U.S. warns Iraqis to stay clear of refugees

The Associated Press

ZAKHO, Iraq — A U.S. general met with Iraqi military officers Friday to tell them to stay out of the way as allied troops build camps for Kurdish refugees struggling to survive in the mountains of northern Iraq.
Lt. Gen. John L. Shalikashvili, head of allied military forces mobilized to deal with the refugee crisis, delivered the warning during a 45-minute meeting at an empty customs station just inside northern Iraq.
"We had a very frank exchange of views," he said after emerging and shaking hands with the two Iraqi officers.
But he added that "as in all first meetings there are some issues that remain to be worked. We will work them (out) in due time."
He did not elaborate. A Pentagon spokesman, Air Force Capt. Sam Grizzle, said the Iraqis had confirmed they would not operate any aircraft north of the 36th parallel. He said he couldn't confirm British newspaper reports the Iraqis were told to withdraw all troops from a zone about 30 miles wide along the Turkish border.

The meeting took place as U.S. troops continued to scout for sites for the refugee camps. U.S. officials said six Special Forces teams had been formed to search for suitable locations.
U.S. construction units in Turkey began building a base to serve 550 American personnel at Hakarrari near the Iraqi border.
Italy and the Netherlands, as well, pledged new assistance for the refugees inside Iraq.
Italy's Foreign Ministry said the government will open a camp — guarded by 500 soldiers — for 60,000 Kurdish refugees, possibly near the Iranian border. The Dutch promised to send 1,000 soldiers and set up a camp for up to 10,000 refugees, according to the ministers of Defense and Foreign Affairs.
And tons of relief supplies continued to pour into Turkey.

Baker meets resistance from Israeli leader over Arab peace talk ideas

The Washington Post

JERUSALEM — Secretary of State James A. Baker III pressed the government of Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir Friday to compromise with Arab states on the format of a proposed regional peace conference, but Israeli sources said Baker met considerable resistance during a tough, four-hour meeting with Shamir.
Returning to Israel after extensive consultations with Arab leaders, Baker presented a series of ideas to Shamir and Foreign Minister David Levy in an effort to bridge the gap between Israeli and Arab conceptions of how peace talks could be launched, officials said.
As their meeting ended Friday afternoon,

Shamir told Baker that his government would consider some of the U.S. proposals and prepare a detailed response—officials said. However, Israeli officials suggested that Baker continued to face considerable difficulties in seeking to overcome disputes on procedural issues.
"It was easy enough to agree on the general principles" of a regional conference during Baker's two earlier tours through the Middle East, said one senior Israeli official. "But as you get down to the details it's getting rough and tough."
"Another Israeli official" was critical of Baker's approach to Shamir. "He made a mistake in his tactics," the official said. "He gathered all of his questions into one

Census might have missed 28,000 in Idaho head count

The Associated Press

BOISE — A special survey intended to check the accuracy of the federal government's 1990 census shows that head counts may have underestimated Idaho's population by 28,000.
The survey, one of several tools the government is using to judge the accuracy of last year's census, showed the estimated undercount in Idaho was one of the largest for any state in terms of percentage.
Idaho's population released by the Census Bureau in January was just under 1,007,000, but the survey indicated the actual count could be 2.8 percent higher. Only 13 other states had larger potential percentage undercounts.
The suggestion that Idaho's population on April 1, 1990 was actually about 1,035,000 would bring it closer to estimates state analysts made prior to the release of the census figures. They were projecting Idaho's population at over 1,028,000.
Overall, the survey indicated the national population could be as much as 2.1 percent higher than the census figures show, adding another 6 million people to bring the total to around 254 million.

But the Census Bureau emphasized that the survey results were not final and only part of the continuing discussion on whether to revise census figures, which determining not only the number of representatives each state has in Congress but also how much federal assistance the individual states will receive under a myriad of programs.
Bolstering the indication that Idaho may have been undercounted was the survey's finding that Hispanics in general were undercounted by over 6 percent.
While the original census figures showed Idaho's Hispanic population growing by nearly 45 percent during the decade of the 1980s to 53,000, Hispanic leaders maintain that is still significant below the actual number.
Carmelo Lopez has estimated the state's year-round Hispanic population at 65,000, ballooning to 95,000 during the agricultural season.

Prosecutor won't file charges against youth center owners

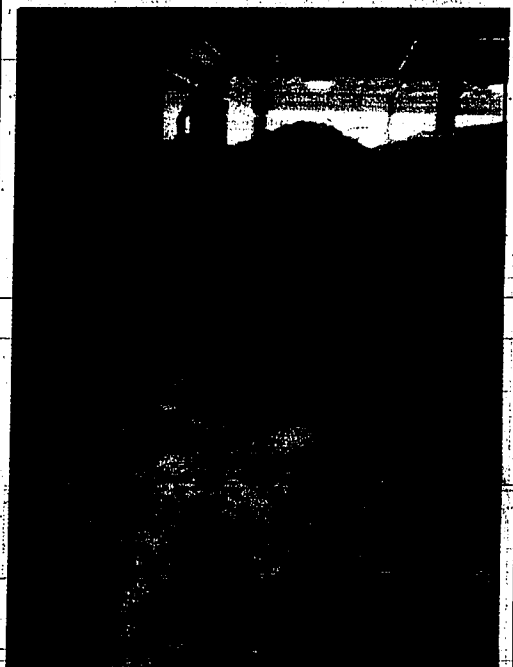

By Brad Bowlin Times-News writer

JEROME — Criminal charges will not be filed against the owners of the Southern Idaho Youth Center, which closed in September in the midst of a state investigation into allegations of rape and three other incidents at the center.
"There may have been some technical violations of the law, but nothing... that warrants criminal charges," Jerome County Prosecutor John Horgan said Friday.
The juvenile detention center came under scrutiny last June when a female inmate filed a tort claim alleging she was raped by another inmate while at the center.
Also in June, co-owner John Devine and his wife, Rose, struggled with two combative female detainees.
The center's former administrator, Bill Amoureux, accused Devine of abusing the girls, but Devine denied using excessive force in the incident. Amoureux was later fired.

Devine

Devine said Friday that he was confident the investigation would prove him and his wife innocent.
"I knew my innocence," said Devine, who now works as an architectural consultant.
"I was almost hoping he would charge us because I knew how strong our case was."
Although the findings were in his favor, Devine is upset the investigation took nearly 10 months to complete.

Contracts were signed for spuds that will roll into Universal Frozen Foods and five other french fry processors.

Potato growers settle contracts for $5 per hundredweight

By Denise Turner Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Potato Growers of Idaho has settled eight pre-season contracts this year without the strife of previous bargaining years.
The agreement for french fry contracts was for $5 per hundredweight. Last year's final offer was $4.86 a hundredweight.
In 1990, only one major french fry contract was resolved, causing concern over the outlook this year.
"I think everyone who has contracts is pleased and, generally, got a pretty good deal," said Russy Gillette, who runs a seed potato operation in the Magic Valley. "Everyone would like more, of course, but this will cover the cost of production."
Lois Likely, who farms 250 acres of potatoes with her husband southeast of Jerome, agrees that the contracts are fair. "Everything looks pretty good this year," she said.
John Rooney, PGI executive director, said contracts with Idaho processors were signed by early March, and negotiations went quickly and smoothly.

French fry contracts were signed with the J.R. Simplot Co., Ore-Ida Foods Inc., Carnation, Universal Frozen Foods, Western Potato Processing and Lamb Weston Inc.
Processors that signed contracts for fresh and dehydrated potatoes are Pillsbury and Sunspiced, at $5.20 per hundredweight.
According to Rooney, the decision by PGI members to allow bargaining committees more flexibility in negotiations and to begin contract negotiations earlier than usual, helped to settle the contracts.
"Most bargaining chairmen and committee members felt locked in a year ago to a price range the growers had voted on in meetings around the state."
Negotiations for pre-season contracts this year began in December and are geared for potatoes planted this spring and harvested in the fall.

Pentagon reducing nuclear targets
WASHINGTON - The United States plans to eliminate more than 1,000 Soviet Bloc sites targeted for attack in the event of war, news reports said Friday.
The Los Angeles Times said well over 1,000 and perhaps more than 2,000 targets have been scratched, many in Eastern Europe, because of easing Cold-War tensions.
Without the eliminations, the newspaper said, approximately 8,500 Soviet Bloc sites would be on the list of potential targets for the 12,000 U.S. nuclear warheads.
The Washington Post, in a similar report, said the plan was prepared by civilian and military officials at the Pentagon with help from experts at the Strategic Air Command in Omaha, Neb. The plan is nearing final approval by the Bush administration, it said.

The Pentagon said in a statement that Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Colin Powell, "are well aware of the dramatic changes in the Warsaw Pact and our planning takes account of such changes."

cal Wanderking from West Virginia found himself wandering around the nighttime streets of Old Town Alexandria, Va., looking for a park bench to sleep on. Suddenly, he found himself staying in shelters for the homeless with men who described the best way to take a straight razor to someone's throat. Suddenly, he found himself stuffing envelopes, pumping gas and answering telephones in a vain search for a permanent job.
"I guess I wanted to prove I could make it here," he said, adding softly, "I guess I didn't."
As King tells his story, no one factor emerges as the reason for his decline. The economy, of course, was a factor. King now views it, his rise-and-fall story is more about his personal arrogance and failure, of unexpectedly hitting bottom but not being able to ask for help.
His case contradicts the stereotypical image of the homeless. He is not mentally deranged, nor a product of poverty. Friends say he has no drinking or drug problem. He is a college-educated man from a middle-class upbringing who discovered his own limitations at the same time he learned that homelessness is not merely an affliction of the ghetto.
"I found out I didn't take much to waylay someone," King said.
A native of the small town of Langer, W.V., King, 40, said he came to Washington in 1988 and set up a one-man firm called Palladin Consulting, using post office boxes, fancy letterheads and a little "smoke and mirrors" to build an impressive front. "I had a great illusion going," he said. "There were people out there who thought I was one hellawfully large company."
But according to King and his professional associates, his intense personality, his flamboyant style brought him a number of clients. He and other officials met with Staff Brig. Gen. Nushwan Hanou and Staff Brig. Gen. Abdul-Fazl Jazail. The Iraqis declined to speak to reporters but told U.S. officers they were from "status grade" or "premier" level. The Shalikhvili and the meeting's purpose was to set ground rules that would "as much as possible eliminate any possibility of clashes between this coalition forces and Iraqi forces in this area."

