Escapees still at large

Teens remain free; director plans more security changes

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Three teen-agers who escaped from Magic Hot Springs Youth Camp Sunday morning were still on the loose Monday evening, the camp's director said.

The boys escaped through a window and walked to a nearby road, Executive Director Mike Hutchings said. Authorities think they got away and are headed to their homes in northern Idaho, he said.

Escapes happened since the camp since opened in November 1996, and seven have escaped in the past five months.

The escapees have spread the camp to other locations around the state, Hutchings said.

"We can't serve on these kids; they are impossible to discipline," said Jim Waygater, who has criticized the youth camp in letters to The Times-News.

Waygater also criticized the camp's remote location near the Nevada border, which Hutchings said was intended to deter escapees.

"You can't teach kids to integrate into society by sending them to Siberia," Waygater said.

CSI students find new teachers

By Jennifer Sandmann
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho opened Monday from its summer slumber.

The first day of fall semester began, bringing with it new faces to the classroom.

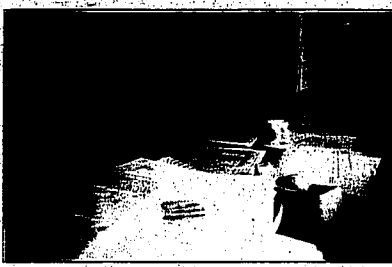

The college has hired 19 new instructors, said Jerry Bell, vice president of instruction. Only seven are filling newly created positions. Nearly all of the rest replace retired faculty members.

"The college is 30 years old. That original faculty was starting to lose to retirement," Bell said.

More retirements, at least seven already, are expected by the end of next school year, he said. CSI has a faculty of about 140.

Whitney Smith, a new English instructor, said she liked the school held special meaning for her. Her mother, retired science technology teacher DeAnne Smith, taught at CSI for more than 20 years.

"I really feel excited to be here teaching," Whitney Smith said. Phone: 336-0261, Page 4/2

Gingrich, Democrats agree not to rush into Clinton inquiry

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congressional Democrats quickly voiced agreement Monday with House Speaker Newt Gingrich's suggestion that it might not be "a smart idea" to rush into any impeachment inquiry against President Clinton.

"Newt and I are on the same page here," said Rep. Barney Frank of Massachusetts, a senior Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee that would review the report that Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr is expected to submit.

Newt Gingrich

"It shows the Republicans are a little bit more realistic while they have a chance to win the presidential election, the country as a whole doesn't," Frank said.

Gingrich, in an interview published Monday in the Washington Post, said of the prospect of hearings: "I'm not at all sure that you can get to that this year, and I'm not at all sure that it's a smart idea to rush to get to that this year."

At an appearance in Idaho Falls, Gingrich refused to answer reporters' questions on the matter. His office later issued a statement saying Congress will investigate any evidence of Clinton misconduct "in a very serious manner."

Impeachment hearings might not occur at all, according to Gingrich, unless Starr submits evidence that Clinton committed crimes beyond any related to former White House intern Monica Lewinsky.

"I don't think the Congress could move forward only on Lewinsky, unless he (Starr) had such a clear case, such an overpowering case," Gingrich told the newspaper.

Gingrich seemed to soften that later Monday in a statement issued by a spokesman.

"The speaker, while withholding any conclusions on the specific allegations against the president, made the obvious statement of fact that a pattern of criminal behavior is worse than a single incident," said the spokesman, Andrew Weinstein.

"Any evidence of presidential illegality however, whether one incident or many, would clearly have to be investigated and addressed by Congress in a very serious manner."

Deadly letters: California cancer patient faces charges of trying to mail cyanide

The Associated Press

MARINA DEL REY — Authorities searched the nation's mail for deadly letters Monday after a cancer patient who may have a grudge against doctors and police was caught stuffing 100 envelopes with cyanide packaged to look like free samples of a nutritional supplement.

Kathryn Schonover, 50, was arrested outside the Marina Del Rey post office Sunday, and sheriff's deputies seized a box containing the letters. They believe she already had sent other people similar-looking envelopes.

"There's a warning against sending cyanide," Postal Service spokesman George C. ... said.

"We're not making any charges," he said.

"The FBI is also investigating."

There have been no known deaths recently from cyanide mailings.

Cyanide powder swallowed in large amounts can kill a person within minutes by causing asphyxiation.

Ms. Schonover was arrested after a passer-by reported seeing her at the post office customer, wearing protective gloves and mask, providing from a customer labeled "Prison" and placed into envelopes.

Missus response to powder uniforms cyanide had been placed in clear plastic mailers and attached to authentic-looking letters for health and diet products.

Administrators revamp fees for TF Fair

Parking, attendance cost will be combined this year

By N.S. Nokkentved
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The good news: Parking would be free. The bad news: It would cost a dollar more per person to get into the Twin Falls County Fair.

Folks have complained that they have to dig in their pockets twice — first to park and then to get into the fair. To make things simpler, the two fees have been combined, Fair Manager John Pitz said.

That translates into higher admission fees that include a charge for parking.

But because the change would increase the entrance fee to a county event, state law requires a public hearing.

Commissioner Dennis Maughan said. County commissioners will hear public comments on the proposed increases at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

General admission would be $4 for adults and $2 for children 6 to 12; children under 5 still get in free. General admission to the rodeos Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings also would go up a dollar to $5 for adults and $3 for children.

Though parking would be free, the Lions Club still will operate the parking lot as it has in the past. But this year, instead of handing fairgoers' money, the club will take a cut of gate receipts.

This year, part of the proposed increase in fair admission — about 10 cents per head, Pitz said — would go to the Lions for operating the lot.

That means if 90,000 people attend the fair, the Lions would get $9,000.

The change is something the club has been talking with fair officials about for two years, said Roy Strolberg, past Lions Club president in charge of fair parking.

"It'll be nice not to worry about handing money," Strolberg said. But the club also has been concerned about losing the source of revenue, he said.

In past years, part of the $2 parking fee went to the fair and part to Lions Club programs. The club uses the money on eye tests and glasses, and it sponsors Little League baseball and football, Johnny Horizon Day and scholarships in the Miss Twin Falls Pageant.

The service club earned about $8,800 from the concession last year, Strolberg said. The year before that, the club carried about $8,400. In years past, the amount has varied from about $6,500 to as high as $12,000, he said.

Times-News staff writer N.S. Nokkentved can be reached at 733-0931, Ext. 237.

Yeltsin on fringes: Russia needed a 'heavyweight' Mailings

MOSCOW (AP) — While Russians wondered whether their government was out of control, President Boris Yeltsin said Monday he had reinstated his old prime minister because the country needed a "heavyweight" at the helm.

Yeltsin also hinted that he expected Viktor Chernomyrdin, back on top as acting prime minister, to be Russia's next president. But a Kremlin spokesman refused to rule out the possibility that Yeltsin himself would run again.

"You ask the president," said the spokesman, Sergei Yastzhubsky, when asked if Yeltsin was bowing out.

Yeltsin dismissed his entire government Sunday, including 36-year-old Prime Minister Sergei Kiriyenko, and called back his old subordinate Chernomyrdin.

Chernomyrdin began his new stint as premier by meeting with parliamentary leaders and asking them to set aside a package of economic austerity measures demanded by international lenders. He said he wanted to study them before asking parliament to approve them.

Russians appear to be growing increasingly tired of the chaos in the Kremlin, where scarcely a month passes without Yeltsin firing a high-ranking official. The entire government has been dismissed twice this year.

"Our country has everything but a brain," grumbled Alexander Yunko, the manager of a Moscow construction company.

"I personally feel ashamed," said Galina Velizhanena, a retiree pushing a baby stroller through a park. "Our leaders can't even put two words together. They can't even speak the language grammatically."

Yeltsin went on national television Monday to explain, slowly and glumly, the decisions he had announced in a terse statement Sunday. While he praised the youthful Kiriyenko, he said the situation in Russia now demanded more experienced hands at the wheel.

"Today we need those whom we call heavyweights," he said.

Ms. Chernomyrdin was looked for investigation of attempted murder. She denied mailing any committal letters, Killam said.

Bin Laden: Avoid harming civilians

WASHINGTON — The organization of militant Saudi Arabian exile Osama bin Laden sent another communique to his followers Monday that appears to soften his earlier inflammatory rhetoric, urging Muslims to avoid striking civilian targets as they intensify the battle to "liberate Muslim countries from the crusaders and the Jews."

In the new message, allegedly sent from bin Laden's camp in Afghanistan and signed by Sheikh Abdullah Abu Al-Farouq, the leader of the political wing of bin Laden's World Islamic Front, Muslim fighters were told: "... make a jihad (holy war) for the cause of God and against enemies of Islam and Muslims, and do not direct your weapons to your brother Muslims."

"And avoid civilians. Direct your attacks to the American army and her allies, the infidels."

The latest communique also warned of further attacks and listed the countries bin Laden's supporters consider the worst "infidel" nations, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Israel, Russia, Serbia and India.

Sample from factory contains chemical

WASHINGTON — Disclosing for the first time the evidence behind last week's American missile attack against a factory in Sudan, U.S. officials said Monday they had collected a nearby soil sample containing an important component of the deadly nerve agent VX.

The chemical, O-ethyl methylphosphonothioic acid, or EMPTA, has no known commercial application and does not occur in nature, an intelligence official said. With EMPTA, "you've done the hard work" of producing VX, he said.

U.S. officials aren't sure whether the substance was produced or stored at the plant, which the Sudanese say was a pharmaceutical factory.

After initially refusing to divulge U.S. evidence about the plant, the intelligence community released information about the soil sample Monday in the face of growing doubts in the Arab world, among people connected with the plant as well as in the media about whether the missiles had struck a legitimate target.

Escapes

Hutchings said he is tiring of the escapes, and the camp is making security changes in response to these escapes.

"We're doing every effort to tighten our security so that these boys try to run," Hutchings wrote in a July 10 letter to The Times-News.

"I hope the public will be patient with us while we try to create an environment that promotes transformation in the lives of these young men in addition to ensuring maximum protection."

As of Monday night, windows at the center were secured so they could be opened only 9 inches, and razor wire might be added to the surrounding fence, Hutchings said.

The inmate escapeses stole civilian clothes to wear instead of their orange uniforms, so the camp mailed the inmates their civilian clothes to the Twin Falls office, he said.

Security at the camp can only go so far, however, because it is

Her five English courses are full.

The biggest course demand this fall has been for general education classes, especially English I. Two more English courses were added last week.

Basic skills classes — pre-college-level courses — in the Academic Development Center also are in high demand.

More than 300 classes had been filled by Monday afternoon, Beck said. That is high, considering in the past he was concerned when 30 to 40 classes closed.

"An official enrollment tally will be available in two weeks; officials say numbers are up somewhat. Enrollment fluctuates only this time this year."

