Sleep Inn, fast-food restaura

By Sean L. McCarthy
Times-News writer

JEROME — By Labor Day weekend, interstate motorist stopping at Exit 173 should be able to have a meal and spend the night without having to drive into Twin Falls.

The same developers who built the Petro 2 gas station and truck stop a few years ago plan to add a 73-room Sleep Inn and a fast-food restaurant to their U.S. 93 roadside property just north of Interstate 84.

Bob McIntyre, general manager at the Petro 2 and president of Crossroads Inc., said Tuesday that construction could begin on the Sleep Inn as early as next week, to be open by Sept. 1.

The lease for the proposed fast-food joint just south of the Petro 2 — most likely a Burger King — remains unsettled, McIntyre said.

"We have not committed to them yet," McIntyre said.

But the project is moving forward regardless, receiving the following permits and variances last week from county planners:

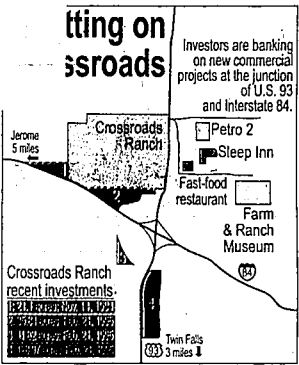

- Building height variances for the Sleep Inn to have a 37-foot roof line and 50-foot tower.
- A sign permit to have one freeway sign pole standing 65 feet, 2 inches tall.
- A permit to have a drive-up window for the Burger King.

The fast-food restaurant will be built along the county road that runs parallel to U.S. 93. The Sleep Inn will be directly behind the restaurant. McIntyre said an RV park and offices behind the hotel are potential projects.

"We have no definite plans for the other pads," he said.

Equally vague is the future for the Crossroads Ranch development across the road from the Petro 2. Steve Thorson, project manager at Crossroads Ranch, said Tuesday there is no set time frame to develop its 500 acres or more on the northwest side of the highway interchange.

Teen-agers learn life's lessons in own court

By Liz Wright
Times-News writer

JEROME — Teen-agers sentenced their peers Tuesday evening in "youth court," a new concept in juvenile justice at the Jerome County Courthouse.

The first defendant, Michael Steele, 17, took the witness stand after pleading guilty to smoking a cigarette before school.

"Have you ever seen a picture of what happens to your lungs when you smoke?" asked student prosecutor Emily Peterson, 16.

"Objection, your honor," said Steele's teenage attorney, Brian Lynch. "I think that was an out-of-place question."

Peterson rephrased her question before Jerome County Magistrate Thomas Borresen, presiding over the youth sentencings, could respond. Steele testified that he was smoking a cigarette in his car in the Jerome High School parking lot several weeks ago when a school resource officer caught him.

"It's a bad habit," Steele responded when Peterson asked him why he smoked. Peterson later recommended the minimum sentence for Steele — six hours community service.

Everyone from the bailiff to the clerk to the jury of six are teen-agers. By the end of the evening, five youths were sentenced to a variety of punishments for misdemeanor charges of possession of tobacco. They had volunteered to be sentenced by their peers, and all of them had earlier pleaded guilty to the crimes.

House OKs bill limiting lawsuits

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Republicans muscled to House passage Tuesday a business-backed measure designed to pressure combatants in lawsuits to settle their differences short of costly trials.

The bill was strongly opposed by trial lawyers.

The measure, approved, 232-193 in a near-party-line vote, was the first of three bills expected to clear the House this week in a Republican effort to cut down on what they consider frivolous lawsuits clogging the nation's courts.

Supporting the measure were 216 Republicans and 16 Democrats. Voting against were 181 Democrats and 11 Republicans, a political cleavage that contrasted sharply with the bipartisan support for most elements of the "Contract With America" that had cleared the House earlier.

In a bid to dramatize a need for changes in the legal system, Rep. Robert Goodlatte, R-Va., said the Girl Scouts of Washington must sell $7,000 boxes of cookies each year to pay for liability insurance. "This is not a problem that deals with corporate America alone," said Goodlatte.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., countered by saying the Girl Scouts want no part of the debate. Their message is: "Please please, this is not our legislation," she said.

Opponents of the measure said it would tilt the system too heavily in favor of corporations, some of which have contributed to a huge lobbying campaign on behalf of the three bills.

The most hotly contested provision Tuesday's measure marked a retreat from the "Contract With America" proposal for the loser in a lawsuit to pay the legal costs of the winner.

In its place is a provision that encourages the two sides to settle short of trial. It can require the winner in a suit to wind up paying a portion of the legal costs incurred by the loser.

The measure says that in certain types of federal cases, if one side summons a settlement offer by the other, and then loses the case or wins less than the settlement offer — that side is required to pay a portion of the other side's costs, including attorney fees.

American veterans, grateful Germans commemorate Remagen bridge seizure

The Associated Press

REMAGEN, Germany — German veterans and the Americans who defeated them joined under cold, bright skies Tuesday to celebrate the bold U.S. thrust over the Rhine 50 years ago which hastened the end of World War II.

The veterans, many in their 80s, shivered through speeches at a ceremony in the shadow of the stone towers of the Ludendorff Bridge. The American capture of the bridge signaled the end of a miserable war and the start of a long friendship with Germany.

"In small or large measure, it hearkened the end of the war," said retired Army Maj. Gen. George Ruhlman of the 9th Armored Division, which took the bridge on March 7, 1945. "No one knows exactly by how much the war was shortened, but if it was only by five minutes it's still worth celebrating."

Walter C. Cooper of Cleveland Returns to historic site

"The German speakers at Tuesday's ceremony focused on the half-century of peace, prosperity and democracy that the loss of the bridge hastened.

"In the name of two postwar generations, I want to thank the Americans for acting as resolutely as they did on March 7, 1945," said Gerd Scheller, 51. "They became a victim of Hitler's enraged determination to have the heads of those responsible for the debacle. Scheller was executed as a traitor on March 12.

On the drizzly day half a century ago, the 9th Armored Division had orders to march down the west side of the river and join with Gen. George Patton's 3rd Army. British Field Marshal Bernard Law Montgomery was to make the first crossing of the Rhine further north two weeks later.

But that plan assumed the Germans would have destroyed all of the 47 Rhine bridges.

Troops who reached a hill above the Rhine saw the Ludendorff Bridge lying beneath them, an invitation to cross the river with dry feet that Lt. Col. Leonard Engeman, commander of the lead column, accepted without waiting for orders.

Sgt. Michael Chinchar, a Battle of the Bulge veteran with several close scrapes with death behind him, got the nod to lead the first platoon across the shaky bridge after a German dynamite charge failed to destroy it.

"I was lucky and somebody must have been praying for me," Chinchar, 77, of Saddle River, N.J., said as he gazed at the basal cliffs across the river. "It's like a dream, but one you can't forget."

Lawmakers crackle over cereal prices

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Two congressmen produced a breakfast ruckus last Tuesday and called it a shoddy awakening.

It quoted $4.49 for a box of Raisin Bran, $4.69 for Frosted Flakes, $4.25 for Rice Krispies and $3.59 for Cheerios.

"Every once in a while there is an issue that just gets your goat — a pet peeve that you wish you could do something about," said Rep. Charles E. Schumer, a New Yorker who does the grocery shopping for his household.

Even store-label generic brands cost almost as much, he said.

Schumer and fellow Democrat Sam Gejdenson of Connecticut asked the Justice Department to undertake an antitrust investigation to see if major cereal makers were conspiring to keep prices high.

Kellogg's, General Mills, Post and Quaker Oats control 85 percent of cereal. Please see CEREAL/A2

Tornado season roars into Gulf Coast states; snow hits Plains

The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms rattled the Gulf Coast states Tuesday with tornadoes, high wind and heavy rain.
Snow and ice coated parts of the Plains and the upper Great Lakes region.
In the Midwest, snow and ice on roads closed schools Tuesday in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma. Freezing rain, up to 6 inches of snow and drifts up to 3 feet high closed schools in Missouri, and one traffic death in Missouri was blamed on ice-covered pavement.
South-central Missouri also got up to 3 inches of rain overnight. High water swept a pickup off a low-water bridge near West Plains but the driver swam to safety.
Farther north, snow fell from Minnesota across Wisconsin through Michigan, closing numerous schools. Snow amounts by late morning including a foot at Antigo, Wis., and 11 inches at Harmony, Minn. Up to a foot was possible on Michigan's Upper Peninsula.
Mississippi legislators retreated to the Capitol basement

after a tornado warning was issued for Jackson.
A tornado struck a mobile home park during the morning near Huntsville, Texas, destroying one home and damaging 10 others. Three people were slightly injured, police said.
The town of Tinsley, 20 miles northeast of Huntsville, also was hit by a tornado. Two businesses were leveled and a school roof was damaged, said acting Mayor Lyle Stubbs.
Early morning thunderstorms knocked out power to more than 100,000 customers in the Houston area. Houston Lightning Four tornadoes touched down during the morning in Louisiana's Catahoula Parish, damaging several houses and a tornado in neighboring Tensas Parish damaged five houses and caused one minor injury, officials said.
Also hit-hard in Louisiana was Concordia Parish, where eight mobile homes were destroyed, more than a dozen others damaged and at least a half-dozen people suffered minor injuries, the parish office of emergency preparedness said.
Tornadoes also were reported in parts of Mississippi, and lowland flooding was reported in several areas.

Mormons pay respects to deceased president

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Thousands filed by a flower-bedded casket Tuesday to pay their respects to Mormon Church President Howard W. Hunter.

The 87-year-old church leader died Friday of natural causes and was scheduled to be buried today following a funeral in the Tabernacle on Temple Square. He had been ill with cancer.

Hunter, president of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints for nine months, had been a church apostle since 1959 before succeeding the late Ezra Taft Benson as president last year.

More than 4,000 church employees and their families filed through the rounds of the Church Administration Building before a public viewing that lasted most of the day Tuesday. Church spokesman Don LeFevre said 25,212 people walked by the casket.

"President Hunter was a very good man," said Edith Carlson, a church employee. "Everyone is saddened. He led an exemplary life."

"He was a sweet man. He worked himself to death for the Lord," said Elaine Jones of Murray, a church membership clerk.

Carlson

Marilyn Bookwey of West Valley City, also a church employee, was moved by the opportunity to pay final respects to the leader of the 9 million-member faith. "It's a very rich feeling, a feeling of love and peace. It brought tears to the eyes," she said.

The body, dressed in white and lying in an antique walnut casket, appeared thin and drawn.

A Salt Lake Tabernacle usher said two family history missionaries from Samoa were the first in line at 5:15 a.m. for the initial viewing Tuesday.

The line, which formed in the underground parking terrace north of the administration building, moved quickly through the building.

"I thought it was really important that (I be among) church members who show respect for President Hunter. He meant a great deal to me. I expected him to live longer — even after the announcement that he had cancer," said Eunice Pace of West Jordan.

Gingrich: 'Socialists' sit on many editorial boards

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., told corporate executives Monday night that many newspaper editorial boards contain "socialists" and that their companies should reconsider whether to advertise in papers that oppose their views.
During a private dinner at the Capitol Hill Club, Gingrich told 200 business executives and fellow lawmakers that the establishment press is the "mortal enemy" of reform-minded Republicans. The crowd included chief executive officers and Washington lobbyists representing such companies as Citicorp and John Deere.
In a telephone interview Tuesday, Gingrich confirmed he had said that corporate executives "need to find alternative methods" of getting their message across because of the presence of "socialists" on many editorial boards.
Asked if he was advocating an advertising boycott, Gingrich said his remarks were directed at editorial pages that have not been supportive of capitalism. He said he was merely explaining that businessmen who advertise "ought to go to the publishers and tell them" that they object to the paper's editorial stance.

Crossroads

But Thorson's bosses at ABC Agra of Sandy, Utah, have expanded their holdings, acquiring the deeds two weeks ago for another 176.63 acres on three sides of the interchange.

The three parcels were acquired from Highland Part and Parcels, con### trolled by Denis Perron of Twin Falls.

ABC Agra exercised purchase options on almost 100 more acres while it was courting Micron Technology Inc. this winter. Crossroads Ranch had been looked at as a potential factory site for Boise computer-chip maker Micron.

Thorson said plans for Crossroads Ranch still include transforming the rolling hills of sagebrush into a regional livestock and agricultural commerce park.
But McIntyre and the developers of Crossroads Inc. are not linked to Crossroads Ranch. "It's not going to affect us," McIntyre said. "That project over there has kind of been on-again, off-again."
While the Crossroads Ranch project has been delayed by questions over its livestock charter, water rights and sewer systems, the Crossroads Inc. project continues to grow. "We are fortunate that we have our own water and sewer system," McIntyre said.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $300 fine, but "I have yet to see the kid I sentenced to six months in jail," Borresen said. Ultimately, the kids got the same sentences Borresen would have meted out, he said.
"Some kids got community service, one teen is required to pick up a gallon of cigarette butts around town, Borresen said. Several must write 1,500-word essays and contact at least three doctors in their research, and one is required to draw anti-smoking posters, Borresen said.
This concern in juvenile justice is just starting in the Magic Valley after taking root in Ada County over the past four years, said Trish Borresen, the judge's wife and coordinator of the youth court for the region.
Its purpose is threefold: to have defendants sentenced by a jury of their peers in hopes they will straighten out, to acquaint kids with the workings of the court system, and to relieve the courts of the burden of sentencing youths for relatively minor crimes, Thomas Borresen said.

"All the jurors said they wanted to serve again," he said. "The response from the jurors was very positive."
Soon it will spread to the rest of the Magic Valley, he said.

The teen-age lawyers had help from volunteer law lawyers, who offered their encouragement and advice.

At one point, Twin Falls attorney Tom Nolan offered stage whippers to Lynch, urging him to stand up when addressing Magistrate Borresen, and coaching him on the finer points of witness questioning.

"It's beyond the scope of direct," Nolan whispered to him at one point during cross-examination of one defendant.

"What's that mean in English?" Lynch replied.

real sales, they said, and take too much profit. They said 55 percent of the price of cereal goes to advertising and profits.

While the lawmakers point critically to the overall prices of boxes of cereal, the Grocery Manufacturers of America emphasized the price anomaly.

"Today the average bowl of ready-to-eat cereal — including milk — costs between 25 and 30 cents," the industry group said. "Cereal prices in retail groups have risen less than the rate of inflation — between 1 and 2 percent annually. Consumers are actually paying less for many of the top brands."

The industry also said the Federal Trade Commission spent 10 years looking at competition in the cereal industry and in 1982 found no evidence of anti-competitive practices.

In fact, the Grocery Manufacturers said, the market "is so competitive that more than 60 new cereals have been introduced in the past five years."

Gina Talamona, a Justice Department spokeswoman, said Attorney General Janet Reno was willing to consider any information submitted by the lawmakers.

General Mills said in a statement that the company hasn't increased the price of a single cereal in more than two years and has lowered the cost of nearly half its entire cereal line.

Schumer and Gejdenson, at a news conference, contended that cereal prices have jumped by 90 percent since 1983, while other food prices have increased 45 percent.

Study: Smoke increases AIDS risk

CHICAGO — Infants in households where people smoke are more than twice as likely to die of sudden infant death syndrome as those in smoke-free environments, a new study said.

The study is confirmation of earlier research suggesting that infants who breathe secondhand smoke face an increased risk of SIDS, even if their mothers quit smoking during pregnancy.

The greater the number of smokers or the greater the number of cigarettes an infant is exposed to, the higher the SIDS risk, said the study's lead author, Hillary S. Klonoff-Cohen, an assistant professor of family and preventive medicine at the University of California, San Diego.

Endeavour telescopes peer at wreckage

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Endeavour's ultraviolet telescopes peered at two colliding galaxies Tuesday, a cosmic wreck thought to involve as many as 20 billion stars.

"I think we nailed it. I think we got a great observation," said NASA astronomer Susan Neff.

