PORTLAND — The capacity of power lines carrying electricity from the Northwest to power himsey California has been cut by 25 percent to reduce the likelihood of another power outage like the one that affected 4 million Western utility customers over the weekend.

The reduction may cause voluntary restrictions on power usage in California, Bonneville Power Administration Administration administrator Randall Hardy said Monday at a meeting of power system managers called to discuss the outage. Utility companies will determine, what if any roluntary restrictions will be needed, Hardy said.

"We our supportive of steps that are being taken to ensure the reliability of the Imertie System," said Greg Proent, spokesman for Pacific Gas & Electric.

Idaho high court acts in contract dispute

TWIN FALLS – The man who wants to harness the Snake River at Auger Falls got a break Monday when the state Supreme Court ruled his contract dispute with the Idaho Power Co. will be heard in state district court. The decision effectively voids a decision by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, which held that Salt Lake City developer Steve Harmsen and his company, Cogeneration Inc. had broken a Siyear "buyback" contract with Idaho Power. By law, public utilities are required to purchase electricity from independent generators. A majority of the high court's justices held

A majority of the high court's justices held that the courts, not the Public Utilities Commission, should settle contract disputes.

"Now were going to get what we've always wanted — which is a hearing on the facts," Harmsen said in a telephone interview Monday, Simply put, Harmsen amintains that Cogeneration missed its contract deadlines through no fault of its own — the delays were caused by state and federal agencies. In legal circles, the argument is known as force majeure, which means "superior force." Harmsen cited delays by the Idaho Division of Environmental Quality and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, both of which – ultimately – issued critical permits for Cogeneration to proceed.

Commissioners slam brakes on speed limits

By Pat Marcantonio Three-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The lonely county road.

Hir's not posted, you can hit 65 mph.
Three Twin Falls County highway districts favor a countywide limit of 50 mph to slow down drivers on some roads. The Twin Falls Highway District, which is the largest, says there should be a study first.

After a public hearing Monday, the county commissioners threw the issue in reverse and hallenged the districts to decide if they want such a speed study and how to pay for it.

Representatives from, the highway districts commented on the proposal, raised last week by Twin Falls County Sheriff Wayne Tousley.

Tousley was concerned about higher limits from a law enforcement and safety point of view, said Commissioner Dennis Maughan.

Tousley was not at the Monday hearing and couldn't be reached for comment later.

When the state upped the speed limits on some interstate highways to 75 mph, any unposted county road went to 65 mph, says Lyle Williamson, a Filer Highway District commissioner. I DAHO WEATHER SUMMARY

A low pressure area moving across Canada brought slightly cooler temperatures to much of Idaho on Monday. Tropical moisture also brought increased cloud cover, especially along the central mountains and to the south. Aftermon temperatures ranged from the lower 70s to upper 90s. Southern séctions of the state remained in the high 90s or low 100s, though readings were a few degrees below the levels of Sunday.

No precipitation was provided aside from a trace of moisture at Idaho Fall but thunderstorms were foreast to containe through mid-week.

NEW YORK (AP) — A national polar leased Monday provided no early evidence of a Jack Kemp "bump" for Bob Dole's presidential prospects. It did ind support edging upward for Dole's choice of running mate. In its second, wave of nightly tracking polls during Republican National Convention week, ABC News found President Clinton leading Dole 56 percent to 36 percent among 1,005 registered voters-interlywed Saturday, and Sunday. That was statistically unchanged from tracking done Friday and Saturday. If anything, Dole's support may have slipped slightly from an ABC-Washington Post, poll Aug. 1-5, before he announced his tax-cut plan and running However, Gallup's horse-race question named Gore and Kemp as running mates and so is not directly comparable to other polls, such as ABC's, that name only Clinton and Dole. Also, as Gallup cautioned, one-day polls can be less reliable than those conducted over several days.

ABC's Saturday-Sunday poll-found 63 percent approving of Dole's choice of Kemp as his running mate, an apparent increase from 55 percent Friday and Saturday. Why diet? Big babies are 'all in the family' for the Strenkert clan

BLOOMINGBURG, N.Y. (AP)—
To call Zack Strenkers a big lid is an understatement. He looks like miniature sumo wrestler, a pulfy pink cumulus cloud of flesh. At 17 months old, Zack weighs nearly 68 pounds, as much as an 8- or 9-year-old. He's 3 feet tall and nearly as big around. His T-shirts are size 14. His ankles won't fit into shoes, so he goes barefoot. On hot days, he wears nothing but a diaper, in the largest adult size.

