Batt signs on with CSI tax relief plan

Recommendation a good start, say college officials

By Karen Tolkkinen Times-News writer

BOISE - Gov. Phil Batt singled out Jerome and Twin Falls counties Wednesday for the only property tax relief he is willing to support this year.

relief he is willing to support this year. And it's modest.

During his budget address to the nation's most conservative Legislatire, he recommended the counties get a combined half million dollars in property tax relief. An additional $500,000 will go to Kootenai County.

It doesn't amount to a whole lot of change for property owners, however. For example, the owner of a $100,000 house on a $20,000 lot will save just $13 a year. That still leaves $96 on their tax bill for a two-year college.

The $500,000 in state money will go to the College of Southern Idaho, which will then reduce the property tax levy in Jerome and Twin Falls counties.

Colleges would have liked twice that much, but called the recommendation a good start.
"I don't know if it'll go a long way, but anything we can do would help," said. Mike Mason, CST's finance dean. "It-helps alleviate an unfair situation."
The two counties are the only ones that support CSI through property taxes.
'Other Magic Valley counties pay hall their students' fuition through figure revenues they receive from the state.
Kootenai County is the only county to support North Idaho College in Coeur, d'Alene.

relief, and I expect we will follow with additional shifts in the years ahead," Batt said.

Last year Magic Valley lawmakers presented at flurry of relief bills after incarring Jerome County, with serious budger needs of its own, was on the verge of a tax revolt. One, a proposal to shift $495 million in liquor funds to community colleges, passed the House but died in a Senate committee late in the session.

Senate President Pro Tem Jerry Twigs, R-Blackfoot, who sat on the leadership committee that defeated last year's proposal, called this year's idea more "palatable," especially since it does not raise taxes.

He also said CSI should be prepared for more state interference.
"If they're going to accept more revenue, they have to accept more regulation," he said.

Scaled-back school budget draws fire

BOISE - State schools superintendent Anne C. Fox said she will continue to push for a 5 percent increase in the pub-lic schools budget, despite Gov_Bhil. Batt's recommendation Wednesday to cut that in half.

In a tight budget, year where half of state agencies are actually seeing bud-get cuts. Batt recommended just 5705. million for public schools, partly because the growth in the numbers of students has leveled off.

discretionary spending. Last year, schools received a 3.7 percent increase. Batt's recommendation angered some educators.

"Most everyone requests more than we can give them," Batt said. "This has historically been the case." Fox spokeswoman Rhonda Edmiston said the smaller increase could harm schools, ability to pay for basics such as heating and lighting and programs for mentoring and teacher training. However, schools will see this year. However, schools will see this year, and money for specific programs, said Mike Brassey, administrator of the Division of Financial Management.

This list includes a recommendation to increase beginning reachers' salaries by 1.5 percent; $7 million for technology, $750,000 for teaching students with limited English skills, $1 million for treating training for kindergrarten through third grade teachers; and $2.3 million for reading training for kindergrarten through third grade teachers; and $2.3 million for substance abuse education, Despite those appropriations, Batt's recommendations, upsec Twin Falls School District Superintendent Terrell Donicht, who called the increase "actually a decrease."

"Well be able to huy less for the kids that we've got, given that we've growing, and factoring in inflation," Donicht said.
Buying less means across-the-board cuts, including larger classes sud (fewer field trips and textbooks, he said. The student body in the Twin Falls district grew by nearly 2 percent this year.

comment on the new bill were not immediately returned. Rep. Cass Ballenger, R.N.C., another of the bill's sponsors, said it would extend to private workers a benefit that public employees have had for more than a decade. He stressed that it wouldn't eliminate or tinker with the traditional 40-hour work week. Under the plan; private-sector-employees could opt to take 1V hours of comp time for every hour worked beyond 40 hours, instead of cash. Up to 30 days of comprime would be permitted during a 12-month period and it would be illegal for employers to pressure workers to take time instead of money, or to use the comp time when they didn't want to. Sponsors said workers have indicated in surveys, that the option would help them juggle the competing demands of work and family. They also said working women are particularly seeking the choice. Enjoy the ride. NISSAN SAVE! SAVE! Now scientists at the University of Texas South-westerr, whose organophosphate poisoning theory prompted Duke's animal research, report finding similar nerve damage in Gulf ver-

Texas' Dr. Robert Haley first surveyed 249 members of the 24th Reserve Naval Mobile Construction Bottalion.

A fourth of those surveyed said they suffered clusters of symptoms that Haley classified as three distinct Gulf War-related syndromes.

• Thought, memory and sleep difficulties, associated with veterans who wore pet flea collars to oward-off insects and who worked in security jobs, perhaps exposing them to regular pesticide forging of the camps.

• More severe thought problems including confusion, difficulty reasoning and dizziness, in veterans who claimed they had immediate side effects after taking the anti-nerve gas medicine pyridostignine bromide, or PB, and who recall serving in a controversial.—area — where Czechoslovakia detected chemical weapons in the atmosphere.

effects. To see if the complaints were real, neurologists electronically measured nerve impulses and performed other sophisticated brain tests on 23 sick veterans and 20 well veterans. The sick veterans showed significantly more neurological impairment than the well ones, Haley reported.

But here's the sticky point:
Neurologists were unable to diagnose any individual soldier with neurotoxic damage. Only when Haley grouped test results from sick-veterans against the well-veterans did the doctors be consulted agree the sick group showel impairment.

Haley contends the damage is simply too subtle for doctors with little toxicological experience to easily identify in an individual—but that subtle and often delayed symptoms are not unusual in organophosphate poisoning. The Peers studies "raise very serious and substantial questions of neurotoxic effects," said Dr. Philip Landrigan of the Presidential Advisory Committee on Gulf War Veterans' Illnesses. But they don't pin it to the ground."

Haley's study may be biased because it appears the sickest members of that Seabees unit participated, Landrigan warned.

