meatloaf into a special dinner with a little pizzazz. What do you recommend? — M.S.

A: The same wine advice that applies to pizza is true of meatloaf as well. When you consider the basic ingredients (tomato sauce, spices, onions and sometimes bell pepper), you need an assertive red wine that won't be overpowered by the food. So red zinfandel is the choice here, too. It's the perfect American wine match for the perfect American meatloaf.

Q: I'm a big fan of blackened fish, cooked Cajun style. But every wine I've tried just seems lost when compared with an equally pungent fish. Any suggestions? — T.P.

A: Stop looking for a white wine to complement the fish because you won't find one. The hot and fiery spices of blackened fish are so strong that only a red wine will do. It's one of the basic contradictions of "white wine with fish, red wine with meat," but it's the only way you're going to enjoy your meal.

The choice of red wine is up to you, but you don't want to choose a generic, big wine with tannins. The best bets here are: a young cabernet sauvignon from California, an inexpensive red bordeaux, or a slightly chilled pinot noir from Oregon. As an alternative, you might enjoy a chilled Beaujolais or Beaujolais Villages.

flour, the salt, the baking powder, in a bowl whisk together the eggs, the granulated sugar, the jam, the brandy, the semisweet chocolate, and the melted chocolate mixture and whisk in the flour mixture. Pour the batter into the prepared pan.

Bake the torte in a preheated oven for 25 to 30 minutes, or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out with crumbs on it. Let the torte cool in the pan on a rack for 5 minutes, invert it onto the rack, and remove the paper; invert the torte onto another rack and let it cool to room temperature top side up. Sift the confectioner's sugar lightly over the torte and serve the torte with the ice cream if desired. For a lacy pattern, place a doily over the top of plain torte and sift on the confectioner's sugar. Remove doily. Makes 8 servings.

GHIRARDELLI'S CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM

To me, chocolate ice cream is the quintessential chocolate dessert. This recipe, from the "Guido del Gelato" Company, is made with a cooked custard.

It's a rich, creamy ice cream with a deep chocolate flavor. For unobscured decadence, try it with Hot Fudge Sauce (recipe follows).

Ingredients: 2 cups half-and-half, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 1/2 cups heavy cream, 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract.

In a heavy, medium saucepan combine the chocolate and half and half. Cook over moderate heat, whisking occasionally, until the chocolate is melted and the mixture is smooth, about 5 minutes.

In a small bowl, combine the sugar, flour and salt. Gradually whisk the dry ingredients into the melted chocolate and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to moderately low and cook, whisking occasionally for 1 minute.

In a medium bowl, whisk the eggs briefly. Slowly whisk in about half of the chocolate mixture, then transfer this mixture to the remaining chocolate in the saucepan. Cook the custard until it is thick, smooth and steaming and reaches about 160 degrees on a candy thermometer. Remove from the heat and stir in the heavy cream and vanilla. Let cool to room temperature, then refrigerate or chill in a water bath until cold.

Pour the custard into an ice cream maker and freeze according to the manufacturer's directions. When frozen, transfer the ice cream to a container, cover and freeze for at least 30 minutes before serving.

Note: The ice cream can be made up to 2 days before serving. Makes 1 1/2 quarts, about 12 servings, 1/2 cup each.

Per serving (1/2 cup): 277 calories, 4 grams protein, 21 grams fat, 21 grams carbohydrates, 125 milligrams cholesterol, 95 milligrams sodium.

HOT FUDGE SAUCE

Rose Levy Beranbaum says her favorite quick chocolate dessert is vanilla ice cream topped with branded cherries and this Hot Fudge Sauce from her The Cake Bible (Morrow).

Ingredients: 1/2 cup extra-bittersweet or bittersweet chocolate (preferably Tobler) or semisweet chocolate, 2 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa (Dutch-processed), 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon unsalted butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons corn syrup, Pinch of salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

In a small heavy saucepan (ideally with a non-stick lining) over low heat melt the chocolate and cocoa with the water, stirring constantly. Add the butter, sugar, corn syrup and salt. Simmer, stirring, until the sugar has completely dissolved. Stop stirring and cook at a simmer 5 to 10 minutes, or until the mixture thickens and reduces to just under cup (grease a heatproof glass cup before measuring). Swirl the mixture in the pan occasionally but do not stir.

Cool slightly and stir in the vanilla. Keep warm or reheat in a water bath, or microwave, stirring gently.

Per serving (1 tablespoon): 124 calories, 0.99 grams protein, 8 grams fat, 16 grams carbohydrates, 10 milligrams cholesterol, 4 milligrams sodium.

CHOCOLATE-RASPBERRY BROWNIES

Raspberries and chocolate marry in this simple torte, adapted from The Best of Gourmet, 1987 Edition (Condé Nast Books). Dusted lightly with confectioner's sugar in a lacy pattern, it makes an elegant presentation.

Ingredients: 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate, chopped, 1 stick (1/2 cup) unsalted butter, cut into pieces, 1 cup all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, 2 large eggs, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup seedless raspberry jam, 2 teaspoons eau-de-vie de framboise (raspberry brandy) or regular brandy, 1 ounce semisweet chocolate, chopped, Confectioner's sugar for sifting over the torte.

Chocolate ice cream as an accompaniment, if desired.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, line a buttered, 9-inch round pan with a pound of wax paper and butter the paper. In a double boiler set over barely simmering water, melt the unsweetened chocolate with the butter, stirring, until the mixture is smooth. In a small bowl combine the

MARINADE SAUCE FOR STEAKS

1/2 cup vegetable oil, 1/3 cup soy sauce, 1/4 cup red-wine vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Mix all together and keep in a bottle in refrigerator. This can be used as a marinade before cooking steak or as a topping after.

Another reader, Mary Jo Benoit was looking for pizza dough. Here's my old faithful raised pizza dough.

RAISED PIZZA DOUGH

1 teaspoon active dry yeast (1/4 package), 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 cup warm water (not over 115 degrees), 2 1/2 cups unbleached all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon oil.

Stir the yeast and sugar into the water in a small bowl and let the mixture stand for 10 minutes or until it is foamy. Put the flour and salt into the work-bowl of a food processor and keep running while adding the yeast mixture through the feed tube. Process until a ball of dough forms, add the oil and process the dough for another 40 seconds until it's smooth.

Place the dough in an oiled bowl and rotate so top is oiled. Turn over and let sit for 2 minutes then turn off. Cover the bowl with a damp towel and put it in the oven. Let dough raise 1 hour until it has doubled in bulk. Now it's ready to punch down and spread over the pizza pan.

IMMEDIATE-THIN CRUST PIZZA DOUGH

2 teaspoons olive oil, 2 teaspoons corn meal, 1 package active dry yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons warm water (not over 115 degrees), 1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons unbleached all-purpose or bread flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Rub one teaspoon of the oil over a 14-inch or two 9-inch pizza pans and sprinkle with cornmeal. Mix the yeast and sugar into the warm water and let stand until foamy.

Place the flour, salt and remaining oil into the work-bowl of a processor or mixer with yeast dough hook. Turn on machine and add the yeast mixture through feed tube and process until dough cleans inside of bowl and forms a ball. If more water is needed, add a teaspoon at a time, if too wet add more flour a tablespoon at a time making sure dough is processed thoroughly after each addition.

This dough can be rolled immediately and used as is with your favorite topping. If allowed to rise makes a chewier pizza crust.

Enjoy!
