MORE - There's more room down there at cular level for computer chip makers than the molecular level for computer chip makers than they thought.

Bell Labs scientists say they have found what they believe is the limit for making smaller chips using current materials – five atoms.

That's the minimum thickness needed for the silicon disorder film at the heart of computers to work.

Currently, the so-called gate codde films used are about 52 atoms thick, said Greg Timp, one of the south's authors.

Checks bounce, teacher gets arrested

Checks bounce, teacher gets arrested AUGUSTA, Ga. It will be a subuded homecoming for a group of students stranded in Europe after their teacher paid for their oversens trip with checks that bounced.

The 28 students and two adult chaperones were expected to return late Wednesday. They flew to Europe last Thursday for what was supposed to be a two-week tour of Spain, France and Portugal. But the day after the group arrived, its hotel reservations were canceled when checks written to the travel agency bounced, Richmond County District Automap Danny Craig said.

Police suspect Vanessa Velez-Cruz, who teaches Spanish at Aquinas High School, a private Roman Catholic school, may have stolen more than half of the $90,000 the students gave her to book the trip. She was in jail Tuesday for allegedly violating erms of her release on bond on an unrelated, decade-old theft charge.

A new report from the State Board of Education confirms what many Idaho college students – and their parents – have known for years. College students are borrowing more to finance their education.

That isn't great news, but it isn't the end of the world, either.

A college education is arguably the most critical investment a person can make. It may cost a little up front, but workers with college degrees generally command better wages than workers without college degrees generally command better wages than workers without college degrees generally command better wages than workers without college degrees. The lifetime earnings for college-educated workers have been estimated at roughly $1,000 per month more than the lifetime earnings for workers without college degrees. # When thinking pool, think long-term

When thinking pool, think long-term Having a year-round pool is a good idea. When the pool design was originally presented to the City Council, one of the selling points was that eventually the city could enclose the pool with three fixed wails and one glass wall that could be opened for summer use. Delieve this would be a better long-term investment than the bubble option. This more permanent option may be more costly at first, but pool users would enjoy the benefits for many, many years. The appearance would be stately and would not look temporary or make-shift.

estis for many, many years. The appearance would be stately and would not look temporary or make shift.

The City Council should explore what would be best in the long term. The Cover the Pool Committee did a great job of fund-raising.

Now is the time for the City Council to find a way to fund the enclosing of the pool as it was originally designed and planned.

The council is very capable and its decision would be made with full awareness of maintenance expenses and taxpayers' reaction to such ongoing costs.

elections may well be: "It's education, stupid."
But we cannot afford to wait until the next century to embrace education reform efforts to raise student achievement nationwide. The good news is we don't have to stall any longer. Democrats and Republicans in the Senate already have an opportunity to pass bipartisan legislation that will set our schools on a course for success - today.

The need for immediate action must not be underestimated. Too many of our schools - for lack of accountability, for lack of resources - simply are not equipped with the tools to provide their students a high-quality education. Ideological gridock in Congress has only exacerbated this crists, with legislation working the provide their students of the students

NEW YORK - All of the San Antonio Spurs, not just Tim Duncan and David Robinson, emerged as championship material in Game 4.

In a game in which somebody had to make the big plays in the final two minutes, it was the Spurs who made them all. Closing with a 10-S run, San Antonio defeated the New York Knicks 96-89 WHM A Finals.

No NBA team has ever recovered from such a deficit in the finals.

This was a true team effort, not just a bunch of guys riding along on the coattails of Duncan and Robinson, who scored 28 and 14 points, respectively.

Mario Elie had 18, Avery Johnson and Sean Elliott scored 14 apiece as all of San Antonio's starters reached double figures.

"We had a lot of focus tonight," Robinson said.

