Fireworks erupted after the president addressed a crowd of thousands jamming the streets of Little Rock, Ark. Vice President Al Gore called it a "glorious evening" and indeed the numbers were very good for the Democratic ticket. Clinton was on a pace to match if not exceed the 370 electoral votes he won in 1992, and he was close to the majority wote that eluded him in 1992.

"I wish him well and I pledge my support," Dole said in conceding the race, hushing supporters who booed Clinton's name. Dole and other Republican leaders took solace in returns suggesting that rotters would keep the Congress in GOP hands even as they gave Clinton four more years.

Weaver leads Jerome County sheriff's race

JERÓME – Republican challenger Jim Weaver held a large, but unofficial, lead in the hearted Jerome County sheriff's race Tuesday night.

At The Times-News' press time, with four of 13 precilicts reporting, Weaver had 949 votes, or 68, 2 percent. Incumbent and write-in candidate George "Pee Wee" Silver trailed with 441 votes.

"At this point it looks as if I'm going to win," Weaver said late Tuesday night, but he declined further comment.

"At this point it looks as if I'm going to win," Weaver said a late Toesday night, but he declined further comment. Silver also said he did not want to comment before a final count but did say he would keep his badge even if he was not re-elected.
"It has my name on it, so I don't think anybode clase would want it," he said.
In May, Silver lost the Republican primary to Weaver by 256 votes. He began a write-in campaign, claiming that many of his supporters had not bothered to vote in the primary.
He kept the words "Republican candidate" on his campaign signs, but when the Jerome Country Republican Central Committee profested, he changed the wording. Both candidates promisted to step up the fight against drugs, but disagreed on how to do it. Silver said he would use felleral grant money to hire a full-time drug officer and would also use undercover officers occasionally.

Weaver said he thinks undercover work is too dangerous for officers. He promised to confront drug dealers more directly.

Gem voters endorse Batt's nuclear waste agreement

BOISE — Idaho voters endorsed Gov. Phil Batt's unprecedented nuclear waste deal with the federal government Tuesday, rejecting an initiative to void the deal, according to early returns. With most of the state's precincts reporting, the initiative that Batt has been fighting claimed only about 35 percent of the vote. The climax of a 22-month debate over radioactive dumping was portrayed by both camps as a way to force national action an a permanent solution for nuclear waste storage.

camps as a way to force national action on a permanent solution for nuclear waste storage.

But voters seemed to be siding with Republican chief executive, who believed his integrity was on the line to some extent as well as the year old agreement he maintained provides Idaho its only protection against unlimited dumping with no guarantee of cleanup or removal.

"The governor had the decision to make—It was his decrsion and he made," said retired Army Sgt. Maj., Victor Van, 63, of Garden City said after voting, "I didn't even -look into the actual details of -what-his-arrangement was. I trusted the governor to make that decision. That's why we put him in there, whether he be a Democrat or Republican."

Batt also benefited from voter confusion created by the complexity of the issue. While both sides are committed to ridding Idaho of waste, voters appeared unconvinced by Batts critics, under the banner of Stop the Shipments, charging that the loopholes are so huge the deal makes Idaho little more than the nation's de facto radioactive dump.

ACROSS THE NATION

Heavy snow blankets Utah mountains, spreads eastward

The Associated Press

The Associated Fress

Heavy snow fell .Tuesday in the mountains of the West, with up to 15 inches in Utah, and rain was scattered over the Southeast.

A low-pressure system brought heavy snow to higher elevations of eastern Utah through Colorado and Wyoming into the western Dakotas.

The heaviest snow fell early in the day in the Wasatch Range of northeastern Utah with 15 inches overnight at Snowbird, a ski resort at an elevation of 11,000 feet. Park City got? Inches.

Heavy snow also fell in eastern Utah's Unita Mountains and the Tavaputs Plateau. At lower elevations, 2 to 3 inches fell during the night in the Salt Lake City area, but most melted by midday.

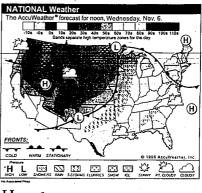

Solow was mixed with rain in the valleys of western Solorado.

To the east of the snow belt, wind drawn in by the ow pressure blew at around 30 mph over parts of the vestern Plains, with gusts above 40 mph along the front Range in southern Colorado.

Light showers fell across the Southeast as moist air lowed over the region. Heavier, showers and a few, hunderstorms were scattered along the eastern coast thunderstorms were scattered along the eastern coast of south Florida. Elsewhere, a few light showers were over the Great Lakes. Those showers were expected to spread through Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York. In the Pacific Northwest, showers were likely during the night along the coast of Oregon and Washington as a new cold front arrived in the area. Show was expected in the Gascade Range. The highest heat index, a combination of temperature and humidity, was 99 at Marathon Key, Fla, and the lowest wind chill was 11 below zero at Spencer.

Term limits

Advocates of federal term limits fought off claims that their approach was illegal on Tuesday in hopes of convincing Idaho voices to increase the pressure on Congress to limit their terms.

With 289 of 925 precincts reporting, the initiative held an arrow margin, 79,455 to 43,244. Still smarting from the decision to exclude him from the presidential debates this year, Perot said that with a strong showing, "they can't even think about trying to shut us out."

going on."

Perot ran as an independent in 1992, bringing in 19 percent of the vote, a better showing than independents John Anderson, who garnered 6.6 percent in 1980, and George Wallace, who received nearly 14 percent in 1968.

In this campaign, as in 1992, Perot's pitch to voters was that the Democrats and Republica-were ignoring the national debt and trado-doficits, beholden to a corrupting stream of special interest contributions.

