buyers.

The slowdown in new home permits was apparent-elsewhere in Idaho a month earlier.

Idaho's volume of new residential construction in June plummeted, after hitting record-breaking levels the previous two months, said Kelly K. Matthews, a First Security Bank economist.

For the first time in 1996, the state's monthly permits for new single-family homes – 703 issued in June – fell below 1995 numbers, he said.

In May, Idaho had issued a record number of permits for single-family dwelling units; the statewide total of 928 smashed a record of 803 permits set just the month before.

Matthews compiled First

Security Bank's just-released Idaho Construction Report for une. "The reduced level of building activity in June may be a reflec-tion of the higher mortgage rate environment experienced during the second quarter," the reput-said.

the second quarter," the report-said.

Impressive gains in the same's residential construction registered during the first six months of the year likely will not be duplicated in second half of 1996. Matthews predicted.

Matthews tracks construction activity in selected Magic Valley communities: Twin Falls, Shoshone, Jerome, Gooding, Sun Valley, Kerhum and Halley.

Though Twin Falls activity was up, those cities showed a total drop in permits for single-family dwelling, units in June 1995 to 42 units in June 1996.

Dole also reached for the legacy of Ronald Reagan — substantively by peaking bold tax cuts and sylistically by adopting an optimistic spirit that is often missing from Dole speeches.

"Growth will put those women and men back on the job, pay-thecks in their pockers and hope in their hearts once again," Dole said, suggesting his tax cuts would unshackle a shuggish economy and cause "anew baith of freedom."

The reaction on Wall Street underscored Dule's dilemma heading into his nominating convention: Dole's promise of deep tax cuts

Search for TWA clues continues

EAST MORICHES, N.Y. (AP)

—Investigators looking for clues to the TWA Flight 800 disaster worked to untangle a ton of twisted metal, gauges and spaghettilike wires Monday that were once part of the plane's cockpit.

Nineteen days after the crash, the examination of the demolished cockpit held out the prospect of advancing an investigation that so far has been unable to explain why the jet blew up in flight, killing all 220 aboard.

Investigators from the FBI, the National Transportation Salers

Long Island where pieces of the plane are being collected.

Investigators have made clear that unravelling the mystery will

At the crash site 10 miles off Long Island, Navy salvage ships muscled more wreckage to the surface in hopes of finding some of the 36 missing bodies trapped beneath it. Remote-controlled video cameras scanned debris, and divers rigged debris so ti-culd be lifted.

James Kallstrom, head of the FBH investigation, has said that delays in bringing wreckage to the surface might make it more difficult to find traces of explosives, which could be literally washed away.
Also Monday, President Clinton signed a bill to punish foreign businesses that invest in Iran and Libya. He called the countries "two of the most dangerous supporters of terrorism in the world."

But the National Asian Pacific American Legal Consortium said the situation probably is worse. Many states don't track such data, and many crimes go unreported.

data, and many crimes go unreported.

The consortium documented at least 458 incidents last year, compared with 452 in 1994. It recordde at least 335 incidents in 1993, when it began compiling statisics.

"That there was even a slight increase when the FBI is reporting that all other serious crimes are failing is an important indication that there is a problem," said the consortium's executive director, Karen Narusaki.

The FBI reported in May that violent crime dropped overall by 4 percent in 1995.

U.S. offers reward for Dhahran bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is distributing up to 1,000 posters in Arabic offering a 52 million reward for information leading to a conviction in the June 25 bombing that killed 19 Americans in an apartment building outside Dhahran, Saudi

The poster bears a photograph of the eight-story building, its front torn off, and a quotation from the English philosopher-Edmund Burke. "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Other copies are being printed in English in v. Chekerbie, Scotland, that killed 270 people.

Kimberly superintendent put justice, fairness on ice

That would be the fair thing to do. If school authorities really think alcohol is immoral, they should set an example by going on the wagon. We Americans have some decidedly conflicted attitudes about alcohol. We allow its sale, we advertise it on TV, and many of us drink it. But we preach to our kids about how bad it is. Professional athletes, high-profile role models to the voune, earn huge is. Professional athletes, high-profile role models to the young, earn huge sums for making beer commercials. But we draw the line at a $7-an-hour janitor schlepping drinks to make ends meet.

Hypocritical? You bet.

