Braegger had it so good, he bought a brand new 66-foot double-wide manufactured home and some land on the east side of Heyburn. He started leasing out their old Rupert house and eventually even purchased another home, just down the street from where they were living.

These were his "income property," an investment in his family's future.

But recently, his family's future changed.

Around November.

But recently, his family's future changed.

Around Movember, Braegger's wife was diagnosed with ovarian cancer and had to quit both jobs. Only a few months later, Braegger discovered his 26 years at Simplet weren't enough to keep him from joining approximately 250 workers who are slated to lost jobs when the plant moves to a five-day work week later this month.

Now, he's scrambling to find a way for a 48-year-old man to support a family. His wife has gone through chemotherapy treatment and hopes to qualify for a new regimen to help fight the cancer. And three "American Dream Reality" signs hang in front of the Braeggers three homes.

But still, as Braegger sat on a couch Friday moming in the home he soon may have to leave, he managed to smile.

"A lot of people don't know how tough this is because they've never been in that situation," said Job Service's Roger Holm, who supervises the Simplot satellite office. "These people are finding out just how challenging it is."
Job Service personnel estimate the office has been visited by about 70 percent of the remaining 250 or so workers.

MIDDLETOWN, Md. — Eric Rice sorts through his organic apples, selecting for market only those that are large and red enough to appeal to consumers.

to consumers.

It's not easy to grow such apples without pesticides or chemical fertilizers — it means, for instance, substituting natural predators such as wasps to kill unwanted insects—but this crop is Rice's best in seven years.

"We've gotten to the point where we can compete with anybody on price and on quality — and for many years, we couldn't," said Rice, who grows apples, berries, flowers, regetables, grapes and pears on his 75-acre farm in the rolling hills of northwest Maryland. Now, the Department of Agriculture is about to announce the first national standards for organic food products — a system that will guarantee consumers are getting what they pay for. It should also validate the pro-environment efforts of organic farmers like Rice. "It hink a lot of people do equate organic with fresh and healthful, he said. "It would help bring some uniformity in the way products are grown and marketed."

ACROSS THE NATION

Fair, dry conditions prevail across much of nation

Dry weather provailed over much of the country Friday, with a few thunderstorms around Novada and scorching heat in the desert Southwest. Pleasant weather reigned from the Mid-Atlantic to New England. Temperatures were in the lower 80s in the Mid-Atlantic to the upper 70s in the Northeast. More dry and calm weather prevailed in the Great Lakes, with temperatures also ranging in the upper 70s to lower 80s over Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin.

The Food and Drug Administration eased restrictions Friday on how drug makers advertise on TV and radio, saying they can directly tout a prescription drug's benefits if they also provide a quick way for consumers to learn about side effects. For many drugs, a toll-free phone number will do. The new guideliness say TV and radio ads can simply provide a toll-free phone number, Internet address or some other easy way for consumers to read-the fine print on their own. Frint ads don't change — in fact, the new TV campaigns direct consumers to read-companies that carry ads, complete with FDA-approved warning information, for the same drug.

Companies can't overemphasize the benefits in new TV ads, the FDA said. And the ads must warn about any major risk.

Woman gets 2-year sentence for abuse

Woman gets 2-year sentence for abuse, PRESTONSBURG, Ky. — A woman accused of allowing he rusband to shackle and torrure her son for 18 monits was sentenced to two years in prison Friday after her lawyer tried to blame the bey himself.

Bonnie Maynard, 33, entered d plea last month under which she maintained her innocence but acknowledged prosecutors had enough evidence to convict her of complicity to commit unlawful imprisonment.

Wealey Jordan, now 17, was chained to a toilet, starved and repeatedly beaten in a grimy storefront directly across from the Martin County Courthouse and the sheriff's office from 1994 until he escaped in 1995.

Steve Maynard, Wesley's stepfather, is serving a 20year senence after pleading guilty to abusing the boy. The abuse occurred while Steve Maynard was running unsuccessfully for Congress in 1994 and governor in 1995.

Lawyer continues same-sex marriage cause

DENVER — The lawyer reguing the same-sex marriage case in Hawali believes gays and lesbians may be able to obtain civil marriage licenses alongside heterosexual couples sooner than many think.

"Some state is going to go first, most likely Hawaii, in issuing same-sex licenses, and some states will respect and honor it, while others won't, straining waves of litigation," Evan Wolfson said. During the Colorado Bar Association's annual convention this week, Wolfson said the issue would likely carve the United States into a patchwork in which a couple could be arrested after crossing certain state borders.