His complaints gained steam at the end of his 11-week campaign as Perot trained his focus on questionable foreign donations made to the Democratic Parisis of President Clinton. The billionaire candidate, who accepted federal matching funds for his campaign, spent most of the S29.2 million he received on television time. He made only a smattering of public appearances and never held a press conference.

Dole garners Idaho's 4 electoral votes

The annual series of the proposed Twin Falls County zoning ordinance are planned for Monday, Nov. 12, in Room 108 of the Aspen Building on the campus of the College of Southern Idaho. The hearings are scheduled from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Copies of the proposed ordinance are available at the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning office, 246 Third Ave. E., Twin Falls.

The members of the editorial board and writers of editorials are Stephen Hartgen, Clark Walworth, Steve Crump and Kevin Miller.

Hillary Clinton may be right after all. If the proposed Twin Falls County zoning ordinance is approved as written, all children may indeed by raised by villages.

Forget about that secluded dreamhouse in the country-side. The ordinance would channel virtually all future growth into already deep oped areas.

If you, for example, are a landowner—with 40 acres in the proposed agricultural zone, you would be able to develop only two one-acre lots - two building be sites of the proposities—on the entire property.

The comprehensive plan on which this ordinance is based correctly pointed out that growth needs to be controlled, farmland preserved and dwindling groundwater resources protected. But the ordinance itself takes those laudable goals to an extreme, in our judgment.

As written, the ordinance might proscribe building a new home on the family farm if it exceeds the density ratio for that zone.

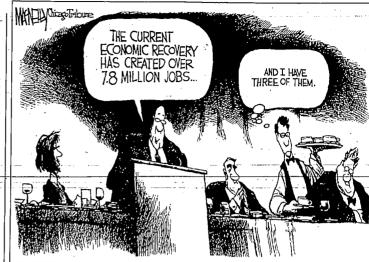

that zone.

• Prime agricultural land. The ordinance defines it geographically, not objectively. Untillable property in the wrong location could, be considered prime farmland and off-limits to development, and that's ludicrous. What do we have a county planning and zoning commission for, if not to settle such questions?

Let's not reth to integrate.

Let's not rush to judgment. The county commissioners and the P&Z commission should schedule additional hearings on the zoning ordinance.

And be prepared to answer a lot fore questions.

Any fool could beat Social Security earnings

Thad a discussion with a friend about the recent proposals to allow individuals to divert part of their Social Security taxes into private investments. "Social Security isn't great, but at least I'm better off with it than I'd be i'll made stupid investments and lost my money."

My friend's comment prompted me to do some back-of-the-envelope calculations to see just how bad an investor you can be and still beat Social Security. Easy enough; you put the $46,788 in a hasic tax-deferred retirement account that invests in 30-year government bonds at a yield of 7 percent compounded – a yield at which they've been hovering recently, but one that is well below their 7.87 percent average yield for the last 10 years.

When you turn $7 in $5 years, your $46,788 will have grown to almost $799,350 at 6 percent, say, by maintaining it in an amunitard retirement account, you could leave the principal uncuched and you could withdraw $2,498 per month in interest alone. That is more than four times the amount you'd receive from $6041 Security.

I would like to state my opinion on the abortion issue. Abortion became more than simply a legal and constitutional issue; it became one of the country's major political and social controversies from the late 1970s through the 1990s. I think there shouldn't be a controversy. Abortion jis wrong and is murder of the innocent unborn human beines.

troversy. Abortion is wrong and is mutder of the innocent umborn human beings.

The Bill of Rights says that we have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The Supreme Court took away that right from the unborn baby.
Many say that the baby is just a lobol of tissue, but why is it that they can detect a heartbeat at three weeks and hrain waves at 6 weeks?
My point is that a baby is just as smuch alive in the mother's womb before birth as it is after the baby is born.
The Constitution never gave anyone the right to decide who is allowed to live or who should die.
Just because you can't talk yet or aren't born yet, you still, as a human being, should be guaranteed protection and the right to live under the Constitution of the United States.

Jerome school tax too much

We feel some points need to be clarified in regard to Adam McRoberts' let-ter. First, do not put words in our mouths or assume you know people like us are denying you an education. Reread our first letter carefully. We definitely stated, "We also want our children to get an education," so we are not denying you and others the education you feel you deserve; however, we are concerned about the unreasonable costs being pushed at us. Even though many of us voted "no" to the bond issue, we have to go through the process again because we are not being listened to! Too bad all the losers in every ejection or issue can't simply denythey lost and try again.

We still say many people cannot afford the ever-rising tax burden. Yes, my parents and others paid in part for my education as we have continued to pay our share for you and others—while our own child was growing up and even after he left, Jerome to go to college, and we are still paying. What we strongly object to are the methods being used—more taxes, a lot more.

We made several suggestions to help

We made several suggestions to help alleviate overcrowding and to ensure everyone paid their fare share. Our schools and teachers are not being utilized to the fullest extent possible. We build new schools and teach of which their own old ones or abandon them; how is this solving the problem?

when the bonds for the new school are paid in full, do we get a reduction in our taxes? We have never seen one. The school staff seems to have tunnel vision by not appearing to fully explore all the options and come up with another solution. Again, we don't have all the answers, but we definitely feel something else can be done.

Yes, it is people like us who stand up and say "no"! We are working-class people who bear the never-ending brunt of the tax burden. Let's find a different and perhaps even better way

Over the past sew weeks, Tve seen more children waiting up on the asphalt for their buses. Fve watched them play around and then jump right on to the road. It scares me to death to see these children standing and playing so close to this highway. There are so many cars, trucks and semis using this road, especially in the mornings, and the majority of them are traveling between 50 and 60 mph. Many of the morning commuters are driving directly into the sun, and many just aren't paying attention. That highway is one dangerous stretch of road.