We don't know Bill McCormick personally, and we can't speak for his character. But what little we do know sounds OK. He's doing his best to be a responsible citizen on the modest wages the school district pays him. He has child support to pay, and his wife has medical bills. So he grabbed one of the few part-time jobs available in Kimberly.

And as long is we're talking about values, we should mention compassion. Has Garner ever tried to support himself on 57 an hour?

A $67,000.a-year superintendent can afford to worry about the school district's image. But Bill McCormick has to worry about making a living.

Here are three options. The Kimber-ly School Board should choose one of them:

1. Find McCormick another part-time job that pays as well as bartend-

ing. Anise his pay so that he doesn't need to moonlight.

3. Mind its own business, and apologize to McCormick for trying to mind his.

Twenty miles. Familiar highway.

Theard screams, then a noise that still shakes me when thunder crashes or a door slams shut. I know now that the noise was our Ford Bronco first hitting construction barrels, then smashing into a bridge abutment with such force that it threw me from my sleep in the back seat and broke my neck.

I couldn't move. I couldn't scream. I couldn't feel my arms and legs, which led me to believe they no longer were attached. The Bronco was upside down and on fire.

I control my destiny.

I decided to drive again out of frustration with cabdrivers. I bought a minivan from a dealership in Nebraska, had it shipped to New Mexico to be converted for wheelchair use and asked my parents to drive it here so it could be fitted with additional controls.

I practiced with my dad and took a few lessons to familiarize myself with us-

I use my turn signals. I believe amber lights mean slow down. I'm certain red ones are intended as decorative straps.

But the straps are straps.

But things happen to other people.

Sports, in high school, consumed my life. Basketball, field hockey, sortball, golf, racquetball, soccer. Each we my best sport. I had gloves, balls, such last, bass, socks, helmets, sticks, clubs and uniforms for ever season. I epitlemized the female jock.

But my best friend fell asleep at the wheel, just a mile from our exit and a few lives shifted from thoughts of the future to those of the past and what we'd done to deserve such devastation. I've yet to find an answer.

Hospitals, I can assure you, are no fun. Rehabilitation is an act of torture. I spent six months learning to function with no leg use and little muscular function in my arms.

It happened to me when I seemed invincible. It happened on a familiar road, in a familiar car, at a safe speed, with my best friend, in what was supposed to be the beginning of my adulthood. The accident threw me into dependency, it devastated my mom and dad. Of this I am certain brivers are crifeles. Their aggressive driving will fall and in juro others. And they are oblivious to the danger.

Some damage cannot be undone. Listen, Listen carefully. My road from 1980 to 1996 has been filled with more potholes than you can possibly fathom.

Give rehabilitation a chance

What a shame to decall the transform program for juveniles at a care facility after only a week and a half like where, the county has been successfully transitioning juveniles had a mothe community and giving them a second chance at becoming productive entires. The youth at the Twin Falls Circ. Centre was in the facility for just an hour or more under comstant supervision, and from the ness aricle, he was a "his" with the elderly residents at the facility.

We need to remember the word rehabilitation, that means to justificate a condition of good health, "and in applies to both groups of people in this case—the elderly who are lonely and were in no apparent danger, and the justifies who needs the approval of society that his past actions are ingriven and allowed an opportunity to give back to the community for his past articles.

Soperintendent's memo a disgrace

Superimenticity is mento a usspace. I believe John Garmer opened a "can of worms" when he wrote the letters to RRI McCommick. As I read the memo sent to Bill pertaining his moonlighting at Eddys (sic) Bar, it appears the school district has no policy limiting moon-lighting opened than for Bill to tend bar. I believe all bur owners and employees should take heed to this fatt. (By the way, it's Eddie's Lounge and hus been for several years, It's disturbing that Superintendent John Garner feels that the line of work poess questionable activity and puts' the school in a compromising or embarrassing position.

Bill is a custodian at the school in Kimberly. He is a hard worker and more than willing to work extra in order to supplement his meager salary at the school. His wife has had bouts with cancer, and they had a son killed by a drunken driver. He didn't resort to handouts or feebles but was more than willing to work nights to make life a little easier, and John Garner has the audacity to believe this is disgraceful. In my conversation with Mr. Garner, he stated that it would be all right for Bill to work at the grocery store or a convenience store where beer, liquor and wine are sold, but not at bar. If a bar or lounge is so compromising and/or embarrassing, then we are all in serious trouble. According to John Garner, Bill is not allowed to work for me at Eddie's Lounge because it is compromising and embarrassing for him to support the values that the bars place in Kimberly. I have only been in Kimberly three months as manager of Eddie's Lounge and four weeks as a resident. Bill and Diane were among the first people I met when I moved here. They offered me their home one night when I was too tired to drive, and they offered me a meal (Diane is a wonderful cook).

