VOTING 101: Answers to common questions about your trip to the polls

Trying to fit a trip to the polls into a busy schedule can be tough sometimes. And remembering everything you need to do to be prepared to vote, can be even harder. Here are Twin Fall County Clerk Bob Fort's answers to a few common questions voters ask on election day.

1 What do you need to do to pregister as a voter at the polls?

andidates voters would like to write in by hand. However, it's important to research all candidates before going to the polls because it's illegal for poll workers to discuss write-in candidates or the elections at all. This is especially true for write-ins because a roster of names is not provided at the polls.

Sample ballots and write-in rosters are available at most city halls and county derive offices.

When will polls be open?
By state law, all polls will be open for business from 8 a.m. to 8 pm. today.

If I'm in a hurry, when might be a better time to vote?

Are there common things voters do that render their ballots invalld?

Trying to scratch out an unintended vote is the most common mistake. Vote counting equipment will still register the vote. If this happens, voters nued to ask election judges for a new ballot,

Fort said, "We are not allowed to ask why, or anything. We can just take the old one and issue a new one."

Do I have to see.

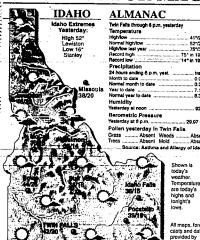

No. Voters can cast ballots in as few races as they like. "I have seen instances where there will be a totally blank hallot," Fort said.

Fort also said extra county clerk personnel will be on hand to take absentee ballots and registation forms to anyone who is injured, sick, or disabled and cannot get to their polling place. "But we can do this only if that the case. If someone is lary and just doesn't want to leave the house, we can't do it." Fort said.

WASHINGTON - About that space object hurling toward Earth for a possible crash in 2030 ... never mind.

It seems that the mystery object reprobably an asteroid, possibly an old Apollo rocket booster - will miss Earth by 2.5 million milles in 2030... red-faced .astronomers acknowledged Monday.

After warning last week of a 1 in 500 chance that the object, called 2000 SG344, would smash into our planet, top astronomers found some 18-monthold pictures that put Earth in the clear - at least in 2030.

What happened? The estimate had a large amagin of error in its plotting of the object's trajectory.

Then astronomers at the Catalian Sky Survéy in Tucson, Ariz, found old pictures of the object that permitted a more precise plotting. Volla, Earth was in the clear. It was the second such asteroid scare and recantation in recent years. In January 1998, some astronomers warned that an aster-old might smash into Earth in 2028. Other astronomers later proved that it would miss. In response, astronomers set up a system in which top experts would consult for 72 hours before alert-ing the public.

Big plans dissolve for small town

SHOSHONE - When Shoshone Mayor Kenneth Haught learned that plans for a large manufacturing plant to locate in town have dissolved, he was disappointed but not surprised. Leading Edge Earth Products Inc., or LEEP, received a conditional-use permit in August 1998 to construct a 90,000-square-foot manufacturing plant. LEEP planned to employ up to 95 people who would produce panels out of structural wood, steel, reinforced concrete and masonry for frameless buildings.

In August 1999, though construction had not started, the city of Shoshone renewed the conditional-use permit because company officials said they were still trying to obtain financing. But this August city and county officials suspected LEPP's plans weren't working out when the company — Led by Chief Executive Officer Grant Record-didn't attempt to renew a second time. time.

Inventor of miniature flashlight moves into mid-size business

BLACHLY, Ore. - D. Hardy was hurtling along a Texas high-way in his BMW convertible when he swerved to avoid a por-cupine. The car slid down an embankment and flipped. When the car came to a rest, Hardy and his passenger were disori-ented, hanging upside down in darkness.

ented, hanging upside down in darkness.
Hardy's buddy groped for his seat belt, yelling at Hardy to cut it. Hardy couldn't see a thing. Then he remembered the miniature flashlight on his key chain. "Hang on, I've got a light," Hardy said. He pressed his Photon Micro-Light, illuminating the car's interior. Hardy and his passenger were able to crawl out and use a cell phone to contact help.

"It was a terrible incident that I hope never to repeat," Hardy wrote to David Allen, the Blachly-based inventor of the Photon Micro-Light. "But it sure illustrates the importance of a powerful tiny flashlight."

Allen's little light is about the size and weight of a quarter, but it casts a bright beam through an LED, or light emitting diode. The $15 light has been helping people get out of scrapes ever since Allen introduced it six years ago.

since Allen introduced it six years ago.

The flashlights have blasted into space with astronauts, guiddled seed lost campers back to shelter, and helped ease the panic of people stuck in locked rooms, crawl spaces and power outages, according to scores of letters customers have written to the company.

The tiny flashlight appeals to everyone from the techie who must have every latest gadget, to the granny who pins a Photon to her nightie so she doesn't have to fumble for a light at night. The latest customer group is young people who dance with the lights at all-night "raves."