Parents, please tell your children not to stand right by the highway. My grandpa always made me stand at least 10 feet away from the road (I also live on the Bob Barton), and I believe this is a good rule to go by. If children need to cross the highway to board the bus, they should wait until their bus is there and has stopped and vehicles coming both directions have also stopped. I know doing these things may take a little extra time, but I-would rather lose a few minutes on my way to work than have any parent lose a child HEATHER PILKINTON Wendell

Keep nursing instructors

Keep nursing instructors
Regarding the article on Oct. 29:
1 am a College of Southern Idaha nursing student, and I would like to say that our instructors are knowledgeable, as well as experienced. The nursing department is always striving to improve an already-excellent program.

CSI's nursing program offers the continuing education for many for whom this opportunity might not otherwise be possible. Experience, as well as knowledge, is the formula for a successful learning atmosphere, and I, as a proud participant, support my instructor's hard work and dedication.
It would be a travesty to eliminate any instructor or the nursing program from CSI's education roster.

Clinton's task: Take on modest agenda

WASHINGTON - President

WASHINGTON — President Clinton sails into a second term distinctly different from the first. His first tacks: shake up his administration and try to build momentum for a modest agenda built around limited tax cuts. Four years ago, Clinton promised an explosive opening to his presidency, an action-packed first 100 days. It was a disaster, marred by controversies over gays in the military, embarrassing appointments and a focus on liberal abortin policies. This time, Clinton is not trying to shake up Washington. His agenda is limited, restrained by budget problems and the more conservative mood of voters. "Both the president and the Republicans felt obliged to move travaril the center," said Brook.

"Both the president and the Republicans felt obliged to move traward the center," said Brook-ings Institution presidential scholar Thomas Mann. "The public sent a signal and they listened." There was no mandate in the election for big change. Clinton did not seek one. The president and Congress both seem inclined toward more gradual problemsolving. Clinton will move swifty to make a gesture of bipartican-ship toward Republicans disappointed over Rob Dele's overwhalp to ward Republicans disappointed over Rob Dele's overwhip to Manda Republicans is afort, with Defense Secretary William Ferny, Secretary Hazel O'Leary said to be ready to leave. Clinton might find room for a GOP official high in his administration — some chinghe considered but rejected four years ago. Another possibility ask Dole to head a bipartisan commission charged with finding a way to keep Medicare from going bankrupt.

In Congress, a top priority will be campaign finance reform. Both sides claim they want changes but it will be an explosive issue.

Batt accuses nuke foes of tampering

Governor, allies cry foul to U.S. Attorney's office

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Phil Batt and his allies in the nuclear waste debate contacted the U.S. Attorney Tuesday about opponents of his waste deal allegedly impering with voters. Batt said the campaign fighting the initiative to void his unprecedented year-old agreement was told by voters "from all quarters" that they had been contacted by people claiming to represent initiative backers who said Batt now

University cooks up new kind of motor fuel

MOSCOW (AP).— University of Idaho engineers have reached a milestone by running a pickup ruck on a fuel misture including vegetable oil over 100,000 miles. The pickup is operating on a mixture of rapesced oil and diesel. Three other engines are operating on modified french fry oil. Three are testing so-called "biodiesel" fuel made from plant oils or animals fats such as beef tallow. An acre of rapesced plants generates about 100 gallons of biodiesel. HAGERMAN – A Republican businessman and farmer from Hagerman appeared to be the early winner of the Senate race in District 22.

Sen. John Sandy, R-Hagerman, was seeking his first full term in the Idaho Senate, after being appointed in 1995 by Gov. Phil Batt. His campaign focus was his support for businesses and farmers.

With all of Gooding County and 10 of 47 Twin Falls precincts reporting, Sandy captured 2,218 votes, or 63 percent. Sandy has worked on water issues and managed health care regulation.

Farmer and Democrat George Juker of Buhl also courted votes from farmers and businesses. His focus was less governmental regulation of agriculture – he would have voted against requiring farmers to purchase worker's compensation insurance – while granting more taxing lexibility to local governments.

He gained 1,293 votes by press time, or just under 37 percent of the votes.

District 22 covers the western half of Gooding County.

Privatization of ambulance service tops county meeting

By Dixle Thomas Reale

By Dillo Thomas Reale Times-Hewa correspondent

JEROME - Poesible privatization of Jerome County's ambulance service was again the topic of discussion in the commissioners' chambers Monday morning, as former commissioners Larry Ridley, Carl Montgomery and Veronica Lierman met with current commissioners to voice concerns about privatization. Discussion centered on compared to the present level of service; the likelihood of a privatization that the commissioners retaining control if privatization is accomplished, and commissioners to the present level of service; the likelihood of a private company — who takes the contract of profit — expanding the territory and affecting response time; what happens if privatization doesn't work and the future of St. Benedict's Family Medical Center's advisory role.

Commissioner John Toolson said there is no time limit on the decision. Privatization talks have slowed to a near stop.

Commissioner Roy Prescott said that if he had no additional choices — only the proposals already submitted to commissioners - the ambulance would not be privatized. He said he sent outers - the ambulance would not be privatization to the state EMS Service for advice in the privatization study.

Prescott said the current ambulance service is not going to fold up. The county lost one full-time person and three part-time people, and the job vacancies have been advertised for the past few weeks. Clint Wolf, acting director of the Jerome County Ambulance Service, said that the current ambulance service could have three fully-staffed ambulances on the road on a moment's notice. A fourth ambulance could be on the road within 20 minutes.

