Clinton seeks health care backing

President Clinton delivers his first State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress.

WASHINGTON - President Clin WASHINGTON — President Clinton, pledging an economic and moral renewal of the nation, appealed in his State of the Union address Tuesday for congressional and public support for his aggressive but still unfulfilled domestic agenda. Clinton declared that the nation is basically sound and is headed in the right direction once again but nonetheless needs fundamental reform of its health one and welfare systems. On less needs fundamental reform of its health care and wesselfare systems. On health care, the centerpiece of his domestic agenda, Clinton sought to rekindle the sense of urgency that his strategists believe must be maintained if his plan for a comprehensive overhaul is to win approval.

Clinton again offered to cooperate with Republicans in drafting a health care bill. But in a moment of drama, he bluntly threatened to veto any health reform bill that does not meet his fundamental requirement.

health reform bill that does not meet his fundamental requirement. "If you send me legisilation that, does not guarantee every American private health insurance that can never be taken away, you will force me to take this pen, veto that legislation and we'll come right back here and start all over again."

Notably, Clinton did not propose many new programs, as presidents often have done in their State of the Union speeches in the past. Senior White House advisers believe that voters think the president has already promised more than he can accomplish. In fact, White House officials fear an image of over-promising, seeing it as the president's major vulnerability—one that his Republican opponents already have begun to talk about. So rather than make a raft of new promises, Clinton devoted most of his speech to trying to persuade Americans that he is hard at work on the promises he already has made and that he can, indeed, deliver. "In 1992 the American people demanded that we change," Clinton said. "A year ago I asked all of you to join me in accepting responsibility for the future of our country. Well, we did. We replaced drift and deadlock with renewal and reform. And I want to thank every one of you here who heard the American people, who broke gridlock, who gave them the most successful teamwork between a president and a Congress in 30 years."

On a second issue of increasing public concern, Clinton said the epidemic of violence across the land must be addressed but acknowledged that the role of the federal government is limited and that many of the country's ills can only be handled by fimily, school, church and community.

Clinton took credit for an expanding economy and a shrinking federal budget deficit but said too many Americans remain unemployed and unprepared for the job market of the future.
He said that he would continue to press for new job training programs, saying that he wants to transform current unemployment insurance plans into a new re-employment program for displaced workers.

Clinton cited the "Brady bill" guncontrol measure among his major legislative accomplishments. He also touted the smaller budget deficit, tax cuts for low-income workers, the trade agreement, a national service program

LOS ANGELES — Children trooped back to earthquake-battered schools and frightened residents started straggling home from soggy, makeshift settlements Tuesday as the city kept creeping toward a warped normality.

President Clinton asked Congress for 7.5 billion to rebuild highways and get—families and businesses back.on-their feet following the Jan. 17 earthquake whose death toll rose Tuesday to 61.

And the city's 5.6 million commuters refined techniques for threading the maze of crumpled concrete, driving long detours, car-pooling and — to their own amazement — tiding the train.

Lesson plans gave way to counseling sessions and group discussions as the 640,000-student Los Angeles Unified School District — the nation's second-argest — resumed classes for the first time since the Friday before the quake.

"I guess it's safer to be here than at home," said 14-year-old Monica Renderos ta James Monroe High School in Sepulve-da, near the quake's epicenter in the San Fernando Valley. "At home you run around like an idiot. Here they tell you what to do.

"If they say it's safe here, it's safe."

Jackson settles molestation suit out of court

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Without admitting guilt, Michael Jackson settled a lawsuit Tuesday that alleged he molested a 13-year old boy.

Terms of the settlement left the youngster 'very happy."

Terms of the out-of-court agreement were confidential, although a source put it at at least $10 million. The settlement probably could end the criminal investigation, experts said, but Jackson's problems were far from over.

"I am very happy with the resolution of this matter," said Larry Feldman, attorney for the boy, now 14. The boy, Feldman told reporters, was also "very happy with the resolution of this matter."

Feldman said nothing in the settlement pertained to the criminal probe. He also didn't rule out having the boy testify in any criminal proceeding.

AIDS victim infected by dentist settles suit

MIAMI (AP) — The fourth of six people infected with the AIDS virus by a Florida dendist has settled a law-suit with an insurance company that referred her to the dentist.

The settlement was reached Monday between Sherry Johnson, 19, and Cigna Dental Health of Florida Inc. The amount wasn't disclosed.

Jackson time, his attorneys said.

"Michael Jackson has maintained his innocence since the beginning of this matter and now, since this matter will soon be concluded, he still maintains that innocence," Jackson's attorneys said in a statement.

"The resolution of this case is in no way an admission of guilt by Michael Jackson. In short, he is an innocent man who does not intend to have his career and his life destroyed by rumors and innuendo," it said.

The lawsuit filed in September alleged that Jackson, 35, committed sexual battery, seduction, willful misconduct, intentional infliction of emotional distress, fraud and negligence in a campaign to entice the boy last year.

Based on the boy's allegations, authorities in Los Angeles and Santa Barbara counties began a criminal probe that has continued for five months. No charges have been filed.

An out-of-court settlement in the civil case would severely diminish the state's criminal probe because, in California, victims of sexual abuse can't be forced to testify against their will.

can't be forced to testify against their will.

"There's little reason the boy's parents would want to see their child exposed to public scrutiny and media scrutiny in a criminal trial," UCLA law professor Peter Arenelia said. "It's very likely the boy won't want to cooperate, and the state lacks the authority to force him to cooperate by threatening him with contempt."

Los Angeles District Attorney Gil Garcetti had no comment. Sant Barbara County District Attorney Thomas W. Sneddon Jr. said he had no comment on Monday's events in the civil lawsuit and he refused to discuss the county's Jackson criminal investigation.

Feldman said nothing in the civil suit settlement pertained to the criminal probe. He also didn't rule out having the boy testify in any criminal proceeding.

Net worth of households drops 12%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hard times and sagging real estate values pulled down the net worth of American households by 12 percent — that's nearly 55,000 apiece — between 1988 and 1991, the government said Tuesday. The Census Bureau report also showed that in every category of investment — real restonent recipies own less than white families.

Presurgery sedative sucker draws some criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drug manufacturer is preparing to sell a raspberry-flavored narcotic lollipop designed to relax children before surgery.

But the government, which gave its approval to the drug last year, was asked Tuesday to reverse the decision. In a petition, a private group said the notion of putting an anesthetic into candy is "needlessly risking the lives of American children."

The drug, to be marketed by Abbott Laboratories, is a candy containing fentanyl, a narcotic that has been used in patch form for three years for treating chronic pain in advanced cancer patients. Before that, it was injected for pain.

