Espy trial opens; debate fixes on race

Knight-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — The corruption trial of President Clinton's first agriculture secretary opened Thursday in federal court with a divide about race, duty and the meaning of gifts.

Mike Espy, the first African American to serve as secretary of agriculture, is accused of accepting sports tickets and $35,000 in gifts from agribusiness firms, then lying about it to the FBI and other investigators. Espy resigned in 1994, a target of independent counsel Donald Smaltz and his $17.4 million investigation.

But to Espy's attorney, Theodore Wells Jr., "This case is about false accusation, it's about distortion of the truth, it's about unfairness." And, Wells thundered, "He is not a crook, he is not a criminal."

Speaking to the jury pool of 16 blacks and two whites, Wells stressed Espy's rise from his roots in the impoverished Mississippi delta, a land of "cotton fields and what they call the home of the blues," to becoming Mississippi's first black congressman in a century. In 1992, at age 39, Espy was Clinton's choice to head the sprawling U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Espy anticipated criticism that he "came from the wrong state, and other people would say, the wrong race," Wells said. But he didn't expect to lose his career because he accepted tickets to five sporting events.

"Five games in 14 months," Wells noted. "To hear the prosecution, you'd think all he was doing was going out and watching the Redskins lose all the time. Give me a break."

Ice cores point to climate shift 12,500 years ago

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Earth's climate abruptly warmed by 20 degrees or more to end an Ice age 12,500 years ago, according to researchers whose findings may force a re-evaluation of the history of dramatic swings in the planet's climate.

James White, a climatologist at the University of Colorado, Boulder, said that an analysis of new ice cores from the Antarctica show that the south polar area went through a rapid temperature increase at the same time that the north polar region was also warming.

White, co-author of a study to be published today in the journal Science, said that the Antarctica ice cores show a temperature increase of about 20 degrees F within a very short time.

"What we see in Antarctica looks very, very similar to what we see in Greenland," said White.

Senate OKs $270.5 billion bare-bones defense budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise $270.5 billion defense budget that both the Pentagon and congressional leaders considered bare-bones won final Senate approval on Thursday by a wide margin.

The measure would raise military pay by 3.6 percent, support Clinton's decision to keep U.S. troops in Bosnia, impose new curbs on satellite exports and allow the Army, Navy and Air Force to continue to train men and women recruits together. The Marine Corps could continue its same-gender training.

The White House has objected to a provision transferring satellite export licensing from the Commerce Department — where Clinton lodged it in 1996 — back to the State Department.

But Democratic congressional aides said they expected President Clinton to sign the bill anyway.

The vote was 96-2, with Sens. Russell Feingold, D-Wis., and Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., voting no.

Defense-oriented lawmakers decried the size of the defense measure, whose $270.5 billion level was dictated by last year's balanced budget law and, adjusted for inflation, represents the 14th consecutive annual decline in defense spending.

"Pay is too low, the benefits are in question and we are losing good people," Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., told the Senate.

With sentiment increasing on Capitol Hill to spend a chunk of the nation's new budget surplus on more defense spending, lawmakers were eagerly awaiting Clinton's submission of a measure expected to give the Pentagon an immediate supplement of $1 billion to $4 billion.

Millions of foreigners want what you have: opportunity

Need a pick-me-up at the end of the week? Here's a lulu. More than 6 million people are expected to apply for 50,000 U.S. green cards in the next month. They will be seeking this nation's most precious yet also most abundant commodity: Opportunity.

You already have it. On Thursday, the National Visa Center in Portsmouth, N.H., opened the one-month registration period for its annual lottery. It will award permanent residence visas to 50,000 lucky foreigners.

People around the world covet these visas. Sometimes they covet them too much. Although entering the lottery is as simple as completing one brief form, unscrupulous lawyers in some countries charge hundreds of dollars to perform the chore. People gladly pay, mistakenly thinking a lawyer can improve their chances.

Last year, word got out in West Africa that several thousand applications had been dumped in the sea. A riot broke out, and one man was killed. It was by no means the first person to die in pursuit of a better life in the New World. Your own ancestors may have endured similar trials and hardships to settle where they did. Why the modern-day emphasis to move statistical refugees to political freedom is at stake is some debate. But the main draw is upward mobility. If you show up, an American visa lottery, and get you'll have a fighting chance of improving your way of living.

Remember an environmentalist's responsibility is any national government's second responsibility, right after defense. The basic principles are simple: manage foreign government's impact on its people. Keep taxes reasonable. Use the economy. Maintain the rule of law. That's the sign of a healthy society.

Despite numerous mistakes and contrary actions over the past two centuries, our system has held remarkably well to those principles, with excellent results. Flaws? Problems? Yes, there are abundant. But let's not mention them today. An essential element of citizenship is a healthy conscience.

So be glad you live here. And be skeptical if anyone who seems to be your opportunity.

If you show up in America with brains, ambition, and grit, you'll have a fighting chance of improving your standard of living.

'Patients' bill of rights' raises health care costs

First the bad news: Health-care costs are headed back up. Now the worse news: Those costs will climb even faster if the so-called "patients' bill of rights" makes its way through Congress and is signed by the president.

The country's health-care expenditures, artificially held in check for several years by "managed care," will double from $1 trillion in 1996 to more than $2 trillion by 2007, according to a new report from the Health and Human Services Department. This will lead to higher premiums for health insurance, Washington's solution. More health-care mandates and regulations that will drive premiums higher still.

To be sure, the "patients' bill of rights" passed by the House and pending in the Senate is meant to cure some of managed care's harmful side effects, such as the curbing of ERs to limit patient choice and access to care. But health-care regulators, even well-intentioned ones, always impose costs. Smaller companies operating on razor-thin profit margins often have to drop coverage for their workers, driving up the number of the uninsured.

Indeed, the Congressional Budget Office estimates that the proposed HMO legislation will raise health-insurance premiums by 4 percent, forcing 800,000 Americans off the insurance rolls. That's an up-charge of 42 million Americans who already lack insurance.

Lawmakers will doubt their well-intentioned regulations have disastrous consequences, they need look no further than the states. According to a recent study by the Galien Institute, 16 states imposed aggressive health-care regulations between 1990 and 1994, adding new insurance rules and other mandating to insureance companies what services they had to cover. In some states people who buy health insurance must now pay for treatments they don't even need, such as in-vitro fertilization, psychological counseling and chiropractic care. The result: The number of uninsured people in the heavily regulated states rose by 8 percent a year, while in the 34 states that avoided excessive regulation it rose by only 1 percent a year.

Lawmakers need to examine all current health-care regulations to determine their impact on the cost and quality of health insurance. If these regulations are found to have the opposite of their intended effect, they should be junked. Lawmakers also should refrain from imposing a single new rule, regulation or mandate designed to "help" without a clear idea of how much it will hurt.

Another problem is the tendency of government agencies to low-ball the cost of new health-care regulations, making it tempting for lawmakers to approve them. One way to correct this would be to hold state and federal officials directly accountable when they underestimate the cost of new rules. How? Docket their salaries and reduce their budgets. This would dampen the enthusiasm of pro-regulation bureaucrats to paint rosy scenarios for lawmakers.

Of course, the larger solution to both rising health costs and patient frustration with managed care is to switch to a new kind of health-care system. Under current law, most Americans get their health insurance from their employer. That's because employers can buy health insurance for their workers tax-free, while people who buy their own health insurance get no tax break at all. In practice this means most people are stuck with whatever health-care plan their employer picks for them — and these days that's likely to be an HMO or some other managed-care company.

If the tax break for health insurance were given directly to workers and their families, people would no longer be locked into a health plan chosen by their boss. (Employers don't pick our car insurance. Why should they pick our health insurance?) People would instead buy the health insurance that best suits their family's needs. They would, in effect, be able to "fire" a health plan they don't like — which makes more sense than hiring a lawyer to sue the plan or pleading with politicians to force the plan to provide medical treatments their employer's insurance doesn't cover.