Wolf requested that commissioners bring in an outside board

Ketchum avoids developer's lawsuit

Council says other options available for proposed subdivision development

KETCHUM - The City ouncil sidestepped a lawsuit -

KETCHUM "— The City Council sidsrepped a lawsuit — at least for now – by developer Carl Curtis Monday evening, over the fate of Curtis Proposed project behind Esmeralda Subdivision.

As Curtis' attorney, Gary Slette, told the council that litigation was the only remaining course of action for his client, council member Dave Hutchinson said there were options yet to explore. Pizzal Americans love it in all shapes, size's and flavors. We eat about 100 acres of the tasty treat each year. A recent Gallup poll confirmed kids ages 3-11 prefer pizza over other foods for lunch or dinner. The most popular top-ining? Pepperoni. The least? Anchovies. While your pizzas bake, entertain family and friends with these tasty tidbits of pizza trivia:

• Can you imagine 2,186,290,149 pounds, of mozzarella cheese? That's what we ate on our pizzas last year.

• Of all the ingredients that go into making pizzas, which do you think we use in the largest amount? According to Pizza Today Magazine (yes, it's a real magazine), it's tomatoes - to the tune of 3,710,750,000 pounds a year.

• The words "pizza" and "pie" mean exactly the same thing in modern Italian, so there's no need to say "pizza pie."

Be creative with brown bag lunches

As every parent knows, making packed lunches is an important and time-consuming part of having school-age children. Lunch provides the suste-nance and nourishment a child needs in the middle of the day.

Though it's easy to fall into a routine of making the same sandwich week after week, it's worth it to put a little extra care and creativity into packing your children's lunch. Your efforts will make them feel special, and they will, most likely remember the surprises found in their lunch boxes years from now.

Here are some ideas for making lunchtime more fun. But don't feel that you need to do something new every day - your children will love an unexpected treat once a week or even once

Creative containers

Creative containers

Whether you use a lunch box or paper bags, it's easy to personalize a lunch container.

Use rubber stamps to decorate the outside of plain paper bags. Good stationery stores and craft stores carry an impressive array of rubber stamps und colorful ink pads. Stamp your child's name on the bag, or a picture of his or her favorite animal.

Bright colors and metallic ink look good on brown bags. Craft stores and catalogs sell flat-bottom paper bags in just about any color you can imagine. Buy an assortment and use a different color every day. As Christmas approaches, alternate between red and green bags; for Valentine's Day, use pink. Also try clear cellophane bags. If you prefer to use a lunch hox instead of paper bags, buy a plain plastic or metal one and customize it. You can do this yourself, or as a project with your children.

child's name on it is less likely to get-lost.

Decoupage – decorating with paper cutouts – is another way to embellish a plastic lunch box.

Start by choosing images. Magazines, wrapping paper and greeting cards are good sources of pictures that might appeal to children.

Cut out the images. Make sure the surface of the lunch box is clean. Use a substance called matte medium (avail; able at art-surply) and craft stores) to apply the pictures.

Brush the medium over the entire back of the picture, transfer it to the lunch box and press down so it adheres without any air bubbles.

Continue adding images and let them all dry for about 30 minutes, then brush the entire surface of the pictures with more matte medium and let dry thoroughly. (This finish isn't water-proof, so it may not hold up well on a rainy day).

Surprises

Add something different to your child's packed lunches. Here are some Add something different to your child's packed lunches. Here are some suggestions: Include a present. Small notebooks, a fancy pen, a pencil toper or a ruler will be exciting to discover in a bunch sack and appropriate to have at school. Write a note or enclose a card. Use festive colored paper or buy a card with your child's favorite character. Cut a comic strip out of the moming paper and tuck it into the bag. Or include a photocopy of a short story or a page from an illustranted children's encyclopedia for your child to read. On a test day, include a multiplication table us spelling list so your child can study during lunch. For a birthag lunch, send your child to school with cupcakes baked in mini mulfin tims. Include a bag of frosting, a plastic knife to spread it with and toppings, such as sprinkles. Ilis or her best friends can decorate their own cakes. If you know your child always ents.

Prune roses carefully; hold the mulch until frost strikes be just a little off the top. Now we prune roses down to about knee-high to keep the wind from rocking them in their moorings all winter.

Once there have been a couple of hard freezes, and Mother Nature has certainly hit us with that already this year, roses can be cut back without regard to let the leaves stay on until they turned a crispy brown so they would snap off neatly. But the halmy days of late October and into mid-November hulled us both into thinking it wasn't time yet. That's when winter came one night and I certainly wasn't going

So this year, we'll plan to siip the leaves off with a sharp pair of pruning shears. A domant spray would be in order to smother any insect egis that might be sticking around in hopes of havoc next year.

Don't mulch yet. Mulch is to keep the ground and roots cold,

Ready next season's garden plot-now-for best harvest

Mestington Post

WaSHINGTON — If you want to grow tomatoes the size of grapefruits or pick tender string beans day after lazy summer day or double your harvest of sweet basil, there's a single step guaranteed to advance these yearnings.

Get your garden ready now.

Experts believe it is better for gardeners to do next season's reeparation now instead of wairing till spring, even if that means breaking with many years of agricultural tradition.

When it comes to growing vegerables in the back yard, what's good for the gardener.

Logistically, preparing your garden beds now makes sense:
You've got the time, you've got the weather with you, and the deadline pressure isn't bearing down.

In the spring, if the weather is good enough to work the soil, it's good enough to work the soil, it's good enough to start planting and sowing. The gardener who has completed bed preparation in the fall can get right down to business come the soil warming days of late winter and early spring.