Troops leave Mogadishu, wait to go home

MOGADISHU, Somalia — Discouraged U.S. troops are withdrawing from Mogadishu's streets faster than expected and moving to the heavily guarded eaponst and airport to await ships and planes for the trip home. Two months before the U.S. military is scheduled to finish removing its 5,300 soldiers from the capital, the sand dunes and beaches at the airport are crowded with tents. Most U.S. bases and strongpoints sround the city have been turned over to soldiers from other countries who are staying in Somalia as U.N. peace-tenerers.

Pakistan opens all-woman police station

RAWALPHDI, Pakistan — Prime Miniser Benzir Busto opened the country's first police station staffed solely by women Thestay, saying it was the opening round in the flight for equal rights for women in Pakistan. "Women have always been treated like criminals." Ms. Bhatto told several dozen female officers dressed in the customary baggy parts and kneelength shirts and carrying Lee-Enfield. 303 rifles. The officers snapped to attention when Ms. Bhatto arrived at the dusty parde ground in Ruwalpindi, and marched past her for inspection. They were swom into the provincial force of 85,000 men earlier this month, and are paid on the same scale with their male colleagues.

Russian leaders promise farm subsidy

MOSCOW — Russia's government promised a colossa farm subsidy program Tuesday that seemed to likely to set off another punishing round of inflation and undermine already faltering market reforms. The announcement came as the fate of the last aggressive reformer in the government, Finance Minister Boris Fyodorov, rested in President Boris Yelnsin's hands. Prime Minister Viktor Chemomyrdin, meanwhile, went to Russia's agricultural heartland to unweil a farm program that could cost 100 trillion nubles — hundreds of millions of dollars — in the next few years, the Interfax news agency said.

Leaning Tower of Pisa stands straighter

PISA, Italy — The Tower of Pisa is leaning less and less these days, or if you're an optimist, it's standing straighter.

For the second time in a year, measurements of the 12th-century tower have found that the leaning diminished. An international panel of experts concluded Thesday that an emergency plan to save the tower is working. After years of study by engineers, 600 tons of lead ingots have been stacked up at the tower's base to act as a counterweight.

Experts say that based on two measurements in the past year, the tower now is 1 centimeter (0.4 inches) closer to vertical than it was a west seen.

Think of it. In 1993 the ADL reported 1,867 assaults, threats and acts of harassment or vandalism against Jews and Judaism. That was the second-highest number in the organization's 15-year history.
But none of those affronts took place in Idaho.

Other Western states contributed their share to the national total. Washington had 19 assorted incidents last year, including this odd story. A Seattle man with neo-Nazi tattoos found out his neighbor was Jewish. So he hit the neighbor in the face, shoved his head against a wall and bit him.

Oregon, meanwhile, had 14 inci-

The highest state total was in New York: 273.

But our little corner of creation had none. But our little comer of creation had none. That's something to be proud of even something to brag about. Idaho has been the victim of widespread publicity about past neo-Nazi stunts, especially the white suprements who set up shop in north Idaho. The ADL report is a pleasing contrast.

Of course, we don't want to get carried away. Anti-Semitic acts are only one category of bigotry. And Idaho isn't naturally likely to have much anti-Semitism, because the state doesn't have many Jewish residents. But still – not a single incident. It's a statistic to cherish, and an example for all kinds of social relationships. Let us work for the day when relations among all racial, ethnic, social and religious groups in Idaho will be marked by mutual tolerance and respect.

IEA did its homework before backing EchoHawk cal Action Committee for Education recently voted to recommend that IEA members support Larry Echolbawk's bid to become the next governor of Idaho. The day after it announced its decision, The Times-News chose to criticize that action. The editorial board overlooked several important facts.

More IEA members than ever before were involved in the process that led to Larry Echolbawk's endorsement. Let me briefly summarize for you how we arrived at our decision.

Last fall, the IEA invited all of the gub Last Jain, title Tar Mixted and of the gluen-natorial candidates who were seeking the Ri publican or Democratic nomination to parti-pate in a videotaped interview and to respor to a questionnaire about issues important to Idaho's educators. Only Republican Larry Eastland declined.

Bastland declined. A copy of the videotaped interview was sent to every IEA local education association in the state in early December. Local leaders showed the tape repeatedly to their members and asked for heir views. In fisc, we expect that the videotape will continue to be shown to educators throughout the state from now until the election next November.

not education similaries asked their members whether the association should support a candidate in the primary elections and, if so, who that candidate should be. I can assure you that IEA members debated these questions thoroughly before reaching a decision.

Then, on Jan. 14 and 15, the IEA convened a meeting of approximately 100 of our local leaders. We also hosted a reception to which the candidates were invited on the evening of Jan. 14, Four of the candidates attended—Larry EchoHawk, Ron Beltelspacher, Doug Dom and Chuck Winder.

On Jan. 15, that group of 100 IEA memmendation.

We appreciate the candidates who took their time to participate in this process. Although they were seeking the IEA's support, they tid not tailor their answers to what they thought it wanted to bear. Instead, they were honest and straightforward.

So, why did the IEA select Larry

Echelihawk from this field of candidates?

First of all, during his years in the Idaho Legislature, Larry EchoHawk's votes agreed with the views of Idaho educators more than 90 percent of the time.

Monica Beaudoin Reader comment

IEA members were not alone in recognizing Larry EchoHawk's support of public education. In 1985, statehouse reporters themselves said Larry EchoHawk was one of four legislators who were true friends of educations.

on.
Second, Larry EchoHawk's responses to again demonstrated his commitment to Idaho's children and educators.

Larry EchoHawk supports increased funding for public schools.

Larry EchoHawk supports smaller class sizes in Idaho's classrooms.

Larry EchoHawk believes Idaho teachers ought to be paid salaries comparable to those paid teachers in surrounding states.

Larry EchoHawk supports strong carly-childhood education programs.

Finally, Larry EchoHawk is a strong, viable candidate with the benefit and experience of holding statewide office.

The IEA will pay more than lip service to this endorsement. Gubernatorial elections are always important to Idaho educators, and this year's election is no exception.

The person elected governor will set the tone for public and legislative debate about important issues for the next four years. This election is too important to be left to chance.

The IEA will vigorously encourage its members to support Larry EchoHawk. It expects thousands of IEA nembers to work or healif of Larry EchoHawk in their communities.

behalf of Larry EchoHawk in their communities.

And, it intends to work very closely with Larry EchoHawk's campaign to ensure his election next November.