Nursing students at Russ Swainston, of Shoshone, studied in the library Monday. It's his second year at CSI, and he faces four more years of school after CSI.

"I'm actually excited it's the last year here. I just hope it goes fast," he said.

Teri Fattig, circulation manager for the CSI library, said things were slow over the summer, especially between semesters this past month. But the library was hopping Monday.

While summer is a time to regroup, fall brings the enrollment of new students, she said.

U.S. proposes trial for Pan Am downing

No response from Libya on its 2 accused intelligence agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a bid to end a 10-year impasse, the United States and Britain agreed Monday to allow two Libyan intelligence agents to be tried in a Scottish court sitting in the Netherlands.

If Libya agrees, U.N. sanctions against Libya imposed in 1992 would be suspended, administration officials said. The sanctions would be lifted altogether if Libya cooperates completely with the judicial proceeding.

But if Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi rejects the offer, the Clinton administration would seek to tighten existing U.N. sanctions and also add unilateral measures to those the United States already has applied.

The Dec. 21, 1988 bombing of the Pan Am flight over Lockerbie, Scotland, claimed the lives of 253 on board, including 189 Americans. Many victims on the London-to-New York flight were heading home for the religious holidays. Eleven people on the ground also were killed. Previously, the United States and Britain had insisted that the two Libyans be tried in the United States or Scotland but Libya refused, arguing the men could not get a fair trial in either location. Noting that Libya itself has suggested it is willing to deliver the suspects for trial by a Scottish court sitting in the third country, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright said the new plan is a way "to call the Libyan government's bluff."

Britain's Foreign Secretary Robin Cook says Moody in London that his country and the U.S. have agreed to a neutral site to try two Libyans accused of bombing Pan Am flight 103 in 1988.

"We now challenge Libya to turn grumblers into doers," Albright said in a brief statement to reporters, calling the proposal a make-or-buy proposition that is "not subject to negotiation or change." The trial would be conducted by a three-judge panel.

In London, British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook urged Libya to cooperate "quickly and without equivocation," and asked U.K. Secretary-General Kofi Annan to inform Libya of the agreement and to seek arrangements for the transfer of the two accused men.

There was no immediate response from Libya. However, Esam Abdel-Meguid, secretary-general of the Arab League, told The Associated Press: "This is a positive development, but we have to wait to see the substance and contents of their offer."

Census ruling backs GOP stand, opposes Clinton's

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a victory for congressional Republicans, a federal court panel on Monday ruled that the government cannot use statistical sampling to help count Americans in the 2000 census.

The nation's founding fathers said America must have "actual enumeration" of its population, and a modern statistical tool called "sampling" is not an acceptable substitute, a suit filed by the Republican-led House claimed.

In a unanimous ruling, the three judges said sampling violates the laws Congress let up to administer the census. The 71-page opinion puts a stop to census sampling for purposes of political apportionment, which is favored by the Clinton administration, and means the delicate issue of how Americans are counted is likely to head to the Supreme Court this fall.

"The use of statistical sampling to determine the population for purposes of apportioning representatives in Congress among the states violates the Census Act," the judges ruled.

The count, conducted every 10 years, is the basis for drawing the boundary lines for congressional districts and other elected offices and in determining how $180 billion in federal money is distributed.

The Clinton administration and congressional Democrats defended the Census Bureau plan to use statistical sampling to reduce the undercount of hard-to-reach minorities and the poor, often in urban areas.

Republicans, who control Congress, said in their suit that the plan was flawed and violated the Constitution's requirement for an "actual enumeration." They also argued that Democrats would use sampling for political gain.

For vacationing Clintons — lunch apart and amends

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The Clintons lunched separately with friends Monday — he with Vernon Jordan, she at a boat party with female friends — as they continued their vacation of private talk and contemplation.

White House press secretary Mike McCurry said President Clinton and first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton have spent their vacation so far relaxing, reading and talking, but he declined to describe the atmosphere more specifically. "Everyone can easily imagine what it's like," he said.

Presidential counsel and confidant Bruce Lindsey, looking fit, quietly shadowed Clinton as he stopped for coffee at Alley's General Store and shook a few hands outside. Because of back surgery, Lindsey has been able to put off a return appearance to the grand jury investigating Clinton's relationship with Monica Lewinsky.

Amid some calls for the president to amplify his confession, two Clinton advisers said another designated public address on the matter is "not on the table."

TF '49ers celebrate nearly golden reunion

By Marilyn Kramer
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Priding themselves on being unique, "The '49ers," Twin Falls High School Class of 1949, decided to make their 49th year their big class reunion, according to Mildred Hanson Jones.

Growing up during the depression has bonded this class together. They speak with vivid memories of veterans returning home from the war during their high school years.

Reunion chairman, George Jakway of Los Angeles, Calif., and vice chairman Lois Soper Spencer, of Safety Harbor, Fla., spoke highly of their high school teachers.

"They taught us logic and reason and not to accept things at face value," Jakway said.

Spencer added, "They prepared us so that we could compete very well with our college students."

Teachers in attendance were Pat Rydberg Thomas who began teaching math at the school in 1948 and Shirley Pope Waite who taught speech and drama in 1947-48.

Jakway and Spencer noted that their class had a "game" of its own, but it was very unlike today's game. The two of them along with Lloyd Webb, Mary Jean Deagle Lord and five others met to discuss political, religious, and social issues of the day in a "Dead Poet's Society" type of forum, inviting teachers to join them.

The class had 216 graduates. Now deceased, are 35 of the members.

According to class secretary Deon Ford Bowyer, they were able to locate all but seven members of the class.

Celebrants were asked to wear a favorite t-shirt for the social hour held at the Turf Club on Friday where a jukebox cranked out favorite hits from the '40's. Participants returned to the Turf Club for a banquet and pictures on Saturday night and a buffet brunch on Sunday.

Duane Shrank headed the computer work and George Halpin aided in the address search. Serving on the memory book committee were Mildred Hanson Jones, Louise Hall Bell, Deon Ford Bowyer, Ruth Becker Heller, Dorothy Yocum Brandon and Muriel Tilley Deener.

Banquet masters of ceremony were James and Louise Hall Bell and Deon Ford Bowyer.

Souvenir medallions, name tags, and senior picture goodie bags were assembled by Paul Becker Heller and Bowyer. Souvenirs were handled by Lois Spencer and decorations were coordinated by Spencer and Patsie Porter Liebert.

Serving on the committee were Duke Florence Helene, Steammer John Fairbanks, Lloyd Webb, Patsie Porter Liebert, Paul Eatman, Eddie Skinner, Herb Briggs, Teala Bellini Percin and Beth Johansen Burton.

Former Hollister students head home for reunion

By Marilyn Kramer
Times-News correspondent

HOLLISTER — This year marks fifty years since students daily walked the "hallowed halls" of Hollister High School. According to the Hollister Herald, the school was constructed in 1912 and fifty-two students, grades one through nine, started classes the last week of September in two completed rooms on the first floor. The other six classrooms, second floor auditorium, toilets and automatic furnace were completed soon after school began.

On May 23, 1914, the first graduation was chronicled when diplomas were awarded to five sophomores. The first senior graduation was held for the five-member class on May 15, 1922.

According to Dwight Shaw, in the early '60's he and Ralph Schnell developed the idea to have a Hollister High School reunion. Shaw and Betty Leonard Jones coplaneted a reunion "meeting" where nearly every graduating class was represented. Betty Pasoor who has served as secretary since the reunions began said that assisted by the Filer School District, all former graduates were located.

The first reunion was held in 1961. From that year on, the classes gathered every five years until Idaho's Centennial when the theme was "Come Home to Idaho." At that time it was decided to hold a reunion every two years.

Faye Lowe Cameron of Grass Valley, Calif., the only living member of the first graduating class of '26, has attended every past reunion but was unable to attend. She is 92-years-old.

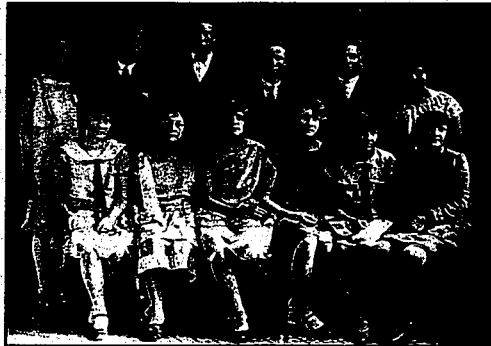

Blancher Skeem Williams Burgess of Butte, the only living member of the class of '26 was unable to attend because she played in the band, was piano accompanist, participated in drama, and was student body president. She went on to Idaho State Academy feeling that she had gotten a good education at Hollister High. She received bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees at Idaho State and taught grades one through 12 at various times over a 30 year period.

Betty Leonard Jones and Fern Suddreth Holmquist, both of Twin Falls, observed their 70th reunion. Living in Rogerson during their high school years, the women would ride a bus between the two towns or move to Hollister during the winter, Jones said.

All members of the class of '27 are deceased. The classes of '30, '35, '45 and '48 were the only other classes not represented.

Noting their 60th year were Clarence Brady of Twin Falls, Arlene Eastman Lammers of Filer, Bessie Frey Clover of Nampa, Leo Knudson of Pocatello, Lois Kunkel Roth of Salt Lake and Ralph Schnell of Rogerson.

The organizers of this year's reunion were project chairman Dwight Shaw, '39, secretary Betty Leonard Jones, '39, and treasurer Donna Schukler Lanting, '47. In charge of hospitality were Paul Kunkel, '41, Lenora Hudelson Bickford, '44, Helen Corak Huddleston, '40, and Corinne Lanting, '44. Donna Lanting was in charge of table decorations and Alice Corak Knight of Burley, '42, was in charge of memorabilia. Harold Marler, '47, gave the invocation and Shaw was the master of ceremonies. Corinne Lanting gave the memorial tribute.

Local youth participate in national Order of the Arrow conference

By Paul Hamlett
Special to The Times-News

Yelling, cheering, dancing, and whole lot of fun is what happens when over 7000 scouts take over a university campus.

Every two years, a national conference is held by the Order of the Arrow (OA) and this year Twin Falls and Jerome had 9 people from Mt-Shu Lodge #833 participate.

Lodge chief Ben Hamlett, lodge advisor Jason Langford, vice chief Jason Langford, vice chief Adam Langford, vice chief Dan Haney, assistant advisor Paul Davidson, assistant advisor Rex Thomason, lodge secretary Paul Hamlett, and Paul Davidson Jr. hoped to show the rest of the country that Idaho really is one of the best states.

This year's conference was held Aug. 2-6 at Iowa State University, in Ames, Iowa.

The five-day event was packed with activities, including a Native American dance competition, leadership or beadwork classes and OA, Jeopardy.

"It's a great way to develop communication and leadership skills for all ages," said Lynn Langford.

Order of the Arrow members enjoy a parade at the biennial conference held in Ames, Iowa. Nine Magic Valley Scouts were among the approximately 7200 participants.

