SENATE SALES PITCHES

Juanita Rarick, left, takes a group picture for Jerome's weekly newspaper as Larry Craig's campaign bus visits Jerome Tuesday morning.

Craig, Minnick make their cases in Magic Valley visit

By Karen Tolkkien
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — U.S. Sen. Larry Craig urged supporters in Ketchum Tuesday not to allow the Idaho Senate team to be torn apart.

With fellow Sen. Dirk Kempthorne by his side, Craig said the two often vote together, unlike senators from some states who cancel out the other's vote.

"That gives us tremendous clout in the U.S. Senate," Craig told a crowd of about 50 supporters eating sandwiches in a Ketchum restaurant.

For Craig, on his second day of a campaign bus tour through south-central Idaho, this has been a re-election selling point. But if Democrat and Boise businessman Walt Minnick defeats Craig in the Nov. 5 election, would that jeopardize Idaho's solidarity?

Probably not, said campaign observer Florence Heffron, director of the Bureau of Public Affairs Research for the University of Idaho.

"On most issues, in particularly the issues that are nearest and dearest to Idahoans' hearts, there's not that much difference between Minnick and Craig and Kempthorne," she said, citing nuclear waste, gun control and most environmental issues.

Minnick has said his election would benefit Idaho because he and Kempthorne could make the tag team approach. He says the Idaho delegation has no leverage with the White House when it comes to rallying support for Idaho issues. "One person could be working within the party structure and another person would be attacking it," he said. "I think I could work very, very effectively with Sen. Kempthorne."

That could be true, to a point, Heffron said. Minnick, a Democrat, would probably enjoy greater access to the White House.

But relations between Minnick and Kempthorne would probably be strained, at least initially, because of the muddling nature of the campaign and Kempthorne's open support for Craig.

And Minnick's White House access would only extend so far.

Minnick would be a "very junior Democrat who used to be a Republican and who hasn't gone out of his way to identify himself with the president and who has no claims that he'd be in the inner circle of Clinton advisers or influencers," Heffron said.

If Republicans hang onto control of the Senate, as polls suggest, Craig's No. 4 leadership position could prove valuable. Kempthorne is an up-and-coming senator. Heffron said, "there are a bunch of Republicans that are ahead of him at this point in the ladder to power."

How much merit do Craig's and Minnick's claims have?

"Both sides are exaggerating," Heffron said.

Pentagon seeks to notify troops over Gulf War gas

Military boosts estimate of number of rockets involved

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon is trying to contact 20,800 Gulf War veterans who may have been exposed to nerve gas during the destruction of an Iraqi chemical weapons depot in 1991.

In announcing the move Tuesday, the Pentagon also acknowledged that hundreds more nerve gas rockets may have been exploded than first thought and expanded the time frame when exposure may have occurred.

Pentagon officials previously said they were concerned about two explosions, which took place when U.S. Army engineers blew up the Khamsiyah weapons depot in southern Iraq on March 4 and March 10, 1991.

Letters being sent to U.S. troops and veterans now state the period of possible exposure as March 4 to March 15 of that year. The time frame was expanded because of conflicting accounts of the number of rockets potentially destroyed and the dates on which demolitions took place, officials said.

Pentagon spokesman Kenneth Bacon said that he did not know exactly how many soldiers have been contacted but that at least 600 thought to have been in the area of the weapons depot had been reached by telephone. The Pentagon says that up to two tons of sarin nerve gas may have been released when Iraqi rocket shells were demolished at two sites.

Letters going out to the 20,800 Gulf War veterans ask them to call the Pentagon with any information they may have about the demolitions and to register if they need medical assistance.

Computer scanners often wrong, but consumer usually benefits

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Computer scanners at grocery, department store and drug-store checkout counters ring up the wrong price about 5 percent of the time, say federal inspectors who fanned out to check stores nationwide.

But when errors occur, shoppers usually come out on top, the Federal Trade Commission study released Tuesday indicated.

Grocery stores, which pioneered scanners more than two decades ago, had the most accurate scanners, the study found, while department stores had the highest rate of error.

And researchers found the most problems with the hundreds of items on sale in stores because of frequent price changes.

Although the FTC called the mistake rate surprisingly low, area shoppers said scanners should not make any errors. "I don't think it's done on purpose," Laurie Savage, 34, of Hyattsville, Md., said. "But I don't believe the computers are always up to date compared to the price on the shelf — and they should be."

Jodie Bernstein, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, said the study was "good news and should reassure uneasy consumers that they are not being systematically cheated."

But some retailers "have some work to do to push back a swelling of consumer mistrust in technology."

The study showed that department stores, where items are more expensive, had the highest error rate at 9.15 percent. The average overcharge was $7.92 and the average undercharge was $5.29, but there were more undercharges than overcharges.

The study suggests that scanner errors are more likely to result from inattentiveness or carelessness rather than on purpose. A typical food, drug or discount store may stock as many as 40,000 different items and may change prices on hundreds of them every week. Over a year and a half, FTC researchers made 17,000 purchases of randomly selected items at 294 stores in seven states — Florida, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Tennessee, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Coverup charged in Ruby Ridge

Ex-FBI official accused of destroying internal critique of Idaho siege

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A former FBI headquarters manager was accused Tuesday of obstructing justice by destroying all traces of an internal critique of the bureau's deadly 1992 siege at Ruby Ridge, Idaho.

The apparent plea bargain with E. Michael Kahoe might lead to coverup charges against some of the four other suspended FBI officials who remain under investigation for their role in shootings at the remote Panhandle cabin of white separatist Randy Weaver. Those officials include former Deputy Director Larry Potts, who supervised the case from headquarters.

A one-count felony information was filed by federal prosecutors in Washington against Kahoe, who headed the FBI's violent crimes section at the time of the standoff. The charge carries a top penalty of 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

The filing of a criminal information rather than a grand jury indictment usually means the defendant has agreed to plead guilty and cooperate with investigators. A Justice Department official, requesting anonymity, could not offer any reason for this case to depart from that practice.

No court date was set immediately.

Nunez testifies he didn't take drug-force funds

By Kent McCreary
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A former anti-drug police officer accused of staging a burglary in his office to cover up theft of evidence and drug-buying money got a chance to explain his side of the story Tuesday.

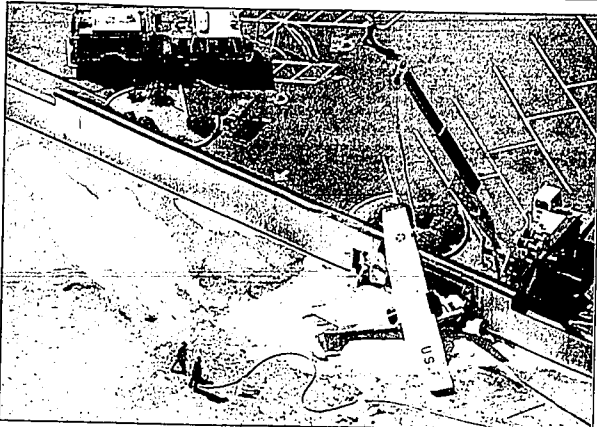

Juan R. "John" Nunez took the witness stand in 5th District Court Tuesday morning. He denied taking any money for personal use from the drug investigation task force he worked for, Tri-County Drug Task Force.

Nunez is accused of racketeering, burglary, misuse of public money, falsifying public records, sales tax violations and conspiracy to alter, conceal or destroy evidence.

The racketeering charges against Nunez were filed Tuesday. Please see TRIAL, Page A2

Prominent Republicans display pessimism about Dole's chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks from the election, top Republicans around the country are becoming increasingly pessimistic about Bob Dole's ability to close the gap with President Clinton even as many put on a brave public face.

"We're doing it the hard way," said Steve Merksamer, a Sacramento, lawyer who is an informal Dole adviser. Despite Dole's well-publicized bid for California's 54 electoral votes, "my guess is if the election were held today, he'd lose by maybe six points," in the state.

Although many GOP leaders are still predicting a come-from-behind victory, some are voicing doubts — privately if not publicly — that the Republican challenger can overcome Clinton.

No less a Dole booster than GOP chairman Haley Barbour raised the possibility of a Dole loss on Tuesday, saying it would not necessarily spell disaster for continued GOP control of Congress.

"Since Dole won the nomination, I've been saying our first goal is to elect Bob Dole president. But it's not our only priority," Barbour told reporters.

"If Clinton is re-elected, heaven forbid, the last thing the conservative people want is for him to have a blank check in the form of a liberal Democrat Congress."

With Clinton retaining his double-digit leads in opinion polls in most regions of the country, Republicans are expressing growing restlessness.

"It's not comforting," said Patrick McSweeney, a Virginia GOP activist and former state party chairman.

"There is no energy in Virginia right now. And that's hurt him."

Kentucky state GOP chairman Tom Jensen said Dole's continued trailing in the polls "doesn't discourage me, but it does discourage people from going out and voting, when they keep hearing over and over again that he's got no chance."

Dole has spent much of his time over the past few days campaigning in states like Virginia and New Hampshire where Republicans traditionally win but where he trails Clinton in the polls.

In New Hampshire, the site of a rally for a Dole appearance on Sunday was changed three times in hopes of maximizing the turnout.

Still, Dole drew a sparse crowd at Daniel Webster College in Nashua.

Study: Nicotine may block Alzheimer's

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nicotine is able to prevent the formation, in test tubes, of an abnormal brain cell plaque that is found in Alzheimer's patients, a study released Tuesday found.

But the researcher who did the study, which was sponsored in part by Philip Morris, a major cigarette maker, cautioned that the findings have not been tested on humans.

And both researcher Michael G. Zagorski and a main Alzheimer's research group warned people not to jump to the mistaken conclusion that smoking or other nicotine use lowers the risk of having Alzheimer's.

"It must be determined whether test tube findings reflect real events in human brains before we draw any conclusions from this study," cautioned the Alzheimer's Association, another sponsor of the report.

Nicotine is a major toxin in tobacco smoke.

Added Zagorski, a biochemist at Case Western Reserve University: "I wouldn't advise anybody to start smoking. Smoking is hazardous to your health."

New implant pump eases diabetes care

BALTIMORE (AP) — A hockey-puck-size insulin pump inserted under the skin can help some diabetics avoid several-times-a-day injections, keep their weight down and control their blood sugar better, researchers say.

To use the device, which is inserted in the abdomen, patients give themselves a blood test to determine how much insulin is needed, then hit a small transmitter over the pump to tell it how much to deliver. The pump then dispenses a steady trickle of insulin rather than an all-at-once dose.

The manufacturer of the pump, MiniMed Inc. of Sylmar, Calif., said it expects to receive Food and Drug Administration approval in late 1997.

Father admits spiking son's football helmet

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The father of a high school football player admitted he sharpened a buckle on his son's helmet before a game in which several opponents were cut, one badly enough to need 12 stitches.

The father said he did it because referees had failed to penalize players for fouling up his son in an earlier game, the Albuquerque Journal reported Tuesday.

Officials stopped an Oct. 12 game between St. Pius and Albuquerque Academy after five Academy players were cut.

They then found that a buckle on the helmet worn by St. Pius junior Mike Cito had an edge sharp enough to shred a magazine cover.

Some Academy players said they believed other St. Pius athletes knew about the buckle before the game was stopped.

Last Friday, the newspaper reported, Stephen Cito admitted to the Rev. Ronald G. Schweitzer, principal at St. Pius, that he had sharpened the buckle.

"I was shocked when he said it. ... He said he is very remorseful for doing it," Schweitzer said.

"He indicated that the previous week he felt his son was being tackled and getting pushed around unfairly and the referees said they didn't see anything," Schweitzer said. "This was his dad's solution to that."

Mike Cito was expelled Monday, and already had been dismissed from the team.

The elder Cito declined to comment to the newspaper and did not return calls from The Associated Press.

Schweitzer said Mike Cito's parents appealed the expulsion, but the father's confession wasn't enough evidence to warrant keeping the teen-ager in school.

"The son is 17 years old," Schweitzer said. "We're talking about an age of being able to reason. We still have to look at what the intent of this was."

Academy senior Joe Paquette, who needed 12 stitches to close a gash on his forehead, said he believed several St. Pius players made indirect references to the buckle before the game was stopped.

Administration agrees to order on disposing used nuclear fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration will comply with a court order and accept for disposal tons of highly radioactive nuclear waste from civilian reactors. Officials say, however, there's no place to put it right now. The Energy Department said Tuesday it would not challenge an appeals court ruling last July that directed the department beginning in 1998 to accept spent nuclear fuel now stored at commercial reactors in 34 states. Assistant Energy Secretary Thomas Grumbly acknowledged that at this time the government can't say where it will put the used reactor fuel. He said he hoped that by 1998 a decision would be made on whether a permanent repository in Nevada is suitable for the material.

"Physically we can't take the waste," said Grumbly. Even if the Yucca Mountain site in Nevada is found technically acceptable for underground storage of the estimated 30,000 tons of highly radioactive used fuel now at reactors, that facility is not expected to be completed until 2010 at the earliest. The administration has opposed efforts in Congress to build a temporary storage site in Nevada, arguing such a decision could jeopardize efforts to find a permanent repository for the fuel, which will remain highly radioactive for hundreds of years. In a statement Tuesday, the Energy Department said it would not appeal the July court decision to the U.S. Supreme Court. "The department is reviewing its options as to what further steps may be taken,"

said the statement. Grumbly said the administration and the Congress is "going to have to step up and deal with the nuclear waste issue ... (and) not put it on the back burner." In response to a lawsuit filed by nuclear plant operators and some state regulators, a three-judge panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last July that the government is obligated under a 1982 law to take the highly radioactive spent fuel now at reactor sites and store it at a centralized location beginning at least by Jan. 31, 1998. If it fails to do so, the government will be in violation of its contractual agreement with the electric utilities, the court said, although it did not propose how the government would accept the fuel if it had no storage site.

Ex-mayor indicted in death of judge, wife

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Former Biloxi Mayor Pete Halat Jr. and three other people were indicted Tuesday on federal charges in the deaths nine years ago of a judge and his wife, a former councilwoman.

The indictment accused Halat of participating in a telephone scam that preyed on lonely homosexuals and agreeing to the contract murders of the Circuit Judge Vincent Sherry — a one-time law partner of Halat's — and his wife, Margaret. The two, both 58, were shot to death in their home in September 1987.

In 1991, four people were found guilty of conspiring to kill Sherry and operating the jail-house scam, which bilked hundreds of thousands of dollars from gays who answered fake personal ads.

Today's indictment, under the federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, accuses the defendants of crimes ranging from murder and conspiracy to commit murder to money laundering.

Two of the four were indicted Tuesday on the new charges — Kirskey McCord Nix Jr., a Louisiana prison inmate who was the alleged mastermind of the scam, and Sheri LaRa Sharpe, who once worked in Halat's law office and allegedly assisted in the scam.

Religious groups oppose sweatshops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling the existence of sweatshops a moral issue, Labor Secretary Robert Reich introduced 36 religious groups Tuesday that have volunteered to help combat the problem.

"The power of the pulpit is an extraordinary power," Reich said in introducing the leaders of the national and local organizations whose memberships number in the millions.

"The additional power of the pulpit will have a dramatic and sustained effect."

The organizations include Baptist, Episcopal and United Methodist groups, the U.S. Catholic Conference and various Jewish organizations such as B'nai B'rith, the oldest with 350,000 members in 56 countries.

LETTERS

Hear both sides of nuclear story before voting

I am writing this letter in support of a Oct. 15 letter by Mary L. Johnson of Ketchum regarding the nuclear waste issue.

I am wholeheartedly in support of her opinion. We shouldn't be so preoccupied with whether nuclear waste should or shouldn't be shipped to Idaho. It is already here and much of it has been here for decades. In fact, this state built one of the first nuclear power plants back in the post-war years and it is one of the cleanest, most prolific and cost-saving energy fuels if only, and that's a big "if," we can find a way to dispose of and recycle the waste productively and efficiently.

After all, we would all be hypocrites if we said we don't drive cars, fly in planes and heat our homes with the by-products of oil. The air we breathe, the water we drink and the beautiful oceans and seas we all admire have been irreversibly damaged through our incessant demand for fuel. We are all inhaling and swallowing a slow death, more obviously in the great urban metropolises. As the great migration from cities to rural landscapes continues, we are all doomed to the same poor air quality and tainted waters that result from overconcentration and our constant use of "black burning" fuels (oil and coal).

So we need a fuel that is cheaper, prolific and cleaner—nuclear power. One little glitch, it's got a nasty aftertaste. Hmm, do you suppose those good folks over at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory could help us there? We should rally together and put all of our efforts into convincing the federal government to start funding programs (particularly at the INEL) to develop ways to either recycle, reprocess or at least render the "aftertaste" benign. It makes sense to you and me, but to the "big boys" it just ain't economically viable! Besides there just isn't enough spare change left over after they've brought their quoin of oil for the year! Of course, we could always ask the Japanese for funding... ah, but that's a whole other issue and another letter to write.

So, before you decide which way to swing come Election Day, why don't you give the folks at the INEL a call first and get their side of the story.

Minnick foolish; Craig full of common sense

Does Walt Minnick really think we are a stupid, naive bunch? He comes to the Magic Valley and rattles on about wanting to remove nuclear waste from Idaho and then claims Larry Craig does not. The fact is Larry Craig helped get Idaho's Nuclear Waste Removal agreement, which is a court order against the government requiring them to remove nuclear waste from Idaho. Plus, Larry Craig has continued his fight for Idaho by helping to create a storage site in Yucca Mountain, Nev., to store the waste currently in Idaho.

Actually, if you catch Walt in the right area of the state, he suddenly supports Craig's position which he is so critical of in other parts.

In the Idaho Falls paper, he has said that Stop the Shipments is false advertising and will do nothing to stop nuclear waste from Idaho, and he supported Craig's Yucca Mountain storage site.

Larry Craig has fought hard for Idaho and removing nuclear waste from our state and deserves our vote on Nov. 5.

Scare tactics shouldn't become issue when voting

What are the facts? Certainly what we see on TV ads are not the facts. I don't know all the facts either, but I know some things the voters should understand.

About 20 years ago, California had Proposition 13 on its ballot. I lived there at the time. Those "for" it said we must pass this to protect our property tax from getting too high. Those "against" it said if it passes we won't have funds for schools, fire departments, police departments and other necessary functions. Sound familiar?

Well, Proposition 13 passed. Schools, fire departments, police departments went on "business as usual." They probably had to become more efficient.

Here in Idaho, the "against" are spending a great deal of money on their ads. Why? There are lots of them listed on the TV ads. On the other hand, the "for's" are only homeowners, "the ones paying the bills." Do motives begin to come through?

Warlord rejects plan; cease-fire nullified

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Afghan forces clashed north of Kabul on Tuesday, and a northern warlord declared he would not sign any cease-fire until the religious Taliban army moved out of the capital.

Rashid Dostum, who commands the country's biggest military force after the Taliban, gave the ultimatum after meeting with ousted President Burhanuddin Rabbani in Dostum's stronghold of Mazar-e-Sharif. "There will be no cease-fire until the Taliban get out of Kabul," said Dostum spokesman Gen. Yusuf, who uses one name.

Since Muslim rebels threw out the communists in 1992, Dostum has held on to much of northern Afghanistan, while rival Islamic factions have battled each other in Kabul and elsewhere.

Now he is the linchpin in the ousted government's alliance against the Taliban religious fighters, who overran Kabul on Sept. 27.

Inmates die in prison fire

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A riot and a fire erupted at a jail near downtown Caracas Tuesday, leaving more than 30 inmates dead, the Justice Ministry said.

After the fire was put out, the National Guard took over the La Planta prison, which houses 1,700 inmates.

Antonio Malval, the ministry's director of prisons, put the death toll at "more than 30." Most victims were "totally burned," he said in a brief phone interview as he toured the jail. He declined to comment on the number or condition of prisoners who may have been injured.

There were conflicting versions of what happened.

Malval said shortly after the 6 a.m. riot that there was a disturbance in a cell block that housed 60 prisoners. The National Guard fired tear gas to disperse the inmates and a fire broke out, he added. The fire was extinguished and order restored within a couple of hours.

Martin Pacheco, a journalist for Radio Capital who is also a national congressman, said prisoners told him there was no riot — that guards had locked them in their cells and tossed in the tear gas canisters that started the fire.

"The scene at the jail was horrific, he added.

"It's really Dantesque. The bodies are piled one on top of each other," he said.

Other journalists, including a reporter and photographer from The Associated Press, were denied access to the prison.

The jail, located in the El Paraiso neighborhood west of downtown Caracas, was built to accommodate only 1,000 inmates, Malval said. It was intended to house only those awaiting trial, but at least 200 convicts were also there because authorities had no other place to put them, he added.

Most Venezuelan jails are severely overcrowded. Facilities are rundown and supervision is minimal. La Planta had only 25 guards, Malval said.

Today's clash was the worst in Venezuela since a 1994 riot and fire at Sabaneta Prison in Maracaibo in which 108 inmates died.

Algerian riot leads to death of 15, mayor

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Clashes between security forces killed 16 people in the capital, and a stray bullet from one of the exchanges claimed the life of the mayor, sources said Tuesday.

The official media did not report on the battles. The government is trying to demonstrate it has the upper hand on a 4 1/2-year Islamic insurgency as the country prepares for a constitutional referendum.

Hospital sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said security forces raided two militant safehouses before dawn Monday, killing seven men and three women. Both groups were said to have been heavily armed, and one of them held police at bay for several hours. Residents reported hearing automatic gunfire, grenades and firebombs in the battle as the militants cried "Allahu Akbar," or "God Is Great."

AROUND THE VALLEY

Semi truck tips over, blocks rural road

TWIN FALLS - A semi truck and trailer fell over on its side while taking a turn two miles north of Nat-Soo-Pah.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department reports say the 1995 Freightliner truck was southbound, took the corner at 2700 E. 2600 N. too fast and tipped over. The 10:09 a.m. wreck only partly blocked one lane, the report said, but the road had to be closed for two hours while the truck was righted.

The driver, Clarence Beddis, 57, suffered a minor head injury but was not taken to the hospital, the report said. The single-box trailer contained 30,000 pounds of peat moss, but none was spilled.

Deputies arrest 'most wanted' subject in Buhl

BUHL - Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies have arrested one of their "most wanted" suspects. Chris Gonterman, 17, of Castleford, was arrested Saturday in Buhl, according to sheriff's department reports.