The diameter of these colliding galaxies is some 100,000 light years — the galaxies themselves are 90 million light years away. They're thought to be 20 billion times the mass of the sun.

"We're looking for star formation in the debris after the collision," Neff said.

Senate passes paperwork reduction bill

WASHINGTON — In an effort to loosen the grip of red tape, the Senate Tuesday passed a bill setting a goal for all federal agencies to reduce by 5 percent annually the amount of paperwork they require.

Supporters of the bill, which passed 99-0, argued that small companies alone spend a billion hours a year filling out forms.

The bill, part of the new Republican leadership's drive to make federal government less intrusive in businesses and in private lives, passed the House last month by 418-0.

White House blasts oil deal with Iran

WASHINGTON — A U.S. oil company's $1 billion deal with Iran was criticized at the White House Tuesday as "not a helpful development."

The chairman of the Senate Banking Committee said he is pressing ahead with legislation to ban such transactions.

Mike McCurry, President Clinton's press secretary, said the deal under which a Dutch affiliate of Conoco Inc. will develop two Iranian oil fields "does not appear to be illegal or prohibited under U.S. law at this time."

But McCurry said that "as a general thrust of our policy, which is designed to bring pressure to bear on Iran and get them to behave in the world community, this is not a helpful development."

Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., said he was "deeply distressed." D'Amato said the banking committee that he chairs will soon hold hearings on legislation to tighten the trade embargo.

Heavy trucks will need antilock brakes

WASHINGTON — Heavy trucks and tractor-trailers will be required to have antilock brakes under a rule imposed Tuesday by the Transportation Department.

"The new requirement will prevent about 29,000 crashes involving up to 500 deaths and 25,000 injuries annually," Transportation Secretary Federico Pena said.

The rule applies to vehicles weighing 10,000 pounds or more and will be phased in.

Antilock brakes will be required on new truck tractors manufactured after March 1, 1997; trailers, single-unit trucks and buses with air brakes made after March 1, 1998 and new single-unit trucks and buses with hydraulic brakes after March 1, 1999.

Senate expected to OK part of treaty

WASHINGTON — After a 13-year delay, the Senate is expected to ratify an agreement to control land mines and non-detectable fragmentation bombs while rejecting restrictions against incendiary weapons.

Sen. Richard Lugar, after chairing a hearing on the Convention on Conventional Weapons, said the Senate must ratify at least two-thirds of the treaty before March 25 if the United States is to have a voice in efforts to restrict land mines that kill or maim 25,000 civilians a year.

The United States, at a conference on the agreement planned for October, wants to strengthen the agreement to include internal conflicts, which have left the most deadly legacy of land mines.

Reno urged to probe timber thefts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists asked Attorney General Janet Reno Tuesday to investigate allegations the Forest Service obstructed government probes into fraudulent logging and timber theft at national forests.

Leaders of 16 groups also said in a petition to the Justice Department that sexual harassment of women is rampant at the Forest Service and whistle blowers continue to suffer illegal reprisals.

Taxpayers lose as much as $100 million a year to logging companies that cut trees outside boundaries, falsify sale bills and steal wood in the dead of night from public forests, the conservationists said in a report, "Chainsaw Justice."

Larry Campbell, executive director of the Montana-based Voice of the Environment, accused the agency of "obstruction of justice," "harassment," and "corruption."

"The Forest Service is simply too entrenched to reform itself," Campbell said during a news conference at the National Press Club.

Forest Service Chief Jack Ward Thomas on Monday defended the agency's efforts to expand timber theft investigations to curtail what he said was millions of dollars of timber theft annually.

"Stealing from national forests will not be tolerated," Thomas said. Greenpeace, the Sierra Club,

National Audubon Society and Friends of the Earth were among those urging a federal probe of allegations that the Forest Service looks the other way when preferred clients steal timber and harass law officers who try to put a stop to it.

"Instead of clamping down on environmental criminals as directed by Congress, agency leaders are going after their own law enforcement staff," said Steven Taylor, author of the 90-page report.

Taylor said the Forest Service has aided and abetted the timber industry in stealing the public trees. He said agency managers have tampered with evidence, tipped off agency officials to pending investigations and provided loggers with access to tracer paint used to mark trees approved for harvest.

He said the Clinton administration promised reforms but "caved in... to Western politicians and the influential timber industry and its big PAC money."

Several former Forest Service law officers said in the report they suffered reprisals as whistle-blowers.

"I was forced out of the Forest Service due to my aggressive pursuit of timber theft and because I am an African American," said Michael Ballard of Portland, Ore., a former agency law officer who is appealing a recent court ruling against his civil rights suit against the Forest Service.

Gingrich flays open gays teaching sex ed in schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — A day after his lesbian sister lobbied Capitol Hill on gay rights, House Speaker Newt Gingrich criticized school programs that portray homosexuality favorably, particularly any using "active homosexuals" to counsel teenagers.

Speaking Tuesday at his daily news conference, Gingrich said some school programs offered to counter discrimination give homosexuals a forum for promoting their way of life.

"I don't think we want people out with 'Heather Has Two Mommies,' in first grade explaining that homosexuality is a reasonable alternative in lifestyle," Gingrich said.

The book he mentioned, by Leslea Newman, is a story about lesbian parents. It was second on the American Library Association's 1994 list of books people tried to ban.

Gingrich's concern was not limited to the primary grades.

"You have had, clearly, examples of what is in effect recruitment in so-called counseling programs," Gingrich said. "So I'm very cautious about the idea that you want to have active homosexuals in junior high school and high school explaining to young people that they have all these various wonderful options."

Gingrich's comments came a day after he met with his lesbian half-sister, Candace Gingrich, who had come to the Capitol to lobby. The two said they have a strong relationship, but Ms. Gingrich suggested he was ill-informed about gay rights issues.

Testimony counters Simpson defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A single killer slashed the throats of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman, dripping the victims' blood from the weapon onto Goldman's shoe, a detective testified Tuesday at the O.J. Simpson trial.

In addition to challenging suggestions that the slayings could not have been carried out by just one person, Detective Tom Lange undermined at least four other defense theories:

- that the blood under Ms. Simpson's fingernails points to someone other than her ex-husband as the killer;
  - that the attacker was himself bruised while struggling with Goldman;
  - that the cup of still-lumpy ice cream on a banister in Ms. Simpson's condominium suggests the slayings took place later in the evening than the prosecution contends;
  - and that the slayings were a drug hit.
- "Sir, without giving your opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, did you form a theory of the case?" prosecutor Marcia Clark asked Lange.
- "Yes," the detective said, "that it was perpetrated by one person. I observed one distinct set of bloody shoeprints between both victims. ... Both victims were killed in a similar manner, slashing and stabbing wounds. Both victims had their throats slashed."

The detective also said there was a mixture of both victims' blood on the sole of Goldman's shoe, "indicating to me a castoff of blood from

Ice cream defense melts under scrutiny

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It looks like the O.J. Simpson ice-cream defense has been liquidated.

The Ben & Jerry's cup found on a banister at Nicole Brown Simpson's condominium contained Chocolate Chip Cookie Dough, a flavor that, even when melted, still has lumps.

Up to now, the defense has hinted that because the ice cream seemed only partially melted 2½ hours after the slayings are alleged to have taken place, the crime must have occurred later in the evening than the prosecution says. On Tuesday, however, Detective Tom Lange, said he learned from Ms. Simpson's sister that the cup contained Chocolate Chip Cookie Dough, which has doughy chunks.

And the detective conducted a little test. "And what did you observe about that ice cream?" prosecutor Marcia Clark asked.

"That after melted," he said, "it appeared to be lumpy."

one murder weapon" as Goldman lay on the ground outside Ms. Simpson's condo.

Lange, in his sixth day on the stand, also testified that DNA tests found that the blood under Ms. Simpson's nails matched her own blood — a conclusion that came as a surprise to the defense. Defense attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr. had claimed in his opening statement that the blood matched no one in the case.

Lange also said that Goldman probably didn't punch his assailant.

Instead, the detective said, Goldman apparently scraped and bruised his hand on a tree and a fence as he fled about.

Cochran had suggested in his opening statement that Goldman's bruised, swollen hand — contrasted with photos of Simpson's virtually unscathed body shortly after the killings — showed Simpson was not the killer. The defense attorney said the assailant would have been bruised and possibly bloodied.

But Lange, a homicide detective with 20 years' experience, said he saw few scrapes or bruises on Goldman's knuckles. A punch normally produces such injuries, he said.

"During the autopsy, I observed contusions and abrasions to the rear of the hands of Mr. Goldman, on the fingers and to the rear of the hand area itself," Lange said.

"It indicated to me that he was probably involved in a defensive struggle, that he was attempting to fight back and that he was flailing his arms and his hands, very possibly running them into the tree and perhaps the metal-runged fence."

Judge seals custody case files

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge sealed the files and issued a gag order in a child custody dispute between O.J. Simpson prosecutor Marcia Clark and her estranged husband.

Gordon Clark filed a court declaration late last month seeking custody of the couple's two young sons, saying they were "starved for affection" by the long hours Ms. Clark devotes to the Simpson trial.

He claimed his estranged wife sees their children only an hour a day on weekdays.

Ms. Clark's lawyers went to court Monday to request that the divorce and custody files be sealed and to request the gag order preventing lawyers from discussing the case out of court.

The judge set a hearing for next Monday and issued an interim order that seals the files until then, said Ms. Clark's attorney, Mark Fleischer.

A court commissioner had been scheduled today to hear Clark's request for temporary primary custody of the boys, ages 3 and 5. But the hearing was postponed until next week.

Ms. Clark filed for divorce June 9, three days before the murders of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman.

Please withhold complaints about 7 percent for schools

Let's have no squawking about the education budget approved by the Idaho House this week. Though Idaho's education establishment may have hoped for another fat windfall like it got last year, this year's 7 percent hike is a reasonable amount for taxpayers to fork over.

The $664 million final amount is identical to what Gov. Phil Batt proposed in January, and it's a sensible total. How many private-sector businesses (and private-sector employees) are making do on considerably less than a 7 percent annual gain?

A 7 percent increase only looks shabby if you compare it against last year's nearly 18 percent increase. Lawmakers bestowed that plump figure only because of extortion, in the form of the so-called "thoroughness" lawsuit. With that suit withdrawn, and with a Republican governor in office, the Legislature seems to have regained its wits.

This year's budget debate saw some grousing about the $40 million that had already been set aside for tax relief. With that money committed, lawmakers were somewhat pinched on the spending side.

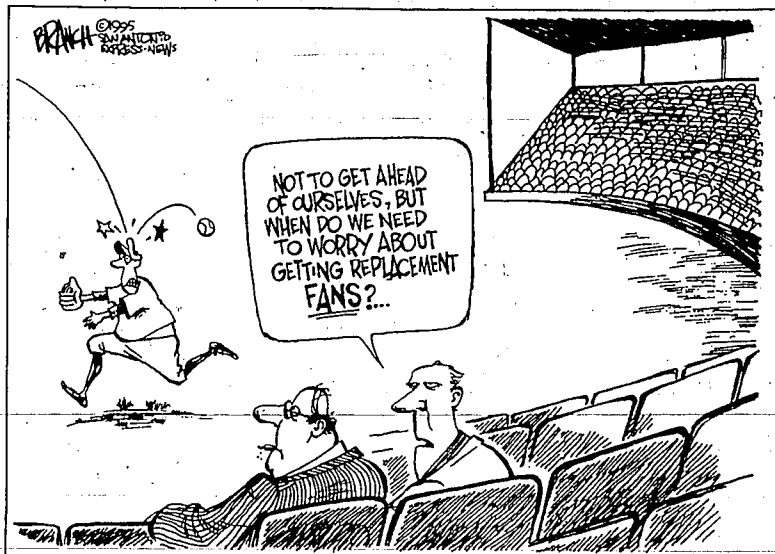

But letting state government be pinched is not altogether a bad thing.

The tax-relief plan put a little money back in the hands of local taxpayers — who earned the money in the first place. If those same local taxpayers think their local schools need more than a 7 percent increase this year, they have the option of approving supplemental levies.

Education clearly must be a priority for the state, and adequate funding is indisputably a key factor. But increases must be in line with what taxpayers can afford, and 7 percent seems thoroughly fair.

Meanwhile, the budget discussions displayed the increasing irrelevance of state Superintendent Anne Fox. Lawmakers were frustrated with Fox's inability to field a budget-savvy staff. By Monday, when she finally abandoned her own budget proposal to back Batt's, she clearly was a marginal voice in the debate.

Additionally, the issue crystallized some allegiances. Among local legislators in the House, only Ketchum Democrat Wendy Jaquet and Filer Republican Doug Jones voted against the education budget, presumably to raise it higher. That's probably in line with Jaquet's constituents; Jones, on the other hand, will have some explaining to do.

Party asks: What is a Republican?

The "conversion" of Colorado Sen. Ben Nighthorse Campbell from Democrat to Republican is not good news for the GOP. While it widens the numerical majority in the Republican Senate to 54 votes, Campbell's presence in the Republican Party further obscures what Republicans stand for.

As many of his former party colleagues have said, Campbell votes with Democrats on most issues of substance. As a Democrat, Campbell supported President Clinton's 1994 budget, which included the "biggest tax increase in recent history. He is "pro-choice" on abortion and voted to lift the longstanding ban on federal funding to pay for most abortions for poor women. He supported the President on gay in the military by voting not to enforce the gay ban into law.

Add to this his strong support of organized labor and his vote to ban "assault weapons" and you have a Democrat that has merely changed his label, not his mind. There is room for him in the rapidly expanding GOP "big tent" says something about the dilution of Republican ideology and the apparent unimportance of ideas to those in the party who are embracing this defector.

The same day that Campbell announced his switch, Indiana Republican Sen. Richard Lugar said he is going to run for President and broke with his party's orthodox line favoring tax cuts. Following the defeat of the balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, Lugar said "to cut taxes in the face of that situation is simply to increase the pain down the road." Campbell's Colorado colleague, Republican Sen. Frank Brown, said Campbell's switch will change the GOP image. "The Republican Party has become the working party," he said. What does that mean? The Republican "image" was good enough last November to win the House and Senate for the first time in four decades. What's to change? This sounds like the class warfare game Democrats play when they claim their party represents "working people," implying that Republicans don't work, or that people who make more than a certain amount of money haven't legitimately earned it.

The Republican Party, so close to winning it all in next year's election, could blow it all unless it sticks to a clear identity. What does it stand for? Who is a Republican? Should the party have certain principles, the violation of which means one is not a Republican? Or, has the tent grown so large that anyone can seek admission without demonstrating commitment to anything but a label? This is not the party that was founded in 1854 by people who took a principled position against the extension of slavery. No big tent here. No compromise. Compromise was what the Whigs did. The Whigs thought they could build a "big tent" in their day. By feuding on a matter of principle, the Whigs sealed their doom.

The new Republican Party lost its first presidential election in 1856, but because it stood on principle, Republicans emerged from the Civil War with enormous political strength, allowing the party to control the national government for 72 years, with the exception of 16 years during which Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson were in the White House.

A great social force behind the creation of the Republican Party, and it was greater than party loyalty. That social force reshaped American politics. Republicans rode that force to victory after victory because they stood for what was right, not what was expedient.

Now the party of Lincoln is faced with a similar challenge. It must not allow anyone to wear the Republican label. It must articulate certain fundamental principles in which it believes.

It is not enough to be against President Clinton. Republicans must be for something. If they fail to set forth certain fundamental principles, they run the risk of going the way of the Whigs. But that wouldn't necessarily be a bad thing. A new party could emerge that would be built, not in a big tent, but on a solid rock.

Dey a good, honest car dealer

We were among the few who got their cars stolen on Feb. 8 or thereabouts. We were a little luckier than a few of the others we heard about, as we still had full coverage. Of course, our car was found shot up with the windows broken. This put us in the position of having to buy a new car.