Horticulturally, soil preparation also makes sense now:
* The organic matter folded into soil at this time of year—shredded leaves, compost, organic fertilizers, for example — will break down into humus over the winter months, courtesy of soilbome microorganisms.
* Freezing and thaving overthe winter helps break down further the exposed clumps of heavy soil, opening the soil and providing important oxygen for root growth.
* Worms hidden in the depths of the soil have many weeks to feast on organic matter, leaving in their wake precious castings vines and cucumbers, lifting the last of the summer potatoes and onions, dismantling tepees and entitless used for pole beans and assembling brittle constalks.

Along with dismantling the garden comes putting away all the tools and equipment that went into tracking and maintaining the plants: poles, posts, cages, labels, garden hoses, garden fabric, woven netting that held fragile pea vines off the ground, wires, string and rag pieces used to the up plant stems. Don't overlook stones and weeds, either, for the cleaner the soil the better — for plants' and gardeier alike.

It is especially important to eradicate weeds in the fall.

Fertilizing is optional in the fall. I prefer to complete the task now because it is one less thing to do in the spring.

But only add organic fertilizer in the fall: It is released gradual-lyy and nearly all the nutrients remain intact in the ground until plants begin using them.

Chemical fertilizers are more immediately available to plants and should be applied at very specific intervals before and during plant growth.

The final step is to cover the garden with mulch. Organic mulches such as shredded bark work best in the fall; they will decompose somewhat over the winter, adding nutrients to the soil.

Common houseplants can effectively clean polluted air

Q: We have an efficient airtight house. We use room air cleaners, but they push up our electric bills. Are there really house plants that can remove cancercausing and other pollutants from the air? Y. D.

A: Running several room air cleaners helps remove particles from the air, but the fans use a lot of electricity (up to 550 per year per air cleaner) and the noise can be annoying.

Typical air cleaners are relatively ineffective at removing most of the carcinogenic chemical-pollutants common in an airtight efficient house. These chemicals also often cause sneezing, itchy eyes and headaches.

The most common unhealthy chemicals -include benzene, formaldehyde and trichlorocethylene (TCE) given off from furniture, carpeting, cleaners, plastics, palins, dry cleaning cloaners, between displants are effective, non-energy using air purifiers. A combination of selected plants is best, Including a few orchids and bromeliads (some are very easy to grow) is effective for nighttime purifying. Their leaf pores open at night.

Hydroponics is an excellent way to grow healthy plants indoors for effective air-purification. With hydroponics, no soil is needed. The plants grow in an inert medium with water, air and special fertilizers. Many companies sell complete single plant and larger hydroponic planter kits.

This is ideal indoors for several reasons. The plants grow much faster and larger because not as much growth goes into root production. With no soil, there are less mold spores given off to Runners' attire designed for function, not fashion statement.

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Roger From Walnut Creek, Calif.," I was so furious I had to respond. In Roger's opinion, "99 percent" of female runners wear sports attire that leaves little to the imagination in the hopes of attracting the attention of men. I am a female runner who lives in Texas where the summers are extremely hot and humid. Running with heavy clothing is not only uncomfortable, it's also dangerous because there is no chance for the skin to breathe. I run anywhere from 4 to 6 miles, and in the summer this is often sheer torture. However, I and other female attheres continue to the sheet of the fitness. o suggest that we run in skimpy attire because we are seeking attention from men is just plain ignorant. There are a number of ways to get attention from men without putting one-self through a grueling workout in suffocating heat. Women, receive actalls and wolf whistles whether they wear shorts or baggy sweats. Most women find this "attention" childish, immature and often downright scary. I feel sure Roger is not a run-

Coldframes produce winter lettuce

POUND RIDGE, N.Y. — For crisp garden salads in the dead of winter, go electric.

A heating cabb installed a few inches underground in a cold farme creates a good hot bed. I grow lettuce and other greens this way long after hard frosts have killed most plants. I also use it to grow greens in early spring before the open ground is workable.

Last winter I was still picking lettuce from my hot bed in January after diggling out the frame from the Blizzard of 1996. And I was planting new seedlings, there in February and March for good harvests in mid-April, weeks before regular harvests in the

You don't have to be exceptionally handy with tools to build a cold frame. All you need is a few boards and a window sash. But you can also buy frames made of aluminum and plastic whose parts fit together snugly. I have a homemade, wooden cold frame which I use for hardening off — acclimading sunless days.

They run in price from $12.50 to $84, depending on length and quality. They have built-in thermostats that shit been off at around 70 degrees.

An efficient way to install the cable in the ground is to thread if first into a section of hardware cloth (a rust-proof metal grid available at any hardware store) to spread heat evenly from end to end and side to side. Then place the cloth on the ground inside the frame and cover it with about three inches of good soil. You then sow, or plent your seed in the frame and other greens.

Prefabricated, plastic cold frames are available from many seed and garden supply houses.—Charley's curries them runging a price from $89 to $120.95 depending on size and sturdiness. I sow seeds indoors under fluorescent lights and transplant the seedlings into the hot frame, starting in late Spetember for the winter crop and in late February for the spring.

Looseleaf lettuces are especially adaptable to hot beds. These so-called "cutting lettuces" form individual leaves rather than heads and each leaf can be cut separately. They also mature a couple of weeks faster than the separately. They also mature a couple of weeks faster than the heading types. Among cultivars that have done well in my hot frame are Oak-Leaf; Salad-Bowl-Black Seeded Simpson and Lollo Rossa, an Italian red variety with densely ruffled, crinkly leaves. The Cook's Garden (P.O. Holiday recipes sure to please all

Thanksgiving, the official start of the holiday season, is fast approaching.

I plan to do the holidays up big this year. Both of my grandchidren are old enough to enjoy the Christmas season – 2 and nearly. They are young enough they don't question the wonder of it all; they just accept it as natural, the way it is supposed to be. There is something magic about childhood, don't you think? I've turned over a new heaf this year. My Christmas shopping is hallway done. I'm taking an oath: I swear to get my Christmas cards addressed and signed by Thanksgiving and in the mail the day after. None of this Christmas to the store and post office for me. I plan to be as gracious as Martha Stewarn, as polite as Miss Manners, the store and post office for me. What's for lunch?