collapse of their rebellion against Saddam Hussein. Several thousand U.S. British and French soldiers are welcomed the camps.
In Washington, the White House welcomed Iraq's agreement with the United Nations on Thursday to establish centers for refugees in northern Iraq. Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the plan "appears to provide a basis for the U.N. to take over the operation we will establish" with allied troops.
The special U.N. envoy who reached the agreement with Iraq, Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, had said earlier in the day in Geneva that he expected the U.S. and U.N. plans to be reconciled, but he declined to speculate on when.
"They's Shelter, I walked in the door. They said, 'Who are you?' And I said, 'I was someone once.' I was, I had lunch at the White House once. I used to walk in senators' offices and congressmen's offices," King said.
King had many people to turn to in his ex-wife, his parents, his brothers, his friends - but the shame of failure, he decided, was worse than the ordeal of the shelters.
"I couldn't face it," he said. "I had become everything I had loathed all my life. I just wanted to become anonymous and withdraw. I just ran and hid."
Dorn King, his 75-year-old mother who still lives in Langer, said that her son wants to return home, all he needs to do is call collect. "He's just as welcome to come home as he can be," she said.
King said that after eight weeks at Carpenter's, three weeks at the city shelter and a week at another shelter, in February he got fed up with the rules and began hopping from one friend's house to another. After cleaning himself up, he now interviews for jobs, visits a therapist and reflects on his predicament.

body who wanted to shut us down," he said.
"It was better for them to have ruin. Roaming around than to have the facts presented."
Idaho Bureau of Investigation agent Mike Burgess, who handled the investigation, said in December that the probe was slowed because many of the children involved in the incidents had left the area.
Burgess turned his report over to Horgan in March, who decided earlier this week that no criminal charges should be filed.
The detention center closed at the end of September after the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare said it planned to revoke the center's license.
When he announced the decision in August, then-Health and Welfare regional director David Davis cited several factors including high staff turnover, the use of padlocks on bedroom doors, the lack of a qualified administrator and a fight at the center that left one youth with a dislocated shoulder.
The report may have exonerated Devine, but it contains other allegations regarding the center's closure, Devine said.
"There's some other stuff in there that warrants somebody looking into," he said. He declined to reveal specific information in the report, which has remained confidential while Horgan studied it.

the implementation of self-rule by Arabs in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.
According to Israeli officials, the difficulties Baker is now focusing on involve differences between Israel and the Arabs - in particular Syria - as to how the peace agreement would be structured, as well as problems on how to choose a Palestinian delegation.
Israel's position is that any general meeting of Israel and the Arab states should consist of a simple, ceremonial opening followed by direct bilateral talks between Israel and each Arab government.
However, the Arab states would like the conference to have a permanent framework, so that a general assembly could be convened. Syria has said that it would like the conference to involve not only the United States and the Soviet Union but other outside powers as well, perhaps through the United Nations.
Israeli sources said Shamir resisted compromise proposals floated by Baker that would give the proposed conference a more permanent character without allowing it to act collectively or impose decisions on Israel.
"I don't think there is any change in our position on that," one official said.

big package and pushed it in front of the Senate. Shamir didn't shut the door, but he didn't say yes. I don't know what will happen now."
U.S. officials, who have imposed a virtual news blackout on Baker's activities since he returned to Jerusalem Thursday, refused to provide details of the latest discussions. State Department spokesman Margaret Tutwiler issued a written statement saying that following the talks, "it was decided that the Israeli government would back in touch with Secretary Baker with his response... When and how, of course, will be determined by the Israeli government."
Israeli officials said it was possible that Baker, who is scheduled to leave here Saturday for a meeting with Palestinian delegates, would return Tuesday or Wednesday after visits to Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Egypt and Syria. However, one added, "It's not sure. We have a lot to digest and to respond to. There will be more talks. It is not clear when."
The proposal that Baker is pursuing is based on a "two-track" arrangement under which Israeli would enter direct negotiations with Arab states at a regional peace meeting, and at the same time begin discussions with a Palestinian delegation on

Parkinson's disease victim quits House seat

Knights-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — If ridicule is the worst enemy of pompous politicians, then humor must be the best friend of successful ones. Otherwise, how could you ever explain Morris Udall, the angular Arizona whose wit is legend and whose congressional career is among the most sparkling in this century.

Morris Udall
Served 30 years in Congress

On Friday, after a 14-year struggle against Parkinson's Disease, a degenerative disorder that robs even the keenest minds and shrinks the most stalwart physiques, Morris K. Udall resigned his 30-year seat in the House.

"It is one of the saddest days I've known," said Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., one of Udall's longtime allies. "As sad as it is to his many admirers, in and out of Congress, it is not the emotion that the 68-year-old Udall would recommend."

His life, often lashed by adversity, has been one of unswerving optimism, self-targeted humor and good cheer.

He lost an eye in a childhood accident, but later navigated his way into the Army Air Corps in World War II and went on to play professional basketball with the Denver Nuggets before entering politics.

In troubled times, Udall has invariably found a beacon of humor — turning it on himself and basking in the light of his own, sometimes absurd, travail.

In 1970, vying against the late

Hale Boggs, D-La., for the post of House majority leader, Udall and his supporters sported "MO" lapel pins as they confidently entered the Democratic Caucuses. But when the tables turned in favor of Boggs, Udall gave a gracious concession speech and expressed his pain by turning his pin upside down. It said "OW." Exit laughing.

He has even made light of the insidious and incurable disease that slowly but surely brought him down. After he had been diagnosed as having Parkinson's, a scandal erupted in Congress over the purported romantic liaisons between some prominent House members and sultry blond lobbyist, Paula Parkinson.

"There are some similarities between my affliction and those affairs," Udall mused. "They both cause you to lose sleep, and they both give you the shakes."

As the chief architect of the independent U.S. Postal Service, Udall later came to rue his role in severing the agency from congressional control. During a heated debate one day over the growing federal budget deficit, Udall rose on the House floor and suggested that the problem be turned over to the Postal Service.

"That way," Udall said with a scowling grin, "we'll slow it down and probably never see it again."

Spurning his more ardent supporters who wanted to draft him to challenge President Jimmy Carter in the party primaries in 1980, Udall just fully recalled his vainglorious effort four years earlier to best Carter in the '76 primary races.

"If nominated I will run — for the Mexican border," Udall told them. "If elected, I will fight extradition."

"Of all the political trials that tested Udall's sense of humor, his abortive 1976 campaign against Carter was probably the toughest.

Underfunded, outmanned and outmaneuvered, Udall still managed to finish second to Carter in a series of elections that broke his heart but left his sense of the ridiculous intact.

After losing by a nose in Wisconsin and Ohio, he finally called it quits. At an end-of-the-campaign party in Cleveland, TV network newsmen Bill Plante and Ike Pappas presented Udall with a straitjacket to commemorate the zany race he ran. Then reporters sang a song they composed to the tune of "Second-hand Rose," entitled "Second-place Mo."

Udall responded by leading a drenching charge against the reporters, accompanied by his Secret Service bodyguards, all armed with water pistols.

Udall was elected in 1961 to succeed his older brother, Stewart, who was appointed secretary of interior by President John F. Kennedy. Since then, Udall has scored major triumphs in fields ranging from the environment to campaign and civil service reform. He also was a leader in streamlining outdated legislative procedures and in overturning strict seniority rules for picking House committee chairmen.

"His genius is in winning over people who are opposed to what he is trying to do," said former Rep. John F. Schuberling, D-Ohio, who helped Udall win enactment of a toughly contested strip-mine reclamation bill and another bill to shield 115 million acres of pristine forests in Alaska from development. "He has extremely high prestige on both sides of the aisle. He is a person of tremendous integrity who never shrank from exercising leadership."

Udall was elected in 1989 for prison construction and for hiring new prosecutors.

The report concentrated on the mishandling of commercial properties initially valued at more than $1 million. The GAO said real property totaled $620.8 million of the $1.4 billion total, but specified no breakdown between commercial and non-commercial seizures.

National deficit down in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal deficit totaled $40.85 billion last month, down 23.4 percent from March 1990 in part because of foreign contributions to defray the costs of the Gulf War, the Treasury Department reported Friday.

Still, the difference between what the government took in last month and what it spent boosted the deficit to $151.64 billion so far in the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30 — or 0.5 percent above the level at this time last year.

The Bush administration expects the gap to swell to $318.1 billion by the end of the fiscal year, far more than the $221.1 billion record set in 1986. The deficit in fiscal 1990 was $220.4 billion.

Revenues last month were unchanged from March 1990 at $64.81 billion, while expenditures rose 10.6 percent to $105.65 billion.

Seized property costing U.S. millions, says GAO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Marshals Service is mismanaging millions of dollars in commercial property seized from drug dealers and other criminals, resulting in a significant income loss for the light against illegal drugs, the General Accounting Office says.

The report said that the Marshals Service lost a $1.5 million profit on one property alone after utility bills went unpaid for a year.

The government has lost or is at risk of losing money on properties worth millions of dollars," said the report, which did not attempt to estimate a total income loss.

The GAO said the Marshals Service, a Justice Department agency, had custodial responsibility for some $1.4 billion worth of seized property as of Dec. 31. The program gener-

Credit tightened in midst of Fed policy dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve, struggling with an unusually sharp policy split in its own ranks, has temporarily halted credit easing, analysts said Friday, despite pressure from the Bush administration to push interest rates lower to end the recession.

The agency also caused "embarrassment to the government" by seizing an innocent person's property and once paid for an audit that consisted — solely — of comparing checks written by an apartment manager with the amounts recorded on check stubs by the same manager. "The government has lost or is at risk of losing money on properties worth millions of dollars," said the report, which did not attempt to estimate a total income loss.

Gorbachev makes historic trip to S. Korea

CHEJU ISLAND, South Korea (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev arrived Friday on this South Korean island to the cheers of thousands, but also to angry protests from students who say his visit could antagonize the Communist north.

About 5,000 students demonstrated in Seoul and smaller rallies occurred on campuses nationwide to protest the first-ever visit to South Korea by a Soviet president.

On the peninsula's southernmost island, thousands of citizens greeted Gorbachev as his plane arrived from Japan on the last stop of an Asian tour. The islanders waved and shouted greetings to Gorbachev and his wife, Raisa, as their limousine passed through the streets.

Your visit to Korea gives renewed hope to the Korean people that an era of peace and unification is drawing near on the Korean peninsula," President Roh Tae-woo said at a dinner honoring Gorbachev.

Gorbachev, in turn, called the development of Soviet-South Korean relations "a good example for all Asian and Pacific nations."

"Some people may have different opinions about that," he said, alluding to North Korea.

ing to North Korea, a Soviet ally, and its supporters. "But we think there are no obstacles."

Issues of peace and security on the Korean peninsula topped the agenda for Saturday's summit talks, though no major agreements were expected. After the talks, Gorbachev was to return to Moscow.

Gorbachev's visit came a week after South Korea's defense minister said that Seoul might launch a commando raid to destroy North Korean nuclear facilities. Seoul quickly distanced itself from the comment, which North Korea denounced, but the remark heightened tensions in the most heavily militarized area of Asia.

South Korea is expected to ask the Soviets to cut off supplies of plutonium and other nuclear materials to North Korea until Pyongyang agrees to international inspections of its facilities. They also want Gorbachev to press North Korea to resume suspended inter-Korea dialogue.

The visit is of significant symbolic value to Koreans who hope Gorbachev — whose country maintains relations with both Seoul and Pyongyang — can be a mediator in the Cold War confrontation between the Koreas.

It was the third meeting between Roh and Gorbachev in 10 months and the second since the two nations surprised the world and angered North Korea by establishing diplomatic ties.

North Korea indirectly criticized Gorbachev on Friday by carrying reports of the South Korean demonstrations on its official news agency.