"There are a lot of chubby kids-around," said Dr. Mary Horlick, a pedlatric endocrinologist in Nev York City. "But he's unsual." Zack's regular pediatrician said the boy just needed to be put on a dick-Fearing her son had a rare dis-case instead, Lauric Strenkert took Zack to Horlick, a specialist. But so far, there's ne oridence of a glandu-lar disorder. Zack is something of a celebrity in 60 miles north of New York City. When she struggles to lift Zack into a shopping cart, Mrs. Strenkert said, folks stop and stare. "Feople say he looks like Andre the Giant's baby," she said with a laugh. "He's like a big teddy bear." Mrs. Strenkert, 29 took Zack's story to Times Herald Record in nearby Middletown in hopes of attracting the attention of a specialist.

Freon hits list as black

STARTS WEDNESDAY - 1 WEEK ONLY!

HOUSTON (AP) — Freon, the now-banned refrigerant used in car air conditioners, has emerged as the No. 2 smuggling problem behind drugs for U.S. customs agents along the Mexican border. "If you look at contraband crossing the U.S. Mexican border, we're looking at cocaine, marijuana, heroin, prescription drugs and then Freon," Agent Steve Hooper said. Scientists believe Freon, used in, the air conditioners of most automobiles built before 1993, is eating away Earth's ozone layer. The black market for the gas has flourished since Jan. 1, when it became illegal to manufacture or import it in the United States. U.S. motorists can still buy Freon made before 1996 or recycled Freon, but a dwinding supply and excise taxes have such the price soaring. The gas is still inexpensive in Mexica and the wedoping commit? Don't have been been went into effect, suttoms agents in Texas have made more than 60 Freon seizures, confiscating 4,380 pounds, worth about $510,000. That's minor compared with a scheme cracked in Florida that involved $52 million worth of Freon. Still, the problem is destributors in New Stiffice.

Some smuggled Freon is destined for distributors in New York. However, most Freon entering Freas is headed for Houston or other steamy cities in the Southwest. The problem gets worse in the summer, when steering wheels are often too hot to handle.

Only about 10 percent of cars inade to use Freon have been altered for new refrigerants, said Frank Allison, executive director of the International Mobile Air Conditioning Association.

If an air-conditioning unit is already broken, it typically costs $50 to $200 to modify a car for new coolants. But converting a collect car can cost up to $1,200, Allison said.

Violence against public servants rising since Oklahoma City bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — An advocacy group for public employees is urging the justice. Department to step up its investigation of dozens of threats and incidents of violence against federal land managers in the West since the Oklahoma City bombing.

In a letter to Attorney General Janet Reno, Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility cited S8 incidents it said represent a pattern of violence since the bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City in April 1995 that killed 185 people. They include three bombings at U.S. Forest Service offices, two arson fires at Bureau of Land Management buildings, physical assaults of five federal workers and shots fired at six others.

The group accused the Justice

Reno to form a strike force to handle the cases. "The lack of response tends to encourage additional lawlessness by the wise-use zealots against resource managers," Jeff DeBonis, a former Forest Service worker from Eugene, Ore., who co-founded PEER, said Monday. Reno had no-immediate comment, but Justice Department spokesman Bill Brooks said the criticism "ame as a chock to us." "We met with Mr. DeBonis last summer and made it very clear that our highest concern was, and still is, to protect federal employees," Brooks said. "I think he knows that."

The employees group said, however, that few, if any, of the incidents have been resolved.

DeBonis said that during that meeting a year ago, department officials expressed concern that a government "response could inflame the situation.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass:—Inner-diy elementary students who participated in a first-in-the nation school-woucher program in Milwauke sourced higher on math and reading tests after four years than young-sters who stayed in public school, researchers said Monday.

The researchers, from Harvard University and the University of Houston, studied about 1,000 mostly minority Milwaukee students who attend private schools under the controversial, publicly funded school-choice program. The findings contradict an earlier study that found the youngsters' academic achievement wasn't any higher in private schools.

Name-grab prank sullies farm group's reputation

A couple of Idaho agriculture groups have had their hands slapped for trying to steal an environmental group's name. Good. They deserved it. The question is ~ what, oh what, did this childish prank have to do with advancing the cause of Idaho paricultured.

Here's the basic story, in case you didn't catch it last week. Back in 1993, the Idaho Farm Bareau was feuding with the Committee for Idaho's High Desert over the Bruneau Hot Springs snall. James Yost, who was the Farm Bureau's public affairs director, discovered that the High Desert bunch had failed to file its 1985 annual report with the state, and had therefore forfeited its corporate charter.