Although it was ultimately left out of the five-year balanced budget plan signed this week by Clinton, seniors' advocacy groups consider so-called means testing of Medicare very much alive. They continue to organize rallies and town meetings.

One group, the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, has a grassroots campaign underway, including mailings to 5.5 million seniors.

The idea of charging affluent retirees-more for their Medicare benefits has made a remarkable comeback considering a disascomeback considering a disas-trously unpopular experiment less than a decade ago. During his summer's budget debate, it won 70 votes in the Senate before petering out for lack of enthusi-asm in the House.

"It shows that there are a lot of political officientleders who are repeared to take this stand," said supporter Sen. John Chalee, R.
Eurthermare, bigartisan con-supporter Sen. John Chafee, R. R. I.

Furthermore, bipartisan conferestional leaders and Clinton have agreed means testing should be discussed by a commission they'll appoint before the end of this year to make recommendations for long-term Medicare changes.

"Because it had so much momentum and came so close (to being included in the balanced budget agreement) it has to be taken seriously," said Max Richtman, executive vice president of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare.

Independent polls earlier this summer indicated that a majority of Americans of all ages — even

"You have many wealthy people who are getting the same benefits as others. If they could pay something to help, why not?" said Donna Phillips, 52, who works for the county aging services agency in a well-heeled Washington suburb.

But Phillips said many seniors selv stalked to are frightened by the prospect of change. "These are people who really used to believe the government was going to take care of them," she said.

was going to take care of them, she said.

Wilmah McBroom, a 68-year-old retires from Elkton, Md., said she's afraid the definition of "wealthy" will grow over time to take in people who already must budget fixed incomes carefully.

"They'll finally ger down to everybody," McBroom, said.

The nation's largest seniors' advocacy group, the American Association of Retired Persons, also opposed this year's blueprint for means testing. But officials say they do not reject the concept and are willing to help supporters come up with an acceptable model.

President takes on diabetes

WASHINGTON (AP) —
President Clinton put a human face on the balanced budget deal Friday in praising 52 bilion in new federal funding to fight diabetes.

"When I lived in Arkansas I used to sing in the church choir with a man who had to quit singing because of complications from diabetes. I have wind memories of ... the pain on his face," said Clinton in a speech given at Georgetown University Medical Center.

Finding new money to fight

Democrats and Republicans as they worked to forge the balanced budget bill signed into

Maryland state trooper plays recurring role as a 'hitman

COLUMBIA, Md. (AP) — It's got to look like a suicide, the voice on the telephone told George Forsythe.

"I got no problem with that," Forsythe replied.

Push her off a bridge and make it look like she jumped, the voice said.

"Yeah, whatever," Forsythe sid.

All the while, Forsythe's tape recorder rolled, collecting enough evidence to arrest the caller for soliciting his wife's murder.

Forsythe is a Maryland state trooper with a specialty. He's the one authorities send in when they learn someone is looking to hire a hit man.

Forsythe, a talkative, baby-faced lawman who agreed to be interviewed on condition his age and a more detailed physical description of him would not be disclosed, poses as a killer to cheating spouses, spurmed lovers, angry business partners and anyone else who wants to have a problem "eliminated."

"Usually it's husbands or wives who want to kill the other over thild custody or alimony," he said. "Sometimes it's about insurance money."

Forsythe has handled dozens of murder-for-hire cases in eight years, 20 of which resulted in arrests. All of those, he said, anded in convictions or gailty pleas. His two-predicessors in the department were involved in more than 200 cases in a decade. Forsythe ties to win clients' confidence by acting "like a gay who's crazy enough to do just about anything for money."

If someone suggests a murder method that isn't credible, he says so.

One woman in rural Maryland who wanted her husband killed asked Forsythe to stage a drive-by shooting. Too unusual for the quiet area, Forsythe said. He recommended a carjacking in, which the husband would be shot apparently because he wouldn't give up his beloved Cadillac. One jilted lover offered Forsythe S75 to hide a mercury-soaked rag under the front seat of his rival's car. The man thought the fumes would eventually kill the driver.

"I told him that for 575, all I'd do was hit the guy on the head with a baseball bat," Forsythe said.

Then there was the computer program mer who tried to arrange his girlfriend's murder-from-jail, where he was being held-for stalking he. Forsythe was called in after the man's cellmate complained he wouldn't stop talking about killing the woman.