It's not difficult to come up with healthful lunches that children will actually enjoy. Take the opportunity to introduce your children to new foods. One of my friends includes hard-boiled quallegs in packed lunches. They are easy to cook and fun to eat.

Look to other countries and cultures for idea. Fill a pita bread with Middle Eister fillings such as humus (chickepe a paste) or baba ghannash (eggplant spread). Both are available in most supermarkets, and many ookhooks carry the recipes.

Roll up cooked chicken, cheese, lettuce and salsa in a flour torilla for a burrite. Sushi made with vegretables and rice (as apposed to raw fish) is colorful, unusual and elicitious. Use cookie cutters to form sandwiches into a star, heart or animal slappes.

The same old sandwich seems new when it's made on different bread, such as Italian ciabetta or Middle Eastern luwish. Look for mini pita breads and bagels; most supermarkets carry them.

For dessert, give children fruit hey like. Try exolic fruits, such as peptya, mango of liwi. A fruit salad made with pintegripe, assorted melons and oranges will see for several lunches, keep a supply of cookie dough in the freezer so you can make just a few cookies at a time.

Bringing his fishy ideas with him, Morasch came to Coos Bay in July to start a processing plant that produces Seafood Wrap-Ups, fish fillets combined with cheeses, wrapped in tortillas and smothered with sauces. Baseball labor deal likely to die

The Associated Press

NEW YORK – Baseball's labor deal faced near-certain rejection by owners Wednesday, probably wiping out interleague play next season and denying free agency for Alex Fernandez and Moiscs Alou.

At least eight teams were thought to be against the deal completed Oct. 24 by management negotiator Randy Levine and union head Donald Fehr. With a three-quarters majority needed to ratify the agreement, eight teams could block a deal and some lawyers said as many as 12 may vote against the proposed five-year contract.

"The people who do count heads dotell me the deal will almost certainly be rejected, and by a significant number," Adanta Braves president Stan Kasten Said.

Union officials, speaking on the condition they not be identified, speculated whether acting commissioner Bud Selig attempt to rengentiate the deal with Fehr following the vote.

Fehr, in London on business, said he wouldn't comment until after the vote at the owners' meeting in Rosemont, Ill.

"It continues to look like it will be voted down," agent Tom Reich said.
"Obviously, if the deal gets voted down, the first big obstade will be trying to formulate what owners will present as a negotiating team. There' won't be any chance of a resolution for a long time, and thust a jury for the game."

L'enne, hired by Selig in September 1995, was contemplating whether to resign later this week. With no consensus among owners for peace and none for war, it appeared the industry will continue to operate under the agreement that expired in December 1993, injunction.

Boston ace Clemens files for free agency

The Associated Press

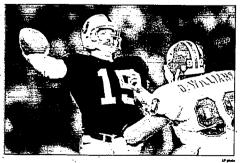

BoSTON – Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens, who has three Cy Young Awards and as many wins in a Boston uniform as Young himself, filed for free agency Tuesday for the first time in his 13-year career.

The 34-year-old pitcher is looking for a four-year contract, while the Red Sox are reportedly offering shorter deals that could grow to four years if Clemens meets performance

Fallen star NBA prospect faces murder charge in beating death of 14-year-old girl

NEW YORK (AP) – Richie Adams' sneaker's once carried him toward a pro basketball career, Now, authorities say, a bloody size 13 12 basketball shoe implicates the fallen star in the brutal killing of a 14-year-old girl.

Adants, who played for coach Jerry Tarkanian at UNLV from 1981.85, was due in court Friday for stalking and slaying a neighbor, authorities said – the final step in his slide/from prospect to suspect:

At 6-foot-of-9, Adams was a defensive-genius – nicknamed "The Animal" for his intensity – whose shot-blocking and rebounding drew comparisons with a young Bill Russell. He was twice the Paclific Coast Athletic Association player of the year. "If he hadn't become his own undoing, this is a guy who could have played in the NBA, had a good career," said New Yorks cout Tom Konchalski.

But Adams, who grew up in the Bronx and went to high school in Harlem, was on a path of self-destruction that derailed his NBA aspirations. Drafted in the fourth round by the Washington–Bullets in 1985, Adams was arrested a day later for stealing a car off the Bronx streets he could never escape. The Bullets never even invited him-to training camp, and the rest of the NBA figured him.

playground stars — like Earl "The Goat" Manigault, who got hooked on heroin, and Karlton Hines, who was shot to death in a drug dispute — in learning it takes more than a good game to make it.

He played professional ball in South America, but was inexorably drawn back to the Bronx.

'I love Richie, but he just never made a right decision.' - Jerry Tarkanian, former UNLV coach

Richie Adams still had some celebrity on the local courts—and a taste for cocaine.

Supporting his habit with a series of thefts, Adams was arrested twice in 1988, for robbing a woman at an automated teller machine and purse-snatching. A 1989 conviction for larceny and armed robbery led to a five-year prison stretch.

"I was a hoodlum," Adams confessed-during a 1991 jailhouse interview. He was parbed in 1994 and returned once again to the Brow.

Friends say there was never any sign Adams was capable of murder. Authorities disagree.

The teen victim, Norma Rodriguez, was savagely beaten; her chest was caved in and she suffered

th of 14-year-old girl neck aid head injuries. Her battered body was discovered Oct. 15 in a housing project hallway one floor below where Adams, 33, was living with his mother.