Bill has helped in the lounge doing maintenance work and minor repairs, areas which I am not adept in, and did so with a smile.

Thank you, Bill and Diane, and good luck; and, people, let's not allow ignorance and archaic beliefs to destroy our lives.

Citizens' group pushes for rewrite of child-abuse rules

By Pat Marcantonio Times News writer

TWIN FALLS – The state should respond more quickly to child abuse complaints, a statewide clitzens' panel says. Three Magic Valley recidents were among 29 delegates from across the statewho met Friday and Saturday in Boise to forge new state child abuse rules.

One delegate, Jeanie Prince of Wendell, works as a secretary in the Department of Health and Welfare's Jerome office, but said she participated as a mother and grandmother. She is generally pleased with the results.

"I'm not sure what affect it will have," Frince said. "I wasn't just takine my views, I was taking views other people had expressed to me." The delegates focused on four sections of child-protection codes dealing with imeliness, investigation and substantiation of complaints, and placing of children outside the home. The group of people, who were selected during Health and Welfare public hearings, recommended a "respectful, non-judgmental approach should be the policy for assessments, especially during the initial contact with the family." In 1995, there were 2,105 complaints of child abuse in the Magic Valley, according to the department. About 10 percent of these complaints ended up in court. Statewide, there were about 13,500 complaints has year.

Workers must respond immediately if the challen in fife-denoming or energy and the challenge of the challe abilities.

If there is no immediate danger, workers should contact the child within 48 hours instead of two working days.

"They wanted to assure all complaints or referrals were considered promptly," said Roseanne Hardin, state family and community services state family and community services administrator. Other recommendations include a new category for cases where a child was injured, but not on purpose. They thought there were cases where parents may have caused injury to a child accidentally as opposed to a purposeful act and didn't want those accidental injuries recorded in the same fashion as someone who was acting intentionally. Hartin said.

Hardin said.

The group also wants the department to use citizen review panels to study child protection cases to make sure they are

Hate crime numbers rose again in '95

BOISE — Race-biased or hate crimes increased in Idaho for the fifth consecutive year in 1995, according to the state Department of Law Enforcement.

Idaho residents reported 115 hate crimes last year compared with 79 in 1994, a 45.56 percent increase. Forty of those 115 hate crime victims were Hispanic.

In 1994, reports of hate crimes rose nearly 13 percent to 79 from 70 the previous year, continuing a trend that saw reports more than double since 1991 when only 33 hate crimes were reported.

POCATELIO (AP) — Pocatello Fire Department crews are passing out packets of heat-tolerant wild-flower seeds along with safety information to residents of areas considered at high risk of wildfires. The Johnny Creek, Pocatello Creek and City Creek areas are at highest risk. More than 5,000 acres have been brunned by wildfires increent years, and some homes have been destroyed.

The 'U.S. Bureau' of Land-Management developed the wildflower seed selection and made it available to local fire departments. The packets contain seeds for alyssum, yarrow and blue flax, which Pocatello Fire Capt. Roger Sears said will slow a fire approaching a home.

The flowers should be planted outside at least 30 feet of defensible space, Sears said. The only vegenation inside that area should be grass and less flammable trees or shrubs.

POCATELLO.— Some Bannack County residents were evacuated from their houses Monday afternoon as a wildfire broke out northeast of Pocatello.

Three air tankers were en route about 4, p.m. to the Pocatello Creck area, about four miles outside the city, to battle the 50- to 60- are blaze.

It was not immediately clear exactly how many homes were threatened by the fire, but it was reported to be 50 feet from at least on home and others had fire retardant foam sprayed around them.

