State evaluates literacy results

By Jennifer Sandmann
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Slightly more than half of all Idaho third-graders ended the 1999-2000 school year reading at grade level, according to results from a new state reading test. Magic and Wood River valley schools reported varying results. In Twin Falls, slightly more than two-thirds of third-graders were reading at grade level by the end of the school year. The Idaho Department of Education released results Thursday of spring testing on the Idaho Reading Indicator. It's a 10-minute assessment, required by a new state law, that measures reading skills of kindergarten through third-grade students. It is designed to identify the lowest 25 percent of readers, and districts are required to offer those students after-school or summer help. Student participation is up to parents.

"We're seeing teachers adjusting instruction to the learning needs of students, and schools directing resources toward meeting identified needs of students," said Marilyn Howard, the state's superintendent of public instruction.

Last school year, students were tested in the fall, winter and spring. Skills on each test changed to reflect what students should know as the school year progresses. In third grade, many students reading below grade level made progress, but some scores slipped when the standards were raised at the end of the year, the Education Department reported. On the winter test, 60 percent of third-graders statewide were reading at grade level.

Howard hopes to have 85 percent of third-graders reading at Ralph Peters is one of the Jerome County Historical Society members trying to raise money to move two donated barns to the Idaho Farm and Ranch Museum. The group plans a fund-raising auction Saturday.

Jerome wants to preserve barns

By Dixie Thomas Reale

JEROME - The Jerome County Historical Society is asking the community to help preserve two rustic pieces of history for the Idaho Farm and Ranch Museum.

Two old barns built in the early 20th century were donated to the museum by Joe and Jeanette Lickley Frazier.

An auction will be held benefit auction to raise money to restore two old barns will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Idaho Farm and Ranch Museum located 1/4 mile north of the intersection of U.S. Highway 93 and Interstate 84.

Saturday to raise money to move the barns to the museum from their current location on U.S.

Highway 93 less than a mile north of the museum. The 32-by-50-foot classic red barn and a smaller, 20-by-20-foot barn must be moved over fields to avoid power lines on U.S. Highway 93. Their new home will be just east of the poor house on the museum property.

The barns were built by a man named George St. John, one of Jerome's earliest settlers, back in 1912. The larger structure is a classic red barn that looks as if it belongs in a Norman Rockwell painting. The smaller barn started off as a pigeon coop. Back in 1912, pigeon was a delicacy on restaurant menus. Wanting to get into the pigeon meat business, St. John built a pigeon coop which he later converted to a carriage house. The carriage barn was located on the ground floor, the driver's quarters on the second

Judge rejects Aryan Nations' petition for new trial

The Associated Press

COEUR D'ALENE - A judge on Thursday denied a new trial for the Aryan Nations, clearing the way for the winners of a $6.3 million judgment to take control of the neo-Nazi group's rural compound.

First District Judge Charles Hosack also declined to reduce the size of the judgment, and rejected the defendants' contention that their right to hate was protected by law. The defendants were liable for the actions caused by their hate. Hosack wrote, "Arguing that, because hate is a belief, the person professing hate should therefore be relieved from any responsibility ... is a relatively novel defense," the judge said.

Aryan Nations leader Richard

Butler, the group and some of its members were found negligent by a Coeur d'Alene jury on Sept. 7. The lawsuit was brought by Victoria and Jason Keenan, a mother and son who were chased and shot at by Aryan Nations security guards.

But even so, most of his focus is helping Republican Texas Gov. George W. Bush in his race against Democratic Vice President Al Gore in the presidential election.

Note reveals some sailors were still alive after blast tore through sub

Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW - They were alive. At least some of them. At least for a while.

One of the first bodies recovered from the sunken Russian submarine Kursk on Thursday had a note tucked in the pocket, navy officials said. And with its scribbled, businesslike lines, it re-awakened all the pain and shame of last summer's nuclear submarine disaster.

"There are 23 people here," wrote Lt. Capt. Dmitry Kolesnikov, the 27-year-old commander of the turbine section, who had fled with his men from other compartments to the stern section of the crippled submarine. "We made this decision as a result of the accident. None of us can get to the surface."

Kursk chief designer Igor Spassky said Thursday in St. Petersburg that injuries may have prevented survivors from using the submarine's escape hatch.

The note appeared to shed no light on the cause of the Aug. 12 sinking but confirmed the worst fears of some of the families of the victims: that their loved ones were alive for some time, perhaps just a few hours, after the accident and likely died a slow, painful death while waiting for help that never arrived.

And it also again raised the possibility that if the rescue effort had been speedier or more efficient, some sailors might have been saved.

"It's painful, enormously painful. I had this feeling that my husband didn't die immediately. Now that it has been confirmed it hurts lot," Kolesnikov's widow, Olga, stammered through

Inside the doomed Kursk

Searching for bodies inside the sunken Russian submarine Kursk, divers found an officer's note describing what happened to the sub's crew.

Reconstruction based on experts' opinions and the officer's note:

- 1 11:30 a.m.: Explosions begin in forward torpedo room; about one-fifth of crew survives. *Local time
- 2 12:58 p.m.: Most of crewmen in compartments 6, 7 and 8 went into compartment 9 as the sub filled with sea water; two or three considered trying to escape through rear hatch
- 3 Between 1:34 p.m. and 3:15 p.m.: Officer wrote note, which said "I am writing blindly"; hd mentioned the numbers 5 and 13 without explanation floor and the pigeon coop was relegated to the third floor, said Ralph Peters, chief executive officer of the Idaho Farm and Ranch Museum and a member of the Jerome County Historical Society. St. John ran into financial problems and his farm was sold at a sheriff's auction, according to the historical society. Albert Lickley, one of St. John's creditors, purchased the farm and it has remained in the Lickley family ever since. Jeannette Lickley Frazier and her husband, Joe, donated the two barns to the Jerome County Historical Society.

The historical society needs $12,500 for the expenses of moving the barns and making repairs after the move and digging and pouring the foundations for the historical buildings, said Francis Egbert, president of the historical society. The historical society hopes to have the buildings moved by Christmas. Several smaller structures, including a chicken coop and a granary, have already been moved by the Idaho Farm and Ranch Museum staff.

A variety of items has been donated for the auction, including books, paintings, prints, toys, jewelry, linens, antiques, furniture and a 1965 Buick Wildcat. Auction items can be viewed Saturday morning before the auction.

Those who would like to donate to the barn project can call Peters at 324-4683 or Walt Bentzinger, chairman of the Idaho Farm and Ranch Museum Board, at 324-2709.

Man convicted in race-related shooting

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — A 19-year-old man, Jesse Joe Roten, was convicted Thursday of second-degree murder in an attempted murder and hate crimes for firing a single bullet through the home of a biracial couple, killing a 6-year-old girl.

He could be sentenced to life in prison for the April 1999 attack.

is Congress' success in balancing the federal budget without digging into the Social Security trust fund and paying down $354 billion of the national debt.

Simpson wants to scale back the federal government's role in society. But as his views on education reveal, he doesn't take that desire to an extreme.

"There is a role the federal government can play," Simpson said. Williams, a former fighter pilot and retired labor consultant for a startup technology company, is championing campaign finance reform by basing his entire campaign on the Internet. He points with pride to the expected $5,000 price tag on his campaign in a congressional district where campaigns usually cost between $500,000 and $1 million.

"Most of that money, 85 percent or more, comes from out-of-state special interest groups," Williams told a group of Twin Falls, Idaho, Republicans Thursday. And he said that money, needed for the advertising barrage modern campaigns require, is not constituents' votes.

"I have a problem with that because it's your needs that are not being met," Williams said. Williams wants to spend the federal budget surplus on shoring up Social Security, reducing the national debt, helping senior citizens with the ever-growing cost of prescription drugs, making sure children have health insurance.

grade level by the spring 2003 test, when kindergartners who participated in fall 1999's first year of testing will have had four years of increasingly focused instruction.

In fourth grade, students make the shift from learning to read to reading to learn. Students who continue to struggle to read can struggle in other subjects and fall behind in school.

Twin Falls School District sponsored a summer school program for 272 students who scored below grade level. Of those students, 153 attended the two-week August program. The district said it will monitor their progress throughout the year.

The district also said it plans to monitor performance gaps associated with gender and ethnic background, and track students who speak limited English or attend special education programs.

Statewide, only 35 percent of Hispanic third-graders and only 29 percent of American Indian or Alaskan native third-graders were reading at grade level. Of those students, 153 attended the two-week August program. The district said it will monitor their progress throughout the year.

Jefferson Elementary School in Jerome, said it's been a lot of work, but he thinks students will benefit.

"I think it's a very positive thing. It causes us to focus in on certain areas," he said.

Fall 1999 IRI results showed that more of the region's kindergartners arrived at school with literacy skills that trailed the average Idaho student. By winter, area schools had lessened or bridged the gap. Some grades continued to show more students reading at grade level by spring, while other grades slipped somewhat.

"We like the trend of the (tests)," said Marlene Garner, who directs the special services program in Minidoka County. "The longer the students are with us, the better."

Nearly 1,000 educators from across Idaho will meet in Boise Monday through Wednesday to learn about effective reading programs and the latest research on reading.

U.S. responds to bomb threat in Yemen

ADEN, Yemen (AP) — Machine-gun mounted military vehicles surrounded a port-side hotel and civilian traffic was kept away Thursday after a bomb threat targeted Americans investigating the attack on the USS Cole.

The U.S. ambassador to Yemen, Barbara Bodine, also was staying at the hotel and the threat was considered serious enough to wake her to inform her early Thursday. Bodine has temporarily moved from the embassy in San'a to monitor the investigation.

The U.S. Defense Department said Tuesday that American forces in Bahrain, Qatar and Turkey are on heightened alert because of new evidence of terrorist threats in the region.

In Aden, Yemeni security officials said the telephoned bomb threat from an unknown caller arrived around midnight. Yemeni and U.S. security officials held an emergency meeting before dawn and adopted the new security precautions, including preventing civilian traffic from getting within 500 yards of the hotel.

The Oct. 12 attack on the Cole killed 17 U.S. sailors and wounded 39 others. Officials believe two suicide bombers maneuvered a small boat next to the destroyer and detonated it.

The bomb threat came as FBI investigators finished gathering evidence from the ship to send back to the United States for analysis.

About 80 FBI evidence technicians returned home Thursday after completing their work, said a federal law enforcement official in Washington. Another more than 20 FBI agents remain in Yemen, including investigators, security and communications experts, the official said.

Budget agreement falls apart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Less than two weeks from Election Day, Republicans pushed a tax-cut package and a spending bill through the House on Thursday, setting up a double-barreled veto showdown with President Clinton.

Abruptly enlivening the last days of a Congress that had been languidly inching toward adjournment, Clinton was poised to veto both measures in a sharply partisan confrontation over tax reductions, school construction, health care and immigration.

The pre-election tussle seemed likely to draw public attention to the final days of a simmering budget battle that for weeks had been drowned out by the neck-and-neck presidential race, a terrorist attack on a U.S. destroyer and a Middle East crisis.

The House voted 237-174, mostly along party lines, for a bill that would pare taxes by $240 billion over the next decade for some small businesses, provide saving for retirement and others. The tally fell short of the 289 votes the House would need to overturn a veto if all 433 House members vote.

The measure also would boost the hourly minimum wage by $1 and roll back Medicare cuts imposed on health-care providers three years ago.

Later, the House by a 206-198 vote passed the spending bill, which would provide $39.9 billion for the new fiscal year for the departments of Commerce, Justice and State. It also would revamp immigration laws and disperse hundreds of millions of dollars for lawmakers' hometown projects and industries nationwide.

Senate votes on both measures were expected today.

Kissinger rests in hospital after heart attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger remained hospitalized Thursday after suffering a heart attack one day earlier.

"He's doing well, and is expected to be there for a few days," said Karly Robinson, spokeswoman for the New York Weill-Cornell Medical Center, where Kissinger was admitted Wednesday.

Robinson said Kissinger suffered a heart attack but she provided no details.

Kissinger, 77, who had bypass surgery in 1982, was secretary of state in the Nixon and Ford administrations. He has since worked as a consultant and written his memoirs and several books and newspaper articles.

Former Firestone workers talk about conditions at Illinois plant

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A retired tire maker testified Thursday that inspectors at the Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. plant in Decatur, Ill., sometimes had fewer than 30 seconds to check the product.

Jan Wagoner Sr., one of four former workers deposed by attorneys suing Bridgestone/Firestone in wrongful death and injury lawsuits, said workers repairing flawed tires were reprimanded for not meeting daily quotas.

But when questioned about manufacturing practices by lawyers representing Bridgestone/Firestone, all of the workers being deposed admitted he was assessing whether those practices were appropriate.

All four former workers testified that they followed whatever procedures were set forth by company officials even when they disagreed with those practices.

Wagoner said he complained to managers about a procedure calling for him to poke an awl completely through the sidewall of new tires.

"I objected to it, but I did it," said Wagoner, who worried the practice might hurt the tire. "I didn't want to get fired."

Workers were questioned by plaintiffs' attorney Bruce Kaster, who is representing the family of a Florida woman injured in an accident linked to Firestone tires.

The depositions taken by Kaster will likely be used in lawsuits filed by attorneys representing other clients.

About 119 deaths, 500 injuries and 3,500 complaints of tread separations, blowouts and other problems blamed on Firestone tires have been reported to federal officials.

Gene therapy controls Parkinson's in monkeys

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gene therapy experiment relieved severe symptoms of Parkinson's disease in monkeys and experts say the technique offers promise for treating the 1.2 million Americans who suffer from the disease, experts say.

A virus that had been joined with a gene that prompts production of dopamine, a chemical neurotransmitter, was injected into the brains of monkeys who had chemically induced Parkinson's disease.

Three monkeys that had severe symptoms of Parkinson's were restored to near normal by the gene therapy, said Jeffrey H.

Kordower, first author of a study appearing today in the journal Science.

Parkinson's disease, which affects about 1.2 million Americans, is a progressive disorder that affects brain cells that make dopamine. The loss of dopamine causes the classic Parkinson's symptoms: trembling, slow and stiff movement of limbs, a halting walk, speech difficulties and loss of balance. Cause of the disease is unknown and there is currently no cure.

Before the gene therapy could be tried in humans, questions about safety would have to be answered, Dawson said.

NASA delays Mars mission

The Washington Post

NASA Thursday unveiled its latest plans to explore Mars, delaying from 2005 to at least 2011 a long-planned mission to send a robot to the planet to collect a soil sample and return to Earth.

"Ultimately, we want to go to Mars and get a sample and bring it back to Earth," said Edward Weiler, NASA's associate administrator for space science. "But we have to be very, very sure that that billion- or two-billion-dollar mission to go get a sample is going to the right place on Mars." To find that right place, one that maximizes the odds of finding rocks and soil that could show whether life ever existed on Mars, NASA will take a more long-range, step-by-step approach that will cost more and take longer to implement.

But it will be less susceptible to failure, more international in scope and more responsive to scientists' evolving knowledge about Mars, Weiler said.

Kursk

 tears in a televised news conference. "I want to see him one more time. I want to read his letter."
 She was not the only one affected by the news. Divers who retrieved the bodies were reported to be undergoing counseling. Vice Adm. Mikhail Motsak, chief of staff of the Northern Fleet, grew emotional during a dockside news briefing and warned reporters to show respect.
 "Don't pry clumsily into our souls," he said. "We're in pain." Then he saluted curtly and marched off.
 Perhaps none of the misfortunes this nation has suffered in recent years has caused as great a public outpouring of grief as the loss of the Kursk and its 118 seamen. Russians watched with anger as the navy tried and failed for days after the accident to reach the crippled submarine, hoping and fearing the sailors were still alive.
 When Norwegian divers finally opened the submarine's escape hatch Aug. 21 and discovered the craft filled with water, Russian officials tried to calm an aggrieved nation and defend their rescue efforts by suggesting that the entire crew had perished immediately at the time of the sinking.