Leading Senate review, Albright challenges lawmakers on money

WASHINGTON (AP) — First up Wednesday in the Senate review of President (limno's seconderm Chine, Madeleine Albright pointedly told Congress the State Department can't achieve foreign policy goals "on the cheap."

About the United Nations, Albright,

A wiser, softer Gingrich will be more effective

The potentially bad news for congressional Democrats is that a chastened and contrite Newt Gingrich in 1997 may be more effective than the brash conqueror of 1995.
Unless the ethics hearings that began this week reveal more damaging information than has been seen so far, the poods on Gingrich are unimpressions.

the goods on Glagrich are unimpressive.

He slipped political ideology into his supposedly non-partisan college course? This is surprising only to people who have not visited a university campus in the past 25 years. Classes on the social sciences and the humanities are awash in the leftwer lettism of the 1960s, a political science class devoid of politics would be exceptional.

al.—And yes, Gingrich admits approving paperwork that misstated his political action committee's involvement in tax-exempt projects. Such a transgression should never be excused – but how many. high-ranking. members. Jof. Congress could emerge unsullied from the level of scrutiny that Gingrich has endured?

the level of scrutiny that Gingrich has endured?
The violation for which the speaker is under fire is No. 74 on his Democratic antagonists' hit parade. The other allegations evaporated under the hot lights of serious investigation. In baseball, a batter who scored one hit in 74 at-bats would soon find another line of work.

Comparisons between Gingrich's troubles and those of the president – who sold presidential access to foreign interests, encouraging political donations in exchange for policy considerations presidential political considerations presidential preserve and the control of the control of interests, encouraging political donations in exchange for policy considerations. — are silly.

Or so it seems, assuming no additional (and more damming) revelationsare in store. The GOP must hope so.
By retaining Gingrich as speaker, the Republicans are betting that no more shoes will drop in the coming weeks.

In any case, the nation must keep in mind that the 'ethics circus is only a sideshow to the main event: the struggle between divergent visions of America's future.

Gingrich is hardly a perfect specimen of noble and charismatic statecraft. Few people would unreservedly endorse every political adventure and petulant outburst of his two years in pöwer. Yet in 1994 and again in 1996, America decreed that it wants Congress run by people who envision, a less grasping and less ambitious federal government.
The congressional Republicans' misa less grasping and less ambitious red-eral government.

The congressional Republicans' mis-sion is a philosophical movement, not a cult of personality. If public humilia-tion blunts Gingrich's bluster and soft-ens his rhetoric, so much the better. The next two years may see less focus on the man, and more on the ideas he shares with a majority of voters.

Applaud King for apology

Give credit to state Sen. Robbi King, R-Glenns Ferry, for her di-rect and apologetic response to a drunken-driving arrest. Where politicians would have offered eva-sions and excuses, King faced the truth honorably. But shame on King for driving drunk. She not only violated the law;

she put herself and other motorists at needless risk. A state legislator should be wiser.

should be wiser.

- Finally, shame on the sore loser,
Mountain Home Democrat Mary Ann Richards, whom King beat in the Senate contest last fall, for a catty comment that she wasn't surprised by King's citation. Tacky, tacky.

house. A buyer offers what they think it is worth, an agreement is struck and the house closes.

Now we get to the reason I am compelled to write this letter. I wish the general public would get off the backs of the Californians. I have been a Realtor for five years and an a million-dollar producer and in that time have only sold one home to a family from California. They are wonderful people and a tribute to the community, and we are lucky to have them here. The rest of my clients and customers have been a mix of locals making home changes in their lives and people moving from around the country.

Mr. Hundley, I was also born and raised in the Twin Falls area and have been fortunate to be able to live and work here because of the good economy. I venture to say that when you finally buy your home and are ready to sell and move up in five to seven years, the market will still be healthy and you will realize a fair gain. Or will you be willing to sell your home for less than it is worth as you are asking someone to do for you? CHAR SINCLAIR

No one is less human: All are worth caring for ow appropriate that in the 24th-anniversary month of Roe vs. Wade, which denied the right to life to an unborn baby, the U.S. Supreme Courr has heard arguments on whether individuals have a constitutional "right to die"

Cour has heard arguments on whether individuals have a constitutional "right to die."

As with abortion, "hard cases" are tro-ted out by the "death-with-dignity" crowd as leverage against whatever resistance to euthanasia remains. On "60 Minutes" last Sunday, and in newspapers, we see pictures of people we are told are "terminally II" and suffering greatly. They are portrayed as innocent victims of ournowed laws and prisoners of medical technology that keeps them alive. There is often a subtle suggestion that they have become "less human." Persuaded by doctors or relatives of the "hopelessness" of their condition, many say they want to kill themselves and think doctors should help them.

Abortion proponents argued in Roe vs. Wade that a change in the law was needed because I2-year-olds were getting pregnant by their drunken stepfathers. Now we wort stop the killing of a child as it emerges from the birth canal. It will be the same with euthanasia and any other category of life deemed "difficult" or "inconvenient" or a "burden." Once it is established that some lives are less valuable and less meaningful than other lives (as happened in Roe), the rest is merely who's next and how quickly we can move forward with the disposal process.

In the past, the assault has been directed at I, Jewish lives and at those whose skin pigmentation was darker than the majority's. Now the threat is directed to ward the "terminally ill." If doctors are allowed to become killing agents at the end of life, as they are at the beginning of life, the next assault will come against the otherwise healthy elderly, the disabled and, depending on the spirit of the age, who knows who else.

Prof. William Brennan of the School of Social Service at the University of St. Louis has written a book, the title of which ought to warn us where we are headed. It's called "Dehumanizing the Vulnerable: When Word Games Take Lives." Brennan says that the lies associated with the "right-to-die" movement were sown in medical and intellectual publications even before Row vs. Wade. Brennan cites an editorial in the September 1970 issue of California Medicine, which advocates lying in the service of killing. Brennan says, "The editorial proposes a linguistic strategy of semantic gymnastics — avoidance of the scientific fact, which everyone really knows, that human life begins at conception and separation of the 'Ideo of abortion from the Ideo of killing." as essential for obtaining widespread acceptance of not only abortion, but also euthansias. Further, the article dubs semantic gymnastics a solitophrenic sort of subterfuge " ((titalics his).