In Seoul, about 5,000 radical students hurling rocks and firebombs surged through the center of the city, burning two police buses and chanting "Down with Roh Tae-woo!"

Fighting brought downtown traffic to a standstill for more than an hour as students took over four city blocks near the U.S. Embassy.

News reports said 50,000 students held rallies at 144 universities.

Livestock disease eradicated from Europe

ROME (AP) — Foot-and-mouth disease, which has devastated European livestock for centuries, has been eradicated from the continent, a U.N. agency said Friday.

The last outbreak of the highly contagious virus was recorded in July, 1989, the Rome-based Food and Agriculture Organization said. It said the cases had fallen because of vaccinations and import controls.

Archbishop of Canterbury enthroned, vows resurgence

The Baltimore Sun

LONDON — To the sound of music from the 12th and 20th centuries, with the pagantry of medieval ritual, a new archbishop of Canterbury was enthroned Friday, promising to lead the Anglican church with missionary zeal.

George Carey, 55, the former bishop of Bath and Wells, becomes the 103rd archbishop of Canterbury since Saint Augustine (597-607), in whose chair he sat for part of Friday's service.

He is comparatively young for the job of primate of all England and head of the 70 million strong worldwide Anglican denomination, and made it clear Friday that he would be a religious activist.

He told the congregation, "No church can or should avoid political comment when freedom, dignity and worth are threatened."

"The Cross of Jesus Christ firmly roots us in human concerns and needs — and places us alongside the oppressed, the dispossessed, the homeless, the poor and the starving millions of our planet," he said, noting particularly the plight of the Kurds.

He also said that the release of Western hostages in Lebanon, including Terry Waite, the special Middle East envoy of his predecessor, would be a priority.

As archbishop of Canterbury, Carey commands more influence than actual power over Anglican dioceses in 164 countries, including the 2.5 million Episcopalians in the United States.

Boat of aliens sinks killing 5

BOQUERON, Puerto Rico (AP) — A boat loaded with more than 70 Dominican aliens capsized and sank Friday in rough seas off the coast of western Puerto Rico, and officials said at least five people drowned.

The seas were so turbulent that a police rescue boat overturned while taking on survivors, but it was not immediately known whether that accident caused any of the casualties.

Sixty-nine survivors were pulled from the sea, including six who were hospitalized, Petty Officer Bruce Pimental, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman, said in a statement. He said five Dominicans had drowned.

Pimental said it was unlikely more survivors would be found.

Wendell man dies in dairy farm accident

WENDELL — An automatic gate inside a dairy barn crushed and killed a Wendell man Wednesday night.

Aldo J. Juarez, 25, was dead when officials arrived at the Heida Dairy southwest of Wendell at around midnight, Gooding County Sheriff Robert Aja said.

Juarez apparently was working inside one of the pens that holds cows as they are being milked when the accident occurred, Aja said.

It happened the switch turning on the automatic sliding doors that close off the pens and did not make it out of the pen. The door pinned Juarez along his chest and neck area, Aja said.

Thursday night fire in rural Kimberly claims barn, pigs

KIMBERLY — Twenty-two pigs died in a barn fire, southeast of Kimberly Thursday night.

Kimberly Fire Chief Rob Vawser said the small barn, owned by John Sommers, was fully engulfed in flames when officials were called at 10:40 p.m.

The barn was nearly destroyed by the time firefighters arrived at the farm eight miles south and six miles east of town, Vawser said.

Faulty electrical wiring apparently caused the blaze, he said.

Former Kimberly teacher to change plea in molesting case

TWIN FALLS — The Kimberly Junior High School math teacher who pleaded innocent in December to charges that he molested a 14-year-old boy last summer is scheduled to change that plea Monday.

Michael A. Thompson, 43, faces five counts of lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor under 16. He was arrested in November after the boy and his mother told police the boy had been molested.

Thompson, who lives in Twin Falls, was suspended from teaching until the case is resolved. He has taught in Kimberly for four years.

Ketchum artist pleads guilty in court to selling drugs

HAILEY — A Ketchum wood sculptor admitted in court Friday that he sold drugs to an undercover agent in January.

Larry Lefner, 45, pleaded guilty to two counts of delivering a controlled substance. Fifth District Judge James May set sentencing in the case for June 3.

Lefner, who rents a studio in Ketchum, said he has worked in Blaine County as an artist for 16 years. In January, he sold LSD and marijuana on consecutive days to a man working undercover for the Blaine County Drug Task Force, Lefner told the judge.

The guilty plea was part of an arrangement with prosecutors who agreed not to file other possible charges related to the case. Lefner was already on probation for three earlier drug counts in 1987.

Chamber endorses Twin Falls School District bond issue

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the proposed $20 million bond issue.

The flexibility of the bond proposal offers in solving issues facing the school district over the next 10 to 15 years have been addressed by the Long-Range Planning Citizen's committee, said chamber president Jeff Harris.

The chamber is a strong proponent of a good educational system, he said.

Twin Falls residents will have a chance to vote on the proposal to build a new high school near the College of Southern Idaho on May 21.

The new school would house 2,000 students.

2 Kimberly residents in good condition after car accident

TWIN FALLS — Two Kimberly residents were injured Friday morning when their car was struck by a potato truck.

Matilda Guerrero, 35, and Steven Guerrero, 18, were in good condition at the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital where they remained Friday evening for observation, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Matilda Guerrero was in the left turn lane heading south at the intersection of Eastlund Drive and Kimberly Road when she was hit by a truck loaded with potatoes, a police report says. The accident happened just before 11 a.m.

The truck, driven by Daniel G. Lopez of Rupert, was westbound on Kimberly Road and failed to stop at a red light, the report says. Lopez, 53, was cited for failing to stop at a red light. He was not injured.

Hailey girl pleads innocent to attempted murder

By Brad Bowlin
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Michelle Renner, 15, pleaded innocent Friday to charges that she shot her half-brother in March.

Prosecutors have charged Renner with the attempted murder of her half-brother, Matthew Renner. The two lived together in Hailey until February, when Michelle Renner accused her half-brother of domestic battery.

Renner spoke clearly and calmly at 5th District Judge James May went over her rights and asked if she understood the charges against her. After the hearing, the black-clad Renner looked straight ahead as sheriff's deputies led her out of the courtroom and back to the Blaine County work release center where she is being held.

Matthew Renner, 27, is recovering at home from a single shot to the ribs from a .257 Magnum pistol, which he suffered March 22.

May said he will announce a trial date Wednesday. He initially set the case for Aug. 26, but Blaine County Prosecutor Ned Williamson said that could conflict with the Mitchell Odiaga murder trial slated to begin July 22.

Friday's hearing was the latest episode in a history of conflict between the Renners.

Matthew Renner, a Ketchum painter and stonemason, was charged in February with misdemeanor battery in a case involving his half-sister.

Jerome County Prosecutor John Horgan has been appointed to handle that case, which is set for trial May 30 in Hailey.

Allegations that Matthew Renner sexually assaulted his half-sister in the fall are also being investigated by the state attorney general's office, Williamson said, although no charges have been filed yet.

Although Michelle Renner is a juvenile,

Idaho law requires she be tried as an adult, Williamson said.

The minimum sentence for attempted murder is five years in prison. May said Friday he is unsure what the maximum penalty would be because Idaho law sets the sentence for attempted murder as half of that for first-degree murder, which carries a maximum term of life.

Williamson has said he may ask to move the case out of Blaine County due to extensive publicity.

"I would consider a change of venue, but I haven't made any decision to file a motion to that effect," he said.

'Mrs. Fred' adds to string of state speech titles

By Kirk Mitchell
Times-News writer

JEROME — John Wooden was to college basketball what Judi Fredericksen is to high school speech in Idaho.

Last weekend the Jerome High School speech team won its fifth state speech championship in the seven years Fredericksen has coached the team. Twenty-three Jerome students made the semifinal round.

"We're disappointed if we get second place," said Ben Burdick, one of Fredericksen's senior stars who this year won state championships in humorous interpretation and radio.

In 1990, the team broke a string of four state titles with a second-place finish, losing to Madison High School of Rexburg by one point.

Why has Jerome won so many championships?

"I think it has to reflect the values of the community," Fredericksen said. "Speaking is important in Jerome."

Her students see it differently.

"It's because of Mrs. Fred. We work hard because of her," Burdick said.

Senior Grant Lawley, who reached the semifinal round in after-dinner speaking, agreed.

"We do it for Judi."

Jerome's string of victories is particularly notable in that there is only a single division for speech competition in Idaho; the largest schools compete with the smallest. Jerome, with 689 students in grades 9 through 12, regularly beats schools with enrollments twice as large.

Jerome Senior Ben Burdick performs an encore of his interpretation of Neil Simon's 'Fools' for fellow speech team members. His performance at state earned two first places.

Unity is an important ingredient of that success, Fredericksen said. Team members encourage each other and share the grief of individual losses.

"I think of them as my kids," she said.

Hard work is another big factor. Fredericksen demands excellence.

Her strategies are not unlike those used by athletic coaches, she said. In fact, she borrowed a few motivational tips from Twin Falls football coach Jon Jund, whose team won a state championship in 1985 when he coached at Jerome.

Her speech students "need to be pepped up just like anyone else," she said.

Fredericksen encourages some students to use gimmicks to enhance their presentations. After a speech about golf, a young speaker might tee up a plastic golf ball and hit it at the judges. Another student used a 6-foot, 3-inch football player as a prop for a demonstration speech about a sneaker.

But Fredericksen's preparation of the team is no nonsense.

"Some see the criticism as harsh," Fredericksen said. "I don't tell them they're doing good when they're not."

Blaine County residents split on hospitals' future

By Barbara Nelwert
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — Hot on the heels of consolidation talks with Moritz Community Hospital, the Blaine County Medical Center is reviewing the results of a public opinion study.

They showed that most half the respondents wanted both hospitals to be kept as they are with each specializing in distinct medical areas.

The results of a countywide mail survey have been compiled, along with other research, for a Community Health Services Development Program for the medical center.

The study was conducted to obtain a cross-section of public opinion about health care issues affecting county residents, said Gail Goglia, the medical center's administrator.

Information gathered from the in-depth analysis will be used to help officials decide the best direction for the hospital to follow, she added.

Since this past August, a negotiation team has been working to come to some form of agreement to consolidate the two hospitals under one management system. Recently, work has slowed on that process due to legal technicalities over the medical center's pension plan and Medicaid payments for Blaine Manor, a nursing home facility attached to the medical center.

Conducted by the Idaho Rural Health Education Center in conjunction with the University of Washington School of Medicine and Idaho State University, the community survey was sent randomly to 1,000 households in Blaine County — 440 people responded.

In addition to questions about satisfaction with physicians, hospital care, location for health care, and patient utilization, the survey also asked for opinions on consolidation issues.

"Almost half of respondents felt both hospitals should be kept as is with each specializing in distinct medical areas," the summary report stated.

Twenty percent felt a new common facility should be built, while 10 percent favored building a new building, while keeping both existing facilities open with reduced services.

One portion of the study, the Key Informant Interviews, dealt with 42 in-depth personal interviews with community leaders, including leaders within the health care sector.