 Kolesnikov's few lines removed whatever poor comfort that offered.
 Motsak, the Northern Fleet's chief of staff, provided some additional details during his briefing for reporters, although they conflicted somewhat with Kuroyev's account. Motsak said the note indicated that the surviving crew members had fled to the submarine's far aft section, at 12:58 p.m. from the sixth, seventh and eighth compartments. Kolesnikov started writing the note at 1:34 p.m., he said, and stopped writing at 3:15 p.m.
 The note indicated that two or three of the crew were going to attempt a free ascent - exiting the submarine through an escape hatch despite the water pressure. Motsak noted that since rescuers had found the hatch flooded, suggesting that the attempt was unsuccessful.
 It was not clear what other information the note may contain about the cause and results of the blast, which is believed to have killed many of the crew members instantly.

New statistics say children are safer at school

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite recent headline-making occurrences of school violence, the number of such incidents is falling and children are more likely to be hurt off-campus, the government reported Thursday.
 "America's schools are safe places," said Attorney General Janet Reno, releasing the report by the Education and Justice departments. It said schoolchildren are twice as likely to be victims of serious violent crime away from school.
 In the 1997-98 school year, 42 of the 3,000 children who were murdered or committed suicide, or 1.4 percent, died at school, the report said. In the same year, 253,000 students ages 12 to 18 were victims of serious crimes such as rape and robbery at school, compared with 550,000 children who were victims of such crimes away from school.

 "When we drop our children off at school or when we walk them to the school bus, we parents can know that our children are safer than they had been in the past," said Frank Holleman, a deputy to Education Secretary Richard Riley.
 The report uses information reported by students and principals to conclude that crime declined in the nation's schools since 1992. It is drawn from a variety of government statistics, and much of the information had been reported piecemeal in earlier studies.
 Worries about school violence were raised anew just this week with an incident Tuesday at Pioneer Elementary School in Glendale, Ariz. Nobody was hurt or killed when a 14-year-old boy carried a loaded 9 mm handgun into his former school and began a standoff in a classroom full of seventh- and eighth-graders that lasted about an hour.

 The drive for a greater federal role in making schools safer came amid deadlier incidents like the April 1999 Columbine High School shooting, in which two boys killed 12 schoolmates and a teacher before fatally shooting themselves.

 The new report was intended to create a national database to track school crime. Its veracity has come under some criticism from those who say students and principals alike might be unwilling to report all the troubles that occur in their schools.

Gore attempts to dowse Nader, show 'wild side'

BETTENDORF, Iowa (AP) — Al Gore crammed five states, a global warming alert and talk of leather pants into a single campaign day as he raced Thursday to oust Ralph Nader's flicker and put a flame under his own image.

Gore pushed the boundaries of an already personality-driven presidential race when he offered up to rap star Queen Latifah that he prefers a woman in lace — not leather — has never worn leather pants. He said he still has a motorcycle driver's license and "might," as president, take to a bike again.

"I want to see the reaction from the Secret Service," he chuckled at a taping of Latifah's syndicated talk show.

For the day, Gore aides ordered up red campaign T-shirts with the slogan, "Too hot to stop."

Reflecting the neck-and-neck urgency of his race against Republican George W. Bush, Gore mixed plans for a leisurely cruise across Lake Michigan next week, and replaced it with a bus tour where he can see more Michigan and Wisconsin voters.

On Thursday, he campaigned in Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin, touched down in Illinois and was driving in Charleston, W.Va., just in time to sleep before events there on Friday.

He seized on a new scientific report on climate change to underscore what he says is the necessity of his environmental agenda at a time when Green Party candidate Nader threatens to siphon critical votes in battleground states, including Wisconsin.

"We have a situation where the big polluters are supporters of Governor Bush and they are wanting to be in control of the environmental policy," Gore told Iowans en route to Madison, Wis.

A United Nations-sponsored scientists' report concludes that because of man-made pollution, the average global temperature could rise as much as 11 degrees Fahrenheit by the end of this century.

Bush, Gore alleged, "says on global warming he's not sure what the cause is and maybe we shouldn't do anything except just study it."

Gesturing to the children whose parents took them out of school for a rally in the streets of Davenport, Iowa, Gore continued, "These kids have a right to expect that we will take responsibility for picking the hard right over the easy wrong."

Democratic presidential candidate Vice President Al Gore rolls up his sleeves as Iowa Gov. Tom Vilsack introduces him at a campaign rally Thursday in Davenport, Iowa.

Bush, Gore talk about tax issues

The Associated Press asked the leading presidential candidates: Are you prepared to rule out new or higher personal taxes from Washington over the next four years?

Republican George W. Bush: "Yes. I believe we should return approximately one-quarter of the $4.6 trillion projected surplus to the hardworking Americans who pay income tax cuts. Under my plan, every income taxpayer benefits and the largest percentage reductions go to those with the lowest incomes, including removing 6 million families with children from the tax rolls completely. My On the Issues tax plan cuts the bottom tax rate from 15 to 10 percent and doubles the child tax credit, helping millions of people move into the middle class. A family of four making $35,000 gets a 100 percent income tax cut, making $50,000 gets a 50 percent cut; making $75,000 gets a 25 percent cut. People making over $100,000 will pay a greater share of income taxes than they pay now. I believe reducing marginal rates will provide an insurance policy against recession."

Democrat Al Gore: "America's unprecedented prosperity today is grounded on fiscal discipline. While no one can predict the needs of the future, I believe that America's unprecedented surpluses today offer us the chance to pay down the national debt while cutting taxes for hardworking Americans and making new investments in education, health care and the environment. In my budget, I have proposed a $300 billion 'rainy day' fund to allow for further debt reduction or provide a cushion to help cover unexpected costs in the future. With this kind of fiscal discipline, we can expand our prosperity and keep taxes low."

Three solid Republicans look like easy winners

This fall's legislative races in the Twin Falls area boil down to Republican incumbency and Democratic recumbency.

Republicans control six out of six seats in the area's two legislative districts, and they are virtually guaranteed to renew that monopoly on Elections Day. Three races are uncontested. Two others feature only third-party challengers.

The sole Democratic contestant - party die-hard Stennett - has already conceded defeat. So woeful are local Democrats' prospects that Stennett is refusing contributions for his token campaign against state Sen. John Sandy.

The plight of Idaho Democrats has been widely bemoaned this fall. Rather than belabor the point, let's focus on the good news about this fall's races. That is, barring calamity, the three nominally contested seats will go to three capable Republicans.

Sen. John Sandy has taken some hard shots in this column over the years - mainly for paying too much attention to state politics and too little attention to hometown concerns. But Sandy appears to have shifted his focus in the past couple of years. Since leaving the vice chairmanship of the state GOP, Sandy seems to be spending more of his energy on his constituents. For example, he has taken a leading role in legislative discussions of the dairy issue - a hot topic in his west-end district.

As assistant GOP floor leader, Sandy still appears to be angling for party advancement. But he seems to be increasingly engaged in being a local legislator.

Rep. Celia Gould is a rising star in Idaho politics, and her ascent could prevent her from serving another legislative term. She's a strong candidate for appointment to the lieutenant governor's chair, if Butch Otter wins his congressional race next month.

A Buhl farmer and rancher, Gould is closely in touch with agriculture. She also is a key legislative voice on issues of crime and justice, chairing the Judiciary Committee. In a legislative seat or in the lieutenant governor's office, she's an asset.

If the governor chooses Gould to replace Otter, he'll also appoint her legislative successor. Her departure would be a loss for her district, but local voters should feel pride in having launched her. In the meantime, they should gladly reelect her to the House.

George Swan, appointed to replace the retiring Rep. Randy Hansen on the GOP ticket, is the only newcomer in the group. But he shows plenty of promise.

As a past president of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, Swan will be a knowledgeable advocate for Idaho agriculture. He also brings expertise on property rights, the environment, world trade and public land use. His health has been a concern (he recently was treated for colon cancer), but he appears able and eager to serve.

Competition is good for business, and it's good for politics. These GOP candidates, along with their three uncontested colleagues, would benefit from a strenuous workout with vigorous Democratic opponents.

That won't happen until Idaho Democrats repair their twin bankruptcies of ideology and organization. Meanwhile, local voters can feel confident about these well-qualified Republicans.

Twin Falls area Legislative races

Voters in the Twin Falls area will decide three state legislative races on Nov. 7.

West end District 22, covering western Twin Falls County plus the Hagerman area of Gooding County, has two contested races: Senate - incumbent Republican John Sandy (D-Hagerman) faces Democrat Carole Stennett of Buhl. House Seat 22A - Incumbent Republican Celia Gould of Buhl faces Libertarian Jonathan A. Stump of Filer. (Rep. Douglas Jones, R-Filer, is running unopposed for House Seat 22B.)

East end District 23, covering eastern Twin Falls County, has one contested race: House Seat 23B - Republican George Swan of Twin Falls faces Conservative Party candidate Chuck Chapman of Twin Falls. (Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, is running unopposed. So is Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls, in House Seat 23A.)

Times-News backs Grindstaff
Months ago, I predicted The Times-News would endorse Idaho Cattle Association board member Brockman and "long-time Republican official" Grindstaff for Twin Falls County commissioners. A feeble attempt is made to rationalize that Grindstaff and Brockman "have been active on dairy issues..." but skips over 10 years of Republican complicity in allowing a proliferation of open, untreated, manure lagoons and the 900 polluted stream segments in Idaho.

How does The Times-News spin the "long-time Republican" service of Grindstaff and Brockman and then say they have no responsibility for the dairy mess in Twin Falls County today? The Times-News says agriculture was and maybe a little light manufacturing is all there will ever be in Magic Valley, then indicts the challengers Mike Ihler and Bill Chisholm as being one-issue candidates. If industrial dairies paid environmental impact fees and were taxed as industrial enterprises instead of "agriculture," there would be plenty of money for budget shortfalls, a controversial 911 system, indigent medical care and major financial challenges at the county-owned hospital, but instead concessions for roads and subsidies of every description are given to dairies. Adding the pollution of another 150,000 cows will dictate that manure will always be the issue in Twin Falls County.

Chisholm has worked tirelessly on problems with dairies, water quality, threats to traditional agriculture and nuclear waste for decades now, and everything he predicted has come to pass. Chisholm and Ihler raised the public awareness on the Salmon Tract hog factory so the county commissioners were forced to procrastinate it to death after it was passed by Twin Falls Planning and Zoning. Chisholm and Ihler signed House 306 in an attempt to empower counties to control dairies. Chisholm and Ihler worked to defeat House 546 that would have allowed one state official to fine any protester of dairy water rights transfer into bankruptcy without a trial or a judge. Ihler exposed the dairy odor at the Hollister School with KBCI-TV.

Ihler and Chisholm have already achieved this and much more for the people rather than wasting time making excuses for party politics, emotionally "stomping" out of meetings and dodging responsibility.

Don Cogger is the man for the job
I would disagree with your summation on who would best serve Gooding County as commissioner. If being a Republican constitutes the right to hold office, then here. In any election, there is always an issue that will take center stage, and focus by a candidate may be more dominant than that issue. I find it ironic that this particular "educators" editorial staff would make such an assumption and classification of Don Cogger. Quite possibly your staff should have done more research into who Mr. Cogger is and what he stands for instead of basing your endorsement on his political affiliation and a two-issue interview. Don Cogger is not anti-confined animal feeding operation but pro-property owners rights, pro-protection of our agricultural farms (which are the backbone of our communities) and pro-protection of our rights to still have clean water without high nitrate or bacteria levels and air that we can breathe outside of the interiors of our homes. He has not denied the fact that the dairies have contributed to the agricultural community, however, there needs to be changes made so that these operations do not become a nuisance to the public.

He is an activist in making sure there is accountability among our local officials and, over the past five years, has actively participated in numerous commissioner and planning and zoning meetings to make sure laws adopted in the country are followed. Don Cogger wants to ensure that there is a commissioner in Gooding County that listens to the public concerns, sees that laws protect all who reside in the county and will act in the best interest of all the people to protect their rights and quality of life.

Mr. Cogger previously stated his stance on two issues in the Oct. 13 section on Gooding County commissioner candidates. However, some key information concerning his position was left out. Could this be a possible printing error? The distinctive difference between Don Cogger and his opposing candidate boils down to experience, familiarity with the legal and political process, knowledge and expertise of the issues and concerns of Gooding County, time to perform the job duties and, especially, no conflict of interest.

Who is the best candidate for Gooding County commissioner? I think I have just answered that question for you!

Contributions influence candidates
I am writing in regard to the articles about the various campaign contributions. I am shocked by the amount of money that many of the candidates have accepted from the various special interest groups and political action committees. It appears to me that these contributions are made to influence the candidates so that, when they are elected, the so-called representatives will support the special projects and protect the interests of the political action committees instead of the people that elected them.

It has been my honor to support Peter Snyder for the District 24 state representative election as his campaign treasurer. Peter Snyder, from the start of his campaign last spring, assumed the position that he was not going to accept any contributions from any political action groups or individuals that would try to dissuade him from representing the collective views of the people of Jerome and Minidoka counties. This was due to his interest in being able to maintain his integrity and truly represent his constituents in Boise when he was elected.

I have traditionally voted for Republicans in the past, but I chose to support Mr. Snyder in his campaign because of my relationship with him as a friend and co-worker during the past seven years. He has the management, administrative and problem-solving skills and abilities needed to be the person of Idaho. His past dedication to helping people to improve their lives, his hard-working approach to any project that he has been involved with and his ability to solve problems will help to improve the quality of life for the people of Idaho.

I hope you do not have your vote influenced by the many campaign ads, signs, direct mail promotions and other campaign efforts which are paid for by the massive donations from the various special interest groups.

Instead, I encourage you to vote for the person that is truly interested in representing the people of Jerome and Minidoka counties, and that person is Peter Snyder.

Southwick for Lincoln sheriff
My career in public education began in 1970 in Washington District, and I retired at the end of the 1999-2000 school year, having spent the final three years as principal and football coach at Dietrich School.

Those three years at Dietrich were the most rewarding, most enjoyable years of my career, and I am most grateful to the students, staff and community of Dietrich for the many wonderful opportunities afforded me during those three years.

As an administrator, I have worked closely with attorneys, probation officers, law enforcement and the court systems in Washington and Idaho. I will preface my following comments with this statement: I am not a politician; I have no political aspirations and I have no ax to grind with anyone.

During my three years with the Dietrich School District, I had several occasions to contact the Lincoln County Sheriff, Mr. Steve Southwick. At all times, I found Sheriff Southwick to be expedient, responsible and professional in dealing with the situation. When I compare Sheriff Steve Southwick to other sheriffs I have dealt with, many of them pale in comparison.

He is a professional with experience and compassion. I sincerely urge the voters of Lincoln County to retain Steve Southwick as their sheriff.

Vote against the animal factories

The present county commissioners and Sen. Sandy have temporarily acted like they are listening to complaints about the quality of life in Magic Valley in relation to the immense pollution caused by factory farms. If they are re-elected, you can bet that they will assume that it is approval for their past performance and, as Mr. Brockman said at his chamber of commerce appearance, more animal factories will be approved.

Even Republican Gov. Phil Batt is concerned about the fact that the rich right-wing Republicans have taken over the law-making process in our state in selection and control of candidates and that average citizens are not being represented or heard.

Bill Chisholm and write-in candidate Mike Ihler are running for commissioner seats, as is Carole Stennett for Sen. Sandy's seat. These are honest, hard-working, intelligent, ordinary people who have vowed to listen to the public and run a frugal government, with respect to our quality of life and the loss of value incurred by those owning property downwind from these mega animal factories. The election of these three people would make headlines in every newspaper in the state and re-establish choice in our political system.

