Planned cuts won't disable defense, budget office says

WASHINGTON (AP)
Disputing critics who warn that defense cuts will lead to a hollow military force, congressional analysts Wednesday endorsed administation arguments that spending can be cut without undermining national security.
The bipartisan Congressional Budget Office said in a report that planned defense spending of $1.2 trillion over the next five years. $100 billion-less than the Bush administration envisioned, is enoughto meet the Pentagon goal of being

The four joint chiefs of staff told the Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday that the administration's proposed budget of $264 billion in fiscal year 1995 is enough to maintain military readiness, but expressed concerns about the effects of further budget cuts.

Statewide salary schedule dies merciful death

Had the Legislature opted for a system of statewide salary minimums, it would have severely undermined local school heards' ability to deal with employees and opened itself up to constant and direct pressure.

And since personnel costs constitute the biggest single share of education spending in Idaho, the Legislature, and by extension the Idaho Department of Education, would have found itself making decisions that the Idaho Constitution reserved for local government.

The lawmakers, happily, wanted-no-part of that, but the fact that they gave it serious consideration demonstrates what's at stake in the current noisy debate aimed at heading off a court showdown next fall over Idaho's school distribution formula:

That lawsuit, brought by 40-some school districts, seeks to scrap the state 's current' formula for handing outstate money to the schools and to replace it with a plan of the educators' devising.
The Legislature, fearing a court mandate to spend a lot more money, would like very much to cut a deal before the case peaches the courtmon.

The whole dust-up is baffling to most folks who don't wear wingtips and carry briefeases, but at heart it boils down to this: Educators will be more flexible

The Senate Education Committee about step Wednesday in declining the school superintendents' invitation to turn legislators into contract negotiators of last resort in Idaho.

The panel stripped a provision to establish a statewide salary schedule from a proposal by the superintendents to overhaul the way Idaho distributes aid to public schools.

The House Education Committee, chaired by Twin Falls Republican Ron Black, made it clear last month that the state isn't going to come close to spending the nearly $100 million more for education — most of for salaries — that some educators wanted.

The Senate committee on Wednes-The Senate committee on Wednesday voted to replace the superintendents' statewide minimum salary scale with mandatory minimum pay of $19,328, but even that is not guarantood-to-survive-the-full-Senate-and-House.

Part of all this fiscal constraint is a sober realization on the Legislature's part that there are worse things that can happen to Idaho than having to go to court to defend the funding formula.

Another is a public school system run by bureaucrats in Boise, leaving local schools with little real power.

Considerations of teacher salaries should be an important part — but only a part — of the resolution of the law-suit. The Senate committee was correct in deciding it can't spend the Legislature out of the courtroom.

American colleges near collapse

American colleges and universities are approaching financial, intellectual and moral collapse — with profound consequences for students and the nation. So concludes Hillsdale College president George Roche in his new book, "The Fall of the Ivory Tower: Government Funding, Corruption, and the Bankrupting of American Higher Education" (Regnery Publishing). Roche refutes the argument that more morey means better education by noting that the budget for college-level education has increased from $7$ billion in the early 1960s to its present $172 billion. "In spite of the massive infusion of money," he writes, "tens of thousands of college seniors on at know when Columbus sailed to the new world, who wrote the Declaration of independent of the control of the present of the present

Roche says that wille '60s-style radicalism ingers in many universities, that is not the entire reason for their deplorable condition. Government subsidy and control, he says, have been more damaging than anyone realizes. Despite massive infusions of government money, including student financial assistance (which is in default, in growing numbers of cases), most colleges and universities are tectering on the brink of collapse. Why? "They are overcommitted to entitlements in exacely the same way as is the federal government." A few examples: Harvard ran a $42 million deficit in 1991-92 and has lost millions in speculative investments; Yale has deferred $1 billion in maintenance on its physical campus; the City University of New York system wants to cut $40 million from its budget; UCLA is closing four professional schools and must cut $38 million from its budget by the end of this year, the University of Maryland is getting indoor of $50 academic departments, is reorganizing

Breastfeeding lowers cancer risk

Breastfeeding lowers cancer risk I read with interest Maureen Evans-Grover's article entitled "Fat, breast cancer link still unclear." Research and experience show that breastfeeding also significantly lowers a woman's risk for developing breast cancer, a fate steddom mentioned in the media. Breastfeeding completes the natural reproductive eyele of ovulation, conception, pregnancy and childbirth. Lactation allows the breasts to exercise their biological function as well as facilitates a more gradual return of a woman's reproductive hormones to pre-pregnant levels. Exclusive breastfeeding delays ovulation and menstruation for a substantial period of time after childbirth. The continuous rise and fall of reproductive hormones, especially estrogen, in non-pregnant, non-lactating women has been implicated as a cause of breast cancer.

women has been implicated as a cause of breast cancer.

Earlier research suggested that lactation of several years duration might be necessary for a protective effect against breast cancer. More recent research documents a protective effect from even a few months of breastfeeding, the degree of protection increasing with each child breastfed. This is not surprising, since there are very low breast-cancer rates in areas of the world-where extended breastfeeding is the commit practice.

there are very fow creast-cancer rates in areas of the world where extended breastfeeding is the normal practice.