The Times-News is famous among educators for criticizing the IEA. However, we ask the citizens of the Magic Valley to look beyoud the expected rhetoric of this paper's editorial board and listen to what educators are saying - Larry EchoHawk has our children's best interests at the heart of his campaign.

We urge you to join with us to elect this very special Idahoan to lead our state for the next four years.

Hocklander shouldn't kill rockchucks for target practice
The Jan. 20 article by David Hocklander in the Outdoors section regarding his practice of killing rockchucks to sharpen his shooting skills sickened and disgusted me. These defenseless, harmless animals have as much right to life as Mr. Hocklander or anyone clse who kills helpless creatures for the sheer pleasure of killing.
Does he use the excuse, "It feeds the family" In this case, I rather doubt it.
You only have to read the article that was printed next to Mr. Hocklander's regarding the reintroducing of the pine marten to Idaho to understand how really ignorant human beings can be.

It seems that in the 1930s and 1940s, the pine marten was overharvested (a civilized way of saying killed), and now we want to try to correct the mistake.

In response to Mr. Bob Oslund's comments on the fuel cost of an F4-G Wild

An F4-G burns 1,000 gallons of jet fuel per hour, straight and level; 1,800 gallons per hour in tactical maneuvers. Total cost, including maintenance and fuel, is $5,000

Apparently, it was my error in not further explaining the balance of cost, etc. Therefore, it only takes eight 74s flying eight trips to Nellis Air Force Base, New, to add up to a total cost of $320,000.

I sincerely hope this clarifies any questions of range distance economics. Too bad you missed most of the point.

Experience with training range sours resident on new proposal.

As a landowner and taxpayer in the state of Idaho, I support the No-Action Alternative and firmly oppose the Idaho Training Range.

I oppose the use of any state funds in support of this project. I oppose the transfer of existing water rights or the allocation of new water rights to this project, in that such use would not be the "most beneficial use" of the limited water available in this area. I am happy to be farther removed from the areas of this project than I was from the area affected by the proposed enlargement of the Saylor Creek Range. However, my feelings are otherwise much the same. My comments then are equally applicable to the proposed Idaho Training Range, except that.

Craig questions LaRocco's bill push

As Congressman Larry LaRocco prepared to introduce a revised version of his wilderness bill for western and northern Idaho today, Sen. Larry Craig said the issue would only be resolved with a statewide plan.

LaRocco said legislation he intro-duced last year would be reintro-duced — probably after President Clinton's State of the Union speech, Clintion's Static of the Union's speech, with changes including revised boundaries in northern Idaho's Meadow Creek area.

The second-term Democrat said he decided to go it allow to finish the work begun last year. Londe to congressional delegation was making little progress toward a statewide wilderness bill.

But Cnig, a Republican, wrote in a letter to delegation members and Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus on Friday that they must continue working together if they hope to settle the decades-old wilderness debate.
"We can disagree on other issues, but without our united front on the roadless area/wilderness question we may be in a heap of trouble," Craig wrote.
The sensitor said he hoped the School building plan faces tough time in Boise

BOISE (AP) — An ambitious plan to meet Idaho's public school building needs for the next decade may firm ough sledding in the Legislature. A plan to divert 5 percent of state sales tax revenue, about $25 million per year, to finance school construction Committee on Tuesday. House Speaker Michael Simpson called it a proposal that needs discussion.

called it a proposal unit necess uscon-sion.
But Committee Chairman Ron Black, R-Twin Falls, said it's unlikely the Legislature will go along.
A special committee examined the nearly 900 school buildings in Idaho and concluded, it would take $489 million to bring all of them up to standard, $187 million to meet projected enroll-ment increases in the next 10 years and nearly $30 million to prepare the facili-ties for modern technology such as computers.

Wayne Meuleman, chairman of the committee, said that by allocating $25 million per year from sales tax revenue, the state and local districts could leverage $600 million to $700 million in bonds to cover existing debt and new construction.

The plan he presented to the House committee on Tuesday would have the state pay off 35 preners of the existing $249 million in school bonds and then put up 35 percent of the cost of new projects. It would be up to local dis-tricts to approve bonds for the other 65 percent.

"There is no district that does not have substantial needs in the state," Meuleman said. "It's affordable and it's an important need."
Meuleman said it would provide direct property tax relief because the

Hospital seeks money for AIDS patient

INSPIRAL SECKS INIONEY FOR ALLYS PATIENTS

IDAHO FALLS — A Salt Lake City hospital says Teton County tax payers should pay the $40,000 cost of caring for an AIDS victim because a political impasse has left Idaho's canastrophic health-care fund broke.
Counties were solely responsible for paying those claims until the Legislature established a Canastrophic Health Care Cost Program to cover tills above $10,000. But that fund went broke lax August amid a battle between Democratic Gov. Cecil Andras and GOP legislative leaders.
Three months later, Teton County sommistioners agreed to pay the first $10,000 of the Utah hospital's claim for the treatment of Marc Allen, a rural Teton County maw who died of hepatitis.

But Boise automey Larry Goins, representing the University of Utah hospital, said Teton County should pay the tremaining $19,000 of Allen's bill, plus legal costs.

Stolen goods send club owner to prison

MOSCOW — The owner of a controversial nightclub has been sentenced to five years in prison for possession of stolen property in a case that stemmed from a melee outside the establishment. District Judge John Bengston said he took the criminal history of Xenon owner Barry Tassler, into account in imposing the sentence Monday. Tassler, a Las Vegas native, bought the former David's Department store and turned it into a nightclub that featured beer chugging contests and bikind contests, it was also the scene of several branks that spilled outside. Du, ing one of the melees, Tassler allegelily took a photographer's carnera and police, who obtained a search warrant, found items reported missing in area burglaries.

FBI looks into water damage from fuel

POCATELLO — The FBI has launched an investigation into how much Pocatello's groundwater may have been contaminated by a 30,000-gallon diesel fuel leak discovered last week at the FBI Data Center.

City Water Superintenden Fred Oster said two nearby city wells will remain shut down for routine maintenance, but there is no reason to believe they were contaminated by the leak.

Oster said he was told the undergound tank leak was discovered last Friday as FBI officials tried to determine why their emergency generator had failed Jan. 17 when a widespread power blackout occurred after the Los Angeles earthquake struck.

The generator uses fuel stored in the tank. Oster was told the tank was last checked in May 1993 and there were no problems.

California's environment and wildlife fared better than its buildings and highways did.

"To me the most shocking thing about the carthquake was the lack of major environmental problems," said staff scientist Mark Gold of Heal the Bay, a local watchdog group. "Except for the Snata Clara River, I think everything came through very well."