So Yost and two allies — the presidents of the Owyhee Farm Bureau and the Owyhee Caulemen's Association — appropriated the name and filed it with the state.

Jack Kemp: A big touchdown for Bob Dole

AN DIEGO - Imagine the quarterback who throws interceptions and gets sacked in the first half, drawing boos from the second half, he launches a touchdown bomb, turning the game and the fans around. Bob Dole is that heroic quarterback, Jack Kemp his TD.

This one decision by Dole immediately puts him back in the game and shifts the momentum from a seemingly unbeatable Clinton reelection campaign to a contest in which Dole and Kemp can set the agenda and make Clinton and the Democrats play defense.

Normally, the No. 2 spot does not affect the outcome of an election, but Kemp brings qualities to the ticket that enhance Dole. These include enthusiasm for ideas such as economic g wht, opportunity and the second process of the second process o

Asked why Republicans should care about poor blacks when most vote for Democrats, Kemp replied, "Because it shows compassion, concern and kindness toward people who are less fortunate. Practically, it will result in a much expanded Republican Party, but, of greater importance, it will produce a more civil nation."

Even when criticizing the ideas of Democrats, Kemp does it in a charitable way. The problem with the Great Society, he said, was not its objectives, which were good, but that it focused on redistributing income. "What needs to be done," he said,

"is to increase individual income by increasing opportunities to earn mounty."

Earlier in 1988, when he weats a presidential candidate, Kemp and, "Weccuri, win an issueless, themeless, idealess rampaign." No danger of than 1900. Both Stein will have a surplus of ideas. And in Kemp, Dole has a genuinely likelihe pay, a wife and children who are a delipin and a spirit that is infections, even sweet, without being syrupy.

In his 1979 book "An American Remissance," Kemp worter. "Opportunity, the chance to make it and to improve your life, that's what the American Person with the chance to make it and to improve your life, that's what the American Person worter, without being syrupy.

Don't count on TV to give you cycling's real thrills

The Tour de France ended its run a few weeks ago with Danish rider Bjorne Riis dethroning five-time champion Miguel Indorain. Two weeks later, Atlanta's Olympic Road Race proved to be a spirited affair, dispelling concerns that the course was too easy to insure a good race.

Both events were televised, with ESPN and ABC doing a marvelous job during the Tour by focusing on racing rather than on the human interest stories NBC focused on for the Olympic Road Race, It seemed as though the first Olympics with professional cyclists would not grab America's attention, so WBC had to "create" pleasurable viewing by spending air time on personal interviews, information on biryche technology, pictures of million-dollar homes along the course and the weather. (Was it hot in Atlanta" Humid? I didn't hear nearly enough about the weather.)

it was to watch the NBC coverage. Viewers in the U.S. missed an incredibly active race, with many attacks and break aways, heart-stopping intensity and mind-blowing tactics.

Ah, but there's the rub. Tactics. Road rucing is not one for the purely strong. Winning riders must be smart as well—so must the spectators. Really, blcycle ractics are common sense. There is nothing difficult to grasp. If there are three riders up the road from three different teams, then those teams will try to slow down the pack and the teams who do. NOT have riders up the road. Simple.

But not to TV producers. It is the old chicken and the egg argument:

Producers don't want to show a race as it happens because people apparently

B(sycle racing is EXCTING. I don't just say that. The Tour de France is the most watched sporting event in the world in non-World Cup years. What does the rest of the world see that we do not?

The viscerality of a knife fight. Bicycle racing was created by journalists. The sport's epic proportions of distance, time, conditions and valor create super heroes. To see two men giving every ounce of life to turning the pedals coward a finish line and then for one rider to look over and give just a little mora, just enough, is mesmerizing. The first time I experienced a professional bicycle race was when I rented the documentry film "a Sunday in Hell." It told the story of Eddy Merck and his attempt to win tile 1975 Paris-Roubnis which takes place over cobblestoned wagon paths in northern France. I was drawn in by the film's sparse commentary. It allowed the scenes to speak for themselves. The shots of mechanics working, riders eating meals, wang being loaded, massages being given and riders warming up were interesting. I learned from those scenes. What drew me in was the racing.

Men were riding over awful roads, propelling their machines at speeds I never knew possible. Attacking, being caught. Someone else attacking, sneaking away. Another goes and a break-away forms. Their faces contorted with pain, their eyes on fire with the Please see FOSTER, Page B2.