Because workers would not only be able to keep their employer's plan but also shop around for a better plan, health insurers would have to compete aggressively with one another for patient dollars. Only those providing quality care at a reasonable cost would stay in business. The "patients' bill of rights" invites a more government mandates and regulations. It's time for a new approach that dramatically expands patient choice by giving workers choice and personal ownership of their health plans. Anything less would be legislative malpractice.

GOP backstabbers deal shame

The case the Republican Party is bringing against the president is about the lowest backstabbing job of rail-roading I have ever seen in my lifetime. I do not condone what Bill Clinton did, but this is not a case of morals or even sex, it is just a means to railroad Clinton any way they can.

I wonder why much of the $40 million that little trawp got for her part in the program. Why didn't she come forward at once or for you suppose she was holding out for more money? After all, she had something the Republican Party had tried six years to get something on Bill Clinton. The idea she did it clean dress until she was ready to wear it is a bunch of bull. She probably lied about it, it didn't bother her because she's lied before.

That so-called lawyer, Starr, never did anything all his life until now. I'll bet he really ate up those tapes like they were an X-rated movie.

I wonder why they want to get rid of Clinton so bad. First, it was "He is a draft-dodger." Nothing was said about the other ones. When that didn't work, then there was Whitewater. It didn't take the first time Whitewater was ever committed to the White House. History shows that more than half of the president's high-level staffers, at two times, was ever sworn them. Have they pushed a new law?

The American people are the ones I feel sorry for. Until this morning, I had heard the news, our standards of living were higher than it had been in the 50 years of life. It was a good thing happening to business and the stock market. Now it's all going to get.

The politicians will get it because they will stand enough from the companies of Idaho and the United States. Clinton will survive because he will have a lot of friends, and "personal" mark he is a good president.

I saw a headline in The Times-News this week that said "we will make sure." I wonder how the Republican Party will feel when the headlines read, "the only way they emotional Clinton was by using a woman's name."

I'm ashamed of the "United States" people who are the first time in my life. CHAD NIXSON

Parental laws need reworking

The single parent who is sickened by the pending hearing on the news about "children" doing undesirable things. The first need to change about child prosecution. There needs to be a line between a child who is really abused and the child who got an old-fashioned spanking by the parent.

Children have rights and parents to pay consequences for their child's actions while they're out shaming up schools, maddening, rubbing their own parents' faces in it. They know you will get them off, and they know you can't touch them. So what good are you doing yourself and your child?

Laws need to change between parents and their children or will you get them off the next to die by the hand of your 12- to 17-year-old child.

Enough is enough
To President Clinton:

Enough is enough. Someone once said, "Why don't we use the military to stop the drugs in this country?"

After hearing on Channel 38 TV news of 18 poor Mexican citizens who were headed for the U.S. border and were shot just a few miles from it in Baja, Calif., probably because of a drug lord, isn't enough enough, Bill Clinton, commiserate in relief of the United States armed forces?

Why in heaven's name can you not use the military of our country to police the necessary areas to curb drugs and stop senseless murder?

We as a nation want you to get this scandal behind you and get on with important issues.

I realize you have many, many arrests to deal with from day to day. This is one of the most important.

Maybe someone in the right office can relay this message to you and you can use your generals to delegate the necessary forces in the right districts.

Racing pigeons for fun

Thank you for printing the article about racing pigeons in Oregon (Thursday, Sep. 17, Section D-3). Some people are not aware that there is a racing-pigeon club active in the Magic Valley.

We race pigeons every Saturday, beginning with the old-bird race the second week of April to the second week of June. The young bird races start the second week of August to the first week of October. The old birds are any bird 1 year or older; the young birds are hatched this year.

The old birds race 100 miles (from Wells, Nev.) to 500 miles (from Searchlight, Nev.). The young birds race 100 miles (from Wells, Nev.) to 300 miles (Bristol Wells, Nev.).

On Oct. 2, we will be banding the young birds to send on the 300-mile race. We meet at the club house at 3434 E. 3700 N. Kimberly (three-fourths mile west of the stop light on Center Street). A designated person then drives the trailer full of birds to the start of the race and lets them all out at once Saturday morning.

There are two races, A and B. The A birds are let out at 8 a.m., and the B birds at 9 a.m. It will take them about six hours to get back to their respective home lofts.

When the birds get home, the bands are removed and put into a special time clock. Around 5 p.m., we all take our clocks back to the clubhouse to check our race results and find out whose birds are the fastest.

There are trophies and diplomas for the birds who are the fastest and a lot of fun for every one.

In the spring, there is a statewide young bird show in Boise, and in the fall, there is an old-bird show in Jackpot. There are awards for the best birds in looks and handling and eye sign.

Anyone who would like to know more about our racing pigeons can call Rick Post, 423-4377.

Clinton must answer courts

I have watched the letters to the editor with wonder at the article of the American people concerning the Clinton scandal.

There seems to be an attitude that this whole thing is about his sex life and that of Monica Lewinsky. There are those that think this an affair between consenting adults and that is none of our business.

If this was all there was in it, as disgusting as it is, they may have a point. But this isn't about sex and the cover-up of it, it is about perjury.

Some say that committing perjury to keep his wife and the nation from knowing about his affairs is not serious enough to be impeached for. If this is the case, each perjury that is committed in a court of law would have to be rated on a scale of 1 to 10 to determine if it is serious enough to be called perjury.

I can tell you from years of testifying in court that is a soul-searching time when you place your hand on the Bible and swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, so help you God.

So valuable is the truth in a courtroom that people stand under oath are oftentimes prosecuted and sent to prison for it.

There are times when we would like to duck the truth and many an officer has had to admit to tell the truth, the whole or said that were embarrassing to them. But they were bound to the same oath that President Clinton took and they told the truth.

I find it beyond belief that the American people are willing to overlook the fact that the man lied under oath. It is my belief that President Clinton should be prosecuted like any other person that has lied under oath.

Some would say that perjurying himself doesn't prevent him from being an effective president, but I maintain that we shouldn't settle for a man of so little honor to lead our country.

Slurvy editorial raises ire

Somebody ought to tip off the Democrats to come now. Your editorial of Sept. 2 does a great injustice to Mr. Grout and apparently is nothing more than partisan slurvy.

Yes, Mr. Grout did criticize your clearly set Republican Al Lance for receiving $200,000 to the general fund. You noted that most Idahoans like being "frugal." Your slurvy completely misses the point.

Unfortunately, returning the money to the general fund does not save money for the taxpayers, as your editorial subtly suggests. The fact is, the money will be spent on something other than the state's general office needs and the needs of the state in fighting crime.

Could not Mr. Lance have allocated that money for more or better equipment for the various underfunded counties in the state? Could not Mr. Lance have allocated that money to the assistance of the prosecution of criminals in those counties with the budget-busting court administration costs?

Could not Mr. Lance have helped the fiscal people in Idaho more effectively by using that money for its allocated purposes of fighting the rising crime in our state?

I think so. And were you able to peer past your partisan nose, dear editor, I think you would agree.

Reader can agree

Great joy! The black holes are either in confluence or collision. At last I agree with a Times-News editorial - one about free education at the College of Southern Idaho. Free is valueless; education is priceless.

We are becoming a nation of freebie hunters or expectant freebie chasers. The populace is seeking free lunch, free transportation, free parking, free health care, etc. Fill in your favorite freebie peeve. My paltry assets could be lost in a flash, but my education will last as long as my mind. Is there a correlation between our pursuit of the free and our declining values?

The editorial writers are always bemoaning voter apathy; let us resurrect the poll tax (forget about the American Civil Liberties Union) and put a value on the privilege to vote. If your vote were not free, it would be worth something to vote.

