Motor home burns

A firefighter battles a blaze in a motor home at the William Trowbridge residence southwest of Twin Falls Thursday. The Twin Falls County sheriff's office said the motor home and a pickup truck were destroyed by fire after a neighbor saw smoke billowing from the vehicle, then noticed flames. Several tires exploded in the fire, but there were no injuries.

Magic Valley gas prices climb again as oil quotes slide

By The Times News

TWIN-FALLS — After nearly a month of relative stability, Magic Valley gas prices are climbing again as world oil prices are receding.

The American Automobile Association said this week its latest statewide survey of gasoline prices shows over a four-cent-a-gallon increase since the last check several weeks ago with most of the hike coming in the last few days.

Federal probe — A3

The survey put the average price of self-service unleaded gasoline at $1.39 a gallon, nearly five cents more than the national average. The first survey placed the average at $1.35.

Magic Valley gas prices averaged $1.38 in the AAA survey.

On Thursday, self-service unleaded regular gas ranged from $1.39 a gallon in Durley to $1.42 in Ketchikan.

Self-service unleaded mid-grade between $1.04 and $1.07 a gallon in Twin Falls on Aug. 2, the day Iraq invaded Kuwait touched off the current price spiral.

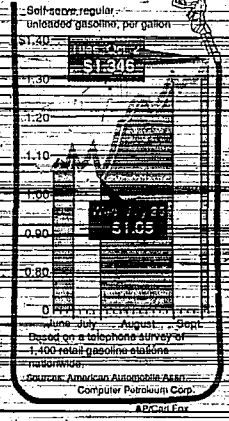

The latest Idaho gas price escalation comes as the market price for oil began falling from a record $43 a barrel. Crude oil prices for high sweet crude oil for November delivery closed below $34 a barrel on Tuesday amid some lessening of tension in the Persian Gulf, and a barrel of the benchmark West Texas intermediate crude fell for $36.95 Thursday, down 35 cents from Wednesday.

The price at the pumps has not followed the increases in crude on the world market in the past several weeks as it did in August, said American Automobile Association spokesman Dave Carlson in a telephone interview from the Boise office.

Meanwhile, Idaho car sales slumped down another 11.7 percent last month after plunging 44 percent in August.

Crude oil production by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in

AAA/CPC Fuel Gauge Report

September averaged an estimated 22.3 million barrels per day, up 2.3 million from 20.0 million barrels per day.

In August, following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and a subsequent United Nations-sponsored embargo on both countries' crude oil, OPEC supplies dropped sharply.

Little of the oil consumed in Idaho comes from OPEC nations, but the OPEC output drives world prices.

Pricing increases are relatively uniform across the state, Carlson said.

Nonhumane Idaho prices jumped to just below $1.40 a gallon in August.

GOP legislators blast Echohawk over water issues

By Michelle Cole
Times-News-writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's water could be in jeopardy if Democrat Larry Echohawk becomes the state's next attorney general, two Magic Valley Republican legislators said Thursday.

During an interview and in a sharply worded news release, state Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, chairman of the Senate Resources and Environment Committee, and House Majority Caucus Chairman Bruce Newcomb, R-Durley, blasted Echohawk's record on water issues.

Echohawk's campaign brochure states that, as a member of the Idaho House, he supported legislation to protect Idaho's water rights. "But Noh and Newcomb criticized Echohawk's voting record during his one of the six House terms, with the worst voting records."

The Water Users Association also criticized Echohawk's record on water issues. "The proposed bill attempted to sort out a dispute between the Idaho Power Co. and irrigators over Snake River water rights."

First of all, attacking someone's political record is one of the oldest similar tactics on the tracks," Echohawk responded.

"What they're doing here is listing my voting record the year Swan Falls was first an issue."

Echohawk said he joined key Magic Valley legislators including House Speaker T.W. Stivers, R-Twin Falls, in defeating the 1993 Swan Falls bill.

The Republican explained that he voted against the legislation because it proposed to subordinate one water user's right to another's.

"I probably would still be in court if they passed that one," Echohawk said.

Such a Republican opponent, Pat Cole, said Thursday the legislation had nothing to do with subordinating a water user's right and accused Echohawk of distorting the facts.

All the legislation was trying to do was return to rules we all understood in the beginning. Please see WATER/A2

Bush praises arms accord

Knight-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — President Bush Thursday praised the tentative East-West agreement to "limit" non-nuclear weapons in Europe, stressing the need to insure that military forces reflect the dramatic political change sweeping Europe.

Bush expressed his confidence that the proposed conventional arms treaty — the most sweeping arms accord since World War II — will be ready in time for a historic 34-nation summit planned for Nov. 19-21 in Paris.

"As Europe is transformed politically, we must also redraw the military map of the continent and lift some of the shadows and fears that we and our allies have lived with for nearly half a century," Bush said, noting that Europe still hosts the greatest concentration of armed strength in the world.

Accompanying Bush at his brief appearance in the White House press room was Secretary of State James A. Baker III, who provided new details on the deal he closed Wednesday night in New York with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

House rejects deficit-cutting plan

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A rebellious House early Friday rejected an election-year $580 billion package of tax breaks and spending slashes, ignoring pleas by President Bush and congressional leaders that the ailing economy needs relief.

By 254-179, the lawmakers turned down the outline of the five-year budget compromise that Bush and congressional leaders had whittled during four contentious months of negotiations.

In so doing, they dealt Bush and the House's Democratic and Republican leaders a resounding political blow. The defeat came despite a week of intense lobbying by the president and his most powerful allies. The bipartisan leadership of the House and Senate, and three-faced president, all urged compromise.

"We have to come together, that's what we are appealing for," House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., said in an appeal on the House floor.

It was unclear what Bush and congressional leaders would do next.

The evening's votes were on an outline of the five-year plan that Bush and congressional leaders completed last weekend. Votes on specific spending cuts and tax increases were planned in two weeks.

Bush has threatened that unless Congress approves the outline by Friday, he will reject any extension of the temporary financing legislation that has kept the government operating since the fiscal year last began.

Nonetheless, the measure was the subject of intense criticism by liberals and conservatives, angry over cuts in Medicare, higher gasoline and cigarette taxes, and other painful savings.

Justice Department subpoenas records in probe of oil price hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department on Thursday subpoenaed records from the nation's major oil companies to help it determine whether they manipulated the market to raise gasoline prices.

The department's announcement that it had sought records from a large number of companies, including independent refiners and marketers, is the first step in an investigation of the way the oil industry has raised gasoline prices in the past three years.

The public outcry over price rises of up to 15 cents a gallon prompted several major oil companies to freeze or roll back their wholesale costs.

Within two days of the invasion, U.S. oil companies raised their gasoline prices an average of 4 cents a gallon, according to a survey. Another survey showed that gasoline prices jumped 10 cents a gallon in the three days.

The Justice Department is seeking records from major oil companies to determine whether or not they manipulated the market to raise gasoline prices.

Justice Department attorneys said they would have to determine if products refiners or marketers colluded to raise prices. Antitrust laws carry both civil and criminal penalties.

The department's attorney general said the department would continue to interview executives of companies as well as independent refiners, marketers and collect price and supply information about the development of crude oil and threat of Iraq in the Persian Gulf have produced a sharp rise in oil prices.

Justice lets contributions exceed limits

WASHINGTON — A Supreme Court justice Thursday refused to enforce campaign contribution limits for California's gubernatorial and other state races to be decided next month.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor rejected, without comment, an emergency plea to suspend a federal judge's ruling that threw out contribution limits imposed by California voters in 1988.

Administration to scale down SDI

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration is preparing a blueprint for a missile defense system that would not protect the United States against an all-out Soviet ballistic missile attack, the program's director said Thursday.

The new system, not yet officially announced, would defend against one or two hundred missiles fired accidentally by the Soviets or deliberately by a Third World renegade leader, rather than the thousands of missiles that would be expected to fill the skies in a full-scale attack by Moscow.

Subcommittee approves abortion bill

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee approved a bill Thursday that would put into federal law a woman's right to an abortion as ruled in the Supreme Court decision Roe vs. Wade.

The language of the bill is drawn directly from Roe," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights.

AMA blasts animal-rights groups

WASHINGTON — The American Medical Association on Thursday blasted animal rights activists for mounting a campaign of terrorism with bombings, break-ins and hate mail, to try to prevent all medical research funding.

The AMA said it was starting a counter-campaign, noting that "science and medical research may come to a halt if we do not take our heads out of the sand."

New York mayor orders hiring freeze

NEW YORK — Two days after announcing plans to hire 8,000 new police officers, Mayor David Dinkins ordered a freeze on city hiring and promotions Thursday and was considering 15,000 layoffs.

Colleagues await Souter to avoid ties

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — David H. Souter said Thursday that soon to be colleagues on the Supreme Court are eager for him to be sworn in to avoid the possibility of ties to controversial cases.