The air tankers were joining nine engine crews on the ground from the Bureau of Land Mannagement and U.S. Forest Service. Nine Pocatello smoke jumpers also were called in and buildozers were cutting fire breaks. Compiled from wire reports

He added that farmers will sometimes keep harvesting crops right on through the night and motorists shouldn't think the work has stopped just because the sun has gone down.
Cassin County Extension Agen Paul Marchant added that field burning is a common practice in the area after cereal crops are harvested, and motorists should beware of smoky conditions.
All farm equipment being driven on county and state roads should have working brake and signal lights, Fries said.

Idaho farmers grow 99 percent of the garden bean seed raised in the U.S. Hopkins said. Dry beans are another important crop in Idaho, used in chili, pork and beans and in Mexican food, and exported to several foreign coun-tries.

Support foster parents

Support TOSTEP PAPENTS.

The Magic Valley community has shown its appreciation for the dedication our foster parents have to our children. I wish the media had been present to publish and broadcast this appreciation. Only when potential families realize the Magic Valley community appreciates and supports the efforts of foster parents will they volunteer, for this tough but rewarding job.

Thirty-eight businesses in the Magic Valley contributed to our June 27. Appreciation Night. When this many people contribute their talents and their products to affirm the work of our foster parents.

ple contribute their talents and their prod-ucts to affirm the work of our foster par-ents, it certainly must reflect their impor-tance in our community. Next year, I hope to be preparing an appreciation dinner for twice as many foster parents. Our staff wants to thank all the businesses for their generous divantions and Magic. Valley-fos-ter parents for opening their homes and their hearts. We need more foster parents. If you are interested, call at 734-4000.

Pierce's double. Levi Frary knocked in the final run with a single, and all of a sudden the Cowboys were in a 40 hole. Having scored 32 runs in their previous two games, the Twin Falls crew had reason for optimism. But the stiff wind blowing in from left field knocked down every drive, turning curra-taxes bits into easy fly balls. Lefty Ryan Smith had a hand in limiting the Cowboy offense as well: "We've struggled against left-handed pitchers all season," Hornback said. "Whenever we see a lefty over their warming up, we know we're in for it."

Bird did a lot of the work at the plate during Twin Falls' comeback attempt. After Jeff Hanchey's ball up the middle proved too tough for the second baseman to hundle, Relivy Salinas drew a two-out walk and Bird singled to left to some thanchey in the fifth. By far, Tyer's most compelling stories are from the days of Allen, who Tyer said was as tough as his win-at-any-cost reputation. Allen, the coach from 1971-77, would work his players to the point of illness in the extreme heat and humidity during training camp in Carlisle, Pa.

"George didn't allow water on the field," Tyer said, "and one day we had like 11 guys end up with heat cramps. Four of them we took over to Carlisle hospital, and one of them was Billy Kilmer, the quarterback.

"Finally, George allowed me to have water breaks. If there was any question – should we or shouldn't we – we wouldn't have one. But if it was a real bad day, he'd let me have one, but not very often."

Atlanta sweeps up

City comes down from Olympic high

ATLANTA (AP) - The metal barricades came down Monday. So did the prices. It didn't take long to realize that the city's biggest party is really over. "Parking. $5," advertised a lot near Centennial Olympic Park that was charging $20 for cars to enter less than 12 hours earlier. The park, which was such a popular gathering spot during the Olympics, was closed off except for narrow wallkway, allowing workers to clean up the mess and begin taking down the huge sponsor exhibits. Of course, people could still get to the "Super Store," which remained open for those wanting to pick up a last-minute souvenir — one, final testament to the most commercial games in history. On the street, the vendors who were criticized for turning down town into a tacky flea market either packed their stands or tried to sell off their remaining goods. Anyone for a T-shirt, base-ball cap or one of those omnipresent pins?

The Atlanta Games came to end Sunday night with a Southern-style jam session featuring Little Richard and Ba. ### Oly Park dreams still alive

ATLANTA (AP) – Centennial Clympic Park will be remembered as the place where the world laughed and cried and summoned its resolve after a deadly bombing. If city planners have their way, Atlanta also will remember it as the place that rejuvenated a downtown shunned after dark by unraists, and residents, alike because of blight and crime. Atlanta Olympics chief Billy Payne himself has said that will be the ultimate legacy of his games, and some in the city's business community have been at work for months on a plan they hope will make it happen.

community have been at work for months on a plan they hope will unlike it happen.