The group's purpose is to recognize those Scouts living by the organization's oath and law. Their jobs are to crystallize habits of brightness and to live lives of cheerful service by serving the community.

Area members would like to thank the Magic Valley for the support it has given throughout the past 50 years.

Dems may want to run away from Clinton, but they can't

The dilemma that bedevils Idaho Democrats during this summer of our discontent may have been best articulated by U.S. Senate candidate Bill Mauk during a recent chat with The Times-News editorial board.

Asked about the credibility problems of the nation's first Democrat, Mauk replied that he didn't care to talk about Bill Clinton. The president's behavior, Mauk insisted, was irrelevant to the Idaho Senate race.

Sure, Bill. Talk about wishful thinking.

Monicagate hangs over the nation's political life like a sour stench, and no place more than in the Intermountain West, the Deep South and the Midwest.

In these precincts, there are dozens of Democratic House and Senate candidates who hear, almost daily, what their constituents think of their president's tortured ethos.

Most folks in the nation's heartland just can't get past the fact that the commander in chief is a bald-faced liar. Maybe that's because as a political philosophy, moral relativism is a tough sell in places like Idaho. We're betting that Democrats will bear the brunt of that this fall.

Indeed, it could be argued that to vote for a Democrat for Congress this year is to endorse the notion that there's a difference between the public interest and private morality.

Bill Clinton's political career is a monument to skirting such ethical minefields. If that wasn't apparent to most Americans until now, it's been obvious to Idahoans for six years.

George Bush got a higher percentage of the popular vote in Idaho six years ago than in any other state but Utah, and for three successive elections Idaho Democrats have paid dearly for their links to Clinton.

Consider: Before the 1992 election, Idaho Democrats held the governor's office, both of the state's seats in the U.S. House of Representatives, half the seats in the state Senate and control of the state Land Board.

Going into this fall's election, there's only one Democrat — state Controller J.D. Williams — in statewide elected office. No Idaho Democrat is in Congress, and only 16 of our 105 state legislators are Democrats.

It's not going to get any better for them this November. For their part, Democrats are doing about the only thing they can do this year: staying low.

Yet in the long run, their rehabilitation depends on demonstrating to their fellow Idahoans that local Democrats not only share Idahoans' values of decency, honesty and accountability, but that they're willing to declare independence from a national Democratic Party culture that tolerates the opposite.

Idaho Democrats, who already have paid dearly for their links to Bill Clinton, may bear the brunt of Monicagate this fall.

In terrorism fight, U.S. has plenty of suspects at home

I didn't take long for the recent bombings in Kenya and Tanzania and the American cruise missile response on terrorist camps in Afghanistan and Sudan for some people to blame everything on Israel. That's what a delegate to an Arab conference in Cairo told one American radio network.

As if that critique were not laughable enough, the newspaper of the Palestinian Authority, Al Hayat Al-Jazeera, blamed the "Mondiac-gate scandal" on "the power of the Zionist lobby in the United States." She's Jewish, you see, as is the "American media, which is controlled and managed by the Jews."

There is a mind-boggling comparison between the sexual exploits of John Kennedy and Bill Clinton, the newspaper says. "President Clinton is an angel compared to President Kennedy and his brothers ... but Marilyn Monroe did not approach an independent prosecutor to investigate the president because she was not a Jew of Polish background and was not connected to AIPAC (American Israel Public Affairs Committee) and Jewish pressure groups."

A war against this kind of ignorance, religious bigotry and historical revisionism cannot be won. But the war President Clinton says he wants to fight against terrorism, while not completely winnable, can be aggressively prosecuted to the benefit of America and American citizens, if it is properly waged.

First, it would be helpful to begin cultivating the good will of moderate Islam, which must be as outraged by the unfair targeting of an entire faith as Christians are disgusted by those who bomb buildings in Northern Ireland and abortion clinics in the United States "in the name of God."

Second, the United States must take a proactive approach to international terrorism, using surrogates when possible, but striking terrorist training centers if governments that allow such activity on their territory will not act.

Third, the United States should do something about the terrorists among us. Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said recently on "Meet the Press" there are an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 "known terrorists" in the United States.

The magazine says the Islamic Association for Palestine (IAP), with offices in Richardson, Texas, and Chicago, is the principal American front for Hamas, which has as its primary goal the destruction of Israel and the creation in its place of an Islamic Palestinian state. The United Association for Studies and Research (UASR) has offices in Springfield, Va., and Chicago. It is the strategic arm of Hamas in the United States. The founding president of UASR's board was Musa Abu Marzook, the chief of Hamas' political affairs bureau who was arrested in the United States in 1995 and deported to Jordan in 1997.

There are similar stories coming from other cities where Hamas and related radical organizations maintain offices. Question: Shouldn't we be deporting such people, or not letting them into the country in the first place? We do grant injury to our precious civil liberties when we admit and tolerate dangerous fanatics who would undermine them, not by free speech but by force. That is sedition. A real war against terrorism needs to start on the home front.

Painters squash flowers

The boys the painter (I'll not mention his name) hired to paint the house I live in sure mowed up the flowers. They broke the branches off two rose bushes, knocked over a bunch of lilies (including my Madonna lily), walked on the violets and left two vines on the ground. I'm really upset.

A few questions for Glenns Ferry

Open letter to the Glenns Ferry mayors and City Council.

Many of our local taxpayers and citizens have numerous questions concerning events in this city and are not getting any answers. They are as follows:

- 1) What is your policy concerning hiring — do you review and check applicants or is it the good old buddy system and politics?
- 2) How do city employees' wages compare with those in the private sector?
- 3) What is the policy on drug use and do you relieve after dismissal?
- 4) Is the rule on employees living out of the city being enforced, and how many are still living out of the city?
- 5) On city crew repair jobs, etc., are there monitoring and reports via work orders, time slips and purchase orders?
- 6) Are new employees being monitored and reviewed during their probationary periods?
- 7) What type of benefits are paid and do they include family members of employees?
- 8) What happened to the moratorium on new connections to water and sewer?

The answers to these questions are of great importance to those of us who make Glenns Ferry our home. Is it possible to get a monthly update report from you via our local newspaper? We need progress reports on our water situation and employees status.

Mauk speaks on wrong issues

I have been listening to Democratic candidate for Senate Bill Mauk's ads on the radio, and a curious thing is apparent to me. He claims the reason he is running for the United States Senate seat is because he wants to improve education. He wants to lower classroom size, hire better teachers and lower property taxes. These are all very noble causes, but he is running for the wrong office as all of these items are controlled by state and local government and not by federal officials.

Unless Mr. Mauk wants the federal government to completely take over our local schools and the way in which we set our property taxes, he should be running for state or county offices or even School Board. It appears to me that Bill Mauk is not aware of what the duties of a federal officeholder are. He should read the Constitution.

Time to impeach the president

Mr. Bill Clinton is presently the commander and chief of all military services.

Should he be allowed to remain in that ultra-position? Should the face a military court, as well as a civilian court?

Other military personnel have lost their careers, benefits, etc. because of their extramarital (sexual) affairs.

Monica Lewinsky deserves a medal for standing up to the president and exposing him for what he is — a liar!

I believe the taxpayers have invested (wasted) enough tax dollars on him. He can start paying the $40-plus million back to the taxpayers any time — like now!

We as a nation deserve better. We put our trust in him and he has betrayed us!

Can we now trust him to be truthful and properly run the affairs of our nation? I don't think so!

It's time for him to resign, and it's time to impeach him!

What's so special about Bill Clinton? Apparently nothing!

South Hills impress New Yorkers

My husband and I recently spent several days around Big Cottonwood Creek, a ranch south of Burley purchased and managed by Idaho Fish and Game. We've traveled west before, but have never had (or taken) the time to spend several days in any one county, becoming familiar with rocks, the bends in the creek, a family of northern harriers and the views from the top of canyon walls. I spent hours walking, watching, listening and letting the wind blow past my ears. My husband enjoyed fishing the creek and we all enjoyed birds. I'm an amateur birder and ticked 10 "birds" while there.

What an absolutely beautiful spot Cottonwood Creek! We live in the Finger Lakes region of New York, but there is precious little public access to the lovely lakes that are pieced in glossy travel brochures. Much of what is accessible is often crowded. Whatever experienced at Cottonwood Creek was a time to be alone with the world around us, on its terms — hot, dry, thunderstorms menacing in the distance.

We are indebted to Idaho Fish and Game for providing us a perspective this piece of Idaho's wilderness. We would suggest you print it.

Hurricane closes in on East Coast

The Associated Press

Hurricane Bonnie kicked up punning around and deadly rip tides along the East Coast on Monday as it churned out in the Atlantic with 115 mph wind, its course so erratic that forecasters couldn't say when or if it might hit land in 24 hours.

"It's driving me bananas," said Jerry Jurrell, director of the National Hurricane Center near Miami. "I've lost almost all my hair just this morning because of that."

With the storm still far out at sea, many vacationers and surfers stayed put to enjoy the beach while they could, but experienced coastal residents stocked up on emergency supplies or got ready to head for higher ground.

Emergency management workers at Wilmington, N.C., an area battered by Hurricane Fran in September 1996, tested their generators and stocked up on supplies, including bottles of Maalox and Tums.

Ronna and David Lewis had already rented a trailer in case they need to move belongings from their home 200 yards from the shore at North Topsail Beach, N.C. The Lewises stayed on North Topsail Beach, on one of North Carolina's low-lying barrier islands, when Fran struck.

Deadly floods tear through south Texas

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — The remnants of Tropical Storm Charley caused flooding that washed away blocks of homes and killed 16 people in drought-stricken South Texas and Mexico. As many as 30 others were reported missing Monday in Del Rio.

Entire neighborhoods of the Texas border town of 34,000 were submerged as the floodwaters rolled across the parched land. Del Rio got nearly 18 inches of rain in 24 hours.

Del Rio police Officer John Wilson said 20 to 30 people were unaccounted for.

"We're still recovering bodies and all the low crossings, the creeks, have flooded," Wilson said.

Gov. George W. Bush ordered 150 National Guardsmen, 25 trucks and nine Blackhawk helicopters to join the rescue efforts. Patty Manchia, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Border Patrol, reported two flooding deaths in Del Rio on Monday.

Elsewhere in Texas, at least four people, including two children, died Sunday when a pickup truck was swept into a creek in Real County about 100 miles northwest of San Antonio. The driver, who had tried to cross through 4-foot of water, was missing.

Along the Erio River, a 65-year-old man died Sunday of a heart attack while being evacuated because of rising water.