Souter, who will take his oath Tuesday as history's 105th Supreme Court justice, said he needs to find a home and would like to play football with his family.

But he said of the other justices, "I have already heard three days of case arguments. They very much wanted me to start sitting on Tuesday because there is always the possibility of a decision if they sitting without the full complement."

Club appeals discrimination ruling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A trendy club in L.A. is appealing an old-fashioned justice ruling that it was too discriminatory when it kept out four people who couldn't pass muster with the doorman.

Wedge, an upscale club on Wednesday, sued the city to pay $250 each to the plaintiffs, who were turned away because of their appearance.

Larry Napier, a Beverly Hills attorney representing the club, said he would appeal the case in Superior Court.

Kenneth Lipton, one of four plaintiffs

The case pitted Stotzer, Kenneth Lipton, Teresita Dubrall and Stephen Ambrosini, against Sam's Club, president of the company that owns the Mayan.

Chao testified Tuesday that there is no dress code and that the doorman is picky about who is let in to keep out people who are drunk or otherwise look like trouble. The system also saves room inside for people with reservations.

Stotzer differed. He told the court that he and the doorman were met at the door by a Bannan and arrogant doorman. They just looked you over like you were a piece of meat.

Probe sources say fund-raiser timing important

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special counsel's report that recommends ethics investigations raised questions about the timing of a fund-raiser held by savings and loan figure Charles W. Keating Jr. Thursday.

Also influencing the recommendation was a "brief" discussion about the timing of the fund-raiser held by savings and loan figure Charles W. Keating Jr. Thursday.

Airlines under orders to fill exit-row seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's airlines will be under orders beginning Friday to fill seats in exit rows only with passengers able and willing to open emergency doors and help evacuate the aircraft if an emergency occurs.

Under the new procedures, gate agents at each airport will assign the exit row seats to passengers who meet those requirements and appear able and willing to perform emergency functions.

Information cards will be provided at exit row seats describing the functions passengers sitting there may have to perform during an emergency.

Flight attendants will describe these functions before each flight, and the cards will be issued by the Federal Aviation Administration to ensure that in emergency situations people sitting near exit doors are able to understand instructions in English and are able and willing to carry them out.

Rebels proclaim independence for Philippines' Mindanao island

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Military officers proclaimed independence for the island of Mindanao Thursday after seizing government buildings in at least two cities in another challenge to President Corason Aquino.

In Manila, a statement by renegade Commodore Domingo Calajate, a leader of last December's coup attempt, said the revolt was the first concerted step toward a historical goal of creating a federal parliamentary form of government for the entire Philippine archipelago.

Mutineers seized 402nd Army Base in Zamboanga. The rebels proclaimed independence for Mindanao.

He fled to the jungles of northern Mindanao where he organized a new army of 15,000 men. Rebels claimed support from troops in other areas of Mindanao, including Surigao, but the claims could not be verified because of poor communications.

The military had warned for months that the next coup attempt would be preceded by an uprising in Mindanao.

Iraq Surface-To-Surface Missiles

Institute: Iraq could last just weeks in war

LONDON (AP) — Iraq could survive for a matter of weeks at most against the multinational force in the Persian Gulf, the International Institute for Strategic Studies said Thursday. The Cold War days NATO commanders talked in terms of days and weeks of their capacity to sustain conventional battles, institute Director Francois Heisbourg said at a news conference to present an annual survey of global forces, The Military Balance, 1990-91.

The situation is not very different given the nature of conflict in that part of the world, he said, adding that the impact of sanctions on Iraq would also mean "the conflict would not last terribly long."

Heisbourg presented the report said Iraq totally earned 11 army divisions between the end of the eight-year war with Iran in 1988 and invading Kuwait on Aug. 2.

But President Saddam Hussein was forced to abandon an attempt to raise 10 new divisions — 100,000 to 150,000 troops — for his nearly 1-million-strong army because the nation of 16 million people simply does not have enough men, he said.

Assessing Iraq's strength and tactics if hostilities break out, institute spokesman Andrew Duncan said Saddam likely will turn his chemical weapons into missiles because of the difficulty of attacking well-protected and mobile targets.

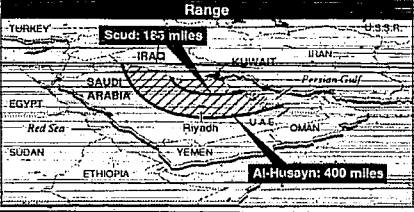

The institute, like American analysts, assumes that Iraq has surface-to-surface missiles capable of carrying chemical weapons, he says.

But Duncan said Iraq would find it tough to pinpoint U.S. and other multinational forces with missile-borne chemical attacks in the desert while its aircraft would be highly vulnerable to airborne attacks.

The institute said the U.S. has strong Iraqi army units from the Guards, well-paid and politically motivated, to poorly armed and trained conscripts.

The army includes seven armored divisions and 40 infantry divisions, as well as the Republican Guards — the desert.

The institute analysts also said Iraq tanks will be highly vulnerable to U.S. air attacks if they move into the desert rather than acting as static firing platforms heavily defended in the desert.

More Americans to leave Iraq, Kuwait

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another group of Americans will be flown out of Iraq and Kuwait next Wednesday on a U.S. government-charter flight, the State Department said Thursday.

The approximate number of Americans who will board the flight was not disclosed but officials said the total could be significant because Boeing 747 has been chartered.

During September, about 1,900 Americans — almost all of them women and children — were allowed to fly out of Iraq and Kuwait. The flights were halted Sept. 22 because the State Department said virtually all those who wanted to leave and had permission to do so had departed.

Fear of Iraq sustained escapees in their rough voyage to freedom

DIHAKAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Three Britons who escaped from Iraq by sea said Thursday their fear of Iraq sustained them through their long hours bobbing in 10-foot swells of the open Persian Gulf.

The three, rescued Wednesday morning along with two Frenchman off the border city of Khafji, spent 25 hours in a 10-foot fiberglass boat floating through the marshes and canals of southern Iraq, down the Shatt-al-Arab waterway and into the Gulf.

Pentagon says shipping free cigarettes to troops violated policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shipment of donated cigarettes was inappropriately sent to U.S. troops in the Middle East in violation of a Defense Department policy of discouraging the use of tobacco, the Pentagon said Thursday.

Tobacco products are not an accepted gift for distribution to active units of donated cigarettes, not in violation of the department's policy, Pentagon spokesman said. The policy prohibits the distribution of such a practice, Pentagon spokesman said.

Department of Defense policy is that smoking is one of the leading preventable causes of disease and death among military personnel, he said.

Any room for balance on endangered species?

It seems that five species—four kinds of snail and a limpet—would be wiped out by construction of two hydropower dams on the Snake River near Hagerman. Prompted by California biologist Peter Bowler, who grew up along the river, the Environmental Protection Agency is considering listing the five species as endangered. The listing goes through the dam will be stopped.

This isn't nearly as big a deal as the spotted-owl controversy, which wracked the Northwest timber industry, saving the snails would only squander a couple of days of money and grow in warm anyway. Yet there are parallels. Both cases show how the federal Endangered Species Act has become an ultimatum. Environmentalists to achieve far broader goals than saving ovals and snails.

In the spotted-owl case, the true goal was to protect old-growth timber in the Snake River Canyon; the goal is general. Environmentalists and white-water enthusiasts object to damming one of the river's last natural stretches. And one of the dams would inundate the home of biologist Peter Bowler's parents.

Perhaps all of these noises are worthy, notwithstanding Bowler's personal inter-

But is this why we have an endangered species law? Let's explore alternatives for a moment. First, should the law take into account the fact that Bowler and other dam opponents have motives other than saving the snails? Do you think the committees may care more about saving trees than about the snails themselves?

Right now the law doesn't distinguish; endangered is endangered. Second, do we suggest, as many have, that the value of an endangered species ought to be weighed against the cost of protecting it?

This is what lawyers call a slippery slope. Any kind of balance test must mean ultimately that we will allow just some of the dams, with no trees and no snails. Few are comfortable with that idea. But neither are we comfortable with handing environmental activists a Doomsday Weapon—a federal law that can put unconditional brakes on development.

Is there room for balance in considering endangered species? With dams and timber jobs and who knows what else in stake, an increasing number of Americans will be looking for it.

Sportsmen can fight back with votes

The politicians of the state of Idaho have made some significant progress toward being recognized as a force to reckon with since the inception of the Idaho Sportsmen's Association.

For only five years we made it very plain to the Fish and Game Commission that they are subject to the will of the voting public of this state, but we have succeeded in influencing our new Fish and Game Commission.

The selection of Dr. Wesley Rose as that new commissioner is a solid step in the right direction toward protecting the hunting and fishing rights of the average Idahoan.