Allen, 51, and his wife, Dallas, who manages their business, relish telling the story of a friend who worked at a nickel mine in Cameroon, Africa. The friend hired a local Pygmy to help pack in equipment. To show his appreciation when the work was finished, the friend offered the Pygmy any piece of his gear. He had his choice of expensive boots, backpacks, shovels. What did he take? Dallas Allen asked with a giggle. The Photon Micro-Light.

The utility of the tiny flash-light crosses cultures, languages and borders. And in its six years, the Allens have seen sales grow to more than 56 million this years, the Allens have seen sales grow to more than 56 million this years.

to more than 50 million year.

They still run their company, L.R.L., in rural Blachly, about 35 miles west of Eugene, from a 4,000-square-foot office. The company produces a million lights a year using 20 full-time employees and 75 subcontractors, from the Oregon Coast to Bend, who assemble the lights in Abel homes.

L.R.I. - which stands for Laughing Rabbit Inc. - buys the LEDs, lithium batteries and black polyurethane bodies (the nearly indestructible stuff that inline skate wheels are made of from suppliers.

The Allens are now at a crossroads. They must decide how to accommodate their company's rapid expansion and continue to fulfill David Allen's vision of putting a miniature flashlight in everyone's palm: to light the world a corner at a time.

That has prompted him to look for industrial property in the Eugene area and to travel to China to explore the possibility of manufacturing components there.

of manufacturing components there.
"We're trying to expand enough to make this a continuing event," he said.
"We're not interested in changing anything we've got going here," he added, referring to the Blachly office and network of subcontractors. "But I have three to four ideas coming to fruition, and I need more space."

And that doesn't count the Medicare portion of the payroll tax. Add that in, and the $80,400 a.year wage earner will be coughing up $6,160,60 next year to support social safety-net programs. Since these taxes are levied directly on wages, without any deductions or other breaks, they will rival income taxes in the burden they place on the burden they place on the burden they place on the surface of the second security has mentioned in the debate, if for no other reason than any remark that so much as suggests any threat to the program sends beneficiaries scurrying to the polls of make sure the peaker is office. They are certainly not the only factor in these phenomena, and of course, some economists and social theorists doubt that taxes have much impact on behavior. In addition, it is hard to generate much sympathy for the downtrodden $80,000-ayear worker.

But while lower-income people get a variety of tax breaks and other benefits, and the truly wealthy don't need them or can afford to "game the system" - take advantage of breaks more afford to "game the system" - take advantage of breaks more afford to "game the system" - take advantage of breaks more the Sto.000 brack and they must pay and pay without get with the sto.000 brack and they must pay and pay without get.

Social Security is just one example of that. But take a look:
The system began in 1937 by taxing workers 1 percent of the first $3,000 of their earnings, or $30 a year. By 1950, the maximum tax had climbed to $45 a year, and in 1960 it was $14 annually. That seemed like, a small amount to pay for a life-time of benefits, and it was - ton small.

Blue chips rise, tech issues drag in pre-election tradition

NEW YORK (AP) – Blue chip stocks spurred higher Monday, lifted by a pre-election spending spree that sent the Dow Jones industrial average as high as 11,000. But technology issues couldn't keep up, weighed down by investors concerned about Cisco Systems' earnings.

Analysts cautioned against reading too much into the Dow's rally, saying uncertainty still rules Wall Street.

"You're a day before a presidential election that nobody can get their arms around, so there's gravitation toward buying safe blue chips," said Larry Wachtel, a market analyst at Prudential Securities. "But trading volume is low, breadth is negative and generally this is a very cautions day.

"The Dow represents 30 stocks out of 10,000." The Dow closed up 159.26 at 10,977.21, losing some ground after hitting 11,000 for the first time since mid-September. The average has climbed more than 1,000 points in the 13 trading days since Oct. 18, when it fell as low as 9,571.40; this was the Dow's fastest 1,000-point gain ever: Broader stock-indicators were mixed. The Nasdaq composite index fell 35.37 to 3,416.21, with much of its loss coming in the last hour of trading. The Standard & Poor's 500 index was up 5.50 at 1,432.19.

"This is a continuation of last week's positive momentum," said Jack Shaughnessy, chief investment strategist at Advest Inc. of Monday's blue chip rally.

But tech stocks struggled, pulled lower in regular trading by Cisco Systems, which fell 51.63 to 555.13 in regular trading. After the market closed, Cisco announced first quarter earnings slightly ahead of Wall Street estimates, but worries about future revenues sent its shares downanother 52.63 to 552.50.

"They're the bellwether out there, and people have been very concerned about technology earnings," said John Forelli, portfolio manager with Independence Investment Associates.

"The long and the short of it is pretty-simple," Record-said-Monday, "We couldn't get the government funding necessary to continue with the Shoshone location."

He said LEEP discovered that certain funding to start new industry in depressed rural areas was not available to Idaho, despite his previous understanding that certain federal loan guarantees would be available to the company to locate in Shoshone. Instead, now LEEP is seriously looking at Walla-Walla, Wash, Record said.