We went to several car dealers. Dick Dey being one of them. We were considering buying a car from him when my husband found one a year newer with fewer miles but also costing more. We let Dick know we had found something else. He couldn't have been any nicer. He not only looked up book price but called around to several states to see what they were going for on the sale block. He then called us back to let us know it was a good deal and we should go with it.

We want to thank Dick Dey — not only a good car dealer but an honest one also and a great guy. Thank you, Dick.

Wolf agreement a bad idea

I understand that Mr. Conley, director of Idaho Fish and Game, has signed an agreement with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to allow more wolves, grizzly bears and wolverines into our state. I think this is a bad agreement, and it should be rescinded.

I also understand HB-85 (Idaho Civil Forfeiture Act) is presently under consideration in the Legislature. This bill would allow Idaho Fish and Game to include volunteer conservation officers with authority to arrest citizens and confiscate private property (guns, etc.) when private citizens shoot predators (wolves) in the act of killing domestic animals. I believe that anyone — friends, neighbors, etc. — should be allowed to shoot predators when they are killing or molesting anyone's domestic livestock. Wolf and wolverine transplants in Idaho, Conley has also initiated a program to include untrained and, most likely, unqualified volunteer conservation officers in his ranks.

These are more examples of gross mismanagement by Fish and Game Director Conley, and he should be fired or asked to resign. The Fish and Game commissioners are also suspect in these matters.

I also believe that the agreement of the state of Idaho with National Marine Fisheries to send Idaho water downriver should be rescinded. I also oppose the closure of public lands presently designated for multiple use and where predators (wolves, grizzlies, etc.) are now being transplanted. Furthermore, there should be no more changes in the status of any threatened species to endangered until after the federal government has a chance to revise or rewrite the Endangered Species Act.

I would like to emphasize — the state of Idaho should exercise its sovereignty and resolve Idaho problems without allowing interference from any federal agency.

Jerome TAG moves forward

After reading the Feb. 26 article regarding gifted/talented education in the Magic Valley, we felt we should respond. We were disappointed that the only mention the Jerome programs received was a portrayal of the district as an example of the low end of the spectrum of gifted education in the area. We wonder if time was taken to speak to anyone in the Jerome school system regarding the efforts being made in its gifted/talented program.

The Jerome program is moving forward in leaps and bounds. The gifted/talented facilitator, the administrators and the School Board have worked hard to improve and broaden the program offerings and opportunities. For example, as your article was going to press, a group of fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders was returning from a trip to the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry in Portland, where it participated in a "camp-in" which included a hands-on science workshop, science demonstrations, brain games and a planetarium show. This was followed by a day on the Oregon Coast where the students were led in a study of tide pools and the formation of the Oregon Coast and went fossil digging with a naturalist provided by the museum.

When Jewel Hoopes, state gifted and talented coordinator, visited Jerome recently, she made suggestions for improving the Jerome programs. We saw some of these changes implemented almost immediately.

We would like to see more articles concerning education in Jerome focus on the positive. Instead of always reporting on what is wrong, let's take a look at some of the many things that are right. Certainly, there is always room for improvement, and we should constantly strive for the best education possible for all of our children. However, this district this holds true for every school, and it is every parent — not just the Jerome School District.

In closing, we would like to thank Chris Gibson, Jerome's director of special education; Emily Nelsen, TAG facilitator; and Beth Klaas, TAG aide, for their hard work and efforts over the past year to expand and enhance the Jerome TAG program. We would also like to thank all the classroom teachers, local administrators and local school board members for their active support of the Jerome TAG program.

Farming changes bird habitats

I read with interest Brian Croner's letter in response to the Ketchum group that wishes to protect the fox in the Wood River Valley. As an avid hunter who hunts in several states for pheasant and other game birds, I have a few observations.

With pheasants and other game birds, the key to survival is cover and habitat. Pheasants use cover to loaf during the day, to feed and to nest. Without this cover, they are exposed to predators and the bigger killer — weather. In the plains states, this cover is heavy and plentiful. Farming practices are more conducive to this since ditch and fence lines are not burned at every opportunity and most farmers leave strips of crops in order to help the birds. These farmers realize that the pheasant is an important part of the local economy and are willing to work with the local people to maintain this economic base. It has been my observation that foxes, coyotes and birds of prey are much more plentiful in the plains states than here. The difference is habitat.

Mr. Croner states, "The same farms are here, the same crops are grown, therefore, the same habitats exist." This is false in the extreme. He left out the drastic change in farming practices which call for burning every acre of cover twice a year and the replacement of gravity water ditches with pivots and wheel lines. Fences have disappeared and crops are grown and harvested right up to the asphalt.

There is insufficient rainfall in the Magic Valley to grow the prime cover of the Midwest, and so it is left to the farmer to leave cover for the birds. This is not being done. Pheasants Forever can help in this area, and I urge farmers and ranchers to contact the local chapter for assistance.

I also urge everyone to help control the runaway population of magpies and the so-called house cats that decimate the bird populations. Idaho is the only state I know of that thinks the magpie is protected by some cockeyed treaty. There should be open season year-round on this most destructive bird. For every magpie you see, there could be three pheasants. For every cat prowling too close to a house to shoot, but too far away to be called a "house" cat, there could be three more. Think about it, please.

Oh yeah, the foxes? I like foxes. Just a few more and I'll have enough for my fox and coyote backpack.

Story failed in reporting news

Frank Lockwood's militia-bashing article of March 4 was a sad example of a journalist who has ceased to report the news and is, instead, attempting to manage it.

Mr. Lockwood's misrepresentation of the facts was best illustrated by his attempt to link the United States Militia Association with neo-Nazi ideology. Mr. Lockwood states that, "White none of the militia members at a recent Boise meeting wore swastikas, at least one of the converts had two tiny German flags emblazoned on his uniform."

Measure would kill Boise teacher dues pay

BOISE (AP) — A bill aimed at ending the Boise School District's practice of paying union dues for its teachers survived an effort to kill it in committee Tuesday and is headed to the full House for a vote.

The House State Affairs tied on a 10-10 vote that would have killed the bill, after Boise teachers and other witnesses claimed the measure was an attempt by the Legislature to "micromanage" teacher contract negotiations in the district.

Then sponsors won a 13-7 vote to send the bill out of committee without recommendation.

Dozens of union firefighters attended the session. A spokesman said they are concerned the measure would disrupt their union agreements.

As part of its master contract, the Boise district pays $307 per year in Boise Education Association dues directly to the union. Overall, the district pays $450,000 per year to the association.

The measure passed the Senate 21-14 last month. Sponsoring Sen. Rod Beck, R-Boise, said the bill makes it clear that Idaho's 1985 Right-to-Work Law applies to public workers, and they do not have to join a union or pay dues against their will.

Testimony turned into a debate over right-to-work, with AFL-CIO

President Randy Ambuel saying its sponsors used "distortion and misinformation" to get it approved 10 years ago.

Ada County Commissioner Gary Glenn, who then was executive director of the Idaho Right-to-Work Committee, said the referendum approving right-to-work in 1986 was to "protect freedom of choice whether to join a union or not."

Retired Boise teacher Beverly Williams said she took advantage of the payment for three years when it was started in 1972, and was happy to have the district paying her union dues.

Then she decided it was wrong and dropped out. She called the "corrupt practice" and "parasitic policy."

"The union is able to use this money to buy elections," Williams said.

But Boise junior high school teachers Joyce Baird and Steve Smylie, son of former Gov. Robert Smylie, both praised the arrangement.

"It's a rather thinly veiled attack on us," said Smylie, noting the payments are part of a negotiated contract.

"We get uncomfortable when an outside group tries to meddle in that agreement," he said.

The four committee Democrats joined Rep. Bill Deal of Nampa and Boise Republicans Mitt Erhart, Rusty Stone, Jesse Beran, Paul Kjellander and Debbie Field in voting to kill the bill.

Then Deal, Kjellander and Field supported the motion to send the bill out without recommendation.

Higher education study catches flak as a waste

BOISE (AP) — The Republican leadership of the Idaho Legislature is pushing a plan to spend $100,000 on a study of higher education that some lawmakers say will be an absolute waste of time.

"If you have a lot of money and don't mind wasting it, fine," said Rep. Kathleen Gurnsey, R-Boise, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. "How many studies have we funded to do exactly this thing?" she said. "We do it and we don't like what we hear, so we don't do anything about it."

The House voted 38-30 and sent to the Senate Monday a resolution that would fund a study on the idea of creating a one-university system for Idaho, and authorizing up to $100,000 for a consultant.

Majority Floor Leader Rep. Bruce Newcomb said the GOP leadership in both chambers was behind it so it likely would be approved.

Newcomb

Comp. indicates Idaho might be better off with a single university system to end turf battles.

"I think it's a good idea. The argument over Miron is something that perhaps should have been avoided if we hadn't been into parochial fighting," Newcomb said.

Democrat leader Rep. Jim Stoicheff, D-Sandpoint, said it wasn't a leadership decision that involved Democrats.

With plugs in place, water level at Spirit Lake rises

SPIRIT LAKE (AP) — Clay plugs wedged into 20-plus holes in a bone-dry millpond on Spirit Lake six months ago appear to have done their job.

Supporters of a plan to plug leaks in the pond are claiming success and a state official said he is impressed with the outcome.

Runoff flowing into the millpond from Mount Spokane is causing levels to rise about an inch a day.

"I'm actually surprised that it's coming up as fast as it is as soon as it is," said Jim Brady, a navigable water specialist with the Department of Lands.

Skeptical state and federal officials approved an application last September to plug the holes with layers of gravel and bentonite, a clay-like, moisture-absorbing rock.

Brady said it is impossible to determine to what level the innovative plug plan is contributing to the rising water.

"I'm sure that they helped a little bit," he said. "To what degree, I'm not sure."

The pond depth is at about 7 feet and fish have returned.

Officials decry prisoner costs

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Bonneville County already has spent almost three-quarters of the $325,000 it budgeted for this year to house prisoners outside the county jail.

"It's a bigger problem than I thought it was going to be," Bonneville County Commissioner Bill Shurtleff said.

"It's heavy bleeding, I can tell you that."

The county spent only $318,000 last year to house prisoners in places besides the Bonneville County Jail. But the county's jail is limited to holding about 50 inmates, and for the past month the average daily prisoner count has been between 130 to 140, Commissioner Roger Christensen said.

S. Korean leader charts union plan

BERLIN — The Korean peninsula can be unified through a three-stage plan that draws inspiration from German unification, South Korea's president said Tuesday.
 President Kim Young-sam took a ceremonial walk through the Brandenburg Gate, which once stood in the no-man's land of the Berlin Wall and was a symbol of the Cold War division of Berlin, Germany and Europe.
 He said later in a speech to the German Society for Foreign Policy that the opening of the Berlin Wall in 1989 was a "sign of hope for the Korean nation, which still has to bear the sorrow of the division of its country."
 Kim said Korean unification will be harder than Germany's, because they fought a bitter war and have had little contact since World War II.

Saudi opposition reports arrests

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Saudi Arabia has detained prominent scholars and theologians in Mecca and Riyadh, an opposition group said Tuesday.
 The London-based Committee for the Defense of Legitimate Rights said the crackdown Sunday followed Arab prayers, but did not give a total figure of detainees.
 The group seeks to turn Saudi Arabia into an Islamic republic, claiming the royal family has no popular mandate and its adherence to the Wahhabi sect of Islam amounts to heresy.
 There was no immediate comment from the Saudi government.

Frankfurt says trader practiced forgery

FRANKFURT, Germany — A trader blamed for the collapse of Barings bank practiced signing the name of a Wall Street executive in order to commit forgery, Singapore authorities say.
 Trader Nick Leeson, blamed for placing futures bets that bankrupted Barings at a cost of $1.4 billion, is in custody in Germany fighting extradition to Singapore to face forgery charges.
 The Singapore complaint accuses Leeson of forging two documents. One showed that Barings Futures received $74 million from one of Wall Street's biggest trading firms, and the other said the money was in Barings' account.

Remains of 2 Romanovs reburied

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia — Two members of the Romanov royal family were reburied Tuesday in the 18th century cathedral where Russian czars since Peter the Great have been interred.
 The remains of Grand Duke Kirill and his wife, Grand Duchess Victoria, were brought to Russia for reburial from a cemetery in Cologne, Germany. The couple died in exile in the 1930s.
 Kirill was a first cousin of Russia's last czar, Nicholas II. He was buried in the cathedral on Sunday, but the interment was postponed because authorities want to conduct more genetic tests.

Athens to cut traffic in historic heart

ATHENS, Greece — Residents of smog-choked central Athens can breathe a little more freely from April to June, when most cars will be banned in an experiment aimed at turning historic areas into pedestrian walkways.
 Only public buses and neighborhood residents will be allowed to drive in the one-square-mile area, including a zone around the Acropolis, Environment Minister Costas Laliotis said Tuesday.
 A partial traffic ban has been in effect for ten years around the Acropolis to protect its Parthenon from damage by pollution and traffic vibration.

Iran tests key railway network

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran conducted a test run Tuesday of a key rail network giving Central Asian republics access to international waters through its southern Gulf ports, Tehran radio reported.
 Iran is trying to become the gateway to the resource-rich Central Asian republics, considered important future markets for Western goods. The republics — Turkmenistan, Tajikistan, Kyrgyzstan, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan — have limited or no access to international waters.
 The railway connects northern Iran to the Gulf port of Bandar Abbas, said Tehran radio, monitored in Cyprus. It said the rail project took 10 years to complete, and is designed to carry 15 million tons of goods a year. Official completion is scheduled for April 1.

Germans probed for extremist offenses

BONN, Germany — Germany investigated 74 soldiers for extreme-right offenses last year, a sign the military might be failing to teach them about the evils of the Nazi era, a government official said Tuesday.
 The soldiers were suspected of brawling, spreading illegal propaganda, taking part in extreme-right meetings and other offenses, said Alfred Biehle, head of an agency that monitors the military.
 Seven soldiers were expelled from the military, and the others were disciplined, he said in his annual report.
 "The defense minister should quickly take measures that preclude an unexamined falling-back on traditions from the time of the Wehrmacht," the Nazi German armed forces, Biehle said.

Mayor threatens loss of support to Yeltsin

Luzhkov

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's powerful mayor, once considered a staunch ally of Boris Yeltsin, threatened Tuesday to quit unless the president reinstates two top city officials.
 Yuri Luzhkov, a popular figure sometimes mentioned as presidential material in 1996, said the outsiders of Moscow's prosecutor and police chief were tantamount to an attack on him.
 Prosecutor Gennady Ponomarev and police chief Vladimir Pankratov were dismissed Monday by the Yeltsin government in wake of last week's killing of Vladislav Listyev.
 The gangland-style killing of Listyev, a respected television journalist recently named to head the state-run television network, prompted a public outcry against rising crime.
 Oleg Lobov, secretary of Yeltsin's powerful Security Council, played down the rift at a briefing on crime Tuesday. He said the prosecutor and police chief "aren't elected officials... they must be ready to step down."
 The public would have been equally stirred if the situation were different and no one were dismissed.
 Luzhkov said only the city could hire and fire its officials. "I have no choice but to adopt a decision on the impossibility of carrying out the mayor's functions," he said.

 Deputy Mayor Anatoly Petrov said Lushkov had the backing of the city government in demanding the reinstatement. Interfax said Petrov said Lushkov should delay any plans to quit until a court heard the case.
 Yeltsin urged the dismissals last week, accusing Moscow officials of ignoring rising crime. Without naming names, he cited the "merging of the mafia with the administration."
 The dispute highlights a widening rift between the Kremlin and city leaders and the apparent dwindling number of high-level supporters.
 Analysts have said Yeltsin's inner circle, including his politically minded chief bodyguard, Gen. Alexander Kozhakov, view Lushkov as a potentially dangerous rival and have been trying to force him out.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Two subway cars came loose from the rear of a train during rush hour Tuesday. Police said at least 70 people were injured. The cars, still rolling, rammed the train when it came to an emergency halt down the line, police said.

