Bush's irregular heartbeat continues

The Associated Press

BETHESDA, Md. — President Bush continued his erratic, irregular heartbeat Sunday and his spokesman said doctors may administer an electrical shock treatment on Monday during which presidential power would be shifted to Vice President Dan Quayle.

Malcolm Fitzwater said doctors at Bethesda Naval Hospital would consider the shock procedure if Bush did not respond adequately to medication overnight. He called the procedure routine and said it carried minimal risk.

The shock will "erase the heart's rhythm and let it restart, hopefully with a normal rhythm," said cardiologist Jonathan Halperin of Mt. Sinai Medical Center in New York.

The 66-year-old Bush was evacuated from Camp David after suffering fatigue and shortness of breath while jogging on Saturday. He was diagnosed as having an irregular fibrillation, a fast, irregular heart rhythm.

"We want to assure the American people that the president is in a healthy condition. He has not suffered a heart attack. He has developments. "The world hasn't stopped," Scowcroft told reporters, holding aloft a satchel of briefing papers.

Fitzwater said doctors hoped Bush's heartbeat would return to normal under medication during the night. If not, they will decide early Monday whether to try the shock procedure, known as electrical cardioversion.

Fitzwater described it as "a single application of direct electrical current to the heart — one very quick jolt." He said Bush would have to be under a general anesthesia during the treatment but might be sedated only a few minutes. During that period, Quayle would be acting president under provisions of the 25th Amendment.

"The risk is minimal, particularly in a patient such as the president who has no demonstrable heart disease," Fitzwater said. "During the short time that the president would be under anesthesia, the vice president would be acting president under the 25th Amendment."

Firefighters demonstrate the foam's clinging ability at the Elkhorn Fire Station.

Despite cost, Sun Valley decides it's sticking with foam to fight fires

By Michael Hofferber
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Foam has replaced water as the firefighter's best friend in Idaho's wealthiest community.

Last year the Sun Valley Fire Department became the first municipal department in the United States to commit to fighting all its fires with foam. A half dozen other firehouses around the country have since followed suit.

"There's a lot of opposition to change," said Sun Valley Fire Chief Jeff Carnes. "It's like the debate over red versus yellow fire trucks. There are studies proving that yellow is more visible, but most departments still have to invent."

Firefighting foams have been available for nearly a century, mostly for gasoline fires or other flammable liquids.

The U.S. Navy used foams during World War II to fight fires on its aircraft carriers, and a similar product is used by emergency crews at major airports.

These foams are "ungodly expensive," according to Carnes, and of limited use in common structure fires.

Using a soap-like wetting agent, a new type of foam — dubbed Class A by firefighters — was developed about 10 years ago to fight wildfires.

In areas where water is scarce, fire crews needed a way to stretch their supplies. Class A foam propelled with an air compressor allows them to douse the same amount of fire with less than half the water.

Carnes heard reports of how compressed air foam was used in Yellowstone National Park, saving Old Faithful Lodge and other structures during the infamous 1988 fire.

He saw the foamers in action the next summer during the Lowman forest fire. He became convinced, he said, that the same technology could put a quick end to structure fires in Sun Valley.

"I was sparked," he said. "Here was an opportunity to do a better job of knocking down a fire with less danger to the firefighter."

With foam, firefighters don't have to go inside a burning building to fight the fire. Jets of foam can be fired into the structure from a distance.

"One of my fears is that today's turnouts (gear suits) and breathing apparatus allow the fireman to get in a situation he shouldn't be in," said Carnes.

A sudden loss of water pressure or a collapsing roof could cost the firefighter his life.

Stronger storms predicted for devastated Bangladesh

The Associated Press

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Forecasters on Sunday predicted winds approaching cyclone strength for Bangladesh's storm-devastated coast, and news reports said survivors from last week's killer cyclone looted food trucks in one town.

Steady rain and inadequate transport upset distribution of relief supplies Sunday to the estimated 10 million people displaced from the cyclone, and relief officials and physicians said "secondary deaths" may start occurring soon in remote islands still awaiting aid.

A helicopter carrying the prime ministers of Bangladesh and Pakistan and Nobel laureate Mother Teresa over the disaster area made an emergency landing Sunday but returned safely to Dhaka hours later. State TV did not report any injuries to Mother Teresa, Prime Minister Khaleda Zia or Pakistan's Nawaz Sharif.

Of the food supplies reaching the stricken southeastern coast, some packages were snatched up in the sea atop piles of dead bodies, newspapers said.

Plastic containers of drinking water were dropped from 500 feet high, bursting on impact, a foreign photographer on one plane flight said.

As time began to run out for refugees without shelter or food, relief officials criticized the government for not coming up with a specific relief plan.

Plan: Spouses could travel easier at taxpayers' expense

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — White House aides quietly developed a plan late last year to make it easier for the spouses of White House and Cabinet officials to travel at taxpayer expense.

Under the proposal, government policy would allow Cabinet-level spouses to travel on government planes or in government cars, or have the Treasury pay for commercial transportation, if their trips were for "official spousal activities."

The proposal was spelled out in documents made available to The Associated Press. It was not known whether the White House would support the proposal in light of the flap surrounding Chief of Staff John Sununu's trips.

The documents, which show the administration considered changing the policy by executive order, acknowledge the change would run counter to long-held federal policy that frown on government travel for spouses.

"The General Accounting Office has long been opposed to government support for spousal activities," White House counsel C. Boyden Gray said in a Nov. 27 memo prepared for the president. "Moreover, trips by spouses of Cabinet members have been attacked in the press in the past, and we can expect adverse press coverage."

Gray is the official charged by Bush to lead the effort to reform the White House travel program. Please see TRAVEL/A2

Shuttle crew finishing experiments

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The astronauts aboard space shuttle Discovery squeezed in as many experiments for the Pentagon as possible Sunday as the arduous "Star Wars" research mission drew to a close.

In their last full day in space, the seven astronauts took time-out to commemorate the 30th anniversary of America's first manned space flight. They crowded in front of a flight deck camera that beamed down the scene live. "Thirty years ago, we were flying one man at a time. Now we're flying seven or more," said shuttle commander Michael Coats, surrounded by his crew. "So we're all wondering what it's going to be like 30 years from now, how many people will be up here in what kind of vehicle."

Blaze that spewed cheese under control

MADISON, Wis. — Cranes hauled twisted rubble Sunday from the burning rubble of a food warehouse complex as firefighters worked to douse the lingering blaze that spewed a swamp of oozing molten butter, cheese and lard.

Billions of hot dogs were among the food destroyed in the fire that raged at least $100 million in damage. Clouds of black smoke billowed from one large building Sunday, two days after the blaze started. "The fire is under control, but it's still burning," Assistant Fire Chief Phillip Yorlander said. "We hope to get the rubble out of the way so we can finish putting the fire out."

U.S. condom aid called too limited

WASHINGTON — The Agency for International Development has sent more than 7.5 billion condoms abroad in 35 years, but a report released Sunday said U.S. efforts to control world population focused on too few countries.

The AID help has gone to countries considered politically important to the United States but with comparatively small populations, said the Population Reference Bureau, a private research group which advocates holding down world population.

"In 1990, AID's ... population assistance to India, a country of over 850 million people, totalled a negligible $1.5 million," the report said. "AID will not provide any bilateral population aid to India at all," the report said.

Amtrak returning to serve Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Amtrak's 20th anniversary means something extra in Wyoming, where the passenger rail service is returning after an eight-year hiatus.

Wyoming lost its passenger train service in 1983 when Amtrak officials decided that the scenery of the southern half of the state was too barren. Passenger service between Denver and Salt Lake City was rerouted to the scenic route operated by the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad along the mountain passes in central Colorado.

But over this year, Amtrak decided to return some trains to less mountainous southern Wyoming. Beginning in June, Amtrak plans to run its Pioneer train between Seattle and Denver through Wyoming, via Union Pacific Railroad tracks.

From Denver, the route goes north through Greeley, Colo., to Cheyenne, then through Laramie, Rawlins, Rock Springs, Green River and Evanston — roughly the route of Interstate 80 — to Ogden, Utah, before reaching Salt Lake City.

President's health again puts Quayle in spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle called President Bush at Bethesda Naval Hospital on Sunday before attending church services, as others speculated about the man who is a heartbeat away from the presidency.

The president's hospitalization for an irregular heartbeat puts Quayle back in the political spotlight.

Bush "will have to answer to the American people about this issue," said Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, a potential Democratic presidential nominee.