Publishers sweepstakes settles suit

NEW YORK (AP) — American Family Publishers agreed Monday to pay $60 each to 12,000 New Yorkers who bought magazine subscriptions, believing it would improve their odds of winning the company's sweepstakes. Under the $750,000 agreement, the Jersey City, N.J.-based company also promised to eliminate potentially misleading terms and conditions from its sweepstakes, including its requirement that winners be 18 years old. The agreement also promises to pay $20 million to the

AROUND THE VALLEY

Jerome driver eludes injury in rollover

JEROME - The driver of a 1973 Ford pickup truck was not injured Monday morning when the pickup rolled off Highway 95, the Idaho State Police said.

Shirley Taylor of Jerome drove into the median north of the Jerome bridge around 8:30 a.m. and rolled the SP said.

Taylor told authorities he was blinded by the sun. He was cited for driving on-way in his lane, the SP said.

Accessory to murder trial will await other trial

TWIN FALLS - The trial of two accessory-to-murder suspects was postponed Monday until after the trial of three murder suspects in the slaying of two Twin Falls teenagers.

Idolina Delacruz and Susan McLaws are charged with accessory to murder in connection with the March 1996 slaying of Walter Jesse Ellison and Julia Sumaya.

Their trial was scheduled for Sept. 22, three weeks before the trial of Eric Farmer, Ezequiel "Junior" Delacruz and Clarence Delacruz, who face murder charges in connection with the slaying.

The unscheduled murder trial of Christian Liebel is scheduled for Oct. 6, one week before that trial.

The Twin Falls County prosecutor's office moved to postpone the trial of Idolina Delacruz and McLaws so it could prosecute the murder and accessory to murder charges.

No trial date for Idolina Delacruz and McLaws has been set.

Defense seeks evidence in Thomas murder case

JEROME - District Judge Barry Wood Monday gave prosecutors two weeks to hand over some evidence requested by lawyers representing murder suspect Jimmie Wood Thomas.

Thomas was not present during the hearing, when his legal team requested some physical evidence, reports and notes and other evidence connected to the first-degree murder case against Thomas.

Idaho County Prosecutor John D. Hays, Jr. handed an arrest report over to Dunlap during the hearing.

Thomas is charged in connection with the November shooting death of Eden-avenue resident Steven Lundin, 38.

A trial was initially scheduled to begin Aug. 17, but several motions to delay the trial and a lawyer's request for a change of venue - have delayed the case.

A case status hearing before Wood is set for Sept. 8.

Key USDA official may attend farm summit

TWIN FALLS - A high-ranking official at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Programs division will be attending the upcoming Sen. Larry Craig's "Big Summit" at the Western Plaza Hotel Wednesday.

Frank Stuchford, assistant director of administration for the USDA's Farm Programs, told Craig he wanted to be there. Craig's spokesman Mike Tracy said.

The discussion, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m., culminates a series of farming-related town meetings Craig has held around the state.

Craig also expects Sen. Dick Benham, and senatorial candidate Rep. Mike Crapo to attend.

State group elects TF commissioner to post

TWIN FALLS - Twin Falls County Commissioner Dennis Mangham was elected president of the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks at the group's conference in Pocatello Wednesday.

Mangham said it was humbling to be elected by his peers in county governments across the state.

The association was formed 88 years ago. Mangham's position gives the county a voice in the association and in the Idaho Association of Counties.

As a governing member of the association, Mangham said he thought the county should be actively involved.

Twin Falls OKs fiscal '99 budget

Talking tone urges caution over increase in employees

By William Brock Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - With ruck and a peep from the public, city leaders unanimously voted Monday to adopt a $24.39 million budget for the coming fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1.

A formal public hearing on the city budget was held during Monday's meeting, but the only people who turned up were city staff and a couple of news reporters.

Though it swept to easy approval, the budget did draw critical remarks from Councilman Chris Talkington - who noted a 5.8 percent increase in city employees.

"I don't see how we can continue to do that in coming years while still holding the line on property taxes," Talkington said.

The new budget envisions 199 city employees, an increase of about 11 positions. Of those 11, nine are in the police department, said City Manager Tom Courtney.

"It would be somewhat alarming if we did it every year," added Councilman Lance Clow, noting that new police positions are a rarity.

While on the topic of cops, council members discussed the need to hire a special prosecutor to bring a slew of pending drug cases to trial. Under normal circumstances, the county prosecutor handles all felony trials, but the prosecutor's office is swamped these days.

City officials want to prosecute the drug cases aggressively, so they are scratching around to find the estimated $41,000 to $82,000 needed for the job. As things stand, $41,000 would come from next year's budget and the rest would come in a subsequent year, Courtney said.

In other matters, the council:

- Agreed that a Realtor be used to sell 7 acres at the corner of Pheasant Road and Washington Street South. The city land, which can accommodate as many as five building lots, has been appraised at around $6,000.
- Approved a "Big Fish in a Small Pond" fund-raising idea from the Cover the Pool Committee. The idea, said committee Chairman Stephanie Grunnie, is to plant 30-50 prominent citizens in the city pool with inner tubes and call phones. The "big fish" could not be reeled in until they raise money to help buy a tower for the municipal pool. The event is scheduled for the afternoon of Sept. 23.

- Held a public hearing on judicial confirmation for a $52 million loan from the state to finance improvements to the city water supply, particularly piping and pumping from springs that feed the Blue Lakes north of the Snake River. As with the city budget, no one turned up to testify.

PARTNERS IN PRESERVATION

Former Sen. James McClure, middle, and former Congresswoman Orval Hansen lend their efforts to fence building for a new project in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, while Bethine Church, widow of Sen. Frank Church, looks on.

Sawtooth Society launches effort to maintain valley's log fences

By Julie Casey Lynn Times-News correspondent

STANLEY - You've seen the postcards. Jagged, tooth-shaped peaks jut into the skyline. In the foreground, weathered lodgepole fences frame the scene.

These lodgepole fences with a zigzag structure that line Idaho Highway 75 are a signature of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. But about 20 miles of the fencing need to be repaired or replaced.

Saturday, the Sawtooth Society and a few like-minded volunteers built a couple of fence sections and kicked off the society's Adopt-a-Fence effort.

Former Sen. James McClure and Congresswoman Orval Hansen - who with the late Sen. Frank Church co-authored legislation that created the SNRA - built some fence with the Lawler family. Lawler family members are the first volunteers in a program that should stretch out for years.

"It's a worthwhile mission ... these

Want to help?

If you want to build fence or cut lodgepole pine, contact Bob Hayes, executive director of the Sawtooth Society, at HC 64, Box 9952, Stanley, ID 83278; or call 774-2257.

Sawtooth Society. The society is a nonprofit, nonpartisan group headed by Bethine Church, the senator's widow, and Bob Hayes, a Sawtooth Valley resident. The society is dedicated to finding money and volunteer help to preserve the area's infrastructure.

For Bethine Church, society president, the SNRA is a sentimental place. She remembers 1962 when she and Sen. Church thought the scenic beauty needed to be preserved.

The Sawtooth Society celebrated its one-year anniversary Saturday. The 75-year-old Idaho matriarch, clad in jeans and a blue cowboy hat, said the society hopes to get a grant to "really get things moving next summer."

The society hopes to inspire people to adopt portions of fence to maintain and repair. That's similar to the state's Adopt-A-Highway program in which groups adopt sections of highway and keep them

Jerome man faces charge of beating wife

The Times-News

JEROME - A Jerome man, who police say hit and kicked his wife hard enough to apparently break three bones in her face, was arrested just after noon Saturday on an aggravated battery charge, a police report says.

Abel U. Gonzales, 42, surrendered quietly to officers who noticed a trail of blood leading from Gonzales' house in east Jerome to an neighbor's house just down the block, according to a report written by Jerome Patrol Officer Jeffrey Haskell.

When questioned by officers at the neighbor's house, Gonzales' wife, Tina, 32, said she'd lost the blood after her husband beat her a short time earlier, according to the report.

Haskell also noticed blood splattered on the sidewalk and door of the house Tim Gonzales had apparently fled to, the report says.

At the Gonzales' house, officers found a pair of broken glasses, assumed to belong to Tina Gonzales, the report says.

A doctor who examined Tina Gonzales Saturday at an area hospital told Haskell that she had apparently suffered a broken nose, jaw and cheekbone, the report says.

Abel Gonzales was arraigned Monday and held in the Jerome County Jail on $10,000 bond.

Judge trims rape sentence, angering aunt

By Lorraine Caverer Times-News writer

BURLEY - A man convicted of statutory rape won a sharp reduction in his sentence on Monday, infuriating an aunt of his two teen-age victims.

Dwain Lee Hirsch, 25, of Burley was sentenced in April to 18 months to seven years in the Idaho State Penitentiary. That sentence was handed down by Judge George Granat Jr., who has since died.

On Monday, acting Judge Lloyd Wetts changed Hirsch's sentence to a retained jurisdiction order of 120 days. That means if Hirsch does well in a psychological treatment and evaluation program, he could be free on probation in as little as four months.

While his daughter, Alicia, looks on, Craig LeDuc shows three of the hobo spiders he killed in the last three weeks in his home in Burley.

Poisonous spiders spark concern

By Lorraine Caverer Times-News writer

BURLEY - Described as potentially life-threatening, the hobo or aggressive house spider has found its way to the Magic Valley.

"They first started showing up in Pocatello about five years ago," said Craig LeDuc, who sells chemicals to exterminate spiders and other insects throughout the Northwest.

LeDuc, who has worked throughout the Northwest in gardening and landscaping businesses for many years, said about six years ago one in every six spiders he spotted in this area were hobos. Now the reverse is true, he said. Hobos are more aggressive than other spiders.

"They have killed off the nesting competition," said LeDuc.

In this area, LeDuc found hobos only in Cash Valley, Utah and the Snake River corridor, between Pocatello and Rexburg - until this summer, he said.

Experts suggest homeowners spray foundations, see doctor if bitten

Quite a few hobos have been brought to the Twin Falls extension office, said Bob Stoltz, extension entomology specialist for the Magic Valley.

Concerned with a rise in numbers of hobos in the Mini-Cassia area, LeDuc described the poisonous pest.

"It looks like a grass spider, but they bite like a brown recluse," LeDuc said. "Hobos have solid-colored legs and a different pattern on the abdomen than grass spiders."

Spiders with banded patterns on their legs are not poisonous to humans, he said.

"Up through September mostly mites are spotted," said Stoltz.

Males come into homes looking for female spiders. Females are looking for nesting places in corners of basements, window wells and other dark places, Stoltz said.

Then in September through October females are looking for insects to feed upon to sustain their eggs, Stoltz said. Both males and females have bites that can be dangerous to humans.

Male hobos are particularly aggressive when they are trying to find females to mate with, LeDuc said.

"A male hobo will come on the glass, the spider tried to get it," added LeDuc's daughter, Alicia.