Unfortunately, as soon as we begin to see a little blue sky and sunshine, a bigger and darker threat shows itself on the horizon. Idaho sportsmen and women are currently caught between a rock and a hard place.

On one hand are a group of guides and outfitters determined to lock up hunting and fishing opportunity for their sole financial gain. Through the Nature Conservancy, more and more hunting and fishing areas are being locked away from the general public every year.

According to Nature Conservancy Magazine, the Conservancy is the single largest private property owner in the United States. The majority of their land acquisitions are accomplished through donations of properties from wealthy individuals. Once the lands are donated to the Conservancy, the previous owner receives a full tax write-off and the exclusive hunting and fishing rights to the property—and in some cases is even allowed to build on the property. How is that for having your cake and eating it too? In a recent closure, the Nature Conservancy bought Timm's range on the Saturn trail and sold it the next day to a lifetime Conservancy member and it now is closed to the public.

Gary B. Peak

On the other hand are the animal rights activists. The animal rights activists, Against Sport Killing, claim to have a nationwide membership of approximately 40,000 and were successful last year in their attempt to stop the black bear and cougar seasons in California. They have sworn to attempt to close the elk hunting season in a major Western state.

Where this group is receiving their funding is not known for sure, but someone that they do fund is the Sierra Club. For general information, the Idaho Conservation League is a branch of the Sierra Club. The publicly stated purpose of this group is to end hunting or fishing nationwide. Even the best of us are not safe from their attacks. In a recent court decision in Sweden, a man was heavily fined and the fishing license was revoked on a conviction for catch-and-release fishing. The judge ruled that such sport was cruelty to an animal.

How do we fight back? The only possible way is through our elected representatives. Our congressmen, senators and representatives must be carefully selected and convinced that the people of Idaho will not support an elected official that does not represent the opinions of the majority of voters in this state.

Now that we have the representation of Gary B. Peak on the Fish and Game Commission, let's try for two.

I would ask you to support the following candidates:

Russell Newcomb for state senator in District 25. His track record as a supporter of the Idaho Sportsmen has already been proven and combined with his brother, Reg, Gary Newcomb, he would be an invaluable asset.

Thomas (Tom) Morrison for House Seat A, District 22, to defeat challenger Clint Stennett of Ketchum. Although not personally acquainted with Mr. Morrison, I do know that he does not derive a large portion of his income from the sale of advertising guides and outfitters in the Sun Valley area.

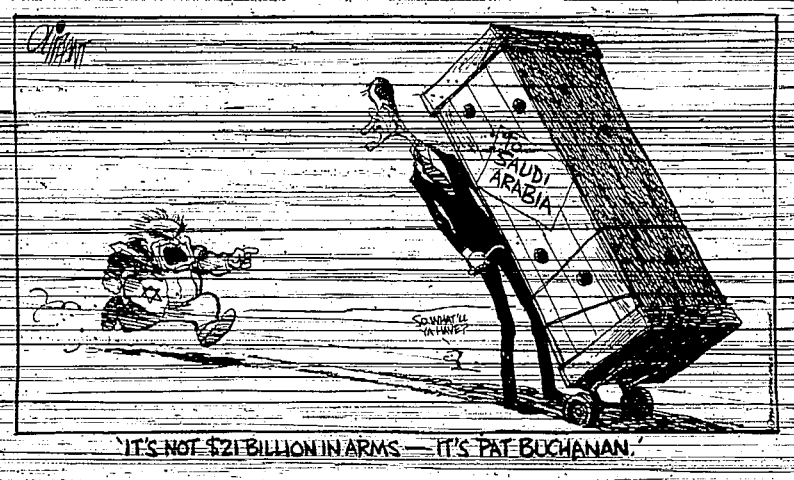

Dwight Osborne of Legerman for Representative, District 22, to replace retiring Mack Niebauer.

Gary B. Peak of Bellevue is President of the Idaho Sportsmen's Association.

Gas training motivates soldier

The recent events in the Persian Gulf area have focused a lot of attention on the possible use of gas.

The following is an excerpt of a letter from a recruit now in training at the Marine Corps base in San Diego.

"I have to tell you about the gas chamber. New experiences can be quite a thrill. I didn't know whether or not to trust the gas mask, especially because the guide I put in front of me was in a gas mask. I had the right seal and moved forward into the dark chamber. My breathing was calm. I wasn't too nervous but my lenses were fogged up. I stood in suspense awaiting a command to remove my mask. It was given — I recognized it and, instantly, my lungs screamed with pain, my eyes poured out water and we were told to put the mask back on. I cleared it and put the pain aside.

At the pain aside, we were told to remove the protective mask again. The gas instantly flooded into my sinuses, starting to sting and vibrating into me. We started to walk and we had three hanging from their noses almost touching the deck. I hocked and sneezed, people walked around in circles. I couldn't breathe — pain throughout my chest. Very single, tiny breath burned.

I finally left the chamber, still not being able to take even half a breath. When the room was again filled with gas, I was a senseless body. I made it and responded by shouting, 'Platoon — live hard and die for the cause.' The senior drill instructor gave me a satisfied look. So far, that might be the most painful thing we've done but at the same time the most motivating.

The gas chamber has always been a difficult phase of training. Recruits are exposed to several non-lethal types and get sniffs of some lethal types. This training teaches how to clean a mask and put it on, even during a combat situation.

Crowding creates problems

As a parent of children in the Kimberly School District, I have been extremely satisfied with the job that the teachers and administrators are doing. But I feel that their jobs are being compromised by the overcrowded conditions that currently exist. Even the most efficient teacher cannot adequately give the individual quality time that is so crucial for children to understand, and particularly difficult to comprehend, for a child whose nature indicates more of a hands-on teacher/student relationship. If an overcrowded situation exists.

Giving education top priority has never been one of our state government's strongest points. Let's make it a priority in Kimberly. Please vote yes on the bond issue Oct. 9.

Vote for pro-choice candidates

Life is an important and priceless gift entailing great responsibility and long years of care by the parents. Help make sure babies born tomorrow are welcomed and wanted in the world. Vote for pro-choice candidates this coming November.

Vote against all incumbents

The president blames Congress and they blame him. The incumbent Democrats blame the Republicans. What is a Democrat? What is a Republican? I thought they were supposed to be Americans, doing what's right for America and us, and they aren't.

No, instead, theyicker and argue like religious cults. I don't want to do this or that unless the party that wants the vote or favor will promise to back his or her next idiotic idea.

Since the politicians we have in office now can't get together and solve some of our real serious problems and haven't been able to control their high spending ways, we should get rid of them. Oh, I know someone will say we'll lose our majority/senior leader on this committee or that committee, but if they don't think such a thing, it's not our problem and all the new ones start out even. Maybe, just maybe, the newly elected officials will do what we want them to do, as the people want and not what special interest groups and PAC's want and if they don't, we'll replace them too!

So let's say no to the new budget plan and higher taxes and tell all the big boys to "read our lips" — no victories for the incumbents.

Robbins the right choice

In the race for state senator District 25, the broad interest of the Magic Valley is being best served by someone with an equally broad background. Gary Robbins is just such a background. He is a CPA (the only one currently running for either the House or the Senate). He spent 11 years dairy farming in Dutch during the recent agricultural crisis. He is the former owner of MacSlog, a family business involved with tourism.

Russell Newcomb is a fine surgeon, but the demands of that profession leave little time for gaining experience in other areas. Newcomb recently won a $300,000 judgment in a civil court case against an attorney who provided him with sound advice on how to avoid paying income taxes on his substantial income. But he did not receive the entire amount that he sued for because, which tells me he knows just enough about finance to get into trouble.

Russell has two relatives from the Magic Valley currently serving in the Legislature. His brother, Bruce Newcomb of Burley and a sister-in-law, Colin Gadd Newcomb of Tuli. I do not believe that the people of Magic Valley are interested in being represented by a "dynasty."

These are just a few of the reasons I would encourage all of you to cast your vote for effectiveness, independence and financial expertise by sending Gary Robbins to represent us in the Idaho State Senate.

Low turnout embarrassing

Tuesday night, in O'Leary Junior High School a quindium which seems several hundred, I sat with about two dozen other people and waited to hear Richard Carper speak about AIDS. The reason we waited wasn't because we were early; it was because Mr. Carper's talk was delayed 15 minutes in the hope that more people would put aside their prejudices, fear, apathy and

"it'll never happen to me" attitude and come to learn and listen.

AIDS may frighten or disgust the good people of Idaho, but it won't go away, no matter how long we refuse to acknowledge it, and how many we teach our children about it. Quite the contrary, the longer we remain ignorant and shut our eyes because it embarrasses us to talk about how we "get it," the greater will be its destruction. Mr. Carper didn't talk about being a "victim," dying of AIDS; he talked about being a person much like us. He talked about how we would probably prefer the just saying "somewhere quietly and die and not talk about sex or semen or intravenous drugs or any of those 'bad' things that cause AIDS."