"I think you know what I want," the man told Forsythe from a jail pay phone.

Forsythe coaxed him into saying he wanted the woman "eliminated," and closed another case.

Georgia firm plans no cuts in buying Utah company

ATLAKE CITY (AP)—
Atlanta-based Magellan Health Services has struck a $422 million deal to buy Actna* Human Affair's International, based in Sandy.
—Magellan plany, to operate, the uplan company as a separate unit, keeping its management and employee base of some 350 intact. "We did not acquire them (HAI) because we think we can make money by consolidating operations and eliminating jobs, said Robert Mead of Magellan.

"We fully expect them to grow rapidly in the lature."

Both Magellan, through its Green Spring subsidiary based in Maryland, and Hal provide a wide range of mental health ser-ylevs, and employee-sel-dance, programs, including substance, along they also provide hot line chients dealing with a sadden mental-beath crisis that made mental-beath crisis that made by more than the control of the con-trol of the con-trol of the con-trol of the control of the con-trol of

WORLD IN BRIEF

Kenya recalls ambassador to United States

NAIROBI, Kenya — Kenya has recalled its ambassador to the United States, apparently because he mistakenly presented the wrong document to a U.S. congressional committee.

In a tree statement Friday, the Foreign Mistarys aid Ambassador Benjamin Edgar Kipkori was recalled July 31.

While defending his government before a July 30 House subcommittee hearing on Kenya's election crisis, Kipkori presented a reform document drafted by an opposition legislator, instead of the attorney general's proposals, the independent Daily Nation reported.

WW II mine explodes in Ukraine, killing 3

YYY II MINE explodes in Ukraine, Killing 3
KiEV, Ukraine — Ukrainian children playing with a World War II land mine set off an explosion that killed three of them and wounded eight, an official said Friday.
The father of one of the victims found the mine two years ago and kept it in his parage in the eastern city of Beloversk, said Olexander Lyavo, a spokesman for the Donesk Regional Militia.
On Thursday, the man told his 11-year-old son to throw the mine out. The boy and a group of his friends attempted to dismantle the mine and hit it several times, said Natahia Tsushko, an emergency services spokeswoman.

The blast killed three boys ages 6, 13 and 15, she said. Eight others, ages 6 to 15, including the mine owner's son, were wounded.

5 policemen die In land mine blast in India

5 policemen cile in land mine blast in includ NEW Dellil, India — A police jeep rolled over a land mine in central India, killing five policemen in what may have been a retaliatory attack, a news agency reported Friday. No one claimed responsibility for the explosion Thursday night in the dense forests of Gadchimili district in Maharashurs state, about 600 miles south of New belai. United News of India quoted unidentified officials as saying that they suspected guerrillas of the banned Peoples' War Group. The organization did not immediately respond to the allegation. The attack may have been in response to the recent police-killing of five Peoples' War Group rebels, the news agency said.

Colombian senator shot dead near his office

BOCOTA, Colombia — Assailants shot and killed a close political ally of President Ernesto Samper outside the man's office in northeastern Colombia on Friday.

Sen. Jorge Cristo, a member of the ruling Liberal Party, was shot a half-dozen times after getting out of his car. His bodygnard was also killed.

was also kuled.
Police investigators said they believe leftist guerrillas were responsible for the killing in Cucuta, a city on the Venezuelan horder.

Report: Russians drink themselves to death

REPUTE RUSSIANS AFINK Themselves to death LONDON — Russians appear to be drinking themselves to death at a rate unequaled in modern times, researcher say. A report in The Lancet medical journal said Russians' average life expectancy fell sharply hetween 1990 and 1994 — 6.2 years for men and 3.4 years for women. "The magnitude and steepnies of the fluctuations in mortality rates and life expectancy for Russia are without parallel in the multime rat," the report in Sturrday's issue said.

While mutrition and health care may describe the viciner is that substantial changes in alcohol meaningtim over the period could plausibly explain the main features of the mortality fluctuations," it said.