RUPERT

Myrtle V. Kelly

Myrtle V. Kelly, 76-year-old Rupert resident, died Sunday, Aug. 23, 1998, at the Minicopa Memorial Hospital. She was born May 16, 1922, in Rupert, the daughter of Ira H. and Fannie Fern Platte Kelly. She attended school in the Rupert area. She never married and was employed at the J.R. Simplot Co. in Heyburn, until her retirement. She had a special love for animals and cared for many. She was a member of the Rupert United Methodist Church. She is survived by two nephews, Walter Roper and Keith Roper, both of Burley. She was preceded in death by her parents and sister, Anna. A graveside service will be conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26, 1998, at the Rupert Cemetery with Pastor Keith Roper officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of the Hansen Mortuary-Rupert Chapel.

and Pomona Granges for 50 years. He served as grange master and was grange secretary at the time of his death. An avid conservationist and steward of the land, Lawrence was a board member of the Wood River Soil Conservation District for 20 years. Lawrence believed that good stewardship also meant planting trees. At every farm or ranch where he lived throughout his life, he left a legacy of trees. He continued to plant and nurture trees until the end of his life. A student of nature, he could identify any tree, plant, or wild flower that he ever encountered. Lawrence loved hunting. His most memorable hunting experiences were a series of pack trips into the Big Horn Crag Mountains with his brother, Clarence, and his wife, Elizabeth. He never bagged the perfect big horn ram, but returned with a valuable 16 mm film record of each trip. Like his father, Lawrence was always interested in photography, and used his skills to record his hunting trips to the Sawtooths and Big Horns, family activities, and the Tows cattle drives between Halley and his ranch in North Shoshone. Lawrence left his mark on the land he loved and on the North Shoshone community where he lived for 65 years. He developed the sagebrush land into productive farms and ranches. The trees he leaves behind, enrich and beautify the dry Idaho desert that was his home. He instilled his love of nature, learning, and literature into his children and grandchildren. There was never an occasion for which he couldn't remember an appropriate song or lyric to recite by heart.

Lawrence was a member of the First Baptist Church in Shoshone. Always gentle and kind, Lawrence was a man of peace who lived by the values that he believed in and instilled them into his family. He will be remembered as a loving husband, father, grandfather, and friend. Lawrence is preceded in death by his parents; two sisters; and his brothers, Henry and Clarence. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; his son, Richard "Rusty" Tews (Cathy) of Shoshone; his two daughters, Laurene Cranmer (Geoff) of Boise and Heather Garonzik (Phil) of Boise. He is also survived by five grandchildren, Travis (Kim), Larry (Natalie), Amber, and Megan Tews; Adrienne and Kaitie Garonzik; and Eric and Kelly Cranmer. A special grandson, Kerry Fackel, also, surviving are two brothers, William C. Tews of Jerome and Andrew Tews of Quilley, Ariz.

His funeral will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26, 1998, at the Shoshone First Baptist Church. Burial will follow at the Riverside Cemetery. Friends may call from 1 to 7 p.m. today at Demaray's Shoshone Chapel. The family suggests that contributions be made to plant a tree in Lawrence's name at the new school.

SHOSHONE

Lawrence Z. Tews

Lawrence Z. Tews died Aug. 22, 1998, at noon, with his loving family beside him. Lawrence was a true pioneer and Renaissance man. Having lived nearly nine decades, he witnessed the century and experienced the best traditions and life could offer. Lawrence was born Jan. 29, 1910, in Vance, Neb. to Richard and Helen Tews. Lawrence's family was homesteaded in Norfolk, Neb. and later in Kimberly. Lawrence attended elementary schools in both Kimberly and Norfolk. At age 12, he later attended the Crane Institute of Technology in Chicago where he studied Engineering for two years. Throughout his years in Chicago, Lawrence and his brothers yearned for the western life. In 1929, they moved back West where he and his brothers farmed for a short time in Gooding, then took out homesteads in North Shoshone, where they worked hard to claim the land from 1868 until the late 1940s. Lawrence's love of learning and reading never ceased, and during this time he completed his formal education by attending classes at the Gooding College.

In 1940, Larry and his brothers formed the Tews Brothers operation and founded the Black Buttes Ranch where he fulfilled his lifelong dream to be a rancher and cowboy. In 1944, he met Marie Elizabeth "Amy" Higgins. Lawrence and Elizabeth married in Jerome on April 22, 1947, and were married for 51 years. After their marriage, they lived for a short time on the Black Buttes Ranch, then on the Rock Creek Ranch in Malheur where they spent many special memories. In 1952, they built their own ranch near the North Shoshone foothills, where they raised three children and continued to farm for the next 45 years. Lawrence was always involved in the local community. He was an active member of the Magic

MURRAY, UTAH

Grace Rencher

Grace Alberta Brown Rencher, 93, died Aug. 21, 1998, in Murray, Utah. Born Nov. 3, 1904, in Murray, Utah to Edwin Parley and Dora Ballard Brown, she married Jay Grant Rencher Aug. 31, 1934. Their marriage was solemnized in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple on Aug. 13, 1937. He died Sept. 9, 1979. They were residents of Burley, Idaho for 50 years. She worked for the Cassia County Offices as a bookkeeper. She was a member of the Daughters of the Pioneers, served as captain for two years, and secretary of the County Camp. She was a member of the LDS Church, where she served in many positions, including the Mutual Improvement Association for 20 years. She was also a member of Relief Society, and Sunday School. Survivors include brothers, Melvin E. (Marjorie) Brown of Cottonwood Heights and Keith X. (Lani) Brown of Marjorie; sister, Anna B. (Melvin) Day of Bountiful; sisters-in-law, Orena Brown of Tualleville and Nancy Brown of Pocatello; and many nieces and nephews including two special nieces, Gwen Baleman and Faye (Ray) Burrows. She was preceded in death by a sister, Lavona Hausser and brothers Rothwell, Parley, Lloyd, and Hugh. The family wishes to extend a special thanks to Dr. J. Barry Nielsen and Dr. Gregory P. Stevens.

CLARKSTON, WASH

Edward C. Hoisington

Edward C. Hoisington, 75, of Clarkston, Wash., formerly of the Magic Valley, died Saturday, Aug. 22, 1998, at In-State Memorial Hospital in Clarkston, following a long illness. He was born April 4, 1923 in Cusick, Wash., the son of Guy and Ruby Bauer Hoisington. He was raised and attended schools in Cusick and Uka, Wash. Mr. Hoisington was in the United States Army during World War II, serving in Germany and Belgium from 1942 to 1946. He was assigned to a water purification team in Germany. He married Ione J. Barnett on Oct. 11, 1949 in Seattle, Wash. He worked as a welder in Alaska, Nevada, Oregon and Washington, before opening the Southside Welding Shop in Twin Falls. He operated the shop for 20 years, before moving to Clarkston last year for health reasons. He was an avid fisherman, and enjoyed fishing, bowling, and playing cards. He enjoyed spending time with his family and friends, and always had a good story to tell. Mr. Hoisington is survived by his wife, Ione of Clarkston; daughter, Linda Farrington of Lewiston; son, Monte Hoisington of Spokane; stepsons, Philip (Kim) Lutz of Twin Falls, Gary (Lore) Smith of London, Ore., Patrick Smith and Terry (Rose) Smith, of Las Vegas, Nev., and Chris Smith of Salt Lake City, Utah; seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren. # Cassia takes another shot at rec district

By Gregory Hahn
Times-News writer

BURLEY — To get a recreation district option to be on the ballot in the general election Nov. 2, the Cassia County GOP is pushing for the measure needs another 400 signatures on its petition in two weeks.

Several hundred invalid names stopped a possible special election that had been tentatively set for today. But the local recreation committee is making one more effort to get nearly 1,500 signatures needed to give county residents the option of forming a district in November.

The Cassia County commissioners met 5 p.m. Sept. 8 and the deadline, giving the county clerk's office a week to verify the affidavits before the ballots are sent to the printer.

Theresa Barefoot, who along with Linda Petersen, has been spearheading the effort,

The group hoping to give Cassia County residents the option of forming a recreation district is looking for volunteers to sign the petition needed to get the measure on the ballot. Petitions are available at Ramsey Sports, Rock's Cycling and Fitness and Racine Sports.

sure the sports can get the needed signatures in two weeks, she said.

The invalid names were mostly residents who weren't registered voters or had moved without updating the county's records, Barefoot said.

The early deadline is forced by a law requiring absentee ballots to go out 45 days before the election. County Administrator Tim Hurst said.

The recreation committee also is restructuring the proposed district to fit within existing precincts, to make the voting easier and cheaper. The clerk's office estimated that a special election would cost the measure's supporters several thousand dollars. Hurst said to put the option on the general ballot would cost somewhere around $100.

The slight change added 32 signatures to the 1,465 already needed, but Barefoot said that shouldn't be a problem. The group hopes to catch parents when they drop off and pick up their children at school.

The commissioners extended the deadline as far as it could while still allowing the clerk's office time to verify the names.

"I'd like to see this on the ballot," said Commission Chairman John Adams.

Elkhorn construction draws noise complaint

By Margot Higgins
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Several Sun Valley residents appeared at a city meeting to make noise about enforcement of Sun Valley's noise ordinance.

Construction activity by the Crown and Sun Point developments in Elkhorn this summer has created an unpleasant environment for those who live there, the residents said.

In addition at last week's meeting, Elkhorn residents voiced irritation over the construction projects' unsightliness. In the face of future developments expected in the area, residents are eager to see a precedent set for the degree of effect construction companies can impose on them.

"The noise ordinance as it stands now is nonfunctional," Elkhorn resident Norma Douglas told the Sun Valley City Council.

"The problem lies in the fact that the enforcement of the ordinance has fallen upon the people of town."

Douglas and neighbors refer to Elkhorn as "Beirut" due to the clamor.

Douglas and others in Elkhorn did not blame the Sun Valley Police Department for lack of enforcement. One problem, she said, is that the $1,000 fine the ordinance sets is not enough to deter large construction companies who factor the fines into their business costs.

"We need a noise ordinance with some teeth in it," Douglas told the council.

Another problem with the ordinance, residents said, is that it allows construction work between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. However, noisy equipment is prohibited only between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. So residents are being awakened at 7 a.m. as construction workers warm up their trucks.

Debra Stevers, in charge of sales for Sun Point, said Monday "We are fully aware there is a noise ordinance. To my knowledge it has only been violated once this summer at five minutes before 8 a.m."

"This is a construction-oriented area," Crown Ranch building contractor Rod Watson said this week. "We are being as sensitive as we can to neighbors. I think the complaints must be coming from vacationers. Locals know this is the time of year that we need to work. With a job of this magnitude it is hard to stay on top of everything. We're up high and noise travels."

"Tell the people of Sun Valley to get a life," he said from his equipment. "They didn't complain when their houses were being built. ... What can you do? There's going to be noise with construction."

John Kane, who spoke at last week's meeting, is irritated not only by the noise.

"We're living in a dust storm, inundated with dust from the construction," he told the council. He and neighbors complained they haven't been able to spend time on their porches all summer.