LEEP needed $25 million to construct the plant and run the business at the outset.
"Also, daho didn't have the banking infrastructure to support that kind of funding," he said.

Brookbank said Record told him the company had been offered a great deal on a large building in Walla Walla.

And now the 35-acro-parcel. LEEP purchased in 1999 in the eastern section of Shoshone near the railroad tracks - that would have been ideal for shipping - is up for sale.
"We're very disappointed because of the situation," Record said. "The state said we could get funding, and we even moved there (Twin Falls) because of that.

LEEP in late 1997 was looking to build factories on an 86 acre lot near Curry Crossing west of Twip-Falls – a plan opposed by some neighbors.

LEEP in the fall of 1997 had pulled out of developing at a con-troversial industrial park east of Twip-Falls, near the siste of a truck-train "intermodal" freight center.

wage base; that tax is levied on all wages. (These figures are only half of what the system actually collects; the employer pays the same amount for each worker.
Self-employed people now pay both halves, though in earlier years they paid less than double.) On the receiving end, Social Security has long been deliberately skewed toward lowerincome workers. Policy-makers thought it appropriate, and few Americans disagreed, that the system ought to replace a greater portion of the pre-retirement income of those who earned less. For most of the system's life, benefits were tax-free. But in 1983, Congress began to face the system's long-term financial difficulties and decreed that recipients with "modified adjusted gross incomes" of more than, $25,000 for a single person ($52,000 for a couple) would have to pay income tax on 50 percent of their benefits. Receipts from this levy are dedicated to the Social Security trust fund.

Modified adjusted gross income includes ordinary AGI plus half of Social Security benefits and any income from tax-exempt bonds. That is, recipients must add 50 cents of their benefits to their taxable income for every dollar that their income exceeds the $25,000/$32,000 threshold until half their bene-fits are taxed.

Then in 1993, Congress boost-ed the share of taxable benefits to 85 percent for single benefi-claries with incomes over $34,000 ($44,000 for couples).

The thresholds are not indexed ciaries with incomes over $34,000 ($4,000 for couples).

The thresholds are not indexed for inflation, so the number of retirees subject to taxation has climbed steadily. According to the National Center for Policy Analysis, a conservative group based in Dallas, the taxes affected fewer than 10 percent of retirees when they were first imposed but now fall on about 22 percent. And because the taxes kick in instantly when the threshold is crossed, they create "eliffs" in retirees' overall tax rates. If a retiree receives one additional dollar in income, he or she must pay not only the normal income tax on the dollar but also tax on an additional 50 cents or 85 cents of Social Security benefits. In other words, receipt of an additional dollar of income can boost taxable income $1.55. The result is marginal to the second property of the second property of

Once all 85 percent of benefits are fully included in income, marginal tax rates drop back to the nominal rate, he noted. "I don't think (lawmakers) were very thoughtful about what was happening to the people in the middle," he said in a telephone conversation last week.

The House voted during the summer to repeal the 85 percent layer of tax, but the measure apparently is not going to make it through the last-minute battles on Capitol Hill. Finally, there's the earnings test, a reduction in benefits for retirees whose income exceeds certain limits: Congress did repeal that, but only for retirees above the "normal retirement age," currently 65. Social Security beneficiaries below the normal retirement age, continue to be subject to benefit

Today's the day for voters to speak out

Go to the polls today, and support the candidates of your . choice. Keep the good ones and throw the burns out.

America's only formal revolution occurred more than 200 years ago, but U.S. voters have been politely declaring their independence ever since. Ambitious politicians go from the stars to the stables every Election Day.

Today is the day for all registered voters to get to the polls and support the candidates of their choice.

Keep the good ones and throw the burns out.

Eigetlon U.S. Go to do to the control of their choice.

of their choice. Keep the good ones and throw the hums out.

This column has endorsed a full slate of can di dat es over the past few weeks and, for your convenience, here's a quick summary:

President – Republican George W. Bush is the correct choice, because he'll ease partisan gridlock in Washington without derailing the domestic economy.

Idaho's Jan'Congressional District – With one successful term behind him, Rep. Mike Simpson, R-Idaho, has shown he's on the right side of the issues and knows what the job entails.

Idaho House 21B – Incumbent Tim Ridinger provides much-needed Republican balance for this district's otherwise Democratic delegation.

Idaho House 22A – Shrewd and conservative, Republican Celia Gould is a rising star in Idaho politics – and a future contender for statewide office.

Idaho House 23B – Though he's an a-future contender for statewise diffice. Idaho House 23B – Though he's an appointed stand-in, Republican George Swan is a former president of the National Cattleman's Beef Association and could be a powerful advocate for Idaho's farmers and ranchers.

Idaho House 24A - Republican Bert Stevenson is a fiscal conserva-tive who mirrors the mood of his con-

Idaho Senate 22 – Now that he's focused on serving his constituents, Republican John Sandy has emerged as a leader on confined animal feeding operations.