Diana crusades in Bosnia against tanu finnes SANA, EVO, Boonia-Horzegoria — Leaving behind speculation in Britain about a new romance, Princess Diana arrived in Bosnia Priday in her crusade against land mines.
Tanued and smiling, Diana stepped off of a white Lear jet at the Stratjewa sirport, which until last year was a front line. The princess' three-day visit is being organized by The Land Mines Survivors Nework, a group lounded in 1995 by two American victims of land mines, Ken Rutherford and Jerry White.
"It's incredible." Rutherford said shortly before Diana arrived.
"She's for real, and we are thrilled to have her."
Land mines leftover from Bosnia's 3 12-year war injure up to 70 people a month. Efforts to remove the mines are lagging.

The Boeing 747 was carrying 254 passengers, including 132 Americans, when it crashed into the dense underbrush of a rocky bill on this U.S.-governed Pacific island.

Investigators said 29 people-survived. The plane skidded three-tenths of a mile through the vegetation, slowing in speed and increasing the chances of some passengers surviving —before hitting a ridge on the hill-side and breaking up.

One of the survivors, 11-year-old Rika Matsuda, her small face

Investigators also played down Guam International Airport's lack of a working "glide slope," a navigational device that guides a plane's descent to the runway. Many airports around the world are without the mechanisms, and pilots have other methods of landing. Flight 801's cockpit acknowledged a message from the down, Black said.
NTSB agents were busy mapping the wreckage to put together a three-dimensional computer model of the site.

Arts Commission names out $4/2,333
BOISE — The Idaho Commission on the Arts has handed out a total of $472,333 in grants for 167 projects in $7 towns.

— Gov. Phil Batt saud the grants will provide new opportunities for Idahoans," with creativity and economic rewards for the communities involved.

Some of the money was raised through contributions from those who attended a gala last September. The commission approved a $26,000 contribution into the School Connections program. The Idaho Theater for Youth received $15,500 or school connections, the Idaho Theater for Youth received $15,000 or school connections, the Idaho Shakespear Festival received $12,000 and Ballet Idaho received $1,003 for school performances.

Authorities upgrade estimate of pot's worth

BOISE — The 45,000 marijuana plants uprooted north of Weiser might have sold for up to $90 million on the street, the state Department of Law Enforcement now believes. Their worth initially was calculated at about $20 million. That was before officers noted the high quality of the mature, healthy plants; department spokeswomma Ann Thompson said Thursday.— Officials expect to make more arrests in connection with the pot bust, the largest in Idaho history. Most of the plants have been burned and buried at a landfill.

Computer chip industry unsuitable for Silicon Valley, book contends

Silicon Valley and its counterparts elsewhere in the West guzzle water, making the high-tech computer chip industry unsuitable for a desert, environmentalists contend in a new attack.

The industry also pollutes the underground water supply, the Silicon Valley Toxics Coalition says in a book, "Sacred Waters: Life-Blood of Mother Earth."

Industry representatives counter that the book is inaccurate and ignores envi ronmental strides the companies have made.

Among other things, the book — a sedf-published-research compilation — point has a stretches for 15 miles under Phoenix.

The toxic plume, said to be the largest in the country, was the result of leaking underground storage tanks. The cancercausing agent tricholorethylene, an industrial solvent, is among the pollutants.

pollution was the result of high-tech manufacturing.

"The high-tech electronics industry, as treatment functions, has proven itself to be an unsustainable industry, especially in the desert environment," the book concludes. It also criticizes industry enclaves around Albuquerous, MA, and Austin, Texas, and Santa Clara County.

"Told Smith diseases of the County Carlot Smith diseases."

Calif.

Ted Smith, director of the San Jose Calif. based coalition, said a major problem is how the industry uses and deals with water.

"The demand for water is outstripping supplies, particularly with these huge new facilities," Smith said. "Plus, you have this enormous groundwater contamination under the city. It makes a water shortage in the desert that much worse." The book says Arizona currently consumes roughly half the volume of water flowing down the Colorado River each year and predicts that in four more decades Arizona's demand will exceed the river's supply as new high-tech plants continue opening in the Phoenix area.

of gallons of water per day," Smith said.
"We're saying this industry is incredibly innovative and has the ability, if not the will, to be environmentally sustainable, But the companies need to close the loop' in their own facility."
Smith was referring to the 'concept of recycling water within a factory so that contaminated water is not released to find its way into underground supplies; Regulations require chipmakers to clean their water before releasing it, but environmentalists believe the practice still puts the public at risk.

the town's domestic water supply.
The Glenns Ferry City Council unanimously voted to drop the order in a public meeting with Division of Environmental Quality officials Thursday night.
DEQ staff engineer Monty Marchus said the DEQ is ready to let the local government and its water customers make their own decisions on the issue of public safety, pending an intervin water-treatment agreement with Glenns Ferry, However, the water is still in violation of drinkingwater standards, and the city must continue to make progress in establishing a permanent system that fully complies with Camping at the fairgrounds is a fairly common practice for many Minidoku residents. Greer Copeland said camping with his family is "what it's all about."