Outraged at sheriff's acts
Unbelievable. After reading an article in The Times-News recently about our moronic, yes moronic, local sheriff doing an injustice to our community youth by declining the two Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) trucks, I was outraged and angered completely.

What has continued to fester in me and anger me more so is that fact that no one in our community has responded in writing until Bob Daigle.

Well, Mr. Daigle, thank you for your brilliant display of ignorance.
Mr. Daigle, need I remind you that the article clearly stated that Latham Motors and local business owners would be financing these trucks? Not you or our incredibly daffid sheriff! Cheers to you, Latham Motors and the rest! For I am a father of five and applaud you. But to you, Mr. Tousey, I ask, "When's re-election and about your politics, where does your motivation come from?"

Homeless victims of Hurricane Georges wait for help in Fonds Verrettes, about 50 miles west of the capital Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Wednesday. The village was virtually wiped out by the floodwaters, leaving at least 86 people dead.

Primakov pressures IMF to release loan money

MOSCOW (AP) — Prime Minister Yegorin Primakov warned Thursday he might have to take "unpopular measures" to salvage the Russian economy if the International Monetary Fund doesn't come through with more money.

Primakov didn't specify what measures he had in mind, but the warning came as the government was reported to be considering an economic plan that would reimpose Soviet-style controls on the economy.

The prime minister did reassure the country that the government has no intention of taking U.S. dollars out of its citizens' wallets. A leading regional official had proposed banning greenbacks as a way to stabilize the ruble.

Such talk "isn't worth an eggshell," Primakov told reporters.

Russia has been trying to pressure the IMF into releasing the second $4.3 billion installment of a loan that was approved in July, before the country's economy crashed and the government effectively defaulted on its foreign loans.

The IMF loan would allow Russia to come out of the crisis "with minimum losses," he said. Without the loan, he added ominously, "We will take measures — measures that may be quite unpopular. We will not throw our country to the winds."

In Washington, IMF Managing Director Michel Camdessus urged Primakov's government to avoid any moves that would spark inflation, redouble efforts to collect taxes and exercise better control over the country's banks.

Hurricane flood washes away Haitian hamlet

FONDS VERRETTES, Haiti (AP) — Electricity had not arrived in this isolated Haitian town, so when a surge of water, mud and debris crashed through the streets last week, it did so in total darkness.

"Boom-boom-boom. It sounded like cannon salvos," said Canave Brevil, who fled with his wife and eight children in the nick of time.

The mighty wave, another of Hurricane Georges' ravages in the Western Hemisphere's poorest nation, lifted houses off their foundations and foundations off the ground.

It wiped most of Fonds Verrettes off the face of the earth, killing at least 85 people. Many more are feared dead.

"The town is finished, dead. It's reached the point of no return," said Brevil, 39. "Now we live in exile in our homeland."

The official nationwide death toll from Georges, including that of Fonds Verrettes, stood at 150, with at least 40 still missing. In all, the storm killed at least 407 people last week.

Fonds Verrettes, 50 miles east of the capital Port-au-Prince, was built in harm's way, at the bottom of a river bed.

Rains began falling on the afternoon of Sept. 22, when Georges was pounding the neighboring Dominican Republic.

After midnight, a seven-foot wave roared through the town, demolishing the stone and cement-block buildings and sweeping scores of drowned bodies downstream.

All that is left now where the town once stood are mounds of white gravel.

The torrent gouged deep trenches on each side of the 500-foot-wide river bed. The cemetery teetered, and tombs fell into the stream and were carried away.

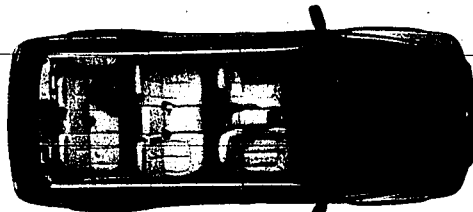

City Hall and the telephone exchange are gone. The gutted, roofless hulk of the La Croix Catholic church stands on slightly higher ground.

Brevil's case is typical. The 27,000 inhabitants of the town had little before the storm and now have even less. Brevil lost his home, belongings, crops and livestock, as well as several relatives.

He and his family sought shelter at a friend's house — along with 50 other hurricane victims.

"Some people can't even tell you where their house was," said Julien Zeren, 42, a public school principal.

Years ago, wooded mountains surrounded Fonds Verrettes. As farm incomes fell, impoverished peasants cut down the trees to make charcoal.

Ozone hole grows to biggest ever

GENEVA (AP) — The ozone hole over Antarctica grew to its largest size ever in September, covering an area 2 1/2 times the size of Europe, the World Meteorological Organization said Thursday.

Scientists expect the hole in the ozone — the protective layer that shields the earth from damaging ultraviolet rays — to grow each September because of temperature fluctuations.

But last month, it grew by more than 15 percent, exposing not only Antarctica but a huge swath of the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, including the southern tip of South America, to harmful ultraviolet rays, WMO official Rumen Bojkov told a news conference Thursday.

Armed robbery trial starts today

TWIN FALLS - The trial of a former Buhl man accused of sticking up a convenience store begins today.

Donald Shriver, 32, is charged with armed robbery of Larry's Quick Service in Buhl in July 1997. A jury will be selected today, and opening arguments are likely to start Monday.

Less than a year before the robbery, Shriver was released from prison after serving five years for battering an officer. Shriver, who has a history of mental illness, attacked the officer after being arrested for slashing his mother's arms with a knife.

An aggravated battery charge for the attack on his mother was dropped in exchange for pleading guilty to robbery of the officer.

The punishment for armed robbery is five years to life in prison.

EPA continues fish-kill investigation at Avonmore

Jacobsen said the EPA would have no comment about the investigation until it is over. State and federal officials responded to the area when thousands of fish along several miles suddenly died Sept. 2. Avonmore officials admitted spilling two 55-gallon drums of ammonia mixed with water that day.

Twin Falls doctor receives honor

American Board of Pediatrics names chairman-elect

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS - Dr. Paul Miles has spent 23 years' caring for children. In two years, he will head the organization that certifies pediatricians for children nationwide.

Two weeks ago, the Twin Falls pediatrician was elected chairman-elect of the American Board of Pediatrics at a meeting in Charleston, S.C. That means in 2000, he will become chairman for a one-year term.

The American Board of Pediatrics is the main body that certifies pediatricians. To obtain the certification, pediatricians must take examinations and then take more exams every seven years to retain their certification.

"(The board) kind of sets the standard for what it means to be a pediatrician," said Miles, 55. "It's a great organization."

The board is made up of 150 pediatricians nationwide with about 30 of them practicing doctors; the others are academic pediatricians, he said.

"I was surprised because usually they don't choose a practicing physician," Miles said of his election.

As chairman-elect, he will be busy with six to eight trips a year to Chapel Hill, N.C., where the American Board of Pediatrics is headquartered.

The organization said its board of directors consists of distinguished pediatricians in education, research and clinical practice.

Miles has practiced medicine for 23 years, with most of those in Twin Falls. He has worked as part-time work in private practice and also works at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center on researching medical- and community-based outcomes of health care.

He has an undergraduate degree from Stanford University, and attended medical school and took pediatric training at UCLA.

The pediatrician has a 10-year history with the American Board of Pediatrics, starting as an oral examiner for doctors seeking certification. The tests since have become computerized, he said. He previously served as board secretary-treasurer.

Board certification is voluntary. But with changes in medicine, certification is being required by more hospitals before a doctor can practice there and by insurers before they will pay, he said.

"(Certification) always has been important," Miles said.

The largest issue facing pediatricians here and nationwide is accountability, he said - that is, how doctors and the public know quality care is provided.

"How do we show the public and ourselves that what we do works? How do we know the value of the work, and that it's the best value?" he said.