If you are not registered, you can do so at the polls. All you need is your driver's license and one utility bill showing your residence. If you do not have the courage to vote, please have your smeller checked.

Vote in a home-grown sheriff

I had the privilege of serving as a juror in Jerome County about a year ago. I served on a jury that had to make a decision on a rather serious charge. As the evidence in the case was presented to us, I became very disillusioned and disappointed in the quality of police work done by our sheriff's department. As a result of that, a person who should have received a prison sentence was convicted of a lesser charge and received a few months in jail.

This does not reflect the work of a well-trained and honed law department that Sheriff Jim Weaver claims to have.

Rest assured, the reason for turnover in the Jerome County sheriff's department is not because his officers are being sought after because of his training and honing of them. We have some excellent officers in the department, but they received training elsewhere, and they deserve better leadership.

His claim of crime being down has more to do with other factors, such as a strong economy. The percentage he claims may also be because of, quoting Gov. Bush, "fuzzy math."

Why does Jerome County have to be the target of "big-town cops" who think they are qualified to administer and manage a rural county sheriff's department?

I have lived in Jerome County for 32 years and have seen some excellent sheriffs and well-managed sheriff's departments. We need to move back to the degree of excellence that the people of Jerome County deserve.

The comment has been made, "if it's not broke, don't fix it." Well, it's broke, and a few drops of oil is not going to fix it. It needs a major overhaul.

If you are concerned about the quality of law enforcement in Jerome County, vote for Jerry Martinez on Nov. 7.

I am proud to be one of the good old boys that really cares about what goes on in Jerome County.

Cast an independent ballot
They say you could run a dead horse on the Republican ticket in Idaho and it would win.

Not surprisingly, the advice we get from The Times-News editorial staff is to stick with the same old horses. You know, that team we were hitched to by the Twin Falls County Republican Committee that didn't feel it was necessary to even show up for public meetings on the most pressing of county issues?

I believe it's time to cast an independent vote. Most of what our incumbent Twin Falls County commissioners are trotting out and bringing up this election season would not have taken place were it not for the perseverance of Bill Chisholm. Think about it. He deserves our vote.

Let women choose

I had to reread Mr. Wuthrich's recent letter on the new abortion pill several times to figure out if it was in jest or for real. It is difficult to believe anyone could write such things about women. I was offended.

I don't like abortion and don't condone it but do respect the rights of women to make their own choice. I also know there is more to abortion than "irresponsible women fornicating without a second thought."

And no, women will not be able to "simply pop a few pills and head straight back to fornicating." It is actually costly and complex.

What does buying a home with a few clicks of a mouse or ordering a pizza have to do with the very delicate and emotional issue of abortion?

I do hope, Mr. Wuthrich, you are able one day soon to overcome your attitudes toward women.

Husband, wife team keep country life alive for city folk

The Seattle Times

SEATTLE - In a prepackaged world built for speed, the farming life is easily forgotten. That's a disturbing realization for urbanites who grew up with a Mark Twain-style country ideal and now have young kids of their own.

Few people have capitalized on that emotion more effectively than the husband and wife team of Gary and Bonnie Remlinger of Carnation, Wash.

The desire for what they call "the farm experience" is apparent during harvest time as people flock to Remlinger Farms for a taste of farming nostalgia and home-grown foods.

Feeding that desire has turned into big business, attracting more than 100,000 customers each year to the Snoqualmie Valley farms along the Totem River. The Remlingers have about 750 acres, their own market and a line of ready-to-bake pies that appear in 100 West Coast grocery stores.

Customers have changed, but business is steady, say the Remlingers. It began with a U-pick berries business more than 30 years ago and continued through transitions to prepared foods and an amusement park.

The growth in the amusement part of the business is apparent on an October weekday. It's not uncommon to see 15 school buses in the lot for elementary-school field trips that mix play with a little learning about where food comes from. The squeals of schoolchildren are a constant, whether on the steam train or in the barn that's essentially a petting zoo. On weekends, the lot can be even more packed as parents tag along with cameras.

For the adults, there's arts and crafts, a restaurant and a market with fruits and vegetables and canned goods, many with the rustic Remlinger Farms logo. "It hasn't been part of a plan," said Bonnie Remlinger. "We've enjoyed people what they've wanted."

Both Bonnie and Gary come from farming families, and they are partners in the business. Gary focuses on the crop farming, while Bonnie focuses on the learning and entertainment programs for their kids. Daryl Sherfy, one of their in-laws, was hired five years ago as a general manager.

The Federal Aviation Administration's 1962 time capsule, made of metal and painted gold, is unveiled along with its contents during an opening celebration Tuesday in Miami.

Time capsule reveals past visions for today's world

MIAMI (AP) - Thirty-eight years ago, key Florida business executives, military officers and politicians didn't see the Internet coming. One of them, a federal aviation chief, said computers would be flying to work in personal aircraft.

Making predictions was proved yet again Tuesday to be a dicey undertaking, but certainly an interesting one for those on hand to measure forecast against reality.

The prognostications were buried in a time capsule at the front door of the Federal Aviation Administration's Air Route Traffic Control Center northwest of Miami when it was dedicated June 6, 1962. The capsule was sunk in the ground with plans to open it this year, the first of the new millennium.

The predictions were not completely off the mark - forecasting giant leaps in technology - but many read like science fiction. However, no one predicted the widespread use of home computers and certainly not the Internet.

Air Force Col. Richard R. Stewart foresaw a constant military presence in space aboard manned, orbiting stations and atomic bombs replaced by weapons using "light rays and sound waves."

Stewart imagined "atomic-powered" aircraft shuttling soldiers and equipment anywhere in the world within minutes, and saw the moon as a "major military base for our satellites."

NASA's space shuttle program has flown 100 missions over the past two decades, and is deeply involved in building an international space station. There haven't been any manned moon-missions since the early 1970s.

AROUND THE VALLEY

Investigators nab 20 pounds of marijuana

TWIN FALLS - Investigators on the trail of drug trafficking operations on Wednesday recovered about 20 pounds of marijuana in Hooding County and arrested an Arizona man thought to be connected with the operation, according to a news release from the Twin Falls County sheriff's department.

Phoenix-area resident Richard Delisa, 43, was arrested at the Branding Iron Motel in Twin Falls on a charge of drug trafficking, according to the sheriff's department.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's Detectives are involved in a multi-state investigation that ties in with the recovery of the marijuana and Delisa's arrest.

Hagerman police helped confiscate the marijuana, and more arrests are expected soon, the news release said.

Sheriff's office spokeswoman Nancy Howell said few details could be released Thursday because the case is still being investigated.

Downtown Twin Falls sponsors trick-or-treating

TWIN FALLS - Historic Downtown Twin Falls will sponsor trick-or-treating for kids Saturday afternoon.

Parents are invited to bring their children to trick-or-treat at downtown merchants from noon to 3 p.m. on Main Avenue.

For further information, call 734-2113.

Reception to open mask exhibit in Bottega Gallery

TWIN FALLS - An opening reception for "Masks," all created by children, is scheduled from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday in the Bottega Gallery.

More than 50 kids' creations of paper bags, salt dough and plaster will be on display.

They come from nine mask workshops co-sponsored by the Net Coalition and Bottega Gallery.

Masks made by adult artists will also be featured throughout November.

At Saturday's reception, kids will have a chance to dance and model their masks and play a five-man drum created by local artist Mark Farmer.

The Bottega Gallery is located at 125 Second St. W.

Kimberly seniors to hold craft bazaar Saturday

KIMBERLY - The Kimberly Ageless Senior Citizens will hold their annual craft and baked goods bazaar from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the senior center at 310 Main Ave. N.

The event will include a variety of crafts and baked goods. Door prizes will be awarded hourly and lunch will be served.

Indications depict record voter turnout

ELKO, Nev. - Early indicators show a record number of county voters might go to the polls Nov. 7 to cast ballots in national and local elections.

Elko County Clerk Karen Dredge said Wednesday more than 1,000 residents have already taken advantage of early and absentee voting.

"Nevada law allows voters to request absentee ballots by mail and to vote prior to the election. County residents casting absentee ballots are encouraged to vote early on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on weekdays from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. through Nov. 3 at the courthouse.

Dredge said early voting saves the county money and is often more convenient for those wishing to participate in the election.

"I am expecting a good turnout based on the number of votes already cast," Dredge predicted.

Voter registration is up from the last presidential race in 1996. This year 21,407 people are registered compared to 17,480 four years ago.

Building fees might increase

By John T. Huddy
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Want to add on to your home? Maybe build a garage? Better start saving up some cash because county leaders are looking at revising the county's building code - a move that would likely jack up building permit fees.

The county commissioners will have a public hearing Monday to discuss - and perhaps adopt - the new building code.

The county's current building code dates back to 1994, and needs revision.

An updated code will also

Want to know more?

Twin Falls County, which is talking about increasing building permit fees, will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. Monday to discuss revising the building code.

If the building code is revised, building permit fees will likely increase.

Here's a look at current building permit fees, and what the increase will likely be, per square foot: $50 for a dwelling, up from $45; $15 for a basement, up from $10; $18 for a garage, up from $16

mean increased permit fees. "It's time to keep the county

up with the rest of the world," county building inspector Lee Taylor said. "We try to keep everybody in the valley kind of uniform."

The new code uses up-to-date data - taken from Building Standards, a magazine that publishes building code rates throughout the country. Those rates help determine local fees.

For instance, the county now charges $10 per square foot in building permit fees for basement construction.

The county pulled in about $200,000 in building permit fees during the 1998-1999 budget year, Taylor said.

The 1999-2000 budget year

totals have not been added up yet.

County commissioners have discussed increasing various county user fees - including building permit fees - in response to budget cuts that have forced a pay freeze.

"It's costing more each time to actually do this (planning and zoning) job," County Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said. "Everybody's needing more money, so instead of going for taxes, we go for the user fees."

Taylor said he plans to request that the commissioners also increase other county user fees, including increasing livestock operation application fees from $150 to $200.

Public hearing fees for zoning applications could also be increased, from $50 to $200 for one public hearing and from $200 to $500 for two public hearings.

If the county adopts new building code, higher user fees could go into effect as early as December.

The county's current building code was approved in September 1995. It is modeled after a uniform code adopted by the state in 1994.

'Drive friendly' campaign begins

By Brandon Flala
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The state is kicking off a campaign to slam the brakes on aggressive driving.

The campaign, "Curb Aggression: Drive Friendly," focuses on raising driver awareness about aggressive driving. The campaign, sponsored by the Idaho Transportation Department's Office of Highway Safety, is aimed at slowing what has become an $866 million problem in Idaho.

"Often, we're in a hurry or just want to get home," Indy race car driver and Nampa native Davey Hamilton, the campaign's spokesman, said in a transportation department news release. "Only by realizing that we may be contributing to the problem - and significantly increasing our chance of being involved in a crash - can we begin to work towards a solution."

Aggressive driving has been identified as the No. 1 problem on American roadways.

"In 1999, we saw a 46 percent increase in fatalities attributed to aggressive driving," said Mark Strait, grant officer for the Office of Highway Safety.

Aggressive driving was a contributing factor in 147 of the 278 crash deaths and 59 percent of all car crashes in Idaho in 1999. The economic cost of aggressive driving collisions totaled $866 million - 57 percent of all crash costs, the transportation department said.

The campaign focuses on advertising at gas stations.

"People need to have a sense of driving, and be responsible," said Twin Falls Mayor Elaine Steele, who participated in a program Thursday kicking off the project.

Seat belt use is another priority.

"In the past, the terms road rage and aggressive driving have been used interchangeably," Strait said. "Road rage describes only the most extreme cases of vehicular violence, and is very rare in comparison to aggressive driving."

In fact, actions you probably see every day - speeding, tailgating, rolling through stop signs, failing to yield - are all elements of aggressive driving.

Heyburn installs first stoplight

By Ruth Streeter
Times-News writer

HEYBURN - Heavy truck traffic, high speeds and uncontrolled turn lanes often make for dangerous driving conditions in a farming community.

And with their small town bisected by two major thoroughfares, Heyburn officials have had to confront the issue of making their streets safer.

A new traffic light at 21st Street and U.S. Highway 30 is one way Heyburn is addressing safety. The intersection connects two of the major roads that take travelers from Heyburn or Burley to Rupert.

The light was put in by the Idaho Transportation Department. The project's cost was $186,000, with Heyburn putting up about $63,000 of that.

Blaine candidates talk growth

By Karen Bossick
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY - Blaine County's growth - and the state's growing budget surplus - were among the topics at a Blaine County candidates' forum.

About 75 people crowded the old Blaine County Courthouse turned out Wednesday night for the forum, to hear from legislative and county candidates.

Candidate comments included the following:

Rep. Tim Ridinger, R-Shoshone, seeking reelection in southern Idaho's District 21, said his key issues are property tax control and providing more control for local governments.

His Democratic opponent, Richard "Dick" Andrusen of Shoshone, said Blaine County is confronting a pair of growth issues: highway congestion and planning and zoning uses.

Rep. Wendy Jaquet, D-Ketchum, who is running unopposed, said she and her cohorts will have to try to figure out what to do with the state's projected $281 million surplus. Ideas include a 10 percent payback on existing school bond issues; paying a 20 percent share on the cost of new bond issues; increasing teachers' salaries by 13 percent; as requested by state schools superintendent Marilyn Howard; raising the grocery tax credit and reducing the sales tax on food to 3 cents.

Jim Super, an independent candidate for Blaine County's District 1 common seat, said

Dave Huntington, left, of the Idaho Transportation Department, supervises other workers during the installation of a traffic light at the intersection of U.S. Highway 30 and 21st Street in Heyburn.

"It has a very dangerous record," Mayor Cleo Cheney said. "It's a very needed item."

Idaho House of Representatives race

Incumbent Rep. Cella Gould, R-Buhl, faces Libertarian challenger Jonathan A. Stump of Filer in the Nov. 7 election. They are running for a two-year seat in the Idaho House of Representatives from District 22, which includes portions of Gooding and Twin Falls counties. Legislators are paid $14,700 annually.

About the candidates	What should the state do with its surplus, which could reach $300 million by the time the Legislature convenes in January?	What is your vision for education in Idaho?	Should all farm laborers be included under Idaho's minimum wage laws?	Would you support any measures designed to curtail use of RU-486, the so-called "morning-after" abortion pill?
 Age: 42. Occupation: Rancher, farmer. Education: Bachelor's degree in political science from Boise State University. Political experience: Seven two-year terms in the Idaho House, secretary of the Idaho Republican Party for eight years; longtime Republican activist. Civic and volunteer activities: Active in high school booster clubs. Key political goals: "To always do what's in the best interest of my constituents. I don't know how to measure that always but a close look at any issue usually reveals what I should do."	Wants the Legislature to address many of the expenditures facing it — the need for more prisons, substance abuse programs in the correctional system, and higher teachers' salaries. The rest of the surplus should be returned to taxpayers in tax breaks.	Does not want the state to get involved in building public schools. Would support measures to reduce classroom size in elementary grades, while focusing more on how school districts allocate money — she believes districts spend a lot of money in places that don't benefit students, such as administration. Also wants to increase the salary base to help Idaho recruit and retain good teachers.	Supports a legislative committee's recommendations that state minimum wage laws should mirror the federal Fair Labor Standards Act, despite farm worker advocates' claims that the federal law leaves too many Hispanic migrant workers without minimum wage protection. "I think we'd better stick with this and see how it works."	"Not now. I think we just need to let things stand before we try to legislate on that issue." Believes the state's current anti-abortion laws will likely prove sufficient, despite the pill's use.