He's back: Howard returns to Bullets

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) – Now you see him, now you don't. And now Washington Bullets fans get to see Juwan Howard again – for at least the next seven years. Howard's basketball odyssey ended. Monday, at the USAit Arena, where the All-Star forward was the focal point of a news conference that two weeks earlier seemed like an impossibility.

news conference that two weeks earlier seemed like an impossibility.

Bullers general manager Wes Unseld, lifting a line from the movie "Poltergeist," introduced Howard by saying, "He's banack!"

Howard played two years with the Bullers before becoming a free agent following the 1995-96 season. He signed a seven-year, $100.8 million contract with Miami on July 13, and days later donned a Heat cap during a news conference in which he happily, spoke of playing alongside center Alonzo Mourning.

But the NBA ruled that Miami exceeded the salary cap in signing Howard and voided the deal on Aug. 1. Five days later, the league cleared the way for Howard to resign with the Bullets.

So, in a strange twist of fate,

Howard to result to fate, So, in a strange twist of fate, Howard returned Monday to the arena where he established himself as one of the finest young players in the game.

"I'm happy and excited about this I thank God for putting me in this position again," said Howard, whose seven-year deal with the Bullets will pay him roughly what he would have made in Miami.

"This is where my heart has always been. It was said to leave a place like this," he added.

But he also regretted leaving the Heat, who came up with a sweet deal that proved impossible to resist and was far greater than what the Bullets initially offered.

"I have much respect for (Miami Gach) Pat Riley and the Miami Heat organization. They're all great people there," Howard said. "It has to be tough for them, but now I'm a Washington Bullet and I'm happy for that."

He paused for a moment, then sat back and thought about the words that had just passed from his lips.

"It was sad to leave a place like this, but I take it as a blessing, because things happen in mysterious ways." Howard said. "In ever thought I'd be back here saying I was a Washington Bullet again, but yes indeed, this day has come."

USDA predicts 18 % corn harvest increase

WASHINGTON — Corn production is expected to increase 18 percent this year, a jump that nonetheless is unlikely to lower-prices significantly either at the grocery store or the feedlot, the Agriculture Department said Monday. In its monthly survey, the department also said whear yields will reflect slight increases over 1995 production levels, rising about 3 percent to 2.25 billion bushels.

Based on field conditions in nine Midwestern states, corn yields are projected to be 118.7 bushels an acre, totaling 8.69 billion bushels nationally, the department reported in its first estimate based on the 1996 growing season. One reason prices aren't likely to change much: Poor weather conditions are expected to result in a smaller harvest.

huge audiences, big cash flow and fat profits.

And now comes deregulation. After-Congress passed the Telecommunications Reform Act early this year, Federal Communications Commission Chairman Reed Hundt, not a man prone to overstatement, likened the new law to "the Berlin Wall of communications coming down."

The traffic of buyers and selters across the rubble of some of the now defunct restrictions on station ownership makes Hundt sound prophetic. With television well into the consolidation mode, the nation's nearly 1,200 commercial TV stations are in the sights of networks, station groups and investors because, simply, that's where the money is.

of networks, station groups and investors because, simply, that's where the money is.

It works like this: You get bigger, achieve economies of scale and reap the financial rewards of a bouning market for televised entertainment and sports. "There is a tan of potential for more consolidation," said media industry analyst Tom Buono, president of BIA Consulting in Chantilly, Va. "This has some long legs, and there is plenty of room for other players."

The broadcasters are big and unusual players in the robust national arena of mergers and racquisitions. Compared-with other merger-active participants in banking, telecommunications, insurance, and drugs and medical supplies, broadcasting—especially television—is unique because of its profitability and durability.

Unlike many asset-oriented businesses, TV broadcasting is a cash-flow operatica, with before-tax profit margins ranging from 35 percent to 50 percent.

Broadcassing consistently reports sub-stantially higher profit margins than most other industries.

This is an industry that has a very low failure rate and it generates pre-dictable and expanding cash flows," said Theodore L. Koemia, a semior part-ner at the Chicago law firm of Bolleb and Coff who specializes in mergers and acquisitions.

and continue acquisitions.

"They (stations) rarely go out of business. At worst, what happens is they are sold to larger and better-capitalized players," Koenig said. "With their mergers, they're nor closing planus, closing stores or throwing people out of work on a massive basis. The assets are the cash-flow stream, and that is what people are paying for."

In anticipation of deregulation, TV station sales amounced in 1995 topped.

on a massive mass. The assets are incoash-flow stream, and that its what people are paying for."