Police were tipped off by residents that Gonterman was on the southwest side of Buhl, the report said. Gonterman was arrested in the Arrow R Mobile Home Park. Gonterman was wanted on a warrant for a lewd and lascivious conduct charge, and as a burglary suspect. He was booked into juvenile detention.

Stubbs, Peavey will debate nuclear issue

TWIN FALLS - A current legislator and a former state senator will debate Idaho's controversial nuclear waste initiative Thursday.

The debate, sponsored by the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce, will be held at the fine arts auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho. Those interested in attending should be at the auditorium by 5:45 p.m.

The hour-long debate, and an hour-long debate on the One Percent Initiative, both will be broadcast on Continental Cablevision channel 10 four times before the Nov. 5 election. Broadcast times are 5 p.m. Sunday, 7 p.m. Tuesday, 6 p.m. Oct. 30 and 7 p.m. Nov. 4.

Former state Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, will debate in favor of the nuclear waste initiative. Proposition Three on the ballot, State Rep. Mark Stubbs' R-Twin Falls, will speak against Proposition Three.

Former Idaho journalist speaks on nuclear waste

TWIN FALLS - A former Idaho journalist and winner of the 1992 Martin Luther King Award will be in town today to speak about nuclear energy issues.

Sam Day will speak at 7 p.m. today in Room 108 of the Aspen Building at the College of Southern Idaho. The event is sponsored by the Snake River Alliance, a statewide nuclear watchdog group. Day speaks about the moral and ethical ramifications of the nuclear and defense industries and the dangers of the subsequent waste streams. For information, call 726-7271.

CSI trustees approve new computer package

TWIN FALLS - The College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees Monday approved spending $33,448 for 28 computers from the lowest bidder, New Technologies of Santa Fe, Calif.

Board members discussed the formation of their 3-week-old "home page" on the Internet which will provide information about services, courses, listings and an online version of the student newspaper, among other things. CSI students may also enter a "chat" program and news groups.

An audit of the college's $33 million budget showed healthy finances, according to Mike Mason, CSI's business director.

Minnick ad may overstate shipments

By N.S. Norkentved
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - A television ad that criticizes U.S. Sen. Larry Craig's position on nuclear waste may not be entirely accurate.

The ad sponsored by challenger Walt Minnick, who is seeking Craig's Senate seat, criticizes Craig's support for fellow Republican Gov. Phil Batt's nuclear waste agreement.

Minnick, a Democrat, says in his ad the agreement would bring nuclear waste from 41 foreign countries to Idaho for storage.

The governor's agreement allows the federal government to bring 61 shipments of spent nuclear fuel from 19 foreign countries to the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory for storage, according to the governor's office.

A federal site in South Carolina would receive spent fuel shipments from 34 foreign countries. The shipments would be from a total of 41 foreign countries, with some countries sending shipments to both sites.

Minnick spokesman Bill Broadhead disputes the numbers. He said the governor's deal is so weak that Idaho may well end up taking spent fuel from 41 countries. The agreement specifies only the number of shipments; it says nothing about the number of countries.

The fuel is American in origin and was given to foreign countries in order to help them establish peaceful nuclear energy programs - with the understanding the fuel would be returned.

In order to prevent those countries from using materials from the spent fuel to make nuclear weapons, the federal government wants it back.

The number of countries sending waste to Idaho is irrelevant, Broadhead said.

"Whether its 19, 41 or just one, there's no reason to take waste generated in other countries and put it on top of our aquifer," he said. "It's one of the worst places to put it, even if we take it back."

In addition, some of those countries have better treatment and disposal facilities than the United States, he said.

Under Batt's agreement, the shipments would be stored at the INEL until 2035, by which time the federal Energy Department has agreed to move the waste out of the state.

But the department has no place yet to put the waste. And Nevada has vowed to block any attempt to open proposed permanent disposal site there.

The ad no longer is running, Broadhead said.

Representatives look at change in CSI funding

By Mark Helz
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - With new plans and the expected support of Gov. Phil Batt, some proponents of a measure to cut local property taxes funding the College of Southern Idaho said they are ready for another try.

Attempts to get CSI more money from the state's general fund and less from property taxes in Jerome and Twin Falls counties failed during the last legislative session, although one bill passed the House, Rep. Ron Black, R-Twin Falls, said.

That bill, which would have diverted money from the state's liquor tax, was stopped in the Senate's State Affairs Committee by a 5-4 vote.

"If we could have gotten it to the floor, it would have passed," Black said.

When CSI was founded in the mid-1980s, Jerome and Twin Falls counties acted on a state law allowing local governments to set up a special mill levy to fund colleges in their counties, said CSI Business Manager Mike Mason. That gave local governments more control over the college, he said.

Now, however, Mason and others say the property tax has become an unfair burden for Twin Falls and Jerome, and they want to see the cost of funding CSI spread across the state.

During the current budget year, the levy - which raised $3.9 million for the college from property taxes in the two counties - was set at almost the maximum allowable levy for CSI, Mason said.

Black, Rep. Maxine Bell, R-Jerome, and others are working on a bill for the next legislative session calling for the CSI levy to be gradually replaced with money from the state's general fund.

Although students from outside the property-tax area pay extra tuition of $50 per credit up to $500, Black and Bell said they and others behind the idea of cutting the local tax think it is fair because more students than ever are coming to CSI from other areas.

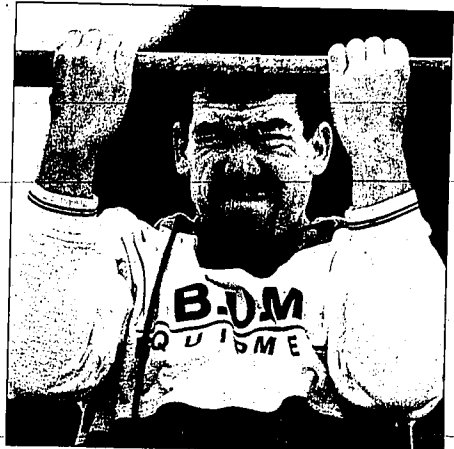

Mason said his records show that 55 percent of CSI students come from Jerome and Twin Falls counties.

He said 84 percent of students come from CSI's eight-county service area, 9 percent from other areas of the state, 6 percent from out of state and 1 percent from other nations.

Despite their failure during the last session, proponents said the governor's support is the key to success this time.

CSI President Jerry Meyerhoefer said Batt had met with community college officials and supported paying for

Enter ski season at magnificent Sun Valley

1 lift down, 6 to go before the facility is complete and welcomes winter sports

By Julie Casey Lynn
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM - A free ride and free lunch - that's how Sun Valley Co. celebrated that its River Run Express high-speed, detachable-quad chair lift is up and running.

And more than 2,000 locals turned out Sunday to try out the first of seven rebuildings being done on Bald Mountain's ski lifts.

"People lined up for the six-minute ride to the area known as 42nd Street on the River Run side of the mountain."

"It was a smooth, quiet ride," said Katherine Pleasants, one skier who tried the new lift.

Sun Valley Co. is rebuilding all of its detachable, high-speed, four-person chair lifts for safety reasons.

The $10 million to $12 million project started this spring after design flaws in the Yan lifts resulted in a fatal accident in a Whistler, British Columbia, ski resort. Sun Valley Co. opted to retrofit all of its Yan lifts with lifts built by Doppelmayr, the world's premier lift designer.

"It's great to have it tested and running. We wanted to invite the whole community to a good time on a beautiful day. Only six more to go. Everything is on schedule," said Jack Sibbach, Sun Valley Co. spokesman.

"We wanted to allow the rumor mill. We've been getting calls from people who've heard we're not going to have any lifts running this year. That's not the case. Everything is on schedule," Sibbach said.

Sun Valley Co. plans to have four high-speed quad lifts open by its Thanksgiving holiday opening set Nov. 27.

The remaining three lifts will open before Christmas.

The water meter for snow making will be turned on today, so Sun Valley Co. will fire up the snow-making guns as temperatures permit.

"We could have made snow today. We're planning to open both sides (Warm Springs and River Run) so that we can get both lodges open," Wally Huffman, Sun Valley Co. general manager, said Sunday.

Bald Mountain has seven high-speed, detachable-quads; three are critical for getting on Sun Valley's ski mountain.

Bald Mountain has a total of 13 ski lifts that will open as snow permits.

Mayor: City of Gooding won't buy E911 radios

By Sharon Metcalf
Times-News correspondent

GOODING - Mayor David Adair turned down a request for purchase of two mobile radios for the new E911 system at Monday's City Council meeting.

Adair said that during E911 Project Manager Al Sandner's visit to a council meeting last year, Sandner had said the regional emergency dispatching system would purchase all of the radios and equipment needed.

"Win Henslie represented the county in this situation. There was no city representative or input by city officials on 911, and there has been a lack of communication from the county on what agreements were made," said Adair.

Police Chief Paul Brown said existing radios can be upgraded to a minimum four channels for $260 each; however, the recommendation is for eight-channel radios. At the time he prepared his budget, Brown called Sandner and was told that E911 would pay for the upgrade or pay $260 each toward two new radios, he said.

Adair said the city would be willing to pay for one eight-unit radio but that E911 should pay for the two mobile units. A letter will be sent to E911 officials reiterating promises made concerning equipment, city officials said.

Rupert deputy denies student's accusations

By John Thompson
Times-News writer

RUPERT - Deputy James Wardle pushed, shoved, wrestled and used choke holds to break up a fight involving about eight students at East Minico Junior High School Oct. 8, but never raised his fist, he said during an interview Tuesday.

During what Wardle described as "an all-out brawl," he got kicked several times. But the resulting bruises didn't hurt as much as a student bystander's accusations that Wardle used excessive force to put an end to the situation, he said.

"As resource officer my main goals are to work with students, learn to understand them, and build trust between law enforcement and the school," said Wardle, a Minidoka County sheriff's deputy. "I don't like arresting kids or breaking up fights, it really bothers me."

At least six students were arrested after the fight. Some were charged with assault on a police officer, disturbing the peace and disrupting the educational process of a school. Five of the students could be expelled from school.

An investigation by the Cassia County sheriff's office determined Wardle handled the situation appropriately. Minidoka school district superintendent Nick Hallert requested the investigation because of the allegation that Wardle

BURLEY

T. Judson 'Judd' Sedam

T. Judson 'Judd' Sedam, 63, of Burley, died Sunday, Oct. 20, 1998, at the Cassia Regional Medical Center in Burley.

He was born Jan. 23, 1934, in Fremont, Neb., the first child of Thomas Jefferson and Ida Lulu Bass Sedam. He spent his early childhood in Iowa near Rod Oak and Des Moines. The family moved to Idaho and settled in Pocatello in 1932. He graduated from Pocatello High School in 1953.

During the Depression years, he worked as a meat cutter, taxi driver, mail clerk, and held various sales jobs before joining the Pocatello Electric Company, first in refrigeration sales, and then in the service department. He married Mary Eleanor Gerrish on Aug. 31, 1955, in Hillsboro, Ore. She preceded him in death on June 3, 1996. They had three home-born children and Judd worked for the Army's Corp of Engineers at the Pocatello Air Base during World War II. In 1945, the Corps of Engineers transferred him to the Paul Prisoner of War Camp where he served as a refrigeration specialist until the war ended. During this time, he started to do service work in the Burley area in the evenings and on weekends. After the war, Judd and Mary opened a home repair service in Burley, and worked as a team for several years with Judd repairing appliances and Mary taking electrical courses. In 1980, they opened a retail furniture and appliance business in Burley and again worked as a team, operating the business until their retirement in the autumn of 1981.

Judd was involved in numerous community service groups in the area. He served as chairman of the Cassia County March of Dimes fund raising campaign in 1952 and 1953, where the country had been hit especially hard with polio, receiving 18 cases in 1952.

A talent show the first year and a radio fundraiser the next netted more than $22,000, substantially more than the campaign total. He served on the Cassia County Campaign Council and worked on various chamber of commerce committees, having served budget director for several years.

He was a longtime member of the Burley Rotary Club, served as its president and is a Paul Harris Fellow. He served two terms as worshipful master of the Burley Masonic Lodge and became a 32nd Degree Mason in the Scottish Rite Order in 1962. He was active in the Burley Elks Lodge for more than 30 years, serving as exalted ruler, a member of the board of trustees, and as secretary of the lodge. In 1981, the lodge paid tribute to his many of service with an evening in his honor.

Judd was an independent, self-made man with a creative mind and a generous social conscience. Survivors include two daughters, Vicki Higgins and Kay Curtis, both of Burley; two grandsons, Judd Higgins and his wife, Joanie of Moscow and D.J. (S. Doan II) Higgins of Salem, Ore.; three nieces, Anne Sudyam Lewis of St. Louis, Mo.; Sally Bradford of Des Moines, Wash.; and Laine Cortez of Solvang, Calif. # Ketchum deals with messy issue

By Cathryn Wild
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — Is a dog man's best friend? Depends on the dog. Depends on the man.

Bob Dugan surprised the Ketchum City Council and residents attending Monday night's council meeting when he revealed that the duffel bag he carried was filled with dog excrement.

Dugan, a part-time Ketchum resident, made his surprise announcement during a feisty discussion of the dog-waste problem in Ketchum — and specifically, in Ketchum's parks.

"Do you wanna see?" he asked the room at large. No one accepted his offer.

Dugan, who described himself as a "defecation collector," said he had witnessed numerous dogs among the call of nature on public and private property. On at least one occasion, police present at the scene took no action, Dugan claimed.

The City Council began in its previous meeting to consider whether leashed dogs should be allowed in Forest Service Park. At issue was not the physical presence of dogs, but the waste they leave behind and how it could be dealt with, if at all.

Dogs have been excluded from Forest Service Park and Atkinson

Park, but allowed in Ketchum's remaining two parks, Rotary Park, and "Little" Park.

But Councilwoman Sue Noel said that Ketchum's ordinance forbids dogs solely in Atkinson Park. The signs prohibiting dogs at Forest Service Park, which were paid for and erected by the city of Ketchum, were in violation of the city's own ordinance, she said.

Vicki Graves, chairwoman of the master-planning committee for Forest Service Park, said the "no dogs" policy was the idea of her volunteer committee. Its intent was to maintain the park's historical appearance as closely as possible. For the same reason, trash receptacles were never installed in the park, and the park had a "pack it in, pack it out" trash policy.

Residents who spoke at the meeting expressed concerns about safety, waste and enforcement. "The animals in our areas run wild all the time. A child was bitten at Atkinson Park. Parents who were there said that dog had bitten before," said Barbara Amick. "There are signs prohibiting dogs at Atkinson Park, yet a black lab sat in the middle of the soccer game last week."

"It's unrealistic to think that dog owners will scoop up after their dogs in this town," said Linda Opple. "It would be so nice if we could keep these little havens dog-free."

Terry Tracy, city recreation director, said, "There's a major problem at the two parks that allow dogs. There's not a piece of equipment that doesn't have to be hosed off after use there."

Noel moved that the city purchase and install two trash receptacles to be placed at either side of Forest Service Park, and four dispensers of bags for dog waste removal — two for Forest Service Park, and one each for Little Park and Rotary Park.

The motion passed with the support of council members Noel and David Hutchinson, and council member Nan Emerick voted in opposition. Council member Chris Potters was absent.

As the council attempted to move on to other business, Dugan protested that he wanted to address the dog-waste issue on a city-wide basis, and revealed his duffel bag of "evidence."

After additional discussion of the dog issue, Mayor Guy Coles vetoed the council's decision on trash receptacles and waste-bag dispensers. "This will have to come back for another meeting. I didn't like the motion. It's a slap in the face to the master-plan committee," Coles said.

And the dog question is not over yet. "I've had more phone calls on dog poop than anything else since I've been on City Council," Emerick said.

Hansen high school on schedule

By Margaret Jones
Times-News correspondent

HANSEN — Construction on the new Hansen junior/senior high school is on schedule and is starting to show progress with 85 percent of the foundation in place, Rod Hall told the School Board Monday.

Hall, construction manager for Darren Hall Construction, said under-slab work such as plumbing and electrical work will be done this week and the remainder of the concrete work will be completed. The board has selected brick and roof colors, and a committee will meet with architect Russ Lively to select colors for carpet, Formica and other materials within the next few days.

In other Hansen School Board business:

• Second-grade teachers Christy Fisher and Jan Freestone reported on curriculum progress.

Hansen School Board meets

The Hansen School Board will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Oct. 23 to make color selections for the new school building and review other construction options.

Fisher said she felt New Reading Skills and Accelerated Reader materials have been very helpful along with a new phonics program. Freestone said parent and community interest had benefited students, and the new material contains individual booklets for students to read at home — which she felt had been a great help.

• Brent Hyatt of accounting firm Holmstead, Hyatt & Coleman gave the annual audit report.

The firm gave no recommendation for change in any areas, he said, and he praised the school's computer system for leaving a good audit trail and school clerk Evelyn Jones for her efficiency.

• The board approved two requests by high school Principal Rick Abel for high school trips — one to Bozelle for the production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at Idaho State University, and one for the student council to attend a convention in Boise.

• Elementary Principal Tom Standley said the hiring of Deanna Miller and Cheryl Loveless as first- and third-grade aids was a great asset.

He said the PTO had purchased $225 worth of computer software to be used in the kindergarten to second-grade classes, and a marathon had raised $2,000 for the computer lab.

Standley said the Kimberly-Hansen Police Department had fingerprinted the kindergarten to first-grade students and that 80 percent of the elementary students had been recognized in the "do something good" program.

Carlson hired as Jerome County engineer

By Dixie Thomas Reale
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Jerome County commissioners hired Chip Carlson as county engineer on Monday.

Carlson will replace engineer Doug Howard, who recently resigned effective Nov. 1.

In other county business Monday:

• Doug Whipple, Jerome County public defender, reported on prosecutions in Jerome County for the year that ended Sept. 30.

There were 915 people arrested, with a total of 1,316 charges; of those charges, 228 were felonies, 950 were misdemeanors, 131 were juveniles and 12 involved child protection.

• A public hearing was held on delinquent taxes owed from 1992 to now on a parcel of property — a lot and a half in the 300 block of East G Street in Jerome. The property was owned by John H. and Maxine Miller, both now deceased.

Jerome County-Treasurer Mary Childers said the family had been contacted and given opportunity to redeem the property by paying the taxes. The family did not wish to redeem it and was willing to allow the land to go to the county for the tax bill, she said. Estimated property value is $9,700 and includes an old house.

Commissioners plan to advertise the property for sale to the highest bidder, with a minimum bid of $200. Two parties already have expressed interest in buying it.

• Clint Wolf is the new acting manager for the Jerome County Ambulance Service.

Applications are being taken to fill open crew positions.

Ketchum's Main Street will get face lift

By Cathryn Wild
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — A face lift is in the works for Ketchum's Main Street next spring.

Planning and Zoning Administrator Lisa Majdiak and consultant Phil Homer presented new streetscaping proposals and streetscape standards for downtown Ketchum to the City Council Monday night. Designs for city signs, lighting, informational kiosks, benches and trash receptacles have been developed over several months, with input from downtown business owners and chamber of commerce representatives.

Three plans for placement of the equipment, and additional tree plantings in the downtown core, were detailed.

Of the three plans, council members favored one calling for 12 new trees along Main Street between Second and Fourth streets. Trees would be outfitted with grates, guards to protect against vandalism and underground automatic irrigation. No tree species has been selected; ash, Norway maple and Canada red chokecherry are on the list.

Included in the plan is lighting at the intersections of Main and Fourth Street, and Main and Second Street. Council members agreed that supplementing the plan by adding small, white Christmas-style lights to the new trees would enhance pedestrian lighting during winter.

"We've had complaints in our surveys that we don't have night shopping. If we light the trees, that would be good for shopping," said Wendy Jaquet, recently retired chamber of commerce director.

"And it would be festive," said Mayor Guy Coles.

The budget for the favored plan — the least expensive of the three options developed — is $153,275, not including tree lighting. Installing power for lighting would add an estimated $13,000 to $15,000.

The council will vote on formal standards adoption at the next regularly scheduled council meeting, at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 4 in City Hall. Additional public discussion of the streetscape standards, and placement scheme, also is scheduled then. Council members said they hope for a good turnout of downtown residents and business owners. If the standards are adopted, tree planting and installation of the new amenities could begin next spring.

"Let's set a good example and have it done before the Fourth of July," said council member Nan Emerick.

Superintendent defends One Percent flyer

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Acting Idaho Falls School Superintendent John Murdoch is defending the district's dissemination of a flyer outlining arguments against the One Percent Initiative, saying it was financed privately.

Murdoch said the single-sheet, double-sided flyer was printed with cash from the Friends of District 91, which relies solely on private donations. He said it was included with newsletters, and information on parent-teacher conferences that was already being mailed out by the district.

The legality of the flyer was raised by Sonja Schanz and her husband Donald, and Deputy Attorney General William von Tegen warned the district last Friday that while it could take a position on the initiative, it could not spend public money to advocate that position.

Donald Schanz said he only wants Murdoch to include information from him giving arguments for the initiative in a mailing before the election. He declined to say what he would do if that request was rejected.

"Hopefully it won't become a big story, but that will depend on what his feelings are," Schanz said.

It was just the latest exchange in what is being seen as a narrowing campaign over the proposition that would immediately shift $228 million in local property tax support for schools to the state and directs lawmakers to limit remaining property taxes to 1 percent of taxable value.

A complaint filed by pro-initiative forces who question the legality of a brochure citing similar information about the proposition is still pending before the Secretary of State.

Gov. Phil Batt has denounced the proposition, saying it will destroy Idaho's stable tax structure and result in a tax shift not a tax cut. He warned businesses earlier this year that since they pay 70 percent of all property taxes and would get 70 percent of the initiative's benefit, they could expect to be the target of the tax increases needed to accommodate it if it passes.

But One Percent author Ron Rankin, while disputing many of the claims and figures used by state officials to lambaste his proposition, contends that the state can cover the property tax elimination with natural economic growth and cutting far from the state budget.

He repeatedly declares that in the past four years since his earlier tax-limiting initiative was overwhelmingly rejected, general tax spending in the state has risen $400 million dollars — about 40 percent — and none of that money has gone to the taxpayers.

But Batt and the Legislature acted two years ago on an annual property tax cut of more than $40 million. In addition, Idaho's population has increased 11 percent, faster than nearly every other state in the nation and intensifying pressure on state services.