Colorado man suffers burns west of Burley

By Lorraine Weaver
Times-News writer

BURLEY - A Colorado man drove himself to the Cassia County sheriff's office to get help after being critically burned about three miles west of Burley Thursday morning.

James Rogers Hoover, 51, of Arboles, Colo., was transported to the Cassia Regional Medical Center with severe burns.

He later was flown by air ambulance to the University of Utah burn center in Salt Lake City with third-degree burns on 20 percent of his body, a Cassia County sheriff's press release said.

Hoover was still in critical condition, a University of Utah hospital spokeswoman said Thursday.

Thursday morning, Hoover pulled into the sheriff's office parking lot just as one of the deputies arrived, a sheriff's report said.

When Hoover asked the deputy for help it was clear the man was badly burned, the report said. The deputy called for an ambulance, then attempted to find out what had happened.

"They threw gas on me and set me on fire," Hoover told the deputy, according to the report.

He said he was coming from Twin Falls on U.S. Highway 30 and stopped to assist two males in a white Ford truck.

Hoover told the deputy, "They got my watch but they didn't get my wallet," the report said.

Though no arrests had been made Thursday, there's no concern for public safety, said detective Alan Smith of the Cassia sheriff's department. He couldn't comment on whether the department believes Hoover's story.

The pickup Hoover was driving had an Idaho license plate.

Hoover told the deputy the sweat shirt he was wearing had a note with the name and number of that pickup's owner. He said the sweat shirt was burnt but said he was able to remove the shirt and leave it on the road.

Sheriff's deputies did not find a burnt sweat shirt, the report said.

Hoover is wanted on Missouri felony charges - which the local sheriff's office won't specify but officials in that state will not extradite from Idaho on their charges, said a Cassia County sheriff's press release.

No suspects had been identified. The case is still under investigation by a Cassia sheriff's office.

Judge gives woman probation instead of jail after she skips work release

By David Lee
Times-News writer

BURLEY - A Nebraska woman was granted probation Thursday despite missing one day of work - but not returning to jail - while on work release from the Cassia County Criminal Justice Center.

Janelle Palomo was sentenced in January 1997 for robbery. She was working at Industrial Ventilation Inc. to earn money to pay the ordered restitution, said her attorney, Robert Crandall. Palomo's parents helped pay the remainder of her restitution amount on Wednesday so she was eligible for probation.

But at a progress report hearing in 5th District Court Thursday, the court focused on the day she skipped work and did not return to the jail.

Palomo was experiencing troubles with her boss, Crandall said.

On Aug. 20, Palomo did not report to work and remained in jail because of the problems, he said.

On Aug. 21, Palomo was not picked up for work. Fearing her absence from work could jeopardize her release from jail, she started walking toward work, Crandall said. She eventually stopped at a pay phone and called her boss who told her not to come to work.

Palomo then called a friend, Irene Morales, who picked Palomo up. Palomo spent some time with her daughter at Morales' house before returning to jail later that day.

"She should have gone back to jail if she did not work," said deputy prosecuting attorney, Howard Smyser.

District Judge Lloyd Webb asked Palomo why she did not talk with anyone regarding the problems at work, Palomo said.

she had talked to the county jail or but was not comfortable approaching her probation officer.

Crandall said Palomo realized she should have gone back to jail, but she wasn't thinking clearly.

Palomo said she was confused about whether she should deal with the problems at work or risk extending her jail time.

"I can't justify what I did was right," she told Webb.

Webb ultimately decided to grant her probation, but said it was with "great reluctance."

Palomo's probation will end Jan. 30, 2001.

Upon granting probation, Webb told her, "If I were you, I'd consider myself extremely lucky."

Bob Dole to highlight Twin Falls Simpson rally

By Gregory Hahn
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — GOP congressional candidate Mike Simpson is pulling out the heavy artillery in the battle for Magic Valley voters.

Former Republican presidential candidate Bob Dole will attend a Simpson rally and fundraiser at the College of Southern Idaho on Oct. 16.

Simpson met the longtime senator when Dole spoke to the Legislature when he was running for president.

"He's an amazing guy," Simpson said. "He's got that mid-western sense of humor. I'm really pleased to have him coming."

The event promises to attract attention that Simpson admits he needs. On Monday, Simpson warned Twin Falls Republicans that his opponent, Richard Stallings, always carried the Magic Valley during his stint as congressman.

Simpson called it a "don't blame me, I voted for Dole" rally. "It's obvious," Simpson said, "Idahoans like Bob Dole."

"Bob has always liked Idaho," said state GOP chief Ron McMurray from Lewiston Wednesday. "He's always been good to Idaho."

This isn't the first time Simpson has loosed a high-caliber campaign weapon; House Speaker New Gingrich, R-Ga., stumpet for the Blackfoot dentist and Idaho House speaker last month.

In October, the heavy gunning promises to continue. Republican Rep. John Linder of Georgia is coming to Idaho soon. The same day Dole will be in Twin Falls. Majority Leader Dick Armey is scheduled to appear in Cassia County for Rep. Helen Chenoweth.

On the Democratic side, Energy Secretary Bill Richardson is planning to run the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory. It wouldn't be unusual for a member of the president's cabinet to stop and put in a good word about candidates from the president's party.

The word about Stallings' Phoenix campaign office is that nothing's been officially arranged.

Ada County pulls out of effort to jointly fight flow of drugs

BOISE (AP) — Ada County's drug-fighting partnership with city police has ended because the cooperative effort has not stemmed the flow of drugs into the area.

The county has joined Garden City and Meridian in pulling out of the Boise/Ada County Narcotics and Drug Interdiction Team, which was partially funded by federal grants. Ada County had worked with Boise police for a decade in the BANDIT effort.

"We've been trying for the last three or four decades to arrest their way out of the problem," Ada County Sheriff's Lt. Ted Bowers said. "It hasn't worked. Drugs have never been so prevalent or cheap in Boise."

City investigators will continue to do what they can to stop drugs, which are blamed for 90 percent of all crimes, said Boise Police Sgt. John Terry, who works with BANDIT.

"There is no question that there is a direct need for that," he said. "Any time you can make that much money, there will be somebody trying to do it."

Ada County will bump up efforts to arrest users, not just the dealers. And it also will concentrate on a drug-free workplace. Florida gives a 5 percent break in worker's compensation insurance costs to businesses that agree to conduct random drug testing.

The campaign reduced drug use by 40 percent and overall crime there by 28 percent, Bowers said.

Hanford nuclear authorities look into contamination incidents

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Hanford nuclear reservation officials were trying to determine the source of small amounts of radioactive contamination discovered in two separate incidents, the site's prime contractor said Thursday.

Both incidents occurred this week and apparently did not result in any health problems for workers, said Mike Berniocho, a spokesman for Fluor Daniel Hanford Inc.

The first incident occurred Monday as radiation-control technicians performed a routine survey of a mobile-office building near the center of the nuclear reservation.

Traces of contamination were found in the building — including a lunch room area — and in a trash Dumpster outside, Berniocho said.

Because the Dumpster had been emptied before the contamination was discovered, the City of Richland was told that tainted trash might have been sent to a city landfill.

A survey of the garbage truck that hauled the trash turned up specks of contamination. Surveys have detected no contamination on the surface of the landfill.

Workers known to have used the building were checked and determined to be free of contamination, Berniocho said.

An investigation into the source of the contamination in the mobile building was under way.

In the second incident, a monitor used to check workers as they leave job sites detected traces of contamination on the boot of an ironworker on Tuesday, Berniocho said. The worker had been at a site where underground tanks store radioactive waste.

Some of the worker's personal items, including his lunch bag, also showed traces of contamination.

A search of the man's home resulted in the discovery of contamination on four soiled socks, which were removed for disposal.

A test found no evidence the man had been contaminated, Berniocho said.