Researchers are exploring other ways in which breastfeeding can lower a woman's risk-of-breast enere. Human milk may comain substances, which protect delicate mammary tissues from the damaging effect of chemical compounds such as environmental contaminants. Furthermore, the very act of breastfeeding has a cleansing effect by removing secretions accimulated over time.

Health care providers and breast-cancer prevention programs should promote and support breastfeeding as an important means of lowering the incidence of this life-threatening disease around the world. (Bibliography is available to support above statements.)

Oh, and then, those free summers are probably like last summer. I took two required classes which I paid for out of my own pocket. I went through a new practice set, two new textbooks which we had adopted and learned a new computer program.

Bruins open with solid center

TWIN FALLS.— With five players back from a team that fell one game short of making the Idaho State high school baseball playoffs, Twin Falls Coach Bill Ingram has high hopes for this year's Bruin squad.
Robbie Welch, a senior pitcher who went 7.1 in 1993, heads the group of seniors back for Twin Falls that may make this team tough to beat.

7-1 in 1993, heads the group of seniors back for Twin Falls that may make this team tough to beat.

"We have a good nucleus with good athletes." Ingram said: "We have kids with some playing experience from last year and Legien experience from the summer."

There might be a big group of pitchers behind Welch. The senior is one of the few or the team with much pitching experience. Fans will probably see Jeff Gibson on the mound in relief like last season. John McClusky is the only returning outfielder from last year. He spent most of his time in left field last year and this year will move to center.

Filling the gap in left will be Chris Traveller and senior Jamie Norris. In right, expect to see Eric Evans, Gibson and Kevin Jensen. In the infield, the Bruins have returnees at hird base and behind the plate.

Josh Barron is back at the hot corner. Ingram has two catchers, seniors Matt Summerfield and Tim Stadelmeir.

Long-shot Cougars base their game on defense

Of all the 64 teams in the NCAA tournament, one of the most surprised to be there is the College of Charleston.

The Cougars, who jumped from NAIA to Division I only three years ago, were such longahots that coach John Kresse suggested to his players they not show up at the restaurant where he was watching the NCAA selection show with fans Sunday.

"I told them, 'We need not have you at a gathering where if you don't see your name pop up, it would be a major bummer,' "Kresse said.

Meanwhile, Kresse had solicited the help of Lou Carnesecea, his former boss at St. John's, in trying to secure a place in the National Invitation Tournament for Charleston. "They had never looked at the little guy for an at-large hild" in the NCAA, Kresse said. The university issued a six-page letter on Wednesday that it sent to the NCAA detailing the investigation conducted by former FBI agent Pete Welsh, as well a actions taken by the athletic department.

Besides the reprimands and loss of scholarship, Hoffman said Idaho State will no longer allow correspondence courses to be used for certification in the summer imediately prior to enrollment, It also notified the University of South Carolina about Gardner's academic improprieties

Charleston, the 1983 NAIA champion, was able to overcome its small-time reputation this season with victories over Penn State, Alabama and UNC-Charlotte. The Cougars also own the nation's longest winning streak at 16 and have a 364-98 record in Kresse's 15 years as coach.
They are one of the nation's best defensive teams, holding opponents to a field goal percentage of 38.9.
While Charleston is making its first appearance in the NCAA tournament, its first-round opponent, Wake Forest, is making its fourth in a row.
Randolph Childress, the Demon Deacons' leader, said, 'This is probably the least Indented team we've lead since I've been here.' But he added, "I'm my opinion, this is the best team we've ever had."
The closely-knit Demon Deacons beat Duke twice and North Carolina once late in the season and finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference. "Everyone's getting more and more like I am," Childress said, "We just expect to wim."
Two other tournament longshots are Southwest Texas State, which never had won a game in the Southland Conference tournament in four previous tries, won the championship this season, beating North Texas 69-60. The others, including three former Iditarod champions, knew the speed of Buser's team made him the musher to worry most about, and that he would drive the pace once the race reached the Bering Sea coast 90 miles from Kallag. So when he said he was kicking back for a while, they saw it as a chance to gather the steam needed for the stretch run.

Then, late Friday while the others dozed, Buser harnessed his team, tiptoed out of the checkpoint and started driving for the coast. "I decided it was time to go," he recounted shortly after winning the 22nd Iditarod late Tuesday in a record time of 10 days, 13 hours and 2 minutes.

Back in Kaltag the others quickly caught onto Buser's gambit, but most of them then compounded their miscalculation by not giving chase immediately. Only Mackey set off in pursuit. He too thought Buser might burn his team out, and if it happened he wanted to be in a position to take advantage.

E911 board defers awarding contracts

JEROME - The four-county "enhanced" 911 board decided Wednesday evening that no construction bids could be award-dumli litigation involving Lincoln County has been settled. "It's necessary for us to reject them at this point," said Jerome County Commissioner Veronica Lierman.

The E911 board had been waiting to sign an $899,768 contact with Sundance Construction Management Inc., of Boise, to build a regional emergency dispatch center in Jerome County.

Equipped with computerized mapping, the facility would allow dispatchers to track and handle 911 calls from Gooding, erome, Lincoln and Twin Falls counties.