"Does he believe ... again in 1992 that the vice president is the best person in America to succeed him if he's unable to continue?" Clinton asked on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Bush and his aides have said that if he runs as expected, Quayle will be his running mate.

Dave Beckwith, Quayle's press secretary, said the vice president wasn't concerned with the political implications of Bush's hospitalization.

"Nothing has changed as far as he is concerned," Beckwith said.

But political scientist Norman Ornstein of the American Enterprise Institute said Quayle's inclusion on the ticket would be an issue in '92.

"It wouldn't have played particularly well politically, though. Now it has a chance of playing much better," Ornstein said, on CNN's "Newsmaker Sunday."

Quayle attended Sunday morning services at the Fourth Presbyterian Church in suburban Bethesda, Md., where a special prayer was offered for the president's swift recovery.

"He is doing exceptionally well ... his mood is upbeat," Quayle said, telling reporters after church that he had spoken with the president by telephone.

In California, former President Reagan was asked if Quayle would be ready to step in for Bush. "I remember him as a very competent senator. I think he would do just fine," Reagan said.

Stephen Hess, a former Republican White House aide now with the Brookings Institution, said Quayle would be under increased public scrutiny while Bush is being treated.

Study details billions in Mideast arms sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council supplied more than $14.3 billion worth of weapons and military equipment to Middle East nations over a 14-year period before imposing an arms embargo on Iraq, according to a congressional study released Sunday.

Their best customer was Iraq, importing $2.8 billion in arms during the period. Iraq awakened the industrialized countries and its Middle East neighbors to the dangers of poorly regulated arms transfers and exports of technology," according to the study, entitled "Middle East Arms Control and Related Issues."

The report said Middle East nations bought almost $214 billion worth of advanced weapons and medium-level technology between 1974 and 1988, with more than 75 percent coming from the five permanent members of the United Nations Council. Saudi Arabia, the second biggest spender, bought $34.6 billion in weapons. Other leading arms recipients included Iran, Libya and Syria, all considered unfriendly to U.S. interests in the region.

The arms purchases of nine other Mideast and North African nations — Israel, Jordan, Egypt, Algeria, Morocco, Kuwait, North and South Yemen and Tunisia — were included in the study.

The leading arms merchant was the Soviet Union, with more than $74 billion worth of weapons transfers to the region, the report said. Next was the United States, with $44 billion.

Report: 8-year-old lab goof bolsters AIDS virus claim

CHICAGO (AP) — French scientists uncovered an 8-year-old laboratory mistake they say bolsters their claims they isolated the world's first known AIDS virus, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The discovery leaves it up to U.S. AIDS researcher Robert Gallo to show the AIDS virus he isolated later at the National Institutes of Health came from an American patient and not from a sample of the French virus sent to him from the Pasteur Institute in Paris, the Chicago Tribune said. Because of their similarities, most scientists have long believed that the virus the French isolated in early 1983, called LAV-1 or LAV-BN1, is the same as the one Gallo isolated months later, named HTLV-III.

Gallo stunned the scientific world in February when he reported his analysis of the remains of samples sent to him from Paris and they were different from DNA information the French published on the virus in 1985 and different from HTLV-III.

Jerome education rally in South Park is today

JEROME — Phlarids, flags, cheers and hand music will kick off a rally in Jerome's South Park today in support of education.

After the rally, scheduled to begin at 6 p.m., there will be a march to Central Elementary School for a meeting on the educational facilities in the Jerome School District and Tuesday's $4,985,000 bond to build a new elementary school.

In addition to the 28 classroom elementary school, the bond issue would pay for a high school vocational building and renovation at Washington and Central schools.

A question-and-answer period will be held at the rally meeting. The School Board trustees, teachers, staff members and the architect for the new school facilities will be present. Everyone is invited, young and old. Will Brown, school superintendent, said.

City will consider revamping traffic signal plan tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council is expected to consider a scaled-down version of the Falls Avenue and Locust Street traffic signal project at its meeting tonight.

City residents say the project is too big and would require the city to buy too much right of way. Councilman Gale Klemkopf said last week he would present a smaller version of the project for the council to vote on tonight.

The council approved the project more than a year ago.

Also on tonight, the council will consider Norco Windows Inc.'s request for a zoning change in Washington Park, a parking agreement with the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital and new dog license and impounding fees.

The council meets at 6 p.m. in City Hall and will hold a work session two hours earlier in the meeting room upstairs.

Jerome begins week-long community pride celebration

JEROME — A week of celebrating community pride will be held in Jerome Monday through Friday with special events scheduled each day.

"Kickoff" celebration will be held Monday at 1 p.m. at the Junior High Auditorium with Dr. Mike Morris, with Idaho State University, and Rev. Elroy Weixel, a Jerome pastor, as guest speakers.

A free community gear wash will be held in the high school parking lot after the kickoff event. A ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house will be held at the newly completed kindergarten center Tuesday at 10 a.m. The election on the school bond issue will run from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Lincoln Plaza shopping center.

And a 70th birthday party for Central Elementary School will be held Friday at 9 a.m.

Trick treats, drawing and writing contests-honor, lunches, concerts, a neighborhood cleanup project, drama presentations, tennis and golf tournaments will be held throughout the week. The teacher of the year will be announced at a breakfast on Tuesday sponsored by the Jerome Chamber of Commerce.

Architecture firm will present plan of new falls, park areas

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls residents can learn Wednesday how their ideas are shaping a master plan for Shoshone Falls and Piers Lake Park.

The Boise landscape architecture firm of Beck & Baird will present a first draft of the plan Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the council chambers in City Hall. The draft came from an April 10 meeting at which 30 or so people gave their ideas for a master plan for two areas.

City parks and recreation officials will have more comments. After that, a second draft will be drawn up and presented for public review. City recreation officials hope to have a master plan completed by early summer.

Make note of correct phone numbers for Social Security

TWIN FALLS — Because the April 1991 telephone directory contains an incorrect phone number for Social Security, Magic Valley residents should make note of the two numbers available to them for Social Security business, said Betsy Haag, local Social Security office manager, in a prepared statement.

Residents can reach the toll-free area at 734-3085. The national toll-free number is still available at 1-800-231-5772.

Magic Valley residents should call to service representatives, fully trained to handle Social Security business.

Democrats begin to outline strategy, entice recruits; Peavey declines race on search for consultant

By Anita Demas Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — State Sen. John Peavey told Magic Valley Democrats on Sunday he won't run for Rep. Richard Stallings' 2nd District congressional seat in 1992.

Peavey, of Carey, said he had been considering a U.S. Senate challenge to conservative Republican Steve Symms, but he has bowed out now that Stallings is planning to run.

"I think we've got a potential real winner (in Stallings)," Peavey said. "And I've given this race some thought, but I think it would be better for me not to make this run. I think it would be better for me to run statewide rather than in the makeup of this district."

But state Auditor J.D. Williams said he is considering entering the race.

"In going before us for advice, a lot of counties before we make this decision, and I hope to make it in a month or so," Williams told the Democrats, who gathered for a planning session at the Weston Plaza Hotel.

Aside from hearing from the two elected officials, Magic Valley Democrats told their leaders what they want the party to do in the coming years, including strengthening local organizations and sending the Democratic message out to the public loud and clear.

"The relationship of the state to the counties is extremely important," said Terry Gilbert of Twin Falls, the region director of the Idaho Education Association.

Counties need the state party's assistance and expertise, particularly during campaigns, Gilbert said.

"We have a long, long way to go. We're not anywhere near where we should be. We have 44 strong county organizations, we're not going to be the party and have the success we would like," said Diane Josephy-Pavey, a Democratic national committee woman, echoing the need for strong local organizations.

Ken Pedersen, a former Twin Falls County Democratic chairman, said the state can help by becoming a conduit of information, sharing successful campaign strategies; so counties can learn from one another.

"I've always been strong on the idea that knowledge is power," Pedersen said. "There's no reason to make the same mistake twice."

"We can't afford to reinvent the wheel every election cycle," agreed the Democrats' new state chairman, Mike Wettenil, who facilitated the session as part of a tour to collect advice from party members statewide.

Articulating a party platform on issues is also important because it would increase the fold, said George Jaker of Buhl.

"I don't think half the people really know what the Democrats want to do in government," Jaker said. "We've got to win their minds and their hearts."

Young people are important potential recruits, Democrats said.

"I think that's real essential," said 15-year-old Jule Riley of Buhl, who worked on Stallings' congressional campaign last year.