He talked about October being named by governors in many states as AIDS Awareness Month. Gov. Andrus has not yet done this. I don't feel setting aside one month of each year to help people become aware of a disease that has killed more Americans than those who died in the Vietnam conflict and will ultimately kill more Americans than those who died in World War II is asking much.

I went home and talked to my children about Mr. Carper, AIDS and some of the things he said. I'm not embarrassed to talk to them about sex and I'm certainly not trying to let them risk their lives when they become sexually active because of ignorance or embarrassment. As Mr. Carper said, "This is a terminal illness. And it's sexually transmitted. We're all living with a sexually transmitted disease."

I was embarrassed Tuesday. I was embarrassed that such a minute part of the community in which I've lived carelessly to come and learn a little more about AIDS, which will eventually touch us all.

There's still time to register

The November election is only a few weeks away. If you are not registered to vote, there's still time to do so.

It's time to send a clear message to our elected officials that we will not tolerate government interference with our personal and private decisions.

Vote for those candidates who have taken a pro-choice stand. Magic Valley Citizens for Choice will make public a list of those candidates before the election.

Keep the power boats out

Question: Should the proposed Centennial Park be open to power boating and water skiing?

Answer: No!

The idea of building a park in the canyon is not the issue. I think a park is a good idea. The issue is the use of the river.

I leave the waterways open to non-powered craft for a maximum of 15 hp for motorized boats. Fishing in this area is far too narrow in accommodation for the boats skiers and other towable devices.

As a power boat owner and avid skier, I am opposed to using the river in this area for this type of recreation. The safety of the water is a clear, knee boarder and others is in jeopardy.

Just take a moment and paint a mental picture of the situation. The average skier is fastest at approximately 30 mph. The average knee boarder is towed at approximately 20 mph. There simply is not enough room to have boats traveling in both directions, let alone to pass a slower boat.

City and County officials, I urge you to place and enforce strict ordinances on the type of boating allowed at Centennial Park. Do not, while it's still in the planning stages, before a serious accident occurs requiring you to have to alter the fact.

Young offenders need publicity

With reference to the seven teen-age burglars of Roper's Clothing Store:

When a well-organized crime takes place by the same youth as this, the news is participated in and shared the loot, they proved they knew what they were doing. Names should be allowed to be published and not one of them allowed to hide behind the present law.

Publishing names would be a deterrent to future crimes. Where were the parents and didn't they know of the loot?

But the taxpayers of the county will pick up the legal defense fees for the seven.

Late blue chip rally a highlight in mixed, sluggish trading session advances in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 731 up, 1,000 down and 1,217 unchanged.

The uptick in blue chips was attributed to the resumption of trading in the Dow Jones Industrial Average, which had been suspended for several days because of a computer glitch. The rally was also helped by a late-session surge in blue-chip stocks, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average closing up 27.47 at 2,516.83.

Ex-official reluctant to back Craters park

BOISE — The former chairman of the National Parks Service Advisory Board is not opposed to a controversial plan to designate Craters of the Moon National Monument a national park.

But Robin Winks said Thursday he would support the now-sidetracked proposal with some reluctance. "I think that sometimes we are a little inclined to upgrade units that have been named monuments," Winks said during a session of the Frank Church Public Affairs Conference at Boise State University.

Winks, 62, said he has 10 years of experience in the field of national parks. He is currently the chairman of the board of trustees at the University of Idaho.

Congressman Richard Stollings' proposal to turn the monument into a national park is supported by many ranchers and sportsmen, who feared a park designation would eliminate traditional uses of the land. A month ago, Stollings announced he was dropping any further efforts for a park designation until the funding parties in the matter could work out their differences.

Gooding man sentenced for dairy extortion attempt

GOODING — A Gooding man who claimed to have found a mouse in a quart of half-and-half was sentenced this week to trying to extort money from dairy.

Fifth District Judge Phillip M. Becker sentenced James Archie Roller, 52, to two years' probation, said Gooding County Prosecutor Lynn Nelson. If he violates probation, Roller may spend two to four years in the state penitentiary.

Roller pleaded guilty to attempted grand theft by extortion, Nelson said. He was charged with approaching an employee of a restaurant in March and saying he found a dead mouse in a quart of half-and-half.

He produced a letter asking for $800,000 or else he would contact newspapers and network television.

At a second meeting, Roller asked the dairy representative for $50,000, charging papers, say, and awaiting law enforcement officers arrested him.

Perrine, Hansen bridge inspections may slow traffic

TWIN FALLS — Structural inspections of the Perrine and Hansen bridges will require traffic to slow down for several weeks into the Idaho Transportation Department says traffic delays will be minor.

Crews from an Ohio engineering firm will inspect the Perrine Bridge beginning next Monday. The direction of traffic will be closed as the crews alternately check each side of the bridge.

The transportation department expects no traffic delays on the bridge because of the inspection.

The city will be 15-minute delays on the Hansen Bridge on Oct. 15 and Oct. 16 while crews will inspect it. The inspection will restrict traffic on the bridge to one lane for those two days.

In-depth inspections of major bridges such as these are conducted every six years, said transportation department spokesman Jeff Stralton.

Twin Falls man released, ordered not to contact girl

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man appeared in court Thursday on a charge of lewd conduct with an 11-year-old girl.

Fifth District Magistrate Judge Charles L. Brumback released Joseph R. Harper, 40, on his own recognizance provided he not contact the girl, according to court papers.

Harper is charged with touching the girl's chest, buttocks and feet while she was cleaning a house, court papers say.

Twin Falls company wins bid on Kirby Dam in Atlanta

BOISE — With a successful low bid of $369,450, Lone Pine Equipment Co. of Twin Falls has secured the contract to restore the aging Kirby Dam near the historic County mining town of Atlanta.

Ron Zimmerman, Boise National Forest contracting officer, said Lone Pine was one of nine companies to bid. It is now to complete the next two years of work to complete the dam stabilization job before winter.

County resumes collection of back taxes

By Phil Sahn
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A goat might enjoy grazing it. Perhaps it is prime real estate for the world's longest miniature golf hole. If there were a road leading to it.

What can you do with a narrow strip of land 34 acres long that sits next to a canal between a couple of farms?

Twin Falls County has the rare chance to decide because it took the parcel last February on a tax deed. Taxes on the land, located about 13 miles west and five miles south of Twin Falls, were more than three years delinquent.

The land once was part of a farm but somehow was left off the deed when the acreage was split. The people who owned the strip, no longer located, did not know where it was.

So they quit paying the taxes and let the county have it.

Twin Falls County Treasurer Donna Bruning said the county eventually will try to sell the parcel. She was in a loss as to what the land might be used for, except possibly grazing a goat.

On Oct. 15, Bruning will send letters notifying the owners of more than 200 other parcels that they too could lose their land because the taxes are three years delinquent.

Some, receiving the notices will be a new experience. For others it's a yearly ritual.

"My old relatives," Bruning called them. Year after year she sees the names of the same people who are three years delinquent on property taxes. Year after year she sends the same people the same letter.

Year after year they owe the taxes on the oldest year, making them only two years delinquent.

People don't want to pay for a dead horse

Delinquent until they receive letters the next crop," Bruning said.

She remembered one parcel the county acquired. It might have made a nice place for a home — except it had no access road. A neighboring homeowner bought it to keep the weeds down.

Originally, the late county acquires cannot be turned or sold, leaving the owners little incentive to pay the taxes.

"People don't want to pay for a dead horse," Bruning said.

Of the 200-plus parcels with delinquent taxes, Bruning estimates all but a dozen were on the last year. Owners of these parcels owe the county more than $421,000 in taxes for 1987, with penalties, interest and costs the bill totals $178,581.

Bruning and her staff have been working since August to compile the list of parcels and owners. Bruning will send no letters of pending tax debt to the owners of each parcel, giving them until Dec. 30 to pay the bills. If she receives no response to the notices and the taxes are not paid by the 20th, a hearing is set for February, when the county can take the land because of back taxes.

Last year, Bruning sent around 400 letters on delinquent properties. The county took 53. This year, she expects to notify about 200 property owners.

"We generally don't get the cream of the crop," Bruning said.

Rupert power customers face possible 10% rate hike

By Stacy Kindig
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — City power customers will probably see a rate increase in 1994, but not soon.

Edman Hill, a consulting firm, has suggested the city raise its power rates by an average 10 percent to fund a construction project to update the old electric system.

The project would include a new substation and a handful of feeders. Residents listened Tuesday evening in a report by Hill.

The city electric department said the project system upgrade is mandatory if the city wants to continue providing the service.

Choate explained that power is currently run to Rupert on two different voltage systems. The high-voltage system and an old low-voltage system.