Twin Falls County sheriff – Two-term incumbent Wayne Tousley has done a good job of running a large department under tight budget pressure.

Homosexuality not to be feared

Homosexuality not to be feared
It appears to me that it is no coincidence that letters from Jerry Hughen Got. 19) and Jack Lintelmann (Oct. 20) on the subject of homosexuals appeared in The Times-News one day apart.
Both men display a hatred and ignorance of homosexuals and use a similar tone to rell us so. They use similar phrasing and a nauseating, horrific example of supposed male homosexual behavior that is, in fact, much more applicable to male heterosexuals.
If they are honorable men – one of them is an evangelical roustabout, for crying out load – they should apologize to the approximately 200 gay men and their families in our area.
Of course, they probably won't because religious fanaties and ministers of any group are the least likely to accept secular truths, unless, of course, they benefit somehow.

-Thughen's and Lintelmann's example concerns boy Scouts, overnight camp inter selections bases and a homosexual concerns Boy Scouts, overnight camp ing, sleeping bags and a homosexual scoutmaster.

In actuality, gay men are the least likely to sexually assault a young man. (Deep breath, guys.) The number of male homosexuals who would sexually assault a young man is 2.4 per thousand; whereas, the number of male heterosex-assaut a young man is 2-9 per towards whereas, the number of male heterosexuals, who have experienced heterosexuals who have experienced heterosexuals as and would sexually assault a young man, is 7-1 per thousand.

For the dullards, a young man is almost three times more likely to be sexually assaulted by a male heterosexual than by a male homosexual (New York state study of convictions).

Matt Ridley – a world-famous scientificemedical author – points out: "Among heterosexual men, those with the long D4DR genes (on chromosome 11) are six times more likely to sleep with men" ("The Red Queen," "Genome." "The Origin of Virtue").

Keep in mind that the most widely reported sex crime is sexual molestation

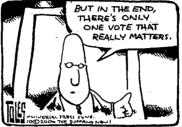

Keep in mind that the most widely reported sex crime is seaul molestation of females - bables, children, girls, women - by male heteroseculas (FBI). And I hope you guys cry on this one: A male hably is 98 times more likely to be sexually molested by a male heterosexual who is either a friend of the family or a relative of the haby (Five New York City hospitals study). Compared to male homosexuals, we male heterosexuals have many more pervers in our midst.

Moments to savor from Election 2000 or me, the 2000 presidential campaign begins in the spring of 1999, riding around New Hampshire in a minivan with John McCain, then an unheraded Arizona maverick with exactly one New Hampshire supporter, former Sen. Warren Rudman.

New Hampshire supporter; former Sen. Warren Rudman. The traveling staff consists only of the driver, and when the cell phone rings—as it does often, these being the opening days of the Kosovo hostilities—the senator often answers humself, delivering his impassioned calls for a forceful American response to the ethnic deanning. At breakfast and dinner, he is even more profanely outspoken—showing the one reporter who is traveling with him the same disaming trust that will later begulle a much larger press corps on the "Straight Talk Express."

Eager to assemble any kind of crowd, McCain invites the 400 members of the New Hampshire Legislature for a getaquainted lunch at a restaurant across from the statehouse. Told by the reporter afterward that most of this guests—who get a salary of $100 a year and never pass up a free meal—are Democrats, McCain just laughs. "Well," he :ays, "it's not too late for them to change parties."

AMES, lowa—It is a perfect 1999 sum-

AMES, Iowa – It is a perfect 1999 summer day, and the area around the Iowa State University Coliseum has been transformed into a combination county fair and political convention – for the famous "straw vote" that will begin sorting the Republican presidential field. Thousands of good, wholesome Iowa families, three generations of them, converge to enjoy the free food and tell the world their political preferences. Pat Buchanan offers the best barbecue and makes the most-applauded speech. But he finishes fifth – an accurate augury that his time has passed.

And he does. The circle of questioners starts with perhaps 40 people and dwindles one by one, until Gore is face to face with a woman who is urgently recounting some traumatic experience she has had with the health-care system.

His aides are frantically phoning to the next event -a large dimer in Nashuabut Gore shows no sign of impatience. It's this persistence and endurance that bring him a narrow - but crucial - victory in New Hampshire three days later.

BOEING FIELD, Wash. - It's the BOLING FIELD, Wash.—It's the Sunday evening before the Washington primary and George Bush has just released a letter to the American cardi-nals, apologizing for having spoken at Bo Jones University in South Carolina with out making clear his opposition to the anti-Catholic venom its leaders have sneewed.

"I can't deal with anybody thinking Tm prejudiced. I wasn't raised that way and I'm not that way. I'd rather lose than have anyone think I'm a bigot."

think I'm a bigot."