"We had a lot of focus tonight," Robinson said. San Antonio held the Knicks to 17 points in the third quarter and outre-bounded them for the first time in the rebounds and Robinson 17, and the Twin Towers deterred the Knicks all night with their size. Robinson had four blocks and Duncan three. "You don't want to get tied up with these Knicks here," Duncan said. San Antonio led for most of the game, but – unlike in Games 1 and 2 – the Knicks made a final run in the fourth quarter. # Gretzky is in the Hall — was there any doubt?

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — There was no great wait for Wayne Creatly.
Calling it the "icing on the cake." Greaky made the Hall of Fame on Wednesday with the same ease with which he broke offensive records, bypassing the standard three-year waiting period for inductees.
"I used to visit the Hall of Fame, but I never thought I'd be a part of it," said Gretzky, who grew up in Brantford, Ontario, not far from Toronto-where-the-Hall-ie-located.—If-you-work hard, great things can happen. Dreams do come true. I'm living proof of that."
Gretzky, who retired from hockey two months ago, is the 10th player in NHL history to bypass the standard three-year waiting process to enter the Hall.
The other players who didn't have to wait the required three years: Dir Clapper (1947), Maurice Richard (1961), Ted Lindssy (1966), Red Relly (1959), Terry Sawchuk (1971), Josan Ballweau (1972), Gorde Howe (1972), Bobby Orr (1779) and Mario Lemieux (1997).

Sprewell with 6:16 left, and Houston scored on a short jumper over Avery Johnson with 5:39 left to cut the deficit to two,

Sprewell had a big play by poking the ball away from behind on a 2-on-1 break, causing a turnover, and Ward made one ing period in his case.

In 1,485 games with teams in Edmonton, Los Angeles, St. Louis and New York, Gretzky had 894 goals and 1,963 assists for 2,857 points – 1,007 more than runner-up Gordie Howes corred in his Hall of Fame career.

Gretzky also scored 112 goals in he playoffs and 56 in the old World Hockey Association to give him 1,072, one more than Howe.

Gretzky, who owns 61 NHL records, was a -10-time-scoring-champion and a ninectime.

MyP. He also helped the Ollers win four Stanley Cup championishps. With all his accomplishments, he has been the NHL's Michael Jordan – admired by fans of all cams.

The 1998-99 season was one of frustration for the 38-year-old Gretzky as he struggled through injuries and "feeling more fatigue than I ever felt before."

Since his retirement, Gretzky said he has had "peace of mind. I miss the game, but I know in my heart I made the right decision."

With major win, Inkster could join exclusive group

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) – Winning two major championships as a rookle 15 years ago only made Juli Inkster hungry to win them all.
Perhaps that's why the LPGA Championship means more to her now than ever.
Inkster had gone 10 years without winning a major until she overwhelmed Old Waverly to take the U.S. Women's Open three weeks ago.
Having won the Dinah Shore and the du Maurier Classic in 1984, a victory this week will join her with Pat Bradley as the only women to win the modern Grand Slam. "I'm going to have to have another great week to do it," Inkster said. She certainly has as much confidence. After taking a week to soak up her victory in the Open – she even threw out the first pitch at a San Francisco Giants game – Inkster was only two strokes off the lead last week in the ShopRite Classic before finishing third. A victory there would have inched her dos-er to the Hall of Fame, her ultimate goal. All lakster needs is three points. Two points are awarded for a major, and one each for a regra-lar LFGA victory, a player of the year award or winning the Vare Trophy for lowest scoring average.

At .400, Fernandez has everyone's number

TORONTO (AP) — Tony Fernander treats the subject of hitting A00 the same way he handles a curveball in the dir. He won't bite. Not even a bit. "Talk to me about that in September," his said. Then again, the Toronto Blue Jays' third baseman is going to have a hard time avoiding the topic at this rate. A few days short of his 37th birthday, he was batting 411 going into Wednesday night's game against Cleveland. Ted Williams was the last player to reach the magic mark, hitting 406 in 1941. Tony Gwynn came close in 1994, finishing at .394 in the strike-shortened season.