There are 17,000 more children in Idaho's schools this fall than in the fall of 1992 — the equivalent of 830 new classrooms. The number of district court cases has jumped 3,000, more than 22 percent, through the end of 1995, and the state's prison population has soared by almost 60 percent — from 2,350 in the fall of 1992 to more than 3,700 today.

With the initiative requiring education to be supported by the state at no less than the current combined state-local level and with half of all general tax spending going to public schools already, Batt and others maintain there is no way to cut remaining spending to accommodate the initiative.

Hunter dies in carbon monoxide accident

BOISE (AP) — The death of a Meridian man in his tent near Garden Valley prompted a warning for hunters to be careful with propane space heaters.

LeRoy Thomas, 32, died Sunday as he slept in a tent warmed by a portable propane heater, Boise County Sheriff Mike Butler said.

DRY LIGHTNING

Spectators get a close look at Craig Breedlove's jet-powered vehicle, 'Spirit of America,' at the Black Rock Desert in Nevada on Monday. Breedlove, of Rio Vista, Calif., is at the desert attempting to break the land speed record. The Black Rock Desert is located 100 miles north of Reno.

Only 5 want to head Fish & Game

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Only five people have applied to succeed Jerry Conley as director of the Fish and Game Department, and a member of the agency's governing body says they may have to re-open applications after the Nov. 1 deadline if they don't get more candidates.

"It just doesn't change, I don't think the commission will accept five," said Fish and Game Commissioner Jeff Sidwonen. "We are going to have to go out and re-advertise. I know there is more interest than that."

Only five applications were received by the state as of Monday. In contrast, when Conley was hired for the job in 1980, about 55 applications were received.

One Fish and Game employee, who did not want to be identified, said the lack of interest probably is a result of remarks made by commission members about the time Conley said he was leaving for a similar job in Missouri.

"I think the low number of applicants is the response to the unfavorable statements by the commission when they said they wanted somebody they could control," the employee said.

"I think people are shying away from the job. They don't want any part of the current atmosphere that pervades the department."

The employee was referring to comments by two Fish and Game commissioners about the type of director they wanted. "We're looking for someone who follows the direction that the commission gives him," said Region 5 Commissioner Roy Brown in August.

"That's the only person we control. We don't control the entire department."

Board debates stream protection

LEWISTON (AP) — Idaho Health and Welfare Board members say they are trying to raise the profile of efforts to designate rivers eligible for protection as pristine waters.

Conservationists at the board's first public hearing on "outstanding resource waters" Monday in Lewiston urged the panel to recognize more streams. Logging industry spokesmen questioned the practical application of the new program.

Meanwhile, Northwest environmental groups are calling for a ban against a timber sale along one of the streams in question. The hearing, the first of four, is an attempt to help the public understand the issues, said board Chairman Maureen Finnerty of Idaho Falls.

"I want to try to remove as much suspicion as possible about what's being done."

The board proposed several streams for the state's strongest protection in 1990 and 1991. Both efforts failed when legislators balked.

"I saw it treated somewhat slandersly during the last legislative session," Finnerty said. The Federal Clean Water Act allows states to create such a category. Idaho legislators did so in 1989, but have not applied it to any streams.

The outstanding category bans any pollution, but does not prohibit any activity such as logging or mining. The Idaho Conservation League and others petitioned the board this spring to protect 68 streams.

Charges filed against 5 football players

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Five Greater High School students, including four members of the school's football team, were charged Tuesday in a string of armed robberies.

Four other students or former students, including a pair of 15-year-olds, could also face criminal charges in holdups that lawmen say spanned the valley and involved some 20 businesses, mostly fast-food restaurants.

The five students were identified as Daniel Despain, 16; Ozio Lightner, 16; Edgar Abel Romero, 16; Stuart Adams, 16; and Manu Tahj, 17. They were charged under the state's year-old Serious Youth Offender Act, which presumes they will be transferred into the adult criminal system unless they can show good reason to remain in the juvenile court system.

They appeared before different juvenile court judges for arraignment Tuesday morning.

Sunflowers bring an array of tastes

By Denise Turner
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - A Magic Valley reader responded to a request for recipes using sunflower seeds - and noted that sunflower heads are available at the local farm market. The recipes are from a book called "Nuts, Seeds and Grains."

SUNFLOWER GOULASH

- 1 cup chopped sunflower seeds
- 2 cups mushrooms, halved
- 2 onions, sliced
- 1 cup fresh sprouts
- 1 cup cooked and cooled miller
- 2 cups fresh or home-canned tomatoes
- 1 cup lima or butter beans
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- Sunflower seed oil

Saute the onions in sunflower seed oil until tender. Add all other ingredients, season, pour in casserole dish and bake about 1/2 hour, and serve. Yield: 4 servings.

SUNFLOWER AND WHOLEWHEAT BREAD

- 1 package yeast
- 1/3 cup lukewarm water
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1 1/4 cups boiling water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3/4 cup wholewheat flour
- 1 3/4 cups sunflower seed flour
- 1/3 cup raisins

Soak yeast in the lukewarm water and sweetening until foamy. Boil water, salt and butter and let it cool to lukewarm. Mix the flours and raisins together. Combine the yeast mixture with the water and add it to the flour. The sponge should be stirred well and be soft, but with a body. Set the bowl in a pan of quite warm water and cover with a tea towel to rise. This takes about 1 1/4 hours. Beat down a couple of minutes with a wooden spoon and then put in a greased, floured bread pan to rise again in a warm place, covered, about 45 minutes. Light the oven when you put the bread in and let it come up to 375 degrees and then turn down to 325 degrees to finish the baking which takes about 45 minutes altogether.

SUNFLOWER CORNBREAD

- 1 cup sunflower seed flour
- 1 cup corn meal
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 2 eggs yolks, beaten
- 1/2 cup cream or yogurt
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1/3 cup buttermilk
- 2 egg whites, beaten

Mix all dry ingredients together and combine with the mixed liquids. Fold in the eggs last. Bake in a greased, floured pan 5 minutes at 375 degrees, then 10 minutes more at 325 degrees. Serve hot with butter. It keeps well and is good cold.

SUNFLOWER SEED PIE

Make your pastry the usual way except add 1/2 cup finely ground sunflower seeds to the shortening and use a little less flour. Bake the shell and cool it.

Filling:
Heat 2 cups milk to boiling point and stir in a thickening of:
2/3 cup honey
1/2 cup sunflower seed flour (unbleached)
Stir this to a paste with milk. Stir constantly until thick. Cool and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour in pastry shell, smooth over the top and sprinkle about 3/4 cups ground sunflower seeds on the filling. Cover with the egg whites made into a meringue, sweetened with honey. Bake to a golden brown on top.

SUNFLOWER SEED LOAF

- 1 cup ground sunflower seeds
- 1 cup ground sunflower seeds (seeds ground in fine)
- 1/2 cup ground or chopped walnuts
- 1 cup cooked and seasoned lentils
- 2 tablespoons minced onion or chives
- 2 large or 3 small eggs beaten slightly
- 1/2 cup wholegrain bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup grated raw carrots
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1/2 cup dried green pepper
- 1 teaspoon sea salt

Please see RECIPE, Page C7

COWBOY CAVIAR

- 1 1/2-ounce can black-eyed peas, rinsed and drained
- 1/3 cup thinly sliced red onions (2)
- 1/4 cup finely chopped red sweet pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 to 2 fresh jalapeno peppers, seeded and chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon cracked black pepper
- Dash salt
- Assorted crackers or tortilla chips

In a bowl combine black-eyed peas, green onions, sweet pepper, garlic, oil, vinegar, jalapeno pepper, black pepper, and salt. Cover and chill overnight. To serve, transfer to a serving dish. Serve with crackers or tortilla chips. Cover any leftovers; chill for up to 4 days. Makes 2 cups dip.

LEMON BARS

- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons finely shredded lemon

- peel
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- Powdered sugar (optional)

In a medium bowl beat butter or margarine with an electric mixer on medium to high speed for 30 seconds. Add the 1/4 cup granulated sugar; beat till combined. Beat in the 1 cup flour till crumbly. Press mixture into the bottom of an ungreased 8-by-8-by-2-inch baking pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 15 to 18 minutes or just till golden. Meanwhile, in a small mixing bowl combine eggs, the 3/4 cup granulated

Local native's tastes run across the world

By Dixie Thomas Reale
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM - Martha Reynolds has a collection of more than 150 cookbooks, which she has gathered through the years from all over the world. She was a military wife for much of her adult life. Reynolds was born in the Magic Valley, grew up on the Salmon Tract south of Twin Falls and graduated from Twin Falls High School in the 1940s. Her mother died when she was 11. Since all of her older sisters were grown at the time, she taught herself to cook by reading cookbooks.

While still a young girl, Reynolds was cooking meals for the threshing and haying crews on the family farm in the summertime.

Years ago, before computerized and automated farming, neighboring farmers would band together to form one large work crew. They would go from one farm to the next, threshing wheat or stacking hay until all the farms crops were harvested.

Reynolds said her father helped with the threshing and haying crew meals whenever possible - by mixing biscuit dough at 4 a.m. A neighbor girl, Jean Brady, would also help. Back then, on the Salmon Tract, there was no electricity or running water. But it never occurred to Reynolds that what she was doing was hard work.

She said a couple of young men lived on the family farm as hired hands when she was learning to cook. One of these men said, "Never let Martha know you like something that she has cooked or she will feed it to you for the rest of your life."

After graduation from high school, the farm girl married Dick Reynolds, a military man stationed at Fort Lewis. They divorced after a few years and she married another military man named Hank Mays from Niagara Springs. They lived in Japan and the Philippines. After Mays died, Reynolds remarried her first love, Dick Reynolds.

They lived in Spain and traveled the South Pacific.

Reynolds returned to Twin Falls in 1976. Dick Reynolds died in 1984.

After her husband's death, Reynolds moved to Texas to live with her oldest daughter, Marel Hanks. While Hanks was on vacation in the Ketchum area, the city fathers discovered that she was a pediatrician. They talked her into moving her medical practice to Ketchum.

Reynolds and her daughter now live in Ketchum.

Here are some of Reynolds' recipes:

HAWAIIAN SHRIMP CURRY

- Serves 8
- 5 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup onion, finely chopped
- 3 tablespoons Madras curry powder (this brand has the best flavor)
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 to 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon fresh ginger, chopped fine
- 1 (14-ounce) can of clear chicken broth
- 16 to 18 ounces canned coconut milk, sweetened to taste
- 2 1/2 -pounds shrimp, cooked, peeled and deveined, cut into 2 or 3 slices depending on the size of the shrimp.
- 8 cups cooked rice
- Condiments:
- At least 1 cup of each of the following:
- Sliced green onion
- Chopped hard boiled egg
- Crisp crumbled bacon
- Chopped fresh tomatoes
- Chopped cucumber
- Pineapple tidbits
- Sliced banana
- Chopped cashews

Homemade candles make your home wax luminous

The flickering light of a candle can bring warmth, old-fashioned elegance and even a bit of magic to any gathering. And homemade candles are even more special.

Making candles is an easy project - with impressive results. Homemade candles can be wonderful gifts, but it's certainly worth making some for yourself, too. Because candle-making has become popular over the past few years, the few supplies you need should be easy to find. Paraffin is available at many grocery stores, and crafts stores often carry everything else: beeswax, wicking, molds, wax-dye pellets and wax hardeners, such as stearic acid. One good mail-order source is Barker Enterprise (800-543-0601).

MARTHA
Martha Stewart

Here are two different types of candles to make:

Rollled candles

These are simple to create. Rolled candles are made from sheets of solid beeswax, which come out in a vast array of colors. There's no melting or dyeing involved.

Rollled candles can be round or square, fat or thin and as tall or short as you like.

1. Begin by softening a sheet of beeswax to make it easy to work with. Place it on a towel-lined baking sheet and warm it in a 250-degree Fahrenheit oven for about two minutes, or heat it with a blow dryer.
2. Use a mat knife or utility knife to trim the sheet of wax to the height you want the candle to be. Lay a length of wicking slightly longer than the wax along one edge of the sheet. Carefully roll the wax, starting at the edge with the wicking, making sure to keep the ends even.

If you want to make a square candle, roll two or three times, then press down on the top with the palm of your hand,

- flattening the top and bottom. Roll another quarter turn and press down again, flattening the remaining two sides. Continue rolling, pressing down each time.
3. When the candle reaches the size you want, cut off the excess wax. If you want to give the candle a different outer layer, roll it in a sheet of wax in a complementary color.
4. Like the slightly rough, homemade look of the candles at this point, but if you prefer, you can erase the seam by rubbing it with a warm metal tool, such as a palette knife or spatula.

A dahlia root in storage is worth 2 in the ground

That's the end of the dahlias. Last week their perfect form and bright colors waved softly in the breeze. This week they're black and mushy.

The first killing frost ends dahlias' long-blooming season, and tells us to dig up the roots and store them. You could leave them in the ground, but if the clumps freeze they can suffer from stem rot, and soil insects might find them tasty. Better to dig them up.

Cut the stem off just above ground level. Tie a label to this stub so you don't get it mixed up with others later. Keep the feeder roots from damaging the fleshy root clump. Make a clean cut with the shovel blade about 18 inches out from the center. That way, the feeder roots won't pull on the center clump when you lift.

GREEN THUMBPRINTS

If the dahlia was planted too deeply at about 10 to 12 inches down, clunk the top of the root clump with the spading fork and knock some of the dirt off. Turn the whole thing upside down in a shady place so the dirt will dry and fall off.

After the root clump is dry, trim off all the messy little feeder roots. Dust any scratches or cuts you made with sulphur to disinfect them. Make it a habit to sterilize your sharp tools before you use them on another root clump. Bleach tools with a 10 percent bleach solution. Be sure to dry and oil them before you put them back on the hook, though, or they'll rust.

Store the roots where they will be stored in a root cellar, where the temperature stays about +40 to 50 degrees all winter and there is good air circulation. Since hardly anybody has a root cellar these days, try the crawl space under the house, the garage or an unheated part of the basement.

Divide the clump soon after you dig it up with a knife or pruning shears. The "eyes" are easy to see on the stalks, and the little pieces are easier to store. Put the roots in something porous that will insulate, too, such as vermiculite, perlite, peat moss, new sawdust or dry sand. Don't use cardboard boxes, since they will probably leak on moisture and create a heavy mess by spring. Wooden boxes will keep their shape and stack nicely.

Check the stored tubers every once in a while to see if any of them show signs of softening or rotting. Throw those out. Anything that looks like it's getting mold or mildew needs fresh air and sunlight. Since that would be difficult impossible in our climate in the dead of winter without introducing higher or lower temperatures, I'd probably throw those out, too.

Keep watering in trees and shrubs weekly until the ground is so frozen it won't accept any more water. But do it in the middle of the day so you can unhook the hoses again before freezing nighttime temperatures set in.

Preserving this year's offspring is economical

Knight-Ridder News Service

Boring red tomatoes led Henry Bruski, 33, to save his first seeds. "Just seeing the seeds in the stores and then discovering there were many other tomato colors, shapes and sizes got me started. One year I grew over 70 varieties of tomatoes," says Bruski, a Sunnyside, Calif., organic gardener who has turned his interest into a mail-order business.

Saving seeds may sound like the ultimate in frugality. But as Bruski and other dedicated seed savers have discovered, gathering seeds brings an exciting dimension to the garden and protects the genetic seed bank so old varieties are not lost forever.

Besides, Bruski points out, "It's fun." Although it is easy to do, there are a few rules to follow. Not every seed is worth saving. Because some do not "come true." According to Nancy Bubel in "52 Weekend Garden Projects" (Doddale, $22.95), if your flower or vegetable is an heirloom cultivar or non-hybrid variety, save the seeds. However, if you start with "hybrid" or "F1" seed or transplants, don't bother sowing them. They will produce inferior flowers or fruit. Beyond those, however, there are literally thousands of non-hybrid that "come true," meaning they produce strong plants just like the parent

If you're interested

plant — everything from corn and beans to sunflowers and poppies.

Bruski, who works part time at Common Ground in Palo Alto, saves "every kind of seed — any flower, any vegetable that appeals to me. I tend to stick mainly with unusual vegetable varieties that I like to grow and produce, since those are the rare varieties."

His favorites are unusual beans, tomatoes and corns. This year he grew a corn called Skywiper, that reached 16 feet and produced huge ears of sweet corn. Among his favorite tomatoes is a small cherry known as Snow White. "It's quite rare," he says.

His current favorite is Crimson Flower Java bean: "It's a variety that grows over winter and has beautiful crimson flowers, as opposed to the usual white, so it has ornamental value as well as food value."

"If you've never saved seeds before, start with easy ones — then experiment beyond those. Sunflowers and cosmos are quite easy. Pumpkins, beans and onions provide a wealth of seed.

Beans, Bruski says, are the easiest of all vegetables. "You wait until they have dried on the plant and then harvest them. They should be placed in the freezer, for a week to kill any weevils, which are a common bean problem and could destroy the seed."

Check what's left in your garden, and use these tips from Bubel on saving the best seed:

- Collect seeds of squash, pumpkin, cantaloupes and other melons when the fruit is ripe.
- Save seed from red, ripe bell peppers, not green ones.
- Let tomatoes, cucumbers and eggplants over-ripen beyond their prime — too ripe for eating but not rotted.
- Harvest zucchini and other summer squash after they've formed a hard shell with tough flesh and well developed seeds.
- Seed of lettuce, carrot, cabbage and onion fall soon after they are ripe and dry. Gather the seeds promptly before they scatter.

To save flower seeds, pick flower heads before they drop their seed. A dry wilted flower has "gone to seed." Ease the seed head into a paper bag and give it a few good shakes to catch the seed.

Both flower and vegetable seeds need to dry — even those that look dry when picked. Put the seeds on trays, or several layers of newspaper, for a week or two in a dark, well-ventilated place. Sometimes it is hard to separate the seed from the flower or seedpod. This is particularly true of flowers. The trick, Bubel says, is "to open the seedpods, or rub the seed heads, to free the seeds." Seeds scooped from pulp — cantaloupes, tomatoes and squash, for instance — should be washed and left to dry on paper towels.

Bubel says moisture and heat are two problems with saving seeds. "Once the seeds are dry, seal them in small bottles, cans or film containers, or in sealed envelopes kept inside a large can with a lid."

Label each container as it is filled, and then store the bottles or cans shown in a cool, dry place.

Not all seeds are equally good keepers. Pumpkin and gourd seeds, for instance, can keep many years, but onion seeds have a very short shelf life. Seed for flowering sweet peas will sprout five years down the line. The best bet, however, is to plant fall-gathered seeds in the spring garden.

Bruski, for one, has been captured by the diversity of old varieties. "With food seeds I look for flavor first, because that's most important. However, if a variety combines excellent flavor along with unusual characteristics, such as unusual celery, those are the ones I find most intriguing."

Been to a good mortgage burning lately? Chances are you have. This quaint custom was more common in the days before our society became so mobile, and when the first home purchased was often the last.

Today it is the rare homeowner who keeps possession for the length of the mortgage, as mortgage durations are longer, and moves are more frequent.

Even when families stay in the same community, the rule today is to move from home to home as family size and needs to change. If your family is leaving the nest, now may

Molded candles

Molded candles are made using a completely different process. It's as simple a technique as it is hundreds of years ago, when candles were a necessity, not a luxury.

An enormous variety of molds — from tiny votives to big blocks and towering pillars — are available at craft stores. They usually come with instructions on what guage wicking to use and how much you'll need to fill them.

1. Melt paraffin or tallow in a double boiler over high heat. When it reaches 200 degrees Fahrenheit on a candy thermometer, lower the heat and add a hardening agent. (For one pound of wax, add three tablespoons stearic acid or one teaspoon synthetic hardening crystals.)

2. While the wax is heating, never leave it unattended or allow it to reach a temperature higher than 200 degrees. Lower the heat immediately if the wax starts smoking or smells like it's burning.

3. To color the wax, add bits of wax-dye pellets and stir as they dissolve. Start with small amounts of dye; you can always add more.

4. Pour the wax into the mold to an inch and a half below the rim.
5. Transfer the mold to a cold-water bath. The water should be level with the wax, so for a tall candle, a bucket works well. For votives, a baking pan is fine.
6. Let the mold stand for about half an hour. A small well will form around the wick, so for a tall candle, a bucket works well. For votives, a baking pan is fine.
7. Let the mold stand for about half an hour. A small well will form around the wick, so for a tall candle, a bucket works well. For votives, a baking pan is fine.
8. Repeat this process after 45 more minutes, then remove the candles from the water bath and snabs or by dabbing a bit onto a baking sheet.

let them harden completely, about eight hours. (Small candles, such as votives, will be ready in just a few hours.)

6. Remove the wick screw and putty and carefully pull the candle from its mold. Straighten the bottom with a knife if necessary, and smooth any rough spots by rubbing on a warmed cookie sheet.

Don't save your candles for special occasions. Make enough to use them for everyday dinners or to add a little romance or mystery to any room in the house.

TWIN FALLS SCHOOL DISTRICT PARENTAL NOTICE

The Twin Falls School District is very dedicated to the health and safety of our youth. To assist us in identifying the key areas of concern for student health and safety, the Twin Falls School District will be surveying students in grades 6, 8, and 12 about drug/alcohol use and school climate. The survey is anonymous. Students will not put their name on the survey. Students will place their surveys in an envelope, so no one, not even the teacher, will know the responses any student makes to any question.

Participation on the survey is voluntary, parents should contact the building principal if they do not want their child to participate. Students may also decline to participate in the survey, or they may leave any question blank they do not choose to answer. A copy of the survey is available for parental review at each school office. The survey will be given on November 1, 1998.

The survey results will be presented in the same manner as public opinion polls, results reported for each grade levels as a whole. The survey will give us information we need to plan prevention and intervention programs to combat the problems faced by our youth. It will also give us information to evaluate the current prevention efforts and make adjustments to increase their effectiveness.

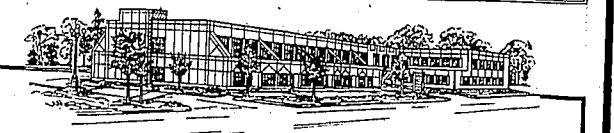

We appreciate your partnership as we work together to provide the most effective substance abuse prevention resources and a safe school environment.

Employees feel blast of owner's temper

DEAR ABBY: My younger brother "Mike" and I are partners in a small manufacturing business. The problem is my brother's explosive temper.