"It really has ruined our summer," Susan Isaacson said.

Richard Messina suggested the construction could have a negative effect on real estate values.

"For people trying to sell houses it is a complete joke," he said.

Sun Valley council members agreed to make changes in the noise ordinance. This week, they plan to meet with representatives of the Crown and Sun Point developments about the issues that were raised.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SV planners put code changes to public

SUN VALLEY — A regular meeting of the Sun Valley Planning and Zoning Commission will be held 8 a.m. today at City Hall.

A public hearing on proposed amendments to the residential and commercial districts section of the Sun Valley Municipal Code, which was continued from the Aug. 11 meeting, opens the meeting.

A new residence at 2122 Sappawillow Road in the Sugevillow subdivision, a previously undeveloped area, will be discussed.

New business includes a reamendment of the hotel/short-term and southeast corner of the first floor at the Elkhorn Hotel site, revisions to an approved application for the Sunpointe parcel and an application for a new residence at 1136 Elghilands Drive in the Elghilands subdivision.

Other business will focus on a one-year extension request for a new residence in the June Day Subdivision and the design review application that was approved on Aug. 12, 1997.

The planning and zoning commission will hold a special meeting, on Sept. 8 because of the Labor Day holiday, and the next regular meeting is set for Sept. 22.

TF Fair photography offers special prize

FILSER — For the second year, a special prize will be awarded in the Twin Falls County Fair photography department.

The Idaho Art Archives and Research Center at Filer Public Library will sponsor $25 cash in the Judges' Choice Award. The prize money will be awarded for a photograph of the judges' choice to receive excellence in photography.

All entries in the amateur and professional categories will be eligible.

Jet boat policy draws protest on Snake

LEWISTON — Jetboat enthusiasts and politicians gathered at Bear Bar on the Snake River during the weekend to show their disgust over a U.S. Forest Service plan they say is unfair.

The protesters are an all-out war on the position of the Snake River in Hells Canyon National Recreation Area Monday through Wednesday every other week from June through August. The ban originally was approved in 1984 but was implemented for the first time this year.

Webb changed the sentence after Hirsch's lawyer, Elizabeth Burr-Jones, argued earlier this month that the two girls had been pressured into saying Hirsch raped them. Webb commended the girls at the time for their willingness to testify that their relations with Hirsch had been consensual.

"That willingness is a lie," the girls' aunt said Monday.

She said she still believes the girls' original statements that Hirsch forced them to have sex. She thinks they have since been coerced into saying they consented to sex, she said.

The girls only submitted to Hirsch out of fear that he would beat them if they didn't, the aunt said. In a letter to Webb, the aunt said Hirsch had raped both the girls many times, "over a period of years."

"I think Judge Gramata did justice and Judge Webb did a big injustice," she said.

The aunt expressed disgust and fear that Hirsch will again hurt her nieces.

"What makes me sick," she said, "those girls will be in a world of hurt."

Burr at an Aug. 13 hearing, in which Hirsch sought the reduced sentence. Burr-Jones said Hirsch did not intend to have contact with the girls.

(Although The Times-News normally avoids quoting news sources anonymously, the aunt's name is omitted from this article to protect her nieces' identities.)

Hirsch pleaded guilty to statutory rape in January, but he denied further raping the girls.

County cage menus having sex with a minor, with or without the minor's consent.

Both girls were present in court on Aug. 13, when Burr-Jones argued for reducing Hirsch's sentence. Webb asked them if they wanted to say anything, but neither girl spoke.

Burr-Jones could not be reached for comment on Monday.

Under the revised sentence, Webb retains jurisdiction over Hirsch for the next four months, while Hirsch participates in a treatment program. At the end of that time, the judge reviews Hirsch's behavior and his progress in treatment.

Based on that review, Hirsch could be put on probation or be sent back to prison.

Cassia considers creating 7-member zoning board

By Gregory Hahn
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Seven county residents may soon make Cassia County's planning and zoning decisions.

As part of a general overhaul of the county's zoning ordinance, the county commissioners are planning to create a separate board, an option suggested, but not required, in the state's Local Planning Act. The final decision, as well as those on the rest of the proposed amendments, will be made after the changes are discussed in public meetings.

At their meeting Monday, the commissioners talked about how big the board should be, and what rules should dictate appointments.

"If you get too big, it's awfully hard to get a decision, or even to get anything discussed," said County Administrator Tim Hurst.

Commission Chairman John Adams suggested seven members, comfortably in the middle of the five to eleven allowed by state law.

Twin Falls county tried it a few years, he said, and decided seven was the best. "There's no reason to reinvent the wheel."

Seven members would provide a broad representation, Commissioner Paul Christensen said, and not gridlock discussions like a larger group could.

State law only allows one-third of the board to be from cities larger than 1,500 people, so if Cassia

Spraying just the spiders nesting area will not create enough of a kill area, LeDuc said. Spraying their food supply and nesting areas discourages them from entering the area, he said.

In addition he recommends bug baits be used in basements and storage areas. Bedding or clothing should not be left on the floor, Stolz said.

Efforts start to tear down old Gooding TB hospital

By Sharon Metcalf
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — Joe Herring of Region IV Development Corp. spent more than a year and $25,000 trying to salvage the Gooding Tuberculosis Hospital for a business incubator.

But Monday, Herring opened a meeting of city, county and state officials with the express intent of facilitating demolition.

"We're looking for a way to tear the building down," said Herring, calling the old hospital a "health and safety hazard to the community."

To get a state general-fund allocation for demolition a minimum of a year from now, the group needs to scramble. The following agreements were given for completion over the next few weeks.

Gooding City Council will draft a letter offering use of a lease dump site within 3 miles for building materials and fill to restore the property after demolition. County commissioners will write a letter supporting that effort.

Rep. Wendy Jaquez, D-Ketchum, will invite Rep. Maxine Bell, R-Jerome, and Sen. Dean Cameron, R-Rupert — members of

Budget on tap for Kimberly officials

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly City Council will meet at 7 p.m. today for three public hearings. An appeal of a denial of variance by the planning and zoning commission.

• The proposed budget for 1998-99.

• Rezoning of city property and Center Street West property.

Other business includes: sewer fees and facilities, a building-permit renewal for Calvary Chapel, Dennis Britton with concerns for Calvary Chapel, Jeff Rodman with a discussion on radio frequency, Tim Vawter with a request for the Kimberly Youth Association budget, an announcement to sell city property and Steve Miner for Associated Food Stores.

An executive session on personnel concludes the meeting.

Birthday celebration takes on mournful cast

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday was my wife's birthday, her first since our marriage in April. I didn't forget, but the situation was just as ludicrous as usual.

About a month earlier, "Debbie" told me that she would like to spend her first birthday with me. She didn't want anything spectacular — just the day with me and maybe a nice dinner.

Alas, to completely slip up my mind took the marriage and, being a thoughtful husband (I thought), made arrangements to take Debbie to her parents' house on the day. Well, the most sensitive thing in the world was that I over the entire way, but I can't blame it on me to be a better man?

DEAR ABBY: Debbie

— GUEET
IN WILMINGTON, DE.

DEAR GUEET: Spend the day time with her and then try to be some damn Apolozize for the fact that her birthday celebration is lit, and promise that from now on, you'll listen more carefully when she tells you what she wants.

DEAR ABBY: I know that certain items are supposed to be given on specific wedding anniversaries, but I'm not sure what they are.

— S. MALONEY,
WEST ORANGE, N.J.

DEAR S. MALONEY: I checked "The Amy Vanderbilt Complete Book of Etiquette," entirely rewritten and updated, and found that the list has been revised over the years. This is a current one:

For the first anniversary, clocks; second, china; third, crystal, glass; fourth, electrical appliances; fifth, silverware; sixth, wood; seventh, steel sets, pens and pencil sets; eighth, linen; ninth, leather; 10th, diamond jewelry; 15th, watches; 20th, platinum; 25th, sterling silver; 30th, diamond; 35th, jade; 40th, rubies; 45th, sapphire; 50th, gold; 55th, emerald; 60th, diamond.

DEAR ABBY: Many of the letters in your column have interested me, but the one from ed me, but the one from "Mom in Denver" really caught my attention. The best advice I can offer her is to show respect for her children, and they will respect her in return. No one wants to be told

"Shut up" or "Because I said so." Respect your children enough to explain what they are doing wrong. Never criticize them in front of others, especially their friends. By respecting them, you are also showing you love them.

When it comes to managing my business's cash, my banker is of the utmost integrity. Now, if only he'd stop stealing scenes.

Council production of "Guys and Dolls"

JOHN CRANER, Zion Personal Business Banker, stole the show as Bennie Southstreet in "Guys and Dolls."

It is an original, no-doubt about it. Whether he's creating a role in our local production of "Guys and Dolls" or whipping up a custom package of small business services, he's about the only guy around who could handle cash management responsibilities for my heating and electric business. In fact, my old bank couldn't even come close. John created an account that sweeps idle funds from checking into a high-interest account. When needed, when I need operating capital, it's automatically drawn from a credit line. And now, with the burden of cash management off my shoulders, I can concentrate on my business and still make it to rehearsal on time. He's a great guy, even if he is a big ol' ham.

Getting on-line: Unequal access?

There is a fear among many social and business experts that there is a growing rift between the information haves and have-nots.

The number of wired Americans is growing...

But the most have high incomes... HOUSEHOLD INCOME BREAKDOWN OF CONNECTED...

And American incomes often follow ethnic lines... PERCENT OF FAMILIES IN EACH INCOME GROUP WITH INTERNET...

By Jimmy Gitterman, Chicago Tribune

On the night of Thursday, Aug. 20, 1998, as the digital bugs on our CD-ROMs, midnight computer stores across the country were full...

But it wasn't music CDs that the crowds had their minds on... it was CD-ROMs, because an earlier night those stores were able to sell copies of Windows 95...

Missive hype aside, it did make sense for those running Windows 95 on their computers to upgrade to Windows 98...

Troubleshooting the Net - COMPUTERS Q & A

By Noah Matthews, Magnet/News Service

Last month I spent upwards of 30 hours on the Internet (drum roll, please). Much of that time was spent downloading files for this column, writing and answering e-mail, shopping and just seeing what's out there...

My guess is that I probably spent a few hours trying to connect to either of my two Internet computers during prime time and trying to figure out why I was connecting at half the speed my multimeter was capable of...

If you use the Internet, this collection of programs is a valuable asset to your toolbox...

Install the CD (in quick, no-frills) and you see an alphabetical program menu. Each program has a short description and you can go directly to a search utility that installs the program onto your hard disk...

Justice Department, Microsoft has found time to develop a new version, Windows 98, that even company officials have acknowledged is a less than revolutionary interim step...

That admission notwithstanding, Microsoft is revving up a Microsoft-size marketing campaign to make sure we all know that Windows 98 is in the stores...