And don't treat them like golfers, he said. "People tend to really underestimate youth," Riley said.

Committee on search for consultant

By Brad Bowlin Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The regional committee looking to build a juvenile detention center must find a new consultant for the project.

The director of Ada County Juvenile Court Services, Jim Tallman, resigned as the project's advisor last week after one of his top administrators took a new job with the state.

Officials from Twin Falls, Jerome, Blaine, Carnas, Gooding and Estmore counties hope the search for a new consultant will not slow the project, said Norma Blass, Twin Falls County Commissioner.

Tallman's resignation forced the group to cancel a Tuesday meeting at which three architectural firms planned to present preliminary designs for the new center, Blass said.

Having the architects display plans without having a knowledgeable consultant on hand to critique them would have been a waste of time, she said.

Instead, a Friday meeting has been scheduled with Kurt Friedenauer, administrative director for the Youth Services Center in St. Anthony, who could become the new consultant for the regional project. The Youth Services Center is Idaho's only state-operated, long-term juvenile facility.

Can the Snake River be saved?

The Associated Press

BLISS — Like a canary in a coal mine, the carcasses of dead sturgeon and thick green mats of algae discovered last year on the Snake River indicate that stretches of Idaho's mightiest waterway are dying.

And the battle raging in the Lower Snake and Columbia rivers over restoration of dwindling salmon runs is gradually flowing upstream into the main Snake, where decisions will have to be made about the river's future.

"We are going to have to accept the fact that some rivers will remain working rivers," Idaho Power Co. Chief Executive Officer Joe Marshall said. "We're going to have to make some tradeoffs."

But the low water that helped kill the ancient fish at Brownlee Reservoir in Hells Canyon is expected again this summer, and five mollusks in the Hagerman hatch have been suggested for protection as endangered species — something that would require the river to be managed for their preservation over other uses.

The Snake River is as colossal as Idaho's mountains or forests, making its salvation appear an insurmountable task. Still, those most involved in the Snake's future are optimistic it can keep its utilitarian use while providing wildlife and recreational opportunities.

"You can call it a working river that doesn't mean you have to try it off altogether environmentally," Terry Holubetz, Idaho Fish and Game regional fisheries manager said.

From its headwaters in Yellowstone country, the Snake flows through 15 hydroelectric or diversion dams before reaching Lewiston.

It absorbs fertilizers and other chemicals from thousands of acres of farm ground. Waste pours in from streamside towns, some 130 fish hatcheries and 560 dairies.

Despite the millions of gallons of water that course down the Snake every day, the river no longer is able to digest all that material cast away by man.

The nitrate- and phosphorus nutrients from the farms and cities create expansive algae blooms in the slack water. The yearly runoff that normally flushes the Snake River of its contaminants has been absent during Idaho's long dry spell.

"The water is so green, it's almost unrecognizable. The poisons in Brownlee Reservoir. Algae nourished and then died, robbing the water of oxygen. A fertilizer spill occurred upstream. Twenty-eight rare white sturgeon were killed along with bass, carp and channel catfish."

Papers for Castleford fire commissioners due

By Diane Schorzman Times-News correspondent

CASTLEFORD — Applications are being accepted for three fire commissioners who will oversee the newly formed Castleford Fire District.

Applicants must be residents of the fire district and must state their reasons for wanting the position. Applications must be submitted to the Castleford city clerk by Wednesday.

The fire district advisory board then will recommend three of the applicants to the Twin Falls County Commission. The final appointment will be made by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

All commissioners thereafter will be elected. After the commissioners are appointed it will be their job to "refine the membership" and then organize a bond election, said Castleford Fire Chief Dan DeBoer.

Although it is estimated it will cost $395,000 to get the fire district equipped and

So what does 'Kay pass the ...' mean, anyway?

I would like to learn to speak Spanish. This year started during my second year of college French when I saw a color-coded map of world languages and realized there was only a tad more French speaking people in the world than Swahili speaking people.

My desire to learn to speak Spanish was further heightened by my move 18 years ago from the East to the West. Not only in Albuquerque, New Mexico, did I hear "Boujour, comment vas tu?"

Everybody kept saying "Kay pass the ..." I never met Kay or found out what she was

I suppose to pass out it soon became apparent that I was being greeted in Spanish.

Now I find myself in the unique (well, I think 5 percent of the population makes us unique) position of living at least part of the time on a farm, a farm that hires seasonal Mexican workers.

I see these people almost every day like a prisoner seeing the world pass by her barred window — seeing but not being able to communicate with them.

Apollinar Escobar Ferron is from San Vicente, Mexico. His wife and three daughters wait here for his return from our farm every year.

All this information came from an interview I have wanted for some time now to ask Apollinar privately how his wife manages six months of the year without her husband. Does she have a support system? Does she network? Is there a Spanish word for support system and network?

I have picked up a smattering of Spanish words, but I'm frustrated by my French language background. For some reason, in this pea-sized brain there is no distinguishing languages. If they're foreign words they're foreign words! They all get thrown out there together.

"Oui, Apollinar. I mean 'Si'. Sorry, Moooo-ee-ee."

It's a sterner travesty what I do to the noble and singularly beautiful languages of French and Spanish. I keep thinking some-

Sugar growers worry about Mexican trade agreement

By Denise Turner Times-News writer

Idaho's sugar growers are not sugarcoating their comments about President Bush's attempt to extend the administration's fast-track authority in negotiating a U.S.-Mexico free trade agreement.

"We are very much opposed to fast track," said Mark Duffin, Executive Director of the Idaho Sugar Beet Growers Association. "We feel Congress is giving up its constitutional authority."

Under the administration's fast-track authority, Congress not only holds a simpler or no-vote an trade agreements, without the possibility of amendment. The deadline for Congress to stop an automatic two-year extension of fast track is June 1.

The administration is saying that, without fast-track, they cannot negotiate the U.S.-Mexico agreement, but that is false," said Allan Johnson, President of Amalgamated Sugar. "If this is conducted under fast track, Mexico has the potential to flood the U.S. with low-cost sugar, and that could critically injure the sugar industry in Idaho."

Lipman added that the state's dairy operations could also be affected and that fruit and vegetable growers in California and Florida, in addition to the sugar industry, are "absolutely devastated over this bill."

"Fast-track" said Lipman, "isolates Congress from negotiations of the particulars in an agreement and allows no opportunity for compromise."

Recly Olson, Administrator of Marketing and Development for the Idaho Department of Agriculture, takes a different stance.

"We can understand the concerns," she said, "but we believe, overall, that U.S. agricultural stands to gain a great deal more by extending fast track."

Olson mentioned that Mexico has 85 million people who are "largely untapped" at this point because there are so many trade restrictions.

"I believe the Idaho sugar industry can be competitive with other countries," she said. "The U.S. would not give up any farm subsidy and program without getting anything in return."

Congressional supporters of the White House backed U.S.-Mexico free trade agreement.

While I have left the administration know what serious concerns about sugar track is particularly in regard to sugar at least until I see some transition plans," said Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho.

"We are going to get hurt, and the extra acres would go to potatoes, beans and other crops already near the margin, and I predict a real disaster if that happens."

"Stallings says he thinks fast-track has the votes to make it through Congress at the present time."

"Here is the key," he said. "If this starts to get real close, you will see the administration preparing a fast-track from Mexico to National Farmers Union field hearing held in Twin Falls April 26, Union President Leland Swenson characterized recent statements made in Washington as a form of "blackmail."

Testifying before the House Agriculture Committee, Hill had said the Bush Administration would fight any effort to reinstate $1 billion worth of export promotion funds and wheat and feed grain marketing loans if fast-track is not extended.

Last year's farm reconciliation bill contained language to reinstate the funds in fiscal 1992 and 1993 if the Uruguay Round of trade negotiations fail.

Duffin notes that the trade agreement issue is closely tied to the current GATT General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs talks.

"We haven't really taken a position on that," said Duffin. "Some of it looks good, but we are concerned about Section 22 Commodities, covering sugar, rice, peanuts and cotton, and the idea of reducing everyone's subsidy by a certain percentage."

"Europe is protecting sugar at about .37 cents a pound," said Stallings.

"If they lower that by 15 cents, they would be at 22 cents, but if we lower ours by 15 cents, we would be at about seven cents, and we would not be able to grow a sugar-beet in Idaho."

Property owners should not figure in the value of personal property, farm equipment, etc.

The fire department will continue to operate strictly on a volunteer basis, and there will be no fire engine fees.