When an employee makes a mistake, Mike literally throws a tantrum, kicking things and cursing at the top of his lungs. This is never done in private. He screams and criticizes the employee in front of anybody who will listen. Since he is "the boss," the employees just take it and silently curse him back. This makes for a miserable work atmosphere.

I have repeatedly told Mike that his tantrums make him look foolish, and his employees should not have to put up with his tirades. He apologizes, then loses his temper all over again.

Unfortunately, I can't fire him or punch him in the nose (which is what he needs!). I don't think he realizes that his behavior is cruel and insulting. How can I get through to him?

- BOTHERED BROTHER
DEAR BROTHER: Your brother's inability to control his explosive temper is unfortunate. His outbursts may have little or nothing to do with the situation that appears to trigger his tantrums.

Anger expressed inappropriately can have devastating effects.

As I explain in my booklet "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It," counseling helps people learn how to express their anger appropriately. Support groups also may help. For a referral, contact your local mental health agency. You will find it in the Yellow Pages under "Counseling" or "Mental Health Services."

DEAR ABBY: I am writing on behalf of families who have lost a loved one, or have a family member who is seriously ill. Preparing food for the grieving family is one of the ways to show love and concern. However, I would like to suggest that the food be sent in disposable containers.

The last thing families need to worry about is which dish, platter or bowl belongs to whom, or how to return it to the rightful owner.

Many disposable containers are available at minimum expense. Another suggestion would be to shop garage sales for "odds and ends" plates and casserole dishes that are attractive - but not something that would need to be returned. During difficult times, our efforts should be to make life as easy and uncomplicated as possible.

- DISCREET IN LOUISIANA
DEAR DISCREET: The last time I endorsed disposable dishes the environmentalists disapproved in droves. However, your second suggestion is a very good one if you have the time and money to shop the yard sales. If not, an address label attached to the bottom of the container should ensure its return.

DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago you printed a letter from a retired police detective. He wrote regarding the woman whose husband insisted on sleeping with their bedroom window open. Has neither of them ever heard of drilling holes in the frames of the upper and lower sections of the window, with the lower window raised approximately 3 to 4 inches, then inserting a long nail or a bolt through the holes?

The windows are then locked in an open position too small for an intruder to gain entry, but with enough space for ventilation.

For many of us who live in areas of the country where air conditioning is necessary only a few days a year, this has been a practical and safe solution.

Check daylength when flowers, vegetables fail

The Associated Press

PHOENIX — In ancient times, people became experts on daylength because their lives and crops depended upon it. These days, home gardeners often overlook the phenomenon but need to recheck it when puzzled by failure with flowers or vegetables. Onions are the classic example of how different varieties respond differently to short-day or long-day hours. However, many other plants also vary in their response. Short-day species include chrysanthemum, poinsettia and corn while long-day examples are cabbage, beets and roses. So, regardless of where you garden, daylength needs to be considered.

In subtropical Arizona, to secure onion bulbs it's necessary to plant short-day types like Granex, Bermuda and Grano in November and long-day types such as Sweet Spanish and Granada from late January to mid-February. If planted here in the fall, long-day types will develop a large, thick neck rather than a bulb. They need more daylight than is available. But if short-day types are planted in the fall, bulb development starts in February, when daylight ranges from 9 to 12 hours, and continues until they mature in mid-spring. Long-day bulbs mature around mid-July from the January-February planting.

The system is not perfectly predictable but is accurate enough to pinpoint plants which will do well or poorly under most conditions. For example, refinements include delaying or hastening the flowering of chrysanthemum by covering with black cloth (to shorten the day) or adding incandescent light (to lengthen the day). Elaborate tables now are available showing the amount of daylight hours for key dates outdoors in various latitudes. Robert Johnson Jr., president of Johnny's Selected Seeds, P.O. Box 100, Albion, Maine 04910, offered an intriguing look at daylength in a company newsletter.

ter some years ago. "Every place on the world receives about the same number of daylight hours in the course of a year," he said. "It is only the seasonal distribution of daylight that is different." The number of daylight hours varies according to latitude and time of year except on the equinoxes, March 21 and Sept. 22, when there are about 12 hours of daylight everywhere on Earth. The farther from the equator, the longer the day from spring through summer. The longest day is June 21, the first day of summer. "On that day, the farther north (for the Northern Hemisphere) the greater the number of hours of daylight, up to the latitude of 66.5 degrees," Johnson said. "From there on to the North Pole is daylight 24 hours a day."

Sugar gliders

Indianapolis Star and News

INDIANAPOLIS — When he's not snoozing in Matt Spivey's shirt pocket, Tattoo likes to scamper down his back and swan-dive off the living-room drapes. Silver gray with soft brown eyes and pointy ears that rotate like little radar dishes, this diminutive marsupial looks like a cross between a flying squirrel and a miniature E.T.

He's also the latest-rage in pocket pets.

But unlike a gerbil or a hamster, Tattoo is literally a pocket day away in Spivey's pocket or parasail off the top of his head. Fuzzy, friendly and infinitely cute, sugar gliders are among the most sought-after exotic pets since polka-dotted pigs and hedgehogs made the scene.

"They're just as sweet as can be," said Spivey, 24, Tattoo's owner and a clerk at Uncle Bill's Pet Center in Indianapolis, where gliders sell for $200 each. "When I go to work, he sits in my pocket, and his tail hangs out of it."

Native to New Guinea, Indonesia and Australia, sugar gliders get their name from their love of sweet sap and fruit and their gliding membrane, which stretches from wrists to ankles. It's used to turn them into tiny parachutes.

In the wild, sugar gliders are forest dwellers with rich social lives, living in colonies of six to 15, taking up residence in tree hollows or in nests made of vegetation. A typical activity is gliding from tree to tree, scarfing up insects.

But in the United States, drapes, couches and an occasional chair shoulder will have to do. Their diet must be a carefully dish-up menu of 75 percent fruit and 25 percent protein.

Like most exotic-pet crazes, the initial frenzy to own sugar gliders is fast and furious, fueled by many who have little knowledge of how to care for them; said Angela Larned, a veterinarian at the Avian and Exotic Animal Clinic in Carmel, Ind.

The animals suffer with such owners. "We've had a lot of people come in with (sugar gliders) that have no idea how to take care of them," Larned said. "But the worst owners are probably the ones we never see."

Gliders tend to be affectionate and devoted, a characteristic which makes them particularly attractive pets. In fact, these creatures are so gregarious they can't bear to be left alone for long periods. Some veterinarians believe gliders can actually die of loneliness.

Experts say a pet glider should be handled a minimum of two hours a day to build a lasting bond with caregivers. They also

Caring for your glider

- Because gliders are nocturnal, the best times to handle them are early in the morning before they go to sleep or before they get up at night.
- Most vets recommend that children under 12 should not own sugar gliders — Sugar gliders need a nest box to sleep in during the day and protect them from the sun. In the wild they are protected from direct sun by the tree canopy they live under. Do not place their cage in direct sunlight. The cage should be at least 20 by 20 by 20 inches with a wire bottom to allow droppings to fall through.
- For bedding materials, use dry moss, cotton or leaves from a live branch or even wood shavings. Cages should also have several live branches for them to climb on.
- Gliders will debark branches looking for sap, so they should be replaced regularly. This keeps their teeth and gums healthy. Elm, Hickory and Oak branches are recommended. Black Walnut, Cherry and Azalea are toxic to sugar gliders and should not be used.
- Since gliders are nocturnal, they should be fed in the evening so that their food is fresh. They require a diet of 75 percent fruit and 25 percent protein. It takes about a cup of chopped fruits and vegetables a day. Fruit should be fresh or frozen, not canned in syrup. They are fond of grapes, apples, pears, melons, peaches, blueberries, figs, dates, raisins and applesauce. Their favorite vegetables are corn, sweet potatoes, carrots, lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes and celery.
- In addition, they need protein found in raw peanuts, sunflower seeds, dry cat food and low- or non-fat plain or with fruit yogurt and cottage cheese. Mealworms, fruit flies and crickets are also favored.
- Perishable foods must be replaced on a daily basis. Spoiled food can make a glider very ill.
- For optimum health, the food should be sprinkled with a zoological multivitamin.
- Feeders need to be large enough to keep food from falling out so that the glider can't sit in it and soil the food.
- Fresh water should be provided in a hamster or gerbil water bottle.

recommend buying them in pairs — same-sex pairs are fine — so they won't have to be alone.

"They like to sit on my shoulder or crawl under the back of my hair and curl up and go to sleep," said Becky Wheeler, a breeder. "I just hold them or put them in my shirt pocket and do whatever I'm doing, watching TV or cooking dinner."

Spivey got a companion for his glider. "Before I got Indra (Tattoo's mate), he would wake us up out of a dead sleep because he wanted us to play with him," Spivey said.

sounds like a cross between a baby seal and a chihuahua, he said. And when gliders are irked, similar to a pencil stuck in an electric pencil sharpener too long. Make no mistake about it: these are high-maintenance pets — especially at night, when their day begins. In the wild, that's when they begin gliding in search of food. "They're not calm little pets that just sit there," Lennox said. "They chew on furniture, they'll run up the drapes, they'll go into cabinets and throw things out. Loose in the house, they're a disaster."

Owners recommend large, tall cages with a hamster wheel and plenty of ropes and tree branches to climb on. A word to the wise: Sugar gliders cannot be litter trained. While some gliders do become accustomed to relieving themselves in their cages, others have been known to piddle in their owner's hands, pockets and even on their heads. Since gliders can live 12 years or more in captivity, owning one is a huge commitment that should be researched carefully, said Richard Block, vice president for scientific and program development at the Indianapolis Zoo.

Tuning up your furnace can save money on utility bills

Q: I have an old gas furnace and my utility bills are high. My budget for improvements is very limited. What simple things can I do myself to get it ready for winter and make it last a few extra years? - T. R.

A: Doing a simple furnace tune up each fall can keep your furnace running at its maximum efficiency and improve comfort. An annual utility bills savings of at least $100 is reasonable. It should only take an hour or so to do it and you can check your central air conditioner at the same time.

SENSIBLE HOME
James Dullea

A gas or propane furnace should be checked by a qualified technician every two or three years. Their equipment detects actual and potential problems.

Before doing anything else, always switch off the electricity to the furnace first. As a safety check, put a few drops of soapy water on all the gas line fittings. Bubbles indicate a small gas leak.

Your full furnace tune-up should include a filter change and then a change every month thereafter. A dirty clogged filter reduces air flow, which is necessary for maximum efficiency, over the heat exchangers.

Simple furnace tune-up can cut utility bills and increase life. Do not just eliminate the air cleaner even if the indoor air seems clean enough. A fine layer of dust and dirt can collect on the heat exchanger surfaces. This acts like a layer of insulation and kills efficiency. Remove the blower cover on the side of the furnace. This provides access to the blower motor, belt (if your model has a belt drive) and some of the heat exchanger surfaces. Vacuum clean all the interior surfaces.

If the blower motor has oil cups over the bearings, squirt in just a drop or two of oil. If there is a belt drive, check the tension on the belt. At the proper tension, the center of the belt should flex about one-half of an inch. Tighten or loosen it by adjusting the motor position.

Check the air inlet opening to the furnace. It should be clean with no soot. Soot deposits indicate incomplete combustion and/or backdrafting. If there is soot, do not use the furnace until it is checked by a technician.

Start the furnace and observe the color of the pilot flame and burners. The flames should be blue and steady, not yellow and dancing. This area is sealed on some newer furnaces, so you may not be able to see it.

Turn the thermostat up and down to make sure it's working. It is normal to have a short delay before the blower starts. Check to make sure all the duct dampers and registers are fully open. You can adjust the dampers later to control the amount of heated air going to each room for even temperatures.

Write for Update Bulletin No. 798 showing a do-it-yourself fall gas furnace tune-up guide, complete professional gas furnace and central air-conditioner troubleshooting guides and a furnace sizing evaluation chart. Please include $2 and business-size SASE.

Q: I added new deeper carpeting in my house. I have to shorten a hollow core door to clear the carpeting and then I plan to add retractable weatherstripping. What is the best way to shorten the door? - R. E.

A: Shortening a hollow core door can be a little tricky to get a clean appearance. Remove the door and mark a cut line for the amount to be removed. Saw slightly below the line and finish file it to the line.

Using a chisel, drive the cardboard core up inside the door. Peel the plywood veneer from the sides of the old bottom block in the carpeting piece. Put glue on the bottom block and insert it back up into the door.

Emerson: Compact, cute

Daylength

Continued from C4 Pole, it is continuous daylight, or on Dec. 22, it is rather, continuous darkness. The difference between winter and summer daylight varies according to latitude. Buffalo, N.Y., at approximately 43 degrees North has the sun more than an hour longer than Houston (approximately 30 degrees North) in the early summer and similarly shorter in winter. With short-day species, the flowering and reproductive phase of growth is hastened by fall and winter approaching and by growing them closer to the equator (shorter days during the spring and summer growing seasons). "If the climates are the same at two locations, the same variety of corn grown in the southern United States will mature faster but be shorter with a smaller ear than when grown in the northern United States," Johnson said. "In the North, the longer summer days delay maturity but result in

Can you stand one more Halloween idea?

I guess we're all just warming up for Thanksgiving and Christmas, trying with all our might to get in the fun and festive mood a little bit earlier. Halloween seems tailor-made for that purpose.

Out where I live, trick-or-treat is an ordeal. Our children want to be seen in their costumes by people they know and still have a big bucket of candy at the end of the day. But we can only average about four houses in an hour, simply because country folk are friendly and want you to come in, chat, warm yourself, do a trick, etc. It's quite tiresome.

Try as best I can to fill in the gaps in my kids with fun stuff at home. I don't do elaborate parties, just easy family fun. Like a jack-o'-lantern cake served with orange soda. Or individual Halloween pizzas.

I've been known to just put food coloring into the cream of wheat for breakfast. The kids aren't crazy about that trick.

A nifty idea is to get young ones in on the creative end, like helping prepare the food. I tend to be a bit impatient with my girls in the kitchen, but I found this great cookbook, "Cooking with KIDS," that has kid jobs in green boxes.

It also includes an entire menu for a really easy Halloween party -- and what to fix. I guess they were going for the colors, since they suggest chili and cornbread for the meal. Not a bad idea, considering how cold the kids can get while knocking on doors.

And besides, you've got to offset all that candy with a few good meals. You might as well have fun in the process.

HALLOWEEN PIZZAS

- 1/2 cup tomato sauce
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves

- 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1/4 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- Sliced black olives
- Sliced pimento

Heat oven to 425. Measure out 1/2 cup of tomato sauce, reserving the remainder. In a medium bowl, combine the 1/2 cup tomato sauce, ground beef, bread crumbs and oregano leaves. Divide the beef mixture into 4 equal parts. Put the 4 parts several inches apart on a jellyroll pan. Pat each part into a 4 1/2-inch circle. Pinch the edge of each circle to make a short rim that stands up. Pour about 2 tablespoons of the saved tomato sauce into the center of each circle. Spread the sauce to the edge of each circle with rubber scraper.

Bake 15 to 20 minutes. Remove pizzas from oven. To make faces, sprinkle cheddar cheese over pizzas. Sprinkle mozzarella around top. Use olive slices for faces, filling in the holes with pimento slices (for that eerie glow). Heat pizza in warm oven about 5 minutes or until cheese is melted.

FIESTA CHILI

- 1 medium onion

VALLEY COOKING
Rebecca Tateoka

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- Dash of red pepper sauce
- 1 1/4 1/2-ounce can whole tomatoes, undrained
- 1 1/2 to 16-ounce can red kidney beans, undrained
- Shredded cheddar cheese
- Chop the onion; in frying pan cook hamburger with the onion until brown. Drain off fat. Add chili powder, garlic salt, red pepper sauce and tomatoes to the hamburger. Heat mixture to boiling. Turn heat down to low. Simmer uncovered 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the can of kidney beans; simmer 30 minutes longer. Top each serving with cheddar cheese.

CHUNKY CORNBREAD

- 1 cup cornmeal
- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 large eggs
- 1/2 cup oil-packed corn

Heat oven to 400. Grease an 8-by-8-by-2-inch pan with shortening. In a large bowl, beat cornmeal, flour, milk, oil, sugar, baking powder, salt and eggs with a wooden spoon until smooth. Stir in the corn. Spread batter in pan. Bake about 25 minutes or until light brown and toothpick poked in center comes out clean. Serve warm.

JACK-O-LANTERN CAKE

- 1 package spice or carrot cake

mix with pudding; Black jelly beans
Candy corn
Heat oven to 350. Grease two 8- or 9-inch round pans with shortening; dust with flour. Prepare cake mix according to package directions and bake. Cool 10 minutes, then remove from pans to wire rack. Cool completely. Make Creamy Frosting.

Creamy Frosting:
3 cups powdered sugar
1/3 cup butter, softened
2 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
Mix powdered sugar and butter in medium bowl. Add milk and vanilla, beating until smooth and spreadable. Add more powdered sugar if frosting is thin; add a few drops of red and yellow food colors. Start with just 1 or 2 drops, adding more drops to get the color of orange you like. Put 1 cake, rounded side down, on a plate. Spread some of the frosting over the top of the cake. Top with second cake, rounded side up. Frost the side and top of the cake. Make a jack-o'-lantern face on the cake using flat black jelly beans and candy corn.

sugar, the 2 tablespoons flour, lemon peel, lemon juice, and baking powder. Beat 2 minutes or till combined. Pour filling over baked layer. Bake 20 minutes more or till lightly browned around edges and center is set. Cool on a wire rack. If desired, sift powdered sugar over top. Cut into bars. Makes 20 bars.

FISH SANDWICH WITH BASIL MAYONNAISE

Banking these fillets at 500 degrees keeps the crumb coating nice and crispy. For crumb-topped fish, toss the crumb mixture with the margarine. Brush the fillets with milk and sprinkle the crumb mixture over the top of fillets. Serve with or without the buns.

4 fresh or frozen skinless fish fillets, 1/2 inch thick (about 1 pound total)

- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
- 4 hamburger buns or Kaiser rolls, split and toasted
- Lettuce leaves
- 1 recipe Basil Mayonnaise (see below)
- Thaw fish, if frozen. Rinse fish; pat dry with paper towels. Pour milk into shallow dish. In another shallow dish combine bread crumbs, paprika, salt and pepper.

Dip fish in milk; roll fish in crumb mixture. Place fish in a greased shallow baking pan, tucking under any thin edges. Drizzle with melted margarine or butter.

Bake in a 500-degree oven for 4 to 6 minutes or till fish flakes easily with a fork and coating is golden. Serve fish on toasted buns with lettuce and Basil Mayonnaise. Makes 4 servings.

Basil Mayonnaise

In a small mixing bowl stir together 3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing; 2 tablespoons dairy sour cream; 2 tablespoons snipped fresh basil or 1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed; and 1/2 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel. Chill till serving time.

FETTUCCINE WITH ARTICHOKES AND BASIL

4 ounces fettuccine or fusilli, broken

- 1 9-ounce package frozen artichoke hearts, thawed, or one 14-ounce jar or can artichoke hearts, rinsed and drained
- 1 1/2 cups chopped red or green sweet pepper (2 medium)
- 1/3 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 2/3 cup seeded and chopped tomato (1 medium)
- 1/4 cup snipped fresh basil or 2 teaspoons dried basil, crushed
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese (optional)

Cook fettuccine 8 to 10 minutes or till tender but still firm. Drain; keep warm.

Meanwhile, place frozen artichoke hearts in a colander under cold running water to separate. In a large skillet cook and stir artichokes, sweet pepper, onion and garlic in hot oil over medium-high heat about 5 minutes or till vegetables are tender. Stir in tomato and basil. Cook and stir about 2 minutes more or till heated through. Add vegetable mixture to fettuccine; toss gently to mix. If desired, sprinkle each serving with Parmesan cheese.

WHITE HOT CHOCOLATE

To cut fat, substitute low-fat milk or evaporated skim milk for half-and-half.

3 cups half-and-half or light cream

- 2/3 cup white baking pieces or chopped white chocolate baking squares
- 3 inches stick cinnamon
- 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- Ground cinnamon (optional)

In a saucepan combine 1/4 cup of the half-and-half, baking pieces, stick cinnamon, and nutmeg. Stir over low heat till baking pieces are melted.

Add remaining half-and-half. Cook and stir till heated through. Remove from heat. Remove stick cinnamon. Stir in vanilla and almond extract. If desired, sprinkle each serving with ground cinnamon. Makes 5 (6-ounce) servings.

Richard Simmons: All worked up over his new cookbook

Orange County Register

You may have sweated to the oldies with him, or know him from his sparring with radio personality Howard Stern. But no matter when you hear him, Richard Simmons always comes across as a character—an incredibly likable one. He's just got all that energy.

And now the exercise personality has poured it into a new cookbook, "Farewell to Fat" (GT Publishing, $19.95), an inviting collection of low-fat, simple yet satisfying recipes. Among them: Sunshine Stuffed Pork Chops, A Chicken-in-Every-Pot Pot Pie and Gift-Wrapped Apple Pie. And in his saucy and humorous introduction, Simmons also explains the food pyramid, how he thinks about eating low-fat, and portion control.

I caught up with him by phone; here's what he had to say:

• On his life as a compulsive eater, and how the book will benefit others like him: "Buffet was my favorite word. Through all stages of life I learned food had control over me—I didn't have control over me. The pressure (to eat compulsively) will always be there. ... This book (is an education). An 8-year-old could pick it up and learn about the food pyramid."

• On trigger foods: "(Compulsive eaters) are compulsive about our portions, how long we stay at the table and eat. ... We're compulsive about being hungry when depressed. ... My trigger foods are sweets, a box of chocolates—I sound like Forrest Gump—potato chips. ... It's all about control."

• On gaining control over what you eat: "People have got to get back into the kitchen, they have to stop whining about how expensive produce is. ... You know what's expensive? Candy bars, potato chips. ..."

• On his recipes: "Everything (in my book) is in the market. Go and find it. I pick up lot of cookbooks by other people and try and find their (ingredients) and sometimes I have to take a plane."

Angel flake coconut
2 cups, quartered

Melt the butter in a large saucepan. Sauté the onion over low heat until clear. Add curry powder, flour, salt and lemon juice. Mix well. Add chicken broth, stirring rapidly. Simmer for 5 minutes. Add coconut milk, mix well. Simmer for 10 or 15 minutes till it begins to thicken, stirring constantly.