Regarding euthansia, The Hastings

Center Report carried an article in Octo-ber 1983 by ethicist Daniel Callahan, who wrote that "a denial of nutrition may in the long run become the only ef-fective way to make certain that a large number of biologically tenacious patients actually die." Brennan says, "This ex-pression conveys the image of the patient as a relentlessty grasping species that clings as tenaciously to life and life-sup-port technology as would a parasite to its host."

Are there people who are proper to the control of the state of the s nort echnology as would a parasite to its host."

Are there people who are terminally ill and who should be granted their wish to let "nature take its course" or "God take them"? Of course. There are methods, in cluding drugs, that can minimize their pain. But this is a far cry from a doctor "assisting" a patient in dying. And it is a further cry from doctors actually performing the coup de grace.

Former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop has written, "The whole thing about euthanasia comes down to one word: motive. If your motive is to alleviate suffering while a patient is going through the throes of dying, and you are using medication that alleviates suffering, even though it might shorten his life by a few hours, that is not euthanasia. But if you are giving him a drug intended to shorten his life, then your motivation is for euthanasia ..."

The Supreme Court can begin to re-to shorten his life, then your motivation is for euthanasia ..."

The Supreme Court can begin to reverse the culture of death it helped foster 24 years got lift can still read the Constitution. Or the Justices can consider the Ten Commandments on the wall of the Court.

Last week, five days before the 105th Congress convened, a suit was filed seeking to undo one of the acts of which the 104th was nost proud. The suit, by Moynihan and four other Democratic legislators, and one Republican (Sen. Mark Hatfield, whose term just earlierd), seeks to have the line item veto declared unconstitutional. It disserves to succeed.

The statute was crafted with a caro-that-betokened-awareness-that it is constitutionally problematic. The problem is, the suit charges, that a constitutional amendment, not a statute, is required to after the distribution of powers between the legislative and executive branches a curious and executive branches a curious turn for conservations which, recognizing the evolution of the presidency into the engine of grandlose government, has generally cleaved to the doctrine of congressional supremacy. The line item veto will not only worsen the aggrandizement of presidential power, it will not serve its sostensible purpose of controlling spending. Indeed, it may produce a net increase in spending. Besides, a line item veto was not urgent before legislation became elephantine. The only appropriations bill passed by the First Congress in 1789 could be ryped double-spaced on a single sheet of paper. The line item veto does not just delegate dangerous discretion to presidents, it surrenders congressional powers that the Constitution does not make contingent on congressional discretion. The judicial branch should save the legislative branch – the First Branch Article I – from itself.

South Africa not a miracle

South Africa not a miracle
I refer to an item (The Times News, Dec: 30) in which Archbishop Desmond Tutu of South Africa describes the "miracle" of the "new" South Africa as a "victory for all." Alsa, as a papears to me to be unaware of the true facts about that dear land:

the true facts about that dear land:

1. The whole population today lives in a state of anxiety, even terror, because of the escalating and uncontrolled violent crime - high-jackings, murders, armed robberies and rapes. South Africa how has the dubious honor of having the highest murder rate in the world and the highest rape statistics.

2. Professionals and skilled workers are leaving the country in hordes because they and their families no longer feel safe there.

3. The grand pre-election promises are not being delivered e-especially houses and jobs, and the unemployment rate is more than 40 percent (e.g., USA, 5.8 percent).

4 The curreency (Rand) is in than 40 percent (e.g., OSA, 5.0 percent).

4. The currency (Rand) is in free fall, and experts feel a financial melt-down is imminent. Government debt is already R320 hillion.

Swerman Companies are being frightened away by the violence and by the rhetoric of ministers in the government.

6. Education standards have already fallen, and education is fast heading for a crisis (Mr. F.W. deClerk).

fast heoding for a crisis (Mr. F.W. deKlerk).

7. Health matters are already in reisis, and the excellent standards in the hospitals (where I worked for 40 years) are seriously deteriorated; hospital staff goes regulary on strike, and patients are neglected; hospitals are being closed down, vital equipment is not being replaced and, in consequence, the academic excellence of the medical schools is in jeop ardy. Meantime, the humanimunodeficiency virus figures show the world's fastest infection rate with daily deaths from AIDS.

Not a pretty picture – and South Africans across the board realize that the country is not being effectively nor efficiently governed, and they are unhappy about the political and economic situations, despite the "magic of President Mandelar (Human Sciences Research Council Report, 796).

Alas, I see no "miracle" as the Rev. Tutu does; I am deeply distressed and "Cry the Beloved Country" for it is at the mercy of the gangsters who terrorize its peoples.

A used car is going to what new cars used to sell for. Then you have insurance on all of thus, plus payments too.

So now it's a luxury to have a home and a car and still be able to have values of sending kids to school and other good things that go with ownership of these, such as lights to light your home and gas to drive your just and onlys.

What a tossup for the children of tomorrow, our future adults, to look forward to.

British balloonists land safely in Algerian desert after hasty descent

LONDON (AP) — Three British balloonists aborted a round-the-world trip Wednesday after only 19 hours, dropping into the Algerian desert after one man climbed outside the capsule to jettison a 1-ton fuel tank and slow the balloon's descent.

The balloon was flying at 30,000 feet when it began dropping at a rate of 2,000 feet a minute, Richard Branson, the tycoon who financed and piloted the 53 million Global Challenger balloon, told his sup-

Walden is charged with stealing the evidence; misusing public money; and conspiring to hide the missing money by destroying records, burglaring the task force's evidence room and creating a false witness to the burglary. The trial is expected to last at least a week.

The other member of the task force, Juan "John". Nunez, was convicted in October of similar charges.