In anticipation of deregulation, TV station sales amounced in 1995 topped $15.5 billion, more than the previous eight years combined, according to BIA Consulting figures. The purchases in the Disney and Westinghouse deals comprised about 60 percent of than. With deregulation, there is no limit on the number of stations a company can own, as long as the stations a company can own, as long as the stations a company can own, as long as the stations company can own, as long as the stations of the mation's house of the mation house of the mation house of the mation house of the mation's house of the mation house of the ma for more consolidation. media analyst higher ceiling. And they almost certainly will.

The smaller players, such as Media General a mercaper and television may apply begain in Richmond, Va., may prove to be the most active became, as long as they have, in small TV markets, they can amass large numbers of stations before they reach the limit.

(There are about 750 television station owners. The top 25 own less than 25 percent of the total number of stations.) Sinclair Broadcast Group Inc., a formerly obscure station owner in Baltimore, completed its $1.2 billion purchase of eight stations of River Gry Broadcasting in June. Sinclair is now the seventh-largest owner of TV stations, owning or operating 28, but it reaches just 15 percent of the nation's households. Sinclair will not stop there.

"Our objective is to be one of the largest owners of radio and television stations in the U.S.," David Smith, Sinclair's chief executive, said when the deal was announced in April. "If that extends to 100 television stations and 200 radio stations, that's what we are going to get."

This is not simply about getting big. Some smaller companies, including Media General, concentrate their purchases in geographic regions, much the way cable companies, including Media General, concentrate their purchases in geographic regions, much the way cable companies, much seed to the propositions and cut costs. The television industry is expecting the FCC to further relax restrictions to allow ownership of two stations in a single market. The FCC is due to address the issue in the fall.

Market tremors shake up mutual fund debate on Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — With the wide swings in stock prices over the fast several weeks, a 'debate state several weeks, a 'debate si tensified over the role played by mutual funds in Wall Street's long bull market. The sharp sethack suffered by stocks in the first half of July coincided with an abrupt slowing of each inflows into stock mutual funds.

But as the stock market has ral-funds.

But as the stock market has ralled lately, recovering a lot of the lost ground, some analysts such the idea that the market was developing an unhealthy dependence on mutual fund money has been called into question, if not discredited alrogether.

Through most of the first halfof 1995, the 50tc market indisators climbed to new highs as a noted funds. By the end of June, necording to the Investment Company Institute, net inflows into stock funds reached $138.5 billion, breaking the full-year record of $129.6 billion set in 1993.

Analysts warned that this buy.

-1993.

Analysts warned that this buying spree might be carrying the stock market to levels not justified by the economic fundamentals such as corporate earnings and interest rates.

"We fear that the stock market may need murual fund money. Ike a heroin addit; noeds heroin," said David Shulman, irressment strategist at Salomon Brothers Inc. "An ever increasing amount of mutual fund money may be needed just to sistain the current market level." Then, from an average pace of more than $23 billion a month, the inflow-into-stock-funds dropped bif to $3.5 billion in July, according to an ICI estimate issued last week. It was easy to infer that the engine was spuntering for lack of fuel.

But the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which tumbled from about 5,730 at the start of July in about 5,152 at its midses-sion low on July 16, has since rebounded above 5,700 before retreating below that level Bidder retreating below that level-friday. In remains to be seen whether demand for mutual find shares has recovered to anything like its early-1996 pinth. Bit-sand-pieces eridence so far indicates the reviral has been perty sub-dued. Some analysis, nearmable, say the whole image of a buying binge by individual investors, operating through mutual funds, is contradicted by Federal Reserve data showing persistent net sales of direct stock investments by the public. "Some individuals have been substantial net buyers of mutual funds, but others have sold large amounts from their individual stock holdings," says Verton Winners, chief investment officer at Mellon Private Asset Management in Roston.

For instance, Winners says, "An et of SSb billion was invested in mutual funds in 1995, while thouseholds sold 5164 billion of their individually held shares." From these numbers, he suggests, it's hard to argue that last year's strong gains in the stock market resulted from "individuates as a group recklessly adding to their equity exposure."

What also needs to be noted. Winters says, is that corporations reduced the supply of stock ourstanding by $62 billion last year, through acquisitions and stock buybacks, even after offerings of new 'stock are taken into account.

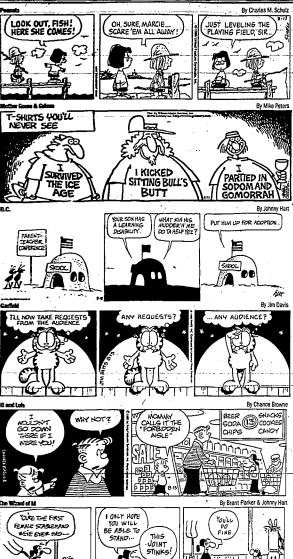

Indeed, a shrinking supply of stock has been cited as a prime force behind higher stock prices through much of the bull market that began in the early 1980s.