Note: This can be made ahead to this point and stored in the refrigerator.

Add the shrimp and heat. Serve the curry and rice in separate dishes and each condiment in a separate dish. Let people serve themselves.

The curry sauce goes over the top of the rice and the condiments go on top of the sauce. The lime juice is to be squeezed over the top of it all.

EAST CASSOULET

- Serves 6
- 1 1/2 cup dry navy beans
- Pan spray

- 1 whole medium sized chicken breast, skinned, boned, and cut into bite-sized pieces
- 8 ounces of turkey kielbasa, sliced
- 2 large garlic cloves, minced
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 2 large celery stalks, sliced
- 3 large carrots, sliced
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1/2 cup fresh parsley, chopped
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon dry thyme
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

About 3 hours before serving, rinse beans with running cold water, clean, discard stems, shriveled beans etc. In a 5 quart saucepot, bring the beans to a boil in 6 cups of water. Boil for 3 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let beans sit for 1 hour.

Drain and rinse the beans, return them to the saucepot. Spray a skillet with pan spray and add the chicken, turkey kielbasa, garlic, onion and celery. Cook over medium heat until

FOOD

Can you stand one more Halloween idea? I guess we're all just warming up for Thanksgiving and Christmas, trying with all our might to get in the fun and festive mood a little bit earlier. Halloween seems tailor-made for that purpose.

Out where I live, trick-or-treat is an ordeal. Our children would be seen in their costumes by people they know and still have a big bucket of candy at the end of the day. But we can only average about four houses in an hour, simply because country folks are friendly and want you to come in, chat, warm yourself, do a trick, etc. It's quite tiring.

I've been known to just put food coloring into the cream of wheat for breakfast. The kids aren't crazy like that, but it's a nice idea to get young ones into the creative end, like helping prepare the food. I tend to be a bit impatient with my girls in the kitchen, but I found this great cookbook, "Cooking with KIDS," that has kid jobs in green boxes.

It also includes an entire menu for a really easy Halloween party and what to fix. I guess they were going for the colors, since they suggest chili and cornbread for the meal. Not a bad idea, considering how cold the kids can get while knocking on doors.

And besides, you've got to offset all that candy with a few good meals. You might as well have fun in the process.

HALLOWEEN PIZZAS
1/8 ounce can tomato sauce
1 pound ground beef
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves

1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1/4 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
Sliced black olives
Sliced pimento
Heat oven to 425. Measure out 1/2 cup of tomato sauce, reserving the remainder. In a medium bowl, combine the 1/2 cup tomato sauce, ground beef, bread crumbs and oregano leaves. Divide the beef mixture into 4 equal parts. Put the 4 parts several inches apart on a jelly-roll pan. Put each part into a 1/2-inch circle. Pinch the edge of each circle to make a short rim that stands up. Pour about 2 tablespoons of the saved tomato sauce into the center of each circle. Sprinkle the sauce to the edge of each circle with rubber scraper.

Bake 15 to 20 minutes. Remove pizzas from oven. To make faces, sprinkle cheddar cheese over pizzas. Sprinkle mozzarella around top. Use olive slices for faces, filling in holes with pimento slices (for that eerie glow). Heat pizzas in warm oven about 5 minutes or until cheese is melted.

FIESTA CHILI
1 medium onion

VALLEY COOKING
Rebecca Tateoka

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
Dash of red pepper sauce
1 1/4 12-ounce can whole tomatoes, undrained
1 1/2 to 16-ounce can red kidney beans, undrained
Shredded cheddar cheese
Chop the onion in frying pan cook hamburger with the onion until brown. Drain off fat. Add chili powder, garlic salt, red pepper sauce and tomatoes to the hamburger. Heat mixture to boiling. Turn heat down to low. Simmer uncovered 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the can of kidney beans; simmer 30 minutes longer. Top each serving with cheddar cheese.

CHUNKY CORNBREAD
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 large eggs
1/2 cup drained corn

Heat oven to 400. Grease an 8-by-8-by-2-inch pan with shortening. In a large bowl, beat cornmeal, flour, milk, oil, sugar, baking powder, salt and eggs with a wooden spoon until smooth. Stir in the corn. Spread batter in pan. Bake about 25 minutes or until light brown and toothpick poked in center comes out clean. Serve warm.

JACK-O-LANTERN CAKE
1 package spice or carrot cake mix with pudding

Black jelly beans
Candy corn
Heat oven to 350. Grease two 8- or 9-inch round pans with shortening; dust with flour. Prepare cake mix according to package directions and bake. Cool 10 minutes, then remove from pans to wire rack. Cool completely. Make Creamy Frosting:
3 cups powdered sugar
1/3 cup butter, softened
2 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
Mix powdered sugar and butter in medium bowl. Add milk and vanilla, beating until smooth and spreadable. Add more powdered sugar if frosting is thin; add a few drops of milk if frosting is thick. Tint frosting orange by stirring in a few drops of red and yellow food colors. Start with just 1 or 2 drops, adding more drops to get the color of orange you like. Put 1 cake, rounded side down, on a plate. Spread some of the frosting over the top of the cake. Top with second cake, rounded side up. Frost the side and top of the cake. Make a jack-o-lantern face on the cake using flat black jelly beans and candy corn.

FISH SANDWICH WITH BASIL MAYONNAISE
Banking these fillets at 500 degrees keeps the crumb coating nice and crispy. For crumb-topped fish, toss the crumb mixture with the margarine. Brush the fillets with milk and sprinkle the crumb mixture over the top of fillets. Serve with or without the buns.
4 fresh or frozen skinless fish fillets, 1/2 inch thick (about 1 pound total)

1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
4 hamburger buns or Kaiser rolls, split and toasted
Lettuce leaves
1 recipe Basil Mayonnaise (see below)
Thaw fish, if frozen. Rinse fish; pat dry with paper towels. Pour milk into shallow dish. In another shallow dish combine bread crumbs, paprika, salt and pepper.

Dip fish in milk; roll fish in crumb mixture. Place fish in a greased shallow baking pan, tucking under any thin edges. Drizzle with melted margarine or butter. Bake in a 500-degree oven for 4 to 6 minutes or till fish flakes easily with a fork and coating is golden. Serve fish on toasted buns with lettuce and Basil Mayonnaise. Makes 4 servings.

Basil Mayonnaise In a small mixing bowl stir together 3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing; 2 tablespoons dairy sour cream; 2 tablespoons snipped fresh basil or 1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed; and 1/2 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel. Chill till serving time.

FETTUCCINE WITH ARTICHOKE AND BASIL
4 ounces fettuccine or fusilli, broken
1 9-ounce package frozen artichoke hearts, thawed, or one 14-ounce jar or can artichoke hearts, rinsed and drained
1 1/2 cups chopped red or green sweet pepper (2 medium)
1/3 cup finely chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon olive oil
2/3 cup seeded and chopped tomato (1 medium)
1/4 cup snipped fresh basil or 2 teaspoons dried basil, crushed
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese (optional)
Cook fettuccine 8 to 10 minutes or till tender but still firm. Drain; keep warm.

Meanwhile, place frozen artichoke hearts in a colander under cold running water to separate. In a large skillet cook and stir artichokes, sweet pepper, onion and garlic in hot oil over medium-high heat about 5 minutes or till vegetables are tender. Stir in tomato and basil. Cook and stir about 2 minutes more or till heated through. Add vegetable mixture to fettuccine; toss gently to mix. If desired, sprinkle each serving with Parmesan cheese. Makes 4 to 6 side-dish servings.

WHITE HOT CHOCOLATE
To cut fat, substitute low-fat milk or evaporated skim milk for half-and-half.

3 cups half-and-half or light cream
2/3 cup white baking pieces or chopped white chocolate baking squares
3 inches stick cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
Ground cinnamon (optional)
In a saucepan combine 1/4 cup of the half-and-half, baking pieces, stick cinnamon, and nutmeg. Stir over low heat till baking pieces are melted.
Add remaining half-and-half. Cook and stir till heated through. Remove from heat. Remove stick cinnamon. Stir in vanilla and almond extract. If desired, sprinkle each serving with ground cinnamon. Makes 5 (6-ounce) servings.

Richard Simmons: All worked up over his new cookbook

Orange County Register

You may have sweated to the oldies with him, or know him from his sparring with radio personality Howard Stern. But no matter when you hear him, Richard Simmons always comes across as a character — an incredibly likable one. He's just got all that energy.

And now the exercise personality has poured it into a new cookbook, "Farewell to Fat" (GT Publishing, $19.95), an inviting collection of low-fat, simple yet satisfying recipes. Among them: Sunshine Stuffed Pork Chops, A Chicken-in-Every-Pot Pot Pie and Gift-Wrapped Apple Pie. And in his saucy and humorous introduction, Simmons also explains the food pyramid, how he thinks about eating low-fat, and portion control.

I caught up with him by phone; here's what he had to say:

On his life as a compulsive eater, and how the book will benefit others like him: "Buffet was my favorite word. I was an overweight teen. Through all stages of life I learned food had control over me — I didn't have control over me. The pressure (to eat compulsively) will always be there. ... This book (is an education). An 8-year-old could pick it up and learn about the food pyramid."

On trigger foods: "(Compulsive eaters) are compulsive about our portions, how long we stay at the table and eat. ... We're compulsive about being hungry when depressed. ... My trigger foods are sweets, a box of chocolates — I sound like Forrest Gump — potato chips. ... It's all about control."

On gaining control over what you eat: "People have got to get back into the kitchen, they have to stop winning about how expensive produce is. ... You know what's expensive? Candy bars, potato chips. ..."

On his recipes: "Everything (in my book) is in the market. Go and find it. I pick up lot of cookbooks by other people and try and find their (ingredients) and sometimes I have to take a plane."

Angel flake coconut
2 limes, quartered

Melt the butter in a large saucepan. Saute the onion over low heat until clear. Add curry powder, flour, salt and lemon juice. Mix well. Add chicken broth, stirring rapidly. Simmer for 5 minutes. Add coconut milk, mix well. Simmer for 10 or 15 minutes till it begins to thicken, stirring constantly.

Note: This can be made ahead to this point and stored in the refrigerator.

Add the shrimp and heat. Serve the curry and rice in separate dishes and each condiment in a separate dish. Let people serve themselves. The curry sauce goes over the top of the rice and the condiments go on top of the sauce. The lime juice is to be squeezed over the top of it all.

M&M's haunted helpline: Hints for a happy Halloween

Thinking about hosting a monster ball this Halloween? Serving up some Halloween hoopla. Here are some scary-good party ideas to make sure it's a bewitching Halloween for all.

Set the Mood
Decorate each corner of your party room with dried corn stalks and large pumpkins. Use low-watt or orange bulbs to keep the room dimly lit. Carve Jack-O-Lanterns from additional pumpkins and light with mini flashlights. Cover your table with a black cloth. Scatter with plastic spiders or other store-bought Halloween items.

Cemetery Ghosts
Make a table centerpiece of Halloween ghosts, which will become edible party favors later. Using heavy-duty plain white paper towels, put a small handful of "M&M's" in the center of each towel. The candy will serve as the stuffing for the head. Gather the paper towel together around the "M&M's" and tie securely with final floss. Make the facial features with a black pen. You can hang the ghosts on a dried branch or nest them in a basket.

Halloween Hands
For a sweet "feet" that's as fun to look at as to eat, combine freshly popped popcorn with lots of M&M's in a large bowl. Fill clear plastic disposable gloves (the kind foodservice operators use) with the popcorn mixture, making sure to put an orange "M&M's" candy at each fingertip to form the fingernails. Using orange and black ribbons, tie the glove at the wrist to secure the popcorn. Add a spider ring or other Halloween trinket to decorate the hands.

Ice Cream Witches
To make the head, form ice cream balls with an ice cream scoop. Place the balls on a small cookie sheet that fits into your freezer. Top each ice cream ball with a sugar cone for the witch's hat. Add little pretzel sticks to form the hair. Return ice cream to freezer until serving time.

Right before serving, add "M&M's" to make the face and a strip of black construction paper for the brim. To serve, remove witches with spatula and arrange on a serving platter. Sprinkle the platter with orange and black "M&M's." Provide dessert and spoons.

Spooky Sauce
Use this super-simple sauce as a dip for apple slices or as a sauce for ice cream or pound cake. Cut up Snickers Bars into small pieces, put them in a pot and melt over low heat, stirring often. As the candy begins to melt, add a tablespoon of milk for each 2.07-ounce bar. Stir constantly until milk is incorporated as the candy bar pieces are melted. Serve warm. If using as a dip, put into a fondue pot or other serving dish that will keep the sauce warm.

Design A Devilish Dessert

If you are having a Halloween party, M&M has a few bewitching ideas to make it a success.

Make cupcakes from a box of cake mix, using cupcake liners to line each cupcake. Allow guests to decorate their own cupcakes. Provide a selection of canned frostings, tube icings, orange and black "M&M's" candies and small plastic Halloween figurines - pumpkins, witches, spiders. Have guests vote for the scariest, the funniest and the most artistic cupcake. Award prizes. Caution: These are not suitable for eating by younger children who could swallow the plastic decorations.

Scarecrow "Salad"
Cut Snickers Bars into bite-size pieces. Combine with chunks of red apple that have been tossed with lemon juice to prevent browning. Serve in paper cups as a hand-held snack.

Halloween Hostess Gift
If you're going to a Halloween party instead of giving one, hollow out and carve a small pumpkin to make a Jack-O-Lantern to fill with trick-or-treat candy. Put the candy - "M&M's" or Snickers or Starburst - in a small plastic sandwich bag and seal. Drop the bag into the pumpkin and top with the lid. Tie a bow on the pumpkin and attach a candle for lighting the pumpkin after the treats are eaten.

Haunting Home Decorating
Halloween just wouldn't be the same without a haunted house. So, get into the spirit (ghostly or otherwise) by adding some spooky surprises on and around your front door. Trick-or-treaters will be thrilled. Adding Halloween hoopla to the home is easy with the tips below. For additional ideas, call the "M&M's-Haunted Helpline."

Fun With Fruits and Vegetables
Take your favorite fruits and vegetables (radishes, leeks, broccoli floret, carrots, etc) and decorate your pumpkins in a healthy way! Lettuce or broccoli makes great hair, pearl onions make great eyes and carrots do wonders for a long nose!

Pumpkin Patch Person
Stuff a shirt and a pair of pants with newspaper and tuck straw into the pant-leg openings and sleeves. Tuck the shirt into the pants and use a length of rope, with frayed ends, as a belt to hold the "person" together. Make sure that pieces of straw also peek out of the neckline of the shirt and at the waist of the pants. Prop your "person" onto a beach chair on the front lawn and place an old hat or small decorated pumpkin on top of the shirt for the "pumpkin patch" head.

Here are some extra Halloween party and decorating ideas from the editors of FamilyFun.

How to Create Your Own Halloween Party Theme
• To create a dramatic effect and encourage your creativity, choose a haunted house theme to work around. Talk to your kids about their favorite themes and select one like a witch's cottage, a ghost house, or a bat cave.

• Keep it simple. You need to plan a party you know you can execute. Moody lighting, creaky music, and a few well-placed decorations can set the perfect scene.
• Make it memorable by including your own personal touch. Consider homemade party favors or unique games that will send kids home talking about what a great time they had.

Three Great Haunted House Themes:

Monster House - A tribute to all the things that go bump in the night, this monster theme guarantees all your victims a memorable party.
Mood Setting Ideas:
• Horrible Hands - Instead of buying the famous fake amputated hand, stuff a rubber kitchen glove with cotton balls. Kitechen them with red fake "blood," rings, a watch, and Band-Aids.
• What's that Noise? You can borrow creepy sound recordings from your library, or better yet, tape homemade sounds yourself. Your kids will love to clank chains, scream, howl, or stamp their feet.

Games and Activities:
• You Look Like You've Seen a Ghost - You can create a gallery of all your guests with their hair standing on end. To do this, spread a white sheet on the floor and have your guest lie down on it. Fan out his hair and have make gruesome face. Take a Polaroid photo from directly above and after it develops mark it with his name and hang it up.
• Special Effects Lighting - Not as high-tech as you might think, special effects lighting can be created by taping colored cellophane gels two inches from lightbulbs, or by using colored bulbs.

• Games and Activities
• Mummy Wrap - First one to wrap his/her partner in white cheese cloth - "mummy-style" - wins.
• Slime Pit - To create some disgusting ghostly goo that kids can make a big mess with, mix up one part water and four parts cornstarch with a few drops of food color.

Yankees gnash teeth, take 1 back

The Associated Press

ATLANTA - Now this was what the New York Yankees were supposed to do all along.

Get six good innings from David Cone. Get a home run from Bernie Williams. And then let the bullpen do the rest.

It all came together for the Yankees on Tuesday night, and not a moment too soon. Their 5-2 win over Atlanta cut the Braves' lead to 2-1, and put the drama back into a World Series that was on the verge of becoming a walkover.

"This was our formula," Cone said. "Get to the bullpen, get Bernie to get big hits, get a key defensive play."

Relievers Mariano Rivera, Graeme Lloyd and John Wetteland finished off a victory that made the Yankees the first team ever to win six straight road games in the postseason.

More coverage - D4

"Sometimes, playing at home in the postseason isn't an advantage. You get so charged up that you lose focus of what you have to do," Yankees manager Joe Torre said. "I think any time in a short series when you win, the momentum is on your side," he said. "Hopefully, we can build on this."

The win ended New York's six-game losing streak in the World Series that dated to 1981 and stopped a five-game winning streak by the Braves during which they had outscored opponents 48-2.

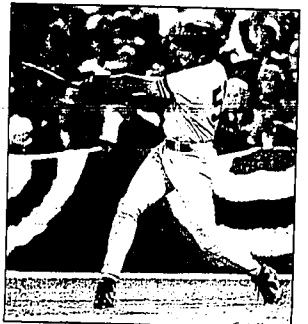

"I think the mindset, generally, of the team was that we were a little bit embarrassed," Cone said. New York will try to make it 7-0 away from Yankee Stadium on Wednesday night when Kenny Rogers pitches against Atlanta's Denny Neagle. Rogers originally was dropped from the rotation, but restored when a rainout took away the travel day and forced the Yankees to use four starters.

No team in baseball has overcome a 3-0 deficit in the postseason, and New York won't have to, either. After losing twice at home, the Yankees shook up their lineup, benching slumping Tino Martinez and hobbling Wade Boggs and Paul O'Neill, and Torre's moves worked.

Darryl Strawberry, Cecil Fielder and Charlie Hayes stepped in and each made contributions that helped the Yankees take a 2-1 lead after six innings against Tom Glavine.

The Yankees broke it open with a three-run eighth, highlighted by Williams' homer and Fielder's double off Greg Maddux. Williams' sixth postseason homer tied the record set by Bob Robertson of Pittsburgh in 1971.

Bernie Williams blasts a two-run homer Tuesday night.

Wendell upsets Filer in A-3 semis

Wendell's Katie Walsh, left, blocks a shot back at Filer's Dorf Chandler, center, and Kallie Coon during the Trojans' defeat of the Wildcats Tuesday night.

By Karen Baumer
Times-News writer

FILER - It all begins with the serve: Where Wendell's took flight, Filer's faltered.

And the result Tuesday in the Class A-3, District 4 volleyball tournament was a state tournament berth for the Trojans.

After a slew of loser-out games ended in one-sided scores earlier, Wendell and Filer staged a competitive three-game battle won by the Trojans, 6-15, 15-8, 15-6. Filer plays Valley today at 5 p.m. The winner of that is also guaranteed a trip to the state tournament Nov. 1-2 in Idaho Falls.

A-2, A-4 tourneys - D3

"Being the No. 1 seed would be wonderful," said Wendell coach Connie McDonald. "But we're just happy to be there."

Wendell defeats Filer, 6-15, 15-8, 15-6

The Wildcats took advantage of six Aces and dominant net play by sophomore Karu Hymas to cruise to a game-one victory.

But everything the Trojans did wrong in the first game, they did right in the second. Wendell put up a big block and kept the ball in play, jumping out to a 3-2 lead.

Every time Filer forced a side out, the Wildcats seemed to return the ball to Wendell with a service error. Filer ended the game with six service errors.

"Once we got on a roll we built up our confidence," McDonald said. "We saw we could beat them."

The Trojans started to let Filer back in the game, committing a few errors, but an ace by Erin Sites and a kill by Casey Egbert off an errant Filer pass sealed the game.

Wendell jumped out to a 3-0 lead in game three before three straight aces by Hymas knotted the score.

A kill by Trojan Katie Walsh forced a side-out and Wendell began to cruise.

Four straight aces by Amber Fowler put Wendell on top 9-4. Sites put the game away with an ace for the match.

Valley defeats Gooding, 15-4, 15-9

Tanya Romer played big Tuesday, racking up 12 kills and three blocks.

"Romer's arm swing is tough to read," said Gooding coach Jenny Koski. "She's had a big tournament. (Monday), Filer

Minico rolls, Twin Falls survives in A-1

By Kevin Miller
Times-News writer

POCATELLO - The defending champions are still alive, but Minico is the Magic Valley team in the best position to claim its first Region III volleyball crown and state tournament berth since 1979.

The Spartans, coming into the tournament on a four-game losing streak, beat Twin Falls and Pocatello Tuesday. They meet top-seeded Highland in the championship semifinal today at 6 p.m.

"We started off the season with nothing to lose, and we came into the tournament with the same approach," Minico coach Kelly Fosco said. "I'm really proud of these girls tonight."

Minico split with the Teams during the regular season, each team winning on its own court.

"We're going in with the same idea that we still have nothing to lose," Fosco said. "They've got a couple big hitters, but we're playing well."

State A-3 soccer tourney kicks in Thursday

By Gary Leavitt
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Three Magic Valley soccer teams hope a home field advantage this week will help them reclaim a state soccer title lost three years ago.

At stake is the Boys Class A-3 high school tournament to be held in Twin Falls Thursday through Saturday.

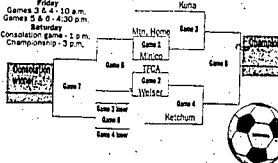

Ketchum Community School (9-2-1) ironically enters the tourney with the region's number-one seed and was the last Magic Valley team to hold the A-3 title in 1992. In last year's state tournament, the Cutthroats finished third.

Payette won its third consecutive championship in 1995, but the Pirates won't defend that title this year. This season, the Pirates moved up to A-2 along with Burley, which finished in the runner-up spot last year.