Opinions gathered from the interviews revealed this group favors consolidated health care services under one structure, because it will result in an efficient coordination of effort. They also felt the overall public support consolidation, said Joe Przybylla, Community Health Services Development Program director.

Climate changes led to Shoshone Indian migration

By Michael Hofferber
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — A dramatic climate change 5,000 years ago may have compelled small groups of Shoshone Indians to migrate into southern Idaho.

They eventually populated the entire Snake River Plain and spread as far north as the Middle Fork of the Salmon River.

Richard Holmer, who holds a doctorate in archeology from the University of Utah, and is the director of the Museum of Natural History in Pocatello, presented his theory on the migration in a lecture at the Community Library in Ketchum Thursday evening.

"Four to six thousand years ago there was a period called the altithermal when the climate was warmer and drier, similar to global warming," Holmer pointed out.

Holmer said he believes the climate change prompted earlier residents of southern Idaho, related to the Indians of the northern Plains, to abandon the Snake River

Plain and move north. They pursued the cooler, moister climate that suited their lifestyle.

"That left open the desert to people more adapted to it, such as the Shoshone," said Holmer.

Early Shoshone tribes, related to the Aztecs of Mexico, occupied the desert southwest. As the climate changed they slowly migrated north through Nevada and Utah.

"I think we can see a migration starting about 5,000 years ago and moving into Idaho 3,500 to 4,000 years ago."

Holmer's theory is based on two major excavations of early Shoshone camps — the Fort Hall bottoms near the Snake River and Dagger Falls on the Middle Fork of the Salmon River — and an extensive study of previous reports and digs. It differs from

In spite of controversy, big screen comes to Kimberly

By Cathryn Stephens
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — Channel One will now be a part of Kimberly students' school days.

The Kimberly School Board has voted to bring Channel One into the junior and senior high classrooms in the fall.

The Whittle Communications company will install television sets in each classroom and provide the district with a video cassette recorder. All of the sets will be linked together, so students can watch the Channel One news program at the same time.

The program also requires students to watch commercials along with the news program. This has been a source of controversy over the program.

Connie Parkson, Idaho Education Association representative, said she is against the program for several reasons.

"The difference in quality and depth was considerable," she said comparing Channel One to CNN newscasts.

"From an equipment point of view, I don't think it's what the teachers will want," Parkson said.

Don Loughmiller, Kimberly High School principal, said he researched the program and

Kimberly superintendent gives fond farewell

KIMBERLY — The School Board has accepted the resignation of Superintendent Richard Bauscher.

Bauscher said he will be leaving the public school system and Kimberly to begin a new career in higher education. He will work as a professor at the University of Idaho and the College of Idaho and will serve as an educational consultant in the Treasure Valley.

"I have the highest regards and respect for the board, staff, and students of this school system," Bauscher said in his resignation letter.

"I will miss you all and wish the district the best for years to come."

Weldon Shuman, School Board chairman, said "I am sad to say that the Kimberly School District, Kimberly community, and the entire Magic Valley are losing one of the best superintendents in this entire state."

Wolf owner claims harrassment

HAILEY (AP) — A California man who says he's moving to the Wood River Valley to raise and sell wolf hybrids has a court date first.

Howard Terry, 28, has been cited by Hailey for harboring exotic wildlife within city limits. Terry claims the citation by Hailey and Blaine County Animal Control Officer Judy Dyck is harassment.

Terry advertised and sold three dogs he described as wolf hybrids. Terry, who lives in the San Francisco-Bay Area until early this year, said he plans to buy 30 acres a few miles west of Hailey. "The property is surrounded by BLM land which isn't used for livestock grazing and would be a perfect place for my animals," he said. He said the law enforcement action was temporarily stalled by his plans.

But Blaine County Prosecutor Ned Williamson said moving outside the limits of Hailey might not solve Terry's legal problems, because the county also has an ordinance banning the harboring of exotic wildlife.

"Mr. Terry has asserted that the animals are wolves. The ordinance prohibits the possession of exotic animals or natural wildlife, such as wolf-hybrids," the prosecutor said.

A Fish and Game inspection of the animals last month concluded that the animals displayed few characteristics of wolves and the agency did not classify the animals as wolves.

Terry said that puts him in a bad situation. "They (authorities) say the animals aren't wolves but they also said I advertised and sold three pups within the county as wolf-hybrids so if I go that way, I could face fraud charges," he said.

"My dogs're not dangerous...I've sold dogs from east of the Mississippi all the way to the West Coast. These animals will run away if threatened.

Hospital

Location of a new facility would have a big impact on whether the consolidation would be supported by these respondents, the report stated.

The public survey, however, showed a trend that indicated a high favorability to building a new facility closer to Hailey than Sun Valley. This follows population trends with residents moving southwardly as Ketchum and Sun Valley are built to capacity, Myrland said.

The study also included a confidential employee survey, an organization and management report, as well as a financial assessment.

While the medical center is deemed a viable entity, its current cash on hand position makes it difficult for officials to care for current capital needs, said certified public accountant Carl R. Swenson of Boise.

"The hospital is not without assets of value and meets daily operating expense requirements, but the center is 'cash poor,' a critical factor for fiscal health, Swenson said. However, it is not much different than other Idaho hospitals, he noted, suggesting that alternative funding sources must be found to fund new plant and equipment needs.

The medical center's Long-Range Planning Committee will meet again at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the center to discuss the study. The study is just one part of the Community Health Services Development Program, which aims to strengthen and expand health services through community needs assessments, market surveys, management and financial studies, strategic plan development, improved internal organizational structures, and implementation of comprehensive systems approaches to restructuring health services.

earlier theories suggesting that the Shoshone Indians have been in Idaho as much as 9,000 years or as little as 600 years.

According to Holmer, the predominant theory among the Shoshone-Indians themselves is: "We've always been here."

Though his findings dispute that belief, Holmer's research has helped the Sho-Ban tribes' legal claims to treaty rights, water rights and hunting rights. His theory demonstrates that the Shoshone-Indians have inhabited southern Idaho for more than 3,000 years and that they subsisted largely on fish and game.

"Evidence of more than 60 different species of birds, fish and wildlife were uncovered at the Fort Hall campsite.

"Every single inch of this country has been used for one purpose or another," Holmer said of the early Indians.

On the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory reservation, for instance, archaeologists have found evidence of 30 to 60 prehistoric sites per square mile.

"What we're trying to figure out is what areas were used when, and how."

Holmer's lecture was the third in a month-long series of lectures sponsored by the Community Library and the Ketchum/Sun Valley Historical Society. The next lecture will be held Thursday, May 2, at 7 p.m. at the Robert James, history teacher at Robert Stewart Junior High School in Twin Falls, who will describe the discovery of the Mon-Tung Chinese mining camp in the Snake River Canyon.

were displayed at Elkhorn Resort before being put in storage.

Concerned that the artifacts were being pilfered and vandalized, Ketchum landscape architect Doug Clemens took possession of the collection and saved the artifacts until an exhibit could be developed.

"Basically, I just put them in a box for a lot of years until Claudia (Walsworth) came along," Clemens explained.

With support from the Idaho Humanities Council and the historical society, Walsworth produced the exhibit. She received funding support from dozens of private and public sources.

"The folks who lived and worked in the Elkhorn Valley were skilled artisans and must be remembered for their contribution to the social evolution of man in southern Idaho," Walsworth noted.

"The camp at Elkhorn Springs was home to the Northern Shoshone for thousands of years. Water sources in Elkhorn Valley supported a wide variety of game animals, plant life, and native fish."

James Wood, of the Herrett Museum at the College of Southern Idaho, created replica tools and points included in the exhibit. Sean Turco, of Hailey, constructed a brush hut dwelling that houses the display and miniature models of an early Shoshone camp.

The April 30 opening of the exhibit at Elkhorn Resort will begin at 6 p.m. and will include a visit to the Elkhorn Springs site. Corliss, now a Forest Service archeologist in Oregon, will deliver a lecture and show on the excavation beginning at about 7 p.m.

For further information about the exhibit opening and lecture, call Claudia Walsworth at 726-1722.

gathered comments from teachers and parents and found very little opposition to the Channel One program.

"I've had several teachers say they think it could be a boon in their classrooms as far as current events," Loughmiller said. Bauscher recommended that the board approve the plan. He said he spoke to 13 of the 51 school districts that now have the program and found no negative comments.

"As administrators, we feel having the TVs in every room would be very advantageous. We could use it for announcements or assemblies," he said.

He added that while Whittle Communications is asking for a three-year contract, district officials know that legally they are only bound to try the program for a year. In other business, the district will purchase a slightly used 75-passenger school bus. The low bid was for $34,600 and the bus should be delivered in June.

"The district will lease 10 acres of district-owned land to Betasedin. In the past, Betasedin has leased 38 acres, but eight of those acres will be used for the new middle school construction.

Bauscher reported that the district will be recruiting new teachers at two recruitment fairs. He said he anticipates five teaching positions will be open.

The district will join the Vocational Education Cooperative of Southern Idaho. The district is required to join a regional consortium due to its size in order to continue receiving funding for the program.

The board heard a report from Russ Mitchell on newly formed curriculum committees. The three committees will be taking an in-depth look at reading, health, and music.

Obituaries

Lois E. Andrews

WENDELL — Lois Elizabeth Andrews, 84, a Wendell resident, died Thursday, April 18, 1991, at the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center in Twin Falls.

Lois was born March 21, 1907, in Mercer, North Dakota, the daughter of William H. and Cora Belle Pickard Murphy. She moved to Twin Falls with her parents in 1917, where she graduated from high school in 1928. She married Enos Andrews on Nov. 25, 1929, in Twin Falls. They operated a farm near Twin Falls until 1947. They then moved to a farm near West Point where they resided until his death in 1969.

She was a member of the West Point Ladies Club and the Salmon Tract Social Club.

Survivors include two daughters, Barbara Fuller of Twin Falls, and Elizabeth Chojnacki of Jerome; three sons, Stanley Andrews and Jerry Andrews, both of Wendell and Roger Andrews of Jerome; two brothers, Lyle Murphy of Wendell and Arthur Murphy of Jerome; two sisters, Elice Modin of Twin Falls and Wilma Routh of Coeur d'Alene, 21 grandchildren; and 18 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by a daughter, Anne Russell, her parents, three brothers and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Wendell Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Richard Klein officiating. Burial will follow at the Wendell Cemetery. Friends may call at Demary's Wendell Chapel on Sunday from 4 to 7 p.m. The family suggests that contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

Max Sheen

PAUL — Max Sheen, 64-year-old Paul resident, died Thursday, April 18, 1991, at the Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley.

He was born February 25, 1927, in Paul, the son of James R. and Elice Henson Sheen. He attended school in Paul and graduated from Paul High School. He attended Albion State Normal School and graduated from Idaho State University. He married Carol Sue Price on Dec. 7, 1947, in Pocatello. Their marriage was later solemnized at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple. He taught schools in Kimberly, Hanson and Hazelton. He was in Germany for one year working with the Red Cross in Paul and graduated under the program in 1964 where he had since resided.