Hospital board approves $70.5 Mil budget

TWIN FALLS - Magic Valley Regional Medical Center plans to spend almost $22 million on a new medical-office building, a new heart procedure and ambulance expansion, among other minets

The hospital board gave the $70.5 million spending plan unanimous approval, after no one spoke for or against the budget at a board meeting Monday wight.

The new budget goes into effect Oct.

Magic Valley Regional's budget will be included in the overall budget of Twin Falls County, which owns the hospital. But po tax dollars support Magic Valley Regional.

The current hospital budget is about $65 million.

Medical center plans
Financial officer Ken Fry says 89 million was set aside from a medical office building, up from an original estimate of $5.5 million for a one-story structure.
But hospital officials say there may be enough interest to expand to two stories, so the amount was increased.
The $2.4 million proposed to conduct cardiac-catherizations, a heart procedure, reflected the hospital going it alone, Fry said. But Magic Valley

Preliminary OK given to subdivision

Development would be near the Little Wood River Reservoir

CAREY - Even though it will place 23 new homes in a remote area of the county, Blaine County commissioners Monday gave preliminary approval to former state Sen. John Peavey's proposed subdivision near the Little Wood Peacervier.

posed subdivision near the Little Wood Reservoir.

"The truth of the matter is, this is going to be a long way from quick response units, ambulances and police," said commission chairman Leonard Harlig, just before commissioners gave the plan unanimous approval. "It's going from the core population (of the county) and impacting the overall tax-paying community. Otherwise, it's a pretty good plan."

The proposal is called Last Chance Meadows, a planned unit development which allows for open space for recreational use of the homeowners.

"But we're not going to spend the what the court will decide for us."

Pena's bill for more than 120 hours of legal services to the county totaled $15,412.50, which Pena said last week he would reduce by 20 percent – down to $12,330 – if commissioners approved the bill Monday.

That discount would reduce his hourly rate to $100, or $25 less than what lead lawyers are being paid to defend Hood, Diaz and Bucher.

Stephens said as a real estate agent, he doesn't get paid until his work is done and feels the same should apply for prosecuting attorneys.

Stevenson said the commissioners don't have any control over defense fees, nor did they know when they developed their budget a year ago that the county would be trying three capital homicide cases.

"I agree with you that a lot of money is being spent here, and I've had a lot of people tell me they don't want these costs coming in the way of justice being served, which we're hoping of course they won't." Stevenson said. The commissioners have spent the last week discussing next year's budget, which could be completed today. Gem delegates' split on Dole

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Long government service is the strength Idaho Republicans cito when they consider Bob Dole — but it also is the trait they call his Achilled "heel. Some 35 years in Congress taught Dole "to compromise to get the job done," said David Ferdinand, an Idaho delegate to the Republican National Convention from Nampa. "But that is his weakness as well. He's a government, and Idahoans want less government in their lives. Bob Dole is ensconced in that system." Still, several Idaho delegates asked to rank Dole's attributes focused on his long gates asked to rank Dole's attributes focused on his long government service.

"When I look at Bob Dole, I see his strength of character, his record of leadership and his vision of where he'd like to take the country," Idaho Attorney General Alan Lance said.

But Lance believes Dole's age — 73 — could be a weakness, although it is mitigated somewhat by his choice of the 61-year-old Jack Kemp as a running mate.

Ferdinand sees Kemp as "a little mare balanced, more Kemp as the strength of the service of the form of the service of the tox change, having supported Steve Forbes in the primaries.

"I think his choice says some—thing about Dole, and I'm will-ing to put aside any differing to put aside any differences."

Idaho delegate Dolores Lawless of Post Falls, a strong supporter of-conservative commentator Pat Buchanan, didn't even want to talk about Dole's perceived strengths.
"Let's start with his weaknesses," said Lawless, who proceeded-to-rattle off-a. list:
Parenthood, support for the North American Free Trade Ara and GATT, support for the World Trade Organization and the United Nations.
"He's far too liberal for the Republican philosophy," she said.

Idaho delegation meets, vet for Dole

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For Idabo delegation chairman Blake Hall, the difference between Bob Dole and Bill Clinton is the difference between real life and Hollywood.