The fire protection district encompasses 161 square miles in the Castleford area, including Rosa, north and Blue Gulch to the Owyhee County line. Voters approved the formation of the fire district at an election held earlier this month.

underway, "these estimates are high in order to give the fire commissioners' (and voters) the best idea of what the final figures should be, lower, he said.

The city was awarded a $185,000 community development block grant, contingent upon the establishment of the fire district, to use as seed money for the project. The city of Castleford will donate $10,000 toward the new fire station.

A 10-year, $200,000 bond issue would pay for the rest of the project, and would assess the district's average property owner about $120 per year, or about $10 per month.

Property owners can estimate how much it will cost them by multiplying the assessed value of their home and improvements minus their home owner's exemption if applicable by .00418.

Multiply the value of the land times .00418 and multiply that figure by 20 percent.

Then add the home figure and the land figure together.

River

Masters, water quality supervisor for the state Division of Environmental Quality in Twin Falls.

The state has stepped in with interim protection from development for that stretch while planners come up with management strategy for the river.

In too many reaches, rapids aerating the water with oxygen critical to aquatic life have given away to hydroelectric dams and their slack-water pools.

"The moss and algae are telling us it's overloaded and can't compensate naturally," MeMasters said. "The river is telling us it's not in good shape."

That poor prognosis has not gone unnoticed. The state has contracted with water expert Charles Brockway from the University of Idaho in Kimberly to study the Middle Snake. That study should be finished this summer with a report ready for the state by late fall.

Idaho may also work with Oregon to clean up the water quality in the Hells Canyon reservoirs the two states share, said Susan Martin, manager of surface water programs of the Division of Environmental Quality.

Local officials are pitching in because of the enormous economic and social consequences of ignoring the problem.

Gobiding County Commissioner Bud Muffley is a member of the Middle Snake River Planning Group, a four-county consortium looking for a cure.

"We have all kinds of natural attractions. If the river dries, those attractions will die along with it," he said. "The places where I used to water-ski as a kid, now you can't even get your boat in because of the algae."

The dams operated by Idaho Power Co. are the state's largest source of the electricity-making the utility an essential element in restoring the river.

Dune buggy wreck kills Utah man west of Malad

MALAD - A 26-year-old Brigham City, Utah, man died Saturday afternoon when he was thrown from a dune buggy west of Interstate 84 near the Idaho-Utah border.

David Wayne Lively was dead when Idaho State Police officers arrived at the scene five miles north of the border and three miles west of the freeway after 4 p.m. Saturday, an Idaho State Police dispatcher said.

The driver of the dune buggy, Mike Dennis Riser, 31, of Brigham City, Lost control while on a wet gravel road known as Paraline Road. Riser was flown to Bannock Regional Medical Center in Pocatello where he remained in intensive care Sunday.

A third rider, James L. Green, 31, was taken to Malad Hospital, the dispatcher said.

None of the riders was wearing a seatbelt, he said.

4 elderly persons drowned in river identified by coroner

SHOUP (AP) - Two more bodies have been recovered from the Salmon River downstream from Shoup, accounting for all four elderly Montana residents believed to be in a car that plunged into the river April 27.

Lemhi County Coroner Doug Casey identified the victims Sunday as Richard Ormsbeck, 76, and Alice Thane, 75, both of Hamilton, Mont.

The bodies of Susan Ormsbeck, 72, and Elizabeth Casper, 75, both also of Hamilton, were found April 27 and April 30, respectively, downstream from where the car went into the river - off a U.S. Forest Service road about five miles west of Shoup.

The bodies found Saturday still were strapped into the Subaru station wagon with safety belts, sheriff's dispatcher Bill Wing said.

detention facility. The Family and Children's Services division of the Department of Health and Welfare oversees the center.

Friedman said the state connection was a strong advantage when it comes to planning the local detention center, which will be built in Twin Falls.

The Health and Welfare Department recently formed an advisory committee to provide information and technical assistance to counties building their own facilities. "We are able to provide a lot of services," including the development of standards, training procedures and intake guidelines, Friedman said. "We have a whole range of expertise to draw from."

Any time lost by Tallman's departure "can still be time well spent" in making sure the finished product is "restarted again the next day."

"I know there is some sense of urgency," Friedman said. "I would temper that with advice to go forward carefully. We don't want to waste time, but we don't want to go too fast."

one with some know-how will over-learn his struggling Spanish and become so offended they'll offer to teach me the language free."

"I see that I am not alone with my frustration. Two winters ago my husband signed up for a Conversational Spanish class at the local college and found himself amongst a sea of farmers.

They work with Spanish-speaking people every day. They were frustrated too. They couldn't share a joke, a witticism, or a anecdote like other coworkers do, such as a couple of telephone repairmen in Twin Falls might, for example.

One problem was quite evident from the start of this conversational Spanish class.

"These farmers" did not have a French language background like me, but for some reason they had developed a way of speaking English that made them think they were speaking Spanish.

"If you drive a down the road you notice mine you'll use a storey." Miriam and Webster have acquiesced on many words over the years "ain't," "input," and "output" to name a few - but I don't think they'd be interesting in expanding our dictionary to include "road-y" and "store-y."

I have begun to seriously research the time, money, and opportunity I would need to learn Spanish. I'm short right now on all three.

Added to these discouraging realities is one more - I'm 38. I have learned that a 38-year-old brain weighs more than a year-old brain, but it doesn't absorb language as well - another cause of useless farcels.

I just don't want to spend $260 and five months drilling "Hello, how are you?" in Spanish. Nor do I want to spend $3,000 and two weeks in Acapulco just to learn how to ask for another margarita. Well, on second thought - I might consider possibility number two as one venue leading me to my goal.

"I think I am determined enough and focused enough that I will eventually learn to speak Spanish. Then I will become a working member of the Global community - bilingual, with more perspective and a greater appreciation of other cultures as well as my own. I may be 90 and on the verge of senility, but for one brief, shining moment..."

Diana Hooley writes from her farm home near Indian Cove.

North Korea agrees to resume dialogue

SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea has agreed to open talks on delegating parliamentary exchanges with South Korea, a member of a reunification committee South Korean lawmakers said upon returning from Pyongyang.

Choe Mun-hick said he and Chon Kum-chol, vice chairman of the North Korea's Committee for Practical Reunification of the Peninsula, reached the agreement Saturday night. Dates for preliminary talks on resuming dialogue have not been set.

The exchanges were suspended early this year when North Korea called off all dialogue with South Korea to protest annual U.S.-South Korean military exercises.

Expert says cholera can be controlled

SPLOOH, Turkey — A cholera outbreak among Iraqi refugees in a sprawling mountain camp in Turkey can be controlled, and should not cause a panic, a U.S. official from the Centers for Disease Control said Sunday.

Epidemiologist Ron Waldman spoke one day after the international relief organization Doctors Without Borders reported seven people had died of cholera at the Cukurca camp, temporary home to an estimated 70,000 refugees.

The group said about 150 cases had been confirmed the past week, and that the camp might have to be quarantined because of the outbreak.

Inkatha threatens to boycott conference

BEKKERSDAL, South Africa — Inkatha leader Mangosuthu Buthe threatened Sunday to boycott a proposed peace conference because of what he called "poor collusion with the rival African National Congress."

He told a rally in this black township the ANC's desire to make South Africa ungovernable caused the spiraling violence that has killed more than 600 people in townships this year.

After the rally, police opened fire to prevent clashes between rival groups, killing two people. A police spokesman said another man died in a separate attack in Bekkersdal.

Soviet landslide kills more than 50

MOSCOW — A landslide buried eight houses and killed at least 50 people in a mountain village in the Soviet Central Asian republic of Uzbekistan, news reports said Sunday.

After the disaster Saturday, authorities evacuated 400 nearby residents at the disaster Saturday in Chigiristan, near the Uzbek capital of Tashkent, 1,900 miles southeast of Moscow.

Marchers protest Taiwan nuclear plant

TAIPEI, Taiwan — About 6,000 demonstrators wearing yellow headbands with the words "anti-nuclear" marched through the city center Sunday to protest plans to build a fourth nuclear power plant.

It was the largest anti-nuclear protest in Taiwan since 1987, when the Nationalist Chinese government lifted martial law that banned demonstrations.

Former Latvian commander wounded

MOSCOW — The man who commanded Soviet "black beret" Interior Ministry troops in the Latvian capital of Riga was shot and wounded at his apartment, news reports said Sunday.