Black flies breed in canals as abatement money dries up

Pesky gnats will decrease in cooler temperatures

By N.S. Nokkentved
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The number of black flies seems to be growing. The Twin Falls County Weed Bureau has been getting more complaints about the bothersome gnats, Weed Superintendent Sheila Huizar said.

They are pesky, in-your-face, irritating little pests, and they can nag a picnic or a backyard barbecue — or just a walk around town.

The good news is that with cooler weather on the way, the black fly season will end soon. Typically black fly numbers grow late in the year, Huizar said. But the county has run out of money for treating area canals to reduce the numbers. The last treatment was in late July.

Twin Falls Canal Co. had offered to match up to $5,000 from other donors. The $10,000 would pay for three more treatments. But no one was able to raise more money, canal company field supervisor Stan Hays said.

The county has included $299,000 for black-fly control in its 1999 budget. While the money lasts, area canals are treated every seven to 10 days. Each treatment costs about $3,500.

Black flies, also known as buffalo gnats, are about one-fifth the size of a common housefly and generally don't bite people. But they swarm and get into people's eyes, noses, mouths and ears.

Like mosquitoes, the gnats need animal blood to complete their reproductive cycle. They seem to prefer livestock. The gnats attack animals' ears and can make them crazy and hard to handle. They often turn animals' ears into a bloody mess.

And black flies are believed to spread vesicular stomatitis — a serious and highly contagious viral infection similar to hoof and mouth disease that under certain conditions can transfer to humans.

Canals are a prime breeding ground for black flies. They lay eggs on weeds in moving water. The larvae attach to weeds along the edges of the stream and feed on microscopic organic matter carried by the water.

Over time, evolution has made black flies increasingly immune to the insecticide used to kill them. By 1992, the chemical that once killed nearly all of them only killed perhaps a fourth.

The chemical has been replaced by a biological agent that kills up to 99 percent of the flies. But it's expensive; a single application costs about the same as a whole season's worth of the chemical agent.

Fund rescue draws concern in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skeptical lawmakers, some evoking the specter of the 1980s stock and loan crisis, challenged Federal Reserve officials on Thursday to defend their action helping arrange a $3.6 billion private bailout of a high-flying investment fund.

Alan Greenspan Jim Leach

And Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, chairman of the House Banking Committee, called on the Justice Department to make an antitrust review of the group of big banks and brokerage firms that last week rescued the hedge fund, Long-Term Capital Management LP.

The star witnesses were Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan and William J. McDonough, president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Greenspan and McDonough said they brought the companies together in the central bank's New York offices.

While hedge funds are mostly unregulated, the Federal Reserve and the Treasury do have responsibility for the nation's banking system, which could be severely affected by a major hedge fund collapse. Greenspan and McDonough said the Fed stepped in to avert potential damage to the U.S. and world economies. They defended the Fed's involvement in the rescue, which partially protected wealthy investors who had bet big on interest-rate swings and lost.

The rescue group includes Merrill Lynch & Co., Bankers Trust, Chase Manhattan, Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, J.P. Morgan & Co., Salomon Sachs, Salomon Smith Barney and several big European banks. The member companies together took control of the hedge fund in return for the bailout.

Fossil fuels

NEW YORK (AP) — Key energy exchange rates Thursday were flat. The New York Mercantile Exchange's oil futures price for October 1988 was $26.50 a barrel.

Credit may be tighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of bank lending conducted before this week's interest-rate cut detected signs of what could be the start of a business credit crunch, a Federal Reserve report suggested Thursday.

"Results indicate that there has been a fairly widespread tightening of standards and terms, but today's was a special survey, taken in mid-September

Mortgage rates hit 30-year low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage rates fell for the fifth consecutive week and, at 6.60 percent, haven't been lower in more than three decades. The average interest rate on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages dropped from 5.64 percent the week before, Freddie Mac, the mortgage company, said Thursday.

It was the lowest level since the company began compiling the average in 1971. Separate records show rates haven't been lower since 1967. The drop in mortgage rates is a byproduct of international financial turmoil. In the face of stock-market declines and foreign currency devaluations, investors have been snapping up government-guaranteed U.S. Treasury securities. And mortgage rates have followed part of the way.

Twin Falls alum Belnap tinkles ivories for 'Annie'

By Denise Turner
Times-News writer

The Island Park performance of "Annie Get Your Gun" had it all - Little Sure Shot Annie Oakley, Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, the sharpshooting skills of Frank Butler ... and Ashleigh Bateman Belnap on piano.

Belnap, 20, is a Twin Falls High School graduate who takes her Magic Valley musical training very seriously. This summer, she played the score of Irving Berlin's "Annie Get Your Gun" at Mack's Inn Dinner Theater near West Yellowstone. She also played the heroine in the theater's melodrama, "Dark Deeds at Swan's Place."

Ashleigh Bateman Belnap

Ashleigh Bateman became Ashleigh Belnap in April, when she married 22-year-old Dale Belnap, a student at Brigham Young University. The two met in choir at Ricks College in Pocatello. When the newlyweds decided they would like to find musical summer jobs together, they landed the three-month stint at Mack's Inn.

Dale Belnap, who hails from the eastern Idaho hamlet of Inkom, played Butler in "Annie Get Your Gun" - and also played jazz piano for the melodrama.

Both Belnaps are currently enrolled at Brigham Young University. He's majoring in psychology. She's studying English ("but my major changes all the time").

Ashleigh Belnap's musical talent developed under the direction of Twin Falls piano teacher Sue Miller.

"She was not only my piano teacher, but she was my very best friend," Belnap said last week in a phone interview from her Provo, Utah, home. "I grew a lot under her instruction."

Belnap, whose parents are Debbie and Richard Bateman of Twin Falls, wants to become a musical artist in the Magic Valley Symphony during the summer year of high school. She played "Annie" in her "on piano."

She also sang and played keyboard for three years in the Twin Falls High School Madrigals, under the direction of Richard Bateman.

"My music had a great influence on my life," she said. "Annie" was my social life (in high school).

After her high school graduation in 1988, Bateman continued to perform, mostly in college women's choirs.

She was also in Richard Bateman's beginning of the summer at the dinner theater. Bateman said she was a terrific source of help.

"I was in Twin Falls, PUMP Company's Music Man. But I didn't have any fans," she said. "I didn't think I could do anything."

But her summer job resonated here, and Bateman said she now feels like she has the experience to do next performing.

"I hope to do more community plays soon," she said.

On Oct. 2 they say in "Annie Get Your Gun" - "There's No Business Like Show Business."

"It's the best promotion in downtown Twin Falls," Bombardier said. "Come see the landscaping improvements we've made. It's the last chance to enjoy the great atmosphere before it starts snowing."

Octoberfest "is a thank you party we're throwing to the community for patronizing downtown," Bombardier said. "We want you to come back."

Portable toilets and extra trash cans will be available for use, signs will be posted indicating where the toilets are.

There's a chill in the air at Magic Valley Mall

When waves of ice washed over the earth and covered the ground with glaciers, only the strongest of animals survived. The beasts that braved the ice Age were the warm and woolly kind - saber-tooth cats, woolly mammoths, the ground sloth and more. Some were big, some were tough (some were both!) but all of them were warm-blooded MAMMALS. They're on the move right now at the Magic Valley Mall. You really can't miss them, and you really shouldn't either. They'll only be here through October 4. But you better dress warm. These majestic mammals might just freeze you in your tracks.

Where's the Caveman?

See if you can find him in Center Court Saturday and Sunday, 1-3p.m.

Daughter dreads move-in of hypochondriac mother

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice. My mother wants to live with me. I'm 56. She's 78. My household now includes my husband, my unmarried daughter and her son, who is 6 years old. My mother is in great condition. Her main problem is that she's a hypochondriac and is lonely. She would be miserable living with us, but I can't convince her. She wants to sell her condo, help us buy a bigger home and move in. I've countered that if she ever becomes ill and unable to take care of herself, we could buy a duplex.