Wear your seatbelt, win a hamburger

TWIN FALLS - You could win a free hamburger the next time you get pulled over by a state trooper.

The Idaho State Police and local Burger King restaurants are promoting seat-belt use by giving motorists coupons for free hamburgers and cheeseburgers at the fast-food joint, ISP Sgt. Steve Jones said.

"It's just one more reason to wear a seat belt," Jones said.

Comments sought to develop library services, materials

TWIN FALLS - Residents who want to express their opinions on how the Twin Falls Public Library can develop services and materials they need are invited to a March 9 meeting.

The library's board of trustees and its staff will hold the meeting from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. March 9 at the library. Suggestions and gathered information will be used to develop a marketing plan for the library.

For more information, call Susan Ash at 733-2964.

US West announces completion of cable linking 22 communities

TWIN FALLS - US West Communications and the Idaho Public Utilities Commission announced Tuesday the completion of a three-year, $51 million upgrade, stretching 1,000 miles of fiber optic cable throughout Twin Falls and 21 other rural and urban communities.

The cable will allow businesses, hospitals and schools to send and receive data, graphs and video images over the cable. The upgrade also provided back-up long-distance services so areas east of Mountain Home won't be interrupted by cable damage.

Other communities include Bliss, Buhl, Burley, Eden, Hazelton, Gooding, Hagerman, Hailey, Jerome, Ketchum, Kimberly, Murtaugh, Oakley and Stanley.

Community leaders set to create activities for youths

GOODING - Debbie Lagunas thinks a lot of the problems faced by local youths can be traced directly to a lack of activities and opportunities available to young people.

Together with Linda Trowbridge, Sandy Gutierrez and Tina Canchola, Lagunas has set out to change that.

"There has been a lot of problems with kids fighting at school," she said. Originally intended as a club for minority and disadvantaged youths, the Kid Connection Club is open to anyone between the ages of 7 and 15. The club will provide opportunities for community service and fund-raising for recreational activities.

Community leaders have expressed support for the aims of the club. The City Council approved use of the multipurpose room at city hall twice a week for the club's meetings.

Local businesses have pledged to help with materials for the club's first community service project - cleaning up the grounds around the deserted tuberculosis sanitarium on the south end of town.

Lagunas and Trowbridge met with three state representatives Tuesday in Boise. Though unable to help with money, the representatives pledged to provide "a lot of good ideas."

Meetings for the Kid Connection Club will be from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays in the multipurpose room at city hall.

Applications due March 15 for 'Times-News' Internships

TWIN FALLS - Applications are due by March 15 for newspaper internships at The Times-News for summer 1995.

Paid internship positions are available for the summer as are programs for people to career opportunities in the newspaper and publishing industry.

Internships will be offered in the news department and in advertising sales.

Preference will be given to college students, or those entering college, who plan careers in print communications. Preference will also be given to applicants from The Times-News circulation area of southern Idaho and northern Nevada.

Any interested student should send a current resume, a list of references, a current college or high school transcript, work samples and a cover letter to Lora Richardson, The Times-News, Box 548, Twin Falls, ID, 83303. Applications will be accepted until March 15.

Decisions are expected by April 15.

Hostage-taker busted on bracelet theft

By Liz Wright
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - A truck driver awaiting sentencing for taking his ex-wife and her boyfriend hostage at gunpoint last year is now accused of skipping town while wearing a monitoring device that tracks his whereabouts.

Wayne Eugene Gause, 33, was charged this week with grand theft after police and prosecutors say he fled in August, violating a judge's order to stay at his parents' Twin Falls home and wear the device around his leg, according to court documents.

Gause is charged with stealing the $350 device. Gause wore the device in lieu of being held in jail - he was monitored by a private tracking agency, Solution Technology, based in Montana, pending sentencing for the hostage incident.

Gause absconded while awaiting his sentencing for aggravated assault and second-degree kidnapping in the Feb. 14, 1994 hostage incident, according to court documents.

He had pleaded guilty to the charges in June 1994 as part of a plea bargain; in exchange, the prosecutor dropped four other felony counts.

Two weeks ago, police pulled Gause's car over in Bellvue, Mo., because he was driving with only one working headlight, said Twin Falls County sheriff's Lt. Bill Hall.

A federal criminal check revealed that Gause was among Twin Falls County's most wanted, Hall said. Following a brief scuffle, police arrested him, he said.

Lothspiech said Tuesday he won't withdraw the plea bargain for kidnapping and assault, but doesn't know yet whether he will ask for more than his original recommendation that Gause spend 10 to 15 years in prison for the hostage-taking crimes.

According to police, Gause burst into the couple's bedroom on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, 1994, and forced his ex-wife and her boyfriend at gunpoint into a bathtub, threatening to kill them, then himself.

During Gause's 90-minute standoff with police, his wife's 12-year-old daughter and 2-year-old son ran out the front door. Gause let the couple go, then later surrendered himself, police said.

Monday, Gause was held on a $10,000 bond on the grand theft charge; a preliminary hearing is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. March 17. He will be sentenced at 2:30 p.m. March 13 for the assault and kidnapping charges.

State OKs English lessons for newcomers

By Karen Tolkiner
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The Idaho Legislature for the first time this year has voted to fund programs for students who speak English as a second language. The money - $1 million - would be dispersed to districts on a per-student basis for the next academic year.

Gov. Phil Batt's signature on the education-spending bill will mean some relief to Twin Falls educators, whose students speak everything from Russian to Thai. The Twin Falls School District stands to gain as much as $80,000, said Superintendent Terrell Donicht. It has about 230 such students. There are an estimated 6,682 statewide.

But for some students, it may be too little, too late.

Three of Doris Sommer's former students at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School dropped out after reaching high school. Sommer is the Twin Falls School District's only certified teacher of English as a second language. The high school has no such teacher.

"The teachers try to justify it and say they weren't working, but when you're trying to learn English and study science at the same time, it's tough," she said.

Sommer only finds out about drop-outs when her current students write about their older siblings.

Some of her ninth-graders have been in the country for less than a year, she said. "They've had less than a year of English, and they're thrown in the high school with 1,500 kids and there's no ESL teacher," she said.

The high school has one aide who translates school material for the students. She speaks several languages and teaches three periods a day. Often the school places these students in study-skills classes, which Sommer says is the last thing they need.

"These kids have good study skills, they just don't have good English," she said.

Gordon Smith, Twin Falls High School counselor, said he would like to put these kids in a concentrated English class for as much as half the day.

But the high school, which has 25 students with little or no English ability, can only give them an hour a day at most.

Donicht said the money will likely be spent on training teachers to help these students and on translating supplies and letters to parents.

"When you look at what I see the surface is going to do, you can only scratch the surface," he said.

Schools' original $3.4 million request was eventually pared down to $1 million in the Legislature.

Phyllis Fletcher, who teaches English to non-native students, said Idaho's move to a rapidly diversifying social landscape and alter the education system accordingly.

"The need has been there for 10 years. There wasn't the funding, there wasn't the priority," she said. "There's been a lot of

Senators OK change for county government

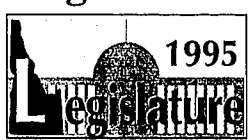

By Frank E. Lockwood
Times-News writer

BOISE - Despite criticism from a number of legislators and county officials statewide, the Idaho Senate approved legislation Tuesday that gives counties wide latitude to reamp county government.

By a 26 to 9 vote, senators approved Senate Bill 1071, which allows Idaho's 44 counties to try other forms of county government - if the experiment garners support from a majority of the county's voters. But the bill doesn't become effective for another 15 months.

Gem State residents passed a constitutional amendment in November that authorizes alternate forms of county government, but the Legislature still must create a blueprint for implementing the change.

Senators argued Tuesday about whether SB 1071 is the right blueprint. Senator Robert R. Lee, R-Rexburg, said "the wording of SB 1071 is too simplistic and too general." Lee said the issue could be revisited early in 1996 and noted that the Idaho Association of Counties supported tabling the legislation.

But supporters argued that SB 1071 would put power over county government in the hands of the people and would increase local control. It would also give county officials an idea what direction the legislature intends to take in the future.

State Sen. Jerry Thorne, R-Nampa, conceded that the bill has flaws. "This is not a perfect bill. It was not intended to be," he said.

"The whole intent is to do something. This is an attempt to start the ball rolling."

Thorne said, noting that lawmakers can fine-tune the proposal next year before it goes into effect.

But Mary Hartung, R-Payette, argued that SB 1071 would place a "tremendous burden on the counties."

"What harm is there in waiting one more year?" Hartung said, suggesting the matter should be studied by an interim committee before legislation is approved.

State Rep. Ruby Stone, R-Boise, has introduced House Concurrent Resolution 20, which would create an interim committee on optional forms of county government. And in the session's final days, state Sen. Evan Frasure, R-Pocatello, and state Sen. Tim Tucker, D-Porterhill, have introduced new legislation that calls for further study.

While supporters convinced a majority of senators, Magie Valley senators were leery of SB 1071. Only state Sen. Dean Cameron, R-Rupert, and state Sen. Clint Stennett, D-Ketchum, voted for the measure.

Road board to expand

By Frank E. Lockwood
Times-News writer

BOISE - If the Idaho House of Representatives and Gov. Phil Batt have their way, the state's transportation board will soon grow from three members to seven.

That's good news for the Treasure Valley, which has no representative on the current board and is certain to be represented if House Bill 202 is signed into law.

It's good news for Batt, who will get to appoint a majority of the board without waiting for the terms of old appointees to expire.

But it's bad news for Idaho, according to the three men who currently serve on the board.

It passed? Wait, let me change my vote

A flip-flopping Magie Valley senator single-handedly defeated legislation Tuesday aimed at helping Idahoans who represent themselves in court.

Sen. Dean Cameron, R-Rupert, voted for Senate Bill 1210, which allows judges to award attorneys fees to citizens who face frivolous lawsuits without a lawyer. Then, minutes later, with the measure barely ahead, the Mini-Cassia insurance agent changed his mind and asked to change his vote.

Cameron's reversal doomed SB 1210, which failed on a 17-17 vote. The third-term Republican's last-minute change of heart didn't please the bill's sponsor, state Sen. Rod Beck, R-Boise.

"I was disappointed by Sen. Cameron's vote," Beck said afterwards. "It's a popular issue, trying to break down the shackles and the rigidity of the court. The court shouldn't be the intimidating, imposing vehicle that it is right now."

Cameron said it differently - at least by the time the final votes were tallied.

"I guess I voted 'aye' before I really had an interested to look at it and think about it," Cameron said. "Immediately after I voted for it, I started to reconsider my vote. Honestly before I voted the first time, I was not paying that close attention. Well, I don't want to say I wasn't paying close attention. I hadn't thought it through enough."

Dateline: Boise
Frank E. Lockwood

Ironically, this wasn't a new issue - or a new debate - for Cameron. He supported a similar measure in 1994. "I voted for it last year, but I didn't particularly care for it that much last year," he explained.

Between his first and second vote, Cameron said he considered some important factors. A businessman and former Statehouse lobbyist, Cameron said he worried that environmentalists would represent themselves in court against Idaho's natural resource industry. With the help of sympathetic judges, Cameron said, environmental groups could gain attorneys' fees from business and hamper Idaho industry.

The senator has been a friend of industry: In 1994 Cameron received $1,300 in campaign contributions from mining interests and $750 from timber interests. He received another $100 from the Idaho Trial Lawyers Association.

During the vote's final moments, Cameron also worried that attorneys could represent themselves in court, then collect attorneys fees in some instances. He also questioned why pro litigants should get fees for lawyers they never hired.

"They have not experienced the cost of an attorney and yet if they win, they want to be able to collect the fees on it," Cameron said Tuesday.

Beck argued that SB 1210 was "really a matter of equity, a matter of fairness."

"If a pro se litigant spends time and effort to defend against frivolous and unnecessary lawsuits, they ought to be compensated for that time and effort," Beck added.

Last year - and early Tuesday - the pro outnumbered the cons for Cameron. But that changed.

"All those concerns started to weigh heavily on my mind, well not weigh heavily, but weighed on my mind," Cameron added. Thus, the last-minute "no" vote.

This isn't the first time last-minute switches have affected legislation. Monday, House Bill 183 briefly had 34 "no" votes enough to derail attempts to spend drug-abuse prevention funds on county juvenile probation programs.

But, with House GOP leaders all demanding a "yes" vote, two lawmakers switched - giving HB 183 a 36-32 win.

Lawmakers who vote first, and think second, and re-vote third, are adding suspense to an otherwise dull session. But whether the voters will warm to this waffling remains to be seen.

Craig introduces mining bill

By Meredith Colton
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Western lawmakers unveiled a proposal Tuesday to require for the first time payment of a small royalty on hardrock minerals extracted from federal lands.

Introduced by Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, and Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, the measure is one of three sponsored this year to update a law written in 1872.

All three bills will be part of a contentious debate about how much the government should charge hardrock mining companies to take gold, copper and other minerals from federal land.

Current law allows the sale of federal land for under $5 an acre, requires no royalty payment, and does not require any reclamation.

Industry officials have agreed to an updated law, but blame partisan bickering for stalling the legislative process for two years and causing a climate of regulatory uncertainty.

The Craig measure represents a slight concession from a bill he crafted last year on the most contentious provision — the royalty payment. Large companies would have to pay 3 percent of their net profits, while small companies would be exempt. Last year's bill called for a 2 percent fee.

One environmental group critical of the Craig measure, referred to the bill as the "1772" mining bill. "Obviously the 1872 mining bill, a 123-year old law, is too strict for them," said Beverly Reeder of the Mineral Policy Center.

Democrat-sponsored bills this year and last would generate much more hardrock mining jobs. Sen. Conrad Burns, R-Mont., one of 13 senators backing the measure, argued the hardrock mining industry should be given special treatment because it's a "vital national resource" with exploration and production costs higher than other extractive industries.

Oil, gas and coal producers pay fees closer to 8 percent of gross profits. "We're going to see the hardrock mining industry go overseas," Burns said.

Environmentalists argue that the hardrock miners pay about 6 percent to 8 percent royalties on state and private land and should pay the same amount to the federal government.

The bill calls for mining companies to pay for the "surface value" of a claim instead of the $2.50 to $5 an acre now required. The bill does not require miners to pay anything for the potential value of any mineral deposit the property may contain.

Under the legislation, federal officials would be required to make a "good faith effort" to keep speculators from obtaining federal land for non-mining purposes. The federal government already has some authority to stop such uses, but doesn't often use it.

Also, the authority to enforce the law would be turned over to the states by the federal government. One-third of royalty payments would go to states for reclamation.

money for the federal treasury by requiring an 8 percent royalty fee based on gross receipts. A House-Senate conference committee deadlocked last year on the issue and mining reform died.

Craig said this year, he expects the bill to pass Congress, although he expects changes.

"This bill represents a serious effort to balance the concerns of both sides by protecting the environment and keeping a crucial job-producing industry afloat," he said.

The mining industry directly or indirectly employs nearly 120,000 people, Murkowski said. Most Western states have fewer than 3,000 to 4,000 actual

Obituaries

Carl M. Gleiforst
TWIN FALLS — Carl Martin Gleiforst, 60, of Twin Falls, went to be with the Lord after a prolonged illness on Monday, March 6, 1995, at his home.

He was born July 10, 1934, in Red Cliff, Colo., the son of Lewis and Esther Beatis Gleiforst. On Sept. 19, 1956, he married Darlene Rescorla in Canon City, Colo., and they were later divorced. Mr. Gleiforst moved from Colorado to Twin Falls 11 years ago. He was a tree trimmer for years and while in Colorado also worked on a drilling rig on the Eisenhower Tunnel. While in Twin Falls, he worked at Amalgamated Sugar Co.