The family of the slain high school freshman says Adams stalked her and was infuriated when she rejected his advances. Adams was arrested eight days after the killing, pleaded not guilty to murder, and was held without bail.

It was a sneaker that led police to Adams a caboody size 13 1/2 Adidas-shoe found Oach near the crime scene, authorities said.

Friends describe Adams as exuberant off the court, intensely determined on it. But they have trouble equainty the kid from the late '70s with a killer. 'It foesn't sound like Richie at all," said Sidney Green, a former UNLY tearmate and now the head coach at Southampton College. 'It hope they find the right person, but Richie Adams? No way.''

Adams arrest came despite the best efforts of many to save him. In 1988, Tarkanian sent his recently arrested explayer plane tickets to Las Vegas. The UNLY coach hoped to land him a job, get Adams out of the Bruon.

Adams sold the tickets.

"I love Richie," Tarkanian said after the arrest, providing an epitaph for Adams' career. "But he just never made a right decision."

University of Nevada at Las Vegas' Richie Adams was named the MVF of the 1985 basketball tournament in Los Angeles.

Maybe Vanderbilt should print a disclaimer on the back of each ticket for Saturday's game against No. 1 Florida.
WARNING: Please do not boo the Gators if they've put the game away and are still throwing the ball in the fourth quarter. It.
only eggs them on.
Coach Steve Spurrier said Tuesday he was anxious to give backup Doug Johnson more experience than just handing the ball off. And the thought of that happening at Vanderbilt brought a devilish grin to his face.
"You think they'll boo us if we throw a pass in the fourth quarter if we have the lead?" Spurrier said. "If they do, and we've got Doug Johnson in there and he throws a pass, we may just keep throwing every down.
"Send that message to those Commodore fans."
The message can probably be sent to points beyond Nashville.
Spurrier was booed in a 427 victory at Arkansas this year when he left Danny Wuerffel in to set the school record of 462 yards

Bur there's something about Florida's 24-7 win over the Commodores in 1994 that bothers him. Eric Kresser had taken over for Wuerfled with the Gators leading 24-7 late in the Gators leading 24-7 late in the Gators leading 24-7 late in the Gators leading 24-7 hate in the Gators leading 24-7 hate in the "Jame when he threw a-pass and the boos rained down."

"If they boo this year, they're going to boo a bunch more because we may keep chunking at the end 20ne. If they want to help their team, they need to act like normal fans."

Told that Spurrier may have his quarterbacks throw for the end zone if the fans boo, Vanderbilt coach Rod Dowhower just laughed.—"It think that will happen whether they boo or not," he said.

"The last I knew, it was a 60-minute game. I've been on that other end and been criticized. Our job is to stop them."

No-one has been able to do that this year.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) –
Notre Dame coach Low Holtz has heard the rumors about a point-shaving scandal at Boston College, and he's talked to his players about the allegations.
But as far as he's concerned, the rumors are just that. Unless he hears differently, he's got his own problems to worry about as No. 17 Notre Dame (5-2) prepares for Saturday's game at Boston College (4-5).

Cooper said he and his staff and Ohio State administrators go to great lengths to prevent players from getting involved in gambling. Cooper also addressed another topic confronting the sport, the lack of a retirement program for assistant coaches. "We're leaving $50, $70, $100 million on the rable that could be put towards a retirement fund for assistant coaches, AIDS research, minority scholarships or women's athletics," he said.

Auburn coach says he doesn't want Saints' job

Terry Bowden is thought by many as a prime prospect to coach in the pros someday, maybe even next year, with the New, Otleans Saints. But the Auburn coach said Tuesday that he's had no discussions with the Saints and has never wanted to coach pro lootball. "Maybe fine a candidate on somebody's list out there," Bowden said. "But I don't want to be in the NFL I don't want to be one of their choices. I'm not going anywhere."

The Saints are in the market for a coach after Jim Mora resigned Oct. 21. Rich Venturi Still, Bowden was mentioned over the weekend on a some sports talk shows that are based in New Orleans and can be heard in Alabama. Both the Montgomery Advertiser and The Birmingham News reported on the

There has seldom been a "must sun" crisis like the one he faces now with a reeling 54 team facing a 12 punch of the 49ers and then the Green Bay Packers.

who might have spent this autumn closing out his college career.

Ray Lewis never did consider himself a rookie when he arrived at his first NFL training camp. He hasn't played like one, either.

The Ravens made the first-round draft choice their starting middle linebacker this summer, and he hasn't done a thing to make them regret the decision. Lewis, 21, leads the Ravens with 92 tackles, including 67 solos and a sack.

He was named the AFC defensive player of the week after his first NFL game, when he had nine tackles and an end-zone interception against Oakland. He topped that with 13-tackloperformances against Pittsburgh the following Sunday-end-against Indianapolis last month.

In addition, Lewis his served as an inspiration on defense—even though he's just a kid in NFL terms. "He's given us leadership by his performance, and that's what you like to see from a young, guy, "said-Ravens-line—backer coach Maxie Baughan, who played 13 seasons at the position.

backer coach Maxne Baugna, who played 13 seasons at the position.

Lewis left the University of Miami after his junior season and was the 26th player selected in the 1996 draft. When the Ravens released Pepper Johnson during the offseason, they all but handed the position to Lewis, who eagerly accepted.

Lewis quickly proved he was no ordinary rookie, working overtime to learn plays and showing absolutely no fear on the field, despite playing a position that sometimes takes years to master. His secret? Attitude.