An oil pipeline ruptured or Los Angeles, spewing 126,000 gallons of crude into the Santa Clara River. The slick eventually stretched almost 12 miles, more than 600 fish were reported dead, including several unamored three-spine stickleback, an endangered species.

Several dozen waterfowl were also caught in the slick. The dead or hobbled birds included mallard ducks, loggerhead shrike, rails, morning doves, American coots, sparrows and an eget. Biologists have observed many more oil-coated birds flying into the brush, where they will likely die uncounted.

About 500 workers have vacuumed up almost 56,000 gallons of the oil, but spokesman Al Greenstein of Atlantic Richfield Co., owner of the damaged pipeline, said, "We expect to be there a long time elemination of the control of the damaged pipeline, said, "We expect to be there a long time elemination of the control of enough for the Legislature to act this year.

But critics said many establishments afready have banned shoking, in line with a national trend toward smoke free environments, and the private service should be able to regulate itself without government intrusion.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Jordan Tanner, R-Prova, would ban smoking from all buildings open to public access except private clubs, tavernar, guest-noons in lodging facilities and buildings used by private organizations. It was debated before the House Energy, Natural Resources and Agriculture Committee, which failed to come up with enough votes to send the bill to the full House. The matter will be taken up again later.

"This is an issue that needs addressing, and needs addressing, and forceds addressing, and resident size of the said. Tanner said health officials suspect that tens of thousands of people die from heart disease or lung cancer as a result of breathing other people's smoke. And he said the legislation twould cost nothing more than a "non-smoking" sign in public places.

But Joan Calder of the Park City Chamber of Commerce discouraged at statewide ban, saying-Uah's image as a mecca for tourists would be harmed. Many of Uah's visitors are Europeans or Asians who smoke, she said, and they would not take kindly to a ban-on most indoor puffing.

Greenstein of Atlantic Richfield Co., owner of the damaged pipeline, said, "We expect to be there a long time ... cleaning up oil that seeped into the soil and removing it from the transferie."

After the earthquake, the sewage treatment plant for the Valencia district was unable to immediately restore its three-step sanitation process, so managers chose to release thousands of gallons of waste daily without removing all the disinfecting chlorine.

It was a matter of erring on the side of caution to protect the public from possible exposure to bacteria, plant spokesman loe Haworth said.

"The river is the home of some small fish, and the chlorine from our work could have an impact on them. But the fish had a bigger problem than us," he said, referring to the oil. Atlantic Richfield is also working with families put out of their homes by a calamitous fire fueled by a separate oil leak. Otherwise, he said, no problems had been reported beyond several very limited leaks that "nanged from a few gallons to a few barrels."
Gold credited Los Angeles for overhauling of the county's sewage treatment and sewer systems in the mid-1980s. No serious leaks have been reported along 1,000 miles of county pipelines.
"I'm not going to say there were no problems at all." Gold said. "But far fewer than anyone would have foreseen. We could have had raw sevage going into the Los Angeles River or Santa Monica Bay. And from that standpoint we were very lucky. Tolluted waste water is an incredible health risk."

Alaskans may move capital

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Alaskans will vote once again on a measure to move the state capital out of remote Juneau to a more accessible communisty.

A petition drive garmered more than the 26,143 signatures needed to place the measure on the Nov. 8 ballot, Lt. Gov. Jack Coghill said Monday. The measure proposes moving the capital to Wastilla, 40 miles northeast of Anchorage, it doesn't include any cost estimate or financing mechanism. Juneau, 600 miles from Anchorage, is the only state capital that cannot be reached by road. Surrounded by glacing the communication of the capital failed in 1978; as 52.8 billion plan was rejected in 1982.

Newada several days after a Rogerson murder were expected to be returned to Idaho either Tuesday night or this morning.

Twin Falls County Sheriff Wayne Tousley said Tuesday night that authorities wanted to get the three - two boys, ages 11 and 12, and a 15-year-old girl - into court as soon as possible. Then, authorities will find a place to house the youths.

The sherift's office had one person in Reno who would drive the youths back to Idaho, Tousley said.

The 12-year-old is the son of murder victim Rollie Woods, who was found shot to death Jan. 16 in a duplex on a farm southwest of Rogerson.

The boy was held on a detention warrant by Reno police officials on a charge of being a fugitive from justice in a first-degree murder.

The 15-year-old girl was held on a detention warrant charged with petty larceny and driving a car without consent.

OAKLEY - Nearly one year after the discovery, the question of who poached five trophy bull lek and left them to rot on private land remains unanswered – and a $5,000 reward is still unclaimed.

Meanwhile, the clock is ticking on the statute of limitations and the poachers will be home free if they remain undetected until November.

"We're hoping that $5,000 will make people look at their loyalties and their friendships again," said John Pratt, a wildlife conservation officer with the Ulah Division of Wildliffe Resources in Snowville, Ulah. The reward may be going up, he added.

During a public meeting Monday night, Hailey Mayor Steve Keams told the crowd that a Federal Aviation Administration of-ficial indicated three problems which might cause the FAA to deny their required stamp of approval for the agreement. And Keams surprised Blaine County Commissioners when he suggested the management of the airport revert to the original owner - Hailey - if the agreement expires at the end of 1995 without a new one in its place.

original owner - Hailey - if the agreement expires at the end of 1995 without a new one in its place.

Kearns said any type of joint ownership is a "political accommodation," suggesting the airport would be better served by one governing entity.

The new operating agreement, agreed upon by Hailey and Blaine County, calls for rent payments of $2 million to be paid to Hailey over the next 20 years.

Back in 1931, the-Friedman family granted about half of the current airport land to the city for use as a municipal airport. This was well before the Sun Valley Resort opened in 1936.

In 1941 Hailey purchased another 40 percent of the current airport. Then in the 1970s and 1980s the city and the county bought the remaining 10 percent.

In total, Hailey owns about 90 percent of the land on which the airport sits and had some type of joint operating agreement with the county since 1977.

While Hailey owns the land, no compen-commissioners decided to reconvene next week to determine whether it would be best to withdraw the agreement from FAA scrutiny and come up with an alternative. Citing that the airport is the lifeblood of the valley and the region, local resident Dick Fenton said it is "equitable that Hailey be compensated" for its use.

Local pilots who are part of the 250-member Blaine County Pilots Association had somewhat differing views on the agreement. agreement.

Land may be used for bike track

By Berbera Neiwert Times-News correspondent

HAILEY - If organizers can get through the bureaucratic red tape, a parcel of county land may soon be the home of a bicycle track.