"That's the fair," he said. "It's a lot of fun, I really enjoy it."
But by the end of the week not everyone was as cheery. Most parents have shouted, "Meet me at the food booth in one hour," way to many times and are just plain worn out. Parents begin to get irritable by Friday afternoon and many just want to be done.
"We usually have to be here by 8 a.m., and we don't get a break until lunch," Zunino said. "We're tired of the fair."

The bajo is 10-stringed cousin of the guitar that emits a heavier, more resonant sound. The instrument's distinctive voice is central to the Tejano sound, and the best bajo players are lightly prized.

Soon after graduating from high school in the south Texas town of Alice, Moreno Joined a Houston-based conjunto — a Tejano combo – known as Jaime De Anday 1.0s Chamacos. He spent the next 7 J/2 building a reputation as a top bajo hand and reputation as a top bajo hand and backup vocalist before he was fired from the group in 1991 over a salary dispute.

Chlorination levis in water system already have been increased to provide more protection against invasive bacterial.

The spring source for Glenns Ferry water has been listed as "groundwater under the direct influence" of surface water (GWUDI), based on local data collected for a six-month period and submitted to the DEQ July 31. A subsequent DEQ report suggests the GWUDI site is variably affected by the nearby Sanke River during different times of the year and the DEQ could relist the site from year-round influence to seasonal status, Jovering treatment levels considerably during part of the year. But Glenns Ferry will have to prove the source is safe during that part of the year before getting that option, Lee said. Glenns Ferry is conducting feasibility studies on different types of infiltration systems for the original water source, as well as water pumped directly from the Snake River. Sitting Bull probably gave the pipe and pouch to an American doctor a few years before he was killed, Mount said. Coleman received them, from the doctor's son in 1946.

The pipe is 37 inches long. The bowl is carved of red pipestone, and inlaid with brass. The wooden stem is carved with a fish cut in half, a setting sun and a hull's, horns, symbolizing Chief Sitting Bull sold. Four holes drilled in the stem denote the four lives of a person. The pouch is beaded with stick figured denoting Stiting Bull and his family.

Washington fears flood of Idaho welfare dependents

NEW. ORT. Wash. (AP) — Authorities fear impoverished Idaho Panhandle residents will flock across the border for better benefits just when Washington state is seeking to reduce its welfare rulis. Gever than 30 documented after of more of the residence of the seeking to reduce its welfare reform programs, but more could be on the way. That fear is intensified in this ortheastern Washington town because old Town, Idaho, is literally just across the street. "I suppose this could just be the beginning," said Fritzi Reber, manager of the Newport state welfare office.

"I know if I were in that position, I'd sure think about moving," said Kathy Reed, social service director for the St. Vincent de Paul Men's Shelter in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

In an attempt to discourage newcomers, Pend Oreille County commissioners recently agreed to stricter time limits on food stamps for single, able-bodied residents.

"This could be a real problem," said Commissioner Joel Jacobsen. "The schools could get crowded, rent could go up, we could find our whole legal system (becoming) more busy."

The state has even provided $60,000 for a county welfare fraud investigator, the only one in the state assigned exclusively to one county.

No talk, just gold from Ato Boldon

Olympic medalist tones down hype,

-ATHENS, Greece - Ato Boldon finally urned his golden tongue into a gold nedal.

turned his golden tongue into a gold medal.

Boldon, who bragged about winning the 100 meters and setting a world record at the world championships only to finish fifth, lived up to his own hype Friday night by winning the 200.

"This was a gut-chuck race," said Boldon, the 1996 Olympic 100 and 200 bronze medalist. "I said, you've talked, now let's see some running."

Boldon didn't have to run as fast as bet thought. He came down the stretch with a comfortable lead and cruised to the finish line in 20.04 seconds.

Still, Boldon called it the "hardest thing I've ever done in my life. I was very concerned coming in because I wasn't 100 percent." He injured his groin in the 100 final.

"Before the race, I convinced myself is would be my race," he said.

"Betore the race, I convinced myselt this would be my race," he said. It was his race early.