BELLEVUE, Wash. - It's the aftermoon of the same day, and Bill Bradley has made Washington the unlikely site of his last stand. A loss Tuesday to Gore will end whatever flickering chancel he may have. He's been joined by his friend, Jack Silkma, formerly of the Seattle Supersonics, and they are in swear suits putting on a clinic for preteen basketball players and their parents at the Boys and Girls Club in this Seattle suburb. Patiently, Bradley coaches some of the youngsters on their shooting technique, mixing corrections with words of encouragement, then divides them into two teams - the Bradleys and the Silkmas- for a game of horse.

how he learned to deal with defeat in the NBA from Cazzie Russell and other Knicks teammates He goes on, in a soft, conversational voice, and gradually the adults realize he is also talking about the presidential campaign – that it's not so bad to lose if you've done your best and have not betrayed your principles. "If you do that," he says, "your opponents will respect you – and you won't feel like you

My daughter is trying to change things that may save your own daughter and her children's lives. Mr. Lyons, do you know how you added to my daughter's unendurable pain? Do you know the horrble memory she must live with, seeing her little daughter go down under those hundreds of pounds of lumber? Do you think when Janessa looks down from heaven and sees the agony her mama is suffering that she cares about Home Depot? Do you know this child was the sunshine of my life? Dairy Odor Has Become A Big Issue In Twin Falls County. My Opponent Had Made It His ONLY Issue. I Am Concerned That My Position Has Been Distorted.

I enacted and extended the moratorium against new datries because when I took office the odor problem was out of control.
 I will not allow more datries to move into Twin Falls County until the odor problem is solved.
 We must Clean up this problem which threatens the quality of life of many of our citizens.

I have a record of action on this issue.

*Together With the other members of the current County Commission I have enacted tough restrictions against dairies and other Confined Animal Feeding Operations (CAFOs).

We have formed a diverse and balanced Citizens Committee to make recommendations to tighten Twin Falls County's CAFO ordinance.

Officials see hog farm evaluation as long process

By Ruth Streeter Times News writer

BURLEY - The state Department of Environmental Quality considers Big Sky Farms environmentally suitable for eastern Cassia County, but commissioners say the county's final call won't come overnight.

"We're a long way from making a decision," Commissioner bennis Crane told DEQ officials and about 10 county residents Manday.

and about 10 county residents Monday.

The county still has a responsibility to analyze economic, social and other impacts, commissioner Paul Christensen said.

DEQ officials met with the county Monday to outline the permitting process for the 50,000-sow operation, since the DEQ last month decided the Raft River site was suitable.

The DEQ has until Dec. 23 to issue a draft permit, which will set up operating and management conditions for Big Sky Farms and will be open to public comment, said Mike McMasters with the DEQ'S Twin Falls office.

Many unanswered issues, such as solid waste disposal, surround Big Sky Farms' proposal, said christensen, who is also on the board of directors for the Southern Idaho Solid Waste District.

The district will consider handling 4,000 to 4,500 tons of composted waste a year to use as cover soil, said district executive director Terry Schultz.

That data came in last week and the board of directors has not had a chance to discuss it. Schultz said.

(But) based on that data. I wouldn't expect a problem coeping that waste, 'he said. The district turned down Big. Sky Farms, initial request to sky Farms' initial request to each 45,000 tons of manure waste a year, saying it couldn't handle that quantity, Schultz said. The district is reserving the right to reject the manure if it doesn't meet the criteria spelled out by Big Sky Farms, Schultz said.

out by Big Sky Farms, scnurz said.

The DEQ's draft permit will be available to the public, and the DEQ will hold a public meeting after it is issued. The county Planning and Zoning Commission will also hold a public hearing. The DEQ cannot issue a final permit to Big Sky Farms unless the planning commission approves the operation. The planning commission's decision could be appealed to county commissioners, and ultimately to a distinct judge.

Once approved, the DEQ will receive periodic reports from Big Sky Farms to conduct periodic inspections. Usually, inspections are done on a yearly basis. But because of the size of the operation, the DEQ could conduct inspections quarrerly, McMasters said.

Big Sky Farms has yet to submit its remediation plan to the county. The DEQ's technical office in Boise will determine whether Big Sky Farms' funding mechanism will be able to generate the money promised for reme ate the money promis diation, the DEQ says.

At Edward Jones, we can show you a plan that puts stock market fluctuation to work for you. It's called dollar cost averaging. "You simply invest a regular amount of money into stocks each month ($100 or more). Although this can't guarantee a profit or prevent a loss, your money buys more shares when prices are low and fewer when prices are high.

Edward Jones is one of the few places where you can dollar cost average into individual stocks. We also offer this service on more than 350 mutual funds.