The high-voltage system is safer and better, and Bonneville Power, the city's power supplier, plans to disassemble the only substation in Rupert that allows the operation of the outdated low-voltage system.

The city has a substation at the site of the old substation but the city owns none of the transformers and other equipment at the substation.

That substation has "been there since 1931," Choate said. He said the equipment is very fragile and that replacement parts are practically impossible to find.

Bonneville Power has asked the city to make the "cutover," the change to the high-voltage system, within two years.

The upgrade project would include replacement of 500 to 600 poles and transformers.

Michaelson of Edman Hill said the city could save money on the $1 million project by doing the work itself, rather than contracting the work out.

That means the city would need an extra $250,000 per year during the next four years to cover additional work.

The city council, which is expected to meet next month, should be increased 10 percent for smaller users, those who use 500 kilowatt or less per month, and a 12 percent increase for medium users.

The firm suggested fees for larger users, those who use more than 500 kilowatt per month, should be increased 14 percent.

Figures compiled by the city's electric department show the average household uses approximately 1268 kilowatts per month.

This average user currently pays $48.27 per month, but under the new rates would pay $53.05.

Residents present at Tuesday's meeting asked the council to consider possible cutbacks in the city's overall budget to help provide the extra revenue and lessen the possible rate increases proposed.

John Cox, a local businessman, said the city should consider other options.

Bliss to abandon 1 well due to sand, work on 2nd well

By Suzanne Huxhold
Times-News correspondent

BLISS — Family members of a former councilwoman who gave the city $500 for a memorial following her death are getting impatient to see the money put to use.

And the city will abandon the east well and raise the pump at the west well after the Environmental Protection Agency in a report.

The EPA wants the west pump raised because it fears that if the area around the pump is flooded, water could spill into the below-ground pump house and contaminate municipal water.

The east pump, near the water tower, will be filled in. The pump has been slowly filling with sand since 1974, according to Councilman Stan Bishop, because of the blasting to construct Interstate 84.

Additional sand was seeping into the well due to the vibrations of trains traveling the nearby railroad tracks.

Black sand in the bottom of the well was corroding the pump, Bishop said, and the city finds it is pumping enough water from the west well to meet the city's needs.

The city is also considering installing a new compressed chlorine gas meter in conjunction with the raising of the west well pump. The new injector, estimated to cost $1,500, will eliminate the need for personnel to manually add chlorine to the city water.

Volunteer curfew beefed up at Friedman Airport

By Barbara Newert
Times-News correspondent

HATFIELD — Voluntary curfew will be beefed up as an interim measure to stop late-night flights at Friedman Memorial Airport until a viable curfew ordinance can be adopted.

A draft ordinance presented by Blaine County Airport Commissioner Steve Keams at the board's meeting Tuesday will be held up in the courts.

Keams said at the beginning of the curfew. He said that a more complete curfew ordinance is warranted after receiving information submitted by Bob Stevens, a local private pilot, that calls for a stronger effort in soliciting voluntary restrictions from pilots and information gathering from the Hatfield residents of the Airport and the SAFETY group.

The proposed ordinance calls for a curfew from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. on all weekdays and landings except emergencies.

Stevens, a local private pilot, that calls for a stronger effort in soliciting voluntary restrictions from pilots and information gathering from the Hatfield residents of the Airport and the SAFETY group.

The proposed ordinance calls for a curfew from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. on all weekdays and landings except emergencies.

The only reasons given for the curfew were safety concerns.

But an extensive noise study to determine the specific impact of air traffic on the surrounding neighborhood has been planned. The commission, however, has been waiting for more than 18 months for the Federal Aviation Administration funding for the study.

Having the noise study in hand is the key to passing a successful noise abatement ordinance that will hold up in court, Commissioner Alan Reynolds explained.

Such data could set priorities on aircraft curfewing noise greater than set deadlines.

The study's funding delay has frustrated the commission, as well as residents who want some definitive action taken on the issue.

"If you have a study, what is it going to do?" Reynolds said. "I don't want to do something good now instead of later."

To withstand legal challenge, the commission must prove the ordinance is reasonable, non-arbitrary, nondiscriminatory and that it does not place an undue burden on commerce, Reynolds said.

Stevens charged the airport commission and its staff with neglect because he claims no one has carried out instructions given last month to investigate measures to reduce pilots about the noise sensitive area surrounding Hatfield and Bellevue.

"I haven't seen any leadership from the board on it," Stevens said.

Members of the public said they want all pilots to voluntarily abide by an 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew, but officers said that was not sufficient.

Stevens said that the main change of noise abatement is like putting the fox in charge of the hen house, said one woman.

The commission would, however, to table the curfew. Instead, it will try harder to employ voluntary restrictions. It also will install a hot line number for complaints as an interim measure until the noise study can be conducted sometime in 1994 and an ordinance can then be adopted.

Arts council names new coordinator

TWIN FALLS — An active member of the local arts community has been named new coordinator of the Magic Valley Arts Council.

Betsy Bullard of Twin Falls was chosen from among 18 applicants who applied for the job vacated Sept. 28 by Alice Elwood, who had held the job two years. "We feel nothing but good things will happen with her help and assistance," says Gary Babbel, arts council president.

Bullard says her goals include drawing young people into the arts, using resources of the local business community, and strengthening the council's role as a coordinator among area arts groups.

She says she'd also like to expand cultural opportunities throughout the Magic Valley by sending Twin Falls-based groups "on the road" to other locations in the area.

A Twin Falls resident for two years, Bullard is married to the Rev. Mike Bullard, pastor of First Presbyterian Church. They have two children. Bullard is a violinist with the Magic Valley Symphony and has served as the arts council's corresponding secretary.

In other arts council news, Babbel says 400 Arts on Tour season tickets have been sold, putting the arts series far ahead of the 240 subscriptions sold all last season.

Tickets go on sale for club's Caravan to Concerts

TWIN FALLS — Tickets are now on sale for the Twin Falls Music Club's third "Caravan to Concerts." The afternoon of music will begin at 2 p.m. Oct. 14.

Performers will be the Magic Valley String Quartet, featuring Ernest Moss, Kevin Howard, Rick Strickland and Angela Pittman; the duo of Cy Gilbert and Jo Garish; and "Musical Theater Yesterday and Today," featuring Mary Mead and Roger Vinson, with Margaret Vincent as accompanist.

Ticket holders will move from home to home for each mini concert. Hosts will be Richard and Donna Drizzo, Mildred Wilson, and Donna and Rebecca Smith.

All proceeds will help provide scholarships for youths attending summer music camps and for continuing high school seniors who plan to further their music studies.

Tickets are $5 and are on sale at Judi's Book Store, 120 Main Ave. N., and at the Little Red Hen in the Magic Valley Mall. People wanting to purchase tickets may also call 733-7999 or 423-3560. Seating is limited.

Idaho author Chris Crutcher will appear in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Idaho native and author Chris Crutcher will appear from 6 to 7:30 tonight at Judi's Bookstore, 120 Main Ave. N.

Crutcher writes young adult fiction for junior and senior high school readers. His titles include "Running Loose," a story about a high school football player who's kicked off the team for standing up against his coach's offer for an illegal kick on an opposing player; and "Stonin'," a story about four high school friends who decide themselves to becoming the best swim team in the state of Idaho.

Crutcher is in the Magic Valley as part of the Idaho Reading Teachers Conference.

Idaho Watercolor Traveling Show is on public display

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Watercolor Traveling Show is currently being exhibited at the offices of the West One Bank in Twin Falls. The show will continue through Oct. 18.

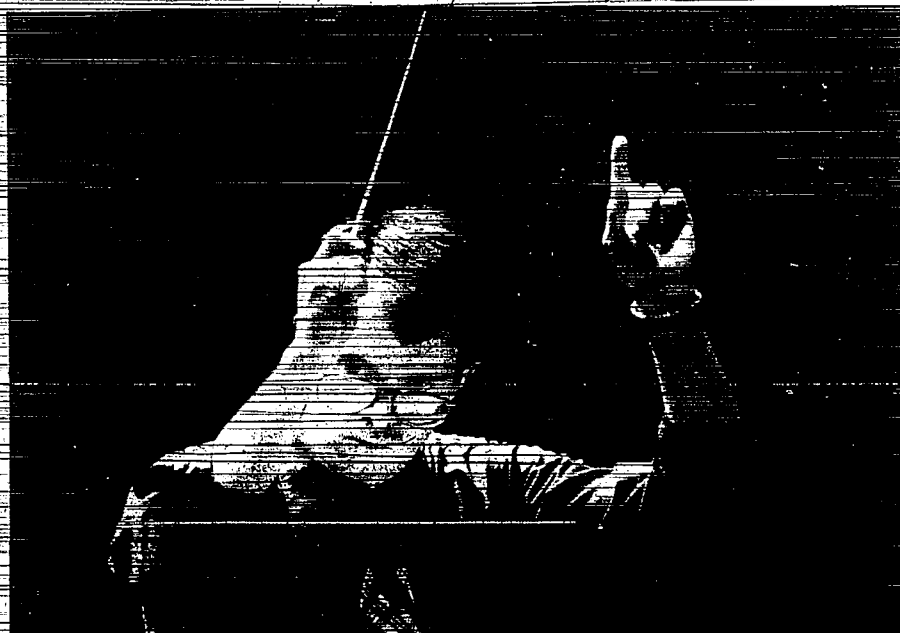

The traveling show was selected by Carlton Plummer of the American Watercolor Society from the 1989 Annual in Colorado. Show held in Boise during June.