The inevitable question, then, is: Should I upgrade from Windows 95 to Windows 98?

This analyst's unequivocal answer is No.

I've been working with progressively more reliable beta versions of Windows 98 for six months now, including four versions considered stable enough to be "release candidates," so it's not like I scored Windows 98 a few weeks early, played with it for a day, and dismissed it.

The changes in the new version...

are, for the most part, minor and cosmetic, new versions of some elements and the movement of others. They don't help you do your work any faster or more efficiently...

If you work with Windows 95 and have installed the Active Desktop part of Internet Explorer, you know exactly how this product looks, although to be fair, the Active Desktop is far less buggy here than in its original incarnation...

More annoying is actually using one of the most ballooned parts of the upgrade, the conversion to the FAT32 file system...

No one should be standing in line to open these Windows...

Windows still has, a decade after its original version shipped.

It still conflicts with anti-virus software and the Norton Utilities (it chokes on Windows 95 version 2, but version 1 works fine).

There are new problems: The program menu now exists as one long scroll, so you can't see all your programs at once (you still can in Windows 95), and several machines revert to the Windows 95 splash screen even when Windows 98 is completely installed...

More annoying is actually using one of the most ballooned parts of the upgrade, the conversion to the FAT32 file system, a much improved way of storing and managing data on a hard disk that saves space and speeds access...

No one should be standing in line to open these Windows...

Q. Windows is the basic computer that you recommend these days?

A. I would get a system with a Pentium 233-megahertz chip (a plain-old Pentium, not a Pentium II), 32 megabytes of memory, a minimum four-gigabyte IDE hard drive and a 56K modem.

If you've used computers before and have the basic skills for setting up hardware, you should consider buying this system from a non-brand-name computer manufacturer...

It's a first-time buyer, you may want to go for a national brand like IBM or Compaq...

IN BRIEF

Hagerman boosters will barbecue Saturday

HAGERMAN—The Hagerman Athletic Booster Club will hold its fourth annual booster club barbecue Wednesday evening at the high school.

A football scrimmage will kick off the evening’s festivities at 6 p.m. The barbecue will follow immediately after. Price per person is $3, with family tickets available for $12.

League begins Thursday at Twin Falls Gun Club

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls Gun Club has announced that this year’s Fall League will begin Thursday, with the club opening at 4 p.m.

The league runs six weeks. Club officials urge local gun enthusiasts to come out and enjoy the fun and the nice weather.

Gooding High School stages volleyball jamboree

GOODING—Gooding High School will host a volleyball jamboree starting at 6 p.m. Thursday in the high school gym.

Schools participating in the round-robin tournament include Minico, Buhl, Gooding and Shoshone. Junior varsity and varsity squads from each school will compete on two separate courts. Admission prices are $4 for adults and $2 for students.

Proceeds will go towards an endowment fund. For more information, contact Joleen Toone at 934-4831.

Youth soccer director headlines coaching clinic

TWIN FALLS—Area youth soccer coaches interested in spicing up practice, looking for ways to correct players’ techniques, exciting a bored group of athletes or simply improving their knowledge of the game are encouraged to attend one of two free coaching clinics being held this week.

Dr. Tom Fleck, Idaho Youth Soccer Association coaching director and former Florida Youth Soccer Association coaching director—will head a former pro player and coach—will headline the Parks and Recreation-sponsored clinics in the O’Leary Junior High gym.

A clinic for 1st- and 2nd-grade coaches will be held Wednesday from 6:30-8:30 p.m.; a separate clinic for 3rd-7th-grade coaches will be held Thursday from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Fleck, who founded the National Youth Soccer Coaches License Program, will address drills, basic soccer mechanics, the mentality of children, motivation of players and time and end duration of practices.

Mini-Cassia inline hockey league opens Saturday

HEYBURN—The Mini-Cassia Inline Hockey Association, Inc. is holding a grand opening at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Heyburn hockey arena east of the city offices at 18th and I streets.

The organization has grown from a few players to more than 150 players, coaches and managers with registered players traveling from Twin Falls to play.

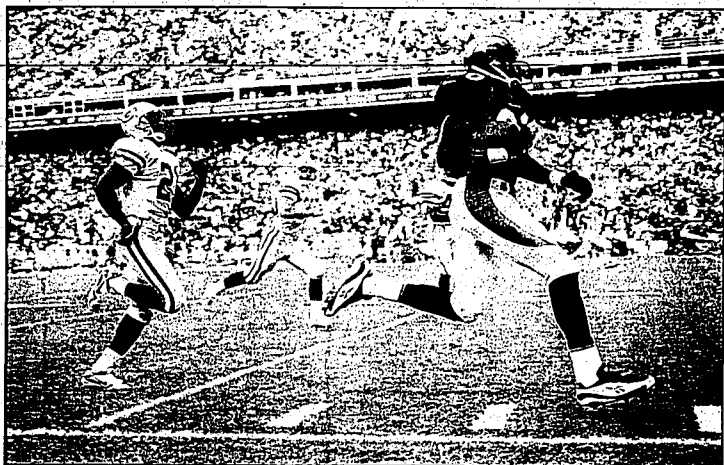

The league has three divisions of four teams. Boys, ages 5 to 10 years in age; PeeWee, ages 10 to 13; and Bantam, with 14 to 18-year-olds.

The mayor will drop the first puck and begin the season Saturday. A program is planned to introduce the teams.

A scout troop will present the flags and Bonnie Hunter will sing the national anthem.

A concession stand will be open during games at the arena.

Denver Broncos wide receiver Rod Smith heads down the sideline on an 80-yard touchdown pass play as Green Bay’s Craig Newsome, Mike Prior and Pat Terrill give chase in the first quarter. Denver won the Super Bowl rematch, 34-31, on a 49-yard field goal in the final minutes.

Broncos still 1 step ahead

Denver wins rematch, 34-31

The Associated Press

DENVER—Jason Elam kicked a 49-yard field goal with 3:10 remaining, and the Denver Broncos defeated the Green Bay Packers 34-31 Monday night in an exhibition rematch of last January’s Super Bowl teams.

The Broncos, who also beat the Packers 31-24 seven months earlier, built leads of 21-10 and 28-17 at otherwise evenly played game that saw each team’s defense and special teams score touchdowns.

Brett Favre and John Elway dueling to a near standoff, each throwing a touchdown pass in the first half. Elway, who played only the first half for the Broncos, completed 13 of 22 passes for 179 yards. Favre, whose stint lasted through the first series of the third quarter, was 13-of-23 for 155 yards.

Elam’s 35-yard field goal had given Denver a 31-24 lead with 11:01 remaining, but the Packers, behind backup quarterback Doug Pederson, tied it with 6:53 left.

Pederson drove the Packers to Denver’s 37-yard line when the march stalled and Sean Landeta punted. George Coghill fumbled the punt and Mike Prior recovered at the Denver 17. Pederson passed 16 yards to Bill Schroeder, and Raymont Harris scored from the 1.

Rookie Brian Griese helped move the Broncos in position for Elam’s winning kick with a 34-yard pass to tight end Byron Chamberlain.

The Packers scored just 44 seconds into the game when safety LeRoy Butler intercepted a tipped pass and returned it 30 yards for a touchdown.

Denver tied it midway through the first quarter when Elway hit Rod Smith on an 80-yard scoring pass. Smith gained separation from cornerback Craig Newsome and caught Elway’s pass down the right side at the Green Bay 40.

Late in the quarter, Denver defensive end Marvin Washington stripped Travis

Jerry of the ball, and safety Tyrone Braxton ran 7 yards with the fumble for a 147 lead.

After a Green Bay field goal early in the second quarter, Darren Gordon tamped under a punt and, sprung by blocks from Dwayne Carswell and Derron Smith, dashed 65 yards down the left sideline for a 21-10 lead with 9:15 left in the half.

Roell Preston’s 21-yard punt return, along with a late-hit penalty against Denver, gave Green Bay good field position late in the half, and Favre passed 11 yards to Derrick Mayes for a touchdown with 1:07 left.

Bobby Brister, replacing Elway in the third quarter, went 6-of-7 for 58 yards on a 49-yard, 13-play march that culminated in Derek Loville’s 11-yard TD run. On the ensuing kickoff, however, Preston went right, then cut up the middle on a 99-yard scoring return.

Sosa upset at suggestion Lima ‘grooved’ HR pitch

The Associated Press

CHICAGO—Chicago Cubs star Sammy Sosa was angry Monday about a published report questioning whether countryman Jose Lima grooved a pitch to him during the Houston Astros’ lopsided win the previous day.

Sosa, who entered Monday’s game with 51 homers, two behind Mark McGwire in the chase of Roger Maris’ record of 61 hit two solo homers Sunday in Lima, his friend from the Dominican Republic.

Sosa’s first homer came on a 3-2 changeup in the fifth cut Houston’s lead to 4-2. He connected again in the eighth on a high-10 fastball when the Astros were ahead 13-2. Both homers came with the wind blowing out.

“I’m kind of mad, myself,” Sosa said of a report in Monday’s Chicago Tribune suggesting the home run could raise questions about whether Lima grooved the pitch.

Jose Lima

“This is not a gift, it’s about going out there and playing,” Sosa said. “I’ve been hitting home runs all year long. It’s disappointing to read that. This is not about friendship. Nobody gives you nothing. This is baseball, it’s not about friendship or relationships.”

Lima admitted he enjoyed watching Sosa’s first homer, but pointing out that the changeup was a pitch that Sosa often struck out on in the past.

“Of the second homer Lima said: ‘Leading 13-2, I’m not going to throw a slider or a changeup to him. If I walk him with four sliders or four changeups, they’re going to boo me.’”

“That wouldn’t bother me, but I would feel bad myself. I would feel like a chicken,” he added.

“I hit a tough pitch high in my face,” Sosa said.

Sosa reiterated that McGwire is still the favorite to pass Maris or will at least be the first to get there.

“If I’m the second one, it’s a beautiful country,” Sosa said.

Mitchell will fight ‘darkest hour of my life’

The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Calling this the “darkest hour of my life,” three-time Olympic sprinter Dennis Mitchell says he will fight the drug suspension handed down by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

“This is the blackest mark that any athlete can have on their record,” Mitchell said at a news conference Monday where he was flanked by his lawyer Suja Thomas.

“I have done nothing wrong, but I am not being permitted to compete. I will not proceed through the hearing process,” Mitchell said. “I can only hope that justice will prevail and I will be rightfully exonerated.”

Mitchell, 32, has requested a hearing before the USA Track & Field Doping Hearing Board. Thomas said they anticipate the hearing will be held in October. Mitchell was given a two-year suspension for testing positive for testosterone at an out-of-competition test April 11 at his home in Gainesville, Fla.

“My dedication to this sport and to society would not and could not allow me to do such a thing,” said Mitchell, the 1992 Olympic bronze medalist at 100 meters.