Southwick's attorneys and the commissioners' attorneys plan a conference telephone call March 30 with Idaho Falls Judge Ted Wood. They would discuss Southwick's attempt to include Lincoln County Prosecuting Attorney Jennifer A. Brown in the lawsuit, according to Lincoln County Commissioner Clarence Tews.

Tews said that 911 could be looked at as speed dialing, and not as emergency dialing.

To help dispet the confusion surrounding the 3½-year attempt to bring enhanced 911 services to the Magic Valley, the E911 board will sponsor an informational meeting Wednesday, March 23.

The 7 p.m. forum will be at the Health and Welfare building at 601 Pole Line Road in Twin Falls.

Regional-Health and Welfare Director Steve, Woodworth will moderate the discussion, which will feature presentations by the architect, engineer, financier and legal counsel for the regional E911 project, E911 Project Manager Al Sandner said Wednesday.

Entities may assess impact fees

By Drew DeSilver Times-News writer

BOISE - Local governments won a major battle Wednesday in their legislative cam-paign for more money to deal with surging growth.

The Idaho House voted 41-29 to allow chies counties school districts, highway districts and water and sewer districts to assess impact fees on new development. Right now, state law allows only entities in Ada County to impose impact fees, and only the Ada County Highway District actually does allow the Ada County Highway District actually does so.

Supporters of the bill said impact fees were a critical tool for fast-growing communities to keep up with the need for more roads, sewers, school buildings and other infrastructure im-sensol billingia and one infrastructure in provements.

"This is an attempt to make growth help ay for itself," said Rep. Celia Gould, R-Buhl. —It's an attempt to give our worm-out, lived, overburdened current tuxpayers a break." The bill would allow governmental bodies to impose impase fees after fitte, develop a capital-improvements plan, formally deter-mine the-proper share. Ital. pow development should pay for new facilities, and hold a pib-lic hearing.

Lawmakers dispute school funding allocation

BOISE - Almost every year, the Idaho House and Senate wrangle over how much money to give to public schools-This-year-the two chambers may also fight over how to distribute that money among the school districts.

Each body is working on its own rewrite of the complex formula that determines how much money each of Idaho's 113 school districts gets out of the annual state appropriation. The two formulas share many similarities, but differ on a few key details.

According to an accident report, Durand Delano Barnes, 16, of Burley, was driving a pickup north at 2:10 p.m. and ran a stop sign at the intersection of Highway 30 and 100 West Road, one quarter of a mile west of Burley.

Russell Lee Poole, 26, of Burley, was driving his pickup west on Highway 30 when he crashed into the side of Barnes' vehicle.

Police cited Barnes for failing to yield at a stop sign. Estimated damage to his pickup is $1,500. Estimated damage to Poole's pickup is $3,000, the report said.

Woman seriously hurt when car hits van

WOMAIN SETIOUSLY MILT WHEN CAT HIS VAIN BURLEY — A 72-year-old woman was scriously injured when her car hit a van load of school children Tuesday at the intersection of Oriental Avenue and East 13th Street.

Margery Leota Standerfer, of Burley, was in stable condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital Wednesday. The children and driver of the van were unharmed, according to an accident report. Standerfer was eastbound on East 13th Street at 9:18 a.m., when her car lit a van belonging to the South Central Head Star in Twin Falls. The van's driver, Rossiac Kidd, 39, of Declo, had been heading north on Oriental Avenue, the report said.

Police cited Standerfer for failing to yield to a vehicle that was crossing the intersection on the right. There are no stop signs at the intersection, the report said.

Bill will decide fate of school campus

BOISE - The Senate Education Committee has approved a bill meant to decide once and for all what to do with the old Albion Normal School campus.

State Rep. Jim Kempton, R-Albion, is sponsoring the bill to encourage the city and the state Parks and Recreation Department to negotiate on turning the old campus, which has been mothballed for decades, into a "field institute" at the center of a new state park.

If the city and the department can agree on such a park and the Legislature approves their plan, $55,000 would be set aside to help maintain it.

If no such plan is approved, the bill encourages the Legislature to fund asbestos removal and demolition of "all campus buildings not of practical value to the city of Albion"—that is to say, nearly all of them.

The bill, which already has passed the House, now goes to the full Senate.

Bill would loosen interest conflict rules

BOISE - Sinte conflict-of-interest rules-for-public officials would, be loosened a bit under a bill approved Wednesday by the House State Affairs Committee.

Current law, which dates back to the early years of statehood, has been interpreted as prohibiting cities from doing business with the employers of any city council members.

The new bill would remove that prohibition if the official holds only a "remote interest" – defined as being a salaried or fixed-wage employee of a business, or holding less than 1 percent of the shares in a business – in the deal.

a husiness – in the deal.

However, the official would have to disclose the remote interest to his or her colleagues, could not attempt to influence them, and his or her vote would not be counted when the council or other body voted on the deal.

on the deal.

An incident last year in Rupert-apurred the bill. City Councilman Duincille Alltred, who works as vice president and manager of First Security Bank's Rupert branch, came under criticism because the city keeps some of its money in Alltred's bank.
The bill now goes to the full House.