Joan Sargent of Mullanburg, second place winner at the Boise show, is featured in the show, along with approximately 20 other Idaho artists.

Wall-climber as a music teacher and bandleader in the Twin Falls schools, Ted Hadley is the symphony's new conductor.

Symphony takes on new challenges

Changes include new conductor, record ticket sales, difficult repertoire, business sponsorship

Season begins Saturday

The Times-News

By Julie Eanselow
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Boasting record season ticket sales and a new conductor and music director, the Magic Valley Symphony appears to be starting its 32nd season this weekend on a decidedly high note.

A number of innovations are set for this year's season: four concerts instead of three, no performance lectures for ticket holders, and corporate sponsorship of the season.

"And although the biggest change is the man with the baton, Ted Hadley, no newcomer to the area's music scene, in addition to previously serving as a guest conductor for the symphony, he is well known as a music teacher and bandleader in the Twin Falls Schools and conductor of the Twin Falls Municipal Band.

The first pre-concert lecture is set for 7 p.m. Saturday in Room 121 of the Fine Arts Building. Kevin Howard, the symphony's principal violinist and president, will offer background on the compositions that will be played and help people understand the music.

"That's been our dream for a long time. We finally got our act together and found somebody who was willing to do them," Hadley says.

Hadley says the lectures should make concerts more enjoyable for listeners. If helps, he adds, "to get in touch with the emotions of the music rather than just having to watch over your fingers, a big set of sound waves from a lot of people listening."

"This kind of music takes more concentration than most music we encounter during the day," he says. "Music has such an ability to touch the emotions and we relegate it to a background function in our society. This is life from music."

Business sponsorship at concerts is another new feature the symphony is enthusiastically encouraging as it hopes businesses take this interest, Hadley says. "The symphony really adds to the ambience of the community. Not many places this size have this many cultural opportunities, despite all the yowls about nothing to do in Twin Falls."

On the contrary, Hadley says, there's "almost too much to do" in the Magic Valley. He cites the large number of performing and presenting groups competing for a relatively small audience.

The symphony has ensured its piece of the pie, however. Betsy Bullard, symphony publicist, says 1,000 season tickets were sold, up from 750 last year.

As for expanding the season to four concerts, Hadley indicates it is being done on a trial basis. In 1991, he says, the lectures should make concerts

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Symphony will perform the opening concert of its 1990-1991 season at 8 p.m. Saturday in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium.

The program will include Franz Joseph Haydn's Symphony No. 104 in D Major (the "London" symphony) and variations on a Shaker Melody by Aaron Copland, who used the hymn "I is a Gift to be Simple" as inspiration.

Also on the bill are Vittorio Giannini's Symphony No. 2 and Overture to "The Cowboys" by Markanday "movie" music composer John Williams.

The symphony has sold 1,000 season tickets for this year's concerts. Fine Arts Auditorium actually holds only about 970 people, but since symphony contributors and investors receive blocks of tickets — some of which go unused — for their higher priced subscriptions, seats should be available.

A limited number of advance tickets also will be available at Warner Music, Welch's Music, The Music Center, Judi's Bookstore and the CSI Bookstore.

Ticket holders are asked to be in their seats by 7:45 p.m. so remaining seats can be sold at the door.

NC-17 movies will come to stores, maybe theaters

By Brad Bowling
The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Movie watchers will have to wait a while before movies bearing the new NC-17 rating will hit the local big screen.

Video store operators say they will carry movies rated NC-17 when they are released, but theater managers have yet to decide on running the movies.

"There has been no decision made," said Larry Roper, managing director of Interstate Amusements, which owns theaters in Twin Falls and Jerome.

"If a movie comes along that has widespread interest, then yes, we would probably show it," he said. The first movie with the NC-17 rating, "Henry and June," was slated to open in only 500 theaters and won't open in Twin Falls.

"Henry and June" or another NC-17 film comes to Twin Falls, Roper said, he would consult with the managerial staff about whether or not to show it.

The new rating is intended to prohibit anyone under 17 years old from seeing the movie. The rating is not intended to restrict people looking to replace the "X" rating ever since the phrase became synonymous with the pornographic films.

The new rating denotes adult films that are not pornographic but do not qualify for the industry's "R" rating.

"The shift will mean more choices for video renters," said Loren Hart, owner of Great American Video in Twin Falls.

"It's a good idea," Hart said. "If a movie is rated X, I would not order it, but there are some films that are artistic, not just sex."

When NC-17 films do hit the video store, young renters will have to provide identification to prove they are 17 or older, Hart said.

Rental card holders can also leave instructions in the store's computer filing system to rent movies rated "R" or "NC-17" to their children, he said.

Video West has a similar system and will also carry the NC-17 movies if they are good movies," said manager Hermie Martin.

Hart pointed out that many movies that might qualify for an NC-17 rating are currently available before the change since filmmakers get scenes from their movies in order to avoid the deadly "X." When the films were released on video, the cuts were reinserted and the movie classified as "NR" or not rated.

The decision to show NC-17 movies in local theaters will largely be an economic one, Roper said. Interstate Amusements is dedicated to providing family entertainment, but "we are also in business in make

Roger Whittaker brings mellow voice to Jackpot

By Terrell Williams
Times-News correspondent

JACKPOT, NV — Roger Whittaker's biggest hits have been songs about saying goodbye and leaving loved ones behind.

"I've always had sad farewells," the African-born Englishman said in a telephone interview. "English kids are sent away to boarding schools when they're about seven and my life has been a whole series of saying goodbye and shedding tears for people. Maybe that's why I take to these songs."

A number of Whittaker's other songs are about the ocean, but this he could not explain.

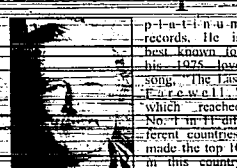

"I really love the sea that day I left since 1976. Whittaker estimates he travels an average of 250,000 miles a year.

Although he does not speak German, he records phonetically in that language and is considered one of Germany's most popular singers.

Whittaker's latest album, being recorded in Nashville, is called "You Deserve to Be Loved by a Piano Player. Whittaker's show is a relaxed combination of folk songs, country music, stories and wit.

By Clubboarder (Special Knight-Ridder News Service)

A lively comedy about spiritualism isn't all it is. A 13-year-old jungle drama is among the best of this week's new video releases. Coming this fall from the same studio is a new Q&A (1990) (HBO) $29.95 (132 minutes, 36 stars: Nick Nolte, Timothy Hutton, Armand Assante, Lumen's best film since 'The Verdict' and possibly the most compelling New York gritty anti-inflammatory movie examines the unofficial way urban justice is served along racial and ethnic lines. It provokes healthy disbelief in the system and promotes rage against the system that keeps people from coming together.

IN THE SPIRIT (1990) (Academy) $89.95, 94 minutes, 3 stars. Mario Thomas, Elaine May, Jeanine Berlin, Olympia Dukakis, Peter Falk, Melanie Griffith. Thomas stars as a 100 percent organic health-food guru and May as the 200 percent synthetic wife of a junk-bond king. Naturally, they become fast friends, uncovering a plot by cops to keep prostitution in New York. 247-7400.

Worldwide celebration will mark John Lennon's 50th

This idea originated to me by the wife of the UN secretary general. It is a pure, simple, very touching event, said Jeff Pollock, the radio and television columnist who came up with the idea. The event will be a worldwide celebration of the life and music of John Lennon. It will be a worldwide celebration of the life and music of John Lennon. 'Country Music Association Awards' blends fresh faces with familiar faces

By Christopher Hill

On Monday, Oct. 8, CBS airs "The 24th Annual Country Music Association Awards" live from where else? — the Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville, Tenn. More and more over the past two decades, the CMA Awards, the most prestigious in the world of country music, and CBS have come to look like family through their collaboration, and this year continues the tradition.

This will be the 13th consecutive year that CBS has broadcast the popular awards show, and two key production people have been involved long enough to be able to tell you all about the event's good old days: Bob Precht is producing the special for the 15th consecutive year, and Walter Miller is directing for the 20th straight time.