"I took 15 steps with my head down, and then I saw I was catching Frankie (Fredericks)," Boldon said. "Then, when I did catch him, I tried to hold him off, With 115 meters to go, I said, This is it. I put my head down and I started to go. It would have been devastating if I had lost."

Fredericks, the 1992 and 1996 Olympic silver medalist from Namibia, finished ad distant second in 20.23.

"He was hungry," Fredericks said of Boldon. "When you're hungry, you always want to prove something, He ran a great race."

When Boldon crossed the finish line, he was hugged by his teamman Maurice Greene, winner of the 100. Boldon then took a victory lap, tossing his shoes into the stands and jugging the rest of the way in black socks. Boldon is the first major champion from Trinidad and Tobago since Hasely Crawford won the Olympic 100 in 1976.

"It's not fair to say I emulated him until I win the Olympic 100 gold," Boldon said.

Eagle helps Els take Buick lead

The Associated Press

GRAND BLANC, Mich. - Ernie Els, stringing together brilliant streaks with a little luck, opened a four-shot lead over Dan Forsman in the Buick Open with a second-round 63 on Friday. Els had a 13-under-par total of 131. Forsman, whose last victory on the PGA Tour came in the 1992 Buick Open, shot 67 for 135.

for 135. John Morse, Chris Perry, Brad Fabel,

Larny Wadkins, Hal Sutton and Allen Doyle were at 136.

The powerful Els, clearly gearing up for a run at his third major title in nextweek's FGA Champinoship, pitched in twice – once for an eagle – at Warwick Hills Country Club, about 60 miles north of Detroit.

"It's not often you can turn a round like that, you know," Els said.

Spaniard sets course record in seniors event

JERICHO, N.Y. (AP) - Jose Maria Candisarse of Spain, a veregran of the European PCA tour rlaying in only his fifth senior tournament, shot a course-record Seunder-par 64 Friday for the first-round lead in the 51 million Northville Long Island Classic.

Canizares, who turned 50 in Pebruary, entered the tournament with a sponsor's exemption and repaid the favor with an eagle and seven birdies against one bogey on the 6,842-yard Meadow Brook Club course.

The 64 was one better than the mark shared by five players, the last John Paul Cain in 1995.

Hubert Green, winless in his rookie season after 26 years on the PGA Tour, shot a 65. Lee Trevino, the 1994 and 1995 Northville winner who has only two victories since then, shot a

"It's nice to break the record," said Canizares, who finished second to Player in the European Senior Masters last week in England after a sixth place in the British Senior Open the previous evek. "My goal is always to shoot the lowest score possible, and even though this is a record, I'm not really excited. Anything from a 57 to a 59 is what I would get excited about."

Eagle's Andrea Baxter falls in Amateur semis

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) – Robin Burke and Silvia Cavalleri converted solid play around the greens Friday into berths in the championship match of the 97th USGA Women's Amateur Championship at Brae Burn Country Club.
Burke, of Houston, defeated Heather Graff of Kennewick, Wash, 3 and 2 and Cavalleri, of Mian, Italy, defeated Andrea Baxter of Eagle, Idaho 2 and 1. Cavalleri used a strong short Baxter of Eagle, Idaho 2 and 1. Cavaller; used a strong short game to keep the lead after win-ning the seventh hole. "I was very calm and relaxed," Cavalleri, the European amateur champion, said. "I was just trying to make pars and see what hap-rer."

pens."
Cavalleri was 2-up after eight holes and maintained that margin until No. 13, when she pulled her drive into a bush and needed two shots to get free. Baxter bridded to extre lead to 1-up. Cavalleri rolled in a 25-foot bride put on 16 to regain the 2-up lead and won it when Baxter's bride attempt on 17 slid past the hole.

"I wasn't trying to make that put," Cavalleri said of the birdle on 16. "I just wanted to get it close enough to make a par and halve the whole."

Baxter lost the first two holes, but won the next two to keep the match in control. "My putting wasn't good," she said. "I just wasn't confident on the greens. I this some very good shots, but she's a very steady player and didn't give me very many openings."

Hurst's sand play helps her into Friendly's lead

AGAWAM, Mass, (AP) – Pat Hurst spent Friday afternoon hacking out of the sand on the way to a 3-under-par 69 and a one-stroke lead in the LEGA Friendly's Classic.

"Just making a sand sawe helps your confidence a lot," Hurst said after reaching the tournament's midway point at 5-under 139.