State investigators learned money was missing while investigating an apparent burglary of the task force's evidence room on Jan. 30, 1995. Charges against Walden and Nunez were filed in May 1996.

KETCHUM – A meeting to negotiate the formation of a Ketchum/Blaine County housing authority will be planned for early next week, and it will be open to the public, if the city of Ketchum follows the recommendation of its housing continussion.

The commission also discussed, in a closed session Tuesday night, a classified land acquisition deal which Housing Coordinator Karl Fulmer said will be made public early next week.

Speaking in favor of leaving housing authority negotiations open to the public, commissioner Hal McNee said, "There's way too much good old boy stuff going on."

According to Idaho law, a municipali-ty can make no formal decisions behind closed doors. Ketchum Mayor Guy Coles said the negotiation meeting must be said the negotiation meeting must be public.

Fulmer said that the county seems willing to meet some of Ketchum's demands. In December the commission expressed concern about the relatively small coomitation, 515,000, which the county had offered to the joint authority.
The negotiations, which formally include only Ketchum and Blaine County, would affect municipalities across the county, fulmer said, adding, "We definitely want their input in the process. We encourage them to attend."
But Hailey Mayor Steve Kearns said he doesn't plant to send a repuseauzine to the bargaining table, adding that he thinks the agreement is up to the day of Kerchum and the county.

"They're making their best efforts to solve a nagging problem here, and I wish them all the best, "Kearns said. Fire destroys apartment in Jackpot

By Sam Feltman nes-News correspondent

JACKPOT, Nev. - A studio apartment was engulfed in flames by the time the alarm call was received at 4:51 a.m. Sunday, according to Jackpot Fire Chief Carl Marr.

Carl Marr.

Albert Adderman, the apartment's occupant, was cooking-french fries in hot-oil and fell askep. No citations were given at that time, but Adderman later was arrested on a drug possession charge, Marr said.

The apartment was destroyed; two adjoining apartments were smoke-damaged. No injuries were reported from the fire, but ambulance assistance was requested by a motel guest at a 530 a.m. for a woman with medical problems. The two incidents within an hour of each other caused a few harrowing moments - reported.

SUN VALLEY — A former member of the U.S. Ski Team died Tuesday morning while skiing on Bald Mountain.

Alfred Vincelette, 61, died from the trauma suffered when he hit a permanent skiing marker sign, said Blaine Couaty Corner Russ Mikel. An autopsy was performed Weednesday, he said.

The death is the third in three years among skiers at Sun Valley. It comes less than a week after a panel of skiers and snowboarders met in Ketchum to discuss safety on the mountain. The accident occurred at 11:11 am. as Vincelette was skiing off

Auto repair shop wins Filer Council approval

FILER - Larry O. Newhall can open his automotive repair shop for business next Wednesday, the Filer City Council decided.

The council approved an ordinance reconing Newhalls property at 306 Stevens from residential to commercial. The planning and zoning commission already has approved a special-use permit for the property, and the ordinance will be effective after publication Wednesday.

Newhall applied for rezoning in order to open a repair shop on the site. Filer residents at the Tuesday council meeting raise concerns about parking and the possible unsightliness of junked cars.

Newball said he plans to park cars awaiting repair out of sight, to the west and south of the shop. The front of the shop will be left open for customer traffic.

Officials prepare for possible spring flooding

BURLEY - To make room for record snowmelt expected this spring, Bureau of Reclamation officials have begun increasing spring, Bureau of Reclamation officials have begun increasing water releases at four holding spots along the Snake River.

More than 1,000 cubic feet per second were released Tuesday from American Falls Dam and Palisades Reservoir, with another 500 cis expected Thursday, Similar increases are also under way affine and Mandoka dams. Milner and Mandoka dams. Milner and Mandoka dams. Milner and Mandoka dams. Pevels at American Falls and Palisades Dam relatively stable until we get a better picture of what we need this spring," said Mark Cropfan, hydraulic engineer for BuRec in Burley. One cfs equals 449 gallons per minute.

If snowpack levels remain above normal this winter, release swill continue through spring to reany July, he said.

"We'll take it month by month and gradually bring the reservoir down so that we have the correct amount of flood control space prior to the early summer runoffs," Cropfans said.

At higher elevations, snow accumulations have already exceeded normal winter averages for the year.

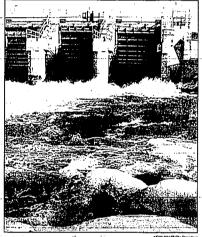

Jan. 1 snow surveys estimate runoffs between January and July to be 139 percent of normal, or 19 percent higher than last year.

"We'll probably wait for the Feb. 1 forecast before we make many more releases," Crophan said. "If the snowpack keeps a more since some before then, then we'll make some changes sooner." Locally, officials are keeping a burley and Oakley as snownelt continues to fill area waterways. The share of the state of the sta cies will continue to monitor water levels.

"Right now, the reservoir is this time in 1984 before the flooding started, which is a good motivator for us to keep track of the potential runoff in Goose Creek drainage," Bingham said.

Before the diversion canals were built, the flood of 1984 threattened to destroy 20,000 acres or more of farmland, ruin the Burley Irrigation District canals and flood more than one-third of the city of Burley. Within three weeks, farmers, local construction companies, the Corps of Engineers and several other organizations came together to ruise the spillway and dig canals to Murtaugh Lake and the Snake River. The 70-foot wide, 24-mile long canal to the Snake River was constructed in three days.

Donations to fire victims near $10,000

BUILL - An outpouring of donations for the family of three children trapped in a fiery Bull home Dec. 18 is pushing $10,000.

"We didn't really anticipate it being that high," said Bull volunteer fireman Dan Voorhees. We're really pleased, we need to see that kind of community support. The more (donations) that come in, the less of a burden the family will have financially."

Voorhees, one of two trustees of the Carnell Family Account at US Bank, recently co-signed a $2,000 check to the children's grandidther, Melvin Carnell, on behalf of donors, for funcas and Carnell, who has returned home from the Burn Center in Salt Lake City, but returns to the facility several times weekly for treatment.