Wants to reduce the size of the federal government by refusing federal money on the state level and reduce the size of the state government. He describes himself as an anarchist. "We don't need a federal government anymore, but you'll never be able to get rid of it all."	"Give it back to the people who it was stolen from in the first place. I don't believe in taxes. That's my money and I want it back — it's extortion if I do it and the government does it year after year."	Would like to completely privatize the public school system. "A school ought to be run by the people who are paying for it — government shouldn't be involved at all. I don't want the feds and certainly not the state government involved."	"No. In general I'm against all wage ceilings and floors. I don't want the government involved in business at all — it kills jobs. I'm against government passing laws to regulate commerce — except for antitrust laws."	"I'm totally against the war on drugs. I don't want the government involved, period."

Judge sets Jarbidge hearing

By G. Andre Beglin
Times-News correspondent

ELKO, Nev. — U.S. District Judge David Hagen will give each side involved in the Jarbidge South Canyon Road controversy 15 minutes Wednesday to convince him whether or not to lift a stay currently stopping the U.S. Forest Service from reblocking the road.

The Forest Service requested that the Justice Department act on the issue after it received reports from a federal biologist that the fourth of July unblocking of the road by the Jarbidge Shovel Brigade led to more traffic that is increasing the sediment flow into the river and harming the endangered bull trout.

Hagen could make his ruling the same day due to the emergency situation regarding the bull trout.

Bur Nevada Assemblyman John Carpenter, R-Elko, said "there is no emergency situation in regard to the bull trout."

Federal lawyers disagree.

"The United States needs to restrict access to the South Canyon area in order to protect the bull trout ... Autumn is the time the bull trout move through the South Canyon. Unless action is taken to temporarily restrict access, bull trout habitat will continue to be damaged and bull trout may be harmed," said a U.S. Justice Department motion to lift the stay.

With the stay in place, the Forest Service is prohibited from taking any physical action on the road, which includes restricting its access.

Carpenter argues that the "real experts on the bull trout are the personnel within the Nevada Department of Wildlife. Our biologists have been studying the bull trout for many years and are adamant in their opinion that the bull trout is not threatened."

Five signs were posted in the Jarbidge Wilderness Area, at the Idaho/Nevada state line, and other areas along the road last weekend.

The county has contemplated legal action against any other entity that attempts to alter, damage or restrict access to the road in any way.

The Shovel Brigade is assembling a group of professionals in the fields of biology, engineering, surveying, geology and environmental science to develop a plan to rebuild the road that leads into the Jarbidge Wilderness from the town of Jarbidge.

The road was damaged in a 1995 flood and has since then been the subject of heated controversy between land use advocates and the federal government.

The U.S. Forest Service and Fish and Wildlife Service say vehicular traffic is entering the river streambed at an alarming rate because of the Brigade's removal of a boulder in July that allows for all terrain vehicles to drive through the previously blocked road.

Brigade supporters say the fish is not threatened and that only one vehicle every two or three days is actually using the area. The rural community is host to hunters during this time of the year with little or no other traffic, especially in the hinterlands of the Wilderness Area where the only access is often by horse or foot.

"The impact of vehicles crossing the stream is so minimal, it is impossible to measure," Carpenter said in a court document.

Police tally up bill from false attack report

BOISE (AP) — Police say a woman who lied about being attacked on the Greenbelt-cost the city $7,000 for manpower and a searchlight-equipped helicopter.

The labor cost includes regular and overtime wages paid to officers and technicians. The helicopter ran about $1,000, Boise Police Chief Don Pierce said Wednesday.

But he stressed the expense is minor compared to the fear in the community just weeks after searches found the body of slain flight attendant Lynn Heneman in the Boise River.

"She has caused further damage to our community, which was already in a fragile state," Pierce said.

The prosecutor's office will likely file charges against the woman, he said, but her name and other details will not be released for now. Making a false police report carries a penalty of up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Police said they do not plan to seek reimbursement for expenses associated with the search. The woman told police she took off her own pants and threw them, along with her cell phone, in the river before flagging down customers at the Cottonwood Grille restaurant.

we felt."

Heyburn officials requested the signal and the state conducted a traffic study to determine if the light was warranted, said Bob Ramsey, a staff engineer from the transportation department's Rupert office.

A traffic count in 1998 and 1999 anticipated that about 12,000 cars a day will pass through that intersection by the year 2002, Ramsey said.

No fatal accidents have occurred at the intersection in eight years, but accidents have been frequent.

The signal has been about five years in the works, Cheney said.

A second traffic light south on Highway 30 at the intersection of Seventh Street near the J.R. Simplot processing plant is slated for construction in 2003.

Earlier this year, the Heyburn City Council approved a four-way stop sign at 400 West and 21st Street to alleviate traffic flow and make 21st Street safer.

RUPERT — A Minico High School grad returned to Rupert this week, telling Hispanic students there's college scholarship money to be had.

Montana Herrera visited with about a dozen Hispanic students at the school and had them sign up for El Futuro Latino 2001, Idaho State University's annual visitation program, which is being held today and Saturday at the university. More than 100 Hispanic students from high schools throughout southern Idaho are attending the event.

The visitation day is a chance for Hispanic students to learn what it is like to go to college and to find out about an abundant number of scholarships.

"There is no reason why any organization, which, along with the college's office of enrollment planning, sponsors the visitation day.

Yolanda Sapient, English as a Second Language teacher at Burley High School and the ESL coordinator for Cassia County, said about 25 students from Cassia County are signed up for the event this year.

Lancy Arredondo, a senior plans to attend.

"I want to get into a college, but I don't know which one yet," she said. "This will be good because you can learn about college and meet different people."

"It gives you the opportunity to meet people who are going to go to college with you," said senior Alma Navarrette. "And they give you the applications right there."

Hispanic student should not attend college, said Herrera, now an ISU student.

When Herrera attended Minico, she did not know about scholarships. Her first semester cost about $4,000 for books, tuition and room and board, she said.

During her first semester at ISU, she joined the Hispanic Awareness Leadership

Nevada Day Parade to feature ghouls, ghosts

ELKO, Nev. — Ghosts, goblins and politicians will take to the street today during Elko's 13th Annual Nevada Day Parade.

Rose Conner, co-chairman of the event, said several entries have been received for the 11 a.m. parade, and more participants are expected. The parade will travel east through town via Idaho Street with a viewing area set up in front of the courthouse.

The theme of this year's event is "Ghosts of the Past Celebrating Nevada's History." This is the first year Nevada Day will be celebrated on the last Friday of October. Voters opted to have a three-day state holiday rather than the traditional celebration of statehood on Oct. 31. Several businesses and state buildings will be closed for the holiday.

Judge sentences serial killer Yates to 408 years in prison

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) - Fearful serial killer Robert L. Yates Jr. offered apologies, but no motive, before he was sentenced Thursday to 408 years in prison for his earlier confession to 13 murders and one attempted murder.

Relatives of Yates' victims demanded to know why he killed, but Yates offered no explanation - not even to his daughter, who sobbed at a podium just a few feet from him as she asked that question. "I pray that God will right the wrongs that I have committed and that justice will bring closure," Yates, 48, told a small courtroom packed with bitter relatives of his victims.

Little closure seemed evident. The victims' relatives erupted in catcalls when Yates said he had "turned to God."

"Why did you do it?" asked Kathy Lloyd, sister of victim Shawn McClennahan, interrupting Yates as he spoke. Yates did not answer.

Many family members denounced the deal in which Yates escaped the death penalty in exchange for the guilty pleas.

"Life must be cheap in Eastern Washington," said Don Oliver, brother of Patrick Oliver, who was killed in Walla Walla County in 1975. "Mr. Yates deserves to die."

"How many murders does one have to commit to get the death penalty?" asked John Joseph, father of victim Jennifer Joseph. Her blood, and a pearl button from her vest, were found in Yates' Corvette, linking him to the serial killings.

"Like most of the victims I want to know why, what caused this?" asked Sasha Yates, 25, the eldest of Yates' five children. "I still love you dad, even though you did this," she said as her father looked away.

Yates could still face the death penalty in Western Washington's Pierce County, where he is charged with two additional slayings. Gerry Horne of the Pierce County prosecutor's office said a decision had not been made on whether to seek the death penalty should Yates be convicted of aggravated murder there.

Spokane County Superior Court Judge Richard Schroeder also fined Yates $620,000, and signed an order releasing Yates to the custody of the Pierce

County sheriff. "No way we'll bargain away the death penalty over here," Horne said. "We'll go on merits."

Speaker after speaker denounced Yates, who in the late 1990s cruised Spokane in a white Corvette, picking up prostitutes, then shooting them.

His killings go back a quarter-century to 1975, when he gunned down Oliver and a young woman as they picnicked near Walla Walla. "Do you have any idea what it's like to go to a cemetery for a family reunion for 25 years?" said Chris Oliver, another of Oliver's brothers.

Idaho woman alleges harassment

BOISE (AP) - A former state Industrial Commission employee is demanding $1 million in damages for alleged sexual harassment by a supervisor, who was thrown out of the Air Force five years ago for sexual misconduct.

Patricia Roberts accused Richard Alis of making sexually suggestive remarks to her, touching her in a sexually suggestive way and telling her she would have to perform sexual favors to keep her job.

Gary Stivers, executive director of the commission, declined comment on the tort claim, which is the precursor to a lawsuit in district court.

"We're waiting to have all that reviewed before I can comment on his status," Stivers said on Wednesday. "We're right in the middle of the early parts of the investigation."

Public documents showed Alis was sentenced to 30 days confinement and forfeited all pay and allowances before his 1995 ouster from the Air Force. It came after 19.5 years of military service and left him just short of retirement eligibility.

Stivers said Alis was hired in mid-1997 as the law clerk for Commission Chairman Rachel Gilbert. He later was promoted to supervisor of the commission's judicial unit.

Two and a half years before he was hired, Alis was a lieutenant colonel and the chief legal officer at Mountain Home Air Force Base. He was subjected to a general court martial there for events surrounding a sexual affair he had with a female staff sergeant who was a clerk in the Judge Advocate's office.

Alis ultimately was convicted of fraternization, sodomy and conduct unbecoming an officer.

According to the Jan. 30, 1998,

Air Force Court of Criminal Appeals decision upholding his conviction and sentence, Alis began the affair with the staff sergeant in April 1994. He told her there was nothing wrong with the relationship as long as she did not allow others to believe he was giving her favorable treatment, according to the decision.

But within two months, she appellate court said, the staff sergeant discovered Alis was living with a female officer and found intimate letters from another woman to Alis in his desk. The decision said Alis maintained he was living with the other woman only for financial reasons.

Elderly driver goes wrong way on Interstate

BLACKFOOT (AP) - An Idaho Falls woman caused five accidents including two rollovers Wednesday by driving the wrong way down Interstate 15.

Ann Layland, 77, was on her way to the grand opening of the Wal-Mart store in Blackfoot but entered an exit ramp, the Idaho State Police reported.

She drove her Oldsmobile Cutlass southbound in the northbound lane for 15 miles from the Broadway exit in Idaho Falls to just outside the Hell's Half-Acre rest area.

Police said there were five separate accidents, each involving a vehicle other than Layland's. In two cases, the cars swerved to miss her and rolled over.

Palestinian youths, one holding rocks, the other a slingshot, watch Israeli army positions during clashes in the West Bank of Ramallah Thursday.

Suicide bomber raises fears of more attacks against Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Palestinian with a backpack of explosives blew himself up Thursday as his bicycle reached the concrete barrier of an Israeli army outpost, heightening fears that Israel could face a renewed wave of bombings.

The militant group Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility for the attack by the 24-year-old in the Gaza Strip, the first suicide bombing during a month of upheaval. Israel responded by blocking the main road in Gaza with a tank and bulldozing trees that Palestinians could use for cover to fire on the isolated base.

The diplomatic front appeared bleak, with Israel and the Palestinians giving a cool response to President Clinton's proposal of Washington meetings aimed at ending the violence. Street clashes broke out again in the West Bank and Gaza, and both sides maintained their hostile rhetoric.

"First of all the Palestinians must stop the violence," said

Danny Yatom, Prime Minister Ehud Barak's top adviser. "We can't accept the violence as it is today."

Palestinian leaders said the United States could no longer be the sole mediator, calling for the European Union, Russia and others to join future talks.

A 14-year-old Palestinian boy died of a gunshot wound to the head suffered two weeks earlier, but no deaths were reported in Thursday's clashes. In four weeks of fighting, 129 people have been killed, all but a few of them Palestinians.

The suicide bombing pointed to an escalation in the conflict and added to Israeli concerns that a bombing campaign may be unleashed following the Palestinians' release of 85 militants from jail two weeks ago. The Palestinians say they have re-arrested 22 people.

"We've been warning that these kind of attacks were in the works," said army spokesman Col. Raanan Gissin.

German officials pursue far-right party ban

BERLIN — Anti-Semitism is on the rise again in Germany, new statistics confirmed Thursday as authorities took the first step toward banning a far-right party accused of fanning hate.

In Duesseldorf and at a later meeting of state governors in the eastern city of Schwerin, all but two states voted to ask the country's highest court to ban the National Democratic Party.

The action is the government's most visible response to Germany's worst wave of neo-Nazi violence since reunification.

Putin claims war with rebels in Chechnya nears an end

NAZRAN, Russia — President Vladimir Putin claimed Thursday that Russian forces have all but wrapped up the fight against rebels in Chechnya, despite daily clashes and casualties in the mountainous republic.

"Organized resistance is now crushed ... there are no large-scale military actions" in Chechnya, the ITAR-Tass news agency quoted Putin as saying. Putin made the comments in an interview with Russian and French journalists Thursday.

Russian officials have declared victory in the year-old conflict scores of times, only to have the guerrilla forces rally and rout Russian troops in ambushes.

Russian forces moved into Chechnya after rebels based there attacked the neighboring region of Dagestan, and after a series of deadly apartment bombings in Russia blamed on the rebels.

tired of wigs.
"I know there is a great affection for the traditions that we have," Woolf said. "But, equally, I know that wearing wigs, especially if they are spangly-type wigs, enables us to be portrayed as out-of-touch, anachronistic dinosaurs."

Yugoslav leader objects to 'atrocities' comments

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Yugoslav President Vojislav Kostunica's office on Thursday disputed a CBS News broadcast that quoted him as acknowledging atrocities committed in Kosovo under the government of Slobodan Milosevic.

Kostunica was quoted in the broadcast as saying, "I am ready to ... accept the guilt for all those people who have been killed. ... For what Milosevic had done, and as a Serb, I will take responsibility for many of these crimes."

Kostunica's office, in a statement translated by the AP, said that given the huge amount of publicity the CBS broadcast received in other media, it "could have inflicted much political damage to the president and the forces leading the democratization in Yugoslavia."

Court says young killers are eligible for parole

LONDON — Two boys who were 10 years old when they tortured and killed a toddler in 1993 are now eligible for parole, a British court ruled Thursday, reversing a politician's decision to nearly double their minimum term.

The two, who were tried as adults, could be released as early as February, Lord Chief Justice Woolf said.

The victim, 2-year-old James Bulger, had been led away from a shopping mall near Liverpool, tormented and beaten to death.

Denise Fergus, mother of James, sobbed as the decision was announced in the High Court. Her attorney, Sean Sexton, said she felt "totally let down by the whole legal process."

John Dickinson, attorney for one of the boys, said the decision would spare the boys from being transferred to a young offenders institution, which he described as "a hotbed of violence, bullying, sexual intimidation and drugs."

New Commons speaker deals blow to wig tradition

LONDON — The newly elected speaker of the House of Commons has shattered fashion tradition: He wears long pants. And he doesn't wear a wig.

Michael Martin may be about 200 years late in catching up with male fashion, but his decision was the second blow this week to the tradition of wearing a bit of horsehair in Parliament on the courts.