Ketchum breezed through the district tournament in Gooding last week with consecutive shutout wins over Minico and Twin Falls Christian Academy.

But Cutthroat coach Richard Whitelaw is quick to admit that what happened last week really doesn't matter.

"The beauty of tournament play is that you can throw all the results out the window," he said. "I'd like to say we can do it again," Whitelaw noted,

"but there is no such thing as an easy game, either."

Ketchum and Kuna represent the two top seeds entering the bracketing. On Friday, the Cutthroats meet the winner of the FICA-Weiser match at 10 a.m. while Kuna tangles with the Minico-Mountain Home winner, also at 10 a.m.

Kuna coach Ed Danner brings an experienced team to the state tournament. The Cavenem (8-3-1) have nine seniors, eight juniors, and one sophomore on the team that tied Payette 1-1 earlier this season.

Danner says one of his strengths is depth. Most of players have played varsity since their sophomore year. Leading scorer is senior Matt Johnson, who has lettered since his freshman year.

"Primarily, we are strong on defense," said Danner. "The last five games we have allowed only two goals. We began the year with two losses against A-2 competition but since then, our team speed and middle game has really picked up," he noted.

Twin Falls Christian Academy (8-3-1), the host school, comes into the tournament with some big question marks and a streak of bad luck. Leading scorer Justin Hicks missed last week's championship game loss to Ketchum with a badly bruised ankle.

Warrior coach Chris Best said he hopes to have Hicks ready to play on Thursday. But another setback surfaced Tuesday when midfielder Jeremy Jones suffered a broken leg during practice on Tuesday. Best said both injuries occurred during non-contact drills.

Thursday's opening round action kicks off at 4:30 p.m. All tournament matches will be played at the Hillcrest-Eastland Drive fields in Twin Falls.

Lightning strikes Islanders, 6-3

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — John Cullen had a goal and three assists, including his 500th NHL point, and Brian Bradley scored twice to lead the Tampa Bay Lightning to a 6-3 victory over the New York Islanders on Tuesday night.

San Jose Sharks defenseman Michal Sykora dives to knock the puck loose from the Maple Leafs' Fredrik Modin Tuesday.

Alexander Selivanov and Paul Reinhart scored early in a four-goal, first-period outburst for the Lightning, who have won nine of their last 10 meetings with the Isles. Dino Ciccarelli also scored for the Lightning, who are off to their best start in franchise history with five wins in six games.

Shjon Pedein, Rod Brind'Amour and Eric Desjardins scored for the Flyers, who have won their last three despite the continued absence due to injuries of their top two centers, Eric Lindros and Dale Hawerchuk.

Maple Leafs 4, Sharks 3. The Maple Leafs, criticized by coach Mike Murphy for uninspired play after losing five straight, scored the first two goals of the game for the first time this season.

Doug Gilmore added a goal for the Maple Leafs. Shean Donovan, Jeff Friesen and Andrei Nazarov scored for San Jose, which had a three-game unbeaten streak ended.

Detroit's power play is pointless

DETROIT (AP) — After eight games and 33 chances, the Detroit Red Wings' power play is quite pointless. Incredible as it may seem for a team with a longtime reputation for offensive efficiency, the Red Wings are the only NHL team without at least one power-play goal this season.

ranked second in the NHL by converting 21.3 percent of their power-play chances. Trades, however, have taken away two key performers from that unit.

Going into a home game on Wednesday night against St. Louis, Detroit has missed on all 33 of its chances with a man advantage.

The Red Wings are also without Paul Coffey, their blue-line leader on special teams the past four seasons. Coffey was sent to Hartford in a trade that brought Brendan Shanahan to Detroit.

Flyers 3, Mighty Ducks 0

PHILADELPHIA — Ron Hexhall had to make only 12 saves to record his first shutout of the season in the Philadelphia Flyers' 3-0 win over the Anaheim Mighty Ducks.

Wood River holds off Jerome in A-2 tourney

By Jeff Cordes
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Jerome's Angela Kuhl had the night of her volleyball adversary's first. But Wood River's Summer Hanson was huge when it counted and ushered the two-time defending district champion into Thursday's fourth district A-2 tournament title match.

Hanson pulled top-seeded Wood River up by its bootstraps and rallied the home team past Jerome's determined challenge Tuesday night in the first game of the tournament semifinals. Earlier, Jerome overcame an injury to 6-1 senior Janae German and nipped Buhl 16-14, 15-9.

Jerome (15-5) tries to stay alive Thursday at 6 p.m. with a loser-take-out game against Buhl (6-9) on the Halley hardwood. The winner then meets Wood River (33-5) and will have to beat the Wolverines twice for a berth in the State A-2 tournament Nov. 1-2 in Idaho Falls.

Jerome rallied to win Tuesday's junior varsity tournament in dramatic fashion.

In the first JV match, the Tigers beat Wood River 15-4, 6-15, 15-5. Top-seeded Buhl built a 14-0 lead over Jerome in the first game of the championship match, but the Tigers stormed back for a 16-14 victory and then clinched the title 15-13 over Buhl.

A-2 volleyball

Wood River defeats Jerome, 15-10, 7-15, 15-9

The Tigers very nearly beat Jerome for the first time in three meetings this season, despite the loss of German, one of Jerome's top blockers and offensive threats. Wolverine coach Reamy Goodwin gave plenty of credit to 5-10 junior Angela Kuhl, who was a tower of Tiger strength.

"Angela had the best match I've ever seen. She was on fire. I bet she had 20 kills," said Goodwin.

Wood River junior setter Summer Williams, taking over at the serving stripe with the first game, had 5-5, dished out eight straight aces and net play of 5-11 junior Whitney Hogue. Jerome's Shelly Kuhl returned five points on her serve for a 14-10 lead, but Wood River's Kristyn Price pounded the first kill.

Jerome solidified its blocking in the second game with Lanie Barnes, Mindy Lloyd and Stephanie Balls doing the job at the net and the Tiger defense picking up Wolverine tips.

"Stephanie came in as middle blocker, rose to the occasion and did a heckuva job," Jerome coach Brent Clark said.

Tigers scored the final seven points of the second game and further rattled the Wolverines by jumping to a 7-1 lead in the decisive count. But its serving deserted Jerome at just the wrong time, allowing Wood River to gain momentum.

"We couldn't get a serve," Clark said.

Janie Menges got three points back for Wood River, then 5-9 senior hitter Amy Sturtevant senior and firing into the Jerome block.

"When you face big blocks, it can be intimidating. It's how you deal with it. I told them, I don't care if you get blocked, just swing away," Goodwin said.

Hanson earned a sidout and stepped to the serving line, her team trailing 9-7. Menges scored a point, Hogue blocked for one more, then Wood River's 5-8 junior hitter Amy Sturtevant drilled a winner past the block of 6-1 Barnes and 5-10 Shelly Kuhl. Hogue added a crossover tip and Hanson served an ace for a 13-9 Wolverine lead.

"Summer Hanson got some key hits for us," Goodwin said.

Clark added: "Once the momentum started turning, we got back on our heels a bit."

Jerome defeats Buhl, 16-14, 15-9

Jerome led 6-3 in the first game when German rolled her ankle and was carried off the floor. Buhl battled back led by the serving of 5-11 senior Angie Schroeder, and grabbed a 14-13 lead when 5-9 sophomore Erin Scott delivered a winner through Jerome's block. But Jerome prevailed 16-14.

Angela Kuhl steadied Jerome with her all-around play.

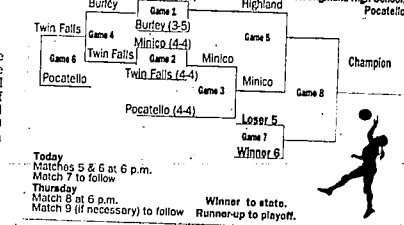

"I knew we had to play tough after Janae's injury so I had to step up," she said.

"Our kids rallied around each other after the injury," Clark added. "Angela took over the match. When we had to have big swings, she gave us big swings."

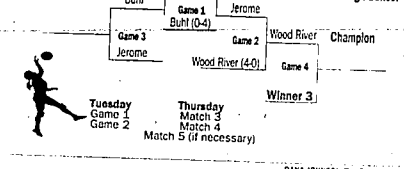

Buhl's 6-0 senior Jana Watson came on strong in the second game and pulled the Indians within one, at 10-9. Serving errors sidetracked Buhl's comeback bid, however, and Jerome scored the final five points to advance.

"Every time we play Jerome, we play them a little tougher," Buhl coach Denise Mumm said. "Give Jerome credit — they lost their big girl and it didn't take them out of their game. They did some quick little stuff that hurt us. I thought we had them in the first game, but we made too many mistakes."

Carey earns 1st ever trip to state

By Damen Clow
Times-News writer

GOODING — Through it all, Carey volleyball coach Barbara Berg remained calm and collected, shaking hands with well-wishers after the game like a game show host, receiving congratulations amidst her players' noisy celebration.

If the Carey volleyball coach wasn't showing the excitement of the moment, it was only because the moment hadn't happened. In the first game, the Panthers were just a few hours removed from beating Shoshone for the first time all year, and had just finished swatting Dietrich for a trip to the state tournament for the first time ever.

"The first time ever," Berg repeated, fresh from posing for team pictures after Carey's 15-2, 15-11 victory in the Class A-4 Northside Sub-District tournament.

The Panthers will face Southside champion Murtaugh Thursday to determine seeding for the state tournament in Idaho Falls Nov. 1-2. That match will follow a must-win dual between Dietrich and Hagerman, with the loser out and the winner facing a Saturday inter-district playoff.

Carey's first title came after an undefeated run that included two wins over Dietrich and one win over Shoshone.

A-4 Northside

The Panthers rallied from a 14-11 first-game deficit to beat Shoshone in the semifinal, and therefore had a two-hour wait before the title match. The game, held at 5 p.m., had five effect, as Carey jumped to a 10-0 lead in the championship opener against Dietrich. Kitty Simpson, 5-7, pounded down several blocks and kills on the front line.

"We knew we were going to play back-to-back games, and we were hoping they'd be a little tired," Berg said. "We had been working all afternoon on maintaining a consistent level, not getting too high or too low."

But Carey soon found out the match would not be so devilishly easy. Dietrich jumped to a 5-0 lead before the Panthers began chipping away.

"We played them three tough games (Monday) night," Berg said. "Dietrich's a tough team, and they'll come back at you. I told our girls to start back one point at a time."

With Melinda Mecham serving, Carey tied the game at six and extended a 10-6 lead before Dietrich was able to sidout. The Devils cut the gap to 12-11 before Lacie Peterson scored the final three points for the win.

"We've had some trouble putting two good games together, back to back," Berg said. "But overall, it was a good team effort. We wanted to get a good game from every girl on the bench as well, and we did."

Carey defeats Shoshone, 16-14, 15-11

Down 14-11 in the first game of their championship semifinal with Shoshone, the Panthers rallied to a 16-14 win and never looked back in a two-game sweep.

Carey's Lindsay Barton served her team to an early 5-0 lead, but the destructive spikes of Shoshone's diminutive Annetta King, along with three straight Panther front-line miscues, tied the game at seven.

The teams then stayed neck-and-neck until Shoshone scored on three hitting errors to take the 14-11 lead.

Carey opened strong in the second game, 4-0, but kept the margin to three at its narrowest in the 15-6 victory.

Dietrich defeated Shoshone, 15-11, 15-13

In a match where both teams had their backs to the net, the Shoshone Indians spent most of the second game with their backs to the net, and as a result will not be making their usual trip to the state tournament.

Dietrich defeats Camas Co., 15-7, 15-6

The Devils jumped on Camas early and continued the streak Tuesday night with a three game sweep over host Treasure Valley Community College 15-12, 15-6 and 15-9.

Leading the way for the Golden Eagles were Flavia Gabinio with seven kills, Hai Yan Wang with 15 assists, Juy Sperry with 11 digs and Reneeka Gause with nine blocks.

CSI coach Ben Stroud credited the Chukars for some scrappy play and good blocking skills.

Despite the victory, Stroud said his troops struggled all night, particularly with ball control. "We were off balance," he said.

Murtaugh downs Hagerman in Southside action

By Ron Gates
Times-News writer

HANSEN — The teams with the most to prove met in the championship match of the 1996 Class A-4 Southside Sub-District Volleyball Tournament Tuesday.

Magic Valley Conference titleholder Murtaugh entered the fray unscathed by a league opponent and bent on keeping the status quo. Hagerman emerged from the losers' bracket intent on shedding a less-than-formidable image in the late going.

Both succeeded.

In a contest representative of the day's fare, the Red Devils won a hard-earned 15-13, 14-16, 15-12 victory and the right to represent the Southside in Thursday's District 4 playoff at the Idaho School for the Deaf and Blind.

They also guaranteed themselves a spot in the state tournament Nov.

12 in Idaho Falls. "I'm as shaky as the girls are," said Murtaugh Coach Shannon Hamblin. "I did not want to play Hagerman again. For as many matches as we've had to play they really took it to us. There were some great rallies."

Neither team tallied back-to-back points in the rubber game until Murtaugh led 8-3. That changed when the Pirates scored on consecutive Red Devil errors.

The Devils righted themselves momentarily, going up 12-5, but letting Hagerman back in when Lemmon's next three serves proved too hot to handle. A rash of Murtaugh errors resulted in a tie at 12 that might have been fatal had Kristin Ward not forced a sidout.

The Pirates allowed only a Tobee Bell ace, but sealed their won fate

"with a service error that set up Bell for a spike that Karrels lost in the net."

"My legs are about to give out," said Bell after a brief celebration of her school's first-ever ticket to the state volleyball tournament.

"Hagerman hit the ball hard and played really well on defense," Hamblin said. "Hagerman coach Steve Choules shared that assessment with us today."

"We finally stepped up today," said the Pirate coach whose charges won Tuesday's sole two-game match 15-5, 15-12 over Hansen. "All season long we played well early, then lost intensity. We played more games than they did, but still gave them a good battle."

Murtaugh — still unsteady after a come-from-behind 3-15 15-9, 15-5 win over Rafi River in Tuesday's opener — trailed 4-1 when Lacie Peterson reached the service line in game one of the title match. Aided by the hitting of Camille Karrels and Lindsay Lemmon, Babington pushed the Pirates into an 11-1 advantage.

Melissa Loman later led a rally that shaved the deficit to 13-12 which Crystal Hopworth erased with three winners.

The pendulum swung in the opposite direction in a game two that saw Murtaugh's bench begin celebrating at 14-10 only to see May drive two balls to the floor during a six-point outburst with Babington aces at the line.

The Pirates earned their berth in the title match on a 15-1, 5-15, 15-10 triumph over the Rafi River Trojans.

Ranae Coleman, Hagerman's six-foot senior middle blocker, totally dominated the net as the Pirates breezed to a 15-1 victory. Coleman's Trojan partner, 5-11 Amanda Steed reversed the trend in a 15-8 Rafi River triumph and nearly carried her team into the final.

Bruin coach Mike Federico was just happy to still be alive in the tournament.

Twin Falls, the fourth seed, had barely enough left after losing to Minico on straight sets, to hold off scrappy Burley in three games.

"It's good to survive. We never really played well tonight," Federico said.

The Bruins, two-time defending Region champions, face Pocatello in a loser-take-out match at 6 p.m. The Bruins' season ends with a final chance at a state berth.

Minico defeats Pocatello, 15-7, 7-15, 15-5

By the end of this one, the Indians were ducking when Arriann Peterson went up for the kill.

Peterson smacked six kills in the deciding third game, and her hard smashes did more than just score points. They marked the return of an aggressive attitude for Minico.

"When it was close, we kept hitting and that made all the difference in the world," Fosocco said.

Some of the timidity that plagued Minico during its four-game skid showed when Pocatello jumped out to a 9-0 lead in the game two.

But Ashley Toner put Burley on top 12-10 with a pair of tips.

Jon Blackwood responded with a quick kill for a Bruin sidout and put down another pair of hits to tie the match at 13.

Brooke Clark hited Twin Falls, to a 15-14 lead before Ramsey missed her chance, ending the season for Burley, which lost to Highland in the first round.

Minico defeats Twin Falls, 15-7, 15-11

The Bruins' two-year regional tournament winning streak came to an end, care of the resurgent Spartans.

Passing and hitting mistakes cost the Bruins at crucial times, and Minico's defense didn't give Twin Falls any breaks.

With game one tied at 7, the Spartans rattled off the next eight points to win the game, with Crystal Seamon serving the entire way. Two poor passes, a couple hitting errors and an illegal shift cost Twin Falls during the Spartan run.

Neagle gets his chance tonight Rogers will start for the Yanks

Cone ices game for New York

ATLANTA (AP) - Even before the start of Game 3, Denny Neagle was envisioning being on the mound for the World Series clincher Wednesday night.

"I'd be lying if I said I didn't think about it," he admitted Tuesday. "I definitely thought about that. ... Us pitchers, you dream of being out there on the mound and pitching the decisive game of the World Series."

Won't happen now, Denny Neagle, scheduled to start for Atlanta against the Yankees' Kenny Rogers in Game 4, can at best five the Braves a 3-1 Series lead following New York's 5-2 victory in Game 3.

The Yankees' Derek Jeter, left, gets the out after the Braves' Andrew Jones attempts to steal second base in Game 3 Tuesday night.

But still, he's in a better position than he was before Aug. 28, when the woeful Pirates traded him to the Braves for two prospects.

Assuming that John Smoltz goes on to win the NL Cy Young Award, Neagle will be the Braves' only World Series starter without one.

"Just to be in this mix and being part of this team and this rotation is an honor and a thrill for me," Neagle said. "Just to be the No. 4 starter is fine with me."

Neagle is a little different than most. OK, he's an oddball. My thing is I make a lot of goofy noises and movie roles to keep the guys loose," he said. "That was my thing in Pittsburgh. That's when I felt it was part of the team here, when I started breaking out a bit and making some noises for these guys to keep them loose."

Neagle promptly chortled his voice into a train whistle.

Aside from the noises, the left-hander was 16-9 with a 3.50 ERA this season in 33 starts for the Pirates and Braves. He went 0-2 with a no-decision in his first three starts for Atlanta before closing the season with two wins and a loss.

"No matter how many years you've been in this game, it's only natural to want to justify a trade and feel part of the team right away," Neagle said. "I wanted to prove my worth and same breath as guys like Maddux, Glavine and Smoltz. I pressed a little at first."

Neagle's mound opponent in Game 4 can't be blamed for pressing. He is pitching almost to salvage his season. After signing a $20 million, four-year contract with the Yankees, Rogers struggled to a 12-8 record and 4.68 ERA during the regular season.

In the postseason he was even worse. Rogers was pulled after two innings in Game 4 at Texas, then chased after three innings and two batters in Game 5 at Baltimore.

"He has an irritated shoulder and we are going to take a close look at it after the season,"

Yankees manager Joe Torre said. "I took him out of several games when I didn't like his body language and I was fearful he was going to hurt himself."

Another problem is that Rogers hasn't been truthful with the team about his health.

"You have to watch him and his release point," Torre said. "Kenny has a habit of saying he's OK, but it hasn't been OK. I finally understand that."

Rogers originally was dropped from Torre's Series rotation, but the Game 1 rainout thrust him back in. He didn't go to the interview room before Game 3, as is customary for the Game 4 starter. The Yankees said it was miscommunication. At first, it appeared he was ducking the heat.

"I didn't tell him not to come in here," Torre said. "That's his choice and that's fine by me. ... I agree with what he is doing because I just don't want him to deal with negative things at this time."

Rogers, in his usual low-key manner, made light of the situation, blaming the mixup on a remark by Game 1 starter Andy Pettitte.

"Andy said we shouldn't do it any more when we lost two games in a row and they took me seriously," Rogers said.

Ever since spring training, Rogers has pitched under the threat of demotion to the bullpen. Back then, it was an injury to Melvin Ponder that kept him in the rotation. In the postseason, it's been rain.

Life in Texas was calm, especially when compared to the turmoil often that engulfs the Yankees.

"The first year in a new city," Rogers said, "is going to be a little different."

ATLANTA (AP) - Hey, Atlanta, other teams have pitching, too.

With the World Series slipping away, David Cone saved the Yankees, and stopped the Braves from beating them up again.

For two straight nights, maybe even the last five games, Atlanta played like it was the best baseball team ever. It took Cone, the highest-paid pitcher in baseball, to bring the Braves back to earth.

He bent a little here and there but didn't break Tuesday night, allowing just one run in six innings before turning things over to the bullpen with the Yankees ahead 2-1.

New York wound up with a 5-2 victory, pulling to 2-1 in the World Series. If baseball goes back in the Bronx this weekend, Cone will be the reason why.

"We were a little bit embarrassed in New York," Cone said. "Without a doubt, it was a must win."

Just 5V months ago, he was in an operating room, not knowing for sure if he'd ever pitch again. Doctors sliced open his pitching shoulder to repair an aneurysm, saving his career, giving him a new baseball life.

"It's mind-boggling," Cone said. "It's tough for me to put it in perspective. When I was lying in a hospital bed and I heard the word 'aneurysm,' I didn't even know what it meant. The World Series was the furthest thing from my mind."

On Tuesday night, he gave life to the Yankees' Series hopes. No major league team has ever recovered from a 3-0 postseason deficit, and the Yankees' psyche was pretty bruised after two nights with John Smoltz and Greg Maddux.

"Down 2-0, he knew how badly

we needed this win and he gave it to us," Yankees manager Joe Torre said.

Cone stopped the bleeding, pitching five shutout innings to finally give the Yankees time to get ahead of the defending champs. In the sixth, with the Yankees ahead 2-0, he let the Braves load the bases on two walks and a single.

It was crunch time. With Fred McGriff at the plate, Torre came out to the mound for a talk.

"Joe got as close as he could to me," Cone remembered. "I did my best to lie and told him I still had something left. ... You sort of trick yourself into thinking, 'Yeah, I can get Fred McGriff out with the bases loaded.' You have to do that to yourself."

Sometimes, guts is as important as stuff.

"That game was mine to win or lose," Cone said. "I had to get through the sixth inning because I knew we couldn't bring Mariano Rivera in too early. There's no worse feeling than coming out with the bases loaded."

After McGriff popped to shortstop, Cone walked Ryan Klesko with the bases loaded, forcing in a run. But he got out the game with the lead when Jay Lopez fouled out to catcher Joe Girardi.