The durt race track at the far end of the former RotoRun Ski Hill west of Hailey would be used for kids to practice and race their off-road bicycles, said organizer Bob Cummins.

Although Cummins owns a retail bicycle shop, this is not a profit-making venture, he said.

Ketchum council OKs Cameron urges sidewalk, curb project

KETCHUM - Despite protests by local restaurateur Mike Martin, the City Council approved a plan last week to install sidewalks, curbs and week to install sidewalks, curbs and sutters in its commercial area.

Martin and his attorney Ned its sidewalk improvement plans for nearly a year.

Martin, who owns the Kneadery, was fighting to keep things just the way they are – six parking spaces

That is not what he got.

Martin got a rolled curb and gutter that will allow patrons to park in his lot, but once the construction takes

Ordinance 462 defines a 90 degree parking space as nine feet wide and 18 feet long. Martin's lot is 55 feet wide, which should be room enough for the six spaces, but only 15 feet

Kunick contended during a public hearing on the matter that a 200-square-foot-per-parking-space rule is still a requirement and that limits Martin to four parking spots in front of his restaurant.

The council also dealt with two sign requests that both resulted in tie votes.

Former planning and zoning commission members and now council mission members and now council members, Chris Potters and Dave Hutchinson, voted against both sign requests.

The Buckin Bagel wants to put a sign over the sidewalk in front of the store.

"They destroy the visual corridor," said Potters.

They destroy the visual comoor, said Potters.
Hutchinson agreed, saying the sign would look just as good flat against the building.
Councilwomen Nan Emerick, and Sue Noel said they felt the request was appropriate for the location.
The Nature Conservancy also requested an off-site sign for 30 days to promote a fund-raiser.
While on the planning commission, Potters and Hutchinson opposed off-site business signs. Potters agreed that the Nature Conservancy is a good cause, but she felt it had to be treated the same as any other businesss.

be treated the same as any other business.

"There are many businesses (in Ketchum) that would like to increase their business with an off-site sign," said Potters.

Emerick and Noel voted for the off-site sign because it would only be up for 30 days and the conservancy offices are in a residential area.

Mayor Guy Coles broke both ties in favor of the signs.

In other business, the city council ordered its attorney to redraft a lease agreement the city has with the Ketchum-Sun Valley Historical Society. The group was afraid its fund raising would be hampered by a clause that re-evaluated its performance every five years and permitted its eviction with just four months notice. As part of this action, the historical society will be required to provide a specific performance schedule.

They fear overcrowded neighborhoods and schools. They see an increase in the type of crime that others in big cities are trying to escape.

But the respondents also complain

Mini-Cassia residents are not alone in their complaints, said LoriLee Critchfield, an Idaho State University political science and sociology professor. Their comments will be entered into a computer that will match the community with others having similar growing pains.

move on to Scenic West Conference-leading

Coach Steve Irons Golden Eagles will take on Ricks College at 7:30 p.m. Thurndy and move on to Scenic West Conference-leading North Idaho at 8:30 p.m. Saurday. Coach Icel Bate and his women's team will be seeking to repeat the sweep they performed on North Idaho and Ricks earlier this year.

The Golden Eagles must be considered in a position of playing catch up. They are a game out of the league lead because they dropped a two-point decision to North Idaho at home. They then sustained a rare double-loss trip to Ulah Valley and Salt Lake.

A win over the Cardinals Saurday night would even up that series. But Irons said there is no way his troops can look past the Vikings. "Saurday's game is a natural," said Irons. "North Idaho ocat us here so there should be no trouble with our players getting up. That means that the problem for the week could well be the Thursday game. We have to be prepared to play very well at Ricks because they are a much improved team."

Irons watched Ricks at Salt Lake Community last Friday, leading most of the right but then fiding on some pressure-caused tumovers late. The Vikings then went on to beat Utah Valley in Orem.

Meanwhile, North Idaho, Ricks' travel mate, swept the Utah tour, which is the one Sid dropped.

Home court at stake for Bruins, Minico

RUPERT — The next four days will be the most important of the year for Twin Falls and Minico.

Twin Falls, Minico and Pocatello, currently running even in the loss column in the Regional III Class A-1 basketball race, will play three times between tonight and Saturday.

And victories are most important in this regular season race because the top seed will have home court advantage throughout the tournament and the higher seed of any other matchings also will be home.

Twin Falls, 3-1, goes to Minico, 2-1, tonight, needing the victory to offset a homeour loss to the Spartans in the season opener, Minico remains at home Friday, entertaining Pocatello, 2-1, and Twin Falls travels to Pocatello for its final regional game Saturday. Pocatello for its final regional game Saturday of the season will continue for Pocatello and Minico who must return visits to winless Highland, Minico will be there next week.

There's no question this (conight's) game at Minico is a very hig same for both reans,"

Kerrigan story casts shadow on others

The focus on the attack on figure skater Nancy Kerrigan and subsequent investigation of rival Tonya Harding is diverting attention from other Winter Olympic sports at a time they expected to be in the spotlight. There are no indications that the maelstrom swithing around the two akates has affected Olympic preparations for any other athletes or teams, and U.S. Olympic officials expect that all American competitors at the Winter Games eventually will get their share of publicity.

With Lillehammer, Norway, ready to plau host in three weeks to the first competition on a new two-year Olympic calendar, the officials said, the increased attention for winter sports envisioned when the schedule change was made has so far proved chistve.

"One of the reasons for the re-shuffling of the Winter Games was to give them more exposure," said Mike Moran, spokesman for the U.S. Olympic Committee. "We got the exposure, all right, but it's not what we expected."

Kerrigan, the 1992 Olympic bronze medalist, was struck on the right knee with a metal club and knocked out of the U.S. Figure Skating Championships on Jan. 6. Harding won the event and, with Kerrigan, was selected to the U.S. Winter Olympic

Since then, four men — including Harding's ex-hushant and her bodygnard — have been arrested for allegedly plotting the attack on Kerrigan. A grand Jury in Portland, Ore, is investigating whether Harding was involved. She has desied any Sabatini will play No. 2 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario in one of Thursday's semifinals. The other will match top-seeded Steffi Graf against No. 10 Kimiko Date.

Graf defeated Lindsay Davenport 6-3, 6-2 in a duel between two of the hardest hitters in women's teenis.
Graf, a three-time champion who has not lost a set so far in the tournament, took advantage of Davenport sake of speed by rifling forehand passing shots beyond the reach of the lumbering 17-year-old.
"She hits the ball on hard and she keeps you on the defensive. She just controls the points," Davenport said of Graf. "I've never played someone who his is a seeded No. 16 and playing in her first Grand Stam quarterfinal. She often froze Graf with bilstering forehands and sharply angled two-handed backhands, but was too slow to give Graf much trouble.