Minidoka officials study expansion

Times News writer

RUPERT — A study of county buildings to see if they need to be expanded or just remodeled would cost $1,500 to $4,000.

Minidoka County commissioners are considering expanding because police and court officials are increasingly cramped and lack storage space.

Twin Falls architect Russ Lively offered the study to commissioners two weeks ago. His study, which would take one to two months to complete, would help commissioners decide whether to add on, knock out walls, or simply shuffle employees and remodel existing rooms.

"It's a tool to help the commissioners decide what steps to the study which would take one to two months to complete, would study which would take one to two months to complete, would study which would take one to two months to complete, would study which would take one to two months to complete, would will the work of th

Study indicates drug cravings gene linked to food addiction

"The environment shepherds people one way or another," said Dr. Ernest P. Noble, a professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the University of California, Izos Angeles. "If they're-in a-home-that-uses a lot-of alcohol, they become alcoholies. If cocaine is around, they become cocaine users. If there's food as a way of giving a reward, those children might grow up to be obese."

His findings, published in Monday's Journal of Eating Disorders, center on a dopamine receptor gene that is responsible for sensations of pleasure-or-reward.

A particular form of that gene, pre-viously linked to alcohol and cocaine abuse, may also cause adults to crave carbohydrates and eat too much, he found.

Dr. Harvey Kaslow, a member of the physiology department at the University of Southern California School of Medicine, called Noble's finding "another example of a hereditary association with obesity, which implies a genetic basis that contributes to obesity."

Women ashamed of, underestimate risk of acquiring sexually transmitted diseases

Arizona Republic

Carol Weston wasn't suprised last month when a national women's health—group—announced—that American women are dangerously ignorant about sexually transmitted diseases.

Supporters of custody fight pull TV ad

Supporters of custody fight pull TV ad NAMPA—A television advertisement supporting a Nampa couple in their fight against the Oglala Sioux Indian Tribe to retain custody of their adopted son has been pulled.

A supporter of Leland and Karla Swenson said the decision was made on Tuesday following threatened legal action by the tribe's attorneys, Idaho Legal Aid Services.

But Legal Aid services.

But Legal Aid services.

But Legal Aid spokesman Howard Belodoff denied making any threat of higiation in the custody dispute.

The 30-second and was intended to raise money for the Swensons' legal expenses in the battle for custody of 4-year-old Casey, who is half Oglala Sioux. The Pine Rigle, S.D., tribe seeks custody of the boy under the federal Indian Child Welfare Act.

Mike Madisson, president of a nonprofit group backing the Swensons said he ordered the ad pulled after Karla Swenson told him of a possible said. He said the ad now may go back on the air.

Woman charged in weekend shooting

FORT HALL — A Fort Hall woman has been charged with voluntary manslaughter in last weekend's shooting death of another woman. Sharon Stone, 32, appeared in U.S. District Court in Pocatello on Tuesday to face charges in the death of Leah Osborne Hutchinson, 43, of Fort Hall.

Hutchinson was found dead of multiple gunshot wounds about 2 a.m. last Saturday at her home.

Fort Hall Police and an FBI agent arrested Stone outside a Fort Hall residence shortly after the shooting. They confiscated a rifle they believe was used in the xilaying. A preliminary hearing is scheduled March 21.

Tax committee postpones vote

BOISE (AP) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee on Wednesday put off voting on a bill that would have meant a cut of about 12 percent in property taxes for all city residens.

In what has become a familiar pattern over the past 20 years, committee members expressed support for the concept but opposition to the bill.

The tax panel deferred action until Friday on that bill and two others that would allow local option sales or income taxes.

ATHENS, Greece — Two time bombs exploded Wednesday ausside buildings housing a research center for the European Union and the French Institute in central Athens. The caused slight damage, but no injuries. The bombs exploded within four minutes of each other, police said. Police said they were alerted about 20 minutes before the explosions by an anonymous caller claring to represent the Revolutionary Popular Struggle, or Elar, terroris group—The-warning, made to an Athens newspaper, allowed police to make sure the buildings were vacant.

Cholera epidemic grows in Somalia

Cholera epidemite grows in Somalia MOGADISHU, Somalia — An outbreak of cholera first noticed in Somalia last month has become an epidemic, with more than 100 people already dead and the full growing daily.
Christian Clark, a spokesman for the U.N. Children's Fund, expressed concern Wednesday that efforts to control the epidemic could be jeopardized by the withdrawal of Western military forces.
Cholera was first detected in the northern port of Bosaso a little more than a month ago. Since then, it has spread 1,000 miles south to Kismayu and to a number of points in between.
In Bosaso, 664 people have contracted the disease and at least 22 have died, Clark said. He said there were unconfirmed reports of 256 cases and 42 deaths in Belet Huen, near the Ethiopian border in central Somalia

Court-rules-man-could-get-fair-trial-

DUBLIN, Ireland — A businessmar charged with having sex with a schoolgirl can go to trial despite wide publicity for the case, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The case gained attention two years ago when a court blocked the girl from having an abortion in Britain. The controversy led to a referendum and changes in Ireland's restrictive law against abortion. The court rejected claims by the man, who has not been identified, that he could not get a fair trial because of the publicity.