He was a member of the LDS Church. He loved baseball, working with wood and fishing.

He is survived by his wife of Paul; four sons, David Brand Sheen of Fort Collins, Colorado, Owen Scott Sheen of Fontana, California, Richard Eugene Sheen of Dallas, Texas, and Robert Sheen of Rupert; two brothers, Robert J. Sheen of Rupert and Earl J. Sheen of Idaho Falls; two sisters, Florence Bous of Shelley and Rayola Hodgson of Paul; and grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, four sisters and six brothers.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Monday, April 22, 1991, at the Emerson LDS Church Chapel, with Bishop Gene Berger officiating. Burial will be in the Paul Cemetery. Friends may call at the Hansen Mortuary, 710 Sixth St., in Burley on Sunday afternoon and evening and at the church one hour prior to the service on Monday.

She was preceded in death by her parents, one brother and two infant daughters.

The funeral will be at 1 p.m. Monday at the Bethel Temple Church, 3200 Ninth Ave. E. in Twin Falls, with the Rev. Allen Picklesimer officiating. Burial will follow at the Twin Falls Cemetery. Friends may call from 6 to 8 p.m. today and from 4 to 6 p.m. Sunday at White Mortuary in Twin Falls.

Speech

Each student writes a speech, which Fredericksen liberally marks up with red ink for revision. He keeps revising it until it passes muster.

After it does, each team member presents the same speech before different audiences seven times before district competition.

Students need to achieve the speech that they have mastered, Fredericksen said. Once they do so they'll never be satisfied with anything less, she said.

She is baffled that some other schools' speech coaches decide who will compete in each of the 12 categories just a few weeks before district competition.

"You cannot compete with someone who has been polishing their speech since January," Fredericksen said.

This year, 12 Jerome students made the final round atgate; six received medals. The team won four of the 12 first-place medals awarded.

Besides Burdick's two gold medals, teammate Mandi Hicks took first in after-dinner speaking. Heather Swan won in salesmanship. Jennifer Quinn finished second in salesmanship. Jeff Wong wound up third in oratorical analysis and Kelsey Newman placed third in expository speaking.

The program retools each year with a crop of freshmen. This week about 35 students sought 10 team positions.

The newcomers will learn by emulating juniors and seniors. One of their first assignments will be to give the opening of a lifetime: "If fame as they dreamed it would be," alone in front of their mirrors at home.

When they have to give their first speech in front of the team, seniors and juniors will talk them through it — making them do jumping jacks to get over their jitters if necessary.

Students will also get to see themselves on videotape, which usually prompts tough self-criticism.

The skills students learn can have a big impact on their careers and lives, Fredericksen said.

"He who commands words commands men," she said.

Public invited to annual dinner

TWIN FALLS — The fourth annual spaghetti dinner, sponsored by the Twin Falls Church of the Nazarene, is planned for 8 to 8 p.m. today at the church, 401 Sixth Ave. N. The menu includes spaghetti, salad, french bread, drink and dessert. Cost is $3.50 per person or $10 per family. The public is invited. The fund-raising dinner is planned to help send the teens on a mission trip in June.

Christian Center slates speaker

TWIN FALLS — Alvaro Adame of Chilpancingo, Guerrero, Mexico, will be the speaker at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at the Christian Center, 181 Morrison St. He will also speak at a service at 7 p.m. Monday at the center. He will speak in Spanish with an English interpreter.

Businessmen's group to meet

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International has planned a special meeting for Monday at the Western Plaza, 1350 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. The buffet-style dinner will begin at 7 p.m. Cost is $10 per person. The program will begin at 8 p.m. with Rob Robertson, recently returned from the Persian Gulf, as guest speaker. Robertson served for 6 1/2 months in Taif, about 150 miles from the Red Sea. His job was to monitor war reserve materials involving food and water for about 70 air crew members. He was also a team member for chemical and biological decontamination and a shelter manager for an alert shelter housing eight F-111 fighter bombers. He is currently stationed at Mountain Home Air Force Base and has been there for 4 1/2 years as a member of the wing commander's administrative staff. He holds a baccalaureate degree and three associate degrees.

For reservations or more information, call Ron Madsen at 733-1225; Paul Reynolds at 733-4941 or John Devine at 734-4716.

Program addresses Middle East

TWIN FALLS — "Israel Connection" is the theme of a special meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday at the First Assembly of God Church, 189 N. Locust. Dr. Bernard Resnikoff, a Jewish leader from Israel, and Dr. Israel Carmona, a Christian activist and historian for Israel, will be the guest speakers. Their presentation is an account of happenings in the Middle East today. The public is invited. A free-will offering will be taken.

Garage, bake sale scheduled

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Church of the Brethren is sponsoring a Community Garage and Bake Sale from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 27 in the church parking lot, 461 Filer Ave. W. Individuals from the neighborhood are invited to participate. For more information, call 733-3789 or 734-6726.

Group sets Spring Rally date

SHOSHONE — The Central Association of American Baptist Women has planned its Spring Rally for April 27. Registration begins at 9 a.m. and the program will begin at 9:30 a.m. The theme, "The Healing Spirit," is taken from 2 Chronicles 7:14 and the theme music is "Come, Holy Spirit." Dr. Jim Gentry, a professor at the College of Southern Idaho, will speak on the Middle East. Gentry is a member of the First Baptist Church of Twin Falls and a recognized authority on biblical history.

Each of the area organizations will participate in the rally. Castleford will prepare a lunch of Kuwaiti cuisine. The main dish will be steefa (ground lamb in pita bread). Cost for the lunch is $2.50 per person. The menu was planned by a member of the Castleford church; recently returned from Kuwait. Buhl will collect the free-will offering that will be used for a chapel at Cathedral Park. A trailer will provide the pianist, Frances Wells, and the song leader, Judy Tucker. Special music will be by Helen Lucke of Gooding and Virginia Monroe and Jennifer Piper of Shoshone. Monroe and Piper will also give a humorous presentation on traveling members. Twin Falls will do table decorations; Rupert, name tags; and Hatley's in charge of table grace. Nancy Thomason of Jerome will present a preview of the literature workshop that will be given at the Women's Retreat at Cathedral Pines this summer.

The 10 Central Association churches have each been assigned a flame and are reminded to bring it to the rally. The meeting will adjourn at 3:30 p.m.

The Times-News welcomes news of church events. Send information to Ellen Thomason, The Times-News, P.O. Box 548, Twin Falls, ID 83303-0548. Deadline is noon Thursday for publication on the Saturday religion page.

Soviet religious rights seen as 'accomplished,' but tasks remain

NEW YORK (AP) — Pondering the changes he has seen in the last 25 years of nudging Soviet officials to ease up on religion, the roving clergyman-diplomat mused: "In one respect, mission accomplished."

That is the outcome in regard to restored religious liberties in the Soviet Union, said Rabbi Arthur Schneier, a man who long has pushed for that objective.

"Religion is now accepted as an integral part of Soviet life," he said in an interview. "Its people have become role models."

Schneier, president of the Appeal of Conscience Foundation, a U.S. interfaith organization working for religious freedom around the world, added, "What's so exciting is the expanding interest and identification with faith communities."

However, he said connected difficulties remain as do obstacles to faith in other lands, so the work goes on in different ways.

He said the Soviet Union, which for 70 years sought to stamp out religion through persecution, repression and official insistence on atheism, has undergone a complete pro-religious turnaround.

He said this affirms a guiding conviction: "Sooner or later, tyrants are doomed." That's "the record of history" from ancient biblical times to the present, he added, but it takes never-ending vigilance and struggle.

"When we first started, I never thought that what has been accomplished could happen in a lifetime," he said. "Religion is no longer considered 'the enemy of the state but its ally.'"

In fact, he said the Soviet government is considering introducing religion classes into state schools, which already has happened in the former satellite countries of Poland, Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

"It's something not accepted in the United States," he remarked.

Schneier, 61, a gracious, warmly engaging man with sparse, gray hair capped at the back with a small-black yarmulke, has become over a quarter century a familiar figure in top circles of foreign governments.

Remarked Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh at a dinner, "We have come to know him well in Moscow."

Since 1966, as head of the organization of U.S. Roman Catholic, Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish leaders promoting religious freedom, the globe-trotting rabbi has rounded areas of religious difficulties.

He has been in the Soviet Union 27 times, meeting with high Soviet officials, three times with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, and also with officials in China, Argentina, El Salvador, Cuba, Northern Ireland and elsewhere.

He has conferred privately with the late Pope Paul VI, twice with the current John Paul II. Usually on missions into the trouble zones, he heads mixed delegations of bishops and other clerics.

Schneier, who also has led Manhattan's Park East Synagogue since 1962, said that at first "we just went knocking on doors" and only gradually developed contacts at upper levels.

On several matters even before the "discrediting of communism," the group was able to negotiate numerous concessions to religion and return of various properties. Discussions also had begun on revising religion-constricting laws.

Scholars root for source of gospel sayings

The Associated Press

A group of Bible scholars sat around a big U-shaped table, discussing whether Jesus actually spoke the "Golden Rule" — "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Amid voiced doubts, one professor laughed, saying: "If he didn't say it, he was probably the only Jew of his time who didn't."

Nevertheless, although the Gospels repeatedly quote Jesus as expressing the idea, his speaking it was classified uncertain because it was regarded common and not particularly distinctive of him.

To was similar counsel — to "love your neighbor as yourself." It is attributed to Jesus in the Gospels but is also contained in Jewish law of the Old Testament and thus its voicing by Jesus is classified indefinite.

This is a sample of the rigorous sifting done by scholars of the Jesus Seminar to determine-by strict historical evidence what quotations ascribed to Jesus were actually, originally his own and which weren't.

"We looked for things that particularly identify Jesus, that identify a single face in the Galilean crowd,"

Robert Funk Search for 'historical Jesus' said New Testament scholar Robert Funk, founder and head of the controversial project.

"We had to be really hard-nosed. We have been extraordinarily cautious to admit to the data base only sayings which — we were — relatively certain came from Jesus."

The approach is called "methodological skepticism," Funk said, and it means questioning every piece of evidence and not accepting any quotation that doesn't pass the various critical tests.

After six years work, the group of Protestant and Roman Catholic scholars has completed its examination of the four New Testament books about Jesus — the Gospels — and found a mix of sayings, some considered real, some not his own.

In the system of weighted averages used, Funk estimates 30 percent of the sayings attributed to Jesus were voted "red", definitely his, or "pink," probably his, and 30 percent "gray," questionable, but with views like his.

The other estimated 40 percent of the sayings were voted "black," that Jesus himself never said it, but it was borrowed from common lore or put in Jesus' mouth by the early church community that formulated the Gospels.

This conclusion has riled many ordinary Christians, but Funk said that is because the church has failed in its education program to keep people informed about advances in biblical scholarship."

However, he added in an interview that others find such probing "not only doesn't hinder faith, but opens up understandings that they find refreshing and helpful, that strengthen faith."

"Telling the truth has a salutary effect on a lot of people."

With an estimated 60 percent of the sayings ruled definitely or likely those of Jesus or expressing his sort of ideas, Funk said the project can clarify the genuinely historical character of Jesus.