Amang other things, they envisage more housing within walking distance of the park and a new arean for backethall's Atlanta Hawks, who have been threatening to leave the ciry. The Hawks now play at The Georgia Dome, home of football's Atlanta Falcok from the park. The Georgia Dome, home of football's Atlanta Falcoks, is also nearly. Planners also hope to develop a higger entertainment district and a landscaped, pedestrian corridorinking the park with downtown's other major attraction—the shops, barss and restaurants of Underground'atlanta.

"The findamental plan is to try to crease a Z4-hour activity around district and a diwartown," said F. Duane Ackerman, chairman of a private group formed to encourage development around the park. Eventmally, he said, it should be possible for people to "come downtown to see the Hawks and then go over to the entertainment district and have a nine evening out."

Adamtans think '96 Games Southern pride: the best in Olympic history

ATLANTA (AP) – In perhaps the most dramatic testament to what the Olympics meant to Atlanta, this perpetually self-doubting city was feeling pretty during good about itself Monday. Notwithstanding a lukewarm review by the International Olympic Committee president, the assessment from the streets of Atlanta to the rooftop of the Chamber of Commerce was swift and unanimous: the Summer Games were the greatest ever.

Tourists make Jewell's apartment a photo stop

ATLANTA (AP) - With the Olympic flame snuffed out and much of Centennial Olympic Park closed, sight-seers have found a new attraction - the apartment of Richard Jewell.

Several carloads of tourists found their way Monday to Monaco Station Apartments, where the hero-turned-suspect in the Olympic park bombing remained out of sight as the FBI and the media maintained round-the-clock scrutiny.

Short-term T-Bills fall to 3-month low

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Interest rates on short-term Treasury securities fell in Monday's auction to the lowest level since May.

The Treasury Department sold §13.2 billion in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 5.08 percent, down from 5.20 percent last week.

Another $13.1 billion was sold in sixmonth bills at an average rate of 5.13 percent, down from 5.34 percent on May 20.

The new discount rates understate the actual return to investors — 5.22 percent for three-month bills with a $10,000 bill selling for $9,871.60 and 5.34 percent for a sixmonth bill selling for $9,740.70.

Stock rally pauses before Treasury

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Stocks drifted lower Monday in unusually quiet trading, pausing from a four-session rally with bonds, as interest rates edged higher before this week's big auction of new U.S. Treasury debt.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 5.55 to 5.567428, halting a powerful 245-point advance spurred by four days of encouraging economic news. The Dow had started the day higher, moving within four points of 5.700, but then backed awny amid some profit-taking.

Bonds, the main driving force for stocks last week, lost momentum amid the usual concerns about how well the Treasury market will absorb the $39 billion in new notes and bonds to be auctioned today, Wednesday, and Thursday in the federal government's quarterly refunding.

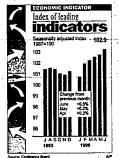

Declining issues outnumbered advancers by a slim margin on the New York Stock Exchange, where volume totaled just 303.77 million shares as of 4 p.m., making it the second shorest full-session of the year.

The NYSE's composite index fell 185 to 352.81, and the Strandard & Four's 500 stock index fell 2.25 to 650.23. The Nasdag composite index fell 4.35 to 1,201.3, and the American Stock Exchanges make value index fell 6.35 to 1,201.3, and the American Stock Exchanges to 1,201.3, and the American Stock Exchanges

They've been waiting nearly two years for the Utah Supreme Court to rule on their appeal to seek damages from accountants and thrift owners. Third Distript Judge David Young dismissed the claims, ruling in 1993 the depositors had missed a disputed filing deadline.

Until then, Bohard and an office assistant try to keep track of depositors and their families to ensure they get the money coming to them.

"They've been very active and have done a good job helping that group claim what was right-fully theirs," said Roger Brownlocal managing parrner of the accounting firm Grant Thornton, appointed by the court to liquidate the thrist assets.

When a liquidation check is returned unopened, Bohard and her assistant plow through the files looking for a paper trail that will locate the lost recipient. They ee located depositors and their, heirs around the world.

"We still have about 16 accounts that we just can't find out where the owners are," Bohard said. "There's one with the signature signed X; with no social security or address."

But those they do find ar grateful and sometimes surprised.