He enjoyed cooking, working with his hands, and was an avid reader. After Carl found he had lung cancer, he pleaded with everybody he came in contact with to quit smoking. He always said if he could get one person to give up smoking, he would not be dying in vain.

Survivors include three daughters: Karle D. Murray of Jerome, Patti Gleiforst of Guntersville, Ala., and Luanne Howell of Lincoln, Kan.; three grandchildren; and two brothers, Louis Gleiforst of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Franklin Gleiforst of Frisco, Colo. He was preceded in death by his parents and three brothers.

A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 11, 1995, at White Mortuary in Twin Falls by the Rev. Dan Miller officiating. Cremation took place at White Crematory in Twin Falls.

The family suggests memorial contributions may be made to: Friends of Hospice, in care of Magic Valley Staffing Service, Hospice Division, P.O. Box 1625, Twin Falls ID 83303.

Mary E. Purcell
TWIN FALLS — Mary Edith Purcell, 61, of Twin Falls, died Monday, March 6, 1995, at her home, following an extended illness. Mary was born May 25, 1933, in

For-obituary rate information, call 733-0931, extension 278

Twin Falls, the only child of Carl and Bertha Bishop Maxwell. She graduated from Kimberly High School as salutatorian in 1951, where she also received the outstanding citizen award. The summer before, she represented the Idaho Methodist district as a delegate to the national Methodist youth leadership convention. In the fall of 1951, she entered the College of Idaho where she was active in choir, dramatics and debate. It was that fall that a courtship began with Bob Purcell who had just married on July 7, 1953. Mary continued her education at the College of Idaho on a part-time basis, graduating cum laude in 1964.

Although allowing her husband in his many career moves, she herself was a dedicated and highly respected school teacher. During that career, she taught in New Meadows, Friend, and Hurdalia, Caldwell, Boise, and R. B. Day, Va. She was also active in New Comers Clubs in several communities, having served as president in Caldwell and Twin Falls. She was also a member of the Homeless Task Force in Twin Falls.

Mary's primary interests, in addition to family and teaching, was her church where she was involved primarily in programs dealing with community outreach and lifelong search for spiritual guidance.

Mary and Bob enjoyed traveling and journeyed to most of Europe, Egypt, Turkey, and Russia. Bob retired as J.C. Penny executive early in 1990, so they could travel by motorhome throughout the United States and Canada. Although they did visit former homes in Madfield, Mass.; Alexandria, Va.; Boulder, Colo.; and Sacramento, Calif., as well as areas in between; their traveling was cut short because of the debilitating nature of body dyslexia, a disease she bravely battled since the age of 13. Her last trip to Europe was five weeks in Germany, Hungary, Austria, Czech Republic, Slovakia and England last summer with the aid of a wheelchair chair.

Mary died on her four daughters, Debra & Robin of Boise, Terry of Hughesville, Md., and Leslie of Denver, Colo.; four grand children, Halle, a student at James Madison University in Virginia, and Kate, McKennan and Dylan of Accokeek, Md. Also surviving is her husband of nearly 42 years, Bob Purcell, director of the Idaho Department of Labor & Industrial Services; a number of cousins and relatives; a special caring friend, Colleen Ross of Boise; plus a host of friends throughout the country.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, March 9, 1995, at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in Twin Falls officiating by the Rev. Brian Thon. A memorial service will also be held at 2 p.m. Friday, March 10, 1995, at St. Michael's Episcopal Cathedral in Boise, with the Rev. Brian Thon officiating. A private family interment will be held at the New Plymouth Cemetery.

The family suggests memorials in lieu of flowers to Albemson College in Caldwell, Idaho, or to the Episcopal Church of the Ascension for Outreach. Contributions may be mailed to: Reynolds Funeral Chapel, P.O. Box 1142, Twin Falls ID 83303.

Marie Fairchild
HL Marie Fairchild, 77, of Buhl, went to be with the Lord

March 5, 1995. She was born June 12, 1917, in Riddle, Ore., to Bill and Leona Lounspoint. She married Ward Fairchild on March 20, 1934, in Kamaia, Idaho, and they owned a home northwest of Buhl in Mohl Valley. She worked at the Buhl School lunch room for seven years and at Harra's Nursing Home for 13 years.

Her greatest pleasure of life was doing things with her children and grandchildren. She enjoyed many things with her husband after they retired and had time to do them. She made a trip every year to see her family in Oregon and always traveled with her children even after they were grown. She loved the Oregon big game and her sister always had blackberry cobbler and elk stew fixed for her. She was loved very much by her family and she will miss her.

She is survived by her husband, Ward; and two sons, Leon and Judy Fairchild and Wade and Michelle Fairchild, all of Buhl; four daughters, Shirley and John Harms of California, and Sheila and Betty Hawkins of Choral and Chaz Stroud, and Sharon Williams, all of Buhl; six grandsons; six granddaughters; 14 great-grandchildren; a great-granddaughter; four sisters, and a nephew. She was preceded in death by her parents, a granddaughter, three brothers and a sister.

The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Unit Methodist Church in Buhl. Burial will follow at the West End Cemetery in Buhl. Friends may call from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. today at the Farmer Funeral Chapel in Buhl.

Paul Daniel
HAGERMAN — Paul Daniel, 69, of Hagerman, died Saturday, March 4, 1995, at the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center in Twin Falls. Paul was born Aug. 19, 1905, in Bates County, Mo., the son of George Randolph and Lorena Catherine Thomas Daniel. His family lived for a short time in Kansas before moving to Idaho in 1917. They moved to their home north of Gooding where they farmed for 63 years. They retired in 1990, and moved to Hagerman where they have since resided.

Paul was a member of the Hagerman Christian Center. He is survived by his wife, Marguarite Daniel of Hagerman; two daughters, Pauline and her husband, Jim Danes of Hagerman, and Clela and her husband, Roger Slamy of North Powder, Ore.; one brother, Kenneth and his wife, Karen Daniel of Dietrich; one sister, Maria Shaw of St. Paul, Ore.; 10 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents; one son, Raymond, one daughter, Doris; a sister, Cloia; and a great-grandson, Jonathan.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 8, 1995, at the Hagerman Christian Center with the Rev. Tom officiating. Burial will be at the Elmwood Cemetery in Gooding. Memorial contributions may be made to the Hagerman Christian Center Memorial fund or to a charity of the donor's choice.

DOE probes issue of volatile nuclear waste

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The Energy Department says it will seek an independent review of the Yucca Mountain program if new issues are raised by the theory that buried nuclear waste might explode.

The response comes following an article in Sunday's New York Times that reported department scientists had been unable to disprove the possibility that buried wastes might detonate in a nuclear explosion.

Nevada lawmakers have long sought an independent review, but department officials have rejected the idea, saying panels are already meeting the program. Monday's announcement is the first time the Energy Department has said it may be willing to seek an outside review. The department is studying whether 77,000 tons of high-level nuclear waste can be safely stored at Yucca Mountain, 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

Legislature ends recognition of common law marriages

BOISE (AP) — The state Senate voted on Tuesday to end more than a century of legal recognition for common law marriages in Idaho. Adopted to solve the problem of isolation in the 1800s; the concept today is creating many more problems than it solves, Republican Sen. David Kerrick of Caldwell was heard. He said repealing it should have little impact on the legal relationships of couples.

"A hundred years ago, we didn't require licenses for a lot of things," Kerrick said. "Today you need a license to hunt or fish. You have to have a license to drive a car. So it's not out of the question to require a license for marriage."

And, he said, "It's quite easy to get married. You can be married quicker than it takes for the champagne to chill."

Gov. Phil Batt just need only sign his name to remove Idaho as one of just 13 states still recognizing common law marriages. The Senate approved the measure 20-14. The House voted for it three weeks ago, 48-22.

Twin Falls lawyer Leon Smith, warn that expanding the board could have negative repercussions. Among them:

* Taxpayers will have to come up with an extra $80,000 to $85,000 per year to pay for the expanded board.

* A larger committee will need a larger meeting room.

* Meetings will be more formal — and more lengthy.

In her committee will be politically divided by region.

"We do not think the department will be well served by a politically-activated seven-member board," the transportation board wrote to lawmakers.

Claiming that the current board format has worked for 44 years, board members questioned the need for change. "If we are serving the state well, with the limited funds available, it brings up the age-old question, 'If it ain't broke, why fix it?'"

But House Transportation Committee Joan Wood, R-Rigby disagrees. A larger board means greater representation, she said.

"The scope and complexity of transportation services in the state of Idaho has certainly increased since the three-member board was established in 1952," she said. "It is essential to assume that the expanded scope of ITD could necessitate a larger policy-making body."

The Idaho Transportation Department will spend nearly $280 million during the next fiscal year — making it the state's second-largest agency. Wood argues that a larger board will see that the money is spent wisely — and will lessen the likelihood that board members are making decisions based exclusively on the recommendations of Transportation Department executives.

Wood has backing from Local Government Associations. Leaders of the Idaho Highway Districts, Association of Idaho Cities, and Idaho Association of Counties sent a joint letter to lawmakers arguing that "a larger board would help ensure that the board is responsive to the transportation needs of the areas they are representing."

On Monday, the Idaho House of Representatives agreed, voting overwhelmingly to expand the board from three members to seven. And Wood is confident that the Senate will pass HB 202 before it adjourns. Magic Valley lawmakers embraced HB 202 Monday, despite Smith's concerns. If the bill passes, the Magic Valley would be guaranteed at least one seat on the board. Currently, Ada County and Twin Falls are in the same district.

In her classroom, she plays a memory game with three Spanish-speaking students, holding up cards of body parts. They know most of the names: chin, toes, back, knee. They struggle with wrist. A first-grader, Guillermo Vargas, is ahead of the others, who are in kindergarten.

"These two were non-English speaking in September," she said. "They just looked at me. I did a lot of talking by myself."

Rep. Ron Black (R-Twin Falls), said he was approached by several superintendents worried about the increased stress of educating those students.

"They felt they have been heavily impacted and they needed some

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho split a doubleheader with Treasure Valley in a way that left Coach Jim Walker bemused.

"How can an entire pitching staff just go to pot like that?" he asked no one in particular.

Provoking the question was an 11-3 loss to the Chukars that was punctuated in the last inning with four runs on five walks, a hit and an error. CSI had won the opener 8-4, highlighted by Jed Sellers' homer that completed a three-run inning.

"We were 3-2 on every hitter," said Walker of the pitching. "No one showed any pattern."

The Eagles had it pretty comfortable in the opener when Seller's homer came after a walk to Tony Pezely and a double by Trevor Davis. Brandon Duckworth had singled home the walking Erik Highland in the first.

Treasure Valley succeeded in cutting the deficit to 4-3 with a pair of fifth-inning runs but the Eagles added singletons in the fifth and sixth and then two in the seventh of the nine-inning opener.

Treasure Valley iced the nightcap with two runs in the third and three more in the fourth. Mark Burrus highlighted that one by doubling in a run and scoring later on a wild pitch.

The Eagles will take the rest of the week off, preparing for an eight-game swing into Utah next week. That tour will include doubleheaders at Dixie, Eastern Utah, Snow and Utah Valley Monday through Thursday.

CEU basketball coach resigns after 9 years

PRICE, Utah — College of Eastern Utah basketball coach Rob Stubbs resigned Monday, saying he wants to take a breather after nine seasons.

"I've made my decision and I'm at peace with it," Stubbs said.

Stubbs took over midway through the 1986-87 season and his teams posted a 164-109 mark. The Eagles' had four 20-win seasons in the past five years.

Stubbs said he would continue to teach at the two-year school while exploring other career options.

No successor has been named, said CEU President Mike Peterson.

BSU guard earns unanimous all-Big Sky women's team spot

BOISE — Junior guards Michelle Schultz of Boise State and Sherri Brooks of Montana were the only unanimous selections to the 1994-95 all-Big Sky women's basketball team.

Schultz, who led a Boise State team that lost a number of key players to graduation and injury, also was named the Big Sky's regular-season outstanding player, the league announced Tuesday.

Cowboy Haley changes mind, will not retire from football

IRVING, Texas — All-Pro defensive end Charles Haley, who said after the Dallas Cowboys' loss in the NFC Championship game that he was retiring, will play another season.

Haley, 31, who is due to make $1.95 million this season, said Tuesday he decided to "unretire" for several reasons. One of those reasons, he said, is Cowboy's commitment to keep their players.

"I'd rather not play if we're going to lose and if they sit on their hands as far as getting other players, I still might retire again," he said.

Parcells, Knight might buy into minor-league ballclub

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Last year, the Birmingham Barons had Michael Jordan in the outfield. Will Bobby Knight and Bill Parcells be in the ownership box this season?

Barons president Bill Hardekopf said Knight, the Indiana basketball coach, and Parcells, the coach of the NFL's New England Patriots, are part of a group interested in purchasing the AA affiliate of the Chicago White Sox.

"There have been several groups, and this is one," Hardekopf said Monday. "This one is serious enough that it's coming down to check some things out."

Parcells may attend a meeting tentatively set for Thursday, Hardekopf said, but Knight is too busy with basketball to break away.

Eagles ready for Fashion show

By Larry Hovey
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho will meet Fashion Institute in the first round of the national junior college basketball tournament Tuesday afternoon in Hutchinson, Kans.

Fashion Institute knocked off Monroe, N.Y., 82-77 in a playoff Tuesday night to earn the right to represent district 3.

Win or lose, the Eagles will take on the winner-loser between New Mexico Junior College and No. 2 ranked and undefeated Eastern Arizona Wednesday.

Although Fashion Institute is a continent away, CSI has some knowledge of the team, having hosted (and defeated) them here in a holiday tournament a year ago.

"They started five sophomores tonight against Monroe and I suppose they were all with the team last year, although I don't remember the names off hand," said CSI coach Steve Irons. "But we'll get out the book and the tape from that game and refresh our memories. It's kinda nice to go against someone you at least have a little knowledge about."

However, Irons and CSI will have more than that going for it against Fashion Institute.

"We got an awesome (comprehensive) scouting report faxed to us today, and Coach (Darren) Gibson's report backs it all up," said Irons. Gibson, a CSI assistant, flew back to scout Tuesday night's game.

Fashion Institute apparently is a speed-driest team.

Vets vote Ashburn into Hall

The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — Richie Ashburn, one of baseball's best-ever leadoff men, and Negro Leagues star Leon Day led the list of four new Hall of Famers elected Tuesday by the Veterans Committee.

National League founder William Hubert and turn-of-the-century pitcher Vic Willis also were chosen by the 17-member committee.

"I appreciate the fact that I was chosen in my 50th year of pro ball," said Ashburn, who hit 308 in a 15-year career mostly with the Philadelphia Phillies, the team whose games he now broadcasts.

"I thought maybe it would happen someday, but you don't sit back and say, 'This is going to be the year.'"

The panel's voting rules were revised recently for a five-year period, allowing it to pick four people instead of the usual two. In particular, the group wanted to enhance the chances for Negro Leagues and 19th century players, and it took full advantage of the change.

"I'm a little sick, but I'm feeling a little better now," the 78-year-old Day said from his hospital room in Baltimore, where he's being treated for heart problems, diabetes and gout.

The four new members are the most chosen by the Veterans Committee since it named seven players in 1971. It takes a 75 percent majority to be elected, but vote totals are not announced.

Nellie Fox, Gil Hodges and Cecil Travis also received some support.

"There were a lot of candidates for us to consider, and I think we got four good ones," said Stan Musial, a committee member along with Ted Williams and a few other Hall of Famers.

Mike Schmidt, who hit 548 home runs for the Phillies, was elected by the Baseball Writers Association of America in January. He will be enshrined with other

New members in Cooperstown, N.Y., on July 30. The last time five people went into the Hall in the same year was 1991, when Rod Carew, Ferguson Jenkins and Gaylord Perry were picked by the BBWAA and Bill Veeck and Tony Lazzeri were tabbed by the Veterans Committee. The most ever entering the Hall in the same year was 1946, when 11 were chosen.