A SHORT STORY OF

When Jerry Packer told me he was going to run for Sheriff my immediate response was, "Why?" inasmuch as he had just retired, and, secondly, what would he do if elected. He explained he wanted to be proactive, had studied successful programs and named two programs he would implement. I was familiar with one program having implemented the same type of program while employed as a juvenile parole officer in Montana, and again as director of the Youth Development Services in Billings, Montana, and again while working as a consultant in juvenile delinquency and corrections for the State of Wyoming. This program is highly successful in uniting all kinds of people to meet specific goals in this Instance to prevent crime and facilitate crime detection and enhance successful prosecution. The cost, if any, is minimal. The second program was one I worked intensely as a Federal probation, parole, pretrial services officer in Idaho. This program significantly reduces inmate population while providing protection to the community. The cost of this program, if any, is minimal. These two programs significantly reduce the cost of operating the sheriff's office. Both programs have been around for years, tried, tested and found to be highly effective and extremely cost efficient. This notion that we only need to throw money at a problem and it will go away has been tried repeatedly and has failed miserably.

question to the voters of Twin Falls County is WHY do you think former sheriffs, Jim Munn and Dennis Haynes, the former Director of the Idaho Peace Officers Standard and Training Academy, Larry Plott and myself are supporting Jerry Packer for sheriff? Political? No way! I know one of us voted for Ross Perot a few years ago.
Employment opportunity? No - been there, done that, had fun, but no more. Bottom line is with more than 100 YEARS of accumulated experience and literally hundreds of hours of onthe-job training, we know quality when we see quality and Jerry Packer is quality. He is the right man, for the right job, at the right place, at the right time, with the right kind of thinking.

Quilter sews up honors at competition

By Jenny Entery Davidson Times-News corresponder

KETCHUM - Scraps of fabric that others might throw away inspire works of art for Ketchum resident and award-winning quilber Judy Whitmyre.

Her ability to piece together such scraps to form innovative designs earned her first pitze for Idaho and overall final-jist honors in the American Quilter's Society 2000 Quilt Exposition.

Like many of Whitmyre's quilts, her winning quill, "Crossroads" adheres to no traditional pattern. Sometimes, Whitmyre modifies traditional designs, such as feur in the celectic geometric design of rich the celectic geometric design of rich browns, tans, oranges and yellows sets its own standard of uniqueness.

The never used a pattern, "Whitmyre Tve never used a pattern," Whitmyre Tve never used a pattern, "Whitmyre Tve never used a pattern," Whitmyre Sid, "It's just so limiting to me. It's like using a coloring book, (When I was a child] I always ended up cloring in the margins."

Witimyre said that she does not design her quilts to cover beds, but to be dis-played as paintings and other works of art are displayed. Witimyre, who played as paintings and other works of art are displayed.

Wilmayre, who was an art major in col-lege, said she has always enjoyed working with fibers and fabrics, but she did not start quilting until she moved from California to Ketchum 12 years ago. When she lived in California, she explained, she "spent too much time sit-ting at traffic lights" to devote herself to artistic endeavors. Now, she dedicates hundreds of hours to designing quilts that she hangs in her home and gives to loved-hundreds of hours to designing quitts that she hangs in her home and gives to loved ones.

Quilting has traditionally been a craft that brings women together, and this tradition holds true for Whitimpre, who engages the talents of another local quilties to enhance her quitts Billie Buhler of Halley often hand stitches the quilts that Whitimpre designs.

"May quilts wouldn't be what they are if it weren't for Billie," Whitimpre said.

Buhler, who is 86-years old and has been quilting for decades, said that working with Whitimpre has given her an opportunity to try some new things with her quilting. In the "Crostroads" quilt, for example, she echoed Whitimpre's design with her stitches, creating stitched circles and lines that extended from the main pattern into the border of the quiltisuhler said she spent at least 150 hours quilting "Crostroads"

"It's nice to embellish other people's. work," Buhler said.

Both Whitimpre and Buhler lament the waning practice of quilting fewer people ullt nowadays and more quilts are created by machine instead of by hand.

Buhler teaches a quilting class for the College of Southern Idaho to try to pass om her own knowledge and skills.

"Ithink it's something that needs to be handed down or it's going to be a lost art," Buhler said.

"Crostroads" will be displayed at the new St. Luke's Regional Medical Center in Ketchum.

Crossroads is the name of the quilt that earned Judy Whitmyre of Ketchum national honors.

Cowboy quilt brings funds for poets

BURLEY - The Cowboy Poets of Idaho gathering will not only sew words together, but a fabric of images. The group is gathering this weekend at the Burley Livestock Sale Yard and raffling a western quilt. Cleman Ramsey of Heyburn made the queen-sized denim covering dotted with tiny appliques of horses, horseshoes and other western images. The backing is a red bandanna print flannel.

The quilt is on display at Butte.

That's right. When you're not computing, or about to compute, just turn it off.
T'd say the cutoff point is about half an hour. If you're going to be away for longer than 30 minutes, turn it all off.
For most of us, lunch is long enough to turn the computers coff. If you have a complex computer setup that takes five or more minutes to restart, then maybe you're in the minority that should leave it on during

The Washington Post

If you're worried about whether your computer is ready to get you on the Internet in style, you can relax now. Any machine sold now, even the most basic entry-level model, is well past the point of overkill, and anything sold in the last two years should be more than adequate.

A look at the minimum system requirements for any of the leading online services and Internet providers illustrates this. Evenafter doubling every item – a good idea, considering the way companies tend to low-bull these figures – you still wind up with extremely lenient specifications.