Thompson, McHale inducted into Hall
SPRINGFIELD, Mass. - Georgetown and the Bosto Celtics for years standards of excellence in basketball - sent two of their linest to the Hall of Fame on Wednesday.
John Thompson, the combative coach who made the Hoyas a national power, entered the hall with Kevin McHale, the longarmed forward who helped the Celtics win three titles.
Thompson became the first black coach to win an NCAA title in 1984. He had been nominated twice before for the Hall of Fame but said his political stands might have hurt his chances.
McHale played 13 seasons with the Celtics. The trio of Robert Parish, Larry Bird and McHale formed one of the best NRA frontcurts, leading the Celtics to championships in 1981, 1984 and 1986. Boston has won 16 NRA titles, more than any other team.
Wayne Embry, who in 1971 became the first black general manager in NRA history, rounded out the top inductions. The 62-yearin off Embry, the Cleveland Cavallers' president and chief operand officer, was elected for his contributions to basketball as an executive.

Scout council will hold auction

TWIN FALLS - Boy Scouts roam the woods and hike the hills. But they need a little help.

An auction will be held to benefit the Snake River Council Boy Scouts on Tuesday. This is the first time the council has used an auction to raise money. "Auctions are a pretty big fund-raiser for this area, and is something we've never tried, so we thought it would be a new and exciting way to raise money."

Scout executive John Calbreath said. Other activities to raise money are the Friends of Scouting campaign, in which parents help support Scout programs, and a cabaret dinner. The dinner includes entertainment and is held in November at the Burley Best Western lina and Convention Center. "We use the money to ensure a quality program, to fund Camp Bradley near Stanley, Cub day camp for Cub Scouts, training, sessions for leaders, and to finance day-to-day operation of the Boy Scout office," Cabreath said.

The council hopes to raise $20,000 from the auction.

workers receive little, it any, medical treatment when they are overexposed.

Rendon and 10 convities poisoned last year were taken by a field supervisor to a local clinic where they were given water and and prescription antidote most doctors would recommend.

"Medical treatment is very limited. I see birth impairments, neurological problems, rashes, blisters, cancer, and the life expectancy for farmworkers in this country is 49, "said Dr. Roberto Lettimendi, who works at a health clinic in Wastonville." I believe this is in direct relation to the chronic exposure by these farmworkers to pesticides."

Letimendi said the new study stiould be used to leverage funding for additional studies about the medical problems caused by pesticide exposure among California's 600,000 farmworkers. The study analyzed 3,991 cases of occupational poisonings by agricultural pesticides between 1991 and 1996.

Nevada needs help to find and kill invading fire ants

LAS VEGAS (AP) – State ento-mologists have discovered two more fire ant colonies in Las Vegas-area nurseries and are ask-ing the public for help in locating and eradicating the dangerous pests.

Over the past several months Over the past several months, the state Division of Agriculture has investigated 186 nurseries in the Las Vegas area and found only a handful of infestations. Officials say they have successfully isolated and destroyed all the colonies discovered so far. "The situation is unusual for this valley. We didn't know until about six months ago that we even had a problem," said Paul levrson, chief of the Division of Agriculture.

While scientists in Southern Nevada have found only one or two imported fire ant colonies a year for the past eight years, the booming construction and land-scaping projects underway in the Las Vegas Valley threaten to bring an uncontrollable invasion of the pests.

Scientists suspect the majority of the ants are coming from nurseries in Southern California where the fire ant invasion is in full swing.

That's important for Nerada because so many of our nurseries are getting their gook from the 80 squares, and infested are in the same that it is not specificated and in the ants gain a toe hold in Nevada, the state would eventually have to spend millions of dollars for containment and eradication.

Washington bar owners offer alternative to drinking and driving

METALINE, Wash. (AP) - The owners of a northeastern Washington bar and grill are trying to take away any excuses customers may give for driving home drunk.