"He didn't give in," Braves manager Bobby Cox said.

After factoring in Pettite and Jimmy Key, Atlanta's Chipper Jones gave a blunt assessment of Yankees pitchers. "The ball looks like the moon right now," he said after Game 1.

Cone rested that moon to a speck. For two games, the Yankees had been bystanders. In Game 3, it was the Braves who did the watching.

November 15 deadline set for interleague baseball play

ATLANTA (AP) - Baseball will abandon its attempt to start interleague play next season unless a new labor deal is in place by Nov. 15, acting commissioner Bud Selig said Tuesday.

Union head Donald Fehr and management negotiator Randy Levine are scheduled to resume talks Wednesday before Game 4 of the World Series. Selig said he will "filter in and out" of the bargaining.

While owners approved interleague play in January, Fehr said players won't agree unless it's part of an overall labor deal. That has stopped baseball from issuing next season's schedule, which usually is given to clubs in July.

"My own people are grumbling about it," Selig said during a talk with reporters before Game 3.

Baseball officials have prepared two schedules for next season, one with interleague play and one without. Asked how long baseball could wait until making a decision, Selig responded: "At most two or three weeks, no more than that. ... Nov. 15 at the latest."

Free agent filing starts the day after the World Series and ends 15 days following the World Series. Union officials have said the deadline for a deal is somewhere during the filing period.

Selig wouldn't commit to holding an owners' meeting next week to consider the deal framework that Levine and Fehr nearly completed in early August.

"At some point the clubs are going to have to get together, but I'm not sure when," Selig said. "But nothing's scheduled and I'm not sure when that's going to be."

If there isn't a deal, players and owners will continue to operate under the collective bargaining agreement that expired in December 1993. No deal also means no revenue sharing for small-market teams and no luxury tax to discourage payroll growth.

"A small-market team will come back to you and say, 'Does this deal change the economic system and give us room to breathe?'" Selig said.

This year, the four teams in the league championship series were among the top five in payroll. The Yankees and Braves have the highest payrolls in their leagues.

"The fact that you have payroll No. 1 meeting payroll No. 1 is not an accident," Selig said.

Suspect held in beating death of golfer

NEW BERLIN, Wis. (AP) - The death of a 51-year-old golfer who was kicked in the chest on the 18th hole, reportedly after a fight over his slow play, is being investigated as a homicide, a prosecutor said Tuesday.

Bond was set at $3,000 Tuesday for a 26-year-old man who turned himself in for questioning in the death, but no formal charge was filed pending an inquest, Waukesha County District Attorney Paul Bucher said.

Richard Stephens, 51, was at New Berlin Hills Golf Course Saturday when his 12-year-old son, Bennett, hit a ball into a creek on the 18th hole. The father and son were looking for the ball when a ball from the next threesome landed near them.

An argument broke out between Stephens and the other group, Stephens threw a punch and the other man countered with a punch and a kick, The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported.

An autopsy determined Stephens' death was caused by a "blunt force injury to the chest and abdomen," county medical examiner Michael Chambliss said.

Impatience over slow play figured in the argument, the newspaper said, citing an unidentified official who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

A lot riding on Tour Championship

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - There is a lot at stake in the Tour Championship in addition to the $540,000 first prize. The top-30 money winners on the PGA Tour will also be jockeying for a slew of awards.

Phil Mickelson was guaranteed of breaking Greg Norman's record for money won in a single season. The $48,000 last-place check will give Mickelson $1,668,999 for the year, eclipsing the $1,654,959 won by Norman last year.

And a victory at Southern Hills Country Club this week would push Mickelson over $2 million and make him the only player beside Nick Price in 1991 to win five times in a year since 1980.

Mark Brooks, whose three victories this year include the PGA Championship, trails Mickelson by $241,103 in the money race.

A top-10 finish by Mickelson would just about wrap up the PGA of America player of the year award, which is determined by a point system. The PGA Tour's player of the year award is determined by a players' vote and a third victory by Tiger Woods in four weeks would make him a serious contender.

Woods probably has already wrapped up rookie of the year honors, another award determined by a players' vote.

Also up for grabs is the Vardon Trophy for lowest scoring average. Tom Lehman at 69.50 has a 13 lead over Mark O'Meara. Lehman was playing overseas for the last several weeks and missed a recalculation that moved him from second to first place.

"We just added in the British Open scores two weeks ago and you're No. 1 now," PGA Tour official Lee Patterson told Lehman on Tuesday.

"I am?" Lehman said with genuine surprise. "I've got to withdraw this week," the British Open champion said with a huge smile. "I've got a little bit of a stomach virus."

CHANGING FACE: Before

this year, Tom Lehman was known as the guy who was always in contention but couldn't win major championships. That all changed when Lehman won the British Open just weeks after his heartbreaking runner-up finish at the U.S. Open.

"As long as you don't blow up in the last round it is a positive experience," Lehman said about his near-misses. "You can look and see where you've made mistakes."

was one of the most consistent and determined players on tour.

"It could have been a great year," Lehman said. "I could have won four or five times and had a couple of majors in there."

FALDO FILE: A subdued and somewhat jetlagged Nick Faldo returned to the United States after an overseas swing that took him to Japan last week.

"Just going to take it easy now and get ready for next year," the Masters champion said.

Faldo, who made a run at Lehman in the last round of the British Open but couldn't get any putts to drop said he hasn't shaken the memory of that round.

"I still think about them," Faldo said about his missed birdie opportunities.

TIGER TALES: Asked about Tiger Woods' hot start, Nick Faldo said: "Nice two months work. He's got to sustain it now."

"It's good for us 39-year-olds," Faldo said about Woods. "I've got to do extra sprints. Make my body feel like 20 again."

Tom Lehman said Woods will be good for "exposure, fan appreciation and quality of play."

"He's good for golf," Lehman said. "He's going to make other guys play better. I need to improve if I am going to compete with him. A lot of guys out here have quit, so one likes to be yesterday's news, Faldo, Norman, Els - they are not going to like getting beat by Tiger."

CHIP SHOTS: Temperatures at Southern Hills never got much above 40 on Tuesday and the wind chill made it feel like 18 degrees. "Put on all the clothes you have and then go into the pro shop and buy something else," was the advice offered by Davis Love III. The temperature was supposed to warm up into the 60s by Thursday's start of play. ... Tom Lehman on the weather at Southern Hills: "I grew up in Minnesota, so I've played in miserable stuff. I played in one match in high school where it was so cold one kid broke his hand and I didn't know it until his hand started to thaw out an hour later." ... Greg Norman skipped the Tuesday program. One version said it was a scheduling problem, another said it was because of problems with his private plane. Both versions caused some scrambling among the 29 other players who showed up to play in the charity event under miserable weather conditions. ... The tournament program has an article entitled: "Reaching Tour Championship Becomes Janzen's Top Priority." Only problem is that Janzen missed the tournament when he fell from 30th to 31st last week because he played in Japan instead of the Disney Classic.

Sabatini says so long to tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — Gabriela Sabatini, who parlayed her glamorous profile and classic strokes into one of the most lucrative careers in tennis history, will announce her retirement Thursday in the city of her two greatest triumphs.

Winless for nearly two years and coming off a straight-sets, first-round loss to Jennifer Capriati in Switzerland, the 26-year-old Argentine will call it quits at a news conference at Madison Square Garden.

The WTA Tour would not confirm the retirement, saying only the news conference was "major" and "concerned Sabatini's future" and "concerned Sabatini's future."

A source close to Sabatini said the retirement will take effect immediately, and there are no plans for her to play in selected tournaments or make a farewell tour.

Sabatini captured her lone Grand Slam title, the U.S. Open in 1990, in New York when she put together her most aggressive and aerobic performance to beat Steffi Graf in straight sets in the final.

Four years later in the Garden, Sabatini ended Martina Navratilova's career with an emotional victory in the first round of the Virginia Slims Championships. Then Sabatini went on to capture her first title after a 42-tournament drought, beating Lindsay Davenport in the final.

For all Sabatini's success on the court, which earned her $8,785,858 in prize money, she made millions more from a perfume bearing her name, modeling clothes in fashion magazines, and endorsements that far exceeded those of more accomplished players like Martina Navratilova and Monica Seles.

Sabatini even had the honor of having a fiery orange-red rose named after her in 1992, putting her in the company of such celebrities as Ingrid Bergman, Grace Kelly, Audrey Hepburn, Elizabeth Taylor and Queen Elizabeth.

The mystery of Sabatini's career is why she didn't win more major titles.

"She definitely could have won more Grand Slams, for sure," Seles said Tuesday after hearing of Sabatini's decision to retire. "I don't know why she didn't, she had so much talent. Some of the volleys she could hit were unbelievable. It was just pure talent and great touch."

Sabatini could attack at the net, she did against Graf in the 1990 U.S. Open, but relied instead almost exclusively on her topspin strokes from the baseline to wear down opponents.

Sabatini missed three months this year because of a pulled stomach muscle and was unable to play in the French Open and Wimbledon. She lost in the third round of the U.S. Open.

Argentina's Gabriela Sabatini celebrates her victory over Steffi Graf at the U.S. Open in New York in 1990. Sabatini has announced her retirement.

Kemp back after 22-day hiatus

SEATTLE (AP) — Shawn Kemp's 22-day absence from the Seattle SuperSonics training camp was about money and which NBA players are getting in.

"When you play for seven years and you've proved yourself to be an All-Star, then you see guys who haven't proved themselves sign for millions of dollars, you have a right to be upset," Kemp said Tuesday.

He spoke after taking part in a two-hour practice, his first workout with the Sonics this fall. Kemp, 26, missed the Sonics' first five exhibition games.

Coach George Karl said he expected the four-time All-Star power forward to play about 25 minutes when the Sonics play Portland in Spokane, Wash., on Thursday night.

"What I basically did was to take a couple of weeks to be by myself and clear my head," Kemp said. "I wanted to get my mind right and get ready to play some basketball. The guys on this team don't deserve to have Shawn Kemp walk around the locker room with an attitude."

Kemp will be only the sixth-highest paid member of the Sonics this season, but he said he wasn't specifically unhappy with Seattle's starting center, Jim McIlvaine.

McIlvaine, a backup center in Washington last season, signed a $33 million five-agent contract with the Sonics.

And Kemp's All-Star teammate, Gary Payton, last season's NBA Defensive Player of the Year, signed an $87.5 million deal with the offseason.

"It has nothing to do with Jim McIlvaine or any of my teammates," Kemp said. "It's not anything personal."

Instead, Kemp said, his unexcused absence from camp was his way of making a statement of protest about the direction of salaries in the NBA, precisely who is getting the money.

"After all those signings that took place this summer, I'm not going to sit here and tell you I wasn't ticked off," he said. "But

The SuperSonics' Shawn Kemp talks with the media Tuesday after returning to training camp in Seattle.

I was ticked off with the NBA as a whole."

The league, he said, should find some way to reward the players who are producing.

"I think the NBA has made some major decisions in putting the money back into the veteran players," Kemp said. "But if they're going to do that, then they should put the money where it's deserved."

After making $4.8 million last season, including a $2.1 million signing bonus, Kemp is scheduled to make $3 million in the second year of a seven-year extension he signed in 1993.

According to the collective bargaining agreement between the NBA and its players, a player cannot even suggest altering a contract until three years after signing the latest extension. That means Kemp can't renegotiate until October 1997.

Kemp said he wasn't going to suggest himself in signing a long-term contract.

"You've got to live your life the way that you plan it," he said.

Sonics owner Barry Ackerley went to Elkhart, Ind., where Kemp was in seclusion, to visit him.

"We talked about a few different things, about the future and stuff," Kemp said.

Kemp said Ackerley made

"There's no promises in the NBA," he said. "That's one thing after playing for seven years that I realize. There are no promises."

Kemp said he had come to grips with NBA reality and would be "happy" playing for the Sonics this season.

"That's the thing I'm saying," he said. "I didn't want to come back here and be frustrated. I'm not going to play basketball and think about money. I refuse to do that. I haven't done that for seven years and I'm not going to do that now."

The 6-foot-10 Kemp averaged a career-best 19.6 points and 11.4 rebounds last season, helping the Sonics win a club-record 64 regular-season games and take the Chicago Bulls to six games in the NBA Finals.

The Sonics were 3-2 in exhibition games without Kemp in the lineup. They play the Los Angeles Lakers in Boise, Idaho, on Friday night and Portland in Corvallis, Ore., on Sunday night to wind up their preseason schedule.

"I improved a tremendous amount as a coach today," Karl said. "I think it's clear we're a championship team with Shawn and we're just a very good basketball team without him."

Breeders' Cup gets 'Different' look

TORONTO (AP) — With Yank's Music, the exciting 3-year-old filly, set to challenge Clear in the Breeders' Cup Classic, there is a different horse to beat in the Distaff at Woodbine.

At least that's how trainer Rusty Arnold feels about Different, an Argentine-bred 4-year-old filly.

"Ron's filly has never lost (in four U.S. starts)," said Arnold, who tried to beat the Ron McAnally-trained filly with Top Secret in the 10-mile Spinster Oct. 6 at Keeneland.

"She didn't have her own way in the Spinster, while everything went right for us and we still got beat by 1 1/2 lengths," Arnold, who will start Top Secret and Clear Mandate in the 1 1/8-mile Distaff, said Tuesday. "We either got beat by a better horse or we can't get 1 1/8 miles."

Different, winner of nine of 10 career starts, won her last race in Argentina on Dec. 9, then opened her U.S. campaign for owners Sid and Jenny Craig by winning an allowance race June 13 at Hollywood Park. She followed with wins in the Beverly Hills Handicap at Hollywood, the Cluyva Vista Handicap at Del Mar and the Spinster.

Should Different win Saturday it would be McAnally's fourth Distaff victory, all with Argentine-breds. He won with Bayakoa in 1989-90 and with Pasaena in 1992.

McAnally was not due to arrive in Toronto until Thursday. Nor were D. Wayne Lukas, trainer of Serena's Song, the 1995 3-year-old filly champion, and Shug McGaughey, trainer of My Flag, winner of last year's Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies.

Arnold, however, was well-qualified to discuss what is expected to be a seven-horse field when entries are taken Wednesday for the seven Breeders' Cup races. Besides Different, Top Secret has raced against My Flag, while Clear Mandate has raced against Serena's Song and Distaff starter Jewel Princess.

against is Canadian-bred Mysteriously, winner of seven of 11 starts at Woodbine, with three seconds and a third.

Top Secret was the last horse to beat Yank's Music, by two lengths in the 1 1/8-mile Monmouth Oaks July 6 at Monmouth Park. Since the Yank's Music has claimed leadership of the 3-year-old filly division by winning the Alabama at Saratoga and the Ruffian and Beldame at Belmont Park. My Flag was third in the Alabama and fourth in the Beldame.

Serena's Song, a 4-year-old, was second in both the Ruffian and Beldame.

The 3-year-old Top Secret, a front-runner who gave up the lead in finishing third in the Gazelle and second in the Spinster, will try to hold it all the way Saturday in quest of her fourth victory in nine starts this year.

Clear Mandate, a 4-year-old described by Arnold as a middle-of-the-pace horse, also will be trying for her fourth win in nine starts this year. She finished a good third in the Beldame, but couldn't gain on Yank's Music and Serena's Song in the stretch.

Top Secret and Clear Mandate will not run as an entry because of different ownership.

Serena's Song will be trying to snap a five-race losing streak in her 14th start of the year and 37th start of her career. Her losing streaks is composed of a third and four seconds, with two of the seconds against colts.

Blazers' only black veep leaves

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The first black to hold a job in any NBA team's front office has resigned from the Portland Trail Blazers because he believes the organization will never promote him to the top management job.

Wally Scates has stepped down after 24 years as Portland's all-purpose manager, including major roles in public and community relations and game operations. He is considered the team's leader in speeches given.

"I feel like a kid leaving home," Scates said, as he cleaned out his Rose Quarter office last Friday. "I've spent half a lifetime with this franchise."

The memorabilia he packed away included the coin that was tossed Portland's way in the 1974 NBA draft. Portland took Bill Walton with the first choice and he led the Blazers to their first and only NBA championship in 1977.

The only black vice president, Blazers history, Scates said he was leaving on good terms. But friends say he felt passed over and overlooked, and he worried about the rapidly changing management's commitment to fans.

They valued what I did to a degree," Scates said of the Blazers' hierarchy, "but I don't think they knew everything I did, and that won't be obvious until I'm gone."

Scates said it was obvious he had reached the highest management level the Blazers would consider for him, "for whatever reasons."

"I think I can do better," he added. "And at least I can do it myself."

Scates has purchased the Couch Street Fish House restaurant in Portland and he also plans in March to open a 3,000-square-foot jazz club and sports bar in the heart of downtown, just across the Willamette River from the Blazers' Rose Garden arena.

NBA player gets probation for burglary

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury decided Tuesday to sentence former NBA All-Star Alvin Robertson to 10 years' probation and fine him $10,000 for the burglary of his ex-girlfriend's apartment.

Jurors deliberated about an hour before reaching the verdict. It came after Robertson took the witness stand and pleaded with jurors to give him another chance.

"I hope I get the opportunity to resume my place in society," said Robertson, describing himself as a "decent, honest, hard-working guy."

Robertson, 34, who played five seasons with the San Antonio Spurs and last season with the Toronto Raptors, could have faced up to 20 years in prison for the felony conviction.

The state court jury found him guilty last week of burglary with intent to commit theft in connection with a rampage in June 1995 at the apartment of ex-girlfriend Sharon Raeford.

"I ask this jury to give me an opportunity," Robertson said on the witness stand Tuesday. "I'd like to have the opportunity to try. If I blow it, it's my own fault." Raeford did not testify against Robertson and reportedly left town before the trial began.

Robertson's wife, Jackie, testified Tuesday her husband was sorry for what he had done and said she was willing to undergo counseling with him.

A hearing was set for Nov. 4 to discuss terms of his probation. Robertson was jailed from Aug. 21 until Oct. 40 after his arrest in a separate criminal mischief case in which he is accused of vandalizing Raeford's 1994 BMW.

He already was serving a year's probation after pleading no contest in April to misdemeanor assault charges involving two women.

Raiders glad they didn't fix what ain't broke

Oakland on win streak after not making changes

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — The key to the Oakland Raiders' resurgence and three-game winning streak may be the trade — and the coaching change — they never made three weeks ago.

The Raiders were 1-4 at the time, having just blown a game in Chicago. Coach Mike White was under attack, and there were rumors of a trade sending quarterback Jeff Hostetler and defensive tackle Chester McClocton to Atlanta for suspended quarterback Jeff George.

White has led the team to three straight wins since then, bringing the Raiders back to .500 heading into their bye week. Hostetler and McClocton starred in Monday night's 23-14 win at San Diego.

The victory over the Chargers broke a seven-game Oakland losing streak within the AFC West.

"I think 4-4 at this point is great. But we can't feel too good, because we got off to such a horrendous start," said defensive end Pat Swilling. "We're set now, and we've got five of eight at home."

The Raiders have just three games remaining on the road, and two of them are at lowly Tampa Bay and Seattle. But they still have several tough home games remaining, including Denver, Minnesota, Miami and Kansas City.

White remained upbeat

throughout the first half of the schedule, repeatedly claiming the team was playing better than it did while going 8-2 to start last season.

"He's been under a lot of scrutiny the last few weeks," Swilling said.

White's team also has been banged up during the first half of the season, but is expected to be at close to full health for its next game Nov. 4 at home against Denver.

Hostetler is getting his timing back after missing the first two games with a knee injury. Tailback Harvey Williams returned Monday after missing three games with a torn right calf muscle.

Free safety Eddie Anderson, sidelined with a torn triceps tendon, and offensive tackle Pat Harlow, out with back and hip problems, are expected back after the bye.

Hostetler was 20-for-37 for 191 yards against the Chargers, with a 17-yard scoring pass to Derrick Fenner and an interception.

"I think Jeff Hostetler's mobility — and remember, San Diego put on a big rush — is one of the important ingredients in our success," White said.

The two biggest plays of the game, though, came from McClocton. He knocked San Diego quarterback Stan Humphries out with a dislocated shoulder in the first quarter, and forced a key fumble in the third period.

McClocton also helped destroy San Diego's running game. The Chargers amassed just 29 yards on 20 carries, putting added pressure on backup quarterback Sean Salisbury.

"It feels really good to see our team coming out of a hostile environment," said cornerback Albert Lewis. "Everyone's very, very positive in here. I think we've matured to the point where I think we have learned to fight through adversity."

Chiefs labeled big, bad bullies

But coach says they're just trying to win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Have the Kansas City Chiefs replaced the Oakland Raiders as the AFC West's bullies? Coach Marty Schottenheimer says no.

Schottenheimer on Tuesday rejected a suggestion his club is trying to intimidate opponents in the rugged division.

"My opinion is that we do not have an interest in being designated intimidators," Schottenheimer said, responding to a column by Tacoma News-Tribune writer John Clayton that was reprinted in The Kansas City Star.

Clayton suggested the Chiefs have taken on the bad-boy reputation once held by the Raiders. Clayton pointed to incidents in Thursday night's Chiefs-Seahawks game, including a punch Marcus Allen threw at Seahawks safety Robert Blackmon that wasn't flagged, and suggested the NFL would be watching the Chiefs.

"We'll see in future games if their penalty numbers increase or their fines accumulate," Clayton wrote. "One thing won't change, though. The Chiefs have become the intimidators in this division."

The Seahawks, who lost that game 36-14, thought Allen should have been penalized. They also were upset by a low block to linebacker Winston Moss by receiver Chris Penn.

"We're just trying to play,"

Schottenheimer said. "Our receivers go down the field and block. One reason we don't fumble a lot with our running backs is they're not getting hit at the last second by an unblocked guy coming at them from the secondary."

Defensive backs have complained they are being blocked low by Chiefs receivers.

"Chris Penn wasn't trying to intimidate anybody," Schottenheimer said.

"I don't think many players in this league can be intimidated. In his view, the play was still live and they are taught to go until the whistle blows."

Schottenheimer said the question came up a couple of times while he served on the NFL Competition Committee.

"The overwhelming sentiment was that if a defensive back has an opportunity to see a guy coming at him and defend himself, then you can block him," Schottenheimer said. "Our wide receivers have always taken pride in blocking down the field as long as we've been here. As long as you have an opportunity to see you coming, then it's legal."

Moss and fellow linebacker Dean Wells were ejected from the game. The Seahawks had 13 penalties for 118 yards. Kansas City was penalized nine times for 70 yards.