Above, Richie Ashburn talks of the old days at a press conference Tuesday after he was chosen for the Hall of Fame. At left, Ashburn in the old days, 1958 to be exact.

Oscar De La Hoya, left, and Rafael Ruelas are slated to box in Las Vegas May 10 to unify the WBO and IBF lightweight title belts.

Lightweight bout earns heavyweight bucks

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The title unification bout between Oscar De La Hoya and Rafael Ruelas on May 6 will break the bank for the lightweight division.

"The successor to Julio Cesar Chavez — but bigger — will come out of this fight," promoter Bob Arum said of the Mexican champion who has said this will be his last year fighting.

"The winner of this fight will be capable of realizing a $10 million purse in the future," Arum said. This will be the first lightweight fight to guarantee purses of more than $1 million for each fighter.

De La Hoya, the undefeated WBO (135-pound) champion is assured $1.75 million while Ruelas, the once-beaten IBF champ, gets a $1 million payday. Each could get more depending on the success of the pay-per-view telecast.

And by putting the bout at the 15,800-seat outdoor arena at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, it will mark the first time a non-heavyweight box has played the casino's big room since the 1990 Thomas Hearns and Virgil Hill light heavyweight fight, according to Caesars officials Rich Rose. The arena is scaled for a $4 million gate.

"It's going to be a one-side war my way," De La Hoya said. "He won't touch us. He's got the worst balance in boxing, all you have to do is push him and he'll fall. I don't see it going further than five or six rounds."

Said Ruelas: "I believe there will be a knockout."

Baseball owners recommend new teams in Tampa, Phoenix

The Associated Press

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Phoenix and Tampa Bay were recommended by baseball's expansion committee Tuesday night to receive major league franchises.

The teams would start play in 1998 if owners approve the recommendation. Expansion committee chairman John Harrington said he hopes a vote can be taken Thursday.

The committee didn't announce its decision, but two members of the committee, speaking on the condition they not be identified, confirmed the choices to The Associated Press.

The pricetag is expected to be $140 million apiece and the teams are expected to name the Arizona Diamondbacks and the Tampa Bay Devil Rays.

"I will tell the full ownership group where we are on the sites," Harrington said without disclosing the recommendation.

Harrington wasn't sure the final vote would come this week. The committee is to brief both leagues jointly on Wednesday.

"We still have some work to do on them," he said of the recommendations.

The teams would become the 29th and 30th in the major leagues. Owners said it was possible the franchises wouldn't be assigned to leagues until later.

If one team is added to both the American and National leagues, it would necessitate the start of interleague play.

One group from Orlando, Fla., and two from northern Virginia also were seeking franchises. One source said the committee would not at this time recommend a team for the second wave of expanation, which is not expected until 2000 at the earliest.

The five groups that made 30-minute presentations to the expansion committee said they weren't discouraged by baseball's constant labor battles.

"I don't want this to sound trite, but it can't get any worse," said Phoenix Suns president Jerry Colangelo, who leads the group from his area. "It can only get better. I think it's bottomed out."

Vincent Naimoli heads the Florida group. His bid to buy the San Francisco Giants and move them to St. Petersburg was rejected by the National League owners in November 1992, prompting an antitrust suit that's still pending.

"At this point, we'll just sit and wait and hope," he said.

Naimoli wanted to call his team the Stingrays, but the Hawaiian Winter League team in Maui already owns that name.

Owners said they must press ahead with a decision because of the deadline faced by Colangelo's group. Maricopa County approved $275 million of funding for a $275 million retractable-roof stadium, but the funding will expire unless a franchise is granted by April 1.

Colangelo said his belief in the Phoenix market was one of the reasons his group was willing to pay up to $140 million.

"If someone handed me one-third of the teams in baseball, I wouldn't touch them with a 10-foot pole," he said.

Acting commissioner Bud Selig said previously that if a final expansion decision isn't made this week, he likely would call another owners' meeting later this month.

Ewing racks up 46 in win over Celts

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's Patrick Ewing scored 38 of his season-high 46 points in the second half and Boston's Dominique Wilkins became the ninth player in NBA history to score 25,000 points as the Knicks defeated the Celtics 115-110 Tuesday night.

Ewing scored 16 straight points to keep the spattering team in the game during the third quarter as New York won its ninth straight game against Boston. Ewing also added six blocks and 12 rebounds.

Wilkins, who needed 16 points to reach the 25,000-point plateau, finished with 19, including his milestone 3-pointer with 3:19 to play in the fourth quarter.

Pro basketball

Suns 113, Rockets 102

HOUSTON — Kevin Johnson scored 22 points and led a free-thriving shooting spurt in the fourth quarter, sending Phoenix over Houston and stretching the Rockets' losing streak to five games.

Johnson scored 40 points and got 13 rebounds, but also committed four fouls in the fourth quarter, fouling out with 4:05 left in the game.

The Suns, who won their fourth straight, hit all 12 of their fourth-quarter free throws and Johnson had six, including one on a technical foul called against Olajuwon with 7:39 to play.

Charles Barkley had 26 points, including the Suns' final 10 points.

Heat 110, Lakers 104

MIAMI — Billy Owens had 24 points and 11 rebounds as the Miami Heat held off the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Heat never trailed after hitting its first shot of the game for a 6-0 lead. They had never led off numerous runs by the Lakers in the second half.

Owens and Bimbo Coles, who had 23 points and 10 rebounds, answered Los Angeles' second-half charge.

Anthony Peeler led the Lakers with 23 points, including 16 in the fourth quarter. Vlade Divac had 23 points but just four in the second half.

Trail Blazers 106, Bucks 100

MILWAUKEE — Terry Porter, playing in only his 10th game of the season after returning from ankle surgery, scored a season-high 36 points, helping the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Milwaukee Bucks and a three-game losing streak.

The Bucks, who lost their third straight, were led by Eric Murdock with 29 points and Vin Baker with 27 points and 12 rebounds.

Porter took up the slack for forward Clifford Robinson and Rod Strickland, Portland's top two scorers who were both out with injuries. Harvey Grant and Aaron McKie both added 16.

McGee 19, Mavericks 96

DALLAS — Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf scored 29 points, including a go-ahead 3-pointer with 36 seconds left, and the Denver Nuggets went on to their fourth straight victory, beating the Dallas Mavericks.

Roy Tarpley scored a season-high 26 points with 12 rebounds and Jamal Mashburn also had 26 points for the Mavericks, who were a 16-point third-quarter deficit to lead by as many as five points with less than three minutes remaining.

Dikembe Mutombo had 16 points and 16 rebounds for Denver.

Pacers 117, Spurs 100

SAN ANTONIO — Rick Smith scored a season-high 35 points and got the best of Spurs center David Robinson in the paint as the Indiana Pacers snapped the Spurs' eight-game winning streak.

The Indiana center helped hold Robinson to 19 points. Reggie Miller added 22 points and Byron Scott had 12 points for the Pacers, who broke a three-game losing streak.

Indiana built a 24-point first-half lead, then held off several comeback attempts by the Spurs to break San Antonio's 11-game home winning streak. San Antonio didn't get closer than seven points in the second

Cavaliers 89, Pistons 81

CLEVELAND — Tyrone Hill, playing for the first time since undergoing hand surgery two weeks ago, scored Cleveland's last 10 points as the Cavaliers beat the Detroit Pistons.

The Cavs ended a season-worst four-game losing streak by limiting the Pistons to just two points in the last eight minutes. Detroit took a 79-77 lead on Terry Mills' 3-pointer with 8:05 left, then didn't score again until Grant Hill sank a meaningless jumper with 13 seconds left.

Chris Mills scored 24 and Terrell Brandon had 20 for Cleveland. Terry Mills led the Pistons with 26 points and 10 rebounds, and Allan Houston added 20 points. Detroit's top scorers scored five points, nearly 15 under his average, on 2-for-10 shooting.

Phoenix rise again to NCAA tourney

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Wisconsin-Green Bay, the team that knocked Jason Kidd and California out of the NCAA tournament last year, earned a return trip Tuesday night.

The Phoenix dominated inside behind Jeff Nordgaard and rolled to a 73-58 victory over Wright State to win the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament championship and its automatic NCAA berth.

Wisconsin-Green Bay (22-7) made the NCAA tournament last year as the Mid-Continent Conference champ and upset California 61-57 in the first round before losing to Syracuse.

Wright State (13-17) was trying to join Florida International as NCAA tournament teams with losing records. But with a berth at stake and a home-court crowd of 9,730 roaring, the Raiders played the way they have most of the season.

Wright State extended its defense to shut down Wisconsin-Green Bay's 3-point shooters — the Phoenix shoot 42 percent from behind the arc. That left Vitaliy Potapenko, a 6-foot-10, 270-pound center who is the conference's most imposing player, alone in the middle.

The Phoenix took the game right at him and got the better of the matchup. Nordgaard, a slashing 6-foot-7 center, scored 19 in the first half, most of them on drives to the hoop, and finished with 28 points and 13 rebounds.

Dee Dee's dogs take lead at the Iditarod

NIKOLAI, Alaska (AP) — Dee Dee Jonrowe was the first Iditarod musher in Willow, Alaska, was the first Iditarod musher in the Rohn Roadhouse checkpoint, passing three mushers along the route.

Jonrowe, a perennial top 10 finisher, arrived at 11:51 a.m., followed by Bill Cotter 19 minutes later. Two-time Yukon Quest winner Charles Boulding was third at 12:45 p.m. and defending champion Martin Buser arrived at 1:39 p.m.

Behind them were Montana's Doug Swingley at 2:20 p.m. and five-time Iditarod champion Rick Swenson at 2:25 p.m.

Nikolai is a tiny Native village of 109 people about 365 miles from the start in Anchorage. There are no roads to the community.

Children in Nikolai collected autographs from the mushers Tuesday, with Buser handing out signed dog booties. Swenson at the Nikolai school opened a restaurant for the drivers. Boulding ordered a chili cheese dog and chili cheese-burger with bacon — after he fed his dog team.

Jonrowe had left Rohn at 4:03 a.m. She was fourth out of that checkpoint, trailing leader Rick Mackey by 38 minutes. Cotter out of Rohn was Boulding, and then came Cotter.

Mushers are traveling in the night hours and the cooler hours of the day to escape relatively warm trail conditions that can tax the dog teams. The temperature was 5 degrees below zero this morning in Nikolai with brilliant blue skies and almost no wind.

Busers have had clear weather and a fast trail so far in the race. The first musher is expected in Nome, 1,100 miles from Anchorage, early next week.

One of the 58 mushers has scratched so far. Physician Lorren Weaver of Wasilla quit Tuesday in Rainy Pass, 224 miles from the start, with a broken sled. Weaver has finished the Iditarod twice, in 1990 and 1992.

Top mushers were in a tight pack leaving Rohn, with less than 24 hours separating the first eleven mushers. By Tuesday afternoon, 44 mushers had arrived in Rohn.

Among them was Libby Riddles, the 1985 Iditarod winner and the first woman to win the race. She was the 29th musher into Rohn.

"I tallest starter stands 6 feet, 7 inches. There is another 6-7 on the bench and the roster is filled with 6-0 to 6-4 players."

"They have two point guards that are pretty quick," Irons said.

Fashion Institute puts a lot of game into defense, particularly a 1-2-2 half court zone trap that, due to quickness, is effective.

"They like to have one of their point guards dog the ball downcourt and then go to the trap at midcourt," Irons said.

The possible fates for the second round have been rated in the top 10 at some point during the season—Eastern Arizona is 30-0 and wound up second behind Spartanburg, S.C., in the final pool. New Mexico was 15th.

Impressive about New Mexico is that it had to beat out two Texas teams, Odessa and Midland. Odessa was ranked No. 1 several times early in the season. The two Texas regions, always are considered tough brackets.

Also in the upper bracket with the Eagles will be Trinity of Texas vs. Ocala of Florida and Aquinas, Tenn., vs. Alabama Southern. One of those four will show up on Friday night's semifinals to meet CSI if the Eagles can get there.

The ticket crunch was eased somewhat Monday night when Hutchinson Junior College was eliminated by Seward, Kan., in overtime. Seward and Garden City were playing for the Kansas host spot Tuesday night. Seward was ranked No. 3.

Wednesday night, No. 4 Three Rivers, Mo., 27-3, will meet No. 5 Indian Hills, Iowa, 28-2 for that regional title. They are in the bottom bracket.

CSI will leave for Hutchinson Friday night, taking the Saturday reservations made out of Salt Lake City by the region before the season started.

"I like that," Irons said. "We can have a good, hard workout Sunday and ease up a little in another on Monday."

Irons said sophomore Aylton Tesch, who missed the last two games of the regional due to an ankle sprain, still hasn't returned to full speed but continues to show improvement.

"We feel he will be at least 95 percent of potential by Tuesday," Irons said.

Floyd cruises past Senior majors' winners at Slam

LOS CABOS, Mexico (AP) — Raymond Floyd shot a 5-under-par 67 Tuesday and won the Senior Slam by six strokes for a $250,000 payday.

Floyd had a two-day total of 139 after shooting 72 Monday in this tournament that matched the winners of the Senior PGA Tour's four majors.

"Making the putt on the first hole for birdie was the key for me today," said Floyd, who won the Tradition to qualify for the Senior Slam. "In the first round I was not comfortable driving the ball and I didn't have a real good feel for the greens. Today, I was much more comfortable with my shots and my putts."

First-round leaders Dave Stockton and Simon Hobday both had trouble finding the fairways on Cabo del Sol's ocean course. Stockton shot a 75 for a two-day total of 1-over 145 for second. Hobday had two double-bogeys on the back nine after hitting into the desert and shot a 77 for 147.

Jeff Davis pie spans generations

By Denise Turner
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — We're still receiving great bean recipes and favorite recipes for Jeff Davis Pie, both requested by readers.

Here's a pie recipe from Kennie Hudson of Buhl.

"It's been handed down for four generations," she wrote.

JEFF DAVIS PIE

4 egg yolks
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cloves
2 heaping tablespoons cornstarch
Dash salt

Mix dry ingredients. Add beaten egg yolks and 2 cups milk. Stir until well blended. Use double boiler or heavy (club aluminum) type kettle. Cook until thickened. Stir constantly. Pour into baked pie shell.

Topping:
Beat the 4 egg whites until they stand in peaks. Add 6 tablespoons sugar, one at a time, beat well after each. Pour over filling. Spread, being sure to touch edges of pie crust.

Bake at 350 degrees until light brown.

Here are more recipes from the 1994 Filer Bean Festival. These took first, second and third places in the appetizer/salad category.

First place went to Kathy Taylor of Buhl for her "Spaghetti and Pinto Picnic Salad." Second place went to Kate Krat of Twin Falls for "Tuxedo Bean Salad." Third place went to Sherry Jeff of Twin Falls for "Cowboy Cavalr."

SPAGHETTI & PINTO PICNIC SALAD

1 pound boneless chicken, cut in strips
1 cup red salsa divided by 2
1 to 4 teaspoons season salt, divided
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 pound dry spaghetti, broken in half
4 cups cooked pinto beans
1 large tomato, seeded and chopped
1/2 cup sliced green onions (10-12)
1 can sliced black olives
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1/2 cup shredded Jack cheese
1 1/2 cups sour cream
3 cups tort lettuce
2 cups fresh crushed nacho chips

In medium bowl, combine chicken, 1/2 salsa, 1/2 teaspoon salt and marinate cold for 1 hour. In medium skillet, cook chicken and marinade. Let cool. Cook spaghetti; combine with chicken to coat. Add next 6 ingredients. In small bowl combine sour cream, 1/2 salsa and season salt. Pour over spaghetti mixture and toss to coat. Chill. Finally add lettuce and crushed chips.