"It was really a shock. I had

Company hits bullseye with silver bullet Oregon firm's bullets are stronger, more accurate and less messy than others

BAKER CITY, Ore. (AP) — There are two five-gallon buck-ets full of shiny new pistol bul-lets on the floor between two blue machines at the Oregon Trail Bullet Co. Most of the bullets appear ready to be loaded into brass cartridges.

But these smooth lumps of alloy never will see the inside of a revolver cylinder or be slipped into a clip.
"They're not perfect, and because they're not perfect, they'll never be Oregon Trail Bullet Co. bullets," said Julie Magnuson, who runs the compa-ny.

Magnuson, who runs the company,
"I wouldn't consider putting out anything that wasn't the best. Every bullet is perfect when it goes out. Its story is unusual. Magnuson moved to Baker City 11V years ago. Her husband, Chuck Sellier, is a writer and producer who's involved in the motion picture industry.

"We wanted something quiet and out of the lim leight," Magnuson said. We really fell in love with Baker."

So the couple researched this dea, looked at the equipment they would need, and decided, as Magnuson said, to "take a shot at it." The idea was on target. "So far we've really enjoyed it, and we ve had some good suc-

Oregon Trail Bullet Co. sells its products locally and by main order, Magnuson said.

"I get faxes, phone calls, mail orders," she said. "We want to be accessible to every-body."

Now the company makes pix ol ammunition only, in packages of 100, 500 or 1,000 bullets. They're available in several popular calibers and weights, including 32-2-9, 9 mm and 10 mm, 38, 41, 44 and 45.

Oregon Trail Bullet Co. may eventually build rifle bullets as well, Magnuson said.

The company's building, which has been Flexible Mining Co.'s headquarters for nine years, is large enough to handle a 10-fold expansion, Magnuson said.

WASHINGTON — Aggravating tensions with allies, President Clinton ordered sanctions against foreign companies that invest in Iran and Libya. "You simply can't do business with people by day who are killing your people by night," the president declared. Germany and France denounced Monday's move as a barrier to international trade. The 15-ration European Union also protested. And Iran predicted the new law was "doomed to failure" because of the allies' objections. The United States already was under fire from Canada, Mexico and other allies for a measure Clinton signed into law that penalizes foreign businesses that invest in property the Cuban government confiscated from current American citizens.

Ford reports flattened sales of cars in U.S.

DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. said its U.S. sales of cars and trucks were flat in July compared with a year ago. European automakers, meantime, posted the biggest sales gains last month. Ford's sales report Monday completed the July tallies for foreign and domestic automakers. Overall sales by the Big Three were up 3 percent based on the daily sales rate, largely because of Chrysler Corp.'s 19 percent increase reported Friday. Salés at General Motors Corp. were down 3 percent. Ford's year-ago comparison was hurt somewhat by strong sales in July 1995. Analysts said last month's Big Three sales offered no surprises.

Report: Firms press for good stock news

NEW YORK — Wondering whether to buy or sell? Don't count on your brokerage firm for objective advice, according to a study of more than 8,000 stock evaluations by investment firms.

Brokerage firms routinely pressure their securities analysts to give overly optimistic assessments of securities sold by client companies of the brokerage, the study by Columbia University's business school suggests.

While the allegations are not new, the study released Monday bills itself as the first to extensively document the problem by looking beyond anecdetal evidence.

American farms becoming much larger

WASHINGTON — The size of the American farm is increasing as the family farm of yesteryear passes from the landscape.

The Consus Bureau reports that farms with sales of $100,000 or more increased sixfold over a quarter century, from $1,995 in 1969 to 333,855 in 1992.

At the same time, the number of farms dropped from 2.7 million to 1.9 million, according to the report released Monday.

of the thousands of assembly whether who will return the research three years, sources say.

From GM's perspective, it needs to make its labor costs more competitive with those at Chrysler Corp., Ford Motor Co., and foreign "transplant' automakers that operate nonunion assembly plants in the United States."

ealing with data

Backing up your hard drive is easier than ever

In all of computing, no chore is more thankless than backing up your data — and that's if you're lucky.
You see, backing up your data is like buying insurance.
You don't want to use it. You actually hope the time and money spent on insurance will be wasted.

But if you run a PC long enough, the odds are high that someday you'll need a data backup.

Maybe your hard drive will crash. Or your PC will be stolen.

Or a virus will corrupt your data. Or your house will burn down. Or you'll mistakenly erase something. Or your kid will format your "C." drive. So assume for a moment that one day you'll need a backup copp of your dafa. When that day comes, will you have one? For most people, the answer is no.