The attack on Cheslav Mlynick occurred Saturday, the first anniversary of Latvia's declaration of independence, although it was not clear whether the events were related.

Mlynick, who no longer heads the commando unit, was shot twice in the chest, the independent Baltfax news agency reported. The wounds were not life-threatening, according to official Soviet news agency Tass.

Iran rejects cooperating with U.S.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's President Hashemi Rafsanjani said Sunday his country was not interested in ties with the United States, and had no connection to groups holding Western hostages in Lebanon.

"Iran is not thinking about establishing ties with the U.S.," Rafsanjani said at a seminar at Tehran University. "The U.S. is always trying to make the issue of establishing ties with Iran subject to conditions."

Rafsanjani also expressed concern about the creation of special havens in Iraq being set up by Western military forces to protect Kurdish refugees. He said Iraq could eliminate the need for the zones if it held free elections that made citizens feel secure in their own country.

Washington severed relations with Tehran after Iran held 52 Americans hostage for 444 days during the 1979 Islamic revolution.

Financial disputes from the hostage crisis as well as the issue of the 13 missing Westerners believed held by Iranian-backed groups in Lebanon continue to hamper relations between the two countries.

The Islamic Republic News Agency in its report on the seminar said Rafsanjani insisted Iran had no connection with hostage-holders in Lebanon. In his speech, he referred to four Iranians missing since they were kidnapped by Lebanese Phalangist gunmen in 1982.

"They (the Americans) know that they themselves are terrorists and the Lebanese Phalangists who are holding our hostages are their agents," he said.

Although Rafsanjani spoke harshly about the United States, he said Iran valued its relations with Britain, Rafsanjani, seeking financial and technical aid, has been working to improve Iran's relations with foreign countries.

Tensions increase in Armenia after bloodshed, evacuation

MOSCOW (AP) — Tension increased Sunday along the Armenian-Azerbaijani border after Soviet paratroopers were airlifted into the region where 36 people have died in recent ethnic clashes, according to news accounts.

High-ranking Soviet Interior Ministry officials "unequivocally are calling what is happening a civil war between the two republics," the government newspaper Izvestia said.

Gen. Yuri Shatalin, the commander of Soviet troops in the border area, told Izvestia his soldiers were guarding an Armenian nuclear power station against a planned attack by Armenian nationalists. A parliamentary commission formed by Russian leader Boris Y. Yeltsin planned to fly from Moscow to Armenia to investigate the bloodshed, the Interfax news agency said.

Tass said Sunday that 200 paratroopers were airlifted by helicopter into the republic's capital of Yerevan to protect military personnel and installations.

Russian radio said tension was growing again, and the official Tass news agency said Sunday the situation throughout the area had worsened.

Feuding between mainly Christian Armenians and predominantly Muslim Azerbaijan goes back centuries. It involves disputes over land as well as religious and cultural differences.

Hundreds have died since fighting broke out in the neighboring republic in 1987 over Nagorno-Karabakh, a verdant hill area that is populated mostly by Armenians but has been under Azerbaijani rule since 1923.

8 murdered in drug trade

TAURINANOVA, Italy (AP) — Underworld killers locked in a seven-day war murdered eight people in three days and laughed as they butchered one before dozens of terrified witnesses, police said.

Police said most if not all of the killings on Thursday, Friday and Saturday were ordered by two crime families fighting to control a drug trade in the toe of the Italian boot.

A stake is hundreds of millions of dollars a year in profits.

The gunmen worked savagely and sometimes gleefully, killing with a barbarism that police said was intended to send a message to the living.

One victim was beheaded by laughing gunmen who held the severed head aloft before about 30 horrified witnesses and then repeatedly tossed it in their air for target practice, police said.

Another victim of what police call "Black Friday" in Taurinanova was killed by 12 blasts from sawed-off shotguns.

Idaho Head of Idaho school officials group dies

BOISE (AP) — Richard Lee "Rick" Van Hemert, founder and executive director of the Idaho Association of School Administrators, died Friday of cancer. He was 43.

Van Hemert

Memorial and graveside services were scheduled Wednesday in Boise.

Van Hemert was born March 15, 1948, in Des Moines, Iowa, to James and Dorothy Van Hemert. He was reared and attended public schools in Texas.

He married Nancy Carlson in January 1969 and graduated from the University of Texas at Austin in 1970 with a bachelor's degree in secondary education. He received a master's degree in education in 1974 from the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Van Hemert taught and was an administrator at schools in San Antonio before becoming assistant executive director of the Minnesota Association of School Administrators in 1974.

In 1981, he moved to Boise to form the Idaho Association of School Administrators and continued as the group's executive director and chief lobbyist until his death.

Van Hemert was a member of the American Association of School Administrators, the National Association of Elementary and Secondary School Principals, Idaho Society of Association Executives and the American Society of Association Executives.

He also served on the board of advisors for the Northwest Women in Education Administration, the board of managers for the Idaho PTA, the Governor's Task Force on Unemployment Compensation, the Idaho Education Coalition—the Religion and Public Schools Project Task Force, and the Idaho Professional Educators Council.

Van Hemert's survivors include his daughter Molly and her mother, Nancy Van Hemert of Garland, Texas.

UI frat cancels ball, says its sorry for tract

MOSCOW (AP) — A University of Idaho fraternity apologized for a booklet it published which contained racist and sexist comments and to make amends the organization announced it had canceled its annual ball.

The frat prepared a statement Friday, Delta Tau Delta chapter President Leonard Plaster publicly apologized for the booklet, which had explicit sexual references to several women on campus as well as references to "niggers and dykes."

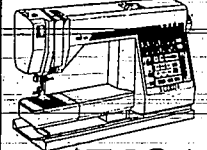

The publication was part of Delta Tau Delta's 60th annual Russian Ball, which had been scheduled Saturday night. "I can assure you that we are saddened to realize that our poor attempt at humor in an in-house booklet has offended this campus and community," Plaster said in the statement. "We now see very clearly the problem with making these silly comments even if they are not public and they certainly do not reflect our members' attitudes."

University officials were reviewing sexual harassment and discrimination policies to determine whether action can be taken against the fraternity. "I'm appalled by the content, and I'm amazed by their hypocrisy," said Bruce Pitman, dean of student advisory services.

The fraternity had recently participated in a national campaign condemning sexual harassment, racism and human rights violations. Fraternity members had put up posters throughout the Moscow school proclaiming a college campus is the last place human rights should be violated.

The joys of being big sister

My youngest grandson, 3, has a Sissy—a teen-age sister who looks after him. He shapes up when she's around. Oh, he often glares at her and grumbles. But when he falls or is fidgety, she's the one he wants.

I see Sissys everywhere. In the supermarket, girls only a few years older than tiny brothers or sisters cajole them, amuse them, chase them while harried parents shop.

Aging

Lucille S. deView

Sissys shepherd the little ones to school, care for them when parents are ill or away, cook for them, clean for them, hug and nurture them.

I wish I had been a good 'n' Sissy. The eldest of seven, I was more the Lucy type in the Peanuts comic strip. I forever jawed at my siblings, tie your shoes, clean your plate, stop scaring me to death when I'm home alone with you.

Scaring me was the favorite sport of the two boys nearest my age. I'd look out the window and glimpse them teetering on the garage roof, umbrellas unfurled like parachutes. Surely they wouldn't jump?

They did. Once they had a rock fight and my brother Dick came howling home, blood streaming from a head wound. I shoved his head under the faucet while I scolded and tried to remember the doctor's phone number.

I should have stopped that rock fight. Someday.

The doctor came to the house and stitched Dick's head. I was relieved. But that evening, I read of a condition referred to in those days as water on the brain. I was stricken, remembering how I held Dick's head under the faucet.

My fears were unfounded, but my agony taught me how deeply I loved my brother and wanted to protect him from harm.

I couldn't, of course. Not then. During World War II when he almost died on a remote Pacific Island; not in the years he hung from precipices to photograph the Rocky Mountains; not from death a decade ago.

When the Santa Ana winds howl, I think of Dick. I remember the blustery spring days when he would be tossed high into the string almost ran out.

He raced, exulted, across the vacant fields near our house. I chased him, crying: "Let me hold the string, let me hold the string." He did. I heard the rattle of the paper and felt the tug of the wind. It was grand.

Then the string slid through my hand. The kite soared, twisted, then crashed beyond the rooftops. We found it on the next block, top, balsa sticks piercing its red tissue heart.