Board considers immunization rules

NAMPA - The Idaho Health and Welfare Board wants to push more parents toward immunizing their children before they reach school age. "Immunity levels are relatively low among preschool children in Idaho, and we will be looking at ways to increase them substantially," Board Chairman David Mead, Twin Falls, said. A proposal to require immunization for children attending day-care facilities will be on the board's agenda for next week's meeting in Nampa. Under consideration are rules and regulations designed to prevent the spread of child disease by requiring immunizations for all day-care children older than four months.

Oldest Catholic prelate dies at 91

SEATTLE - Retired Archbishop Thomas A. Connolly, a "brick and mortar" prelate who oversaw construction of hundreds of church and school buildings in 27 years as spiritual leader of Roman Catholics in western Washington, has died. Connolly was 91 and the oldest Catholic bishop in the United States, the Seattle archdiocese said in a news release. He died Thursday night at his home after having been in poor health for several years, the archdiocese said. Connolly was a leader of the Seattle archdiocese from 1948 to 1975. He celebrated his 50th anniversary as a bishop in August 1989. He was known as an outspoken advocate of civil rights and a "brick and mortar" bishop who oversaw construction of more than 350 churches, schools, rectories, convents, parish halls and religious education centers.

Test of missile is success, Air Force says

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. - The Air Force launched a Midgetman missile to a Pacific Ocean target in the first successful test flight of the mobile weapons system. The 53-foot-long missile was ejected from an above-ground canister at 11:33 a.m. PDT and the first-stage rocket motor ignited, sending it on a 4,600-mile flight to Kwajalein Missile Test Range, the Air Force said. The flight of the unarmed missile lasted 30 minutes.

Woman dies in power line accident

SPOKANE - An 83-year-old woman was electrocuted while washing her car in front of her home, authorities said. A man pruning a nearby tree cut a large branch that downed an 8,000-volt power line Thursday. Fire Battalion Chief Pat Kelly said. The power line apparently sent an electrical current through a chain-link fence next to the car Anna Fountain was washing, Kelly said. She was killed immediately, Kelly said. It wasn't known whether Fountain was shocked through contact with the fence or whether the current was transmitted through water on her driveway, he said.

More charges to be filed against teacher

BOISE - Additional charges will be filed against a Centennial High School teacher and coach accused of the sexual abuse of a teen-aged student, Ada County authorities say.

Daniel Douglas Campbell, a 41-year-old biology teacher and assistant wrestling coach, is charged with one count of lewd and lascivious conduct, involving a 14-year-old girl.

Sheriff Vaughn Killeen made a public plea for assistance Thursday, asking parents, teachers and youths with relevant information to contact his office. Detective Steve English said 40 to 50 Ada County girls with links to Campbell are being investigated as potential victims. Many have so far been identified by first names only.

Federal tax incentive bill garners support

BOISE (AP) - A voluntary family leave bill offering a federal tax incentive to employers adopting the plan has been introduced by Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho.

Two big Idaho employers - Potlatch Corp. and Morrison Knudsen Corp. - responded with support for the Craig measure, called the Family Leave Benefits Assistance Act of 1991.

The measure is an alternative to a mandatory leave bill sponsored by Sen. Chris Dodd, D-Conn. Congress passed Dodd's similar bill last year, but President Bush vetoed it.

Craig said his bill "throws down the gauntlet by forcing Congress to choose between a measure likely to be vetoed again, and one that would get the president's approval and give employers an incentive to expand benefits.

"It is leadership by example rather than by force," Craig said. "It is the carrot, rather than the stick."

The measure would provide a federal tax deduction for 50 percent of the expenses incurred by employers who offer up to 10 weeks of leave for employees in cases of birth, adoption or foster care placement or when a child, spouse or parent becomes seriously ill.

Company blames pressure by preservationists for new focus

BOISE (AP) - Boise Cascade Corp. Chairman John Fery is bracing stockholders for even worse financial news in the near future before profitability returns to the forest products manufacturer.

And at this annual shareholders meeting in Boise on Friday, Fery repeatedly blamed what he called "preservationist pressures" in the Northwest for at least part of Boise Cascade's financial plight and its decision to focus its expansion plans on other regions of the nation. The company posted $16.9 million in red ink for the January-March quarter, its first quarterly loss since 1984, and Fery said "the second quarter performance will be worse."

"We have been and are today on the downside of the business cycles for paper and forest products," he said. "We have been through business cycles before, and we will get through this one."

But Fery called the current downturn worse than usual because it has hit all the corporation's business segments. While interest rates on debt to finance major capital improvements in its operations and some start-up problems with those facilities have created some of the problems, Fery maintained campaigns to rein in timber harvests have driven operating expenses upward.

Stocks plunge as investors question market evaluation

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Investor perceptions that stocks were heading toward expensive helped send prices plunging Friday, putting a down spin on a historic week in which the Dow Jones average closed above 3,000 for the first time.

The Dow average of 30 industrials fell 33.67 to 2,965.59.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by 1,028 to 585 up and 4,664 unchanged. Volume on the floor of the Big Board came to 195.51 million shares, down from 217.41 million in the previous session.

Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 236.78 million shares.

Despite Friday's lagging performance, Dow average still advanced 44.80 points or 1.53 percent for the week. Such an advance, absent a dip in interest rates and little firm news, is not an encouraging sign for investors looking for a recovery in the market.

Tim Shea, portfolio strategist for C.J. Lawrence Inc., said "stocks are getting pricey" and another 5- to 7 percent rise in stock prices could "spoil the party."

Also, driving down stock prices was widespread profit taking. Since Jan. 16 — even Operation Desert Storm — the Dow average has gained 456.68 points, or 18.2 percent, in value. Other barometers of stock performance also have sagged.

Steve Poley, bank analyst for the Detroit-based Poley Co., said investors who cashed in their winnings made it difficult to sustain Wednesday's record level of 3,004.45. Also contributing to volatility was the expiration of several stock index futures and options, he said.

Some companies' stock "fell for reasons other than market trends. Cigarette maker Philip Morris fell 1/8 to 68 1/2 following a statement by an independent scientific panel that second-hand smoke should be considered a cancer threat to humans. Genentech Co. gained 1/4 to 43 1/4 after Goldman Sachs & Co. boosted the newspaper group's investment rating.

Other active issues included Citicorp, down 1/4 at 15 1/4; American Express, down 1/4 to 28 1/2; and Global Marine, up 1/4 to 47. Blue chips were depressed as well. Sears Roebuck, down 1/4 to 39; General Electric, down 1/4 to 74 1/4; and IBM slipped 1/4 to 109 1/4.

As measured by Wilshire Associates — an index of more than 5,000 actively traded stocks, the market lost $36.26 billion, or 0.98 percent, in value.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell 2.03 to 210.23.

Standard & Poor's industrial index slid 3.94 to 456.19; and S&P's 500-stock composite index dropped 2.25 to 324.20.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market fell 5.43 to 501.19. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 25.70 to 370.83.

Bald Mountain ends ski season Sunday

SUN VALLEY — Having struggled through a mid-winter drought, March and April snowfall has kept Bald Mountain open a little longer than usual, to the delight of many skiers.

Sunday will be the final day of mountain operations for the 1990-91 season. Running just two lifts, discount tickets are being offered this weekend at $25 for an adult full-day ticket, and $14 for half day.

Discounts for children 11 and under are $10 for a full day, and $7 for a half day. Discount cardholders may ski for $14 full day and $10 half day.

As of Friday, Baldy reported 55 inches of snow on top with a 37-inch base mid-way. Skiing is reported to be very good with spring-like conditions on packed and packed powder.

Runs which remain open are Lower Mid- and Upper Warm Springs, Ridge, Cutoff, Upper Blue Grouse, Flying Squirrel and Upper Collette.

National League franchises to be awarded June 12, 13

NEW YORK — The two National League expansion franchises probably will be awarded during an owners' meeting in Los Angeles on June 12 and June 13, commissioner Fay Vincent said Friday.

Sportsquote

Students give all at Jerome Invitational

Tigers net double victory

By Jeff Hoakison
Times-News writer

JEROME—The Jerome Tigers were not the perfect host at the annual Jerome Invitational track meet Friday, showing no mercy in taking both the boys and girls team titles.

The Tiger boys defeated Salmon 155 to 144 with Vallive third with 67 points. The girls easily outdistanced runnerup Salmon 147 to 100. Snake River finished third with 53 points ahead of Burley.

“It was two good high school teams going one on one,” remarked Tigers Coach Tim Dunne of his matchup with the Savages of Salmon.

The Tiger girls, in search of their first state title since 1982 look like they will be the team to beat at the state meet in May.

Wendy Mathews and freshman Stephanie Sarverwhite — Mathews, the defending state champ in the discus who has been struggling this spring, uncorked her best throw ever tossing the platter 140 feet, 3 inches. The mark established a new school record for her and puts her within 3/4 feet of the state record.

“She finally came out of her slump,” said Tigers coach Skip Andrews of Mathews. Sarverwhite continued her fine sprinting Please see JEROME/B2

Wendy Mathews, left, of Jerome shows her winning form in the discus event Friday with a school record of 140 ft. 3 in. Wood River's Kevash won the long jump and placed second in the triple.

Hibbard helps Shoshone girls take Wyatt tourney

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Three individual championships by Angie Hibbard pointed the Shoshone girls to a major surprise in the annual Angie Wyatt Invitational track meet Friday.

Hibbard, later voted MVP by participating coaches, won all three sprints and placed second in the long jump as Shoshone racked up 97 points against 86 for Filer and 62 for Glens Ferry. DeLo rounded out the top four with 59 points, not fielding a full team due to conflicting activities.

In the boys division, Valley senior Keith Vest won the MVP nod by winning the high jump at a solid 6 feet, 5 inches and adding the 100-meter dash in 11.9. He also anchored two Viking winning relay teams.

But it wasn't enough as Glenns Ferry, getting a double win from Hodge Hamilton, used its depth to take the boys division with 122 points, chased by Valley at 99.5 and DeLo at 92.5.

A total of eight meet records fell with perhaps the best being a 35-6 triple jump by Filer's Brandy Morrison. Also in the girls division, junior Gina Miller lowered the 800-meter standard to 2:30.9. Hibbard accounted for the other, turning in a 61.9 in the quartermile.

Sy Farris of Glenns Ferry raised the long jump mark to 21-3 and Longhurst of Butte lowered the 1600-meter record to 4:52.3. Rob Morris of Valley posted a 50.6 for a new mark in that event. The Kimberly medley (3:52.9) and Valley 800-relay team (1:34.8) joined the record-breaking parade. Please see FILER/B2

Cowboys trade draft choices, futures for No. 1 pick

The Associated Press

The Dallas Cowboys traded one of their three first-round picks in the NFL draft on Friday to get the No. 1 overall choice from the New England Patriots. The Cowboys declined to say whether they would use it to choose Notre Dame star Raghib "Rocket" Ismail.

In exchange for the top pick in Sunday's draft, the Cowboys gave New England the 11th overall pick, a second-round selection and future considerations, which could translate into players.