The Lord Chief Justice, Lord Woolf, suggested in an interview published Tuesday that he was

Summer blockbuster movies hit local video stores

Combined wire services

Mel Gibson's "The Patriot," the first of the summer blockbuster movies to make it to video, is on the rental counter shelves this week.

The Revolutionary War adventure will be followed by "The Perfect Storm," scheduled for release to video and DVD Nov. 14, and "Gladiator," which will go on the market Nov. 21.

"The Patriot" has arrived in the DVD format priced at $27.96. Columbia Tri Star also is making it available on VHS as a rental item.

As is the case with most movies, historical facts are sometimes twisted and in some cases turn out to be pure fiction. But "The Patriot" captures the spirit of the Revolution as well as the brutality of war. Some of the blood-spattered sequences are not for the squeamish.

The movie begins in 1776 South Carolina right after the colonies have declared their independence from Britain. Gibson plays Benjamin Martin, a farmer and widower with seven children. When war begins and a call to arms goes out, Martin wants no part of it. He is haunted by his "heroic" deeds in the French and Indian War when he savagely slaughtered the enemy. Even when his oldest son Gabriel (Heath Ledger) joins the Continental Army, Martin declines to get involved.

That's when Martin swings into action. The comes the night when Martin and his children hear the sound of battle coming closer and closer to their farm. Although he gives aid to wounded soldiers of both sides, Martin's home is burned and a younger son is murdered by the British. That's when Martin swings into action.

Martin gradually becomes convinced that America's fight for independence is just. But he has another motive for fighting — the thought of one day covering the torching of his home. Tavington (menacingly played by Jason Isaacs) is loosely based on Col. Banastre Tarleton, who led his dragoons into many a skirmish on the battlefields and swamps of South Carolina.

Gibson's character is inspired by Francis Marion, who became known as "The Swamp Fox" when he and his men consistently harassed the British troops. Martin, and his group of volunteers spring so many hit-and-run surprise attacks, the British began calling him "The Ghost." Martin's mission is to keep Cornwallis (Tom Wilkinson) and his army so occupied that they cannot advance North.

French Major Jean Villeneuve "Tcheky Karyo", left, and erstwhile war hero Benjamin Martin "Mel Gibson" become unlikely allies in "The Patriot."

the past two winters.

It's the story of four guys who meet at high school audiovisual club in 1956 and decided to parlay their love for singing, a la Four Aces style, ignoring the sound of rock 'n' roll barreling down the record track in the background.

They hone their craft singing at supermarket openings and the like and are on their way to their first big gig at The Fused Lounge cocktail bar at the Airport Hilton when they are slammed broadside by a school bus full of Catholic teenagers on their way to the Beatles' debut on the "Ed Sullivan Show."

The Four Plaids are killed instantly. But through the Power of Harmony and the Expanding Hoies in the Orme Layer, in conjunction with the positions of the planets and all that astro-technical stuff, they are allowed to come back to perform the show they never got to do in life.

"Forever Plaid" ran for four years on Broadway.

Want cheap horror for Halloween? Go see 'Blair Witch 2'

Combined wire services

Blair Witch 2
Minnie Driver glows in the title role as a small-town Illinois personal beauty contestant whose single-minded determination begins to pay off in unexpected ways. Writer Jon Russo's suspenseful feature director Sally Field eschews easy satire for the wiser and more compassionate view that beauty pageants offer many young women of limited opportunities in their best hope, realistic or not, of attaining a better life. With Hallie Kate Eisenberg, Joey Lauren Adams and Kathleen Turner (PG-13, for language and thematic elements.)

Bedazzled
The best thing is its perfectly cast stars: Elizabeth Hurley as the tart-tongued Devil and especially Brendan Fraser. But as written by Larry Gelbart, director Harold Ramis and Peter Tolan, the film, though amusing from moment to moment, is erratic, unfocused and uncertain where it's going. (PG-13, for sex-related humor, language and some drug content.)

Best in Show
A comedy about prize dogs and their peculiar owners that boasts both bark and bite, courtesy of the kind of improvisational humor that made director Christopher Guest's last film, 'Waiting for Guffman,' a cult success. When Fred Willard as a buffoonish TV commentator gets going, the laughs begin in earnest. (1:29, PG-13, for language and sex-related material.)

Book of Shadows: Blair Witch 2
Why make a sequel to 'The Blair Witch Project' in the first film was the mystery of whether it was real - whether three young people actually died while making a documentary in the woods about the legendary Blair Witch, and whether we were watching their raw footage. We know now the story was fiction, and so is this unsatisfying mess. All the unknown young actors play up the B-movie paranoia and shrillness to the hilt, and director Joe Berlinger makes the mistake of relying on cheap horror-flick scare tactics. R for violence, language, sexuality, drug use. 90 minutes.

Bring It On!
A smart and sassy high school movie that's fun for all ages, starring Kirsten Dunst as the captain of a cheerleading team at an affluent San Diego area high school that has won the national cheerleading competition five years in a row. (1:25, PG-13, for sex-related material and language.)

The Contender
An unlikely combination of 'West Wing' and the National Enquirer, this Rod Lurie-written and directed political melodrama about trashy gossip in Washington benefits greatly from expert performances by Joan Allen as a beleaguered Senator and an unrecognized literary Oldman as her nemesis. (2:12, R, for strong sexual content and language.)

Coyote Ugly
COYOTE UGLY 2 stars, Julia Roberts lookalike Piper Perabo and John Travolta clone Adam Garcia star as the young lovers in this cocktail of 'Saturday Night Fever' and 'Urban Cowboy.' PG-13 (suggestive dancing, sexual candor, language.)

Digimon: The Movie
The Digital monsters of TV take to the big screen with all the requisite noise and product promotion. Digl-nemic. Screenplay by Jeff Nimoy and Bob Buchholz. Animation directed by Takaoi Yamashita, Hisashi Nakayama and Masahiro Aizawa. (1:14, G.)

Dr. T & the Women
Sparkling and wise romantic comedy from Robert Altman and his 'Cookie's Fortune' screenwriter Anne Rapp in which Richard Gere, in a part that suits him to a T, as the most popular gynecologist in Dallas whose undoing is, ironically, putting women on a pedestal. Helen Hunt, Farrah Fawcett, Laura Dern, Kate Hudson, Tara Reid and Shelley Long are the key women in his life. (2:02, R for graphic nudity and some sexuality.)

The Exorcist
William Peter Blatty's pungent, slightly hysterical tale of the devil, who sends most of his energy bedeviling and possessing one little girl. With Ellen Burstyn, Lee J. Cobb, Max Von Sydow, Jason Miller and the teen-age Linda Blair. (R.)

Get Carter
Even though this remake of the 1971 cult film with Michael Caine opened without press previews it is not terrible, just overly routine. Sylvester Stallone is well-cast as an underworld enforcer who returns home to Seattle to probe his younger brother's supposedly accidental death. With Mira Sorvino, Richardson, Rachel Leigh Cook and Michael Caine (the original Carter). (1:43, Rated R, for violence, language, some sexuality and drug content.)

Lost Souls

Dreary tale of supernatural horror which finds Winona Ryder trying to convince a skeptical Ben Chaplin that he is about to be possessed by the Devil. But then nothing is particularly convincing about this handsomely mounted but hopelessly trite tale that marks the directorial debut of Janusz Kaminski, who won Oscars for his cinematography in 'Schindler's List' and 'Saving Private Ryan.' (1:38, R for violence/terror and some language.)

The Ladies Man
Tim Meadows' cognac-sipping, sweet-talking, Afro-wearing 'love machine' is the latest of 'Saturday Night Live's' stable of overreaching dimwits to get his own movie. With Karyn Parsons, Will Ferrell, Tiffani Thiessen and Billy Dee Williams. (1:25, R, for sexual content and language.)

The Little Vampire
Jonathan Lipnicki goes from brother of a mouse ('Stuart Little') to bat as he and his vampire friend seek a magic pendant. Adapted from Angela Sommer-Bodenburg's series of children's books.

Lucky Numbers
A bumbling crew of conspirators attempts to rig the Pennsylvania lottery and take home the jackpot. John Travolta, a TV weatherman, instigates the plot, hoping to escape bankruptcy. He enlists Lisa Kudrow, the dimwit who selects the numbers on television. Kudrow ('Friends') is outstanding as the clueless, conniving Crystal.

R for language and low moral tone. 110 min. Please see MOVIES, Page C8

'Meet the Parents'

Ben Stiller and Robert De Niro star as prospective son-in-law and father-in-law from hell in one of the most fun mainstream comedies in years, a film that gets its laughs from shrewd casting, well-timed line readings and gags that are worked out to a remarkable degree. (1:48. PG-13, for sexual content, drug references and language.)

'Pay It Forward'

Strong acting by Kevin Spacey, Helen Hunt and the remarkable Haley Joel Osment and restrained writing and direction (from Leslie Dixon and Mimi Leder) win as over, much against our better judgment, to this sentimental, inspirational fantasy about the difficulty and the rewards of doing good in an uncaring world. (2:02. PG-13, for mature thematic elements, including substance abuse/recovery, some sexual situations, language and brief violence.)

'Remember the Titans'

Producer Jerry Bruckheimer in a serious mood is still Jerry Bruckheimer. An earnest look based on a true story, at how two football coaches, one black, one white, brought racial harmony to a divided community, all old with the usual energy, shrewdness, and ability to reduce things to the simplest terms. (1:51. PG, for thematic elements and some language.)

'The Tao of Steve'

A portly former philosophy major comes up with a foolproof method of seduction - until a smart young woman comes along and shakes him to his core. A slackersque romantic comedy that mixes high-brow and low-brow to winning effect, with the excellent Donal Logue in the lead. R (sexual situations, heady intellectual discourse, drugs.)

'Urban Legends: Final Cut'

This killer-stalks-the-campus re-entree is exactly the kind of flat-footed stalker film that the recent trend-setting hits in the genre have been making fun of. (1:34. R, for violence/gore, language.)

Yankees own New York bragging rights

The Associated Press
NEW YORK — Best in their own backyard, best in all of baseball.
The New York Yankees, thought to be too old and too banged-up to make it this far, became the first team in a quarter-century to win three straight World Series championships, beating the New York Mets 4-2 Thursday night.
Luis Sojo, one of many mid-season pickups, hit a two-out, debreaking single off Al Leiter in the ninth inning to decide Game 5, stunning Shea Stadium crowd that was sure there was more baseball to play.
The Subway Series turned out to be a short run for New York fans who had waited 44 years for another one and hoped it would go seven games. Instead, the Yankees quickly matched the Oakland Athletics' three in a row from 1974-75, and won their fourth title in five years.

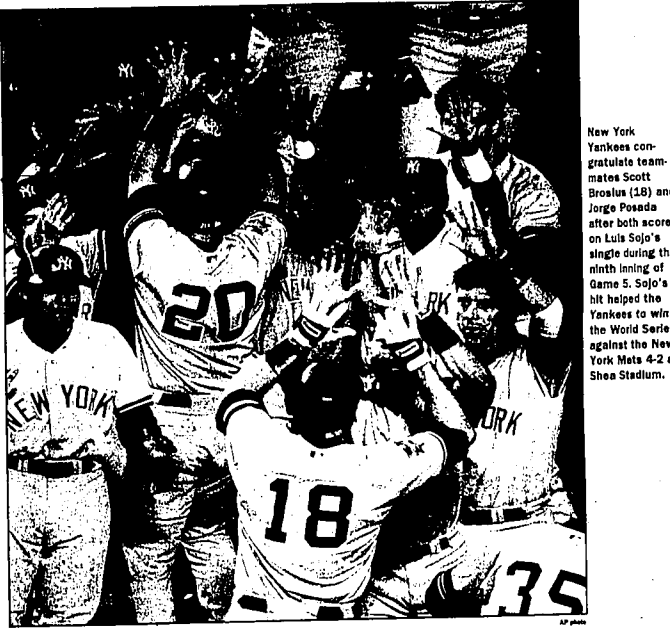

Only two other runs in baseball history can compare — Joe DiMaggio led the Yankees to five five crowns from 1936-41, and Mickey Mantle helped take the

And while the lasting image of this Series is certain to be Roger Clemens throwing the ball at Mike Piazza, this is the picture the Yankees will prefer to savor: Owner George Steinbrenner hoisting another big piece of hardware for the team's trophy case.
Game 4 hero Derek Jeter, who earned his fourth ring at only 26, and slumping Bernie Williams homered for the Yankees. But it was Sojo, who blossomed into a good-luck Please see YANKES, Page D2

New York Yankees congratulate teammates Scott Brosius (18) and Jorge Posada after both scored on Luis Sojo's single during the ninth inning of Game 5. Sojo's hit helped the Yankees to win the World Series against the New York Mets 4-2 at Shea Stadium.

Three of five survive at Class A-4 toumey

By Matt Peterson Times-News writer
IDAHO FALLS — A grueling, morning-til-night pool play schedule sliced in half what began as a 16-team field Thursday during first-day competition at the Class A-4 State Volleyball Tournament in Idaho Falls.
Five local teams entered Thursday's competition hoping to earn a spot in the weekend tournament. But at the end of the day, only three remained.
Camas County, Hagerman and Murrugh all posted 2-1 pool play records and will start their respective quests for a state title this morning, while Shoshone and Raft River failed to make it out of pool play and saw their respective seasons come to an end.
All three of the local teams still alive advanced by winning their final match of the evening. Camas County downed Horseshoe Bend 15-6, 15-9, Hagerman beat Kootenai 15-3, 13-15, 15-8 and Murrugh nipped Midvale 15-5, 15-11, 15-9. All earned No. 2 seeds and each will face higher-ranked opponents today.
Murrugh starts the action with a 9 a.m. match against Genesee. Camas County follows at 10:30 with a match against Notus and Hagerman plays at noon against Midvale. The other match will feature Mackay playing Clark Fork. All games will be played at Idaho Falls High School.

Though three local teams are in, not all of those teams' coaches are happy.

Bruins sneak past IF in state soccer opener

By Joe Sunnen Times-News
BOISE — The challenge for the Twin Falls High School boys' soccer team entering the state playoffs was maintaining focus for a full 80-minute game.
The problem is, nobody told the Bruins it would take 97 minutes to win their first-round match, 2-1, over Idaho Falls.
“Our biggest goal of the season was to make it to state,” Twin Falls coach Trent Felton said. “We're already here, so now our only tournament goal is to try to play three games without losing our focus. We have managed to do that now for one game.”
Twin Falls used swarming defense and ball-control offense to chip away at the Tigers the entire match, and the plodding style paid off — first on a header by junior Matthew McFarlin to go ahead 1-0 in the 75th minute and again in the second overtime period on a chip shot by junior Brock Cooper to win.
“I wasn't even ready for (the ball),” Cooper said. “I just saw it and it was like one of those things, I didn't even realize that I had kicked it until after. It was great.”
With the win, Twin Falls will face Centennial, a Thursday 2-1 winner over Timberline, at 12:30 p.m. today. The winner of that game will be moving on to the championship Saturday. In other Thursday matches, Skyline beat Boise 1-0 and Eagle topped Coeur

The Bruins squandered easy scoring opportunities in both halves, missing easy shots and headers on several well-placed crossing passes, but found the net when it mattered most.
With time winding down and the scored knotted at nil, junior Dylan Sinclair lofted a centering pass to McFarlin as he ran in from midfield. The header shot past Tiger goaltender Craig Dalling and put Twin Falls ahead with less than five minutes to go.

TWIN FALLS — For the College of Southern Idaho volleyball team, the stakes this weekend are simple. If the Eagles get past Salt Lake Community College tonight and defeat Utah Valley State on Saturday, they are almost assured of hosting the Region 18 tournament.
Lose to either, and it's time to make hotel reservations and warm up the bus, because the rest of the Scenic West Athletic Conference will not be coming to Southern Idaho on Nov. 9.