To prove his point, on Monday he introduced the 23 Idaho delegates to the Republican National Convention to Adrian Cronauer, the Armed Forces Radio discokey played by Robin the Armed Forces Radio disc jockey played by Robin Williams in the movie, "Good Morning, Vietnam."

"I see where Robin Williams will be going to Chicago" to the Democratic National Convention, Hall said. "It's typical that the Democrats would settle for a cheap imitation. We have the real thing." Cronauer, now a Washington lawyer, Republican activist and co-chair of Veterans for Dole, was one of three speakers sent by the Dole campaign to rally the delegations on the first day of the convention.

Also speaking were Lyn Nofzinger, a former political advisor to Ronald Reagan, and Wisconsin Gov. Tommy Thompson. Find veterans around the Country are disgusted with the prospect of having a commander in chief who was one of those longhaired hippies, "Cronauer said." Veterans are appalled that we have a chief executive, a man who talks so glibly and piously about service, who refused to serve his country in uniform." In fact, he said, Clinton "pulled more strings than Jim Henson to avoid it."

Engine may be cause of fatalities

Mcchanical failure appeared to be the initial thrust of an investigation into an airplane accident that killed two people during the week-ord.

National Transportation Safety Board and Federal Aviation Administration investigators planned to have the engine removed and disassembled for inspection.

The accident on Saturday killed John L. Hubler, 16, a student pilot from Caldwell, and James M. Harris, 60, of Goldendale, Wash. Harris; 60, of Goldendale; Wash: Investigators said they did not know who was flying the single-engine Aeronca airplane. Witnesses said the plane was fly-ing low when it appeared to have engine trouble at about 6:30 p.m.

Saumlay, It then flipped over and fell into a field two miles south of Lake Lowell.

Keith McGuire, the National Transportation Safety Board's Seattle office manager, and Bay Matson, Federal Aviation Administration office manager of the Boise flight standards district, inspected the crash site Sunday.

Latah residents-sue over flood-damage

MOSCOW (AP) — Seven Latah County residents have filed a tort claim against the county and state over flood damages they contend are due to a defective bridge west of Potlatch.

The Claim, filed Aug. 6, lists Melvin Taggart, Charles X. Taggart Sr., Carol Taggart, Grant T. Arno, Juris Wagner, Wayne Krasselt, Don Babb as claimains, as well as "all other persons residing in the Palouse River drainage in Latah County."

A damage amount is not listed in the tort claim, but the alleged damages are estimated at well over $100,000.

The claim, required before a lawsuit can be filed against a government entity, states that a bridge built over the Palouse River by the state in 1947 obstructs the flow of the river and has caused damage to property upstream for several years.

U.S. Highway 55 runs across the concrete bridge west of Pedianh. The state was notified of the problem as early as 1949, but the construction defects were not corrected, the claim states. The flawed construction and the state's failure to monitor stream flows are listed as reasons for the severe flooding and damage to the claimants' property and destruction of their land during last February's flooding.

Cutbacks cost Boise Cascade jobs

BOISE (AP) — Boise Cascade Corp. announced Monday that it would drop the third shift at its Horseshoe Bend sawmill and reduce lumber processing at its Emmett mill, eliminating 41 jobs. Tim Weathers, munager of Jim Weathers, manager of Idaho Region operations for Boise Cascade's Timber and Wood Products Division, blamed the decision to cut back to two shifts at Horseshoe Bend effective Aug. 31 on changes in cur-rent federal timber supplies and the uncertainty of future timber supplies.

The 1975 law creaning the recreation area called for the preservation and restoration of sites that typified the region's history and the American West.

The main difficulty has been money, said Bruce Womack, a Forest Service archaeologist in Enterprise.

Only $24,000 is budgeted for 1995 to maintain historic buildings in Hells Canyon, the adjoining Eagle Cap Wilderness and the Wallowa Valley around Enterprise and Joseph, he said. The Forest Service's overall-bud-

The Forest Service has focused most of its renovation efforts on cabins with architectural and historical significance—the ones that receive the most visit ors. More remote cabins get only cursory maintenance, sometimes, by packers and hunters.