Escapees free hostages, head for woods

FORTALEZA, Brazil — Prisoners who held sharpened spoons to the throats of a Roman Catholic cardinal and human rights activists fled into the scrub woods of northeastern Brazil after freeing the hostages unharmed Wednesday.

Wednesday.

In escaping from a maximum-security jail, 13 inmates broke a deal they made with authorities Tuesday in exchange for police providing weapons and a getaway armored car and even turning off the prison lights. Police made good on their side of the bargain but the prisoners did not free their hostages as promised, dumping only an injured guard out of the getaway car as they sped from the Paulo Sarasate prison 15 miles from Fortuleza, a city 1,750 miles borth of Rio de Janeiro.

Winter energy costs fuel bit of inflation; new homes up

WASHINGTON — Despite the lingering effects of winter, there was little inflation and a slight rebound in housing starts last month, according to new government reports Wednesday.

The Labor Department said consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 0.3 percent in February and the Commerce Department said housing starts for the month were up 4.1 percent, to a seasonally instead annual rate of 1.31 million.

"We may not get any function (in prices), but certain modest enough to prevent a pressure, and connection of the WEFA Grow Chwyd, Pa. "I don't see any significant inflation around."

Bruce Steinberg, an economist with Cymwyd, Pa. "I don't see any see significant inflation around."

Bruce Steinberg, an economist with Merill Lynch & Co. in New York agreed, saying, "Inflation remained well contained in February. Basically, there is almost no goods inflation in the United States."

-Analysts attributed much of the 0.3 percent increase in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index to winter-related fuel demands, which they said will dissipate with the spring thaws.

They said the increase in housing starts would have been even greater had it not been for storms and freezing weather that had produced a 22 percent plunge in new construction in January. "We lost a lot of activity in January and February," said

David F. Seiders of the National Associa-tion of Home Builders. "We should get that back within a couple of months." Still, Seiders maintained that housing starts reached their cyclical high in December, when they hit an annual rate of 1.61 million. Nonetheless, he predicted they would remain at a "healthy level" of 1.41 million this year, up from 1.29 million in 1993.

Test your financial knowledge

Newsday

Americans are not very optimistic about their financial future.

The majority of Americans say they often worry about money. Nearly half of them say that an unexpected bill of $1,000 would be a big problem. And fully 47 percent say they think more often about money than sex (although they enjoy sex more). These findings, all from the ninth national survey of Americans and their money by Money magazine, underscore the problems many people have making ends meet and planning for the future.

Knowledge, however, is your weapon against-worry. Here's a pop quiz on your financial eductation (answers at end):

True or False

True or False

1. To protect yourself from unscrupulous brokers you should keep a log of all your conversations, or better yet, tape-record your calls and tell the broker you're taping them.

2. Financial products are so complicated these days that parents should let the schools teach their children about money and finances.

3. Fear up your credit card receipts and bank-statements before throwing them out.

4. If your checkbook is stolen, don't worry; you won't be held liable for the losses.

5. It's a good idea to check your credit reports periodically, even if you're not planning on taking a loan.

6. Child support payments are tax deductible for the parent who makes them.

7. Only financial experts with a lot of money to invest can join investment clubs.

8. Making a profit and being a socially responsible investor are not mutually exclusive.

9. If you believe you will be eligible for financial add by the time your child is ready to go to college, you should start putting your college savings in your child's name.

10. Home equity loans and lines of credit are mong the riskiest types of loans you can take out.

Multiple Choice:

1. If you are in the process of getting di-reed, which of the following should you do? (a) Make a list of household items and joint

(b) If you don't already have your own credi-t-eard-begin-applying for one, and remove, your name from any joint accounts,
(c) Make copies of bank and brokerage account statements and tell your broker not to make any transactions without informing both you and your spouse.

began selling its Power Maciniosh line Monday, setting an introductory price of just over $1,800 for a basic model, slightly beating analysts' expectations.
They are the first personal computers based on the new PowerPC microprocessing chip and represent a bet by Apple that a chip design called RISC will eventually become more popular than the current standard, known as CISC.
The first Power Macintosh computers run at speeds of 60 MHz, 66 MHz and 80
MHz. That's compared with ho-66 MHz, top speed of Intel Corp's Pentium chip,
the state-of-the-art microprocessor in PCS made by companies other than Apple.
Intel, however, recently announced plans to soon roll out versions that run at up to 100 MHz.

Apple said this is the model it will market for general business use.

The $100 model, nunning at 80 MHz, speed with 8 megabytes of memory and a 250 megabyte hard drive, begins at $4,249. The company is aiming this line at people who need the most power from a Macintosh, such as graphic designers.

Trade press and analysts' estimates had placed the lowest cost of a new Macintosh at around $2,000.

Fund diversity not always what it seems

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing goes further to explain the widespread appeal of mutual funds than the diversification they required.

funds than the diversification mey provide.

In a single package, a fund gives investors with as little as a few hundred dollars access to a broad portfolio of stocks, bonds or other investments.

Investors who wish to diversify further can easily do so by spreading their money over half a dozen funds of different types and brand names.

names.
"Diversification is the best way to maximize your returns and reduce your risk," notes Value Line Securities of New York in a bulletin to investors in its fund family

A mix of stock, boad and moncy funds will cushion the impact of a stock or bond market correction. Gains in one asset often offset losses in others, while the enresult typically is a solid returnover the long term.