It's not just that people are lazy, although many are, of course.

But for the most part, the computer industry has not made it cheap or easy for people to back up their data.
For a while, when hard drives were relatively small, you could back up your data on floppy disks. But once hard drives broke the 100-megabyte barrier, that was no longer feasible. You could buy a tape backup device. It has a kind of cassette tape that stores the data from your hard drive. But the device was expensive ($250 to $500), it was relatively slow. Worse, hard drives in recent years have balloomed in size. Once 200 or 300 megabytes was considered large. Now hard drives of 1,600 megabytes often come standard.

So, since computer hard drives are difficult to back up and are generally pretry reliable anyway, most people have just gambled that their data will be safe. Today, however, a growing range of new mass-storage options is making that a foolish bet bet.

Among them is a new generation of removable storage-devices, such as the so-called Zip and Jaz drives by lomega Corp. or the EZFlyer and EZ135 drives from SyQuest Technologies.

All of these devices offer large amounts of storage on relatives of the control of the second control

All of these devices offer large amounts of storage on rel-atively low-cost cartridges or disks.

The Jaz drive, for example, fits 1,000 megabytes of storage on a single removable disk that costs about $99. For smaller amounts of data, the Zip drive holds 100 megabytes on a car-tridge costing about 515. Not only can you back up, your data with these devices, you can also use them as bot-tomless hard drives. Another mass-storage option gaining in popularity side opti-cal drive. The most common cal drive. The most commen example is a write-able compact-disc drive.

Most will store about 650 megabytes of data on a CD. ROM costing about 510 or 512. These drives can be relatively slow, but they sure are convenient, especially because they make it easy to share stored data with other computer owners who also have CD-ROM drives.

Other optical drives can hold even greater amounts of data.
The cost is correspondingly

The cost is correspondingly higher, though.
Yet another new storage option is the on-line backup service. Because they don't involve the purchase and installation of special hardware, these services may prove very attractive to some users.

to some users.

One such service is the McAfee Personal Vault, run by McAfee Associates Inc., well known for their anti-virus software.

Another comes
Pittsburgh-based SureFind

Both services allow users to send their data over the Internet to company storage devices.

Special software keeps track of the backups and can sched-ule the transfers for times when the computer owner is not using the PC.

On the backup offers several.

On-line backup offers several advantages over removable storage systems. For one thing, the data is by definition stored the utals by off-site.

That means that if your house burns down or is flooded, the disaster doesn't wreck your PC and the backups too.

For a second, the automated nature of these on-line backups means users are less likely to neglect the job than if they have to personally handle the iob.

Be even at modem speeds of 28,800 bits per second, on-line backup can be a slow process. And because on-line backup can be a slow process. And because on-line backup strength of the personal p

Whatever method you choose, backing up your data to safe-guard it hasn't been this easy for years.
Doing backups is still a chore, but that's no longer a good excuse for avoiding them.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

"He that would have the fruit must climb the tree."

- Thomas Fuller

WEST ♠ K Q 8 5 ♥-7.5 3 • 9 3 2 ♣ Q 10 3

Would you and your favorite partner reach today's grand slamwith confidence? Ordinary slamwith control showing cue-bids will get the job done. Here's how:
North's jump raise promises 15-18 HCP and sets the trump suit. South knows the hand is in the slam zone and begins the investigation by cue-bidding his first-round club control (the ace). North shows further interest by cue-bidding his diamond acc South chooses well to cue-bid his diamond king, (The first cue-bid in a suit promises first-round control; the second cue-bid in the same suit promises second-round control; the second cue-bid in the same suit promises second-round control; the second cue-bid in the same suit promises second-round control; the second cue-bid in the same suit promises second-round control; the second cue-bid on his spade acc confirms interest in seven, North would merely settle in a small slam.) South keeps the probing alive by showing his club king, and when North bids six diamonds to emphasize a good suit and further interest, South realizes his king and queen of trumps are priceless and jumps to the grand slam. There is little to the play, all the work was done during the bidding.

If you're interested in learning more abut cue-bidding principles and many other modern slam Bidding Simplet is available. Order your copy from Modern Slam Bidding Simpleties and saltself, Richardson, TX 75083, $6.95 p.p.