TUXEDO BEAN SALAD

Salad:
2 15-ounce cans black beans or 1 cup dry black beans
3 4-ounce Queso Cotija (a dry skim milk Mexican cheese available at Walmart in Twin Falls)
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 teaspoon dried oregano

Dressing:
1/2 cup olive oil
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

Garnish:
1/2 cup dried fresh red peppers

If using black beans, soak overnight. Drain, rinse, place in saucepan. Cook until tender (1 1/2 to 2 hours). Drain, rinse and proceed with recipe. If using canned black beans, drain, rinse. Combine salad ingredients in a large bowl and gently toss so as not to mash beans. Refrigerate overnight or let sit for a few hours at room temperature.

Mix dressing ingredients together in small bowl.

Just before serving, pour dressing over salad. Mix gently. Garnish with chopped red pepper. Serve on a bed of crisp lettuce accompanied by a loaf of crusty bread.

Get rid of guilty feelings with these low-fat treats

Warm weather is coming, along with the festive occasions that accompany it — weekend brunches, wedding showers, outdoor parties and graduation open houses. Such occasions call for glorious, tantalizing desserts, desserts like rich, creamy chocolate Yogurt Cheesecake, melt-in-your-mouth Chocolate Mousse Squares, and delectable moist Mocha Marble Pound Cake.

"I couldn't... I shouldn't... I can't you say? But you could, you should, and you can! Because even if you're trying to limit your fat and calorie intake, these scrumptious desserts are not off limits. Each is surprisingly low in fat and calories with no more than five grams of fat per serving."

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE SQUARES

1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, divided
3 tablespoons plus 2/3 cup granulated sugar, divided
1/2 cup (1/2 stick) margarine
1/2 cup Hershey's Cocoa
1/2 teaspoon powdered instant coffee
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup Egg Beaters 99 percent Egg Product
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup Dannon Plain Lowfat Yogurt
Powdered sugar

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In medium bowl, stir together 1/2 cup flour and 3 tablespoons granulated sugar. With pastry blender or two knives, cut in margarine until fine crumbs form. Press mixture into bottom of ungreased 8-inch square baking pan. Bake 15 minutes or until golden. Meanwhile, in small mixer bowl, stir together remaining 2/3 cup granulated sugar, cocoa, remaining 2 tablespoons flour, instant coffee and baking powder. Add egg product and vanilla; beat until well blended. Add yogurt, beat just until blended. Pour over baked layer. Reduce oven temperature to 300 degrees. Bake 30 minutes or until center is set. Cool in pan on wire rack. Sift powdered sugar over top. Cut into bars. Cover; refrigerate leftovers.

Makes 16 bars.

CHOCOLATE YOGURT CHEESECAKE

Yogurt cheese* (made from 32-ounce container Dannon Vanilla Lowfat Yogurt)
2 tablespoons graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup Hershey's Cocoa
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup Egg Beaters 99 percent Egg Product
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
Assorted fresh fruit

Heat oven to 300 degrees. Sprinkle graham cracker crumbs on bottom of 8-inch springform pan. In medium bowl with wire whisk, gently mix yogurt cheese, sugar, cocoa and constarch until well blended. Add egg product, vanilla and almond extract; stir until blended. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 55 to 60 minutes or until edges are set. Remove from oven to cooling rack. Cool 30 minutes. With knife, loosen cake from side of pan; cool to room temperature. Remove side of pan. Refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Garnish with fruit.

Makes 10 servings.

*To make yogurt cheese: Line non-rusting colander or sieve with a large piece of double thickness cheesecloth or large coffee filter; place colander over deep bowl. Spoon yogurt into prepared colander; cover. Refrigerate until liquid no longer drains from yogurt, about 24 hours. Remove yogurt from cheesecloth; discard liquid.

MOCHA MARBLE POUND CAKE

1/2 cup (1/2 stick) margarine, softened
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup Egg Beaters 99 percent Egg Product
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 container (8 ounces) Dannon Coffee Lowfat Yogurt
1/2 cup Hershey's Cocoa
Mocha Yogurt Glaze (optional, recipe follows)

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Grease 9-by-5-by-3-inch loaf pan. In large mixer bowl, beat margarine, sugar and vanilla on medium speed of electric mixer until well blended. Add egg product; beat until smooth. Stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; add alternately with yogurt to margarine mixture, beating on low speed until well blended. Remove half of batter to medium bowl. Add cocoa to remaining batter in large bowl; beat until blended. Alternately spoon coffee and chocolate batters into prepared pan. With knife or spatula, gently swirl through batter for marbled effect. Bake 60 to 65 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan to wire rack. Cool completely. Frost with Mocha Yogurt Glaze, if desired.

Makes 16 servings.

Mocha Yogurt Glaze: In small bowl, combine 1/2 cup powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon Hershey's Cocoa and 1 tablespoon Dannon Coffee Lowfat Yogurt; stir until smooth and of spreading consistency. Add additional yogurt, 1/2 teaspoon at a time, if needed.

CHOCO-ORANGE FLUFF

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup Hershey's Cocoa
2 cups skim milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 to 1/4 teaspoon orange extract
1 1/2 cups frozen light non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
Whipped topping (optional)
Fresh orange wedges (optional)

In medium saucepan, stir together gelatin, sugar and cocoa. Stir in milk; let stand 2 minutes to soften. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 5 minutes. Pour mixture into medium bowl; stir in vanilla and orange extracts. Refrigerate, stirring constantly, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon (do not allow to gel). Add 1 1/2 cups whipped topping to chocolate mixture; beat with wire whisk until well blended. Refrigerate about 10 minutes to thicken slightly. Spoon into dessert dishes. Refrigerate 3 to 4 hours or until set. Garnish with whipped topping and orange wedges, if desired.

Makes eight 1/2 cup servings.

Cook's profile

Irma Haley's refried bean chiffon pie impressed the Filer Bean Festival judges and disappeared fast when the public came for a taste.

Bean Chiffon Pie can put a sparkle in your eyes

By Cathy Walworth
Times-News correspondent

Sometimes you can just read a recipe and know it's a good one. Irma Haley ("no relation to the fellow who discovered the comet," she says) offers her now-famous Bean Chiffon Pie, which won her first place at last weekend's annual Filer Bean Festival. Again.

Haley's entered the contest seven times and won seven times. Who needs a comet?

BEAN CHIFFON PIE
First the graham cracker coconut crust:

1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup sweetened flaked coconut
1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted (she used butter)
1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
2 tablespoons sugar

Mix all ingredients. Press evenly into bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake until golden brown about 8 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Cool completely.

Bean Chiffon Pie filling:

1/2 cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon each ground nutmeg and ginger
3 eggs, separated

1/2 cup milk
1 cup refried beans, vegetarian variety, (no onion, garlic or lard)
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped

Garnish: chopped candied ginger and some of the flaked coconut, toasted

Mix sugar, gelatin, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger, egg yolks, milk, and beans. Put in blender to smooth the beans. Cook over hot, but not boiling water in a double boiler, until thickened. Refrigerate, covered until partially set, about 30 minutes.

Beat egg whites in small mixing bowl until stiff. Whisk refrigerated gelatin mix in a large bowl to remove lumps (it won't gel evenly). Fold in 1/2 cup beaten egg whites, pour the two together, fold in rest of egg whites, pour into prepared crust. Refrigerate until firm, at least 4 hours, but not longer than 24 hours.

Spread whipped cream over pie and garnish with candied ginger and coconut.

The Haleys don't eat this high on the beanstalk every day, but they do try to eat beans at least twice a week, Irma Haley said. Normal fare at the bean farmers' table includes soups, salads and, Irma-Haley's bean cake once in a while. But desserts don't often make an appearance, she said.

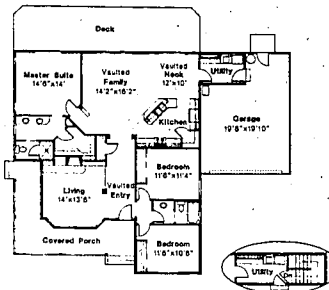

The healthy diet must work for them: Roy Haley is 76 and still farming full time, and Irma Haley is certainly doing her part at 75.

Cambridge

Cambridge 10-045
Living Area 1784 sq. ft.
Outside Dimensions 63'x20'

Alternate Basement Plan

Cambridge breaks country-style rules

The Cambridge is that rare exception to the rule — a compact country-style home. Typically, homes with gabled rooflines, dormer windows and a wrap-around front porch are in the medium-size range, out of reach for first-time homebuyers and far too large for empty nesters.

But this plan is designed for the economy and efficient maintenance, making it equally well-suited to the needs of singles, families with young children, or couples who've graduated from parenthood to grandparenthood.

And placement of the front bedroom, adjacent to the front porch, makes it an ideal location for a home office. Relocating the closet would allow installation of a door for direct access from the porch.

Day-to-day living takes place in a bright, vaulted family room/kitchen combination that faces the rear. Naturally illuminated by skylights, side windows and a high dormer, this area rarely needs electrical lighting during daylight hours.

Sliding glass doors in the eating room open onto a wide deck allowing meals to move outside when days are warm. Utilities are just a few steps away, tucked in the passageway to the garage.

Potted plants flourish on 8-foot high recessed plant shelves that flank the vaulted entry hall, overarch the entrance to the family room and mark the passageway to the master suite. Families with brown thumbs can use these shelves as display space.

Luxury amenities in the master suite include a large walk-in closet and twin basins in a dressing area separate from the water closet and shower.

While the Cambridge lacks a formal dining room, it does have an impressive living room with a wide bay window. Built-in bookcases flank a wide-hearth fireplace, providing display space for family mementos.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Drive, Eugene Ore. 97402. Please specify the Cambridge 10-045 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring more than 150 home plans is available for $12. For more information, call (800) 634-0123.

Material Girl Madonna puts Hollywood house up for sale

By Ruth Ryan
Los Angeles Times

Pop star Madonna has put her controversial Hollywood Hills home, painted in yellow and red stripes after she bought it a couple of years ago, on the market at $7 million.

Built in the 1920s and used in the 1930s as a gambling den by Bugsy Siegel, the nine-story, Mediterranean-style house was all white when Madonna bought it for $5 million.

The house has four formal bedrooms, two maids rooms and a chauffeurs' quarters, all in about 7,800 square feet. The home is on 3.5 acres overlooking Lake Hollywood.

"She's madly in love with the house but spends so much time in Florida and New York," said Liz Rosenberg, Madonna's publicist. "If she could move the house there, brick by brick, she would."

Madonna owns a 1920s-era waterfront home in Miami, which she bought for about $4 million five months before she purchased her home in Hollywood. She also has an apartment in New York.

Madonna, 36, is one of pop music's wealthiest entertainers. She signed a multimedia pact with Time Warner in 1992 worth about $60 million. Her single "Take a Bow" and album "Bedtime Stories" are in the top 10 nationally. And she appears in Quentin Tarantino's next movie, "Four Rooms," which finished shooting in December.

She also appeared in "Dick Tracy" (1990), "A League of Their Own" (1991) and "Body of Evidence" (1993).

Los Angeles Laker basketball star Vladio Divac and his wife, Ana, have purchased a three-bedroom townhouse for his sister near their own residence in Pacific Palisades, on Los Angeles' west side, sources say.

Ana Divac's sister had been living with the couple since fleeing civil war in what is now known as Bosnia-Herzegovina, in the former Yugoslavia, where the Divacs were born and raised.

Divac, a Laker center for five years, is playing this season as a power forward after finishing last season as the first person to lead the team in scoring and rebounding since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in 1984-85. Divac has a six-year, $22.8-million contract that will pay $3.33 million this year.

Home of the 21st Century showcases future

By Susanne Hupp
Orlando Sentinel

From the newly paved street in the Sweetwater area of Orange County, Fla., the $700,000 Home of the 21st Century looks pretty much like a 20th-century house. Inside, the colors are brass and new and the furnishings contemporary, if not quite avant-garde.

But it is the wizardry hidden behind the walls that Time Warner Cable and Southern Living magazine believe foretell the future.

Two small, airconditioned, electronic command posts — one above the garage and another above the master bath — along with about three miles of wire link home management, interactive television and telephone systems.

This wiring is connected to nine television monitors, telephones, keypads and remotes throughout the house. The systems work together to give the homeowner easy access to interactive cable programming along with control of some household tasks from one's bed, easy chair, automobile, airplane or office.

The 3,700-square-foot, four-bedroom Home of the 21st Century showcases Time Warner's experimental interactive multimedia Full Service Network along with Honeywell's TotalHome system. The house was designed by Orlando architect John Henry and built by Ken Walkins of Signature Homes, Longwood, Fla., with interiors by Godfrey & Associates, Winter Park, Fla.

The Time Warner and Honeywell systems are integrated in the prototype home to allow the homeowner to:

- Show movies on demand.
- Play video games with other users of the Full Service Network.
- Shop at some of the country's best-known specialty stores and later this year order from Winn-Dixie and Eckerd Drugs.
- Regulate heat and air conditioning; control lights, video and audio equipment and many electrical appliances from almost any automobile.

Before the end of the year, the Full Service Network also will offer news-on-demand from Cable News Network, ABC, NBC, Time magazine, Fortune and The Orlando Sentinel.

Southwest Seminole and northwest Orange county homeowners who Time Warner has targeted to receive the network on a trial basis can get a glimpse of what will be installed in their homes this year. They can see the advanced cable box called the home communications terminal, the remote controls and the color printers.

The network has been installed in about six of the 4,000 homes that are in the test area. The Honeywell system is not involved in the test.

"The whole system is designed to integrate technology with your lifestyle, put technology at your service," said Charles O'Meara, owner of Absolute Sound, Winter Park, whose company installed all the audio and video equipment.

It makes space-age technology accessible to people who aren't "technophiles," O'Meara said. "Most people are not computer savvy, and because of that they are not able to take advantage of a lot of the services and benefits that computer users have."

He continued, "Time Warner has unified much of the power available to the online computer user and given Joe Average that control with the little Time Warner remote control and the on (television) screen interactive display. Say you're watching a movie. You will be able to order pizza with the same remote you used to play the movie. It's your magic wand. Think of it as computer, modem, fax, phone, TV cable system all rolled into one."

The Time Warner Full Service Network offers entertainment, shopping and educational features, but it is Honeywell's system that has the most user-friendly feature of all — Alfred, an animated, electronic butler.

Alfred appears on the television screen with a flick of the remote and greets the homeowner in the morning by turning on the coffeepot, lighting the hallway to the bathroom and turning the shower on to a predetermined temperature.

Alfred also adjusts the heat or air for waking hours; controls lights, security, appliances and music during the day and evening; and bids his boss "good night" by turning lights off, temperature down and the security system on.

Jonathan Brown of Gorilla Systems in Oldsmar created the custom software that produces Alfred and the home management interface that links the systems.

An AT&T Partner telephone system includes intercom, hold and transfer features; three-way conferencing; and automatic dialing. The system allows the homeowner to operate the home management functions by phone.

The design/build team, including Ethan Allen Inc., which supplied the furniture, was put together by Bill McDougall, operations and publications manager of the Southern Living Homes Group in Birmingham, Ala.

The team has been working on the house for more than a year, and the floor plan will be featured in the summer issue of Southern Living House Plans, a magazine that is published three times each year.

Betsy Godfrey of Godfrey & Associates said her company's task was to showcase the Ethan Allen contemporary, steel and glass furniture.

Designers chose fabrics — some suedes, some silks — in rich reds, purples, greens, blues and yellows used against "cashmere-toned woods."

Using textured paints can give one-of-a-kind finish to walls

Do-it-yourselfers who want a unique finish for walls and ceilings or need a way to cover minor imperfections should consider texture paint.

Textured coatings have a thicker consistency than regular paint, sometimes so thick they are troweled on. The thickness or heavy body gives the applicator a wide choice of effects, ranging from a slightly rough or "sand" finish to the appearance of tooled plaster.