Buhl, Wood River girls roll at A-2 toumey

By Kevin Hall Times-News writer
BUHL — Buhl needed a shootout. Wood River got a shootout.
After 2 hours and 20 minutes of soccer drama Thursday at Bobby Diercksen Field, the hometown Buhl High School Indians capped an exciting first day of play at the Class A-2 girls' state soccer tournament with a 2-1 shootout victory over South Fremont.
It was the third time in as many meetings that Buhl has bested the Cougars in overtime.
Earlier, Wood River's green wave enjoyed a hat trick from Kipp Mills and held Teton to just two shots on goal as the Wolverines rolled to a 7-0 rout of overwhelmed Teton. Other first-round matches saw Weiser beat Marsh Valley 3-1 and McCall-Donnelly blank Snake River 6-0.
In today's semifinals, it's Buhl (10-3-0) facing top-ranked McCall-Donnelly (17-0-1) and Wood River (15-2-0) playing Weiser (13-4-2). Both games kick off

Bruins rout Capitals in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Keenan won his first game as coach of the Boston Bruins and Jason Allison scored twice in a 4-1 victory over the Washington Capitals on Thursday night.

Keenan replaced Pat Burns, who was fired by the Bruins Wednesday, just eight games into his fourth season with the team. J. J. Axelsson and Mikko Eloranta also scored for Boston. Andrew Raycroft stopped 27 shots for the Bruins, who ended a four-game losing streak after opening the season 3-0-1.

Flowers 3, Rangers 0 PHILADELPHIA — Michael Szykora scored his first goal in two years and Brian Boucher made 32 saves as Philadelphia beat New York Rangers Tuesday night in the second round of the Stanley Cup playoffs. Blues, Pronger agree new deal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chris Pronger, the NHL's most valuable player last season, has agreed to a contract extension with the St. Louis Blues that will make him one of the league's highest-paid players.

Colorado's Peter Forsberg and Anaheim's Paul Kariya, are each earning $10 million, are the league's highest paid players. "All along, it wasn't completely about money," Pronger said.

playing, I caught myself doing things not conducive to winning," Pronger said. "I want to concentrate on being a great hockey player."

Chris Pronger

At a lunch last Friday with team president Mark Sauber to talk about other issues, Pronger "wandered around" how final the team's final offer actually was. After the lunch, he asked Sauber to call the Blues and work out a deal.

General manager Larry Pleau said what came next could hardly be called negotiations. "When money is the only thing that matters, it's a tough decision for both sides," Pleau said. "They put a number on the table. I wouldn't even call it negotiations — it took two or three minutes."

Besides the dual awards, Pronger led the NHL in ice time at 30 minutes, 14 seconds per game last season. He played 79 games last season and had 14 goals and 48 assists. His plus-minus of plus-52 was the best in the league.

Pronger, 26, is in the final season of a contract that pays him $4.75 million annually. Brian Leetch of the New York Rangers, at $7.68 million for this season, is currently the highest paid defenseman.

HIGH SCHOOL STATE TOURNAMENTS

Girls advance in A-1, D-II field

The Times-News

CALDWELL - Century High's Diamondbacks and the Bees of Bonneville carried the District IV-VI flag in Class A-1, Div. II girls' state soccer on Thursday.

The D'backs collected a 7-0 win over host Vallivue and the Bees downed Caldwell 3-0 in the opening round of the tournament at Vallivue High School. Blackfoot did not fare as well, suffering a 2-1 loss to Sandpoint in the first game of the day. The defeat sends the Lady Broncos into the losers' bracket with no hope of reaching the championship final.

Blackfoot plays Caldwell, while victorious Bonneville meets up with Sandpoint today. In the final match on Thursday, Moscow downed Nampa 5-2. Moscow meets up with Century today in the winners' bracket, while Nampa takes on Vallivue.

Playoff football kicks off today

By Jeff Rosen Times-News sports editor

With all that state volleyball and soccer, high school football is the forgotten sport this weekend, right?

Not exactly. Sure, dozens of volleyball and soccer squads are duking it out at state tournaments from Caldwell to Rigby right now. But several local football teams' seasons are just getting warmed up.

Headed into the playoffs with hopes of reaching the state finals in their respective classifications are Class A-2 Declo, Wood River and Kimberly, Class A-3 Valley and Wendell, Class A-4, 8-man Richfield, Carey and Shoshone and Class A-4, 11-man squads Mackay and Hagerman.

With the meet-and-greet of Hagerman and Mackay, whose first playoff games arrive the weekend of November 10, those teams have one thing in common. Each faces a must-win situation just hours from now.

Class A-2 Under their new lights, the speedy and unbeaten Declo Hornets (8-0) host Preston (6-2), a jumbo-sized runner-up out of District V, at 7 p.m. today.

The Indians' linebacker averages about 230 pounds, noted Declo coach Kelly Kidd. But that may work in the home team's favor.

"I think we're going to line up against a very good Preston team," Kidd said. "They're awfully large, but I think we're a little quicker. It's going to be a good test for us."

The matchup seems tailor-made for a state title game. Preston lost only once in conference, but that was a biggie - the Indians' 23-9 defeat to powerhouse Snake River cost them the league championship last weekend.

"I don't even view it like an opening game," Kidd said. "We get a very good B team. But I think our running backs are far quicker than their team. We have to try to get on the perimeter."

Expect some fireworks. Kidd's scouting has shown Preston to throw 75 percent of the time the Indians have possession.

"We've got to play some good pass coverage," he said. "We can concede the short pass, but we've got to guard against the deep ball."

Declo was able to shut down the usually potent threat of legman of Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference runner-up Wood River. And the weather might be an ally along those lines tonight. Playoff winds are literally blowing through Declo, which could wreak havoc on an air attack.

"The weather could help us," Kidd said. "But we're not counting on that."

The Wolverines, District IV's No. 2 seed, are also in action this weekend. Wood River opens at 7:30 p.m. late Saturday at Holt Arena, taking a 5-3 record (4-1 in SCIC play) against Teton, the second seed from District VI.

Cross Country Rankings

FIRTH - Final high school cross country rankings as determined by coaches throughout the state heading into this Saturday's state meets at Eagle Valley State Park. The state online County Web site is at www.nvinfo.com.

A-1 Div. I Boys 1. Capitul; 2. Meridian; 3. Highland; 4. Hillcrest; 5. Campanelli; 6. Coeur d'Alene

A-1 Div. II Girls 1. Meridian; 2. Hillcrest; 3. Centennial; 4. Eagle; 5. Coeur d'Alene

A-1 Div. II Boys 1. Vallivue; 2. Blakop Kelley; 3. Sand Point; 4. Post Falls; 5. Jerome; 6. Burley

Schiermeier hit Brandon Blodgett on the Musers' first offensive play for a 75-yard touchdown pass that set the stage for a Camas rout late Wednesday.

Schiermeier hit Blodgett twice more for scores from 25 and 72 yards as the Musers finished their season with a five-game win streak and a 6-3 record.

"Our passing really took off the last two weeks," said Camas County coach Randy Jewett. Josh Ivie, who was playing at the caliber we are, or I hope we are."

With one noticeable difference. While Wood River's prone to air it out, the Badgers Cory Goicoechea leads the region's quarterbacks in all classifications with 1,754 yards passing and 16 touchdowns, and No. 1 wideout Max Paisley has roughly doubled the catches (59, yards 1,085) and touchdowns (13) of anyone else in the Magic and Wood River valleys - the Redskins keep in the ground.

"They're a tough running team. That's their last game was a loss to pass-happy Salmon."

"Hopefully they'll have trouble covering us," Blackman said.

The final A-2 game involving local teams arrives Saturday as well as SCIC No. 3 Kimberly (3-5) plays at the No. 1 District V seed Snake River Panthers, an unbeaten, perennial juggernaut at 8-0, at 11 a.m. in Holt Arena.

Rather than lament their luck in the draw, the Badgers are excited about the matchup.

"You get another rebirth when you make it to the playoffs," said Kimberly coach Kirby Bright. "The kids are looking at it that way. They're going to try to go out there and win."

Snake River is solid down the line, with three good running backs, a beefy line and a quarterback who can throw the ball, Bright said. The Bulldogs, meanwhile, are coming off a loss to Filer.

"We're in for a ball game," Bright said. "We need to execute a lot better than we have. We're going to put last week behind us and try to celebrate a new season."

Class A-3

The Canyon Conference landscape finds Glenns Ferry staying home this year while conference-champion Valley and runner-up Wendell prepare for the playoffs.

Wendell hosts a hot New Plymouth crew tonight at 7 p.m., while District III second seed Nampa Christian plays at Valley on Saturday at 7 p.m.

The Valley was the three-team league's odd squad out at 5-3 in 1999 (Glenns Ferry finished 6-2 this season, with losses only to the Trojans and 3 Kings). But this season, the Vikings edged the Trojans 15-13 Oct. 5 in Hazelton and subdued the then-unbeaten Pilots two weeks ago in Glenns Ferry - without the services of their top running back, senior Rob Black.

About the only person more tired of hearing Black's name (besides the ultra-modest Black himself) is Valley coach Marlin Mussman, who says his team is on a roll.

"The kids have played really well," Mussman said. "The kids really came together about mid-season, and they're going again. And you know what, I've never seen one person win a football game."

Fair enough. Especially this weekend, when the Vikings, like Blodgett had 265 return yards with a 45-yard punt return for a touchdown as well. Jewett said the Musers' offensive line of Tony Krahn, James Miller, Duke Marolf and Andy Marolf kept the offensive charge.

opposite some relative giants. "They're really big up front," Mussman said. "We just have to continue what we've done weeks previous, and get after them. We'll be able to control the ball. Our line's done a good job, and (quarterback) Derek is making good decisions."

The weekend's final A-3 matchup offering local flavor sends New Plymouth (4-4) to Wendell. The Pilgrims don't figure to be ready tonight, having won their last four games. They scored 157 points in those four outings.

"They've been doing something right," said Wendell coach Jerry Diehl.

Thanks to a mandatory film exchange policy, he and his assistants have been able to scrutinize the Pilgrims' progress.

"They run a little more than they throw it, and they've been having some big plays," Diehl said. "I think it's going to be a good ball game."

The Trojans have given up no more than two touchdowns in a game since mid-September, and Diehl believes his team must stay stingy if it hopes to advance tonight. The winner of today's game faces Kamlah next.

"We have to come out with pretty good intensity on defense," Diehl said. "Steve Goodbody's our defensive coordinator, and he's been motivating the kids real well, getting them flying around."

"If our defense plays well, our offense feeds off it. You get ahead by a couple touchdowns and it really opens things up as far as what you can do on offense."

Class A-4

For the first time in years, the 8-man Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference will have three-team playoff. The fun begins Monday at District High at 2 p.m.

Richfield, Shoshone and Carey all finished with 7-2 records. Shoshone's Wednesday-evening win over Richfield created the three-way logjam.

"If we had lost, we'd have been out," said Shoshone coach Mark Sant. "It was a must. We kind of blew things when we lost to Carey a couple weeks ago."

Now the format is simple enough. The three squads show up, and each flips a coin. The two with matching flips play first, with the third awaiting the loser. The playoff proceeds from there. Next weekend, the eventual winner of the No. 1 seed travels down Highway 93 to play top-seeded Castledale and the No. 2 team plays at District III No. 1 Idaho City.

"It will be an Oklahoma playoff of the 40-yard line," Sant said. "We'll do that twice. If that doesn't work, we'll go to a Kansas playoff for the 10."

In the 11-man realm, Mackay and Hagerman have simple enough the top two playoff spots. The third may come down to a final regular-season game Nov. 3 between Oakley and Raft River. Should Raft River win, both teams will meet in conference play, tied for the third berth. Oakley beat Raft River 32-12 in Malta earlier this season.

Ketchum, Wood River boys move on

By Nathan Jerke Times-News writer

BUHL - Wood River and Ketchum inched toward a potential All-Wood River Valley final in the boys' Class A-2 state soccer tournament Thursday at North Park in Buhl.

District IV champion Wood River needed overtime but eventually sent South Fremont to the losers' bracket with a 2-1 overtime loss, while Ketchum had little trouble dispatching Bonners Ferry 5-0. In other opening-round matches Thursday, Payette defeated Snake River 5-4 and Weiser easily outdistanced Gaston 8-0.

Today, Wood River takes on Payette at 12:30 p.m.; Ketchum plays Weiser at the same time. On the other side of the bracket, Snake River and South Fremont play at 3 p.m. and Teton meets Bonners Ferry, also at 3. Both of those matches are loser-out.

Wood River 2, S. Fremont 1

Jason Southward was the man for Wood River, scoring both goals for the Wolverines to start and finish the game.

Wood River came out strong with a goal in the third minute by Southward. He received the inbound pass, dribbled through the defense and slapped a hard shot past the goal. Massimo Scanzini of South Fremont.

The Wolverines showed their true form on defense on the Cougars' ensuing possession, clearing two sure goals.

FALL STATE TOURNAMENTS

Southward fired back, bounding one off the pole and feeding a team mate Mike Spaulding for another hard shot, but that one was saved.

South Fremont got into the game in the 15th minute as Tito Farinos took a rabona shot at Ketchum and kicked it past a diving Robert Furry.

With each team having one goal, the pace seemed to slow and a groove was found for the remainder of the first half.

That theme extended into the second half. Wood River did not have its usual flair, as the Cougar defense cooled the Wolverines and allowed only seven shots on goal after halftime.

With the missed opportunities by both teams, the game recurred in the first overtime. The period started with an attempted header directly into the goal by Wood River's Southward. The best chance for a Wood River victory went with only the goal to beat.

Again the game needed an extended period to finish. The offenses traded opportunities. Southward found the net taking a long shot from just inside the box.

"It was a hard win," said Wood River coach Brian Daluiso. "The boys let off after the first goal. They seemed to think it was theirs. The keeper (Scanzini) did a hell of a job."

Ketchum 5, Bonners Ferry 0

The Ketchum Cutthroats had a slow start, but came through to a shut-out Bonners Ferry behind three goals by Nick Hanscom.

The Cutthroats' slow start gave the Badgers a false hope before it all came crashing down upon them. Two early attempts by Taran White of Bonners Ferry came up with nothing, and the Badgers' offense became few for the Badgers as the game continued.

The silence was broken in the 15th minute as Hanscom kicked a bullet from beyond the penalty box into the corner of the net. But the defense of Bonners Ferry stood its ground, keeping Ketchum out of the goal until the 47th minute, when Josh Stanek drove half the field, passing a defender to stop and shoot.

The second half appeared to produce two different teams as the Cutthroats came out blazing. Two early shots by Stanek fell just short of the net, but a goalie error led to a goal by Griffin Post in the 57th minute.

For the remainder of the game, everything seemed to go the way of the Cutthroats. Ketchum added two more goals by Nick Hanscom, in the 65th and 69th minutes, and the Badgers' offense seemed nonexistent.

"Bonners Ferry had their chances, but we put it together and scored," said Ketchum coach Richard Weiser. "It was a blow out. Maybe we'll surprise them."

Burley boys fall into losers' bracket

The Times-News

CALDWELL - Burley High's boys' soccer team went into the Class A-1, Div. II state soccer tournament at Vallivue High School with a tough draw.

The Bobcats were reminded of their high school on Thursday, absorbing a 2-0 shutout defeat at Sandpoint.

The loss knocked the Burley squad from state-title contention, but does not end the Bobcats out of the running entirely. Burley can still finish in the top two of the tournament, but now must beat Skyview, a 2-1 loser on Thursday to Nampa, in a loser-out match at 12:30 p.m. The winners play for the state championship Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

But all eyes were on a damp and darkening east end of District IV's final game. Goalkeeper Hailey Campbell prepared for the first of several shootout penalty kicks on the Cougars.