This simple ideas is close to a sacred principle in the world of inserting. But like other great virtues, it can lead to troube!

The problem is that what looks like diversification sometimes doesn't provide the degree of dessired protection. A portfolio of many large growth stocks, for instance, can't provide much cush ion in a period when large growth stocks in general are out of favor, as they have been for the past twoyears.

and bonds may suffer almost as much as a less diversified investment if a sustained rise in interest rates weighs down both the stock shield against the myages of a per-vasive bear market.

Over the 12-month period through Jan. 31, five major cate-gories of stock funds tracked by Lipper Analytical Services Inc. showed remarkably similar re-sults.

showed remarkanty summar issults.

The returns posted by capital appreciation, growth, small company growth, growth and income, and equity income funds all fell into a band between 15.25 percent and 16.92 percent.

—If-the positive market setting in which these gains occurred were turned upside down, it isn't hard to imagine all those categories taking parallel downward path.

to imagine all tubes categories are in garallel downward paths.

The newest rage in fined diversification is to go global with world stock and income funds. International stock funds certainly have been an enriching dadition to almost any portfolio over the past year, climbing nearly 50 percent. But of course these too could join in a general downtrend should a worldwide bear market occur.

So diversification should be thought of as beneficial, but not magicial.

"Construct an all-weather portfolio — blue-chip stocks, small stocks, different maturities of bonds, even some gold stocks or real estate," advises Richard foraber, senior vice president at Jones & Babson, manager of a fund group in Kanasa City. "It isn't necessary to invest every dime in common stocks, but keep enough of your portfolio there at all times to take advantage of future bull markets. Never become so cautious as to take away all of your opportunity for growth."

These days, the chances people will watch an entire commercial are more remote than ever.

How convenient. They just push one button and there goes your TV commercial. There goes your media budget. There goes any chance you ever had of influencing the consumer.

In fact, recent studies have shown that the moment a commercial comes on, a startling 48% of viewers either head off to raid the fridge, freshen up in the bathroom, find some way to ignore the commercial altogether, or just plain zap it with their remote control.

Not so when your ad is in the paper-the one medium where people actually want to see the advertisements. In study after study, consumers consistently rate newspapers as the most believable, helpful and influential source of advertising available.

So, if you're buying ads, maybe you should put them where people see them. The Times-News.

In one week, it reaches almost nine out of ten people in the Twin Falls ADI. That's 53,000 people who, by the way, aren't holding remote controls. For more information call Pete York at 733-0931, extension 253.

Hunters battle 'the flinch'

Shooters who have passed the winter inside may find that their first shooting opportunity of the new year may include a visit from the shooter's nemesis,

Nivefl Hocklander

Hunting

The recoil, and muzzle blast of most firearms can distract the shooter from proper shooting technique.

Recoil can cause a anyone to develop a flinch and, with the flinch comes the predicted result, a poor shot.

The best of cartridges can do their designed task only if they hit the target.

A flinch is the jerking or cringing re-flex which occurs as a shooter antici-pates what unpleasant things are going to happen when the trigger is pulled.

The body stiffens in preparation for, the blow, the trigger pull becomes erratic, and most important, attention is diverted from the target to the act of pulling the trigger.

pulling the trigger.

Recoil is the cause of most flinching.

It is a practical application of Newton's third law of motion which states that for every action there is an equal and opposite reaction — recoil.

In some guns this reaction is light and unnoticeable, but as one moves up in unnoticeable, but as one moves up in both bullet weight and powder charge the effects can be punishing and down right painful.

The handgun is my true love and many people are amazed at how accurately the handgun can be fired. This is usually followed by a comment like, "I could not hit the broad side of a barn with a handgun," and in most cases they are not exaggerating and the culprit is the flinch.

People seem to develop an violent flinch the minute they pick up a large caliber.handgun, causing the shooter to not only miss the barn but the whole farm.

A severe flinch is usually obvious to the shooter, with some shooters even closing their eyes.

One way to check for a flinch is to ave a friend load the gun you wish to Instruct your helper to hand you a cocked but empty gun at some time after the first shot.

When the firing pin falls on an empty chamber the only niovement will be that generated by your flinch if you have one.

The results can be quite dramatic.

There are many things which can be done to help cure a flinch. Physical solutions include a thicker recoil pad, magna-porting or muzzle brakes, and stock design. A review of proper shoring techniques can reduce the effects of recoil.

But another choice is simply to select uns which do not intimidate you as a guns which do not intimidate you as a shooter. Enjoying shooting sports does not require acts of self-abuse.

A hunter is no less of a hunter if he chooses to use a .30-06 for rather than face the bruising of the big magaums. Just as much enjoyment can be achieved from shooting a .38 special or even a .22 rimfire as a .44 magnum.

morning.

Recoil is a pelsonal experience. Some shooters have high tolerance and some are very recoil intolerant. The only sure way to find out if you will feel comfortable with the recoil of a particular cartridge or gun is to fire it for yourself.