"Because she's that big and tall, I think it's a bit more difficult for her to move," Graf said. "I think she knows physically she can get in better shape, and that's probably why she so no moving as well as she can.

Date became the first Japanese player to advance to a Grand Sham semifinal in more than two decades with a 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 defeat of third-seeded Conchita Martinez.

A right-hander who hit several shots left-handed during the match, Date was cheered by fans with red and white Japanese flags painted on their faces. Some fans bowed to her after the victory.

Date is naturally left-handed, but her grandfather convinced her to become a righty when she was young to stay in line with a Japanese preference for right-handed women.

The only other Japanese woman to reach a Grand Slam semifinal was Kazuko Sawamatsu, who reached the 1973 Australian Open semifinals, Jiro Sato reached four Grand Slam men's semifinals in the 1930s.

"It is a hard thing to reach this stage being Japanese because we are not very big people and my height and strength is not perhaps very strong compared to opponents."

Date, 3-foot-4 and 117 pounds, said through an interpreter.

Sanchez Vicario reached the semi-finals for the fourth straight year. She won 7-6 (7-3), 6-4 to end the Grand Slam career of Manuela Maleevas-Pragniere, who is retiring next month after a 13-year professional career.

Novotna made 39 unforced errors to only 10 for Sabatini.

They came Tuesday, when the Bills and Dallas Cowboys met the media in the Georgia Dome.

And they will continue Wednesday and Thursday, whenmore interviews are scheduled.

ATLANTA (AP) — Marv Levy knew they would come — the relentless barrage of questions about the Buffalo Bills' unprecedented streak of Super Bowl failures.

So one of the first things he did even before the plane left for Atlanta, was coach the players on how to deal with it.

"You're going to be involved in an unusual week Ride with it. Enjoy lit. Be nice. Respond. Be likable, enjoyable. Be truthful, but give the answers you want to give," Levy said.

"You answer the questions and will, tiresome."

"You answer the questions."

The questions are variations of worce central theme, of course: After three successively worse Super three successively

After all, it was the Cowboys who beat them S2-17 in the last Super Bowl.

The Bills know they have no choice but to answer the questions. But even center Kent Hull acknowledged that, after awhile, "it gets awfully tiresome."

"You answer the questions and when they're on the negative side, I think they start to eat at you a little bit," he added. "But I think this team is mature enough to know they can handle it —a least the ones who will be asked those negative questions will be able to handle it."

Mark Pike, Buffalo's best special teams player other than Steve. Tasker, said the Bills will benefit from having only one week between the conference championship and the Super Bowl. In the Bills' last two Super Bowls, there was a two-week break.

"I think this short week is good because that eliminates a lot of the negative things that we can hear," he said. "Things just happen quicker." With the extra week, "so many negative timings that we can hear," he said. "Things just happen quicker."

With the extra week, "so many things can happen, so many things can happen, so many things can be said and taken the wrong way," Pike said.
Linebacker Darryl Talley, who reportedly was involved in a barroom scuffle before last year's big game, wasn't thrilled with questions about whether pre-game partying had hurt Buffalo in the past Super Bowls.
"I don't think that's been the case at all, but that's what you guys would like to emphasize," he said. "I just think we've been outplayed in the past Super Bowls."
Pike said he planned to be spontaneous in answering questions, but rike saud ne pianned to be sponta-neous in answering questions, but agreed that may be a dangerous approach for some of his less patient teanmates.

"Knowing some of the guys on our team, yeah, with some of the short wicks we have on this team," he said

Levy, meanwhile, said he hadn't made up his mind on whether to impose a curfew'on the Bills later in the week. "I hink I know what I'm going to do, but I'm not going to announce it now," he said.

Last year, the Bills had no curfew and Darryl Talley, their star outside linebacker, was involved in a barroom fracas with Magic Johnson's bodyguard, identified only as "Anthony."

Of course, the emphasis on media day was on the recurring plot line: Will the Bills, 10-point underdogs, become the first team to lose four straight Stort Rawle?

Johnston, who grew up a Dins lead in western New York. "I don't think they'd be as hungry."

Johnson, meanwhile, was emphasizing the accomplishments of his coaching opponent.

Neither Johnson for Levy is a sterebuypical conch.
The stereotype is Craig T. Nelson, who plays "Coach" on television. Perhaps it's a composite of someone who looks like Buddy Ryan, Mike Ditka or Joga Shula and says things like "We're playlin' a fine football team that has tine football players and can really move the footloglad. We're in for a lough footbal game." So what is Jimmy Johnson doing here?

"What Marv Levy has done in taking his team to the championship FOUR STRAIGHT TIMES is tremendous," Johnson-said, "I'm not just throwing flowers. I don't think't he's really ever gotten the respect he's due. Does anyone know how difficult it is to get here?"
Neither Johnson nor Levy is a sterotovical coach.

So what is amony e-here? He broke the coach's golden rule by predicting his team would beat San Francisco in the NFC title game and arrived at last year's Super Bowl with an obscure psychological tome called "Flow" that he used to tome called "Flow" that he used to motivate his players. And Mary Levy? He is a white-haired 64-year-old who grew up as the son of an immigrant Jewish grocer on Chiciago's South Side and sent him off to Harvard Law School to become a lawyer.

But it was coaching he took up, starting as head coach at St. Louis Country Day. He's been a head coach at every level and he's been all over North America: high school in St. Louis; college at California and William & Mary; the Canadian League at Montreal (he won the Grey Cup, Canada's Super Bowl); and then with Kansas City and Buffalo in the NFL.

" can remember when I called my dad and told him my decision to become a coach instead of a lawyer," Levy said. "There was a long silence."

Unlike many coaches, he doesn't seem to have much ego.

"You know," he said evenly Tuesday, "I don't remember."

There are some benefits to getting a knee to the head, after all. The frightening parts are forgotten. It also hepers to be one of the hazards of his profession, something Aikman accepted a long time ago.

He is the kind of quarterback some football architect might have drawn up on a blueprint — 6-foot4, 222 pounds, blond hair, blue eyes. There is an engry scrape on one elbow and a couple of nicks on his hands, souvenins of his job, worn like badges of honor.

"As long as you're going to play, you can't be too concerned — unless it starts happening on a continuing basis."

There was a time, though, when sacks seemed to be part of the Dallas Cowboys offense. And Aikman, suffering through a 1-15 rookie season, was the sackee.

licks.