Four shots later, with a fifth granted, the tiebreaker movement came. Campbell and still the team from St. Anthony had found net only once. Buhl countered with three goals in the third overtime, the last two game winners. Scoring off the foot of Indians halfback Stephanie Ordonez.

"I was so scared, I was afraid I was going to miss," Ordonez said. "(Hailey) was really great."

Campbell, who let only Linsey Abeggien's blast score left under her glove, stopped three other shots with two tips over the crossbar and a catch, while Candice of the goal bounding away.

"When I went out there I look where they look (because) their first look is where they're shooting," she said. "And I didn't think about anything else and just kept my mind clear."

After stopping Neia Chase's attempt a first time, Chase was awarded a reprieve because Campbell was ruled to have moved too much prior to the kick. Campbell again tipped Chase's second early shot over the top of the home-field crowd.

"I just put (the foul) out of my mind," she said. "I've done it a million times so I thought 'might as well go again.'"

Myla King and Heather Alexander provided Buhl's other two goals in the shootout. During regulation, Buhl drew first blood with a goal by a Marta Higginson goal from a pass by Anne McCauley. South Fremont stormed back five minutes later before getting a penalty on a questionable hand ball on Kristen Childs in the penalty box. And Abeggien boomed it past Campbell for the draw.

Both teams battled scoreless through the first 10-minute overtime period and both had chances to finish the game. The Bruins controlled the tempo in the second overtime and McFarlin dumped a short pass to Cooper in the 57th minute to finish

The win guaranteed the Bruins at least two more matches and no worse than a fourth place finish.

In the girls' A-1, Div. I, tournament, all four Thursday matches went to overtime. Lake City won over Timberline 3-1 in a shootout. Pocatello beat Idaho Falls 1-0 in a shootout and Capital downed Skyline 2-1 in a shootout. Bobbè beat Coeur d'Alene 1-0 in overtime, setting up Coeur d'Alene's Capital semifinal and a Lake City Pocatello semifinal.

Tiger still on top after six-week break

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Six weeks later, not much has changed. Those watching Tiger Woods wondered whether he would shoot 59, and those trying to beat him wondered whether this tournament would end like so many others.

Woods returned to the PGA Tour for the first time since Sept. 10 and promptly birdied the first five holes before settling for a 9-under 63, giving him a share of the lead Thursday with Steve Flesch in the National Car Rental Classic at Disney World.

"You just expect the fact that he's going to play well every week, because he doesn't give you any reason to think otherwise," Flesch said.

Already a nine-time winner this year, including the last three majors, Woods got off to a torrid start in his bid for a fourth straight victory.

He missed only one green, took only 25 putts and felt like he left a few shots out on the Palm Course. Still, the bogey-free 63 was his lowest first round this year, and his 40th consecutive round at par or better on the PGA Tour.

"Any time you start off with five straight birdies and you have 13 holes left, you feel like you can really do some damage," Woods said. "It's hard to be disappointed with a 63. But again, if you're a little greedy, I could have made a couple here and there."

Mike Springer, trying desperately to avoid another trip to Q-school, also birdied his first five holes and wound up with a 64, along with Bill Glasson.

The group at 65 included Carlos Franco and Bob May, who played with Woods for the first time since their dramatic duel at the PGA Championship, where both had a 31 on the back nine Sunday and Woods outlasted him in a three-hole playoff.

"Tiger brings out the best in me," May said. "If he gets it going like he did today, hopefully you get towed along."

That's about what happened. Perhaps the most amazing part about their round was that Woods didn't have honors to hit first on the tee over the final 11 holes. May matched him birdie-for-birdie down the stretch, and even drained a 75-foot eagle putt on their 16th hole.

"I still finished two strokes behind him," May said. "Incredible."

Among those on the bubble for getting into the Tour Championship, Rocco Mediate at No. 30 on the money list had an even-par 72, while Scott Hoch — about $24,000 behind — opened with a 66.

Four share Italian Open lead

IS MOLAS, Sardinia — England's Van Phillips, Scotland's Sam Torrance, Ireland's Eamonn Darcy and France's Benoit Lellier shot 7-under 65 to share the first-round lead in the Italian Open.

Englishmen Ian Poulter and Jeremy Robinson, Denmark's Steen Tinning, Sweden's Pierre Fulke, New Zealand's Elliot Boult, Argentina's Ricardo Gonzalez and Italy's Emanuele Canonica opened with 66s. England's Lee Westwood, the European tour's money leader, shot a 67.

Tiger Woods tees off on the 8th hole during the first round of the National Car Rental Classic at Disney World in Lake Buena Vista, Fla.

Dillon marvels at Hall of Fame ceremony

CINCINNATI (AP) — Corey Dillon stood nearby in stocking feet, his lips pursed and eyes brimming, as the Pro Football Hall of Fame showed off its latest addition.

The jersey, pants and cleats that he wore when he rushed for an NFL-record 278 yards were presented to a Hall of Fame representative Thursday during an emotional news conference.

Dillon appeared humbled and overwhelmed by the latest recognition for breaking one of the game's most cherished records — Walter Payton's 27-year-old mark of 275 yards.

"Not many athletes get the opportunity to get their uniform inducted into the Hall of Fame," Dillon said. "It's not an everyday thing. It's special."

"These are the moments I'm going to remember for a lifetime. There are truly the highlights of my career and they're going to stick with me until my resting day."

Since he broke Payton's mark during a 31-21 victory over Denver last Sunday, Dillon's life has been a whirlwind of congratulations, interviews and honors.

The team recognized him Thursday with a plaque presented by coach Dick LeBeau, whose run-the-ball philosophy made the record possible. LeBeau looked Dillon in the eye and broke into a broad smile.

"Corey, we're very, very proud of you," LeBeau said, before shaking a hug.

Dillon, wearing socks, black sweat pants and a black T-shirt that said "Trust in God," stepped aside and became emotional at the presentation. Later, he noted that the team doesn't often do special favors for its players.

The white numerals on his black No. 28 jersey still have mud stains, and the white pants show dark green grass marks.

Cincinnati Bengals running back Corey Dillon expresses his feelings about being compared to the NFL's great backs, after giving his game uniform to the Pro Football Hall of Fame Thursday in Cincinnati.

physician treating John Brodie said Thursday the former San Francisco 49ers quarterback is making slow but steady progress from a major stroke.

The 65-year-old Brodie was hospitalized early Tuesday. Le said Brodie's symptoms first appeared Monday night while he was watching the Miami Dolphins-New York Jets game.

Earlier Thursday, Brodie's wife, Sue, issued a brief statement through the hospital, saying her husband was "stable and resting comfortably, but he's not ready to run a marathon."

Elliott was shot once in the back Feb. 18 while he slept in a parked van outside an apartment complex. Twelve days earlier, Elliott and Corey Evans struggled over a gun and two shots were fired, missing Elliott.

Evans on Wednesday pleaded guilty to carrying a pistol without a permit and agreed to serve 3.5 years in prison for the violation. Evans and two other suspects claimed they were just trying to scare Elliott because they said he owed them drug money.

Seattle Seahawks starting quarterback Brock Huard was downgraded Thursday from questionable to doubtful for Sunday's game with Kansas City.

That means Huard has a 2.5 percent chance of playing against the Chiefs and that Jon Kitna will likely replace him. Huard missed a second day of practice because of a concussion suffered in last Sunday's 31-3 loss to Oakland.

Buccaneers are favored despite losing streak

By Dave Goldberg
The Associated Press

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers have lost four straight games after a 3-0 start. The Minnesota Vikings are the only unbeaten team left in the NFL.

So how come Tampa Bay is favored when the Vikings come to town Sunday? The spread is 3 points, up from 2.5 to start, which means the oddsmakers figure the Buccaneers are even to give the edge to the Bucs on home field.

Law of averages. The Vikings are due to lose — they were almost beaten by Buffalo last week. Tampa Bay is too good to lose five straight. And...

The Bucs were 3-4 last season and won eight of their last nine.

Plus...

The Vikings beat Tampa Bay in Minnesota three weeks ago, but the Bucs led in the third quarter and might have tied the game had Keyshawn Johnson held on to the ball on the 5-yard line in the final minute.

Minnesota almost lost at home to Doug Flutie and the Bills last week, needing a fantastic throw and catch by Daunte Culpepper to rally Moss to win.

Moss also made the catch that beat the Bucs in the Metrodome, taking it away from Pro Bowlers Donnie Abraham and John Lynch. And Culpepper has done nothing but make good throws.

BUCS 22-20

Tennessee (plus 3.5) at Washington (Monday night)

Eddie George, is "day-to-day" after spraining his knee in Baltimore last week. When a star is "day-to-day," and the game is a week away, he plays.

TITANS, 15-13

Pittsburgh (plus 4.5) at Baltimore

Back on opening day, the Ravens won 16-0 in Pittsburgh and actually scored a touchdown on a 53-yard pass from Tony Stewart to Qadr. Ismail. Baltimore hasn't done anything like that (score a TD) in four games, and Trent Dilfer will play quarterback this week.

RAVENS 9-3

Kansas City (minus 3.5) at Seattle

Elvis Grbac has a sore elbow.

CHIEFS, 20-12

Philadelphia (plus 3.5) at New York Giants

The Giants won 33-18 in Philadelphia, their best offensive output of the season. It's hard to beat a team twice, but that's not the deciding factor. Try the Giants' 2-9 record after bye weeks.

EAGLES, 13-12

Jacksonville (plus 4) at Dallas

Last week, the Cowboys got Vince Tobin fired.

Tom Coughlin seems to have already quit on the Jags.

COWBOYS, 22-11

St. Louis (minus 7) at San Francisco

The highest scoring game in NFL history was in 1966, when the Redskins beat the Giants 71-42 for 113 total points. Try 114 this time.

RAMS, 72-42

New Orleans (minus 6) at Arizona

The new coach is a factor, particularly when he's as fiery as Dave McGinnis. But Ricky Williams might challenge Corey Dillon's week-old rushing record against the Arizona defensive line.

SAINTS, 20-12

Green Bay (plus 4.5) Miami

The Dolphins don't allow 30-point fourth quarters at home.

DOLPHINS, 16-10

New York Jets (plus 3.5) at Buffalo

The Bills don't allow 30-point fourth quarters anywhere.

BILLS, 22-20

Detroit (plus 7) at Indianapolis

The Indy defense is too porous.

COLTS, 31-27

Oakland (minus 7) at San Diego

RAIDERS, 20-17

Cincinnati (minus 3) at Cleveland

The rejuvenated Bengals continue their move down in next year's draft.

BENGALS, 20-10

Boise State's Hendricks among Unitas finalists

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Quarterbacks for four of the country's top 16 teams, and Boise State, are among the finalists for the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award.

The five finalists are Josh Heupel of No. 6 Oklahoma, Chris Weinke of No. 6 Florida State, Marques Tuiasopopo of No. 9 Washington, Drew Brees of No. 16 Purdue and Bart Hendricks of Boise State.

The award is presented each year to the nation's top senior collegiate quarterback by the Frank Camp Chapter of the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Educational Foundation.

Heupel has completed 69 percent of his passes for nearly 1,900 yards and 11 touchdowns to lead the resurgent Sooners to the No. 2 spot in the initial Bowl Championship Series standings.

Weinke leads the nation with 2,784 passing yards and is ranked second among Division I quarterbacks in passing efficiency.

Tuiasopopo has completed 115 of 224 passes for 4,433 yards and eight touchdowns and has run for four scores.

Brees is ranked third nationally in passing yardage with 2,443 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Hendricks ranks sixth in the nation in total offense at 293.57 yards per game and is second among Division I-A quarterbacks with 20 TDs.

The winner will be announced Nov. 21. NFL Hall of Fame quarterback Johnny Unitas will make the official award presentation Dec. 8 in Louisville.

Louisville quarterback Chris Reilman won the award last year, then the Cardinals lost to the Redskins' Broncos in the Humanitarian Bowl.

Austrian teams could take World Cup again

The Associated Press

Austrians, Austrians and more Austrians.

That's the panorama again as the World Cup ski season opens this weekend on a 9,800-foot glacier in Soelden, Austria.

First, there's the indomitable Hermann "The Herminator" Maier, who last winter became only the third skier to win four World Cup titles in a single season. Only Jean-Claude Killy, in 1967, and Pirmin Zurbriggen, in 1987, had done it previously.

A double Olympic gold medalist — in the super-G and giant slalom — the 27-year-old Maier will try to add to his success in the World Championships in early February in St. Anton.

The Austrian men have so much depth that seven or eight are capable of victories in the downhill and super-G, and a half-dozen others could win in the tight, twisty technical disciplines of the slalom and giant slalom.

Two Norwegians — Kjetil Andre Aamodt and Lasse Kjus — appear to be the major threats to Maier winning this third overall title in four seasons.

Aamodt was second overall last season and won the slalom, the only discipline that eluded Maier.

Kjus, a two-time gold medalist in the 1999 World Cup, and the World Cup overall winner that year, is back after skipping the last season of last season with a viral infection that left his immune system defenseless against continual colds and flu.

On the women's side, read Austrian, too.

Renate Goetsch, who won the coveted overall title last season to go with super-G, should be pressed to keep her overall title by races. Like Retiree Cowagwood of France and Italy's Isolda Kostner.

Fellow Austrian Michaela Dorfmeister returns after taking the giant slalom title last season. Germany's Regina Haeusl won the downhill, and Slovenia's Spela Prnar took the slalom.

German Martina Ertl, the Olympic silver medalist who ended her season with a knee injury in February, is one of numerous stars making comebacks.

The most compelling return could be that of Croatian Janica Kostelic who, at only 17, was the surprise overall leader last season until she shredded her right knee in a horrifying crash in downhill training in December in St. Moritz.

American Picabo Street, who will skip this weekend, is expected to debut when the World Cup — after a three-week break — resumes in Park City, Utah. Street, the Olympic and World champion, is trying to recover from a crash 2.5 years ago in which she broke her left leg and wrecked her right knee.

After the women's giant slalom Saturday and the same men's event on Sunday, the season resumes in Park City, Nov. 16-19, with men's and women's slaloms and giant slaloms.

Notes on the economy

Magic Valley report

A bunch of folks out there are looking for willing, able workers in the Magic Valley. Employees in September swelled the Times-News' classified advertising section with 1,395 employment ads. That's a 4.3 percent more than the 1,338 of September 1999. That increase puts year-to-date 2000's employment ads, totaling 11,287, at 10.5 percent above the corresponding portion of 1999.

Home ownership rates reach record high

WASHINGTON - Home ownership rates have soared to 67.7 percent, the highest level in history, during third quarter 2000, Housing and Urban Development Secretary Andrew Cuomo said Thursday. The rate surpasses the 67.5 percent target set by the Clinton Administration set in 1995. Cuomo said 71.6 million Americans own homes, a record number of them minorities, women and city dwellers.

President Clinton hailed the new figures as "tremendous new evidence that more and more American families are realizing the dream of owning their own home."

"Higher homeownership rates help build stronger families, create more stable communities, and raise living standards for all Americans," Clinton said.

The new numbers cover July to September. They show 48.2 percent of minorities and 53 percent of women own homes. Among minorities, 47.3 percent of blacks and 46.7 percent of Hispanics own homes.

And for the first time more than half of all urban residents are homeowners. Cuomo said 51.9 percent of city residents own homes, up from 48 percent in 1994.

About 52.2 percent of households earning less than the median family income in the quarter owned their own homes. Cuomo attributed the surge in home ownership to the strong economy, consumer confidence and low interest rates made possible by paying off the national debt.

Growth in workers' compensation slows

WASHINGTON - American workers' compensation in the third quarter posted its smallest increase in a year as both wages and benefits grew at a solid but more subdued pace.

Economists said Thursday's report suggests the nation's still-sizzling labor market is allowing workers to make gains but isn't producing worrisome wage inflation.