Abby, I cannot live with my mother and I don't want to live with her. She wants her own room in the same house, no duplex. I can't even describe the dread this is causing me. I do not like her. If she were not my mother, I couldn't even be friends with her; I would avoid her. She's extremely self-centered, controlling, overcritical and rude, with an opinion on everything. She's been married and divorced many times, and she has no friends. She turns every conversation on any topic back to herself.

Mother knows that I do not want her to live with us, but she's pushing. She knows that I hate it when she drops in on me unannounced early in the morning, but she does it anyway, saying, "I know this drives you crazy, but..." I could write pages about her annoying habits. What can I do, Abby? Please help me.

—STRESSED DAUGHTER

DEAR STRESSED DAUGHTER: If you want my support, you have it. Do not allow yourself to be pushed into residency with your mother and don't feel guilty about it. Your mother may want to be a bigger part of your lives, but it could harm your marriage if you bow to her demands. Stand firm and enlist your husband to prevent a united front.

DEAR ABBY: My wedding was called off a month ago. I understand now that God is trying to fix some things in my life before he allows me to take such a big step. I'm a very insecure person. It is hard for me to trust — and that caused me many problems in our relationship. However, I am around my "ex" every day. We have the same friends. We broke up with the understanding that we would remain friends. Abby, my ex-fiance deals with things by avoiding a confrontation. At the moment, he isn't speaking to me, which makes me feel sick at heart. I know he's hurting, too. I want nothing but to be there for him. I don't want to crowd him or make him think I'm chasing him. How do I deal with his ignoring me?

—AMY IN RURAL ILLINOIS

DEAR AMY: It may be difficult to distance yourself from your ex-fiance in your small town, but it would be a happier situation for both of you if you stayed out of each other's sight for a while. It has only been a month since your engagement ended and you are both hurting.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: After the death of a spouse, how long should a person wait before starting to date again?

—DOTTIE IN MICHIGAN

DEAR DOTTIE: The usual period of mourning is one year. However, grief is such a personal emotion that no one can presume to make rules that apply to all.

DEAR ABBY: My mother expects us to supply her with school pictures of our children. That is a problem because she insists on getting the large pictures that fit the frames she bought years ago. She actually demands the large pictures.

Abby, the large pictures are not in our budget, and she hasn't offered to help pay for them. The other set of grandparents are delighted with whatever pictures they receive, but not my mother. Can you offer advice on how to handle the unrealistic demands and help us avoid the agony of a confrontation again this year?

—PICTURE-PRESSED

DEAR PICTURE-PRESSED: Tell your mother that providing the size pictures she requests would create a financial hardship. Be firm in letting her know that if she wants large photographs, she must pay for them. Then let the chips fall where they may.

WEEKEND

New this weekend: 'Antz,' 'A Night at the Roxbury'

Combined wire services

Movies playing in south-central Idaho this weekend. Opinions are by Los Angeles Times and Knight Ridder Newspapers reviewers. Ratings by the Motion Picture Association of America are (G) for general audiences; (PG) parental guidance urged because of material possibly unsuitable for children; (PG-13) parents are strongly cautioned to give guidance for attendance of children younger than 13; (R) restricted, younger than 17 admitted only with parent or adult guardian; (NC-17) no one younger than 17 admitted.

Twin Falls

• 'Antz' — In a lunatic idios that has a wicket, computer animation and celebrity voices (Woody Allen, Sharon Stone, Sylvester Stallone) are used to give us a peek at life in a bustling ant colony. More wicket than funny in the final analysis. (PG, for mild language and menacing actions.) (Twin Cinema)

• 'Armageddon' — Sporadically watchable, it's at its best at those frequent moments when it doesn't take itself too seriously. Bruce Willis, Billy Bob Thornton, Liv Ullmann and Ben Affleck star. (PG-13, for sci-fi disaster action, sensuality and brief language.) (Twin Cinema)

• 'Bride and Groom' — Wesley Snipes is half-man, half-vampire and all-prophal weapon in this sultry, silly story pitting the Marvel Comics hero against a galeontomaniacal foodsticker (Stephen Dorff) who, of course, wants to Rule the World. If you dig state-of-the-art martial arts, this might be for you. With Kristoferson and N'Bushe Wright. Directed by Stephen Soderbergh. (R for strong, pervasive vampire violence and gore, language and brief sexuality.) (Grand-Vu Drive-in)

• 'City of Angels' — Viewed strictly as a date movie, "City of Angels" is payback for every "Die Hard" and "Lethal Weapon" ever made. A romance this perfect is the pale equivalent of two hours in a beach chair. But there could be a healing moment between couples, when women admit they're disappointed, too. The love story never reaches the crowd-pleasing heights of "Ghost" or the poetic beauty of "Wings of Desire." the 1987 German film upon which it's based. (PG-13, (Reel Theater)

• 'Dr. Dolittle' — Animals move their lips a lot in this witless modernization of the well-known stories, but they have nothing of interest to say. And neither does anyone else, including a largely wasted Eddie Murphy. Directed by Betty Thomas. (PG-13 for crude humor and language.) (Reel Theater, Motor-Vu Drive-in)

• 'Ever After' — Though Anjelica Huston steals the show as a wicked stepmother, Drew Barrymore is perfectly cast as a post-feminist Cinderella who very much takes things into her own hands. (PG-13 for momentary strong language.) (Twin Cinema)

• 'Hope Floats' — Sandra Bullock clearly chose the role of a woman who returns to her small hometown to recover from a shattered marriage to showcase her talent. It succeeds mainly in showing up her limitations. (PG-13 language.) (Reel Theater)

• 'Lethal Weapon 4' — At this point, the buddy-cop series is about as lethal as a water pistol fight, but still almost as much dumb fun. Every installment adds a new character for volatile Riggs (Me recruits Joe Pesci and Rene Russo hang on for the ride. Rated R; violence, language. (Reel Theater)

Star Wars saga continues in May

Star Wars fans can finally spot E (part) to their noses. Observers: Producer George Lucas has announced the title of the long-awaited prequel to the "Star Wars" trilogy as "The Phantom Menace." (E: to be more specific, "Star Wars: Episode I — The Phantom Menace") The new movie is the first of three prequels to the original saga that began in 1977 with "Star Wars" and was followed by "The Empire Strikes Back" in 1980 and "Return of the Jedi" in 1983. Currently in post-production, "Phantom" will be released May 21. The main stars Liam Neeson as a Jedi knight; Ewan McGregor (with a beard) as the young Jedi Master Qui-Gon Jinn; Natalie Portman (as the "Professional") as a young queen; Samuel L. Jackson is also in the cast. Teaching kids a generation before "Star Wars," the old (and with an older Jedi master who trains Qui-Gon) to be a Jedi during the time of the prequels, political thriller. The two travel to a desert planet where they meet Anakin Skywalker — and anyone who can tell R2D2 from C3PO knows the boy will grow up to be Darth Vader. — Source: New York Daily News paired like the children's books in living tricolor, and Frances McDormand is perfection as Miss Marvel (C) (backslapping, cartoon violence) (R) (Cinema).

Movies

• "The Mask of Zorro" — Stars Anthony Hopkins, Antonio Banderas and Catherine Zeta-Jones have revived one of the most venerable of swashbuckling franchises. A lively, old-fashioned adventure yarn with just a twist of modern attitude. (PG-13 for some intense action and violence.) (R) (Theater).

• "A Night at the Roxbury" — That's the goal of the Roxbury brethren (Will Ferrell and Chris Kattan), but the doorman at the trendy Hollywood club stand in their way in this adaptation of the "Saturday Night Live" sketch. (PG-13 for sex-related humor, language and some drug content.) (Teen Cinema).