"It's hard to put into words, to explain how miserable 1-15 was," Aikman said. "It was the toughest year I ever went through. If that had continued, I could not have played past my first contract."

The turnaround came a year later when Norv Turner was hired as offensive coordinator and installed the offense Aikman had used in college, an attack designed to take better advantage of the weapons Dallas had. "He throws the ball real well," wide receiver, Aivin-Harper said. "It's a ball you don't have to work for. You just have to run up under them."

Aikman is a star now, celebrated on the cover of a new NPL comic book, equipped with a $50 million, eight-year contract that is the league's richest, owner of one Super Bowl ring and favored to capture another on Stunday.

the most since 3.83 million in 1979, according to the National Association of Realtors. That included a 6.7
percent advance in December, to a 4.99 million seasonally adjusted anpercent advance in December, 4.49 million seasonally adjusted annual rate that broke the previous record of 4.21 million set a month record of 4.21 million set a month west.

It was the fourth consecutive monthly gain, reflecting the strength in the housing sector as 1993 came to a close. Sales increased in all regions, both in December and during the year.

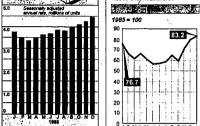

"Widespread perceptions that mortgage rates may have hit bottom clearly led to a spate of deals," said Bruce Steinberg, an economist with Merrill Lynch & Co. in New York.

According to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., 30-year, rixed-rate mortgages averaged 7.17 percent in December, up from a chief work of 6.83 percent in October. Still, they were, far more afford bett that the 8.21 percent average a year earlier.

Many analysts expect housing to remain strong in 1994, although the rate of growth likely will slow.

In fact, Steinberg and others predict a decline this month because of

Starsight signs deal with Zilog Consumer confidence

The Associated Press

The Associated Press

NAMPA — Zilog Inc. and Starsight
Telecast of Fremont, Calif., are working together on what the companies call a revolutionary on-sercen guide for television viewing and programining.

Using Starsight's technology, Zilog will produce computer chips at its Nampa plant for the device featured at recent consumer electronics shows.

Viewers who have TVs or VCRs caupped with the device will have access to up to seven days of programming information by channel and theme, tuning by program title, customized channel setup, and one-button recording.

A product also will be available to tomized channel setup, and one-outton recording.

A product also will be available to convert existing systems.

Zilog will begin shipping the chips in the second quarter of 1994 from its only manufacturing plant in Nampa.

"Barring that natural expression of villalny which we all have, the man looked honest enough." — Mark Twain.

Show me a defender who never resorts to some trickery, and I'll ahow you someone who is a long term loser. Put yourself in today's West chair and soe if you can spot the way to beat South; agame.

East overtook West's spade king and led two more spades, South ruffing with the eight. What happens If West makes an honest overruif! What he leads next makes it. Utel difference. South's best hope lies with the club finesse. When that works (after South draws trumps). South has his 10 tricks and the rubber.

South has his 10 tricks and the rubber.

When declarer ruffs the third spade, West's best chance lies with an unfilnehing discard (a study might give the plan away.) What is South going to do after West's discard? Most likely he is going to place the trump queen with East, so haw will cross to dummy's club ace to take the trump queen with East, so thaw lift cross to dummy's club ace to take the trump green. West springs his trap by winning his queen, and it's too late for South to take a club finesse. West gets both his trump queen and his club queen, and instead of 10 tricks, South gets only nine.

A defender who talls lies with a straight face is the favorite to win the battle of wits, and with it, the battle for the game stakes.

Honda-#1 Import in the Magic Valle

Even though our Accord is brand new, it's already being recognized.

The Motor Trend Import Car of the Year award is one of the most prestigious automotive awards in America.

And the car the editors recognized this year is the all-new Honda Accord.

rionda Accord.

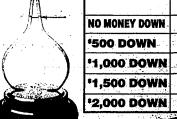

In the words of Motor Trend magazine, it's not only "the most significant import car for sale," it's also "the strongest, safest, quietest, best performing, most fuel-efficient Accord ever."

It may also be the best-equipped Accord ever. Choose the EX Sedan pictured below and you'll drive off with 4-wheel disc brakes ARS course monared circumstates.

brakes, ABS, power moonroof, air conditioning, dual air bags, alloy wheels, and a more powerful VTEC engine, all standard. Then you can add niceties such as a unique in-dash cellular phone or leather seating to make your new Accord even more luxurious.

Of course, there's something about the new Accord you'll only recognize once you look at its sticker.

The Super Bowl is only a few days away, which means only that much time left to set up your Super Bowl party. Here's an event that cows even the purest, most pristine of food writers. Ragout, the French version of stew, is about as fussy a preparation as even the French will recommend. Nonetheless, a punt – in the form of packaged dips and beer or delivery pizza – won't play, not in this space at least. Whatever is served should be casual and ven for non-football fans, watching the Super Bowl with friends has become as fireworks on the Fourth of July. And this year will be no exception, with Super Bowl XXVIII at the Georgia Dome in Atlanta on Ian, 30.

Part of the tradition is to gather few friends before the game begins, to watch the pre-game entertainment and get into the Super Bowl spirit. The content for the party on the big day usually includes hearing plan visione that few hosts relish, so it's a good idea to serve the main course dishes before the action starts, and prepare an asay-to-eat dessert for munching throughout the game.

That's why cookies are the perfect game-watching food. Made in advance, room temperature and handholdable, a tray piled with several variets and set out with a selection of beverages is the perfect solution to the question of a dessert that is both delicious and easy to handle.

Cookies have certainly been around as long as professional football. Tagme began as a college sport in the era following the Civil War, and it wasn't until the 1890s that teams of college players began playing professionally on Sundays, since their collegiate teams were staged on Saundays. With the cost of a franchise today in the millions of dollars, it's interesting that at the 1920 meeting where the relictions and the super face of the contract of

For the uninitiated, the Big Bowl Cafe is an offspring of the Eccentric restaurant in Chicago. Everything on the menu, from appetizers to desserts, is served in big bowls. The food is healthy, very tasty and easy to cat time.

Finally, it should have enough flavor to catch the diners' attention but not be so intricate that they are forced to look at their plates for any length of time while eating it.

As I was on the verge of opting for Italian-sausage and roast-pepty sandwiches, a friend turned to word association to come up with an alternative approach. "Bowl," she said. "Super bowl ... big bowl ... what

Cook's profile

Altered ice cream maker gives family fresh bread

By Joan Bean

JEROME – Edie Waite receives compliments on the bread and rolls she bakes, and she credits the mother and grandmother with introducing her to the basics.