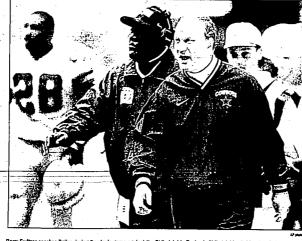

"When you consider yourself and the to make mistakes," Lewis said. "It's an excuse to do this wrong, or do that wrong. DENVER (AP) – John Elway, limping on a strained left ham-string the day after he rallied the Denver Broncos past the Oakland Raiders, probably will miss prac-tice this week, but could play on Sunday against the Chicago Bears.

Sunday against the Chause Bears.
Elway felt a twinge in his ham-string during a scramble in the fourth quarter of Monday night's 22-21 victory.
He came back to throw a 49-yard touchdown pass to Rod Smith for the deciding score with 4.14 left. It was Elway's 40th career fourth-quarter game-sav-ing drive and 33rd game-winning drive.

But on Tuesday, the hamstring—was sore—sore enough for coach Mike Shanahan to suggest his quarterback will be held out of the team's major workouts this week.

"It was a lot more sore today than it was last night," Shanahan said. "I don't think hell practice Wednesday or Thursday, He'll throw, that's all.

Stocks rise sharply on Election Day

NEW YORK — Stocks returned to record levels Tuesday as bond-market interest rates fell to a seven-month low on an Election Day bet that Republicans and Democrats will keep each other and government spending in check.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 39.50 to 6.081.18, the blue-chip barometer's best finish in two weeks and within striking distance of the Oct. 18 record close of 6.094.05 measures also posted big gains, with the Standard & Poor's 500 list and the New York Stock Exchange composite index setting new high posities index setting new high Jones 152. At midday, the Dow was up almost 52-points as investors shrugged off recent jitters that Democrats would yet after the White House and regain control. Of. Congress.

"All of a sudden, people are believing that we are at least going to have a Republican Congress," said Don Hays, director of investment strategy at Wheat First Butcher Singer, in Richmond, Va. "So you're not going to see a lot of government spending, and that relieves some of the pressure on the bond market."

Bonds rallied early Tuesday despite an impending flood of new securities from the scheduled auction of $18.5 billion in three-year Treasury notes, the first phase of this week's quarterly debt refinancing by the federal government.

As bond prices rose, the yield on the 30-year Treasury bond—a key determinant of corporate and consumer borrowing costs—fell to 6.58 percent, down from late Monday's 6.66 percent and the lowest finish since March 26.

The yield on three-year Treasury notes, meanwhile, fell to the lowest level singe-February in Tuesday's auction. The refunding continues with Wednesday's auction of 510 billion in 10-year notes and Thursday's sale of $10 billion in 30-year bonds.

US West agrees to sell Teleport for Continental Cablevision deal

Horseman acknowledges that the U.S. stock market has outperformed its international counterparts for the past two years, but believes that over the long term, investors earn niore if they invest a portion of their assets overseas.

He says his boss used to tell him that investing only in the domestic market was like prospecting for gold only on the eastern side of the Mississippi River. "You miss out on a lot of growth opportunities and investment prospects."

Study: Electronic devices can cause airplane malfunction

Anyone who flies on scheduled airlines has heard the flight attendants or pilots issue the warning: "Please turn off all portable electronic devices including laptop computers, CD players and electronic grams, while the plane is taxiing, taking off, landing or flying below 10,000 kers."

It's been suspected in recent years that such devices can interfere with the sophisticated electronic instruments that are vital for navigation and control of planes. Most passengers readily comply with these rules without being flagged by a flight-atten-

To try to determine scientifical-ly what's going on, a special com-mission of the RTCA (formerly the Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics), a nonprofit industry group, conducted exten-sive research into how interfer-ence could be taking place. The final results of the study haven't been made public yet, but IEEE Spectrum, the profes-sional journal of the Institute for Electrical and Electronics Engineers, reported in September what's in the commission's draft report.

The study determined that even the low levels of electromagnetic emissions from an electronic device can be transmited by the aluminum skin of an airplane and picked up by the instruments on the flight dex. The chances of it happening are very remote, but it nevertheless is a possibility, Spectrum report.

The Spectrum article suggests that among the ways to fix the problem are using better shield-ing on sensitive airplane instru-ments, and requiring that airlines make sure all electronic devices really are turned off when they should be. Now, it's voluntary whether an airline requires the devices be turned off.

Retailers found that Weissman wasn't alone in his concerns, particularly when it came to men.
"The move toward Casual Friday has caused some confusion for men," said Judith Langer of Judith Langer & Associates, a consumer trends and marketing firm in New York. "What I've heard them say is they have had to go out and buy more clothes, or they think they do." Retailers have caught on to this confusion, and part of their campaigns to address Casual Friday is to define it. They are reaching out to corporations, offering free presentations to their employees on appropriate dress for Casual Friday.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

"Man's most valuable trait is a judicious sense of what not to be-lieve."

What should South consider after West leads a small trump against his heart game? Is West a player who might lead a trump whenever in doubt? What are the chances West might have led from the trump king?

Experienced players usually avoid a passive trump lead, choosing to attack instead. And less experienced players are unlikely to lead a trump away from the king. The refore, in most games, South should not finesse after today's trump lead.

Is the main reason to try to drop a singleton king from East?

That's one possibility. More important is to avoid a damaging spade shift by East. If South ducks at trick one, East wins and shifts to spades. South wins and draws another trump, but he is in trouble. Whether he tries for a favorable strip and endplay, or goes down quietly, doesn't matter. The defenders will take one spade, one trump and two clubs for one down.

trump and two clubs for one down.

South's best chance to make his game is to win dumny's trump are immediately. At track two, he leads a low club from dumny, and East must take his puece. This maneuver is South's best chance to develop a club win-her It wins whenever East has the queen and West the acc, are whenever cittler has both. Now the spade shift won't hurt. South has time to drive out East's club acc, and his spade loser disappears on dummy's club king.