Dallas could now sign Ismail, the Notre Dame kick returner who is considered far and away the cream of the draft. Or the Cowboys could trade the top pick, perhaps to Atlanta, which wants Ismail and which holds the third and 13th overall picks.

“We have visited with his agent,” was all Jerry Jones, the Cowboys' owner, would say about Ismail.

New England, which finished 1-15 last season, needs a lot of good players rather than one star to help rebuild a team that went to the Super Bowl just six seasons ago. Ismail was spectacular in college, but some people question how good he will be in the NFL.

The Patriots could use the 11th pick to

Draft ain't what it used to be

The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia Eagles coach Rich Kotite explained the intricacies of preparing for Sunday's NFL draft — the work by the coaches, scouts, combines and computers.

“One observer smiled to himself. He recalled another era, another day. NFL people gathered for the annual draft in a Philadelphia hotel. The year was 1956. Bert Bell was the commissioner and there were 11 teams in the league.”

General managers and coaches sat at 11 round tables. Few teams had scouts, as we know them today, and scouting combines weren't even an idea yet.

Spread on the tables were lists of All-America teams culled from newspapers and magazines, including Street &

Smith, which listed all the graduating players.

Computers as we know them today still were waiting to be invented. College coaches, relatives and fans were considered competent sources.

In those days, there was no time limit in making a draft choice. Teams would get on the telephone and negotiate with the player they wanted to take before informing Bell of their choice. Sometimes the process would take an hour and the meetings would run until 3 a.m.

Even reporters were considered reputable sources.

The late Don Kelleys, then general manager of the Baltimore Colts, approached a guy behind a typewriter and asked if he had seen anybody worth drafting while covering college football the previous fall.

land had seemed dead Thursday night after the teams disagreed over players. New England wanted wide receiver Michael Irvin while the Cowboys wanted to send them Kelvin Martin, another wide receiver. Among the other Dallas players mentioned are fullback Daryl Johnston and linebacker Eugene Lockhart. Dallas still retains the 12th and 14th picks in the draft. Meanwhile, with 48 hours to go until the draft, phone lines were humming as teams tried to move up or down in a draft considered better in the lower and middle rounds than the first.

Foreman lasts whopping 12 rounds with Holyfield

The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The “Battle of the Ages” went to youth, but it was more of a battle than most thought it would be.

Evander Holyfield retained the heavyweight championship with a unanimous 12-round decision over George Foreman Friday night, but the 42-year-old challenger managed to thumb his nose at Father Time with a game and gritty performance.

Holyfield, 14 years Foreman's junior, just had too much hand speed and foot movement for the 257-pound Foreman, a former champion who lost for the first time in his comeback campaign and may have fought for the last time.

“I threw more punches than George,” Holyfield said. “I thought I outboxed him. He was strong throughout the whole fight.”

Foreman, trying to become the oldest man ever to win a championship in any weight class, came back from a 10-year retirement four years ago with the express purpose of regaining the title he held in 1973-74.

Most of the estimated crowd of 15,000 at the Convention Center roared him on, but it was not to be. Holyfield never let Foreman get set and simply out-punched Big George.

Judge Jerry Roth scored it for the unbeaten Holyfield 117-110. Eugene Grant saw it for the champion 116-111 and judge Tom Kazmarek had it surprisingly close, 115-112.

The AP favored Holyfield 118-110, giving Foreman only the second and fifth rounds.

According to a computer analysis, Holyfield landed 355 punches, while Foreman landed 188.

Foreman appeared to be the harder puncher, but he couldn't put his punches together as Holyfield did. “Holyfield is not the kind of guy who makes your knees shake,” Foreman had said before the fight.

Holyfield, however, is a well-schooled, superbly conditioned professional fighter, and his strategy of making Foreman move a lot to tire him out worked to perfection.

Holyfield worried before the fight that he wouldn't be given any credibility for beating a 42-year-old fighter who constantly joked about the size of his stomach and his love of food.

Holyfield also knows that this is the champion's job to beat anyone placed in front of him. He's done that to 26 opponents, including nine heavyweights. Not bad for a man once considered too small to fight in boxing's biggest, most glamorous division.

Foreman had the public's attention in the run-up to this wildly hyped bout. But in the end, Holyfield still held the champion's belt.

“I'm glad I didn't take him for granted,” Holyfield said. “I hurt him, but he recovered. George is a determined fighter. He has that desire to win. George is a lot quicker than people think. He had me confused at times. George can hit.”

Foreman landed some hard jabs during the 12 rounds and an occasional uppercut and right hand to the head. But Holyfield was never in danger of going down.

Burley, Poky golfers dominate

The Times-News

BURLEY — Players from Burley and Pocatello dominated the amateur sweepstakes in the annual Burley pro-am women's golf tournament Friday.

Doris Ellingham won the 0-21 handicap division gross at seven-over 83 while Mildred Lynch won at 66, giving Burley both those titles. Patsy Tazewell and Brenda Elton grossed 63 net, respectively, to double up for Pocatello.

Meanwhile, the "American Falls crew of pro Dave Cruzier and amateurs Monica Blake, Alida Hauber and Debbie Poulson won the best ball at 42-under (women's) par 110. Tied for second was the team of Canyon Springs professionals and amateurs, including 1980 U.S. Open winner Wheeler and Eynach and Pocatello pro Roy Ivey and amateurs Brenda Brain, Blanche, Raidy, Marie Bohrer and Mary Curzon, both at 114.

Duffy McFarland, Rexburg, and Ericson shared pro sweeps honors at one-under 71 with Bob Howell and Bob Lante one step back.

Nate Ross, Blue Lakes, was the senior pro winner at 78.

Following Ellingham were Theresa Axelson at 85 and Sergene Sorenson and Lisa Morgan both at 86. In net, Jackie Schell was second to Lynch with Nancy Shirley at 70 and Diann Guiles 71.

In the higher division, Hauber played Tazewell in gross at 92 with Shirley DeWitt at 94 and Joyce Fleming and Monica Blake at 95. Brain had a five-stroke lead on Jo-lene Hines, Raidy and Curzon in the net division.

Jazz adds 2 years to coach's contract

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Jazz announced a two-year contract extension for head coach Jerry Sloan on Friday.

Owner Larry Miller said the announcement was made to end rumors that Sloan's job might be in jeopardy if the Jazz, don't do well in the NBA playoffs this year.

Miller said the extension takes effect after Sloan's contract expires at the end of next season. Details of the contract were not released. The Jazz, at 53-27 one game behind San Antonio in the Midwest Division, have posted 50-game plus winning seasons the last three years.

But for the last two seasons, the team splintered in the first round of the playoffs. Last year, they lost to the Phoenix Suns and in 1989 — as Midwest Division champions — they fell to the Golden State Warriors.

Miller said someone within the Jazz camp had recently made off-the-record comments to reporters that Sloan's job might be on the line if the team has another disappointing showing.

"I never considered making a coaching change," Miller said. "But applying for me."

He said he approached Sloan earlier this week with his offer.

"Negotiations took, oh, maybe five or six seconds," he said, "Jerry's not a difficult negotiator. He's just a very nice guy."

Miller added that he had been approached by some players also concerned about Sloan's future.

Burley takes decision

SLAKE RIVER — Brandon Norman went 4-for-4 with two doubles and a triple to lead Burley to a 10-4 baseball win over Snake River Friday.

Paul Rasmussen and Troy Meredith chipped in two hits each in the Bobcat's 12-hit attack. Rasmussen also recorded a triple.

Justin Robinson earned the victory with a complete game on the mound.

Burley 9, Snake River 4. Burley: R. 1-0, 2-0, 3-0, 4-0, 5-0, 6-0, 7-0, 8-0, 9-0. Snake River: R. 0-0, 1-0, 2-0, 3-0, 4-0, 5-0, 6-0, 7-0, 8-0, 9-0.

Jackson claims he received raw deal from Kansas City

CHICAGO (AP) — Bo Jackson said Friday he isn't sure when he'll be well enough to play baseball again. But he is sure of one thing — that he got a raw deal from the Kansas City Royals.

Jackson, signed by the Chicago White Sox on April 3 after being cut by Kansas City, said Royals coach Ewing Kauffman wanted to dump him for a long time because he didn't like his outspoken attitude.

"It was a personal vendetta of Mr. K to get me out of Kansas City," Jackson said at a Comiskey Park news conference. "I had some high-ranking people in that city tell me it was coming. I smelled the rat long before it died."

Royals spokesman Dean Vogelgar denied the allegation by Jackson, who is still using crutches because of a hip injury he suffered while playing for the Los Angeles Raiders in January. Vogelgar said the Royals released Jackson because they weren't sure he could play baseball again.

"It was strictly a business decision based on input from our medical people. It's as simple as that," Vogelgar said. "We wish him the best with the White Sox."

When Jackson was released on March 18, he said he felt no bitterness toward the Royals organization. That changed on Friday, when he was brought before the Chicago media for the first time since signing with the White Sox.

"I'm happy to be with an organization that is not going to use me as a piece of meat," said Jackson, who was joined by his wife, Linda, and two of his three sons. "I refuse to have anyone tell me when it's time for me to leave the game."

But Jackson wasn't making any bold statements about playing baseball right away.

"It's all left up to me, God and the doctors. Last year, they lost to the Phoenix Suns and in 1989 — as Midwest Division champions — they fell to the Golden State Warriors."

When they're on the road, Jackson will work out in Kansas City and Birmingham, Ala.

"I am going berserk having so much time on my hands," he said. "I really didn't realize what getting tired of me being around the house."

Home runs throughout game carry Blue Jays past Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — John Olerud pounded Milwaukee for two home runs and Randy Millard also connected Friday night, leading Dave Stieb and the Toronto Blue Jays past the Brewers.

Olerud is 7-for-15 against Milwaukee this season with three home runs. Toronto has won four of five games between the teams.

Stieb (1-2) gave up Paul Molitor's leadoff home run in the first inning, but settled down to win his fifth straight start at County Stadium. He struck out two, walked two and was backed by three double plays.

Olerud homered in the second off Don August (0-2) to tie the game at 1-1. He connected again in the sixth for a two-run homer.

Yankees 3, Royals 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Tim Lincecum pitched a three-hitter and tied his career-high with 12 strikeouts and Jesse Barfield's two-run homer broke a sixth-inning tie as the New York Yankees beat Kansas City.

Leary (2-0) walked three in sending the Royals to their fourth straight defeat. Leary led the majors last year in losses, going 9-19.

Barfield's first home run of the season came with two outs against Mike Boddicker (1-2).

Orioles 5, Rangers 0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jeff Robinson beat Texas to beat Texas with seven strong innings and the Baltimore Orioles handed the Rangers their third shutout in eight games this season.

Glenn Davis hit his second home run and Baltimore got 10 hits in stopping the Rangers' three-game winning streak. Brian Downing got three Texas' five hits off Robinson and Paul Kilgus, and has reached base in 20 of 24 plate appearances.

Robinson (1-1) gave up four hits after getting tagged in Texas last Sunday. Davis' solo home run in the third against Kenny

Major Leagues

Rogers (0-2) made it 3-0.