Find a fellow hunter who will let you ry-out the gun you intend to buy and hen you will know how well you can handle its recoil.

Many a new gun has turned into a ex-pensive dust collector because the own-er did not know the gun he was buying.

Turkeys can be 'crazy' hunting

IEROME — The quiet fall air was shat-tered by a great threshing ahead of my partner and 1 as we observed a veritable bitzard of leaves being thrown up by 34 scratching turkeys.

This event occurred in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Viriginia in 1962 and was-my first sighting of these crazy birds.

It was during a scouting trip prior to a fall hunt and the ground under the tall hickory and oak trees was a foot deep in fallen leaves.

The turkeys were scratching the leaves -aside-to-find the succulent nuts that had fallen.

Asilem.

We followed this flock at a distance all afternoon and finally watched them fly up to their roost trees that evening.

As each one rose into the air we could hear the three powerful wingbeats it took to fly 50 feet up to their preferred limb.

Since that time I have been privileged to observe and hunt turkeys in five states from the east to the west coast.

They can be the most difficult bird to approach with their eagle eye and sense of hearing but they also pull some crazy stunts.

hearing out they also year.

For example: I watched a flock of 12 turkeys in California that included a grand old boss gobbler that was vying for the attention of hens with two subordinate males.

males.

I called the old daddy the next day but after the shot, one of the subordinate gobblers ran over to him and started to thrash him with its spurs.

Evidently, the turkey thought he would take advantage of the boss while he was down.

while on a fall bear hunt in Idaho, my partner and I encountered a flock of turkeys that were patiticularly dumb. Both of us were wearing orange hats and I guess the turkeys were curious. They worked their way toward us, yelping and putting. Finally at about 10 yardsthese heads came up over the old logging road we were on and stared at us eyeball to eyeball.

JEROME — Two official and one unof-ficial public hearings will be held by the Idaho Fish and Game Department regional staff over the next week.

—The-hearings are phase three of the pro-cess that will lead to the final 1994 big game hunting regulations enacted by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission.

The first step included five meetings across Magic Valley last month in which the public was asked for its recommenda-tions for big game management, harvest and direction.

tions for big game and direction.

"In those five meetings, we had 263 attend with 120 verbal comments and 30 written comments, taken either at the meetings or through the mail," said Craig Kvale, Magic Valley region wildlife manager.

Kvale said he tried to categorize and prioritize the top five concerns expressed during those meetings. They include:

1. Be conservative with doe seasons.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department has recommended drop ping archery depredation hunts tied to agriculture land.

Agency recommends variety

2. Maintain as many days of hunting opportunity as possible.

3. Eliminate all doe seasons.

4. Implement a preference point system for controlled hunt drawings or require a non-year layout after success application for a controlled hunt.

5. Increase muzzleloader opportunity. Those and other concerns were melted into the regional staff's recommendations. These will be the proposals to be discussed at the public hearings.

The "unofficial" hearing begins tonight when the Fourth Region Wildlife Council meets to hear reports on the Gooding County pheasant study plus big game hunting proposals. That begins at 7 p.m. at the Gooding City Hall.

The "official" hearings are set for 7 p.m. Monday in Room 108 of the Aspen Building on College of Southern Idaho campus and 7 p.m. Thesday in Room 108 of the Aspen Building on College of Southern Idaho campus and 7 p.m. Thesday at the Burley City Hall.

The public's second round of input will be included in the final proposals sent to the bie same bureau at the denarment's

City Hall.

The public's second round of input will be included in the final proposals sent to the big game bureau at the department's state office. The area's suggestions will be fine tuned for state acceptance and the final draft will be presented to the commission of the action in April.

The commission declined to make any season dates or harvestypermit figures final until the process was completed—particularly in Southeastern and Magic Valley regions.

Some discussion is expected in the area of announced department intention of changing procedures and applications for big game controlled-hunt pirmits. The new forms will have little similarity to what Idaho hunters have become accustomed.

Also expected to draw comment is a Aggestion to have a 34-unit elk archery unlimited-controlled hunt. This would require a permit holder to hunt only within those parameters or ogt to participate only in the standard archery elk hunt from Aug. 30 to Sept. 23.*

The cryx affecting rifle hunters would be loss of the special bugle bull hunts from Sept. 25 to Oct. 9.

The turkey is not native to Idaho but an active introduction program, beginning in 1961, has involved over 100 transplanting efforts.

My dog kept jumping up toward the birds, then looking over her shoulder at me as if wondering why I didn't shoot. I guess the dog thought that was the biggest blue grouse she had ever seen. A 20-pound eastern turkey was enticed by a change in my calling technique near Dworshak Reservoir three years ago.

1 heard a distant gobble and set up in a natural blind with my back-to-a tig tree-for-safety's sake.

First, I gave out foud, raucous yelps on my box call, thinking of myself as one of the loosest hens in the woods and he better come quick before another one of the numerous suitors came back again.

This effectively moved him closer, gobbing all the time. However, after about 20 minutes, he still would not move into the open.

I then thought of myself as a young, virgin hen and gave soft, seductive helps on my call.

The turkey is not native to Idaho but an active introduction program, beginning in 1961, has involved over 100 transplanting efforts.