Chris' Johnson, co-leader after the first round, shor a par 72 over the Crestriew Country Clab course and was at 140. Defending champion Dottle Pepper (70), Karrie Webb (72), Knsti Albers, 169), Nancy Harvey (68) and Jirst-round co-leader Justen 1911. Hurst, who wen her first LPGA ited of the season last month at East Lansing, Mich, repeatedly dodged trouble after landing in the sand. She admitted that sand play had sometimes bedevited her in the past. "I worked really hard last week, and the confidence is back," she said. On Friday, she saved par from the sand on Nos. 4 and 6. She blasted the ball from a bunker to within a foot on the par-S No. 7 and made birdie. She almost saved par from another bunker on No. 9, but the putt rimmed out.

When she wasn't in the sand, Hurst converted length off the tee and accurate iron play into birdie putts of 4-5 feet on Nos. 1012 of the event hit them during the opening ceremony. For 14 of the 20 players in this weekend's competition at Quaker Ridge Golf Club that moment came Friday when the flags of Britain, Ireland and the United States were raised. It was then they realized that playing in the Walker Cup gives them something in common with Francis Ouimet, Bobby Jones, Jack Nicklaus and Tiger Woods. "This is the pinnacle of amateur golf," U.S. captain Downing Gray said about the biennial team event. "It is an opportunity

Mets turn to Cubs for lasting relief

New York acquires Mel Rojas in 6-player deal

NEW YORK (AP) – Intent on strengthening their bullpen for the stretch run, the New York Mets are writing on Met Rojas Mets are writing on Met Rojas (Ap) – Intent Mets are writing on Rojas, who has struggled most of the season as the Cubs closer, was traded with reliever Turk Wendell and outfielder Brian McRae to New York on Friday for center fielder Lance Johnson and two players to be named.

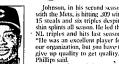

KOJAS III b-platyer (Ical)

The Mets began the day two games behind the Florida Marlins in the NL wild card-race and felt that they needed to make a move to stay in contention. "We feel we are a team that can make a run for the playoffs," Steve Phillips said after his first trade since taking over as general manager of the Mets on Judy 16.

Rojas signed a S13.75 million, three-year contract with Chicago in the offseason. But he has saved-just-12-games and-blownsix opportunities, and is 0-4 with a 4.42 ERA. "It was just not vootking out here." Cubb. manager Jim Riggleman said.

What's wrong with wrong?

Not long ago, I passed an heirloom on to my son: a 1910 vintage, 22-callbre, pump-action riffe. It was my grandfather?, then my fathers, then mine and now Joes. I only fired it a few times, and I'm not sure if it still works. Mostly, the gun is a keep-sake, a rustic symbol binding four genera-tions of Walkers with more sentiment than a hunk of metal and wood ought to inspire.

VALUESPEAK Joseph Walker

In passing the gun to Joe, I talked to him about family and tradition. I also briefed him on gun safety and tried to impress upon him the importance of care with an instrument that could kill. As I did so, however, I'm afraid I violated all the rules for politically-correct parenting in the 1990s. I spoke in terms of absolutes ("New point a gun at someone"). I spouted homilies that defy reality ("Treat every gun as if it is loaded"). And I attempted to instill within Joe my personal values ("As long as we can buy food, there's no need to shoot at living creatures").

I now realize how "incorrect" I was.

there's no need to shoot at living creatures').

Increasing to need to shoot at living creatures').

In or realize how "incorrect" I was. According to conventional wisdom, I had be been talking about safe should be been talking about safe should be been talking about safe should be sho knowledge of what they're doing to themselves. Few people are willing to tell young people "no" these days - unless it's the politically-correct thing to do. For example, it's OK to say "no" to aerosol hair sprays because of potential harm to the oxone layer (and everyone knows how P.C. environmentalism is today). But it's considered "unrealistici" to expect teensers to say "no" to sex, no matter what it does to them physically, emotionally or spiritually. You can say "no" to heroin, but not to beer, the granddaddy of all gateway drugs. And "no" is the correct response to any obscure chemical that causes hangnails in one out of 53 bazillion laboratory rats, but not to cigarettes, a proven killer.

response to any obscure chemical that causes hanganisi none out of 53 bazillion laboratory rats, but not to cigarettes, a proven killer.