"We're waiting for some of these bills to come in." Voorhees said.
The largest donor was the Twin Falls Fire Fighters'. Association, which contributed $500 Wednesday morning. The lirefighters' union expanded its scope of fire-victim donations several years ago-when it began soliciting regionally for fund-rais-several years ago-when it began soliciting regionally for the factorial president.

Attorney William Holliffield, who defended several clients arrested in task force investigations, said if the task force investigations, said if the task force was using the money, it would be "significant." After arrests, Hollifield said, prosecutors would also file civil cases against the defendant, seeking to confiscate money or property the suspect used in the drug deal.

A legal forfeiture proceeding must go through the courts, and then the money or property can be turned over to the task force, Hollifield said. Otherwise, he said, he would seek to get confis-cated money returned to his clients as part of prosecution agreements. For several clients, Hollifield

JEROME - The Habitat for Humanity will get a break from the city of Jerome for its soon-to-built house - but no discount on water and sewer hookups or on a building permit.

The city will give the group a street cut, 'a cut of the curb to allow house access.

"We now have a Jerome chapter which is no longer affiliated with the Twin Falls chapter of Habitat for Humanity," she said. "We have enough local support to become an independent chapter. The Habitat for Humanity has been in the area for about 2 1/2 years."

Rick Bernsen, a Habitat delegate, said. "Any reduction in fees will speed the inhabiting of the houses and get the people paying property taxes. The people, pay

"The problem with waiving fees," Council woman Charlotte Jacobson said, "is the estimated $3,000 in hookup fees multiplied by six homes makes $18,000 in waived fees that would have to be made up by other residents of the city."

"Habitat for Humanity is a noble project," Councilman Dennis Moore said. "Your efforts are commendable but unfortunately, we can't give you'the waivers of fees because of the way the city ordinance is written. Jerome (code) ... says that, 'connect fees must be paid by every new customer.' If we waive the fee for you we are breaking the law. It is the same for water, sewer, and building inspection fees."

"We could give you a road cut," he said. "We could instruct the public works department to send a backhoe out and do the street cut for you at no cost to you."

Governor promotes budget as fiscally conservative

BOISE (AP) — Here are excerns from the text of Gov. Phil Bart's budget message to the legislating.

This is the third time I have come before you to submit my budget recommendations. You will find here what you might expect to find a fiscally conservative approach to governmenthich, combined with prudent management, will assure idaho's expayers that their hard-earned dollars are well spent. I have great respect for the thousands of idahoans who trust us to use their rares as efficiently as possible, and nothing in this executive hudget breaks that unwritten-contract.

What you have before you today is my proposal for allocating limited resources for Fiscal Year 1998, as well as the supplemental requests I am forwarding toyou for Fiscal Year 1997.

Once again, education takes the lion's share of our state revenues — a full 66 percent of the general fund for FY 1998. The securingly incorrable advance in the cost of criminality limits our ability to fund education even fourther.

the cost of criminality limits our ability to found education even further.

Public safery consumes a substantial portion of this budget — just under 9 percent.

This document also recommends spending SA1 million in general funds to meet essential supplementals general fund budgets and $33.4 million for non-general fund supplementals.

Most of the general fund supplemental of Corrections and the Department of Correction and the Department of Corrections and the Department of the public Corrections which have been supplemental and public some at a price. Prison cells, diversion programs, guard towers, staffing — all of these cost money. The SR1 millions supplemental I recommend here will get us through the remainder of this fiscal year.

I also recommend restoring the Fy 1997 public school supropropriation to its pre-boldback level. To do so, I recommend that you authorize the State Board of so, I recommend that you authorize the State Board of the Priorities set forth

Now to the Fiscal Year 1998 recommendations: Education is by far the highest priority, and the figures show that. Health and Social Services, that. Health and Social Services, our next highest category, totals less than a third of what we spend on education. Our third highest expenditure, and one which has not received much attention, is in the area of statutory diversions—that is, the nearly $175 million in state tax revenues that we commit to local nearly $175 million in state tax revenues that we commit to local governments and $20 million to dedicated funds. This includes the property tax relief effort enacted two years ago, whitch began at $40 million and next year will grow to $50 million. This $175 million is not appropriated, but it needs to be brought to public attention.

our fourth highest cated ry of expenditure in Idaho. But in terms of sheer growth, this is our Ierus of sheer growth, this is our heaviest economic burden. General fund public safety spending has risen more than 72 percent over the past six years — faster than heducation and faster than health and welfare. The fifth, sixth, and seventh categories — general govern-ment, economic development, and natural resources spending ment, economic development, and natural resources spending — pale in comparison to our other priorities.

Add them all together and they equal about one month of what we contribute to the nine-month school year.

school year.

I propose a general fund budget of $1,449,570,000. The bulk of that — a total of $9563 million in general funds — will support Idaho's educational system, including public schools, State Department of Education, colleges and universities, vocational education, the sities, vocational education, the State Library and Idaho Historical Society, and so on.

School support increase

Of that amount, I recommend 5705 million for public school support, which is a full 48.6 per support, which is a full 48.6 per cent of general account spending for Fiscal Year 1988. That amount is a 23 percent increase over last year's appropriation. I recommend continuing a split of tobacco tax funds between substance abuse education and

Part of this can be traced to our brick and mortur needs — funding for a 50-bed workcamp for juveniles at Lewiston, for remodeling the dormitory at North Idaho Correctional Institution, and for constructing a 76-bed community work center here in Boise. Perhaps more important, and the construction of the policy of the construction and assessment Center in Nampa.

I also propose adding 13 new positions in field and community positions in field and community services within the Department of Correction to handle the prov-ing caseload These positions up in callet the provided of the con-cialists to handle sexual offend-ers or drug cases, pre-sentence investigators to help the distric-courts, and support personnel. Group pushes higher weight limits for trucks

BOISE (AP) — A new group has formed to push legislation that will allow the state and counties to increase the minimum weight of trucks on designated highways and roads by Z percent.