Texture paint can conceal hairline cracks and patched areas or help smooth uneven surfaces, but is not a cure-all for damaged walls and ceilings. Cracks, except for hairlines, should be patched before the paint is applied, and wallpaper or loose existing paint must be removed. Slick surfaces should be roughened with sandpaper, and stains should be sealed with a stain-killer primer.

Getting good results with texture paint starts with buying the correct product. Read the directions carefully before buying and note any special requirements, such as whether a primer is needed. Also make sure the paint is suitable for the surface and will produce the intended finish.

For example, some home centers and paint stores sell two types of texture paint, a sand finish and a coarse finish, along with special roller covers for each. Rolling on the sand finish will give a surface with a lightly stippled effect. The coarse finish, applied with a long-nap roller, will give a much bolder stipple. Roller-applied supplies are the easiest of textured finishes.

Texture paints generally sell for less than $10 per gallon and are usually white or off-white. If color is wanted, a coat of conventional wall-ceiling paint can be applied after the textured coating dries.

Do-it-yourselfers who have never tried texturing should practice on a scrap piece of plywood or cardboard, especially if the paint is to be tooled after application to get a special pattern or effect.

Tools used to get special effects are a coarse paint brush, which can be used to create swirls; a sponge, used as a dauber or to make swirls; and a putty knife, used to make indentations and ridges. Combs and daubers made from crushed newspaper also can be used for tooling.

When applying texture paint with a roller, coat an area no larger than four feet by four feet at a time. When a section is finished, immediately start another section next to it, blending in edges of the sections while the paint is still wet. Texturing is best done on a cool day, since lower temperatures slow drying time and help prevent lap marks.

If tooling is to be done, it's best to work with a helper, one person applying a section of paint, the other tooling it while another section is applied.

Texture painting is messy, so spread plenty of drop cloths and wear old clothes.

SMOKE DETECTORS

One of the best defenses against fire deaths and injuries keeps getting better.

First Alert, in Aurora, Ill., now offers a special detector for the hearing-impaired. The detector, which is connected to 120-volt house wiring, rapidly flashes a bright strobe light while sounding an audible alarm. If a detector is placed over a bed, the light is said to be bright enough to awaken a sleeping person who cannot hear the alarm. The special detectors sell for about $140. For more information, call First Alert at 800-323-9005.

Battery-operated smoke detectors can be kept active longer by using a long-life lithium battery instead of the standard, one-year alkaline battery. Nine-volt lithium batteries, which sell for about $12 each, last up to six years. Lithium batteries are hard to find, but are showing up in more and more home centers and electronics-supply outlets.

First Alert also offers a free booklet, "Smoking Out the Facts About Home Fire Detection," with tips for selecting, installing and maintaining smoke detectors and fire extinguishers. The booklet also tells how to prepare and carry out a fire-escape plan for a home. The tips are given in English, Spanish and Japanese. To get a copy of "Smoking Out the Facts," send a request to Fire Safety Tips, 415 N. LaSalle, No. 700B; Chicago, Ill. 60610.

Readers' questions and comments should be sent to Gene Austin, The Philadelphia Inquirer, Box 8263, Philadelphia, PA 19101.

A little kindness goes a long way with your in-laws

DEAR READERS: Yesterday, at the request of a reader who had lost the original column, I repeated my tips on how to get along with your daughter-in-law. Today, in the interest of evenhandedness, here are my tips on how to get along with your mother-in-law - which were also printed at that time:

1. Invite your in-laws over once in a while. (Once a year is better than never.)
2. When you are invited to your in-laws' home for dinner, offer to bring something, and also offer to help with the serving and cleaning up afterward. Don't act like a guest - you're family.
3. Phone your mother-in-law to ask, "How are you feeling?" and make a little small talk. This shows that you are interested in her, which will help build a closer relationship.
4. If she has given you a gift, such as a sweater or a purse, be sure that she sees you wearing or carrying it at least once.

5. If your mother-in-law has given your children clothing, make sure they wear the clothes in her presence while they are still new and in good condition.

6. If perchance she has hurt your feelings, don't let it fester and do not complain to your husband. Say, "Mom, you hurt me," then tell her why, so you can put the matter to rest.

7. Don't compete with her daughter if she has one. Accept the fact that she's apt to favor her own. (You will too if you have one someday.)

8. Never repeat family gossip. And try not to listen to any.

9. Make it a point to ask her for something - a recipe, for example. And after you have used it with good results, thank her for it. (Knowing she has been helpful will make her feel wonderful.)

10. Love her son, and take good care of him.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't

Dear Abby

think this is too stupid a problem, but I really do need an answer. People have come up to me and said, "You look so sad..." as though the weight of the world were on your shoulders. Why don't you smile?"

Abby, I can't help it. I am not sad, but I have a rather long, bony face and thin lips that tend to turn down in the corners. And when I am deep in thought, I have a tendency to frown.

I try to be pleasant, but I'm not exactly the life of the party. Is there a solution to this problem?

-NOT SMILING, BUT CONTENT

DEAR NOT SMILING: For

what it's worth, a phony smile is worse than a natural frown. Be yourself, and make no apologies for it.

If people have the gall to suggest that you smile, ask them to say something funny.

DEAR ABBY: A note to "Livid in Salem, Mass.," the receptionist in a physician's office who complained about children's messages on patients' answering machines: I agree. Long messages on answering machines are both time-consuming and irritating, but how about when a patient calls a physician's office only to be put on hold for five to 10 minutes listening to elevator music? That's what I call suffering! As long as it's not an emergency, I'd rather be asked for my name and phone number and get a return phone call than be put on hold that long.

"Livid," if that's all you have to gripe about with all the suffering you see while working in a physician's office, I'd say you have a pretty good life.

REAL ESTATE FACTS
BY: SID LEZAMIZ ASSOCIATE BROKER
IRWIN REALTY, INC.

Q: Are there certain rules of etiquette to follow when buying a home?

A: Yes. When planning to purchase a home, contact the agent of your choice before you are ready to look at homes. Plan to spend time in the agent's office discussing your needs and objectives, as well as your financial picture.

If you don't have an agent, interview several agents before looking at homes. Pick an agent who understands your needs and is willing to spend hours finding you the right home. Never work with more than one agent at a time. This is a duplication of efforts, and buyer will get the short straw every time.

Next, be prepared to allow plenty of time when looking at homes. Rarely will you purchase the first home you see. Be prepared to invest many hours looking for the right home. Bring only the decision makers. Leave kids & friends at home.

Realtors spend many hours of preparation before the first house is shown and they appreciate buyers who practice good homebuying etiquette.

Sit down and craft your own luck of the Irish

St. Patrick's Day is a fun holiday and here is a quick and easy idea to add some Irish fun to your home.

Leprechaun Hat Windsock
Supplies needed:
Plastic or felt leprechaun hat (available at variety stores)
Green ribbons in various shades or designs
Hot glue and glue gun

Valley crafts
Tracy Dalin

Punch a small hole in the top of the hat and string a piece of thin ribbon through, forming a loop and tying the ends together to form a knot on the inside of the hat. This is how you will hang your wind hat, so make the loop as long as you desire.

Glue a wide piece of ribbon around the base of the crown of the hat to form a hat band. If you have a buckle or shamrock, here is the perfect place to glue them.

Cut various lengths of remaining ribbon for the inside brim of the hat. These are the tails to the wind sock. Hang outside or inside. It makes a nice addition for the holiday and one that is sure to make everyone tip their hats.

Tracy Dalin welcomes comments on crafts or requests for craft instructions. Write to her at Box 312, Fairfield, ID, 83327.

Get into the St. Patrick's Day spirit with this leprechaun hat windsock.

30 years later, Julia Child is still the master

By Kimberly B. Marlowe
Seattle Times

Although I was raised in the boil-it-until-it-surrenders school of home cooking, I have since eased myself out of many of those backward ways. While still suspicious of any seafood more exotic than a fish stick, I'm now completely at ease eating caviar on everything but frozen yogurt.

Still, most of my in-home meals can be traced directly to an automatic rice cooker, the toaster and the telephone speed dial that links me to a neighborhood pizza joint that delivers.

Who better, reasoned my editor, to preview the latest programs starring the whisk-wielding high priestess of public television kitchens, Julia Child. Knowing I can only benefit from any gourmet's guidance, I agreed. Plus, I wanted to see if about time to see the 6-foot-2-inch Child hack up poultry with abandon, cheerfully splattering her tidy TV kitchen with bits of wing, all the while chattering away in her cheerful falsetto.

Time has been friendly to the woman who built a broadcast career on oasting. She's older, of course, a little less trim and a bit stooped over, but her infectious curiosity and love of all-things-culinary have not grown stale. The new PBS program, "Julia Child with Master Chef," is a fun series built around cooking sessions in her own Cambridge, Mass., kitchen.

Set to debut in April, the 39 episodes feature 26 chefs from top restaurants who join Child to demonstrate their specialties. She looks on, murmuring encouragement and gently trying the chef's tricks and techniques. Her sloppy attempt at tossing pizza dough along with chef Roberto Donna, of the Washington, D.C., restaurant Galileo, is an endearing sight. As always, Child's willingness to risk appearing silly in the line of duty results in an entertaining and nonrehearsed means of teaching.

The smallest insider tip delights her. When pizza-master Donna (who charmingly refers to the yeast mixture as "he") entreats Child not to overwork the dough, she utters her familiar chirp of approval, as apt as if he'd revealed some closely guarded secret from the kitchens of his Northern Italian ancestors.

After reviewing her new program, a look back at one of Child's first shows was a hoot. Political correctness and the mania for low-fat, low-sodium meals hadn't been cooked up yet.

Child opened the early segment by flatly stating that, "whenever the French take over a recipe, they do it in their own way and they don't care how anyone else does it." And the meal — a chicken and vegetable dish, with risotto on the side — easily contained more butter than the average cook now uses in a week. Not to mention the generous handfuls of salt flung into every pot in sight.

Most entertaining was the interlude during which Child, sporting a large Band-Aid on one finger, demonstrated the method for removing bones from a chicken. "It's a sort of cut and scrape business," she trilled, as she triumphantly ripped the bird's skeleton free of its flesh.

Later, entering into the spirit of things, I bought a chicken and tried it myself. Hindered somewhat by the dull edge of my ancient poultry boning knife (routinely used to pry open boxes from Land's End), I still managed a fairly respectable job of separating the chicken from its bones.

More than 30 years have passed since Julia Child first popped up on the tube with her unabashed Yankee pronunciation ("A sim-ply delicious tow-motto sauce!") and energetic, flashing cutlery. There's hours of stuff on TV each day revealing acts that no one should do with an audience (exercise, prayer and shopping for tacky costume jewelry to name three). Cooking instruction, though, when done with Child's casual touch and genuine enthusiasm for the details of food preparation, still works.

She might not be able to help the culinarily impaired among us become chefs, but she certainly provides a healthy respect for what goes on behind the scenes at our favorite kitchens.

Even if it is only in the brief pause before I hit the speed-dial for tonight's pizza, I will now hear her high-pitched voice agreeing that, yes, overworking the dough would be a very bad thing.

Green days again! Asparagus tips will soon appear

By Karla Cook
Knight-Ridder News Service

If price is any indication, and it is, asparagus season — and thus spring — has begun.

And isn't it about time to see those pale green spears of spring, touched with a tinge of red and practically jumping into your hand.

Indeed, asparagus is a vegetable of hope. Those who imagine growing it in their backyard gardens must believe that they won't be packing up and moving; asparagus requires three years of growing, establishing its roots, before any harvest of substance can be made.

But then, what a reward: A couple I know, their children grown and having children of their own, turned energies to their asparagus bed one spring.

They waited enough for the deer and themselves, and now, nearly a decade later, they feast on platters of asparagus in the early spring.

Current crops are the first of the domestic season, which reaches into summer. Midsummer crops are shipped from Washington and Michigan; in the fall, it's from Mexico, then through January, the spears are from Chile, New Zealand and Mexico.

Asparagus is high in vitamins A and C, and is a respectable source of vitamin B, calcium, protein and potassium, says Curtis Aikens in "Guide to the Harvest" (Fechter, $14).

At the market, choose spears of uniform color that move from bright green to a creamy ivory at the stem end. If possible, select pencil-thin versions with tightly closed tops, for they are quite tender and require only a minimum of blanching.

At the market, choose spears of uniform color that move from bright green to a creamy ivory at the stem end. If possible, select pencil-thin versions with tightly closed tops, for they are quite tender and require only a minimum of blanching.

With a paring knife, remove the triangular attachments to each spear.

Rinse, then steam until bright green and crunchy. Or boil in a small saucepan (so that the tips don't reach the water) just until stems are bite-tender. Serve with lemon wedges, or with grated Parmigiano Reggiano.

QUICK ASPARAGUS SALAD (4 servings)
1 pound asparagus
3 tablespoons light soy sauce
1 teaspoon sesame seed oil or hot sesame oil

Cut or snap off tough ends of asparagus and cut off the small wedge-shaped leaves up to 2 inches from the tip.

Wash well and cut on the diagonal into 1/4-inch lengths.

Bring 6 cups of water to a boil in a saucepan over high heat. Add the asparagus pieces. As soon as the water returns to a boil, drain and quickly cool in cold water to stop the cooking. Drain well. (The asparagus can be cooked a day ahead and refrigerated.)

Just before serving, place the asparagus in a serving bowl and toss with the soy sauce and sesame seed oil. Serve at room temperature.

Have a 'Spook'tacular St. Paddy's Day

The Irish love to tell tales about mischievous leprechauns, ghosts and fairies. For a St. Patrick's Day celebration with a different twist, plan a kid's party around this longstanding tradition. To help you get started, the makers of Hi-C, have created easy-to-follow party tips designed so kids can take part in the party preparations.

Kick off the festivities with "Slimer's" St. Patrick's Day Punch. The main ingredient is Hi-C Ecto Cooler Citrus Drink, which is colored an "otherworldly" green, inspired by the popular Slimer character from the movie "Ghostbusters."

After the punch has been prepared, save the empty Hi-C bottle. Kids can use it to create a leprechaun centerpiece for the table.

Kids can help make "Slimer's St. Patrick's Day Punch and Leprechaun Centerpiece."

LEPRECHAUN CENTERPIECE CRAFT PROJECT FROM HI-C

- Materials:
 Empty 64-ounce Hi-C plastic bottle
 Green candy (any variety)
 1 black felt square, approximately 9 by 12-inches
 1 green felt square, approximately 9 by 12-inches
 Scissors
 White or green Styrofoam craft ball, approximately 4-inches wide
 Orange or white yarn hair (from craft store)
 Craft glue
 Small black hat (from craft store)

Straight pins:
 1 yard of green ribbon, approximately 1/2-inch wide

- Directions:
 1. Cut approximately 2 inches off the top of an empty 64-ounce Hi-C plastic bottle.
 2. Fill the bottle within an inch of the rim with green candy to create the green body of the leprechaun.
 3. Cut hands, buckle, eyes, cheeks and curved mouth from black felt. Cut arms and hat band from green felt, making two strips approximately 6-by-1 1/2 inches each.
 4. Set craft ball on top of bottle opening. Glue eyes, cheeks and mouth to craft ball. Glue yarn to craft ball forming the hair and beard.
 5. Glue green felt and black felt buckle to the hat. If desired, affix hat to craft ball with glue or straight pins.
 6. Glue black hands to pieces of green felt to form the arms and affix to the side of the plas-

- tic bottle with craft glue.
 7. Use green ribbon to tie a bow around the neck and trim to desired length.

- 1 quart sherbet
 1 bottle (2-liter) Sprite

Directions:

- In small bowl, mix gelatin with hot water until dissolved.
- Add cold water and stir.
- Pour into larger container and add Hi-C Ecto Cooler and pineapple juice. (This can be made ahead and refrigerated. Make double batches if necessary and store in refrigerator.)
- When ready to serve, add softened sherbet and Sprite. Stir to mix.