• "One True Thing" — Starring Meryl Streep and Renee Zellweger as a mother and daughter brought closer by the prospect of the mother's death, this Carl Franklin-directed version of Anna Quindlen's moving novel demonstrates that the power of simple things, the transcendent nature of the ordinary, can make for riveting filmmaking. (R for language.) (The Orpheum).

• "The Parent Trap" — The 1961 Disney classic about identical twins plotting to reunite their divorced parents has been delightfully updated to an irresistible family entertainment. Dennis Quaid and Natasha Richardson shine as the parents, and Lindsay Lohan is irreplaceable as both of the twins. (PG for some mild mischief.) (Hollywood Drive-in).

• "Ronin" — Veteran director John Frankenheimer, helped by a touch of David Mamet in the dialogue and the best performance of Robert De Niro, brings the old-fashioned espionage thriller efficiently up to date in a story of hard guys pursuing a mysterious briefcase. The car chases are especially satisfying. (R for strong violence and some language.) (Teen Cinema).

• "Rush Hour" — A formulaic but lively and entertaining action comedy that effectively teams martial arts legend Jackie Chan and mouthy, corrupt cop James Van Der Buren, who join forces in tracking down a kidnapper. (PG-13, for sequences of action/violence and shootings, and for language.) (Teen Cinema).

• "Saving Private Ryan" — A powerful and impressive milestone in the realistic depiction of combat that stars an indelible Tom Hanks as a World War II officer assigned to find a soldier in newly invaded France and bring him home. Directed through this Steven Spielberg-directed effort is hampered by a conventional, at times overly sentimental script. It goes as close to unbearable horror and chaos of battle as fiction film ever does. Edward Burns, Matt Damon, Tom Sizemore and Giovanni Ribisi also star. (R for intense, prolonged, realistic sequences of war violence, and for language.) (Teen Cinema).

• "Slums of Beverly Hills" — Like "Push Wedding," "Slums" is an autobiographical story of a teenage girl (Natasha Lyonne) coming up with a weird family, her ennui and her sexuality in the '70s, but it's as lightweight and limber as "Wedding" was heavy and dumber. Lyonne is a terminally embarrassed girl with suddenly big breasts who lives in a seamy neighborhood on the outskirts of Beverly Hills with her dad (Alan Arkin) and brothers. Tamara Jenkins directs with humor and affection. Rated R, nudity, language. (Teen Cinema).

• "Snake Eyes" — A truly, cartoonish entertainment about corruption, assassination and far-flung conspiracies that exists purely as a vehicle for director Brian De Palma to show off the kind of wondrous camerawork that is his passion. Even star Nicolas Cage can't make up for a dramatic side that is scarce and underdeveloped. (R for some violence.) (Grand-Vu Drive-in).

• "The Truman Show" — Peter Weir's hauntingly funny requiem for the television age stars Jim Carrey as the only man on the planet who doesn't know he's the star of TV's longest-running series. (C) (essential themes) (R) (Theater).

• "There's Something About Mary" — This romantic follow-up to the Farrelly brothers' "Dumb and Dumber" takes maximum advantage of the irresistible wholesomeness of Cameron Diaz as the girl everyone falls in love with. Also starring Matt Dillon and Ben Stiller. (R for strong comic sexual content and language.) (Teen Cinema).

• "Urban Legend" — Have you heard the one about the movie that refused to die? This one has similar plots, settings and body counts, with no sustainable competitive advantage over other college-set horror movies. (R for horror violence, language and sexual content.) (Teen Cinema).

• "What Dreams May Come" — Director Vincent Ward and screen writer Ron Bass mix and match

Courtney Love transforms industry image in 5 years

The Baltimore Sun

There's no doubt that Courtney Love has undergone one of the entertainment industry's most remarkable makeovers.

Five years ago, it was hard to find anyone who had anything good to say about her. Even though she had her own band, Hole, she was criticized within the alterna-rock world as an opportunist who leeches off the fame of husband Kurt Cobain.

She was denounced in Vanity Fair as a drug addict and unfit mother, and portrayed in other profiles as a vengeful egomaniac.

Even after Cobain's suicide in 1994, weeks before the release of Hole's "Live Through This," Love gave little slack. Critics praised the album but wondered how much of its genius was actually Cobain's. There were even suggestions that Love had a hand in her husband's death, rumors given fresh currency in the film "Kurt and Courtney."

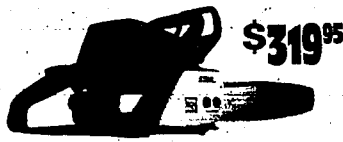

Most of those bad feelings seem to have been swept away, though. After winning the role of Althea Flynt in "The People vs. Larry Flynt," Love seemed beloved by the media. Not only did her acting earn rave reviews and a Golden Globe, but Love herself was applauded, painted now as a smart, savvy pop star who had not only cleaned up her image but was on her way to mainstream acceptability.

That poised and polished persona carries through to Hole's new album, "Celebrity Skin." On the cover, Love looks lean, muscular and assured. Likewise, the band's music seems more accessible and refined. Even though tracks like "Miss World" and "Doll Parts" were catchy enough for MTV, much of "Live Through This" was too screechingly intense to qualify as mainstream fare. "Celebrity Skin," by contrast, has almost no rough edges at all, using catchy choruses and carefully sculpted arrangements to make its point.

Love still likes to play the provocateur; the difference this time around is that no matter how much she may want to get in our face, she doesn't want to risk truly annoying her audience.

What other saws want to be when they grow up.

College of Southern Idaho

Fabiana Abreu: Another shining star from Brazil

By Francis Davis
The Times-News

Fabiana Abreu is the College of Southern Idaho's latest Brazilian import and by the time her Golden Eagle career is done, she could be among the best volleyballers to have donned the prestigious black and gold.

The 6-foot-2-inch freshman hails from Sao Paulo, the Brazilian capital, and she joins fellow Brazilian players Soraya Santos, Roberta Roberts and assistant coach Flavio Gabinio in the Golden Eagles' effort at a sixth straight national title.

CSI is the No. 1 ranked team in the country at 33-0 and Abreu is a big reason for the team's early-season success. Coach Ben Stroud has described her as one of Brazil's top passers and despite an overwhelming left-handed stroke that makes her a lethal outside hitter, Abreu has also logged quality minutes as the team's setter.

Along with her passing prowess and left-handed power stroke, Abreu offers CSI leadership. She's gritty and tough, and not afraid to speak her mind — even if she must do so in her native Portuguese.

Stroud pegged Abreu as a team leader within the first weeks of practice and the Brazilian hasn't disappointed her coach. She was named the MVP of the Utah Valley State College, (4-2) in the SWAC.

When she isn't sending shivers down the spine of opposing players, Abreu likes to relax with friends — listening to music and watching television.

Abreu is studying liberal arts and hopes to follow in the footsteps of CSI alumna Hai Yan Wang.

Wang continued her volleyball career at Hawaii Pacific and was named the MVP of her first tournament. Gabinio turned down an offer to play for Hawaii Pacific this season in order to return to the team as an assistant coach, so the opportunity to play ball in Hawaii is certainly a possibility for Abreu.

Abreu, when asked of her plans, did the universal sign of the hula dancer, offering a glowing smile beneath her hazel eyes.

Not that the freshman is looking beyond the next two years and the possibility of bringing two more rings to CSI.

It all starts tonight, when CSI plays arch-rival Ricks at 7 p.m. Ricks is the last team to beat CSI, 64 matches ago — but Abreu and the Golden Eagles head into tonight's match with quiet confidence.