There are now general turkey hunts in 17 big game units and controlled hunts in seven others in Idaho.

Turkey hunters have increased to about 2,300 in 1993 with a success rate of 21 percent.

A person must have a $7 turkey tag in addition to a hunting license.

The general hunts start as early as April' 11 in some units and most close by May 8.

Turkey regulations are available at Fish and Game offices or license vendors.

The best hunting area are near Council, along the lower Salmon River and in north Idaho.

RATHDRUM — A curious cougar wandered into an elementary school library.before classes last week, startling a janitor and country of the state Fish and Game Department was called to the northern lidaho school last Friday to tranquilize the full-grown cat. After the cougar was seadated, wildlife agents took it to national forest land near Lookou Pass and released it.

A janitor had just finished mopping at John Brown Elementary School and propped the building doors open to let the floors dry. The cougar trotted indoors and wandered toward the library, startling teacher Sherry Stanosch.

She said she thought it was a dog at first, but once she realized it was a wild animal, she got out of the building.

Wildlife agents shot the cougar with a tranquilizer dart and were in the processing of removing it when students started to arrive at school.

Principal Debbie Long said she'll use the incident as a teaching tool.

"Now we can talk about wildlife," she said.

Most back plan to reintroduce breeding wolves

The Associated Press

JACKSON, Wyo. — Public comments on a plan to introduce 15 breeding pairs of endangered gray wolves to Yellowstone National Park and central Idaho favored the plan by nearly two-thirds, officials said. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife service re-ceived more than 160,000 comments on its draft environmental impact statement on the plan.

"As far as I know, that's the most comments-ever on a federal document," said Ed Bangs, project leader for the agency in Missoula, Moot.

About 100,000 of the comments indicated support of wolf-recovery programs in some form, Bangs said. The balance objected to any form of recovery, he said.

The agency expects to release the comments later this week, Bangs said. The final environmental impact statement is expected to be released in mid-April, he said.

The department has had a 2-point regulation there for 3 years and "it's really done good things in terms of increasing buck size," said Kvale, both in buck/doc ratio and buck size." The unit 450 permits will be increased from 2016.0. The unit 45 premits will be increased from 2016.0. The unit 45 proposed late muzing a comparable of the control of the contr

The unit 45 proposed late muz-zlelonder-hunt-south-of-the-two-pole power line for 1993 was cancelled by emergency closure. Two years ago the hunt was for antiertes deer and car-ried into December. The recommen-ability would allow no antiertess bunt-ing in the late season for muzzleload-ers.

Also on unit 45, last year's regula-tions allowed 75 antiered permits for any-weapon hunters. Due to requests, 15 of those will be switched to muz-zleloaders.

Elk

Drop the archery depredation hunts tied to agricultural lands in late July through August. The department has received no depredation complaints in several years during the summer months and hunter participation has dropped to very little.

The desert herd, a highly-mobile The desert herd, a highly-mobile population that runs through the desert with sped and whimsy, will be the arget in a "mega hund" area that now will add unit 33 to units eastern 45, 52 and 52A. This answers depredation complaints received from southeast Shoshone. "It also means that you can hunt elk from Bliss to Arco to Lake Walcott," Kvale said. "That herd really covers ground."

The Bennett Hills herd will have a drop in permit levels from 150 to 100.

A rather isolated elk herd in the Lava Lake area has become a problem for landowners, prompting the depart-for landowness, prompting the department to add a portion of unit 50 west of Craters of the Moon to the Unit 49-hunt. That Would make access to the herd better and answer some landowner conflicts.

There also is a suggestion that Aug. 30 to Sept. 30 become the dates for a 34-unit unlimited-controlled elk archery hunt. Here again elk archers yould be restricted-to-the-designated-units with the other option being the Aug. 30-Sept. 25 standard elk archery hunt.

The problem here, Kvale said, is "it

The problem here, Kvale said, is "it would eliminate special bull bugle hunts for rifle hunters that have run from Sept. 25 to Oct 9 in the past."

trom Sept. 25 to Oct 9 in the past.

Antelope
Since the eastern part of the region was the hardest hit by winter loss, the proposal is that all dee/favn hunts except unit -46 he dropped. Unit 46 would have a permit decrease from 100 to 50.
The department recommends permit levels be maintained for any antelope hunts in -44, -46, -39, 52 and -33.

lope hunts in 44, 46, 49, 52 and 53.

Permit levels would be cut by 50 percent in unit 49's east and central parts; 67 percent in 52A, and complete elimination of lunting in unit 45, the last population to come under harvest regulations in this region.

Basically recommends that all units now have the partial protection of female quotas. Under that quota limit, the department will allow harvest in an area until a specified number of females have been taken. At that point, all. harvest, stops, under emergency edict but pursuit and dog training will continue to be allowed.

The quota assignments are three females in unit 49; five females in unit 49; five females in unit 54; there, females in unit 54; and 140; there females in unit 55 and 57.

"One of the main reasons is to stan-dardize a closing date," Kvale said.
"It's Feb 28 in all but one, which is -unil-Mend that-closes on Jam-31.
"These regulations extend hunter, opportunity but with the quotas do, provide some protection. Past harvest levels indicate they won't increase havest much.