Since Rich and Carol Sargent took over as owners of the Western Star Bar & Grill in March, they've offered free rides home to local customers who aren't able to drive themselves.

"We want to make sure that if somebody wants to come down and have a couple of drinks with dinner, they don't have to worry about whether they're going to get a ticket going home," Rich sargent said.

The standing offer is a bid to lare back customers scared away earlier 'this year when Washington lowered the legal blood-alcohol threshold for into-carion to. OR necreent, and by ication to .08 percent, and by newly elected Fend Oreille County Sheriff Jerry Weeks' "no-tolerance" policy on drunken dri-ving.

"Fve never had anybody say no" to the offer, Sargent said. "Sometimes they apologize for causing us to do that, but they say it's excellent and they come back." Customers typically are driven home by Sargent's parents or his brother. He also arranges car-coles among rustomers.

SHOSHONE - The Lincoln County Fairgrounds is now under the management of the county instead of the deity.

After decades of leasing and subleasing the tract of land used for staging the county fair, Lincoln County has purchased the property for $37,000. The site on the western edge of the city of Shoshone has been leased from Union Pacific Railroad by the city and then subleased to the county for the past $9 years, the arrangement also included subleasing a portion of the area to the Shoshone School District for a football field and practice track.

Former governor's second trial may be shorter, cheaper

PHOENIX (AP) – If former Gov. Fife Symington is charged with bank fraud again, his second-trial is likely to be shorter and cheaper than the multimillion-dollar, month-long ordeal of his 1997 trial.

"It's always better to simplify," said Loyola Law School Dean Laurie Levenson, a former federal prosecutor. "It will always be in the government's interest to simplify and have a shorter rip!"

simplify and nave a summirial."

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals threw out Symington's bank fraud conviction Tuesday, saying a federal judge improperly replaced a juror during deliberations. Assistant U.S. Attorney David Schindler has said he will either appeal that ruling or seek to bring Symington to trila again.

again. That would be a blow to Symington, who all but ruled out a plea bargain and complained Wednesday that his defense has cost more than 54 million. Defense lawyer John Dowd said Symington has been punished enough and should not face another trial.

Although the first trial took more than three months and cost the government an antold sum, time and money probably won't be prime considerations for prosecutors, Levenson said.

Association, a trade organization for rafting companies. The swift current and deeper water pose a slightly greater risk to rafters and koyakers, he said. Last week two people were killed in Colorado raiting accidents, one on the Arkansas River and the other on the Poudre River and enter on the Touler River near Fort Collins, both with high water levels.

However, levels this year are odifferent than in the past five years, Kleinschnitz noted.

"The season always starts aggressively. The water is colder in June and the water volume is up, so the current is stronger," he said.

Until April, this year's outlook for rafting companies was grim. Then, it snowed. A lot.

"So we have exceptional water again," Kelinschnitz said.

Now they're trying to save the handful of gizdlies that live in the Sellark Mountains. The Owensess are working with Greg Johnson of the Idaho Fish and Game Department to push for an end to illegal hunting that is lalling off the big bears.

Interest of the couple's 1992 book, "Eye of the Elephant," which chronicled their battle to save elephants being killed for ivory in Zambias North Luangwa National Park, Johnson asked the couple to help out with Selkirk Ecosystem Grizzly Bear Recovery Project, which seeks to educate hunters on how to distinguish the threat-end-species from the common black bear. "They feel most strongly about education, especially. That was a big part of their work in Africa," Johnson said.

A donation of $21,000 from Priest Lake sawmill owner Marc Brinkmeyer and his wife. Sue, ran our last year, and the project was facing major cutbacks.

The Owens Foundation for Wildlife Conservation sent letters to supporters and set up a Web site for those interested in helping to save one of the last five remnant populations of grizzlies in the lower 48 states. In Africa, commercial peaching was a major threat to elephants. In the Selkirks, Mark Owens believes industrial logging poses major problems for the grizzly.