Humphries out for Seattle game

SAN DIEGO (AP) — There's no hiding Stan Humphries' latest injury.

Not long after shaving off the goatee that covered his gashed chin, the San Diego Chargers' quarterback dislocated his non-throwing shoulder and will miss Sunday's game at Seattle.

"Whenever I do get hurt it's no minor thing," Humphries said Tuesday. The left sleeve of Humphries' T-shirt dangled limp and empty, his shoulder and arm wrapped tightly in a sling underneath.

The injury came courtesy of 320-pound Oakland tackle Chester McClocton, who stuck his helmet into Humphries' shoulder as the quarterback slid at the end of a 5-yard run in the first quarter of the Raiders' 23-14 win Monday night.

Sean Salisbury, who played well after Humphries was hurt, will make his first start since the 1994 season finale, when he was with Minnesota.

Coach Bobby Ross submitted videotape of several plays to the league office for review, including McClocton's hit on Humphries. Ross didn't think it was a late hit, but noted that McClocton hit Humphries with his head.

Among other aching Chargers was Junior Seau, who collided helmet-to-helmet with fellow linebacker Kurt Gouveia and bruised his left knee and sprained his right knee when he landed. Seau is listed as day-to-day, "but I think that's being optimistic," Ross said.

Seau's neck was stiff but fine, trainer Keoki Kamau said. Both Seau and Gouveia returned to the game.

Offensive lineman Troy Sienkiewicz was released from a hospital Tuesday after being held overnight for tests on a neck injury. The Chargers were studying the test results.

Chargers quarterback Stan Humphries is escorted off the field after suffering a shoulder injury against Oakland Monday.

Humphries' shoulder dislocated downward Monday night. In the 1992 season finale at Seattle, Humphries dislocated the same shoulder to the front. He played the following weekend in a wild-card playoff victory over Kansas City.

"They were able to do some wild tape job on me to keep it where it wouldn't come out," Humphries said of the '92 injury, which required off-season surgery.

This time there isn't the playoff urgency — although two straight AFC West losses have left the Chargers at 4-3 — and Salisbury has experience as a starter. San Diego beat Seattle (2-5) 29-7 in the season opener.

"It's good to have an experienced quarterback who has been a starter in the league, and Sean really stepped in and did a nice job," Ross said.

"It was nice (Monday) night to get a taste of the regular season," Salisbury said. "I'm obviously excited, but it's kind of a relief to get the job that way. Hopefully, and hopefully we'll get the offense moving while he's out."

The Chargers (4-3) felt they upgraded when they replaced Gilbert with Salisbury. Salisbury sat out the next week against Dallas as backup QB Stan Gilbert committed turnovers to end San Diego's first four possessions in a 23-9 loss to Dallas.

He finished 22-of-35 for 252 yards and two TDs, with one interception. He also fumbled on a hit by McClocton, leading to an Oakland field goal.

Jerry, Jimmy keep rivalry quiet, mouths shut

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Whatever their feelings for each other may be, Jerry Jones and Jimmy Johnson weren't saying

Jones, the Dallas Cowboys owner, who has hired and fired Johnson after five-year tenures that included two Super Bowl titles, said: "Our feelings make no difference how this game comes out."

Johnson, in a national conference call Tuesday, agreed on the relationship with the owner and coach (Barry Switzer) have nothing to do with this game. Obviously, there's some emotional ties with a lot of players and assistants with a lot of coaches. I want to go to... I vowed to myself I wasn't going to let my emotions enter into it."

Johnson, who took over the Dolphins this year from Don Shula, said he doesn't have to tell his players how he feels heading into Sunday's showdown between Dallas and Miami.

"Our players understand this is an emotional game for me," Johnson said. "What is important is we're 4-3 and trying to get back on the winning track and playoffs. That's what's important."

Jones praised Johnson, his former teammate at the University of Arkansas, although their divorce came because they couldn't get along.

"Jimmy inspired me, he brought out the best in me," Jones said at his weekly luncheon. "We have a competition this Sunday. I'm not about to tarnish what we did for five years. If I did that, I couldn't look in the mirror. Both teams have a lot at stake and you can't drum it up anymore than that."

Johnson said he still has a lot of respect for Jones despite their feud.

"I've always said he's the greatest businessman I've ever known in my life," Johnson said. "Jerry was always very good. He always relied on people who had expertise. We had no problems there."

Jones described his relationship with Johnson as "no relationship." He said: "We worked together five years. We shared something special for five years, low times and exhilarating times. I have a lot of respect for him and I always have. I hired him because he was smart, energetic, and positive."

"I felt we could work together and we did. The facts are life has been good to both of us since Jimmy left."

Said Johnson: "I decided I wanted to start a company and move to South Florida. I was pleased then and I'm pleased now."

Jones said all the hype around the game is enjoyable.

"This game is getting a lot of visibility and I like that," he said.

Despite record, Cowher takes Atlanta seriously

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pirates could win the Pittsburgh Steelers of the dangers of playing in Atlanta in October.

The Steelers (5-2), coming off a loss for the first time since Sept. 1, play another in a month-long series of should-win games Sunday at Atlanta (0-7). The Falcons' start is their worst since they opened 0-9 in their inaugural season of 1966.

Of course, the defending Super Bowl champion Cowboys also figured to have an easy time of it vs. Atlanta, but needed Kelvin Martin's 60-yard touchdown catch with only 1:42 remaining to win 32-28 Sunday.

Not surprisingly, Steelers coach Bill Cowher is trotting out all the time-worn coaching clichés to describe the Falcons: "They're not as bad as their record; they've got too much talent to keep on losing; you can't take their lightly. To mull this time, Cowher seems to mean it. As the Pirates learned in the 1991 and 1992 NL playoffs, any trip to Atlanta in October can be an adventure in futility."

"The Falcons were in the playoffs last season and they are a good football team," Cowher said. "Look at their skill position players. They've got talent. It is a team that beat the 49ers last year to get in the playoffs. They've had some turmoil at quarterback, but they're over that."

The Falcons tried to put an end Tuesday to the Jeff George controversy, releasing the unhappy quarterback nearly a month after suspending him following a sideline blowup. George subsequently rejected a trade to Seattle and apparently will sit out the rest of the season.

Franklin turns down Saints' head coaching job

New Orleans Saints player personnel director Chet Franklin answers questions at the Saints practice facility in Metairie, La., Tuesday. Franklin declined the organization's offer of its head coaching job.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Chet Franklin, the New Orleans Saints' director of pro personnel, on Tuesday turned down the head coaching job.

One day after Jim Mora resigned, Franklin held lengthy negotiations with Saints general manager Bill Kuharich, who confirmed he offered the job of interim head coach to Franklin. But the talks were fruitless.

"He felt it would not be in the best interest for him to take the job," Kuharich said.

The coaching staff shakeup continued with the firing of offensive coordinator Carl Smith. Kuharich said Franklin, as coach, would not have fired Smith, who has long been the object of fan criticism.

The Saints on Tuesday twice delayed news conferences to announce the appointment of an interim coach.

Kuharich said he expects to name an interim coach Wednesday morning, before players report to begin preparation for the Nov. 3 game against San Francisco. The team has a bye this week.

He said he has someone in mind on the Saints staff.

Kuharich said he initially thought Franklin would take the job, but called a morning news conference prematurely.

The announcement of Franklin saying no to the coaching job capped a day of confusion at the Saints camp in suburban New Orleans.

News leaked out at mid-morning that Franklin was the choice for interim coach. But an 11 a.m. CDT news conference was delayed for more than six hours.

At 5:30 p.m., Kuharich announced his double-barreled surprise.

Smith was the longest-tenured offensive coordinator with the same team. He joined the Saints with Mora in 1986, and worked under Mora as an assistant on the USFL champion Philadelphia and Baltimore Stars teams.

He often bore the brunt of fan criticism for predictable and unimaginative play-calling.

Mora unwaveringly defended Smith over the years, but was overheard verbally blasting Smith, as well as other assistant coaches, after the Saints' 19-7 loss Sunday to the Carolina Panthers.

Franklin, 61, was director of player personnel for the San Diego Chargers from 1987-89, after 16 seasons as an assistant coach with the San Francisco 49ers (1975-77), the Saints (1978-79) and the Raiders (1980-86).

He was defensive backs coach on two Raiders Super Bowl cham-

Bye, George, say Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons waived goodbye to a disenchanted Jeff George on Tuesday, ending a stormy relationship that led to the quarterback's suspension, then his release.

After 4 p.m. Wednesday, George is an unrestricted free agent. But any team claiming George on waivers assumes the remaining share of his $3.6 million salary — about $1.9 million.

"There really aren't any options," said coach June Jones, who suspended George for conduct detrimental to the team after a sideline tirade Sept. 22.

Leigh Steinberg, George's agent, said he fears his client's salary may prevent him from getting signed.

"Our assumption is that no one will claim him" immediately, Steinberg said. "Then, in one or two days, we'll talk to different teams. Jeff would like to play the remainder of the season."

George and the Seattle Seahawks discussed a contract earlier this month after the suspension. But after a reported six-year, $30 million offer was made, George said he felt he was being rushed into a deal and decided not to approve a trade.

Unable to work out any trades, the Falcons cut George, who cost them two first-round picks in a 1994 trade with the Colts.

The Falcons' action left George relieved, Steinberg said. "It's a happy day for him, because he's been in a kind of purgatory, in limbo, for the past four weeks."

The seven-year veteran was suspended for raging at Jones in full view of television cameras after Jones benched him for throwing an interception against the Philadelphia Eagles.

During George's suspension, he said his reputation was unfairly sullied and there's nothing he can do to change it.

"No matter what you do in this business, not everybody is going to like you," George said. "I go about my job, try to be the best quarterback I can and try to put my team in the best position to win."

The last order of business between the quarterback and the team is a hearing next week on George's grievance.

The Falcons got George because he seemed the prototype for the run-and-shoot offense. He did thrive in the run-and-shoot, setting a Falcons passing record with 4,143 yards last season. George played 35 games for the Falcons and never gained acceptance in Atlanta.

His laid-back demeanor — cap flipped backward, hands crossed nonchalantly, a slight smirk on his face while standing on the sidelines — drew the wrath of the fans every time something went wrong. He was a loner, failing to bond with the linemen who protected him. And his reputation was further sullied this year in training camp when he reported 2 1/2 weeks late because of a contract dispute.

Then came the sideline argument with Jones, which George said was nothing personal and was further proof he is a fiery competitor. Others saw it as yet another example of his me-first attitude.

Coslet has tough job with Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bruce Coslet begins his second head coaching job with a lot of problems and little room to maneuver. The Cincinnati Bengals are 1-6, headed for their sixth consecutive losing season. Fans have deserted them. The locker room is divided. The coaching staff is stressed.

It's a much tougher predicament for Coslet, who got to start from scratch with the New York Jets in 1990. Coslet, an offensive coordinator who took over for Dave Shula on Monday, is boxed in by circumstances.

With a home game against Jacksonville only five days away, Coslet had not even spoken to the team as a whole by Tuesday. Players had two days off after returning from a 28-21 loss in San Francisco.

"I've just started the process of telling them what I think needs to be done," Coslet said Tuesday afternoon. "So far, so good. They've been receptive. We'll see how that portrays on the field."

"I'm like the fans out there — I'm a little skeptical right now. And they have a reason to be, and so do I. Nobody's comfortable. It's just a major change and it's going to be a difficult time for the next several weeks."

Tension is palpable at the team's Spinyay Field complex. As reporters were escorted to Coslet's office for an interview Tuesday, two assistant coaches got into a fight in an office down the hall. Other coaches came running to break it up.

"Hey, it's a stressful time for everybody," Coslet said. "We're like a family, we're together so much. So something like that is not out of the ordinary. I've seen it happen before. And this has been a very stressful week. So don't read anything into it. There's nothing to it."

Players also are showing the strain. Quarterback Jeff Blake, who was with Coslet in New York, walked past reporters trying to get his reaction Monday.

"I'm not talking about the coaching change," Blake said.

Other players said there was division in the locker room.

"I think that has got to change," offensive lineman Scott Brumfield said. "No matter who's coaching this team, we're never going to win unless everybody pulls together. You definitely have players going their own ways. No matter who's coaching, you're never going to win with factions."

Coslet's job is to fill in the holes in talent and get the players working together, and to do it quickly. Although president Mike Brown talked about Coslet as a long-term coach, he has not given him a contract beyond this season.

Bruce Coslet, who replaces Dave Shula as head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals, has a tough road ahead coaching one of the NFL's worst teams.

ESPN announcer apologizes to Alvarez.

The Associated Press

ESPN's Brad Nessler apologized to Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez on Tuesday for critical remarks made during the telecast of the Badgers' 34-30 loss to Northwestern on Sunday.

"Anything we said that caused the Wisconsin coaching staff any undue criticism, on behalf of ESPN, if we blew it, we apologize, or at least I do," Nessler told Alvarez during the weekly Big Ten coaches' conference call.

The brouhaha began with the Badgers in possession and leading 30-27. But after a 7-yard run, tailback Tony Dwyer fumbled Mike Samuel's handoff with 49 seconds left, the Wildcats recovered and scored two plays later to win.

Nessler and partner Gary Danielson questioned Alvarez's decision to hand off rather than have Samuel clock three times and run out the clock.

"Alvarez lost the game. Alvarez should quit like Dickerson should. All the guy had to do was take the snap, kneel and you're out," Corso said.

Nebraska purges its mistakes

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Running back Damon Benning shook his head and smiled while contemplating the mistakes No. 5 Nebraska made in its haphazard win over Texas Tech.

"There are just some days," Benning said, "when you would rather be lucky than good."

Nebraska (5-1, 3-0 Big 12) had just six turnovers going into the 24-10 victory over Texas Tech. Against the Red Raiders (4-3, 3-2) the Cornhuskers had seven fumbles, lost four of them and saw an interception of a pass by Scott Frost returned for a TD.

Benning's 39-yard scoring run in the fourth period was punctuated by his recovery of his own fumble.

And Nebraska was flagged for 11 penalties for 99 yards.

"I don't think it's anything anybody should get accustomed to seeing out there," Benning said in predicting the errors would diminish.

Coach Tom Osborne said he expected the Huskers to play well against Kansas (3-3, 1-2) this week, but smiled while declining to say he was comfortable with Nebraska's progress.

"I guess I don't feel real comfortable playing anybody right now," he said.

The outcome at Texas Tech probably turned on Nebraska's kicking game, Osborne said. Punter Jesse Kush averaged 48 yards per kick, Kris Brown kicked a 39-yard field goal and Nebraska did well in returning punts while stalling the Red Raiders' offense. Linebacker Jon Hesse, named Big 12 defensive player of the week, blocked a punt.

Wind-whipped fires char homes

At least 92 homes destroyed; 4 firefighters trapped in stalled truck seriously burned; battle continues

The Associated Press

CARLSBAD, Calif. — Fleets of helicopters and airplanes roared through Southern California canyons on Tuesday, dropping water on erratic, wind-blown wildfires that have burned 92 homes and seriously injured five firefighters.

Helicopter Santa Ana winds turned dry brush and oil-rich eucalyptus trees into blowtorches, spreading flames across 30,000 acres. By Tuesday afternoon, the major fires were less than half contained and some flared up again as the devil wind shifted and gusted up to 41 mph.

Four firefighters working a fire in Malibu were seriously burned when their truck stalled and flames roared over them in Corral Canyon. "This is life threatening. These are very serious burns. We're looking at over 90 percent of their bodies," Glendale fire Marshal Dave Starr said.

Another firefighter broke his neck in a traffic accident while rushing to a blaze, and another man suffered burns over 45 percent of his body.

Thousands of people fled their homes, schools and businesses in four counties Monday as flames exploded, propelled through the canyons by winds that gusted as high as 71 mph.

By Tuesday, many were learning the worst. "I saw the news and they were standing in the rubble of our home," said Lou Stark, who lost his Carlsbad home. His wife wasn't sure. "She said, 'Maybe it's not ours.' I said, 'Yes, it's ours.'"

Carlsbad was the site of the worst fire, a fast-moving blaze that burned at least 60 houses and 10 other structures over 5,200 acres in the 65,700-resident suburb on northern San Diego County's seashore.

Just east of Carlsbad, authorities ordered evacuations early Tuesday for parts of San Marcos, a retirement community of 42,800 people.

enclave of Malibu in Los Angeles County, at least 1,000 people had been evacuated as flames charred 13,000 acres and destroyed two houses and a mobile home.

Acres Shirley MacLaine said defending her home has become routine in the disaster-prone city. "I do think they ought to change the area code, though, and make it 911," she quipped.

A fire that hop-scotched through the exclusive Lemon Heights section of Orange County on Monday destroyed and damaged 29 homes.

Marine volunteers were sent from Camp Pendleton to help the firefighters. Huge air tankers bombed the flames with water sucked from the ocean and reser-voirs, joined by cargo-hauling helicopters fitted with big water tanks.

Eleven aircraft made repeated flights near Malibu. "As soon as the sun came up we were dropping water," said Steve Alvarez of the Los Angeles County Fire Department.

Gov. Pete Wilson declared a state of emergency in San Diego County. A similar declaration, letting the state reimburse local governments for firefighting, was expected for Los Angeles County. The blazes started Monday as the seasonal Santa Ana wind whistled from the high desert down through Southern California's canyons. On Tuesday, the wind eased in places, although steady 25 mph winds were likely through Wednesday morning.

Near Malibu, Latigo Canyon resident Scott Halley joined about a dozen neighbors on a canyon rim Tuesday to watch the air show.

"The gnarly thing is those wires," Halley said as one helicopter swept within feet of power lines at the bottom of the flame-filled canyon. "You hit those things and you're history."

Flames made repeated runs at the Latigo Canyon home of rocker Axl Rose, but firefighters saved the home. Neighbor-Jeff Harris, who lost a house in a firestorm three years ago, watched appreciatively.

"After all the people of Malibu lost their homes three years ago, I'm really happy that that fact," Harris said.

Just three years ago this month, more than a dozen fires driven by Santa Ana winds raced across almost 300 square miles and caused more than $820 million in damage.

Faucets dry, but everything else soaked in Northeast floods

The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Maine — Floodwaters from a storm that dumped up to 18 inches of rain on the Northeast ruptured a pipeline Tuesday, leaving at least 120,000 people in and around Maine's largest city without drinking water.

The powerful weekend rainwater was blamed for at least six deaths from New Jersey to New Hampshire. Another person was missing in Maine.

"No showers, no coffee and I can't even use the bathroom," said Laurie Davis of Westbrook, just outside Portland. Davis couldn't even leave home to get bottled water — she was stranded because two nearby bridges were washed out.

A 48-inch main that carries water about 25 miles from Sebago-Lake to the Portland area was broken in at least four places. There was no word on when service would be restored, and the area's 170,000 customers were told to boil any water they did get.

The state's largest hospital, Maine Medical Center in Portland, canceled all elective surgery but was able to maintain emergency services.

The floodwaters apparently washed away the soil supporting the pipeline.

"The pipe is stabilized by the soil it's resting on. If the soil gets washed away, the pipe will bend or break. It just doesn't have any support," said Dana Perkins, a Portland Water District spokesman. "This obviously is the worst thing we've ever had. We were organized in 1908, and I don't think anybody's seen anything like this."

Flooding also shut down the water supply for Exeter, N.H., and service was not expected to be restored for two to three weeks. An estimated 1,000 people were evacuated.

Authorities in Rockingham County, N.H., moved 115 inmates out of the county jail because the bottom floor was under 2 feet of water.

"I've never seen it this bad in 17 years," said John DiStasio, owner of Anjo's Italian Restaurant in Scarborough, Maine. "The water was waist-high in the parking lot. The whole first floor is under 6 inches of water."

Residents from New Jersey to Massachusetts began to head home after spending the night in emergency shelters. In Boston, water lapped at the entrance to a subway line before receding, homeowners got on a waiting list for pumps to remove the stinking raw sewage from their basements.

"What we're looking at is the ugly, gunky, germey aftermath," said Arlene Margolis, spokeswoman for the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency.

Environmental groups worried about the oil, gasoline and other waste washed into Boston Harbor.

"It's like scrubbing the city's streets clean and dumping it in the harbor," said Jodi Sogerman of Save the Harbor/Save the Bay. "The harbor is just not in good shape for the next few days. You'll see a swirl in the water."

Stephen Vinciarelli sloshed through the water in Revere, Mass., in a pair of waders, pushing a rowboat and cying the debris left behind.

"There's condoms, tampons, toilet paper. That's what you're walking in," he said. "Of course I'm concerned about health. I've got four kids."

In Portland, the taps ran dry shortly after midnight, and some supermarkets were sold out of bottled water by daybreak.

With 6 feet of water in their driveway, Tim Faulkingham and his family hopped in their motorboat for a trip to Wal-Mart.

"We figured it was a once in a lifetime thing to take a boat-ride in front of your house," he said.

The storm started Saturday over New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania and moved slowly up the coast. It hit Maine on Sunday and continued into Monday.

Trees knocked down by the storm killed two people in the New York City area and one in Connecticut. Weather-related traffic accidents killed one each in New Jersey, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. A man was missing in Maine after the pickup truck he was in drove into a washed-out section of road.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

"Optimism is a kind of heart stimulant - the digitails of failure." - Elbert Hubbard

"Looks as if we might have more tricks than I can count." gushed South after seeing dummy. "I'll be satisfied with 12, thank you," replied North. His attention was not enough to keep South from a careless lapse.

West led the club king, and South made the good play of ruffing in dummy. Had he won his ace and played trumps, West's trump stack would have made the slam unmanageable.

Unfortunately, it was South's last good play. After he cashed dummy's trump king, he led a spade to his king and cashed his trump ace. East's discard brought complications. West's queen took the third round of trumps, but South was unfazed. "Good thing I didn't win the club ace at trick one," he murmured.

His misplaced concern proved premature. Instead of continuing clubs, West switched to his last spade. Dummy won, but what could South do? If he led a diamond to his ace to draw the lost spades, and if he led a spade, West would ruff to kill the spades. He chose the latter, and the slam fell short two tricks.

South had a blind spot with his trump suit. When he led dummy's trump king at trick two, he should have overtaken with his ace. After willingly conceding trick two to trump queen, entry problems would have disappeared, and he would have clinched 12 winners.

Bridge score table with columns for North, East, South, West and various trick counts.