America Online, for instance, asks for only 16 megabytes of RAM and a "Pentium-class" PC, RAM and a "Pentium-class" PC, RAM and a "Pentium-class" PC, with equivalent requirements for Mac systems. The figures for microsoft and Netscape Web browsers are similar. For more than adequate performance, you should buy less processor, but more memory and disk space, than you think you meed. A fast processor on the Web is like a Corvette in a swamp; a new Pentium III or PowerPC G4 will spend 99 percent of its time doing nothing as you browse the Web or read your e-mail. The Web or read your e-mail. The Internet connection itself will always be the limiting factor. But Web browsers eat memory for breakfast, lunch and dinner. You can hear the difference between 32 and 64 megabytes of RAM, with only 32 MB on board, the computer will have to use disk-based "wirtual memory" to supplement the real thing, with much attendant grinding.

Barak, Palestinians trade complaints amidst clashes

JERUSALEM - Israel's prime minister on Monday accused the Ealestinians of failing to implement a truce agreement, while Palestinian leaders called for expanded foreign mediation. As the rhetoric ran hot, street clash-spersisted: Two Palestinian teen-agers were killed and a third was blinded by gunfrie. The truce, in its fifth day Monday, has dampened the overall level of unrest but has not extinguished it. About 30 Palestinians were wounded in Monday's sporadic clashes in the West Bank and Gara Strip, doctors said.

World in brief

As Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak; and Palestinian leads; Yasser Arafat prepared to head to Washington for separate meet-ings with President Clinton, they remained sharply at odds on how to stop the violence and revive suspended peace talks.

Philippine president's impeachment trial imminent

MANILA, Philippines - President Joseph Estrada, under mountine pressure to resign in the face of corruption allegations, vowed Monday to prove his innocence at an impeachment trial that now appears inevitable.

Estrada's comment appears inevitable.

Estrada's comments came after a House committee sent an impeachment complaint to the full House, where 99 Congressman already have signed a resolution endorsing impeachment.

impeachment.
Estrada is under mounting pressure to resign over allegations by a former ally that he accepted millions of dollars in payoffs from illegal gambling operators. Leaders from use sition – and his own party – clamored for his resignation

Nigerian oil tanker explodes, killing 96

explodes, Killing 50

LAGOS, Nigeria - An oil tanker slammed into a line of parked vehicles in southwestern Nigeria and burst into flames, killing at least 96 people.

"I have never in my life seen an accident like this," Osun state Governor Bisi Akande said Monday at the scene of the week-the scene.

More than 50 people were treated for scrious burns at two hospitals. Witnesses and police said the tanker's brakes failed Saturday as it approached a line of cars passing through a police checkpoint ahead of a toll bridge on a highway linking the southwestern towns of Ife and Ibadan. The tanker slammed into the cars spilling fuel, which ignited on impact.

Heart patient would rather have a quality life than quantity of life

DEAR ABBY: I'm in my 50s, have a serious heart condition—I almost died twice—and am living on borrowed time. My doctors know it, my family knows it, and I know it. We have talked about it, as well as my living will and organ domation. We have also discussed at length QUALTY of life, as opposed to QUANTITY of life. Some well-meaning people, out of a mistaken sense of kindness, would like me to do nothing but

Some well-meaning people, out of a mistaken sense of kindness would like me to do nothing but vegetate. I remind them I am still alive and able to do quite a few things. Perhaps vegetating would extend my life, but what would the "cost" be? Right now I can travel, do most of my own housework, putter in the flower garden and help my husband. While I cannot lift my grandchild or run in the yard with her, I can read to her and help her with the dishes. It is demoralizing when people refuse to listen as I try to explain to her and help her with the dishes. It is demoralizing when people refuse to listen as I try to explain in no hurry to "meet my Maker," but when that day does come, I'll be knowing. I made the hest of the most precious gift there is life.

Abby, please ask your readers to encourage and help those with limitations to live life to the fullest. And urge your readers who are blessed with good health who to waste it, but to use this gift

DEAR ABBY: I've heard that you can fall in love with people you've met over the Internet, on blind dates or even dialling the wrong number - but have you ever heard of people falling in love through a toilet bowl?

I am a female inmate in a county jail in California. Men and women here speak to each other through air vents and the plumbling system. We take all the water out and talk through the toilet bowls. I have met a great guy. I've never seen him, but we have so much in common. After speaking with each other every day for a month, he told me he loved me and wanted to be my "one and only."

I haven't told him I love him yet, because I feel I can't trust my emotions as long as I am locked up. I suspect that I care a great deal about him.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

Bobby Walff

"There are toys for all ages." — English proverb

All players with access to a computer can now enjoy a new program enabling them to either play or kibitz deals played in major championships. In its debut, the program highlighted the deals played in the major events at the ACBL Summer Championships showed in the initial effort was a complete success; and a repeat performance is scheduled for the Fall Championships being held in Birmingham, Ala, Nov. 16-26.