Some area logging roads have been closed by federal officials to protect grizby habitat. The closures, which posed a problem for some logging operations and recreation users, were challenged by Boundary County commissioners. "We've always been in favor of making sure that the recovery effort goes well." County Commissioner Kevin Lederhos said, though county officials object to some tractics.

turned into a giant reservoir by man-made water-control structures, lack of fluctuation in water levels has resulted in the greatest loss of biological diversity.

"Over 40 species of spavening or spend part of their spavening or spend part of their lives there." Willow said. "The wetlands also provide habitat and feeding areas for waterfowl, herons, small songbirds and a whole host of invertebrates."

When water levels don't fluctuate, Wilcox said, a system of natural progression sees cattails take over many marsh areas and crowd out other species.

"You need high water to kill allows seeds left by other species to germinate. The fluctuating cycles are what create a healthy balance. If you lose those cycles, then the cattails take over, and they are followed by exotic invaders like purple loosestric."

Many game fish such as pike, muskellunge, bass and perch spawn in wetlands. Others, like salmon, feed on fish that spawn the two in wetlands provide food for creatures that game fish ear.

"We set a fyke net in a marshin Saginaw Bay, and in an hourwe got more "than 2,000 alewixes," Wilcox said. "We were amazed at the number. Alewives are the primary food of salmon and a lot of other game fish, so, you can begin to see how a wetland is of critical importance to a fish like a salmon, even though the salmon never spends any of its life there."

Wilcox is involved in a long-tern study of the effect of water-levels on Great Lakes worlands. Geological evidence suggests that over the past 1,000 years or so, the lakes have seen a fairly predictable cycle of high and low water with about 150 years between the high-water peaks. Inside that 150-cycle are a series of smaller fluctuations, with about 30 years between the high-water greats.

The IRA can be assumed to be entirely in the thaxbale part of the estate. Another way to think about it is that the deduction equals how much the IRA about it is that the deduction equals how much the IRA are the same of the interest without the bill would have been without the bill would have been without the IRA.

The deduction for estate taxes on an IRA is taken on Schedule A of an heir's income tax returns as money is withdrawn from the IRA, but it is not subject to the 2 percent floor that normally applies to miscellaneous deductions.

The problem is that sometimes nobody tells the helis that they're entitled to this deduction, which means the heirs pay more tax than necessary. However, you don't get the deduction if no estate tax is paid on the IRA in the first place. Uncle Sam wants his due, after all.

help when car-broke down

I need to say thank you to some very special people.
On Saturday evening (May 22), my husband, 10-year-old daughter and I went up Indian Springs Road and our Bronco broke down. My husband walked 11 miles before he found some men who said they would go call my mom and get help. They not only called her but got a hold of the police, who showed up before my mom did and got us down to where she finally me tus and took us home.

So Thank you to the two strangers and recreation officer for helping us out in the middle of the night. And especially to Carlon Control of the control

This year, neither Washoe nor, Pershing county officials opposed the event during the BLM permitting process.

"We've been doing more advanced planning with the agencies," Harvery said. "I think everyone feels better about it now."

In previous years, Burning Man organizers faced critics who com-plained the event would draw drug users and counter-cultural misfits to the remote desert. Media reports often focused on open drug use, weird costumes -or the total lock of any costumes

WELLS CARGO MEW Starting At Only! $1669 324-3900 JEROME JUST A SHORT DRIVE FROM ANYWHERE IN THE MAGIC VALLEY.

At Randy Hansen Chevrolet, we like to keep our inventory fresh. The following vehicles are no different than any other found at our declerably, with one exception: we've had them too long. Before being wholesaled at the auction, we are offering then to the public at greatly reduced prices! If a win-win for you and us. You get a great buy and we save transportation and auction fees. This offer begins Thursday, June 18th and continues through Saturday, June 26th. All prices will be clearly marked, and many will be thousands below our actual cost. After June 26th, finese vehicles will be sent to decleronly auctions.