When asked her thoughts on tonight's matchup, Abreu offered another universal gesture — the thumbs up.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

1. What is your favorite day of the week?
 Sunday. It means Boot Scooters, no practices, no matches.
2. Coach Ben Stroud has called you a team leader. What does that mean to you?
 It makes me feel good to hear coach say that, but it also makes me feel bad because it means I have to lead at every practice, every game. It's difficult. It's also tough because I don't speak English.
3. What is your favorite food?
 Pasta Alfredo.
4. What is the biggest difference between Brazil and America?
 U.S. is a rich country and Brazil is not. In Sao Paulo, I have fun. I go out every weekend with my friends. Twin Falls is, well, quiet.
5. Who is someone you admire and why?
 My parents. I love them so much.

Bruins attempt revenge at Borah

If tonight's football schedule looks a little waffle, blame the Idaho High School Activities Association. In an effort to apparently allow more fans to go see A Night at the Roxbury tonight, the state's teams have been playing games since Wednesday.

Though the week has already seen Carey improve to 5-0 and the expanded A-2 district play a full slate of games for the first time since making the leap from A-3, there are still a handful of marquee matchups.

Big school game of the week

Twin Falls at Borah. The Lions were the only team to hold the Bruins scoreless last year, doing so in the regular season finale. But last year at this time, Borah was 3-1, not 1-3 as the team is today.

PIGSKIN PREVIEW
Damen Clow

The schedule is not as kind to Borah as it is to Twin Falls for the rest of the season. The Lions have one thing in their corner — they've won a game on the road, and Twin hasn't.

Small school game of the week

West Side at Declo. The Hornets are undefeated and are scoring an average of more than 40 points per game. So why is this team still unranked? Two reasons.

- The Glenns Ferry Pilots, also undefeated and looking forward to a Oct. 23 game with Declo.
- The strength of the A-3 teams throughout the state, who seem to be attracting the attention of the voters. Any one of them falter this weekend, and the Hornets are more than ready to jump in their spot.

Other games

Oakley at Mackay. The Miners have already played their biggest game of the year — last week's 42-6 win over Hagerman in a rematch of the 1997 state championship.

At the same time, Oakley fell out of the top five after opening the season with four losses. If ever there was a team with nothing to lose against a team with everything to lose it down (is Roxbury showing in Mackay?), it's these two.

Burley at Rigby. The Trojans return home after a 14-7 win at Jerome, while Burley is still winless.

With the exception of a 56-5 loss (due to first-game jitters and the fact that Snake River really doesn't lose often), the Bobcats are playing better on the road than they are at home.

Granted, that theory is based on one game (Sept. 11 vs. Minico), but it's the one game that the Bobcats look forward to more than any.

Jerome runners Liz Jackson and Dusty Schranveveld lead the pack in the first half of the Twin Falls Classic cross country run at Canyon Springs Golf Course Thursday. The Jerome girls' team took second overall, as did the Twin Falls boys.

Twin Falls boys, Jerome girls place 2nd at meet

By Lisa Winther

TWIN FALLS — The Canyon Springs Golf Course became home of the Twin Falls Classic for 412 runners from 25 schools around Idaho as athletes charged the greens to prove who possessed the most stamina and determination.

The cross country meet has taken place for the past 16 years. Runners flock to the event from southern Idaho schools to experience some of the competition they'll experience at state.

"It always has been competitive," said Twin Falls coach Larry Lewis. "There's a lot of good teams from the east and west of the state."

Pocastello schools swept the event held by Twin Falls. The Highland boys and Pocastello girls took the top honors. Indian-Rain-Reavis defended her first place finish from last year with a time of 20:06.

The Bruins boys were the highest placing Magic Valley team, scoring a 147.

"I was really happy with them," Lewis said. "They ran well and they ran as a team. They also competed with each other as well as with the other teams."

Competitiveness among the Bruins showed throughout the race. After the first mile, Drew Michener was in seventh, pulled by Adam Miller and Chad Wallin at ninth and tenth.

By the end of the race, Wallin overtook his teammates to finish in the No. 12 position with a 17:42 time.

"Today I felt confident," Wallin said.

For the girls' side, Jerome captured second place with Tiger Dusty Schranveveld leading the way with a third place finish.

After the first mile, Jerome led the 165 participants before Reavis took over the lead and held it until the end.

Leah Moore, the lone athlete from Buhl finished in the No. 6 position. She was the next closest Magic Valley finisher behind Schranveveld.

"You've got to run with passion, not for the glory," Moore said. "You'll end up doing the best you've ever done."

The next big meet for Twin Falls will be the Firman Invitational held in Boise at Eagle Island State Park.

Kimberly routs Wendell at home

By Jeff Roson
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — The Wendell High School football team gave the Kimberly High School cheer squad one heck of a homecoming workout Thursday night.

The Bulldog pep team cranked out a combined total of 298 push-ups, sit-ups and jumping jacks on the sidelines — one for each new tally their gridiron pals posted on the scoreboard — as Kimberly (3-2) rolled to an easy 59-15 A-2 football win over the visiting Trojans.

Only Kimberly kicker Matt Kopydiowski tallied more appearances on the field Thursday night, booting six extra points and one field goal.

"This was a big win for us," Kimberly coach Kirby Bright said.

Braves homer in 9th to set up extra-inning win

Atlanta Brave Walt Weiss tags out Sammy Sosa as he attempts to steal second base in the second inning of Game 2 Thursday at Turner Field in Atlanta.

The Associated Press

ATLANTA — It was a magical regular season for the Chicago Cubs. The post-season is the same, old thing.

Two outs from earning their first-round playoffs series, the Cubs lost a ninth-inning lead on Javy Lopez's homer, squandered a great scoring chance in the 10th, then had a defensive miscue in the bottom half and lost to the Atlanta Braves 2-1 on Chipper Jones' single Thursday night.

The Braves have a 2-0 lead in the best-of-5 series, which moves to First World Field for Game 3 on Saturday night.

The Cubs, looking their first World Series title since 1908, turned sloppy after Kevin Tapan's brilliant performance. He took a four-hit shutout into the ninth before giving up Lopez's homer into the left-field stands.

In the top of the 10th, Glenallen Hill led off with walk, was bunted to second by Gary Gaetti and stole third after an intentional walk to Mickey Morandini.

But former Atlanta shortstop Jeff Blauser struck out against rookie Odalis Perez and Lopez threw out Morandini, who was trying to steal second on the 1-2 pitch.

In the bottom of the inning, the Braves struck quickly against loser Terry Mulholland, who took over for Tapani.

Walt Weiss walked with one out and Tony Caffeau bunted down the first-base line to four-time Gold Glove Mark Grace.

Grace was late making the throw to Mulholland covering the bag, and the pitcher missed the bag for an error. Jones followed with a line drive just inside the left-field line while Weiss trotted home with the winning run.

NC State upsets No. 11 Syracuse

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Jamie Barnett upstaged Donovan McNabb as North Carolina State pulled off its second major upset in three weeks Thursday night, rolling up more than 500 yards in a 38-17 victory over No. 11 Syracuse.

Barnett's favorite target, looking up six times for 132 yards as the senior became the school's career leader in receiving yards. McNabb tried to rally Syracuse with an 8-yard scoring pass late in the third quarter after a fumble by Wolfpack fullback Jeff Butler, cutting the N.C. State margin to 14. But after driving Syracuse to midfield early in the fourth quarter, the scrambling McNabb was sacked for an 18-yard loss and a personal foul against the Orangemen was added on the play to kill the drive — and ultimately the hopes of Syracuse, which came in averaging 47 points a game, third in the nation.

The Cubs really try-to-pound teams into submission with Sammy Sosa and the rest of the offense, having scored 831 runs to rank third in the league. But Chicago was routed 7-1 in the first game and managed only four hits Wednesday against Tom Glavine.

For the second straight week, Centennial will be on the road against an opponent who has been in Div. I all of one month. If the Patriots were looking past Lewiston last week, they will be much more focused this week.