When Dick slipped from this life, he left me bereft in a heap of grief. But I am comforted by what he was, and is to me: his Sissy, chasing him still.

Originally issued in the 1880s to prevent cigarettes from bending, baseball cards are still around and, due to the popularity of collecting, looked at as potential investments.

Be a card shark

Do anything: Forgive mom, search the attic, but get into the lucrative pastime of collecting baseball cards

By Brad Warr

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Grown men throughout the nation are holding deep-seated grudges towards their mothers, all because they threw away their shoebox full of baseball cards.

Only recently have "people" begun scouring their attics, hoping, even praying, that they might find that one box that will reward them with instant respectability on the company softball team.

Baseball cards have been around for a long time. Issued in the 1880s by cigarette companies, the cardboard cards were originally meant to keep the cigarettes from bending. Because of the poor quality of the early cards, few are still in existence, but those still in reasonable condition command astronomical prices.

Earlier this year, hockey star Wayne Gretzky and Canadian sports magnate Bruce McNall purchased a mint condition 1910 Honus Wagner for $451,000. The card is the most sought after of all sports-related memorabilia. To date, fewer than 40 Wagner cards have surfaced. Of those, only 10 are considered to be of collector quality. Wagner had the cards recalled because they promoted a tobacco company.

Because of the steady rise in the price of sports-related memorabilia, many people have gone deep into the "con" game. Living in California and basements to find they already have many of the cards that most collectors only dream of.

One such collector is Todd Amundson of Jerome. At 23, he already has 17 years of collecting behind him. "I can remember when I was about six, living in California and riding on the handle bars of a friend's bike eight miles to a card shop that was closed. I should have learned my lesson then," Amundson said.

Now, years later, he has put together a fine collection of rookie cards with the likes of Jack Kemp, Walter Payton, Tony Dorsett and many others. His passion for collecting has given him more than 40,000 cards.

He now concentrates on putting together multiples of the rookie cards. The facts are going to be valuable, along with complete sets that are consistently increasing in value.

He and his roommate Brian Martens, an engineer for Idaho Power, have used their collections to "create their own 1992 Olympic Team consisting of perennial non-all-stars Paul Mokeski, Randy Brewer and Frank "Brickhouse" Brikowski. Not exactly what Sports Il-

TWIN FALLS — So you want to start a card collection? No need to panic, large amounts of money are not a prerequisite to start this hobby.

Local collectors Todd Amundson and Brian Martens suggest starting by putting together a portfolio of as many promising rookie cards as possible. This may be done by buying individual cards or by getting them out of the packs.

"I like to pick two or three young players that I think show a lot of promise and buy as many of their rookie cards as I can, while they're still affordable," Amundson said.

Another local collector is Twin Falls surgeon David McClusky. First coming in contact with big league sports as stadium physician at Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium, he has turned his love for sports into a family activity.

He and his youngest son — who is interested in Michael Jordan — have begun collecting into a full-time activity and a financial plan for John's education. "We have one fun set that we just strictly investment," said David McClusky.

Even when traveling, they take time out to go to the local card shops. "When relatively safe bets include David Robinson and Ken Griffey Jr., though they are already out of some collectors' price range, Hersey Hawkins, Tim Hardaway and Derrick Coleman are good bets in baseball, while Barry Sanders, Thurman Thomas and Troy Aikman are performing well in the NFL. Baseball standouts include Gary Sheffield, Dave Justice and Kamron Martinez.

In the process of collecting stand-out cards, everyday players will begin to accumulate, giving you a good start at putting together complete sets.

Looking good

Go icy in white summer style

Summer fashion hones down to simpler shapes and fabrics that emphasize comfort. Summer's fashion attitude reflects our casual lifestyle and the new '90s drive toward simplicity, according to Joe Spinoza, men's director of merchandise development at JC Penney.

This summer's looks have to deliver three essentials for savvy '90s consumers, says Lucille Klein, Women's Fashion Director for JC Penney. "Fashion has to be becoming to women as individuals, fit their budgets and suit their lifestyles. We call it personal, affordable style."

Icy white is the key to summer '91. Klein says, followed by vivid blues and turquoises. Fruity shades of mango and lemon make the cooler shades pop.

Sizzle and spice surface in swimwear, where new back treatments and shirring effects enhance sleek silhouettes.

Summer accessories are an adventure in themselves. Brilliant scarves tie at wrist, neck or shoulder to create a mood of romance or fun. Simple headwraps complete a head-to-toe look.

Health notes

MUSIC TO THEIR EARS: You might call it the mother of all motherhood memorabilia. By hooking a tape recorder to his fetal heart monitoring machine, British doctor Norman Anderson has been making and selling recordings of the rapid spikes-patterns and swooshing blood flow of the developing heart. "It's a nice rhythm, actually," says Anderson, who says the tapes are a big hit with grandmothers-to-be. One-fourth of the $3.50 he charges pays for the tape; the rest goes to the special-care baby unit of his hospital.

HARD TO SWALLOW: Many survivors of the 1950s polio epidemic are developing swallowing problems that could increase their risk of choking, but they often are unaware of this condition. Researchers who report that finding in the New England Journal of Medicine, recommend that those with post-polio syndrome have their doctors check for swallowing abnormalities, known as dysphagia.

BRAINSTORMING: Scientists say they have discovered a brain protein that appears to be a target for newly developed anti-schizophrenia drug, a finding that could aid development of better medications. The protein, called D4, belongs to the brain's family of dopamine receptors. Canadian and American researchers report in the British journal Nature.

A SHOT IN THE ARM: Speaking of vaccines, because of alarming measles outbreaks in the last three years, the Association of Junior Leagues International is launching a nationwide campaign to encourage vaccination of preschool children. The American Academy of Pediatrics says about one-fourth of American preschoolers and one-third of poor children are not fully immunized.

BETTER BACON: When bacon is cooked, it can produce cancer-causing substances, called nitrosamines. If you eat bacon cook it in a microwave oven. This produces lower levels of nitrosamines than pan frying or oven cooking.

BUTT-OUT: Non-smokers who are constantly around cigarette smoke have an increased risk of getting lung cancer and damaging the small airway passageways of their lungs.

BEDTIME FOOD TRAP: Don't eat sweets, fruit or starchy foods before bedtime. Saliva production slows down overnight enabling cavity-causing bacteria to feed on food particles more easily. Foods that fight cavities include cheese, peanut butter, nuts and seeds, olives and dill pickles. These foods counteract the acids in the mouth that wear down tooth enamel. TENSION AND STRESS CONTRIBUTE TO SPINAL-DISTORTION

The human spine is an incredible marvel of engineering. It is capable of great flexibility. It is able to withstand substantial forces. It is not, however, inflexible. Says Dr. Alan Fox and Dr. Marsha Gehl of Fox Chiropractic Clinic, "A healthy spine is crucial to the proper functioning of the nervous system. Unfortunately, the tension and stress we all face in our daily lives, as well as bad posture, too much sitting, and improper lifting, contribute to spinal distortion. This distortion causes the ideal shape of the spine to be effected by compression, and it then becomes misaligned. And, as a car's tires wear down when not aligned properly so does the spine."

"One of the most frequent spinal problems we see is subluxation—altered spinal joint movement," says Dr. Fox. "Spinal subluxations can cause pressure or irritation on the spinal cord or on the nerve roots as they pass out of the spinal column. This can result in abnormal posture, a reduction of nerve energy, and a loss of normal body performance," he continues. "Metrecom, the latest on x-ray technology, is one method of gathering information about the spine. When necessary, x-rays are used to determine a more complete diagnosis, depending on pain and symptoms."

Correction of posture distortion and subluxation involves aligning the spine, as closely as possible, to the normal model. "Spinal manipulation, also known as an adjustment, is our primary form of treatment," says Dr. Fox. "After the vertebrae and supporting muscles are brought back into balance, normal function is restored and further degeneration can be prevented."

"We have been taught to rely on how we feel to determine how healthy we are. Unfortunately, by the time we have a symptom or pain, it means there has already been abnormal function and an accumulation of tissue damage. Optimum Health—the body working at peak efficiency—is a goal that we strive for," states Dr. Gehl. "At Fox Chiropractic Clinic we offer the latest in spinal evaluation with Metrecom, a computerized skeletal analysis performed without x-rays, and diagnostic evaluation using x-rays. We provide therapy designed to support spinal treatment, and the specific exercises necessary for remodeling posture. And our continuing education programs and information provide extra benefits to help our patients understand how their bodies work."