All of this is not to suggest that the real story of this year's CMA Awards will take place behind the cameras. Far from it: The live telecast will be co-hosted by country music luminaries Reba McEntire and Randy Travis, who will each be hosting the special for the first time. In addition to performing themselves, McEntire and Travis will share the two hours with a lineup of country music performers that includes Clint Black, Garth Brooks, the Oak Ridge Boys, the Kentucky Headhunters and the legendary Roy Rogers.

This may be the first time she acts as host for the CMA Awards, but McEntire is no stranger to the small screen. In the course of the last year she has co-hosted ABC's "Home" and filled in for Joan London on "Good Morning America." She has also appeared on "Larry King Live" and "Today." Still, she comes up with a case of nerves, we'll understand. In addition to all she has to keep straight as co-host, McEntire will no doubt be thinking about her own two nominations: Female Vocalist of the Year and Vocal Event of the Year (for her performance with Vince Gill).

Travis will be in similar straits, as he too has been nominated for two awards: Entertainer of the Year and Music Video of the Year (for "He Walked on Water"). Not a complete stranger to television, Travis includes among his credits appearances on "The Tonight Show," "Late Night With David Letterman" and "Saturday Night Live." As a special treat, and maybe the high point of the evening, Travis is scheduled to join George Jones,

Vern Gosdin and Roy Rogers in performing "Heroes and Friends."

The list of nominees for CMA Awards includes a few fresh faces as well as some familiar ones. Newcomer Garth Brooks, nominated by the CMA for the first time, is contending in five categories, the most of any nominee. Clint Black, Alan Jackson, the Kentucky Headhunters and Kathy Mattea were each nominated four times.

ON THE COVER: Hosts Reba McEntire and Randy Travis will be apt of the action on "The 24th Annual Country Music Association Awards," which air live from Nashville Monday, Oct. 8, on CBS.

Toss away your red wig: Roles are cast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite nationwide casting calls for unknowns to portray the late Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, a pair of professionals have been introduced as stars for CBS' "Lucy and Desi: Behind the Laughter."

Following auditions of "a couple thousand" Lucy lookalikes and desiring Desis, producer Larry Thompson said he selected Frances Fisher and Maurice Bernard to play the famous husband-and-wife. Fisher, who bears little resemblance to Miss Ball without makeup, has appeared in the television movies "Cold Sassy Tree," "Home" and "Broken Vows." Bernard, Nico Kelly on the soap opera "All My Children," looks somewhat like a young Arnaz. He said he had a conga that he was learning to play.

Miss Fisher and Bernard told reporters they were not concerned about playing two of the best-known actors in television history. They added that they were not bothered by concerns about the CBS project expressed by Lucie Arnaz, Lucy's and Desi's daughter. The film due to be broadcast in February, focus-

Lynn Redgrave really was a fatty

Q: Why do I get the feeling that although she does those commercials for weight-loss programs, Lynn Redgrave has always been slender and has never fought the battle of the bulge? — E.H.

A: Maybe you're getting a bit too skeptical about celebrities pushing products that they may or may not use. I can assure you that, yes, Lynn was once a genuine fatty. Just take a look at how she looked in the 1966 film, "Georgy Girl." In 1982, the British-born actress joined a weight-loss program, and promptly shed some 35 pounds. She never looked back. Lynn's experiences are for real, and rather inspiring to all overeaters.

Q: What's happened to "The Godfather, Part 3"? It was supposed to come out in early September. Is something wrong with it and they're not telling us? — F.E.

A: The movie was sabotaged when a copy of the script fell into the hands of a tabloid weekly, which ran some of the key plot information. Consequently, new sets had to

As for how additional scenes are still being shot in secret New York locations, by working nonstop, the film company is aiming for a Thanksgiving release. Despite the horrendous setbacks, those who have seen sections of the movie say it's sensational. We'll all find out in November.

Q: What is Jack Nicholson doing about that young girl he had an affair with and had a child by this spring? We think he's dumped the two of them and is trying to get back with Anjelica Huston, his real love.
A: G.O.

A: You wouldn't have thought that if you'd seen Nicholson, Rebecca Broussard and their 5-month-old daughter Lorraine frolicking on the Riviera. My French guy spotted them in early September, looking for all the world like any happy family on vacation.

Q: Jackie Collins, who writes all those juicy books, has said that a lot of people she writes about really exist. How come none of these Hollywood types ever sue her for libel?
A: C.O.D.

A: Jackie says most of her subjects are either dispensed or are composites. She's not worried about libel suits anyway, because, she says, "no one in Hollywood really reads, so they rarely recognize themselves."

SEXY FUND RAISER: Rumor has it that some "forty-something" Hollywood women got bored with traditional fund-raising affairs and have put a new spin on their charitable endeavors. From time to time they hold very private auctions where well-known models parade around in the nude and are bid on. Since there are a lot of handsome and hungry young men floating around movieland, these "prizes" are not hard to come by. The auctions raise thousands for worthy causes.

Q: They say Jamie Lee Curtis has sworn off doing nude scenes in movies. Since she has the most beautiful body in Hollywood, why would she even consider that?
A: L.P.

A: Let's just say she'd prefer to keep her clothes on, but she hasn't yet issued a moratorium. She was upset after Playboy magazine blew up nude stills from the movie "Trading Places," and later when an actor told her he had rented the movie and kept her nude scenes on his TV like a still frame all during a party.

Q: I'm too young to remember Burt Reynolds but my parents were big fans. To this day they think he was one of the most talented television performers. What made him so great?
A: M.W.

A: Kovacs brought his innovative comedy to television in its infancy in the 1950s, creating characters and skits whose uniqueness and inventiveness have not been matched since. Critics and students of the medium feel that only the Monty Python troupe has come close. Unfortunately, Kovacs' personal life was marked by extravagance, comings and goings, and trouble with the IRS. He was married to actress Edie Adams, who has written one of the two recently published books about him. Kovacs died in a Beverly Hills auto accident in 1972.

Q: Several stories on the new Sean Penn movie, "State of Grace," say it's patterned after the famed New York street gang the Westies, while others claim it's pure fiction. What is correct?
A: H.L.

A: "State of Grace's" production brass are anxious to push the idea that their new movie is by no means a faithful mirroring of the Westies' activities and lifestyle. "We purposely fictionalized it," claims co-producer Randy Ostrow, "because we saw the characters as being more universal than one specific Hell's Kitchen gang. It's more dramatic that way." The film stars Sean Penn as a good guy-bad guy who returns to his old tough neighborhood, with grim results.

WRITER'S CRAMP: Playwright Neil Simon wrote the script for "The Marrying Man," which stars Kim Basinger and her boyfriend-of-the-month Alec Baldwin. It seems Simon discovered Kim was rewriting and "polishing" some of this highly successful writer's dialogue in the film. This reportedly irritated him so much his back went out. He was hospitalized there was talk of hospitalizing him.

STILL OPENING: Judy Carne, one of the stars of the old "Laugh-In" show, has had her troubles with drugs and divorce. You remember she was once married to Burt Reynolds. Nevertheless, she's kept her sense of humor despite problems and the fact that the sock-it-to-me label follows Carne wherever she goes. Recently, Judy was having a good time in a Manhattan club when a "fan" approached, shouting the inevitable, "Sock it to me!" and doused her with a bottle of club

Soap opera scene

Soap stars going strong off Broadway

By John Goudas

Soap opera fans are mingling with theatre-goers these days and both groups are having a good time howling at the new off-Broadway comedy titled "Quiet on the Set." It is playing at the Orpheum Theatre in New York City and is the brainchild of actor-playwright Terrell Anthony, who used to be Rusty Slayne in "Guiding Light."

Terrell took all he learned while appearing in soaps and turned it into a play about the world of soap operas, cut from the fat of humor scenes from a fictional soap opera titled "Sunset" as well as the action between the actors when they are not appearing before the cameras.

The cast of the play includes five current soap actors — Robert Newman, who plays Joshua Lewis, and Beth Ehlers, who is Harley on "Guiding Light"; and from "All My Children," Kate Collins, who plays Natalie Hunter; Trent Bushoy, who is seen as David Rappal, and Matt Servitto, who is Trask Bodine. The quintet has quite a grueling schedule, doing the soap by day (often 10 hours of work) and then rushing to the theatre at night for the performance of "Quiet on the Set." What keeps them going is the wonderful bonus of playing in front of live audiences.

Beth put it best when she recalled doing a very dramatic scene in "Guiding Light" in which she was required to be reduced to a weeping heap on the floor. After she gave her all in the scene, the lights went out, the set dressers moved in and no one said a word to Beth, who was still on the floor crying her eyes out in the theatre, at least, there's applause!

On a recent appearance on "Donahue," the actors were asked questions from the studio audience and callers on the phone about being soap actors. Trent Bushoy, who had the women in Phil Donahue's audience swooning, was asked what was the most difficult thing about doing a soap. Bushoy replied that coming from a theatre background, he missed exactly what Beth Ehlers mentioned, the audience feedback.