What's wrong with "wrong"? We all agree that it's wrong to kill or steal or lister the highways. But beyond that, "wrong" is debatable. And I'm not sure why. While it's true that our values and priorities may differ on some specifics, I have to believe that we can all generally agree that society benefits if teens don't enter adulthood enslaved by drugs, alcohol, sex or the headlong pursuit of pleasure. And don't we all see the advantage of a generation raised to value self-control over self-indulgence, where "do your own thing" is replaced by "do the right thing."

Yeah, I know. "Right" has become relative. People are so afraid of being incorrect that the worst "wrong." is labeling something as "wrong." But sooner or later, we're going to have to take a stand, and as a parent, I prefer to take my stand now while I'm still teaching my children, rather than have to make a stand against the consequences of their experimental actions.

Of course, our children should have the consequences of their experimental actions.

Of course, our children should have choices. The freedom to choose is another one of those things we all value. Eventually, our kids will have to choose for themselves whether or not to embrace our values. But we have to give them a framework from which to assess the world around them, which is why we shouldn't be afraid to teach our view of right and wrong. Such values-oriented reaching won't prevent young people from making bad decisions. But it will provide more security and balance in a world that is frighteningly short of bat qualities.

Even if it is long on political correctness.

But the president and the patriarch said Wednesday they would set up a commission to smooth out sticking points in the bill, which won overwhelming support in Parliament, the ITAR-Tass and Interfax news agencies reported.

The Orthodox Church claims 80 million followers — more than half of Russia's population — and Alexy had warned that believers would protest if Yeltsin does not allow the religion bill to become law.

The bill — which the patriarch says is needed to protect Russians from "destructive pseudorefigious cults and foreign lasse-missionaries" — gives special standing to Alexy's church and pledges "respect" to Islam, Buddhism and Judaism. But order to own property or conduct public worship, and could not do so until they had been in the country for 15 years.

The U.S. Senate threatened to cut off aid to Russia if the bill became law. The Vaticus also strongly opposed it.

Graf's defection raises questions

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)

— Steffi Graf's decision to quit the Roman Catholic Church has put the spotlight on the practice of German states serving as tax collectors for religious denominalectors to two-tions.

Graf, the women's tennis star, denied that church taxes played a role when she left her church last month. But thousands of other Germans have opted out of organized faiths to avoid the assessments.

Since the days of the Weimar Republic, registered church members in Germany have been billed the special tax by state governments to fund churches and their social services. The church xa amounts to 8 or 9 percent of an individual's income tax, and is normally withheld from the monthly paycheck. Only members of minority religions in Germany, such as tions, sich as Jehovahs Witnesses or Scientology, are exempt.

To stop paying the tax, Graf had to file papers declaring that she had formally broken with the Catholic Church A German radio network reported that Graf may have owed the church up to $280,000 in back taxes and quit when religious officials declined to reduce the amount.

Religion in brief But tax records show the former University of Colorado football coach has received $61,833 in compensation plus other benefits over the past two years from Promise Keepers, which stages mass conferences in football stadiums around the country. The documents are open to public view because Promise Keepers is a tax-exempt, nonprofit organization. THE ACES ON BRIDGE,

"I hate it in friends when they come too late to help." - Europides

"We heat the game if you find the spade shift at trick two," of-fered East.

rered nast.
"You're absolutely correct," replied West, "But where were you when I needed you? You had two chances to help me in the defense."

i wo chances to help me in the de-fense."

In a duplicate game, West led his club ace and shifted to a dia-mond when East weakly played his club free. That's the break South needed. Quickly South drew trumps, threw a spade on dum-my's club king, and claimed his game. "You get only a spade and a club," he said.

Experienced players will rec-ounce that East's club five was a Tayy play at Urick one. Having named in clubs to pressure.

ognice that East's club five was a Lazy play at Trick one. Hazying

South, East had a clear sait preference signal available, Since East had promised club support, he could play whatever card he wished in order to signal West, the could play whatever card he wished in order to signal West,
With the lone club king left in dummy. East should have fropped his to under West's ace to ask for a spade shift, 1A high club asks for the higher ranking side suit; a low club asks for the lower) Atter East drops his 10.
West has an easy spade shift, and the game goes one down.
How else might East have helped! His opportunity came and went during the bidding. When North bid three hearts, East might well have bid three spades.
South would imdoubtedly have bidfour hearts, and when West failed have bid five clubs. If doubled, this would have been a cheap sace. If South bid on, he would have suffered a minus score.