PHYSICIANS OFFICE COMPLEX COUNTY V. PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

If needed, should the COUNTY or PRIVATE ENTERPRISE own a new physicians office complex in Twin Falls County. Many local businesses and county citizens feel that PRIVATE ENTERPRISE should be afforded the opportunity to own the new facility for the following reasons:

- The county hospital should spend its excess millions to improve much needed patient services to the community to prevent unnecessary referrals to Boise and Salt Lake City for diagnostic studies and/or medical or surgical treatment.
- Fair market value would set the rental rate for physicians in lieu of the county.
- Private enterprise would be assessed 5% state sales tax on all materials purchased for construction. If materials were estimated to be 50% of the forecasted $9,000,000 postruction cost, $225,000 would flow into the State's general fund. THE COUNTY HOSPITAL IS EXEMPT.
- Private enterprise would be assessed sales tax on all future purchases bringing additional tax revenues into the State. THE COUNTY HOSPITAL IS EXEMPT.
- For a projected $9,000,000 building, private enterprise would be assessed the following estimated property taxes based on 1995 assessments:

Twin Falls County	40,960.
City of Twin Falls	69,245.
College of Southern Idaho	14,574.
Twin Falls School District	41,890.

Please call, write or fax your county commissioners today to preserve PRIVATE ENTERPRISE I'm Twin Falls County. Entrepreneurs, including physicians, are ready to invest in a new physicians office complex that will, over the course of time, generate millions in tax dollars for our growing community. Our County Commissioners listen and are now considering the 1997 county budget. Please let them know that you support PRIVATE ENTERPRISE constructing and owning a physicians office complex, if needed. Wolf project leader Mike Phillips said the alpha male of the Ner Perce Pack, designated wolf No. 28, has been exploring the far reaches of Yellowstone and its surrounding forests since he was released in April.
He said the wolf has been seen as far north as southern Montana and as far south as Yellowstone's southern boundary. More recently, wolf No. 28 was spotted about 40 miles east of Jackson in the Bridger-Teton National Forest, Phillips said.

"He's not tied down, doesn't have a woman to warry about or a family." Phillips said. During breeding season, lone males will make a conscious decision to go back where the wolf population it and find a mate." He said fire of the 34 Yellowstone wolves also are loncer.

He stad fire of the 34 Yellowstone waves also are home.

Two of them, both females from the Nez Perce Pack, have been spotted several times near the park's southern border.

Elderly need to abide by rules when moving in

DEAR ABBY: I found the enclosed clipping from your column in a collection of avorticardics compiled by my late sister. I think its message to the elderly bears repeating.

—80 AND HOLDING: Thank you for sending it to me. I agree, the rules are worth repeating. ABY: When my husbands mother came to live with my husband and me 23 years ago, she made our lives of misers to me to the word of the message in the message in the message is not made in the word in the message in the message is not made in the word in the message in the message is not made in the word in the mother came to live with my husband and me 23 years ago, she made our lives so miserable I wowed I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. One day, I wrote myself a letter containing some rules. I put it in an envelope marked, "To be opened on the day I go to live with one of my children"—then I put it away.

Pre been widowed and self-sufficient for eight years, but I was recently forced to give up my job and move in with my daughter. I'm submitting that letter. Perhaps your older readers might benefit from it, as I intend to. Here are the rules:

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, after 27 years of marriage, I went through a divorce. My husband had become involved with another woman and refused to break it off, so I really had no choice.
I have picked up the pieces of my life and put them back together little by little. I have not dated since-my divorce. I needed this time to heal and to work on rebuilding my life. A shatiered 27-year marriage is difficult to get over quickly. There is a very nice man from a neighboring community who lost his wife to cancer about a year ago.

We went to the same school and church. I know him and his family however, I don't know in he is dating anyone. The almost ware he doesn't know that I am alone now.

WEST ↑ 76 ▼ K Q 9 7 2 ↑ A ↑ J 10 5 3 2

The Foster Echo is a popular defensive third-hand signal against on-trump contract. To unblock and show count, third hand playshis second-highest card. With three cards, he plays up the line, playing his lowest card last. The signal has advantages, but is no substitute for critical analysis. In a team match, West led the heart king against the no-trump game. East signaled second highest and South played the four. This marked East with one hinor since South would have captured the king had he held both the jack and 10. But this didn't solve West's problem, What if East held 10-5 doubleton and South J-4-37 In his layout, a falsecard by South would have been routine to entice a heart continuation.

would have been routine to entice a heart continuation.

Fearing treachery by South, West shifted to a spade, hoping East could win the ace to return a heart. East held the king instead of the ace, and South made off with two overtricks.

Why should West have played the heart queen at trick two (with East unblocking the 10? The answer becomes obvious if one thinks in the right direction. If East started with 10-5 doubleton in hearts and the ace of spades, shifting to a spade wouldn't help. East wins and leads his heart 10, but South doesn't cover. If West plays low, dummy ducks and the hearts are stranded. If he plays his queen, dummy wins and South's jack is promoted to a see-ond stopper.