Darwin Olberting, chairman of the Shippers Alliance for Efficient Transportation, said agricultural groups and Realtors already have joined the 2-week old organization. Idaho Moore Transport association President Paul Sudmeier said the group is backing off from leading the legislative charge for higher truck the properties of the

He shuns a tie even during formal court sessions and hadn't rown one for about five years—until-Wednesday.

Johnson wore a tie as he and other members of the Supreme Court and a joint session of the Idaho Legislature listened to Gov. Phil Bart's budget message. Lt. Gov. Butch Otter, the Senate's presiding officer, didn't have a tie for the occasion.

"It was a deal," Johnson said afterward.
He said he's boen working for years to "liberate" Otter from the need to wear a necktie in public. Finally, while both were at the YMCA a few blocks from the Statchouse, Johnson asked Otter what it would take to get him to take his fee off.

Otter agreed to take it off, if Johnson would wear one.

"Our experience is composed rather of illusions lost than of wisdom acquired." — Joseph Roux

"With the heart suit wide open-1 couldn't afford a first-round club finesse," alibied South. "L had to guard against the possibility of East holding a singleton club gueen"

East holding a singleton club questionsense, "countered North. Your safety play wins when the club queen is singleton; it loss when East has any one of three small singletons. Those are long odds for a safety play."

South took the first heart and det a low club to dummy's acc. When the queen didn't drop, he cashed his diamonds, and ted his club jack, intending to finesse. It was too late, was too late, was too late, was too hate, was too late, was too hate, was too hate, was too hate, was too hate, was too late, was too hate, was too late, was too hate, was too hate, was too hate. The could win only three club tricks, and his total fell one short, down one. Playing to drop a singleton club only three club tricks, and his total fell one short, down one. Playing to drop a singleton club queen from East was a poor choice. The chances of East holding a singleton deuce, four or five were three times as likely as a singleton nine, either play wins.) The best shot at winning four club tricks is the first-round finesse in clubs. But South should not lead the jack he should lead the latter when the latter would not lead the jack in should not lead the jack in should not lead the jack and West covers. South would wonder if West's queen were singleton. East would then have 95-12 and a possible club trick. West is unlikely to cover the 10 unless his club queen were actually singleton, and South would have no problems picking up the rest of the club suit.

Mercedes launches PGA tour for '97

Here is how the state's sportswriters and broadcasters voted in this week's Associated Press Idaho boys high school basketball poll. First-place votes are in CARLSBAD, Calif. - Mark O'Meara smiles when he says it, but the words come from the heart. "You know, I can play some, too," O'Meara, a two-time winner last year, said when asked about Tiger Woods.

winner last year, said when asked about Tiger Woods.

The intensity that wen the British Open, the Tour Championship and the PGA Tour money title in 1996 flashes in Tom Lehman's gentle eyes when he penders the Tiger factor.

And Phil Mickelson, who has nine victories at age 26 including four last year, laughs and shakes his head when asked if his, great 1996 was unfairly overshadowed by Wood's late-year debut in which he won twice.

The first PGA Tour event of 1997 might be the beginning of the Tiger Woods Era. Then again, the way "OMeara," Lehman and Mickelson were-talking Wednesday at the Mercedes Championships it sounded a lot like they were looking forward to the competition.

emphasis Woods has brough. The game "It's nice to see someone who's out only to win tournaments," Mickelson said. "We went through a period of time when top-10 finishes were important and where you finished on the money list." But this goy thinks only about winning. That's a refreshing attitude."

There is no better place to get a sense of a renewed emphasis on winning than at the Mercedes Championships, which is limited to the 33 players who won tournaments in 1996. All of those winners except Greg Norman – nursing a sore back – are on hand for the tournament that starts Thursday.

Golfer Tiger Woods, left, listens to his cosch, Butch Harmon, as they enter the fallway at La Costa Country Club during a practice round on Yuesday in Carlabad, Calif. Woods entered the PBA Tour's first event of the year, the Mercedes Championship for winners of events in the

Cleveland-Indians-pitcher pleads-Innocent

LAKEWOOD, Olio (AP) - Cleveland Indians pitcher Jose Mesa and a friend pleaded innocent Wednesday to fondling two women they met in a nightcub.

Mesa, accompanied by his wife, Mirla, and several relatives and friends, was arraigned before Lakewood Municipal Court Judge Patrick Carroll on a single count of gross sexual imposition.
The charge carries a possible sentence of 6:18 months.
Mesa didn't address the judge and left court without speaking to reporters. His lawyer, Gerald Messerman, declined comment because of "procedural problems" that he did not describe.

Mesa, 30, of Westlake, and David F. Blanco, 34, of Solon, entered the pleas and requested a preliminary hearing, which was set for Jan. 17. Both remained free on $5,000 bond.
Mesa, who is from the Dominican Republic, was 2-7 with a 3.73 earned run average and 39 saves in 44 chances in 1996.

Capriati wins Sydney International

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) – Jennifer Capriati advanced to the quarterfinals of the Sydney International Wednesday with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Canadian Rene Simpson. Capriati had little trouble with Simpson, No. 149 in the women's rankings. Capriant's opponent in the quarterfinals will be fellow American Amy Frazier, who upset top seed Arantxa Sanchez Vicario on Tuesday.

*"I hope to keep the momentum going and stay on a roll," said Capriati.

*"I hope to keep the momentum going and stay of a ton, according to Capriati.

Top-seeded Goran Ivanisevic shook himself out of mid-match slumber to advance to the quarterfinals in the men's division. Ivanisevic mastered gusting winds on the White City center court for a 6-4, 0-6, 6-4 victory over Spain's Javier Sanchez.

Baseball legend's grandson shot by police

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AF) – The grandson of Hall of Fame catcher Roy Campanella was shot and wounded by police after he allegedly broke into a home.