To download your free software no charge to either play or kibitz, log on at www.e-bridgemaster.com and follow instructions. The program is a bonanza for those who cannot travel to major championships. It allows them to play the same deals the experts played and to compare results achieved. Today's exciting deal was played in the final round of the spingold Team Championships. It provided a huge swing to the eventual winners, a team headed by floss Mellzer, Los Gatos, Culif. When it was first played, South refused to sacrifice against the six-club slam bid by East, and declarer chalked up his stan, goof for 1,370 points. He conceded a diamond, then ruifed two diamonds, with dummy's high trumps, losing only one trick. When Alan South, the bidding Surg. Md., sat South, the bidding with dummy's high trumps, losing only one trick. When Alan Sontag of Gaithersburg, Md., and South, the bidden went as shown. Refusing to defend against a vulnerable slam, Sontag played six spades doubled, losing only three tricks by accruate play. West cashed a high-neurt and switched to the club acc, ruffed by South. A trump to dummy's king felled East's queen, and Sontag finessed twice in diamonds, allowing West to score his trum - nine. West also scored his trump acc for two down and u

Ross retires from Detroit; Moeller takes over

Ross alluded to the possibility after Sunday's 23-8 loss to the Miami Dolphins, calling it "one of the most embarrassing losses I have ever had."

"We showed right from the start of the game that we weren't ready to play, and ultimately, that is my responsibilities that we weren't ready to play, and ultimately, that is my responsibilities. I have back down from that," Ross said Sunday.

In his fourth year with the Lions, Ross has compled a 27-30 regular-season record, an 0-2 regular-season record, an 0-2 mark from Detroit playoff appearances in 1997 and last season. He replaced Wayne Fontes, who was fired in December 1996. He is the second coach to step down this season and his resignation represents the third coaching change. Cincinnati's Bruce Coslet resigned Sept. 25 after a 37-0 loss to Baltimore and Vince Tobin of Arizona was fired two weeks ago.

BOSTON - Boston Celtics guard Kenny Anderson will be sidelined 2-4 weeks with a broken jaw.

Anderson was injured when he collided with an opposing player during Saturday might's 31-39 loss to Cleveland.

To replace Anderson, the Celtics signed guard Rick Brusson. Brusson spent parts of the past two seasons with the New York Knicks, appearing in 54 games.

Another player who had been nursing a nagging injury, Jacksonville linebacker Hardy Nickerson, had arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Monday. The Jaguars said he might miss Sunday's game with Seattle although similar injuries often sideline players for three weeks. San Francisco offensive tackle Derrick Deese also underwent knee surgery that will keep him out three weeks. Dawson, Pittsburgh's center, is out indefinitely and could miss the rest of the season. "There's-a-lot-of-shoppingand a lot of talking, but not a lot of action yot," Boston general manager Dan Duquette said Sunday, echoing the sentiment of many of his colleagues at the GM meetings.

There are at least a dozen teams in the running for the big four free agents, including the Red Sox, who are targeting Mussina. Those teams are unwilling to spend money or fill holes with lesser playors-until they know wherethey stand in the big sweepstakes.

"Until the free-agent market said Mets general manager Steve Phillips, who could be offers to free-agent pitchers Rick Reed and Turk Wendel, and could resolve their con-tracts before they are free to negotiate with other teams beginning Saturday. That's the first day teams other than Seattle can talk money with Rodriguez, the head of this year's free-agent class.

class.

A-Rod is one of the top offensive players in the game at the mostly defensive position of shortstop. At 25, he has most of his career shead of him.

Agent Scott Boras has prared a 50-page document detailing the qualities of his client, who hit 316 with 41 homers and 132 RBIs this season.

homers and 132 RBIs this sea-son.
"When it comes to power hit-ters, the sluggers, the guys who can drive in 120 RBIs, MVP-type players, in this certain imeframe between 27 and 35, the longer the owners wait to lock them in, the better for the player," said Boras, who will probably make Rodriguez base-ball's highest-paid player. Boras, who cut off negotia-tions with Seattle before the season, also clarified remarks from Rodriguez that he won't sign with the Yankees, who already have his buddy, Derek Jeter, at shortstop. "We think it was maybe a misunderstanding or something. He was talking about playing them in the American League champlonship series," Boras said. "I spent five days with him on the subject. He's hasn't dismissed ony team." Cleveland GM John Hart, one of the other major players this week, arrived Sunday and immediately huddled with his assistants as the Indians mull over a counterproposal to Ramirez's $200 million, 10-year request. They expect to respond to Ramirez's agent, Jeff Moorad, by today. Last season's movement was dominated by trades, not free agents, as players such as Ken Griffey Jr., Hampton, Shawn Green, Juan Conzelez and Carl Everett were sent packing one year before becoming free agents. This year, the top names available are on the free agent market, which also includes players like Gonzalez, Charles Johnson, John Wetteland, Mark Grace, Todd Timolley, Pat Hentgen, Andy Ashby and David Segui.