Comfort of home

To feel "at home," people need: 1. An identifiable neighborhood. 2. Enough sunshine. 3. Older citizens around. 4. Nearby greenery. That's not all, but these four are the main requirements, if you accept the judgment of a California architect who made an eight-year study of what creates a good home environment.

Girls should choose a date for prom whose eyes match their dress

Well, high-school seniors, it's almost time for graduation, and that means you're about to make the most important decision you will ever make, a decision that will determine the course of your entire life, namely: what to wear to the prom.

I'm speaking especially to you gals. Your senior prom (this year's theme: "A Whole Lot of Inflated Balloons") should be a totally new experience. PROVIDED THAT YOU FOLLOW CORRECT PROM PROCEDURES. These can be found in the Spring 1991 issue of Your Prom magazine (published by Modern Bride).

Your prom is a check-full of prom advice and glossy color promwear advertisements featuring models who look exactly like what high-school students would look like if they were ideal professional models and someone named Tom Cruise or Julia Roberts and Judd I have seen.

In fact, high-school students DO look better today, especially compared with the way they looked when I was one in the early '60s. When I gazed through my high-school yearbook (I mean "Goobers On Parade"), I try to myself: Did we really look like that? How come nobody "TOLD" us? How come, in Boys' Health Club, instead of Mr. Beauty's spending an hour explaining how we could get mononucleosis from slow dancing mononucleosis was a major drawback then he didn't just come right out and say: "Boys, you're never going to get anywhere—NBAR—the opposite sex until you stop sneezing your hair with what appears to be moose musk."

Dave Barry

But you high-school students today look great, really, and I know you're going to have a swell time at your proms. IF YOU HAVE THE RIGHT PROMWEAR AND ACCESSORIES. This is critical, according to Your Prom magazine, which states that, by now, you gals should already have selected your prom dress. If you haven't, you need to borrow the family car and get down to the mall IMMEDIATELY and try on dresses — allow at least a month for this — until you have found exactly the right one, assuming it's within your budget range. If it's not, trade the family car for it. This is your PROM we're talking about.

PROM DANGER ALERT: According to a leading prom-dress expert quoted in Your Prom magazine, "A store can't guarantee that no one else in your school will be wearing the same dress." If this happens to you, the key is: Relax. Don't let it ruin your evening. Don't become enraged and Junge at the other girl right in the middle of the dance floor and rip off her dress with your bare hands. You could damage your acrylic fingernails. A better method, is pruning shears, which your date is responsible for providing.

Speaking of your date, Your Prom magazine states that you should have selected him by now also. You want to go with a "very special guy" — a guy who is fun, a guy who is sensitive, and a guy who, above all, has eyes that match your promwear. If they don't, NOW is the time for him to get cosmetic surgery — don't let him wait until the week before the prom, when the doctor's office is jammed with everybody else's date.

And speaking of cosmetics, let's not forget your Pre-Prom Beauty Preparations. Your Prom magazine contains a comprehensive regimen that will transform you from a normal person into a person covered with beauty products — in about the same time it took to invent the atom bomb, but with more ingredients. I counted 21 separate steps in the Main-Beauty-Regimen, which does not include the nine-step Manicure Regimen. Also there were 37 beauty products mentioned by name (step five, for example, is "de-fuzzing your upper lip with Sally Hansen Creme-Bleach"). As a your-prom-beauty adviser, I recommend that, especially the La Cross brand-Pumice Smoothing Stone, which the magazine recommends you use for "de-cullying your feet," I cannot overemphasize the importance of this. I know that at my class' senior prom, several girls had failed to adequately de-cullus. They came in, there with feet you could crack walnuts on, and everybody was talking about it, and the girls became so mortified that they ran out and joined strict religious orders before we even crowned the Prom King and Queen.

This is the kind of prom-memory you young people will remember for the rest of your lives. I still have a strong memory of riding home from my junior prom in a car with about 17 other couples, dropping the girls off at their houses one at a time. So when you walked your date to the front door, hoping, despite the clear risk of mononucleosis, to kiss her good night, you had a large audience. Also of course your date's front door had about 600,000 watts of illumination on it. Your date's father had actually rented police spotlights and positioned them around the lawn, aiming at the door, so that when you attempted the Kiss-Martinian astronomer; not to mention your friends back in the car, who were hooting and honking and pounding the doors in a sensitive and supportive manner.

I doubt this kind of thing will come on Judging from Your Prom magazine, you young people today are a lot more sophisticated, with your magical moment, 13 hours later, when he ralphs on the limo driver. I get misty just thinking about it.

Cards

we travel, it's card shops, antiques for myself and my wife, and then whatever else we feel like doing — he said.

They even dig up their vacations around "collecting" spending last year's spring break in Arizona watching spring training.

"They were able to get all of Jordan's cards before they reached prices of most people's — remember, they still buy a Jordan card at every shop, whether it's $1.50 or $10, but none will match the '84 Star rookie that is generally priced at more than $1,300. "When we started collecting Jordans, he was right out of North Carolina, and I didn't even know who he was," McCluskey said.

... Even his wife has joined in on the fun. "I'd guess that she has the best cards in the family," he said.

Other collectors buy their cards locally. Rick Mitchell of All State Insurance got back into collecting at a card show last Father's Day. "I got looking at my cards at home, and found that I already had 20 cards worth better than $2,700. I haven't stopped since," Mitchell said.

Local shops report any where from 25 to 50 percent of their business coming from adults. "We get more adults in here all the time," said Cheryl Parreira, owner of Sports Card Plus in Twin Falls.

Although most are in it for the love of the sport, none can deny the investment opportunities that cards offer. "We get a lot of professional people in here, buying cards strictly for investment," said Jim Poole of Poole's SportsCards Unlimited in Twin Falls.

During the '80s, rookie baseball cards were one of the most productive investments, according to a Money Magazine report. A portfolio of Topps rookie cards from the late '60s and early '70s outperformed other comparable investments by more than 25 percent. The cards produced a total return of 42.5 percent compared to runner-up corporate bonds at 14 percent. In 1980, a rookie Mike Schmidt could be had for 65 cents; a Reggie Jackson, $4 the same year. Today, neither can be found for less than $500.

Because of the large amounts of money involved, experts suggest insuring your collection under your homeowners policy when its value exceeds $5,000. Unlike art, sports cards will rise in price not only when the player performs, but when the card has an error. Already, the '87 Billy Ripken error card is worth $25. And players don't have to be retired or dead for their cards to go up. Nolan Ryan's RC is worth $1,300, as is Jordan's.

With the current trend in sports memorabilia, there is no end in sight to the growth, and local collectors expect to keep putting their collections together and watching the prices rise.

Handshake is not the best test of character

DEAR ABBY: My father taught my brother at a very early age that one being introduced to someone, he would always look that person straight in the eye and deliver a firm handshake. "It's a sign of good character and sincerity." Dad used to say, "I hope not to see that, because our non-in-law has one of those 'dead fish' handshakes, and he rarely looks a person straight in the eye."

RICHMOND, VA. A firm handshake and the practice of looking a person straight in the eye make a good first impression, but it's not a reliable index of one's character or sincerity. There are people who can deliver a firm handshake and look you straight in the eye while they lie through their teeth. Character and sincerity are revealed only by PERFORMANCE.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you before, but I really need your advice now. I can't give you my address because I feel like a fugitive. Here goes...

My husband and I have never paid taxes. We are in our early 30s and have been working since we were 20. When we were very young, we were ignorant about how to pay taxes and file and such. Then we just got out of school and never filed. Now we are afraid to admit that we never filed because we fear the consequences. We are born-again Christians and don't feel right hiding from the law. We want to make things right, Abby. Please help us. Where do we begin?

ANONYMOUS IN THE USA
DEAR ANONYMOUS: Get in touch with the Internal Revenue Service. It is listed in your telephone directory. You can expect to be penalized for your failure to file, but if you do come forward voluntarily, you would receive more generous treatment than if the IRS "caught" you. If you longer you wait, the more severe the penalty, so call the IRS and PDQ.

Dear Abby

gestion that could be the most appreciated Mother's Day gift your mother has ever received. And the price is right. It makes no difference if you are 8 years old or 65; if you are truly enough to have a mother, sit down and write her a letter. It doesn't have to be a literary masterpiece — just a few sentences telling her how much she means to you, and why. If you're sentimental, write her how much you love her in a sentimental way, thoughts you've felt, but never expressed before.