Roy Masembe Campanella, 25, of Beverly Hills was shot at around 5:15 a.m. on Sunday when police confronted him in the front yard of a home, Lt. Frank Salcido said.

He declined to release details of the shooting because it is under investigation.

a home, Li. Frank Salcido said.

Ho declined to release details of the shooting because it is under investigation.

Campanella was treated for a gunshot wound and a cut hand at Cedar-Sinail Medical Center in Los Angeles and released. He was shooked for investigation of lelony burglary and battery on a jailer-after he allegedly grabbed the jailer by the head, Salcido said. He was released on $30,000 bail.

Campanella's father said Tuesday that his son was unarmed when he was shot and apparently had his same raised because the wound was in his upper arm near the ampit.

"My son is absolutely not a criminal, he is not guilty of burglary and I feel this story is of no news value to the public," said Roy Campanella II, a television and film director. "It's an unfortunate and regrettable incident."

Campanella allegedly entered the home of an elderly couplethrough a window. Officers received a $11 call from a man who said intruder had confronted the couple in a bedroom, police said.

"What his intent was is not exactly clear," Salcido said. "It doesn't appear he intended to hurt aphobyd. It appears that nothing was taken from the house."

Authorities were told that Campanella has been treated for a mental condition, Salcido said.

Campanella's grandfather was a Brooklyn Dodgersi catcher whose career ended when he was paralyzed in a 1958 auto accident. Campanella died in 1993 at age 71.

Hunting the fleet jackrabbit

One of the many nice things about outhern Idaho is the great variety of wildlife. This variety allords in hunter with year-round hunting opportunities. Even when cointrolled seasons are closed, unprotected species provide challenging and satisfying hunting.

In Idaho, unprotected animals include coyote, skunk, weasel, starling, English sparrow, pigeon, marmot, and certain varieties of squirrel. But perhaps the species most associated with the sagebrush deserts of southern Idaho is the jackrabbit.

Though cursed as a pest by farmers and ranchers during times of excessive population, this little desert runner has provided hunters with many enjoyable hours of hunting.

tion, this little desert runner has provided hunters with many enjoyable hours of hunting.

Actually the jack rabbit is not a rabbit at all; but a hare: Though the terms are often used interchangeably, the hare is born with fur, eyes open, and longer ears than the rabbit. The long ears account for the "jack" portion of the name, since they resemble the ears of the jackass.

Their greatest physical attributes are their speed and agility. The jackrabbit is able to lope along at 30 mph. When sufficiently motivated, it can active bursts of up to 45 mph. This makes the jack one of the fastest of all land animals and a challenging target for the hunter. The jackrabbit is can be hunted year round, but hunting them is difficult in summer.

Rabbits are widely dispersed in warmer months because of the availability of food. Furthermore, their grysits-brown fur makes them very difficult to spot in the summer desert environment.

The best hunting opportunities come during the winter months, when rabbits tend to congregate around available food supplies. This may be an ungrazed portion of desert or cultivated land. Rabbits love a standing alfalf sield, haysatck, or areas where cartle are fed.

Foul weather also forces jackrabbits to seek more protection from the cold winds. Like most game, the jack will have its favorite spots.

One draw may have an abundance of rabbits while the next, which seems to bits. Once their winter quarters have been offer the same benefits, will be void of rabbits. Once their winter quarters have been selected, rabbits usually don't stray far. Another advantage to a winter hunt is the presence of snow.
Rabbit activity is not always casy to determine by casually driving through an area during the summer months. But a scouting trip with day-old snow on the ground makes it easy to find areas that rabbits are using.
Another trick to locate healthy numbers of jackrabbits is to look for road kill. If a particular stretch of road accumulates several runover rabbits ever week, then it's likely that a sizable number of rabbits reside in the immediate area.
Jackrabbits can be taken with almost almy weapon—including air rafles. Hunting rabbits with the same equipment used for big game hunting is a grade to enhance your used to the proper of the stray of t

Working our way along the cliff, we finally located a narrow draw that held a few scraggly trees to aid our descent into the enormous canyon. This was followed by a steep climb through boulders on the far side.

The full volume of the "mountain music" hit us as we drew closer. It had taken four hours of steady hiking to arrive at the end of the chase.

John videotaped the scene, and I got as close as I dared with my still camera. John said he normally lets lions go, but since this was a big tom, it was OK to shoot him.

The next step was to pull the dogs off and chain them up. John actually climbed into the tree right under the lion to retrieve his dogs. Thus far, the lion had been relatively inactive, but John's presence generated several

JEROME - Mountain lion hunter
John Turner, of Jerome, said few people are willing to dedicate the time, effort and money needed to maintain and train a pack of hounds.

He prefers Walker: hounds because they are gentle and easy, to train, compared with other breeds. Most weigh about 50 pounds and are predominantly white with black and brown spots.

Turner has raised his dogs from pups and teaches them obedience training at an early age. He also believes they need close contact with people, so his family spends many hours with them.

Older dogs train the younger ones, so it takes about two to three years before a dog evolves into an efficient hunter. Turner's philosophy is give them as many hunts as possible so they can learn by doing.
The annual cost of food, shots, vet bills and equipment is high. With so much invested, Turner doesn't want to lose any of his dogs during a long hunt over rugged terrain. Toward that end, he equips each dog with a radio collar to locate them with radio-tracking equipment.

"We're giving it a California flare so a guy from back East can look at it and feel California it." Half-penny said.

The plan is to cover lakes from San Diego to Lake Shasta and east to Lake Powell. Largemouth bass will be the primary target with an occasional other species highlighted.

Episodes will contain a cartom saire and every third show will have a celebrity guest.

Halfpenny hopes to have a fine-tuned demo tape by mild January and then start shopping for sponsors. After that, he and the sponsors will attempt to sell tor sponsors. After that, ne and the sponsors will attempt to sell the show, either to network or cable television. Wishful thinking has Halfpenny aiming for a spring TV schedule, but fall might be more realistic.