After Waite married, she learned more about making rolls from her mother-in-law.

"Rodney's mother makes just delicious rolls, so I watched her a couple of times," Waite said. "I think that's she one thing that helped me most was watching her and touching the dough – to know when it's been kneaded long enough, and how to shape the rolls and bread."

Waite bakes all of her family's dinner rolls, muffins and cinnamon rolls, but said she "goes in spurts" with making loaves of bread.

"This is what Mom used to do," she said. "She'd buy bread for a while; then she'd make bread for a while. I kind of do the same thing."

For the work of kneading the dough, Waite has help from an appliance she purchased 10 years ago in Ulah from a man who manufactures them under the name S.O.L. Miker Co. An ice cream motor moves a dough hook around in a bucket to do the job.

Waite said she doesn't know if the device works bester than the name brand mixers, but that it works great for her. It is nosly, however, and as seid everyone is grateful when it stops.

Waite's children have not taken an interest in bread baking yet, but 13-year-old Jarett does make cookies, and 10-year-old Audrey is learning to cook breakfast – currently specializing in scrambled eggs. So far, 7-year-old Jennifer hasn't tred her hand in the kitchen.

Waite said she has a few bread recipes that are low-fat or nor-fat that her family likes. The following recipe for white bread is one of these.

WHITE BREAD

Makes 3 large or 4 small loaves lowing recipe for white bread is one of these.

WHITE BREAD

Makes 3 large or 4 small loaves
4 cups warm water
1½ tablespoons seast
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoons shortening
9 cups flow
1 in a large mixing bowl, put the warm water.
Add yeast and sugar and let dissolve a couple of minutes. Add salt, shortening and half the flour and mix with electric mixer. Add the other half of flour, and mix in well with a spoon. Knead about 5 to 8 minutes.
To test the dough, poke it with your finger. If it comes back out slightly, quit kneading. Grease a large plastic bowl with a cover. Put dough in and turn over. Put lid on, making sure air is out of container. Turn oven on to about 400 degrees for 2 minutes until it is just warm and turn off. Besure to turn it off or the plastic bowl will nelt.

Winter is a time of rest for most plants, but they still need water. You water your indoor plants, don't you?

But what about the ice in the hose, you say? Turn the water on a little, and in a few minutes the running water will melt the ice and things will start up just like it was July.

like it was July.

Remember that any time soil temperature is 32 degrees or above, the roots are active.

Tum on the sprinklers.

Heck, wear your Bermuda shorts, too.

You're invited to the Commemorative Rose Garden in front of the Twin Falls Courthouse at 10:30 a.m. on Jan. 29 for a garden eleanup. Bring your gloves, pruners and a trash bag. We'll clean up the rose garden together. If you don't know how, this is a great opportunity to learn from other rosarians.

If break fast truly does make a champion, then this is one weird way-taw in a Super Bowl.

The Wheaties folks were the ones who popularized this whole thing—the idea that if you begin the morning with a well-balaneed, nutritious meal, then you're on track for a high-performance day, maybe even a good wear, better that the property of the propert

Honor was where Cowboys wanted to end up.

The Coppell Deli is the home of the "Stubbs," Kenny Gant's favorite breakfast sandwich, a hulking assemblage of hot links, bacon, cheese and eggs on Texas toast named after the hulking Daniel Stubbs, a defensive end who played on the team in 1990 and 1991. just doesn't soak in.
"The problem you run into is you have athletes who are used to eating what they want to eat," Woick says, "but no matter what you tell them, it's kind of hard for them to make changes in their lifestyle."

The most common nutritional problem among the Cowboys, he says, is the percentage of fat in their diets. Nutritionists set 30 percent of total colorie intake as the healthy upper limit, but 40 to 50 percent, says Woicik, is the norm for some team members. members.

These days, the Coppell Deli is a, bona fide Cowboys tradition, from its

"There's this nice little greasy thing, laden with butter and cheese and sausage," Woicik says, perhaps with a hint of longing. "It's about your weekly allotment of cholesterol in one sandwich, and I know guys. who have two or three."

But Woicik needn't despair entirely. There are still many Cowboys who limit their Coppell Deli indulgences and who don't make the cafe's breakfast fare part of their routine.

Some, such as Nate Newton, the very discoverer of the Coppell Deli, don't eat breakfast at all. (But Nate, how can that be when there are two sandwiches named after you at the Coppell Deli?

"Duning football season, I don't eat in the morning," explains Newton, whose battles of the bulge are storied.
"After football season, I do eat in the morning."

"After football season, I do eat in the morning.")

Some, such as quarterback Troy Aikman, have a meager breakfast of a muffin and a quart of milk. Aikman says he goes through a gallon of milk every two days.

Some, such as center John Gesek, already have declared "What do you eat for breakfast?" to be the stupidest question asked by a reporter of a Cowboy during the entire 1994 post-season. He says this, of course, before answering the question with a break-fast schedule that would require its-own playbook to keep track of: "Monday, I eat cereal at home (usually Special K) or I eat at a diner in-Coppell. Lusually have a ham- and-cheese omelet. Tuesday I stay home and have cereal. Wednesday, Coppell Deli. Thursday, cereal, Friday, Coppell Deli. Sturday, my wife usually makes pancakes. And Sunday, there's the pre-game break-fast."

wite usually makes pancakes. And Sunday, there's the pre-game breakfast.

The game-day meal is, in fact, the only breakfast the Cowboys organization makes a point of furnishing the team. It's a sumptuous spread of eggs, meats, French. toast, pancakes, grits and fruit, and obviously something the guys look forward.

It's a place, says dietitian Colleen Short, where the team has a prime opportunity to eat the perfect breakfast. The staff member at the Tom Landry Sports Medicine and Ressearch Center says a morning meal high in carbohydrates – pancakes, grits and the like – offers the best fuel for the high-powered Cowboys. Adding fruit and low-fat dairy products also are good ways to start the day, she says.

"Their readitity is affithiated with Baylor University Medical Center." They need those calories, but you can still eat a lot of calories and have the high fat. It would also mean you'd need to eat more."

So which of the men who wear the silver star would get Short's gold star?

Aikman, for one. Defensive tack! frony Casillas, too. His usual break-took.

sitver star would get short's gottu-star?
Aikman, for one. Defensive tackle Tony Casillas, too. His usual break-fast is a bowl of cereal, some fruit (usually a banana) and a cup of cof-fee. Even his favorite "splurge" breakfast - granola pancakes at a Dallas restaurant - includes a nod to good nutrition.
"I have them with light syrup, obviously," says Mr. Casillas.