And be sure to date it, because long after the nightgowns, purses and hankies are worn and discarded, I'll bet your letter will be tucked away and looked upon with other cards and letters your mother just couldn't bring herself to throw away. How do I know? My letters were.

ARTS & CRAFTS REED BASKET MAKING

Spend a Saturday morning creating a beautiful and useful reed basket—perfect to give as a gift or use in your home. Choose the pattern of basket you like the best from the three you see at the class. Natural reeds are used to make the basket, and you have the option of adding several colors of reeds available. You can plan to make it for a gift; but beware—once it is done, you will love your creation and want to hold on to it. You will be able to make other baskets on your own. Pre-register; then pay fees for materials to the instructor. Materials cost per basket from $10 to $23. (1 session) $16 Choose from: 8" Melon Pocket, or Gathering basket

COME AND GET IT!

CAMPFIRE CUISINE

Ah! The joys of camping! Fresh air, beautiful scenery, fishing, boating, food storage troubles, burned meals, lots of dishes to do and nowhere to do them. If you'd like to learn to cook over the campfire without burning everything including yourself and still have great food with less cleanup, this class is for you. You'll learn simple techniques for outdoor cooking along with some easy, tasty recipes from main courses to bread making. Cook outside; have less of a mess in the trailer; and ease your campground cooking woes. (1 session) $12

THE GREAT AMERICAN COOKOUT

Ladies and gentlemen, prepare to dine! No need to let the summer heat interfere with preparing those first-class meals when you can utilize your outdoor grill to prepare a scrumptious meal in comfort—we're definitely not talking about hamburgers and hot dogs. Beginners and experienced cooks will get "haride-on" experience in backyard cooking and entertaining in a fun, relaxed atmosphere. Accomplished Chef Kirt Martin will show simple, easy, quick meals using charcoal and gas cooking units. The entrees will cover several types of grilled fish, beef, pork, turkey, chicken, and some of the wild game that the hunter blesses you with. You'll also learn the proper use of herbs and spices, and how to prepare entrees and decorative side dishes such as the watermelon basket. There will be a test at each class—a TASTE TEST! The course will culminate with a whole hog barbeque. Bon Appetit! (7 sessions) $85

WINE SELECTION

Red, white, blush, high-priced, low-priced, brands galore, which wine should you buy? If you have found yourself wondering how to choose the appropriate wine for any occasion from dinner to gift giving, Jamie is here to help. The instructor (of Rose Creek Vineyards) will share with you his knowledge of wines. You will learn what goes into wine, how it is made, and how these things affect the favor of wines. Armed with knowledge from this class, you will have a much easier time choosing your next bottle of wine—and possibly an easier time drinking it. Wine is not served at the class. (A tasting will be coordinated by and solely sponsored by Rose Creek Vineyards.) (1 session) $5

YELLOWSTONE PHOTOGRAPHIC EXPEDITION

This adventure in photography will take us in to the Bechler region of the Yellowstone National Park. The region is called "waterfall country" because 21 of the 41 falls in Yellowstone are located here. The region has an abundance of surface water; is lush with vegetation such as ferns, mosses, berry bushes, and many kinds of wildflowers; and provides a superb habitat for elk, moose, deer, trumpeter swans, sand cranes, and an abundance of other wildlife. Daily hikes to sites including the majestic Silver Scarf Falls with its 250-foot plunge, Dunanda Falls, the beautiful Bechler Meadows with a view of the Tetons to the south, and Mountain Ash Creek will provide the ultimate in photographic education, which is properly complemented by the mount-watering, tummy-filling meals during the three-day weekend. Two on-campus classes (July 2 & 3, 7-9 PM) will be held prior to the trip. Private camping area provided, $230 included meals. 90001.7901 AEAR 001

BIRD WATCHING

The bird watcher has an image, occasionally accurate, of pasley shirts, knobby knees, and funny glasses. However, birding can be an active sport, a scientific adventure, and not only can it enhance one's enjoyment of being outdoors, but also it can be done almost anywhere. It is a lifelong sport. We'll go over some basics of birdwatching, and you'll learn features to observe on a bird to identify it, how bird songs can help with identification, and in what habitat to locate birds. There are no supplies required for this morning class, but binoculars and either of these books would be helpful: A Guide to Field Identification Birds of North America, by Robbins-Burns, et al.; or Western Birds, Peterson Field Guides. You will need to wear sturdy, off-street shoes or boots and preferably not shorts. You may want to bring a sack lunch; a cooler will be provided to keep your beverage cool. Preregistration necessary. THEATRE*"REHEARSALS FOR LIFE"
Theatre School for Youth

For any young person age 12 to 18 interested in theatre.

Here is an opportunity for interested young people to be introduced to "what drama is all about." It will require concentration and commitment, and in turn will help the student develop a strong memory, movement and communication skills, develop problem-solving abilities and creative thinking (imagination) and study personal feelings. As always, the emphasis of drama is process. Students will have an opportunity to experience drama as an art form and also as a learning medium for personal development.

Among the subjects covered will be:

Creative Dramatics: Each day students will participate in a series of dramatic activities designed as holistic learning experiences. Each student will work with different instructors on creating dramatic environment, establishing character, and assuming a role.

Stage Movement: Each student will learn how to move upon the stage and to project character physically. They will also learn how to follow the instructions of a director.

Ensembles: Each student will learn what it means to work as an ensemble. The primary emphasis on this segment of theatre training is on learning to work as a team in the creative context of the theatre.

Voice for the Theatre: Each student will learn principles and technique for projecting vocally on the stage.

Technical Theatre: Each student will be introduced to the technical requirements of the theatre: lighting, scenery, properties, etc.

Makeup: Each student will learn the basic techniques of makeup for the stage.

Puppetry: Each student will be introduced to the art of the puppeteer, how to make and perform with puppets.

Personal Discovery: Each student will be guided to discovering what his/her personal gifts in the performing arts might be and receive training to help them to become autonomous in their development of those gifts.

Playwriting: Each student will be introduced to the art of the playwright and will begin to discover the costs and crises of theatrical literature.

Auditioning Techniques: Each student will be guided through the steps of selecting and preparing for the audition. Some of the "do's" and "don't's" of auditioning will be examined. Each student will prepare audition material. T-shirt included in fee. (10 sessions—44 hours) $80.00

MINI-CASSIA KOLLEGE FOR KIDS

The College of Southern Idaho Mini-Cassia Enrichment Program is offering our third annual 1991 SUMMER SESSION OF KOLLEGE FOR KIDS!

The Mini-Cassia 1990 Summer Program was a tremendous success, with 638 students enrolled in 60 different courses. In addition to classes offered last summer, the program will offer a new selection that will provide continued instruction for students that participated last summer along with beginner classes for new students. Brochures will be sent home with all Mini-Cassia grade school children in May. To receive a copy in the mail, please contact Denise at the CSI Mini-Cassia Center 678-1400 or stop by the CSI office at 1458 Overland Avenue in Burley.

Pre-registration is required due to limited enrollment in classes. The registration deadline for all classes is June 3rd. All classes will begin the week of June 3rd and continue through June 28th. Fees must be paid in advance of the first class. All students must bring social security number for registration purposes.

There are three convenient ways to register:

1. Mail a completed registration form from the brochure to:
CSI Mini-Cassia Center
1458 Overland Ave.
Burley, Idaho 83318
2. Register with Visa or Mastercard by calling 678-1400.
3. Register in person, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. at the CSI Mini-Cassia Center, 1458 Overland Ave., Burley (across from the Burley Courthouse)

GYMNASTICS

CALLIGRAPHY

Calligraphy shares with bicycle riding, freeway driving, dancing, and daydreaming the same quality—all happen in the right hemisphere of the brain. In addition to learning the art of beautiful lettering, this course will teach you ways to access the right brain hemisphere, a skill applicable to many different situations. You will learn to create attractive, legible lettering for use in commercial and/or personal projects. Left-handers are welcome. $14 plus supplies. (4 sessions).

GREEN THUMBS AND THINGS

A person with a "green thumb" doesn't have a hand with a green thumb on it, but he or she can do a very good job of growing plants. You can develop a green thumb, too, by joining us for this course. During the first class session you will make your very own "Hemarrillum in a bubble." You'll also learn plant care tips such as the right way to plant, how much water, and sunlight to give your plants, and how often you should water them. You will make a grapevine wreath during the second class session, and you'll learn about plant propagation. This course is for 8- to 12-year-old students. The cost of supplies is included in the course fee. $10 (2 sessions)