New outdoor shows debut on cable to cash in on those dedicated Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. Those who love outdoors televi-sion shows can look forward to a new year filled with good pro-grams and a lot of them.

new year innes on a grams and a lot of them.

Among major cable networks TNN, ESPN and ESPN2, there are 15 hours a week of fishing, hunting and outdoors programming. Then there are the shows on the Outdoor Life channel, which isn't received by as many homes as the above three networks. Add the programming homes as the above three net-works. Add the programming carried by local cable stations and PBS affiliates and there's enough on the air to make out-doors enthusiasts trade their canes for a new coach. With more Americans spending more of their leisure time outdoors, TV provides them with everything from bass fishing basics to travel destinations. According to ESPN spokesman Dare Nagle, the network's top outdoors shows' perform upwards of a 1.0 rating, which is in the ballpark of an NHL regular-season game. Advertises, from tackle companies to truck manufacturers, try to cash in on those dedicated viewers.

Despite their popularity, odds are that the number of outdoors shows won't increase. Neither INN nor ESFN plans to expand its outdoors programming. In addition, said Mark Sosin's INN's "Mark Sosin's Saltwater Journal," "There's only so many advertisers. If you don't have the money (from sponsors), you can't make it work. I've had major sponsors tell me they get 200 to 300 proposals a year."

The good news is that outdoors shows will get better.

Take "One More Cast," a new series featuring bass pro Shaw Grigsby that debuted Saturday at 9 a.m. ET on TNN.
"I wasn't going to get involved in it unless it was something special," Grigsby said. "I've in it unless it was something spe-cial." Grigsby said. "It watched (fishing shows) forever-some of them get really prepetitious and boring. I wanted some-thing my kids would watch, something that was fast-paced. The typical response: "It's about time."

"Pve heard that complaint for years, that there's nothing here for us," Martens said.

WASHINGTON — Americans were building up debt in November at the fastest pace in four months, providing further evidence that consumer spending rebounded at the end of the year after a summer Iuli.

The Federal Reserve reported Wednesday consumer debt was rising at an annual rate of 7.4 percent in November, with much of the strength coming in the category that includes credit cards.

The report said total debt rose by 57.4 billion, significantly more than the 53.8 billion increase many analysts had been expecting. In addition, the Fed revised upward its estimate for debt growth in October to Sci billion, far above the initial estimate of $2.5 billion far above the initi

Many analyses had been expecting the fourth-quarter gross domestic product to remain around the 2.1 percent growth rate turned in during the summer. But based on recent reports suggesting unexpected strength in such sectors as factory contraction and consumer spending, some have revised their fourth-quarter estimates up to 3 percent or better.

The report on consumer debt for November showed that the 7.4 percent growth rate followed a revised 6.7 percent rate of increase in October and was the highest since a 143 percent rate of increase in July.

By chegary, credit card debt and other revolving debt was rising at an annual rate of 8.5 percent, up from 3.8 percent in October.

The catchall category of consumer debt that includes loans for mobile homes, education, boats and vacations expanded at a rate of 12.3 percent, following an even faster October rate of 14.5 percent. Growth in auto loans slowed to a 1.5 percent rate from 3.1 percent in October.

The Fed said its quarterly survey of interest rate charges showed that the average rate charges showed that the average rate for a 4.5 month auto loan single ship in the said of the control of

Stocks fall; interest rates rise

NEW YORK — Stocks dropped sharply late in the session Wednesday, sliding as oil rose to its highest level since the Persian Gulf War and aggravated inflation fears.

The Down Jones industrial average fell 51.18 to 6.549.48 after spending much of the day slightly below Tuesday's recordhigh close, which was the first ever above 6,600 for the bluechip barometer.

Broader measures turned mostly negative, with bonds at midafternono, wipping our some modest morning gains.

wiping our some modest morning gains.

Declining issues outnumbered advancers by a narrow margin on the New York Stock Exchange, where volume was heavy at $56.57 million shares as of 4 p.m., up from Tuesday's $53.19 million.

posite index fell 1.65 to 395.25.

The Nasdaq composite index fell 7.38 to 13.20.35 after flirting with its third straight record high for much of the session. The American Stock Exchange composite index rose 1.09 to 576.72.

Overseas, Tokyo's Nikkei stock average fell 1.1 percent, Frankfur's DAX index rose 0.7 percent, and London's FT-SE 100 rose 0.2 percent.

There was little direction to the session until bonds started slipping, sending the yield on the 30-year Treasury bond.—a key determinant of corporate and consumer borrowing costs — rising to 6.84 percent, up from late Tuesday's 6.78 percent and the highest finish since late October.

The long-bond yield has soared from 6.54 percent at the start of last week amid a flurry of unexpectedly strong economic data that raised dobuts about whether the economy has slowed enough to keep inflation at bay.

Letters of

THANKS

Taking care of another

I would like to take this opportunity to say thank you to the kind gentleman who stopped and plowed the snow from my driveway on Fourth Avenue West in Wendell on the morning of Dec. 23. It was greatly appreciated, and I wish him a very bappy new year. PAT BENSON Wendell

Times are changing Biblies being allowed to visit their great-grandfather in the intensive care unit? Dogs being allowed to spend time in their loved ones' rooms? Times sure have changed! Thanks so much for changing with them, Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. BARBARA JONES And Solo, Christopher, Taylon, Colleen, Collin and Ryan Twin Falls

Giving is the spirit

On behalf of the children and staff at the Gooding Rehabilitation and Living Center Intermediate Care Facility for the Mentally Retarded, I would like to express our gratitude to Ms. Carol. Dumpke and family.

This family supplied many Christmas presents for our residents who needed clothing and toys.

Carol and her family truly shared the spirit of Christmas in giving to many who are less fortunate. Thank you for your support during this holiday season!

Thank you also to King's of Gooding and the congregation of the Twin Falls Reformed Church for the many toys and clothing items they donated for our children on this unit.

May all of your days be as bright and happy as you have made LORI GREENAWALD