Matt Servitto struck a more comical note in response to a question about love scenes on soaps. "After about two weeks on the show, my wife taped a particular episode in which I had this fairly intense love scene. We were playing it back that night and when the kissing scene came on, my wife hit the pause button and asked me why I never kissed her like that," Matt reported. "I told her it was just a job and I was getting paid well to do it."

Robert Newman, who may be leaving "Guiding Light" in the near future, indicated that when he started on soaps seven years ago, there was an attitude on the part of some actors that soaps were beneath them. However, Robert added things are changing and that misplaced snobbery is diminishing.

Kate Collins told an amusing story about fans who get soap characters mixed up with the actor who is playing the part.

"I was in Saks Fifth Avenue and I asked a salesgirl to direct me to the ladies room," Kate recalled. "She called over a security guard who, as it turned out, happened to be a huge fan of "All My Children," but she hated the character I play on the show, so she just refused to show me to the ladies room."

"Quiet on the Set" provides an evening of fun and there's even talk that the play might serve as the basis for a TV series.

CHANNEL CHATTER

A Martinez, whom soap fans know as Cruz in "Santa Barbara," has the leading role opposite Lisa Hartman in a new sci-fi movie for CBS titled "Not of This World." Martinez plays a sheriff in a Midwestern town who falls in love with the divorced Ms. Hartman while an alien creature is roaming around mutilating some of the townspeople. This marks Martinez's first starring role in a network TV movie and should pave the way for more of the same. It's un-soda. Wiping her face with a napkin, Judy good-naturedly said, "Here, your bottle's empty, let me buy you a fresh one." She and the fan began chatting amiably as if nothing had happened.

Q: Is it true that Diana Rigg has married Vanessa Redgrave as a correspondent in her divorce? — K.D.

A: You haven't got the facts quite straight. Diana Rigg is married to producer Archie Stirling, a wealthy 42-year-old Scotsman. He had a yearlong romance with 25-year-old Joely Richardson, Vanessa's daughter. Diana found out about it and she and Archie tried a reconciliation for a month.

Meanwhile, Vanessa took her daughter off to the French Riviera. Archie stands now, both fiery and Diana have broken up with Archie, and Ms. Rigg is suing for a divorce on the grounds of his "unreasonable behavior."

Q: What's this we hear about one of Cary Grant's ex-wives selling private photos of the late actor just to make money? Is she desperate? —

U.L.

A: The story is completely false. That's not to say that Grant's next-to-last wife, 53-year-old actress Dyan Cannon, doesn't have her share of woes these days. She is the mother of Grant's beloved daughter, Jennifer.

Following her divorce from the legendary actor, Dyan married real-estate developer Stan Emberg. The couple split recently, and reconciliation appears unlikely. Dyan, who has turned director, is working hard to forget her problems, editing a movie she had made called, appropriately enough, "End of Innocence."

Q: After seeing the Broadway musical "Gypsy," I wonder how accurate is the portrayal of Gypsy Rose Lee's mom as a tough cookie, the quintessentially pushy stage mother? — G.S.

A: June Haver, who's the late Gypsy Rose Lee's sister, confides to friends that she and Gyp weren't crazy about Ethel Merman's legendary 1929 interpretation of their real-life mother. They felt that Ethel's version of Momma Rose was too coarse and loud, far preferring the lighter spin put on the role by Tyne Daly, who recently left the show.

Q: My mother shares Rose Kennedy's birthday, July 22, and has cared greatly about her for many years. I like to bring her news and wonder why there haven't been any photographs of her even after last summer's party for her 100th birthday. — J.McD.

A: As you know, Rose Kennedy suffered a stroke six years ago which left her face partially paralyzed. The family does not discuss her condition but she is in need of round-the-clock nursing care and I have heard there are many days when she is not lucid.

The reason you don't see photographs that there is enormous respect for this woman's courage and an agreement among the press to leave her in peace.

Even the supermarket tabloids such as the National Enquirer will only publish a photo if it was taken with permission of the family, and as the editor said, "if it was a nice picture."

Viewers flip channel to Perry Mason content to let 'Twin Peaks' plummet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite its much-heralded return, ABC's whimsical "Twin Peaks" slipped into a ratings valley, finishing in 114th place in the weekly A.C. Nielsen Co. viewer derby.

In the Sunday night time slot, the two-hour "Twin Peaks" season premier finished behind NBC's "Perry Mason" movie and CBS' "The Untouchables." The Fox Broadcasting Co.'s situation comedy "Married... With Children" beat "Twin Peaks" on the night, too.

Led by a No. 1 finish for the second consecutive week by "Cheers," NBC was the week with a 12.9 average rating. CBS, which won the fall launch last week for the first time in six years, was second with a 12.3 rating. ABC was third with a 12.0 rating.

For the two-week-old television season, NBC is in the lead with a rating of 13.2, followed by CBS with 12.9 and ABC with 12.6.

The combined network share of the television audience was down to 63 percent from 68 percent the previous week. NBC attributed the decline to the Public Broadcasting Service series "The Civil War."

PBS said that its acclaimed 11-

Search team in Idaho to find funniest people

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP)—A film crew for the new ABC show "America's Funniest People" will visit the city of Coeur d'Alene on Sunday.

Roger Dopp, a research assistant working for Gina Communications-Vin Di Bona Productions in Hollywood, said a small crew will travel to Coeur d'Alene's City Park in search of humorous "stupid human tricks."

"We're looking for anything that makes people laugh," Dopp said. "That may be from someone who plays music on their teeth to singing backwards."

Even something as simple as a good joke is acceptable, he said, but they've got to be clean. This is a family show.

Dopp said anyone who can muster the courage and creativity to come forward in front of the camera for a shot at a national television appearance, and the possibility of winning the show's weekly $10,000 prize.

Coeur d'Alene is the first Idaho city to be featured on this particular program.

Dopp said the city of Coeur d'Alene was picked because the director of the segment to be shot in the Panhandle, Scott Schaefer, is from nearby Spokane, Wash.

If any segment from the Coeur d'Alene segment is selected for the program, it could appear as soon as Oct. 14, he said.

"America's Funniest People" airs on Sundays after the TV show "America's Funniest Home Videos."

Buffalo insulted

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The executive producer of the TV show "Coach" apologized for insulting Buffalo in a promo that ran on national television during a Monday night football game.

In the promo, actor Jerry Van Dyke, who plays an assistant coach in the ABC series, said the Buffalo Bills would lose no matter what the final score against the New York Jets was. "Even if you (Buffalo) win, you lose," Van Dyke said. "You still have to go home to Buffalo."

The line prompted dozens of outraged telephone calls to WKBW-TV. Barry Kemp, the series' chief writer and executive producer, said the line was "a thoughtless slip."

"I apologize to the people of Buffalo. It was uncalled for," Kemp told The Buffalo News. "I will figure out some way of making it up to Buffalo. We'll put something positive on the show to make it up."

Pauley's in

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Pauley, enjoying life in prime time since leaving 13 years of pre-dawn wakeups on "Today," is assured of a new midseason series and a new five-year contract, NBC said Monday.

The series' title, "Real Life With Jane Pauley," also was the title of five Pauley specials broadcast in prime time this summer. All did well in the ratings, averaging a 21-percent share of the audience, NBC said.

Terms of her new contract weren't disclosed. Pauley, who turns 40 on Oct. 31, left "Today" in December after a series of changes and turmoil there led to her departure. She was succeeded as co-anchor by Deborah Norville.

Pauley's series and new contract were announced to NBC News staffers in a memo from NBC News president Michael Gartner. The memo contained potentially bad news for some.

"If Gartner said there will be an increase — no number was specified — in the news division's work force and some employees shifted to 'new shows' however, he warned, 'others whose skills don't match those needed for the new shows or for any show, perhaps as many as 25, may be laid off.'"

Pauley's in

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Pauley, enjoying life in prime-time since leaving "43 years of pre-dawn wakeups on 'Today,'" is assured of a new midseason series and a new five-year contract, NBC said Monday.

The series' title, "Real Life With Jane Pauley," also was the title of five Pauley sports broadcasts in prime time this summer. All did well in the ratings, averaging a 21 percent share of the audience, NBC said.

Terms of her new contract weren't disclosed. Pauley, who turns 40 on Oct. 31, left "Today" in December after a series of changes and turmoil there led to her departure. She was succeeded as co-anchor by Deborah Norville.

Pauley's series and new contract were announced to NBC News staffers in a memo from NBC News president Michael Gartner. The memo contained potentially bad news for some.

In it, Gartner said there will be no increase in number was specified in the new division's work force and some employees shifted to "new shows." However, he warned, "others whose skills don't match those needed for the new shows or for any show, perhaps as many as 25, may be laid off."