The compensation figures also bolstered economists' belief that the Federal Reserve - which has been worried that the tight labor market will trigger wage inflation - will leave interest rates unchanged at its next meeting Nov. 15.

Labor Secretary Alexis Herman said the report shows "this economy continues to be a winner for both business and labor."

The Labor Department's Employment Cost Index, a closely watched gauge of inflation pressures, showed that American wages and benefits rose by 0.9 percent in the July-September quarter, down slightly from a 1.0 percent increase in the previous three months.

"Growth in labor compensation has leveled off but at a relatively high level. Compensation is still strong and indicates that workers are doing well, and, given robust productivity gains so far, businesses are doing well, too," said Mark Andri, chief economist for Economy.com, a consulting firm.

The third-quarter compensation increase was right on target with many analysts' expectations and marked the slowest quarterly rate of growth in compensation since a 0.8 percent rise in the third quarter of 1999.

Power marketing sends IDACORP to record high

The Associated Press

BOISE - The holding company for Idaho's largest electric utility capitalized on a volatile power market this summer to post record per-share earnings.

IDACORP on Thursday said it share, on $231.5 million in revenue during the July-September quarter, up 88 percent from the same period a year ago when profits totaled $22 million, or 59 cents a share.

The earnings announcement came just 3.5 weeks after the company advised investors that it expected per-share earnings of at least 90 cents when Wall Street analysts forecast just 61 cents, according to First Call/Thomson Financial.

"Our strong results are a combination of increasing volumes over a larger geographical area and the continued development of our skills in the marketing and risk management areas," Chief Executive Officer Jan Packwood said.

The per-share net income was 21 cents higher than the previous record set in the first quarter this year and continued to reflect the company's ability to take advantage of the pressure being placed on limited supplies of transmission and generation by unprecedented economic expansion and unusual weather patterns throughout the West.

The first-quarter earnings were enhanced by a 22-cent-a-share one-time gain from the sale of the company's interest in a proposed 536-megawatt natural gas-fired combustion turbine near Hermiston, Ore.

For the first nine months of 2000, IDACORP posted $116.2 million in profits, or $3.09 a share, compared with $72.8 million, or $1.93 a share, during the first three quarters of 1999. The corporation's core business, Idaho Power Co., maintained its operating income stream at the year-ago level as the rising customer base, increased usage and last spring's rate hike to compensate for reduced hydropower capability offset the higher cost of coal-fired generation and power purchased on the open market to meet customer demand.

The utility had just over 390,000 customers at the end of September, up almost 10,000 from a year earlier. At the same time, low stream flows reduced its hydrogenerating capacity 12.5 percent, requiring more expensive coal-generated or open-market power to fill the gap.

It was the surge in power marketing that fueled the record earnings, but Investor Relations Director Lawrence Spencer emphasized the same kind of performance cannot be counted on in the future.

Spencer said the company remains committed to its target of expanding the power marketing profits by 15 percent a year. The third quarter saw power marketing income five times higher than a year earlier, leaving the total earnings from that sector for the first nine months of 2000 at more than four times the amount posted in 1999.

TALKIN' MILK

Faron Perkes of Cache Valley Select talks with Meridian dairy farmer Gary Johnson in Sun Valley Thursday at the annual meeting of United Dairyman of Idaho.

Speaker predicts increase in dairy exports

By Karen Bosseck
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY - Dairy-product exports are bound to increase good news for an industry that can count on seeing continuing low prices for several months to come.

But don't expect exports to be the savior of the dairy industry, warned Tom Suber, executive director of the U.S. Dairy Export Council.

Suber spoke Thursday to a couple of hundred dairy producers at the United Dairyman of Idaho annual meeting being held through today in Sun Valley.

Suber said it's a constant fight to keep major dairy products going out of than coming into the United States, though 96 percent of the world lives outside the United States.

Only 1.1 percent of the cheese

Exports at a glance
Dairy exports totaled $3.3 billion in the third quarter, up 14 percent from the same period last year. Exports of milk and milk products, $2.8 billion, up 14 percent from the same period last year. Exports of cheese, $400 million, up 14 percent from the same period last year.

produced here is exported, for instance.

But that is on the verge of changing, thanks to a couple of factors.

Rising incomes elsewhere in the world are leading to increased consumption of beef, pork and dairy products. That happened in Japan after World War II, and it's beginning to happen in China and India, Suber said.

By 2020, experts project 60 percent of dairy consumption will be outside the Western hemisphere nations. That is 862 billion pounds of milk compared with 200 billion-plus pounds not long ago.

You can thank McDonald's and cable television, in large part, for the increased demand for animal products, Suber said. And the demand caused by those two is likely to get more pronounced. Ninety-five percent of new McDonald's restaurants built during the next five years will be built overseas.

Similarly, domestic demand for Starbucks increased 30.6 percent last year while international demand increased 84 percent. Domestic demand for Burger King increased 1.2 percent from 1998 to 1999; international demand increased 43 percent.

And the United States is seen as the likely place big international companies like Haagen-Dazs and Nestle can find milk to serve that demand.

Market barriers such as quotas have also limited U.S. export of dairy products overseas - never mind the supply-demand theory you learned in economics class.

But policy changes toward China, Vietnam, Cuba and other countries could provide new markets for U.S. exports.

U.S. dairy exports to Cuba, for instance, could reach $60 million a year within five years if sanctions are lifted, according to USDA Foreign Agricultural Service Administrator Timothy Galvin.

To improve its export market, the United States needs to show it can be a reliable provider - that it's not just going to dump surpluses from time to time. It also must establish credibility as a latecomer to the game, Suber added.

DALLAS - Americans collectively will spend more during this holiday shopping season than last year.

But they aren't expected to spend quite as much.

The highs of Christmas 1999 will be tough to repeat, analysts say, especially while consumers are thinking about saving money and noticing that hikes at the gas pump have taken a bite out of their budgets.

There's no Y2K craze to help boost holiday sales, and no dominant item such as the Cabbage Patch doll of years past, to send parents scrambling to stores.

"Last year was a great year, and this year we expect sales to increase 5 or 6 percent, which is still pretty good," said David Wyss, chief economist at Standard & Poor's Corp. in New York.

"It's still a fundamentally solid economy. Everyone has a job, and we're still pretty darn rich."

The capital gains posted over the last several years haven't been wiped out by the market's recent cooling, he said. "But consumers are slowing down."

"The savings rate is already net-negative. That happens when people put $10,000 into their 401(k)s and then go out and borrow $20,000 for a new car."

Combined November and December retail sales rose 7.3 percent last year, the best increase since 1994's 7.5 percent, according to the National Retail Federation and U.S. Commerce Department.

Retail forecasts for the season ahead are for increases ranging from as low as 3 percent to the most optimistic 6 percent, which is the industry trade organization's forecast.

Just about every measure that foretells how people will spend the rest of this year points to a retail upswing with Credit Suisse First Boston Corp.

"We don't see anything positive happening before the end of the year to accelerate spending," he said.

"GDP has slowed from 7 to 5 percent, consumer spending is

Business veterans donate expertise to fledgling entrepreneurs

The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY - It did not take Marcellus Stanley of Bountiful, Utah, long after starting his own business to feel overwhelmed by what he didn't know.

The former sales manager for a printing company knew plenty about how to market the partner, Jim Ritsnell, had developed. But write a business plan? Convince a bank to provide him a loan?

"I had no idea at all how to do any of that," said Stanley, who started Re-Fax earlier this year.

So Stanley called the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE), a group that provides free counseling to new and existing business owners. With the help of a handful of counselors, Stanley wrote a business plan, landed a bank loan and began to expand his business.

"What I like about SCORE is that the counselors really have a no-nonsense, direct approach," he said. "They tell you that no matter what kind of business you're starting, it has to make sense. And you have to be able to get your point across in a business plan."

SCORE is a nonprofit volunteer organization made up of retired and semiretired executives and business owners. Each volunteer spends three to nine hours per month providing confidential advice to small-business owners in areas such as law, finance, accounting, business planning and management.

The organization also offers business workshops, including a full-day session each month on starting a business. The workshops, which in Salt Lake City cost $35, are the only service offered by SCORE that is not free.

Although the emphasis is on one-on-one counseling, one of the fastest-growing portions of the organization is its E-mail Counseling Service, which allows business owners to ask questions and get basic advice electronically. Nationally, more than 60,000 business owners last year used the service, which is available at www.score.org.

The group, which is funded by the U.S. Small Business Administration and private donations, has two Idaho chapters in Utah chapters in Salt Lake City, Provo, Ogden, Logan and St. George.

Utah's several dozen SCORE counselors are among more than 12,000 working in 283 chapters nationwide who provide assistance to more than 250,000 business owners a year.

The group is expanding the type of services it offers, said Janet Haskell, chairwoman of the Salt Lake City chapter. Whereas SCORE traditionally focuses on the individual counseling sessions, the Salt Lake City chapter is developing teams of counselors who can help business owners solve more complex issues that threaten to undermine their businesses.

"After a business owner contacts us, we will figure out which tier to help in a certain situation," she said. "If it is a really complex problem, we have teams of people available who could go in and help the business owner solve it," she said.

Although many of the SCORE counselors started out in business decades ago, they say they still have a lot of knowledge to impart on the younger business owners who come in for assistance.

"The types of businesses that are being started nowadays are very different from when I was starting out," said John Parsons, an attorney with Parsons, Davies, City. "But you still need to know your product and you still need to know your market and do your research. The fundamentals are the same."

SCORE counselors say because of this, they can provide useful advice to e-commerce and other high-tech companies. And if they and their colleagues don't have the expertise to help, these counselors say they are quick to refer them to someone who can.

U.S. Bancorp deal gives salary security

U.S. Bancorp deal gives salary security. Knight Ridder News Service. Milwaukee - In an agreement that makes certain the younger brother's pay won't trump the big brother's in the merger of U.S. Bancorp and First Corp., Chairman John F. Grundhofer is guaranteed to be paid at least what Jerry Grundhofer makes as chief executive officer.

Stocks rebound during rally late in the session

NEW YORK (AP) - Late bargain-hunting lifted blue chip and technology stocks Thursday, but the overall market was mostly lower as investors remained skittish about the outlook for earnings. The tech-focused Nasdaq composite index, down more than 140 points in early afternoon, closed up 42.59 points at 3,272.16, according to preliminary calculations. The Nasdaq lost 190 points on Wednesday. The Dow Jones industrial average changed during the day before closing at 10,380.12. But the broader Standard & Poor's 500 index fell 0.46 to 1,364.41. Investors seemed to be searching for a trend after Wednesday's session, when a disappointing revenue report from telecommunications equipment maker Nortel Networks touched off a decline in the fiber optics and telecom sectors and brought Thursday's turnaround appeared to be linked to Nortel and other tech stocks. Nortel traded erratically Thursday following a 29 percent plunge in the previous session but it closed up 75 cents at $45.75. JDS Uniphase, another fiber optic company, rose $3.44 to $74.44, recovering from earlier losses. The company rallied its first-quarter earnings after the close, and beat analyst expectations by 2 cents a share, but its stock fell $1.94 in after-hours trading. Analysts said that investors should expect prices to fluctuate given the current market environment, where any signs of bad news in a particular market recovery or even a consistent rally will take a while. "The market is feeling for a financial market rally from bottom," said Eugene Mintz, a financial analyst at Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. "We thought it had bottomed a few weeks ago."

DEAR ABBY: My older sister "Jane" and I used to be close. She married 10 years ago, and her husband has done very well. Jane is a stay-at-home mom with three children. She and her husband recently purchased a million-dollar home in the wealthy area of our city. I took a different path, and now work full time in an industry I love. I enjoy life with my husband and two children. We have a lovely house in the suburbs.

Lately, whenever Jane and I are together - whether it's alone or in public - she has become aggressive about comparing our lifestyles. Although I wish Jane well, she has paid a high price for her affluence. I am not, nor have I ever been, jealous of her status. I have tried to convince her of this, but she tunes me out and continues her monologue about her nanny, housekeeper, new cottage, etc. I'm sure you get the picture. I have almost come to the point where I don't want to see her any more. Please guide me through this, Abby. I am annoyed and frustrated. How shall I handle this in the future?

- YOUNGER SIS

DEAR ABBY: I must reply to the letter you reprinted recently from the irate mother whose 16-year-old son received a birthday card from his grandparent with a note enclosed, telling him he was getting only the card - but no money that year - because he had failed to send a thank-you note for the money he had been given the year before. You told the mother that you thought the grandmother had given the young man a birthday gift far more valuable than money.

I disagree. One of my greatest pleasures is giving gifts. However, whenever I do so, I must be absolutely certain that it is, in fact, a gift. That means I expect nothing in return - not even a thank you. A gift should be given for no other reason than the joy of giving. It should be a celebration of the fact that you have someone to give to.

- GORDON READE,
PALO ALTO, CALIF.

DEAR GORDON: I have received a blitz of mail about that letter, and the "reviews" are running 50-50 regarding whether my answer was correct. Perhaps I should have elaborated further.

Teaching children the social graces may not be fun for a parent, but it is a duty, because those skills - or the lack of them - will affect the way those children are regarded for the rest of their lives.

Failure to teach them is a disservice to the children.

Writing thank-you letters is a skill that must be learned and honed. It doesn't come "naturally." When a gift - or a kind gesture, for that matter - goes unacknowledged, it indicates that the recipient thought so little of it that it wasn't even a blip on the radar screen.

It sends a terrible message about the manner, sensitivity and upbringing of the person who received the gift.

Judge issues warrant for rapper, official recommends prison

LOS ANGELES - An arrest warrant was issued for Russell Tyrone Jones, the Wu Tang Clan member who goes by ODB, after he fled a court-ordered drug rehabilitation center and didn't show up for an Oct. 17 hearing.

His probation was revoked by Superior Court Judge Marshall Revel.

The district attorney is recommending prison time.

Jones, 31, was sentenced last November to the Pasadena treatment program as part of a plea bargain on a charge of making a terrorist threat.

Jones pleaded no contest to being a convicted felon in possession of body armor in February 1999.

Chinese pianist plays perfectly after seven years in prison

In the 1958 Tchaikovsky piano competition, Liu Chi Kung came in second to Van Cliburn. A year later, Chinese Cultural revolutionaries put Liu Chi Kung in jail where he stayed for seven years without a piano. Shortly after his release he played concerts, masterfully. He'd practiced daily in his mind, he'd said.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

Bobby Wolff

"In baiting a mousetrap with cheese, always leave room for the mouse."

—Saki

"It pays to vary your tactics," crowed an egotistical East. He claimed all the credit for pushing South to a game he didn't make.

"Don't overrate your exploits," countered South. "If not for my careless play and your partner's alert defense, you would be singing another tune."

Many duplicate players would open one club instead of pre-empting. Opposite a passing partner, East's strategy had much merit, especially the potential of leading the opponents to an abnormal spot for a poor result.

South won his club ace, impulsively cashed his trump ace, and crossed to dummy's trump 10. A diamond to South's jack knocked out West's ace, and West made an excellent play. Instead of leading a second club, West led another trump. This prevented a diamond ruff in dummy, and South had to lead a club, a heart and two diamonds for South's burien dummy offered slight chances for success. However, South should have made the game. At trick two, South should cross to dummy's trump 10 to finesse in diamonds. West wins, but neither a trump return nor a club continuation would hurt South.

If West leads clubs, East wins and leads a third club, ruffed by South. After cashing his diamond king and ruffing a diamond, South draws trumps and claims 10 winners. If West leads a trump instead, South wins and establishes diamonds. Then he can afford to ruff either a club or a heart and draw trumps to claim the same 10 winners.

Too bad South missed his opportunity. It would have been interesting to hear East's analysis of his strategic bidding.