“This is both morally and ethically unacceptable to me. I have throughout my career thought that the only way to succeed was through hard work and dedication to yourself and God. I would have never in my wildest dreams thought this would happen to me.”

Thomas said Mitchell will contest the validity of the test on two grounds. “Experts will look at whether or not the test itself was correct,” Thomas said of the two urine samples. “And, two, if the test was correct, what could have caused the testosterone to epitestosterone (another natural substance) level to increase (above the allowable ratio of 6:1).”

The three-member Doping Hearing Board can vote by a simple majority that Mitchell is not guilty and he would be free to compete again.

Last month, Mitchell ran on the winning U.S. 400-meter relay team at the Goodwill Games.

Right now, Mitchell says he is finding it difficult just to step on a track.

“When this first started I was still going out to the track every day and working hard and hoping that this thing was a big dream,” said Mitchell. “But now it has become this nightmare. It is now even hard for me to go out and actually train hard because this is always in the back of my mind. I don’t feel that purity that track and field used to bring to me anymore.”

Three-Time Olympic sprinter Dennis Mitchell says he will contest his recent drug suspension.

There is no precedent in sports law regarding liability for guaranteed contracts during a lockout. No union has ever filed such a claim - including the NBA, players who were locked out during the dispute in the summer of 1985.

1985.
"There may not be a specific precedent for this," Hauer said. "But the reality is that there are other cases that we are able to cite where the courts have ruled that individualized contracts not only supersede collective bargaining agreements but in fact that there's an obligation to pay once an agreement has expired."

Lawyers for the league, meanwhile, presented case history to support their position. The very essence of a lockout is the fact that employees don't get paid. Feierick's ruling is expected in early September.
If the owners lose, they would have to go to court and ask a judge for a restraining order to avoid paying about $800 million in salaries for some 20 players who have guaranteed contracts for the 1989 season.

"We think it's a waste of time. The only way this dispute is going to be resolved is at the bargaining table," NBA chief legal officer Jeffrey Mishkin said. "I'm not going to get resolved by litigation. There's no arbitrator and no court that can make a new deal for us. We can only do that together and at the bargaining table."

Chicago's Frank Thomas looks over his shoulder while swinging to third on a triple as Seattle Mariners shortstop Alex Rodriguez calls for him in the fourth inning Tuesday. The Mariners won the game, 11-10.

Griffey hammers No. 44 as Seattle sweeps ChiSox

SEATTLE (AP) — Ken Griffey Jr. hit his All-Leading 44th home run Monday as the Seattle Mariners completed a four-game sweep of the Chicago White Sox with a 11-10 victory.

Seattle, which led 9-3 in the fifth, allowed Chicago to close to 9-6 in the eighth. After consecutive run-scoring wild pitches by Jaime Navarro in the bottom half, Robin Ventura hit an 11th career grand slam in the ninth.

Griffey, who also had an RBI double, is showing signs of snapping out of his prolonged power drought, which saw him hit only home runs on 87 at-bats last season.

Ken Cloude (8-9) allowed three runs and four hits in seven innings, and Tim Lincecum pitched eight runs and eight hits in 2.3 innings.

Griffey in the fifth round of the playoffs, hitting a 4-6 extra-inning homer Tuesday, the first since he hit his 44th home run in the season. The Angels announced a 2 1/2 game lead over Texas in the AL West.

Steve Winkler (9-3-34), trying to become the first man to win 100 games before September, had four consecutive games since his last home run on Aug. 17, including his 100th game on Sunday.

Jason Kendall (3-2) won his second major league game since coming out of the bullpen.

AL's elite: the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

Struggling with Monday night's game against the Tigers, the Rangers' next 18 games are against five sub-.500 clubs: Detroit, the Chicago White Sox, Minnesota, Kansas City and Tampa Bay.

Royals 7, Blue Jays 3

TORONTO — Rookie Brian Barber bounced back from a disastrous start and Sal Fasano homered as the Royals beat the Blue Jays to win their season-high fifth straight game.

After allowing eight earned runs in just 1.23 innings against Boston in his last start, his first major league appearance since 1996, Barber (1-1) held the Blue Jays to one earned run on three hits before leaving with one out in the seventh.

Mark Whisenant pitched the final 1 1/3 innings for his second save.

Ciseno, who homered and had a career-high four hits on Sunday, gave the Royals a 2-1 lead in the fourth with his eighth home run.

Angels 7, Yankees 3

NEW YORK — Current standings tied the game with a two-run homer in the seventh and Gary DiSarcina hit a go-ahead, two-run double liner in the inning to lead Anaheim over New York.

Anahim, which could play the

Rangers 6, Tigers 5

DALLAS — Texas' Aaron Lundy pitched the sixth victory of his career as the Rangers edged a favorable opponent in the schedule with victory over the Tigers.

Chris Bergeron fell out of first place in the NL West when he was hit by a pitch in the eighth inning on Sunday, dropping his record to 1-1. He pitched the final 1 1/3 innings of the game.

Cornerback Rod Woodson remains a fumble 25 years for a touchdown Monday night as the Ravens remained unbeaten in the preseason with a 23-6 victory over the puncheon Eagles.

Baltimore (3-0) never trailed, allowing only 149 net yards — including a mere 38 on the ground — in its third straight stellar defensive effort. The Ravens have given up only 20 points in the preseason, seven of those on an interception return.

"I think we're playing better than anticipated," coach Ted Marchbanks said. "It's a pleasure to see. Hope it carries."

The Eagles, meanwhile, can only hope for a complete reversal of fortune by the time they open the regular season Sept. 6 at home against the Seattle Seahawks.

The Eagles (1-2) got another subpar performance from starting quarterback Bobby Hoyne, who was 10-for-19 for 61 yards before leaving in the third quarter. Hoyne has yet to throw a touchdown pass this summer and Philadelphia still has not scored in the ground.

Buccaneers, Baltimore win big

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers decisively put an end to the Oakland Raiders' preseason roll.

The Raiders, who beat the Dallas Cowboys and the Green Bay Packers in the real, regular season in Oakland for their first exhibition home game and were defeated by the Buccaneers 43-7 Monday night.

Mike Alstott scored on an 18-yard run and quarterback Trent Dilfer hit Andrew Jordan with a fourth-down 3-yard pass to give the Bucs a 20-0 lead by halftime.

Dilfer also hit Earl Williams with a 25-yard touchdown pass, and RB Abdullah ran for touchdowns of 1 and 37 yards for Tampa Bay (2-2).

The Raiders (2-1) appeared confounded by the Bucs in the first half, unable to get close enough for a field goal attempt, let alone a touchdown. They opened the second half just as poorly: Quarterback Jeff George was sacked by Steve White, then intercepted by Donnie Edwards on Oakland's first drive.

The interception led to Dilfer's scoring pass to Williams. Dilfer was 8-of-16 for 121 yards and two touchdowns.

Homers by Vaughn, Caminiti push Padres past Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Greg Vaughn hit his 43rd home run and Ken Caminiti homered and drove in four runs to lead the Padres over the Brewers.

Sterling Hitchcock (8-5) allowed eight hits in eight innings, striking out five and walking two.

Steve Woodard (9-9) was tagged for five runs and nine hits in six innings, losing his fourth straight decision.

San Diego scored twice in the sixth on Vaughn's homer and Greg Myers' RBI single to take a 3-2 lead.

opponent for the first time.

San Francisco finished 9-0 against the Marlins, outscoring them 61-29.

The Giants' best previous one-season record was 15-1 against the Boston Braves in 1918.

Rich Rodriguez (4-0) pitched 1 2/3 scoreless innings for the victory, and former-Marlin Robb Nen pitched a hitless ninth for his 33rd save.

ing a three-run homer by Matt Williams and a solo shot by Kelly Stinner.

Bell, 3-for-4 with three RBIs, tripled in the first, doubled in the third and homered in the fifth off Masato Yoshii (5-7), who lost for the sixth time in seven decisions. Amaury Telemaco (5-8), who had lost five of his previous six starts, gave up one run and five hits in seven innings, and Willie Blair got five outs for his first save.

Mets manager Bobby Valentine was ejected in the eighth inning for arguing a checked-swing call.

Rockies 3, Phillies 1

PHILADELPHIA — Todd Helton homered and Bobby Jones snapped a three-game losing streak with six strong innings as the Rockies defeated the Phillies 3-1.

Jones (6-7) surrendered five hits en route to his first win since August 3 at Pittsburgh. The left-hander walked three and struck out six before getting relief help. Dave Veres finished up, getting the last two outs for his fifth save.

Helton continued his torrid hitting as the Rockies took two of three games in the series and finished 5-4 against the Phillies for the season. The rookie first baseman has batted safely in 36 of his last 44 games (57 for 162, .351) with nine homers and 32 RBIs.

Braves 4, Dodgers 3

ATLANTA — Jay Lopez and Andrew Jones hit back-to-back homers in the eighth against Jeff Shaw (2-6) as Atlanta overcame a 3-0 deficit.

The Dodgers broke a scoreless duel between Tom Glavine and Brian Bohannon in the top of the eighth when Trenzad Hubbard scored from first on Gary Sheffield's single. Eric Karro followed with his third homer in two days.

Tom Glavine (17-5) joined teammate Greg Maddux as the NL's only 17-game winners, allowing 10 hits in eight innings. Kerry Ligtenberg pitched a scoreless ninth for his 23rd save.

Cardinals, Pirates rained out

PITTSBURGH — Mark McGwire took the day off, and as it turned out, the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates did, too — at least in the standings.

The Cardinals-Pirates game was rained out in the middle of the seventh inning Monday afternoon with the score tied 5-5. The result goes down as a tie, and all statistics count.

The game will be made up when the Pirates play at St. Louis from Sept. 14-16.

Astros 12, Cubs 3

CHICAGO — Sammy Sosa was 2-for-4 with a pair of singles, including an 81 homer. Moises Alou, Craig Biggio and Carl Everett homered for Houston, which completed a three-game sweep, outscoring Chicago 33-9.

Alou's homer was his 38th of the season and ninth in 18 games. Biggio had 17 homers, including four during the series. Everett was 2-for-5 with five RBIs, matching his career high.

Shane Reynolds (16-8) retired 12 straight after a nearly 2-hour rain delay in the bottom of the second. He gave up one run — Alou's — and hit in the third inning, striking out seven and walking none. Mark Clark (7-12) was the loser.

Reds 8, Expos 1

MONTREAL — Pete Harnisch took a perfect game into the sixth inning and wound up with a three-hitter as the Cincinnati completed a three-game sweep, extending the Expos' losing streak to five.

Harnisch (10-6), who struck out nine and walked one, allowed a one-out homer to Orlando Cabrera in the sixth, an infield single to Vladimir Guerrero in the seventh and a two-out single to Ryan McGuire in the eighth.

Dustin Hermanson (11-10), who had won his previous four decisions, allowed five runs and six hits in seven innings.