Expos 2, Mets 1

MONTREAL (AP) — Dennis Martinez allowed five hits over 7 2-3 innings to beat Dwight Gooden in an encore matchup and give the Montreal Expos a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets on Friday night.

Martinez (2-1), who lasted only five innings against Gooden in a loss last Saturday in New York, struck out two, and did not walk a batter to help Montreal win its third straight game. The Mets broke through in the eighth inning, snapping a 22-inning scoreless streak by Expo pitchers.

Gooden (2-1), who felt stiffness in his arm after throwing more than 140 pitches while striking out 14 in Saturday's victory over the Expos, was as effective as Martinez. Gooden allowed four hits, one earned run and struck out six while walking one in seven innings.

Delino DeShields led off the Montreal first with a triple to right field and scored one out later when Juan Calderon was safe on shortstop Howard Johnson's fielding error. Calderon stole second and scored on Tim Wallach's single to right.

Tim Burke, the third Montreal pitcher, worked the final inning for his second save.

Pirates 5, Cubs 4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jeff King's two-out single in the bottom of the ninth inning negated Andre Dawson's grand slam in the top half as Pittsburgh rallied to end Chicago's six-game winning streak.

King (0-1), perfect in four previous save opportunities, started the ninth by giving up singles to pinch-hitter Curtis Wilkerson and Gary Redus. After Jay Bell's sacrifice, Smith's wild pitch tied the score.

Andy Van Slyke, who homered and had three RBIs, grounded out before Bobby Bonilla and Barry Bonds were intentionally walked. King hit a 1-1 pitch to short center field to make a winner of Stan Belinda (1-1) who allowed Dawson's two-out pinch homer.

The fifth grand slam of Dawson's career spoiled a brilliant performance by Vicente Palacios, who limited the Cubs to only one hit in 6 2-3 innings in his first start since 1988.

Reds 8, Braves 3

ATLANTA (AP) — Cincinnati took advantage of tormentor Tom Glavine's wildness to score four runs on only one hit in the fourth inning, winning despite three Atlanta home runs.

Glavine (1-1) and reliever Marvin Freeman issued four walks and hit two batters in the fourth. Glavine lost to Cincinnati for only the third time in 12 career decisions.

Barry Larkin opened the inning with a walk and was doubled to third by Eric Davis. After an infield out, Mariano Duncan was hit by a pitch and two walks led to another run for the Reds, who won their third straight game.

Freeman and got winning pitcher Jack Armstrong (1-0) for the second out, but had a hit-batsman and a walk to force in another run. The Braves got solo homers from Deion Sanders, his first in the National League, Sid Bream and Ron Gant.

Cardinals 3, Phillies 1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Todd Zeile, whose .162 average with runners in scoring position was the worst in the National League last season, had a two-run single as St. Louis won its home opener.

Bob Tewksbury (1-1) gave up four hits and a run in seven innings, striking out a career-high eight, to win his second straight matchup against Terry Mulholland (1-2).

Lee Smith, the third Cardinal pitcher, got the last five outs for his fifth save and St. Louis' fifth victory.

Chicago Cubs pitcher Mike Bielecki reads a pitch as Pirates Andy Van Slyke circles the bases after hitting a 2-run homer in the final inning.

Jordan leads Bulls to record win

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Michael Jordan scored 18 of his 41 points in the fourth quarter, and the Chicago Bulls won their 60th game for the first time in franchise history, 115-99 over the Charlotte Hornets on Friday night.

Chicago led 82-58 with 3:35 left in the third quarter and 86-72 going into the fourth period. Brian Charles climbed within four on three occasions in the final quarter, the last time at 94-90 with 5:11 left on Kelly Tripucka's short jumper.

After Jordan scored to make it 96-90, Charlotte's Kenny Gattison was called for a technical foul for arguing a referee's call with 4:42 left. Jordan's foul shot, followed by two more from Horace Grant, extended the margin to nine, and Charlotte never recovered.

The Bulls finished their 24th NBA season at 60-21, the best record in the Eastern conference. Charlotte, which set a three-year franchise record with 26 wins, had their three-game winning streak snapped.

Scottie Pippen scored 22 points for the Bulls. Reserve Dell Curry led Charlotte with 17 points.

Mavericks 113, Rockets 107

DALLAS (AP) — Derek Harper scored 19 points, including a key 16-footer with 31 seconds to play, sending Dallas over Houston.

On Dallas' next possession, Harper hit from the left of the foul line for a three-point play, and Herb Williams added a free throw, with 21 seconds to play.

Vernon Maxwell led the Rockets with 28 points, and Olajuwon added 26. Houston was seeking a franchise-record 52nd victory and record 22nd road win.

Heat 114, 76ers 100

MIAMI (AP) — With Philadelphia's starters sitting out half the game, Rony Seikaly grabbed 20 rebounds and scored a season-high 35 points to help Miami beat the 76ers for the first time ever.

With the playoffs starting next week, 76ers coach Jim Lynam rested his starters in the fourth quarter as Miami pulled away in its home finale. The victory was the Heat's first against Philadelphia in 12 games and three seasons.

Philadelphia's Hersey Hawkins scored 22 points in 24 minutes. He had 18 points in the third quarter to keep the 76ers in contention.

With Miami leading 88-86, Seikaly's basket started a 10-0 run that put the Heat in control.

Magic 112, Bulls 107

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Scott Skiles scored 32 points as Orlando defeated Washington Bulls for the first time in six meetings.

The Magic, who outbounded the Bulls 56-30, trailed by 10 in the second half before tying the score five times in the final eight minutes. Orlando then opened a 109-104 lead on a 15-foot jumper by Skiles with 38 seconds remaining.

John Williams hit a 3-pointer for the Bulls for four seconds later, but Jerry Reynolds' layup sealed the outcome with 18 seconds to go.

Ledell Eackles led the Bulls with 30 points.

Timberwolves 109, Bucks 91

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pooh Richardson, who spent the last 13 minutes of the first half on the bench, singlehandedly outscored Milwaukee 13-10 in the first seven minutes of the third period as Minnesota built an 18-point lead.

Richardson, who finished with 19 points, also had three of his nine assists during the third period for the Timberwolves, who were 21-20 at home in their second NBA season.

Tony Campbell had 28 points and Tyrone Corbin 24 as Minnesota won for the fifth time in seven games; the losses were by a combined three points. In beating the Bucks for the first time in club history, the Timberwolves clinched their first winning month ever.

Fred Roberts scored 17 points for the Bucks, who lost their fourth straight game, all on the road.

The Herald's source said the NBA refs are united "for the first time in years. And they've got some strong arguments that the league is going to have to address."

Referees approached by The Associated Press after a game in Sacramento Thursday night cited league policy in refusing to talk. A league official said that policy Friday, saying that officials are permitted to speak to the media only on rules interpretations.

Referees will not talk about possible strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBA on Friday denied a report that referees may strike during the playoffs.

"We assume someone is misinformed, as the NBA refs have a contract through 1991-92," league spokesman Terry Lyons said when asked about the story in the Boston Herald.

The newspaper said the referees plan to meet in Chicago on Monday to discuss a possible walkout during the playoffs, which begin next Wednesday.

The Herald, citing an unidentified source close to the refs, said the officials are upset over low pay and the strict control of their chief, Darrell Garretson.

Fred Slaughter, general counsel for the refs, confirmed that a meeting will take place Monday. But he added: "An agenda has not been filed, so I can't tell you what we're going to talk about. I cannot confirm any of this, but I find it very interesting."

Slaughter said he believes there is a no-strike clause in the refs' contract with the NBA.

"I think almost all collective bargaining agreements have a no-strike pledge," he said. "To talk about a strike or no strike is all speculation because I don't know that it will be an agenda item."

The Herald said the refs have contacted CBA officials, who could be possible replacements if NBA officials walk off the job.

"I have not heard anything about that," said CBA spokesman Greg

Canadiens net shootout victory

BOSTON (AP) — Stephane Richer's second goal of the game 27 seconds into overtime ended a shootout that gave the Montreal Canadiens a 4-3 win over the Boston Bruins, tying their NHL playoff series at one game apiece Friday night.

Brian Skrudland passed the puck from behind the net to the left of Boston goalie Andy Moog to Richer behind the other side of the net. Richer passed it to Shayne Corson, whose shot went wide, but Richer collected the puck and beat Moog from the left corner of the crease.

The loss ruined the Bruins' perfect overtime record. They were 5-0-12 in overtime during the regular season, while Montreal was 3-3-11.

NHL playoffs

The best-of-7 Adams Division final shifts to Montreal for games Sunday and Tuesday nights.

Penguins 7, Capitals 6

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Kevin Stevens scored his second goal of the game at 8:10 of overtime as Pittsburgh blew a two-goal, third-period lead and then rallied to beat the Washington Capitals 7-6 Friday night and even the Patrick Division finals at a game apiece.

The Penguins, who sent the game into overtime on Randy Gilhen's first playoff goal at 15:25 of the third, ended Washington's streak of six consecutive overtime playoff wins.

The Capitals hadn't lost in an overtime playoff game since a 3-2, four-overtime loss to the New York Islanders on April 18, 1987.

Pittsburgh, which three times took two-goal leads only to see Washington rally, dominated the overtime.

Golden Eagles take double-header at North Idaho

COEUR D'ALENE — A run scoring double play lifted the College of Southern Idaho to a 5-4 11th inning win against the Cardinals of North Idaho to complete a sweep of a doubleheader Friday afternoon.

The Eagles took the opening game 6-4, upping their season mark to 25-7.

In the opening game the Eagles benefited from an inside the park home run by Don Slattery in the eighth inning to give them a 6-3 lead.

In the bottom half of the eighth the Cardinals got one of the runs back before the Eagles registered the final out with the bases loaded.

In the ninth game CSI jumped up early on the strength of first inning home runs by Dave Mittleit and Mike Beanson. The Eagles added two more in the third inning.

Ryan Hall led off with a single and was followed by another single by Mittleit before Duke Doider brought them both home with a double.

North Idaho got its four runs, two in each the fourth and sixth innings, off four Eagle errors.

CSI got the win in the 11th when Brandt Hanes led off the inning with a single and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Grant Agnew. The throw to second to try to get Hanes went into left-center and Hanes went to third. Mittleit brought Hanes home on a double play ball.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE BOBBY WOLFE

"Patience, that blending of moral courage with physical liquidity."

— Thomas Hardy.

What's your first play after winning the opening lead in dummy? Careful — it takes courage to make a thoughtful play that many others would eschew.

When this hand was played at rubber bridge, South won dummy's heart ace and immediately led dummy's trump 10 for a finesse. West won the queen and cashed the ace. He then led a third trump and South was finished. Begrudgingly he had to concede two clubs, and the defenders had their four tricks.

Tackling trumps is a priority, but only if declarer has nothing more pressing to do first. In today's case, South can afford to lose two trump tricks; what he can't afford is to lose two club tricks.

To guard against the latter, South should lead a low club to his jack at trick two. West wins but cannot attack trumps, so he continues in hearts. Dummy wins, the club ace is cashed and a club is ruffed in dummy. Now it's safe to lead trumps, ensuring the contract regardless of how the trumps might lie.
